Voters To Decide Control Of Township Committee

Autumn Leaves, Litterbugs Share Meeting Spotlight

Teenage 'hoodlums' Described As Cause Of Sidewalk Debris

A complaint against a "mass of hoodlums, loitering and littering the sidewalks," disclosure of the township schedule for the pick-up of fallen leaves and announcement of telephone numbers to call for local election results highlighted the meeting of the Springfield Township Committee Tuesday at Town Hall.

The complainant was Wallace Kleinman, proprietor of the Springfield Pharmacy which has just moved to 242 Mountain ave. at Henshaw ave. He appealed for action against teenagers who "throw sandwiches, garbage and broken bottles on the street and sidewalk" in this area.

Kleinman added that the youngsters write on the walls of the buildings and through the sidewalks "to some many of my decent customers are afraid to come to the store during the noon-hour and after school."

"If the laws against littering and loitering are not enough to end this problem," he suggested, "maybe we should have a sandwich ordinance to stop these kids from eating on the streets."

Committee member Arthur M. Falkin stated that the township had been aware of the problem and was working to solve it. He said the basic cause of much of the trouble was the lunchroom facilities are inadequate to serve all the students at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, "but that will improve next year when the new school opens in Kenilworth."

Falkin also noted that the owner of Conetti Delicatessen, across Henshaw ave. from the drugstore, "cleans up outside his store carefully at least twice a day, but 30 minutes later everything is just as bad."

He said that police are watching the area and had considered issuing summonses to teenagers for littering. He commented, however, "This policy has not worked well in other communities. All they get is angry parents charging the town, with persecuting their children."

Falkin said some sort of ordinance so that he could sign complaints against flagrant littering. (Continued on Page 4)

3 Seats At Stake On 5-Man Group Governing Town

National Campaign Clouds Crystal Ball For Local Prophets

By ABNER GOLD

When Springfield voters enter their polling places on Tuesday, they will have an opportunity to decide on contests ranging from the Presidential race to the local battle for control of the Township Committee.

Three seats are at stake on the five-member municipal governing body. Republican incumbents seeking reelection are Robert D. Hardgrove and Arthur M. Falkin, for three-year terms, and Robert G. Planer, for a one-year term.

Democratic candidates are Jay B. Bloom and Douglas C. Mattice, for three-year terms, and Henry Grabarz, for the one-year term. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Two questions which township political leaders are unable to answer with any certainty will be answered on Election Day, and those answers will determine the leadership of Springfield for the coming year.

Key Questions

The questions are: Will a strenuous Democratic campaign reverse a recent pro-Republican trend in township elections and return Springfield to the Democratic ranks? Will a Republican candidate for the Presidency who is conceded to have less local appeal than his predecessors be too big a handicap for local candidates (Continued on Page 4)

SHORTAGE OF VOLUNTEER WORKERS CAUSES CRISIS

Chairman Asks: 'Can We Support A Red Cross Chapter?'

A final appeal for volunteer workers was directed by Mrs. Robert Laurencelle, chairman of the Springfield Red Cross Chapter, this week to all organizations and individuals in the community.

Without immediate help, she declared, the local chapter will no longer be able to continue its operations. The Summit Red Cross Chapter earlier this month rejected a proposal for a merger with the Springfield group.

"All we need," Mrs. Laurencelle stressed, "is a place to hang our phone; and some volunteers to answer it. Some money would help, too."

She asked, "Can Springfield support a Red Cross chapter? We must answer this question now. We request that each organization in town choose a committee to study this question."

Last May, she disclosed, the Springfield chapter "could not fulfill the one basic obligation to keep its Red Cross charter. We had no home service chairman and no volunteers, no phone and no office."

Mrs. Laurencelle explained, "The Cannon Ball House has never been our home; it is a museum. We are permitted to hold our board meetings there once a month and keep our station wagon in the garage."

"National Red Cross gave the Summit Chapter the job of fulfilling Springfield home service obligations and suggested we merge with another chapter."

Red Cross home service, Mrs. Laurencelle explained, is the only recognized channel of communications between servicemen and their families for the purpose of verifying facts needed for emergency leave or transfer.

She also noted that the Springfield Chapter has a critical shortage of workers to carry on other Red Cross projects.

"The blood program should provide 24-hour-a-day service when rare types of blood are needed or when blood derivatives must be found. The Red Cross also arranges periodic bloodmobile visits at central locations where township residents can make blood donations.

The motor corps provides transportation for people who must receive medical treatment, often eliminating the need to be hospitalized for therapeutic treatment.

The Junior Red Cross teaches young people "selflessness and concern for their fellow man, as well as techniques of basic first aid and responsibility for those injured."

In the educational field, Red Cross Chapters give courses in first aid, child care, food preparation and basic nutrition.

Cancer dressings and other bandages are prepared to be given, free of charge, to all who need them, at home or in various types of institutions.

Political Leaders Expect Triumphs In Local Contests

Township Democratic and Republican leaders this week issued their annual predictions of victory, with the usual precision blunted to some extent by uncertainty as to just what effect the Presidential campaign would have on local voters.

Philip Del Vecchio, Township Committee member and municipal Republican chairman, predicted that the three Springfield GOP candidates would win by a 200-vote margin. He said that they would carry voting districts 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 12 and 13. Describing districts 9, 7 and 12 as the critical "swing" districts, Del Vecchio stated that the GOP would win in 9 and 12.

The GOP chairman, whose organization has declined to support Presidential aspirant Barry Goldwater, had no prediction on which national candidate would carry Springfield. He declared that Ren. Florence Dwyer would carry Springfield by "at least 1,000 votes," that Bernard M. Shanley, candidate for the Senate, and the three-year freholder candidates would "do well," and that the one-year freholder contest would be close.

Mrs. Ruth Hillard, Democratic vice-chairman, foresees an "overwhelming victory" in Springfield for President Johnson, with at least 85 per cent of the vote. She stressed that "voting centers" would be close.

Springfield Is Stop For Historymobile

The New Jersey-tertiary historymobile will roll into the yard of the Cannon Ball House, 126 Morris ave., Springfield, Saturday, Nov. 7.

The 16-ton museum-on-wheels will be open to visitors from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Members of the Springfield Historical Society will serve as hosts. There will be no admission charge.

The visit of the historymobile will coincide with a book sale held by the Historical Society in the first floor rooms of the Cannon Ball House and the barn in the rear. The sale will continue Sunday, Nov. 8, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The 45-foot long tractor-containing exhibits pertaining to New Jersey history was presented to the state by the N. J. Bell Telephone Co. for use as a traveling museum, and other companies have contributed to its equipment and maintenance. A generator is built into the tractor to furnish power for lights and electrical units in the trailer, making it independent of outside power supply. The trailer is air-conditioned in hot weather and heated when the days are cold.

Relics and documents have been offered for use in the historymobile by museums throughout the state depicted in the vehicle.

POLLING PLACES, VOTING DISTRICTS SET FOR TUESDAY

The polls will be open in Springfield and throughout New Jersey from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Election Day. Voters in District No. 1 will vote at the Presbyterian Parish House on Main st. The American Legion Hall, Center st. and N. Trivett ave. is the polling place for Districts 2 and 3.

District 4 voting place is the Presbyterian Parish House, Districts 5 and 6 will vote at the James Caldwell School on Caldwell pl. The Florence Gaudinier School on S. Springfield ave. is the polling place for Districts 7 and 8.

Districts 9 and 10 will vote at the Raymond Christman School on Shunpike rd. Votes from District 11 will be recorded at the Thomas Sandmeyer School on S. Springfield ave. The Edward Walton School on Mountain ave. is the polling place for Districts 12 and 13.

LWV In Final Drive To Get Out The Vote

"Vote! Don't Squawk" will be the theme of the "Vote-mobile" caravan conducted by the League of Women Voters in cooperation with the Liberty Fuel Oil Co. of Newark, which will tour Essex, and Union counties on Saturday.

The caravan will make stops at shopping centers and the main thoroughfares in Springfield and other towns where League members will distribute nonpartisan voters' information sheets. Mrs. Richard Moore of Springfield is chairman of the Union County League Council.

Mrs. Stephen Beno, president of the League of Women Voters of Springfield, stressed the importance of going to the polls on Tuesday. She pointed out that "your vote makes a difference."

She has been the theme of the nationwide drive of the League of Women Voters to urge people to register and vote, has great significance since many elections have been won by just one vote in an election district.

Copies of the state and local nonpartisan voters' information sheets may be obtained from Mrs. Henry Huneke, voter service chairman, at DR. 6-5115.

The Liberty Fuel Oil Co. is sponsoring this "Get Out the Vote" project as a public service.

Koonz Responds, Lauds Program

William Koonz, Township Committee member in charge of the Springfield recreation program, this week replied to attacks on the program made during the municipal election campaign.

Declaring that he is "proud of the increased recreational facilities which have been made available to the people of Springfield since the beginning of the year," Koonz praised the "outstanding accomplishments of Edward Ruby, director of recreation, and his assistant, J. Scott Donington, and their staff."

The Republican official, whose Committee seat is not at issue this year, stated that he was "appalled by recent statements by the Democratic candidates who have attempted to depict our residents by saying that the present administration has forgotten recreation and decreased its budget. There is nothing further from the truth."

EDUCATORS BACK N. J. BOND ISSUE TO AID COLLEGES

Approval of the college bond referendum which will appear on the ballot Election Day was urged this week by the executive committee of the Union County School Boards Association. August Caprio of Springfield, association president, presided at the meeting Monday night at the Florence Gaudinier School, Springfield.

The educators also went on record in support of the public question authorizing a technical and vocational high school for Union County. Mrs. Audrey Rubin of Springfield is association secretary.

DRIVE SCHEDULED TO OBTAIN FUNDS FOR GIRL SCOUTS

Springfield Girl Scouts will hold their annual fund drive throughout the township Nov. 8 to 13. Scouts will deliver contribution envelopes to every home during the first week of the drive.

Scout leaders and mothers will then collect the donations during the final week. Mrs. Philip Del Vecchio is chairman, with Mrs. G. Randolph Frost as co-chairman. Saul Freeman is co-chairman in charge of donations from business and industry.

Girl Scouts Trained In 'Family Survival'

Members of Girl Scout Troop 840 at St. James School have just completed a course in "Home Protection and Family Service," presented by Saul Freeman, Springfield director of civil defense and disaster control.

Subjects covered included civil defense warning signals, the nature of atomic fallout, shelter methods, measuring radiation, home preparedness, communications, fire prevention, feeding problems and action for self-sufficiency. The lectures also include a short course on medical self-help.

Mrs. Robert Ziegler, cadette leader for the troop, initiated the course, aided by Mrs. Joseph Sergi, assistant leader. The girls will soon put their learning to the test with field exercises and survival training, as part of the cadette program of emergency preparedness challenge.

Girls who took the course were Kathy Bove, Rosemarie Bufo, Vicky Carroll, Denise Child, Elizabeth Gallagher, Dorothy Gorecki, Donna Gross, Karen Henderson, Kathleen Johnson, Catherine Kaufhold, Patricia Kallblin, Betty McGovern, Deborah Miller, Christine Mueller, Kathryn Napier, Lucille Perocelli, Kathleen Rosebner, Gail Silva, Jane Rauocco, Mary Beth Reister, Cynthia Sergi, Lucille Solazari, Elena Solla, Virginia Spiegel, Denise Vicedo and Debbie Ziegler.

JUST IN CASE — Cynthia Sergi demonstrates how to improvise an arm splint, with Elizabeth Gallagher as the "patient," as Girl Scouts at St. James School watch carefully. Advice on how to react in a variety of emergencies was presented by Saul Freeman, Springfield director of civil defense, shown here leading a helping hand.

'Trick Or Treaters' Help UNICEF Drive

An appeal to "all people of goodwill who feel concern for the world's sick and hungry children was launched locally this week by the Rev. Donald C. Weber of the Springfield Presbyterian Church. It took the form of an invitation to participate in the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program on Halloween.

He added, "This year Halloween will become a Hallowed Evening," this Saturday, for many children here in Springfield, when they dress up as ghosts and witches and ring doorbells to save the lives of less fortunate boys and girls in other parts of the world."

Mr. Weber is Springfield coordinator of the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program.

"Just 15 years ago, a few Sunday School pupils decided to ring doorbells on behalf of the United Children's Fund for the first time," Mr. Weber said. "This year we expect over three million American boys and girls to follow that example in every state of the Union."

"Children go to bed hungry every night in Asia, Africa, La-

Donors can give blood at Overlook Hospital or at any nearby Red Cross center. Details are available from Mrs. Kalem at 376-0582. The local Red Cross unit provided as many credits as possible, but the patient still needs another 10 donors to replace the blood which was used.

A reminder that real estate taxes for the fourth quarter of the current year must be paid by Monday was issued this week by Fred L. Braun, Springfield tax collector.

He added that if the tax is paid by check, and a receipt is desired, the taxpayer should enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and the entire tax bill so that it can be received properly.

A housewife from Mountainside unsuccessfully attempted to defend herself in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night against a radar device that said she had been driving at 42 miles per hour in a 25 mph zone.

Withdrawal Okayed, But Judge Lectures

Springfield Magistrate Max Sherman Monday night allowed two motorists involved in an accident to withdraw counter-claims for alleged careless driving against each other, but he assessed each $5 court costs.

Expressing annoyance at the practice of many in such circumstances of attempting to lay a legal background for possible civil action, the magistrate pointed out that, when a complaint is filed, the state becomes a party to the matter. A case can then be withdrawn only through consent of the court.

A court aide said insurance adjusters are never interested in the results of such actions anyway. They're only interested in a police officer's report, he said.

The charges had been filed by and against Charles D. Romano, 19, of Berkeley Heights and Anthony De Filippis, 56, of Middlesex. No one was injured in the accident in which they were involved.

Lack Of Wipers Brings $15 Fine

Democrats Pledge Final Drive, Report On Questions By Voters

The Democratic candidates for the Township Committee, Henry Grabarz, Jay Bloom and Douglas Maticc, going into the final week of their campaign for election to the Springfield Township Committee, stated that they "intended to keep up our door-to-door campaign in Springfield, right up to the eve of election."

Nothing that they had begun their door-to-door campaign in June and had spoken to "thousands of voters," they thought it would be interesting for "all of the voters to see a list of the most important comments and questions the voters of Springfield made during the candidates door-to-door campaign."

Voters' Questions
 "What happened to the Code of Ethics the present administration promised three years ago?"
 "Why have our taxes climbed so high in the past three years?"
 "What happened to the promised road behind Morris ave.?"
 "Would the shortening of sidewalks on Morris ave. make pedestrian travel hazardous?"
 "Why did the present Township Administration take a holiday away from our police?"
 "Some of the most interesting comments received by the candidates were:
 "Never in the history of Springfield have so many lawsuits been directed against a Township Committee by the taxpayers."

"One of the most revealing comments," said Grabarz, Bloom and Maticc, "was that the voters, in general, whatever their political belief, thought that one party rule was as dangerous for Springfield and unless there was two-party representation, law suits and other charges could continue to result."

Proposed Roadway
 Grabarz, Bloom and Maticc, this week made the following comments concerning the proposed new road north of Morris ave.:

"The present all-Republican administration's accomplishments in the past three years have been so meager that it has become necessary for them to claim accomplishments of citizens' groups and prior administrations as their own, and to insult the intelligence of Springfield's electorate by taking credit for a project that doesn't even exist."

"The Republican candidates have stated in the press and flyers that they have created a new road and parking area north of Morris ave. behind the existing stores. This is not true. Neither has been erected.
 "At this moment, they are scurrying about in a vain effort to cure this misrepresentation on the eve of the election by adding additional parking spaces to Parking Lot No. Two.
 "In so doing, they are wasting our money. These spaces, which are closer to the swimming pool than the stores they are supposed to benefit, will not be used any more than the present lot, which is always half empty."

"The proposed 600-foot road which the Republican Candidates claimed to have built, proposed and designed by the Chamber of Commerce over 18 months ago, has been bungled by the present administration ever since. In a vain effort to please all the landowners for the sake of votes, they have pleased no one and stalled the entire project.
 "Four months ago, when the present all-Republican administration dived, headlong into the Morris ave. mess, they declared that this non-existent road was an 'emergency' and would be built within 90 days. They still do not even own the land."

YARAS CROWNED 'MR. REGIONAL' AT SPORTS DANCE

Carl Yaras, outstanding baseball player and leading scorer on the football team, was crowned "Mr. Regional" at the Senior Sports Dance last week at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. The award designates the outstanding senior boy — scholastically and athletically — as the most representative student of the school.
 Jerry Sachsel and Mrs. Verza Baldwin, senior class sponsors, said that Richard Rasta, Al Greenberg, Keith Neigel, and Bob Reis, the other candidates for Mr. Regional honors gave Yaras a "run for his money." Made for the dance was provided by the "Origins" Committee members for the affair included: Bob Reis, decorations; Linda Huddapp, tickets; Mike Rekon and Richard Basia, publicity.

Final GOP Election Statement Spotlights 'Positive Program'

"A positive program for Springfield's future based upon a sound foundation of accomplishments over the past three years," is the manner in which Arthur Falkin, Robert Hardgrove and Robert Planer this week summarized their campaign effort for re-election to the Township Committee.
 They stated, "We have submitted our record of accomplishments to the people, and presented a platform for the future of Springfield, while our opposition did not offer a single constructive measure of their own. We are gratified to find, however, that they offer to continue programs that were started during our administration.
 "We feel that our experienced team is better qualified to continue these programs. Under the Township Committee form of government, it requires a team effort to administer a smooth-functioning local government.

 "Politics on a local level," the three Republicans declared, "has a matter of person-to-person communication, and more particularly, personal qualifications. Civic interest and participation in community activities, over an extended period of time, has become the yardstick by which to judge a candidate.
 "More than ever, the questions of who has done more, and who can do more for Springfield, are of paramount concern to the voters.
 "Our experience, qualifications, dedication to the community, and future plans for Springfield, have been offered to the voters. We welcome a comparison with those of the opposition.
 "Your vote on Tuesday for Falkin-Hardgrove-Planer will ensure that Springfield will continue to be a community in which you will be proud to live."

Wright Emphasizes Write-In Campaign

Declaring that he was "pleased to see that the Leader did not endorse me," Henry S. Wright this week announced that he will conduct an intensive campaign as a write-in candidate in the Springfield Township Committee.
 Wright promised those who vote for him that he will be the "best watchdog of Springfield government they ever experienced." He had filed to run for the post as independent, but was ruled out of the ballot earlier on his petition were invalidated by the courts.

 As a write-in candidate, he has been distributing pencils inscribed "H. S. Wright in Slot 15," to remind prospective supporters of the place to cast a write-in vote.
 In his statement, Wright quoted from the election law, which declares, "To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, slip or slide at top of machine over corresponding number and write in name of the person for whom you wish to vote."
 He stated that he and a group of supporters will be on hand after the polls close on Tuesday, Election Day, "to supervise the counting of write-in ballots."

LEADER PROFILE

MRS. DEXTER FORCE

The "Air" Forces of Springfield are flying high these days. Ruth Force, an energetic, bubbly young woman, is a student pilot out at the Morristown Municipal Airport. She has some eight or 10 more hours to fill in before she gets her private flying license.

Her husband, Dexter, a licensed pilot, has been flying for about two years. He takes three of his little Forces, Linda, 9, George, 8 and Jimmy, 5, into the air with him as often as he can. ("Jimmy," says Mrs. Force, a bit enviously, "has more flying hours than I do. Daddy has used to take him out flying every Wednesday. But now Jimmy goes to kindergarten and he's not flying as often.")

The only two Forces who are grounded are Fluffy Force, a two-year-old Springer spaniel and Cleo Force, a rather chubby Beagle.

"Fluffy," Mrs. Force said, "is the animal bounded over to a visitor to make her acquaintance, then rested her snoot on the reporter's lap, 'gives us every indication that she'd like to come along, but we can't take any chances. We had some rather 'sickly' experiences with her on long car trips."

"AND CLEO," she nodded, as the dog wobbled over slowly, sniffed lazily, then plopped down, yawning noisily, "is simply uninterested. I'm afraid it takes too much effort for her to even consider climbing into the car to ride down to the airport."

Mrs. Force, who moved from Westfield to Briar Hill Circle, Springfield, eight years ago, explained that she became interested in flying by way of conversations with friends who were, or had been student pilots and through her husband, who occasionally flies his company's private plane. (Force is a partner in the Force-Machinery Co. in Union.)

"My husband," she said, "belongs to the Colonial Flying Club in Morristown. I decided to join the Chatham-Aviation Club in Morristown about a year ago."

"I've always believed that it was safer to have two pilots in the family. I love it so much that now they can't keep me out of the sky! Chatham has five 150 plane and a couple of 172s."

"I must admit," Mrs. Force smiled, "that it is a rather expensive hobby to have... even as a club member. But we get out of it everything else."

MRS. FORCE EXPLAINED that to become a licensed private pilot, one must be 17 years of age or over, read, speak and understand English ("and this is the major language for pilots—used all over the world"), one must hold a third class medical certificate, have a total of 40 hours of flight instruction, 20 hours of solo flight time and 10 hours of cross-country flight time. One must pass a written examination with a mark of 70 or better. Incidentally, she indicated, the medical certificate must be renewed every 24 calendar months.

On her first solo last February, Mrs. Force flew a single engine plane to Canada.

"I've already completed all my cross country work. The regulations call for one landing to be at least 100 miles away from the taking-off point."

Mrs. Force has already soloed to Allentown, Pa., Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Atlantic City, Trenton.

"You can go pretty much where you want," she said. "Really, it's up to the weather. If it's raining up north, you go down south... or vice versa. I fly about twice a week, two-and-a-half-hours each flight—I am now working on maneuver and instrument flight... and that requires an instructor to be with me."

IN ANSWER TO a query about "problems in the air," Mrs. Force grinned and said, "I've never had any problems."

"Well," she paused thoughtfully, "I did come down on an emergency landing once. It proved to be a problem to me, but a very major one to Allentown, Pa."

"You see, I was flying over the mountains and the mines of Allentown," she related, "and I happened to get gassy coke fumes in the plane. I was getting sick on the coke fumes, so I opened my windows. More coke fumes came in."

"Anyway," she laughed, "I radioed the Allentown Airport and requested instructions on a straight approach, explaining the reason for the emergency landing. I had no trouble landing, but I nearly passed out when I saw what awaited me: Four fire trucks, an ambulance, a Civil Air Defense truck, a police car, a newspaper reporter and a photographer."

"For three hours, mechanics went over every inch of that plane. They couldn't find a thing wrong with it."

"LET ME TELL YOU," that when they press that panic button in Allentown, they really press! I felt like a perfect fool."

"And I laugh everytime I think of it."

Elections

Local Republican leaders have made clear their lack of support for Barry Goldwater as a national candidate, while officially declining to take any stand at all on the Presidential campaign. Springfield and tiny Winfield are the only two municipalities in Union County without an official Goldwater for President headquarters.

No Democratic candidate for office except at the municipal level has ever carried ballot-splitting Springfield, but all indications are that President Lyndon B. Johnson will be the first.

Other contests share the attention of local voters. Sen. Harrison R. Williams, Democrat, faces the challenge of Republican Bernard M. Shanley. Williams, a neighbor from Westfield, has always run well in Springfield, but never with a majority. This year, again, this contest is expected to be close within the township.

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, Republican, is opposed by Democrat Richard J. Taylor. Mrs. Dwyer is generally expected to top everyone in the entire county, and Springfield is regarded as no exception.

For three-year terms on the Union County Board of Freeholders, Democrats Edward J. Wilusz, Frank T. Cuchle and John V. Donahue oppose Republicans Henry B. Wester, Matthew J. Rinaldo and George J. Forrester. For a one-year term the contest is between Republican Irene T. Griffin and Democrat Hugh Caldwell. The odds in Springfield appear to favor the Republicans.

Public Questions Voters here will also render their verdict on three public questions. None of these, however, carries the impact of the massive bond issue proposed last year by Gov. Richard J. Hughes. Public opposition to the bond referendum hurt Democrats throughout the state in 1963.

Two questions this year also touch on state bond issues. Voters are asked to decide on authorization of $50 million for state mental, penal, charitable and medical institutions, and $40 million for expansion of colleges within the state. A third question concerns a proposal for Union County to spend $3,750,000 on a vocational and technical high school.

Previous Elections Voter registration in Springfield this year has reached an all-time high of 8,996. Last year, with a registration of 8,198, Republican William Koontz swamped his local Democratic opponent, Alex Blackman, 4,932 to 2,253.

In 1962, with a registration of 8,341, the top Republican tallied 3,334, for a slim margin over the top Democrat figure of 3,222. These were 8,245 registered voters in 1961, when the Republican margin was 3,275 to 3,054.

In 1960, the last Presidential year, Democrat Vincent J. Bonadles won in local landslide, 4,822 to 3,087, out of a total registration of 8,387. Registration was 7,234 in 1959, and the Democrats won, 2,660 to 2,705.

In 1958, with 8,750 registered voters, the Democrats scored another landslide, 3,605 to 1,872. The Democratic trend was evident in 1957, when Bonadles won, 2,931 to 2,208, with 6,685 voters on the lists.

In 1956, with 6,537 voters registered, the GOP was on top, 3,017 to 2,735. With 6,491 voters registered in 1955, the Republicans won, 2,083 to 1,888. In 1954, with 4,027 registered voters, Bonadles scored for the Democrats, by a margin of 2,113 to 1,808.

The 1953 election was Republican by a count of 1,801 to 971, with 3,191 voters registered. In 1952, with 6,183 voters on the rolls, the Republicans won, 2,077 to 890. There were 3,700 voters registered in 1951, and the Republicans were on top, 1,891 to 555.

Before that, the rulers of Springfield were always Republicans, White or Indian.

Endorsement Of Williams, Dwyer

We believe the voters would serve themselves best by returning Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., Democrat, and Congressman Florence P. Dwyer, Republican to Washington.

Senator Williams spearheaded the urban mass transit bill enacted last summer. He has worked hard to alleviate inequities forced upon migrant workers. His voting record on key issues has been remarkably similar to that of his Republican colleague, Senator Clifford P. Case. In the past two years, they both voted for mass transportation and the test ban treaty, against a Goldwater amendment to cut sharply grants to states for vocational education and work-study programs, for the tax cut to stimulate the economy, for the civil rights bill and for Medicare. Presidential candidate Goldwater was on the other side of the vote in each instance. Senator Williams has a progressive point of view on immigration reform, aid to education and housing for the elderly.

Mrs. Dwyer voted with only 27 other Republicans in the House to enlarge the Rules Committee and allow important legislation to get to the floor for consideration. She co-sponsored the Mass Transportation Act. She supported legislation to provide loans and grants for construction of college and university classrooms and laboratories, for loan programs for students, for construction of libraries and nursing schools and for aid for men's health and related facilities. She voted for the tax cut, for civil rights, the Housing Act of 1964 which, among other things, liberalized FHA mortgage insurance and broadened housing for the elderly, and she voted against further cuts when the House passed a $3.8 billion foreign aid appropriation.

Mrs. Dwyer has introduced legislation to protect the consumer by providing more adequate information on things we buy, to repeal war-time excise taxes on some consumer items, to eliminate the discriminatory quota system in our immigration laws and for the establishment of an Academy of Foreign Affairs. And since Congress adjourned without approving a compromise, she favors early consideration by the 89th Congress of bills increasing and liberalizing Social Security benefits, making some benefits retroactive.

We believe the records of both the Senator and the Congressman demonstrate that they deserve re-election.

BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT

We would like to express our concern regarding an article appearing in the Leader on Oct. 22.

The implication that the Board of Adjustment in Springfield is dedicated to ending the residential character of our town is not only unfounded but untrue. A careful, impartial study of the decisions made in the many cases heard by the Board of Adjustment will clearly indicate a dedicated effort by the Board to protect the residential character of the township.

To imply that the Board is controlled by special interest groups is not only false but an attempt to degrade a group of hard working people—past, present and in the future. If dedicated men are to be subjected on a yearly basis to such attacks, then truly Springfield will be sorely put to find those with the courage and principal to do what is best for the township.

It must be noted here that the Board of Adjustment, of which we are members, is a quasi-judicial body, and is concerned only with applying our existing zoning laws in a manner that is beneficial to our town, not with the making of new ones.

We are sure that for one reason or another there are those who disagree with some of the decisions made by the Board of Adjustment, but to insinuate that these decisions are the result of anything but hours of open hearing, independent research and spirited debate is a disservice to the people of Springfield.

Forecasts

He added that "many specific complaints against the local administration from all parts of the town" indicated a local Democratic victory. Mrs. Hilliard also predicted that Sen. Harrison Williams would carry the township.

As an indication of feeling about the Presidential race, and the effect it could have on the local contests, Mrs. Hilliard noted that "every afternoon, as soon as the schools close, we have children of every age, from first graders to teenagers, coming in to our headquarters, wanting to contribute their money to the Johnson campaign and asking how they can help us."

Physicians Join Chapter Working For LBJ Election

Two Springfield physicians have become affiliated with the Suburban Chapter of New Jersey Scientists, Engineers and Physicians for Johnson and Humphrey. They are Dr. Ralph Mond and Dr. B. H. Josephson.

Dr. Seymour Rosenberg of Berkeley Heights, chairman, declared that the "purpose of our organization is to bring to the public's attention the concern of the scientific community over the issues being raised in the current campaign."

President Johnson has provided intelligent and responsible leadership. As scientists and as citizens, we believe he deserves our support.

Others active in the group include Dr. Robert Krause of Basking Ridge, program chairman; Dr. A. J. Goldstein of Livingston, secretary; Dr. Joseph P. Traub of Plainfield, Treasurer; Dr. Frank Sindon, Summit; Dr. Kenneth C. Knowlton, Plainfield; and Dr. A. F. Keegan, Summit.

The Springfield Choral Society, a tennis program, with instruction for children at various township courts and tournaments for boys, girls and adults; bowling league for boys and girls, with participation by more than 85 youngsters; three bowling classes for girls, from seven-years-olds to teenagers.

Also, an arts and crafts program in the spring and fall, with some 175 youngsters participating; roller skating at the Florence Gaudineer School for sixth, seventh and eighth grades; a girls' sports program Saturday afternoons at the Raymond Chisholm School.

Planned for the coming weeks, Koontz declared, are the following:

Set For Future A wrestling program for boys of grammar school age, at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School; a keep-it program of games and exercise for women; volleyball leagues for men and women; a teen canteen, reviving a program active a decade ago.

He stated that a new tennis court has been completed at the Sandmeier Playground, with added play areas to be ready in the spring. The Donham Playground, Koontz added, has been regraded, resurfaced, resodded and augmented with five new pieces of play equipment.

Improvements at the Henshaw Playground, he said, have included resurfacing of the existing tennis court, construction of a play area for small children, construction of a new half-court basketball facility, construction of a paddle tennis court and regrading and reseeding of the entire area.

The Alvin Playground has been resurfaced and resodded. Koontz stated, new equipment has been installed and a new basketball court will soon be added. A playground leader was assigned there during August, and one will be on duty all next summer.

He also stated that the Caldwell Recreation House had temporary play facilities this summer, because the James Caldwell School Playground was unavailable because of construction work at the school.

Town Meeting

With concern for a different kind of litter, Committeeman Robert G. Planer announced the schedule established by the road department for picking up leaves collected by homeowners.

Leaves will be collected Mondays in Election Districts 1, 2 and 3; Tuesdays in Districts 4, 5 and 6; Wednesdays in Districts 7, 8 and 9; Thursdays in Districts 10 and 11, and Fridays in Districts 12 and 13. Leaves on county roads will be collected on Saturdays.

Mayor Robert D. Hardgrove commented, "All we want is for the people to put the leaves in the streets in front of their houses."

"We have discouraged burning of leaves, and a permit is required for this. Burning leaves constitute a fire hazard, and the smoke is very bad for sufferers of asthma and many allergies."

Election Returns Notice of the telephone numbers assigned for election returns came from Mrs. Harry Stinson, in behalf of the League of Women Voters. She said that local results could be obtained Tuesday evening by calling DR 9-0806 or 376-7718.

For the regular business meeting, the Committee met Nov. 18 for the sale of a $325,000 bond issue, consolidating several existing bond issues, and approved an agreement with the Jersey Central Power and Light Co.

Commissioner for additional street lighting on Smithfield rd. Henry S. Wright urged that meetings be opened with a prayer as well as the salute to the flag, and he attacked as "exorbitant" a fee of $10-per-hour charged for listening to tape recordings of Committee meetings.

Wright also complained of potholes in the pavement on Denham rd. He stated that they are caused by trucks of the Commonwealth Water Co., which are supposed to use their own means of entrance and egress instead of this residential street.

Church Women Will Hold Dinner

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield, will serve its annual turkey dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 12, at the Parish House.

Reservations can be made through Mrs. Duncan Douglas at DR 6-0344 or any civic chairman. Articles suitable for Christmas giving will be available at a handwork table.

Report From Trenton

by State Senator Nelson F. Stenler (R-Union)

As far as I am concerned, one of the worst criminals in our present society is the person who continues to drive a motor vehicle after his license has been revoked. And probably one of the most tragic crimes is so-called "accidental" death or injury caused by a driver on the revoked list. Whether that driver knows it or not, by his complete avoidance of the law, he is practicing anarchy.

Last year in New Jersey, more than 50,000 people had their drivers' licenses taken away for varying lengths of time, because of speeding, reckless driving and other moving traffic violations. Yet, in the same year, more than 3,200 drivers were later caught while driving on the revoked list. And most of them were caught simply because they were either involved in subsequent accidents, or they were committing some additional traffic violation.

Eleven years ago a driver on the revoked list caused an accident that wiped out an entire family of ten people riding in a station wagon, and just a few weeks ago, one of the drivers involved in that terrible Turnpike crash which killed four people, had had his license revoked earlier.

Apparently, the best way to keep these criminals off the road is to make the penalties so severe that they dare not break the law. This year, on February 3rd, I introduced a bill—S-39—which passed the Senate and the Assembly, and was signed into law by the Governor, and is now known as Chapter 2 of the Laws of 1964.

The bill increased the penalty for operating a motor vehicle while on the revoked list from $100 to $200—and from $500 to $1,000—or imprisonment in the county jail for up to six months. What it really did was double the penalties of the old law.

Apparently that isn't even tough enough. Unfortunately as Newark's Magistrate, Harry Hazelwood, told a panel of the American Bar Association, many of our judges are just too lenient with the offenders; as they are sometimes in narcotic cases. Judge Hazelwood said that the failure to deal sternly with revoked drivers is a threat to the whole structure of driver-control and licensing. Adequate protection of the public requires very stiff sentences, he declared. I could not agree more.

The mandatory penalty for excessive speeding in New Jersey under the "50-60" speed law is the revocation of the violator's license. The mandatory penalty for repeating offenders under our point system also is revocation of the license.

I can see little reason, therefore, why we might not establish a mandatory penalty—an automatic jail sentence—for any motorist caught driving on our State after his license has been revoked, either in this State, or any other State.

The harshness of a jail sentence to a man who needs his car for his livelihood is murderous—but so is his willful refusal to obey our law.

I am going to consider introducing a new bill in the State Senate in 1965 to call for increased penalties. This is just as important as getting the "implied consent" bill through to prevent drunken drivers from causing death and destruction on our highways.

Teenage GOP Unit Maps Final Effort

The Springfield Teenage Republicans have mapped a "unique" election project to take place Saturday. It was announced this week by the executive committee. The teenagers will use a "Hallway theme" to support the efforts of national and local candidates as the campaign is about to end.

At a meeting last week, the teenage Republicans voted support for Sen. Barry Goldwater and state and local candidates. Township Committeeman William Koontz was the principal speaker. Officers are Craig Mattice, chairman; Margot Pomeroy, vice-chairman; Barbara Troitz and Dorothy Samundin, secretaries; Gail Post, treasurer; Joel Wildman, publicity chairman; Paul Penard, advisor.

Young 'Indians' Helped To Discover Happy Learning Grounds

By BEA SMITH
New Jersey Indians invaded fourth and fifth grade classrooms in Springfield schools these past two weeks, whooping in and out of the minds and imaginations of many enraptured youngsters. While fourth and fifth grade students in other schools in New Jersey (and elsewhere) flipped dog-eared pages of history text books, boys and girls of the Chisholm, Sandmeier, Walton and James Caldwell schools were given Indian relics, dolls, costumes, tools, weapons, and other archeological material to handle, examine and study.

New Jersey Indians came alive to them as they learned of Indian lore by way of lectures, glimpsed slides of archeological sites, listened to background and historical stories of Indians who originated from their native state.

Thanks to Stuart Schwartz of Springfield, a 21-year-old Rutgers University senior majoring in anthropology and sociology, Springfield pupils were offered a rare opportunity of being exposed to the Schwartz collection of Indian relics and artifacts.

"THE KIDS ARE really great," Schwartz exclaimed during a chat the other day. "They really are. They're all curious. They want to learn. And sometimes, they even educate their parents, especially when the parents do homework with them or happen to be discussing the activities of a school day. "Personally, from my point of view, it's very important for the kids to learn from the beginning the right way to do things, and I'm intensely interested in the fact that they learn the correct facts about New Jersey Indians. It's their heritage, after all. And it's especially important during the Tercentenary."

Schwartz, who is an amateur archeologist and lecturer, has long been interested in history, archeology and anthropology.

Encouraged by neighbors, friends and school teachers, Schwartz "assembled a display this past summer," and with some of the material donated by Mrs. Edna Van Sickle Budd of Chatham whose husband amassed a large collection. "She was helpful in guiding me — I'm really indebted to her, and Mr. Hunter Ross's slides of the model of a Hackensack Indian village." Schwartz hit upon the idea of telling grammar school pupils all about the Indians.

"THIS BEING THE TERCENTENARY year, I figured now was as good a time as any to pursue the project." Schwartz explained that a close friend of the family belonged to the educational committee of the Archeology Society headed by Hunter Ross. "I got some advice from him, then went on to John O. Berwick, superintendent of schools here. He saw my collection and said, 'We'd certainly like to have you lecture to the pupils.' He arranged a meeting with the principals of the various Springfield schools, and now I'm talking to fourth and fifth grade classes."

Schwartz, incidentally doesn't receive a penny for his efforts. He says he feels that he is compensated by the enthusiastic reaction of the youngsters and their wholehearted attention, curiosity and interest. "I do like teaching an awful lot," he said. "And so I divide my time between addressing classes at Rutgers, doing homework and lecturing pupils."

"I STARTED WITH the Chisholm School several weeks ago. I lectured one day to two classes, bringing them a variety of artifacts. No matter how many artifacts in my room; I wanted the kids to see them. "I really enjoyed talking to them. Their goodness I'm not nervous about lecturing before a group. Then I went to the Sandmeier School the following week, to speak on Indians of New Jersey to a combination of two classes in one room. Then I did the same the next week."

"I was called back the following week to lecture to the three classes on archeological methods and techniques. I showed slides of various Indian sites which I had borrowed from the sociology-anthropology department at Rutgers in Newark. "At the Caldwell School one afternoon, I lectured on the Indians of Delaware County on the Delaware River, the site on which I worked this past summer. The youngsters were curious about the way to find sites. And I explained that they can be found by looking for certain refuse, heaps, a midden heap or a shell heap. The Indians used to keep one neat pile for trash, which, naturally, through the years disappeared into the ground. "A farmer once found some artifacts and reported it to the State Museum. The late Charles Adams, field archeologist for the state of New Jersey, wrote a book on site survey. On one of his located sites, he took a dig up the Delaware River. It's important to salvage all the archeological relics to be found by the river, because the banks will eventually be flooded by the Tocks Island Dam."

"THIS HAS BECOME a Federal project. A recreation area — the first national recreational program of this sort — is planned for that particular site. But it will probably take about 10 years to be flooded. "I noticed during my school lectures," Schwartz continued, "that the teachers seem equally interested in the various material. In fact, I think they like the idea of somebody who knows so much about Indian archeology, who has thoroughly researched his subject and has material available, to present to their classes."

Schwartz, who was born in Jersey City, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Schwartz. His father is salesman-manager of Morris on Springfield ave, Newark. His mother is president of the Springfield Chapter Hadassah. Stuart explained that he lived in Bayonne and in Newark during his early childhood, and moved to Springfield when he was about eight years old. He was graduated from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School (where his 15-year-old sister, Terri Lynn is a sophomore). "When I started at Rutgers in Newark, I didn't know exactly what I was going to major in. I had majored in the sciences in high school, and so I majored for one year in the sciences at college. But when I discovered that Rutgers-Newark has the largest number of courses in anthropology, I immediately swung over to anthropology courses."

THE YOUNG MAN explained that he'd like to attend graduate school, at the University of New Mexico, the University of Arizona or the University of California after he is graduated from Rutgers. "The staffs are excellent in the southwest. Imagine," he said dreamily, "the archeology of Maya, which includes Mexico and the Guatemalas."

"Archeology," Schwartz declared, "is really a big, wide open field. There is so much work to be done. There are places in it for anyone who wants to go in, particularly in the field of teaching archeology in college."

"I don't want to be a millionaire. I haven't been up to now; I wouldn't know what to do with it. But I'd like to earn a Ph.D. I guess I could support a wife and family on what I earn on a Ph.D.," he smiled.

"Another hobby of mine," Schwartz went on to say, "is collecting books before the books go out of print. I have a wonderful collection of anthropological and archeological books. One can get a good liberal education from my collection."

A POINT OF INTEREST about New Jersey Indians — Stuart Schwartz of Springfield, "amateur archeologist," traces the history of the piece of unearthed pottery he holds in his hands during a lecture to some fifth grade students at the Sandmeier School in Springfield. Youngsters listen attentively as Russel Greenberg, foreground, brings scene up to date, by finding it more comfortable to lean on his Beattie notebook.

Something all
Newlyweds should know

... about financial success. The first step towards this much-sought-after goal is the basic protection of the family—through Life Insurance.

Should you buy now? Or can it be put off safely if both husband and wife are working? The wise thing is to buy now. Postponement till you're older means higher premiums and the risk of poor health striking in the meantime. Someday too, that second income may stop, making it doubly important that a new mother be guaranteed a living income—an income enabling her to devote full time to raising that precious new addition.

The best buy for the young family is permanent insurance. It provides that most important guarantee of family income. In addition, it's a savings plan providing cash in an emergency and funds for long-range objectives such as a university education for a son.

Call the Man from Manufacturers about financial success through insurance. You'll find him a competent and friendly adviser.

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
I am a 16-year-old student who has troubles with his father. Whenever I go out to buy clothes for myself, he wants to tag along. That's not too bad, but he wants me to wear the type of clothes he wore when he was a boy. You know the kind I mean... the ones that flap in the wind! The kind of pants I want are slightly tapered. He says these "stove pipe" pants are not practical. I say to go along with the fad and not be an odd-ball. You're only young once! What's your opinion?
W. W. W.

Dear W. W. W.:
Yes, you are only young once... but that's no reason to want to look or act ridiculous. I go along with the "slightly tapered" look if that will help your present cause, but to me, the faddist IS the odd-ball, and I'm sure you get what I mean.

Dear Amy:
My husband is taking his annual business trip to Miami, Fla., and as usual, he advertised for riders to help pay traveling expenses. This time he received only one answer to his ad and that was from two sisters in the mid-twenties who are going to Miami to look for work. We checked their references and everything seems all right. My friends are all kidding me about my husband going on such a long trip with two single girls, so now I'm beginning to have some doubts. Do you think that I should let him take these girls along or try to get a male rider?
Distressed

Dear Distressed:
You know your husband better than I do. But since the odds are two to one, I don't think you have anything to worry about.

Dear Amy:
Is one compelled to send a baby gift just because one receives an announcement of the baby's birth?
My beef is this: My sister-in-law has a party in honor of her child's birth and invites only her own sisters with perhaps one sister-in-law thrown in just to keep my side of the family quiet—but the rest of us only get announcements. Puzzled

Dear Puzzled:
No one is ever compelled to send a gift. Your sister-in-law committed a grand faux pas by inviting one sister-in-law and omitting the others. Chalk her up! Only send a gift if you want to. An announcement can also be acknowledged by a card of congratulations... if one is so inclined.

Dear Amy:
The other day I very casually met a very nice young man. I haven't been formally introduced to him and I would like to know him better. I found out that he is 18, but I'm only 15. I don't really think that my parents would approve of our going together (if I should ever get to know him well enough that we would want to go together).

I really would appreciate some advice on this matter because I would like to know if you would approve of a fairly casual friendship with someone who is only three years older than myself?
Casual Girlfriend
Dear Casual:
I'm for casual friendships... it's for you to keep it that-a-way!

Dear Amy:
I try to read your column every week. My problem is my 13-year-old sister. She thinks she loves a guy 21-years-old. I promised I wouldn't tell mother, but it has become a bit too serious. This man has a transmittable illness and it can't be cured. If he marries her, he will give it to her. I have plans to talk to sis about it, but if that doesn't do any good, shall I tell mom? I gave my promise but I need some advice.
Silly in Deep Meditation

Dear Silly:
Tell your mother immediately. If you love your sister, you cannot keep your promise. This guy is sick all right... in more ways than one!

MOTOROLA 1965 23" COLOR TELEVISION IS SO GOOD—IT'S GUARANTEED FOR ONE YEAR—PARTS AND LABOR!

Model 23CK302A—Contemporary styling with clean, uncluttered lines. 23" overall diag. tube meas.; 27 1/2" eq. in. picture viewing area.

It's the new generation of Color TV

What's new about Motorola Color/65 sets? To start with the picture is rectangular, full, bigger, with a natural shape similar to color movies. All other sets commercially produced in America today use a round tube. Their pictures are smaller and rounded off. Look how much of the picture you'd lose! So why lose the extra enjoyment—Motorola Color/65 sets can add to your viewing enjoyment?

THIS... NOT THIS

Another important advantage is this: The new tube is about 5-2 inches shorter—from front to back than ordinary round color tubes so Color/65 cabinets can be slim and trim. They fit back close to the wall... blend beautifully with other furnishings. Choose from many furniture designs including decorator sets designed by Drexel exclusively for Motorola.

When Selecting Carpet, Ponder Expectations

Wool? Nylon? Acrylic? Which is the best carpet fiber? As simple as this question may sound, there is no simple answer.

There are, however, some reliable guides for carpet shoppers who find the varieties of fibers baffling and the decisions difficult.

First, of all, it's important to remember that fiber content alone is no guarantee of carpet quality or performance. Good makers know that the most important "ingredient" in a recipe is skill in preparation — and reliable carpet manufacturers know that the quality of a finished product depends on more than just the raw materials used.

Second, it's helpful to realize that the varied choice in carpets and rugs can be a help, not a hurdle in shopping. Today's supply of both natural and man-made fibers has made possible such a wide range of styles and qualities that you can make a selection best suited to your own taste — and your pocketbook.

Points to Ponder

The best way to answer the baffling "fiber question" is to evaluate what you expect from a carpet in appearance, durability and economy. Each fiber has its own properties affecting these points.

In styling — to name just two examples — resilient fibers such as wool and acrylic are especially suited to plush "velvety" textures. Clear, sharp colors may be found in wool, of more economical, in man-made fibers such as nylon, acrylic or polypropylene.

Established American manufacturers choose fibers most adaptable to desired color and texture effects. It's essential to select a carpet which looks and

College Bond Issue Gains Much Support

The New Jersey Home Builders Association, the state Chiropractors and U. S. Senator Clifford P. Case this week joined those in support of the 1964 College Bond Issue before voters on the Nov. 3 ballot.

A powerful state-wide campaign in support of the issue is rolling in high gear, and the Citizens' Committee for College Opportunities in New Jersey has enlisted the support of nearly 100 of the state's top industrial, political, labor and business leaders for the issue.

Many state-wide organizations have come forward in support of the issue, including the New Jersey Education Association, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the Association of University Women, the New Jersey Manufacturers Association, the Jewish War Veterans, the State Chamber of Commerce and a variety of trade unions.

Also, the Mental Health Association of New Jersey, the N. J. Association for Adult Education and the N. J. Bankers Association.

Speaking for the Home Builders Association, John B. O'Hara, president, said "... we are acutely conscious of the value of available education opportunities as an incentive for people to make their homes in New Jersey. We also see clearly the relationship between the facilities for higher education and the desirability of our state as a place for industry to locate. Naturally addition of more industry means more jobs for New Jersey and more homes for its employed people."

A spokesman for the chiropractors said that members "firmly support" the issue and "will

Weigh All Issues With Open Mind, Candidate Asks

Republican U. S. Senate candidate Bernard M. Shanley this week asked voters to lay aside partisanship and to weigh with an open mind the very real issues of the campaign "that my opponent would ignore."

Shanley stressed that the voters' choice for the United States Senate "is between Shanley and Williams, although my opponent has refused to recognize this and stand on his own two feet."

Early in the campaign, Shanley said, he intended to conduct his campaign on specific issues and positions, "and this I have done," he asserted.

Shanley said, "I have made plain my belief that government closest to home is the best government. I am utterly opposed to 'big-brother' federal government. I believe this country's strength is rooted in the free enterprise system, a system of individual freedom with the right to self-improvement and the pursuit of excellence. I believe in the individual's rights to fight oppressive taxation.

"I am first an American, next a Republican. I will not lock-step with any president, be he Republican or Democrat. I believe New Jersey has suffered under a Democratic senator who has been often given his vote in blind obedience to the White House.

Electrical Work In Modernization Program-Urgent

If your home was built ten or more years ago, it's almost certain that your family and the house itself will benefit from an electrical modernization job. Good enough in its day, an old-fashioned wiring system cannot deliver the wide array of electrical equipment and lighting which most families need and want.

Survey the System

Even in many homes which have been built quite recently, inadequate electrical capacity and insufficient outlets place irritating restrictions on enjoyment of electrical living.

Almost any home improvement job will require some electrical work. So, why not let the electrical contractor survey the entire wiring system? It will be far more economical to have needed improvements made all at one time.

For instance, you may be planning to modernize your kitchen, or to create a laundry area for the electric washer and dryer.

Modern standards call for at least two 20-ampere, 120 volt circuits to serve plug-in appliances, plus individual circuits for major equipment such as the electric range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher-dishwasher, automatic washer and electric clothes dryer. In addition there should be at least one duplex convenience outlet for every four feet of kitchen counter.

Lighting fixtures should be installed to provide general illumination, plus supplementary lighting over the sink and under cabinets.

If you are redecorating general living areas, strategically placed lighting fixtures — perhaps with dimmer controls — can work magic on colors, fabrics and art objects.

And, don't let the new decor be marred by trailing extension cords and "octopus" plugs. Have additional outlets installed to accommodate portable lamps, TV and hi-fi in the locations you prefer.

Washington's Historic Retreat To Be Re-enacted For Tercentenary

George Washington's historic 1776 "Retreat Across the Jerseys" will be re-enacted as a special Tercentenary event Nov. 21.

The path that was covered in five bloody weeks by the Revolutionary War soldiers 188 years ago will be retraced by Jerseymen in five hours.

The announcement was made this week by Edward A. Stewart, chairman of the Leonia, Bergen County, Tercentenary Committee, and route co-ordinator of the Tercentenary event.

Stewart said that the Revolutionary War Retreat began with the evacuation of Fort Lee and ended with the Battle of Trenton. Its re-enactment will involve 12 separate five-to-ten-mile marches that will start simultaneously and touch Bergen, Essex, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Passaic, Somerset and Union Counties.

The Tercentenary Retreat

marches will begin at 9 a.m. No contact will be maintained during the march by participating units. The complete route followed by Washington's "ragged" heroes 188 years ago will have been covered by 2 p.m.

Stewart said that Boy Scout troops and other uniformed New Jersey groups have been invited to participate in the marches that are now mapped out as follows:

- (1) from Closter to Fort Lee, Bergen County;
- (2) from Fort Lee to North Hackensack, Bergen County;
- (3) from North Hackensack to Passaic, Passaic County;
- (4) from Passaic to Newark, Essex County;
- (5) from Newark to Roselle, Union County;

DOGS DECKED UP FOR HALLOWEEN

Anyone In A Huckleberry Hound Outfit?

Youngsters outfitted for trick or treat this Saturday will have a hard time matching the originality and detail of the costumes of some 75 chihuahuas who preened themselves before an audience of over 200 persons at the annual Halloween party of the Chihuahua Club of Mid New Jersey Tuesday.

The pint-sized pooches posed like well-trained mannequins on a long table at Veterans Memorial Hall, Cranford in outfits that were hand-made by their owners. There were four little Beattles with miniature instruments fastened to their collars; a pup-dolled up like Miss America in a white sequined evening gown, sparkling tiara and red velvet cape; a demurely-veiled bride, and a number of clowns and witches befitting the Halloween season. One small dog arrived in a very delicate condition, modeling a maternity outfit.

Rinaldo Declares Operational Costs Of County Lowest

Freeholder Matthew J. Rinaldo this week cited statistics showing that Union County had the lowest per-capita cost of operations last year.

"The fact that Union County, one of the state's most populous, operates at one of the lowest per-capita costs — considerably below the average for the state — is conclusive proof that the Republican administration has practiced fiscal responsibility," he said.

Rinaldo, a Union Township resident, is seeking another term on the county board. He is a member of the board's revenue and finance committee, which prepares the county budget.

Rinaldo said that the per-capita cost of operating Union county government was $29.62 — "substantially below the statewide average of $36.13, and within striking distance of the $24.17 figure for the state's lowest."

He continued: "Responsible Republican stewardship has given us this fine record, while not sacrificing the needs of our citizens on the altar of needless cost-cutting."

Rinaldo also noted that neighboring Essex County is "right from the top" with a per-capita figure of $47.50, while nearby Hudson County has a figure of $50.72, proving the value of thoughtful Republican administration.

Dance Sponsored By Youth Group

Members of St. Theresa's Young Christian Students, an action group of the Catholic Youth Organization, sponsored a dance Saturday for the benefit of the Clifford Harshorne family. The family recently lost its possessions in a fire in their home.

The Young Christian Students collected a total of $83. The money will be put toward a fund for installing a heating system in the family's present home, 242 N. 10th st., Kenilworth.

Raymond Ten Eyck was chairman of the dance. Music was provided on a volunteer basis by the Bumpers, a band made up of young men from the church.

Civil Defense Stations

The Union County Civil Defense and Disaster Control requested Union County residents to listen to the following radio stations in any major emergency or disaster necessitating notification to the general public: WNJR, WPAT and WVNJ. These stations were assigned to the Emergency Broadcasting System by the Federal Communications Commission, the organization said.

Federal Grant Paves Way To Train Child-Care Workers; Seek Trainees

Newark State College, Union has been awarded a $64,700 federal grant to train child-care workers in the mental retardation field. The money will support a three-pronged experimental-demonstration project the purposes of which are to develop criteria for recruitment of child-care workers, develop instructional techniques and prepare 50 child-care workers in a pilot program, according to Dr. Edward LaCrosse, project director and chairman of the college's special education department.

The funds come to the college from the U.S. Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, LaCrosse said. Broken down the figures show $34,030 comes from the labor department and $28,674 from the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

"Cooperating in the project are the National and New Jersey Associations for Retarded Children, as well as local unions," LaCrosse said. "The New Jersey Employment Service is also assisting by pre-screening potential child-care workers and by providing training and subsistence allowances for trainees. This agency," LaCrosse reported, "has budgeted $18,000 to support the project."

A first group of 15 trainees started last week on a 27-week work-study experience at the Henry W. Kohler Day Care Center in Winfield Park," LaCrosse said. He explained that the program included an eight-hour day which is a combination of supervised work, formal classes and field trips. Classes, he said, are held at the center.

Unemployed or underemployed persons 18 to 30 years old are given first priority as trainees. A minimum of two years of high school is required, although those with a high school diploma or who can pass a high school equivalency test are preferred.

"Prior to acceptance trainees are exposed to the range of mental and physical disabilities," LaCrosse explained, "through visits to the facilities serving the retarded. Reactions are evaluated by the staff. Those who react negatively are not accepted into the program."

"There has been extensive growth of day care centers for mentally retarded children in this country over the last nine years," LaCrosse pointed out. "New centers are developing at an accelerated pace. New Jersey especially needs child-care workers. We just don't have properly trained people to fill the existing vacancies. This shortage has been with us for some time and shows every sign of worsening unless we do something about it," he emphasized.

"This college decided to act when our survey revealed that there are no suitable training programs in operation," LaCrosse said.

Assistant project director is Mrs. Lillian Shapiro of Fair Lawn. Mrs. Shapiro formerly was an associate in the Research Division of the Bank Street College of Education, N. Y.

Trainer for the first group is Miss Allison Scott of Orange. Miss Scott, who holds a B.S. degree in nursing education, has trained psychiatric nurses.

Arnold Coriasso, vocational rehabilitation consultant for the National Association for Retarded Children, is selection counselor for the project and is charged with interviewing applicants, exposing them to the working situation, and assisting in the development of selection criteria. Coriasso, a member of the college's field services faculty, also served as a planning consultant and member of the faculty committee which helped develop the proposal. The project also utilizes other faculty experts as consultants.

Newark State College has been a center for the training of teachers of the mentally retarded—for more than a decade. Programs leading to both B.A. and M.A. degrees are offered. The Child Study Center, which moved into its own building this fall, offers both diagnostic and clinical services to the community, LaCrosse said.

Early this year the college was the recipient of a $68,000 federal grant to educate speech therapists and teachers of mentally retarded children. A total of $50,500 is earmarked for the area of mental retardation. The grant supports five graduate fellows and six senior undergraduates majoring in mental retardation and helps to expand the Special Education Department through acquisition of equipment and services.

Trailside Center Sets Fossil Talk

Forrest Dexter Jr., professor of geology at Union Junior College, Cranford, will present a program entitled "Fossil Hunting in New Jersey" at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation, Mountainside, on Sunday at 3 p.m.

Dexter's program will include a talk illustrated with color slides and specimens of various fossils found in places throughout New Jersey between Cape May and Highpoint. Also on display will be specimens of petrified woods, a mastodon's tooth, and fossils of fish.

On Monday and Thursday at 4 p.m. Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of Trailside, will present half-hour nature talks for children in the auditorium of the Nature and Science Center. The topics selected for the two days are "Some Inventions in Nature." The talks will also be illustrated with color slides.

Students From Union Outnumber Other Freshman Groups At UJC

There are more freshman this year at Union Junior College, Cranford, from Union High School than any other secondary school. It was reported this week by Prof. Spill Orkin, director of admissions, Union High School has 40 recent graduates in Union Junior College's freshman class.

The traditional leader, Cranford, is in second place this year with 37 freshmen.

APOLOGY GAINS REDUCED FINE IN COURT SESSION

Never get into an argument with a policeman over a parking space.

Harold Glass, 24, of 26 Washington ave., Springfield, found this out Monday night in Springfield Municipal Court, when Magistrate Max Sherman fined him $25 on a disorderly persons complaint. The fine could have been as high as $200, but Glass apologized to the officer, Patrolman Samuel Calabrese.

The circumstances, according to the complaint, were that the young man had been driving around the shopping center looking for a space. He came upon one into which the officer, off-duty at time and in plain clothes, also was trying to move his car. The youth thereupon allegedly called the officer a name. The court noted that the young man had no previous record.

Wester Continuing Campaign In Person

Mountainside Councilman Henry P. Wester, who is running for Union County Freeholder on the Republican ticket, made his first public campaign appearance since Aug. 25 Tuesday night at the Mountainside Inn, when he spoke to a group of Republican workers.

Wester, who was confined to Overlook Hospital, Summit, for several weeks after suffering a heart attack at the August meeting of the Borough Council, stated that mass transportation is one of the important "issues of our time" and called expressly for a "transportation master plan for our future."

The Councilman, whose term on the local board is up this year and who did not seek reelection in the local primary, charged his Democratic opponents with not facing up to the issues of the campaign.

Wester had high praise for Congresswoman Florence Dwyer, who is seeking reelection this year in the Sixth District, and her work in attempting to solve the mass transportation problems "we are facing," he pointed out.

Charging that "we are 20 years behind the times in building and upgrading our highways in the metropolitan area," Wester warned that unless "we do something about it now" 30 years from now "our highways will still not be efficient enough or safe enough."

Wester, who is currently serving as chairman of the Essex-Union-Camden Traffic Safety Council, outlined a plan for "escape routes" which could be used by highway travelers when tie-ups are caused by accidents or other problems.

Police Of Union, Springfield, Want Burglar Suspect

Police of both Union and Springfield have filed detainers at the Union County jail for John F. Slusser, 22, of Maplewood, for alleged house burglaries.

Mountainside Magistrate Jacob Butler Oct. 12 held Slusser for action of a Union County grand jury, after he allegedly was found inside a home in that community. He has been in the Union County jail since that date.

Questioned at the county jail by Union Detectives Albert C. Kosterbauer and Harold W. Slusser, Slusser reportedly admitted breaking entry and larceny Sept. 27 at 802 Fairway dr., the detectives said.

The detainer filed by Springfield authorities is in connection with an Oct. 3 breaking, entry and larceny at the residence of Joseph Roller, 100 Shunpike rd.

Slusser was captured at gunpoint in the upstairs bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Wainbow, 318 Rolling Rick rd., Mountainside. Two others, a man and a woman from Newark who were found nearby in Slusser's car, were held as material witnesses. They denied knowing the car owner's whereabouts at the time.

Wester, who was confined to Overlook Hospital, Summit, for several weeks after suffering a heart attack at the August meeting of the Borough Council, stated that mass transportation is one of the important "issues of our time" and called expressly for a "transportation master plan for our future."

The Councilman, whose term on the local board is up this year and who did not seek reelection in the local primary, charged his Democratic opponents with not facing up to the issues of the campaign.

Wester had high praise for Congresswoman Florence Dwyer, who is seeking reelection this year in the Sixth District, and her work in attempting to solve the mass transportation problems "we are facing," he pointed out.

Charging that "we are 20 years behind the times in building and upgrading our highways in the metropolitan area," Wester warned that unless "we do something about it now" 30 years from now "our highways will still not be efficient enough or safe enough."

Wester, who is currently serving as chairman of the Essex-Union-Camden Traffic Safety Council, outlined a plan for "escape routes" which could be used by highway travelers when tie-ups are caused by accidents or other problems.

Wester Continuing Campaign In Person

Mountainside Councilman Henry P. Wester, who is running for Union County Freeholder on the Republican ticket, made his first public campaign appearance since Aug. 25 Tuesday night at the Mountainside Inn, when he spoke to a group of Republican workers.

Wester, who was confined to Overlook Hospital, Summit, for several weeks after suffering a heart attack at the August meeting of the Borough Council, stated that mass transportation is one of the important "issues of our time" and called expressly for a "transportation master plan for our future."

The Councilman, whose term on the local board is up this year and who did not seek reelection in the local primary, charged his Democratic opponents with not facing up to the issues of the campaign.

APOLYGY GAINS REDUCED FINE IN COURT SESSION

Never get into an argument with a policeman over a parking space.

Harold Glass, 24, of 26 Washington ave., Springfield, found this out Monday night in Springfield Municipal Court, when Magistrate Max Sherman fined him $25 on a disorderly persons complaint. The fine could have been as high as $200, but Glass apologized to the officer, Patrolman Samuel Calabrese.

The circumstances, according to the complaint, were that the young man had been driving around the shopping center looking for a space. He came upon one into which the officer, off-duty at time and in plain clothes, also was trying to move his car. The youth thereupon allegedly called the officer a name. The court noted that the young man had no previous record.

Police Of Union, Springfield, Want Burglar Suspect

Police of both Union and Springfield have filed detainers at the Union County jail for John F. Slusser, 22, of Maplewood, for alleged house burglaries.

Mountainside Magistrate Jacob Butler Oct. 12 held Slusser for action of a Union County grand jury, after he allegedly was found inside a home in that community. He has been in the Union County jail since that date.

Questioned at the county jail by Union Detectives Albert C. Kosterbauer and Harold W. Slusser, Slusser reportedly admitted breaking entry and larceny Sept. 27 at 802 Fairway dr., the detectives said.

The detainer filed by Springfield authorities is in connection with an Oct. 3 breaking, entry and larceny at the residence of Joseph Roller, 100 Shunpike rd.

Slusser was captured at gunpoint in the upstairs bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Wainbow, 318 Rolling Rick rd., Mountainside. Two others, a man and a woman from Newark who were found nearby in Slusser's car, were held as material witnesses. They denied knowing the car owner's whereabouts at the time.

Mrs. Force lifted a heavy box of pamphlets and books on flying.

"I recently took my written examination," she said, "and let me tell you, it was a tough exam. I had my nose in these pamphlets and books for days."

In between studying and flying and learning, Mrs. Force keeps herself busy with her three children, two dogs and her duties as a den mother and a girl scout counselor-consultant.

"I also belong to the Temple Beth Ahm Bowling League here in Springfield," she said. "And I meet with the associate artists at the temple."

"We're not of the Jewish faith," Mrs. Force chuckled, "but the town has sort of adopted us. They call us the Presbyterian Jews of Springfield."

Mrs. Force is hoping to complete her lessons by November. "I would love to fly to Florida on my husband's company plane."

Conviction As Drunken Driver Comes After Lengthy Hearings

George Wood, 57, of Nutley, office manager of the Reliable Woodworking and Supply Co. of 918 Clinton ave., Irvington, will be sentenced in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

The motorist was found guilty Monday night by Magistrate Max Sherman after a contested hearing that lasted for a half-day Sept. 26, a full day Oct. 3 and an hour Monday night.

Wood was issued a summons by Patrolman John Baber Aug. 7 in Millburn, after he followed the Nutley man along Main st. and Mountain ave. into that community. Police of Millburn arrived at the same time that Patrolman Baber got Wood to stop.

The case was prosecuted by Springfield Prosecutor Joseph S. Seidel, and Michael Alenick, Newark attorney, represented the defendant. Dr. Ralph Mond testified that found Wood to have been under the influence of alcohol at the time.

The magistrate delivered a written opinion, stating that he found the defendant guilty as charged, and he gave the defense attorney a week to study it. The offense carries a mandatory license revocation of two years in addition to a $200 to $500 fine and/or 30 days to three months in jail.

Fair Housing Group Plans Pledge Drive

Plans for a township-wide pledge program early in 1965 were outlined at a meeting of the Springfield Fair Housing Committee last week at Temple Shalom. Plans will be announced shortly for the next meeting, scheduled for Nov. 19.

A door-to-door campaign will ask residents to sign pledges supporting non-discriminatory housing patterns in all parts of the township. Pledges will also be sought at church and synagogue meetings and by means of booths set up in various areas. Mrs. Philip Lewis will coordinate the pledge program.

Irving Samuels presided at the session, an executive board meeting which was open to the public. He reported that all local clergymen had aided in preparing a statement on fair housing which will appear, with their signatures. That statement will be part of a newspaper advertisement designed to culminate the pledge drive.

William J. Burns, chairman of the new Springfield Human Rights Commission, discussed methods of cooperation between the two groups.

The Fair Housing group also discussed establishment of an "escort service" to aid people who desire assistance in finding homes in Springfield. This project is being directed by Harold O'Neal, chairman of the real estate subcommittee. The "escort service" is modeled after similar programs in Westfield and other communities.

Trade, with Communists only to diminish their power. Recast aid programs to see that all serve cause of freedom and none bolster anti-American regimes. Trooper Tells 400 Dayton Juniors Human Failure Causes Accidents

Accidents just don't happen; they are caused, and human failure is responsible for 98 percent of them, State Trooper Al Livingston of the Bureau of Safety Education of the Morristown Barracks told 400 junior class students last Thursday at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield.

The trooper, whose talk followed showing of a film, emphasized that traffic rules and regulations are not meant to restrict the freedom of the driver, but are geared to protect life and property.

He pointed out that driving is a privilege, and that New Jersey has one of the strictest enforcement records in the country. Strict enforcement is necessary, he said, because 1,000 out of 43,000 motor death occurring in the country last year occurred in New Jersey.

Drinking is a major problem, he said. Drunken driving was a factor in one third of the road deaths, autopsies showed.

Trooper Livingston said that his personal conviction is that teenagers are better drivers than older people. If the teenager has a good, responsible attitude, the teenager has better skills, reaction, vision and other physical advantages that give him an edge, Livingston said.

The trooper's visit is an important phase of the Dayton driver education course, which concludes Nov. 10. The course stresses the principle that a good driver is one who has "a proper attitude toward rules and regulations and appreciates his responsibilities behind the wheel."

State Report Bolsters Supporters Of 'Yes' Vote On Vocational Expansion

A blue ribbon committee of 29 members, appointed over a year ago by the State Department of Education to explore needs for expansion of vocational education in the state, returned its report this week in favor of such expansion.

The committee report recommended among other things that the state prepare to give aid to vocational and technical institutions "including those operated by counties."

Noting that the state has some 50,000 students of high school age who are neither in school nor employed, the committee also pointed to the fact that the state ranks 50th—or at the bottom—for students enrolled in vocational courses.

The state report adds additional weight to the endorsement by eight county boards of education, PTA groups, Chambers of Commerce, manufacturing organizations, labor unions and influential citizens, all of whom advocated "yes" vote for creation of a $3,750,000 vocational and technical high school on a 42-acre tract in Scotch Plains.

The referendum asking that such funds be provided for construction of the facility that would serve high school age students, post graduate technical students and offer adult programs, appears on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Leonard Simmons of Roselle, president of the Board for Vocational Education in Union County and president of the Roselle School Board, struck out this week at those who would oppose the creation of the new school on grounds that the county program would be a "step backward."

Pointing to all those who are in favor of the proposal, Simmons said that "those who quibble about whether one approach is better than another may prevent many youngsters from getting any vocational education."

In a statement issued this week, he was answering the objections voiced by some members of the Union County Regional Board of Education at a meeting of that body last Tuesday night.

After a 45-minute debate last Tuesday the Regional Board rejected a proposal by board member Dr. Minor C.K.

Jones that the board go on record in opposition to the referendum.

One board member noted that opposition to the referendum would be a backward step. Board president Avery W. Ward of Kenilworth cautioned against endorsing a report in opposition to the referendum because it might damage the chances of the referendum.

The report referred to by Ward was compiled by Dr. Warren W. Davis, superintendent of the regional school system, and stated that the new vocational and technical school would be behind the times before it was built.

Ward said that while the regional system was developing comprehensive vocational and technical programs, other communities in the county might not have the funds to develop such programs.

George Baxel, director of the County Vocational and Technical Schools, said that the dropout figure cited in Dr. Davis' report could not be considered a factor in either accepting or rejecting the proposal for creation of the new school.

Dr. Davis had said that vocational schools had the highest dropout rate in the country. Baxel said that "vocational schools do have a high dropout rate. This is largely because students transfer from an academic high school to a vocational school with the distorted notion that they might not be going to school. You can't single out reasons for dropouts. Most of these students would have dropped out anyway for all sorts of reasons. But the dropout is charged to the vocational school. The academic high school does not have it charged to it because a transfer has been made. This whole idea becomes distorted by figures and it is more important to think in terms of those who can be taught than dropout statistics that would have been such statistics anywhere."

He said that on Friday the superintendent of schools of the county had reaffirmed a resolution passed by them last year in favor of the creation of the Scotch Plains school.

Baxel also said that while Morris Hills Regional High School in Rockaway has one of the most comprehensive curricula in the state, ranging from college prep to trades, he was sought out last week by members of a Morris County manufacturer's group who were disturbed that the county did not have a vocational program.

In support of his belief that the county needs expansion of its vocational and technical facilities, Simmons said: "The plain truth of the matter is that the county is in a position to make a start on this important work, while most local districts are not."

"We all recognize that this type of education is expensive and many districts could not justify the cost of setting up such departments as would satisfy the needs of their students. The county, however, with 21 school districts, to draw from, could operate such a program economically.

"It has always been the intent of the county board of education to cooperate with the local schools and thereby avoid expensive duplication of facilities," Simmons said.

In chiding the regional board viewpoint, Simmons said: "It is interesting to note that the regional school viewpoint holds it is alright for a student to transfer from his neighborhood school to another within the district, but it is not alright for him to transfer to a county school. In truth, the county is simply a larger region than that covered by the regional school referred to."

Simmons asserted that no student would be forced by the county school into a final career choice. One mode of operation suggested by the county is 'cooperative' with the local district," he said.

"This would allow the student to retain identity with the local school by taking academic work there and associate with the county school for vocational work only. This option would keep the student closer to home than is now accomplished in the regional district," Simmons stated.

Pageant Set To End County Celebration

"Tercentenary," a pageant including skills and tableaux, will end Union County's activities in connection with New Jersey's 300th anniversary at 9 p.m. next Friday at the Summit High School.

The county's 21 municipalities are scheduled to participate in the event, which will be sponsored by the Union County Tercentenary Committee, an announcement this week said.

The program will be historical, humorous, contemporary and futuristic in composition. Background music will be provided by the chorus of Newark State College under the direction of Jack Platt.

In connection with the pageant, a commemorative booklet will be printed. It will contain brief historical sketches of each municipality and other material representative of the county's participation in the state-wide observance. Prizes will be awarded for the best municipal contributions, a spokesman said.

A scene depicting the sale by the Indians to the original white settlers of the land now known as New Jersey will open the Tercentenary program, which will run for about 90 minutes.

There will be no admission charge, and ample parking space will be provided; the announcement added.

CAN YOU AFFORD ANOTHER MORTGAGE ON YOUR HOME?

AN OPEN LETTER TO UNION COUNTY TAXPAYERS!

Dear Fellow Taxpayers:

The answer to the above question is that you probably cannot afford another mortgage anymore than your County Government can afford another $2,400,000 LOSS!

Yet that's exactly what the present ruling Republican majority on the Board of Freeholders has cost the county and the taxpayers in the past four years through inefficient administration:

1. Lost nearly $2,000,000 by failing to make the proper application for available Federal funds for the $5,000,000 new Court House Annex and Garage. At the same time Middlesex County received $1,900,000 in a Federal grant for a building project by making a proper application.
2. Lost nearly $200,000 in the past four years by the Republican Freeholder majority which pays about $50,000 a year more for private hospitalization insurance than Blue Cross costs. Union County is the only one of 21 counties in the entire State not using Blue Cross, which the State itself uses. Blue Cross pays no commissions and is a non-profit organization.
3. Lost nearly $100,000 interest in four years by not fully and alertly investing idle and available county funds sometimes amounting to millions of dollars. Bergen County earns over $200,000 yearly by investing the same type of funds.
4. Lost $150,000 by changing the location of the recently completed Nursing Home Unit—coupled with a 2-year delay in building this Democratic sponsored project, a delay that saw the project cost skyrocket from $425,000 to over $875,000.

Add it all up and you can see for yourself how county government under inefficient administration costs more than we can afford! Help fight inefficiency in county government with strong Democratic minority representation.

Union County To Vote On Vocational Education

UNION COUNTY TECHNICAL INSTITUTE FILLS NEED FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADS

The Union County Technical Institute, founded in 1960, currently enrolls some 180 students in its rented facilities in Mountainside and Scotch Plains. Principal purpose of the Institute is to prepare young men and women to enter technical or semi-professional vocations which require training after high school graduation.

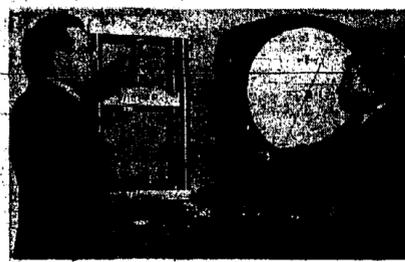

Fulltime day programs are offered in electronics, mechanical technology, data processing, chemical technology, dental assistant, medical assistant, and practical nursing. Evening courses are available in similar fields.

The 1620 computer is the heart of the data processing department.

Students double as patients during dental-assistant course offered in Scotch Plains. Currently, 18 girls are enrolled as future dental assistants.

One of the latest pieces of equipment in the Mountainside facility is a tensile tester, used in mechanical technology.

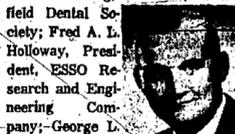

Citizens' Committee To Inform Union Voters

The Citizens' Committee for Vocational Education in Union County was formed this month, following announcement that the referendum for vocational and technical education would be on the ballot, in order to inform the voters of the fact and to acquaint them with proposed plans. The Citizens' Committee endorses the expansion and development of vocational education in this County.

Leonard E. Best, President of the Best Pencil Company, Springfield, was named chairman of the Citizens' Committee. Vice Chairman is William A. Schneider, Vice President, Lockheed Electronics Company.

Members of the Citizens' Committee are: F. Edward Blier (Mayor, Union Township); Cornelius P. Bly, Vice President, Chamber of Commerce of Eastern Union County; Glenn G. Belford, President, N. J. Tool & Die Manufacturers Association; Lawrence A. Carr, Union County Council, AFL-CIO; John T. Connor, President, Merck & Co., Inc.; Warren M. Denny, President, Urban League of Eastern Union County; Martin Gerber, National Industrial Union Council AFL-CIO; Dr. Robert M. Ellsweig, President, Plainfield Dental Society; Fred A. L. Holloway, President, ESSO Research and Engineering Company; George L. Lee, President, William A. Schneider Red Devil Tool Co.; Kenneth M. McKay, President, Union Junior College; Hans Meyer, Executive Secretary, Manufacturers Association of Union; Bertram N. Miller, President, B. B. Miller Co.; Lawrence G. Oakley, President, Mid-Eastern Electronics Co.; Mrs. William Oplinger, President, Union County Council PTA; Benjamin Romano, President, Union Chamber of Commerce; Frank Scott, Jr., President, Morey Larue Laundries; Fred Stahuber, Superintendent, Union Township Schools; Nelson F. Stamler, State Senator from Union County; and Monsignor Joseph T. Tuttle, Superintendent of Schools, Archdiocese of Newark.

Although many of Union County's boys and girls will not complete college, there are insufficient facilities now available to them to get the kind of education and training they need for productive careers and useful lives. The proposed referendum on vocational-technical education is designed as a bridge for these youngsters to careers in the technical and semi-professional careers.

Some of the questions voters ask about the proposed referendum, together with answers from the Union County Board of Education, are given here.

What will approval mean?

If the voters approve the referendum on November 3, here is what Union County will gain:

- A vocational-technical education center on a 42-acre tract on the south side of Raritan Road between Terrill Road and Marine Avenue.
- Space, facilities, and staff for 400 high school boys and girls whose local school districts do not offer vocational education.
- Space, facilities, and staff for 400 Union County high school graduates who want vocational or technical training.
- Space, facilities, and staff for Union County adults whose skills need upgrading.

Who says we need a vocational-technical center?

First, industry says so. State and county surveys of big and small industries show that skilled manpower is in great demand just for personnel replacements. As for industrial expansion, the County cannot hope to grow unless the schools can provide the manpower needed.

The Technical Institute, now using rented quarters in Mountainside and Scotch Plains,

Union County Youth Needs A Bridge to Tomorrow

Although many of Union County's boys and girls will not complete college, there are insufficient facilities now available to them to get the kind of education and training they need for productive careers and useful lives. The proposed referendum on vocational-technical education is designed as a bridge for these youngsters to careers in the technical and semi-professional careers.

Second, students say so. With 87% of the public schools' ninth grade students reporting, 1,562 indicated an interest in participating in a vocational or technical program at the high school level. With 89% of the public schools' twelfth grade students reporting, 1,432 indicated an interest in attending a post-high school technical institute. (Survey '68)

Third, educational experts say so. The U.S. Commissioner of Education, the American Council on Education, and other major educational voices have recently underlined the need for providing vocational and technical education to high school students and high school graduates.

Because of automation and increased technology, a person with only his labor to sell has come to have nothing to sell. Fourth, statistics say so. While over four million persons are unemployed, over four million jobs are going begging. The element that keeps these two paradoxical statistics apart is education. The unemployed, by and large, are untrained; and the jobs are for the trained.

What type of courses will be offered?

One of the chief merits of a vocational-technical center is that it can respond quickly to the needs of the County.

The vocational-technical high school division will be developed so that each program is realistically organized in terms of time and admission standards. A program which can be completed in one year should be offered at the twelfth grade level so that the student will stay in general education as long as possible.

Will all towns and cities pay equally?

No. Each town will be assessed only for the high school students it sends to the center. Post-high school students will continue to pay tuition as they now do at the Union County Technical Institute.

How will the center help the County?

In dozen ways:

- Trained manpower will attract business and industry.
- Unemployment will be reduced by equipping youth for work.
- Trained manpower will provide expert workers for such everyday tasks as car repairs, appliance maintenance, and TV service.
- Full employment will provide income for spending.
- Local schools can concentrate on academic education and on vocational courses they have demand for and ability to offer. The County program will supplement local efforts, not replace them.
- Full opportunity will be offered to all youth including those with vocational talent. Today, Union County can be justifiably proud of few dropouts. But attention must be paid to the large number of "drop-outs" students who are simply marking time because the courses don't meet their abilities or interests.
- With a central location, the full range of courses can be offered instead of a few local schools could afford.

What about the county college?

If the citizens of Union County later decide they would like a county college which would provide post-high school technical education, then the proposed vocational-technical facilities can be converted to fit in with a county college. The state could reimburse the County for its vocational-technical facilities.

UNION COUNTY YOUTH NEEDS A BRIDGE TO TOMORROW

Referendum on Nov. 3 ballot puts issue up to voters

Union County voters going to the polls on November 3, will be asked to say "yes" or "no" to a measure authorizing expanded vocational and technical education for secondary school students and high school graduates.

Question #3 at the top of the ballot reads:

"Shall the County of Union approve the planned expansion program of the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Union to provide additional facilities for the present Technical Institute and to establish a Vocational-Technical High School and appropriate capital funds not exceeding the sum of $3,750,000, to be used by said Board for the purpose of constructing school buildings and purchase the necessary equipment thereon on lands presently owned by said Board of Education at Scotch Plains, New Jersey, and to provide for a method of repayment of any said capital sum together with operating costs thereof, by the sending districts of high school students by tuition based on a per pupil cost, as provided by N.J.S.A. Title 18:15-86.4."

The County Board of Education now owns 42 acres on the south side of Raritan Road between Terrill Road and Marine Avenue. If the referendum is passed, plans are to build three or four buildings on that site. One would house a Technical Institute, which now operates from rented quarters in Mountainside and in Scotch Plains for the county's high school graduates wanting post-graduate education in technical or health courses, such as, practical nursing, medical and dental assisting, data processing, electronics, mechanical and chemical technology.

A second building will be for high school students who can profit from vocational education. Such students might take courses for one, two, or three years at the proposed new center, depending on their career aims and aptitudes. The final courses would be developed with the assistance of the county's educators, depending on student demand and industry needs.

The third building on the proposed site would house administrative offices, cafeteria, library, etc. for both the Technical Institute and the high school vocational divisions. This would make it unnecessary to duplicate these facilities. The fourth building could be a physical education center and assembly hall, although the need for that would be determined by whether the vocational high school students took all courses, including academic subjects, at the new center. An alternative would be for them to continue their academic courses in their local high schools, coming to the center only for the vocational subjects. In that case, the physical education building would not be needed.

All facilities erected would be available for adult retraining, upgrading, etc., during evening hours.

These alternatives make the actual cost of the proposed center indefinite as yet. The voters are being asked to authorize up to $3,750,000 but the costs could be as low as $3,400,000 if the physical education building is not added. George H. Baxel, Director of the county's vocational-technical schools, said that the costs for building could even run as low as $3,000,000.

Net operating costs to the county would depend on the tuition charged local school districts for the high school students they would send to the center and the personal tuition charged at the Technical Institute. Current estimates are that county costs would be between $400,000 and $500,000 annually, which includes debt service on the capital investment. This would be reflected in a tax increase to the local property owner of between $2 and $3 a year for a true $30,000 rateable.

Federal and State Money

According to Mr. Baxel there is every reason to expect that a considerable amount of both Federal and state money would be available for the construction and operation of the proposed center. The Federal Vocational Act of 1963 recently increased the extent of Federal participation in vocational and technical education efforts at the local level.

The exact amount of state and Federal aid cannot be determined until the actual courses and facilities are decided upon.

Mr. Baxel also pointed out that local school districts would realize a net saving by virtue of the fact that some of their students would be taking courses at the center, thereby freeing space, facilities, textbooks, and teachers for other students. In some instances, it was felt, such student transfers could result in school districts not having to build additional facilities, thus saving local taxpayers' money.

A BETTER CHANCE of getting quickly and safely across the gulf between high school and college is the goal of the 1964 College Bond Issue, according to the Citizens Committee for College Opportunities in New Jersey. The 40.1 million dollar measure is designed to provide 10,645 new places at the six state colleges, Rutgers, The State University and the Newark College of Engineering.

'Operation Facelift' For House Exterior

When it's time to plan remodeling projects, "Operation Facelift" should be one of the first on the list, say building experts. Applying a new "face" to a home's exterior, with the use of siding, does more than add lasting beauty.

By making a house safe against the elements, siding outside provides protection inside, thus guarding the appearance and value of any interior renovations and improvements. Then, too, an exterior remodeling job is an investment for the future and a real enhancement of property values.

"Operation Facelift" might begin with the choice of siding materials, and there are many, each with its own advantages. Anything from personal preference to local climate could be the deciding factor.

There's the familiar standby wood—practical, economical, easy to shape to fit any wall. Wood siding is available in many types, to create many architectural effects, and can be painted to carry out any color scheme preferred or stained for a rustic look. It does, however, require maintenance, through painting or varnishing, so the question of upkeep should be considered.

Modern low-maintenance materials include aluminum siding. Among its advantages are: no warping, rotting, rusting or cracking, and no danger from termites. In addition, it's available today in a variety of finishes and colors.

Easy to maintain, too, and long-wearing, is asbestos-cement siding. A fireproof, weatherproof substance made from a mixture of asbestos fibers and portland cement, it is resistant to rot, rust, decay, chemical fumes or corrosive salt air, and hardens through exposure.

It's made in a selection of shapes and textures, and in a range of colors from traditional whites to deep hues and soft pastels.

Thin masonry veneers are often used in combination with other types of siding. They include brick, stone and simulated stone. Here, too, color and pattern choice is excellent.

Durable and easy to handle, plywood siding is becoming a popular resurfacing material. Speed of application is one of its advantages, as it comes in large panels.

First Check Building Codes, Then Plan For Storage Needs

With all the talk about built-ins inside the home, little has been said on the subject of outdoor storage. Yet it is important to have a place to store garden and lawn equipment, tools and perhaps some toys or sporting equipment.

Such items should be protected from inclement weather and vandalism and should be organized in such a way as to provide for easy access.

Before planning any type of outdoor storage unit, you should check local building codes, and then survey your storage needs. Make a list of things you plan to store and group them logically according to size and shape.

Then plan sections of your storage unit to accommodate the different groups.

Plan a level area for storing long handled items such as brooms, rakes and shovels; a series of bins for bulky products such as fertilizers and mulch; a shelf area for medium-sized containers and jars.

Plan doors wide enough so that large articles can be moved with little trouble. Sills should be kept low so that wheeled articles can be moved easily.

And, always keeping in mind the possibility of future expansion, don't build yourself into a corner.

Basically, there are three different types of outdoor storage units, one of which might be adapted to your needs. They are as follows:

1. Those that adjoin the house, garage or carport. They may be either of the cabinet type, walk-in closets or a combination of the two.
2. Free-standing units such as a playhouse-storage structure. Closely allied to the free-standing unit, but more modest in concept, is the type of unit that makes use of an existing solid fence to act as one wall.
3. Storage units based on the utilization of existing space under or in a portion of the home. The third category of storage unit takes advantage of the under-staircase or porch area.

Since a sundeck will provide a considerable degree of overhead protection, the storage structure will need only a minimal roof such as tar paper; but it should be sloped gently to carry off water dripping from the deck overhead.

The foundation of the house can form the back wall. Enclose the other three sides and install a door.

To provide utmost protection for stored items, the units should be built solidly of 1-inch boards over 2x4 framing lumber in Utility or similar grade. Shiplap pattern lumber, used to enclose the storage unit, will produce a tight wall with minimum cost. Finish off with battens over board joints for complete protection.

Plastic Block Ceilings Withstand Heat And Humidity In Bathroom

Cracked, peeling bathroom ceilings are an eyesore to any homeowner, but especially to one who has recently completed a remodeling job. Heat and moisture from the tub-shower area cause this aggravating condition.

Many homeowners are taking steps to eliminate this problem in the future by installing plastic-surfaced hardboard blocks. The blocks, which come in colors and patterns, can be damp-wiped clean. They are factory-treated to withstand high heat and humidity conditions, and never require painting or refinishing.

Easy to handle, the 16" right over old cracked ceiling. Tongue-and-groove edges simplify installation. Wallboard adhesive, is used to secure a strong bond.

Plastic-surfaced hardboard also comes in four-foot panels and 16" x 8" planks for use on wall areas.

Pursues Culture During Lunch By Collecting Indian Artifacts

For cultural pursuit on the lunch hour, it's hard to top the avocation of Dr. Stephen J. Toth, a professor of geology at Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

Dr. Toth goes antique hunting — not for Sheraton furniture, Tiffany glass or old china, but for items far older. He collects artifacts of the American Indian.

"It's a convenient hobby," Dr. Toth claims. "I often bring my lunch to the office, and when I've finished I take a walk around the campus. Some of these items I've picked up right here on the College of Agriculture grounds around Lipman Hall."

Dr. Toth spread some of the items he has found on a table in his office to display them, treating them with uncommon care considering that they were kicked around on the ground for a couple of hundred years. There were many arrowheads.

Dr. Toth says most of the arrowheads were used for hunting. About 80 percent of the arrowheads are of quartz, a material found no closer than the Princeton area. About five percent are of quartz and the rest are made of black flint. Some have retained their needle-sharp points.

The collection consists of nearly 700 arrowheads and a couple of dozen larger pieces — mortars and pestles, drills, scrapers, hoes and other simple cultivating tools. Picked above all else is a fluted clovis point which was once part of a hunting spear. Dr. Toth says it predates the American Indian by 10,000 years.

"These items don't really have any monetary value, but they tell us a great deal about how the Indians of this area lived," says the Rutgers scientist whose hobby has made him a student of Indian lore with membership in the New Jersey Archaeological Society.

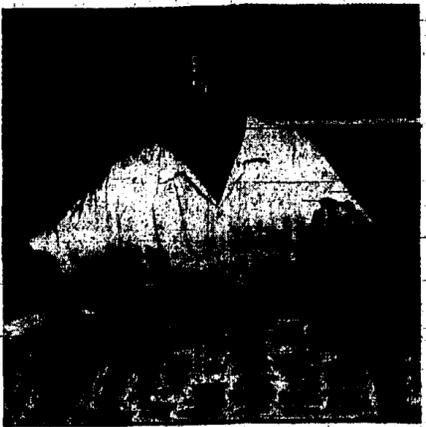

"For one thing, a village must have been located right here on the site of this campus, judging by the relics we've found here," he says. "The people couldn't have been warlike because of the few warrior's arrowheads we've found."

"We know they were a branch of the Lenape tribe and South Jersey was their big hunting ground. Residents of this area no doubt farmed and hunted birds and small game. It looks like they did a lot of clamming at the seashore, judging by the amount of clamshells we find."

It seems a bit ironic that Dr. Toth should be attracted to such an ancient culture, for he employs some of the most advanced of scientific techniques in his profession. He was a pioneer in the use of radiocarbon as a tool for tracing the path of nutritive elements in plants and in evaluating pesticides.

A native of Elizabeth and Rutgers-trained, Dr. Toth has been on the research staff for 30 years. His archaeological avocation began about 25 years ago with a few accidental discoveries.

"Now I suppose we'll have a lot of visitors on campus searching for Indian relics," he said with a laugh. "Everything I have is a surface find. Everytime we plow a field we find things, especially after a rain. But you could do the same thing in almost any part of the coastal the rivers and streams of the area of New Jersey and around western part of the state."

AMATEUR ARCHAEOLOGIST—Dr. Stephen J. Toth of Edison, professor of soils at Rutgers University, looks over some of the Indian artifacts he has picked up on the College of Agriculture campus.

Like most hobbyists, he doesn't discourage copiers. He encourages them.

"It's a fascinating pastime," he adds. "I know many people go antique hunting in New Jersey. My kind is a lot cheaper."

The first break for Scotch Plains came on the opening play of the game. Scotch Plains' back Joe Graves received the kick-off from Dan Ginter and faked a hand-off to the other deep man, Terry Morton. The deep man went after Morton and Graves scampered up the sideline to the Dayton 15-yard-line before being overtake by Dayton's Ginter.

Then, although the Dayton defense forced Morton to fumble on the first play from scrimmage, Graves repeated his feat on the ensuing Dayton punt. This time he ran all the way for a TD. Scotch Plains kicked the first of four extra point conversions to give the Raiders a 7-0 lead.

MENTION OF NEPHEWS' NAMES BRINGS TEARS TO GIRL

Six months of prayerful vigilance by members of the Theresa Gargalowitz family of Union, has met with modest reward, in that the 20-year-

THERESA GARGALOWITZ, old accident victim has begun to suggest evidence of feeling and emotion.

Although guarding against over-optimism, Mrs. Alex Gargalowitz, mother of the girl who has been in Overlook Hospital, Summit, in a coma since April 6, said that her daughter "cries a lot now." According to the mother, "tears come" readily at mention of the names of her two nephews, five and three, "of whom she was very fond."

Mrs. Gargalowitz, of 2530 Hawthorne ave., also reported that the tracheostomy tube through which the patient's lungs have constantly been suctioned has been removed, so that she can now breathe freely through her lungs. The purpose of the tube method was to prevent her from choking to death. However, she was unable to clear her own lungs, and the possibility of choking to death was one of her greatest dangers, hospital authorities said.

The mother said that removal of the tube had been unsuccessfully attempted a few times before in the six-month period. As of Tuesday, however, the patient appeared to be breathing with no difficulty without the tube for the past few days, Mrs. Gargalowitz said.

Theresa's eyes are open, but she doesn't give any indication of recognizing anybody, according to the mother. She can hear and understand, the mother believes, as is evidenced by the fact that mention of certain things causes her to cry.

Meanwhile, the Theresa Gargalowitz Fund, to which many sympathetic people of Union, Springfield and other communities have been generously contributing, stands at about $3,200, according to Mrs. Philip Portnoy, one of the persons instrumental in organizing and maintaining the drive. Contributions can be mailed as follows:

"Theresa Gargalowitz Fund, Box 4, Union, N. J. Frank Kenny, another organizer, has said that it would mean so very much, if each family would send just $1.

Theresa, was injured, when her small car skidded on unused trolley tracks on Morris ave., Springfield, and into a bus. She has been in a coma at the hospital since. She was returning home from night studies at Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison at the time.

Thinks State Turning Toward Goldwater
The presidential campaign in New Jersey moved into the final week with "a last-minute up-burge of support for Senator Barry Goldwater," according to Republican State Chairman Webster B. Todd, this week.
