Regional Athletes End Grid Season On Rahway Field

By DONALD LEWIS

This Thursday, at 11 a.m. the Jonathan Dayton High School football Bulldogs will meet the Indians of Rahway in their 28th annual Thanksgiving Day game. This year will be the third year in a row for Dayton that the game has been played on an away field.

DIRECTIONS GIVEN FOR DAYTON FANS DRIVING TO GAME

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will close its 1964 season Thanksgiving morning at 11 a.m. at Rahway High School. To assist Springfield fans who plan to attend the game, printed below are directions to the field.

Take Central ave. through Westfield and Clark into Rahway. The name of the street changes to Westfield ave. Turn right on St. George ave., which is at the third traffic light past the center of Clark. There is a Girl Scout headquarters at the corner of Westfield and St. George aves. Take St. George ave. to the second traffic light, and turn left at Central ave. Proceed for three blocks on Central ave. and the football field should be on the left.

In 1963, it was held at Rahway as part of the regular sequence of alternate fields. In 1963 it was played at Clark because of the reconstruction of the field at Meisel ave.

This year the sequence again returns the match to Rahway's home soil. Dayton supporters are urged by school officials to travel to Rahway this year to cheer on their team.

This year's match will be between two equally strong teams. Rahway has a season record of 4-2-2, while Dayton's record is 6-2.

In Watchung Conference competition, Rahway will be trying for a victory over Dayton which will tie the two teams for second place. In previous league competition, both teams have victories over Hillside, Cranford and Roselle.

Bokeley Heights, which fell to Dayton, tied the Indians, and Scotch Plains, which defeated Dayton, also tied the Indians. Westfield clinched the conference title by defeating both teams.

DRIVER SMASHES INTO SYNAGOGUE; TRAGEDY AVOIDED

Approximately 40 Springfield young people, members of the Temple Shalom Synagogue Youth Group, escaped injury by 75 minutes early Sunday evening. An out-of-control auto crashed through the large plate glass window at the temple, 5 Springfield ave. entrance and continued on into the corridor adjoining the group's meeting room.

The accident occurred at 5:45 p.m., according to police. The temple's Shalom Aleichem Youth Group met as usual at 7. A temple spokesman said, "It's just a miracle. Those kids would have been all over that corridor if the accident had happened at 7."

Springfield police reported that the driver, Louis Velozis of Newark, said that his wheels locked as he attempted to turn. The car jumped the curb and continued into the building, which is at the corner of S. Springfield ave. and Shunpike rd. The car was reportedly a total wreck.

DANCING AT THE FLAGSHIP EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT 9:00 P.M. STARTING NOV. 27th — ADV.

A HAPPY THANKSGIVING will be made possible for a needy Springfield family by means of this holiday basket being filled by members of Girl Scout Troop 772 at the Thelma Sandmeier School. The basket is being turned over to

Basket Prepared By Scouts To Aid On Thanksgiving

The preparation of a Thanksgiving basket is the current project of Girl Scout Troop 772 of Springfield. The basket, containing a turkey and other items to provide for a complete holiday dinner, will be delivered to a local family.

At its regular meeting last Friday afternoon at the Thelma Sandmeier School, the troop members decorated the basket and filled it with the collected articles. Place mats, napkins, and tray favors, made by the girls and filled with candy, were also included. Each girl contributed money for the project, and four patrol leaders, accompanied by Mrs. Myron Ogonowsky, troop leader, shopped for the food-stuff. Mrs. Martin Vogt also assisted in the activity.

The troop is composed of 26 girls and meets Friday afternoons at Sandmeier School under the leadership of Mrs. Ogonowsky.

Postmaster Puts Zip In Mailing, Urges ZIP Code For Christmas

While it may seem early to think about Christmas, Springfield Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio said this week a little planning during the Thanksgiving holiday can help avoid the Christmas rush.

"1. Find last year's Christmas list or else make one up. '2. Make sure all addresses are current and correct. '3. Add the ZIP code to the addresses on the list wherever possible. Because ZIP codes speed your mail, always include the local code in return addresses. '4. The best way to inform your friends, relatives and business associates of the ZIP code of Springfield is 07081. The ZIP code for Springfield is 07081.

"4. Determine your list of gift purchases which must be mailed. Such planning allows you to shop early when selections are greatest and you can stock up on mailing materials in advance. Be sure to purchase enough material so parcels will be packed securely."

The postmaster emphasized that poorly wrapped and loosely packed cartons are the major cause of parcel post damage. He also suggested that the address be written on only one side of the exterior wrapping.

Booster Club Dance Planned For Dayton

The annual Thanksgiving dance to be sponsored by the Booster Club this Thursday evening at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, is one of the few sources of financial support for the club's program to aid the athletic program for all boys at the high school.

The club, with membership open to all interested adults, also sells refreshments at all home football games, and it holds a card party each spring.

In previous years, the Boosters have given some $2,000 in scholarships, purchased jackets for the coaches, bought a therapy machine for the athletic department and donated a movie camera and projector for use in reviewing the various games.

All varsity lettermen and cheerleaders are honored at a sports dinner in their senior year, and the outstanding athlete each year receives a plaque.

Felix Gold is club president, with Herb Palmer, athletic director, serving as advisor. Meetings are held the first Monday of each month at the school.

Girls at the Thanksgiving dance will compete for selection as "queen" for the evening. The royal winner will be crowned by Carl Yarus, football star who recently was named "Mr. Regional." She will also receive a gold watch, and corsages will go to the runners-up.

Dayton students and alumni will dance to the live music of "Mike and the Starfires." Tickets are available from all cheerleaders at the high school, and they will also be on sale at the door.

Temple To Mark 13th Anniversary

A series of special events is planned for this weekend at Temple Beth Ahim, Springfield, to celebrate its 13th anniversary. The events are being called a "Bar Mitzvah" celebration, since a Jewish boy is called to read from the Torah, the scroll of the Bible, as a Bar Mitzvah on his 13th birthday. The service marks his coming of age in the religious community.

Harry Golden, author and lecturer, will take part in an Oneg Shabbat discussion session following Sabbath services Friday evening. The anniversary ball, Saturday evening, will feature songs by the Barry Sisters, comedy by Boylan and Wald and music by Sy Greene and his orchestra. Raymond Kravetz is anniversary chairman. Meyer Biddelman is temple president.

Town Red Cross To Decide Future Monday Evening

By ABNER GOLD

A question basic to the community life of Springfield will be answered next Monday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m. at the Florence Gaudinier School at an open meeting called by the Springfield Chapter, American Red Cross.

The question is whether the people of Springfield need the services of the Red Cross — and whether they deserve and are willing to support those services. Mrs. Robert G. Laurencelle, chapter chairman, and the group's officers early this month strongly urged all organizations in the township to indicate that they would help meet the costs of a Red Cross program in Springfield and that they would provide manpower — the volunteers on whom the Red Cross depends.

Few Workers
The ranks of Red Cross workers in Springfield had dwindled this past year to a handful of women, each of whom apparently had a patient husband, approximately four small children and a determination not to let the Red Cross operations here lapse.

In view of the difficulties which the Springfield Chapter had experienced, both in raising funds and in providing manpower, the national headquarters had recommended a merger with the Summit Chapter. This was rejected this fall by the group in Summit.

With renewed efforts, the Springfield Chapter has been able to increase the scope of its activities somewhat in recent weeks. Round-the-clock telephone service has been resumed.

Residents can now call the Red Cross at DR 6-1676 for help with blood bank emergencies, home service emergencies, regarding servicemen and requests for other Red Cross services.

Home service is the official link between men and women in the armed forces and their families in emergency situations. It also handles veterans' assistance, emergency grants and loans, continuation of care and programs for patients at veterans' hospitals.

This is the one service which must be maintained in order for the chapter to keep its charter. The past year, 42 home service calls were made and 177 packages were given at the East Orange VA Hospital.

INDUSTRIAL UNIT SET TO SPONSOR DINNER MEETING

The industrial committee of the township of Springfield will hold its annual dinner meeting next Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, at the Springfield Steak House on Rt. 22. A talk on "Personal Property Taxes and How They Affect You" will be delivered by Edward P. Markowich, tax assessor in Cranford.

The dinner is designed to bring together local industrialists, municipal officials and members of the industrial committee. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Grace Fox, committee secretary, at Town Hall, DR 6-5800. Willard Jayne is chairman for the evening. Head of the industrial committee is Seymour Cohen. The festivities will start with a social hour at 6:30.

Scouting Appeal Made By Falkin As Drive Closes

Township Committeeman Arthur M. Falkin, chairman of the Springfield Boy Scout residential fund drive, said this week that the drive will end Tuesday, Dec. 1.

"We are now at the period of the year," said Falkin, "when all of us are called upon to support one of the most worthy causes in connection with the future of the youth of our town, scouting."

"Your financial support, which has been the backbone of scouting, is again sought to continue this most rewarding function of the youth that is America," he continued.

Assisting Falkin are: James M. Crawley, assistant chairman; Edward Schwartz; Marvin Strauss; Richard Colandrea; Ed Otto; Jack L. Williams.

HELPING HAND — Mrs. Allice Weinstein, motor corps chairman for the Springfield Red Cross Chapter, helps a patient on her way to receive treatment in a doctor's office. The motor corps averages eight trips each week, taking ambulatory patients for treatment, usually within a 15-mile radius. The afghans shown were made and donated in the Red Cross by the township Senior Citizens' organization.

The power of truth over illusion will be a central theme at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The hypnotic nature of evil will also be described in a Bible Lesson on the subject, "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced." Featured will be this vivid passage from Revelation 12: "And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world." Related readings from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "Mortal mind is constantly producing a mortal body the results of false opinions; and it will continue to do so until it is swept away by Truth, which sweeps away the kosmic web of mortal illusion. . . . Truth casts out error now as surely as it did nineteen centuries ago" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 403, 405).

Gaudineer Students Enjoy Journey To 18th Century

By FRED GOLD
 (The author is one of the students from Springfield who took part in the expedition last week to Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Special note: the wording is his own.)
 On Nov. 15, a group of 95 students from the Florence Gaudineer School embarked on a four-day journey back to the 18th Century. For the second consecutive year, this adventure has been enjoyed by the seventh graders of Springfield.
 This has been made possible through the combined efforts of many devoted teachers.
 We left from the Gaudineer School at 5 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 15, and returned to Springfield at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19.
 It was approximately a nine-hour ride, each way, and as we left at 5 in the morning, we tried to catch up on our sleep. The ride was a pleasant one, and we stopped for lunch at a most enjoyable restaurant.

 Upon arrival at Colonial Williamsburg, we were greeted by Springfield's own Mr. William B. Pfeiffer, a former teacher at the Gaudineer School and now the manager of the information center there. We stayed at the York House, a part of the Williamsburg Lodge.
COLONIAL WILLIAMSBURG is a town restored to look just as it did in the 1700s. Our group was given a special tour of the restored area.
 We were privileged to walk the same streets and sit in the same chairs as did men like George Washington, Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson in the days when Williamsburg was the capitol of Virginia.

 We saw such places as the House of Burgess, symbolic of the first representative government in the New World, and the original home of the College of William and Mary, the second oldest college in the country.
 A plan was worked out whereby our entire group was divided into four smaller groups, and the whole colonial area was split into four sections. We stayed there for two full days, giving us four half-day periods. Covering each section thus took us half a day.
 The four groups rotated from one section to another each period, so that we were all able to see all of Colonial Williamsburg.
THE INSTRUCTION sheet for each section included 10 questions for study, and by the end of the trip members of all four groups were responsible for knowing the answers to all 40 questions.

 Probably the most educational part of the trip was the realism of showing how people lived during the 1700s. With this colonial town surrounding us, we couldn't help but feel like colonists ourselves.
 We were shown every small shop and corner in the area, and close to nothing was overlooked.
 A note of thanks is in order to Mr. Stewart Mulvihill, Mr. Paul McGuire and Miss Terry De Lauro, the three teachers concerned, who made possible such an enriching experience.
 We also owe a debt of thanks to Mrs. Mulvihill and Mrs. McGuire, and to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Marcus, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sarkin and Dr. Edna Tropp, parents who chaperoned the group.

REPORT ON TRIP FROM WILLIAMSBURG
 (Following is an article on the trip prepared by the press bureau at Colonial Williamsburg.)
 Bookbinding, pewtering and making wigs were just a few of the many life-on-the-scene activities discovered here by 95 youngsters from the Florence M. Gaudineer School.
 The seventh graders from Springfield used the seven exhibition buildings and dozen craft shops in the historic area as an appropriate background to learn the life and customs of 200 years ago.
 While in the one-time Virginia capital, the youngsters watched costumed craftsmen ply 18th Century trades and visited the Capitol, Governor's Palace, Raleigh Tavern and Wythe House under the supervision of Colonial Williamsburg personnel. The Wythe House with its miniature plantation layout provided the setting for special outdoor craft demonstrations.
 At the King's Arms Tavern, the students dined on Southern favorites such as fried fruit, shrub, fried chicken, Sally Lunn and pecan pie. They used this culinary experience as a basis for discussion on how such a meal might have been prepared with colonial utensils on view in the kitchens of the Governor's Palace and Raleigh Tavern.

OTHER STUDY subjects included the identification of geometric forms in the formal gardens, the difference between colonial printing and printing of today and the comparison and contrast of loading a flintlock and a modern rifle.
 Talks on archaeology, architecture, 18th-Century music, and Colonial Williamsburg films added further insight. Prior to the trip, pupils had received other audio-visual material and publications.
 In addition to the visit by Gaudineer students, approximately 250 Bronxville, N. Y., Junior High School students participated in two extensive four-day study programs here during October and November. It was the 18th annual visit for the New York school.
 The director of group visits, Luther G. Mitchell, in speaking of the Gaudineer and Bronxville programs, encouraged additional groups to participate in these "studies in depth." "We are anxious to provide as many services as possible and can offer special patterned programs during the fall and winter," he noted.
 "The interest of school groups in sightseeing in Williamsburg, Mitchell points out, continues to grow. He cites the record number—63,718 students in the first 10 months of 1964—as evidence of the increasing popularity of Colonial Williamsburg's extensive school tour program.

FEWTER CASTING — Seventh grade students from the Florence Gaudineer School watch a Colonial Williamsburg craftsman demonstrate 18th century methods of casting spoons. The pewter is heated in a portable forge, then shipped and poured into a mold. In minutes, the metal has hardened and the rough spoon may be scratched from the mold. Paula Dolahn and Keith Brownlee view his work during special outdoor craft demonstrations for the group at the George Wythe House.

LEADER PROFILE

HOWARD CASSELMAN

Howard Casselman of Springfield, a very busy law partner in the firm of Kiker, Danzig, Scherer and Brown, maintaining offices at 744 Broad St., Newark, manages to divide his time between practicing law and serving as attorney for the Springfield Board of Education, as trustee of Overlook Hospital, Summit and as chairman of the current Overlook expansion fund campaign in Springfield.

Casselmann, a tall, gray-haired distinguished gentleman, came by our editorial office the other day to discuss "the sorely needed present expansion of Overlook."

He explained that "there is such an over-capacity at the hospital at certain times of the year that a six-and-a-half million dollar project is under way at the moment for expansion and capital improvements."

"We have a three-year program," Casselman said, "but our target is as early as we can fix it. It will depend on how the funds come in. These are our plans for the foreseeable future."

CASSELMAN, WHO IS a member of the finance committee and the development committee at Overlook, explained that as a trustee, naturally, he serves "without financial compensation."

He said, "It's purely a civic assignment. And it requires lots of volunteers. But there are many rewarding compensations."

"The development committee is interested in the growth of the hospital — its physical growth — the needs of the hospital, of which there are many."

Although the hospital is located at a central point in Summit, Casselman explained, "it makes itself available to many of the surrounding communities — and particularly Springfield."

"We have been getting fine support from the various community residents, and were hoping that a major portion of this present expansion will be paid for through local community giving, throughout the hospital area."

He pointed to a three-page factual summary, which offered the detailed text of a two-year study made by Dr. Anthony J. J. Rourke, a hospital consultant.

THREE MAIN PHASES were envisaged. The most important, it was emphasized, was the building of "Wing D," a new wing to provide 90 new beds including 20 beds for psychiatric patients.

It would also permit relocation of laboratory and x-ray units to more adequate quarters, and provide a new emergency clinic and out-patient facilities.

Another phase centers on "double deck parking facilities" to accommodate 592 cars; and still another, a garden apartment residence with 100 rooms in 24 units, providing 40 bedrooms, for permanent nurses.

According to the report, Casselman pointed out, the residence program should cost about $350,000, and the parking program, $500,000, and will be self-financing and self-liquidating within the operating budget. Wing D is estimated at $5,650,000, and will be financed by fund raising, accumulated reserve funds and a mortgage.

The increased demand is due in part to population increase and a national trend, in addition to the enlarged medical staff and wide public acceptance developed in recent years.

Service areas are operating in inadequate space. There is overcrowding. Solariums are now in use as patient rooms. There are long waits for elective surgery. All this, Casselman said, "indicates an immediate expansion to be completed as soon as possible."

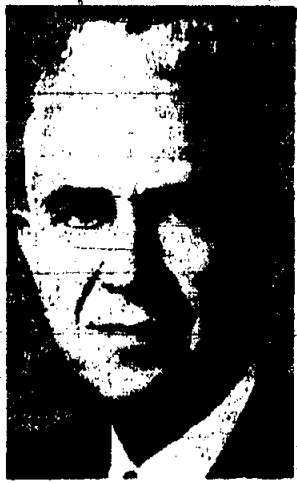

CURRENTLY, HE EXPLAINED, the hospital reports indicate that its present activities for the year cover more than 15,000 in-patients and 20,000 out-patients.

The planned new wing should provide a sufficient number of beds to serve more than 3,700 more patients a year; new and enlarged emergency facilities; new and enlarged out-patient department; new and enlarged clinic; new and enlarged radiology department; coordinated and expanded laboratories; short-term psychiatric unit; intensive care unit; isolation unit, medical education center; added maternity facilities in addition to the before-mentioned increased surgical area and nurses' garden apartments.

"But everything takes time — or at least, as much time as can be permitted to complete this six-and-a-half million dollar project," Casselman intoned.

Casselmann, who was born in East Orange, attended East Orange schools until his family moved to South Orange. During his residence there, he was graduated from Columbia High School.

HE WAS GRADUATED from Lehigh University, where he received a B.S. degree, then attended Mercer Beasley School of Law, which became the University of Newark Law School, which became Rutgers.

Report From Trenton

by State Senator Nelson F. Stetler (R-Un.)

The most controversial and probably the biggest department in our State structure is the State Highway Department. It has thousands of employees which include all levels of employment. It has engineers, lawyers, truck drivers, sign painters, inspectors, deputy inspectors, and almost every other classification that you can think of. It also has a Commissioner, who runs a very difficult department in a very stern method. His sternness, however, does not only apply to his employees — it applies to the public at large. He could be called the autocrat of the highways — but I would prefer to call him the chief bureaucrat with a number of bureaus.

A number of towns in our county have pleaded with the commissioner for appointments so that they can explain to the people who live in these municipalities the problems of present traffic and further traffic. Right at this point, Elizabeth municipal officials are charging a complete foul-up due to the Route 278 entry into Elizabeth by way of Route 1 in Linden. They have asked, from time to time, for meetings with the commissioner so that some plan can be devised to take the terrible pressure off Elizabeth, Linden, Roselle and Rahway with the opening of the new bridge.

Arbitrary orders have been issued on parking bans in an area which now is already overly trafficked.

In Berkeley Heights, in a cavalier approach to the citizens who pay his salary, the commissioner has decided that an interchange will be moved from one area in another county into Union County — and despite the pleadings of Mayor Dally of Berkeley Heights — no answer at all has been received to three letters which, as of this date, the commissioner has received.

Actually the area is going to have a tremendous amount of traffic dumped on it because the Commissioner apparently has not made up his mind as to the future.

In the construction of Route 78, the Federal Government takes a hand and must approve

TEACHERS' BODY LISTS CHAIRMEN FOR COMMITTEES

The Jonathan-Davton Regional Teachers' Association held its initial meeting of the current year in the school cafeteria last week with over 50 members present, according to Anthony Gonnella, president.

Gonnella announced that the following teachers have been appointed to serve as chairmen of committees: Bob Linnert, secretary; Anthony Pantina, social; John Swerlich, public relations; Barbara Tibbels, gift; Thomas Conarty, legislation; Lois Moran, hospitality; Shirley Pantina, membership; Betty Sale and David Carl, Union County Conference representatives.

New business of the organization featured discussion on the creation of a benevolent fund department and tentative organization of an advisory committee. The president gave a brief explanation of the goals of the association.

NJEA Seeks Social Security Benefits, Pension

The Delegate Assembly of the New Jersey Education Association has acted to join with other public employee groups in a committee to work toward the improvement of the Teachers' Pension & Annuity Fund and the Public Employees Retirement System. The primary objective will be to determine the feasibility of separating the pension systems from Social Security and to take such joint action as may be necessary to accomplish this goal, the NJEA says.

This action of the Delegate Assembly followed a recommendation from the Pension Policy Committee of NJEA. Mrs. Ruth Fess, the classroom teacher from Ocean City who is Chairman of the Pension Policy Committee, made the following statements in presenting the committee recommendation: "For some time the Pension Policy Committee of NJEA has been concerned with the growing need for improvement of our teacher retirement plan. Early this year the Delegate Assembly authorized this committee to employ an independent actuary to make a cost analysis of several alternative methods which could be used to provide New Jersey teachers with Social Security benefits in addition to their pensions. With this study as a basis for action, NJEA will seek the cooperation and support of other associations representing public employees."

For almost 10 years, there has been no major improvement of the retirement plan for New Jersey teachers, says the NJEA. The last big improvement came in 1958 when a changed retirement formula brought substantial increase in benefits to all teachers. At the same time, teacher contributions to the plan were cut. The 1958 change gave teachers one-half pay at age 60 after 30 years of service; the previous formula had required 35 years for half pay, and the teachers share of the cost would have been about three times the cost under the present plan, the group points out.

At the same time, retirement benefits were improved. New Jersey teachers were brought under the Federal Social Security plan. For younger teachers, Social Security benefits were expected to provide a part of the increased retirement income and give members needed protection for beneficiaries in the event of a teacher's death. Older teachers were to receive Social Security benefits in addition to the improved allowances from the Pension Fund if they retired before they earned a Social Security benefit through public employment, says the NJEA.

An excellent retirement plan has been a major factor in attracting many fine teachers to

New Jersey during a period of extreme teacher shortage. However, in the last 10 years, the plan has not been substantially improved. During this time, other states have been moving forward by providing better benefits or by shifting the cost of existing benefits from the teacher to the employer. During the same period of time, industrial pension plans have been making big strides forward. Many excellent industrial plans have been developed and most of them require no contribution on the part of the employee.

"As a result of the improvement of other public and private retirement systems, New Jersey is in danger of losing its favorable competitive position.

If we expect to attract capable people as teachers in New Jersey, we must protect our reputation as a leader in the field of teacher retirement. Providing Social Security benefits in addition to full pension would give New Jersey a most effective tool for recruiting and holding competent teachers," added the NJEA.

OLD TREES GRACE "The Old Presbyterian Cemetery," one of three in town which hold Revolutionary War and post-Revolution dead. The others are, "The Revolution- ary War Cemetery" on Mountain ave. and the "New Presbyterian Cemetery" near the Millburn line.

'And All Our Yesterdays...'

Inscriptions Reflect A Timeless World

"Beneath this stone lie deposited the mortal parts of Benjamin Scurge aged 20 and Hezekiah Woodruff aged 17 years who were on the 18th day of August—1798 instantly snatched from time to Eternity by a stroke of lightning."

This is the inscription to be found on one of the tombstones in the "Old Presbyterian Cemetery," more commonly known in the days of the lightning tragedy as "God's Acre."

Walking in the cemetery which lies across the street from the Springfield Public Library has been described as a peaceful experience in the rush, drive and push of modern daily life.

A look at some of the inscriptions on the stones, however, proves that man has not changed; only the world in which he lives.

The objective of the modern language teachers' group is to improve language instruction and stimulate continued language studies in college.

GIRL SCOUTS AID IN SHOE PROJECT FOR WEST INDIES

The inhabitants of a tiny village in the northwest part of Jamaica, West Indies, will be literally "filling the shoes" of Girl Scout families in Springfield who answered the call for "Shoes for Jamaica" service project this month.

Almost 200 pairs of shoes have been collected, re-conditioned and prepared for delivery to Jamaica by the following Springfield leaders and troops: Troop 783, Mrs. Louis Quinlan and Mrs. Louis Soost; Troop 806, Mrs. Nicholas Zarrelli; Troop 883, Mrs. Milan Urbani; Troop 81, Mrs. Henry Huenke; Troop 766, Mrs. Arthur Weiss and Mrs. David Katz; Troop 471, Mrs. Thomas E. Smith; Troop 840, Mrs. Robert Ziegler; Troop 801, Mrs. Michael Vicodin; Mrs. Kenneth Brandt; Troop 81, Mrs. Fred Solis; Mrs. William Geolan and the neighborhood chairman Mrs. Philip Del Vecchio. Assisting them is Judy Henahan, a staff member of the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council.

A MONUMENT to the Wade tragedy. "Look forward with joyful hope . . . when all this dust shall rise."

PRIDE IN CARVING is evidenced in the stone for Phebe Potter, who died in 1785—84—years.

And All . . .

 "Cut by Jonathan Osborne, Scotch Plains."
 The death of Phebe Potter points up the high mortality rate among young people. Phebe, the wife of Daniel Potter, died at age 34.
 The tragedy of Oliver and Phebe Wade lay in the deaths of three of their small children. They erected "A monument of Parental Affection" over the graves of their three sons Robert, age 6; William, eight days old; and Matthias, two years old, who, according to the inscription "look forward with joyful hope to that auspicious morn, when all this dust shall rise."
 Nathaniel Miller, who died in 1790 at 68, has cut beneath his vital statistics the grim, but a argument-free words, "Nothing is more certain than death. My friends prepare to follow me."
 An occasional visitor to the cemetery finds himself in a timeless world. He finds it impossible to believe that

UNICEF Total

Springfield youngsters collected a total of $1,115 on Halloween to support the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. It was reported this week by Mrs. Benjamin Josephson, chairman for the local collection. UNICEF chairmen for the various schools were: Mrs. Arthur Weiss, Chairman; Everett Kaufman, Chairman; Mrs. Otto Granick, Walton; Mrs. Sidney Sklar, Sandmeier; Mrs. William Savarin, Caldwell.

these people have gone so many years before them and yet they feel they know them. Others express a feeling of standing in a place and seeing in the old-time carvings and the inscriptions half-hidden by the growth of grass their own mortal fate. And they have wondered: "If in their own mad world, inscriptions were still in vogue, shouldn't just four words be engraved beneath their names: "And all our yest' days . . ."

Troop 66 Scouts

Scouts of Troop 66 witnessed a demonstration by Fred Yunker of 127 Bryant-ave., Springfield, recently on the study of rocks and rock formation. Yunker, a member of the Trailside Mineral Club, Inc., demonstrated methods of bringing the mineral in its raw state to the finished polished stone.

In addition to viewing the rocks, the boys were shown how an ultra-violet short wave light was used in the discovery of fluorescent rocks. Yunker said that the Franklin area of New Jersey is one of the richest areas around. Many of the stones shown were from that area. Stones also were shown from

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?*

If you take vitamins and still feel tired, your trouble may be due to iron-poor blood. Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But Geritol can! Because just two Geritol tablets, or two tablespoons of liquid Geritol, contain 7 vitamins plus twice the iron in 1-lb. of calves' liver. In only one day Geritol-iron is in your bloodstream beginning to carry strength and energy to every part of your body. Check with your doctor and if you've been feeling tired because of iron-poor blood, take Geritol. Liquid stronger last in just 7 days or money back from Geritol.

Channel Executive Describes Ways To Cut Household Drafts

Draft-proofing the home through judicious use of insulation, weather-stripping and caulking is of vital importance for protection against wintry blasts and for cutting down on heating bills, according to Al Viscio, consumer relations director for Channel Lumber Co., do-it-yourself retail chain on the Jersey shore.

Drafts around and through window air-conditioners result from cold air leaking in through the cracks between the unit and the mounting board surrounding it or through the duct work. Caulking compound should be applied around the outside of the air-conditioner at the mounting board, working the compound "well" into the crack. Staple a sheet of clear plastic material to the window frame. An air-conditioner cover placed over the outside of the unit will prevent leakage through the duct, he said.

The most troublesome "draft centers" of the home, Viscio pointed out, are those which leak through the foundation and the attic. To combat foundation drafts, he suggests using a caulking gun to apply a Jayer of caulking compound in the joint created when one type of material adjoins another.

The attic presents different problems since most homes with attics have at least two vent openings to allow air circulation and keep the attic free of condensation. These vents are not to be covered to prevent air from entering — even in the winter, Viscio points out. Here the problem is to prevent air from entering the living quarters of the home from above.

COUNTY POLICE PISTOL LEAGUE DINNER

Police Hear McDermott Discuss Curbs On Firearms, Capital Punishment

Proposed restrictions on the use and acquisition of firearms, court decisions that have made arrests by police difficult and proposed abolition of capital punishment were subjects that produced the greatest response from approximately 250 policemen attending the annual Union County Police Pistol League Dinner last Thursday night at the Twin City Restaurant in Elizabeth.

The presentation of numerous pistol competition trophies, Police of Union, Springfield, the Linden PBA, Kenilworth and Roselle were among those who received several of them. With reference to restrictions on acquisition and use of firearms, Assemblyman McDermott said "you people would be less of a target than you are now and have been" if action were taken on the matter.

Referring to court decisions respecting search and seizure, the speaker said that the judiciary has been too liberal in its decisions. "A reaction is setting in, however, and the reaction is in your favor," he said.

The speaker said that the legislature "is not going to abolish capital punishment," despite pressures being brought to do so.

He concurred that capital punishment does not necessarily serve as a deterrent in instances of premeditated or unpremeditated murder, but that it does serve as a deterrent in instances of murder committed in connection with a felonious act.

The pistol teams of Roselle and Union received second and third place trophies respectively in "A" Division competition. Teams of Kenilworth and Springfield received third and fifth place trophies respectively in "B" Division, and the Linden PBA team received a first place trophy in the "C" Division.

Recipients for their respective teams were Sgt. William Brinckmann for Roselle, Patrolman Harold Wetzel for Union, Lieut. Charles Lohmann for Kenilworth, Detective Thomas Kennedy for Springfield and Patrolman Edward Partitt for the Linden PBA.

Springfield Patrolman Howard Thompson received a second place trophy in league competition for highest individual average. He fired a 98.67 average of a possible 100 perfect score in 15 matches. This was in the first division.

Kenilworth Detective Robert Reuter tied with Westfield Sgt. Bernard Morfelo for first place trophies in 2nd Division competition. Their averages were 289.06 in 18 matches each.

Theresa Garalowitz' Parents Face Mounting Hospital Costs

The parents of Theresa Garalowitz, the 20-year-old college coed from Union who has remained in a coma following a critical automobile accident in Springfield last April, have spent some $1,000 of a fund established for them by local residents and will dip into the rest to meet mounting hospital costs.

They have run up a $6,000 bill at Overlook Hospital, where Theresa is a patient, since Blue Cross benefits ran out several weeks ago. According to Phillip Portnoy of Union, chairman of the Theresa Garalowitz fund, the amount of money collected since the fund was instituted is now $6,339.

Theresa's father, Alex Garalowitz, had expected that an insurance policy that he carries through his place of employment would take over when Blue Cross benefits ran out, but a loophole in the policy disqualified the family. Theresa was considered ineligible for benefits because she was a part-time rather than a full-time student at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison, at the time of the accident. She had cut down on the number of courses she was taking in order to work to defray her own college expenses.

Meanwhile, schoolmates at Fairleigh Dickinson are arranging a benefit show for her to be held next month. So far they have lined up Sammie Davis Jr. and The Brothers Four for appearances.

A special collection by Union citizens recently swelled the fund by over half of its total amount.

Theresa, who lives at 2530 Hawthorn ave., has been in Overlook since she suffered brain damage when her car skidded on the unused trolley tracks on Morris ave. and struck a bus. She was going home from night classes at the university, where she is a freshman. Efforts to place her in a public institution have been unsuccessful.

According to Mrs. Garalowitz, Theresa's condition is unchanged this week. She appears to recognize no one, although tears have come to her eyes when the names of two nephews are mentioned.

Contributions to the fund can be sent to: The Theresa Garalowitz Fund, Box 4, Union.

Williams To Hail Young Democrats At Victory Dance

New Jersey Young Citizens for Johnson and Humphrey will hold a victory dance in honor of the President, Vice-President-elect and Senator Harrison A. Williams on Saturday. The state-wide celebration will be held at the Sheakamaxon Country Club in Scotch Plains.

At the dance Senator Williams is scheduled to present tributes of appreciation to the 21 county chairmen and 26 college co-ordinators who spearheaded over 6,000 young volunteers in a three-month campaign that resulted in the unprecedented sweep of all 21 counties for the national ticket. For many young volunteers this was their first experience in campaigning.

The New Jersey Young Citizens were organized prior to the Democratic National Convention and first gained national prominence when they staged their highly successful Youth Rally at the convention. They worked entirely independent of any other organization and raised their own funds through such functions as the LBJ Barbecue in September, at which Lynda Bird Johnson was the guest of honor, and the Teaneck Rally and Asbury Park concerts in October.

They have received the appreciation of the White House, the National Committee, and numerous party officials for their efforts.

Mrs. Irma Weinstein, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Union, has announced that the board of directors of the State Federation, of which she is a member, has voted to support a national "Youthpower, U. S. A." program. The program was developed by a national committee of business and professional women to help offset such problems as "drop-outs," unemployment and irresponsibility.

The State Federation of Business and Professional Women, known for its scholarship activities, will work at local level in such projects as will be determined by the local club in consultation with community-school officials. The Federation also will sponsor a woman to represent New Jersey at the National Convention of the organization in Washington, D.C. in July, 1965. Chaplains' Group Elects Mr. Evans As New Trustee Newly elected trustee of the Overlook Hospital Protestant Chaplains Association is the Rev. Bruce Evans of the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield, according to an announcement made this week.

The chaplaincy service at Overlook is supported by some 30 area Protestant churches including, from Springfield, Holy Cross Lutheran Church, the Methodist Church and the Presbyterian Church.

The purpose of the Chaplaincy Association is to aid in pastoral calling and counseling of patients and their families, and to inform local clergy of all faiths when their parishioners are patients in the hospital. Regular Sunday and holiday services are held in Overlook's Interfaith Chapel, with the Rev. David Wyatt, hospital chaplain, officiating.

In addition, the chaplaincy service sponsors many seminars on subjects of mutual concern to the clergy and doctors, exploring topics such as terminal illness, mental depression and other areas where religion and medicine can work together for the benefit of the patient.

The Chaplaincy Association broadened its scope recently with the beginning of a once-weekly course in hospital-oriented pastoral calling for Drew Seminary students, to acquaint them with this phase of their future work as ministers.

Raised in a missionary family in China, Mr. Cartwright has a strong musical background. The technical training of Mr. Cartwright's voice has been in the hands of many well known teachers. His recordings of great religious music have been heard and played from far East to New York.

Mrs. Gregory A. Durand, president of the Society, will preside over the business portion of the meeting. Cartwright will be introduced by Mrs. Arthur R. Schramm, program chairman.

Women's Auxiliary Aids Hospital Drive

Making the largest pledge of its history, the Women's Auxiliary of Overlook Hospital has pledged $200,000 to the $8,300,000 Progress Program for Overlook.

Announcing the pledge, Mrs. John L. Gaultan, Springfield, Twig town chairman, commented: "Never underestimate the power of a woman — especially multiplied by the 2,200 members of the Overlook Auxiliary. This pledge of $200,000 is four times the $50,000 pledged for Overlook's 1959 drive. We are all proud to be able to give such substantial support to this largest program in Overlook's history."

The Auxiliary's pledge will be used in part for new and enlarged coffee and gift shops in the hospital's new wing. These two shops, along with the beauty shop, hospitality cart, television rental, baby photo services, and Twig contributions are largely responsible for the record of support by the Overlook Women's Auxiliary.

In addition to contributing $83,000 to Overlook last year, this year the Auxiliary has given $41,000, including $17,000 from Twig groups to purchase needed equipment, $11,000 from the last Folioes for the linen fund, and $5,000 for annual giving. Another $38,500 has already been set aside, toward the Auxiliary's $200,000 pledge.

Outside fund raising activities such as the sixteenth annual Overlook Folioes, to be presented Dec. 4 and 5 this year, contribute to the finances of the Auxiliary, along with town Twig bazaars, luncheon and fashion shows, house and garden tours, fashion shows and the many other activities sponsored for the hospital's benefit. The many other activities sponsored for the hospital's benefit.

Also active in the Overlook program of the Springfield Twig is the re-chairman, Mrs. Tom R. Chatfield, 27-B Troy Village.

The blood bank program sponsored by the Red Cross in Springfield. It can draw on nationwide resources to obtain rare types, whole blood, plasma and blood derivatives. Approximately 93 pints were provided through the blood bank in the last year for Springfield residents.

The motor corps is the only service available in Springfield to transport ambulatory patients to doctors' offices, hospitals and clinics for therapy. There were 189 motor trips for patients here in the past year.

The chapter's one station wagon, with 12 drivers on call, is now averaging eight trips per week. Chapter officers stressed an urgent need for volunteers who can be trained for this service.

Red Cross first aid training was provided for 187 people in the past year, and some 300 took part in the Red Cross swimming program. The Junior Red Cross program is designed to train leaders and volunteers for the years to come.

Basic Needs

The local Red Cross directors have stressed the imperative need for both volunteers and for funds. Volunteers are particularly needed to serve as drivers and -canteen workers and to serve on all committees.

Perhaps the most important needs, they declared, are for a volunteer to be trained for duty as chapter secretary and others to be trained for work as home service personnel.

Men and women who wish to serve as volunteers may list their names with Mrs. Oliver O. Deane Jr., chairman of volunteers, at DR 8-4203.

Contributions may be sent to the chapter Treasurer, Springfield Red Cross, 188 Milltown rd. The officers and workers of the Springfield Red Cross Chapter have presented their question to the people of Springfield over the past few weeks.

That question will be answered next Monday evening, both by those who take part in the meeting and by those who register, by staying home, their opinion that Springfield does not need the Red Cross.

Troop 866: Joy Meddaugh, Debra Perlmutter, Amy Yourman, Jane Reichman.

All three troops made Halloween favors for the retarded children at John Rumela Hospital. They are now making Thanksgiving favors for the hospital. Troop 753 is making plans for a food basket for a needy person at Thanksgiving.

On Nov. 2 Troops 753 and 866 held a joint meeting at the Civic Center. Cadettes Candy Marsh and Nancy Roth, members of Mrs. Kenneth Brand's troop, came to the meeting to teach Girl Scout songs.

St. Joseph's Sees Parents; Concludes Faculty Training

National Catholic Education Week was observed recently at St. Joseph's School, Maplewood by having "open house" four evenings instead of only one, due to an increased enrollment which has passed the 900 mark.

In addition to viewing the classrooms, the parents had private interviews with the teachers. More than 88 percent of the parents were interested in meeting the teachers to discuss pertinent matters of education and their children. The children's work as well as various class projects were displayed.

A Teachers' Training course has been completed recently at St. Joseph's School, as part of a special program of the Archdiocesan Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Organization. St. Joseph's was one of eight centers in the Archdiocese of Newark.

The course directed by teachers in the methods of teaching Christian Doctrine to students who daily attend public schools on both the elementary and the secondary levels.

Tips On Preparing News Releases

The following "Tips On Submitting News Releases" is published for the mutual benefit of publicity chairman and this newspaper. It should be especially useful for newly appointed publicity chairmen or individuals who submit news releases to newspapers. The article should be clipped and filed for future use by interested readers.

A "news release" is just what the words imply — news, released to a newspaper. The writer of a news release, usually the publicity or public relations chairman of a group, simplifies the job for himself and the paper by preparing a "model news story" about the subject or event he wants to publicize. The publicity chairman can't expect it to appear exactly as written, or course. But a properly prepared release SHOULD be able to be used "as is."

Your news release, therefore, should "sound" like a news story and not like the secretary's minutes of a club meeting. This isn't as tricky as it sounds. It's mostly a matter of putting the most important things first in your story (the five W's of journalism — more about that later) and avoiding the use of flowery, personalized descriptions (editorializing, we call it).

You don't have to take a course in journalism to write a good release; anyone who ever learned to write a business letter can learn to write a news release.

Let's begin with lesson one, the FORM of a "news release."

FORM

1. Release must be TYPEWRITTEN. If you can't type yours, have it typed for you. The reason for this is the need for accuracy. Newspapers don't want to risk printing people's names in print, which is likely if the names are submitted in handwritten scrawl or even in bold block printing. We'd much prefer a sloppy typing job to even the prettiest display of penmanship. Some papers won't accept any handwritten release, and no paper will accept them regularly from the same source.

2. Use a plain sheet of paper, not letterhead stationery, cluttered up with a lot of printing. Type on one side of the paper only. Double space, leave plenty of room at the top, sides and bottom for editing by the newspaper staff. DO NOT WRITE IN CAPITAL LETTERS, LIKE THIS. The newspaper doesn't print stories in all capital letters so why submit them that way?

3. IDENTIFY YOURSELF. Type your name, the name and address of your organization, and the phone numbers at which you can be reached in the sheet. Be sure to include the upper left hand corner of both home and business phones so that the newspaper can reach you if it has any questions.

4. YOUR "STORY". Put the most important facts in order of their importance. In the first paragraph, and lessor facts in later paragraphs, in order of their importance. In this sort of note at the top: Editor: This meeting will take place Monday night, November 15.

Of course, if anything happens and the expected fails to happen YOU MUST PHONE THE NEWSPAPER IMMEDIATELY.

LOCAL NEWS ONLY

News is local when it happens here, involves local people or groups or when it specifically concerns the readers. If John Featherworth of Tarrytown, N. Y., is elected president of your group and Jacob Farnaby, who lives in town, is appointed to the executive committee, your story is about Farnaby, not Featherworth. Farnaby's neighbors care about him, but they never heard of Featherworth. If your charity group is conducting a two-month clothing drive in Northern New Jersey, your story to the local paper should be that the week-long campaign in town will be held Monday to Friday. The readers want to know when they should have THEIR discards ready. The local paper wants to know, for example, how the local March of Dimes campaign is going, but isn't much interested in the results of a national telethon. It wants biographical backgrounds of the local volunteers, not the national campaign chairman. It wants to know what the charity does for local people, not the millions here (USA) and abroad.

POINTS TO PONDER

1. The newspaper WANTS your publicity.
2. The newspaper is the final judge of the material it accepts and rejects and the fashion in which the material will appear.
3. Keep your eyes open for "real" news. You can "convince" yourself (and your group) to any editor by letting him know what's going on, even if it doesn't concern your group. If you know of somebody or something that would make a good feature story, let the editor know about it.

4. The newspaper staff will be very happy to talk with you about publicity plans or problems — of your group. Weekly journalists have more time for you — on Thursday and Friday than any other time in the week. Check by phone, first, please.

A title, perhaps, but tried and true guide for importance is the "Five Ws of Journalism" — What, When, Where, Who and Why (or How). All five Ws should be answered in the first paragraph, though not necessarily in any particular order. Here are some examples:

Dr. James Smith, child psychologist at Newark State College, (WHO) will discuss I. Q. testing (WHAT) next Thursday at 8 p.m. (WHEN) in Hamilton School (WHERE) as members of the PTA assemble for their first meeting of the new term (WHY).

In itself, that paragraph is a complete story. The reader knows all he needs to know if he wants to attend. If the publicity chairman wishes, however, he or she may add other paragraphs giving more details.

The second paragraph might offer more information about Dr. Smith:
A member of the Newark State faculty for 10 years, Dr. Smith has also served as a testing consultant in the Cranford school system. He is the author of several professional articles on testing procedures.

Then, more about the meeting:
Mrs. Benjamin Brown, of 1 Baltusrol way, program chairman, will reveal plans for forthcoming meetings. Mrs. Ronald Jones, of 200 Forest dr., chairman of the ways and means committee, will discuss plans for the annual winter hat sale to be held in December. New members of the PTA will be introduced by Mrs. Milton Green, president, of 41 Morris ave.

NOTHING BUT THE FACTS

You've probably concluded that our fictional Dr. Smith is an "expert" in his field, though nowhere in the release did he say he was. His accomplishments, which are FACTS, speak for themselves. Your releases should, too.
Leave the fancy description and personal opinions out of your release. Never say a meeting was "interesting." Tell what the topic was and let the reader decide for himself. Don't say that a singer was "in good voice;" report instead that she was applauded for five minutes and called for ten encores. The hall was not "beautifully decorated," but rather decorated in shades of violet and lavender.

ALL THE FACTS

Your release should not send the newspaper staff scurrying for the phone or the city directory to get the information you forgot to include. Give complete details. Make sure that names and addresses are accurate and complete.

HERE ARE SOME POINTERS:

FULL NAMES. Use full names. In the case of a woman, always identify her as Miss or Mrs. You may use either the first names or TWO initials, never one (John Smith or J. E. Smith, but NEVER J. Smith). (Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. J. E. Smith, but NEVER just plain Mary Smith or Mrs. J. Smith).

AGE. If isn't necessary to give a person's age unless it's vital to the story. If John Smith is "honored" as your oldest member, naturally you should mention his age. When writing about children, always mention their ages, and possibly the grades they are in.

ADDRESS. When writing about local people, include their addresses. If the paper doesn't want the address, it can always cross it out. If the address is wanted and you haven't given it — then someone must look it up for you. When writing about buildings, where meetings will be held, the address is imperative. Use a number such as "555 Colonial avenue" or "Colonial avenue near Morris avenue" or "corner of Colonial and Morris avenues."

NAME YOUR ORGANIZATION so that the readers know what it is. You may know that N. O. M. A. means National Office Machine Association, but we don't and neither will our readers. Use the full title in your release. Don't identify groups, branches and units by numbers or the names of their founders. Call your group the Springfield branch (Irvington, Vauxhall, Essex, New Jersey or whatever) branch of the National Fish Fishers' Association — not unit No. 29457, or Jerome S. Smith Memorial chapter.

Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops should be identified by the name of the school in which they meet, the neighborhood they serve or the organization that sponsors them — not by long, meaningless numbers. Fraternal organizations should be identified by the name of the town — NOT the council number.

QUOTES AND OPINIONS

The only place for opinions is inside quotation marks. Your release should not say that a new branch library is needed, but rather that Mrs. John Smith, president of the James Caldwell School PTA, said that "A branch library serving the western section is a definite necessity."

In other words, all opinions should be attributed to somebody, preferably in a direct quotation. When you quote someone directly, make sure that he is willing to be quoted with the words you ascribe to him. Pick the punchiest and most important things your speaker said. Keep your quotes brief and significant.

DEADLINES

The deadline for organizational publicity is the Friday preceding the issue in which you want it published. If your release arrives later than that,

PIGEONS MAY BE HEALTH MENACE

GENERALLY ineffective wars have been waged against pigeons for years, on grounds that they deface buildings and destroy lawns and shrubbery. But now New York City health authorities have laid a more serious charge at their yearly disease carrier. They point to two recent deaths from a type of brain inflammation as directly traceable to pigeons. "Pigeon proofing" buildings is the best control method, says the U. S. Public Health Service. This technique uses screens and spikes to keep the birds away from roosting areas, and a coating of special slippery varnish on roofs and other surfaces. And, health authorities add, please don't feed the pigeons.

A POSSIBLY EXTINCT ANIMAL

is being tracked in the rugged forests of Tasmania, an island state of Australia 200 miles south of the mainland. Object of the hunt: the mysterious Tasmanian tiger, a large wolflike creature once found in large numbers. A government bounty of one pound for an adult tiger brought the beast to the verge of extinction in the late 19th century when they menaced sheep. The last positive tiger identification was in 1939. WAITING in line since then? The problem of "quoting" has been taken up by the august National Bureau of Standards which expects to report shortly its findings on traffic crossing major highways and airports troubled by too many pigeons. To land or take off. Queues in supermarkets and banks, says the NBS, are not only exasperating, they're problems in higher mathematics.

AMERICAN ASTRONAUTS

will have accumulated more than 2,000 hours of manned flight experience before the first lunar probe is made, in 1969, according to "Aerospace" magazine. The lunar landing will be the culmination of "25 giant steps to the moon," and will involve 10 manned Gemini flights, eight manned Apollo earth-orbital flights using the Saturn IB booster, six manned Apollo "dress rehearsals" for the lunar mission using the Saturn V launch vehicle and the final Apollo-Saturn V launch that will propel two astronauts to the moon.

THE NUMBER of mental patients in state and county hospitals declined in 1963 for the eighth consecutive year, reports the U. S. Public Health Service. Last year's total of 504,947 patients in public institutions was 8.7 per cent lower than the total in 1956 and occurred despite a continuing increase in admissions. Doubling — or releases from mental hospitals during the period is responsible for the drop, according to the National Institute of Mental Health.

A TWO YEAR fishing trip is planned by scientists at Clemson University — to find out how fish swim. The expedition hopes to be able to provide detailed information on aquatic animals' body movements, to help in better designing our submarines and surface ships.

EXERCISING CONTROLS assure you of full measure when you buy packages of sliced bacon. Next time you open a package, see if the end slice is of a different thickness than the others. According to Allbright-Nell, Chicago, the final slices are gauged electronically, in less than one-twentieth of a second, to make the exact weights for half-pound, pound and two-pound packages.

THE N. S. SAVANNAH, the world's first nuclear-powered cargo-passenger ship, was visited by more than 153,450 persons during a recent tour of European ports. This brings to more than 500,000 the number of people in this country and abroad who have inspected the ship, according to the Atomic Energy Commission.

AJC To Sponsor Talk In Elizabeth

The Union County chapter of the American Jewish Congress will sponsor a talk entitled "Jews of the Orient" Tuesday evening, Dec. 1, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dolgoff, 228 Vina st., Elizabeth. Sam Brown, executive director of the New Jersey region of the American Jewish Congress, will deliver the talk.

Brown, a member of the Rutgers University faculty, has recently returned from a trip to the Orient. During his visit, he met with many prominent Jewish leaders and government officials. His talk will be centered around the goals and views of the Jews in the Orient and the extent to which Jews are participating in the social, economic and political life of the East.

Do you know who is going to win? We're not referring to a good guess, of course, but the sort of election where the state of officers is selected by a nominating committee and the "election" is a formality. If you KNOW what's going to happen, write your release as if it already did and put that later paragraph may be chopped off if necessary.

Trailside Will Offer Program On 'Fun Raising House Plants'

Gustav F. Leske, of Roselle will present a program entitled "Fun Raising House Plants" at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation, Mountaintide, Sunday at 3 p.m.

Leske, a member of the Watchung Nature Club and of the Men's Garden Club of Westfield, will discuss facts on the care, display, and propagation of house plants. The talk will be illustrated with color slides.

Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of the Trailside Nature and Science Center, will conduct one-half hour nature talks for children at 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of next week. The topic to be discussed for the three days is "Arctic and Antarctic Birds." Dr. Moldenke's talks will be illustrated with color slides.

Tech School OKs Expansion Funds

An early meeting is anticipated for the Board of School Estimates to provide funds for the building program of the Union County Technical Institute in Mountaintide. Expansion was approved by voter referendum at the Nov. 3 election.

The board was formally called upon to provide the funds by the Institute's Board of Education at its last regular meeting. Leonard Simmons of Roselle, president of the Board of Education, and Peter Hunsbaker of Hillside, vice-president, were appointed to the Estimate Board.

PUBLIC SERVICE ELECTRIC AND GAS COMPANY / Keeping Service of a Great State

THE FEMININE LOOK
 Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Round the World Newspaper Study Mission
 by TRUDINA HOWARD

33rd of a Series
VIEW OF KABUL
 At given times, Afghanistan was a worry, but it never was a bore.

Before we reached Kabul, the capital city of Afghanistan, it was a worry about the hotel. When we reached Kabul and found ourselves snowbound, it was a worry when the snow would stop. When the snow stopped, it was a worry when the plane would get off the snow-covered, mountain-surrounded field. But other than these purely tourist worries, Afghanistan was fascinating.

Some people in our National Editorial Association Study Mission Group had other ideas though.

"Don't drive into Afghanistan in a snow storm," Mrs. Margaret Harbeck of Waterbury, Ct., said. "If you are the kind of tourist who likes things and people to look and smell and act the way they do home."

"The beauty of the landscape stops when my eyes come down to the street scene directly in front of me," she writes. "Cities are always a mess after a snow storm but Kabul is a sad mess."

"Men are shuffling along in the slush with ragged shoes pitted with mud. Women are stumbling under the ankle-length shrouds (chadris). Nobody smiles. The donkeys and camels look hungry and miserable. . . . Everything alive seems to be coughing and shivering."

"The buses rattle and need paint. The buildings look as though they were falling down. The dust is now mud and is splashed all over. Store windows are junky and dark. The piles of snow are dirty. From eye-level down, it is as dismal a scene as I ever saw."

Well, that is one view. But here is still another:

ONCE UPON A TIME, and not too long ago at that, there was a sign on the borders of Afghanistan that said: "It is absolutely forbidden to cross this border into Afghanistan." So, first of all, it was just plain exciting to get into the country, and be there.

But while it was exciting, it still was a worry whether the hotel in this remote little kingdom in far off Asia would really be a hotel — or a tent. So, second of all, it was particularly sweet to find a warm hotel with delicious food and a hospitable staff. The matre d'hotel had apple pie ready just to make us feel at home, and when we wanted nan and pilau, a national dish, it was there too at the very next meal. It was a modern hotel about three stories high and seemed like many an American one. The clerk at the desk didn't understand the stamp situation too well, but he was awfully friendly about it.

Someone however, said the towels were not clean. Well, if they were grey, I did not notice. I only saw a nice private bath with my room, and nice warm steam heat all over the place.

KABUL IS AN OLD CITY, but it has a new modern section that can boast of some new, but not very tall, banks and governmental buildings, well-paved streets, movies and hotels, etc. All the shops though, look old. They have character. They look like basins or parts of ovens that have been heated at a fair. They seldom have glass and NO doors in winter the shopkeepers huddle over a little fire (possibly charcoal) that is kept going in an open flat sort of dish affair. They are huddled up in long, dark overcoats with scarves wound over their heads and necks and thick boots on their feet.

There are all kinds of surprises to look at in those booths. YOU can get the best raisins and the best phin nuts in the world in Afghanistan. They're not in a neat little package though. They're in a big mound on a tray on the sidewalk. Wild-looking, nomad-looking men sell them, and if you're willing to buy them like that, they're delicious.

Or, at the very next booth from the raisins, you can buy a fur-lined robe that's hanging on an old hanger and swaying in the entrance way. It may be about $50. Or pots. Aluminum looking pots. I don't know why, but there are little round ones hanging all over the place almost like decoration. They hardly seem typical of Afghanistan. Or you can find a chadri, the all-encompassing veil many Afghan women still wear, hanging along the wall. That for a little under $20 is most of all you can buy. Wonderful metal trays, rugs, too they say, and wonderful fur hats.

IN THE SNOWS of winter it was a little hard walking from booth to booth. Kabul is not really used to snow and in this the worst winter it has had in 50 years, it wasn't really ready. The first storm brought about a foot of snow, and it was packed to ice; the storm that caught us brought about another foot and it was slush on top of that. Besides, in Kabul

Howard Dividend Hits $5.5 Million

The fourth quarterly dividend paid by The Howard Savings Institution in 1964 will be the largest in the institution's history, Howard President John W. Kress said this week.

"The Howard has 26,000 more depositors, who will benefit from this record December dividend of $5.5 million, than a year ago. Today, we have an overall total of 318,000 depositors," he said.

"We attribute a good share of depositor growth to the opening of our new Wakefield office in March and to the policy of offering complete savings bank services at all our eight offices, six in Newark, one in South Orange and one in North Caldwell.

"We recently announced that a cash bonus would be paid on all completed 1965 Christmas Club accounts," he said.

During 1964 the total of declared and credited dividends amounted to over $21 million. March 1 will be the institution's next regular quarterly dividend period. The Howard Savings Institution is New Jersey's largest savings bank and has assets in excess of $818 million, Kress said.

Marion Marlowe Will Star Again In 'Gypsy' Role At Meadowbrook

Marion Marlowe, who scored a personal triumph in her last appearance at the Meadowbrook Theatre, Cedar Grove, in "Gypsy" last January, returns to the theatre-restaurant by popular demand in the same role, opening Thursday, Dec. 3.

Leading man will be Alan North, who scored recently at the Meadowbrook in "Tenderloin" starring Zachary Scott.

"Gypsy" is a musical, table d'hôte based on the life of Gypsy Rose Lee, her mother, and sister June Hoope, and according to Walter Kerr of the N. Y. Herald Tribune when it originally opened on Broadway — "The only thing

Poison Is Threat To Tiny 'Chewers'

Children, from the time they are teething up to four years of age, often are "chewers." They may gnaw woodwork, window sills, stair-railings. If the dried paint from these surfaces contains lead, the child may swallow enough lead to become seriously ill.

The lead in the dried paint can damage body tissues and, in children, the brain. The damage can last for life; it can cause death, says Miss Gena Thames, extension home furnishings specialist at Rutgers-University.

Miss Thames said, "If you live in an older home where woodwork has many layers of paint and if you have tiny 'chewers,' don't permit them to chew on the inside window sill or stair railing. Also, do not let them chew on outdoor-painted railings or benches or swings. Paint made for outdoor use contains more lead than that for indoor use. Never use outdoor paint on toys, walls, woodwork or furniture.

"Manufacturers of paint and makers of children's toys and furniture are attempting to reduce the amount of lead poisoning by developing and using paints containing less than 1 per cent lead. Do the same. Read the label to be sure." Miss Thames recommended.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council
The Two-year Old
By Robert C. Gruver
Editor
All About Babies

We've survived the frustrations of infancy, the aimlessness of the crawling stage and the unsteadiness of the toddling stage. Now, we feel we're practically grown up.

That during this time some 8 million babies grew up with us, pleases us to no end. That we may have, in some small way, made it easier for those babies to reach the age of two—the end of the road of babyhood—makes us humble and proud and thankful to this newspaper for carrying this weekly feature.

For, after all, being two is really an important event in the life of a baby. From this point on, a baby is no longer a baby but a child.

Dr. Wilbert Davidson of the Duke University Medical School points out that at two, some babies know about 300 words and some are able to make two- or three word sentences. Dr. Er. H. Watson of the University of Michigan Medical School says that at two, some babies are able to use pronouns and discard the jargon or gibberish. Both these well known pediatricians agree that many perfectly normal two-year olds do not do all of these things. Speech may develop late in some children and a delay in talking need not cause alarm. If a child seems to be otherwise developing properly. Parents who may have any questions about this or about any other special part of their child's development, should discuss the matter with their physician.

Dr. Davidson tells us, the average two-year old should be able to: run, kick a large ball, build a tower of four to six blocks, hold a glass with one hand, hunt for missing toys, turn pages one at a time, distinguish between "mine and yours," point, dawdle, execute simple commands, imitate simple movements, repeat words and select a bright-colored object placed among dull-colored ones of the same size and shape.

To this, Dr. Watson adds: goes up and down stairs alone, pulls on a simple garment, refers to self by name and plays with domestic mimicry. Generally, at the age of two a child also shows an improvement in his emotions. He tends to be less violent, shows pride in accomplishment and can be coy in his actions.

One of the most fascinating things about a baby when he reaches the age of two is that you can pretty well tell his future growth and character patterns. You actually can see the person he'll grow up to be.

A LOOK AT THE UN with Trudina Howard...

'To Be Or Not To Be' -- In Debt; UN Has Decisions To Make

It looks like the 19th year of the United Nations is going to be a crucial one.

The Soviet Union owes about $52-million—or in its own terms, about 40 million rubles—to the peace-keeping fund of the United Nations, and because it is over two years in arrears, it may be subject to the loss of its voting rights in the General Assembly if the debt is not paid in part or in full.

Russia maintains, however, that she does not legally owe the debt and that regular UN dues and peace-keeping dues are separate matters. Moscow bases its position on the fact that the peace-keeping assessment was levied by the General Assembly whereas only the Security Council can legally do so.

It further claims that the U. S. and various other Western Powers are only making a "commotion" about the so-called "United Nations Financial Crisis" at this particular time to represent the USSR and other states as responsible for it. The inference being that perhaps there is no real financial crisis and that the U. S. is using it as a lever for power. "With the entry of the young independent states of Asia, Africa and Latin America into the United Nations," a Russian document at the UN states, "it is becoming more and more difficult for the U. S. of America and other Western Powers to put together a mechanical majority of votes and to impose decisions to their liking upon the UN by means of the voting machine."

The most disturbing thing of all though, is the fact that Russia has said at times that if she is denied the vote, she might walk out of the session or even the United Nations itself.

The U. S. of America on the other hand, has paid all its share of the peace-keeping dues and voluntarily pledged additional

Coast Guard Academy Announces Dec. 5 Deadline For Applications

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Eligible young men are reminded that Dec. 5 is the deadline for submitting applications to compete for appointment as cadet, United States Coast Guard.

The 19th annual competition for admission to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy at New London will commence with the Dec. 5 administration of the College Entrance Examination Board tests. Appointments are made solely on a competitive basis, with no Congressional appointments or geographical quotas.

An applicant must be an unmarried high school senior or graduate who has reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday by July 1, 1965. Applicants must be high school graduates who have earned 15 units by June 30, 1965, including the following

Holiday Decorations Feature Big Wreath

A giant illuminated wreath with a bow 150 feet wide and 50 feet high will be the feature of this year's Christmas display on the front of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company's terminal building in Newark. The decorations will be lighted beginning Nov. 30.

On each side of the illuminated wreath are six 10-foot flashing snowflakes. Lighted plastic garlands and bells border the top edge of the building.

Nations and the opinions of the World Court at The Hague, it has a legal obligation to pay all assessments imposed by the UN. But if the General Assembly does not impose an equal obligation on all members including Russia, the U. S. now is beginning to feel it must re-examine its willingness to pay all of them.

So, last week Washington indicated that it might cut some annual payments assessed by the UN unless the financial and constitutional crisis at the UN is resolved—or, in other words, it might cut payments if the Soviet debt is forgiven.

All of which adds up to the alarming fact that if Russia carries out her threat and walks out, and if the U. S. carries out its threat and stops paying—the United Nations is in trouble.

But even the United Nations has a guardian angel watching over it, and there may be some help forthcoming. Delegates from four small countries have been working on the impasse and have come up with the suggestion that the UN raise a "rescue fund" by voluntary subscription.

The plan was worked out by Dr. Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez of Venezuela who was president of the 1963 General Assembly, and Chief S. O. Adebajo of Nigeria, Sivert A. Nielsen of Norway and Abdul Rahman Fazlwak of Afghanistan.

A working group of 21 members with Chief Adebajo at its head has been working on the financial problem also, and Chief Adebajo has sent recent appeals to President Johnson, Prime Minister Wilson and President De Gaulle.

Adal E. Stevenson, the U. S. ambassador to the UN, suggested that Russia and other countries in arrears could avoid losing their vote in the General Assembly by paying their debts in any form consistent with the Charter and satisfactory to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, U Thant and expressed willingness to negotiate on the issue with anyone at any time.

The big show-down on the money madness, however, will take place after the 19th General Assembly begins on Dec. 1. The General Assembly usually opens in September of each year, but this year it was delayed to Nov. 10 mainly because of the British and American elections, and then postponed again mainly because of the Khrushchev affair and to allow time for the budget negotiations. If nothing crucial occurs to delay the opening further, one of the first items for the Assembly to consider from its lengthy but not very new agenda—is the budget affair. And that will be crucial enough.

The big show-down on the money madness, however, will take place after the 19th General Assembly begins on Dec. 1. The General Assembly usually opens in September of each year, but this year it was delayed to Nov. 10 mainly because of the British and American elections, and then postponed again mainly because of the Khrushchev affair and to allow time for the budget negotiations. If nothing crucial occurs to delay the opening further, one of the first items for the Assembly to consider from its lengthy but not very new agenda—is the budget affair. And that will be crucial enough.

By BEA SMITH
 What can be a fitting tribute to a person reaching his retirement years or who has long passed his working years than to be able to age gracefully, with dignity, self-insurance, pride, security and safety?
 It can be very comforting to know that his variety of needs may be answered, that aid may very well be on its way — and especially to know that there is an organization in his neighborhood concerned with all the aspects of aging — and that cares about what happens to older people.

The organization is called SAGE (Summit-Area Association for Gerontological Endeavor). It is non-profit and it serves residents in Springfield, Mountaineer, Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights.
 Mrs. James S. Rothschild is executive director of SAGE which organized a visiting homemaker service 10 years ago, and OWL—Older Workers Lifetime—a free referral service for older men and women looking for full or part-time employment.

She paid a visit to this reporter to discuss the organization's recent 10th anniversary.
 IT WAS LEARNED, through Mrs. Rothschild, that there are a number of active participants from Springfield in SAGE. One of the original homemakers was Mrs. Ruth Stockman, who lived in Springfield until last year, when she moved to Summit.

Other Springfield residents include Mrs. Joseph Epstein, a member of the steering board of OWL; Harold E. Rose, who is on the board of trustees and who serves as chairman of the finance committee; Mrs. Willard Timponson, a volunteer at SAGE's Canteen at Fair Oaks Hospital, Summit; and Mrs. Walter Millin, a bookkeeper in the home department. The latter two are assistants to the executive director of the visiting homemaker service, Mrs. John W. Kinley.

SAGE, Mrs. Rothschild indicated, does more than operate a visiting homemaker service with homemakers trained by the Rutgers University Extension Division in cooperation with the New Jersey State Department of Health.

IT ALSO RUNS a well-equipped workshop for retired men and women (equipped with power-driven machinery, hand tools and general supplies), an information and consulting service (for those who want informal help with a personal situation or problem dealing with old age), a library dealing with the wide range of activities in the growing field of gerontology, a canteen (with SAGE volunteers) for the convenience of patients, staff and visitors at Fair Oaks Hospital, and OWL (Older Workers Lifetime), a free referral service for older men and women, which is co-sponsored by SAGE and the Greater Summit Section of the National Council of Jewish Women, a volunteer service organization.

with the New Jersey State Department of Health.

Mrs. Rothschild said, "We have a membership committee of 375 dues-paid members. Our funds come from people who know us. We don't go to the general public for funds."
 Mrs. Rothschild, in explaining the activities of SAGE, smiled a gentle smile. (One can imagine this woman conversing with patience and tenderness with an older person who has come to her for some sort of aid.) She stated recently: "We have a research and development committee, and right now we're looking for new projects. We cooperate with existing agencies, as they do with us."

Joseph M. Ficzko, five-continent third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ficzko, of 754 Hemlock rd., Union, participated in the project while aboard the U. S. S. Leahy at Naples, Italy.
 The Leahy had departed through Italian officials that the Casa Della Sterpio villa, which lay in disuse for many years, could be renovated for use by needy children. It became the policy for crew members of each Navy

"RIGHT NOW, we're also looking for new members to join our committees. We have a newsletter sent out to our general members three times a year to inform them of our latest activities and what else is being done to help the people who need help."
 "We have an annual meeting with a skit or a speaker. All members are invited to this meeting."

Mrs. Rothschild explained that in order for someone to get a homemaker service (which means a specially trained woman who will do light housekeeping, prepare balanced diets, do the marketing and simple errands, help to maintain a normal family routine or aid elderly persons who cannot fully maintain their own homes), one should call upon the office in Summit, or have his doctor or social agency refer him to the service.

"AS FAR AS OWL is concerned," she said, "our employment service advertises and publicizes. Individuals with small businesses will sometimes get in touch with us about employment openings. In fact, we have had more job opportunities than applicants."
 "Our biggest demand is for senior citizens. Some older women ask for a companion, sometimes to live in, sometimes with or without house-keeping duties. And we have, in fact, had calls for companions who will be company to older women after the supper hour and through the evening until bedtime.

 "Sometimes we hear of openings through a local church or just through word of mouth. We get openings for sales help, clerical workers, gardeners, general maintenance men, drivers — and "The majority of applicants want part-time work," Mrs. Rothschild went on.

"WE ENDEAVOR to refer older men and women to jobs, part-time or full time. We like to think of ourselves as a referral service. We get the potential employee and employer together; then they make the financial arrangements. We have nothing to do with salary requirements or salary requests."
 Sometimes the organization gets calls for nursing homes, or for lists of nursing homes. "We get at least two or three calls a week," she said, "and we have a printed pamphlet listing hospitals, nursing homes and old age homes with all their various requirements, which we send out or distribute to people upon request."

"Incidentally, she said, "our OWL office is at 130 Summit ave., Summit, and the hours are 9:30 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday. "Our workshop is at 63

Evergreen rd., Summit, open 9:30 to noon Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays."

Mrs. Rothschild said that SAGE feels that there is an opportunity to further its service to older citizens through a senior craftsman salesroom, a friendly visiting service, a non-profit nursing home and middle-income housing.
 "But we do need funds to keep going," she said, "and we can't solicit funds by approaching strangers or through a door-to-door campaign. "We can only talk to our friends, and depend on the word of mouth approach that would help us to maintain adequate facilities to help people who may be forgotten otherwise, who are ill or forlorn or who may have reached the stage of just giving up."

CD Training Course Begins In Newark

A Federally-subsidized program will enable the New Jersey Civil Defense organization to recruit and train 40,000 radiological monitors for use throughout the state in the event of a war-induced emergency. State Civil Defense Director Thomas S. Dignan, announced this week that Rutgers University has been contracted by the National Office of Civil Defense to conduct a series of courses to train radiological monitoring instructors in seven locations throughout New Jersey. Members of Rutgers Extension Division will conduct the courses.

The first started in Newark last week and will conclude the weekend of Dec. 5-6. According to Dignan, a minimum of 40,000 monitors would be needed to report radioactive fallout conditions in a post-attack period. The information would be used for survival in public shelters. THE POWER OF MIND.

Diplomat Resumes First Career As Educator

The mightiest weapon is the educated mind.

This is the conviction of Dr. John H. Morrow, a 1931 Rutgers honor graduate, who last summer exchanged a successful diplomatic career for the chairmanship of the Foreign Language Department at the State University's evening College, New Brunswick.

"After 20 years of teaching and five years of diplomatic service, I feel education is the most powerful weapon for the improvement of international and race relations," Dr. Morrow says.

During the Eisenhower administration, Dr. Morrow served as ambassador to the critical post of Guinea, a newly-emergent African nation. He learned firsthand the values of the open mind and language training.

"There must be communication for understanding and the channels must be kept open,"

he says. "If I had had to have a French interpreter in the critical days of 1959-61, suspicion and delay would have interfered with the man-to-man directness and frankness required at that time."

"THE MORE WE travel, using the language of the countries visited, and the more we exchange our students, teachers and professors, the greater will be the understanding of different peoples. For this reason I hope to see foreign languages become an increasingly important part of everyone's life."

As fluent in French as in his native English, Dr. Morrow also speaks Spanish and can read German, Portuguese, Italian and Latin.

That Guinea, a former French colonial possession, did not in her crisis days of early independence become another Viet Nam or Zanzibar is credited REMINDEES OF AFRICA — Dr. John H. Morrow, former U.S. ambassador to Guinea and now chairman of the Foreign Language Department of Rutgers University College, the evening division of the State University, shows pieces of art collected during his African stay.

Research Financed By Christmas Seals

Union County Christmas Seal users have contributed to the nearly one million dollars awarded for medical research in 1964 by the National Tuberculosis Association and its state and local affiliates.

Dr. Stephen M. Ayres of Westfield is one of the recipients of project grants from the New Jersey fund. He is studying lung function in patients with pulmonary emphysema. Four other research projects are being supported by the New Jersey fund this year.

National and state research grants are making possible basic research in lung diseases, such as emphysema, tuberculosis, and fungus diseases, intensive studies of acute respiratory infections, and techniques of lung transplantation.

The first medical research grant of the National Tuberculosis Association was made in 1921 to Dr. William Snow Miller for studies of the anatomy of the lung.

The New Jersey medical research and teaching fund was set up in 1958 to coordinate the research appointments of local tuberculosis associations. In seven years it has collected and made awards totaling $113,923. Of this total Union County has contributed $21,572 in seven years in addition to the one per cent of Christmas Seal contributions automatically allocated for research, Rodgers said.

Dr. Morrow is married to the former Ann Drive. They have two children, Jean, a social work supervisor in Newark, and John Jr., a junior at Swarthmore College. Dr. Morrow's son is planning for a diplomatic career.
