Wording Of Law Leads To Dispute On Nursing Home

The application of Villa Contracting Co. for a special exception to construct a 126-bed nursing home on Morris ave. near the Rahway River was allowed to be heard by the Board of Adjustment Tuesday.

The matter of the legality of the application was raised by Seymour Margulies of 29 S. Derby rd., an attorney, who contended that the $80 zone for which the structure is planned does not specify that a special exception can be granted for "private" hospital. Under the zoning ordinance, hospital and nursing home are written to be one and the same.

Harding Brown, of the law firm of Epstein, Epstein, Brown and Bosok of Elizabeth, attorney for Villa, argued that the zoning ordinance provides that special exceptions are allowable for either public or private hospitals in both S75 and S130 zones.

"The term 'hospital' generally includes nursing homes," Brown said. "The ordinance does not set forth a definition as to whether the hospital be private or public. It is my opinion," he said, "if the drafters of the ordinance had intended to make a definition they would have been required to make up standards."

Public or Private
"They did not set up standards as to what is public and what is private," he said. "I was not prepared from a legal aspect to quote page and section of legal decisions to support his contention."

Margulies argued that the word "public" preceded "hospital" in the ordinance on the S60 zone. "I suggest," he said, "that if the standards are vague, you cannot proceed with this application."

The board agreed to allow Brown time to prepare a brief to support his case, and continued the testimony pending (Continued on Page 32)

Haste Necessary For Holiday Mail, Postmaster Says

"It's too late to mail early, so please mail now. Do not delay any longer," Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio said this week.

"The biggest mail expansion in the history of the Post Office is upon us, and we need the cooperation of everyone to make sure that the holiday mail is all delivered before Christmas Day," the Springfield postmaster added.

Del Vecchio suggested the use of air mail and special delivery to guarantee pre-Christmas delivery, especially for start-up orders. Weather conditions which might slow down surface transportation can cause your mail to be delayed, he noted.

In all instances, he said, the use of ZIP Code will be helpful. The codes generally mean that mail moves in a more direct route and is handled fewer times. Parcels with Zipcode addresses may be delivered 24 hours or more before other mail to the same destination which do not include the five-digit code.

Postmaster Del Vecchio thanked all the citizens of Springfield who "cooperated" so well in the "Show and Mail Early" campaign. While the outgoing mails are expected to reach a peak today, the postmaster said there still remains a huge mail for delivery to Springfield residents.

Women Voters Offer Material On Functions Of 'Master Plan'

With work on a zoning Master Plan for Springfield virtually completed and public hearings expected in the immediate future, the township League of Women Voters has prepared a statement explaining what a Master Plan is.

Donald Rotwein, chairman of the Township Planning Board, which compiled the Master Plan over the past year, told this newspaper that the hearings should definitely be held sometime in January.

The Women Voters' group urged that residents' read a booklet, "A Citizen's Guide to Planning," copies of which are available at the municipal library.

In addition, Mrs. Sydney Miller and Mrs. Leonard Kligman, co-chairmen of the League's local zoning study group, issued the following statement:

WHAT TYPES OF USES DOES A MASTER PLAN HAVE?
"It is a source of information, an estimate of the future, a program of correction, an indicator of goals, a technique for coordination, a device for stimulating public interest and responsibility."

WHAT IS A MASTER PLAN?
"A master plan is a mapped and written proposal for the physical development of a community. It generally covers all forms of land use and circulation within a community. It may also include within its scope areas outside the boundaries of the community which are believed to have an essential relation to the planning of a community."

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF A MASTER PLAN?
"A master plan is intended to guide and accomplish an orderly, co-ordinated, adjusted and harmonious development of the community and its environs and, thereby, to promote the health, safety, morals, order, convenience, prosperity and general welfare of the community, and the efficiency and economy of development, the management of property values, the promotion of good civic design and the wise and efficient expenditure of public funds."

WHAT IS THE LEGAL STATUS OF A MASTER PLAN?
"Once adopted, a master plan is a legal instrument. The governing body or any other public body, before taking action on a project involving the use of public funds, must conform to the master plan."

Aims To Change Committee Form Of Government

System Is Proposed With Mayor, Council Election In Spring

Plans to seek a referendum on changing Springfield's form of government were unveiled this week by a five-man group which declared, "The present form of government is inadequate to run the big business which this town has become."

The group is composed of Thomas Argyris, Vincent J. Bonadies, Ed. Hall, Irwin Rosen and Russell Shible.

They stressed that they would have no party in this action "no matter which party had been the winner in last month's elections." At that time, the Republicans won two of the three local races to maintain control of the Township Committee.

Argyris, a registered Republican, is a former township manager, appointed by a Democratic administration. Bonadies, former mayor, has been the key figure in a decade but now declares he wants nonpartisan local government.

Independent Voter
Hall, who has no party affiliations, has been a consistent but temperate critic of the present administration. Rosen, also an independent voter, this month rejected nomination as vice-president of the Springfield Democratic Club.

Shible is a former Township Committeeman. A Democrat, he has been inactive recently in party affairs.

"Each of us," they stated, "has felt a strong desire for a change in our township charter, and we have heard the same sentiment from many others active in town affairs."

Partisan Angle?
"Under the present system of a Township Committee elected with party labels, and no matter which party is in power, every issue is regarded from a partisan angle."

It is understood that feeling within the group runs toward some type of a mayor-council form of government. There are (Continued on Page 34)

Antony B. Anderson, recently appointed to an unexpired term on the board, announced that he would not seek election for the one-year term of the term which will remain after February.

As of Tuesday night one had filed application for the one-year term caused by the resignation of Dr. Benjamin Josephson on Sept. 17.

Five persons, however, have indicated that they will seek re-election. Seats available for the next term.

Overlook Campaign Lists $325,000 Gift

A $325,000 memorial grant honoring the late Charles Frederick Wallace of Westfield has been made to Overlook Hospital to help build its new medical education center and a continuing program of lectures, seminars, teaching aids and materials to further this broadening aspect of the hospital's service to the community.

Howard Casselman, 57 Park Lane, Springfield, an Overlook trustee, and Joseph Bender, 21 Ann pl., Springfield, special gifts chairman, announcing the major gift toward the $6,500,000 "progress program" for Overlook, commented:

"This important contribution to Overlook's medical education program will play a vital role in the hospital's philosophy of broadening concepts of medical science and service."

"Constant new knowledge, new developments in modern medicine make it imperative for every well-established, practicing physician to keep informed of latest theories, new drugs and special techniques, new diagnostic tests and treatment. This is a community hospital, and we provide him with the continuing education, research, physical and mental health his patients and he needs to seek this knowledge elsewhere."

According to the terms of the gift, $25,000 will be specifically toward the building of the center. An additional endowment of $100,000 will provide funds for visiting lecturers and seminar leaders, costs of preparing material for use of disseminating instructional materials, purchase of books of scientific teaching and study of professional, administrative and clinical personnel devoting time to the program.

Kunc and Carlson were also presented "Good Citizen Citations" by Allen Byrd, service officer of the American Legion, in recognition of their having achieved scouting's highest rank. Kunc qualified for the rank last June, before his 14th birthday. Regional District Lists $4,424,804 For New Budget

A total budget for the coming fiscal year of $4,424,804, above the current figure by $363,871, was reported at preliminary hearings held by the Regional High School Board of Education Tuesday night at Gov. Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights.

Following study by county and state authorities, a public hearing on the budget will be held Jan. 12 at Gov. Livingston.

William J. Melick, Jr., Regional Board member from Springfield, announced at the meeting that he will seek another term at the Feb. 2 school election. The budget will be presented to the voters in the six-community district at that time.

The new figure, the Board declared, reflects increased student population throughout the district, as well as plans to open the new "David" Brearley High School in Kenilworth during the year. It was noted that all bonds dating back to opening of the Board's first school, Jonathan Dayton in Springfield in 1937 will be retired in another two years.

In the new budget, current expenses are listed at $3,561,115. Of this, the Board will receive $350,251 from the state, $12,000 from the Federal government, and $150,000 from its own surplus fund. This leaves $3,038,864 to be raised through taxes.

Of $168,953 listed for capital outlay, the Board expects to use $1,300 from Washington and a $40,000 appropriation from its own balance. This leaves $127,653 for the taxpayer. The bond and interest fund is slated for $693,834, with $47,928 to come from the state and $10,000 from surplus, leaving $635,906 for taxes to provide. The total amount to be raised, by taxation is $3,803,225, up $291,949 from the current year.

Absentee Ballots Offered To Voters By School Board

It was announced by Mrs. Audrey S. Rubin, board secretary. Absentee ballots may be requested, at least eight days before the elections, by registered voters who expect to be outside the state on those days or who will not be able to visit, the polls because of illness or physical disability, including blindness or pregnancy, observance of a religious holiday or resident attendance at a school, college or university. Similar forms are available from the Regional Board of Education at Gov. Livingston High School, Berkeley Heights, for the regional election to be held on Feb. 2.

In complete standardized tests in school, English teachers have competition and "treasure" awards. Regional Board Gets Nike Site; Delay Expected In Kenilworth

Caprio Is Named Leader For Area By N. J. Linguists

August Caprio, coordinator of foreign languages of the Union County Regional High School District, has been appointed Northern New Jersey representative by the executive board of the New Jersey Modern Language Teachers' Association.

In this capacity, Caprio will not only be a member of the executive committee, but will also set policies and study language methodologies, especially in Northern New Jersey, which will then be evaluated and compared with the work done in the other parts of the state.

Caprio is also president of the Springfield Board of Education. He has been active in the N.J. MLTA for many years and has served previously on the executive committee.

His new position will bring him in contact with many of the language teachers and coordinators in this part of the state. The major aim will be to improve language instruction in New Jersey, the professional group declared.

Prospects for the future growth of the Regional High School District were brightened considerably by one news development in the past week, but another disclosure somewhat complicated the picture for next year.

The good news came with the announcement that the Regional Board of Education had formally taken title to a 6.39-acre portion of the former Nike rocket base adjoining the campus of Gov. Livingston High School, Berkeley Heights.

Indications that the board might run into problems opening the new David-Brearely High School in Kenilworth next September, came with the disclosure by Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of the regional system, that the contractor for the job had been granted an extension from Sept. 1 to Nov. 1 for completion of the project.

The Nike site, which had been sought by the Regional Board for several years, lies partly in Berkeley Heights, and partly in Summit. The deed to the property was presented to Lewis Fredericks, secretary to the board, last week by S. L. Simonian of the New York office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Planned Athletic Uses
Dr. Davis stated that the land will be used primarily to supplement physical education and athletic facilities at Gov. Livingston. It will also be of immediate value, he added, for the summer program offered in biology.

One structure on the land will be used for storage of field and maintenance equipment at the high school. Dr. Davis noted that the terrain makes much of the land at Gov. Livingston unsuitable for athletics, and that space has been limited.

Plans for use of the site for a television station to broadcast programs for classroom use directly to the various regional schools have been publicized in the past.

Dr. Davis said, however, that reality in this field is at least five years away, and that the schools have substantial immediate needs to be met first.

The property includes a number of tracts which were obtained by the Federal government from the regional district, as well as from private sources. Buildings include a headquarters structure, a barracks and an enlisted men's building, all of concrete block.

Stressing that "it is extremely difficult to guess" at the exact completion date of a project, the size of the one in Kenilworth, Dr. Davis said that the school authorities were prepared to start next year either with or without use of the new high school.

If the school is not ready in time, Kenilworth students attending regional high schools will continue at their present schools. This year's freshmen will stay as sophomores at Gov. Livingston.

The superintendent noted that two major factors governing the final completion date of Brearely High School are the weather conditions through this winter and the possibility of labor disputes, which could conceivably spring up in any major construction project.

Dr. Davis went on to say, "I should be able to give a much more accurate prediction some time in March. A great deal depends on the kind of winter we have between now and then."

MRS. BERNARD SCHWARTZ

"I don't care who gets credit for it," Mrs. Bernard Schwartz of Springfield declared the other afternoon, "and neither does the New Library Committee, just as long as we get the best possible thing for Springfield."

Mrs. Schwartz, a young housewife, mother, research scientist and civic leader, who appeared to be a quiet person by nature, determinedly made her point as chairman of the New Library Committee. "Actually," she said, "we have no official recognition; there are just a co-chairman, Robert Starr, and a group of 25 residents, housewives and businessmen, in our organization."

"Our group of citizens is primarily concerned with the library in its present location. We feel that it is not accessible to the majority of children on the periphery of town. So many children live on the other side of Morris ave. Since they developed Rt. 22, the corner of Morris ave. and Mountain ave. is no longer the center of Springfield."

MRS. BERNARD SCHWARTZ

"A MORE CENTRALLY located library where children can walk — without imperiling their lives crossing that dangerous busy intersection — would be more suitable. It can not only be a place where children can safely walk or ride their bikes, but it can be utilized for meeting their friends."

"Lots of parents won't even let their children go to the library because of the traffic. Some fearful mothers, who belong to a two-car family, will occasionally drive the children to the library, but the child must wait until the mother has time. Then the mother waits in the car impatiently, while the child scurries about, trying to find books within a limited time."

"The library," Mrs. Schwartz continued, "in its present house, is very charming, but it is rapidly becoming too small for a town of this size."

"We have an intelligent group of citizens in Springfield who have always shown interest in our schools. Well, the library goes hand-in-hand with schools, wouldn't you say?"

"NOT TOO LONG AGO, we were able to collect 1,000 signatures with little effort, seeking a new and expanded library facility, centrally located."

Mrs. Schwartz explained that "children who like to work in a library, on research and homework, are divided into small rooms. The working area is very limited. In fact, it is difficult to accomplish any work in the library."

Mrs. Schwartz's children, Debra, who is in the eighth grade, and Bruce, in the seventh grade, both at Florence Gaudineer School, utilize the Springfield library.

"We live on Warwick circle, and it is always present in the back of my mind that they must cross that intersection. I encourage them to go to the library, but I'm always very glad to see them when they arrive home," she sighed.

"You know," the chairman said, "there have been people who have accused us of being politically-minded, but we're nothing of the kind."

"During the recent campaign, we wanted non-partisan support for the good of the town. But we kept out of it. We made no mention of a new library. We kept in the background for the duration of the campaign."

THE NEW LIBRARY Committee was organized the beginning of the year. And right at the beginning of its organization, its members had their eye on "a piece of land called Fadam Farms. It was just turned down for a nursing home. But," Mrs. Schwartz stated, "to us, it is a perfect site for a library. It is surrounded by three schools, and within walking distance of two or three more."

Mrs. Schwartz explained that her feelings about this are extremely strong. "I think I'm the kind of person who can see things for their own good. I think I can separate myself from politics."

"When one is interested in one thing it leads to many others."

Mrs. Schwartz indicated that it was her membership in the Springfield League of Woman Voters that led her to become interested in the library.

"But more than that; it was my associations with other organizations too. I belong to two PTAs — Gaudineer and Chisholm. I am a past president of the Chisholm PTA, and served as budget and finance chairman."

"MY FEELINGS OF loyalty go all out to Chisholm because my children attended the first five grades there. I always feel so at home in that school, and I'm very fond of the principal, Mrs. Robert Powers."

She is a member of the B'nai B'rith Chapter in Springfield, and she is a past president. "I also belong to Temple Beth Ahm, but I'm not very active there."

Senator Case Reports

In a few short weeks the 89th Congress will begin its work. During this period between sessions, I have been reviewing plans for new legislation which I will offer next year.

Highway Building
The present national highway system does not fully meet the needs of a growing country, one in which more and more people are purchasing automobiles and crowding the existing roadways. In New Jersey, for example, we have had great need for a highway in the middle part of the state, linking east and west, perhaps between Asbury Park and Trenton.

Narcotics Control
The growing number of drug addicts suggests the need for a new look. I believe that, the United States Public Health Service and our Federal Narcotics Bureau should develop a limited demonstration program to check on (1) the effectiveness of the British program, which involves treating narcotics addicts by psychiatric while curtailing illegal traffic in drugs by dispensing them under medical supervision and (2) the effectiveness of a new private program, Synanon, somewhat similar to Alcoholics Anonymous, under which addicts help each other overcome the drug habit.

Education
We have helped relieve the shortage of qualified college instructors by establishing a program of Federal grants to assist young men and women in obtaining doctorate degrees, providing they take up college teaching. A similar program to help elementary and secondary school teachers obtain advanced training, such as a master's degree, will aid tremendously in improving the quality of basic education.

Automobile Safety
The National Driver Register Service, which I helped establish, has proven its value. However, present coverage is limited. It could help the states get more unsafe drivers off the road if coverage were extended to include information about all drivers whose licenses are revoked or suspended.

As Federal assistance to urban areas grows, better coordination of programs of urban renewal, mass transportation, air and water pollution, interstate highways and other Federal programs is essential to assure that they do not conflict with each other and that the end result is an attractive and efficient community. For example, efforts to end fouling of air in our urban communities are clearly inadequate. As New Jerseyans know, studies are fine but unless we buckle down to a real enforcement effort, the tremendous growth in industry and in automobile traffic will make healthy living almost impossible.

Early in the session we must again try to revise Senate Rule 22, the filibuster rule, to make sure that the Senate is no longer blocked from carrying out its responsibilities.

Also urgently needed is a thorough going review of the procedures and practices of both chambers of Congress with a view toward making recommendations for improved efficiency. Disclosure of financial interests, which I have proposed in the past, is essential to this as well. There should be no room for a double standard under which Congress insists on detailed information from Executive officials while failing to disclose its own.

MENU FOR WEEK SET AT GAUDINEER

Monday: Spaghetti with meat sauce, carrot sticks, choice of fruit, bread, butter, milk.
Tuesday: Cream of tomato soup, hamburger or cheeseburger on roll, lettuce salad, choice of pie, milk.
Wednesday: Roast beef, whipped potatoes, gravy, buttered green beans, ice cream sundae, which, or cake, bread, butter, milk.
Menus subject to change in emergencies.

Help Wanted, Male Or Female

The front page of this newspaper last week included a prominently displayed article stating that at least four men and women planned to run for seats on the Springfield Board of Education. On the same page was also a much briefer news story on the fact that a Springfield member of the Regional High School Board of Education was not sure whether or not he would seek another term.

Local residents, as they should take considerable interest in the operations of the two public school systems which function within the township. Any social gathering is likely to produce several estimates, founded and unfounded, as to the quality of the education proffered locally. Both boards are composed of capable, dedicated individuals.

Every year at least three seats must be filled on the Springfield Board (this year, there are four.) Virtually every year enough residents care enough to run for the board. Contests of this sort, however difficult they might be for people who want merely to serve the community, must result in improved education for Springfield children.

They also lead to the election of nine board members who are aware of both the wishes of the community and the educational needs of the community's children.

Only two representatives are authorized, however, to express Springfield's views in the Regional Board. Certainly a child's high school education is as important as that he receives earlier — yet contests for membership on the regional body are as rare as uncontested elections to the local group.

The problem, then, is a simple one. Perhaps, however, the answer could be found with a classified advertisement, rather than an editorial.

Wanted: candidates to serve on Regional Board of Education. Must have an interest in the best available education for our children, plus a desire to run hard until election, then work even harder for three years. Obtain petitions at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights.

Pitch In And Help

Half the joy of Christmas comes in seeing the faces of our dear ones as they open our gifts. But the true spirit of the holiday calls for gifts to those we may never see: to the needy in our midst, through our community charities, and to the poor of other counties, through such agencies as CARE.

The current CARE Food Crusade seeks $6,500,000 to complete a year-long plan to help feed 37,700,000 hungry people. U.S. Food for Peace donations of farm abundance are the mainstay of the plan. Under CARE partnership contracts, local governments will pay delivery costs for 34,000,000 persons. To reach the rest, CARE asks Americans as individuals to pitch in and help by sending 6,500,000 packages, at a dollar per package.

In schools, orphanages, destitute homes, CARE "sees" for us. Here is a staff man's report, after delivering packages to a village in Colombia: "Most of all we were affected by the children, whose reaction to the simple food was almost like that of American kids to their Christmas toys. You never saw such smiles and tears of happiness on the faces of youngsters who, for most of their lives, never go a day without hunger."

Give Johnny his trains, Sue her doll and give yourself the joy of sharing so others may eat. Mail your contribution to: CARE Food Crusade, 660 First ave., New York, N. Y. 10016.

AUTO HITS POLE, TRAFFIC TIED UP ON MEISEL AVE.

A motorist was hospitalized with injuries, and traffic on Meisel ave. was tied up for more than an hour early Saturday morning, after his car knocked down a utility pole, Springfield police reported.

Linked in satisfactory condition Tuesday at Overlook Hospital in Summit was Edele M. Bomba, 40, of Fanwood, whose head went through the car windshield after the impact, police said. He suffered severe facial cuts, and the First Aid Squad took him to the hospital.

The pole fell on a parked roof, breaking the air lines and thus causing the traffic tie-up.

The truck operator was Robert Oshel, 34, of Neptune. Police said the pole fell between the cab and trailer.

Crews from the Central Jersey Power and Light Co. and the N. J. Bell Telephone Co. cleared the pole and repaired wires that broke when the pole fell.

Burglar Takes $100, Also Coin Collection

A coin collection, valued by the owner at $4,000, and $100 in cash was stolen in a burglary of the Springfield Market at 272 Morris ave. last weekend, Springfield police reported.

Entry was gained by forcing a rear door, police said. The money was taken from a cash register.

Fulop Reverses Court Decisions

The conviction in Springfield Municipal Court of a Middlesex County constable for leaving the scene of an accident, when he attempted to repossess a car in Springfield, was reversed in Union County Court Monday.

Union County Judge Ervin S. Fulop, in making the decision, found Constable Grondin Jr. of Clark not guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and evading driving, and the judge ordered fines and court costs to be remitted.

The convictions were appealed by Grondin, who was fined $105 for leaving the scene of an accident, and $15 for careless driving by Magistrate May Sherman. The cases alleged incidents on which civilian complaints were based took place Sept. 10.

Two Lose Licenses For Points, Speeding

The New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles this week announced that the license of John Fitzsimmons, 19, of 118 Linden ave., Springfield, has been revoked for three months, effective Nov. 27, under the Point System.

The license of Samuel Thomas, 33, of 27 Diven st., Springfield, has been revoked for 30 days, effective Nov. 30, under the

by State Senator Nelson P. Stamler (R-Union)

Many people have the impression that when a man attains a seat in the State Legislature, he inherits a huge and highly paid office staff. This is not so. In fact, one of the recommendations of the Biggs Commission at Rutgers is that some provision be made in the future for full-time staff assistants for state legislators.

As it stands now, the state provides only for part-time legislative aides. The number of aides a legislator has varies according to his own desires and legislative committee responsibilities. Some legislators have as many as six or seven staff members, in one or two cases, entirely political party organizations pay for full-time administrative assistants for their legislative delegations. This, I think, can be a dangerous practice, because it can dissipate the open-mindedness which is absolutely essential to good government, and it reduces the legislators' freedom from political control.

Personally I've found that three part-time aides — selected carefully for particular qualifications — are sufficient for the job that must be done. My three aides are: Gene Deutsch of Union, John Miller of Plainfield, and Paul Finkel of Union.

Gene has been with me for five years, almost all of that time on a purely volunteer basis. A native of Pailades Park, he attended Elizabeth schools. He won his bachelor's degree at Rutgers, where he majored in economics, and he did graduate work in government at the American University in Washington, D.C. Gene's full-time job — sales engineer for an industrial equipment firm for 14 years — gives him broad contact with the workings of New Jersey industry at all levels. In his day to day work he sees and personally experiences the effects of good or bad legislation on the state's industrial complex and the entire state economy.

John has quite a different background. He holds a degree in sociology from St. Augustine's College in North Carolina, and studied law at Rutgers and Howard University. He also is a graduate of the N. J. State Police Academy. John is a Social Work Supervisor in the State Bureau of Children's Services, with important responsibilities governing parole activities for youthful law offenders. His vantage point is that of the "insider," as far as state government operations are concerned, and he is extremely knowledgeable on legislative matters dealing with criminology, welfare and sociology.

Paul is a former newspaper editor, well versed in local government activities. For the past five years he has served two major international corporations, both headquartered in New Jersey, as press relations manager and advertising. Paul was born and director of public relations and raised in Elizabethport. He attended Union Junior College in Cranford and Rutgers, New Brunswick, where he earned his bachelor's degree in journalism. He also has extensive graduate work to his credit, toward a master's degree in business administration at Rutgers, Newark. His special areas of knowledge include all phases of communication, plus budgeting and finance.

Letters To The Editor

Letters to the Editor must be submitted no later than Monday of the week they are to appear. They should not exceed 300 words in length. All letters must be signed. Writer's name will NOT be withheld if the letter is of political nature. Names will be withheld upon request from non-political letters. The Leader reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

In behalf of the board of directors and the other dedicated volunteer workers of the Springfield Chapter, American Red Cross, we want to thank you personally and the Springfield Leader for your outstanding cooperation.

Without your enlightening articles and editorials, the residents of Springfield would still be uninformed as to the local needs for Red Cross services. With your knowledge of the situation and your very great help, we have been able to recruit some workers and hope that, by continued newspaper publicity and by word of mouth, we will eventually attain the status of an outstanding Red Cross chapter of which the town could be justly proud.

Attaining this goal will mean constant effort, many more volunteers and a successful fund drive this spring. Only in this manner will our chapter be able to retain its identity. It would be a sad and actually shameful day if Springfield were to permit another area to take over the responsibilities to its veterans, servicemen and their families.

Red Cross will never let these people down. They will be taken care of no matter what happens to the Springfield Chapter.

As an outstanding, growing community, justly proud of its accomplishments in other fields, how can we let someone else take care of our own responsibilities?

Air National Guard Promotion Listed For Springfield Resident

A former World War II fighter pilot, who now resides in Springfield, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the New Jersey Air National Guard.

John W. Barrett of 107 Madison (ret.) entered the Army Air Force in November, 1942, and was commissioned as a second lieutenant and given his pilot's wings. He was sent to Italy to fly in the Italian and African Theaters during the Second World War.

Shot down on a mission over Yugoslavia, he was able to evade capture behind enemy lines for four months, making his way back to Italy.

Released from active duty in August, 1945, Barrett joined the Officers' Reserve Corps. In January, 1947, he became a member of the New Jersey Air National Guard, to which he has belonged since. He attended several Air Force schools, and spent six months' active duty in the Pentagon.

He continued to fly in the unit until about six years ago. At present, he is deputy commander for materiel in the 108th Tactical Fighter Group at McGuire AFB.

In civilian life, Lt. Col. Barrett is co-owner with his brother of Barrett Installation Contractors in Avenel, specializing in heating and air conditioning.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Barrett came to New Jersey in 1939 and to Springfield in 1953. He is married to the former Helen Conway of Scranton, and has two children.

Lt. Col. Barrett's uniform bears the Bronze Star, Outstanding Unit Award, American and European Theater ribbons, World War II victory ribbon, and the Air Force Longevity and Air Force Reserve ribbons.

LEADER PROFILE

"I feel that whatever I can do for the town that is most beneficial, that's where I really dig in."

Mrs. Schwartz has lived in her "town" for the past eight years. Born in Newark, she was graduated from Newark schools and New York University.

"I have been married for 16 years," she said. "My husband is national director of marketing for Gulton Industries, Medical Division, in Metuchen."

Mrs. Schwartz described one of her "busy days."

"I'M AN EARLY riser," she said. "I get up at 6:30 every morning, and by 9:30 I've completed my housework and I'm on my way downtown. For example, this morning, I had a league meeting, then a B'nai B'rith meeting, now I have this interview."

"I participate in fund drives to a small degree. And my husband encourages me to do whatever I think is right. But I'm always home when my children come home from school."

"I hope this doesn't sound corny, but I believe that whatever you give to an organization, you get back tenfold. You can always find something good in everything. I'm a great believer in brotherhood.

"The more exposure you have to other people, the more you understand them. It is lack of knowledge that frightens people, you know. People are all different. There are many more things that make people the same, however, than those which separate them."

"AND I HAPPEN to like people. At the PTAs, I'm helping my children; and someone else is helping my children too."

Speaking of helping people, Mrs. Schwartz was involved with experimental research some years ago, with just that ultimate purpose.

"I did research," she explained, "for medicine at Flower Fifth Ave. Laboratory. I bred rats and experimented on them."

"And I did research on the triple sulfonamide mixtures. It turned out to be very successful."

"This is only one of Mrs. Schwartz's ways of doing some personal good for people she's never met—and possibly may never meet in her lifetime."

The Dayton Regional senior and freshman were joined by two juniors who were awarded second places, Steven Tasher and A. James Bender. The extemporaneous contest was based upon topics of national interest during the current school year.

Forty-five minutes before the contest is to begin, the contestants drew three subjects, selected one and returned the other two. Each student then had 30 minutes to prepare his speech. Two rounds were held in each contest.

Dayton Regional was the only school to have two first place winners. David Carl is the National Forensic League faculty advisor.

Anyone giving a clothing gift wishes to please the receiver. This certainly means that the item should fit, be appropriate to the wearer, and be an item that the person wants or needs. Size alone is a big factor in selecting a gift. It is always well to know the correct size of various garments the person on your list wears, she said.

These sizes serve as a guide in many instances. If the sizes are those of well known brands of merchandise, then there is a good assurance the item will fit. But sizes among brands will vary, as will the fit of different priced merchandise.

Clothing items without brand labels, or having labels that are not well known, may be good buys in some instances. But as a rule, such merchandise is cut on the skimpy side, and frequently the next size larger is needed, she continued.

When you shop, look for labels that provide "care" instructions, fiber content and the manufacturer's name. These labels should remain on the garment. The price can be removed without interfering with the information on how to take care of the garment. The same quality marks should be noted when you shop for clothing gifts as when you shop for yourself.

Look closely at the inside finish of a garment. Is it neat, have generous seams, and is it protected from raveling? Are the full fashion stitches of a sweater real or imitation stitches? How has a sweater been put together? Are there seams that indicate pieces of less material have been sewed together, or have the seams been knitted together?

By looking at a garment carefully, inside, back, front, and sleeves, will often be more of an indication of the true value of the item, than the price.

At Christmas time particularly, there is a wide range of quality of merchandise in all price levels, she added.

Will your gifts be cheap items with high price tags, or did you find a good quality item at a reasonable price?

STATION BREAKS

By MILT HAMMER
OFF THE RECORD (recommended stocking stuffers) — "The Glory of Christmas," by Muriel Smith with the Peter Knight Orchestra and Chorus. The title justly describes the 12 songs in this album interpreted by Miss Smith. Selections include: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Sister Mary Had a But One Child," "Christmas Cradle Song," "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," and the traditional "Silent Night, Holy Night." (PHILIPS-PHM 200-111)

Robert Farnon conducts "My Fair Lady." In this one, Farnon and company are heard in four great hits from the world's most honored musical — "Get Me To The Church On Time," "You'd Better Be Lovin' Me," "The Street Where You Live" and "I've Grown Accustomed To Her Face." Flip side is a polypurpl of six of yesterday's perennial favorites, such as "Dancing In The Dark" and "I'm A Dreamer, Aren't We All." (PHILIPS-PHM 200-157)

On the MERCURY label, the singing rage, Miss Patti Page, sings 12 love songs in her latest LP — "The Nearness Of You." The line-up includes: "Where Or When," "Deep In A Dream," "Try A Little Tenderness," "A Ghost Of A Chance" and "It's A Sin To Tell A Lie." (MERCURY-1004)

"Eddy Howard Sings The Great Ones" — There are 14 selections in this Eddy Howard LP. This one showcases the late Mr. Howard at his best. Hear again such standards as "Stardust," "Moonlight," "Does Your Heart Beat For Me," "Who's Sorry Now" and "Stars Fell On Alabama." (MGM-20672)

Two more goodies include — "Sing Along In Italian" with The Lombardi Singers. (ABC-PARAMOUNT 320) ... "Great For Dancing" (Vol. 1), by The Socialites. This one features 48 all-time favorites for your dancing pleasures. A great one for your next get-together. (ABC-PARAMOUNT 374) ...

For And About Teenagers Good Advice From A Teenager

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am sending in some advice to teenagers. I think some girls have dated at too young an age. Some are dating at 10 and 11 years of age. When you become 12, you have just become a sub-teen. I think 13 is old enough to start having dates, although many parents don't agree. But, watch out, girls, your parents are keeping an eye on you to see how you conduct yourself around boys. Don't go "crazy" over the first boy that pays attention to you and don't go crazy over one boy. There's a man for every woman." — Mary.

YOUR REPLY: "Some of your advice is very good, Mary. Too many girls date at too early an age and a great number of them really get excited when a boy first pays attention to them. The first time a girl breaks up after going steady, it's like the end of the world to her. Yet, it will most likely happen again and again.

This column has never advocated a particular age as "right" to begin going steady. Too many things must be considered. One, as you suggest, is that a girl should know how to conduct herself in the presence of boys.

Agency Leader Dies In Accident

Mrs. Agnes N. Badgley, 50, was killed in an auto accident last Wednesday morning returning from an errand as president of the Summit Area Association for Gerontological Endeavor (SAGE). A letter from Mrs. Badgley appeared in this newspaper last week, expressing thanks for a feature article which had described SAGE activities.

Mrs. Badgley died when her car skidded into a tree in the Watchung Reservation last Wednesday morning. She was returning home after taking a SAGE homemaker from Summit to the home of a patient in Mountainside.

She was the widow of Richard E. Badgley, a New Providence councilman from 1949 to 1949. Mrs. Badgley leaves three sons, a daughter, a brother and seven grandchildren. Services were held last Thursday at the Burroughs and Kohr Funeral Home in Summit.

Presbyterian Church To Hold Traditional Christmas Events

Special services will mark the Christmas season for the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield. This Sunday, Christmas worship services will be held at 9:30 and 11 a.m. The Rev. Bruce W. Evans will bring the Christmas message at both services, and the combined choirs will sing seasonal music.

Featured will be the poinsettia display which has become a tradition in the church for Christmas Sunday. Regular Church School classes will be held at the 9:30 hour.

At 6 p.m., the high school young people of the Westminster Fellowship will start their rounds of caroling at the homes of the aged and ill members of the congregation, "thus bringing some of the season's joy to these shut-in members." Afterwards they will return to the Parish House for seasonal refreshments.

Next Thursday, the annual family Christmas Eve service will be held in the Church Sanctuary at 7:30 p.m. This time is one-half hour earlier than services have been held in the past. Featured will be the singing of the cantata, "Noel, Noel" (Nobel Cain), by the Senior Choir of the Church.

At appropriate times during the cantata, dramatic tableaux will be presented by members of the Westminster Fellowship. These tableaux will depict the "Prophetic... Proclamation of Micah," the "Annunciation to Mary by the Angel Gabriel," the "Message to the Shepherds," and the "Manger Scene."

The cantata and tableaux will be directed by John H. Bunnell, choir director, and the Rev. Donald C. Weber, associate minister. Mrs. William McLaughlin will be at the console organ. This service is traditionally a service attended by families as a group, and during the evening, all Church School children present will join in the singing of the carol, "Ring the Bells."

Remove 'Non-Conforming' Highway Signs

The State Highway Department has announced "billboards" have been brought under control along 18 miles of Interstate highways within New Jersey.

A Department spokesman said all outdoor advertising which failed to conform with regulations promulgated under a 1963 State law has been eliminated on Interstate Rt. 267 from New Durham Road in Middlesex County to Rensselaer Terrace in Somerset County.

Action is currently underway to identify and eliminate non-conforming signs on all other sections of the Interstate System covered by the new law.

The 1963 State Law was based on a section of the Federal Highway Act which declared it is in the public interest to encourage and assist the States to control the use of and to improve areas adjacent to the Interstate System by controlling and eradicating outdoor advertising signs.

The provisions of the State law and the regulations issued by the Highway Department are based on the Federal Act. Under the law, New Jersey became the 19th State to qualify for a Federal bonus of one-half of one percent of the completed cost of sections of Interstate highways brought under control.

The Highway Department spokesman said it probably will be some time before final costs on controlled sections are available and the State is able to voucher the Bureau of Public Roads for the added half of one percent.

"But," he added, "the main intent of the State law and our regulations is to preserve the natural beauty of our Interstate Routes to the fullest extent possible; and to prevent outdoor advertising of the type which tends to distract motorists."

According to the regulations adopted by the Department after a public hearing last June, Interstate highways within commercial or industrial zones are exempt. In all other areas, outdoor advertising is within 660 feet of the right-of-way line and visible from the main-traveled way is forbidden with these exceptions.

1. Official signs erected and maintained by public officers or agencies in accordance with State or Federal law.
2. On-premise signs which advertise sale or lease of the property on which the sign is located at that location.
3. Signs which advertise activities conducted within 12 air miles. The number, size, location and spacing of such signs, however, is closely regulated. For example, no such signs are permitted within two miles of an interchange, and there may be no more than two such signs in any one mile.
4. Signs advertising places of scenic beauty, historic interest, outdoor recreational facilities, or motorist services. These are also subject to tight individual restrictions.

Annual permit fees ranging from $1 to $4 are required for signs. Administration of the program is under the Highway Department's Division of Maintenance and Operations, and permits must be obtained at its District Offices.

Copies of the regulations are available by written request to the Engineer of Permits, New Jersey State Highway Department, 1035 Parkway Avenue, Trenton, 06625.

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
In answer to "Mr. A.Z.B.," who asked whether there are any good women who aren't out to cheat a man, I can introduce him to half a hundred easily, but they "hang out" at church. They love to be asked to the monthly church dinners and affairs ($1.50 for all you can eat with clean entertainment). They bowl, they roller skate, they pack picnics, they picnic, they care for their own apartments, travel, and are well-read teachers, secretaries and professional women who have never married because they don't go to taverns where, it seems, almost all the bachelors are these days.

I was married 21 years ago (and divorced 2 year ago) by one of those who should have remained a confirmed bachelor. Since then, I walk a wide circle around confirmed bachelors or any other kind.

"Mr. A.Z.B.," take my advice go to church on Sunday morn-ing, any church of your choice, mine is no exception. Work at it, become an officer, your church so you can find all the eligible "ladies" and believe me, you will have all the decent women you want to meet... all anxious to meet you.

A Sunday School Teacher

Dear Amy:
Please put this in the paper because if the roof came to the house, my moon would hit the ceiling.

Myon doesn't want me to go with Jim. Here is the reason: Jim is in the army and he never writes to me. The only way I hear about him is from friends. When he was here on leave, he came to see me everyday, but other say he was out with other girls. They tell me he is going with another girl now as well as with me. What should I do? He will be home in two months. Should I break up with him? I am in high school and can get other guys but I love this one.

A M.C.B.

A one-sided romance can never last long, and that's what this is. You know, if Jim cared to nurture this friendship, his letters would be forthcoming. Since they are not, drop the deadwood and date others!

Dear Amy:
I cannot understand women. When their husbands retire, they get tired of having them around the house. I was married longer than "Sick At Heart". After my husband retired, he was up first in the morning, had breakfast started by the time I got up. We cleared the table and did the dishes together. Together we cooked, cleaned, worked outdoors, watched TV, attended church, shopped, traveled and enjoyed ourselves.

We loved each other so much that we wanted to be together always. He did not find fault and was good and kind. Now I am a widow but I have these wonderful memories. I certainly wish he were here now so we could continue to do those wonderful things.

"Sick At Heart," listen to me. Be happy together while you have each other and you will never be sorry. No one will ever take his place.

A Widow

Dear Amy:
When my boyfriend asks me a question, he answers it himself. When I give him my answer he contradicts everything I say. He seems to think he knows everything. I've told him about this and he says that he's "just telling me what he thinks."

If he knows all the answers, why ask me? Except for this, we get along fine.

Key

Dear Kay:
"Chatterboxing" with the guy is a useless sport. It will put you in the ring with him, but it won't put one on your finger from him. He doesn't want answers. He wants a listening post... and you're it. Be silent!

County Parks Set For Winter As Sportsmen Await Freeze

With the winter season approaching, the maintenance crews of the Union County Park Commission are turning their attention to the preparation of winter sports facilities for the thousands of youngsters who each year enjoy nature's versatilly on the snow-laden slopes and crystal-covered lakes throughout the park system. In addition to the Warranoco Park Ice Skating Center the following winter sports facilities will be available to the public on days when ice and snow conditions permit. Ice skating on the lakes in Cedar Brook and Green Brook Parks, Plainfield; Echo Lake Park, Mountlake and Westfield; Milton Lake and Rahway River Park, Rahway; Warranoco

Park, Elizabeth and Roselle; the Salem and Woodruff Sections of the Elizabeth River Park, Hillside; Lake Surprise in the Watching Reservation, and Melrose Avenue, Springfield. Skating is also made available at a flooded area of the Galloping

Hill Golf Course, Kendallworth and Union, and Urami Park, Garwood. Skating areas at Warranoco Park, Lake Surprise, Cedar Brook, Rahway River, Echo Lake, and Galloping Hill, have the added convenience of heated shelters. Floodlights will be provided to permit skating at night. The maintenance force is prepared to scrape the ice daily to assure good skating conditions. "Skating" signs are posted when an area is safe for use.

For the first time ice skating will also be available at the newly-developed two and one-half-acre lake at the Echo-Lake-Nonahagan Connection, which is just about in the geographic center of the county. Coasting slopes are available in most of the County Parks. The most popular slopes, however, are found at the Galloping Hill Golf Course, Echo Lake Park, and Green Brook Park.

Sliding also may be enjoyed at the Galloping Hill Golf Course where a 475-foot rope tow will be in operation when weather conditions permit. Everything is prepared and waiting for the first good cold spell and the first substantial snowfall, the Commission announced.

Early Filing Means Early Payment Of Social Security Old Age Checks

"Residents in the Union-Somerset County areas should file their social security claims before they retire to insure prompt payment of benefits," Ralph W. Jones, district manager said this week. Many people of retirement age do not receive their first social security checks as early as they might, simply because they waited too long to apply for their benefits, Jones pointed out. Applications may be filed any time within three months of when a person wants benefits to start. Since the average processing time of a claim is four to five weeks, Jones advised people to take advantage of this early filing and submit their applications as soon as possible. Many claims are delayed because the applicants do not have the necessary information or papers to establish their eligibility for benefits, he said. These delays could be avoided if people would get in touch with the social-security office ahead of time to find out what they should bring with them when they apply for benefits. Jones stated that a short visit or telephone call to the social security office before the time of filing can significantly speed up the processing time of the application. The Elizabeth office is located at 268 North Broad st. The telephone number is 351-3200.

Friendly Teachers, Pleasant Atmosphere Help Erase Learning Snags

By MARIAN BROWN
Scores of children with learning difficulties are pouring into a new building on the campus of Newark State College, Union.

There graduate students, intent on careers in special education, establish with them one-to-one relationships within the confines of individual learning rooms.

within the small enclosure, and each is gaily decorated with wall designs made by the student teachers.

The youngsters smiled happily when a reporter looked in on them last week, indicating that they think their work at the Center is fun and that they like their friendly teachers. They also indicated that they are pleased to be erasing those learning snags that get in the way of even the brightest of young minds.

DIRECTOR OF THE CENTER is Dr. Edward La Crosse, who is also chairman of the Department of Special Services and director for an experimental project for training workers to help at centers for retarded children.

A slender, dark-haired man with probing brown eyes and a relaxed smile, he was formerly education consultant for the National Association for the Mentally Retarded. He has a B.S. degree in psychology from the University of Washington, an M. Ed. degree in special education from Western Washington College of Education and an Ed. D. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University.

He has served as coordinator of the Handicapped Children's Service in Kent, Washington, clinical psychologist at Rainier School, Berkeley, Washington, and principal of that school, and as assistant professor of special education at Longbeach College, Longbeach, Calif.

He explained that the Center lodges three clinics: speech, remedial reading and psychological services. They provide individual diagnosis and therapy for children sent to them by referral or upon the request of a parent.

The primary function of the Center, however, is to provide opportunity for observation and practice by student teachers. Only graduate students and, to a more limited degree, senior undergraduates, are permitted to work in the Center, Dr. La Crosse pointed out, and they are supervised by competent leaders. They have all completed academic preparation for the work they are doing.

THE FIRST SERVICE performed by the Center for a child is diagnosis, and this is free. If it is determined that the child has a problem that is correctable at the Center, he is accepted for instruction at a small fee. Counseling is provided for the parents so that they can help alleviate their child's problem.

Sometimes a mother learns by bringing her child to the Center that the child does not really have a problem. Parents are often over-anxious about their children. Dr. La Crosse pointed out, and bringing the children to the Center for evaluation if they are worried about them, does much to relieve their anxiety.

One mother, for example, brought a 22-month-old baby to the Center, because he had not learned to talk. She was told that many children do not talk at 22 months and not to worry. The child was thoroughly checked for possible physical or mental deficiency and the mother was assured that there was none.

If a physical deficiency is discovered at the Center, the

$80,000 Sought From County For Two-Year College Games

The Union County College Opportunity will ask the Union County Board of Freeholders today to appropriate $80,000 in its 1965 budget to institute a scholarship plan for Union County residents attending Union Junior College in Cranford, according to former Assemblyman James M. McGowan and Richard P. Muscatello, Elizabeth attorney, co-chairmen.

The committee will urge the Board of Freeholders to institute immediately the recommendations of its Advisory Committee to study the need for a two-year college in Union County that "Union County should utilize to the fullest extent the opportunity and resources it possesses in the existing and accredited 30-year old Union Junior College by granting financial assistance to the Union County students who attend there," Muscatello said.

McGowan said that in addition to the $80,000 it would cost Union County taxpayers in 1965, the plan provides for the state to appropriate $35,000 in scholarship aid.

"This proposal would have the effect of reducing by 50 percent the tuition of a Union County resident attending Union Junior College, as the present tuition is $800 a year. The plan proposed by the Advisory Committee calls for the state to provide $200 annually and for the county to provide $200 annually for each student from Union County," McGowan explained.

The co-chairmen said they will submit a resolution adopted unanimously by the Union County College Opportunity Committee, urging immediate implementation of the Advisory Committee's recommendations.

The leaders of the Union County College Opportunity Committee said many Union County families are concerned about how they will finance college educations for their sons and daughters, as "tuition costs go higher and higher."

"The facts are that the opportunity for a college education is being denied many of our young people simply for economic reasons," McGowan and Muscatello said. The freeholders "it has become increasingly clear to all competent observers that government at all levels has a vital role to play in meeting this crisis. Indeed, the goal of providing quality higher education for all young people who need it is virtually impossible without the financial support of all levels of government."

The committee recommended that the freeholders appropriate funds to inaugurate the scholarship program in anticipation that the State Department of Education "will strongly support the recommendations of your Advisory Committee."

Eclipse Of Moon To Be Discussed

The Amateur Astronomers, Inc., of Union County will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Union Junior College, Cranford. The discussion topic will be the moon, and by coincidence a lunar eclipse will take place at 9:07 p.m. tomorrow also.

Roger W. Tutill of Mountain side, club president, said all county residents are welcome to attend. Arrangements will be made for viewing the eclipse. There will be no business meeting.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Charles Braun, technical assistant in the department of astronomy at Columbia University. Braun will comment on recent photographic discoveries made concerning the moon and will explain the mechanics of lunar eclipses.

The audience will go outdoors shortly before the total eclipse time. Several telescopes will be provided for viewing. Braun will use a public address system to discuss what is happening as the eclipse takes place, weather permitting.

are more like psychotherapy than speech correction.

"Stuttering," she explained, "is the enigma of speech therapy, because, although many theories concerning its cause have been advanced, none has ever been proved. And every case is different."

"The condition comes and goes," she said, "depending on the way a stutterer feels and on many other factors. It can be relieved, but one wonders if it is ever cured."

The very beautiful revent-haired young woman spoke with poise and inner assurance, her voice well-modulated, her words clear without being deliberate.

How can you see inside these people to help them find why it is they stutter?" she was asked.

"I am a stutterer," she said smiling.

No one would have ever known.

ASSISTING SAM LAURIE in the reading clinic is Dr. Lillian Pulman. They use a variety of equipment to determine the nature of a reading problem and help in its correction, from a telebinocular, which tests for astigmatism as well as other problems, to a battery of games that motivate learning. The main tool, however, is the undivided attention of a single teacher working with one child at a time.

Dr. Selva, director of psychological services, limits her department, for the most part, to testing, although clinical help is provided in some cases. She provides intelligence and personality testing with standard techniques and personal interviews. If treatment is called for she will refer the parents of the child to the proper source but she will handle mild emotional problems herself.

There was the case, for example, of the child with "school phobia." He had been out of school for a long time because of illness and was afraid to return. Visits to the clinic proved to be just what he needed to bridge the gap between home and returning to school.

Girls Learn To Strengthen Muscles, Cultural And Physical

By BEA SMITH
More than 100 girls, pupils in Springfield, are on their toes these days breathing in as much culture and music appreciation as they can for the next nine weeks.

Thanks to Mrs. Frank Garrity, Royal Ballet Academy instructor, they are learning to develop good posture, carriage and poise, while gaining a sense of coordination between the mind and the body in a new program for the Springfield Recreation Department called "Ballet in Education."

Mrs. Garrity, one of the first instructors who started teaching this form of ballet (Syllabus on the East Coast, about seven years ago, explained that the instruction was started in 1935 in England. "Today, it's on the required curriculum in English schools."

standards, not only in England but now throughout the world. There are approximately 55,000 boys and girls in different countries who take their non-professional ballet in education examinations annually. And about 4,000 dancers annually take their professional examinations.

"When I was teaching the 'Ballet in Education' in Springfield, I successfully entered about 60 or 65 children within a period of three years.

"Examiners come over here from England once a year and stay with me for two days to give individual examinations. "Parents, teachers and students need some information on what the ballet offers to a child. "What can ballet do for a child?"

"For most children," she said, "a serious ballet education can be much too frustrating and far too difficult. Therefore, a program, such as our 'Ballet in Education' has been put together by artists, writers, leading dancers in ballet, musicians and drama experts, specifically for a child who is studying the ballet—once a week.

"You see," Mrs. Garrity explained, "for students who are seriously interested in ballet—once a week, naturally, is no way to learn."

"FOR OUR STUDENTS here at both the Walton and Caldwell schools, the costumes required are the traditional leotards, tights and ballet slippers. The six and seven-year-old groups, however, wear little skirts, because among the small fry, the first thing that happens when they raise a leg is that their arms go flying in the air.

"By adding a short, wide skirt, we instruct the little ones to hold onto the skirt. This way, it keeps them in one position.

"Our program," Mrs. Garrity said, "is actually a foundation in ballet—for the average student and for the talented child who may take ballet seriously in the future.

"One of the many things the youngest learns in this educational program is to develop good posture, poise, self-discipline—to gain a sense of coordination of active mind and body, plus a knowledge and feeling for music."

According to Mrs. Garrity, the students will certainly be "exposed to a lot of good music."

"We have an excellent accompanist, Mrs. Dorothy Pushkin. She did a lot of accompanying in New York schools,

She was graduated from Northwestern University and presently serves as music superintendent in public schools in Cranford.

"And my assistant, Mrs. Brenda (Willard) Burner is a Royal Academy girl—an English girl. She's very well qualified in the arts, and did a lot of professional dancing in both England and New York."

THE CLASSES INCLUDE youngsters from each grade—from first through fifth or sixth grade.

"Each grade in the syllabus contains a section on mime, to help develop the students' natural talents for dramatics, and to give full play to the imagination through national and character dances.

"Incidentally," Mrs. Garrity said, "all dances are authentic. The students are brought into realistic contact with the root folklore of other nations."

"The 'Ballet in Education' also contains sections on historical departments—the means, manners and behavior of the times; the history of costumes, plus the history of dancing and music—all these things linking ballet with education, you see."

The ballet instructor voiced an opinion on the ballet as a physical fitness program.

"PHYSICAL FITNESS is a big thing today. In the minds of most people, ballet is the best form of physical fitness. Did you know," she smiled, "that a lot of coaches give football players ballet? England has been doing it for years. It's in set syllabus for athletes."

"Ballet in Education" classes were originally taught by Mrs. Garrity in her home in Cranford. "However, the classes expanded so that we started classes in the American Legion Hall here. We discovered that the floor was too slippery for our exercises. It became impossible to teach.

"Mothers of my students were so upset about it that they went to the Springfield Recreation Department to see what could be done about it. The Recreation Department obtained permission from the Board of Education—and here we are."

Mrs. Garrity, who was born in Cranford, studied in Cranford schools, in addition to taking ballet lessons. She became active in the Wilton Playshop in Norwalk, Conn. "I choreographed and studied stage dancing."

the educational-culturally interested public. Naturally, the children would be part of the demonstrations.

"Perhaps, eventually," she mused, "we'll also have boys in our ballet classes. I'm sure some mothers would like to have their sons in our classes. "It's really quite popular in the Royal Academy in England.

"But," she added, "first things first."

"FOR THE LAST 10 years, I have concentrated just on learning how to teach. Most of my teachers were from Sadler-Wells-Royal Ballet of England.

"I put on quite a bit of children's ballet in this area and in Mountaintop."

"Frankly, I hope we'll be a part of the cultural program in Springfield," Mrs. Garrity said. "I would like to see a professional ballet on the stage in Springfield."

HOLIDAY GUESTS? SEARCH NOW FOR EXTRA FURNITURE

Are you having extra guests for the holidays? If you are, and if you need extra furniture for the guest room or living room, Miss Gena Thames, extension home furnishing specialist at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, offers the following money-saving suggestions.

Explore your local furniture stores. Good furniture buys are possible but check quality of wood and workmanship as well as price.

Secondhand furniture may be a more economical purchase than new furniture of low quality but usually there are no guarantees, warranties or returns on secondhand pieces. You may find suitable secondhand furniture by visiting secondhand stores, moving storage warehouses, auctions, swapshops, sales from model homes, and by reading want ads in local newspapers.

Seconds or slightly damaged furniture can be economical, too. Pieces slightly marred in shipping or handling often sell at reduced prices. Examine the pieces carefully to determine the full extent of the damage and find out the cost of repair before you buy.

Unfinished furniture is another possibility for saving some money. Consider prices and qualities of wood and construction. Shop in several stores to compare values.

Keep in mind the space the furniture will occupy, the activities of the area in which it will be placed, and the use you will make of the finished piece, Miss Thames cautions.

Storage Reorganization Should Make More Efficient Use Of Existing Space

Housecleaning time stimulates new interest in home storage, according to Mary W. Armstrong, home economist. Most homemakers complain that they do not have adequate storage space. A once or twice a year complete cleaning and reorganization helps only temporarily if space use is not carefully planned for. Two possibilities are offered for making more room and keeping closets and cupboards tidier. One is to best utilize space available in existing cupboards. The other is to build or procure more storage space, she said.

Closets can have added shelves above poles or at sides or ends. Over door equipment is available also. More shelves can be added in cupboards so that space between shelves is not wasted. Directions for making extra sturdy shelves without nails, "Rotators Shelves" are available on request. Shelves and drawers can be divided in order to have "a place for everything and everything in its place."

All kinds of corners, wall and door spaces can be well-used for storage as well as existing closets and cupboards. An 8" deep cupboard behind a door is wonderful for canned goods, food packages, or for glassware, cups and saucers, or pots and pans, not used frequently. Wall space near the ceiling over doorways can be utilized to hold seldom used items. Corner cupboards although not providing highly efficient storage space, may because of ready access at certain places, for even a few times, save time, steps and frustration, such as in breakfast area for toaster, napkins, etc.

Door storage — whether on hangers or in shallow bins can be very helpful. Hard to get at base cupboard storage may be made to open from both sides, thus eliminating the need for reaching, and incidentally, helping with light, to find things. Window seats and benches can be more than "glory holes" with some subdivision or organized placement of equipment. This is not practical if there is too much clutter or too many pillows on top, or if the lid is hard to open or there is no provision for holding it up; she continued.

Closet arrangements need to vary according to what is to be stored therein. The location of the closet suggests that first floor storage for outdoor chore wraps and for guest coats; bedroom closets for children or adults; linen closets; bathroom closets; kitchen storage of many types and locations including shallow floor to ceiling storage for canned goods, reserve supplies or pots; cleaning supply closets; family room storage for games and hobby equipment; sewing closet storage; the family business center storage; under stairway storage; and storage for garden and outdoor supplies. Well planned, all these contribute to order in the home and peace in the family.

Good storage can save a homemaker time. It can also aid in home safety and in training young people to take responsibility. A single page outline, offering suggestions on time-saving storage, is available free on request from the Home Economics Extension Service, 1108 Elizabeth Ave., Elizabeth.

Good Foods Are Abundant During This Holiday Month

"Christmas is coming and the geese are getting fat," runs an old English rhyme. But with Christmas coming, this year not only geese but lots of other good foods provide an overflowing cornucopia to match the good cheer — traditional to the month of December.

The plentiful foods list issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service is full and varied, welcome indeed for the many festive meals of this joyful holiday month. Mrs. Mary Armstrong, Union County's Senior Home Economist, advises. Top plentiful for the month will be turkeys and peanuts and peanut products, versatile foods for a month-filled with many festive occasions.

A fine roast turkey, golden brown and beautiful, will surely serve as one holiday meal supreme and also for quick and easy score dishes in days thereafter. The heavy volume of turkeys coming to market in the weeks ahead are expected to carry attractive price tags.

Peanuts and peanut products, economical as well as nutritious, will be other good choices for the shopping list. Use peanuts and peanut products for the holiday nutbowl, for delicious cookies, cakes and pastries, for sandwich and salad mixtures, for stuffings and sauces, and for other dishes and delicacies you may devise.

For holiday and everyday main dish — features, December will offer an excellent variety of high-protein foods — beef and broiler-fryers remain abundant. Supplies of lower grade beef — suitable, especially, for casseroles, stews, pot roasts, and other longer cooking savory dishes — will be considerably greater than last year.

For the fruitbowl, the whole month long, take advantage of this year's remarkable apple crop.

An excellent cranberry crop will bring plenty of cranberry products to market — juice, jelled sauce and wholeberry sauce.

SPECIALIST SAYS NO RUG-FIBER IS STAIN-PROOFED

Don't be confused by claims that certain fibers in carpeting will not stain, advises Miss Gena Thames, extension specialist in home furnishings at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University.

Tests conducted by the National Institute of Rug Cleaning have proved that stains are easier to remove from some fibers than others. However, there is no completely stain proof fiber.

The Rug Cleaning Institute further points out that 85 to 90 percent of all liquid stains on carpeting could be eliminated if immediate steps were taken to blot up excess liquid. This keeps liquid from spreading.

Stains allowed to remain unblotted on carpeting for more than 48 hours are very difficult to remove completely.

For this reason give immediate action to any spills on carpeting, suggests Miss Thames. Thoroughly blot area starting at outside edge and working toward center. Place one half inch deep layer of tissues or paper toweling over damp area and weight down with books. Leave for about six hours.

Trend In Changing Hemlines Varies In Temperament Of Fashion Experts

In the midst of a trend of changing hemlines, many women will be busy either raising or lowering hemlines, according to Carolyn F. Yukins, Union County home economist.

Some fashion experts are featuring longer hemlines, while others decree that the length of the skirt should be above the knee.

Whichever camp you wish to follow, the task of changing hemlines will need to be done before last year's fall clothes can be worn.

It is wise to try on skirts and dresses as they are removed from storage. Skirt lengths that seemed a trifle long last season will seem even longer this year. And conversely, dresses that were uncomfortably short last season may make you more determined to eliminate the tugging process when you sit.

Ideally, hems should be removed before a garment is cleaned to lessen the crease line. When shortened, the crease line problem is eliminated. However, when skirts are lengthened, the crease line may create a major problem.

In lengthening a skirt, it will be necessary to work on the crease line of the previous hem first. In some fabrics, as corduroy, velvet and napped wools, this line is generally impossible to remove. However, sponging the crease line with white vinegar and pressing will be helpful in erasing most crease lines.

For added length, it may be necessary to face the hem with wide bias tape to create the look of a two-inch hem. Or, the skirt may be faced with lining material—to obtain a longer length.

The temptation to keep turning up a hem is great. Although a hem width of more than three inches will be bulky and conspicuous.

To shorten a skirt, it is usually advisable to rip off the old seam binding and cut an even hem width of two or three inches. Then re-stitch the old seam binding along the cut edge, or use new seam binding to cover the raw edge. Then hand-sew new hem in place, she says.

Frequently, hems in woollens and knits are finished by pinking the edge and edge-stitching one-half from the pinked edge. This technique eliminates the use of seam binding.

MAUREEN GILLEN, GRADUATE NURSE, IS FUTURE BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gillen of 2264 Balmoral ave., Union, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Maureen Frances to Lawrence Peter Fiorani, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fiorani of Union City.

Miss Gillen, an alumna of Our Lady of The Valley, Orange, and St. Joseph's Hospital, School of Nursing, Paterson, is currently employed as a registered nurse on the staff of Georgetown University Hospital, Washington, D.C. She also attends the Catholic University of America in Washington.

Her fiance, who was graduated from Georgetown University, is a senior in Georgetown University School of Medicine. A June wedding is planned.

MATURE STUDENT NURSES NEEDED, STATES COLLEGE

Ninety-four students, including two men, are enrolled in the Associate Degree nursing curriculum at Fairleigh Dickinson University this year. There is a growing opportunity for older people in the profession.

"In this day and age," Professor Mary Topalis, chairman of the nursing department at Fairleigh Dickinson, has announced, "the mature man and woman who is alert and interested in continuing to be an active and contributing member of society can find many satisfying opportunities in nursing. The other side of the coin is that they are greatly needed."

Of the student nurses now taking the nursing course at Fairleigh Dickinson, 13 have been out of high school for more than 15 years. There are six married women in the sophomore class, and nine in the freshman class.

Students enrolled in the nursing department this year are from New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Germany and Korea.

Scholarships are available for qualified students needing such aid. Professor Topalis points out. Nearly a third of the students enrolled this year are receiving some scholarship help.

HOSPITAL CITES VOLUNTEERS FOR SERVICE HOURS

At a Christmas party Sunday afternoon honoring 247 volunteers who contributed a total of 44,862 hours of their services to St. Elizabeth Hospital during 1964, George Keppler of 762 Second ave., Roselle, was honored as the Volunteer of the Year.

Rev. George J. Lelko, the hospital chaplain, presented Keppler with a lamp for his library. Keppler, who served three days each week in the hospital's coffee shop, donated 883 hours during 1964. He is a retired superintendent of mails at Westfield Post Office and a member of the John Dayson Gilmary Blue Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus.

Mrs. Mary Memon of 3866 Willard st., Union, was second from point of service with 870 hours, and was presented with a Merit award.

Sister Anne Michuella, director of Volunteer Service, announced that the total number of hours (44,862) was the highest number ever contributed during one year at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

WASH POLYESTER FIBERED PILLOWS

Some pillows filled with polyester fibers are washable, some are not, points out Miss Gena Timmer, extension home furnishing specialist at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University. If the hang tag says "washable," this means to hand wash them.

If your washing machine has a special short washing cycle, which includes slow speed and "gentle" agitation, you may wash the pillows one at a time by machine. In either case, wash them with care.

The pillows may be dried in an automatic tumbler-type dryer on a LOW temperature setting. Or line-dry them, turning pillows side to side several times as they dry. Or place the pillows on a drying rack or slatted surface to dry, turning occasionally to permit air circulation.

The troupe, which filled a complete Somerset bus to bring Christmas cheer to about 60 children, also included Mr. and Mrs. Louis Slatnick of Irvington, Mr. and Mrs. David Ottenstein of Maplewood (who organized the group, after the organization in which they were members, the F&C David Fisher group, dropped its plans to make yearly visits to Peapack); the Ottenstein's children, Mr. and Mrs. Howard (and Sonja) Noah of Orange Bell Laboratories, Murray Hill employee, and Orange Public School art teacher, respectively; Barry Ottenstein, a junior at Jersey City State College, and a member of a professional guitar-singing group called "We Three" (who also attended); Judy Ottenstein, a West Orange beautician; and Helen, a Columbia High School senior; plus members of the Higura Temple (Irving Chazon) representing the Essex Eureka Lodge, Knights of Pythias, No. 154, and members of the Newark Hadassah (of which Mrs. Ottenstein is a past president).

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Talmon of 18 Mulr pl., Union, will begin a 16-day trip tomorrow on the Rotterdam for a West Indies cruise.

Every child in the Matheny School (which is licensed by the state and a member of the New Jersey Hospital Association), received a gift, was entertained by choral groups and the troupe's "clowns", fed refreshments (by hand) and sang songs.

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Economist

Time-Saving Tips Offered For Busy Holiday Season

Do you ever find you have more to do than you can manage to get done? Don't be discouraged, this is a common situation at this time of year. There are many things that could have been done earlier to make these days and weeks less hectic, such as reorganizing kitchen storage, improving your method of doing many repetitive jobs, and planning an overall schedule. Although it's late to fully benefit this season, there are many small ways that you can save yourself and accomplish more.

First — Be honest as you plan what you can hope to accomplish each day. Be prepared to get a little less done than you expect because of interruptions and emergencies.

Second — Let other members of the family help. Give them a chance to do some things independently; it's more fun for them. The results might be not quite up to your standard, but does that really matter?

Third — Don't allow yourself to get tense and nervous. You aren't good company for anyone. And besides, you don't work efficiently if hurried and worried. You are also more accident-prone.

Fourth — Decide which tasks are not absolutely essential so that when you get in a tight place, you know what to give up. Be sure not to start too many jobs at once, especially in different parts of the house. Finish one job at a time.

Fifth — Remember not to undertake elaborate preparations for entertaining. If time is short, choose recipes that you have used successfully before, not untried new ones that may present real difficulties. Take advantage of time-saving foods and preparation done on some other food products. For instance, if a box of dried fruit is labeled "tenderized," the fruit has been partially precooked before packaging. You can cook the fruit without soaking if you follow directions on the box. Make life easier for yourself by using all the quick tricks you know. Using your home freezer for storing make-aheads is one big help. Steamed pudding, a Christmas favorite, for example, will freeze well. To serve: reheat in a steamer.

Maintain superb quality in home baked products by proper storage techniques outside the freezer, too. When storing cookies, do not mix crisp and soft cookies in one container.

Yule Baubles & Bon Bons

A box of cookies from your kitchen can be the most welcome and thoughtful type of remembrance during holiday time. Here are two tempting and festive cookie recipes which add a colorful touch to a gift package. The Bright Lemon Baubles require no cooking at all and are similar to Rum Balls, but with a lemony tang. The Bon Bons are baked on pecan halves, then prettily frosted.

Lemon Baubles

1 1/2 cups vanilla water crumbs
1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1/4 cup bottled lemon juice
Tinted sugar

Combine all ingredients except tinted sugar; let stand 20 minutes. Form into small balls, adding more corn syrup if mixture seems dry. Roll balls in tinted sugar or confectioners' sugar. Chill. Yield: 2 1/2 dozen.

Bon Bons

1 cup butter
1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sifted cornstarch
Pecan halves
2 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

1 tablespoon softened butter
3 tablespoons bottled lemon juice

Red or green food coloring
Cream together 1 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons

Puppets, Dolls, Knights, Tops Are Yule Gifts Of Yesteryear

Ever wonder, as you watch your child unwrap his Christmas toys, what kind of playthings Santa brought to children hundreds of years ago? According to Al Visco, consumer relations manager of Channel-Lumber, Greek and Roman children of early Christian times were often given puppet-dolls. These dolls were cunningly made, with jointed movable wooden limbs—and a hole in the head. A string passed through this hole, and connected to the arms and legs, turning the doll into a marionette.

Christmas meant a new supply of rattles and tops for little ones in the Middle Ages. In the 12th and 13th centuries, little girls who requested dolls for Christmas usually had to settle for crude clay ones. But little boys of that era "when knighthood was in flower" got toy horses and knights as gifts.

At the Cluny Museum in Paris there's a medieval knight on horseback — just 2½ inches high — the ancestor of our toy soldiers.

Children lucky enough to be born to royalty or nobility received toy kettles when it came to gifts. A 14th century manuscript records a payment to a goldsmith for repairing a toy windmill given to a certain Princess Isabella of France. Sixteenth-century craftsmen were paid high prices by aristocrats to fashion exquisite toys for their children.

Among the delights these children might find in their Christmas stockings were soldiers made of silver or even of gold! The girls might get tiny perfect copies of household furniture or utensils for their "baby houses" (doll houses).

Meanwhile, Christmas toys were branching off in still another direction — the first crude mechanical toys appeared as early as 1000 A.D. They were equipped with clockwork in 1672 by the toy-makers of Nuremberg, already famous for their dolls. A French sailor who had fought the losing battle of Trafalgar with Napoleon was the unlikely pioneer of mass-produced clockwork toys.

Educational toys have been around in one form or another ever since little boys started along the road to knighthood by staging mock battles with toy horses and knights.

From about 1650 on, foreign-made toy kettles for their little girls. These contained a complete battery of miniature cooking utensils in copper, pewter and wood. Later, English toy-makers began producing one-roomed houses—representing butcher shops, tailor shops and other establishments — for little boys.

Looking over the recent shipment of Christmas toys at Channel's retail outlets, Visco marveled at how intricate and elaborate many of them were. "The single most interesting fact about the Christmas toys," the executive said, "is that only a handful of the more than 200 varieties which were 'new' last year have maintained their popularity this year."

Channel maintains retail outlets at Totowa, at the Livingston Circle, Clifton, Rt. 22, Springfield, Neptune; at the Sayre Woods Shopping Center in Sayreville and Newark. The company also maintains a Leisure Living Center adjacent to its Springfield, N.J., outlet.

and have stocked all the stores with the current most popular assortment, Visco said.

Rising Income Seen As Factor In County Population Increase

Holiday Deadlines

The Christmas and New Year's editions of this newspaper will be printed two days ahead of schedule. Strict adherence to the Friday noon deadline both weeks will facilitate publication of organizational, social and other news items.

"The population of New Jersey continues its rapid expansion, particularly in the suburbs and rural areas, and more slowly in the cities, while some urban areas are losing population to the suburbs," according to research report No. 135, "New Jersey Population Estimates, 1963," released by the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The gain in population is based on income rise, leisure time increases and changes in social ideas, the department stresses. While pointing out that major gains have been noted in the suburban areas, the department lists Union County as fourth in population growth from the 1960 census to July 1, 1963, with a gain of 9.3 percent.

In other reports, entitled "Housing and Dwelling Units" and "A Digest of Employment," the state department also shows a profound increase in the number of dwelling units and a picture of which businesses, industries and services keep the major part of county residents employed.

In population increase, the Borough of Mountainside ranks fourth in the state with an increase of 13.4 percent. It is preceded by Clark Township, first in the state with an increase of 23.8 percent; Berkeley Heights, 22.9 and New Providence, 15.8.

Springfield shows an increase of 8.8 percent, Linden an increase of 5.5 percent, Union Township 4.8 percent, Kenilworth 4.4 percent and Roselle and Roselle Park 3.7 and 3.5 percent, respectively.

According to the 1960 census figures, the population of Springfield was 14,467. It is now reported at 15,740. Mountainside, which had a population of 6,325 in the 1960 census has risen to 7,170; Linden has grown from 39,931 to 42,130; Union from 51,491 to 53,970; and Roselle and Roselle Park from 21,032 to 21,800 and 12,546 to 12,990 respectively. Kenilworth has grown from 8,379 to 8,750.

In the suburban communities it follows that construction would rise with the increase in population. In Mountainside, the total number of units at the time of the 1960 census, was listed at 1,822 and had jumped by 1963 to 2,051, the state department reports. The net increase in that borough is 13.1 percent.

Springfield's dwelling units increased from 4,671 to 5,068 over the same period of time for a net increase of 8.5 percent; Union rose from 15,043 units to 16,885, a net increase of 4.7 percent, and Kenilworth's number of dwellings, reported at 2,306 in 1960, is now reported at 2,407, for a net increase of 4.4 percent.

Linden's number of dwellings is reported at 12,455 as of last year, as opposed to 11,967 according to the 1960 census. This proves to be a net increase of 4.2 percent. The number of resident units in Roselle has jumped from 5,414 to 6,845, for a net increase of 26.2 percent and Roselle Park was reported in 1960 as having 3,619 dwelling units and as of last year, 3,850 for a net increase of 6.4 percent.

While there is no town-by-town breakdown regarding employment, Union County ranks fourth in the state for its share of manufacturing employment. The greatest part of the state's chemical industry is located in Union County as well as in Middlesex and Essex.

WEEDER'S DIGEST

By Your Rutgers Garden Reporter

YOUR RUTGERS GARDEN REPORTER YOUR OWN GREENERY
Enjoy Christmas greenery that you have grown yourself.

That's the suggestion of Don Lacey, extension home horticulture specialist at Rutgers. All you have to do is spend a few minutes with the pruning shears around the yard if you'd like to harvest your own greenery.

Many yews, both spreading and upright, won't miss a few branches at this time of year and will quickly recover next spring. Yews hold their needles well indoors, often as long as two weeks.

American and Japanese hollies make attractive wreath materials and table decoration. Trim an American holly tree to make it cone-shaped.

BALSAM FOUNDATION
For variations in texture, take just the tips of arborvitae, falsecypress and juniper, as well as pine and spruce.

Hemlock prunings are useful, too, as long as you don't attempt to use them indoors. They'll soon lose their needles.

Unless you have a large estate it's doubtful if you'll be able to harvest enough greens of your own for a large door wreath, Lacey cautions.

Better go buy some balsam or spruce boughs for the foundation, because you'll need a lot, and then use your own greens for interesting variations.

You're lucky if your sprigs of holly have berries. Some of the Japanese barberries also have red berries. Likewise wine-leberry, but you'll have to pick the berries before the birds get to them.

You may like touches of flocking or white paint from a push-button can to finish your wreath.

Holiday 'Wassail' Bowl

Reward Christmas tree-trimmers and jolly carol singers with a luscious steaming wassail bowl of orange and grape-fruit juices.

sweet cider and aromatic spices. The tradition of wassailing comes from England, where in olden days a host toasted his guests with the words "wass" and "hall," meaning literally "be well," and a hot fruit punch.

This recipe is especially appropriate for the season now when citrus fruits are at their peak of flavor.

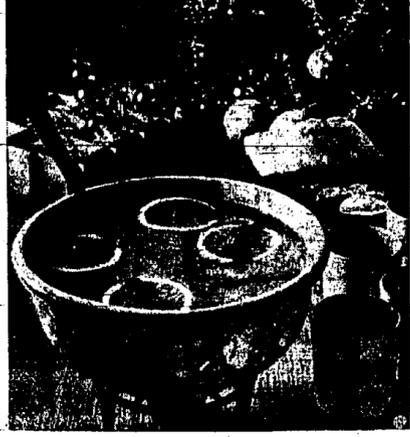

Recruit Women For Reserve Unit

Applications are currently being accepted for enlistment in the Coast Guard's women's reserve training program, it was announced this week.

The program, designed to afford young women the opportunity of spending a year on active duty for specialized career training, and two years as enlisted members of local Coast Guard Organized Reserve Training Units, is open to single women between the ages of 18 and 30.

All interested women may contact the Coast Guard's local recruiting representative, Boatwain's Mate 1/C Robert F. Laird, Room B-29, Post Office Building, Newark. His phone number is 646-2635.

STURDY CHRISTMAS TOYS
When a small child throws a toy on the floor and tramples it underfoot, adults often say he's "bad." When the toy happens to be a Christmas gift, the child is not only "bad," he's "ungrateful" too.

Often a child behaves this way because his toy won't work or falls apart.

Few things are more maddening to adults than gadgets that don't work. How do you feel when a new gadget comes apart in your hand? Perhaps you only toss it in the nearest wastebasket — but you might want to explode with a few harsh words and tear the gadget apart or hurl it away.

Children's feelings are intense. Toys that don't work disappoint them very much. You can't expect a small child to be philosophical when his Christmas toy falls apart or won't work. He wants his playthings to be sturdy and durable. He's right, too, because he gives his toys hard use. It's no wonder that he gets angry when his toy won't stand up as it's supposed to, or when the wheels fall off of his auto or wagon.

When you buy toys for children, it's well to select a sturdy toy. And be sure it works and does what it's supposed to do. If it's a mechanical toy, it should work easily. It's better to give none at all than a fragile toy that will fall apart in the first few minutes of play.

Sportswear has taken a turn for the elegant! One of this season's most popular sweater fashions can be seen in every exclusive and expensive boutique shop . . . and I'm just delighted because I've found a design for one of these collector's items that you can make yourself!

All-Occasion Perfection
It's such a glamorous look — with your trimmest stacks . . . with any easy walking skirt . . . as a lovely after-ski or skating sweater . . . there's no end to its fashion possibilities. It's knitted with wonderfully soft knitting worked in a very simple stockinette stitch. I've done mine in white with a blossoming combination of colors: carmine, hibernian and cardinal with maddy green stems and leaves. That extra touch of fringe at the waist and sleeve edges adds to its custom-made look. If you're in the mood for glamour — and be sure to keep the coming holidays in mind — this is a sweater especially for you!

Inexpensive Beauty
It's certainly a knit that you'll want to add to your wardrobe — and so inexpensively, too! For free instructions for this sweater, with its delicate tracery of flowers, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper. Ask for Leaflet No. PK 2077.

Homeowners Advised To Keep Houses In Salable Condition

Keep your home salable through good maintenance, local property owners were advised this week by members of the Board of Realtors of the Orange and Maplewood, Livingston, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield. The realtors, who sell a total of $30,000,000 worth of properties a year through their multiple listing service, pointed out that "the state of repair and modernization of a used house are important factors in determining its eventual selling price."

 This vigilance begins early in the life of a private home, according to realtor Frank Bedford. "By the time a house is three years old, the exterior is usually in need of painting," he said. "The inside can probably use some decorating, too, and the gutters should be treated."
 Repeat the same process every three years, counseled Bedford. After the 10th year, more sizable repairs will probably demand attention, he predicted. "The gutters and hot water tank will be gone for 10 to 15 years. After about 20 years, you may have to replace the roof and the shrubbery will be overgrown. Normally," he added, "after seven to 10 years you will find the house too small or too big and you're ready to move."

 Even relatively new homes need "modernization" occasionally, Bedford commented, since builders tend to outdate existing residences. "Fashion has come to be a big element in buying a new home, and is particularly important in the kitchen, improvements in equipment and planning are developed so quickly," he continued, "that even a six-to-eight-year-old house may have a kitchen that looks outmoded to a homebuyer who has shopped widely and reads the housekeeping magazines." Bathrooms, he added, recently seem to have held their style a little longer.
 "A house represents a big investment for any family," Bedford noted, "and good maintenance and some effort to keep a young house young will protect that equity."

Girl Scout Troop Offers Troupers In Autumn Show

The girls working for their drama badge are Patty Sprinde, Nancy Urban, Mindy Buzin, Barbara Owens, Jewel Brands, Sharon Miller, Ellen Aloyx, Karen Klarfeld, Linda Force, Linda Platt, Dale Stokes and Beth Fosman. The next day the girls visited the Paper Mill Playhouse.
 Since Troop 583 has 36 girls, two patrols work on one badge at a time. There are four different groups working at each meeting: drama, under Mrs. Urban; needlecraft, under Mrs. Herb Springle; art under Mrs. Dexter Force; and health aid, taught by Mrs. Bob Peters.
 Karen Klarfeld related the story of Hanukkah and Susan Weinstein, Gwen Franklin, Marlena Fambo, Robin Nicholas and Etta Goforth carried out the flag ceremony. Mrs. Urban thanked Mrs. Martin Gould, Mrs. John Sheehan, Mrs. Raymond Efrus and Mrs. Nelson Lewis for their help to the troop.
 The girls are making Christmas place mats for Overlook Hospital, collecting usable toys for an orphanage and preparing plans for an interlocking party at Warinanco Park Dec. 26.

Hearings

 the outcome of the legal matter.

Margulies brought the matter to the floor when Daniel Hanrahan, a real estate appraiser testifying for Mills, was enumerating the uses permitted as special exception in the S80 Zone. Hanrahan used the term, "public general medical hospital." The board also suggested that Margulies prepare a brief if he wished to.

More Time Needed
 Miller said that in addition to the legal aspects of the matter, the board would reach no decision on the case this week because it wanted time to examine the exhibits presented by the applicant and "we will probably want to look at the property."

The property is located on Morris ave. on the Springfield-Union line, fronting for 192.84 feet on the main thoroughfare. It is bounded by Marlon ave. and the Rahway River and backs on industrial land.

The building designed for the approximately eight-acre tract is an E-shaped, one-story, structure of modified Colonial design. The plans, according to testimony, include parking for 74 cars, one-way roads—15 feet in width—and entrance and exit to and from Morris ave. by right turns only.

The building was designed by Benoit and Goldberg, architects of Union, and consultants are Apartment Planning, Inc. of Bloomfield.

Testimony revealed that the nursing home would employ 40 to 65 persons and that the building would contain 12 one-bedroom units and 57 two-bedroom units.

Traffic Survey
 Warren Travers of Clifton, a professional engineer testifying for Mills, said he had made a traffic survey and had determined that the type of traffic which would not interfere with coming and going at the peak hour traffic and would be less of a burden than if one-family homes were to be constructed on the land.

William J. Parillo of Apartment Planning told the board that there was only a one 14-room unit for nursing home care in the township and approximately 500 beds for such care in the county. He said the county was badly in need of additional facilities.

Residents argued that erection of the nursing home would change the essential residential character of the neighborhood and expressed alarm that the proposed eight-foot fill of the land, which they described now as "essentially swamp land, would lead to flooding of adjacent land.

The board questioned the width of the streets in the area and asked if emergency vehicles could pass into the nursing home if cars were parked along the curbs.

Board members were told that parking area was provided near the building for deliveries and that emergency vehicles could get by, but that the streets could be widened if the board decided that they should be. In other action the board reserved decision on the application of Joachim Schorr of 32 Frenhill rd. for a variance to construct a swimming pool along side his home.

Pays For Driving The Wrong Way

Mrs. Hazel Phillips, 33, of Glen Ridge was fined $40 in Springfield Municipal Court Monday night for driving the wrong way on Rt. 22 and causing a three-car collision.
 The woman, who appeared in court before Magistrate Max Sherman, was involved in a collision Dec. 4 with cars driven by Isadora Pomponale, 44, of Scotch Plains and Harvey Garbow, 35, of Plainfield. The Scotch Plains man complained of dizziness and head pain after the accident.
 Police said the woman was driving east in the westbound lanes, and the other two cars were traveling west.

Highway Department Has Policy, Now Needs Manpower For Progress

The State Highway Department has adopted a "Policy and Procedure Manual" setting forth ground rules under which it hopes to push right-of-way acquisition in New Jersey to a goal of 6,000 parcels and $70 million a year.

A spokesman for the department remarked, "We have the procedures, now all we need is the people." He said that "Parcel status records show the present work load consists of 4,735 parcels currently in hand requiring acquisition at an estimated cost of $60,982,937.12. In addition, there are almost 950 cases in condemnation status at an estimated cost of $7,965,795. The 1964-65 Construction Program indicates that if presently planned projects are not to be delayed, 7,515 additional parcels for a total of 12,250 will have to be acquired. There is no doubt a level of 6,000 parcels annually must be attained if the Interstate System is to be completed on schedule."

All of the procedures in the Manual have been developed during the past three years and have the complete approval of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

According to the Director of the Department's Division of Right-of-Way, Public Roads' officials have stated privately that New Jersey's procedures are among the best in the nation and "now even tighter than their regulations require the state to provide."

He added, "appraisal techniques required for the acquisition of right-of-way under the Federal Aid Highway program are far more sophisticated than in the past, and individuals with the necessary skills are in extremely limited supply. The Department is constantly seeking to expand its staff of trained appraisers and negotiators so that the full benefits of the new procedures may be realized."

An intensive training course in the most scientific methods of right-of-way appraisal conducted by the highway department in cooperation with Fairleigh Dickinson University last spring made it possible to set up a staff and institute a new appraisal review process which is being studied by other highway departments. But the Right-of-Way Director has reported that this review staff is no longer available for field appraisal work, so that the training program — first of its kind in New Jersey — must be continued and expanded to replace and strengthen the field forces.

A recent report on the organization of the department by the firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton recognized that New Jersey has "more difficult land acquisition problems than most other states." The firm's report said that "even with these improvements in operations — there has been a continuous problem of building and retaining an appraisal staff sufficiently large and qualified . . ." It recommends a substantial staff increase and intensification of the training program.

The firm also endorsed the Department's development of electronic data processing methods of handling right-of-way records. The present large data for putting this system into operation is January, 1965.

The various sections of the Manual cover these areas of activity:

1. Operational Guide Lines for the Property Section Improvement Disposition Office developed in October, 1961. This unit is charged with the orderly disposition of buildings which the state acquires in the process of buying right-of-way, either by sale at auction or through sealed bids or by demolition, so as to recover the best potential for the state. In its first year of operation, the unit recovered approximately $380,000.

2. Guide Lines for Preparation of Appraisals for Right-of-Way Purposes and Supplemental Formatted Instructions developed in September, 1962 and revised in November, 1963.

This section sets forth in detail the various methods of appraising right-of-way and provides instruction as to the proper documentation of appraisals. It contains a "short form" for property valued at under $1,000; a form to be used when an entire property is acquired and one for use when only part of a property is acquired. As an indication of the complexity of such work, when "damage to the remainder" must also be appraised, the last form is 13 pages long.

3. Operational Guide for Relocation Advisory Service and Reimbursement of Moving Costs developed in January, 1963. This service is based on a 1962 state law which enables New Jersey to take advantage of provisions of the 1962 Federal Highway Act under which the Bureau of Public Roads participated in the moving of families and businesses displaced by highway construction.

4. Operational Guide Lines for Fee Appraiser Contracts and Fees developed in May, 1963 and revised in September, 1964. This sets forth the method of employing and compensating private appraisers to supplement the department's staff, a necessity in most cases under federal regulations. The department has prepared and is presently awaiting federal approval of procedures under which members of the real estate profession will be contacted in an effort to secure the services of additional qualified fee appraisers.

5. Operational Guide Lines for Right-of-Way Appraisal and Appraisal Review Procedures developed in August, 1963. This section sets forth the methods under which each appraisal is scrutinized by a specially trained reviewer on a separate staff, and the fair market value of the property involved is determined. This value is then "registered" by the headquarters staff before field personnel are authorized to commence negotiations.

All of the right-of-way guidelines set forth in the Manual have been thoroughly tested and are now part of the Highway Department's official Standard Operating Procedures.

The boy's parents took him to Overlook Hospital, Summit, for examination, but he was back in police headquarters a few hours later, police said.

The annual charity Christmas donations of the Springfield Lions Club will be announced at the regular meeting of the club tomorrow night at the Mountside Inn, according to the club president, Dr. Leonard R. Eckle.

The donations include $100 for the Sunshine Club of Lions Club District 16-E. The Sunshine Club is an organization within the structure of Lions International which arranges that as many blind women in Union County as possible are given a one or two week vacation at Camp Happiness in Rockway Township.

The Springfield and Union clubs recently were co-hosts at a party given for the Union County Blind Association at the Presbyterian Parish House.

Harold Bishop of the Springfield Lions Club was chairman of the arrangements committee for the party, which included games, singing, social activities and refreshments.

Paradox Shows Record Savings Year While Individual Accounts Decline

Statistics show that people are adding to their savings. The amount saved went up 28 billion dollars in 1963 to a record total of 222 billion, according to this month's Changing Times.

Savings per person have declined, however, and the theory is that prosperity is to blame. People spend more and save less when "times are good."

"At the same time, saving is more worthwhile now than it was a few years back. Tucked-away money earns more and the nest egg grows faster," says Changing Times.

Reporting where people keep their savings and why, Kiplinger editors list banks as the most popular choice. A minor boom in saving at commercial banks since 1962 helps account for 100 billion dollars in time and savings deposits at the end of 1963.

Income and occupation are both shown as influences on where a person saves. Professional-managers—persons known for savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks are popular among those in clerical-sales jobs.

Second most popular savings institutions in dollar volume are savings and loan associations, with accounts totaling more than 91 billion dollars—also called cooperative banks and, in Louisiana, homestead associations. Their average savings account is $2,468, almost double the size of the average commercial bank savings account, and they often give the saver the highest return for his money.

Also very popular, but not available everywhere are the 507 "mutual savings banks" located in 18 states, with the heaviest concentration in the Northeast. Altogether, they hold about 44.6 billion dollars in savings.

Their goal is a form which will have elections for a mayor and council, to be held in the spring when the campaign will be financed by national and statewide issues. It is now with the voting in November.

Present plans of the group call for petitions to be circulated in the immediate future, so that a charter study commission can be organized and a referendum held in February. If the proposal is approved, the group is aiming at elections under the new system to be held in May.

Attempt in 1955

A charter study was approved by the voters in a referendum held in the spring of 1955. That project led to a recommendation for a council-manager form of government.

A vote on that proposal, combined with the 1958 general elections, resulted in a rejection of the recommendation. That election, incidentally, marked the takeover of Town Hall by the Bonadies-led Democrats.

The 1958 Democratic leadership took no formal stand on the charter changes then proposed. Leaders of the Springfield Republican organization were split on the proposals.

Plans to petition for another charter study were discussed in the township two years ago, but no action materialized at that time.

Stressing their desire for a change to "take the partisan factor out of municipal government" as well as to increase the efficiency of operations, members of the new charter change group called on all Springfield residents to communicate with any of them if interested in supporting the proposal.

TAKE HOME PAY DECREASE SHOWN IN FALL MONTHS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The net spendable earnings of factory producers workers declined in October as the automobile strike sharply reduced output, according to a report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The three cent cut in average hourly earnings between September and October was the primary factor behind the drop in "take home" pay, according to figures released by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Spendable earnings (gross weekly earnings less Federal income and Social Security taxes) dropped by 80 cents in October to $92.18 for the average factory production worker with three dependents. For the single worker, spendable earnings amounted to $44.40 in October—down 77 cents from the previous month.

In both cases, there was a better than four per cent increase in take home pay from the October, 1963, levels. The over-the-year rise reflected increased hourly earnings, more overtime and the reduction in Federal income tax liability.

Purchasing power (take home pay adjusted for price changes) was reduced by about the same amount as spendable earnings in October. However, "real" spendable earnings were up about three per cent over a year ago.

Another petition was taken by Canio A. Casale of 201 Hillside ave., but has not yet been filed. Deadline for filing for the Feb. 9 election is Dec. 31.

If all petitions are filed, the seats being contested will be for that currently held by Mrs. Dorsky, who has served as the chairman of the board's education committee, and the two seats vacated by Alan R. Cunningham and Frank Haydu Jr., who announced two weeks ago that they would not seek reelection.

In a letter to the board Tuesday night, Anderson, who retired as board secretary last June after 27 years of service, said that he felt he would not be able to serve the board in the manner in which he would like. He said that he would not have the time to attend the many meetings demanded of a board member. Anderson is beyond his 70th year.

In other action the board authorized the purchase of an International school bus from Bill's Auto Service, Summit, for $4,899.45. The bus, which seats 58, is expected to be delivered within six to eight weeks.

Master Plan

"It cannot take action on the project for 45 days without the Planning Board's recommendation. Any such recommendation of the Planning Board to another public body may be overridden only by a majority of the full membership of that body and only if the Township Committee, by a majority vote, approves the overriding of the Planning Board's recommendation.

"A Master Plan is a flexible plan in that it may be amended as changing conditions dictate—but only after public hearing and the adoption of a city ordinance.

WHAT IS AN OFFICIAL MAP?

The purpose of YES were emphasized at the meeting to "provide the means whereby young people of the community of Springfield can obtain meaningful work and experience, enlighten the public to the fact that the youth of the community can be reliable and industrious workers; to prepare young people for the challenges and responsibilities of the adult world, and to encourage the youth of the community to complete their education, thus reducing the school drop-out problem."

Temporary office facilities set up in the Municipal Building were displayed to the committee, including donated office equipment and supplies. To carry out the work of YES during the coming year, requests for funds will be made to civic and service groups.

Fancy Gift Wrapping An Old Habit

Gift wrapping, the oldest habit and sentiment in the world, is a high "fashion" that is here to stay.

Just 30 years ago, there were Christmas when a dime package of tissue paper and a ball of red string represented the humble makings for dressing up the packages that were exchanged.

Today, the art of gift selection is surpassed only by the new fine art of the gift's presentation.

In all, we Americans spend some $177-million every Yuletide for these bright, giddy materials and they all go up in smoke on Christmas morning.

While America leads the world in its gift wrap interests, the delightful custom is traceable to ancient China, when toms were carried in rice paper bags. In 14th Century England, members of the Court wrapped gifts in fine silks and woolsens. In France, during the 17th Century, gifts frequently appeared in enamel or porcelain "Frendship" boxes, now collectors items. During the early 1800's in Russia, a trend started in which gifts were placed in jewel-encrusted cases. They were often the works of the famous house, Faberge.

Today, there are positive gift wrap design trends. According to a survey, the very Christmas look is back. After some five years of off-beat, unseasonal colors, the old-fashioned, red-and-green holiday look is here. Way out colors such as grey and beige papers, plus the pink or blue "flocked" trees are on the wane. The 1964 holiday look will be lovely and quaint with more fresh-cut green trees and the look of string popcorn, real or imitation.

And, some readers of newspapers that use green paper have been known to use that for wrapping when the occasion is appropriate.

COLOR MATES

In selecting a mat color, for a framed picture, use a color from the room in which the picture will hang. This coordination of color will help relate the picture with the room setting.

'Do It Yourself' Ornaments

Remember the gingerbread men, stars, trees and angels—all made of cookie batter—that decorated trees of Christmas Past?

Such ornaments did present a few problems. The icing hardened and crumbled off. Heat from radiators or even Christmas tree lights discolored the cookie-ornaments or dried them up. They couldn't be stored, and the work on new ornaments began all over again the next year.

Here's a modern method to maintain the traditions of "made-it-myself" Christmas tree ornaments. Youngsters can make them too, adding their own creative touches.

Best of all, the ornaments can be saved from year to year, and the special pre-holiday fun of unpacking favorite ornaments becomes a Christmas tradition itself.

Combine one cup of dry cool water in a mixing bowl. Mix with the fingers until crumbly. Next, combine one-half cup salt and one-half cup water in a small saucepan and bring to a boil. Add the hot salt water mixture to the slush mixture; then add one teaspoon vegetable oil. With your hands, knead the mixture until it is pliable. Kneading is the most important step, so be sure to knead the mixture thoroughly.

Model into desired shape or roll out with a rolling pin and cut with cookie cutter into Christmas shapes. For hanging the decorations, make a hole at the top for string or ribbon. Allow ornaments to dry and harden. This will take about 36 hours at room temperature. To speed drying, place mold-ings in a warm oven for one hour.

Paint designs or features on the ornaments with tempera. Add string or ribbon for hanging, and have a merry old-fashioned Christmas tree.

Council Asks Liquor Ban At Holiday Parties

A plea to discourage the serving of intoxicating drinks at pre-Christmas office parties and New Year get-togethers in plants and other places of employment was issued this week by the New Jersey State Safety Council.

George G. Traver, executive vice president of the Council, points out that surveys show a sizable percentage of Yuletide traffic mishaps take place in the early hours of the holiday period and many of these can be traced back to the alcoholic drinks served at office and plant parties.

Special holiday studies show, according to Traver, that 50 per cent of the Christmas season fatal traffic accidents involve drivers who "had been drinking," and the combination of alcohol and long hours of darkness adds to serious odds against accident-free driving.

In an effort to correct dangerous misconceptions about alcohol the safety official calls attention to the following facts:

Alcohol is a depressant and not, as commonly believed, a stimulant. The temporary "lift" is caused by the depressant acting to loosen mental controls. Continued drinking will slow you down and can knock you out — not stimulate you.

You can drive safely after a few drinks is another common belief. The fact is, according to Traver, tests have shown that a two-drink concentration of alcohol in the blood (.05) slows reactions an average of two-fifths of a second. In that time a car going 60 mph will travel an additional 34 feet. Vision also deteriorates. It takes longer for the eyes to distinguish objects, and the side vision becomes blurry. Worst of all, normal cautions are relaxed; a driver is more apt to risk his life by racing to beat the light, pass a stop street sign or try to pass on a dangerous curve.

Another dangerous misconception cited by Traver is that coffee will sober up a drinker, but the fact is that there is nothing in coffee that lessens the effect of alcohol. How fast a person's system gets rid of alcohol depends on the rate at which his body burns up the alcohol. Competent authorities have found, according to Traver, that it usually takes about an hour for the effects of an ounce of liquor to wear off on a 150-pound man and whether he drinks coffee, milk or ordinary water in the meantime it will take just as long to wear off.

Legion Convention To Be In Wildwood

The executive committee of the New Jersey American Legion decided in a recent meeting to hold the organization's 47th annual convention in Wildwood Sept. 9, 10 and 11, 1965. This will be the 14th time in the past 17 years that the convention will be held in Wildwood.

The Legion's administrative body also approved a pledge to fully support the governor's holiday traffic safety program. The group urged all Legionnaires in the state to join in the pledge and to publicize the program at the community level.

Also in the executive meeting, a $200 savings bond was contributed as an award in an essay contest to be conducted by the governor's committee on the employment of the handicapped during 1964-65.

The Legion officers approved and urged the flying of a pennant with the slogan "One Nation, Under God" under the American flag on the flag poles of its post homes throughout New Jersey.

May 21 and 22, 1965, were designated for the official visitation to New Jersey by the Legion's national commander, Donald E. Johnson of Iowa.

Comedy Opens Soon In Millburn

"Enter Laughing", the comedy based on comedian Carl Reiner's novel, will open at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn Dec. 26 and play through Jan. 10.

Alan Mowbray will re-create his starring role in the comedy, with Lynn Bari and Dick Kallman co-starring. "Enter Laughing", which enjoyed a successful run on Broadway last year, was adapted by Joseph Stein from Reiner's book about his early days in show business.

Also featured will be Joe Young, Ruth-Jaroslow, Harold Cary, Charles Randall, Carol Demas, Tom Gatch, Gian Selandra and Diana Hrubetz. Iris O'Connor is the director and the sets are by Robert T. Williams.

Dr. Gross To Speak

Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of Rutgers University, will be the principal speaker at ceremonies dedicating the new Newark Academy in Livingston Feb. 2. The program will be held in the academy's gymnasium at 2 p.m.

THE FEMININE LOOK

Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Round the World Newspaper Study Mission

By TRUDINA HOWARD

There was always wine with lunch-and-dinner—except in India.

Of course the golden rule all over is "do not drink the water." Milk is not even a consideration so there are no rules about it, but you are not supposed to touch butter, so I would assume milk is out. All of this, of course, almost forces you to wine, or beer. Wonder if it is a mass plan. If you must drink water you are advised to buy it by the bottle, or tell the maid to bring you water which has been boiled. You are even supposed to brush your teeth with this pure stuff, and if you run out of water, you had better use wine, or else.

One couple did it? You are also instructed not to eat uncooked vegetables or fruits unless they have skins which you do not eat, such as bananas, grapefruit and pineapple. But I remember that in Kabul, Afghanistan, there was a salad that looked so green and fresh and I was so hungry for it that I couldn't resist it. I ate it. I finished it. A minute later error group leader came by and said, "Remember, don't eat the salad!" I don't remember what I said, but by the grace of God, and the goodness of Kabul, I stayed healthy. This is not always so, so it is best to take care.

NO MATTER WHAT the country though, we almost always received the help of the U. S. Embassy or consulate, and our representatives abroad, both men and women, both officials and wives, are something to be proud of. We met ambassadors, prime ministers, presidents, mayors, cabinet ministers, business men, generals, lords and Peace Corps members, and felt the red carpet under our feet. There were official briefings, meetings and receptions where we could receive information and ask questions; there were social dinners, buffet parties and cocktail parties where we could meet people — and ask more questions. There was hardly a day when we were not guests at a breakfast, a luncheon, a dinner or a reception.

As a matter of fact, it seemed to me that we were continually eating. Sometimes we had as many as three breakfasts; one on purpose, the hotel before leaving on another phase of our journey, one offered on the plane and one ready for us on arrival at someone's invitation. It worked the same way if it was lunch or dinner-time.

And how was the food? Most of the time, delicious, but always edible. Nowhere did we detect a shortage.

Perhaps the most memorable foods were the lime-grapefruit and the pineapple of Tahiti, the all hand-eaten native feast near Tahiti, an eggplant curry at the Ambassador's luncheon in Ceylon and the nan and pilsu of Afghanistan.

Most surprising was the delicious, typical American food served in the middle of the wilds of India (Lake Peshwar), AND in Afghanistan, and the hottest Indian type curry food (it was so hot I could not eat it) served not in India, but in Auckland, New Zealand!

NEW ZEALAND and Australia are beautiful countries but they look like us, and that's a long way to go to look in a mirror. But while they are similar to us, and to England too, for that matter, they are different in one thing: they are off on a cloud somewhere. They are really isolationists. It is rather a strange thing, because you don't notice it while you are there. When you come away, you suddenly realize that you haven't heard what De Gaulle is doing lately, what has happened at the United Nations recently, or which prime minister said what to whom last week.

I think they are behind the Atlantic. Both Australia and New Zealand place quite a bit of emphasis on sports, and their papers are filled with that. But perhaps the real reason lies in the fact that both countries, to a great extent, still cut themselves off from certain peoples (Africans, Asians), with rather rigid immigration laws which prevent the entry of these people to the country in great number. They remain, therefore, an almost pure European white society with a few natives in the background and no changes desired. On the other hand, perhaps it is only because they ARE so far away that things and events do seem far away. At any rate, when we reached Singapore out of Darwin, Australia, it was like jumping into the pool of world events again.

NEW ZEALAND is so much like the United States; Australia is so much like England and the United States, and Tahiti is so much like the Hawaiian Islands; that one wonders why anyone would travel eight hours by jet from Los Angeles to get to Tahiti, then nine hours more to get to New Zealand, and then four hours more to get to Australia. "Because it is there," I suppose. And it IS interesting.

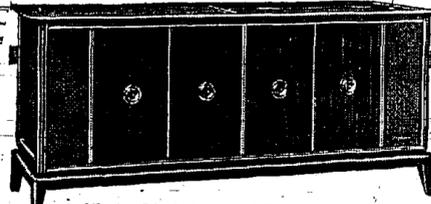

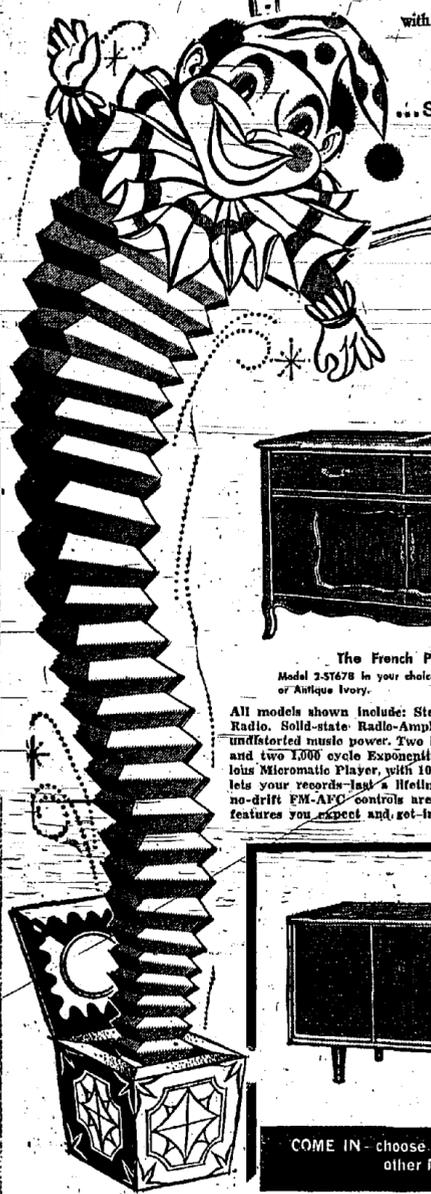

I don't think there was any-

TEMPLE TEAMS WIN IN OPENERS OF LEAGUE PLAY

The two boys' basketball teams of Temple Beth Ahm launched their initial season of United Synagogue Youth Northern N. J. League competition on a winning note Sunday. The USY team of high school students whipped Nutley, at Nutley, 43-28. The junior team, seventh and eighth graders, defeated Morristown, 47-31, at the Florence Gaudinier School.

The USY quintet featured a balanced attack as Ned Einstein and Ira Piller shared scoring honors at nine apiece. Steve Hodas was the rebounding star, and Bob Magines sparked on defense and all-around play.

The junior team, with young veterans of three and four years of Recreation Department play in Springfield, had too much polish for the latter Morristown boys. Dave Margulies, with 18 points, and Ken Kurnos, with 12, led in scoring and rebounding. Joel Schwartz added seven points and starred in the back court.

Games scheduled for the latter group include: Jan. 10, Cliffside Park at home; Jan. 17, Nutley at Nutley; Feb. 7, West Orange at home; Feb. 15, New Milford at New Milford; Feb. 21, Morristown at Morristown; March 7, Cliffside Park at home; March 14, Nutley at Nutley.

Baker's Man On Mat, Won't Play Pattycake

MARSHALL, Mo. — Thomas Baker of Springfield, N.J., is a member of the Missouri Valley College wrestling team. He wrestles in the 167-pound class. Baker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Baker, 39 Henshaw ave., is a freshman in the college. He starred on the wrestling team last year for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Plays Caldwell, Then Westfield

The basketball season began this week at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. Few Dayton fans were overjoyed, however, as the team dropped its two opening games. The Dayton dribblers are facing an extreme shortage of experienced players this year.

This factor played a big role in last Friday's 61-39 defeat at the hands of the Arthur Johnson Regional Crusaders of Clark and in Tuesday's 54-45 defeat at the hands of Rahway of the High School.

Dayton Coach Ray Yanchus said after Friday's game, "We had not expected this degree of collapse. We'll have to improve if we expect to face Caldwell and Westfield next week."

Dayton meets Caldwell tomorrow night in Caldwell. Last year Dayton won this match by only four points, and this year almost the entire Caldwell squad is back. It is a fast-breaking, high scoring team.

The Bulldogs will meet Westfield High at home on Monday afternoon. Westfield is a Washington Conference title contender this year with an all-senior squad including all-county forward Bob Keller, 6-5.

On Friday night, very sloppy ball handling and poor shooting accuracy from the court and from the foul line cost Dayton the game. Though barely hanging on in the game during the first half through the efforts of Mike Kretzer, leading scorer, the Bulldogs fell apart during the second half and gave away 25 points while scoring only 12.

Lost To Rahway
In Tuesday afternoon's game with Rahway here, Dayton got off to a good start. Field goals by Alan Greenberg, Bob Ries and Kerry Tompkins gave Dayton a 6-2 lead.

Dayton seemed to be playing a more deliberate thinking game instead of Friday's fast-paced but sloppy play. Dayton passes were quick and precise, and shooting was accurate. At the end of the first quarter, Dayton led, 11-8.

The second and third periods saw a close battle. Dayton lost its slim lead in the second period as Rahway's football quarterback, Terry Sweeney, sank two long jump shots. The Bulldogs continued to fight back, however, with Tompkins and Kretzer playing well under the backboards and a zone defense providing good protection.

In the final quarter, Mike Kretzer, after about three minutes, Dayton's well-planned game seemed to break up. With the score almost tied, Dayton passes were intercepted four times by a close Rahway press.

As Dayton shifted to a man-to-man defense, Rahway scored six consecutive baskets and took a 49-37 lead. Then with minutes remaining, Dayton began a press of its own.

In the final minutes, Dayton scored six points on a Tompkins shot from the corner, a hook by Keith Neigel, and a lay-up on the fast break by substitute Dave Dronkin. The clock ran out, however, with Dayton trailing, 54-45.

Lost To Clark
Last Friday's opener against Johnson Regional of Clark was a big disappointment to fans, players and coaches of Dayton. Dayton jumped to a 3-0 lead in the opening minutes, but four Johnson baskets took the lead for the Crusaders. They never again trailed.

In the first period, fast-paced, sloppy play by both teams caused high-scoring and many foul shots. Johnson Regional clearly outshone the Bulldogs on the foul line and held a 24-15 lead as the period ended.

As the second period began, Dayton put on its only scoring show of the evening. Mike Kretzer scored six points on two foul shots and two lay-ups. Bob Ries sank four foul shots, and Dave Dronkin, in for Keith Neigel, scored one field goal.

Dayton then trailed by only two points, 9-27. The flurry was short-lived, however, and the Crusaders had soon increased their lead to 35-27 as the High School half ended.

Took Control
The second half saw Dayton deteriorate as Bill Wilson and big man Charlie Malmborg controlled the basketball almost at will. Dayton shooters were inaccurate and Dayton passes were often intercepted. In the final period, Alan Greenberg and Mike Kretzer fouled out, and the whole first team was taken out by Coach Ray Yanchus. Johnson scored 13 points in the third period and 11 in the fourth to end the game with a 61-30 victory.

Coach Yanchus of Dayton said his whole coaching staff was very disappointed with the performance of his team. "I don't know how to account for

It," he said. "Some of the boys we counted on didn't perform as we expected. We were working all weekend to see what we can do about communicating with the plays.

"We couldn't sink the short four or five-foot shots or the lay-ups. The foul line was a disaster. We only made 13 out of 34. That would have made the difference."
