REMINDER OF TRAGEDY—Theresa Gargalowitz of Union has remained in a coma since her car above, skidded on wet trolley tracks on Morris ave., Springfield, on April 6, 1964. The tracks were finally covered this past fall as the State Highway Department launched a widening and repaving project for Morris ave., which had long been requested by Springfield officials. The Morris ave. improvements are scheduled for completion in the near future. (Photo by Springfield Detective Robert Taffel)

Theresa Gargalowitz Ending Year In Coma After Accident

By ERVIN FALKENHEIM

"It has been a year of agony."
But it has also been a year of hope for the family of Theresa Gargalowitz of Union. The 20-year-old college sophomore has remained in a coma ever since her tragic accident in Springfield on April 6, 1964, when her small foreign car suddenly skidded on rain-slicked unused trolley tracks on Morris ave. and crashed into an oncoming bus. "It has been a year of agony," said Mrs. Alexander Gargalowitz, Theresa's mother, who just living from day to day. "We don't even know what's going to happen from one hour to the next."
Theresa, an evening student at Fairleigh Dickinson University, was heading home from classes at the Madison campus the night the accident occurred. The brown-haired, blue-eyed cheerleader suffered a compound fracture of her right arm, a fractured left shoulder and a fractured right leg. She also had a punctured lung, besides the brain damage that caused the coma. The fractures have healed.

She lies in a private room at Overlook Hospital in Summit, staring blankly into space, according to a hospital spokesman. The spokesman said her eyes are open and she is unresponsive to even the voice of her family.

"Everything has to be done for her. She can do nothing for herself. She has a breathing tube in her throat at all times."
"It would be a miracle if she woke up from this coma after such a length of time," the spokesman quoted medical authorities as saying.
Added the hospital: "Theresa no longer requires the medical care of a community general hospital. Her condition now is such that a nursing home can give her the type of medical treatment she requires, and at substantially lower cost."
Efforts to have Theresa placed in a state hospital have proved unsuccessful, and the family, which resides at 2530

Hawthorne ave., Union, has no immediate plans to place Theresa in a private nursing home.

The hospital bills have been staggering because of the intensive care she has received. A hospital bill totaling $9,022 was received by the family several weeks ago. This has wiped out the Theresa Gargalowitz Fund which was established to help the family defray medical expenses. The family is still awaiting more doctor bills.
Theresa, who had been studying to be a medical technician, and do cancer research, has not been forgotten by the hundreds of people who have contributed their time, quarters and dollars to swell the fund to almost $8,200. Philip Portnoy, a member of the Union Board of Education, is the fund's chairman.

The most recent contributions included $100 from the Florence M. Gaudineer School in Springfield, $25 from the Harold C. Arnold Association of Union and $34 collected by a group of Union Girl Scouts.
"We have been deeply grateful to the many persons who have made this fund grow during the past year," Portnoy said. "We hope the money continues to come in. It makes the world a better place."

Vote Favors Evergreen Permit

Adjustment Body Urges Approval For Singing Shell

Decision Gives List Of 'Special Reasons' To Grant Variance

BY ABNER GOLD

The Board of Adjustment last Tuesday night recommended to the Springfield Township Committee approval of a variance to permit Evergreen Lodge to construct an indoor singing shell and lavatory facilities.

Tuesday's action, which calls for a variance to extend a non-conforming use, is expected to intensify action by a group of neighbors who have strenuously opposed the Evergreen Lodge project for several years. The lodge is a commercial venture located in a residential zone. It was there before the area was zoned residential.

A previous variance, approved by the Township Committee, was remanded back to the Board of Adjustment by a recent court decision. That ruling stressed that a variance to extend a non-conforming use must contain positive reasons why the changes would improve the public welfare, and not merely negative reasons why the project would not be objectionable.

In its unanimous decision on Tuesday, the Board of Adjustment presented a list of seven "special reasons" to justify the proposed variance. They are:
1—The improvement will not exceed 50 percent of the value of the present building and is thus not a "substantial extension or enlargement."
2—The use will protect the established character and the social and economic well-being of private property by continuing an open recreation area for use by residents, and providing a continuing barrier between industrial and residential zones.

Youngsters who tried out Saturday are now being assigned to major and minor league teams for practice and further trials.

Charities Invited To Discuss Plans For Single Drive

As part of its efforts to organize a Community Chest or United Fund Campaign in Springfield, the Chamber of Commerce has invited all charitable groups which have operated in Springfield to be represented at a meeting Wednesday evening, April 14, at Town Hall.
Harvey Schramm, C of C president, declared, "Signs of growth and development with the many solicitations and lack of sufficient manpower for each individual drive have sparked the efforts of the Chamber to seek a solution which will require fewer workers, avoid the many duplications of administrative costs and prevent wasting charitable funds on questionable solicitations."
"We are contacting all known charitable organizations which have operated in Springfield. We hope to bring some measure of relief to an ever-mounting problem."
Jack Stifelman heads the committee for the united fund project, assisted by Henry Grabarz, Saul Freeman and Schramm. In the letter to the various charitable groups, the Chamber (Continued on Page 6)

Little League, Fun Or Frenzy? Parents Are Urged To Relax, Enjoy

BY BEA SMITH

While Springfield enjoys spring and all of its colorful aspects and promises, boys are pounding the dust from their baseball mitts and swinging last year's bats around experimentally.
"Other small boys are filled with the joys and anticipations of becoming members of the Little League baseball minor leagues. And according to Jack Slater of Springfield, who is a veteran manager in the Little League baseball minor leagues, boys (ages nine to 12), it can also be a time of stress and strain and heartbreak for boys and coaches, and possibly parents.
A word to the wise is sufficient, indicated Slater the other afternoon, and perhaps if parents of prospective league members seriously heed the advice offered, much heartbreak and disillusionment may be eliminated.
"Spring, said Slater, who is vice-president and Treasurer of Triangle Conduit and Cable Co. in New Brunswick, and who spends much of his time managing Little League groups, "is a time for Springfield baseball league tryouts, practice, major catastrophes and sore backs—and a time for dads to get out the faintest of youth."
"And I have a few words of advice and rules for parents to follow."
"TRYOUTS," instructed Slater, "are intended to aid league directors and managers in assigning boys to the teams in the league. I realize that the tryout system is not perfect, but it gives us a relative rating among the boys and guides us in initial team assignments."

"If a boy does poorly in tryouts but is really a 'good player,' this will come out in practice games." He will be moved up accordingly. Likewise, several boys will be moved down from the majors to the minors.
"Our first concern," he continued, "is for the safety of the boys, and the tryouts are just one tool used by directors and managers in this regard. Within two weeks after the tryouts, boys will be called by team managers and be told to report for practice."

OVERLOOK OPENS SPRING CAMPAIGN TO ADD NEW WING

Overlook Hospital today will launch its community-wide campaign to raise funds for a $650,000 expansion program, which includes a seven-story wing and many new areas of medical services. A special pictorial news supplement is being distributed with this week's issue of the Leader.

The hospital declared that the supplement "explains the broadening concept of medical science and service embodied in Overlook's new program, as well as pointing out the urgent need for the hospital's expansion if it is to continue to provide for the needs of its growing population area." Ground breaking is scheduled for this spring, with completion in two years.

New Master Plan Set For Unveiling By Board Tonight

Plans for distribution of Springfield's long-awaited zoning Master Plan will be announced by the Municipal Planning Board at its meeting tonight at 8 at Town Hall, it was disclosed this week by Donald Rowe, chairman of the Planning Board.
He also intends to announce a date for a public hearing on the proposals for the future growth of the community. In preparation for the formal public hearing, the Planning Board will hold a series of four "seminars" to explain various aspects of the Master Plan. Dates for these meetings will also be announced tonight.
If copies of the Master Plan are received from the printer in time, they will be available for purchase at tonight's meeting. Rowe went on to say he has no discussion of the Master Plan tonight.

The plan, which has been under preparation for several years, is designed to establish a pattern for the orderly growth of the township in the immediate and the more remote future. Areas are designated for residential, commercial and industrial purposes, as well as for municipal offices and agencies. Planning Board members are Rowe, Francis J. Keane, Kenneth P. Young, Albert D. Evans, Richard J. Colandrea, Azeglio Pancau, Township Committee member Arthur M. Falkner, Mayor William F. Koza and Walter Koza, township engineer.

Civil Rights March Met Jeers, Cheers

BY DONALD LEWIS

Five members of Temple Shalom, Springfield, long known for their participation in last February's 44-day civil rights march in Montgomery, Ala., were among the demonstrators who met jeers and cheers as they marched through Selma, Ala., last night.

The group, joined the 300 who had marched 50 miles from Selma and some 25,000 others for the final four miles through Montgomery's Negro ghetto and downtown section to the state capitol building.
Marching in a column six abreast and over a mile long, the demonstrators were alternately cheered by Alabamian Negroes and jeered by Confederate flag-waving whites along the march route.
Despite the absorbing presence of National Guard and federal troops at each intersection, the marchers were a vibrant group. Spontaneous singing of freedom songs and chants of "Freedom now" and "One man, one vote" continually broke out along the line of march.
The demonstrators filled broad Dixie ave. before the step of the white-domed capitol, to be entertained by Harry Belafonte and folksingers Peter, Paul and Mary and the Bar-Kays. Next, a mass prayer in the civil rights movement style to the glory from the steps of the capitol.
The speakers called for an end to racial discrimination and justice brutally in Alabama. They demanding 34 percent of the seats in the Alabama legislature for Negroes. Alabama's population is 44 percent Negro.

"The climax of the Montgomery march was with Dr. Martin Luther King's address. Dr. King spoke of the history of segregation in the South. He explained that the white segregation was used by the South to keep the Negro in a state of inferiority and inferiority."

Group To Survey Hiring Practices

The Springfield Advisory Committee on Human Rights last week acted to survey the hiring practices and standards at the township government and educational levels, including the S. D. Office here. It was announced by William Burt, chairman.
Burt also said that the survey will be part of a "continuing study of all areas which could conceivably be used as covering for racial discrimination" and that it is intended as an effort to uncover rumors which, if left unchecked, could exert an ill-proportioned, destructive power within our community.

April 30 Varieties Are For Families

Springfield Lions Club variety show, "The Lions Roar" to be presented for one performance only on Friday April 30 in the Regional High School auditorium is expected to be one of the spring social highlights of the town, a spokesman said this week.

General chairman, Rupert H. Humer, reported that plans are now being finalized and assured the club that this year's presentation will be one of the best. Herbert H. Kern, chairman in charge of selecting the production numbers, has auditioned a number of productions to be presented. He reported that these will be of unusual and outstanding quality.

"One feature of this show is that this is strictly entertainment for the whole family. The acts are selected to fit this end and there is sufficient variety to please all ages. Offensive or questionable material is not tolerated. As a result of this reputation, built up over many years, the audience has largely consisted of family groups that welcome the opportunity to enjoy live entertainment together," the chairman said.

1/2 cup butter
 2 egg yolks
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Few grains of cayenne
 1 electric range

DIVIDE BUTTER into three pieces. Place one piece in saucepan with egg yolks and lemon juice. Set heat at 150° (lowest setting on the electric range). Stir constantly until butter melts. Don't worry about lumps or curdling because the cooking temperature on the electric range-top unit is exact and steady—so steady there's no need for a double boiler. Add second piece of butter. As mixture thickens, add third piece, stirring all the while. Remove from heat as soon as thickened to prevent separating. Add salt and cayenne.

The secret of hollandaise is a precise, constant cooking temperature, and the fact is you can regulate electricity a lot more accurately than you can flame. Nothing's left to guesswork.

MRS. ARTHUR WEISS

Not too many years ago, when the present Mrs. Arthur Weiss of 45 Laurel dr., Springfield, was delightfully and dutifully exercising her prerogatives as an ambitious Girl Scout, a woman in her town evoked a promise.

She requested that the young girl promise to help other girls become interested in Girl Scouting, and to see that they managed to enjoy all the valuable experience that she herself was getting out of it.

Mrs. Weiss kept her promise.

"I'm really a veteran Girl Scout leader," she admitted the other morning during a chat at her home. "I led a Girl Scout troop in New York City, my home town, when I was 17 years old.

"I had a troop while I was pregnant with my second daughter, and then worked with the Brownies and Girl Scouts here in Springfield. I really had a marvelous experience in the Senior Girl Scouts myself. It was a true scouting experience that enforced these ideas. And as a senior scout, I was very involved in many things."

She is still involved in many things. In fact, more so she not only leads Scout Troop 755 ("We have 37 girls at this moment") but has just increased our troop membership. I had been working without an assistant leader all year. Now I have one."

SHE RECENTLY LED a song badge project for all the Girl Scouts in town. "Two hundred started with us," she said, "and 150 finished. I led songs at campfires. It really was fun. We had a supply of material that all girls were acquainted with.

"I am presently forming a singing group to perform at the Village Fair on May 8."

Mrs. Weiss has still another project in this phase. "I'm chairman of Area B for girls who are going to the senior Foundry in Idaho this summer. Out of a group of 26, eight were chosen to go to the roundup and eight more to act as alternates.

The roundup consists of "meeting with senior Girl Scouts throughout the world," Mrs. Weiss said. "They meet once a year to learn about each other, and they come away with a better understanding of people and things as a whole. They are bringing a 'potlatch' with them, this year, to trade with the other girls. A potlatch is a gift, and each time they present a gift, they go through the rituals and ceremonies.

"About 10,000 girls will be at the roundup — international groups as well as national. Our council (The Washington National) is national. Our council (The Washington girls) — and I have eight of these."

IN ADDITION, Mrs. Weiss explained, "I am troop consultant for five Girl Scout junior troops in town, and I'm also on the camping committee for our neighborhood. We have two all-town camping trips. All the Girl Scouts in town go camping together. More than 200 girls are going this year. It's quite an effort."

The energetic Mrs. Weiss received her primary education in New York schools. She attended City College of New York for a year, majoring in physical education, then completed her studies at New York University where she received a bachelor's degree.

"Then I took my M.A. degree in New York University in elementary education."

THE TALL (5'10") little, attractive woman explained that she taught physical education for three years in an elementary school in New Hyde Park, Long Island.

She was married 18 years ago to Arthur Weiss, proprietor of the Harris Ace Welding Equipment and Supplies Co., who maintains offices in Irvington and New York.

The couple moved to Springfield eight years ago. (The Weisses have three children: Daniel, 13, Nancy, 10, and Jeri Ann, 5.) A huge, golden retriever named Pochontas "Pokey" Featherfall — who greets a guest by wagging not only her tail but all of her — a Black Persian cat, Pom-Pom, a Russian blue cat called Velvet and assorted goldfish.

"I've been interested in modern dance for many, many years," she said. "About nine years ago, I joined a modern dance class at the Y, and I've been dancing with a Y group since then. I just love to attend the Monday night classes at the Y.

"I've become so used to it, in fact, that I feel I can miss a class only if my house is burning and all that. It's become so much a part of me, I feel as if something is missing if I miss a class on Monday night.

Zoning

3—In-door toilet facilities to replace the present outdoor facilities will promote the general welfare.

4—Use of the facility by civic, fraternal and social organizations will also promote the general welfare.

5—It will prevent overcrowding and undue concentration of population by the "park-like nature of the property."

6—There will be "no substantial detriment to the public good."

7—It will not "substantially impair the intent of the zoning laws."

Stipulations attached to the recommendation would require the owner to surround the property with a six-foot chain link fence, plant a four-foot hedge along all residential property, remove the outdoor toilet facilities, keep all supplies in an enclosed area, install a sprinkler system for the entire building, provide a parking attendant for all functions with 50 or more cars and place shields at all entrances, exits and parking areas.

The Lodge is operated by James Brescia, on lease from the United Singers of Newark.

In other actions, the Board referred to the Planning Board for an advisory opinion a variance request by Lyons, Holding Co. to build garden apartments at 38 Morris ave. It deferred decision on a bid for a sign variance by Morris Ave. Motor Car Co. The board also approved variances for Westmark Builders, 23 Skylark rd.; John and Anna Lovkey, 66 Tooker ave., and Earl D. Trent, 54 Ruby st.

Earlier in the evening, the board heard two decisions and held hearings in two cases. A variance was approved to permit use of a substantial lot by Paul A. Commerco at 189 Tooker ave.

The board recommended approval by the Township Committee of a special exception use for Philip Stouck to construct a restaurant at 25 Echo Plaza. The recommendation limited the hours of operation, prohibited the operation of cafeteria or car hop facilities and called for parking space for 41 cars.

A hearing was completed on the application of Morris Ave. Motor Car Co. for a variance in excess of the permitted size limit for a sign atop its building at Morris and Moral avenues. Stanley Linnett, the applicant, testified that a "larger sign is a status symbol" and that the

Lenten Observance To Feature Cantata

A special Lenten observance will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield, Sunday when the cantata "The Crucifixion" by John Steiner will be presented by the Senior Choir of the church at worship services at 9:30 and 11:00 a.m.

This cantata, the last of Steiner's four major works, was first performed in 1887 in the parish church of St. Marylebone, London. It continues as one of the most beloved renditions of the passion of Christ. The chorus "God So Loved the World," is a well-known portion of this work, which has as its basis the words of Jesus at Gethsemane and from the Cross.

Master Planner Will Be Speaker At Lunch Of LWV

The Springfield League of Women Voters will hold its annual luncheon on Wednesday at Rod's Steak House in West Orange. A smorgasbord meal has been arranged. Guests are invited. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Bernard Schwartz, luncheon chairman, 378-3062.

Malcolm Kasler, project planner for the firm of Candebush, Fleissig, Adley and Associates, will be the luncheon speaker. His topic will be, "What a master plan is, how it is effectuated, and what it can accomplish."

Kasler joined Candebush, Fleissig, Adley and Associates in 1961. He has been the firm's project planner in developing zoning plans for Springfield and the Boroughs of Keypoint and Oceanport, and is presently the firm's representative to the Kinneon-Borough Planning Board.

Kasler has specialized in developing zoning regulations and capital improvements programs. In this field, Kasler has prepared zoning regulations and amendments for Keypoint and Kinneon, and capital improvements programs for Carbon County, Pa., and Niagara Falls, Moravia, Phelps and Lyons, N. Y.

public regards the "size of the sign" as an indicator of the size of the dealership.

The proposed sign would measure 12 feet wide by 15 feet high and would say, "Plymouth-Chrysler-Imperial," replacing one that measures 11 by 10 feet. It would be paid for by the Chrysler Corp.

The Board of Adjustment also heard an application by Earl D. Trent for a variance to build two houses on lots measuring 65 by 101 feet at 54 Ruby st. The lot sizes would each be 835 square feet smaller than the minimum of 7,600 square feet required for an S-60 zone, which calls for minimum front footage of 80 feet.

Trent stated that he would build the houses to sell for $28,000 to $30,000 each. Martin Hochadel, Union realtor and president of the Board of Realtors of Eastern Union County, testified that the houses would upgrade the neighborhood. Trent was represented by A. Donald McKenzie of Union.

A neighbor, David Nicholas Trent, of 61 Ruby st., testified with several items in the testimony. After looking briefly at the plans, however, he stated that he had no objection and that the homes appeared to be "an asset to the neighborhood."

Joseph R. Caruso withdrew his application for a special exception use permit for a cocktail lounge at 200 Morris ave. Alvin Goldstein, who was substituting for Stanley Green, board counsel, had ruled that the zoning ordinance does not mention a "cocktail lounge," and that the board could hear an application for a special exception at this time for any restaurant facilities. Caruso indicated that he would submit a new application to comply with the regulations.

Library Changes In Time Schedule Are Now In Effect

Regular morning visitors to the Springfield Public Library are reminded that the library will be closed Tuesday and Thursday mornings beginning Monday, April 12.

On these two days, the library will operate from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

After a three-month study of library attendance in both the adult and children's departments, it was found that less people come to the library on Tuesday and Thursday morning than at any other time during the week.

The board of trustees decided to open the library an additional evening to accommodate adults who are at business during the day and to give students another evening to use the library. The total number of hours the library is open to the public remains the same.

The library will be open three full days, from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The children's department will close at 5 p.m. usual on these days but reopen on Monday and Friday evenings from 7 (instead of 7:30) until 9. The children's department will not be open Wednesday evenings.

Both adult and children's departments will be open on Tuesday and Thursday from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., as always.

The demonstration was given to some of the eighth grade classes, and included operative dentistry, orthodontics, oral diagnosis, oral hygiene and endodontics.

Springfield has been the initial organizer of these school programs in all of Union County and it was received with much enthusiasm last year, the school staff reported.

Springfield Lodge To Elect Officers At April Meeting

Election of officers will precede sports night events including an award to a Dayton High student and a talk by football star, Steve Van Buren, on Monday, April 13, at Temple Beth Ahm by Springfield Men's Lodge of B'nai B'rith.

Nominations to be submitted for election are Sidney Piller, president; Arthur Kasehau, first vice president; Louis Spigel, second vice president; and Norman Saleitz, third vice president. Newly-nominated trustees include: Lester Elias, Philip Gurian, Arthur Miniman, Saul Ring and Marvin Simson. The following trustees will continue in office: Rudolph Bamberg, Samuel Piller, William Salesky, and Dr. Barney Spigelholz.

Alabama

With stirring phrases that brought the crowd to its feet cheering several times, Dr. King called for an end to the system which discriminates against Negroes and keeps both Alabamian Negroes and whites from enjoying the fruits of the "Great Society."

Following the end of the demonstration at 4 in the afternoon and the dispersal of the marchers, 22 delegates led by Dr. King attempted to present a petition of the groups' claims to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Despite the delegation's failure in two attempts to meet the governor, there was widespread feeling among the marchers that the entire nation and world, as well as Gov. Wallace, had heard their protest.

Perhaps the most impressive thing about the entire demonstration was the total lack of bitterness among the demonstrators who have been the victims of hate and bigotry for so long. All of the demonstrators seemed to have a profound understanding of the means and purposes of this non-violent movement.

For the many Alabamian schoolchildren who demonstrated, the march was a living lesson in civics. For all who marched, it was a rare opportunity to participate in the democratic process by expressing individual opinion.

New York Clergyman Will Lecture On Pornography Fight This Tuesday

"The Menace of Pornography" will be the topic of a lecture by the Rev. Robert Willenborg to the Ladies Guild of Holy Cross, Esplanade Church, 630 Mountain ave., Springfield, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The fight of this Lutheran pastor, a Jesuit priest and a rabbi for curtailing smut literature in the Greater New York section of Yorkville attracted nationwide attention through the announcement on October 27, 1963, by Father Morton Hill from the pulpit of St. Ignatius Loyola Roman Catholic Church that he would go on a hunger strike until Mayor Robert F. Wagner instituted sweeping reforms for keeping obscene books and magazines out of the hands of children.

For over two years now, the Rev. Willenborg of Immanuel Lutheran Church; Rabbi Julius Neumann of Zichron Moshe Synagogue, and Father Hill have headed an interfaith community campaign known as "Operation Yorkville", for using every legal means to cleanse Greater New York, but especially Yorkville, of pornography.

The basis of their "sales talk" in arousing their community is a United States Supreme Court decision that material must be regarded as obscene "if the average person, using community standards," finds that such material "appeals primarily to the prurient (lewd) interests."

Throughout 1963, Yorkville parents were shown samples of the gifts available to children. The mothers and fathers became deeply concerned. They agreed that from the viewpoint of their community this material indeed fitted the Supreme Court's definition of obscenity. They learned that the publication of pornography is a two billion dollar-a-year business. The backing was sought of other civic and professional organizations.

This backing came from the Yorkville Chamber of Commerce, the New York Board of Trade, the New York Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, the medical societies of New York's five counties, the American Legion, the PTA, the Civil Service Employees' Association and other civic, social, educational and religious groups.

Pastor To Be Speaker At Meeting Of Society

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield, will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. in the Presbyterian Parish House. The Rev. Bruce W. Evans, pastor, will speak on "The Church Alive."

In addition to the general meetings held each month, the society is divided into eight circles which meet once a month in the members' homes for Bible study and fellowship. A workshop day is held on the last Wednesday of each month from 9:30 a.m. until noon. Saving for mission centers and the Belvidere Home for the Aged is done, as well as clerical work assisting the church office. Mrs. John W. Veale is workshop chairman for the society. Following luncheon, a Bible class is conducted by the ministers of the Church.

The Society takes a special interest in four of the guests at the Belvidere Home and remembers them throughout the year with cards, gifts and visits. They also sponsor a little girl in Hong Kong through the Christian Children's Fund, paying for her support each year.

The Society was founded in 1872 and has been in continuous service since that time. Mrs. Clifford W. Zimmer of Short Hills is current president of the group.

Last year we paid $17,636,991 in taxes and managed to smile about it.

$10,089,741 went to the communities in our territory. $7,547,250 went to state and federal governments. That's about 18¢ out of every dollar we earned, yet we found something to smile about. A good part of our tax dollars do go into new roads and schools and other badly-needed facilities for our customers, our employees and ourselves. We feel, too, that we're pulling our weight along with everyone else. And we like to boast a bit about being a part of an industry that contributed an estimated $2.9 billion in taxes to the community in 1964 in addition to the best electric service in the entire world — America's investor-owned electric companies.

League Of Women Voters Studying Needs Of Mentally Ill In Jersey

The Springfield League of Women Voters is joining other league groups from throughout the state in a close-up look at 11 state institutions today and Saturday, April 10. The league groups will study first-hand the facilities and problems at New Jersey's hospitals for the mentally ill, schools and colonies for the retarded, and prisons and reformatories.

Mrs. Charles Danziger is in charge of arrangements for the trips of the Springfield group to the state prison farm near Rahway and the state school for retarded children, Woodbridge.

Mrs. Mary Louise Nuelsen, state president, said League members and their guests hope to see for themselves the educational needs they have studied through budgetary reviews.

Little League

(Continued from Page 1) Slater emphasized that it is not "the manager's responsibility to get the boys to practice, nor is it his responsibility to see that the boy gets home safely."

"THIS IS PRIMARILY the responsibility of the boy, and naturally, each parent must give the proper guidance to his child."

Concerning the necessary baseball equipment, Slater explained that "everything except a glove is supplied by the league. If possible, the boy should wear sneakers and should be dressed appropriately."

"In the youth majors, and the Babe Ruth League, uniforms will be supplied. In youth minor leagues, hats and shirts will be supplied."

"Our aims," he said, "are very basic: sportsmanship, physical fitness and team spirit—all are fostered at an early age. Moreover, we want the boys to have fun and sometimes, even learn to play baseball."

"From the point of view of the team manager, however," Slater declared, "our biggest problem is the parents. Last year, someone said to a manager, 'What's the rundown on your leadership on a Little League team?'"

"I realize," Slater continued, "that just as bad as being an over-zealous 'third base coach' is the policy of not coming out to watch the child play. He will play, of course, and he will be deeply disappointed if parents consider the Little League as a very cheap baby-sitter's help."

Slater indicated that many parents feel their sons are future Babe Ruths. He urges parents to remember that "every boy is not a Babe Ruth. If a boy does not make a team, he is assigned to a farm team."

"Special managers handle these boys," he said, "and try to impart some extra-training to them. If a boy is placed on a farm team—formerly known as the clinic—parents should see that the boy comes out and works to improve himself. A little practice at home goes a long way to improve the boy's ability," he added.

"FATHERS ARE URGED to 'drag out their gloves and work with their sons at home. They should emphasize learning. It's more valuable than winning, and the boys seem to get a lot more out of the game.'"

Slater recalled last summer's picnic when he says he overheard one player saying to another: "When a Little League team loses, it's a traumatic experience, giving rise to inferiority complexes, bruised egos, shattered self-confidence, shame and permanent mental scars."

"Yeah," said the other player. "It's pretty tough on us kids when we lose a game." The other boy then replied: "Who's talking about us kids? I'm talking about our parents."

"In conclusion," mused Slater, "I suggest that if parents have questions, they should ask them of any league representative."

Slater has two sons, Jeffrey, 11, who is a Little Leaguer, and Mitchell Paul, 9, a prospective Little Leaguer. He admitted that he's following his own advice in regard to his sons.

"I have one last word for the parents of the little boys of this town. Let's work together to make '65 a happy year for the boys of Springfield."

And for the parents, too.

12-YEAR-OLD GIRL INJURED BY AUTO, STILL IN HOSPITAL

A 12-year-old Springfield girl, who suffered a fractured pelvis when struck by a car on Monday, was reported in "good" condition yesterday at Overlook Hospital, Summit.

The girl, Nancy Montano, of 408 Mountain ave., was on her way to the Florence Gaudineer School Monday morning when she was struck by a car driven by William J. Bunch, 38, of Franklin Park, Springfield, police said.

A police report said Bunch was traveling west in Summit on Monday morning at 9 a.m. Monday when he drove across the street in front of the school. The report added that Bunch could not stop his car in time to avoid hitting the girl.

Police said the road was wet and rain was falling heavily at that hour.

LEADER PROFILE

(Continued from Page 4) "I've got a choreographer who is a member of the Time-Ham Company. We're working on a piece that he is choreographing for us. It takes six or eight weeks to create a polished step—and it takes one or two seconds to perform that same step on the stage."

Mrs. Weiss has gone even further in her vast interest in modern dance. Three years ago, she began teaching modern dance classes for children and adults at Temple Shalom under the auspices of the temple's Statehood. She indicated that attending dance classes and teaching dance can be a fascinating combination.

"I teach two classes a week," she said. "It's a wonderful thing to be able to stimulate children to their best level of dancing."

"One good thing about my classes is that I feel I'm not in competition with dancing schools in the neighborhood. My classes are completely different."

"I can't say," she admitted with modesty, "that my method is any better or any worse than the professional dancing schools' methods. All I can say is that it's different."

"TEACH," she went on enthusiastically, "the background of dance technique, and my students and I explore the best ways in using the body to be creative. In this way, the students are able to keep the doors of creative movement open within themselves."

"I have managed to help some of my students in overcoming a shyness—not in the fact that they are shy, but in the fact that they are afraid to be placed on a farm team—formerly known as the clinic—parents should see that the boy comes out and works to improve himself. A little practice at home goes a long way to improve the boy's ability," he added.

"FATHERS ARE URGED to 'drag out their gloves and work with their sons at home. They should emphasize learning. It's more valuable than winning, and the boys seem to get a lot more out of the game.'"

'High Button Shoes' Will Star Pat Smith

The April 23 and 24 performance of "High Button Shoes" by the Rum Creek Players at Millburn Junior High School will be the last little theatre presentation of this musical, according to the director, Joe Hays.

It is returning to Broadway next season. Hays was in the original Broadway cast of the musical, starring Phil Silvers.

The leading lady of "High Button Shoes" is Springfield girl, Pat Smith, and several Springfield people are in the cast: Duane LeBaron, Chuck Pimlott, Doug MacGregor, Jeanne Schaeffer and Betty Herrmann.

The misadventures of a slide-walk huckster in the promotion of land-deals and model-T Ford lead to many hilarious situations, the producers state. Tunes are by Sammy Cahn and Jules Styne. "By the Sea," "Papa, Won't You Dance With Me?" "Model T."

The book is written by Stephen Longstreet, who drew the story from his own childhood in New Brunswick with his family. Many references to the Rutgers football team and the university bring the plot close to home.

Any local residents who attended Rutgers in the class of 1918, when the play takes place, are invited to be the guests of the Rum Creek Players on Thursday night, April 22, at the dress rehearsal. More information can be obtained by calling the telephone numbers below.

Advance tickets are available. Reservations should be made with Grove Thompson at DR 6-0690, DR 9-3314 or DR 6-7043.

'New Math' Seen Important Aid

The need for people whose minds operate as calculating machines is a thing of the past. The "New Math" figures strongly in this picture.

Today's world mainly requires people who can program and run the modern equipment that does this job better and faster than human beings — and the "New Math" figures strongly in this picture.

Schools in the Department of Education in an article entitled "The 'New Math' and the Fundamentals" in its latest Secondary School Bulletin.

The Bulletin points out that mental arithmetic is still important, but that today's mathematics. But it notes that computation will probably be used mainly in figuring out bowling scores, check book balances, and income tax forms.

"An organization concerned with speed and accuracy," the Bulletin says, "cannot take a chance with the varieties of mankind for the production of work."

The very change in machines, themselves, the article goes on, calls for people who can program the work and outline its flow — not for people who actually do the computation, themselves.

For both accountants and youngsters working in supermarkets, "the need for people whose minds operate as calculating machines is a thing of the past," says the Department of Education.

The Bulletin notes that some parents fear that children studying the "New Math" are not doing enough drill work in addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division.

But the fears, it says, are unfounded — because, while today's math provides drill work, it also gives a student an understanding of the processes involved.

The article adds: "If one is weak in addition, having to do another drill exercise of 50 addition problems is not likely to cure the difficulty."

"The deficiency to begin with is in large measure due to lack of interest and understanding purpose."

The article also points out that the stumbling blocks in math have always been the difficulty in understanding the language and in seeing how the various branches relate and depend upon one another.

The "New Math," says the Bulletin, "provides the means by which these interrelationships can become apparent."

MOTOR VEHICLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: My driver's license was suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles for three months. This has resulted in quite a hard ship for me and my family. Can I get any kind of temporary license to be used only for driving to and from work?

ANSWER: No. The Division of Motor Vehicles does not issue any type of temporary license to a driver whose privilege is suspended. There is no provision in the law to permit the issuance of a temporary license in a hardship case resulting from the suspension of a driving privilege. (Compiled copy from N. J. Division of Motor Vehicles)

SCHOOL DISTRICTS MUST SIGN PLEDGE

Commissioner of Education Frederick M. Raubinger announced this week that local school districts must sign pledges to comply with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to be eligible for Federal funds administered by the State.

A local district failing to sign a pledge, Dr. Raubinger said, would qualify itself from receiving Federal financial assistance in any program for which it draws funds.

Dr. Raubinger also said that any person has the right to file a complaint with the State Department of Education if he believes that discrimination based on race, color, or national origin is being practiced.

Title VI of the Act provides that "no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be excluded from participation in, denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any program of activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

"Now, about these resentments of yours—can you go back any further than the safety-pin sticking you?"

Menagerie Is Provocative

BY DR. WILLIAM H. BRUCKER

The 20th anniversary production of "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams is currently being celebrated at the Paper Mill Playhouse this week with another star cast revival of the provocative "Critics' Circle Award" play.

The entire incident of the play deals with a mother encouraging her son to find a boy-friend—for his painfully shy sister and that gentleman's first and only visit and the disclosure that he is already engaged.

Excitement—and momentarily disaster ensue.

As usual Williams plays his cast in a slim home in a St. Louis alley. The mother clucks, pecks and pends her son and daughter, and dreams of her long-gone life of elegance. The daughter is crippled, withdrawn, and fills her life with fantasy. The son, who acts also as narrator, escapes his own dull life in the movies and eventually seeks the sea. The gentleman caller, a co-worker of the son, we see for only one scene.

This was Mr. Williams' first produced work. The fibers of Chekovian waitfulness can be seen in its slim and dream-inflected plot of these four decidedly average individuals.

The influence of Thornton Wilder is evident in its technique and construction. And in intensifying the obvious and the every day he creates a brilliance that sprays the works of Saroyan, too.

Yet with all these credits on its escutcheon it must be considered as pre-Freudian Williams that has doubtful impact and does not hold up well in its restaging. Could it be that the prose paroxysms of Williams in his years of flow have jaded us so that we find this early work pale and piteous? True, he does evoke a mood from his small incident. But with no action, the mood sputters and becomes muddy. Just as torment comes from great problems, tantrums come from little ones. Torment will outlast the centuries, tantrum deserves to be ephemeral.

Maureen Stapleton takes her place with the other great ladies of the theater who have taken on this tour de force of the mother. Rather than play it like the enshrined and despairing version of Laurette Taylor, she gives sharper thrust to its comic undertones and develops a whimsical, pathos-bound performance.

Employing St. Louis drawl (you couldn't prove one by me) and a fluttering-handkerchief she makes Amanda Wingfield a stupid, wilful person who arms herself with a fantasy and then is struck down by her own filial piety when bald truth undermines them.

George Grizzard, expresses many memorable lines as he sets the stage for this merry play. His son is plausible and is examined with sympathetic warmth. He resists his mother's bulldozer tactics until rebellion and revolution take him from the home.

The sister Laura is not too distinguishedly played by Piper-Laurie Wipier. Brush strokes would have accentuated the symbolism in her being the curator of a collection of glass animals. Ethereal would have been the word, but not meaning under its soporific influence. And with lameness being the reason for her inferiority—complex—its presence casts a doubt to those in the far reaches of the house.

Pat Hingle has the zealous role of The Gentleman Caller and he brings to it a flamboyance that personifies his own confidence in himself. But even he cannot bring pace to many ledger-areas that lose their reception and become debilitating.

Robert T. Williams set required more lighting by Robert T. Williams and George Keathley's direction could have been stepped up more to achieve a more-homogeneous affect.

For out and out-American style I prefer "Figs or Chocolate" over "A Raisin in the Sun." I always applaud the State Department's vending "Sweet Bird of Youth" to Russia as a representative American play that reflects American life. As there can be no doubt as to Tennessee Williams' magnificent contributions, to playwrighting both our country and Mr. T. Williams would have been served better by "The Glass Menagerie" as their literary emissary to Russia.

Parkway Okays Nap For Weary Drivers

The Garden State Parkway this week invited motorists to bed down for a safety sleep anywhere along its roadside on the right in cases of emergency.

Executive Director D. Louis Toml of the New Jersey Highway Authority said the long-standing invitation was repeated now upon the approach of milder weather when driver-drowsiness or fatigue is more prevalent and hazardous. The Authority operates the Parkway.

Toml said the Parkway, in the interest of safety, encourages motorists to pull off the pavement and park on the roadside to the extreme right for an emergency nap at the first sign of strain, drowsiness, fatigue or illness. Parkway regulations permit such emergency stops.

He noted that a total of 107 accidents on the Parkway last year was attributed to sleepy or fatigued drivers. One of these accidents involved a fatality. In 1963, three of the 10 fatalities on the Parkway were held due to sleep or fatigued drivers.

State Police patrolling the Parkway check all cars parked on the road shoulders and keep an eye on the nappers in passing subsequently. After first ascertaining the reason for the stop, Troopers will report sleeping drivers to their stations by radio for follow-up checks.

While Parkway service, picnic or toll areas are recommended for such emergency rest, the extreme right road shoulder anywhere along the superhighway is available to motorists. Parked cars must be well off the parkway pavement at all times. At night, sleepers should leave on parking lights and lock their car doors.

"The Barry Sisters Sing Fiddler On The Roof," The Sisters Claire and Merna blend voices in 12 of the songs from the Broadway hit musical of the same name. Selections include "To Life," "Matchmaker," "Matchmaker," "Sabbath Prayer," "Anatavka" and of course the title song "Fiddler On The Roof." This one you'll be playing a plenty. (ABC-PARAMOUNT 118)

Also on the ABC-PARAMOUNT label (204) "Shindig." Here's just the ticket for your next Saturday night get-together. If the title sounds familiar — you're right. The LP is based on the ABC-TV weekly show of the same name. Talent includes Tommy Roe, The Impressions, Steve Allen, The Tams, Fats Domino, The Spats, The Gauchos, The Sapphires and the Shindiggers.

"Golden Boy." Featuring Sammy Davis, Billy Daniels and members of the original Broadway cast with the orchestra under the direction of Elliot Lawrence. It's almost impossible to find fault with anything that bears the talent stamp of Sammy Davis. He's at his best and then some on this waxing. So sit back and enjoy the show with such tunes like "I Want To Be With You," "Don't forget 137th Street," "Lorna's Hope" and "Night Song" (Theme from the show). CAPITOL-VAS 333

SEBIA-Savage vocalists Hilda Lett & Cole Porter. A collection of 12 seldom heard Cole Porter numbers comes to the Supermarket in Old Pekin. "Most Gentlemen—Don't Like Love" and "Hot House Rose." (PHM 200-160)

"Woody's Goodies" By Woody Herman and Company. Some of the goodies include "You Dirty Dog," "Byou," "Apple Honey" and nine more big herd numbers. A real treat for you slompers. (PHM 200-171)

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

By PHYLIS GREER
of Rutgers... the State University
Specialist in Human Relations

At times, every member of even the family with close relationships feels the need for privacy. This is particularly important for adolescents, who are extra sensitive at this age.

Teenagers feel a strong need to be alone part of the time, to think, to get away from noise, to unleash their vivid imagination, to do their home work.

Parents often misunderstand. They feel that they have devoted years to building a feeling of family belonging, only to find that the youngster closes the door.

Parents feel their youngster is adult enough so that they have common interests. Mother wants to hear about the dance—who was there and what they wore, father wants to talk about the football game.

Sometimes the young adult is receptive, is flattered, and happily spends time talking over his activities. Other times he wants to be alone.

Parents' questions are met with anger or resentment out of all proportion. A pleasant inquiry is met with, "Stop nagging me—leave me alone." Quite naturally parents get their feelings hurt, worry about the youngster, and are likely to resort to punishment for impudence.

Need for privacy is all a part of the growing process. Parents can be assured that this need for privacy is not unusual with their child—but a natural, normal feeling.

Parents can seek comfort, too, in knowing that over the years they have given their child the feeling of family belongingness—and they can now continue the good work by understanding this new need for privacy and by knowing it will not affect the youngsters' deep-seated feeling for family.

Report From Trenton

by State Senator Nelson F. Stamler (R-N.J.)

"Megalopolis" has made the dictionary.

It is a word invented to try and explain an American phenomenon that really cannot be explained in one word.

Megalopolis means big. It means a large city. It eventually could mean one large metropolitan area beginning in Boston and winding down the eastern seaboard to Washington.

It means the intelligent elimination of such things as rigid borders, absolute jurisdiction and regional isolationism. It means mutual cooperation and planning and understanding.

Before megalopolis made its dictionary debut, it was in New Jersey that it was even first called. We have been a partner in a megalopolis for a number of years. Ours begins in Connecticut, includes New York City and most of New Jersey. It is that "metropolitan area" for which weathermen give weather reports, broadcasters give traffic information and commuters donate their patience.

Your legislators in Trenton are well aware of the role New Jersey must play in keeping this megalopolis practical and productive. They are also cognizant of the pitfalls inherent in hasty planning and snap judgments.

This last point was proven in 1964 when a proposal was introduced in Trenton to establish a Tri-State Transportation Commission with New York and Connecticut to keep a watchful eye on the commuting situation with special emphasis on railroads. The Commission would have the power to pass along advice and possible financial assistance if necessary.

On the surface the idea seemed sound. There was no grasping the fact that metropolitan area commuters and their railroads were eligible for some assistance and advice. While auto travelers have had millions spent in their behalf on bigger and better highways and public parking facilities, the railroad commuter has seen his mode of transportation slowly deteriorate in direct contrast to his ever increasing numbers. The railroads themselves were not entirely at fault. They have two busy periods each weekday and little else to sustain them.

However, the 1964 proposal went further than advice and financial assistance. It contained a clause that would have given the Commission land rights along tracks. Furthermore, the bill was not clear on what part New Jersey would play in solving the pressing problems of the New Haven Railroad.

These and other considerations raised the question among our legislators of how far any one state should go in attempting to solve the problems of an interstate metropolitan area? Granted, the Commission had rights along tracks, but not at the expense of equally important local ramifications.

Land rights could prove to have adverse effects on any community along the route of the railroad. With little clarity in the way of possible expenses, the Commission could get financially out of hand. The New Haven Railroad, while certainly best by any means, is really a headache for New York and Connecticut and does not require New Jersey intervention in any way, shape or form.

So the Legislature turned down the 1964 proposal and worked to draft a more suitable one. The Senate recently passed a revised Transportation Commission bill, effective upon enactment of similar legislation by Connecticut and New York. It differs from its 1964 counterpart in that it:

Specifically states that no Commission money is to be provided for the New Haven; Proposes that all appropriations be voted as needed with no set amount written into the bill; Does not contain a land right clause.

This is a vivid example of the legislative care that must be exercised as the megalopolis becomes more and more a reality and interstate relations play increasingly important roles.

While all states should be concerned with the welfare of society as a whole regardless of residence, there are still those areas of decision which require considerations based upon local criteria. Only along these lines will the metropolitan areas of today and tomorrow flourish and grow.

The Flagship, Rt. 22, Union, which made its debut recently as the showplace of thousands of antiques, is known as the weekly Flea-Market and Antique Show.

The show, which will be held every Friday and Saturday, was established by Louis R. Harrison, his wife, Ruth, and their son, Jerry. Harrison, an antique authority, expects to bring to New Jersey residents, the opportunity to come to one location to shop or browse for antiques, rather than travel from one end of New Jersey to another for the same purpose.

Harrison gathered many antique dealers with diversified collections to contribute to a varied display. On hand every week will be early American and Victorian furniture, jewelry, old gold and silver, guns, Tiffany lamp shades, china, hand carvings, clocks, watches, paintings, brass and a myriad of other antique merchandise. Upon entering the Flagship, parents may leave their children in a supervised game room which provides games and rides. A snack bar also is available. Flea-markets are especially popular among American tourists in Paris.

MOTHS, BEETLES DAMAGE CARPETS IN WINTER ALSO

Comfortably heated houses may lure carpet damaging insects. Moth damage occurs in winter, as well as summer. The cotton beetle causes damage often blamed on moths, notes the Rutgers Extension Service.

"If your woolen rugs and carpets aren't treated to wool moths and carpet beetles, take measures now to discourage insect pests, suggests Miss Gena Thames, extension home furnishing specialist at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers University. "Carpet wool, lint, crumbs from woolen blankets, fur, feathers and down provide a feast for moths and carpet beetles. Dog and cat hairs are dessert to them."

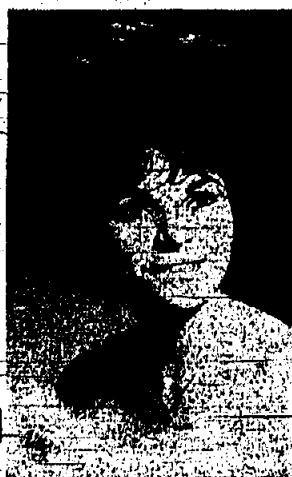

"Thorough professional cleaning at least once a year will destroy eggs and larvae in carpets. At the same time, the cleaner can apply moth and beetle-proofing to give long-term immunity to your carpets.

"Your vacuum cleaner is your best tool for preventing infestations of fabric pests in the home. Vacuuming not only removes organic matter on which the larvae feed, but also removes the insects and their eggs."

"Larvae of these insects thrive in places that are hard to clean—baseboards and moldings, cracks in floors, corners, closet shelves, drawers, air ducts of heating systems, radiators.

"Once or twice a week, vacuum wool carpets thoroughly—even more often if there's a cat or dog in your life.

"Once a month, move all furniture and vacuum entire rug thoroughly. Clean under edges of room size rugs. Then use vacuum-cleaner attachments to clean cracks in baseboards, along moldings and into corners, as well as bare floors. Be sure to dispose of vacuum sweepings promptly."

A New Lining In Your Coat Will Provide Extra Wear

Coat linings may wear out before the rest of the coat. By replacing the lining it may be possible to get another season's wear from a coat, according to Carolyn F. Yuknus, Union County Home Economist.

Before deciding to make a new lining, check the coat carefully for extensive wear signs. If a coat is badly worn around the buttonholes, cuffs and neck, it may not be worth your time and energy to reline it, she said.

Frequently, linings of questionable quality are used in well-made coats. Or, certain special finished linings simply will not wear as well as non-treated linings.

If you have decided to reline the coat, the first thing to do is to remove the old lining from the coat. Remove all the stitching so that you have the lining front, lining back, sleeve and pocket section in pieces. Press each piece so that the seams and darts will be flat. Next, lay out the lining pieces to estimate how much new lining material you will need. Since some lining materials are rather expensive, it would not be very economical to buy too much material. Use the original lining pieces for a pattern for the new lining. Remember that the original lining did not use a 5/8-inch seam allowance. If you want to use a bigger seam allowance, you will have to add it on when you cut out the pieces.

Sew the new lining together in the same manner as the old one was made. It will be easier and less bulky if you do the pockets first.

VINYL COVERING ADDS TO BEAUTY, PROTECTS WALLS

Vinyl wall coverings combine beauty, function and maintenance ease. Used on wainscoting or on an entire wall, they are especially suitable in areas subjected to more than average wear for they withstand scuffing, cracking and peeling.

Called "supported vinyl fabric," these wall coverings are a vinyl coating bonded to a woven fabric backing, explains Miss Gena Thames, extension home furnishing specialist at the College of Agriculture, Rutgers—the State University in New Brunswick.

Ideal for use in any area of the house, vinyl wall coverings are water resistant. Mild soap and water quickly remove dust, stains, and grime. They are available in unlimited fade-resistant solid colors, patterns, and textures. Some designs are hand-screened documentary prints in vinyl ink, she said.

Contact your vinyl covering distributor for information about the correct paste to use on different surfaces. Use adhesive recommended by manufacturer. Vinyl coverings do not breathe like wallpaper or canvas; the usual starch and wheat paste cannot be used, she added.

OUR DEADLINE is noon Friday for organization, club, social, church news.

'Orientation' In Alabama: The Kick, Club, Gas

The kick to the body, the club blow at the head, the tear gas fired in the face. You may face it and here's how to defend yourself.

This was "orientation" for a rights marcher in Selma, Ala.

A group of Newark State College students who joined the march from Selma to Montgomery were shocked into awareness by the lecture in defensive tactics minutes after they arrived in Selma last Wednesday.

The students had left Union at 6 a.m. Tuesday aboard a chartered Public Service bus. They arrived in Selma at 10 a.m. Wednesday and were taken to the First Baptist Church, a block away from Brown's Chapel. The Chapel is the headquarters for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which led the march to gain equal voting rights for the Negro.

Lillian Walker of Newark and Steven Friedman of 1267 Wildwood ter., Union, described the orientation at the church. They were interviewed by this newspaper after they arrived back in Union Saturday morning.

"We were told to be non-violent," said Miss Walker. "To do nothing—that we were not told to do by the leadership conference members.

"We were told that if we were about to be hit to roll with the punch. I had heard the phrase used as a figure of speech, but as it was used then, I'll have to admit that I was frightened. I think we all were.

"The way to roll with a blow is to let it carry you down. Don't resist it.

"And then when you fall to the ground, draw your knees up as tight as you can against your chest and cross your legs over your groin.

"This leaves only your arched back exposed to a kick or a blow from a club."

Miss Walker described these number, sobbing pointers in a voice that was quiet and yet filled with the determination of young people in the cause of civil rights.

There was more.

Miss Walker said that their instructor, Gerald Tucker, a civil rights worker from San Francisco, Calif., spoke from experience.

"He has been hit by fists and clubs before," she said.

"He told us that tear gas is light and will rise. So the best thing to do is to get close to the ground—it's better if it's gas—and then cup your hands over your mouth and breath that off the ground."

Friedman added a "good-defensive tactic" against the gas which he had learned:

"The gas will drift with the wind so the quickest way to get out of it is to run into the wind.

"They told us not to raise a hand against anyone aiming a blow but to simply roll away from it."

The 23-year-old junior was asked if this macabre session in an Alabama church frightened him.

"Yes it did frighten me. I think it frightened all of us."

The instructor pointed at the Negroes in the church and said:

"To the people in Alabama you're a nigger."

And then he pointed to Friedman and said:

"And you, to them you're a white nigger."

The tragic murder of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, Mich., a rights worker, in a car between Selma and Montgomery was foreshadowed in the next part of the orientation lecture.

"You're all niggers," Tucker told the collegians. "And in Alabama they believe that any season is open-hunting season for niggers."

Neither Miss Walker nor Friedman found anything but a hostile attitude from whites in Alabama.

Asked if the Negroes in Alabama expressed fears about what would happen to them after the Northerners left, Friedman said:

"I interviewed a Negro woman there. I can't give you her name but I'll tell you what she said.

"She told me that she didn't have the least idea if she would be beaten up or shot up after we leave. She was fearful—and the best that she seemed capable of was the wish that things will get better."

Friedman said that a new voter registration drive will start within the week in Dallas County and the so-called "Black Belt" between Selma and Montgomery.

Miss Walker said that the leadership conference was organizing to take steps so that the Negroes of Alabama "will not be left flat" after the Northerners left.

"But I was shocked at these people, white Alabamians, the way they will not give way."

And despite the fact that Negroes down there were happy that we are interested in the cause, I'm afraid about the best I can say is that both they and we are living for the moment."

Miss Walker and Friedman were among 44 persons who chartered the bus. Some 28 of them were from the college. Others were from high schools in the area.

The Rev. J. G. Brattwaite of the Phillips CME Church in Newark and Mrs. Dorothy Wormsley and Mrs. Olivia Smith, both Union housewives, accompanied the youths.

After the orientation lecture they were taken by bus to St. Jude's City, a church encampment outside Montgomery. They took part in the rally Wednesday night before the final push into Montgomery Thursday.

They joined the line of march coming in from Selma and stood in the throng of thousands massed before the state capitol.

Miss Walker said that the throng dispersed quietly before Dr. Martin Luther King and 19 other rights leaders. They were to present a list of voting rights grievances to Gov. George Wallace.

Board President Charges Holdup On New Facility

Leonard W. Simmons, of Roselle, president of the Union County Vocational Board of Education, this week charged freeholder John V. Donohue and other members of the freeholder board's Democratic minority with masquerading as friends to education and failing to aid "when the chips are on the table."

The school board president said Donohue's excuse for holding up the $3,750,000 bond issue which will finance new facilities at the board's Scotch Plains site has no validity.

"Freeholder Donohue pleaded lack of knowledge of construction details," Simmons said. "He could have all the information about the project that a board member has. But he apparently wasn't interested."

The board president said the vocational school board is an autonomous body and is not required to tell the freeholders how it spends its money any more than is the Union County Park Commission.

"Apparently freeholder Donohue is more interested in who is handling the architectural work for the institute's buildings than in seeing that the young people of the county have adequate vocational instruction facilities," Simmons said.

The board president said he regretted what he called "another attempt to delay the school project." He said the 1965 Democratic freeholder majority could have approved the school project but refused to take the action.

Dry Goods Firm Plans Stock Split

Associated Dry Goods Corporation, the parent company of Hahn's and Company and Lord & Taylor, this week announced its plans to split its common stock on a 3-for-2 basis.

Lewis P. Sells, president of Associated Dry Goods, said the proposal to split the stock will be submitted to the stockholders at an annual meeting on June 1.

He said if the proposal is approved, the Board of Directors intends to place the new common stock on a $1.50 annual dividend basis. This is the equivalent to $1.50 on the present stock as compared to the current rate of $1.60, Sells said.

Stockholders will also vote on a proposal to increase the presently authorized issue from 6 million to 8 million shares, Sells said.

Stamler Will Decide Shortly Whether To Enter Primaries

State Senator Nelson F. Stamler said this week that he expected to reach a decision within 10 days on entering the primary battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Stamler, a Republican from Union Township, indicated that he was continuing to seek the manpower and monetary support such a candidacy would require. He said his quest was progressing "reasonably well."

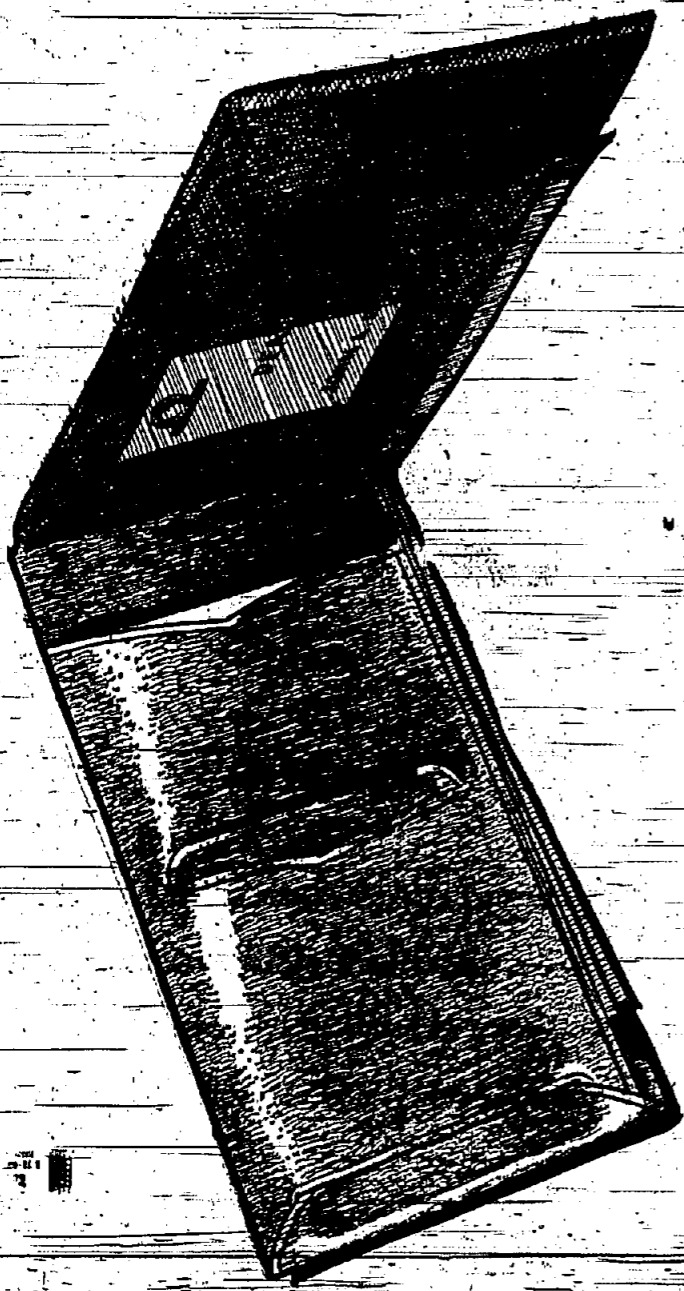

However, his hopes were dealt a blow Sunday when the powerful Bergen County GOP organization endorsed Warren County Senator Wayne Dumont, choice of a GOP screening committee last month. Stamler, who had hoped to gain the support of the Bergen GOP, made light of the endorsement. "The wording of the endorsement is hardly the strongest kind," Stamler commented.

The Bergen Republicans gave their backing to Dumont, while falling to endorse his advocacy of a broad-based tax. A Bergen Republican spokesman said the group would take no stand for taxes until a need was proved "in no uncertain terms."

The Republican contest to face Governor Richard Hughes in the fall already has two avowed candidates: Dumont and Cape May Senator Charles Sandman. Backers of Essex County Senator Robert Sarason are urging him to run. Stamler has indicated that his decision to enter the primary contest would hinge on the money and personal backing he would be able to muster.

Pharmacy Field Careers Outlined By Rutgers Dean

The opportunities in pharmacy career were outlined for the school principal and guidance counselors by Dr. Roy A. Wiers, dean of the Rutgers University College of Pharmacy, in a meeting last week in the Union and Campus Restaurant.

The 36 public and parochial school principals and guidance counselors were guests of the Union County Pharmaceutical Society and its community service committee.

Officers of the society who attended the guidance meeting were: Benjamin Ellenport, secretary; Lucius Bowers, president; Howard and George Blizing, president-elect; representing Union. High school was Frank A. Moretti, guidance counselor.

Dr. Bowers said that a student entering pharmacy could expect to be rewarded by service for his fellow man and service among the highest for graduates.

While the expectation of being rich is not likely, Dr. Wiers said, "the graduate can expect to be financially secure. There has been and will be a demand for pharmacists."

He said opportunities await a graduate in the community pharmacist field, hospitals, research, health and sales in the medical profession.

Researcher Wins Doctoral Degree

Henry Hartkopf, president of the center's board of directors, presented the plaque. Attending the presentation was Robert P. Allen, of Westfield, one of the founders and first president of the Center, who also received a plaque.

Dr. E. Steven Eisler was chairman of the Union Township Fund Drive for Retarded Children during two of its campaigns. He was also school vision examiner for the Nancy Luzzon Training School, Roselle. Currently, Dr. Eisler is setting up a vision screening program for trainees at the occupational center.

DR. E. STEVEN EISLER, of Union, right, receives a plaque from Harry Hartkopf, president of the board of directors of the Occupational Center of Union County.

Aid To Handicapped Earns Eisler Award

A vision specialist long associated with helping the handicapped, Dr. E. Steven Eisler of Union, was recently awarded a plaque by the Union County Occupational Center.

Under Dr. Eisler's leadership, the center has expanded its quarters to more than twice its original size and has tripled the number of trainees it serves. During his tenure an active parents group was formed.

PAVEMENT VARIETY

Ants Are Uninvited Dinner Guests

If the pavement ant would only live up to his name and stay beneath the pavement, a good many million-American homemakers would be far happier.

Unfortunately, pavement ants being busy and aggressive seekers of food supplies, they often wend their way into the family kitchen, points out the National Pest Control Association.

Even more unfortunately, man's most modern home construction methods seem designed just as much for the ant's convenience as for the owner's. Consequently, pavement ants often forsake pavements for the nicely warmed space beneath homes with radiant heat. They find sanctuary in the partition walls of homes where radiant heat provides year-round warmth. They can find pleasant refuge in the granular insulation used to provide a barrier against the cold in exterior walls.

All these things have made life simpler for the small, slow-moving dark brown or black ant—usually between an eighth and sixth of an inch in length—and also brought him closer to the family food supply.

Pavement ants have fine appetites and a keen interest in almost every food that is found in the kitchen, although they do not have so strong a fondness for sweets as many of their relatives in the ant family.

Like most of the common ants that are household pests, the pavement ant starts new colonies when winged females are developed in the spring and leave the colony in search of new locations to set up housekeeping. And like all winged ant forms, they are frequently mistaken for termites. (Flying ants have a definite pinched-in waistline; the flying termite has a boat-shaped body with no perceptible waistline at all.)

In the superbly organized ant society, the queens lay eggs which yield wingless workers, and these bring in food to sustain the queen while new eggs are laid and still more workers reared.

Despite the ingenious society of the ants, only a tiny percentage of the females ever succeed in establishing new nests and new colonies. When they do, however, they soon grow to astronomical numbers and aggressively search out food in every direction. Sooner or later this brings them to the unfavorable attention of the housewife.

Control of the pavement ant is not difficult, points out the National Pest Control Association, but large and well-established colonies can only be wiped out rapidly by means of chemical control methods professionally applied by experienced pest control operators.

Vacation Clubs Earn Dividends At Howard

A cash bonus—in the form of a dividend—will be paid on all completed 1964 Vacation Club accounts at the Howard Savings Bank. It was announced this week by John W. Kress, president of the institution's board of managers.

The decision to offer dividends on Vacation Club accounts, Kress said, was based on the growth of new accounts experienced when the Howard offered dividends on its 1963 Christmas Club accounts.

SHUT-IN SOCIETY BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR CARDS, GIFTS

The New Jersey branch of the Shut-In Society announced it will furnish names and addresses to those interested in sending cards and small gifts. The society has hundreds of invalids and handicapped people on its rolls.

Mrs. G. Hartkopf, 313 Revere ave., Union, chairman of the current appeal, asked those who have aided in the past to write for up-to-date lists. Mrs. Hartkopf asked that telephone calls be made in line with the program.

PAVEMENT ANTS, perhaps not as comfortably ensconced as our artist has sketched, usually dwell contentedly beneath sidewalks and paving. But these peaceful insects can become a real pest when they choose to invade human dwellings, points out the National Pest Control Association.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Economist

FLAVOR, ECONOMY, NUTRITION OFFERED BY LEGUME-VARIETY

Call them legumes, or call them by familiar names such as navy, pea, lima, kidney or soy beans, lentils, or split peas. They are still good sources of protein and other nutrients.

Commercially canned legumes reduce cooking time and give you a time-saving menu possibility. But uncanned beans may be more economical.

When using raw dried beans, reduce soaking and cooking time by boiling them first for two minutes. Then remove from heat and soak one hour. The beans are now ready for cooking. The U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests that the two-minute boiling period preliminary to overnight soaking will help prevent souring. If you use a pressure cooker, the total cooking time for dried beans can be cut to about 30 minutes. To prevent clogging of pressure cooker vent tube, add one tablespoon of fat (to reduce foaming) and fill cooker no more than one-third full.

Kidney beans are one of the least common but most flavorful of the bean family. They make an excellent salad and are enjoyed with ground beef in a casserole.

A satisfying protein-rich Lenten main dish is "Instead of Meat-Loaf" made with cooked dry lima beans and nuts.

Trackmen Toe The Mark; Gun Will Sound April 13

By DONALD LEWIS

The track and field team of Dayton Regional High School was put last week in full strength on the Meisel Ave. field for practice sessions. Actually, many of the boys have been running seven to eight miles a day after school in the Dayton corridors since January.

Dave McMillan, a Dayton native, has been running to school daily from his home in Kenilworth.

Stresses Training

Lummer believes that training is the most important ingredient in track success. He says, "Our boys can go as far as they want. It all depends on how hard they are willing to work."

He is assisted in coaching the field events by Martin Taglienti. Taglienti also teaches in the business department at Dayton, and has been assistant track coach for six years.

Taglienti was instrumental in the development of last year's Dayton track star, Charlie Roll. Roll won a state championship last year and set an indoor record for the shotput.

The final two events on the track card are Dayton's specialties. The javelin throw promises to be one of Dayton's strongest categories. Gary Wood, Ernie Eskine, and Greg Baskin were strong competitors in the event last year.

Dayton's weakest category seems to be the broad jump. There are no returning lettermen in this event, which could not be practiced last year because of a pit. Athletes competing this year will be Mike Carolyn, Dave Dono, Harold Hansen, and Earl Glasco.

The full squad, including freshmen, is working toward the opening meet of the season April 13 against Linden. The meet will be held on the newly-restored Meisel Ave. field. A reconditioned track and new pits with permanent runways were completed as the track team took to the field for practice.

Robert Lummer, head track coach at Dayton, feels it is difficult at this point in the season to make any predictions. He seems hopeful, however, that last year's 3-6 record can be improved. Last year the track team had no pits and no track for practice sessions, the field being being reconditioned.

Coach Lummer holds degrees from Montclair State College and Michigan State. He has been a physical education teacher and head track coach at Dayton since 1957.

Javelin Throw

The final two events on the track card are Dayton's specialties. The javelin throw promises to be one of Dayton's strongest categories. Gary Wood, Ernie Eskine, and Greg Baskin were strong competitors in the event last year.

Dayton's weakest category seems to be the broad jump. There are no returning lettermen in this event, which could not be practiced last year because of a pit. Athletes competing this year will be Mike Carolyn, Dave Dono, Harold Hansen, and Earl Glasco.

The opening meet on April 13 will be against Linden. Dayton was usually fared well against Linden, but this year's outlook is for a spirited Linden team. Lummer said that the Linden squad has been working much earlier than usual this season.

Track and field competition is almost as much an individual sport as a team sport. Lummer feels he has several boys this year who have the potential to win honors in county and conference competition or even in the state meets.

Mike Tabakin in the 440, Gary Wood in the javelin, Mike Adickman in the discus, Pete Costancia in the 880 and Dave MacMillan in the mile, all seniors, will be shooting for such awards this year.

Girls End Season With 7-Game Split Against Columbia

By DIANE SCOBEEY

The junior girls at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School scored a victory and the seniors were defeated last week by the girls' basketball team from Columbia High School, Maplewood. The games took place last week in the Regional gym.

The Dayton seniors had the lead, 1 to 0, for the final half. Beverly Baldwin scored on a foul shot and Ann Marie Boylan scored a field goal. In the first few minutes of the second half, Columbia kept possession of the ball and managed to score five points. Linda Kie scored a field goal for the Dayton seniors but time ran out and Dayton fell, 4-8.

Oklahoma Defense Gains League Title

Oklahoma, which captured the regular season championship this year, completed a 1965 grand slam by winning the State League play-offs. Oklahoma defeated Texas in the final game last Thursday evening by the score of 19 to 13.

Once again it was the fine defense of Oklahoma which came to the front. Oklahoma played a tough pressing man-to-man defense and held high-scoring Texas to a mere 13 points.

Oklahoma showed a truly well-balanced team, as there was very little difference among their first five players. This first five went all the way in this championship victory. Much credit must go to this team of Bobby Vaughn, Steve Gau, Richy Falcone, Alan Schlangner and Mike Hydock.

Strikes Take Two, Widen League Lead

The Four Strikes widened their league lead by defeating the Knockouts in two games last week at the Springfield Bowl in the Springfield Recreation Dept. Girls' Bowling League. The Strikes need one more victory out of the four remaining games to take the league title for the second year.

The Strikes posted an 801 to set a record series in the double victory. Virginia Vogt had a 259 series and Linda Mutschler had 197 for the Chams.

Policarpio-Atlantic maintained its lead in the Springfield Municipal Bowling League last week when the "sluggo" defeated Mende 317 to 295 in three games at the Springfield Bowl.

High games were: Dave Behoff, 228; Robert Jones, 221; Herb Quilston, 215; Don Schwevert, 213; Robert Anderson, 213; Robert Bevan, 212; Ralph Polcarpio, 211; Vince Polcarpio, 210; James Funcheson, 208; Bill Smith, 205; and Jerry Colantone, 204.

Pussycats Win 2, Strengthen Lead

The Pussycats won two games from the second place Red Flaks and opened their lead to 3-1 games in the Smithfield Park Mixed-Bowling League in action last week at the Echo Lanes.

Ed Silverstein rolled a 225 and George Widom rolled a 211. Other scores: Gil Wolfe, 208; Lloyd Roslin, 201; Shelley Wolfe, 193, and Matty Heller, 184.

CALDWELL STARS TO SANDMEIER WITH LATE RALLY

Last Thursday evening the Springfield small fry standouts took the floor at the Gaudineer School to play their annual All-Star basketball game. This game featured the top players of the Caldwell Small Fry League. All the boys in this game were nine and 10 years of age.

This was an exciting contest from the outset with the score see-sawing. Caldwell, however, came on strong in the second half to capture a 29 to 23 victory.

There were many outstanding players on both sides. Among those who were effective for the Sandmeier team were: Warren Schlepperman, Robert Arnold, and Kenn Baroff. Those playing well for Caldwell included: Jimmy Schock, Jeff Slater, Phil Novak, Howie Fleischman, and Bruce Jeffrey.

At the conclusion of this well-played basketball game, awards were presented to the most valuable players of each team. The game officials voted for the top players.

Kenn Baroff was presented the award for the Sandmeier All-Stars. Jim Schock won the award for the winning Caldwell All-Star team. Both boys should excel in the future, as they move into advanced leagues.

Harvard Quintet Has Grand Slam In Ivy Basketball

Last Thursday evening in the final game of a triple-header at the Gaudineer School, Harvard Princeton in the championship round, of the Ivy League play-offs. Harvard, which had captured the regular season championship, won an Ivy League grand slam, defeating Princeton by the final score of 42 to 31.

Much credit must go to the Harvard coach, Phil Kurnos, who rounded this Harvard team into a well-balanced, highly effective squad. Harvard won this game with aggressive defense and sharp passing. Steve Jupa paced the Harvard scorers in this game as he captured 15 points. Most of Steve's points were scored on steals followed by break away baskets.

Dennis Lester, who played another smooth game for Harvard, totaled 12 points and played a strong game off both backboards. Kenny Kinross also played well for Harvard. Ken kept Harvard close in the torrid first half as he hit big baskets from the outside.

The first half of this game was exciting as the teams constantly traded baskets. The half ended with the score knotted at 19-19. Harvard broke away in the second half, as it played tight defense and kept the ball moving on offense.

Princeton was paced in this game, as it has been in all contests, by the big center, Ralph Losano. Losano tallied 19 points in this contest. Ralph completed the play-offs with a total of 68 points for a 24-point average in tournament competition.

Harvard was honored following the game for the victory, but Losano of Princeton was voted the tournament's most valuable player. Ralph had a very strong tournament effort, and this award was most deserved.

KRETZER LEADS COLLEGE FROSH IN TOTAL POINTS

Bill Kretzer of Springfield was high scorer this season for the North Carolina State freshman basketball team, which finished with a record of eight victories and six defeats.

A 6-7 center who won all-state honors last year for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Kretzer this season scored 237 points in 14 games, for a 17-point average. He led the team also in field goal percentage, sinking exactly half of his 184 shots from the field.

Kretzer had a 57.6 percentage from the foul line, scoring on 53 of 92 throws. He was the second best rebounder on the club, picking off 142 missed shots in the 14 games.

He established several seasonal highs against North Carolina, which defeated the State freshmen two times in three games.

The star from Springfield had the high game total of 32 points and the high game figure of 13 field goals in a 73-53 contest. The Bowlettes Donna Petruzzello had 197 for the Chams.

SOFTBALL GROUP TO PLAN SEASON IN TALKS TONIGHT

The Springfield Recreation Department has issued a call for all softball managers and coaches to attend tonight's softball meeting at the Springfield Recreation House, 50 Caldwell St. The meeting will start promptly at 7:30, with an open invitation extended to all those interested. It was declared:

If interest is sufficient, an adult softball league will be established, with the only requirements being that the players must work or reside in Springfield.

Practice Teaching

Two students from Springfield who are seniors at Upsilon College, East Orange, are currently practicing teaching. Alcorn Maidment Beck of Springfield Ave. is assigned to the second grade at Collins School in Livingston. Astrid Gustafson of Kensington is with the second grade at the Edward Walton School, Springfield.

NATURALIST TO ADDRESS CIVIC GROUP

Richard C. Cole, chief naturalist at Sandy Hook State Park, will address the meeting of the Country Oaks Association of Springfield Friday evening at the Rt. 22, Union, office of the First State Bank of Union.

Cole will present an illustrated lecture on the shore area park and will exhibit stuffed animals. He is also a science teacher at Middletown High School. Richard Schmitter is president of the Country Oaks Association, which is nearing its 24th anniversary.

Bowling League Still Deadlocked; Top Teams Split

The Rockets and the Bullets continued in their neck and neck race for the lead in the Springfield Recreation Department Boys' Bowling League as they each split two games in action last week at the Springfield Bowl.

The Rockets divided with the Raiders, and the Bullets won and lost games against the Pirates.

Mike Rubinfield had 281 and Ricky Williams had 246 for the Rockets. Dave Epstein rolled a 201 and Mark Berkowitz had 239 for the Raiders.

Mark Hollander had a 283 series and Leo Meisel had 234 for the Bullets. Todd Herman paced the Pirates with a 242 series.

Dave Epstein, who has maintained his league-leading 137 average, looks as a likely prospect to lead the league for the second year. Mark Hollander is in second place with a 132 average.

Rolls 670 To Top Church Bowlers

Charles Markwith was high man in the Church Bowling League last week at the Springfield Bowl. He rolled 248, 218 and 208 for a 670 series.

Other bowlers to roll 200 or over were: George Gleim, 218; Nicholas Zarrelli, 212; Martin Kruse, 212; George Reimlinger, 206; Edward Epping, 204; Gus Herman, 203; William Struble, 203; Robert Grim, 201; and Robert Bessler, Sven Hedstrom and Elbert Morward, all 200.

Muddy Bulldogs Postpone Opener

A late and rainy spring has seriously affected this year's Dayton diamond Bulldogs. Three scrimmage games last week were cancelled because the baseball squad had been unable to use the muddy diamond at Meisel Ave. Field for practice sessions.

Tomorrow's scheduled opener with Westfield High School has been postponed, and the 1965 season will now officially open Monday afternoon with a game against Cranford.

With little time to experiment and feel out the strengths of his team, Coach Ed Jasinski intends to start the season with the few returning varsity lettermen and JVs he has available.

On the pitching mound, Dayton's strongest hope seems to be junior Bob Tiser. Last year as a JV Tiser shut out Rahway in the final game of the season. Coach Jasinski had planned to use Tiser in the opening game, but a turned ankle may keep Bob out of action for the first few contests.

Other Dayton pitchers are Ron Azarawicz, a sophomore with a strong arm and good speed, and Larry Shafternoth, brother of former Dayton baseball star Joe Shafternoth.

Also on the roster for the first time will be Tom Chambers. Chambers has a good fast ball, but may have trouble with control, according to Coach Jasinski.

The infield should be strong defensively for the Bulldogs. At first base will be Junior Al Mookes, a boy with good height and range off the bag. At second will be Joe Jupa, whom Jasinski calls "the best infielder on the team."

At shortstop will be Keith Neigel, the most experienced player on the squad. Keith played on last year's varsity team and also in American Legion ball.

At third base will be Ted Levitt. Ted had some experience last year on the varsity before being injured early in the season. He should be one of Dayton's better hitters this year.

Stationed behind the plate will be Dayton's all-county halfback and scoring leader in football, Carl Varas. Carl caught for the Bulldogs last year and will probably be the clean-up hitter on the 1965 team.

The outfield is still a question mark for Jasinski, and will not be decided until the day of the opener. Candidates for the three outfield positions include Dennis Lies, Bob Blythe, Leroy Mathis, John Majkos, Gerry Krowne, Stan Wisneski, Gary Faldin and Ken Max. Jasinski said he is looking for outfielders who can hit.

With Friday's opener postponed, Dayton's first two games will be against Cranford and Union. Each has one of the strongest pitchers in the County. John Dellarosa of Cranford and Bob Santorini of Union.

Jasinski said, "Things will be especially difficult because pitchers usually have an advantage over the hitters early in the season." Dayton's strength, however, this year seems to be in the defensive and pitching areas rather than hitting.

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

Long Interest In Early Americana Evidenced By Barrett & Crain Offices

R. H. BARRETT JR.

The appraisal, listing, remodeling and sale of Early American homes has been a particularly favorite occupation of R. H. Barrett Jr. of the real estate firm, Barrett & Crain, Inc. The influence of things Early American is illustrated in the design of both Barrett & Crain offices in Westfield and Mountaineide. The Mountaineide office, an attractive yellow, frame building over 150 years old is noted for its colonial charm, both exterior and interior. The firm has received written citations from the Mountaineide Historical Society and from the Garden Club.

Active in community affairs, Barrett was campaign chairman of United Fund of Westfield in 1964 and currently is serving as the Fund's first vice president and trustee. He was the recipient of the Westfield Community Service Award in 1964. He is also vice president and director of the Westfield YMCA and an executive member of the 38th National YMCA Swimming and Diving Championship to be held at Wallace Natatorium, Westfield YMCA-YWCA, April 22-24. He is also a director of The Players School.

The Westfield office too is Early American in decor and has an attractive colonial-style facade which acts as a frame-work for interesting and colorful displays in the office windows. These are changed each month by Mrs. Hazel Ward who plans the windows to coincide with special events, holidays and civic affairs. Some of the exhibits have been of local antiquities, miniature trains and circuses, rare glass, documents, old newspapers and other collections of historical interest. The windows have become a focal point of interest in town.

Barrett & Crain have also developed unique personalized letterhead, business cards, direct mail pieces and match covers which incorporate pictures of the two offices.

Barrett & Crain, Inc. has specialized for many years in the sale of residential property. However, in the past 10 years, the company has become more and more involved in the appraisal and property management fields. At the present time, it is doing appraisals for corporations, banks or attorneys every week. In the property management area, approximately 12 million dollars' worth of residential property is currently being leased and/or managed by the firm. Vice President and Treasurer, Marion D. Sims Jr. handles management accounts while Guy Mulford, Henry Schwiering and Barrett do most of the appraisal work.

THE HOTEL NACIONAL in Brasilia, Brazil. State-of-the-art... but subject to old-fashioned ill also.

THE FEMININE LOOK

Commentary on a recent National Editorial Association Study Mission Around South America

By TRUDINA HOWARD

BRASILIA THE BEAUTIFUL

Brasilia is an experience... You may like it or you may not, but it will have a distinct effect on you.

The men and women who live there and built it are proud and boasting about it, but they say it grows "like a baby" in the empty plateau area into a city.

When the people of Brasilia, particularly of Brasilia, seem to have a "coup d'etat" about the giant Brasilia, and the president under whose term it was built...

But Brasilia is there. It cost an estimated two or three billion dollars so far and it has been designated as the capital of the country.

There was no longer is a chance to take it or leave it. It was built by the government, for the government, for government workers and the fine of the governmental ministries.

Then, in November, 1956, occupation of the red soil of an empty plateau about 800 miles into the interior of Brazil, took place and construction began.

Construction still continues although the city has a finished look, but it is at a more leisurely pace now with work being done as the national budget will allow.

Your part in the Overlook progress program...

What does Overlook's expansion program mean to you? It means better hospital and far broader services for you and your family. It means residents of this area no longer need to turn to metropolitan centers for highly skilled medical care and the finest caliber of specialized medical treatment. When time is of the essence, it may mean the difference between life and death.

Hospital authorities urge regional planning for the modern hospital. One major community medical center offers far more advantages than several smaller hospitals.

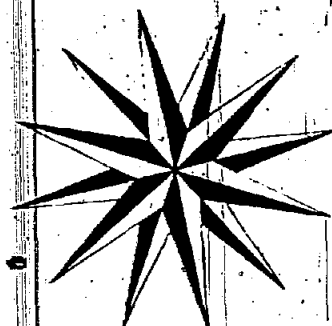

The larger community medical center has the necessary volume of patients to offer specialized services impractical for smaller hospitals to provide. Neurosurgery, thoracic and cardiovascular surgery, remote control fluoroscopy, artificial kidney, deep radiation therapy — these new and growing specialties require costly equipment, professionally trained technicians, skilled teamwork. Physicians in these fields would not even come to an area where no hospital facility provided the advanced needs of their practice.

The residents of each community, however, in all fairness, have a direct responsibility to help their community medical center provide these services. Overlook is your hospital, enlarging to serve you, if you live in any town in the Overlook area.

Your pledge can be made over a three-year period, or outright, as you prefer. Many memorial gift opportunities are also available.

Your hospital, like your schools and churches, is a basic cornerstone all through your life — from the moment of your birth. Overlook urges you to consider your community hospital as your primary contribution in this major $6,500,000 expansion period.

The need and the plan

The need is clear-cut. Overlook has been operating at top capacity for over a year; in recent months often without a spare bed. Solariums have been converted to patient areas and bathroom facilities installed. Treatment rooms are increasingly pressed into use as patient rooms. Elective surgery is frequently postponed in order to handle emergency overflow. Overlook's 342 beds served over 15,000 in-patients last year.

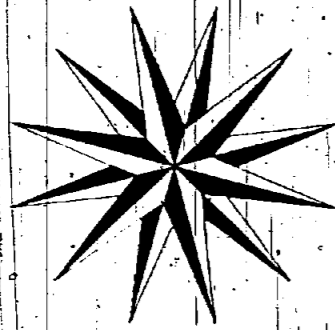

These conditions mean inconvenience to patient and family. If intensified, they will affect the high quality of medical care at Overlook—and population forecasts promise a continuing spiral. Overlook must expand if it is to meet the hospital needs of its service area.

Equally important, Overlook must embrace new concepts of medical science and service if it is to continue its fine record as one of the most progressive, modern hospitals in the State of New Jersey.

Changing trends in out-patient and emergency usage mean that today's hospital serves a far wider segment of its community than ever before. Short-term psychiatric care, specialized units for the critically ill and the isolation patient, growing awareness of the hospital as a community and medical education center—these are all vital factors in Overlook's progress program.

The plan is well-defined. After months of study and consultation by hospital experts, architects and the Board of Trustees, Overlook is embarking upon a $6,500,000 program for a new wing which will provide:

- 94 added beds serving 3,700 more patients a year
- new and enlarged emergency facilities
- new and enlarged out-patient department
- new and enlarged clinic
- new and enlarged radiology department
- coordinated and expanded laboratories
- short-term psychiatric unit
- intensive care unit
- isolation unit
- medical education center
- added maternity facilities
- increased surgery area
- nurses garden apartments and expanded parking, both self-liquidating.

Board of Trustees

The 43 members of Overlook's Board of Trustees are men and women of demonstrated civic leadership and responsibility, as well as business and professional accomplishment. Elected by the membership of the Overlook Hospital Association, they represent the many towns served by Overlook—Summit, Millburn-Short Hills, Westfield, Chatham Boro and Township, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Springfield, Madison-Florham Park, Mountainside, and others.

Overlook's trustees give their time and experience voluntarily, aware of the importance of fine hospital care and the current pressing need for expansion. They determine that Overlook's policies are directed in the best interests of the area. The Progress Program for Overlook is the result of their careful study and evaluation.

Emergency

Today? Tonight? Tomorrow? At any moment the signal may flash, the siren may sound. "Emergency!"

Accident. Heart Attack. Explosion. Hemorrhage. Attempted Suicide. Long is the list! And the hospital must be ready for any or all of them, night and day.

More and more people turn to their hospital for help at times of emergency. At Overlook, emergency cases have increased one hundred per cent in the last five years—close to 10,000 emergencies last year alone.

Not all emergencies are dramatic, life or death; many are matters of discomfort and concern. Still, the hospital stands by to assist, to relieve pain, and anxiety.

Overlook's new Emergency Department will provide a mass casualty area, waiting room for anxious relatives, needed treatment rooms, modern lighting, wider corridors, Rescue Squad and Doctors' Call Rooms.

Emergency will have its own protected entrance at the fourth floor level, with adequate parking nearby. Laboratory and X-ray will be immediately adjacent for swift diagnosis and logical follow-through to further treatment.

Out-patients

Changing patterns of hospital usage are strongly evidenced by the number of out-patients now turning to their community medical center for many purposes.

Why lose time from work and home, or pay the added cost of hospitalization when many tests and treatments can be handled on an ambulatory basis? Insurance coverages are rapidly expanding to include this type of out-patient diagnosis and treatment.

Twenty thousand out-patients, with a total of 48,990 treatments, came to Overlook last year for laboratory, X-ray, minor surgery, physiotherapy, electrocardiograms, electroencephalograph study—substantially more than the hospital's 15,000 in-patients.

Yes, these are broader concepts of medical science and service. And to meet these new community needs, Overlook needs a new and enlarged out-patient department, now located in the oldest, most inaccessible section of the hospital.

The Out-Patient Department will have its own entrance, next to Emergency but separated to streamline service in both areas. Here, Overlook's ten clinics will also have adequate space for their specialized patient treatment.

Your community's needs are what would be done by. The delicate arts of hearing to those long deaf to the blind; neurosurgery applies the brain; cardiac surgery repairs the human heart; the unsee penetrates to the deep; the laboratory under a growing battery of diagnostic medicines cure and prevent.

Tomorrow's hospital faces a tremendous challenge — to be ready with every skill at modern medicine's command — for you and your family.

The guiding theme of Overlook's progress program is "broadening concepts of medical science and service." This is no catch-phrase; it expresses the reality of the new and more broadly based Overlook — forward-thinking, progressive, aware of changing trends, new needs in its community, and planning ahead to meet them.

The community hospital and mental health

Current thinking in the mental health field favors immediate, short-term care in the local community hospital to institutionalizing patients in an unfamiliar setting. Naturally, the patient's condition determines whether such short-term care seems feasible, but when indicated, the advantages of a well-known, familiar setting, close to home, are manifold.

The shock and trauma of a strange institution is immediately lessened. This, in turn, enables the patient to be more receptive to help. Next, continuity of care is offered—same physicians, technologists, therapists, nurses. Again, the difficulties of adjustment to strange personnel are eliminated and greater confidence results. Out-patient services are also being planned as a further extension of Overlook's mental health program.

Today's tranquilizers have done away with the violent patient. Under medical care, the mentally disturbed are seemingly little different from any patient, and those in a community hospital would, of course, be carefully screened—cases such as the recovering attempted suicide, the mildly depressed, people requiring the combination of psychotherapy and medical care.

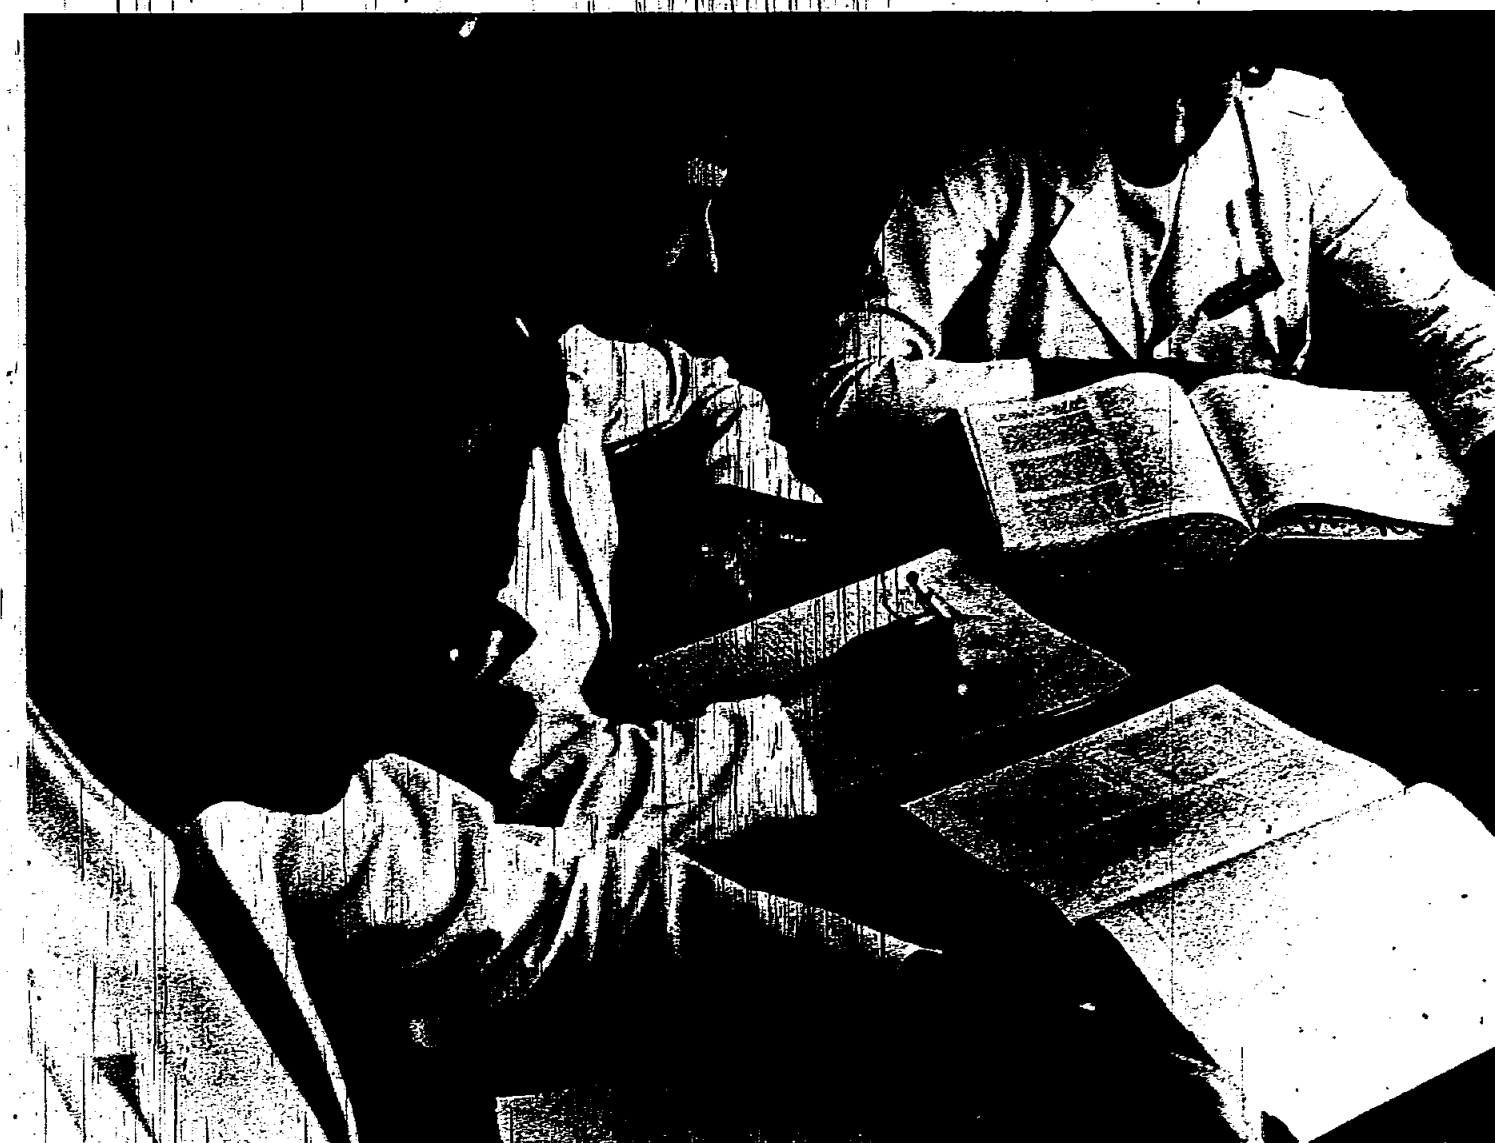

Overlook's short-term psychiatric unit will have 20 beds, with flexibility of use as regular medical-surgical beds when not required for psychiatric care. Overlook enters an entirely new realm of service to the community with this step into the world of mental health.

Where does a doctor get his practical experience after finishing medical school? By interning in a hospital and taking a residency in special fields. Without this opportunity to learn from practicing physicians, to test his diagnoses against theirs, to see a broad spectrum of medical problems, the young doctor would be a product of textbook and laboratory—without practical experience.

How does the practicing physician keep up with the fast pace of modern medicine, constant new knowledge, new drugs, new diagnoses, new treatments? An active program of special seminars under a Director of Medical Education has been underway at Overlook for several years—but without adequate lecture hall and conference space. The new Medical Education Center planned at Overlook will fill a great need in the continuing education of its Medical and House Staffs.

The community hospital also has a growing role to play in preventative medicine. At Overlook, eye examination clinics, diabetic detection clinics, medical films for the public already are regularly scheduled events.

Overlook has an outstanding record of community service in many areas beyond the purely medical. The new Medical Education Center will greatly broaden the scope of this program. Science fairs, lectures by medical authorities, special seminars, high school career conferences, courses in control of various diseases, films—all will be presented as part of the Public Information Program.

Education

Night and day... intensive care

Crisis is a daily challenge to Overlook's Intensive Care Unit. The most dramatic, critical cases in the hospital are cared for in this special section, their very lives depending on the swiftness and concentration of nursing care they receive.

Here, every vital sign is monitored—every single second. A team of specially trained nurses keeps constant watch, twenty-four-hours, round-the-clock, all emergency equipment at hand. Oxygen and suction are at every bed, intravenous equipment, gastric hypothermia machine to stop internal hemorrhaging, pacemakers and defibrillators for the run-away heart, resuscitators, iron lung—all stand by in readiness.

Skilled in the latest advances and techniques of modern nursing care, the I. C. U. staff eliminates the need for private duty nurses in this section. A House Staff doctor is also especially assigned to I. C. U. on 24 hour detail.

Hundreds of grateful patients and their families have blessed Overlook's Intensive Care Unit and its devoted staff for the constancy and skill of their ministrations.

Overlook's new Intensive Care Unit will replace an out-moded facility in the hospital's oldest wing, bringing every modern advance into play to streamline nursing care. Eight of I. C. U.'s 23 beds are flexibly planned for use also as straight medical-surgical; a needed family waiting room and doctor's conference room will be added.

Isolation

An Isolation Unit is an essential part of the practice of modern medicine. At Overlook, any suspect condition is assigned immediately to the Isolation Unit, all infections are constantly checked. Why? For the protection of all patients. Many people do not realize that such a simple thing as the common boil is one of the main sources of the dread staph germ—and must be strictly isolated.

Overlook's "Watchdog" Committee of doctors and nurses meets regularly to review all infection cases and bacterial conditions in the hospital. Strict procedures are set up for control. Overlook is justly proud of its low cross-infection rate. Its Control Program was recently cited as outstanding in procedure and technique at a Nursing Institute sponsored by the New Jersey Department of Health.

Hospital housekeeping is not simple, not just a matter of routine cleaning. Rooms must be disinfected by special fogging machines; elevators, surgery, laundry chutes, corridors and patient areas are periodically "cultured." Hospital personnel are carefully checked for communicable disease, removed from duty at the first sign of infection; those in contact with patients are strictly instructed in sterile technique.

The new Isolation Unit of 18 beds will be a completely separate area. Functionally designed to meet the specific needs of this specialized care, the unit will have scrub and gown areas both at the entrance for visitors and doctors, and inside the unit for doctors making rounds in visiting different rooms.

Scientific detectives... the laboratory

The laboratory is the diagnostic hub of the hospital universe; the first stop every patient makes after formal admission. Here, the blood is typed, other vital studies made. Electrolytes, acid-base balance, hormone determinations — all these former little-known components of the human body are becoming everyday, measurable knowledge, often revealing unsuspected conditions, ruling out others.

Overlook's laboratories have more than doubled their case load in the last ten years—from 105,781 procedures in 1955 to 214,033 in 1963. In addition to twice the number of patients, many new tests have been developed. The hospital has utilized automation and other new methods to perform these delicate tests that reveal new clues to diagnosis and recovery of health. But the laboratories now are scattered throughout the building and greatly overcrowded—functioning in 5,022 square feet of space where they should have 13,000.

The new wing will consolidate the laboratories so that Pathology, Blood Bank, Hematology, Chemistry, Bacteriology will be together, close to Admissions, Emergency and Out-Patient departments for swift diagnosis, functioning in adequate space for their vital work.

New laboratories for such specialized techniques as gas chromatography to determine steroid chemistry, virology, delicate toxicological analyses, radioactive isotope testing—will mean more rapid diagnosis for Overlook patients through a broader range of tests.

The magic world of modern x-ray

Startling growth is seen again in Overlook's radiology department—one of the fastest growing fields of modern medicine. In 1955, X-ray performed 12,092 procedures; in 1963 this number jumped to 22,688—twice as many patients, twice as many tests—in an area of 3,262 square feet where 15,000 square feet are needed.

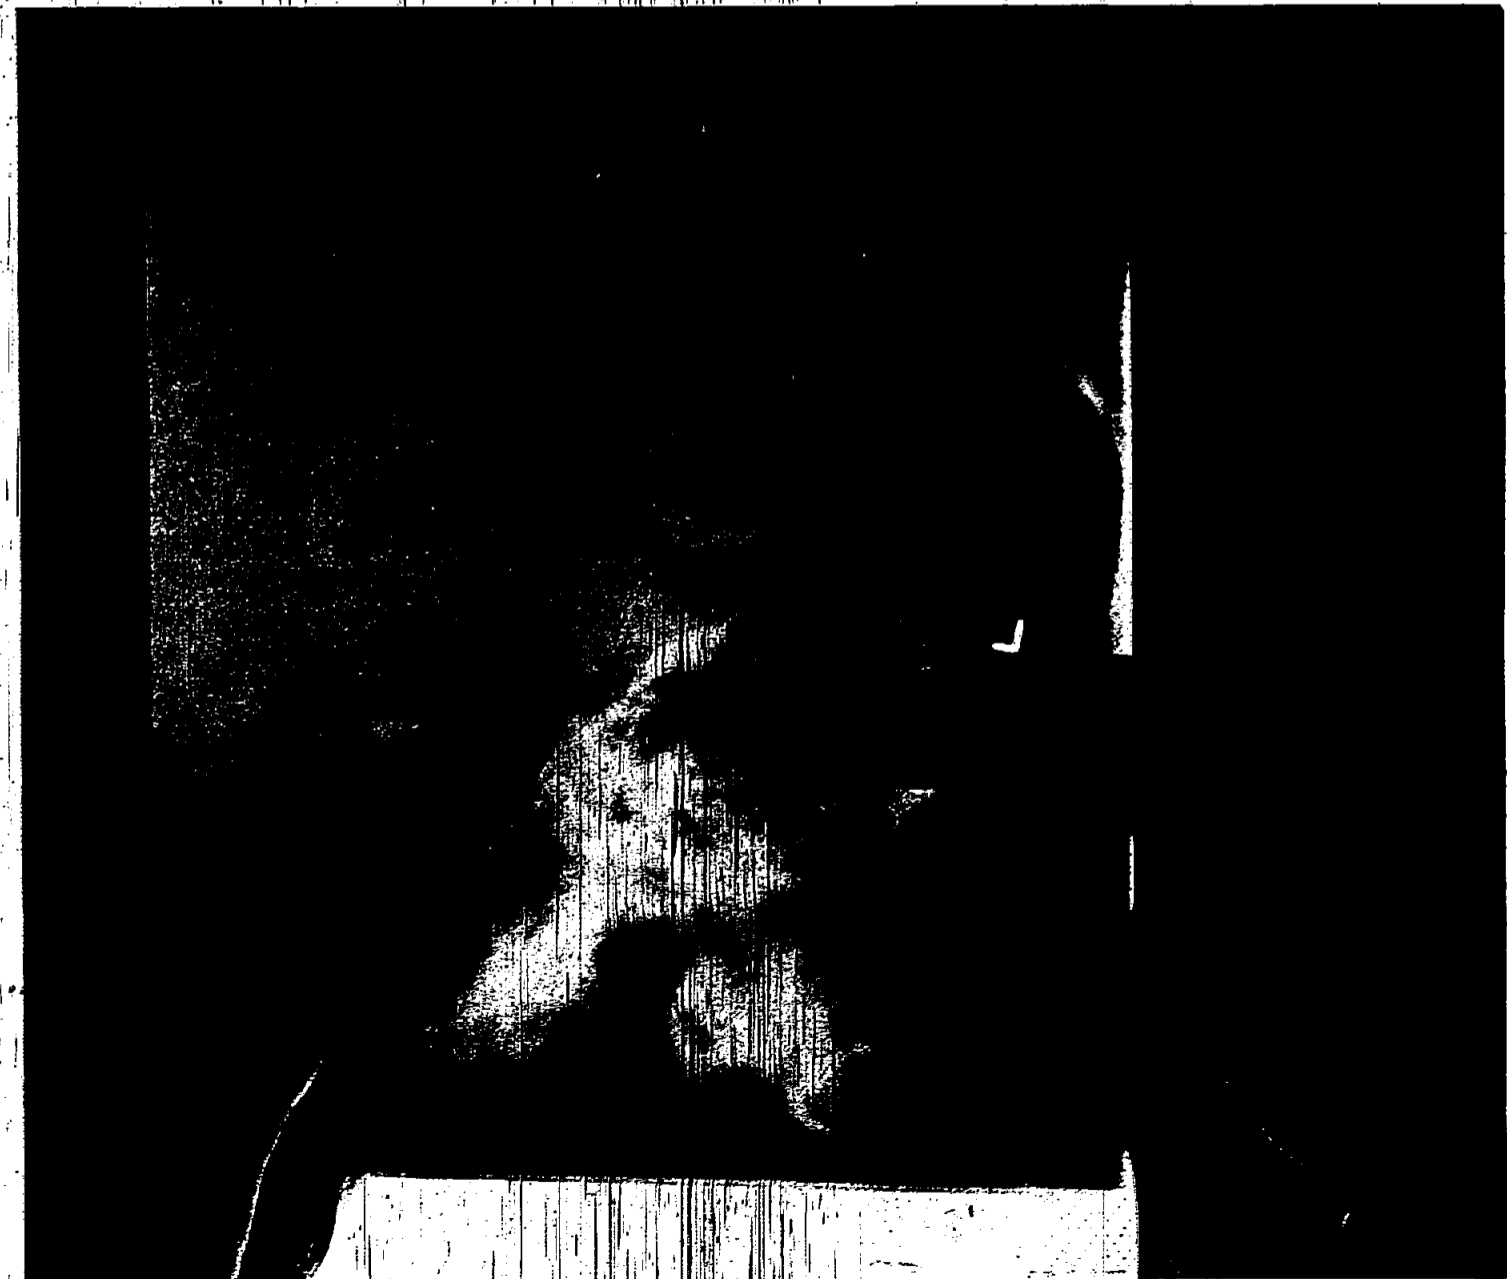

What does this mean to the patient? It means waiting, uncomfortably and apprehensively, for limited treatment and diagnostic rooms to be free; it means slower results; congested conditions.

Despite these drawbacks, Overlook's Radiology Department has performed on the finest level, utilizing every modern advance in the field.

Overlook's Remote Control Fluoroscope Unit, lowering radiation to the patient to one-tenth of former doses, was the first of its kind in the state. Its Magnascanner is a new instrument that performs vital tests, giving clues to tumors of the brain, thyroid, other organs. An automatic film processor has helped to expedite the heavy load carried by this department.

Enlarged quarters, again logically close to Admissions, Emergency, Clinic and Laboratory, will enable Radiology to have added treatment and diagnostic rooms, another Magnascanner, video tape recorders for fluoroscopy and other advanced equipment.

Nurses' apartments

To attract needed nurses to its staff, Overlook is planning a 24-unit garden apartment project on nearby Glenside Avenue.

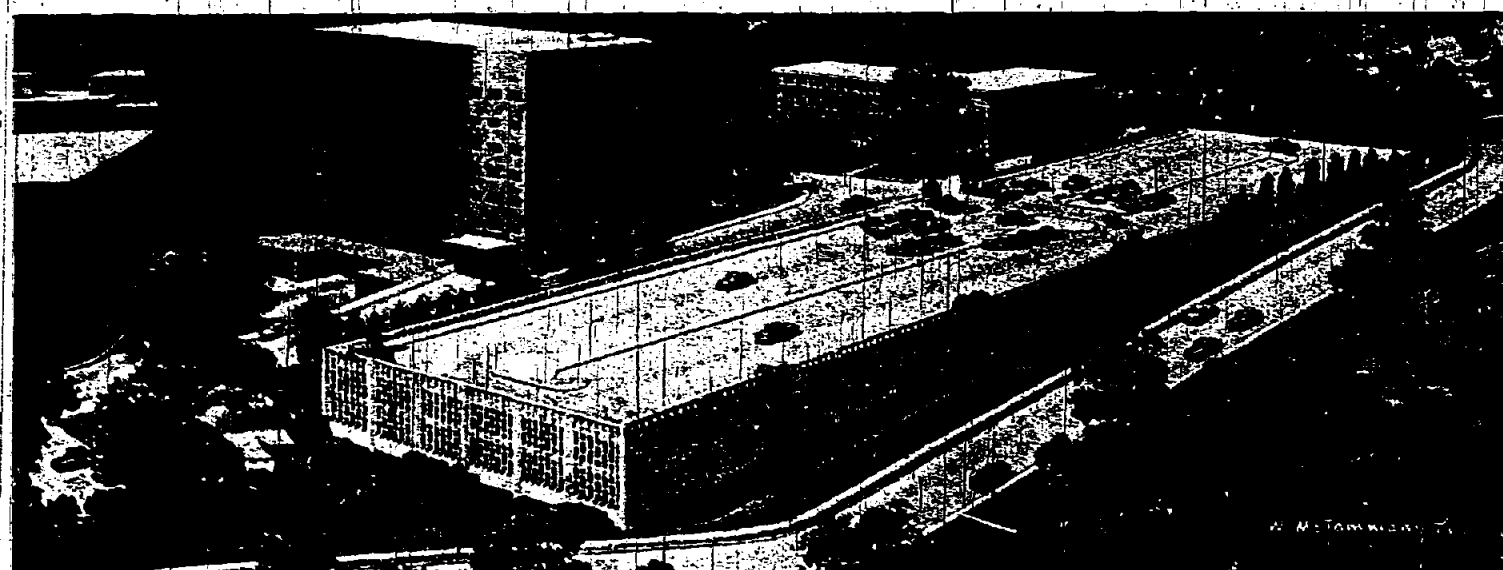

The apartments will provide attractive housing at moderate rentals in Summit's high rental cost area. These units will pay for themselves over a period of time, meanwhile providing emergency and night duty staff close to the hospital.

Construction of the garden apartments is already underway, with completion planned for the fall.

Improved deck-parking

Why does Overlook have paid parking? To provide for the ever-growing number of patients', visitors', and doctors' cars while available land is being used up by the new wing.

Deck parking, on a pay-as-you-use basis, will be conveniently located next to the new main entrance on Beauvoir Avenue. A practical answer to this phase of the suburban population explosion, the deck parking structure is also well underway—in preparation for groundbreaking on the new wing this spring.
