Township Committee, in mourning, curtails meeting Parade on Monday will mark Memorial Day

Town units offer tribute to war dead

Program at Town Mall planned at end of march.

Springfield's annual Memorial Day parade will get under way on Monday at 8:45 a.m., with units from Millburn joining for the traditional procession of tribute to those who have fallen in this country's wars.

Frank Rebel, commander of Springfield Battle Hill Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is grand marshal. Speakers during ceremonies on the Township Mall at the conclusion of the parade will include Mayor Robert G. Planer, Edward Weis is parade chairman, with Vincent Pollicarpo as co-chairman.

The Rev. Kenneth Stumpf of Holy Cross Lutheran Church will offer the invocation at the closing ceremonies. The Rev. Bruce Evans of the First Presbyterian Church will deliver the benediction.

Mr. Evans will also conduct the annual memorial service of the Springfield Fire Department, to be held at the monument outside the Fire House at 8:30 a.m.

Units participating in the parade will march in the following order:

Police Department, Harmony Band, Veterans of Foreign Wars, F.W. Auxiliary, Fire Department, Fire Department Reserve, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, First Aid Squad, First Aid Squad Auxiliary, Civil Air Patrol, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Band, Elks Club, Lions Club, Springfield Twirlers, Girl Scouts, Brownies, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts.

From the assembly point at the Township Mall, they will march along Mountain ave.

Playground named to honor Ed Ruby, recreation veteran

The Rose Ave. Playground was scheduled for formal dedication as Edward J. Ruby Park in ceremonies yesterday. The name will honor the township's veteran recreation director, who was unaware of the ceremonies being planned.

The six-acre park, much of which is now in use, is designed to serve the entire community, and particularly the area of Rose ave., Salter st., Tooker ave., Dayton court, Keeler st., Brook st. and Caldwell pl. It is located between Rose ave. and Tooker ave., with an entrance from Caldwell pl.

Much of the park is now enclosed by a fence, and the Recreation Department plans to fence in the entire area. The playground area for small children will be protected by a separate split rail fence. Park benches will be placed in the shaded area, and drinking fountains will be installed.

A full-size baseball diamond is now in use, with a large backdrop, players' benches and bleachers for spectators. The ball field is being used by the Springfield Babe Ruth League. There is also a standard size basketball court.

Playground equipment is scheduled for installation at the newly named Ruby Park by the middle of June. There will be swings, slides, a merry-go-round and a large sand box. Parking facilities are now sufficient for 35 autos; this area will be expanded to hold 60 cars. Plans also call for construction of pickleball courts, and "other facilities as demanded," the Recreation Department announcement added.

The statement continued, "This wooded, natural park is the culmination of careful planning and foresight, and it should develop into the finest park in Springfield. Only those trees which were necessary to be removed were felled; the others were pruned. Most of the area was hand-raked, the debris and stumps cleared. Top soil was spread, fertilized and seeded."

A LONG, LONG TRAIL for these dogs and their owners led to the free rabies clinic conducted by the township Saturday at the municipal garage on Center st. Mrs. Eleanor

H. Worthington, township clerk, reported that nearly 400 licensed canines, and one feline, received inoculations during the course of the afternoon.

First Aid Squad receives annual award, honored as 'a major asset' to community

The Springfield First Aid Squad has received the 1966 Community Service Award for Springfield from the Board of Realtors of the Oranges and Maplewood, Livingston, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield. The citation was made public yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Suburban, East Orange. The event was a feature of the current Realtor Week observances.

The squad was cited for being "a major asset to Springfield," according to realtor Anne Sylvester, member for Springfield on the award selection committee. "It is a pleasure to express our appreciation to this fine volunteer group with this award," Mrs. Sylvester said.

The squad and other recipients of the award were selected by a group headed by Millburn realtor Paul Roman, a Springfield resident. Choices were made from candidates suggested by local restaurateurs and realtors. Previous award winners from this community were Saul Freeman, 1964, and former Mayor Robert Hardgrove, 1965.

According to board president Frank A. Bedford of Livingston, the annual honor recognizes individuals or groups which "help in some outstanding way to make the Newark suburbs such a fine place to live, do business and own property in."

The board also presented awards yesterday to residents or groups in each of the seven other communities it serves. Individual winners and the work for which they were honored are: Evelyn Bolover of Maplewood, support of the Maplewood Library; Howard B. Voorhees of East Orange, civic beautification; Katherine Swolak, administrative work on Millburn-Short Hills fund drives; Kenneth W. Welch of Livingston, civic leadership; and Police Captain Harry Benson of West Orange.

Boys to compete in all-star games

All-stars games are scheduled for Monday, Memorial Day, in the leagues conducted by the Springfield Junior Baseball League. It was announced by Jack Williams, director of business administration. The games will start at 1 p.m. The Babe Ruth Major League, for boys, 13 to 15, will play its all-star contest at the newly named Edward Ruby Park, with an entrance on Caldwell pl., near Rose ave. The Youth Majors will play at the municipal swimming pool diamond. The Youth Minors will hold their contest at the Irwin Playground.

Group winners were the League of Women Voters of South-Orange and the Valley Settlement House of Orange.

IN OPERATION for 17 years, the First Aid Squad provides ambulance and emergency transportation for local residents, relieving the township of the necessity of maintaining similar equipment and services. Its members are trained to give first aid and are often called on to handle accident victims, control bleeding, splint fractures and give emergency oxygen treatment in the case of heart attacks and strokes. On occasion they have delivered babies within route to the hospital.

A roster of 31 volunteers make the group, contributing an average of 1,000 hours per person each year. Albert Bruder is president of the unit and Captain Robert Voorhees is its chief operational officer.

The squad answers almost 700 calls per year with its two ambulances, responding also to appeals to assist in neighboring communities in case of disaster or mass injury.

In addition to the realtor's award, the squad has also received citations from the Lions Club, B'nai B'rith and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The group is wholly supported by contributions from the community.

Realtor Week, currently under way, May 22 to 28, is designed "to let the public know how realtors can help them," says Frank Bedford, president of the Board of Realtors. That assistance, Bedford adds, is too valuable for the homeowner to ignore.

"Our multiple listing service, for example,"

Township's artists to provide exhibits for annual feature

The Springfield Association of Creative Arts will hold its second annual art show and sale on the Town Mall in front of the Springfield Municipal Building on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. The art date is June 12. The chairman is Phillip Del Vecchio, and the co-chairman is Erwin May.

The show will be open to Springfield residents and those who work in Springfield and will encompass professional as well as amateur classifications. The presentation of awards will be made by Mayor Robert G. Planer at 3 p.m.

The number of entries is limited to three pieces per person and there is no limit on the size of the exhibits. Entries may be in any medium (oil, water color, pastels or crayons), but each must be an original creative endeavor which is framed, with the exception of sculptured pieces.

Entry fees per exhibitor will be one dollar for adults and fifty cents for high school students. A separate show for pre-school and grammar school students will be held in the near future. Entries must be delivered to the American Legion Post Home on Saturday between 2 and 5 p.m.

A patrons' night program will also be held on Saturday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the American Legion Post Home for anyone interested in sponsoring the creative art efforts of SACA.

At this time, a preview of the artwork to be shown the following day will be featured.

Letters of invitation to serve as patrons have been sent to many Springfield residents. Anyone interested in attending may do so by contacting Mrs. Leslie I. Rosenbaum, DR 9-9039.

Creative arts body sets 'kaleidoscope'

Tonight's the night for a "Kaleidoscope of Culture" to be sponsored by the Springfield Association of Creative Arts, in cooperation with the Springfield Recreation Department. The remainder of this free public event, which will be held in the Florence M. Gaudineer School at 8:30 p.m., was issued by Mrs. Martin M. Novich, chairman.

An original skit will be presented by the members of the Drama Workshop of the Springfield Association of Creative Arts. Representatives of the Springfield Singers (also known as the Springfield Community Chorus) will sing several selections.

Tribute paid to memory of Mrs. Bloom

All-business completed in session of 13 minutes

Only the barest minimum of civic business was transacted at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall, which lasted only 13 minutes, as committeemen joined in expressions of sympathy over the death of Mrs. Jay Bloom, wife of their colleague, Mrs. Bloom died on Monday at the age of 28. (See article on Page 3) Mayor Robert G. Planer opened the meeting by calling for a minute of silent tribute to Mrs. Bloom's memory. He expressed his sympathy to our associate, Jay Bloom, on the untimely passing of his lovely wife, Audrey. Planer's fellow committeemen, William Koonz, Arthur M. Falkin and Robert D. Hardgrove, voted with him for a formal resolution of sympathy.

Mayor Planer then expressed the wish of the governing body to limit the meeting to its minimum of essentials. He asked the cooperation of the handful of persons in the audience in omitting the public discussion portion of the meeting. There was no dissent.

Falkin proposed a resolution, which was approved, expressing the township's opposition to any proposals to charge tolls on the Garden State Parkway within Union County.

The committeemen postponed final action on an ordinance to vacate a portion of Federal line area of the Union-County Industrial Park, south of R.C. 22.

Purpose of the ordinance is to assist in development of the industrial area. The ordinance was tabled until the township receives a deed to additional land required for the development plans.

The governing body did take action, however, in approving a special exception use for Ciro's Restaurant, Inc., to operate a restaurant and bar in the Echo Plaza Shopping Center. Committeeman Koonz, in moving for the approval, included a number of restrictions. Among them was one which prohibits the retail sale of packaged liquors.

The meeting was then adjourned, at 8:43 p.m., after only 13 minutes in session. The audience of no more than four or five persons departed as silently as did the members of the governing body.

United Fund lists plans for meeting with local groups

Jack H. Stifelman, chairman of the Springfield United Fund, announced this week that a meeting of the steering committee, together with representatives of some 17 agencies which have expressed interest in joining the campaign, will be held in the Municipal Building on Wednesday at 8 a.m.

"This important meeting," said Stifelman, "is to finalize all of the preliminary efforts of the committee, and should make the United Fund an actual fact, some time this fall. The interest shown by the many calls received by the Chamber of Commerce from residents of Springfield, lauding the formation of the United Fund, augurs well for its success."

Donations have already reached $500, he said, "as part of the seed money needed for expenses to begin the drive, and additional funds are known to be on the way."

17 doctors decline to examine driver

Springfield police last Friday charged a Summit motorist with reckless driving, after 17 physicians had declined to come to headquarters to examine the man for signs of intoxication. Police declared that Harold C. Barrow, 56, of Summit, appeared to be intoxicated after he was involved in a four-car chain-reaction on Morris ave.

Dr. Ralph Mond, police physician, was out of town, a police spokesman said, and his alternate was sick. All the other physicians called said they were unable to come "for a variety of reasons," the spokesman added. He also noted that the Union County medical examiner was unable to help.

The local police then took Barrow to the State Police barracks in Scotch Plains, where there is a "Drunkometer," a device to measure alcohol content in a person's breath. Barrow, however, refused to permit use of the drunkometer.

Police records showed that the accident took place at 5:22 p.m. last Friday, on Morris ave. near Millburn ave. Cars driven by Caroline T. Pittinger, 26, of 1195 Maple ave., Springfield; Ruth Durand, 50, of Mountaineer, and William H. Campbell, 36, of Madison were stopped for a traffic light.

The police stated that Barrow's auto struck the rear of the one operated by Campbell, setting off the chain reaction. No injuries were reported, but Campbell's car had to be towed from the scene.

New bill would provide $1M state scholarships

An administration bill which would make available up to $1,000 in scholarships to qualified students attending public or private institutions in New Jersey was introduced in the Assembly Monday by Assemblymen from Union County Joseph J. Higgins, Henry P. Gavan and Robert E. Henderson.

The new bill, known as the Incentive Scholarship Act of 1966, would supplement the present state competitive scholarship act which has provided up to $500 annually to eligible high school graduates. The total appropriation authorized by the incentive bill would be $750,000 annually.

In a statement issued jointly by the three Assemblymen they explained that until now, "unless a student could supplement his state scholarship with substantial private funds, he could not attend a private institution where tuition, in almost all cases, is higher than that in the state-supported colleges and universities. Thus, no real choice remained for the student except for him to add to the pressure of those seeking admission to public institutions."

"We have no fear," the statement continued,

"that young people of ability will not continue to seek admission to the state university, or other public colleges, in numbers greater than can be accommodated. We must press forward with the necessary expansion in that area."

"But this bill will assure that all available places in New Jersey's private institutions will be filled and that these institutions can plan for the necessary expansion that must accompany the growth in public facilities."

The competitive scholarship funds have been given primarily to students attending schools in this state, although 35 per cent of the total allocation is available to students attending out-of-state schools.

The incentive scholarships would be issued to recipients of competitive scholarships who are attending or who will attend schools within the state. They will be administered by the State Scholarship Commission which would take into consideration applicants' financial need, academic qualifications and character references.

Vehicle inspection scheduled June 4 for Derby entries

D-Day is approaching fast for the 24 area boys entered in the 1966 Union County Soap Box Derby on June 5 in Union Township. Prior to the big race down Stuyvesant ave., will be inspection day, on Friday, June 4.

Ross Todaro of Union, derby director, said the boys will have their vehicles inspected next Friday at 7 p.m. at L&S Chevrolet on Morris ave. in Union. The inspections are conducted to check cars for safety and conformity with official Derby rules. Todaro and chief inspector Alex Oleksy, will supervise.

Todaro, noting that there have been several rule changes for this year, urged Derby entrants to double check their cars with the 1966 Soap Box Derby Rule Book.

"The rules guarantee safety and fair play," he said, "so every boy should make sure that his car precisely follows the rule book. We want every boy to pass inspection and give his car a real test on Derby Day," Todaro said.

After inspection, all racers will be placed in the care of Derby officials and their owners won't be allowed to touch them until race day on June 5.

The Union County winner will receive a $500 savings bond, trophy and an expense-paid trip to Akron, O., to compete for $30,000 in college scholarships offered by Chevrolet, national Derby sponsor.

Some 250 local champions are expected to participate in the 32nd running of the national finals on Akron's historic Derby Downs. The top prize, a $7,500 scholarship, goes to the first-place winner.

The Union County Soap Box Derby is sponsored by the Optimist Club of Union, L&S and the Union Leader.

V.N. Martynovitch of Springfield, sr. staff engineer of Lockheed Electronics Co., delivered an address May 11 at the modulator symposium held at Fort Monmouth. As at three prior symposia, attended by 400 representatives of military and industrial organizations, sponsored by the U.S. Army Electronics R&D Laboratories, Martynovitch contributed a technical paper on state-of-art achievements in the field of radar pulse transmission.

The latest paper, entitled, "Line-type Pulse Modulator Techniques Adaptable to Very High Frequency Loads," has practical applications to pulsing image converter tubes used in military infrared viewers and to shutter Laser beams. He has three patents pending in the area of aerospace electronic systems.

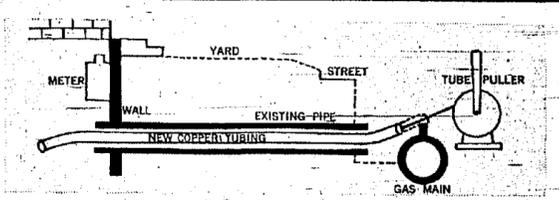

Martynovitch heads the LEC High Voltage Laboratory at the Military Systems Division in Plantfield. He recently conducted a simulator seminar at which he delivered five lectures to a selected group of Lockheed supervisory personnel.

He received a B.E.E. degree from City College of New York and an M.S. from New York College of Engineering and is a member of the I.E.E.E. and National Management Association. He is a licensed professional engineer in the state of New Jersey. Martynovitch has resided for the past six years at 18 Redwood rd., Springfield with his wife, Barbara, and his two children, Helen and Nicholas.

Enters GOP primary

John S. Bender of Livingston, a former president of the Springfield Republican Club, has announced he will seek the Republican nomination for Congress in the 12th district in the September primary.

Long active in Republican campaigns for national, state and county offices, he was an organizer and leader of the Union County Young Republicans and was a representative to the State Young Republicans.

Faster gas service for you

In years gone by, repairing the gas service which runs from the street to your basement meant digging up your street, sidewalk and lawn and interfering with traffic. Now, a service pipe requiring repair is used in its present position as a sleeve to protect a copper tubing which is inserted within it to carry the gas. In this manner, only one small opening in the street is necessary. Repairs are completed faster and with little annoyance. Public Service has instituted these faster, easier repair methods so you can enjoy all the advantages of a modern fuel—gas, with maximum convenience and dependability.

TURNTABLE TREAT (on CAPITAL)

"Camp!" Here's a new LP album that should bring back memories. There's Rudy Vallee crooning "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," Horace Heidt and his Musical Knights demonstrating "The Building of a Band" (The Bells of St. Mary's), Nick Lucas vocalizing "TipToe Through the Tulips," The Continental toasting the ladies with "Roses and Champagne." The Andrews Sisters advising "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree," Harry James, his trumpet and orchestra playing "You Made Me Love You," Glen Gray and the Casa Loma band doing "The Casa Loma Stomp." Included also in the album are performances by Keely Smith, Sammy Davis, Harry Belafonte and Dean Martin. Be sure to hear this one on your next record buying trip...

SARTORIAL SATIRE: When the Rolling Stones appeared on a West Coast TV Show, they wore attire such as fire-engine red shirts, green and orange trousers, purple and silver jackets, and blue and yellow shoes. Backstage, they surveyed them and said, "Well, compared to you, the NBC peacock looks like a penguin..." Edie Adams, who does cigar TV commercials, replaces her clear contact lenses with tinted ones that match whichever gown she's going to wear in front of the camera.

THE BROADWAY BEAT: Neil Simon got the idea for his Broadway comedy, "The Odd Couple," from his brother Danny who was working on a now-defunct TV series, "90 Bristol Court," and didn't have the time to write it. When Neil finished the script, he assigned 10 percent of the gross and also invested $10,000 in the play for brother Dan... Angela Thornton, the lovely lady lawyer in Ray Milland's Broadway suspense thriller, "Hostile Witness," is the wife of William Storke, an NCE vice-president.

'Angels' hovering at three theatres

Rosalind Russell and Hayley Mills adorn three local Stanley Warner Theatres this week, in the film comedy, "The Trouble With Angels."

Award-winning 'Sallah'

"Sallah," the award-winning film about a typical Oriental Jewish man with a family of seven children, who is suddenly uprooted from a centuries-old civilization and thrust into the 20th-century and into a kibbutz in Israel, opened yesterday at the Palace Cinema in Orange, Newark. The picture, a recipient of two "Golden Gate" awards from the San Francisco Film Festival, two Golden Globe awards

'Flight' is taking off on Union's double bill

"Flight of the Phoenix," 20th Century-Fox's Technicolor adventure film about marooned men on a desert, whose plane has crashed and who are struggling for survival, starts tomorrow at the Union Theater in Union. Robert Aldrich directed the picture which stars James Stewart, Richard Attenborough, Peter Finch, Hardy Kruger, Ernest Borgnine, Ian Bannen and Ronald Fraser.

Art holds 'Clowns'

"A Thousand Clowns," film adaptation of Herb Gardner's Broadway play, starring Jason Robards, Barbara Harris, Barry Gordon, Gene Saks, William Daniels and Martin Balsam, continues for another week at the Art Theater, Irvington Center.

'Battle of Bulge' at Ritz

"Battle of the Bulge," a huge recreation of World War II and its costly tank encounter, is the latest film attraction at the Ritz Theater in Elizabeth. The picture, photographed in Cinema-Scope stars Robert Shaw as a dedicated German tank commander; Henry Fonda, Robert Ryan, Dana Andrews, Pier Angeli

SPRINGFIELD LEADER PAGE OF COMMENTARY AND FEATURES

Leader editorial comment

The learning process

The translations of parents' comments to their children's teachers, printed last week, call for a companion report on what teachers have in mind in their statements to parents. For example: "I'm sure that she could do much better if she would only apply herself and pay attention in class." The best was to interpret this as: "I caught her looking out of the window once, during the first week of school, and you can be sure I'll never forget it."

"When a third grader is bigger than I am, you can't expect me to stop him from beating up the other kids." Applicable to an older scholar might be this comment: "He makes a great contribution in our discussion and seminar activities, but he still has some difficulty in organizing his thoughts on paper." This means that the student can talk his way out of almost anything, but when he can't copy from someone else on a test, he's lost."

Panel states PTA emphasizes needs for better schools

At a reorganization meeting of Raymond Chisholm School Parent-Teacher Association, Springfield, last week, Mrs. Allen Ruff was inducted as president for the 1966-67 season. Robert Black, principal, stressed the importance of an effective PTA in the school. During a panel discussion "Why PTA?" Mrs. Paul Wellman, representing the Springfield Board of Education, indicated that with the completion of renovation at the Caldwell School and the new wing at Florence Gaudineer School, attention will be given to the need to bring Chisholm School's physical plant up to the modern standards of the other K-5 schools in Springfield. The support of an active PTA in the Chisholm School will encourage the attainment of these goals and stimulate citizen participation to bring such plans to fruition, she said.

LEADER PROFILE - Mrs. Chandler

When she was a little girl, Mrs. Fred (Dorothy) Chandler had dreams of becoming a kindergarten teacher. In June of 1966, Mrs. Chandler will be retiring from her kindergarten teaching position in the Edward Walton School in Springfield. Mrs. Chandler, who is completing her 34th year of teaching (18 years of this time was spent in Springfield), explained the other meaning during a visit to the school that she also taught in grades. Kindergarten, however, has been her specialty through the years, and she considers herself fortunate in being able to see her lifetime ambitions come true. The Walton school staff has many fine things to say about their Mrs. Chandler and her work with five and six-year-old youngsters... and probably one of the reasons she has been such a good teacher is because she "just loves" children of that age.

MRS. FRED V. CHANDLER

"We've purchased an old house in that old whaling town. It's a family house... a white cottage with a white fence... all of which was built in 1865. And we're going to do a lot of redecorating, refurnishing old antiques and have a garden... gardening is one of my hobbies." Mrs. Chandler, who possesses a soft voice and a pair of softer, kind eyes behind glasses, was educated in Sag Harbor. Then she attended Cortland State Teachers College in New York, which is a part of New York University. "I did quite a lot of extension work in Teachers College at Columbia University and at NYU," she said. Her first teaching job was in Bay Shore. "I taught second grade there for three years. Then I saw my ambitious realized when I taught kindergarten in Malverne. It was a small school and I had only one group—in the morning."

"After the Chandlers were married, the couple moved to Providence, R.I. 'We lived there for six years, and I didn't do any teaching. But I missed it, so when we moved to Summit (our present address) I started teaching in Springfield." "I started here when there were just two elementary schools: Chisholm and Caldwell. I taught at Chisholm for one year. Then they gave me a class in the old Parish House of the First Presbyterian Church in town, until they renovated Chisholm. Then back to Chisholm until this school was ready... and from there to the new parish house of the Presbyterian Church... then back here again... where," she smiled, "I've been ever since."

"We're doing a CIRCUS in our room right now," Mrs. Chandler reported. "We're coloring, finger-painting"... she said, exposing multi-colored fingers. "And you'd be surprised how much the children can tell us about the circus... about many things, in fact." "We've done a lot with science too. There are all kinds of experiences on their level. We've planted a variety of seeds, and we've watched them all grow to see which one will grow the fastest." "They're all curious at this age," Mrs. Chandler beamed. "Several times I've brought in a bird's egg, and put it on the science table, requesting that the children wait... to see what will come out. Of course," she laughed, "some are a little more curious than others. And on each occasion, one of the children, who was so curious that he couldn't wait, broke the egg. I'd know which child it was," Mrs. Chandler confided, "because he would be absent from school the next day." To emphasize their curiosity, Mrs. Chandler explained that the youngsters like to take things apart to see what makes them tick, and then they put them together again. "It isn't that they're destructive; they're just curious, inquisitive little five-year-olds."

"We ALSO HAVE vocabulary improvement every day and watch a television program at 1 p.m. every day on Channel 13, called 'Once Upon a Day.'" Kindergarten, today, Mrs. Chandler admitted, is much different from kindergarten in years past. "We didn't go such a fast pace as the world is going today," she said. "Space, for example, is very important in kindergarten. Why, the children tell me everything that's happening in current events. We have a map with all the planets on them. And the children love to pretend to be a rocket and they 'blast off' or 'count down.' Some of their daddies are pilots, and they know just about everything a youngster can know about flying and aircraft." "You know," Mrs. Chandler said thoughtfully, "this is what I like about a public school. The children come from all walks of life... and they learn that a pilot is important, but so is a garbage man." Mrs. Chandler commented on the varying maturity of her students. "Children," she said, "mature at different ages. Some are ready for school and others aren't. Some children are aggressive; others are shy and timid. A child must learn to get along with people... to live with groups... to be able to get along in society at that age level. There are some children, of course, who find it difficult to adjust... some cry during the first days of school when their mothers leave them. It's usually the parents' fault, not the child's. If you handle children right at home, then they'll be all right in school."

You come first at Finast Supermarkets

Most business people feel this way about their customers, but at Finast Supermarkets, we work a little harder to prove it.

What do we mean when we say, at Finast Supermarkets, You come first? Just this. We take extra care with everything we sell. Take our "Yor" Garden canned vegetables. We select quality vegetables that surpass even the superb standards for Grade "A" canned vegetables set by the United States Government.

And our Finast one grade only USDA "Choice" meats are the very best your money can buy. Butchers always say you can tell a good store by its ground beef. We grind ours several times a day to insure freshness... and do it in spotlessly-clean grinders... the way you would in your own kitchen.

When a hen lays an egg, it's usually Grade "A". But will it be Grade "A" when it reaches your family table? It will—if you bought it at Finast Supermarkets. At Finast Supermarkets, we're fussy about egg freshness. When you don't take eggs from our shelves, we do! And we date our egg boxes so you can check freshness yourself. Know a better way to be sure?

This is the spirit and attitude of all of our friendly Finast Supermarket folks, too.

Because they like their work and know their jobs a little better, they are more eager to serve you.

Won't you give us the chance, soon, to show you how—in so many ways—You come first at Finast Supermarkets!

 paychecks go into New Jersey's economy

It takes a lot of good people to provide quality telephone service. After all, the heart of our business is people serving people.

And it takes a lot of money — those paychecks total over $500 million a year. Most of it will be spent right here in New Jersey. It would be hard to find one cash register in the state that won't ring because of purchases made by telephone people.

It adds up to an important contribution to the state's economy.

New Jersey's telephone people have the equipment they need to do their jobs because nearly three million Americans have been willing to invest in the Bell System. With good earnings, we can continue to attract the new capital needed to provide more and better service. More paychecks. And an even bigger contribution to New Jersey's prosperity.

Course in bridge slated to resume next September

The contract bridge spring classes, sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department, have just been completed. "The response was enthusiastic and the attendance at this 10-week course was consistently maintained," the Recreation Department announced. "The class members indicated their satisfaction with the instruction and felt they had derived a great deal of knowledge of the game."

The Recreation Department will again offer contract bridge classes, for beginners and those who have some knowledge of the game, beginning some time in September or early October. Hilde B. Steckler, certified Goren teacher and a member of the American Bridge Teachers' Association, who was the instructor, will again conduct the class.

The Goren point-count system will be used in explaining the basic principles of contract bridge in a step-by-step scientific manner. Students will not have the chore of taking notes since mimeographed lessons will be distributed at each session, the announcement added.

Service award

puts all our marketing skills and trained personnel at the service of the local resident who wants to sell his house," Bedford pointed out. "We started multiple listing in New Jersey and we're known as a board for our ability to sell a home quickly, at a fair price and at minimum discomfort to the owner."

Bedford explained that a multiple-listed home is merchandised locally by the board's 87 proprietor members and 250 sales associates. Responsibility for advertising the house, interesting buyer prospects and showing the property is assumed by the brokers, he added.

The realtor noted that the seller of a multiple-listed house pays the same total six percent commission that he would for a so-called "exclusive listing" with one broker.

Realtors "screen" buyers, Bedford continued, a service which insures that the prospect is a reputable person who is seriously interested in buying a home and financially capable of making the purchase. Realtors and their sales associates always escort their buyer prospects through a house, the broker added, commenting, "In an affluent area like ours, these safety precautions are important."

Bedford pointed out that the broker can be especially helpful when buyer interest develops. "He's in a better position than the homeowner himself to negotiate the sale," the realtor noted.

For the couple buying a house, realtors are "a gold mine of information about financing," Bedford said. "They know where to place loans," he observed, "and they're familiar with the special benefits that veterans can obtain."

Learned English with no sub-titles Began studies at movies, finishing at Rutgers

A one-time World War II refugee who learned English mostly at the movies will graduate from Rutgers University next Wednesday and then continue a career as a writer-promoter he began at the tender age of 10.

He is Peter U. Bankers, a senior in the Rutgers School of Journalism who knew not a single word of English when his family arrived in the United States in 1950. But then, at the age of six, Peter took matters in his own hands, and he has been doing so ever since. "It was pretty embarrassing," Bankers recalled, "when I started first grade in Brooklyn and didn't know any English. I didn't even know what the teacher was talking about when she asked me my name. I did know I had to learn English one way or another and I soon began picking up a few words and phrases from the teacher and other children."

Above all, he learned English from the movies. Bankers said that in those days he went to the movies in Brooklyn two or three times a week.

It was only a few years later that Bankers showed his first signs of ability as a writer and promoter, when he was in sixth grade. Mitzi Gaynor caught his fancy in one of the filmed musicals he watched and he took direct action by writing her a letter.

Much to his own and his family's surprise, the star wrote a reply to the enterprising schoolboy and a lasting friendship began. He soon met Miss Gaynor and as a result for the past seven years he has been organizing fan clubs and putting out news releases on her appearances.

While still in high school he began writing up high school news and sports events for a local newspaper on Long Island.

"One thing seemed to lead to another," Bankers said, "and soon I found myself writing a Hollywood interview column under the title of 'Meet ___', which would be about some star."

Here again it was a case of direct action. He got the information for star interviews by writing to them or arranging to interview them when they were in New York.

While at Rutgers he has written a Hollywood column for a movie-TV magazine and a trade magazine on Long Island and this year has written for the Rutgers yearbook and the Rutgers Alumni Monthly. He has also been campus correspondent for the National Observer.

In addition, Bankers held the New Jersey Press Association Scholarship in the Rutgers School of Journalism in his senior year and recently won the Seymour Aronoff Memorial award presented to an outstanding senior by the Journalism school.

An outstanding senior to be sure, but there is far more to the Peter Bankers story than that. His story really began in June of 1943, when, while he was a new-born infant in his mother's arms in Riga, the family was caught up in the horrors of war as German and Russian armies fought over his prostrate native land of Latvia.

The family—consisting of his mother, his aunt, Dr. Erika Vics, her two small children, the grandmother, and himself started out from Riga in a horse and wagon and escaped from Latvia. His father was missing in action with the Latvian air force.

Thursday, May 26, 1966

From that point on, the family wandered across Czechoslovakia and Austria, living as best it could, often in displaced persons camps, and finally wound up in Germany, where all but Dr. Vics spent two years in displaced persons camps.

Dr. Vics had been reunited with her husband in England, from where she had gone to the United States to accept a position in a hospital in Brooklyn.

At this point, John Bankers, a Latvian living on Long Island and the man who was to become Peter's stepfather, picked the family's name at random from a list of Latvian displaced persons in Germany and sponsored its entry into the United States.

A lot of luck, perhaps, that Peter Udis Bankers ever reached the Rutgers campus. Well, luck, they say, plays a large part in the affairs of men—but initiative can be an awful lot of help.

PROMISING GRADUATE — Professor Kenneth O. Jennings of the Rutgers School of Journalism examines an old press with one of the most promising graduating seniors in the school, Peter Bankers. Young Bankers arrived in this country in 1950 without any knowledge of English but still managed to show promise as a writer-promoter by the time he was 10.

Hughes dedicates new generating station

The Yards Creek Pumped Storage Generating Station in Blairstown and Pahaquarry Townships, built jointly by Public Service Electric and Gas Company and Jersey Central Power & Light Company at a cost of $27.6 million, was dedicated Tuesday by Governor Richard J. Hughes.

It is the first pumped storage operation in the state and only the second project of its type in operation in the United States. More than 400 federal, state, county and municipal officials, many industrial leaders, and high ranking management from Public Service and Jersey Central were on hand for the ceremony. Short speeches were also given by Watson E. Tait, Jr., chairman of the board of Public Service, and William H. McElwain, president, Jersey Central.

"This station is more than just unique as far as New Jersey is concerned—it is tangible and dramatic evidence of the continuing program started years ago by Public Service and Jersey Central to plan and build in the present for the electrical needs of the future," the Governor said.

Tracing the planning on the part of the two companies in preparation for this station, the Governor pointed out that the concept of the pumped storage station goes back to 1947 when Public Service began studies of this type of generation. "However, such an operation as the Yards Creek plant didn't become really practical until about 1956 with the development of the modern large reversible pump-turbine, the unit that makes such a station as Yards Creek possible," the Governor said. "Sometime later, preliminary investigation of sites began, and in 1962 an application was made for a license to build and operate this station."

Hughes reviewed this bit of history because "it is an interesting insight into the foresight, planning and preparation on the part of electric companies in their efforts to have an adequate and dependable source of electric power available even before it is needed."

The governor elaborated on what the electric companies are doing to meet the estimated future growth of population in New Jersey. He pointed out that the Yards Creek station is just the first phase of the proposed Kittatinny Mountain project which would ultimately be capable of producing 1,630,000 kilowatts and would complement the proposed Tocks Island Dam which will create a 37-mile long lake that will wind through some of the most beautiful and scenic country in the eastern part of the United States. He referred to the part Public Service and Jersey Central are playing in the construction of the Keystone Generating Station, a mine-mouth plant now being built in the coal fields of western Pennsylvania which will have a capacity of 1,800,000 kilowatts.

"I am sure most of you are aware of the Oyster Creek nuclear-fueled generating station which Jersey Central is building in Ocean County," the Governor said. "This will be the first such plant in New Jersey, and I'm told that when it is completed in 1967, it will be the largest investor-owned nuclear generating station in the United States—less than two weeks ago, Public Service announced that it would build a 900,000-kilowatt nuclear generating unit along the lower Delaware River. This unit, which will be a joint venture with three other utilities, will be among the largest in the world."

"In a number of such projects as I have just mentioned, it goes without saying that our Jersey electric companies will be ready for whatever growth the future may bring."

Hughes commended the two utility companies for the work being done to restore the Yards Creek area to its natural state. He emphasized that some 900 trees and more than 10,000 ground cover plants are now being planted as part of the first phase of the landscaping program and that ultimately $350,000 will be spent on the beautification of the Yards Creek area.

"The natural areas more and more at a premium all the time, we in New Jersey are fortunate that our electric companies are taking the initiative in such a restoration endeavor. To all of us concerned with conservation, it is gratifying to hear that the restoration efforts now going on here will be continued by these companies in the future development of the Kittatinny Mountain."

He said the Yards Creek station and the other generating facilities planned for the Kittatinny Mountain will provide, in addition to power supply, another very definite advantage for the people of New Jersey.

"I am told that with the completion of this project and of the generating add reservoir facilities proposed for the other side of the mountain, it will be possible to draw water from the Delaware River, transfer it over the mountain and into the state's potable water system," he said. "While such a program may be some time off, it is reassuring that such a thing can be done to help guarantee adequate water for New Jersey."

Located in the pumping-generating station or powerhouse are three reversible pump-turbines, units which act as pumps when operating in one direction and as turbines when operating in the other direction. Combined with the FEVERBIBS pump-turbines on the same shaft are reversible motor-generators, units which act as motors in one direction and as generators in the other direction.

At night and other times when the customer use of electricity is low, surplus power from other generating stations is used to pump the water from the lower to the upper reservoir. During the day as the use of electricity reaches its peak, the water is allowed to run downhill passing through the generating station where it operates the reversible turbine-generator as a turbine to rotate the generator to produce electricity.

Thus, the water is used over and over again, and the only water lost is that lost through evaporation or to maintain a downstream flow in Yards Creek. Water to make up these losses comes from an auxiliary reservoir located a short distance from the main lower reservoir.

Tips on submitting news for publicity chairmen

A "news release" is just what the words imply -- news, released to the newspaper. The writer of a news release, usually the publicity or public relations chairman of a group, simplifies the job for himself and the paper by preparing a "model news story" about the subject or event he wants to publicize. The publicity chairman can't expect it to appear exactly as written, of course. But a properly prepared release SHOULD be able to be used "as is."

Your news release, therefore, should "sound" like a news story and not like the secretary's minutes of a club meeting. This isn't as tricky as it sounds. It's mostly a matter of putting the most important things first in your story (the five W's of journalism -- more about that later) and avoiding the use of flowery, personalized descriptions (editorializing, we call it).

You don't have to take a course in journalism to write a good release; anyone who ever learned to write a business letter can learn to write a news release.

Let's begin with lesson one, the FORM of a "news release."

FORM

1. Release must be TYPEWRITTEN. If you can't type yours, have it typed for you. The reason for this is needed for accuracy. Newspapers don't want to risk misspelling people's names in print, which is likely if the names are submitted in handwritten scrawl or even in bold block printing. We'd much prefer a sloppy typing job from the press than a display of penmanship. Some papers won't accept any handwritten release and no paper will accept them regularly from the same source.

2. Use a plain sheet of paper, not letter-head stationery cluttered up with a lot of printing. Type on one side of the paper only. Double space, leave plenty of room at the top, sides and bottom for editing by the newspaper staff. DO NOT WRITE IN CAPITAL LETTERS, LIKE THIS. The newspaper doesn't print stories in all capital letters so why submit them that way?

IDENTIFY YOURSELF

Type your name, title and address of your organization, and the phone numbers at which you can be reached in the sheet. Be sure to include the upper left hand corner of both home and business phones so that the newspaper can reach you if it has any questions.

YOUR STORY

Put the most important facts in the first paragraph, and lesser facts in later paragraphs, in order of their importance. A release should be written so that later paragraphs can be chopped off if necessary.

ALL THE FACTS

Your release should not send the newspaper staff scurrying for the phone or the city directory to get the information you forgot to include. Give complete details. Make sure that names and addresses are accurate and complete.

HERE ARE SOME POINTERS:

FULL NAMES. Use full names. In the case of a woman, always identify her as Miss or

Mrs. You may use either the first names or TWO initials, never one (John Smith or J. E. Smith, but NEVER J. Smith.) (Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. J. E. Smith, but NEVER just plain Mary Smith or Mrs. J. Smith.)

It's best, of course, to submit a name the way the person usually uses it -- J. Edgar Hoover, rather than John E. Hoover.

AGE is isn't necessary to give a person's age unless it's vital to the story. If John Smith is honored as your oldest member, naturally you should mention that he's 86 years old. When writing about children, always mention their ages, and possibly the grades they are in.

ADDRESS. When writing about local people, include their addresses. If the paper doesn't want the address, it can always cross it out. If the address is wanted and you haven't given it -- then someone must look it up for you. When writing about buildings where meetings will be held, the address is imperative. Use it in the form of "555 Colonial avenue," not "Colonial avenue" or "Colonial avenue near Morris avenue" or "corner of Colonial and Morris avenues."

NAME YOUR ORGANIZATION so that the readers know what it is. You may know that N. O. M. A. stands for the National Office Machine Association, but we don't and neither will our readers. Use the full title in your release. Don't identify troops, branches and units by numbers or the names of their founders. Call your group the Springfield branch (Irvington, Vauxhall, Essex, New Jersey or whatever) branch of the National Fish Fanciers' Association -- not unit No. 29437, or Jerome S. Smith Memorial chapter.

Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops should be identified by the name of the school in which they meet, the neighborhood they serve or the organization that sponsors them -- not by long, meaningless numbers. Fraternal organizations should be identified by the name of the town -- NOT the council number.

QUOTES AND OPINIONS

The only place for opinions is inside quotation marks. Your release should not say that a new branch library is needed, but rather that Mrs. John Smith, president of the James Caldwell School PTA, said that "A branch library serving the western section is a definite necessity."

In other words, all opinions should be attributed to somebody, preferably in a direct quotation. When you quote someone directly, make sure that he's willing to be quoted with the words you ascribe to him. Pick the punchiest and most important things your speaker said. Keep your quotes brief and significant.

DEADLINES

The deadline for organizational publicity is the Friday preceding the issue in which you want it published. If your release arrives later than that, very likely it will be thrown out or pushed aside until next week. Monday and Tuesday of the editor's week are reserved for "spot" news. He's busy with the political campaign or the big accident and doesn't have time to give proper attention to what happened at the PTA last Wednesday.

You can eliminate most of your deadline problems by doing ADVANCE stories, appearing in the paper before the event occurs. If the election is on a Monday night, what do you do?

Do you know who is going to win? We're not referring to a good guess, of course, but the sort of election where the "state of officers is selected by a nominating committee and the "election" is a formality.

If you KNOW what's going to happen, write your release as if it already did and put this sort of note at the top:

Editor: This meeting will take place Monday night, November 15.

Of course, if anything happens and the expected fails to happen YOU MUST PHONE THE NEWSPAPER IMMEDIATELY.

LOCAL NEWS ONLY

News is local when it happens here, involves local people or groups or when it specifically concerns the readers. If John Featherworth of Tarrytown, N. Y., is elected president of your group and Jacob Farnaby, who lives in town, is appointed to the executive committee, your story is about Farnaby; not Featherworth. Farnaby's neighbors care about him, but who ever heard of Featherworth. If your charity group is conducting a two-month clothing drive in Northern New Jersey, your story to the local paper should be that the week-long campaign in town will be held Monday to Friday. The readers want to know when they should have THEIR discards ready. The local paper wants to know, for example, how the local March of Dimes campaign is going, but isn't much interested in the results of a national telethon. It wants biographical backgrounds of the local volunteers; not the national campaign chairman. It wants to know what the charity does for local people, not the millions here (USA) and abroad.

POINTS TO PONDER

1. The newspaper WANTS your publicity.
2. The newspaper is the final judge of the material it accepts and rejects and the fashion in which the material will appear.
3. Keep your eyes open for "real" news. You can endorse yourself (and your group) to any editor by letting him know what's going on, even if it doesn't concern your group. You know of somebody or something that would make a good feature story, let the editor know about it.
4. The newspaper staff will be very happy to talk with you about publicity plans or problems of your group. Weakly journalists have more time for you on Thursday and Friday than any other time in the week. Check in phone, first, please.

WIDOWS BENEFITS

Widows monthly social security benefits are based on what her husband would have received as a retirement benefit. For example, if her husband would have received a monthly benefit of $100, the widow's benefit at age 62 would be $82.50 and at age 60 the benefit would be $71.50.

New automated battery developed at Esso plant

A completely self-sustained, fully automated fuel cell battery has been developed by Esso Research and Engineering Co., Linden. The unit packs into a box about the dimensions of a home movie projector all the equipment needed to change a low-cost liquid fuel directly to a steady source of electricity.

The new model has been delivered to the Army Electronics Command, Fort Monmouth, for testing.

A company spokesman said the new unit marks a significant step toward a source of fuel cell power for non-space use. Once switched on, it requires no attention. Appliances or power tools such as electrical drills that can then be plugged in receive a steady source of electrical energy.

It is the first battery to convert chemical energy from a practical fuel directly into electricity with no intermediate steps. A demonstrator unit, it delivers power levels exceeding 60 watts at a regulated output of six volt. The change to a standard power for operating transistorized electronics equipment. The power can be stepped up by adding more cells to the battery. It now has 19.

The low-cost fuel, methanol, is a widely available liquid used as racing car fuel, in anti-freeze and in paint thinners.

A fuel cell converts the chemical energy of fuels directly into electricity. Theoretically, it is the most efficient machine ever conceived. Practical engineering problems had to be solved to develop a fuel cell that will maintain steady, efficient operation at a low temperature and with economical fuels.

The new unit marks an advance over previous methanol models most significantly because it demonstrates that a fuel cell battery can be packaged for continuous operation unattended by an engineer formerly required to make critical adjustments to air, water and fuel valves for optimum performance. Operation is automatic.

Other batteries using liquid fuel require an extra step of converting the fuel to hydrogen at high temperatures. Other direct methanol cells have operated, but were elemental, low-power units.

The new packaged unit differs from the fuel cells used in space capsules in that it does not require bulky storage tanks for oxygen and hydrogen. Such a design would be impractical for ground use.

Other fuel cells also have operated boats, tractors and submarines. These cells have generally used a high-cost fuel such as hydrazine which would be prohibitively expensive for practical commercial application.

While the methanol fuel cell has now been packaged, it is not a prototype, or first commercial, model. Substitutes for the expensive noble metal catalysts used must be found and lighter models must be engineered. "But as nearly as we are able to determine," an Esso Research spokesman says, "this cell is a major advance in the long development toward practical application using low-temperature and low-cost fuel."

On the banks of what? Raritan wins over Hackensack

"On the Banks of the Old Hackensack, My Boys," that's how the famous Rutgers song might have sounded if two votes had been cast differently in a balloting that took place in Hackensack 195 years ago.

Soon after Queen's College (later Rutgers) obtained a Royal Charter in 1766, a sharp division appeared in the board of trustees over the location of the college.

Rev. John H. Goetschius led the Hackensack group. Sometime prior to 1771 he had established his own academy at Hackensack and wanted the new college to build upon it.

Those who favored New Brunswick were militant, remembering the city's loss of an earlier charter to Princeton because of the larger subscription which the successful community had been able to raise.

The meeting for a decision was held in Hackensack on May 7, 1771. Since Rev. Goetschius' academy was well-established there, the Hackensack faction appeared to enter with the advantage.

Remembering the lesson of Princeton, the New Brunswick faction had an ace in the hole — subscriptions to the college that apparently outweighed whatever the Hackensack boosters had been able to muster.

Those in favor of Hackensack," according to minutes of the meeting, "complained that they had not had sufficient time and opportunity for taking in subscriptions, if they had they were of opinion, their subscriptions would have been as high or higher than those for New Brunswick."

Frederick Smyth, last chief justice of the province, was presiding at the session. He pointed out that since those in favor of Hackensack were "gentlemen of probity and honour," it should be taken for granted that they could have produced the necessary funds if given more time. Smyth voted in favor of Hackensack.

New Brunswick, however, won the vote 10 to seven; Queen's College, later to become Rutgers — The State University, came to center New Jersey. And when Rutgers men meet, they sing "On the Banks of the Old Raritan" — not "On the Banks of the Old Hackensack."

Ask Amy

Dear Amy:

I'm a 22 year old married woman with three children. I have a very happy home but I have a problem.

I am a good looking woman with no friends (lady friends) because the husbands of all the couples I know look at me too much or look at me not caring if their wives are watching or not. Pretty soon their wives build up a resentment towards me or don't speak to me at all.

I'm not a flirt and I don't wear make-up... so what should I do?

D. I. Beauty

P. S. Even my own brothers-in-law look too much!

Dear D. I.:

Being too good a looker has its drawbacks. But if it's not your fault that women burn while men yearn, discourage the males and encourage the females—by putting to use domestic or creative qualities that they will find appealing.

CATHERINE CAIN of Springfield is scheduled to receive a B. S. degree in pure science next Wednesday from the College of St. Elizabeth, Convent Station. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Cain of 133 Meisel ave.

Rt. 78 displaced receiving notices at a planned pace

The purchase of land needed for Interstate Rt. 78 in Springfield and Union Townships, Union County, is moving ahead according to a New Jersey State Highway Department announcement this week.

Forty-five notice letters were sent recently to property owners located between Rt. 78-24 interchange in Springfield and the planned Garden State Parkway interchange, a Department spokesman said. He added that active acquisition started on approximately 155 parcels of land between these two interchange areas early in 1965. Notice letters will be sent to other affected owners as detailed plans involving their properties are completed.

Of the total proposed 66.4 mile length of Rt. 78, 24 miles are open, 17.9 miles are under construction, 22 miles are in process of engineering, planning or right-of-way acquisition, and only 2.5 miles remain in preliminary study, the Highway Department spokesman noted.

Each letter explains what the owner can expect as the property-purchasing procedure unfolds. First, a property is checked thoroughly by an official inspector. Then, another official appraises the property to determine its fair market value. Thereafter, a State Highway Department negotiator directly offers the owner the fair-market value for his property.

Each notice letter also offers Relocation Advisory Assistance services to the owner or tenant who must move out of the way of federal-aid highway construction, such as Interstate 78. This program exists primarily to aid them in finding other residences.

In addition, the State Highway Department spokesman explained that a moving-cost reimbursement service is made available after occupancy move. The Department will contact those eligible for relocation aid in advance of their actual needs.

ALL ABOUT PEOPLE

by GENE ROSENFELD

ELGENE TIRE CO.

He was a homely, happy kid with a great gift for joking and laughing. But in his heart he nursed a desire that almost engulfed him. More than anything he wanted to be a major league ballplayer.

For years he kicked around the minor leagues hoping for the chance to move up to the majors. Then in 1921, this happy-go-lucky kid from Kansas City got the call to try out with the Boston Red Sox. He had the time of his life working out with the Red Sox. He found something to laugh at in everything that went on around him. All the players loved the bubbling spirits of the kid and laughed at his jokes and antics on the diamond. Nothing seemed to suppress his good humor.

But in spite of his personality and good spirits, the kid didn't have enough baseball ability to stick in the major leagues. It was with sadness that the Boston manager finally told him that he didn't have it and was shipping him back to the minors.

As usual, the kid took the news with good humor and managed to crack another joke to cheer up his manager. And he made the trip back to his home town of Kansas City.

Even though he could still make a living playing baseball, the spark was gone, for he knew that he could never be in the big time.

One day, he and a teammate, to kill an afternoon on an off-day, took in a vaudeville show at the local opera house. As they sat watching a third-rate comedian trying to peddle his wares, the teammate turned to him and said, "Kid, you could put that guy to shame. Why don't you work up an act and hit the vaudeville circuit?"

So the kid did. He quit baseball and entered the world of show business. He's still laughing and cracking jokes. He's still homely and happy, for the kid who didn't become a big league baseball star, did become the world's famous comedian...

Jones lists payments

Over 58,960 people in the Union-Somerset County area served by the Elizabeth Social Security office received a total of $4,947,843 in benefits in 1965, Ralph W. Jones, district manager, announced this week. This is an increase of $567,784 and 3,320 people over the year before.

A large part of the increase in payments resulted from changes made by the social security amendments of 1965, Jones said. Those changes which were in addition to the new program of health insurance for the aged, included a seven percent increase in monthly benefits retroactive to January, 1965; benefits for widows as early as 60; benefits for full-time students between 18 and 22; and benefits for some divorced women.

Two youths charged

An 18-year-old Union youth and two 16-year-old Union juveniles were charged with leaving the scene of an accident by police an hour after they were involved in a two-car crash on Morris ave. Sunday morning at 3 o'clock.

According to police, Luther Gregory of Tebe pl, lost control of his car, crashed into an auto operated by Theresa Janelli of Summit, slightly injuring her passenger Barbara Cordasco of Newark. She was treated at Overlook Hospital, Summit.

The three boys were found by police at 4 o'clock walking on Springfield ave. near the Union line where they were charged, police reported.

Red Cross lists 10 tips

"Life preservers" were recommended by the Red Cross today for the millions of Americans who will take part in water sports this summer.

The swimming and boating season opens officially Memorial Day holiday weekend. Together the sports are the most popular with Americans.

"Also, they are responsible for most of the annual drownings in this country—6,700 in 1964 according to the National Safety Council," according to Howard E. Camp, Jr., safety services area director of the Red Cross Eastern Area Headquarters which includes 14 states and the District of Columbia.

"By exercising proper care, many of these fatalities could have been avoided," Camp said.

He listed these precautions against drowning and other water-related accidents:

1. Learn to swim. If you can swim a little, learn to swim better. Your local Red Cross chapter can tell you where its next swimming class is scheduled.
2. Always swim with a companion—never alone. For long distance swimming, have someone in a boat accompany you.
3. Swim in a safe place. The presence of lifeguards usually indicates the area is safe for swimming.
4. Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and there are no hidden objects such as submerged rocks.
5. If you have not been swimming since last summer, take it easy at first. Recognize your limitations and don't try to go beyond them.
6. Wait at least an hour after eating before going in the water, and don't swim when overated or overtired.
7. Don't depend on a tube or inflated toy to hold you up. They can slip away from you.
8. Watch your step. Walk, don't run, around pool decks.
9. Try to remain calm in case of trouble in the water. Assume a face-up floating position, keep your hands under water, and slowly move hands and feet.
10. If your boat capsizes, don't swim away from it. Most small craft will float, even when filled with water.

To alert drivers, not scare

The New Jersey State Safety Council estimates that more than 7 million vehicles will travel 375 million miles on New Jersey's roads during the three-day Memorial Weekend. The roads generating this traffic will be the Garden State Parkway serving 1.7 million vehicles; the Turnpike 2.1 million; the Port of New York Authority facilities, 1.7 million and the balance will be generated by the Delaware River Bridges, the Atlantic City Expressway and the state and municipal highways.

The state and national accident trends indicate, says the Council, that 2,450 accidents will be caused on New Jersey roads during the three-day holiday resulting in 1,553 injuries and 18 fatalities. George G. Traver, executive director of the Council, is issuing this statement to alert drivers to the traditional emphasis placed on the death figures. He said that the almost exclusive use of this figure is misleading. "We are missing the primary consideration—the reduction of the total number of accidents occurring on our roads which for the past two years, have exceeded 145,000 accidents per year." Traver said that the report is not intended to scare the motorist but alert him to possible dangers and urge him to be a defensive driver.

The Council's advice to the motorist for a safe holiday is to "pre-plan the trip," "be sure the vehicle is in good mechanical condition," "have a good night's rest," "allow for delays," "keep children seated—in the back seat," "practice courtesy," "obey the rules of the road," "avoid highway hypnosis," "keep your eyes moving," "stop every two hours," and

Five Rutgers grads have served as N.J. governor

Five of the 44 men who have been elected governor since New Jersey became a state in 1776 have been Rutgers graduates. All made their mark in New Jersey history in one way or another.

One was the last member of his party to serve as governor; one, elected by the smallest majority in state history, was at least half a century ahead of his time in his vision of the needs of New Jersey, and another was acclaimed in his day as the greatest benefactor New Jersey had ever known.

The present governor, Richard J. Hughes, won his second term in 1965 by the largest majority in the history of the Garden State. More than 350,000 votes, Hughes is also the only one of the graduates of the State University to serve two terms as governor.

A 1931 graduate of the Rutgers Law School, Hughes was named "Alumnus of the Year" in 1963 and is a strong supporter of public higher education.

He is the second of the two Democrats among Rutgers graduates who were elected governor. The first, George C. Ludlow, served from 1881 to 1884 and was the governor with the dubious distinction of election by the smallest majority.

Two of the other Rutgers men to become governor, William A. Newell (1857-1860) and Foster M. Voorhees (1899-1902), were Republicans, while Charles C. Stratton (1845-1848), was a Whig.

STRATTON, a member of the Rutgers (then Queen's) class of 1814, was the first Rutgers man elected to the highest office in New Jersey, and he was also the fourth and last Whig to be governor.

A prominent farmer in the Swedesboro area, Stratton served an uneventful term as governor, and indeed attracted more public attention between his terms as a Congressman in 1837-39 and 1841-43 than at any time when he held office.

Stratton was one of 10 men who appeared before the House of Representatives Committee on Elections in 1840 in a dispute over the five New Jersey seats. Stratton actually produced the Great Seal of the State of New Jersey, given in those days when the governor and privy council cast up votes and declared winners.

Trailside presents lecture on reptiles

On Sunday, at 3 p.m., Lloyd Ruch, former assistant director of the Trailside Nature and Science Center, will present a lecture and exhibit on "Reptiles of New Jersey" at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation, Mountainside.

Such plans to supplement his talk with live specimens and color slides. He will describe the life and behavior of many species and expose superstitions and mistaken beliefs pertaining to snakes.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at 4 p.m. each day, Dr. Harold N. Moldenke, director of Trailside, will conduct one-half-hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the three days is "African Mammals." The talks will be illustrated with color slides. The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature and Science Center, tour the live-animal area, and view the thousands of insect exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

New fee announced for uninsured cars

June Strolecki, director of the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, this week announced that beginning June 1, every person registering an uninsured motor vehicle will be required to pay a fee of $25 in addition to the normal registration fee. The fee, which had been $15, is the uninsured vehicle owner's contribution to the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

Director Strolecki emphasized that the $25 fee does not provide motorists with insurance protection. Some vehicle owners have had the mistaken impression that the fee was for "State Insurance."

If an uninsured vehicle is involved in an accident, the driver may possibly lose his driving privilege and the owner his registration privilege, under the Security Responsibility Law. In addition, the motorist would be required to repay the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund, if a claim against the motorist is paid from the Fund. His driving and registration privileges would remain suspended until the Fund has been repaid, Miss Strolecki said.

Chemists from industry address UJC students

Chemists from Bristol-Myers Products, Merck & Co., Inc. and Shell Chemical Co., were recently guest lecturers before organic chemistry students at Union Junior College, Cranford.

The speakers and their topics were: Norman Stone of Bristol-Myers, Hillside, "Infrared Spectroscopy"; Dr. Carl J. Buck of Shell Chemical Company, Union, "Applications of Organic Chemicals to Textiles"; and Dr. Thomas M. Devlin of Merck & Co., Inc., Rahway, "Enzymes in Bio-chemistry." The special lectures were arranged by Farris S. Schrammer of Cranford, chairman of the chemistry department.

ners, but Congress was unimpressed and declined to seat him.

The next Rutgers man to become governor of New Jersey was probably the most colorful, and he was undoubtedly the most versatile.

William August Newell was a man of many parts by almost any standard. A member of the class of 1836 at Rutgers, Newell was three times a congressman, governor of New Jersey, governor of the Washington Territory, examining surgeon for New Jersey during the Civil War, a practicing physician and creator through congressional legislation of the U.S. Agricultural Bureau. He was also the only governor of New Jersey to walk some 12 miles to his own inauguration.

However, Newell is chiefly remembered today as the creator and superintendent of the United States Life-Saving Service. This achievement alone was enough to see him hailed on his death as "the greatest benefactor of New Jersey in the history of the state."

Newell was elected governor in 1856 on the Republican-Know-Nothing ticket. On the day of his inauguration in January, 1857, Newell and a one-time fellow member of Congress, John Van Dyke, walked the entire 12 miles or so from Allentown to Trenton after a blizzard had blocked the roads. On his death he was eulogized as "the personification of American grit." Governor of one of the original states of the Atlantic coast, and of the last territory on the Pacific coast."

GEORGE C. LUDLOW, one of the two Phi Beta Kappas at Rutgers who later became governor, was elected to office in 1881 by a margin of only 651 votes, but once in office proved to be at least 50 years ahead of his time. His administration is of particular interest because he was the first governor to urge preservation of the state's water resources, a problem that is now of urgent concern.

The reasons for his narrow victory in the gubernatorial campaign of 1880 are hardly obscure. Strong efforts were made to picture Ludlow as a labor-baiter and the fact that he was a corporation lawyer also did not escape attention in pro-labor circles.

However, on becoming governor, Ludlow dropped all his clients. He also immediately announced his opposition to any scheme to surrender public rights to the water of New Jersey. He emphasized "the importance of local and comprehensive consideration of the probable demand and supply of water for domestic purposes for the future" and appointed a commission to prepare plans for preservation of the water supply.

Although he was sometimes described as austere in manner, a somewhat different side to Ludlow's character began to appear in print some years after his death. It was broadly hinted that George Craig Ludlow was somewhat of a convivial soul. He was described as a regular patron of the Chesapeake Tavern at Morgan. A proprietor who came into possession of the tavern later said he understood that many times when the governor's signature was wanted on a legislative bill, a messenger was sent down to the tavern. He added that this was only hearsay.

A man of quite a different stripe was Foster M. Voorhees.

THE FIRST acting governor of New Jersey, Voorhees was a man much admired in his own day.

The Spanish-American War administration of Voorhees, once he was elected on his own, had almost all the standard virtues. It was prudent, cautious, economical and mildly progressive.

resigned to become attorney general in the McKinley administration. He was elected governor in 1896.

His inauguration was simple in the extreme. The Republican party managers had hoped to make the ceremonies as elaborate as possible but, according to accounts at the time, "the natural modesty and retiring disposition of the governor-elect made any ostentatious display distasteful to him, and at his request the ceremonies were simple and informal."

Voorhees' program as governor was highlighted by "human reclamation," prison and welfare reform. He pushed through completion of the reformatory at Rahway and cleaned up the notorious Snake Hill almshouse.

A year after Voorhees died, at home on his farm near High Bridge in 1927, Governor Edward C. Stokes remarked in paying tribute to the former governor that "his gubernatorial term was Cowdage-like in its simplicity, its modesty and devotion to the Commonwealth, and in its unassuming and unostentatious progressiveness."

Catholic Women elect partial slate at annual meeting

A partial slate of three officers was elected and installed by the Catholic Women's Club of Elizabeth at its annual spring luncheon at the Winfield Scott Hotel on Tuesday. The program brought the club's 37th season to a close.

Miss Elizabeth D. Zielenbach was elected and installed president. Miss Zielenbach, an alumna of Douglass College, received a master's degree from Columbia University. She also did graduate work at Rutgers University and the University of Connecticut. She is a former chairman of the Home Economics Department at Columbia High School, South Orange-Naglewood District.

Also elected and installed were Mrs. Fred J. Dittmer, first vice-president and Miss Dorothy Smith, corresponding secretary. All the newly-elected officers will serve two-year terms.

In her annual report, Miss Rosa M. Brandt, retiring president, outlined the spiritual, social and charitable activities of the club during the past two years in which she served as head of the group. She also noted that a $300 nursing scholarship was presented this past month to St. Elizabeth's Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Paul G. Bonibis, social action chairman, reported that 17 sets of altar linens, 1,471 cord rosaries and a large quantity of religious articles were sent to the Chaplain Aid in New York during the club year.

Mrs. Nelson A. Claypool, second vice-president, reported that 20 new members were inducted into the club this year, setting a total membership to date of 514.

Mrs. Charles J. Kirman served as nominating chairman. Miss Eleanor Daly was chairman and Mrs. Frederick J. Frank, co-chairman of the luncheon, which preceded the annual meeting.

New blinds have no tape

The newest venetian blind has slats only one inch wide, nylon cord of amazing strength and durability, and no tape.

Its slender, petite slats permit greater "see-through" when opened and lend an airy appearance. The inconspicuous nylon cord, which is invisible from a distance, replaces the usual tape.

However, if tape is preferred venetian blinds will be of the usual width slats with a new type of plastic tape reinforced with glass fiber, says Gene Thomas, extension specialist in home furnishing at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science.

This new tape will not stretch, shrink, tear or fade, is fire and dust resistant and a plastic and glass fiber combination tape stays clean longer and may be washed very easily.

This Sunday's lesson-sermon:
Christian Science churches this Sunday will present a Bible lesson-sermon on the fallacies of hypnotism and other forms of mental control and servitude.

Responsive Reading will include these verses from Ephesians: "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them... Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is."

The theme is explained in detail in selections to be read from the Christian Science textbook, including these: "In a world of sin and sensuality hastening to a greater development of power, it is wise earnestly to consider whether it is the human mind or the divine Mind which is influencing one... No person is benefited by yielding his mentality to any mental despotism or materialism... The truth of Immortal Mind sustains man, and they annihilate the fabric of mortal mind, whose flimsy and gaudy pretensions, like silly moths, sting their own wings and fall into dust" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is: "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

SUNDAY'S SERMON

There are many ways in which an individual can illustrate the quality of self concern. There are, for example sayings to the effect that "It's not my car that's being good," "I am not my brother's keeper."
In truth, our reaction to any event or happening usually depends upon the matter of self-involvement. Even if we are not directly involved, our response to something usually depends upon our attitude toward the individuals who are involved. If we dislike someone, we condemn their actions indignantly. If we like someone, we try to convince ourselves and others they had "good reason" for acting as they did.
Circumstances may alter individual cases, yet we are not being fair to ourselves and to others unless we give every man his due, unless we exercise forbearance and mix love with mercy and justice.
It's an old suggestion, but it helps our understanding, if we forget about self concern and try to put ourselves in the other fellow's place.

FAMILY POT LUCK

There's no easy way to lose weight, but it's not an impossible task either. Here are some basic tips which may help.
Skip a meal and you may not wait until the next meal. Often dieters skip breakfast. Before lunch they will have eaten sweet rolls or candy bars which will total more than a sensible breakfast.
Make up your mind to write down everything eaten for a period of three days. Those who say they don't eat anything will have a surprise if they make a count of the calories consumed on this so-called "nothing."
Cut down on how much you eat. You can then eat what others have and not feel deprived which is often devastating.
Helen's Favorite: Cream of Corn Soup (6 servings)
2 cups corn (canned or soft)
2 cups boiling water
2 cups milk
1 slice onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons enriched flour. Salt and pepper
Place corn, boiling water, milk and onion in saucepan. Simmer 20 minutes. Rub through a sieve. Melt butter, and flour and blend until smooth. Stir in corn mixture. Simmer 5 minutes.

Notify tax office of address change

Taxpayers who have moved since they filed their Federal income tax returns should be sure that the postman who serves their former residence has their new address.

Joseph M. Stotz, director of Internal Revenue for New Jersey, explained this week that this is especially important for those who expect tax refunds.

These taxpayers should also notify the Newark District Office in writing of their new address. The notification should include the name, social security number and address exactly as it was shown on the tax return as well as the new address. It should be mailed to: Internal Revenue Service, 1060 Broad St., Newark, 07102.

People who have recently moved into new housing developments in suburban areas should use only official post office addresses and not subdivision names, refund checks and other taxpayer's correspondence are processed through service centers. Mail from these centers can be delivered only to post office addresses.

A FEMININE LOOK

At the Mediterranean Basin
(Commentary on a National Newspaper Association Study Mission)

By TRUDINA HOWARD

Ninth Of A Series YOUNG ALGERIA

More than 50% of all the people in Algeria are under 20 years of age—and it looks as though most of those are in the government. Algeria seems to have such a young, young-looking people on its governmental staff, that one feels as though one is going through a town which is celebrating student week—and all the students have taken over.

When our National Newspaper Association Study Mission Group was there, however, we met an older man. His Excellency Abdelaziz Bouteflika, the Foreign Minister, has reached the awesome age of 34.

We met with him for luncheon and a briefing at the Club des Pins near Algiers and despite his aging 34-year-old bones he moved pretty well. He is a handsome man, fair of skin and dark of hair with the baby blues eyes I have ever seen, and that perhaps, brings him right back down to 20.

Mr. Bouteflika spoke with us for almost two hours, all of which was in French and most of which was an apology—for not agreeing with the U.S. on Vietnam.

"If I wanted only billions I could praise your actions," he said, "but we are looking for brotherhood of real and sincere friendship with you"...and so I must say what we think even if it does not coincide with your opinions.

"But I do not wish to offend you," he said, and he apologized in general for "things he said and did not." He was concerned, but he was being honest. It was his country's viewpoint and he had been asked the question. We had asked him.

"Since we are grown up we can disagree on some subjects like this one," he stated but he carefully added that despite the differing opinions we should still be friends. He pointedly declared he did not mean any offense by not agreeing with the U.S. policy.

Algeria, newly away from her own civil war, he told us, cannot help but compare herself to the U.S.

"The only people with whom you should try to be even are those who have helped you."

with Vietnam. "We believe the people of Vietnam have been fighting for 20 years—we only for eight," the Foreign Minister said. "I can tell you simply, it was not pleasant."

"How can one be concerned with peace when putting in huge monies to enlarge war?" he asked.

"How can one conceive of peace when one is carrying on war?"

"How can you miss the people and hit the fighters?"

"Does this country (Vietnam) deserve to be bombed daily?" He reiterated sincerely again that he did not wish to offend us but he said that it is believed in many quarters that the U.S. is hiding its real intention and really means to carry out a war.

Algeria does not wish to have any particular role in Vietnam, he informed us. "We desire to have good relations with all in the world without exception."

ALGERIA'S NEIGHBOR to the west, on the other hand, has stated her support of the U.S. policy. When King Hassan II of Morocco spoke to us in Rabat before he said that when G. Malenkov Williams came to Morocco to tell of Vietnam, he (the King) told Mr. Williams that in the efforts of world peace, the U.S. could always count on Morocco. The fact that peace efforts came from the U.S., so strong a nation, impressed his Majesty and he "told Mr. Williams what to say to Mr. Johnson."

In view of the United Nations stand, the King went on to say, there are no neutral countries. "There are only countries which are aligned and those which are engaged. Aligned countries are without believing; engaged countries believe and act accordingly. Morocco is in the second category. Morocco is not aligned and not a satellite, but it happens that I become engaged with countries according to my convictions, and it is with countries with a conscience."

All of which only proves: each to his own opinion. Or, as someone once said in reply to the Vietnam question: "Some of my friends approve of the Vietnam policy, and some don't, and I like to agree with my friends." Which may have been what the Foreign Minister could have made use of—if he had wanted the easy way out and did not want to worry about anyone's feelings.

Actually I think he also wanted the freedom to state his opinion and let us know his side, just as we want the freedom to tell people ours, and he gave us the credit to understand with going away "mad." However, just in case some of our members were inclined to pour when not agreed with, he added the many apologies.

He was a gracious 34. And handsome too. As someone was even heard to say, "That nice Mr. Bouteflika." Next: The President and the "New" Algeria

2,575 students from county attending Rutgers

Rutgers has a notable tradition of service to the people of New Jersey extending over two centuries. As a result, the impact of the State University, on New Jersey in county ways is much in evidence in every county in the Garden State, from Cape May in the south to Sussex in the north.

Union, the fourth county in population among the 21 counties of New Jersey, has 2,575 students enrolled in the State University this year and there are 4,352 graduates of Rutgers living in the county. This includes 782 graduates of Douglass College, the women's college at Rutgers.

The people of Union County are also served in a wide variety of ways through the County Extension Office, administered by the county. The federal government and the State University, in addition, a number of other university units provide educational and research services ranging from means of mosquito control through training for social workers, graduate work for county school teachers and courses for municipal officials.

The State University's importance to the state is reflected by the fact that it is by far the largest university in New Jersey. The 1965 graduating class numbered more than 3,900 and there were more than 25,000 students enrolled in all divisions of Rutgers in the fall of 1965.

Alumni residing in New Jersey total about 32,000 and graduates are strongly represented in every county.

Rutgers, as the capstone of the state's education system, is continuing to expand the people of New Jersey in three principal areas—education, research and scholarship, and public service.

Service is perhaps best known to the public through the work of the Co-operative Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics.

There is an agricultural agent in every county of New Jersey except Hudson.

THE WORK of a comparatively new agency, the Urban Studies Center, holds great promise for the future and will be of increasing importance because New Jersey is the most urbanized state in the nation and serves as an

Seventeenth issue of map of Parkway ready for drivers

The 17th edition of the official Garden State Parkway map was out this week.

The New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the toll road, has begun distribution both on and off the Parkway of the new edition reflecting the various changes and additions in facilities since last year.

The official Parkway map folder is issued by the Authority free of charge to a service and guide to the motoring public. Motorists can obtain copies by request from a toll collector on the road or by writing the Public Relations Division, Garden State Parkway, Woodbridge, 07095.

Since the Parkway started toll operations in 1954, the Authority has printed and distributed more than 6.5 million copies of the road's official map folder.

A feature of the unique map, which has separate panels for northbound and southbound travel, is its SEND HELP sign incorporated in the folder. This panel sign is designed to provide motorists with a handy means of signaling for aid in case of a breakdown or other emergency.

The SEND HELP feature, introduced in the Parkway map in 1959, is intended to expedite emergency aid. Passerby spotting the display of this message from a parked vehicle on the roadside are asked to report the signal at the next toll booth ahead—but not to stop themselves.

almost perfect laboratory for the study of the mounting and perplexing problems of metropolitan life.

In the fall of this year the first class will enter the new two-year medical school at the University Heights campus. The medical school will be part of the Science Center on that campus, and the possibilities of expanding the medical school into a four-year school are already being explored.

Three colleges are planned for the new Kilmer Area campus and are expected to enroll an additional 11,000 residential and commuting students. Major construction is also underway or planned on the State University campuses in New Brunswick, Camden and Newark.

Unclaimed items to be sold by police

Twenty-six bicycles, baseball gloves and bats, three watches, three golf carts, a transistor radio, a pipe vise, and other items found in the service building adjacent to the Administration Building of the County Park Commission will be auctioned to the public at a sale to be held on Saturday, May 28, it was announced by the Union County Park Commission.

The sale will be conducted by the Union County Park Police, beginning at 10 a.m., in the service building adjacent to the Administration Building—the Park Commission in Warnanco Park, Elizabeth and Roselle. The material being auctioned has been in the custody of the park police for over six months. The proceeds of the sale will be added to the Union County Park Police Pension Fund.

The last sale was held in May of 1965 and at that time over $270 was raised from the sale of a variety of unclaimed items.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"My best subjects were sandbox and sea-saw."

County health league moves to new location

The Union County Tuberculosis and Health League has moved to 1085 Elizabeth Ave., Elizabeth, diagonally across the street from its former building. It was announced by George Schott, president.

The Union County Board of Freeholders moved the League to the former Penn Jersey Store, because the county needed the League's space for other offices. "We are delighted with our new offices," Schott said, "and particularly glad about our ground floor location, which will be most convenient for the people whom we serve."

All of the service, research and teaching of this vast educational apparatus that is Rutgers, the State University, is carried out through 18 colleges and divisions (including Livingston College, still on the drawing boards) and some 34 special units, including institutes, research centers and bureaus.

It all adds up to increased educational opportunities for the citizens of New Jersey—at a time when expansion of educational facilities has been called the most important problem the American people face.

HOME OF THE WEEK:

Tempe Wick Community Offers 4 Models in Scenic Hills Of Mendham

TEMPE WICK shows this model home, "The Madison" colonial farmhouse ranch, on Tempe Wick Road, off Route 24, in Mendham. Three other models priced from $32,490 are featured at the new community.

AS most New Jersey schoolchildren know, Tempe Wick was a young girl who, according to legend, hid a horse in her bedroom at one time during the Revolutionary War to safeguard it from marauding Colonial troops. The reconstructed "Tempe Wick House" in Morristown Nations Historical Park at Jockey Hollow has been a landmark for many years.

A few miles down Tempe-Wick Road off Route 23 in Mendham, approximately five miles west of Morristown, is a new community of custom-styled homes called Tempe Wick. Although "horse-sized" bedrooms aren't among the features, the charm and graciousness of Colonial times is apparent in the styling of Tempe Wick homes.

The tract lies nestled in the scenic, rolling hills of Mendham offering country estate living in a prestige location preserving the rich colonial heritage of the historic Morristown area.

Brounell & Kramer, Union realtors, are the sales agents for the project where plans call for the construction of 106 homes on estate-size, half and full-acre sites.

Buyers are offered a choice of 4 models priced from $32,490. They are "The Adams" colonial split level; "The Jefferson" colonial 2-story split; "The Madison" colonial farmhouse ranch; "The Washington" 2-story colonial.

The homes are distinguished by authentic colonial architectural design and have 4 and 5 bedrooms, 2 1/2 and 3 bathrooms, large living rooms, formal dining rooms, paneled family rooms, wood-burning fireplaces, ultra-modern kitchens with all built-ins, including automatic dishwashers, and oversize 2-car garages. City sewers and all utilities, paved roads and curbs are being installed by the builder.

The developer is Frankfar, Ltd. of Elizabeth whose other building projects include Druid Hill, Parsippany; Elkwood, New Providence; Drexel Hill, Clark; Runnymede Estates, New Providence; Chandler Hill, Edison; Bromley Park, New Providence; Westfield Estates, Westfield; Woods Mall, New Providence; Royal Woods, Parsippany. The company also has built many one and two-family homes in New York and Long Island.

Fortieth Season Opens At Beach Haven West

This lagoon scene shows how the man-made waterways at Beach Haven West are an integral part of life at the community. Homes, all on waterfront sites, at the vacation and year 'round community are priced from $6,190.

The opening of the 1966 season marks the 40th anniversary of the original "summer colony" at Beach Haven West, the 2,000-acre, 6,600-home community situated on Route 72, just nine minutes from Exit 63 of the Garden State Parkway.

The community -- the first waterfront-lagoon tract ever built in the United States outside the State of Florida -- was founded in 1926 by M.L. Shapiro, whose sons, Jerome and Herbert, have expanded the original 61-acre summer colony into a massive, self-contained city with nearly 1,700 homes already built and occupied. These homes are all situated on lagoon sites totaling more than 48 miles of waterways, all of which are deep enough to provide navigation for craft up to those classified as sea-going yachts.

Homes at New Jersey's largest "second home" community are available in 10 different models -- ranging from Floridian-type homes to year 'round retirement villas. The prices range from $6,190 to $14,590 with terms including down payments starting at only $390.
