New problem arises in emergency school bus service

6 congregations will join in Thanksgiving service

Six Springfield congregations will join to sponsor the annual Thanksgiving eve service Wednesday at 8 at the Edward Walton School. St. James Catholic Church is joining in sponsorship of the service for the first time.

Society to give service award to Miss Briggs

Phoebe Briggs will receive the second annual service award of the Springfield Historical Society at a dinner this evening at the Town and Campus Restaurant, Union. The award is designed to honor outstanding contributions to the community. It was announced by Richard E. Werner, president of the Historical Society.

The first award was presented last year to Donald Palmer, unofficial historian of the township.

Miss Briggs, former municipal librarian, is a charter member of the Historical Society. She is also its librarian, supervising its collection of books on history and genealogy at the Cannonhall house on Morris ave. Miss Briggs has long functioned as hostess at the Cannonhall house each Sunday afternoon.

Her ancestors, the Stiles and Mulford families, settled in Springfield in 1717. Jeremiah and Jonathan Mulford fought in the Battle of Springfield as young boys during the Revolutionary War, and Jeremiah was commissioner of appeals at Springfield's first town meeting, in 1794.

Both Miss Briggs' grandfather and great-grandfather were members of the Township Committee during the last century. Born in Brooklyn, she moved here with her family when she was still a child.

Miss Briggs attended the Old Springfield Academy, located on what is now Academy green, just off Main st., between the library and the Methodist Church. It was destroyed by fire in 1901. Miss Briggs attended high Methodist Church, Temple Sharey Shalom, Temple Beth Ahm and the Antioch, Baptist Church.

This is the first time in this area that congregations representing this wide a range of religious opinion have joined to present a religious service of thanksgiving. The service has been an annual event for the past decade.

The Rev. Bruce W. Evans of the Presbyterian Church will preach the sermon. Other clergymen taking part in the service will include: Msgr. Francis X. Coyle of St. James; the Rev. Clarence Alston of Antioch Baptist; Rabbi Abraham R. Levine of Beth Ahm; Rabbi Israel S. Dresner of Sharey Shalom and the Rev. James Doward of Emanuel Methodist.

Wednesday's service is an outcome of the informal meetings which have been held by the clergymen of Springfield for the past several years. There have been regular luncheon meetings, at which the participants discussed problems of mutual concern and ways in which "to make a religious witness in the community more effective," a spokesman for the group reported.

Wednesday's service will be open to all members of the community. An offering will be taken, with proceeds going to CARE, to assist young people throughout the world.

Library board gains final OK to let contracts

Following a special conference Monday night with the Township Committee, the board of trustees of the Springfield Public Library voted to award contracts to the low bidder for the new library building at Mountain ave. and Hannah st.

"We should break ground in the next two weeks," Robert Halsey, library board president, commented on Tuesday. "We are hoping that we will be open for business, perhaps, by next November." The Township Committee last winter approved a $550,000 bond issue for the new library, which will also receive a federal construction grant of $67,300.

Discussing total costs of the new facility, Halsey stated, "We are probably talking in the range of $640,000 to $550,000. It could be less, however, depending on contingencies." He noted that this figure includes the cost of land for the library, which has already been acquired.

The special meeting on Monday was necessary, in order for the Township Committee to approve expenditure of an additional $25,000. Mayor Robert G. Planer said that construction costs were slightly higher than the governing body had originally anticipated. He said that the cost of the building had been expected to be approximately $20 per square foot, and that it would actually be some $22 per square foot.

The mayor added that the additional $25,000

Holiday deadline

Particularly careful adherence to this newspaper's Friday deadline is urged for all material to be published in next week's issue, which will be printed two days early so that readers will receive their papers before Thanksgiving. All organizational, social and other items for the issue date next Thursday, Nov. 24, should be submitted to this office by tomorrow, Nov. 18.

ON STAGE — Mark Gladstone as Mr. Apopolous demonstrates his talent as an artist in this scene from "My Sister Eileen," senior class play at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, which will be presented tomorrow and Saturday evenings at the school. Also shown are, left to right, Dave Bass as Mr. Sherwood, Millicent Rawitz as Ruth and Jerilyn Goodman as Eileen.

Dayton seniors stage hit show: 'Sister Eileen'

Take a three-act comedy which describes the trials and tribulations of two enterprising young ladies who leave their native Cleveland to conquer Greenwich Village and to become successful Broadway luminaries. Take four talented Jonathan Dayton Regional High School seniors to enact the leads: Mark Gladstone as Mr. Apopolous, Alan Graham as "The Wreck," Millicent Rawitz as Ruth and Jerilyn Goodman as Eileen. Take Joseph P. Trinity, director, who has released this senior play selection for the past month.

The result is an evening of pleasure in store when "My Sister Eileen" is presented at Halsey Hall at the high school at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday.

Add the talents of Harriet Kendler as student director, Leon Rawitz and Robert E. Lee of the Thelma Sumner School playing two street urchins, "Vinnie Cavalcanti," an exchange student from Brazil, who is acting as technical advisor for the Brazilian Navy sequences in the play, and sets by Edward M. Metz, include the supporting cast of Wayne Goldman, Samuel Josephs, Barry Fishman, Jeffrey Stone, Frank McCort, Richard Spenar and 20 other enthusiastic senior class members, and there are all the ingredients for a smash senior presentation.

Director Trinity has also invited the Dayton senior class of 1946, who first presented "My Sister Eileen" with Frank Petzinger, Margaret Brahm, Betty Jane Knass, and George Voland as the leads, to witness the revival of this enduring comedy. Tickets are on sale, priced at $1.25, from any senior class member.

Township Committee votes to change local street name

The Township Committee last week chose convenience for the greater number, rather than family pride, when it voted unanimously to change the name of Faltoute ct. in the Baltusrol Top section, to Oak ridge. The move had been strongly opposed by members of the Faltoute family, original owners of the land.

The meeting, last Wednesday at the Municipal Building, had been postponed from the previous night in order to avoid a conflict with Election Day. In other business, the governing body voted final approval for an ordinance to limit parking on Molter, Marcy and Short Hills avenues, as requested by residents on those streets.

An amendment was introduced to the zoning ordinance to permit construction of municipal facilities in all zones of the township. A final hearing is scheduled for Dec. 13.

The committee deferred until next Tuesday final action on a change in the bond ordinance for purchase of Padam Farm, at Shunpike rd. and Mountain ave. Most of the land to be purchased with the aid of federal funds, will be destined for park use. The change is required to permit Temple Sharey Shalom to buy a section of the land to use for expansion of its parking lot. The new parking facilities will also be available for use by patrons of the projected park.

THE CASE AGAINST changing the street name was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Levanhard, daughter of Allyn Faltoute, former owner of the property. Mayor Robert G. Planer read a letter which she had sent to the Township Committee, reviewing the family's long history in Springfield. She declared at the meeting, "There has not been sufficient reason given for this name to be changed."

Mayor Levanhard, in Faltoute ct. spoke in behalf of the nine families owning property on the newly developed street. "The name is hard to spell and to pronounce," he told the governing body. "Faltoute may be a familiar name here, and even throughout the state, but the world extends beyond the borders of New Jersey."

"We are not outsiders asking this change, since we are taxpayers," he noted that the street was originally named by Faltoute in creating a subdivision, and not by the township.

Ligornier went on to say, "As new residents, people in this neighborhood should not be second class citizens. We find the name hard to live with. It is especially hard for children to remember and pronounce, if they should get lost. It is hard for people to remember, and pronounce clearly in an emergency call to the police and fire departments."

"The township did not charge residents for the cost of an ordinance when another street name was changed two years ago — and the change did not lead to a flood of similar requests."

Following a brief recess, the change was approved unanimously. The other members expressed agreement with Committeeman Jay Bloom when he commented, "It is proper for the Faltoute name to be memorialized in town, but all residents on the block find this name difficult. In addition, the change

Parents say child was hit awaiting bus

Board lists procedure if snow closes schools

A new type of problem concerning emergency school bus service across the Rt. 78 disaster area, with charges that a parent had assaulted children waiting for the bus, occupied the Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night at the James Caldwell School.

In other business, the board reminded all parents of the procedure to be followed when schools close this winter because of snow or other bad weather conditions. Springfield school closings will be announced on the John Gambling show over Radio Station WOR. The local civil defense sirens will sound to announce school closings, at 7:30, 7:45 and 8:15 a.m. Parents may also call their children's class mothers, after 7:10 a.m.

The board strongly urged parents not to call the Police Department or school offices. It stressed that the police switchboard must be kept open for emergency calls and not clogged with queries on snow closings.

The school bus problem was raised by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleka of 673 Morris ave., who stated that the five children in their family all formerly took the bus at the corner of Baltusrol way and Crescent rd.

They added that a woman who lives at that corner has hit several children waiting for the bus. The Blekas charged that the woman on Oct. 20 struck their six-year-old child, knocking out two front teeth. They told the board that they had had an informal court hearing in the case, but were reluctant to bring formal charges.

The Blekas added that they, and three other families, now took their children to school themselves, to avoid further scenes. They urged that supervision be provided at the scene, or that the bus stop be moved.

Board members promised rapid action in the matter. They noted, however, that the bus service, made necessary by the highway construction, was operated by the Township Committee, not by the Board of Education, and that they had no direct jurisdiction.

THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, John O. Berwick, reported a minute drop in total enrollment, from 2,081 in September to 2,077 at present. He noted that November registration was 2,118 a year ago, 2,189 in 1964, 2,180 in 1963 and 2,213 in 1962.

He also told the board that tuberculosis tests given to 389 children in the first and third grades had brought a positive reaction in only one youngster. More intensive tests, he added, showed that the child had normal health.

Berwick reported that applications were being completed for federal aid in the area of school library resources and audiovisual materials. He stated that Springfield should receive $150 to $1.75 per child, a total of some $3,000, to be used for filmstrips and other library materials.

He submitted a brief report by Joseph Anderson, assistant superintendent, on curriculum improvement programs in the areas of science, social studies and reading. Joseph Di Stefano, science consultant for the State

Airlift to transport mail to servicemen assigned overseas

Springfield Postmaster A. V. Del Vecchio this week announced that henceforth all first class mail, personal sound recordings (voice letters) and parcels weighing five pounds or less, and measuring not more than 60 inches in length and girth combined, will be air-lifted on a space available basis between the United States and all military post offices overseas.

Also under Public Law 89-725, the Dulski Military Mail Act, which was signed by President Johnson on Nov. 2, newspapers and magazines published weekly or more often, and featuring current news of interest to the military, will be airlifted from San Francisco to the armed forces serving in Vietnam.

Postmaster Del Vecchio explained that parcels weighing five pounds or less and not exceeding 60 inches in length and girth combined, paid at surface rates, will be moved by surface transportation within the United States from the points of mailing to the port of embarkation.

To speed up separation and delivery of these smaller parcels falling within this category, Postmaster General Lawrence P. O'Brien directed that all parcels be clearly marked upon acceptance at the post office with the letters SAAM (surface airlift mail). This will eliminate the task of reweighing and measuring the parcels at the San Francisco Concentration Center, prior to dispatch to Vietnam or other overseas military post offices.

Del Vecchio also reminded mailers that Christmas parcels weighing five pounds and under, though they are given air-lift priority from San Francisco to Vietnam on a space available basis, should be mailed no later than Dec. 1. Airmail, he said, should be sent no later than Dec. 10.

The deadline for Christmas packages weighing more than five pounds going to Vietnam and other overseas military post offices by surface mails has passed. Postmaster Del Vecchio urged the use of airmail for these parcels.

Hospital expansion program includes new main entrance

Overlook Hospital, Summit, will have a new main entrance when its new wing opens in early spring. In a complete turnabout, Overlook's new lobby and admission areas will be located on top of the hill, at the present rear of the hospital, where Beauvoir ave., and Sylvan rd., intersect.

The new main entrance will greatly ease the traffic congestion which has been a longstanding problem at the old Morris ave. entrance," according to Robertson D. Ward, chairman of the Overlook Board of Trustees. "Another convenience for patients and visitors will be extensive parking facilities on the top level of the deck-parking garage, immediately alongside the new entrance. A covered arcade, or portico, will offer all-weather protection from the parking lot to the front door," he explained.

This week, as a send-off to its final campaign fund-raising, Overlook mailed more than 30,000 booklets to friends of the hospital, on the theme "New Doorways to Health."

Focusing on the new main entrance as part of its public information campaign, the booklet also features other new doorways which the expansion program will bring to the hospital.

Completely new emergency and out-patient departments are a major part of the hospital's $4,000,000 "Progress-Program." Located near the old emergency entrance on Beauvoir ave., these new entrances will have their same access route up Beauvoir.

Emergency and out-patient facilities will be located on the same level as the extensive new laboratories and X-ray department for swift turn-around on tests and diagnoses in emergency cases.

ANOTHER MAJOR DEVELOPMENT in Overlook's expansion is the Wallace Medical Education Center, which will provide an auditorium, seating 250, for doctors' seminars and programs of public interest on health topics.

Continuing medical education of practicing physicians is an essential for the modern doctor to keep abreast of the rapid development of the Torah fund and Mathilde Schechter Residence Hall.

Mrs. Pauline Kessler of Irvington, president of the Northern New Jersey branch of the Women's League and former branch chairman of the combined campaign, will be guest speaker.

Women's chapter to award trophies for bowling party

The Springfield Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women will sponsor a bowling party Saturday evening, Nov. 20, at Sunset Lanes, Rt. 22, Hillside. Shoes will be provided, and there will be trophies and a buffet supper.

Chairmen for the evening are Bess Kutin, vice-president for fund-raising, and Terry Strauss. Harriet Karp is chapter president. Proceeds will support such B'nai B'rith projects as student counseling and parties at Lyons and East Orange VA hospitals. The chapter also recently sent a gift of paper-back books to servicemen in Vietnam.

The Springfield Chapter this week urged expansion of driver education programs in all schools. The statement stressed that "14,450 young adults will die each year in car accidents. They should be the best drivers, but yet they have such a huge accident rate."

The chapter also began promotion of a "Lock Your Car" campaign to reduce encouragement of car theft by teenagers. A chapter spokesman urged all drivers, and particularly women, to shut off the ignition when parking, remove the car keys and lock the doors.

Church visitations

Springfield Presbyterian Church will hold its annual "Every Member Canvass" visitation on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20. The church will meet in the Presbyterian Parish House at 130 for a briefing session. They will then go out calling on those member families which have been unable to attend church pledges in person at the worship services.

2 licenses suspended

Two Springfield residents had their driving privileges suspended under the state's point system, the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles announced this week. They were: Sidney Rosenkranz, 41, of 45 Christy Lane, one month effective Oct. 10, and Edward Koenig, 22, of 101 Henshaw Ave., 35 days effective Sept. 29.

Problems do not vanish after votes are counted

Now that Election Day has gone into recorded history, and the cheers and the tears have faded away, this might be the time to take a look at the year ahead for our elected officials—and for the common herd.

Locally, as it should be, the voting was on a basis of individual candidates' qualifications and of their varying approaches to local problems. The difference between a Springfield Republican and a Springfield Democrat, if there is any to be discerned, bears little resemblance between the Johnsons and the Dirksens on the national scene.

Now that the oratory has dwindled, never to be parsed again, there are problems to be faced and answers to be found for the good of Springfield. The new local administration will be indistinguishable from the old one, which has done a generally good job with the civic welfare.

There remains, not to be ignored, a list of needs to be met. The solutions are neither simple nor partisan. For one thing, Springfield needs a code of ethics. Our officials are men of goodwill. Their reasons for entering public life are many and complicated, but no one in his right mind would run for office in Springfield in hopes of personal profit. Still, personal problems do arise, and officials at various levels in the township must make difficult decisions. A code, spelling out exactly what may and may not be done, would help greatly.

Second on the list, perhaps, is the problem of garbage disposal. The township is now at the mercy of contractors who are, properly, in business for the greatest possible profit. Investigation of other means of dealing with the problem is imperative. Our garbage problem cannot be dumped until the time comes to sign the next contract.

Another major problem is that of providing adequate parking facilities and otherwise rejuvenating the Morris ave. business area. The administration has been understandably hesitant to infringe on the rights of property owners through the use of condemnation proceedings. Nevertheless, the merchants and shoppers also have rights.

Rahway River flood conditions also deserve prompt and vigorous action. If decisions on this problem must be made in Washington, then local leaders must make Washington aware of the problem, again and again and again.

Other decisions must be made quickly on the Batusrol Top road and playground, rezoning to adjust to new highways, and many other questions.

One which might well be rewarding might not even be within the province of the municipality. Still, some official body could well embark on a study of whether six communities with four high schools still need a regional high school district.

Beyond the borders of Springfield, there was also an election last week, and some comment might be in order. The resurgent Republicans won with several outstanding candidates, as well as a few bad actors.

This could well be the last chance for the Grand Old Party to show that it can look forward to the 21st Century, rather than back to the 19th. The Cases and Percys and Brokes know what is needed, but they will have some persuading to do.

We have a strong feeling that if the Great Society is permitted to become an exclusive club, the voters will have some different decisions ready by the next time around.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

TAX TURKEY, OR SPENDING CURB?

Nearly a month following adjournment of the 89th Congress, taxpayers in New Jersey and elsewhere at Thanksgiving time were still uncertain whether to expect frustration of the multi-million dollar or additional Federal tax burden in the future.

Amid high level and often confusing discussions of means of maintaining the nation's economy, combating inflation and meeting costs of war, calls for reduction of domestic Federal spending were sounded repeatedly. Warnings against Congressional increases in the budget and Presidential requests to state and local government officials to defer major expenditures were heard but not necessarily heeded.

In the absence of the official mid-fiscal year review of the Federal budget, published by the Congressional Budget Office, the only available source of information on the more than 1,000 pieces of legislation enacted by the 86th Congress, however, the New Jersey Taxpayers Association cites an unofficial analysis of the Federal fiscal outlook on the basis of Congressional budgetary actions and other factors. This indicates prospects of a balanced Federal budget are still remote unless cut-backs are made.

Among other things, the preliminary analysis by the Tax Foundation, an independent national research organization, shows:

Administrative budget expenditures in the current (1967) fiscal year seem certain to be much higher than the $112.9 billion estimated last January with increases in both military and non-defense spending.

On the "new spending authority" basis used in the budget, Congress actually increased the President's requests by about $1 billion, providing total new spending authorizations estimated at more than $123 billion. This total will be further increased next year, when supplemental requests of several billions, for Vietnam and to cover certain increases approved but not fully funded by the recent Congress, will have to be considered.

Another important element in the budget outlook is the asset sales program, the proceeds from which under present budgetary practice serve to reduce expenditures. Due to money market conditions loan participation sales have been suspended; if they are resumed in fiscal 1967, non-defense spending automatically will rise by as much as $4.2 billion.

In the final analysis, even though budget receipts are also expected to be significantly higher than the $116 billion forecast in January, prospects for anything approaching a balanced budget this year depend very largely on the Administration's pledge to cut back or defer lower priority Federal spending programs.

Science Topics

ANIMAL HYPNOSIS has human overtones. Researchers at Iowa State University believe their animal hypnosis program will help in understanding some brain functions in man as well as beast. The scientists hypnotize rabbits by placing them "on their backs" and holding them motionless for a moment. The trance lasts only for a minute, however, so tranquilizers are administered to produce longer and deeper sleep. Tests show that animals under hypnosis often have electrical brain patterns typical of both sleep and wakefulness.

HOSPITALS still suffer from a severe shortage of nurses, reports Chemetel Corporation. A survey of U.S. hospitals indicates we're about 100,000 nurses short and the problem may become critical in the next five years. U.S. medical authorities say there should be at least 300 full-time professional nurses for every 100,000 people.

OLYMPIC ATHLETES will be in for a surprise when they get to Mexico City for the 1968 games. The American Medical Association, the highest altitude will have virtually no effect on sprinters, but long distance runners will turn in considerably slower performances than normal because long runs require a continuous and abundant supply of oxygen. Tests show that the reduced oxygen pressure in the city's rarefied atmosphere causes slightly lowered oxygen saturation in the arterial blood.

ROAD ROUGHNESS can be measured by a new device built by Pennsylvania State University scientists. The "Roughometer," a highly sensitive meter pulled by a yellow van, records lumps and depressions and total road roughness on calibrated records. It can indicate when and to what extent repairs are needed on highways and provide comparative data on which to base future road designs.

SONIC BOOMS, pressure waves created when an aircraft flies at or above the speed of sound, will be studied by the Federal Aviation Agency in a series of tests to be held at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. The tests are an essential element of the national supersonic transport development program, according to the FAA, which recently conducted a series of public reaction to sonic booms.

BEAUTY is where you find it, says a New York artist who recently introduced a new wax form. He creates relief sculpture incorporating plaster casts of the City's man-hole covers!

PROFILE -- Mrs. Edward J. Snider

By BEA SMITH

After 20 years in the first grade at James Caldwell School, Springfield, Mrs. Edward J. (Mary Edna) Snider has accepted the presidency of the Springfield Teachers Association. She had served diligently in the past on numerous teachers' committees, and "at the present time, I do admit to being the teacher who has been here in the school system the longest. Not the oldest," she smiles, "but the longest."

"The one person who has been on the local staff longer than I," she spoke, articulated teacher murmurs with a trace of a Southern accent (She was born "near" Louisville, Ky.), "is Dr. Thelma Sandmeier, who has been an administrator rather than a regular teacher for a number of years now. Several of the other teachers in the system have been on the staff just one or two years less than I have."

Mrs. Snider says that last June was "the first time I accepted the responsibilities of president because I felt the duties entailed a lot of extra-curricular time. As president, you are always trying to fulfill your duties to the best of your ability, and you don't like your time to be curtailed."

Mrs. Snider explains that "we (STA) try to reflect our organization's motto: 'Teachers Together Move Education Forward.' The committee chairmen and other officers and members of the organization give wonderful cooperation to the president."

MRS. EDWARD J. SNIDER

AS PRESIDENT, Mrs. Snider indicates, she is swamped with literature from the national professional organization and the state organization and, in turn, she relays it to the chairmen of the local organization.

"That is only one part of it," she says. "I also am constantly doing research work, reading and digesting all the material to activate all of our goals."

"And our goals are to cooperate to the best of our ability with the members of the Board of Education and the administrators, in order to assist in giving children of the local community the best possible education. We try to assume responsibilities in helping to make wise use of time in teaching, and our responsibilities in helping to shape the changes that are coming."

Mrs. Snider fervently states, "I am a firm believer in a motto which Newark State College offers: 'He Who Dares to Teach Must Never Cease to Learn.' We who dare to teach must face the privileges and exercise the responsibilities of leadership within our school system and our home communities, as well as the community in which we teach. Some of our STA members live in Springfield and teach in Springfield," she says, "and others live in other communities and come to Springfield to teach."

"As a professional group, the STA members are constantly working to improve teachers' educational and professional standards and to exercise their professional rights and responsibilities as teachers and as leaders."

special teachers in music, art, gym. There was no teachers' room.

"Now that our building has been renovated, we have kindergarten, first and second grades, private bath. Every room has a sink with running water. And we have new furniture in the kindergarten to second grade rooms. We have new desks, new closets, new everything. I feel I have been well rewarded for having spent 20 years here. I stuck with the old and I have enjoyed it. We've had such wonderful improvements... thanks to the Board of Education."

Mrs. Snider says that when she thinks back upon the 1950s, it amazes her just to remember how "Springfield was experiencing overcrowded classroom conditions. There were two first-grade teachers whose classes were housed in the Methodist Church Sunday School classrooms for two years. That was at the same time the township kindergarten classes for the public schools were using the classroom facilities of the Presbyterian Sunday School."

"IT ALSO WAS DURING the 'fifties' decade," Mrs. Snider reminisces "that I spent my summers—six weeks each year—working as the James Caldwell remedial teacher. I spent five or six summers as the summer school teacher. Remedial classes were set up for reading, spelling and arithmetic for pupils referred from grades two to seven, inclusive, in our school. I gave the summer school up when I started using the summer for study to be applied toward my master's degree in education. Shortly thereafter, the summer remedial classes were discontinued. In the schools and full-time remedial teachers were employed during the regular school year."

Mrs. Snider says that she gave two years' time to the Girl Scout program as Brownies' troop leader "before I had completed the B.S. degree and before I had started studying for the M.A."

"The thesis which I developed as a requirement for my M.A. degree was entitled, 'Listening in Grades K-5.'"

Mrs. Snider explains that "as a Contraband of the Christian Doctrine member, I have spent the past three years teaching a third grade Sunday School class in the St. James Roman Catholic Sunday School. The average enrollment was 45 pupils. And as a cooperating teacher with Newark State and Jersey City State, I have worked with five or six student teachers during my years of teaching in Springfield."

"Among other accomplishments and school activities," Mrs. Snider says, "I was one of two teacher-members of a citizens' committee which helped to plan for the first new school in Springfield, The Florence Gaudin School. Aside from that, I have served as secretary of Springfield's P.T.A. That," she adds, "was for the 1954 school system, before the P.T.A. divided into different schools."

"You see," Mrs. Snider explains, "I enjoy working in the background, rather than in the limelight. I've worked in other capacities in exercising responsibility. I served as publicity chairman for three years for the Caldwell P.T.A. after the big organization was divided."

SPEAKING OF LEADERS, Mrs. Snider is reminded of "Dr. Thelma Sandmeier, B.P., Newslander, Daniel M. Murray, Mrs. Lucy J. Forsyth, William Fenton, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Powers and Robert Black. I have known them all as teachers, and I have watched them begin in the role of administrators. I have watched other dedicated teachers retire after many years of valuable service in the profession of teaching locally."

Mrs. Snider, who was born Mary Edna King in "a county adjacent to Louisville," was educated in that area. "My mother and my two older brothers were teachers in the generation preceding mine."

"I took basic teaching training at Eastern State College in Richmond, Ky. And after college I taught two years in a rural school in Oldham County. I had 51 pupils and taught grades one to eight."

"Back in those days, teaching in a rural school meant functioning in a combined role of principal, teacher, nurse and custodian in a one-room school setting for elementary school grades one to eight. The school's heating system was a jacked stove which was fed coal at regular intervals from a traditional coal bucket. Water for drinking was pumped from a cistern. Bathroom facilities," she explains, "included two small buildings known as outhouses now."

"I should further explain that all elementary schools in Oldham County are now subject to bussing into four graded schools. The rural schools were eliminated there about the time when I began teaching here in Springfield. Changes have been effected here as here."

Mrs. Snider continued her education with a B.A. degree from Newark State College and "teaching finished my years at Newark State."

After she completed her sixth year as a teacher, she was married to Edward Snider of Springfield.

"WHEN HE WAS CALLED INTO the service, where he spent the next three-and-a-half years. And during the time, I went back to Oldham County and taught three years in a senior high school."

Mrs. Snider taught such subjects as algebra, geometry, advanced mathematics, typing and general subjects.

She returned to Springfield when her husband was released from the service. "Right now, he is in horticultural work. He specializes in the growing of azaleas in Maplewood."

The changes I've seen in the school system here in the past 20 years," Mrs. Snider explains, "are really quite unbelievable. When I first came here, Caldwell was the original school, grades K-8. There was no parochial school and only Jonathan Dayton Regional High School was standing. There were no

Treatment for addicts leads to high cure rate

HANOVER, N. J. (UPI) - Narcotic addicts at Dayton Village here are forced to take a nature view of life. As a result, 84 percent of those completing treatment at the nonprofit rehabilitation center permanently are cured of their habit, according to a report by its executives.

Dr. Daniel Casriol, medical superintendent, and David Deitch, executive director, according to a report in "The Physician's Postscript," attribute the cure rate to a combination of sympathetic and hard-boiled group therapy procedures which change the patient's personality. They noted that the central characteristic of the narcotic addict is emotional immaturity.

A social studies committee, he added, is at work developing a "scope and sequence topical guide," to pinpoint the topics to be covered at each grade level. Resource materials in this field are also under constant study, the report added.

The program on reading will include a talk by Dr. Jeanette Venceli, a nationally known authority on individualized reading instruction, before local teachers on Dec. 15. Harold Liebeskind, president of the Thelma Samuel PTA, asked for improvement of road and sidewalk conditions in front of his school. Dr. Ray Constantian, representing the Caldwell PTA, discussed perils involved for children passing the new road construction area at Meisel and S. Maple avenues.

AN OPEN LETTER TO YOU ABOUT YOUR HEALTH AND YOUR HOSPITAL.

Overlook Hospital

is immensely grateful for the generous support its Program for Progress has received from the fourteen communities it serves.

Already over

$3,000,000 has been subscribed for the new wing, which is nearing completion, right on schedule for early spring occupancy.

Nurses are now living in Overlook's attractive new garden apartments, adding the necessary staff in time for the new wing. The deck parking structure is finished and already in use, eliminating parking problems when the new wing opens.

However, Overlook

now faces completion of the most tremendous undertaking in the history of the hospital - Its $8,000,000 Progress Program - for you - will mean you will have hospital beds when you need them, plus the latest and most advanced medical facilities.

To complete the job, Overlook needs $1,000,000 more. With the $3,000,000 already raised, plus a mortgage commitment, this will put the hospital on solid financial footing.

Overlook is confident that it will receive this support. But your hospital needs you to insure the success of its program.

Overlook asks the following:

YOU who have made pledges, consider carefully a one-year extension.

YOU who have given once, give once more.

YOU who are now residents, make a commitment to your new hospital.

THAT industries and corporations in the area review their commitments and help once again.

The Trustees, Medical Staff, and The Women's Auxiliary have committed themselves to extend their pledges. We ask you to join the Overlook family in support of your hospital.

Direct-appointment started for officers by Navy Reserve

Commander W.A. Johnson Jr., commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center, Perth Amboy, this week announced a program for direct appointment of young men to Reserve officer status.

The program involves appointment as public affairs officers for men who have an appropriate background in communications or related fields. The program is open to males only, Commander Johnson said.

Age limits are 19 to 27 1/2 for appointment as an ensign, and 27 1/2 to 33 for appointment as a lieutenant (junior grade). Age credit may be granted for previous military service.

The applicant for appointment as an ensign must be a graduate of an accredited college or university with a major in journalism or mass communications, or a baccalaureate degree in any field and three years of suitable civilian experience, he said.

A lieutenant (junior grade) must have a master's degree or four years post-baccalaureate degree experience in field related to journalism or mass communications.

The program does not require active duty, except in the case of mobilization; however, officers are expected to continue to improve their professional qualifications. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Naval Reserve Training Center, Perth Amboy, at 426-3828.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
I am ashamed to tell you this, and you probably won't print it, but I'm in love with my doctor. Although I'm married and have a darling daughter, I can't help myself.

After the baby was born, I developed a fungus infection on my skin and I tried the new doctor in our neighborhood. He really was helping me so I continued to use him. This skin condition has cleared up, but I still make an appointment for once a week just so I can see him.

He's absolutely the greatest and when he examines me with his stethoscope, I get the chills all over. I know the way I feel about him is wrong but I don't know what to do about it. Please don't print my name.

Dear No Name:

There ought to be a law to protect the unsuspecting doctor from women who have nothing better to do than take up his time with imaginary illnesses just to be near him. The chills you feel are from the cold stethoscope and nothing more.

Your doctor is most likely a happily married man and if he knew what was in your mind, he would suggest that you go have it psychoanalyzed!

I'm 24 and have been going steady with a young man for 3 years. Because of our long friendship, he felt entitled to certain privileges that I consider should be reserved for marriage.

Since I gave him my answer, which was four weeks ago, I haven't heard from him. Was I wrong in my decision?

Baffled

Dear Baffled:
Certainly not! And should you hear from him again, stick to your guns until he puts a ring on your finger!

My husband and I never discuss this sort of spot, but I know we would both feel happier about it if they would at least give me a chance to show them I am a good wife and that I mean well.

What would you suggest?

Mrs. B.N.
Mrs. B.N.

Dear Mrs. B.N.:
If after seven years, your husband's parents have not seen fit to accept you for what you are, I would say you would be wasting your time to try to show them anything. The limits of sociability have long since passed.

Dear Amy:
I'm 19, married but don't love my husband. Last week I received a letter from a boy I knew in high school. He says he loves me and would like to see me. Shall I tell him I'm married?

Unhappy

Dear Unhappy:
He probably already knows, no figures you for a date that entails no responsibilities. Tell him no dice. Wise up and settle down and try to make a success of your marriage.

Dear Amy:
My husband goes out with the boys once a week. They usually go to the gym and then stop for a bit to eat before they come home. Last week when he came home, there was lipstick (I think) on his handkerchief. He swears it was tomato juice and not lipstick. Should I believe him?

Doubtful

Dear Doubtful:
Yes, just tell him to get rid of that tomato!

Dear Amy:
I have never had the occasion to ask for advice before, but this problem baffles me.

Weighing infants

The first accurate report of birth weights of babies was published in 1815. But it wasn't until the middle of the nineteenth century that regular weighing of infants was suggested. At this time, weighing was suggested as a useful means of evaluating the nutritional and physical development of infants.

STUDENTS!
A quality portable is always a good bargain

Olympia

When you're choosing your new portable typewriter, don't be guided by price alone. ASK QUESTIONS!

- does it have the most modern features?
- a full-size keyboard?
- durability?
- is the guarantee complete?
- is the dealer a specialist?
- does he check the typewriter completely before delivery?
- can he service it locally?

Without a "yes" to all of these questions, your bargain may prove to be very costly. Protect your investment. Treat yourself to the best in portable typing. Choose a Precision-Built Olympia Portable. Four quality Olympia Portables to choose from: SM-9 Deluxe, SM-8, SF Deluxe, Socialite.

Temple Beth Ahm publishes book noting 15th anniversary

In commemoration of the congregation's 15th anniversary, the history of Temple Beth Ahm was recently published as "The Temple Beth Ahm Story" and is available upon request at the Temple office, 60 Balunrod Way, Springfield. This digest reviews the growth of a "few dedicated residents of Springfield," originally known as the Jewish Community Group of Springfield, and the history of their efforts to bring about the present house of worship known as Temple Beth Ahm.
 The temple offers the community a wide range of spiritual, cultural, civic and social programs, under the direction of Rabbi Reuben R. Levine and Cantor Israel Weisman; Edwin Schotzman, principal of the Hebrew School, and Milton Wildman, president of the temple. The affiliated adult groups include the Sisterhood, Men's Club, drama group, Senior League and adult education classes. The Sisterhood has recently sponsored a new library, with categorized volumes of fiction, non-fiction and religious books. This library is available for use by members and non-members alike. The temple gift shop also affords the residents of Springfield a selection of Judaica.
 The Men's Club underwrites the entire youth program and sponsors many social as well as religious functions. The Minyonaires hold services twice daily.
 The affiliated groups for young people include the nursery school, the Pre-1051 and USY groups. The Religious School board offers regular Hebrew School classes three days a week, Sunday School, Bar and Bat Mitzvah training and confirmation classes, as well as study groups.
 Many civic and charitable organizations avail themselves of the facilities of the temple building for meetings, education and art classes, social functions and programs of interest to the general public.
 "Just as a handful of dedicated residents furthered their goals of establishing Temple Beth Ahm, the membership of approximately 450 member families constantly works to encompass the needs of our growing community of Jewish life," a Temple spokesman commented.

State highway crews ready for snow

About 2,800 men and 2,000 pieces of equipment are ready to swing into action within a few hours to rid the 2,000-mile New Jersey State Highway System of snow and ice this winter.

The State Highway Department has completed plans to mobilize this force when a storm strikes. Snow plows are ready; chemical, sand and other abrasive materials have been stockpiled; and snow-removal crews have been briefed.

The Department keeps a close eye on weather conditions from its Trenton headquarters where the U. S. Weather Bureau and a private weather service furnish advisories.

When word of threatening weather is received, an alert to the snow control force is sped to units around the state through the Department's communications network: 435 two-way mobile radios, 11 base radio stations and a teletype network. The alerted men are kept advised of changing weather conditions.

THIS YEAR THE Department has augmented its snow-fighting equipment with the purchase of three six-ton dump trucks equipped with snow plows and spreaders, 11 snow blowers, 50 snow plows and 89 tailgate spreaders.

The snow-fighting team also includes about 600 privately owned and manned trucks, loaders and graders. Under contracts, these are called into service by the Highway Department only when needed to supplement its own crews in an emergency or severe storm.

Throughout the state the Department has stockpiled 32,000 tons of rock salt; 48,000 cubic yards of abrasive materials such as sand, cinders, stone grits and crushed slag and 7,000 tons of calcium chloride.

Rock salt is spread to melt ice and snow, the abrasive aid traction and calcium chloride keeps the stockpiles from freezing.

To prevent or minimize drifting, more than 180 miles of snow fence have been erected in strategic locations. Now shrubbery plantings by the Department's Landscape Section also help block snow from sweeping onto highways.

Despite all these elaborate preparations, snow removal and traffic is frequently unduly delayed by the ill-prepared and careless motorist, a Department spokesman emphasized.

HE SINGLED OUT this type of driver as the one who runs out of gas, skids or stalls on highways or ramps, or drives in the wrong direction to serve his own selfish interest.

Every driver can help reduce traffic hazards, the spokesman said, by using extra caution and courtesy and by seeing that his car is properly equipped and serviced for conditions.

The Department offers advice on winter driving in its pamphlet, "Year 'Round Driving Hints."

Apples combined with cranberries

Cranberry-apple sauce is good hot or cold, with pork sausages. Cook one pound of sausages over medium heat until golden brown. Combine two cups of fresh cranberries with 3/4 cup of sugar, 1/2 cup of water, two medium-sized cooking apples, peeled, cored and coarsely chopped, and one tablespoon of cider vinegar. Bring to boil and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, for 10 minutes, or until apples and cranberries are tender. Make four servings.

A dream surpassed at Newark State

"It has always been my dream," the college director said, "to do an original show, but directing the premiere performance of a production planned for Lincoln Center surpasses my dream."

Lawrence Lowenstein, director of the Newark State College Theatre Guild, has been given first chance at two brand-new musicals, "A Bullet for Billy the Kid" and "Total Sweet Success," by Marvin Schofer, librettist, and William Goldstein, composer, both of New York City. They are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. today, tomorrow and Saturday in the Newark State College Theatre for the Performing Arts, a new semi-circular 1,000-seat theater located on the Lincoln campus.

One of these, "Total Sweet Success," is expected to be shown this winter in the Vivian Beaumont's Forum Theater, where the Music Theater of Lincoln Center presents experimental Sunday evening performances before an invited audience of critics and Broadway professionals.

"THE EXCITING THING about doing an original performance," Lowenstein said, "is that the authors attend rehearsals and together they mold the show into what will be its final shape. It's being in at the beginning of something."

The staging will be more elaborate at Newark State than at Lincoln Center. In the college production photographs and drawings will be projected upon the stage to suggest the settings. At Lincoln Center the emphasis will be upon a bare stage with a minimum of properties.

"A Bullet for Billy the Kid" deals with the last weeks in the life of the young outlaw; his activity in the fierce Lincoln County War, his jailbreak after an unjust trial, and his pursuit and death at the hands of Sheriff Pat Garrett. On a deeper level it shows what it means to be young in a world run by adults. The play was shown in an abbreviated form on CBS television workshop several years ago.

"Total Sweet Success" is based on Mark Twain's classic story, "The Million Pound Bank Note." It is a romance performed in elaborate Victorian costume, a contrast to "Billy," which Lowenstein has termed "almost a morality play."

He pointed out that "The Fantastiks" had its premiere performance at Barnard College in 1958 and went on to unprecedented off-Broadway success. He said he hopes his venture will receive similar acclaim.

A FREQUENT LECTURER on the development of musical comedy in the United States, he termed the one-act musical a "new and effective form" in the theater. "The second act in most musicals is superfluous, so why not eliminate it?" he said.

Lowenstein is a member of the English Department faculty and director of the Community Theatre of Deal. He studied acting under Uta Hagen at the Herbert Berghof Studio in New York City and has been employed as an actor's agent with the Kenneth Later Agency in New York City.

Other cast members working on the Newark State production are W. Carl Burger, art supervisor; Miss Julie Hurd, choreographer; and William Craycraft, technical director. Elman Anderson, New York pianist, is music director.

Burger is an award-winning artist, who has worked as stage designer for the Cape May Hayhouse, Cape May, and the Triple Cities Playhouse in Binghamton, New York. Miss Hurd teaches dance at Newark State and previously taught this subject at New York University and Hollins College, Hollins College, Va. Professional performances have included an appearance on Dave Garroway's "Today" show. She studied at the Martha Graham Studio and the American School of Ballet, both New York City.

Craycraft, a member of the English Department faculty, has worked as an actor and lighting designer in summer stock and community theaters.

The leading roles in both plays, as they will be performed at Newark State, will be played by Glenn Lewis of 2074 Church Street, Rahway, and Claire Denman of 220 Lincoln Avenue, Elizabeth.

Other cast members are Angela Flynn of Deal, David Draper of Plainfield, David Wald of Highland Park, Michael Lussen of Elizabeth, Kenneth Turkin of Westwood, Peter Froelick of Irvington, and Bruce Morvick of Roselle.

THE AUCTIONS ARE CURRENTLY under contract with Sam Fox Music Corp. of New York City, which published "Brigadoon" and "Man from La Mancha." Schofer has worked on the production staffs of NBC Opera and the St. Louis Municipal Opera and contributed to numerous musical productions as both a writer and director. He is executive assistant to Sara Caldwell, director of the Boston Opera Co.

Goldstein has written for films, television and off-Broadway plays. His music has been performed on programs of the National Association of American Composers and Conductors.

Tickets are available to the public for $1.50 at the College Center information desk. They will be available at the door on the evenings of the performance also.

Developing a positive use of freedom

Visual awareness developed by art instructor

A faculty artist at Newark State College, Union, believes that the goal of teaching is to develop a "positive use of freedom" and has written an art education book that develops this theme.

The author is Mrs. Pearl Greenberg, who directed the art program at the progressive Downtown Community School, a private elementary school in New York's Lower East Side, before coming to Newark State in 1965. The book, a 132-page hard-cover volume entitled, "Children's Experiences in Art," published recently by Reinhold, records her experience with this program and her beliefs.

Illustrated with photographs by Murray Greenberg, the author's husband, and with children's drawings, the book points the way to developing in youngsters a visual awareness and the confidence to respond to what they see in a personal way. Mrs. Greenberg has dedicated it to "all of the children I have known through the years at the Downtown Community School. Their interest in art, the dedication, the joy in learning, is an inspiration to all who work with them."

The kind of awareness and response Mrs. Greenberg elicits require an atmosphere of freedom that will nurture the individuality of each child, releasing his creative energy. The child, in turn, will find in his developing abilities, positive uses for the freedom he is given.

SHE CONTRASTS THIS atmosphere of creative freedom with that often found in "the average school system" where, she says, "children come relatively free, full of enthusiasm, joyous about life, and open to creative experiences only to be put into harness." The spark of life is dimmed quickly, she says. "The creative child upsets the class routine so he must be tamed. And soon he knows this, or what is worse, he may suffer abuses from teachers and peers which are hard to take.

His psycho suffers, but the room is quiet and nothing is going on at all.

"Untold numbers of children, having been clobbered into silence by the so-called educative process, are numbed into nothingness, learning only by rote and not really caring at all. Teachers are generally aware of individual differences in children's academic abilities; it is also important to realize and respect individual differences in creativity," she contends.

The author makes a plea for teaching that provides sufficient time for concentration and sufficient solitude for involvement. She also asks that children be given time to learn the use of one art medium before they are switched to another and for an end to "gimmicks" that interfere with the natural process of development.

"WE NEVER KNOW when a child will bloom," she says, "but we can help by offering the kind of atmosphere in which learning can take place. The things we do and the things we say count so much more than we realize."

Mrs. Greenberg holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from New York University and a certificate in fine and decorative arts from Cooper Union, N.Y.C. She is a candidate for a doctor's degree at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

During her 14 years at the Downtown Community School she also held university and college positions. At N.Y.U. she served at different times as lecturer on art education, supervisor of student teachers, and instructor for graduate and undergraduate art courses. She has been a supervisor and lecturer at Queens College, Flushing, N.Y., and a lecturer in the Art Department of Inter-American University at San German, Puerto Rico.

Mrs. Greenberg is a consulting editor in the field of elementary art education for Reinhold and has contributed articles to numerous professional magazines. She has conducted art workshops for parent and teacher groups and directed a Saturday arts program

MRS. PEARL GREENBERG for children at Bayside, N.Y. For two summers she conducted lecture workshops at Hofstra University, Hempstead, N.Y. She is listed in "Who's Who in American Education" and lecturer at Queens College, Flushing, N.Y., and a lecturer in the Art Department of Inter-American University at San German, Puerto Rico.

Partnership is cemented

"This building attests to the continuing partnership between Union Junior College and Union County," Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, UJC president, said at cornerstone laying ceremonies last Thursday for the $1 million Science Building.

"What we do here today is representative of the viability, of the thrust of this college and its significance to higher education in New Jersey," Dr. MacKay said. "It is a voucher of our commitment to quality education."

Dr. MacKay pointed out that a cornerstone is defined in Webster's as "a thing of fundamental importance." He said the Science Building is "a thing of fundamental importance" to Union Junior College and to higher education in New Jersey.

Dr. MacKay said the college expects to increase the size of the freshman class next year by 10 percent with the opening of the new building.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

THOUGHTFULNESS
How often have you received a letter in the mail, requesting payment of a bill, help in some civic project, or support for some cause - which ended with these words: "Thank you for your cooperation."
Quite often, these words are used. Yet, if you pay, help, or support, do you receive this same message in the mail? Sometimes, not always.
For some of us, thoughtfulness is a matter of urgency. We don't always have time to be bothered when we see that someone needs help, or that a friend or associate is sick or in trouble.
Perhaps we would change our ways if we thought for a moment or two about the many times some distressing situation of our own has been made to seem not quite so bad merely because friends offered encouragement or a word of sympathy.
Isn't there someone who needs your help or advice? Isn't there someone you should thank for something?

Summit Y breaks tradition with appointment of two women to serve on board of directors

An 80-year tradition in the Summit YMCA was broken this week with the appointment of two women to its board of directors. George B. Martin, president of the local institution, announced the appointment of Mrs. Woodruff J. English and Mrs. Alton J. Gast to the Y's governing body at the board of directors' meeting held Tuesday. The will fill unexpired terms and will be eligible for reelection. The feminine image in the YMCA is a constantly increasing one both nationally and locally. Allan R. Devenney, the Y's executive director, pointed out, Women and girls account for 26 percent of the national YMCA membership, while in the Summit organization they account for 35 percent.

learn-to-swim courses have been an integral part of the local Y's program for many years, he added. Yet, locally as well as nationally, women have been underrepresented on boards, committees and councils in relation to their membership proportion. (As recently as 1962 the first woman was named to the National Board of YMCAs).

Devenney concluded that the innovation of women board members is particularly fitting as the local YMCA reaches the conclusion of its 80th anniversary year. "Never underestimating the power of women, this move may have one of the greatest impacts on the growth and concept of our family YMCA as any move in our history," he said. Both Mrs. Cast and Mrs. English are well known in the community for their volunteer activities. Mrs. English is currently a deacon of Central Presbyterian Church, on the boards of the Central Church Woman's Association and the Child Care Center, a trustee of the Colonial Little Symphony Society of Madison, and a member of the Summit Junior League. Her husband, Woodruff J. English, has been closely associated with the local Y and is a board member and past president of the YM-YWCA of Newark and on the board of the YMCA Frost Valley Association. Their five children have all been active Y members.

Mrs. Gast has been active as a Red Cross nurses' aide at Overlook Hospital, treasurer of the Overlook Ladies, Sunday School teacher at Calvary Church, volunteer in the YMCA office, and has served on numerous fund drives. Her husband, Alton J. Gast, principal of Summit High School, is a former director of the Y and serves now on the Y youth committee. Their children have also participated actively in Y activities.

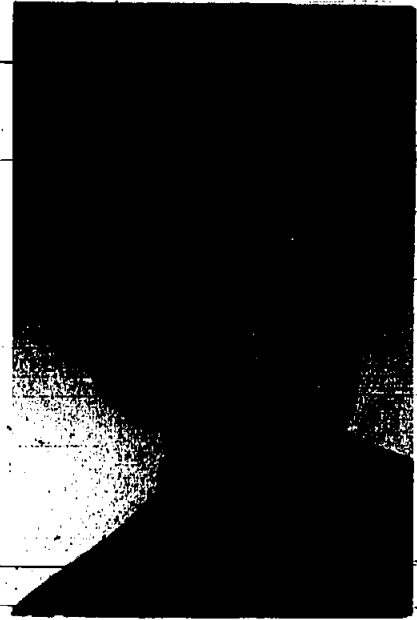

Also serving as YMCA directors are: Frank T. Barr, Rudolph deRoode, John N. May Jr., Wilbur N. Nelson, Dr. Donald M. Seiffert, Grant G. Lavery, Horace F. Kennedy, Stephen W. Ransom, James A. Beus Jr., Edward J. Borczyk, Richard C. Boyd, James A. Corradi, James D. Cowan Jr., Dr. Alexander D. Crosett Jr., Lonnie A. Davis Jr., Jack C. Keyser, Robert Lockett, Leo A. O'Grady, Alfred E. WATER for BETTER LIVING

It's what you don't see that really counts! All but a small part of the facilities that make up our water system are buried underground as pipelines or situated apart from the mainstream of community activity, as is the case with our treatment and pumping installations. Out of sight, out of mind; but they are there nonetheless. That's why that pure, sparkling water for better living is always at your service.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: Do you think a fourteen year old could go riding with a boy? Sit at the movies with him? If you love a boy and your mother doesn't want you to go with him, what do you do? We want to know what you think, not what our mothers think. If you love a boy, how do you tell him? Do you think a girl should date when she is fourteen, fifteen or sixteen? Should a girl who is fourteen go with a boy who is sixteen? If a boy doesn't like you, how can you tell he doesn't like you? Why does a boy let a girl think he likes her when he doesn't? Why is it that a boy will kiss a girl when he doesn't like her? OUR REPLY: A girl of fourteen is not old enough to date freely and go riding in cars and to the movies with boys. Your mother is adult, experienced, and knows that a girl of fourteen is apt to get into trouble if she is permitted to date - particularly to older boys. You shouldn't tell a boy you love him - not if you are but fourteen years old. Say you like him. A girl of fourteen is only asking for trouble and heartache by going out with a boy who is four years older. Some boys are being polite when they don't let you know they don't like you; others pretend they do so they can boast to their friends they have another girl crazy about them.

Overheard by Effie

Danny's mother was summoned to come to school because he had been swearing. His irate mother exclaimed "Well, I don't know where he hears such language. He never hears it at home, $#!%."

WHEN THE LORD'S Prayer was allowed to be said in the public schools, a teacher heard a rather shrill little voice say: "Give us this day our dirty bread."

A SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGIST was conferring with an eight-year-old boy who had been uncooperative with his teachers. In the course of the conversation about his home and family, he interrupted her, he said, "The man next door called my mother a bad name. I don't know whether I ought to say it to someone like you on the Board of Education or not? With that he got up, went over and quietly closed the hall door, came back and whispered: "He called her a CENSORED. Now that wasn't a nice word, was it?" Not waiting till she answered he quickly went over and opened the door and resumed his seat.

Knowledge needed for job of shopper of family facilities

How do you rate as the shopping agent for your family? asks Carolyn F. Yukmas, Senior County Home economist? In addition to food shopping, homemakers usually have the job of shopping for most of the clothing, home furnishings and services for the family.

To become proficient at the job of shopping you need to know how the market operates. All stores are not the same, and as a shopper, you need to know what type of store you are dealing with and what kind and type of services go along with the merchandise.

At one time it was relatively safe to say you usually get what you pay for. However, this statement is less true today largely because of the competitive market and the cost of production.

In the clothing area it is possible to find two exact items at different prices. But before you make a final choice, decide what all is included in the two varying prices.

One price may include only three sizes and one choice of color and you must pay cash for the purchase; while the other price includes a good choice of sizes, variety of colors, salesperson's help, delivery, charge accounts and boxing.

One price makes exchange or money refund most difficult, if not impossible; while another price for the same item may include special order, if necessary, and easy refund if you are not satisfied.

You, as a shopper, can decide which price and which store will best fill your needs for a particular item.

Often clothing items look the same or are even advertised as the same as higher priced garments. It takes knowledge, experience and alertness to know whether a $3.95 shirt is identical to the $7.50 one sold elsewhere; or that a $3.95 shirt has not been marked up to $7.50; or that a sales item is really the well-known brand with just the labels removed; or that a labeled item is not a special lot with some of the extra features missing.

The job of being shopper for the family is a responsible one and how well you do your job may make the difference in how money is spent in relation to family needs.

Turkey chowder makes a dinner following holiday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even the carcass of the Thanksgiving turkey can yield a meal, as the recipe for a main-course chowder.

Instead of serving croquettes or bread with last-of-the-turkey chowder, make stuffing squares from leftover dressing.

The recipes that follow were developed in the test kitchen of a manufacturer of small appliances, National Presto Industries, Inc., Eau Claire, Wis.

Brown two slices of bacon, diced in a four-quart pressure cooker. Add one large onion, chopped, two medium white potatoes, diced (about 1-1/2 cups), one cup each of diced raw carrots and sliced celery, four cups of water, two teaspoons of salt, one bay leaf and a pinch of allspice.

Place rack on top of vegetables and place turkey carcass, broken into pieces, on rack. Close cover securely and follow directions in manufacturer's instruction book for placing pressure regulator on vent pipe and cooking. (If regulator has adjustable pressures, cook at 15-pound mark.) Cook over low heat for 15 minutes after full pressure is reached. Remove from heat and let stand five minutes before cooling. Cooker under running cold water as instruction booklet directs.

When pressure has dropped completely, remove pressure regulator and lid. Use two long-handled forks to remove rack containing carcass from cooker. Return to soup any bits of meat clinging to bones and discard bones. Return to low heat.

Blend two tablespoons of flour into three tablespoons of softened butter and add, one tablespoon at a time, to hot soup, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add 1/2 cup of evaporated milk and one (eight ounce) can each of cream style corn and stewed tomatoes. Taste and add additional salt and/or pepper to taste. Makes six main-dish servings.

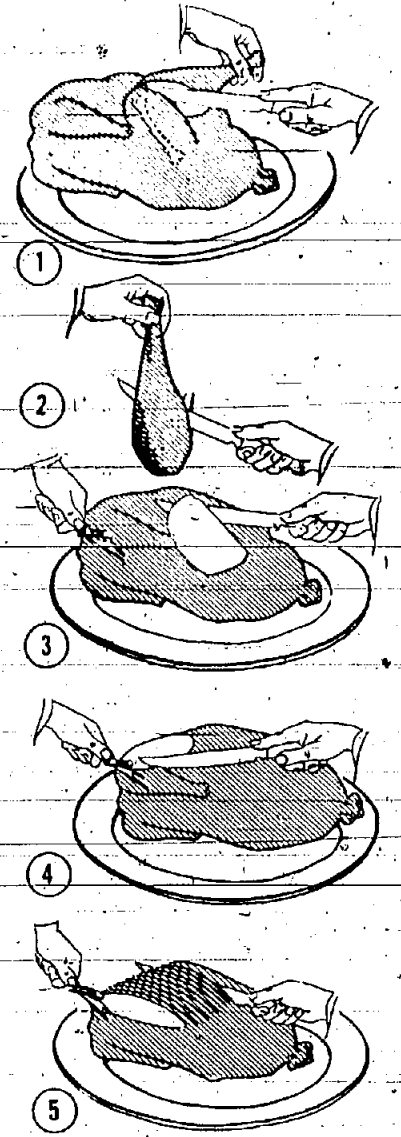

White chowder cooks, moisten leftover stuffing or dressing with a little hot water or broth and press into a firm layer about one-inch thick in a greased square pan. Amount of stuffing will determine size of pan to use. Dot with butter, bake in preheated 400-degree oven about 30 minutes or until crisp and brown. Cut into squares.

If you make the chowder in a four-quart saucepan instead of a pressure cooker, start the chowder at 425-degree setting on thermostat control and lower to 250-degree when correct pressure is reached. Remove control from electric cooker before cooling cooker under running water.

If you use an electric pressure cooker, start the chowder at 425-degree setting on thermostat control and lower to 250-degree when correct pressure is reached. Remove control from electric cooker before cooling cooker under running water.

Either way you slice it... Annual trauma or simple task

Will that succulent Thanksgiving turkey be carved into beautiful, mouth-watering slices, or will the man of the house hack it into a mangled wreck? Carving a turkey is an annual trauma for some people, but is simplicity itself for others. As with so many things, it's easy when you know how.

Drawing taken from World Book Encyclopedia show you how. First, remove the leg by turning the turkey on its side with its breastbone away from you. Hold the end of the drumstick and pull it forward as the knife cuts through the joint. (Figure 1.)

Next, carve the drumstick into lengthwise slices by standing it on its thick end and holding the thigh end with your hand. (Figure 2.)

Carve the thigh after the leg. Expose the thighbone by slicing down to it. Remove the thighbone by running the point of the knife around it and lifting it up with the fork. Then finish slicing the thigh meat. (Figure 3.)

If you want only a few slices from the breast, carve with the grain. Slice lengthwise until you reach the wing joint, then remove the wing. Continue slicing until you have carved all the white meat on one side of the turkey. (Figure 4.)

Next, carve several small slices from the breast, carve across the grain. First remove the wing, then slice at an angle of about 45 degrees. Continue carving slices until you reach the breastbone. Loosen the slices by cutting along the bone under them. (Figure 5.)

And that's all there is to it. Provided, of course, that you have the proper "brave" for the "Meat and Bone Carving" in World Book says:

"The well-kept carving set is very important to good carving. A good carving knife needs to be sharpened only once in a while, but it should always be steered before using.

"A meat platter or a carving board allows more room for cutting and makes carving easier. A heavy carving fork holds the meat much more firmly than an ordinary dinner fork."

Bon appetit, and don't forget the cranberry sauce.

Baptist leader proposes uniform Lord's Prayer

HAWTHORNE, N.J. (UPI)—A single form of the Lord's Prayer would aid Christian unity, according to Dr. Carl W. Tiller, of Chester, N.J., president of the American Baptist Convention.

Dr. Tiller told the annual convention of the National State Baptist Convention that variations in the words of the prayer cause confusion at gatherings of people from several communions. Some say "which are in heaven" and some say "who." Some use the "debts" translation and others the "trespasses."

Understand labels, pick items wisely, advises economist

Each time you walk into a supermarket, you face seven to 10 thousand different items from which to choose, says Anne L. Sheelen, county home economist.

"Are the choices you make based on wise decisions, habit, or mere guessing? With such a variety of products available, it is most important that you become informed about the items.

One method for becoming a better informed consumer is to read food labels and to develop a better understanding of what they include.

Federal law requires that certain basic information be included on food shipped over State lines. The name of the product, the name and address of the manufacturer, packer or distributor, with the net weight or contents.

When ingredients are listed, the listing must be in order of importance. If potatoes are listed first on the label of a can of beef stew, it means there are more potatoes than any other ingredient.

In addition to mandatory label information, many labels carry information helpful to you. These may be the size of the can, the number of cups, number of portions or pieces, the size of the vegetable or fruit, directions for use, and recipes.

The information on the label can be used as a definite guide because the law states that all information given must be truthful.

When there are no ingredients listed on the label, it means that there is a standard recipe decided upon by the Food and Drug Administration. If the product conforms to this standard, the manufacturer is not required to list ingredients. Mayonnaise and catsup are examples.

Use the information on the label to determine the "cost per serving" of the item, the different kinds of foods included in combination dishes, and the style that is most suitable for the recipe you are preparing. Using such a method will help you to choose the most economical item that will suit your needs and your family preferences.

Weight in pregnancy should be kept normal

NEW YORK (UPI)—If women are under normal weight during pregnancy, they are more likely to have premature infants, to need cesarean or mid-forceps delivery, and more prone to certain other risks, according to a report in "Modern Medicine."

Dr. Drs. Maxwell Schram and Mansour Raddi, of Corney Island Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y., found one thing in favor of the lightweight expectant mother: they are far less likely to develop toxemia of pregnancy.

Publicity chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

Farms BPW Club has meeting, sale; to hold card party

Michael Laclapa, president of the New Jersey Foundation for the Blind, was a guest speaker at the Connecticut Farms Business and Professional Women's Club, Union, Tuesday evening at the Town and Campus Restaurant.

Laclapa, who also is blind, helped found the Foundation in 1942. He spoke of aids and contributions to the welfare of blind people made by the Foundation, which is operated only through voluntary contributions.

Accompanying him was Mrs. Edith W. Swanson, director of Diamond Spring Lodge in Denerville, a summer camp for blind women and blind married couples, sponsored by the Foundation. During this past season, more than 100 blind people enjoyed the facilities of the camp, which can accommodate only 20 or 22 persons at a time. Each guest has a two week vacation.

Mrs. Swanson showed slides of the activities at the camp. The Connecticut Farms Business and Professional Women's Club, through the suggestion of Mrs. Frances Amodeo, donated money this past season to help a blind woman have a two week vacation at the camp.

Following the dinner and program, the club held its annual sale of articles from the Woman's Exchange in Newark. Mrs. Lillian Lodge, immediate past president, was in charge.

Profit from the sale of Christmas candles and fruit cakes will be used by Mrs. Kay Kopecky, chairman, to continue the Bible-of-the-Month project of sending Bibles to foreign countries.

Tools of industry to help teach children in pilot program

The tools and materials of industry will be used to teach New Jersey elementary school students concepts in the arts and sciences under a pilot program being sponsored by the New Jersey State Department of Education.

The program, which is being financed by a Ford Foundation grant of $160,000, is the first of its kind in the nation. Announcement of the program was made Tuesday jointly by the Ford Foundation and the State Department of Education. Industrial problems and projects will be used to show students how academic subjects are used in the adult world. It will also introduce children, from kindergarten up, to technical concepts such as design, instrumentation, the uses of tools and properties of materials.

"The program will show children the relationship between academic subjects and industrial problems and processes," said Dr. Joseph E. Clayton, acting commissioner of education. "Thus in building a sun dial the students necessarily learn to use certain mathematical concepts," he noted.

ALSO PRACTICAL EXPERIMENTS with electricity, refrigeration, paper-making and printing will be used to teach a variety of concepts. And students will build products ranging from jump ropes to a full-size, sail powered "land yacht."

Dr. Robert M. Worthington, assistant state commissioner of education for vocational education, said the program represented the first attempt by a state department of education to initiate systematic introduction of vocational concepts from the elementary school onward, as an integral part of general education.

"The techniques are 'vocational' only in the sense that learning to read and write are vocational in preparing for a literary career," says Dr. Elizabeth Hunt, director of the program. "The emphasis is on the way a product or experiment can illuminate and help children approach words, numbers and concepts. To the extent they also learn how these are used in the world today, it is a natural preparation for life in a technical society."

Technical activities will be integrated with lesson content in the program. Classroom teachers will follow the curricula established for their schools — although part of evaluating the program will be to determine whether the new activities reveal ways curriculum can be improved.

On the assumption that children of all ability levels can profit from technical activities, the program will be offered to a diverse student population.

NINE NEW JERSEY schools will participate. These include Coopers Poynt, Camden; Helen L. Beeler School, Marlton; Parkway School, Moorestown; Pinefield School, Burlington; Huguenot Township School, Bridgeton; Edgewater Park Elementary School, Beverly; Central Elementary School, Haddonfield; Cleveland St. School, Orange; and Lawrence Township High School, Trenton.

Fourteen teachers in these schools, plus eight more in participating schools throughout the state, represent the alumni of a 1966 Summer Institute of Technology for Children, held by the state education department in cooperation with Trenton and Glassboro State Colleges. The institute conducted demonstration classes for children from throughout the state. Teachers observed the demonstrations and received training in the use of a variety of projects.

"Many of them," says Miss Hunt, "had never held a saw in their hands before — one reason these teaching techniques have been so little used in the classroom."

Tools, equipment, materials and administrative staff for the program are being provided by the State Department of Education. Foundation funds will support additional staff to coordinate and supervise the program and specialists in subject matter

Cautions against shoe hand-downs

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Stretching the dollars by handing down shoes from one child to the other? Don't, cautions Gerda Petersen, University of Nebraska Extension clothing specialist. You'll cramp one child's feet.

Miss Petersen said that when a child has worn a shoe for some time, it becomes molded to the shape of his foot. This shape, however, rarely is the shape of the next child's foot.

Montclair State team starts practice on basketball court

Montclair State College has opened pre-season drills for its 39th intercollegiate basketball season at its Panzer gym, with a turnout of 60 candidates on hand to greet the head coach, Dave Watkins.

Eight veterans from last year's 12-14 team were on hand, plus a host of promising freshmen and a key transfer student.

Leading the returning lettermen is the Indians' top scorer for the last two seasons, Bobby Gleason of Jersey City. The junior sharpshooter, who last year set a national collegiate consecutive foul shooting mark of 53 straight, was top scorer last year with 591 points for an average of 22.7 points per game.

A New Jersey State College Conference and New Jersey Basketball Writers' Association first team pick for two straight years, Gleason stands seventh in all-time scoring at Montclair State with a two-season total of 1,207 points.

The all-time MSC career scoring mark is held by Pete Capitano with 1,777 points in 75 games.

Other key returning veterans are captain Jack Appar of Springfield, Luther Brown of East Orange, Bob Coughlin of Lyndhurst, Don Coveleski of Hillside, Tom Lameuta of Bayonne, Keith Neigel of Springfield and Mike Oakes of Clark.

La Metta, a junior, was second in scoring to Gleason with 356 points while Bowen, a sophomore, was third with 340 points.

Appar, a senior, scored 212 points, led the team in assists and field goal percentage and was second in fouls made percentage.

Bob Lester, former Newark Central High School student, a transfer from Fort Scott

The freshman crop, the best at Montclair State in many years, is led by Bob Stankiewicz of East Rutherford High School and Vince Silvestri of Memorial, West New York.

Stankiewicz, was one of Bergen County's top scholastic basketball players last year. He scored 836 points in 49 games for an average of 17.1 in three seasons. He is a cousin of Gleason.

Silvestri was a key player in Memorial's drive to the Group III New Jersey Interscholastic Association crown.

Other important frosh are Joe Baker of Weequahic (Newark), Jerald Cureton of Monmouth Regional, Dick McGuire of Hanover Park, Frank Rossi of Watchung Hills, Nick Christodora of East Rutherford, Mike Hogan of Burlington, Fred Keimel of Berkeley Heights, Tom Stewart of Passaic-Valley and Jim Thomas of Newark Tech.

The Indians open the 1966-67 season on Dec. 1 against Upsala College.

MAPPING STRATEGY--Montclair State College basketball coach Dave Watkins, left, talks over the coming 1966-67 season with Springfield residents Jack Appar, center, and Keith Neigel, right. Appar is captain of the Indians for the second straight season, while Neigel was the top rebounder for the Watkinsons last year.

When you love your work, it shows.

And we love our work. So much that we couldn't bear to stop with the slickest-looking split grille ever to grace a Wide-Track. (Or any other car, for that matter.)

We went ahead and made the windshield wipers disappear. The car not only looks cleaner, but the wipers are less subject to icing and freezing, too.

Then we got rid of the vent windows on all Grand Prix hardtops. We replaced them with nifty mono-grams and a flow-through ventilation system.

We even designed a rather unique hood-mounted tachometer option that's available on all Pontiacs. As are our other new options like stereo tape and stereo radio.

And, of course, our handsome interiors have to be seen to be believed.

All Pontiacs have standard safety features that include a dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, outside rear-view mirror, and GM's energy-absorbing steering column.

Isn't it time you decided to see your Pontiac dealer? If you love our work the way we do, it's the least you can do.

Bulldog football varsity beaten by Roselle team

By MYRON MEISEL

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School gridiron squad, now 0-4, will not play this Saturday. The final chance the Bulldogs have to prevent a winless season will come a week from today, when Dayton visits Rahway High School in the annual Thanksgiving Day rivalry, at 11 a.m. The Bulldogs dropped another one at home last weekend to the now 6-2 Rams of Abraham Clark High School of Roselle, 35-0.

There is not much that can be said. A close look at Rahway and an assessment of the prospects for the Thanksgiving contest will appear in next week's early Thanksgiving issue. It was not Springfield's day by any means last Saturday, particularly offensively. Dayton led off with two plays, and then came an interception. Roselle, with the ball for the first time on the Dayton 42, sent its left half back for three yards. But Dayton's bad luck held. Bob Gaztan, who made the tackle and has been one of the year's defensive stars, was knocked out of the game. The play after that (following a penalty) was taken by the Ram offensive star, Don McLeod (a relative of the same family that combined to beat Dayton in the opening Watchung Hills) Moved to fullback from his normal left half-back position, he dashes 34 yards for the first Ram touchdown.

Dayton regained possession, only to fumble on third down. Roselle fumbled then, too, but the visitors recovered. Dayton went for a first down after a 13-yard crash by Nathan Edelstein behind some good blocking, but that was the end of the drive.

Roselle had the ball again on its own 14. A penalty slowed up the Rams' determination to advance. Left half Mike Griffin went for 17 to the Ram 32. McLeod followed that up with a set of runs that brought Roselle to the Dayton 40. After one more first down, McLeod ran 25 yards for the second try.

DAYTON RECEIVED the kickoff, but once again fumbled on third down. Roselle was on the Dayton 40 and pushed to the 15, but careless violations knocked the Rams back on two consecutive penalties. On their own 49, with first and 46 to do, the Rams tried a long bomb, which landed right in the hands of Edelstein, who again sped past Roselle defenders behind good blocking to the Roselle 47. But, on regaining possession, McLeod immediately dashed 86 yards for the third Roselle touchdown. That ended the half at 20-0.

For much of the third quarter both teams were held at 33 yardage, until after six plays, Roselle took the ball into the end zone from the Dayton 17.

Then the game began to develop a rather unusual twist. The Rams drove for 84 yards in 11 plays, and with a fourth down, five to go, they were on the nine-yard line. Springfield appeared in danger of another Roselle score. But the Rams were halted by some fine goal-line work and Springfield regained possession on the one. Then the unthinkable happened, and a rushing Ram caught a Bulldog behind the goal-line. The Roselle score, a safety, gave the Rams a 28-0 lead. Roselle came back once more, but this time met determined Bulldog opposition. They jumped in one play from the Springfield 40 to 12, only to be stopped when Edelstein stopped McLeod on that yard-line.

BACKFIELD VETERAN -- Bob Gartlan, senior who has alternated between halfback and quarterback this season for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team, has provided consistent leadership for the youthful Bulldogs.

Miss Ogonowsky bowls top games in league for girls

The Tuesday Afternoon Girls' Bowling League, sponsored by the Springfield Recreation Department, opened for its fourth consecutive season last week at the Springfield Bowl. This league for sixth, seventh, and eighth grade girls is composed of six teams. The girls compete in match play each Tuesday afternoon at the Springfield Bowl. Last week the Alley Cats and the Charms got off fast in league play as both teams swept their two-game matches to tie for the early league lead.

The Alley Cats last week received a terrific effort from Diane Ogonowsky to enable her team to sweep a two-game series from the Wildcats. Diane rolled a 259 series, as she put together games of 113 and 146, to pace all bowlers for the afternoon. Bonnie Raskin with a 202 effort for two games and Karen Luber with a series total of 207 were also effective for the winning team. Dawn Zarroll with a 168 two-game total topped the Wildcats in scoring.

Dayton team closes with 12-1 record

Squad tallies 1st sweep within Regional District

By MYRON MEISEL

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team brought its season to a climactic finish last Wednesday when it scored a many-sided triumph in Watchung Park. In the Watchung Conference meet, the Bulldog harriers swept into second place, finishing behind only Westfield High School.

With its placing in that meet it also raised its final record to 12-1, as Dayton defeated both Hillside High School and Governor Livingston Regional High School of Berkeley Heights.

And to complete this impressive record, the Bulldog harriers became the first team in the Regional School District, in any sport, to defeat all the other teams in the district.

The gloominess of this particular fall season was certainly lifted by the speed of the cross-country squad. Under the direction of coach Marty Taglienti, the harriers' every scheduled meet except for one with Westfield, one of the state's traditional powerhouses.

The showing in the Watchung Conference is indicative. Ken Shatten, a junior who is one of the most promising runners in the conference, finished fourth for the Bulldogs with a 13:15 time. Team captain Ron Fry was shortly behind, finishing sixth with a 13:22. The most pleasant surprise was the strong placing of Bill Appgar, who finished 11th, only six seconds behind Fry. Alan Todres and freshman Marty Walsh tallied the rest of the Dayton score, ranking 22nd and 25th, respectively. Joe Buccì finished one place behind Walsh for a 26th.

TRANSLATED INTO individual meets with Hillside and Berkeley Heights, last week's results appear even more spectacular. Hillside, considered to be one of the top teams in the district, finished first in the Three North Jersey championships in cross-country. The Comets, however, could not handle the Bulldogs, who sped past their harriers for a 25-30 victory. Shatten had a first; Fry, second; Appgar, fourth; Todres, eighth; Walsh, 10th; and Buccì, 12th. Against Berkeley Heights Dayton had little difficulty. The score was 15-0, with Shatten, Fry and Appgar running first through third. Todres, Walsh, Buccì, and freshman Gene George, sixth through ninth.

Four of the key Dayton runners will be lost next season. Fry, Appgar and Buccì, through graduation, and Walsh, who will transfer to Clark Regional. While this is certainly a great loss, the Bulldogs still will have the nucleus of a fine team in Shatten, Todres, and George.

Taglienti also called attention to some excellent underclassmen with considerable promise. This Stokes and Kenny Fry (brother of this year's captain), both freshmen, and Dale Yadosky and Alan Garavito, sophomores. "All in all," stated Taglienti, "we have the basis for another fine squad. But it will require considerable work to maintain the superb reputation Dayton has gained in its two years in cross-country. But we do have the boys to do it."

Looking back on the short two-year history of the squad is heartening for those discouraged by Dayton's fall records. In its initial season, plagued by a shortage of runners, the team nevertheless compiled a 3-5 record, with three meets being lost by only three or four points. This year all of those narrow misses were avenged. Except for Westfield, the Bulldogs proved unbeatable in this area. In a Turkey Trot recently at Roselle Catholic High School's invitation, once again they proved their prowess.

Other men who ran with the team this season were senior Steve Hirschorn; juniors Richie Campbell, Cliff York and Tony Cromo; and sophomores Mark Tomney and Bert Kravetz.

Teams that the Dayton cross-country squad defeated during its regular season included Rahway, North Edison, Edison Technical, Governor Livingston, David Brearley, Summit, New Providence, Scotch Plains, Arthur L. Johnson, Roselle, Cranford and Hillside. In addition to the second-place finish in the Watchung Conference.

Regional soccer team divides last 2 games; beats Hillside, defeated by Kenilworth squad

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team closed its season last week with a 4-7-2 record, after defeating Hillside High School, 2-0, last Tuesday and losing to David Brearley Regional High School of Kenilworth last Wednesday, 2-1.

Concerning the Hillside game, head coach Jack Palfi stated that "it was a very good game. The team played well, and bounced back with some spirit. Jim Cannon scored the first goal unassisted, and Fred Tittle scored the second one on a pass from Derrol Brooks. They were assisted by Ty Chin, Gene Zorn and Stu Cohen, at center fullback, who all played a fine game. Of course, Howard Goldhammer was excellent as goalie."

Kenilworth, the only team that the Bulldog booters faced twice this season, bounced back after their first defeat near the opening of the season to edge Dayton, 2-1. Dayton played a strong first half, with center forward Bill Murphy scoring. But, when the second half rolled around, the Brearley Bears had so much momentum that they were almost unstoppable. Bob Kizelevich, who made the All-Union County third squad last season when he played for Dayton, scored once in the third quarter to make it even, and Craig Rice scored the winning goal in the final quarter.

This year's soccer team reversed the usual trend. The squad started strongly but lost momentum in mid-season and never quite emerged from the doldrums except for a few good moments.

DESPITE AN OPENING loss to Clark, 2-0 the Bulldogs played some excellent ball with an opening season team of Goldhammer, fullbacks Murphy and Zorn, halfbacks Dave Hollander, Gary Shinson and Bob Staehle, and forwards Brooks, Cannon, Tittle and George Franklin. Then came the first victory over the three-brearley matches. Tittle and Howard Spielman scored on an over-all fine team effort.

After a 2-0 loss to the top-rated Pingry team, Murphy shifted to center forward and Don Cubberley moved into the line-up to fill Murphy's old spot. The result was the beating of Governor Livingston at Berkeley Heights. In the game's most impressive displays of Dayton prowess, all soccer season, Brooks and Spielman combined efforts to score, and Zorn, Cubberley and Hollander effectively prevented any Berkeley score. Union High School was next, and the Bulldogs certainly gave this one their best. Murphy scored early for the Bulldogs, and that lead remained intact until a bare 15 seconds before the final gun, when a sudden collapse of the Dayton defenses permitted the tying goal. The momentum obvious at Union carried over in the subsequent defeat of Watchung Hills, 2-1. Dayton reversed the situation that occurred at Union. Behind by one goal, Murphy, in the final quarter, crashed through the Watchung defenses for the tying goal. Tittle won the game with a score with only minutes left.

The Bulldog record then stood at 3-2-1. A winning season appeared to be off to a start when the team slipped to 2-1-1 with Linden, and losses to Westfield, Edison Technical, Cranford and Scotch Plains (a well-played game that was close all the way) followed. The streak was broken only by the Hillside contest.

AS FOR next year, Palfi was uncertain. "We should probably have a better forward line with much more depth than this year. On the other hand, our strong backfield is largely leaving. Five of our six regular backfield men, including goalie Goldhammer, are leaving. "But varsity men Brooks, Cubberley, Spielman and Staehle, juniors, and sophomore Ty Chin will still be around, in addition sophomores Joel Schwartz, Dave Peterson, Ray Haines and Joe Frieri. All show considerable promise that could help us develop into a much stronger squad next season."

The official season opens with Westfield at home on Dec. 28 at 6:30 p.m. The McCabe men will also participate in the second annual Springfield Invitational Christmas Wrestling Tournament on Saturday, Dec. 17.

Draw the line on jaywalkers LONDON (UPI) -- The "Thin Red Line" has returned to Britain -- this time for the sidewalk, not the battlefield. A narrow red stripe which means "no crossing here" is being painted on many London sidewalks in an effort to curb jaywalking, virtually a national pastime. Pedestrians apparently find the mark on street crossings too few and far between. They have taken to crossing anywhere and everywhere, at the peril of the oncoming traffic and their own lives. Now, would-be jaywalkers will have to be careful as one step over the "thin red line" will mean an on-the-spot fine from watchmen in London. "bobbles."

U.S. schools called 'Model T Fords'
Encyclopedia official blasts education system

CHICAGO (UPI) — "If all the schools in America burned down today, we just might build a 20th century educational system for the 21st century," says Maurice B. Mitchell, president of Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., former broad-caster and educational film producer.

"Our schools today are Model T Fords on a superhighway." The first thing Mitchell would change would be the very buildings themselves. Classrooms would be changeable — they could be made small enough to hold two or three students and a teacher or large enough to hold hundreds. "We should design schools for students — not by some magic formula that's supposed to fit every area in town. Children, their backgrounds, needs, interests, and capabilities, differ. We give a teacher in a slum school 30 children, all of whose problems would keep a psychiatrist busy 20 years, and expect her to teach them."

"We put our kids in containers, and then try to warp either the container or the kid to fit."

The second thing he would do would be to make each school independent, give the superintendent the authority to design courses specifically tailored to his pupils, staff his plant accordingly.

Why teach the same courses in a school where 92 percent of the children will go on to college, and a school where 92 percent will go on to work, he asks. "We should educate students by where they come from and where they are going, and provide teachers who can speak the same language as their students," he said.

In disadvantaged areas, where children come from multi-problem homes, the teacher would be part of a team which would include not only a school counselor but the social worker. "Any family on relief has many problems, and they can't be separated," according to Mitchell. "Community resources should be needed with the schools, so that both work together."

Thirdly, Mitchell would design schools for the community — not just for the children. "They'd be open, all hours of the day, so that the parents can go to school any time. We have nurseries in laundries and supermarkets — why not in schools, so mother can leave something to do?"

The buildings built, Mitchell would literally surround them with modern instructional materials — visual, audio, tapes, films. And make them available. "No dreary library, presided over by some elderly lady who dares the student to take a book out and then lectures him until he brings it back, but a cheerful place where the curious student can follow his excitement."

Here is Johnny, in a Mitchell-esque classroom. He walks into a carrel (his own private cubicle), puts his key in a lock.

The computer goes into action: it records that Johnny's there (so the school can collect state funds), says, "Good morning, Johnny. Let's take a trip to Paris."

(The computer knows all about Johnny — his reading level, grades, what he's passed, and what lesson he finished yesterday). The movie screen flashes on color scenes of the Champs Elysees. Two men talking in French, a little play with a humorous plot. Then the picture starts over — slowly — this time the words flash on the television screen in his desk.

Next scene: Johnny takes out his pencil, writes the words and their translation. Johnny makes a mistake. The machine says, "Do it over." Johnny misses again. The machine goes back to the correct answer.

Now Johnny speaks the words himself into a tape machine. Lesson over, the machine types out a report for his counselor, tells Johnny to go to the library and check out something for his home work, and signs off. "Goodbye, Johnny."

Johnny sees his counselor as much as he needs to. "Some students will never need a teacher in a certain subject; another child will need her all the time. The teacher is free to teach the child, and not the subjects," says Mitchell.

All the machines have been invented, Mitchell says. "We simply need to train the teachers, so they will know how best to use them. Too many teachers approach modern audio-visual devices and programmed materials like their parents approached the horseless carriage — with fear."

"Money? It's available. The air is to educate the poor out of poverty and the rich to be productive members of society."

Health Department seeking personnel for over 100 jobs

There are more than 100 jobs available in public health in New Jersey at the municipal, county and state level, the State Department of Health reported this week.

Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, state commissioner of health, said there are openings for qualified persons as health officers, sanitarians, plumbing inspectors, health educators (full or part-time), nurse directors, nurse supervisors, engineers, field representatives, social workers and nutritionists.

Dr. Kandle said the availability of state aid for local health services has brought about the establishment of additional positions in public health in many areas in order to get essential work done.

He said that persons accepted for public employment receive good salary ranges, participation in the public employees retirement system, insurance coverage and other fringe benefits, liberal vacation, opportunity for advanced study and promotion and cumulative sick leave for future protection.

He urged interested persons to communicate with the State Department of Health in Trenton for additional information as to requirements and for locations of the jobs that are available.

Study being sponsored by banking association

Dr. Salomon J. Flink, chairman of the Department of Economics, Graduate School of Business Administration of Rutgers University, Newark, has been engaged by the New Jersey Bankers Association to conduct a comprehensive survey of banking developments during the past 10 years and their relationship to economic forces in New Jersey, the nation and abroad.

This was announced by Gustave E. Wiedenmayer, president of the Association and of the National Newark & Essex Bank, Newark. He said that the findings of the survey would be useful in the development of more efficient customer services by New Jersey banks. He also said that the present tight money situation, and inflationary developments, point up the importance of an authoritative study.

Plastic replacing braces for teeth

NEWARK, (UPI) — The blight of teen-age romance? A mouthful of metal dental braces. Once, for example, two teenagers nuzzling had their braces back and had to stifle in those close quarters until a dentist came to the rescue.

But such happenings soon will be a thing of the past if a group of engineering researchers at Newark College of Engineering complete a system that uses plastic patches for braces instead of shiny metal. The researchers expect another two years of testing before the new braces become operational. They consist of thin slices of plastic and a special adhesive that allows the plastic to be pasted to the front of young teeth.

King-size open house at NCE this Saturday

Newark College of Engineering has scheduled an Open House on Saturday, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. for day and evening undergraduates and their families, high school counselors and all high school juniors and seniors throughout the state.

According to Professor John Metzler, Open House chairman, "This will be the biggest event we've had since our campus extension in May and we're not sure how many to expect." Six tours of all buildings and departments have been planned to leave from Weston Hall at intervals during the day.

Storm brews over bid to quit naming hurricanes for girls

MIAMI (UPI) — Some of the nation's leading weathermen will huddle privately in Miami in December to talk about some of their storms and hurricanes. The Hurricane Evaluation Conference Dec. 5-7 will be the third annual one in which weathermen examine any weak points which might be during a hurricane season and try to improve the warning system to the public for the upcoming year. The season runs from June 1 to Nov. 30.

One of the many problems confronting the weathermen this year will be the move underway in the Florida Keys to get them to change the names of storms to something other than women in order to keep tourist dollars flowing in.

The nation's leading hurricane tracker, Gordon Dunn of the Miami Weather Bureau, says however, he'll oppose that move — mainly on grounds that storms named after women are "attention-getters" and help protect life and property in the Caribbean.

Attending the conference will be weathermen and meteorologists from Washington, New Orleans, Boston, San Juan, P. R., and Miami.

THE CAMPAIGN to strike down the use of women's names began several months ago. The Chambers of Commerce at Meration and Islamorada called in Dunn to hear complaints from a number of motel and hotel owners.

They claimed that panicky tourists—bearing first reports on radio and television that a tropical storm was brewing perhaps 1,000 miles from the U. S. mainland—would pack their bags and head for home. Others complained of cancellations from as far away as New York and Massachusetts.

The businessmen suggested to Dunn that women's names be used only for hurricane strength—storms—over 74 miles an hour—and that names of tropical storms be withheld from the media until that time.

They also suggested that tropical storms be simply called by letters of the alphabet until they reached hurricane intensity.

Dunn argues that feminine names given the storms from their beginning as mere disturbances until some of them become hurricanes have "real meaning" to residents of the tourist islands.

He said the public should "take a dim view" of keeping news media from knowing beforehand the list of girls' names chosen by weathermen and "I see no real purpose in it."

Dunn said island residents depend on the earliest broadcast of the weather for the protection of their lives and property and "the best way to get their attention is to name hurricanes after women."

HE SAID the Miami Weather Bureau not only serves as a warning service to the United States but "we have accepted responsibility for adequately warning Caribbean islands, the north coast of South America and Central America. The advice also serves maritime international aviation and military interests."

Conference of Mayors to make call for $17 million more in school aid

A call for an additional $17 million to equalize State school aid to municipalities will be made by the Conference of Mayors to the State School Aid Study Commission at a public hearing in Trenton, next Tuesday, it was learned this week.

The proposal, designed "to correct some of the more glaring inequities" stemming from legislation enacted this year as part of the "sales tax package", is embodied in a report prepared by a special committee of the State Mayors' Conference after a five months' study initiated at the Annual Mayors' Conference at Princeton University last June, a spokesman said. A second resolution on school aid equalization was adopted by the Mayors at their Annual Fall Meeting at Rutgers on Oct. 25.

The mayors urge, in the report, that any revision made by the State-in-equalizing school aid "should not deprive any municipality or school district of aid it is now receiving."

The Mayors' School Committee includes Mayors James W. Kelly, Jr. of East Orange, Walter Davis of Bloomfield, Francis Fitzpatrick of Bayonne, Henry Garton of Vineland and Thomas G. Dunn of Elizabeth. In their report, they point out that "all communities share in common the growing burden of maintaining a great system of education. We do not want to take from one to help another."

Mayor John W. McCaffrey, Allenhurst, president of the Mayors' Conference, announced details of the Mayors' School Report at Executive Headquarters of the Conference here this week. He said that the school aid study problem affects most of New Jersey's 567 municipalities. "The increased pressures on local tax rates in all municipalities must be relieved," he said.

The mayors, in their plea for the additional

$17 million in school aid, point out "minimum school aid districts, of which there are 262—more than half the total districts in the State—received a 50 percent increase in aid-per-pupil, while the total volume of school aid increased over 80 percent. "We advocate a further step up for the minimum school aid districts."

The Mayor's Study Committee agreed that "all densely populated communities should join the large cities of the State in receiving $27 per pupil additional assistance."

The report states "Older urban communities, with large numbers of low income families, face special additional problems, and the funds earmarked for these densely populated communities are in recognition of their importance to the State as a whole, that there be no depressed areas of impaired educational opportunity."

THE MAYORS' REPORT pointed to the recently released Carnegie Study which underlined the growing difficulties of the heavily burdened urban schools.

Assisting in the preparation of the Mayors' Conference School Study Report were William L. Brach, City Council of East Orange; Paul Moody, secretary to the East Orange Board of Education; Dr. Frank Stover, superintendent of schools of Bloomfield, and Herbert Zick, finance director of Bayonne.

George Zuckerman of Asbury Park, executive director of the State Mayors' Conference, said that members of the Mayors' School Study Committee were scheduled to appear at sessions of the State Aid to School District Study Commission which will hold public hearings at the Assembly Chamber in the State House on Nov. 22 and 29, beginning at 10 a.m.

The State Aid Study Commission, which includes members of the State Legislature, was created to provide recommendations to the Governor and the Legislature aimed at developing a formula for distribution of all future State aid to school districts.

Special benefits for elderly aiding 2,500 in 2 counties

First monthly checks were delivered this week to about 2,500 elderly Union and Somerset county residents. The special benefits, payable to persons 72 or older who are not eligible for regular social security cash benefits, were made possible by an amendment to the social security law enacted earlier this year.

Ralph W. Jones, social security district manager, said this week. The special monthly payments, amounting to $35 a month for a single person and $52.50 for a couple, are financed out of general federal revenues, not out of social security tax contributions, Jones noted.

These payments are intended to provide a small continuing income to people who may have missed out on social security coverage because they were too old when social security started, or worked in occupations not covered by social security until recent years.

Persons 72 or older who are not eligible for a public retirement benefit from the federal government or from a state or local government retirement system can collect the monthly payments, Jones said.

Those who are receiving public retirement benefits that are less than the $35 a month for a single person, or $52.50 for a couple, may be paid the difference between their present public retirement benefits and the amount of the special payments.

Those getting public assistance from a state welfare agency will be eligible for the new special benefits only for those months in which they do not receive a cash welfare payment.

Older people who signed up for the voluntary doctor-bill insurance to supplement their hospital insurance under medicare, and who have already paid their second quarterly premium of $9, may have received first checks amounting to $3 more than the $35 special benefit payable to an old person alone, or $6 more than the $52.50 payable to a couple.

This extra amount is a refund of their advance premium payment for December, made because their premiums will be deducted from all future months will be deducted from the checks they will receive in December and following months. People eligible for special benefits of $35 a month, for example, will get checks for $32 beginning with the payment they get in December.

Jones also had a special message for those who may now be approaching age 72. He said: "If you reach 72 before the beginning of 1967 you may collect these special payments without any social security credit, but you should come in and apply either in the three months before your birth day or the month of your birthday. The special payments are not retroactive and you will lose benefits for some months if you delay until after you become 72 to apply."

The Elizabeth Social Security office, in addition to its regular day-time hours, is also open each Thursday evening from 5 to 9 p.m. for the convenience of residents who cannot come in during the usual office hours.

Advisors to meet

Union Junior College's Council of Educational Advisors will meet Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the conference room of the Campus Center, George P. Lyles, admissions officer, will present a profile of the class of '68 and will review the admissions picture for the 1967-68 academic year.

Summit Y Jet Set meets on Saturday

The Summit YMCA's Jet Set, a club open to all single young professional men and women, will meet at the Summit YMCA on Saturday at 8 p.m. Two brief films will be viewed and discussed. Also featured during the evening will be informal activities such as ping-pong, shuffleboard and dancing to records. Refreshments will be served.

The Jet Set meets regularly on the first and third Saturday evenings of each month. Members come from Summit and many surrounding communities and have a wide variety of occupations. Teachers, graduate students, secretaries, engineers, participate in the informal programs that include trips, theater-going, attendance at concerts, discussions, sports, a spokesman said.

Further information about the Jet Set may be had by telephoning Mrs. John Goodell, young adult program director, at the YMCA, 273-4242.

Scouts schedule seasonal events

Christmas activities for Cub Scouts and vacation camping for Boy Scouts will be high on the list of Scouting events in December in the Union County, Boy Scouts of America, according to Wesley Siffer, the council Scout commissioner.

Cub Scouts in their packs and dens will carry out the theme, "Yuletide Everywhere," and Boy Scouts in their troops will learn skills for "Winter Camping."

"In this season of goodwill, we have a good opportunity to make the meaning of the Cub Scout Promise, the Boy Scout Oath, and the other ideals of Scouting effective in the life of each Scout," Siffer said. "While Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts are learning new skills, they have the opportunity to be more helpful to leaders, parents, fellow Scouts, and those who are less fortunate."
