Regional schools' expansion program 'within a month'

Board chief states study nearing end

Melick plans to retire at end of present term

BY ABNER GOLD

"Within a month" was the estimate Avery Ward, president of the Regional High School District Board of Education, gave Tuesday as to when the board will present its recommendations on capital expansion or other steps to deal with an increased student population. Ward reported, at the board meeting at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, that he expected to receive the board consultant's final report "very shortly," and that board members would then begin intensive study of the proposals.

Last spring the board proposed several steps to solve the problem created by overcrowding at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and A.L. Johnson Regional, Clark, while enrollment at Dayton and David Brearley Regional, Kenilworth, was below capacity.

A proposal to transfer freshmen residing in Mountainside from Gov. Livingston to Dayton was dropped after strong opposition from Mountainside parents. The board at that time promised to present a plan this fall for dealing with the situation.

WILLIAM J. MELICK, a board member from Springfield, stated after the meeting that he "does not intend to run" for another three years on the board when his term expires in February. A former president, he has served on the board for the past 15 years. "There are probably younger people who would like to take a crack at it," Melick commented.

In his report to the board, Dr. Warren Davis, regional superintendent of schools, noted enrollment in the various schools of 1,086 at Dayton, 1,514 at Johnson, 1,653 at Gov. Livingston and 745 at Brearley, for a total of 4,998.

Dr. Davis agreed with a suggestion by Mrs. Nazette Waldt, board member from Springfield, that widespread publicity be given to the new evening consultation hours for guidance personnel in the schools to discuss scholastic

Republicans offer 'full accounting' of township finances

"All residents of Springfield are concerned about taxes, and so are we," Mayor Arthur M. Falkin and Henry Bultman, Republican candidates for Township Committee, said this week. "And the taxpayers of Springfield are entitled to a full accounting of the spending of their tax dollars."

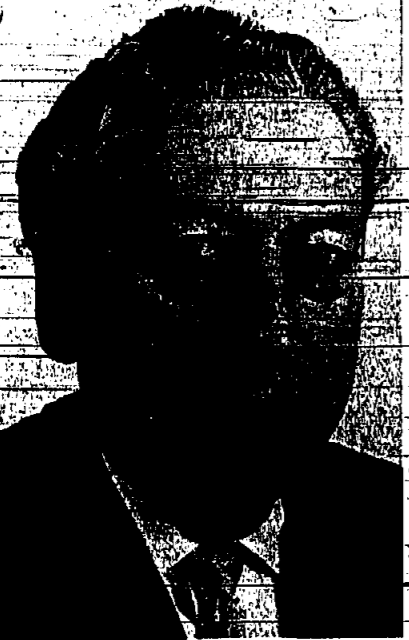

Falkin and Bultman went on to state that a "tax rate, while administered by a township governing body, is really the result of the financial requirements of many agencies."

"In Springfield's case, our tax rate supports the local schools, the Regional High School system, the Union County government, as well as our own municipal government. The fiscal demands of all these agencies are met by the Township Committee through local real estate taxes."

"The total accumulation of the appropriation required by the various agencies is pro-rated against the town's total property assessments to determine the rate of taxation. Since this number is expressed as dollars per hundred dollars of assessment, it is in effect a percentage."

"THIS PERCENTAGE can be best illustrated by taking as an example a typical $25,000 Springfield home. The true value of $25,000 is assessed at a 50 percent ratio throughout Union

United Fund chief names 4 key figures in campaign

Four key appointments were announced this week by Jack Stifelman, general chairman of the 1967-68 United Fund campaign, to achieve the goal of $37,500 to meet the 1968 operating needs of the 14 participating agencies serving all the families of Springfield.

Community leaders who have assumed responsibility in making this year's campaign a success, he said, are: Saul Freeman and Harvey Schramm, over-all co-chairmen; to Stifelman, general chairman; Sidney Piller, associate chairman with Max Weiss of the industrial-employee division; and Gerard Haggerty, associate chairman with Art Vall of the retail-commercial division.

Freeman, the proprietor of Hi-Way Tailors, 20 Center st., is a well-known civic leader who has been active in local organizational life for a number of years. He is director of civil defense, executive secretary of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce and active in the Lions, Elks and B'nai B'rith.

Schramm, a life-long resident of Springfield, is an industrial-sales engineer with the Jersey

Central Power & Light Company. He is president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, a member of Elks and the Presbyterian Church and an officer of the Civil Air Patrol.

Piller is in partnership with his brother Sam in the Elkar Products Company at 35 Brown ave. A member of the Chamber of Commerce, he is past president of B'nai B'rith of Springfield.

Haggerty is the local manager of the J.J. Newberry Co. Springfield store and is active in the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce.

Democrats oppose 'one-party rule' for Municipal Building

Before a group of Springfield citizens last week at the annual Democratic fall festival, former Mayor Vincent J. Bonadies and Alvin R. Leonard, Democratic candidates for Township Committee, declared that the election of the Republican candidates for Township Committee would create a one-party governing body and "completely destroy the two-party system that has prevailed in Springfield."

Bonadies stated, "One party government produces not only narrow thinking but eventual stagnation in operating a municipality. No longer will there be a check and balance or a minority voice speaking for the interests of the tax payers. All governing actions then become the subject of political expedience, and there is

Annual meeting on local election

Springfield residents will be able to meet and question all candidates for Township Committee at the candidates' night program to be held at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 30, at the Edward Walton School, according to Mrs. Harry Einstein, president of the Springfield League of Women Voters.

Democrats Vincent J. Bonadies and Alvin R. Leonard and Republicans Henry J. Bultman Jr. and Arthur M. Falkin will address the voters and participate in an open question-and-answer session.

Candidates' night is held annually as a public service by the League of Women Voters and is designed to give voters a chance to probe candidates' on issues of local interest before the election. Candidate information sheets which present biographical material and the candidates' views on questions submitted to them by the League are distributed throughout Springfield during the week before candidates' night.

Mrs. Einstein urged all voters to take this opportunity to bring the issues to the candidates. The meeting will be moderated by Mrs. John Erel of Montclair. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Forman, voter service chairman of the Springfield League of Women Voters.

Red Cross unit seeking donors for bloodmobile

Final plans for the Red Cross bloodmobile visit at St. James Church on Saturday, Oct. 28, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., were announced this week by Mrs. Daniel Kalem, blood program chairman for the Springfield Red Cross Chapter.

"Blood credits established at the visit in October, 1966," she declared, "must be replenished. We hope that the goal of 100 donors will be reached so that we can continue to meet the needs of the township."

"Credit established by donors entitles them to blood-replacements and also to valuable free derivatives, such as gamma globulin for measles and hepatitis prevention."

The chapter spokesman continued, "Donating blood is a simple and painless procedure, requiring about one hour. Temperature, pulse, blood pressure and hemoglobin are checked, a careful medical questionnaire is completed, and any possible medical problems are referred to the doctor at the scene. Transportation is available, if needed."

"DONORS MUST be aged 18 to 59 and in good health, with a weight of 110 pounds or more. Women who have been pregnant within the past 12 months cannot donate."

"Persons who have had malaria or hepatitis may give blood, provided they have had no attacks for two years. Their blood is made into valuable derivatives, but never used as whole blood. They receive full donor credit."

The blood bank committee strongly urged all members of groups participating in the blood bank to make donor appointments through their individual group chairmen.

"All orders in the community can make appointments to give blood by speaking to Mrs. Kalem at 174 Henshaw ave., 376-0582, or to Mrs. Edward Kaye at 95 Morris ave., 376-7429."

LOOKING TOWARD GOOD HEALTH — Comedian Morty Gundy points toward a bright future for little Maria Apicella of Springfield, scheduled for open heart surgery at Deborah Hospital, Browns Mills, as soon as four A-positive blood donors can be found to stand by during the operation. Prospective donors were asked to call Mrs. Theodore Strauss, president of the Suburban Deborah League, at 376-5858. Gundy is the star of a revue to be sponsored by the Deborah group Oct. 26 at Newark State College, Union.

A-positive blood donors needed to save little girl

A healthy life for a little Springfield girl is the goal of the revue, starring comedian Morty Gundy, to be presented by the Suburban Deborah League next Friday night, Oct. 27, at Newark State College. The League this week also issued an appeal for "walking blood donors" to be on hand when the youngster undergoes open heart surgery within the coming week.

Maria Apicella, 7, a first grader at the James Caldwell School, must have the heart surgery for a chance at a normal life, according to a League spokesman. The operation will take place at Deborah Hospital, Browns Mills, as soon as four donors with A-positive blood arrange to be present at the hospital.

All other preparations for the operations are completed, and Maria will have her chance at life as soon as the A-positive donors are available, according to Mrs. Theodore Strauss, Deborah League president. Mrs. Strauss appealed to all A-positive donors to call her immediately at 96 Keeler st., Springfield, 376-5858.

Maria is one of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. John Apicella of 2A Prospect pl., who came here from Venezuela last year. Her father is a custodian at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Her congenital heart disease was discovered by Mrs. Hilda Dunn of the Visiting Nurse Association during a routine examination at school. Mrs. Dunn then alerted Mrs. Jerry Carver, a worker for the Deborah League, to the child's need for major surgery.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR the needed operation were complicated by language difficulties, since the Apicellas are more fluent in Portuguese and Italian than they are in English. Mrs. Anthony Forellino, another Deborah worker, was immediately able to help with the explanations and with filling out the one-page Deborah Hospital explanation.

Another potential problem, the need for 10 pints of blood plasma, was easily solved with the assistance of Mrs. Daniel Kalem, blood program chairman for the Springfield Red Cross Chapter. The Red Cross, which conducts two bloodmobile donor sessions a year in Springfield, was able to make the blood credits available. The chapter will hold its next bloodmobile session Oct. 28 at St. James Church.

Since the Deborah Hospital charges nothing for the patients and their families, funds had to be found to pay for the operation. This problem will be solved with the all-star revue Oct. 26 at Newark State.

Gundy's comedy act will share the spotlight with Tina Robbins, Pat Henry, Marty Ames and his orchestra and other show business celebrities.

As soon as her ailment was discovered, Maria and her father went to the Deborah Hospital for a thorough examination. The doctors there are ready to operate. As soon as blood donors can be found, Maria will take her first steps on the road to health, aided by some 1,000 helping hands of Deborah League volunteers.

CALL FOR CLEAN-UP — Former Mayor Vincent J. Bonadies, left, and Alvin R. Leonard, Democratic candidates for Township Committee, point out unsightly debris at Springfield's main intersection, claiming that the present administration has failed to do anything about it. They requested prompt action is dictated.

Enrollment drops for town's schools as trend continues

Enrollment in the Springfield public schools has dropped to 2,025, the lowest figure in the past four years, John O. Borwick, superintendent, reported at the Board of Education meeting Tuesday night at the James Caldwell School. The figure represents a drop of two children since the school year opened in September.

Figures for previous October registration are as follows: 1966, 2,081; 1965, 2,105; 1964, 2,194; 1963, 2,178. By schools, registration is 756 at Florence Gaudinor, 379 at Caldwell, 218 at Raymond Chisholm, 309 at Edward Walton and 363 at Thelma Sandmoler.

Enrollment by grades is: kindergarten, 226; 1st, 208; 2nd, 185; 3rd, 224; 4th, 200; 5th, 226; 6th, 244; 7th, 274; 8th, 238, and education, 5.

Borwick also reported to the board that 1,260 students, some 62 percent of the total, signed up for the student insurance program for the current school year. He noted that 61 percent enrolled last year and 65 percent the year before.

Board members voted to accept the resignation of Theodore Sotz, a mathematics teacher at the Gaudinor School, effective Nov. 10. He will be employed in the business office of the Piscataway school system.

Borwick reported on the first application meeting for substitute teachers, held Oct. 2 at the Gaudinor School. No substitute

County, or $12,500. Using the 1967 tax rate of $6.59, this home owner would pay $825 in annual real-estate taxes to support all these government agencies. Of this $825 per year, approximately $200 is used to support all the functions of local government such as police, fire, roads, garbage, recreation and library.

Falkin and Bultman stated, "We are well aware of the responsibility of a stable administration of the town's treasury." They pointed out, "In the period from Jan. 1, 1959, to Jan. 1, 1962, during the former Democratic administration, the Township's surplus was reduced from $575,000 to $299,000, a decrease of almost 50 percent. In the five years of Republican administration since 1962, this surplus figure was returned to an amount of $450,000.

"The amount of surplus is important to the taxpayer because it is one of the factors that affect a municipality's bond rating. During this last five-year period, because of good fiscal management, our bond rating was upgraded from BAA to A. This change in rating saved the municipality at least one point in its interest rate on all municipal and school bonds -- an estimated $16,000 per year. The reinvestment of surplus funds earned the town almost $55,000 per year for a total savings of a reduction of 12 tax points, or approximately $13 per year in taxes.

"THE SURPLUS OF $450,000 therefore earns for the town the same amount of tax dollars lost in rates to the State Highway Department in the construction of Rt. 78 through Springfield. In other words, the $2,300,000 rateable loss to the highway, assessed at 50 percent of true value (or $1,150,000), applied to the 1967 tax rate of $6.59 equals $7,700, which is almost identical to the earnings of our municipal surplus."

Falkin and Bultman urged "all citizens to note the importance of maintaining this surplus account, since it works to lighten their tax burden."

The Republican candidates pledged, "We will continue this type of responsible management on behalf of all taxpayers. In order to wisely spend the tax dollars, we created a budget review committee in 1966. We are hoping that this committee will assist the Township Committee in reviewing the annual proposed budget with the over-burdened property taxpayer's in mind."

Falkin and Bultman urged the voters "to prevent the return of the poor financial management shown by the former Democratic administration, whose leader is now asking the electorate to return him to office."

Illustration of this Democratic candidate was so poor that the 1961 appropriations were over-expanded by almost $15,000 because of loose budgetary control.

"We are proud of the present administration's financial management," stated Falkin and Bultman, "and we ask the voters to support us on Election Day, and return a Republican administration that will insure wise handling of their tax dollars."

Fire in office

Springfield firemen responded to an alarm last Thursday morning from the offices of Stufelman and Goldfinger, certified public accountants, at 23 Morris ave. They extinguished a small fire caused by a short circuit in a light fixture in the ceiling. No damage was reported.

Girls will acclaim Dayton's top athlete as 'Mr. Regional'

"Mr. Regional," the outstanding athlete at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, will be selected and crowned at the annual senior class sports dance that will be held in the girls' gym tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Thomas Baker and Marilyn Morgan, senior class advisors, said that the senior class girls will vote for their favorite athlete from a list of candidates selected by the Dayton coaching staff.

Jonathan Brenn and John Vasselli, president and vice-president of the senior class, are in charge of the committees that will decorate and handle the organization of the dance. The profit from the dance will be used to defray the cost of the class activities. The Unknowns will play for the dance.

The cheer-leaders and pep club will be on hand to liven the proceedings. Herbert H. Palmer, Dennis Fox, Mr. and Mrs. John Hooper, Edward Jasinski and Marilyn Morgan will be on duty as chaperones, as well as other members of the coaching staff. Skirt, tie, jackets and slacks must be worn by boys attending, and conventional school dress is required for girls.

a rubber-stamp government controlled by political bosses."

Bonadies continued, "In 1959, the present administration came into being on the cry of 'elect at least one of us.' They are now attempting to defeat the very thing they preached. We must now ask why do they demand of the people that one-party rule be imposed and controlled by the politicians in the Republican Party."

Leonard, an attorney, asked "Whom are they afraid of? Is it that they are afraid of a former mayor, like Vince Bonadies looking over their shoulders? If it is not Bonadies, then is it that they are afraid to have an attorney on the town's governing body?"

LEONARD CONTINUED, "Perhaps the Republicans, and for that matter the entire town, have good cause to be afraid when one of the present Republican candidates declared publicly that he 'grew up with and learned from Senator Russell Long (Louisiana) son of Huey Long."

The candidate further commented, "One-party dominated government has fostered laziness, inefficiency and poor planning and has created the present unabated tax spiral. It has also created a deterioration of local services, exemplified by such unsightly and hazardous conditions as that which exists on the corner of Mountain ave., Main st. and Morris ave."

Further evidence of one-party domination has been a continued zoning downgrade. As a further result, the present administration has found it necessary to create a code of ethics, a code which incidentally still does not meet the needs reflected by Superior Court Judge John B. Engler's opinion concerning the conflict of interest of some members of the present administration.

Bonadies and Leonard concluded by asking, "Why do the Republican candidates demand of the people that they support a one-party government and elect them on Nov. 7? We say to the people, 'Elect us on Nov. 7 for a true two-party system in Springfield.'"

Mayor proclaims observance to aid mentally retarded

Mayor Arthur M. Falkin has issued a proclamation designating the period from Nov. 12 to 30 as National Retarded Children's Week in Springfield.

In his proclamation, Mayor Falkin said that "it is vital that we exist for extensive research to uncover causes and preventive measures in mental retardation."

"The National Association for Retarded Children has, since its inception, sought the establishment in all communities of well-rounded programs for the mentally retarded including religious training, recreation, education and guidance toward useful adulthood."

"The Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, Inc., as a member of the National Association for Retarded Children, has been at work in our community since 1949 to reach these goals."

Pointing out that "at this time, the Union County Unit... is seeking public support and understanding for its program in behalf of the mentally retarded who live in our midst and who need our help," Mayor Falkin said: "I urge every member of this community to give support and understanding to this program which will strengthen and enrich the lives of the mentally retarded."

problems with parents, as well as plans for application to college.

He said that there was no particular reason for the fact that the school library at Dayton, with two-thirds as many students as Johnson, was used proportionately much less.

Total library attendance last month was 1,613 at Dayton and 3,788 at Johnson. Average daily attendance was 108 at Dayton and 250 at Johnson. Total circulation of books was 847 at Dayton and 1,548 at Johnson; average daily circulation, 53 at Dayton and 104 at Johnson.

A SUBSTANTIAL PORTION of the meeting was devoted to problems related to the new state law requiring districts to provide free bus service to students at private and parochial schools.

Ward reported that the Regional District was transporting some 825 youngsters under terms of the new law, at a total cost of approximately $177,000. He noted that about $100,000 of this sum is to be charged to the regional board, with the rest paid by local school boards.

Although two-thirds of the amount will be repaid by the state, Ward said, the board will have to borrow money, and pay interest, in order to pay for the buses for a year or more until the state aid arrives.

The board was told that 20 bus firms were asked to bid recently on transporting three handicapped youngsters, but not one submitted a bid. Transportation for the three children was finally obtained, at a cost of $22 per day.

Board members agreed that, in addition to costs under the new law, bus prices for students in the Regional District would probably at least double next year because of the tremendous increase in the demand for school bus service.

Warning of 'crisis' issued by Beneker in race for Senate

Fred H. Beneker of 81 Morris ave., Springfield, this week called for the election of Republicans Frank X. McDermott of Westfield, Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union and Nicholas S. LaCorte of Elizabeth to the state senate.

Beneker, who is chairman of the Springfield committee to elect McDermott, Rinaldo and LaCorte, said Union County would face a "crisis of representation" unless the GOP senatorial candidates are elected.

"Residents here in Springfield have felt the effects of a lack of real legislative representation for Union County," he continued. "They have witnessed its effects in the Democratic-controlled legislature's willingness to rubber-stamp many of the irresponsible programs advanced by the administrative machine in Trenton. They know now that many of the programs rubber-stamped by the Democratic legislature are not in their best interests. For this reason, they realize the need for real representation—the type that would be provided by Assemblyman McDermott, Rinaldo and LaCorte."

Beneker said "only the election of responsible leaders like McDermott, Rinaldo and LaCorte would provide an effective check on the irresponsible reins wielded by the Democratic machine in Trenton. The Republican state senatorial candidates will provide the responsible leadership and constructive programs that the people of Springfield want and need."

High school student speaks to Rotary Club on 'Interact'

A talk featuring "Interact," a project of Rotary International, was given Tuesday to members of the Springfield Rotary Club at the Mountside Inn, Route 22, Mountside, by Steven Gilbert, a senior student at Scotch Plains-Fanwood Senior High School.

Rotarians throughout the world observed Interact Week, during which attention was focused on plans to organize groups of high school students into units, spreading the work of the service organization.

Plans are being made for the local club's past presidents' night on Saturday evening, Oct. 28, at the Chanticleer, Millburn. The honored past president will be Max Weiss. Arrangements are being handled by Mel Horn, club secretary. Due to the event, the regularly scheduled Oct. 31, meeting will be cancelled. Featured on next month's program will be an official visit Tuesday, Nov. 7, by District Governor Leonard Lenzen of the Spring Lake-Brielle Club, a former Elizabeth resident. During the week of Nov. 12 to 18, known as Rotary Foundation Week, a session is being planned for the Nov. 14 meeting on this world-wide movement, which sends about 125 young men and women around the world on scholarships to foreign lands.

Harold Chasen, president of the local Rotary Club, and John May, director, attended a recent area district meeting in the Hotel Commodore, New York City. Principal guest was Luther H. Hodges, Rotary International president and former Secretary of Commerce.

Activities were centered on vocational service, and May presented to the Springfield Club recently a thumbnail sketch of the high points presented in the workshop sessions.

Editorial Comment

Campaign has centered on legitimate questions

The Township Committee campaign, to this point and from this viewpoint, has generally been a constructive one, with most of the emphasis on legitimate local issues.

Primary credit for this must go to the Democratic challengers, who have worked to spotlight specific problems and who have striven to avoid personal criticism.

The Republicans, as might be expected from the party in power, and believing itself in the lead, have pitched their campaign on a key as remote as possible from such mundane issues as those proposed by their opposition.

All this is fine, giving rise to the hope that the Nov. 7 results will lead to a continuation of the usually high level of community administration Springfield has enjoyed for some years, under both Democratic and Republican leadership. That level is particularly high when compared to the official buffoonery and constant character assassination found in some nearby municipalities.

Having said this, we might add that there are legitimate issues which both parties appear to have overlooked so far.

The Republicans, with the campaign drawing to a close, could well point with pride to the harmonious and profitable operation of the municipal swimming pool, to the generally effective anti-burning ordinance, to a code of ethics for municipal officials and employees well in advance of most communities, and to plans to air-condition Town Hall for a more efficient administration.

The Democrats could equally well point with concern to the delay over appointment of an assistant recreation director, to the delay in introducing the comprehensive zoning ordinance so that any significant discussion will come only after the election, and to the decline in activity of the industrial committee aimed at bringing new tax rates.

In summary, we believe that the campaign to date has presented substantial reasons for the election of both sides. May the better men win.

TAKES EXCEPTION
May I take exception to the statements of one of the Democratic candidates for Township Committee contained in your issue of Oct. 12, 1967, which state in part:

"The Municipal Pool was conceived under his administration," and "The first proposed building the pool during his administration."

For the sake of historical accuracy, I would like to point out that the idea of a Municipal Swim Pool was first conceived by Paul H. Beck of 146 Henshaw ave., when he ran unsuccessfully with Jim Cawley as Republican candidate for the Township Committee in 1959.

In 1960, the Rotary Club revived the idea of a pool, and approached the township to develop such a facility. The Democratic administration did appoint a citizens' study committee, which investigated the feasibility of a municipal pool.

The swim pool committee reported favorably and recommended to the Democratic Township Committee early in 1961 that such a pool be built at the Evergreen Lodge site.

Because of the controversial nature of this proposed site, no action was taken on the swim pool report by the Democratic administration up to and including Election Day, in November of 1961, when three Republicans, Falkin, Hardgrove and Del Vecchio, were elected to the Township Committee.

Even during the transition period of the change in administration between November, 1961, and January, 1962, the Democratic mayor consistently refused to furnish the newly-elected Republicans with a copy of the swim pool report. (They were, however, successful in obtaining a copy through unofficial channels.)

When I assumed the office of mayor in 1962, the Republican majority of the Township Committee worked with the citizens' swim pool committee and presented the plan to over 600 residents of the town at a public meeting at Gaudinier School in June of 1962. The Township Committee then gave its public support to the project.

Through the Herculean efforts of the citizens' swim pool committee and the Republican members of the Township Committee, under Mayor Art Falkin's leadership, the pool was completed on a site which was ridiculed by many, in time for the summer season of 1963.

I applaud the efforts of so many people who helped make our municipal pool a reality. However, I think it crass hypocrisy for the Democratic candidate to attempt to delude the uninitiated and to take single-handed credit for something with which he had so little to do. So little, in fact, that he has never been a member of the pool since it opened.

Resigning the contest of his running mate, for after all, he only moved into Springfield a year after the pool opened.

But the former Democratic Mayor should know better.

PRaise FOR OVERLOOK
I'm a heart attack convalescent and wish to call attention to the splendid facilities in operation at Overlook Hospital, Summit. Not only did I receive expert treatment during my emergency, but so great a spirit of cooperation and friendly camaraderie fills this place, dedicated to picking up broken lives and restoring health and vigor to ailing bodies, that I shall carry pleasant associations in memory for the balance of my life.

I spent the first week in the new coronary unit on the ninth floor, a part of the intensive work among the workers, how great a sense of security we should feel from observing, as I did in a patient's role, the enormous potential in these united services and their outward expression of harmony and healing.

I am reminded of the familiar remark during the Christmas holidays, "If only we could make every day all year long as joyous an occasion as Christmas!" We can, if we would but realize that the secret lies within ourselves and make a greater effort to go that second mile in giving.

Of ourselves, first of all. Must we take wage and violence and catastrophe to shock us out of the temporal into the spiritual atmosphere of genuine fellowship?

To all at Overlook, I say, "May you be continually and gratefully dependent in your work by the gratitude of the many who are constantly being restored to active life through your conspicuous ministrations. My interest and appreciation are flowing steadily in your direction."

MRS. MAY M. MORTON
58 Evergreen ave.

PROFILE--Alvin R. Leonard

When Alvin R. Leonard was a student at Brooklyn College, he spent his vacations as a summer camp archery counselor. This fall, the young lawyer is taking aim at a seat on the Township Committee, running on the Democratic ticket with Vincent J. Bonadies.

"I have always been interested in politics," he recalls, "from the time that I was president of my fraternity and of the Interfraternity Council at college." A political science major Leonard went on to Rutgers Law School and has practiced in New Jersey since 1962, with offices in Newark.

He adds, "I had always wanted to become active in local politics, so that I could offer whatever services I might make available to the community."

"We moved to Springfield in 1963, but I did not feel that I should enter actively into local politics until this summer, when we bought our home in Pleasant and I was sure that I would be a permanent part of the township."

"I have always been a Democrat, and once I decided to run there was no question as to the choice of parties."

Leonard stresses, "There is a very clear need for two-party government in the community. The interests of the many Democratic voters are similar in many ways with those of Republicans and Independents, but never identical. The Democratic point of view should definitely have representation in the community government."

ALVIN R. LEONARD

He goes on to say, "I was not here when Springfield had a Democratic administration around 1960, headed by Mr. Bonadies, but from everything I can learn, it was a good one."

"REGARDING THE PRESENT ADMINISTRATION," the Democratic candidate states, "it becomes apparent that all the resources available to them are not being used to the fullest extent."

"I feel that we have an excellent community, and the administration has made some efforts to benefit the entire population. However, these are very few."

For example, we presently have 10 parks in town, most of which are not kept up in the proper manner and are not used to their maximum potential. I feel that the parks are municipal property and should be maintained with the same care as the grounds surrounding Town Hall.

"In addition, they should contain shaded areas, drinking fountains and permanent benches for the benefit of our adolescent community, and particularly for the senior citizens."

Looking at other aspects of local government Leonard comments, "I also feel that the many governmental committees should be more closely supervised, so that they operate with maximum efficiency."

"I cannot promise that if I am elected, I will be able to bring about lower taxes in the community. However, I would do everything in my power to try to check the spiraling taxes and tax rate."

"I would do everything within my power to encourage light industry to come to our community. I would revive the industrial committee which was so active under the former Democratic administration."

LEONARD EMPHASIZES, "Any industry now here or coming into town must be required to conform with the standards of a suburban community. I would work to inaugurate a fair master plan, with reasonable zoning which would be geared to benefit the community as a whole."

"One of the most important facets of municipal government is a constant awareness of the need for long-range planning. New highways are making Springfield even more apart of the metropolis. Constant planning will be needed to keep the suburban character of our community."

Besides the time needed by a young lawyer to build his career, Leonard and his wife, Lynn, are busy raising their two little boys, Todd, 4, and Mark, 2.

Leonard is a member of Temple Shalom and Beth El Brotherhood, Springfield Lodge of B'nai B'rith, the Essex County and Union County bar associations, Attorneys' Society of Union County, Kings Bench Law Fraternity, Sigma Tau Sigma and Mu Sigma fraternities and the American Red Cross.

In whatever time is left, Leonard manages to bowl and to play chess.

U.S. Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER Reports

The distinguished chairman of the House and Means Committee -- the group whose great influence stems from its exclusive power to originate revenue (tax) legislation -- raised an immensely important issue recently when he criticized his own Administration for "Missing the point" about Congressional insistence on cutting Federal spending this year.

It's not simply that Congress believes it is urgent to reduce the budget in the face of an inflation-producing deficit which could reach $30 billion -- welcome as such cuts would be -- Chairman Mills pointed out -- but it's the more important objective of controlling and shaping the growth of the Federal government and the substance of Federal programs.

What we should be doing, he insisted, is looking beyond the next fiscal year or two and trying to make sure "that the kinds of things the Federal government does -- the nature of its claims on the economy (the Nation's productive capacity) -- conform with the national preference." Or, as he put it in the final sentence of his statement, "Let's get on now on the big job of making sure our government does what we want to, the way we want it to, when we want it to, and as much as we want it to."

BY CHANGING THE SYSTEM
In other words, unless the system itself is changed, unless Federal activities and programs are subjected to a systematic and rational process of review and evaluation on a continuing basis -- then the growth of Federal spending and Federal influence will become inevitable and unmanageable, contrary to all the canons of democratic theory. It's not a question of black-and-white or good versus evil. It's just that tax-financed programs, directed by officials who believe in those programs and supported by those who benefit from them, have a natural tendency to reproduce and multiply; and that the resulting structure of government is massive, ponderous; impersonal and relatively unresponsive -- reduces the self-governing capacity of the people, the power of the people to decide their own future.

None of this is new, of course. But the significance of Chairman Mills' observations rests in the fact that he is one of the most respected and powerful leaders in Congress, a friend (though independent) of the Administration, a key figure in a critical position to influence crucial decisions. That a man of his stature should call attention so compellingly to facts which many would rather ignore, and at a time and place and under circumstances which cannot be avoided, provides hope that something may yet come of it.

There's been no shortage of solutions -- only a lack of will. And while the chairman seemed to direct his criticism chiefly at the Administration, he might well have spared a share for his colleagues on Capitol Hill. For it is here, stacked away gathering dust on committee shelves, that some of the most hopeful and constructive devices for improving governmental performance and strengthening the people's control over the Federal establishment can be found.

ADOPTING SPECIFIC REFORMS
As a sponsor of many such measures, I've had occasion to describe them in previous newsletters, so I'll only mention a few in passing. You'll remember, for example, such proposals as: (1) the mandatory, periodic review of Federal grant-in-aid programs so as to eliminate the outmoded and unnecessary, improve the useful, and revise others according to changing needs; (2) the establishment of a new Hoover Commission to conduct a comprehensive and independent study of the entire Federal structure and recommend ways of simplifying, coordinating and re-arranging in a more efficient way the functions and activities of the Executive Branch; (3) the creation of a similar commission to determine how the Federal Government can utilize modern systems analysis and advanced management techniques to resolve problems in such major areas as housing, pollution control, education, etc., more effectively; and (4) the insistence that up-to-date cost accounting systems be installed in all departments and agencies as an essential step in controlling costs and evaluating programs.

And we have also failed to do our part, closer to home, by (a) reforming the croaky operations and outdated rules of Congress, (b) impeding on ourselves the kind of ethical standards and self-restraint which the responsible and representative character of this institution requires, and (c) establishing an oversight or "watchdog" investigating committee chaired by the minority which could stimulate a higher level of supervision and accountability over the Executive Branch by the majority-controlled standing committees of Congress.

These, I believe, are some of the actions Congress could -- and should -- take as soon as possible to bring the results which Chairman Mills is seeking.

AND APPLYING THE HEAT
The need for such action was illustrated once again this week, just four days before the chairman spoke out. In a commendable effort to help find jobs and provide training for thousands of America's hard-core unemployed, the President launched still another new program -- a program poorly timed, administratively clumsy, and of questionable worth. Poorly timed, because government should be concentrating quality rather than quantity. Administratively clumsy, because the new program will overlap, duplicate and confuse the 21 other Federal manpower training programs on which $2 billion a year is being spent. And of questionable worth, because the new program fails to include necessary improvements in defining jobs and identifying job openings and because it further postpones the time when a program of maximum effectiveness can replace the less useful programs. I refer to the Human Investment Act which would employ tax incentives to permit private business to provide direct on-the-job training with assurances of follow-up employment. To date, this has been the missing ingredient in Federal manpower programs: training in needed skills for specific job openings, and our bill would do more -- dollar for dollar -- to accomplish this than anything yet suggested, including the President's new program.

In Past Tense

ONE YEAR AGO
Springfield children will be able to tune in on the latest in televised instruction, following a vote of the Board of Education that approves spending $976 for participation in the educational television program over Channel 13 for the rest of the school year.

PHILIP DEL VECCHIO, GOP candidate for Township Committee, says he'll "take the high road and let anyone else wage the type of campaign he desires," marking the opening of the Springfield Republican headquarters at 269 Morris ave., the building of Jonathan Dayton Reynolds High School during their fourth straight football game to Berkeley Heights. The squad hopes to get its first victory of the season against Scotch Plains.

40 YEARS AGO
HENRY GRABARZ, chairman of the Municipal Planning Board and GOP candidate for township committee charges his opponent VINCENT J. BONADIES, Democratic incumbent, with "making a frantic effort to cover up his three-year record of inactivity by erecting a smoke screen over the Springfield political horizon." BONADIES says he will continue to wage a relentless fight to see that the projected Rt. 22 realignment has the least possible effect on homeowners in its path.

MRS. WALTER SMITH of 119 S. Maple ave. becomes a grandmother for the 27th time when one of her daughters, Mrs. Edith Dietzold of South Plainfield, gives birth to a daughter.

25 YEARS AGO
MRS. ALBERTA APPLEBY is appointed a clerk in the War Price Board office in Summit, which includes Springfield. The appointment is made upon advice of rating authorities who recently turned down Springfield's request for a separate rating office.

In the Springfield Sun's Guest Column, E. ROYAL ZETLER, president of the Birch Hill Civic Association, remarks that "few people realize that our government begins in their own community." Humphrey Bogart, Mary Astor and Sydney Greenstreet star in "Across the Pacific" at the Lyric Theatre in Summit.

Wall Street Notebook

By ARTHUR POLLACK

We continue to believe that common stock prices will move higher in the months ahead. The August decline appeared to be another normal correction in a rising market. The subsequent advance... five percent to a new all-time high (Standard & Poor's Industrial Index)... reinforces this prediction.

Further product price increases in recent weeks... from cars to polyethylene resin, continue to buoy investor confidence. Labor and material costs are rising sharply, and profits would seriously erode without price hikes.

Latest business indicators also contribute to the new highs in stock prices, reinforcing the general expectation of strongly rising business in the months ahead... and disruptions due to the automotive strike would only be temporary. Some other pertinent August statistics: the largest advance in industrial production in over a year; the third strong monthly advance in personal incomes; record retail sales and rising housing starts.

Before he approves a tax hike, Congressman Mills is determined to have Administration assurances of some reduction in the rate of the Government's domestic spending. His position was received favorably by the market.

Nevertheless, a tax hike is still expected. Otherwise, the action that the Federal Reserve Board would be compelled to take in order to slow down inflationary pressures could seriously dampen market psychology. The credit tightening experience of 1966... and the resulting stock market drop... is still fresh in the minds of investors.

Among the stronger groups in recent weeks have been the autos, computer manufacturers and oils. Arthur S. Pollack is a stockbroker with Patno, Webber Jackson & Company, and invites all inquiries to be directed to his attention in care of this newspaper.

Dangers of drinking stressed to driver education students

"Ethyl is Not a Lady" was the title of an illustrated lecture delivered last week by Donald B. Irvin of the New Jersey Council on Alcohol Problems to 285 boys and girls who make up the junior class health education and driver education classes at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Irvin urged the students to "make a smart decision." He pointed out that alcohol is what it does to people, why people drink, how it affects driving, and what problem drinking involves.

He stressed the theme that "if you are driving, do not drink. Ethyl alcohol is a depressant that represents a 'hidden danger' and presents a 'sneak attack' on the drinking driver because he has a false sense of confidence that the first drink will not affect his driving." He said that "the first part of the body that is affected by the alcohol is the central nervous system because the alcohol is absorbed directly into the blood stream without any change taking place in the digestive system. This unrealized danger makes the so called 'light drinkers' a menace on the highway because of the subtle changes that occur in his judgment, reason, vision and inhibitions, without the driver being aware of it. 'You can take alcohol or leave it,' Irvin said. 'There are 10 million problem drinkers, 61/2 million alcoholics, and a total of 70% of the population who drink alcoholic beverages, 39% of the population use alcohol." However, he warned the students, the law states that the use and possession of alcoholic beverages by anyone under 21 years of age is punishable by arrest, fine or jail.

"Social influence, personal satisfaction, and propaganda by alcohol industry are three reasons why people drink," Irvin said. "Loss of job, loss of health, bitter experiences, the effect of alcohol on the skill of a surgeon or airplane pilot are some reasons why the more than 45 million people in the United States drink."

"In New Jersey a person is legally under the influence of alcohol if his breath alcohol content reads 0.15%. An offense of this nature while driving a car results in loss of license," Irvin said. He emphasized that 52,250 persons died in auto accidents last year with more than 30% of the fatalities having evidence of alcohol in their bloodstream. The rate of fatalities of drinking drivers is 56% in New Jersey accidents.

The nine week course of driver education classroom phase ends Nov. 6, when the State Motor Vehicle Bureau administers the written test to all class members. Mrs. Dolores Howard, John Swedish, Robert Hooper, and James Horner are the instructors for the course.

New traffic rules placed in effect

Robert F. LaVanture, principal of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, announced this week that new regulations have been posted at the high school to control the flow of traffic entering and leaving the school grounds and parking lot. The driveway on the south side of the school from Mountain Avenue has been designated a one-way entrance and the driveway at the front of the school a one-way exit.

Parents driving their children to school are requested to enter at the south entrance and proceed around the school to drop off their children at the front of the school. Parents leaving by the north exit.

Since most of the Dayton students must use the parking lot, parents are asked to drop their youngsters on the school side of Mountain Avenue without entering the parking lot. The most congested and busy time in the parking lot is from 8 to 8:20 a.m. Parents are requested not to stop in the teacher's parking lot to discharge passengers but to continue one-way around the school building to the front.

TB test scheduled for seniors, frosh and new students

The Mantoux Test will be administered at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School next Wednesday to all freshmen, seniors, and students new to the school. Dr. Irwin Kinch and Mrs. Phyllis Jarman, the school doctor and nurse, will administer the test with the aid of a team of doctors and nurses.

In explaining the test, which is required by law, Mrs. Jarman said that the best way to fight tuberculosis is through early detection. The Mantoux Test is the injection of tuberculin solution between the layers of skin in the forearm. After 48 hours, the arm is examined. A positive reaction is not necessarily an indication of tuberculosis. It signifies that the person at some time has been in contact with the TB germ.

If a positive reaction does occur, the person is x-rayed to determine whether or not the disease is active.

'Chaotic' conditions of state's finances hit by McDonough

Peter J. McDonough of Plainfield, Republican candidate for the New Jersey Assembly in District 2-C, last week labeled the performance of the 1966-67 Democratic-controlled legislature as "government by chaos."

"There is no other parallel in this state for the record of misdirection, failure, waste, rubber-stamp actions, fiscal mismanagement and abrogation of responsibility compiled in Trenton during the past two years," McDonough said. "Nowhere is this failure and chaotic condition more apparent than in the area of state finances. The burning question is: where has the money gone? We're not talking about pennies, but millions of hard earned dollars taken from the taxpayers' pockets."

McDonough and Hugo McMiller, editor of Summit are running for the two state Assembly seats which will represent Berkeley Heights, Fanwood, Mountainside, New Providence, Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Springfield, Summit and Westfield.

"Repeatedly," McDonough said, "we have pointed out to voters the phenomenal increase of over $100 million in the last fiscal year, obtained by the new sales tax and unbelievable increase in local property taxes. The response is always the same. What can the state show the people in return for their taxes? How are we better off? What increased services have we received in return?"

4 autos involved in chain accident

Springfield police reported a four-car, chain-reaction accident last Wednesday morning in the north-borough area of Springfield ave., near the Elks Club. Isidore Sherman of Millburn had stopped his car, preparing to make a left turn.

Isabel M. Russonello of Plainfield was stopped behind him, the report added, and Thaddeus J. Gajewski of Middlesex was behind her. The two cars were then reportedly struck from the rear by an auto driven by Harry L. Caldwell of Linden.

Joseph Russonello, 4, a passenger in his mother's car, was taken to Overlook Hospital by the First Aid Squad. Gajewski told police he would have his injuries treated by his own doctor. His car had to be towed from the scene. All the others, although damaged, could be driven away.

Three lay members of Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Springfield, will present the sermon along with the pastor this Sunday at the 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. services as part of the congregation's celebration of the 450th anniversary of the Reformation.

This means each individual is part of the church's ministry to the world, regardless of age, sex or position and each individual may go directly to God on behalf of himself and others."

The three participants are Mrs. John Denman, Henry Freudenberger and James Luedeker. Mrs. Denman is the president of the Ladies' Guild. Freudenberger is an elder and past president of the congregation. Luedeker, a high school senior, is the Christian growth chairman and vice-president of the youth group. Rabbi discusses significance of harvest festival of Sukkot

The following comments on the week-long Jewish holiday of Sukkot, which began last night, were provided by Rabbi Reuben R. Levine of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield.

Immediately after Yom Kippur, observant Jews concern themselves with the erection of a Sukkah—the leaf-covered booth or shelter which gives its name to the Festival of Sukkot. As one of the three major festivals commanded in the Torah, Sukkot had a very great impact on the Israelites of old. It has three facets to its symbolism:

1. Sukkot is a harvest festival and as such carries with it a spirit similar to our American Thanksgiving.
2. It is a recollection of the period when our ancestors traveled from Egypt to the Promised Land and lived in temporary shelters—huts, the Sukkah, which is visited and in which food is partaken of during the eight days of observance.
3. It represents a season of rejoicing, not only over the fulfillment of our need for physical sustenance, but even more, it expresses our love of the Torah. This season of the year marks the termination of the annual cycle of Torah reading in the synagogue. We are now ready to begin a new cycle, and we rejoice over the fact that once again we will have the opportunity of learning God's teaching.

Sukkot involves the use of distinctive and unique ritual objects. Besides the Sukkah itself, the liturgy requires the use of the palm branch and citron, or lulav and etrog. In keeping with the theme of harvest and God's providence, these are products of the earth. The lulav is comprised of a young palm branch, to which leaves of willow and myrtle are attached. The etrog is a citrus fruit growing in semi-tropical climates, and is known for its pleasant aroma. When these four products are held together at certain points in the Sukkot liturgy, they represent the unification of all men in the worship of their creator and in their appreciation for His providence.

Sukkot, like most Jewish observances, has a message of hope for the future. The lulav became one of the most ancient symbols of the perfected world to which Judaism always aspired. The prophet Zachariah proclaimed that the ultimate festival for mankind would be Sukkot, for the coming of God's rule among men would be acknowledged through the expression of thanksgiving.

Relatively unfunny 'Funny Girl'

By WILLIAM BRUCKER
"Funny Girl" opened at the Paper Mill Playhouse last week to a generous reception and unequivocal approval from the audience, and years in the life of Fanny Brice. They saw satiric production numbers which spoofed the Florenz Ziegfeld extravaganzas. They saw some invigorating dance turns by Larry Fuller and costumes and color of the period before and after World War I. All plus items and always welcome.

Yet I could not join the general acclaim. For they were applauding what seemed to me an un-reconciled show. A show that, notwithstanding its generally slick presentation, had not come to terms with itself.

The harrowing drama in Miss Brice's personal life is material enough for any play. Her anguish was apparent to all. However, I feel that it might have been more readily expressed in the music of her own day, more readily by the music of the 1920's.

The promise that Fanny Brice was a funny girl, indeed, was never fulfilled. This too left one suspended. The very routines of her sou-brette days in burlesque and her starring days in a dozen follies could have supported the play's title. But it turned out to be a relatively unfunny "Funny Girl."

JULE STYNE, WHO has known better days, constructed the score at times with hardware equipment. Whereas I am almost willing to accept the non-music of our musicals as a logical collateral rebellion against the warm, memorable singable tunes of former shows, I do not have to accept assault and apparent insincerity. For the sake of adulation of something new, must we give up the older standard values?

Bob-Merrill's lyrics are generally bright especially when he adds to the vocabulary of the dimmies by "when a girl's incidental are no bigger than two lentils."

Barbara Minkus sings Fanny, and is just as cute and formidable as the original prototype. Miss Minkus is a definite entry by herself and succeeds in making the reading her own. Alas, however, the overriding power of the Streisand characterization comes through too often. Miss Minkus is a total performer, too, and manages the comedy beautifully as well as the very sensitive acting of today singing.

Here both delineators of the role erred as well as Julie Styne, because the singing style of the 1910-1923 period was much thinner, more spare with less orchestral confections.

Barbara Minkus sings "Don't Rain On My Parade" as if she were coming up to bat in front of Yastrzemski.

In her seduction scene, Miss Minkus is genuinely good and through her director achieves the elegant awkwardness, the angularities, the slips on imaginary banana peels, the pouts, the mugging, that significant-lower lip (whose quiver was to flower into Baby Snooks), the "dick" pratfalls—that were identified with Fanny Brice.

IT IS INTERESTING that just as Mary Pickford was emerging as America's sweetheart through the movies, Fanny, while playing with Will Rogers, Eddie Cantor, W. C. Fields and Bobby B. Clark, was appealing to more limited groups as the ultimate buffoon. She had the best to turn her on and they did. Still it is sad that what was funny then does not stand up now. The Jewish dialect, the controlled slip and slide, the pizazzes and the schmalz are out of style and sit transit gloria Fanny.

Danny Carroll as Eddy Ryan tried and true friend to Fanny, is quite fresh and rewarding. He hoofs nicely, sings well and is more personable than that Nick Arstein. Especially when he sings "Who Taught Her Everything" with Irene Ryan as Mrs. Brice and "Find Yourself a Man" with the additional company of Mildred Clinton as Mrs. Strakosh. Together they can stop a show.

The parodies of the Ziegfeld production numbers are chucklesome. "His Love Makes Me Beautiful" has all the sequins, the tinsel and feathered head dresses and the whiskey tenor. "Rat-Tat-Tat-Tat" is also typical of all the parroted revue numbers of the period. All ways the most undressed girl carrying the flag.

'Ulysses' is due to bow at Ormont

"Ulysses," the film version of James Joyce controversial novel, will open an exclusive engagement at the Ormont Theater, East Orange, Wednesday. Joyce's novel, which was published in 1922, but was not allowed in this country until 1955, when Justice John M. Woolsey of the U. S. District Court declared that it was not pornographic. For the next 30 years, the motion picture industry struggled to find a way to bring the book to the screen. Finally in 1962, director Joseph Strick obtained the rights to the novel. He wrote the screenplay with Fred Haines and started filming in July, 1966 in Dublin.

"Ulysses" was filmed in Panavision and stars Barbara Jefford as Molly, Milo O'Shea as Bloom and Maurice Roeves as Stephen Dedalus.

"Accident," which won two awards for Best Picture at the 1967 Cannes Film Festival, continues for a second week at the Ormont. It will end the run Tuesday. Dirk Bogarde, Stanley Baker, Michael York and Vivien Merchant, wife of the picture's scripter, have leading roles. Pinter based his screenplay on a novel by Nicholas Mosley.

Plans made for tag week

B'nai B'rith Women of Springfield will begin their annual tag week Monday, according to Mrs. Paul Ninkin, chairman for the drive. She urged all members of the group to call her at 376-0810 as soon as possible for appointments. Mrs. Arthur M. Falkin is Chapter president. Last Friday was designated as "B'nai B'rith's Birthday" in Springfield in a proclamation issued by Mayor Arthur M. Falkin.

He noted that B'nai B'rith, founded Oct. 13, 1843, has a record of "124 years of social service and great achievement."

These achievements, his proclamation said, range "from fighting bigotry to helping flood victims; from recruiting a company of volunteer soldiers for Abraham Lincoln to sending four million dollars in food, supplies and equipment to the people of Israel; from supporting homes for orphans and the aged to fighting for civil rights for all minority groups."

Other accomplishments listed in the proclamation cited "Americanization programs and orientation of new immigrants in the American scene... the establishment of scientific laboratories and veterans' aid programs, and making it possible for 150,000 Jewish young men and women of American extraction to maintain touch with their ancient heritage... enabling worthy students, regardless of creed, to obtain college educations."

Add when you throw these permanently pressed sheets and pillowcases into your new flameless electric dryer, they'll come out looking as soft and fresh and crisp as the day they were made. In fact, the makers of permanent press fabrics recommend "tumble drying" as the best way to keep materials wrinkle-free and textures soft. Your Special Bonus: double bed set of Lady Pepperell Miralux sheets and pillowcases comes in the beautiful Rose Tote print pictured above. Phone message aids consumers

"Consumer Phone," an information aid expected to contribute to the health of families in the New York-Metropolitan area, has begun taking calls, Weems L. Clevenger, director of the Food and Drug Administration's New York district office, announced.

Consumers dialing 786-3350 in New York City will hear a recorded message of about 150 words on a significant health topic affecting foods and medications.

Clevenger said the messages would be changed weekly, but that product-recall and other emergency messages would be placed on "Consumer Phone" immediately as a back-up measure.

The first "Consumer Phone" message will run through Oct. 22 and will brief callers on how to combat salmonella contamination in the home. The second will run from Oct. 23 through Oct. 29, and will give the FDA's evaluation of artificial sweeteners.

'Taming of the Shrew' delightful film spectacle

By BEA SMITH

The Franco Zeffirelli-Richard Burton motion picture version of William Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew," which came to the Art Theater, Irvington, and the Plaza Theater, Irvington, last week, is a stunning, colorful, tough and comical spectacle.

Burton's interpretation of Petruchio, the robust, bearded uncouth, unpredictable brute of a man, who tames the incorrigible Kate (played by Elizabeth Taylor) is, to say the least, superb. He is satisfyingly at home in his role, and his performance seems to complement that of Miss Taylor's, and adds spice to the bolsterous proceedings of "wedding and taming." The lively goings-on in "The Taming of the Shrew" draw an audience (whether or not the viewers are fans of The Bard) wholeheartedly into the rough-and-tumble Renaissance period.

The picture has excellent direction and the supporting cast (composed of Cyril Cusack, Michael Hordern, Alfred Lynch, Alan Web and Victor Spinelli) is an absolute delight.

Optimists host '11'

The Irvington Optimist Club played host to the 44 members of the Irvington High School varsity football team Saturday morning at a pre-game steak breakfast at the Kiess Diner.

Fred Christiansen, Optimist president, greeted the guests, including coaching staff members Charles Reitz, Victor Gonzales, Fred Manuel, Bill Mericle and Joe Gallagher.

THE NEW ROYAL-ULTRONIC IS THE WORLD'S FIRST FULLY ELECTRIC TYPEWRITER AT A HALF-WAY REASONABLE PRICE

$179.50

The new Ultronic by Royal has an electric carriage return never before available at a price this low. It also has an electric tabulator, electric backspace, a repeat space bar and a motor twice as powerful as any comparable electric. It has four electric repeat characters: underscore, hyphen, period, and crossout. It's a fully electric typewriter in every way. Except price. In the past, the lowest priced fully electric typewriter cost $250. And even then it didn't have such Ultronic features as Logic Margin, Magic Meter scale, electric ribbon feed, vertical half-spacing, and a detachable card. The Ultronic is a great typewriter at any price. At $179.50, it's in a class by itself.

"What! More taxes... to pay strikers?"

That's right. There's a new state law raising your unemployment taxes 20 per cent starting January 1. And the law says taxes of all workers (union and non-union) can be used to pay unemployment benefits to strikers. We're not kidding.

Why should you pay more taxes to support somebody else's strike? We don't know. Ask your candidates for the State Senate and Assembly. Every seat in Trenton is up for election this year and repeal of this law (S-400) is the biggest issue.

A recent poll shows a clear majority of people against the law. Tell your candidates how you feel by writing them immediately. Their names and addresses are listed below. Then join our 20,000 members who are fighting to repeal the strikers benefits law.

Take care of plastics easy way

Plastics are no longer an imitation or a substitute for other materials, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home Economist. They have definite properties of their own and perform in a certain manner.

One of the outstanding properties of plastics is their "easy care." Yet, many women either do not recognize this or make it difficult for themselves by working too hard to take care of plastics.

Dust does "cling" to many plastic items in your home, such as the wastebasket, tiles, bathroom scales, shelves, canisters, appliance parts, table tops, lamps, television, radio and air conditioner cabinets.

To clean any of these items, just dust with a lint free cloth and then wipe off with a solution of warm water and detergent. Dry with a clean cloth to give a better shine. Do not use abrasive cleaners on plastic surfaces because they are likely to mar the surface.

Plastic shower curtains and tablecloths do need to be cleaned with more than a damp sponge. Periodically make a solution of warm water, detergent and water softener in either the bathtub or the washing machine and allow to soak for a few minutes. If in the tub, scrub lightly with a brush or use the gentle cycle in the washing machine. Rinse and hang up to dry.

Plastic used for furniture upholstery, auto interiors, shoes, handbags, hats or coats, responds well to cleaning with very sudsy solution of regular laundry detergent. After wiping well with a brush or sponge, polish the plastic dry.

The biggest problem with plastics is that of ball-point ink stains that somehow get onto counter tops and furniture. These stains are difficult to remove but can be helped if treated while still fresh with acetone or rubbing alcohol. Rub stained area gently with a soft cloth, rinse and allow to dry.

All for the price of a fancier priced car.

$3260 is the latest average price paid for a new car these days. (So says the Automobile Manufacturers Association.)

$3260 will also buy you a new range, a new refrigerator, a new dryer, a new washer, two new television sets, a record player and a $1695* Volkswagen.

Of course our little package doesn't include all those tricky little items you find on those fancier priced cars. (Like electric ashtray cleaners. Or headlights that disappear when the sun comes out.)

But it does include good food, clean clothes, nice music and a chance to watch all the summer reruns in color.

A lot of people frown on a Volkswagen because they feel it doesn't offer enough in the way of fancy gadgetry.

Look again.

Urges help for hungry

NEW YORK — A U.S. food chain store executive this week called on a group of international leaders in food distribution to help in the battle to feed two billion hungry and malnourished people throughout the world.

Myer B. Marcus, vice-chairman of the board of Food Fair Stores, Inc., sounded the call at the 11th annual congress of the International Association of Chain Stores. Marcus, a past president of the 25-nation body of food distribution leaders, was chairman of the three-day conclave.

In his welcome to the delegates, he noted that many nations had made rapid strides in adopting the supermarket system of mass food distribution pioneered in the U.S. However, he continued, while advances have been made in more mature economic societies, the problem of feeding the world's hungry has grown more acute because of the population explosion. "Two-thirds of the world's population, two billion persons, either faces starvation or malnutrition," he said.

Senior high Work Campers Union GI training to hold program on Sunday at armor center

An evening of film, slides, pictures and souvenirs on the Senior High Work Camp in August at the Presbyterian Camp, Ozone, Tenn., will be presented Sunday at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Congregation of Connecticut Farms. All are invited.

Preparations for the work camp began almost two years ago by the adult advisors to the Youth Fellowship and its teen-age officers. Hundreds of Presbyterian youths now spend summers doing service projects here or abroad. The project assigned to the youth of Connecticut Farms Presbyterian Church, by the Board of Domestic Missions in New York City, was scheduled at Ozone, Tenn.

For 10 days (Aug. 11-20) 13 teen-agers and three adult advisors, lived and worked in the south. The group built a stone wall, one of four of a Presbyterian Community Center, mixed their own cement, built their own scaffold, "faced" the roof, moved cinder-block, stone, cement and sand, cleared brush from the Presbyterian Camp, took in and painted the camp's docking facilities, as well as other projects.

They lived in "hogans," wood-floored tents, slept in sleeping bags, prepared, served and cleaned up their own meals, and took charge of other facilities at the camp. They also found time to become acquainted with the local residents of the Cumberland Plateau area, visiting in homes, square-dancing, worshipping, touring the mountains by jeep, attending a musical play, "Tennessee, U.S.A.," visiting Melton Dam, one of the TVA projects, the Oak Ridge Atomic Energy Industrial complex and museum and, on drives north and south, toured the Smoky Mountains and Luray Caverns.

To finance the Work Camp the group had raised more than $750. The funds were obtained by washing cars, "slave days," (when members hired themselves out), contributions from well-wishers in the church, and bake sales. Each work camper contributed the cost of a week-at-camp camp as well.

Several hundred dollars have already been raised for next summer's project.

Sunday evening in Westminster Hall, the full story will be told. The program will be under the direction of Diane Wilkenson, chairman of the Youth Service Committee. Films and slides are by Miss Wilkenson, Peter Simone, Bruce Gage, Mike Phillips and the church's adult advisors, Miss Judy Nielsen, James Gans and the Rev. Russell C. Block.

Other teen-agers and young adults who participated in the Work Camp are: Judy Magliaro, Ariene Arndt, Jayne Morris (in charge of the kitchen), Janet Spahr (president of the Youth Council), Bill Johnson, Janice Kerr, Debbie Soell, Russ Frame and Barbara Winsor.

Year-round adult advisors are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mathias, Miss Judy Nielsen, Mrs. Richard Coleman (director of Christian Education), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clep and Rev. Block.

Regional varsity to meet team from Scotch Plains

By MYRON MEISEL
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will play Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School this Saturday at 2 p.m. in its first home contest of the season. The Bulldog gridgers are now 0-4, following a 25-0 loss to Governor Livingston Regional High School of Berkeley Heights last Friday.
Dayton started off powerfully against the Highlanders in the first quarter, continued strong into the second, but near the half-time mark began to fall apart. The second half was disastrous. But for the first 20 minutes of play, Dayton really looked like a winning ball club.
Berkeley Heights opened the game, but a greatly improved Bulldog defense stymied any ground action. Berkeley did complete one screen pass for 15 yards, but Steve Jupa crashed through the Highlander line a play later to throw the quarterback for a 15-yard loss.
Dayton opened on its own 29 and immediately began to move the ball. Jupa opened with two runs for six yards, and then Nate Edelstein, playing split end, caught a pass on the left sideline and raced for 30 yards to the Berkeley 35. Edelstein caught another one over-center for 19 yards more. Then fullback Ralph Loessano drove hard to the Highlander eight, where two incomplete passes ended the Dayton drive. Dayton regained possession on the Berkeley 37, but failed to make any more headway, as the quarter ended.
DAYTON CONTINUED in the second quarter with good passing, but a dropped pass ruled complete and fumbled set Berkeley in scoring position on the Dayton 40, with the bomb completed on third down to give the Highlanders a 6-0 lead.
Taking the kickoff, Dayton once again drove into Highlander territory, only to fumble on the Berkeley 39. Dayton regained possession on the Governor Livingston 45, but fumbled again on second down. Berkeley Heights fumbled the ball in turn, and Edelstein recovered for the Bulldogs. Despite a five-yard penalty, Jupa crashed around, left tackle for 16 yards and a first down. Dayton drove to the Highlander 26, when on fourth down and two, an incomplete pass cut off its advance.
Berkeley, on its own 26, set halfback Paul Goldstein across the line twice for a first down, and a draw play sent Goldstein 22 yards to the Dayton 32. The Highlanders then completed a long pass for 25 yards. The Dayton defenses toughened, with one minute left in the half.
On fourth down and 15, 10 seconds left, a Dayton defensive man, in the clear for a touchdown run, dropped the interception into the hands of a Highlander end in the end zone. Berkeley took a 12-0 lead as the half ended.
DAYTON WEAKENED badly after the half. Berkeley took the opening punt return for a perfectly-run 50-yard touchdown and an 18-0 lead. Dayton returned the kickoff to its own 27. Loessano pushed Dayton to a first down on two strong drives, and after two incomplete passes, Larry Stewart caught one for seven Mende Fibrist scored the top game and set of the season, 1003-2825, to score the only sweep of the night in Springfield Municipal League at Highway Bowl. Policarpo Brothers held first place with a record of 10-2, followed by Springfield Market, 8-4, and Springfield Bowl, 7-5.

High scorers included Al Scott, 223-577; Howard Selander Sr., 231; Bob Bunnell Jr., 221; Otto Burkhardt, 202; Ralph Policarpo, 201; Jim Funcheon, 201; and Ray Stawski, 200.
Top teams in the Three Stages at 4 Seasons are the Three Stages, Try Harde and Die Harde, all tied with marks of 3-1. Leading ladies were Marlene Koonz, 178-470; Barbara Dostal, 175-154-467; Claire Foster, 164-154-466; Fran Benkus, 170-161-465; Erda Koelbelen, 160-151-427; Nadine Gurrers, 430; Helen Kepler, 408; Helen Seckle, 402; and Rita Gerardo, 400.
High scorers in the Skitlers at Springfield Bowl were Peg Binzel, 169; Claire Mutschler, 166-158; Lorraine Vosburgh, 166; Marlene Horshiny, 165; Ruth Wood, 162; Jeanne Keyworth, 161; Ann Hetzel, 159; Marilyn Alexy, 155; and Marilyn Hedstrom, 153.

Continue unbeaten string for cross-country squad

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross-country team this week continued its string of victories, defeating David Brearley Regional High School of Kenilworth, 19-36, and Summit High School, 21-34. The team now has a record of 6-0. The Bulldog runners will visit Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School tomorrow afternoon, and entertain Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School of Clark and the Pingry School of Elizabeth in a triangular meet at Warnance Park on Tuesday.
The team captain, Ken Shatten set two records in the past week's meets. Racing to a first place against Brearley at Warnance, Shatten broke the school record with a time of 12:48, three seconds faster than the previous

Soccer team faces Westfield booters in contest at home

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team will play Westfield High School at home on Monday. The Dayton booters, under the direction of Head Coach Lou Piccolo, now have a record of 0-6-1, following 1-1 tie last week with Union Catholic High School.
The results of the games with Watchung Hills Regional High School on Tuesday and Columbia High School of Maplewood, played yesterday will be reported next week.
Bulldog forward Derral Brooks scored the goal last week in the first quarter, the first this season for Dayton. Union Catholic tied the score on a penalty-kick in the second quarter. Dayton as a whole played an excellent game, narrowly missing the winning goal on numerous occasions. Tyrone Chin also excelled at forward for the Bulldogs.

BULLDOG WINGER — Howard Spielman, who plays in the outside left position for the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School soccer team.

Know Your Government

From N.J. Taxpayers Association
As official studies continue of changes in the pattern objectives of public school education in New Jersey, attention has been redirected to an independent study and report recommending far-reaching improvements in the educational system.
The report, "State Aid to Education -- A Design for Excellence," by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, was submitted earlier to the State Commission studying aid to school districts and to other commissions, officials and legislators examining New Jersey's public school needs. The 20-page printed document has since been given national recognition by the Governmental Research Association as "the most effective presentation of government research" in 1967.
The report also emphasizes the need to improve range financing, organization, philosophy and teaching sciences of public school education. Among recommendations is proposed that:

The State Board and Commission of Education establish minimum levels of attainment for elementary and secondary education throughout New Jersey's school districts; A practical evaluation system be instituted to determine whether the local school districts are meeting the level of attainment prescribed in the state plan; A program be established for regionalization or consolidation of New Jersey's myriad school districts to provide broader educational opportunity and more efficient, economical operation;

The Legislature establish a specific guideline indicating fiscal responsibility between the State and local school districts; A permanent commission, such as the Commission on State Tax Policy, provide continuing review of educational aid policy and formulas.
The report proposed that state school aid formulas help relieve the local property tax burden, measure local wealth and recognize local problems, help districts meet minimum educational standards and relate to identifiable programs, provide equitable distribution and avoid wasteful use of state resources. They should not guarantee districts against loss of aid, the report said, nor be deemed a panacea for the improvement of socio-economic conditions of local jurisdictions.

SPRINGFIELD, N.J.

Summit Y to hold international event

An "International Coffee House Evening" will be held at the Summit YWCA on Friday, Oct. 27, at 8 p.m. The event commemorates United Nations Week and is being sponsored by the public affairs and world affairs committees of the YWCA. The occasion is open to the entire community, and early reservations are urged. They may be made by telephoning the YWCA at 273-4242.
Home-baked international desserts and beverage will be served at the start of the evening's program. Guest speaker will be Richard K. Heacock Jr., recent chairman of the planning committee for a national human rights seminar. His topic will be "Human Rights: Inalienable and Universal?" Following Heacock's half-hour address, a number of international folk dances will be performed by the Summit Folk Dance Club, whose members will be dressed in appropriate national dress. Folk songs from around the world, selected and presented by Capitola Dickerson, will round out the U. S. Week celebration.
The "International Coffee House" event is part of a week-long program honoring the United Nations that is being sponsored by the League of Women Voters, Summit Rotary Club, Junior Forthrightly Club's International relations department, Church Women United, Fairy and Garden's international relations department, Hadassah, and the YWCA.

Springfield delegation to participate in 'teachers rights rally' this Sunday

Members of the Springfield Teachers Association will attend a "teachers rights rally" on Sunday at 2 p.m. in Convention Hall, Asbury Park. The rally is sponsored by the New Jersey Education Association.
Mrs. Helen L. Golden, publicity chairman for the local group, said the rally will "dramatize (teachers) determination to seek the power to negotiate on all matters of mutual concern with their boards of education; to seek the freedom to teach effectively; and to seek a status as true professionals."
The Asbury Park program, Mrs. Golden continued, "will say that teachers have too long been denied a state law and procedures to guarantee good faith teacher-board negotiations. The rally will challenge policies being promoted by the New Jersey State Federation of District Boards of Education. These include attempts to limit topics subject to negotiations only to salary items."

Mrs. Mary Edna Snider, president of the Springfield Teachers Association, said that William E. Hannah of Springfield will serve as public relations chairman for the rally, and Joseph Blanda, local transportation chairman. Chartered buses will leave from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School at noon Sunday as well as from David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth and Arthur L. Johnson High School in Clark. A rally train will also leave from Newark. Teachers wishing detailed transportation information have been asked to contact Blanda at the Florence M. Gaudin School.

U.S. Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

WASHINGTON — Like the ragged and disreputable Huckleberry Finn, the poverty program apparently has more friends than are willing to defend it in polite company.
But, also like the social outcast of Hannibal, Missouri, when the chips are down, friends rally 'round. For the poverty bill passed the Senate last week by a 60-21 vote.
It wasn't as good a bill as we hoped it would be. But it survived in a lot better shape than the deluge of criticism it has been subjected to might have led us to expect.
The major disappointment was the failure of the emergency job program — the only major addition to the poverty program — to pass.
It was clear from the start that the proposal to provide a half-million jobs over the next two years for those who are out of work and have little prospect of obtaining employment faced an uphill fight.
The program, of course, was money. It would cost $2.8 billion.
But, to me, the program made sense. It was aimed at providing useful jobs on needed public projects for some of the three million persons who are unemployed and actively looking for work — and perhaps for some of the additional million who are so discouraged they have dropped out of the active job market.
The program would have been aimed, in good part, at training those people in new skills or upgrading old ones in order to get them into the private job market in a relatively short time.
The biggest unemployment problem we face is, among young Negroes in the central cities. To give them the dignity of earning — and, I stress, earning — a living wage while learning new skills and work attitudes might well have eased some of the tensions in our cities.
President Johnson outlined a much less massive attack on the problem of hard-core unemployment while the debate on the poverty bill was under way. He announced a $40 million program to provide incentive for private industry to find suitable jobs and train disadvantaged workers for them.

U.S. Senator HARRISON A. WILLIAMS Reports

On the brighter side, all efforts to dismember the poverty program were beaten back, and $200 million beyond the Administration budget request was authorized for fiscal 1968.
There were a number of efforts to kill major OEO programs outright or shift them to other Federal departments or agencies. Most notable were the attempts to shift the Job Corps program wholly into the Labor Department and to give the Head Start program to the Department of Health Education and Welfare.
The Poverty Program has had its troubles. Nobody can deny it. Some of the programs were poorly conceived to start with. Others were poorly administered. There has been lack of communication; misunderstandings between poverty personnel and those in political office at the local level.
But, with all this, the poverty program has accomplished much of what it set out to do. And it has pointed the way toward accomplishing more in the future.
I am glad that three-quarters of those who voted on the bill in the Senate agree with that estimate.
The bill is now before the Labor and Education Committee in the House of Representatives for debate and a vote soon.

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

By Mabel C. Stolts, County Home Economist

WHEN BROTHER OR SISTER GOES TO SCHOOL

Each morning the school-age children dash out the door leaving the smaller children behind.

Generally the baby or even the toddler is no problem. They are still discovering their own world of adventure.

It may be very different for the child who will enter school next year. While some may be in nursery school, the majority will not.

What can you do to help your pre-schooler make the most of his day?

Play can take up a lot of time. But with whom?

Neighborhood mothers might take turns at guiding creative experiences for the pre-schooler.

One mother may be a great story-teller. Another may be artistic and help children to learn colors.

A wise mother with initiative can find much that is creative for the pre-schooler to do.

It takes a little organization to get such a project started. Talk it over with your neighbors the next time you sip coffee with them or chat across the backyard fence.

Weeder's Digest

By Your Rutgers Garden Reporter

As soon as the leaves start to color and drop, you can transplant trees and shrubs.

This is the season to move most deciduous trees, either from place to place in your yard or from the nursery to your home grounds.

Exceptions to deciduous trees that can be moved in the fall are the thin-barked ones such as dogwood, birch, beech, magnolia, and Japanese maple.

So wait until spring to plant these.

Don Lacey, home horticulture specialist at Rutgers, says that one big rule to remember is to plant your shrub or tree at exactly the same depth it stood in the nursery.

You can get a copy from your county agricultural agent or Garden Reporter, College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, New Brunswick 08903. A postcard is best.

And be sure to support a newly transplanted tree with two stakes to prevent it from rocking back and forth in winter winds.

Rocking can loosen the soil around the roots and so make the roots dry out.

Gross, Epstein to get Jewish Congress honor

Dr. Mason W. The keynote address will be given by Dean Willard Heckel, dean of Rutgers University Law School.

A LOOK AT THE UNITED NATIONS with Trudina Howard

The UN celebrates its 22nd birthday

The United Nations will have 22 candles on the cake when it celebrates its birthday Tuesday.

To honor the occasion, there will be special programs throughout the U. S. and at the UN Headquarters in New York and in New Jersey there will be a candle or two to celebrate also.

Calling the United Nations the "major instrument of international cooperation in which nations can work together for world peace," Governor Richard J. Hughes has proclaimed the week as United Nations week and Tuesday as United Nations Day in New Jersey.

One of the brightest candles of the week will be on the cake at the New Jersey UN Convocation dinner on Wednesday with the presence of Lord Caradon, The Right Honorable Lord Caradon is Minister of State for Foreign Affairs and Permanent Representative of the United Kingdom to the United Nations, and he will be guest speaker at the dinner which will be held at the Governor Morris Inn, Morristown.

Tickets for the 6 p.m. reception and 7 p.m. dinner at $10 are available by writing The N. J. Committee for UN Week and Day, Box 305, Murray Hill, N.J. or by calling 582-4384.

Other programs during the week will include international craft exhibitions, school and municipal world affairs discussions and guest speakers from the UN.

UN Week and Day are sponsored by various communities throughout the country in cooperation with the United Nations Association, a voluntary organization which attempts to promote understanding of the UN through publications and activities such as the New Jersey observance.

IN THE NEW JERSEY proclamation, Gov. Hughes urged state organizations "to observe United Nations Day to the end that the people might know the accomplishments of this world organization."

For there are those who do not know, and there are also those who complain that the UN is far from perfect and has not settled all the problems put to it, and is just a good "front" for many nations.

But there is more to the cake than just candles and icing.

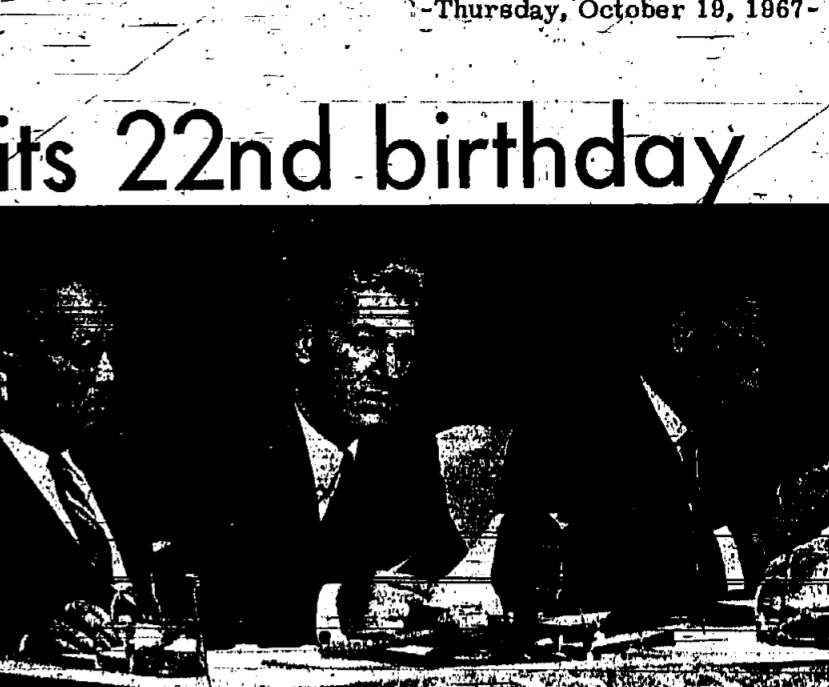

Most thoughtful people will recognize that the UN is successful in the social, economic, health and cultural fields and is the best system yet devised for sovereign nations to work together—and talk together.

And talk is the tool of the United Nations.

REFERRING TO THE ACTIVITIES OF THE UN in a prepared speech to be given on Tuesday before the General Assembly, this year's General Assembly president, Corneliu Manescu of Romania, stated: "With the passage of years, the number of States members of the United Nations has constantly increased, and it is now more than twice the original number. The presence in this international forum of scores of new independent states is evidence of the profound changes which are leaving their imprint on the entire development of the contemporary world. The advent of these countries, with features and personalities of their own and with the experience which in their own way has increased the organization's potential for action."

Secretary General U Thant of Burma, also in a prepared speech for the same occasion, is pessimistic. He says, "As we look at the world around us today, we cannot but recognize that the promises of the Charter, in the field of economic and social advancement as well as in the field of international political relationships, are far from fulfilled."

"Two decades after the nations of the world agreed to employ international measures for the promotion of economic and social advancement of all peoples," hunger, poverty and disease still haunt more than two-thirds of mankind, and the gap between the rich and the poor is widening to the point of despair. At the same time, two decades after pledging "that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest," nations have not only been unable to abandon war as a means of protecting or promoting self-interest but, ominously, they seem, at times, to be on the brink of abandoning their faith in the Charter and in the validity of the field of international political relationships, are far from fulfilled.

SECRETARY-GENERAL U THANT and the president of the 22nd General Assembly of the United Nations, Corneliu Manescu, Foreign Minister of Romania, at their posts on the high podium in the General Assembly hall. Both men will make speeches Tuesday before the General Assembly in honor of the UN's 22nd birthday. Seated with them on the right is G. V. Narasimhan, under-secretary for General Assembly Affairs and Chief of Cabinet, who is always the third man on the dais.

"This Anniversary Day provides an opportunity for a stock-taking, both material and moral; it provides an opportunity for recalling the principles proclaimed 22 years ago and for reassessing their value in the world today. The way of life enjoined by the Charter is no mere philosophical dream. Ideals, in the long run have always turned out to be mankind's most practical and precious possessions. In a world bristling with means of massive destruction, such ideals have now become the only alternative to self-extermination.

"Let us, therefore, on this day reaffirm the wisdom of the way of life proclaimed in the United Nations Charter and determine to renew our efforts towards attaining it."

Urges early exam of children's eyes

According to Dr. Leonard Strulowitz, first vice-president of the Union County Optometric Society, early discovery and proper correction of a fairly rare eye disorder among young children may prevent virtual loss of vision in the affected eye.

The eye disorder, called amblyopia, is a visual affliction which usually begins in one eye during early childhood as a dimness of sight, and in the absence of early detection and proper treatment, may result in little or no vision in that eye, he said.

It is estimated that amblyopia affects about two percent of the population or about two million Americans. In describing amblyopia, Dr. Strulowitz underscored the importance of having every child's eyes professionally examined as early as possible to detect the possible existence of this particular eye disorder or any of several other conditions.

"Generally, the earlier that correction of an eye disorder is started, the better," he stated. "Where amblyopia is found to exist, six months to three years are considered to be good ages to begin therapy."

Optometric Society pointed out that since amblyopia most often occurs in one eye only, people are often unaware of it. "Comparison of vision of one eye with the other is one way that it can be discovered."

Amblyopia should also be suspected in cases of a "turned" eye.

Dr. Strulowitz advised that although amblyopia should be suspected in conditions of a "turned" eye or where there is a substantial difference in the focusing power between the two eyes, the best detection is by an optometric examination.

He cautioned parents in particular against needless worry that accompanies a diagnosis of amblyopia. The condition, which usually begins in childhood during pre-school years and may go undiagnosed into adulthood, is not caused by a disease process and it can generally be corrected if discovered early enough. One chief concern is that if a person with an amblyopic eye should injure his good eye, he might find himself without useful vision.

"Early detection and early treatment are the best protection against the effects of amblyopia," advised Dr. Strulowitz. "Optometric care of amblyopia may include the use of corrective lenses or temporary patching or covering of the better eye which improves the amblyopic eye, and/or vision training."
