Neighbors concerned about Saks

Meeting Monday night on business area plan

By ABNER GOLD
Preliminary skirmishing over the proposed new zoning ordinance highlighted the otherwise routine Township Committee meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall. The audience of some 30 residents, the largest in several months, included a number from the Tower drive area who centered their criticism on changes proposed for the Saks Fifth Avenue store and parking lot, adjoining their block. Official action on any changes will not begin until next month.

In connection with another aspect of municipal development, the committee again invited all citizens to attend a meeting of Morris Avenue merchants and others concerned with the upgrading of the main business district.

The meeting, Monday at 8 p.m. at the Morris Avenue office of the National State Bank of Elizabeth, will hear a specific proposal for redevelopment of the north side of the main thoroughfare, it was announced at last month's meeting.

Committee member Robert G. Planer reported on plans to form a three-man study committee to continue the township's fight against Rahway River flood problems. He asked for the names of all citizens interested in serving on the group, particularly anyone with a background in hydraulic engineering.

Planer also reported on two letters from Oakland Avenue residents, complaining about the encroachment of long-time parkers from the nearby Mountain Avenue business area. He promised an investigation, and probable action.

Raymond Forbes to be cited by Unico as Citizen-of-Year

Raymond Forbes, a resident of Springfield since 1939, will be honored as "Citizen-of-the-Year" by Unico National, Springfield Chapter, at its annual "I Am an American" dinner-dance Saturday, May 11.

The affair will be held at the Mountain-side Inn, Mountainside. Persons interested in attending may call Ken Casale, chairman, at 201 Hillside Ave., Springfield, phone 376-2353.

Forbes is a member of the Springfield Township Planning Board and president of the Springfield Republican Club. He was a director of the Springfield Chapter, American Red Cross, 1955-1958; member of the board of trustees, Overlook Hospital, Summit, 1953-1957; member of the Regional High School Board of Education, 1948-1954, and its president, 1953-1954; member of the Springfield Township Committee, 1955-1958.

He is a member of the Springfield Lions Club, of which he was president in 1949; a member of Springfield Elks 2004, and St. Alban's Lodge 68, F. & A.M.; member and ruling elder of the Springfield Presbyterian Church, and a member of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce and the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers.

Forbes is a manufacturer's representative in the aircraft industry with offices in Springfield. A native of Newark, he was raised in Irvington. He is married and has three children, Lynne, Ray Jr. and Gretchen.

RAYMOND FORBES

AS PUBLIC SAFETY COMMISSIONER

Planer obtained approval for the appointment of Donald Stewart of 137 Satter street as a volunteer fireman, for the resignation of Patrolman Robert Kelleman and for promotion of three probationary patrolmen to the rank of third class patrolmen. They are Andrew Calabrese, William Cleri and Dominick Olivo.

Committee member Philip Del Vecchio told the meeting that the township's sale of large plastic bags for use in disposal of leaves, grass clippings and other refuse had gotten off to a good start. Once the present supply is exhausted, however, he added, "we plan to go out of the bag business."

Del Vecchio suggested that the bags be purchased from local merchants. He noted that they provide a solution to the problem created when burning of refuse was forbidden as a measure against air pollution.

Del Vecchio also obtained approval for expenditure of $490 per year for new street

Committee race pledged by Dems

There will definitely be two Democratic candidates who will file for the Township Committee race before the deadline this afternoon, Don Mantel, municipal party chairman, declared as the Leader went to press. Mantel stated that the party would present two outstanding candidates, but added that he was not at liberty to give their names before they filed.

GOP's Forbes, Planer run for committee posts

Township Committee member Robert G. Planer and former Township Committee member Raymond W. Forbes have received the endorsement of the Springfield Republican screening committee as candidates for election to the Springfield Township Committee.

Mayor Robert D. Hardgrove, who recently announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election, gave his unqualified endorsement of Planer and Forbes.

Planer, presently completing his fourth year as a member of the Committee, served as mayor of Springfield during 1966. Formerly a member of the Board of Adjustment and the Springfield Fire Reserve, Planer is a graduate of Newark College of Engineering and holds a degree in civil engineering. He is a partner in an insurance and engineering firm. He and his wife, June, and their children, Pat and Bobby, reside at 125 Short Hills Ave. and are parishioners of St. James Church.

Forbes, a resident of Springfield since 1939, was born in Newark and was graduated from Irvington High School. Forbes and his wife Gretchen, the parents of three children, also have three grandchildren. The Forbes family resides at 8 Lyons pl.

Forbes was a member of the Springfield Township Committee from 1956 to 1958 and a member of the Regional Board of Education from 1948 to 1954, serving as its president in 1953 and 1954. From 1953 to 1959, Forbes was a member of the board of trustees of Overlook Hospital.

Presently, Forbes is a member of the Springfield Planning Board. The family attends the Springfield Presbyterian Church, where Forbes serves as an elder of the church. Among his many local civic and fraternal memberships he lists the Elks, Lions, Chamber of Commerce and the Masons most prominently. He has also served as a director of the Springfield Red Cross Chapter.

Forbes, whose office is at 3 Mountain Ave., Springfield, has been a manufacturer's representative in the aircraft industry for 26 years.

The Springfield Republican Screening Committee is composed of elected and appointed officials of the Township, the officers and trustees of the Republican Club, members of the Republican County Committee, election board workers, and members at large representing the Springfield Republican Party. The 1968 screening committee consisted of 52 members.

Art exhibit sale planned next week by McCarthy unit

The Springfield Chapter of the Volunteers for McCarty will hold an art exhibition and sale from Friday evening, May 4, through Sunday afternoon, May 6, at a site to be announced next week. Proceeds from the sale will be used to support the candidacy of delegates pledged to Senator Eugene McCarthy in the New Jersey primary election June 4.

The show, including approximately 300 paintings and sculptures by prominent professional artists in the New Jersey area, is being assembled by Myers Rohowaky of Westfield, a former president of the New Jersey Art Association and a well-known painter and sculptor.

Dayton orchestra will present annual concert on May 3

The instrumental music department of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will present its annual band and orchestra concert, Friday, May 3, at 8 p.m. It was announced by Anthony Armento, director.

This annual concert, he said, is the "culmination of a long and fruitful school year for the students of the instrumental music department." The program for this year's concert will include selections from "West Side Story," the theme from "Profiles in Courage" and many other well-known marches and concert pieces.

In an effort to lift the Jonathan Dayton Band Story, members of the organization have appeared before many of the city's organizations meeting in Springfield. Recently, the entire band presented a concert preview at the Florence Gaudinier School.

Admission to the concert for adults is $1; tickets can be purchased from any member of the band or from members of the Band Parent's Organization. Proceeds of the concert are used to provide for extras needed for equipment, music and incidentals not included in the general budget.

In urging the support of the community and the entire high school student body, Armento stated that the band members have worked diligently in preparing for this concert.

In an effort to make it easier for students to attend this musical treat, arrangements have been made to offer a special student ticket at 50 cents.

Clothing sought for fire victims

The Springfield Clergy Association this week urged all residents to respond to an emergency clothing appeal to aid the victims of the recent fires in Newark. The appeal was issued by Monsignor Francis X. Coyle, pastor of St. James Church.

Clothing may be taken to any church or synagogue in Springfield between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. this Sunday. Members of St. James however, because of construction at the church, were asked to deposit contributions at the other congregations. The greatest need is for spring or summer clothing, sheets, pillow cases and blankets, the statement added.

Ellington program Monday night aids NSC scholarships

Duke Ellington and his orchestra will present a "Sacred Jazz Concert" Monday night at 8 at the Ritz Theater, Elizabeth.

The concert will benefit the Newark State College's Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund for disadvantaged students and the Mary Williams Fund, to aid Mrs. Williams and her 15 children.

An organizer of the concert stated, "Students from economically and socially-deprived urban backgrounds need scholarships to attend Newark State College and to complete their college training. Too frequently, the aid available is in the form of a loan, a burden that is undesirable for disadvantaged students to assume."

"The scholarship fund is being established to provide aid to students from urban areas near Newark State College who plan to teach but whose families can give little or no financial assistance and who may, in fact, need funds to supplant earnings lost because they enter college instead of taking jobs."

"Money contributed to the scholarship fund will be restricted to the use of disadvantaged students from urban areas in North Jersey. It will be administered by the Financial Aid Office in accordance with the principles and procedures set up for all college-administered student aid funds awarded on the basis of financial need. All money contributed will be used for direct aid to students. No part of any contribution will be used for administrative expenses."

Tickets for the concert will be $6.75 for orchestra, $5.50 for loges, and $3 for balcony.

Truck pins driver on Morris avenue

A liquor truck turned over on Morris avenue near Marcy avenue last Friday at noon-time, causing a traffic jam that lasted nearly an hour, Springfield police reported. The truck, driven by Lee S. Kester of Englewood, was headed west on Morris avenue when it developed mechanical difficulties, swerved, struck the curb and turned over.

A Fire Department truck was dispatched to the scene to wash gasoline from the street. The windshield had to be removed from the truck to remove the driver, who was pinned inside. Kester was taken by the First Aid Squad to Overlook Hospital, Summit, for treatment of his injuries.

Annual Camp Wawayanda rally set at Summit YMCA Saturday, May 3

The Summit Area YMCA will be host for the annual Camp Wawayanda rally on Friday, May 3, at 8, Halbe Brown, executive director of the Frost Valley Association which operates YMCA resident camping programs, will show slides and explain plans for this summer's activities. Families, friends and prospective resident campers are invited to attend.

Camp Wawayanda, with separate camps for boys and girls—ages 9-17, one of the oldest YMCA camping operations in existence, was founded in 1901. Since 1959 the camps have been located at Frost Valley, N.Y. in the heart of the Catskill Mountains on a 2,200-acre tract. Scattered on the property are over 70 of the most modern buildings in the field of camping today. Cabins are constructed with built-in bunks, complete wash facilities, hot showers, and heaters for cool mornings. A 10-acre lake provides for a variety of aquatic programs. Complementing the facilities, the camp has all types of sports activities and an excellent out-trip program.

Camp Wawayanda serves the YMCA's of Summit, Westfield, Plainfield, Ridgewood, Montclair, Madison, Greater Bergen County and Eastern Union County. Early registration is advised since enrollment is limited to 220 boys and 180 girls for each two-week camp period beginning June 23 through August 24. Brochures and further information may be obtained by calling the Summit Area Y, 273-3330.

Couple take prize trip

Mr. and Mrs. August J. Keller of 107 S. Maple ave., Springfield, have returned from a five-day trip to Los Angeles, awarded them at the opening of the Springfield office, National State Bank, at Morris avenue and Linden avenue last Nov. 6.

They stayed at the Century Plaza Hotel in Beverly Hills. Their trip included tours of Disneyland and the Universal Studios—a night club tour. They also visited several friends who reside in the area. Their prior trip to California was to the 1966 Shriner's convention at San Francisco, while Mrs. Keller is a member of the Shriner's band in which she plays the glockenspiel.

Firm plans for addition

A 100% expansion of plant and laboratory facilities is scheduled by Plumrose, Inc., major U.S. importer and distributor of Danish ham, bacon and other meat products. Headquartered at 66 Faden rd., Springfield, since 1962, Plumrose will be adding 16,000 square feet to the existing facilities. The expansion, slated for completion in July, will give the firm, the American affiliate of Plumrose of Denmark, extended refrigerated warehousing, dry storage area, laboratory space and employee facilities.

The Plumrose extension was designed by Food Management, Inc. of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Jerome Construction Company of Irvington, is the general contractor.

The Springfield facilities serve as Plumrose's American packaging, processing and research plant, and are the headquarters for the firm's distribution of canned and sliced meat products. Supermarkets from coast to coast are main outlets for Plumrose's array of Danish meat imports.

Brae Farm benefit set

Mrs. Victor duBusc will be among the 52 community hostesses sponsoring the Bonnie Brae Farm for Boys' 35th annual benefit card party and fashion show which will take place at the farm in Millington May 21 and 22. She will be in charge of the Union-Elizabeth area.

The theme will be "A May Festival in 1791," and reservations may be made through Mrs. Frederick M. Rollenhagen, chairman of the benefit, the community hostesses; the farm's Newark office at 605 Broad st. and through members of the Bonnie Brae Auxiliary.

YWCA to teach flower arranging

A five-session class in flower arranging will begin at the Summit YWCA on Thursday, May 9, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Those enrolled in the class will learn the art of shape, design, color. They will start with flowering branches and create artful arrangements and then will use garden flowers of wide variety.

Mrs. Roswell Hall, nationally accredited flower show judge, will instruct. She has taught flower arranging in adult schools and has lectured and demonstrated for women's clubs and garden groups.

Since enrollment in YWCA classes is limited, persons are urged to register as soon as possible. Babysitting for children 18 months and over is available to children of mothers attending daytime activities.

Further information may be had by telephoning Mrs. J.J. Hennessey, young adult program director at the YWCA, 273-4242.

Modern math—Savings Bond Style

If you bought ten $25 U.S. Savings Bonds, you'd pay $187.50 and get back $250 at maturity.

Whether you buy just one Bond or a Bond every month on the Payroll Savings Plan—that $4 for $3 return is guaranteed by the U.S. Government.

And now, with the new 4.15% interest rate, Bonds mature faster—in just 7 years! Your old Bonds will earn more, too. And they'll continue to grow for you, at the new interest rate, as long as you hold them. So now Savings Bonds are better to buy, and hold, than ever.

And buying Savings Bonds helps build your security another way, too—by helping build your country's security. Knowing you're doing your part to support our men in Vietnam is a star-spangled good feeling you can't measure with numbers.

Discover that feeling for yourself, today... while starting a solid financial foundation for your future. Ask about the convenient Payroll Savings Plan where you work—or buy Bonds regularly at your bank.

3 Feins' photos win state award

Three entries submitted by Marty Feins of Springfield in the Little World Series of Photography sponsored by the Professional Photographers of New Jersey have been cited as Special Honor Prints. The judging took place at the state group's recent convention in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The three color portraits, "The Judge," and "Contemplation," were selected from among 75 prints which had taken top prizes in competitions all over the east coast.

Feins' Special Honor Prints will be sent to Chicago this summer for judging at the International Professional Photographers of America Convention. There, the portraits will vie for the highest awards presented in professional photography.

Feins, who lives at 4 Norwood rd., Springfield, maintains a studio at 252 Mountain ave., Springfield.

Five reasons why I invest in Mutual Funds...

1. Convenience: I can invest small or large amounts in Mutual Funds whenever I wish.
2. Diversification: With my kind of income, I could never afford to buy stocks in dozens of different companies... but with one Mutual Fund, that's just what I've got.
3. Professional Management: As my conditions change, management decides which stocks to keep, to buy, to sell. I have far more faith in their judgment than in my own.
4. Reinvestment privileges: The Mutual Fund will reinvest my varying dividends for me, without any red tape. And my capital gains are reinvested for me, too.
5. Efficiency: Dividends, capital gains, splits, all the information is kept track of for me easily, and in easy-to-use forms for tax purposes.

Proceeds from the dance will be used to hold guest representatives to leaders' training camp this summer.

Springfield firm submits low bid

The Department of Transportation announced this week that Interstate Wrecking Co., Inc., Springfield had submitted the low bid of $63,900 for demolition of 76 buildings and related work in a 1.9-mile area from Liberty avenue to Union avenue in Union Township, Union County. V. Ostillo and Sons, Paterson, bid $66,025; William M. Young and Co., Inc., Newark, $68,400; and A. Tomp and Sons, Inc., Newark, $107,940. Four bids were rejected as not being in accord with bidding specifications. The demolition project will clear the way for further construction of Interstate Route 78. Under previous contracts, 250 buildings were to be demolished in a 1.9-mile area from Richard terrace to Liberty avenue, and 46 between Richard terrace and the Elizabeth River, both in Union Township. Work under the new contract is to be completed by March 1, 1969. The bids will be reviewed before a contract is awarded. Cost of the project will be shared 90 percent by the federal government and 10 percent by the state. The contract will permit buildings to be removed on a selective basis as property agreements are reached and as residents move out. The Department has found that this procedure eliminates possible health and fire hazards and curtails vandalism.

Y book series begins next week
A new series of Summit YWCA Kaffeklatsch programs, entitled "Take a Coffee Break with a Good Book," will begin next Wednesday with Jane McClure, director of the Summit Public Library, as guest speaker. "What's Chure" will present "A Sprig Bouquet," reviewing a number of recent publications.

both fiction and non-fiction. She will also highlight pre-publication titles that will be released later in May by publishers. Kaffeklatsch will begin at 9:45 a.m., with a half hour devoted to relaxation over a cup of coffee. The hour-long program will follow the usual pattern and refreshments will be available for pre-schoolers as well as babysitting for infants 18 months and over. No previous reservations are required. Further information about the five-week series focusing on books may be had by telephoning Mrs. Allan C. Ballard, program director at the YWCA 273-4242.

Lions honor Dr. Mond: Hospital gets EKG unit

The Lions Club of Springfield has presented to Overlook Hospital a new electrocardiograph machine, dedicated to the memory of Dr. Ralph Mond of Springfield.

Dr. Mond, a member of the staff, at Overlook Hospital, was also a member of the Lions Club, a club spokesman said. "His dedication to the ideals and aims of the Lions Club was in the best tradition of those who have labored in the fields of man's humanity toward man. His sensitivity and devotion to the needs of the less fortunate has been sorely missed by those who knew him. This presentation will be a constant reminder of a man who sought no glory, but reached out his hand to those who needed his help and his wisdom."

Robert E. Heinlein, director of Overlook Hospital, on accepting the electrocardiograph machine stated that it would be used in the hospital's emergency room where there is frequent need for such a machine.

Abel Del Vecchio, postmaster of Springfield and president of the Lions Club, and August Caprio, first vice-president, represented the Lions Club at the presentation.

Caprio, chairman of the Lions Club's annual "Broadway Varieties," noted that the gift to Overlook Hospital is only one of the many ways in which Lionsism helps the community. Many other public institutions, youth groups, veterans, the blind, Boy Scouts, American Field Services, and more know the helping hands of the organization, he added.

Tomorrow night, the Springfield Lions Club will present its 22d annual variety show at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. This is the only time the Lions Club appeals to the community at large to help raise the money necessary to continue its mission of aid and assistance to less fortunate people, Caprio said.

"Broadway Varieties," Caprio stated, promises to be a most entertaining evening and, judged by the standards of last year, everyone should get there early, because no seats can be reserved. To accommodate the expected turnout, the doors to the auditorium will open at 7:30 p.m.

Township firemen on duty in Newark during emergency

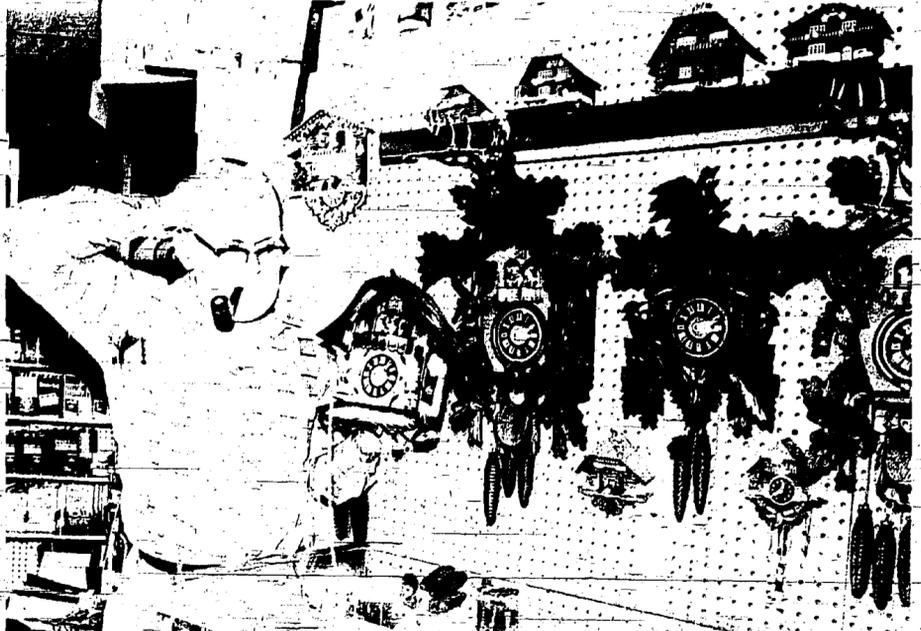

One Springfield fire truck, with six men, spent seven hours on emergency call in Newark Saturday night, during the holocaust in the Central Ward, according to Fire Chief Ormond W. Mesker. The truck was dispatched to Newark at 7:25 p.m., the chief said. It was next in line for assignment when the order was cancelled, and it returned to Springfield at 2:40 a.m.

The busy week began last Wednesday, with a fire at noontime in a sawdust pile behind a factory at 50 Brown ave. Firemen also responded to a brush fire Wednesday at 4:37 p.m. behind 89 Laurel dr., on property belonging to the Union County Park Commission.

At 4:52 that same afternoon, other units were called to a fire behind the Carter-Belle Manufacturing Co., Morris avenue, extending along the Railway Valley Railroad tracks behind the Troy Village apartment garages. A Springfield pump truck was dispatched to Millburn for standby duty last Thursday.

Firemen last Friday at noontime washed down gasoline after a truck accident on Morris avenue, and helped extricate the driver from the wreckage. Men were dispatched to fight a brush fire that afternoon behind the Troy Village apartments. Also that same afternoon, they extinguished a brush fire near Oak Ridge drive, described by Chief Mesker as having spread up the hillside from Mountside. Another alarm last Friday sent men to extinguish an oven fire in the home of Max Raab, 70 Shunpike rd.

Firemen yesterday afternoon answered an alarm at the Mayflower Pancake House, 570 Morris ave., where they put out a fire in a wastebasket in the men's room.

Commission finds first-year physics schools' weak link

The weakest link in the chain of physics education is the first one—the year of high school physics. The Commission on College Physics has found that many high school students receive an inadequate view of physics or miss it altogether simply because there are not enough trained teachers.

The Commission reports that "...the shortage of qualified high school physics teachers is one of the most pressing problems facing American physics today in that its solution is central to the future vitality of our profession."

The report, which is to be published soon, was summarized in a recent issue of "The Physics Teacher," a publication of the American Association of Physics Teachers.

Although the reasons for the shortage are complex, the Committee places much of the blame on the academic physics community. These are the people best qualified to prepare physics teachers, and they are doing very little.

The report states that 572 college graduates would be needed as half or full time physics teachers. Although 503 such students will graduate, only 336 will actually enter the teaching profession.

The Commission makes several specific recommendations for remedies. These include seven points to be considered in setting up a teacher training program and a suggested course schedule. In addition, one section of the report considers ways to attract students to the program.

Stabbing climaxes row in parking lot

A 16-year-old Springfield boy, allegedly being teased by several other boys last Thursday afternoon in a parking lot, reportedly attacked one of his tormentors with a folding camper's knife and sent him to the hospital for stomach surgery, according to local police.

The report stated that the incident took place in a parking lot along Mountain avenue, near Maple avenue. A group of teenagers had reportedly been picking on one youngster, tearing up his book and taking his sneakers.

He then took his knife, the report added, and stabbed one of the other boys in the stomach. The lad was taken by the First Aid Squad to Overlook Hospital, where his condition was later reported as good, following an operation.

4 Springfield students on Seton Hall honor roll

Four Springfield residents have been named honor students at Seton Hall Preparatory School, South Orange, for the third-quarter marking period.

Charles R. Fuchs, a freshman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuchs, of 215 Milltown road, is listed on the honor roll for attaining grades of 88 percent or better in every subject. Also achieving the merit roll for grades of 83 percent or better in every subject were Charles J. Gaco, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gaco, of 287 Short Hills ave., Robert C. Gerardo, son of Mrs. Rita Gerardo, of 384 Meisels ave., and Kenneth G. Ott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ott, of 3 Donna rd., all freshmen.

MARIETTA, Ohio — Mark Spector, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Spector of 9 Hemlock ter., Springfield, N.J., is a member of a Marietta College student organization which is neither social, vocational, musical, departmental, religious, athletic nor literary in nature.

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School graduate, a senior majoring in economics, is a tutor for the Student Tutorial Association.

He is a member of the Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism honorary society; co-captain of the tennis team; business manager of the Marcollan, campus newspaper, and a member of the Student Senate, Brandeis Club and Economics Club.

Spector and the nearly 90 other members of the Student Tutorial Association give service on a one-to-one personal basis to high school, junior high and elementary students whom they tutor in every subject from algebra to zoology.

Advised by J. Kermit Gatten, head of the college's sociology department, the association has grown dramatically since it was started by a handful of students in Gatten's "Human Community" class in 1964-65.

Birds 'signature' sought on radar

"Dot angels"—radar returns from unknown point targets—can be shown in many cases to be from birds, and scientists from the Applied Physics Laboratory (APL) of Johns Hopkins University have characterized the radar signature of a single bird in flight.

Thomas Konrad, John Hicks, and Ella Dobson of the APL report in Science their research that established the signature by which birds could be identified positively on radar screens.

Birds constitute a hazard to aircraft in flight, and if ground-based radar could be used to detect and track bird movements, flight controllers could divert aircraft from potentially hazardous areas. The problem is to identify the target without visual control—is it a bird, a cloud, a swarm of insects, or small clouds?

A bird in flight is a complex target and produces a highly fluctuating radar "blip." The key to identification is the radar cross-section (the power received from the bird), which is related to the size of the bird and to relative motion within the bird, for example, the wing beats.

Radar signatures of individual birds were developed from data obtained by radar tracking of single birds dropped from aircraft at Wallops Island, Virginia.

Oil city on stilts 60 miles at sea 'Black gold' pumped from the Caspian

By GYORGY OSSIPOV Azerbaijan means "Land of Fire." And to this day, visitors to Surakhkan just outside Baku are shown a square tower built of grey stone, the famous "Temple of Fire." These pilgrims flocked from all over the East to worship the flame that burned there day and night. These "fire worshippers" believed that the flames which seemed to issue from the very bowels of the earth were due to some supernatural power, little realizing that they were fed by a stream of natural gas seeping through the rock.

Mountainous and volcanic, Azerbaijan is one of the world's richest oil- and gas-bearing areas. Local chronicles record that as far back as the 13th century people in the area used to collect the "black gold" that seeped through the earth around Baku. It was not, however, until 1871 that the first industrial oil well was drilled on the Apcheron peninsula north-east of Baku. These first oil wells were very crude affairs; the petroleum gushing out of them was channelled through troughs and scooped into huge skin containers. Carts then hauled them down to the coast where they were loaded onto sailing ships.

Such primitive methods have long since been abandoned. But if you stroll round Baku harbour after nightfall, you will see thousands of strange lights reflecting in the bay and sparkling over the city. These are the flames of the oil plants operating all round Baku, out at sea as well as on land.

Drilling for oil under the Caspian Sea began only after World War II, but its development has been remarkable. Today, output from the underwater fields accounts for half of all the crude oil produced in Azerbaijan. And production is likely to rocket when drilling starts on the submarine shelf that stretches eastwards from the Apcheron peninsula all the way across the Caspian. This development is due to begin in 1970. But already a huge petroleum complex, operating on the high seas about 60 miles out from Baku, offers a good idea of the shape of things to come.

AFTER LEAVING BAKU our ship skirted the rocky coastline and then headed out into the open sea. We steamed on for about an hour and a half with green, white-crested waves stretching as far as the eye could see. Then, suddenly, an outline began to rise out of the empty ocean, and contours of a town took shape with its roofs, factory smokestacks, derricks, docks and huge silvery storage tanks. It seemed to hang in the air, like the mirages described by desert travellers. But as we drew closer we realized that this was no optical illusion; we saw waves breaking around massive steel piles which supported elevated roadways, trucks travelled to and fro at high speed, and ships, tugs and floating cranes manoeuvred purposefully. Here and there, a few dark rocks covered with shells and mud showed above the water. These, the captain told us, were the legendary "Neftyanie Kamni" or "Oil Rocks."

How did this dangerous reef, the scene of many shipwrecks and inhabited only by a few seals and cormorants, come by its strange name? Sailors maintained that the water in this part of the Caspian smelled strongly of oil and they had noticed a thin, rainbow-like film on the surface. Those who landed on the reef had seen trickles of greenish liquid seeping through crevices in the rocks. This liquid burned when they struck a match and, in winter, seal-hunters used to set it afire to keep warm.

More than once, scientists had tried to solve the mystery of the "Oil Rocks." But their equipment was too crude to carry out research on the high seas. Prospecting the Caspian deeps began in earnest in 1946, and for more than two years geologists and engineers studied the area around the rocks. A deep well was sunk about 60 miles from the coast and, in January 1949, it yielded the first drops of submarine oil.

Drilling a well on the high seas raised a whole series of problems: foundations for the derricks had to be laid; workers had to be accommodated on the bare, wave-swept rocks; while platforms were erected above the water, communications had to be organized with the shore; material and equipment brought on to the rocks; and, furthermore, if large-scale drilling was to be carried out in the area, storage tanks would have to be erected as well as housing for the workers. Was all this possible? The engineers decided that it was.

BUILDERS, WELDERS, electricians, etc., soon began to arrive from Baku. Fleets of ships and floating cranes brought out ready-made foundations for the derricks, tanks to store the oil, and pre-fabricated houses. Streets and causeways, piers and jetties, to a total length of 135 miles, were laid along the piles. Today, Neftyanie Kamni, a modern city on steel stilts, is linked by telephone and radio to Baku, which is two hours away by boat and half an hour by helicopter. Life there is almost the same as it is on land. There are comfortable one-story houses for the oil workers, equipped with electricity, gas, running water and television. The city has its restaurants and canteens, several stores, a cinema, a clinic, a post-office and even a technical training school. But the working day lasts only six hours and salaries are almost 50% higher than on dry land.

Equipment is modern and highly mechanized. Self-driven cranes equipped with pneumatic hammers drive the piles into the sea bed, so that new "streets" and "squares" can be built above the water. Each team of workers is equipped with powerful electric and turbo-drills that cut clean through the ocean bed-rock to a depth of more than three miles. For oil deposits do not lie in underground pools or veins; the petroleum permeates the porous rocks of the earth's crust where it is subjected to terrific pressure, so that directly a new well is drilled it gushes upwards. After a time, however, as the pressure in the oil-bearing stratum decreases, it becomes increasingly difficult to extract oil,

Thomas Konrad, John Hicks, and Ella Dobson of the APL report in Science their research that established the signature by which birds could be identified positively on radar screens.

Birds constitute a hazard to aircraft in flight, and if ground-based radar could be used to detect and track bird movements, flight controllers could divert aircraft from potentially hazardous areas. The problem is to identify the target without visual control—is it a bird, a cloud, a swarm of insects, or small clouds?

A bird in flight is a complex target and produces a highly fluctuating radar "blip." The key to identification is the radar cross-section (the power received from the bird), which is related to the size of the bird and to relative motion within the bird, for example, the wing beats.

Radar signatures of individual birds were developed from data obtained by radar tracking of single birds dropped from aircraft at Wallops Island, Virginia.

Oil city on stilts 60 miles at sea 'Black gold' pumped from the Caspian

By GYORGY OSSIPOV Azerbaijan means "Land of Fire." And to this day, visitors to Surakhon just outside Baku, see a square tower built of grey stone, the famous "Temple of Fire" to which pilgrims flocked from all over the East to worship the flame that burned there day and night. These "fire worshippers" believed that the flames which seemed to issue from the very bowels of the earth were due to some supernatural power, little realizing that they were fed by a stream of natural gas seeping through the rock.

Mountains and volcanoes; Azerbaijan is one of the world's richest oil- and gas-bearing areas. Local chroniclers record that as far back as the 13th century people in the area used to collect the "black gold" that seeped through the earth around Baku. It was not, however, until 1871 that the first industrial oil well was drilled on the Apcheron peninsula north-east of Baku. These first oil wells were very crude affairs: the petroleum gushing out of them was channelled through troughs and scooped into huge-skin containers. Carts then hauled them down to the coast where they were loaded onto sailing ships.

Such primitive methods have long since been abandoned. But if you stroll round Baku harbour after nightfall, you will see thousands of strange lights reflecting in the bay and sparkling over the city. These are the flames of the oil plants operating all round Baku, out at sea as well as on the land.

Drilling for oil under the Caspian Sea began only after World War II, but its development has been remarkable. Today, output from the underwater fields accounts for half of all the crude oil produced in Azerbaijan. And production is likely to rocket when drilling starts on the submarine shelf that stretches eastwards from the Apcheron peninsula all the way across the Caspian. This development is due to begin in 1970. But already a huge petroleum complex, operating on the high seas about 60 miles out from Baku, offers a good idea of the shape of things to come.

AFTER LEAVING BAKU our ship skirted the rocky coastline and then headed out into the open sea. We steamed on for about an hour and the half with green, white-capped waves stretching as far as the eye could see. Then, suddenly, an outline began to rise out of the empty ocean, and contours of a town took shape with its roofs, factory smokestacks, derricks, docks and huge silvery storage tanks. It seemed to hang in the air, like the mirages described by desert travellers. But as we drew closer we realized that this was no optical illusion: we saw waves breaking around massive steel piles which supported elevated roadways; trucks travelled to and fro at high speed, and ships, tugs and floating cranes manoeuvred purposefully. Here and there, a few dark rocks covered with shells and mud showed above the water. These, the captain told us, were the legendary "Neftyanie Kami" or "Oil Rocks."

How did this dangerous reef, the scene of many shipwrecks and inhabited only by a few seals and cormorants, come by its strange name? Sailors maintained that the water in this part of the Caspian smelled strongly of oil and they had noticed a thin, rainbow-like film on the surface. Those who landed on the reef had seen trickles of greasy liquid seeping through crevices in the rocks. This

Experimental plays at Newark Rutgers

The Drama Workshop on the Newark Campus of Rutgers University will close its season with the 10th annual Bill of Experimental Plays. Three plays, written, directed, designed and performed by students, will be presented beginning tomorrow evening at 8:15. Other performances are scheduled for April 27, May 2, 3 and 4 at 8:15 p.m., with a 12:15 matinee on Wednesday, May 1.

The show will be presented at the Drama Workshop, 31 Fulton st., Newark. Tickets are $1.50.

The playwrights are Barry Prag, a freshman from Irvington; Kenneth Kalls, a senior from Elizabeth, and Elena Zwiibel, a freshman from Newark.

BIG DRINKERS — Rats are making pigs of themselves in brain research experiments conducted by Dr. Joseph Mendelson of the Rutgers College psychology department. As long as water is available, Dr. Mendelson's rats continue, even when bloated, to press levers which induce thirst. The psychologist says they keep on drinking just for the fun of it.

Rats are making pigs of themselves

Their cups runneth over in brain experiments

"You can lead a horse to water," goes the adage, "but you can't make him drink." This bit of our forefathers' wisdom may be in need of revision as a result of brain research experiments conducted by Dr. Joseph Mendelson of the Rutgers College psychology department.

Laboratory rats (they're easier and cheaper to work with than horses) not only have been led to water, but have learned to induce thirst in themselves so that they can enjoy more water, even though they may be loaded to the gills.

Psychologists have found it easy to train rats to press a certain lever to get a drink when they're thirsty. But Dr. Mendelson wondered how the rats would react to an induced thirst if they had plenty of water, and were, in fact, saturated with the stuff.

The rats were outfitted with stainless steel electrodes in their brains to stimulate the part that regulates thirst. When they tripped a lever they would get a mild charge that made them thirsty.

classical view of motivation holds that thirst is the primary thing that motivates rats to seek water. But, Dr. Mendelson says, this view must be re-examined in the light of the results of his current research.

"To say that thirst motivates rats to press the lever to obtain water is no more meaningful than to say that water motivates rats to press for thirst," he says. "It is the availability of both thirst and water that induces the rats to literally take steps to get both."

In the same way, Dr. Mendelson says, "the availability of food to satiated animals would probably motivate them to seek hunger."

The 29-year-old psychologist began his research at M.I.T. and continued at the University of Michigan. Now, with the aid of $29,000 from the National Science Foundation and the National Institute of Mental Health, he will continue his research at Rutgers for three years.

"IN PREVIOUS INVESTIGATIONS I have found that hunger and thirst are not necessary to induce rats to seek food and water," he says. "My present objective is to show that moderate hunger and thirst do not even contribute to a rat's desire to find food and water. Rather these drives tell the rats that eating and drinking can now be rewarding."

With two research assistants and three other members of a team, Dr. Mendelson is expanding his experiments to include other aspects of rat behavior, such as nest building, hoarding and mating.

Much of the research will be aimed at determining the relationship between electrical stimulation and the rats' natural environment and how the two govern behavior.

It's all designed to find out more about what makes the furry little creatures run, and like most psychological research it will hopefully find a place in studies of what makes a complex human being run.

Dr. Mendelson hasn't suggested that there are parallels between the rats and humans in his initial experiments, but the results are suggestive.

After all, well-fed humans have been "pressing the lever" to induce hunger for years. How about that cocktail before dinner?

Topic at program tomorrow to be 'Crisis-Ridden World'

"New Policies for a Crisis-Ridden World" will be the theme of the second Edward T. H. Williams Convocation, to be held at the Rutherford campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University tomorrow. The all-day session will take place in the upper lecture hall of the Round Building.

Chancellor Peter Sammartino will serve as chairman of this convocation. The program will open at 10 a.m. with an address by Lord Caradon, speaking on "Emerging Nations." Lord Caradon is minister of state for foreign affairs and permanent United Kingdom representative at the United Nations. He was the United Kingdom's last ambassador to Rhodesia and has long been an authority on Africa.

Following Lord Caradon's address, the morning portion of the program will conclude with an address by David Schoenbrun, senior lecturer, Graduate School of International Affairs, Columbia University. He will speak on "The Historical Background and the Formant in the Far East."

Following luncheon, the convocation will resume at 2 p.m., with Richard C. Hotelet, United Nations correspondent, speaking on "The Role of the United States as seen by the United Nations in the Changing World of the Twentieth Century."

Final speaker of the afternoon will be Harry Schwartz, specialist on Soviet affairs and member of the editorial board of the New York Times. His subject will be "Russia and its Satellite Countries." Schwartz has recently returned from Czechoslovakia and Poland.

AFTER NUMEROUS EXPERIMENTS, Dr. Mendelson discovered that the rats would not press the thirst inducing lever when water was available. They got no kick from the thirst stimulation alone. The same rats, however, would continue to press the lever, even though bloated, when water was available to them.

From this, Dr. Mendelson concluded that the combination of the two, thirst and availability of water, produced in the rats a sense of reward that they themselves could control.

In other words, says Dr. Mendelson, the rats discovered that by repeatedly pressing the bar they could take advantage of the availability of water; that is, they could enjoy the reward or "fun" of drinking.

It is the fun or reward idea that is the significant part of Dr. Mendelson's findings. The

'Oklahoma!' in Millburn celebrates 25th year

The Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein hit musical, 'Oklahoma!' which is celebrating its 25th year on the stage, is the current attraction on the Paper Mill Playhouse stage in Millburn.

Based on Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs," the Millburn production stars Linda Bennett, James Hurst and Michael Kernoyan, with Larry Roquemore, Marie Sannell, Joseph R. Sicari, Lois Holmes and Tom Noel.

Meadowbrook musical is lively, bouncy, 'funny'

By BEA SMITH "Funny Girl," the sad-funny musical biography of Fanny Brice, has many things in its favor on stage at the Meadowbrook Theater-in-the-Round in Cedar Grove. Its music is lively, bouncy, quiet and lovely; its scenery is beautiful and colorful, and its cast is entirely entertaining.

It lacks one thing, however, "Funny Girl" at the Meadowbrook lacks a "funny" girl. The beautiful Denise Lor, try as she might, cannot convince an audience that she's homely, unattractive and "unsexy." Despite the fact that her makeup is scant, her costumes bulky and her reticent statements about herself being "unpretty," she cannot hide the fact that she is attractive and sexy.

After a while, however, when the Julie Styne-Bob Merrill show gets on the road, and the music livens the theater with such numbers as "People," "Don't Rain On My Parade," "Sadie, Sadie," "I'm the Greatest Star," and "Rat-Tat-Tat-Tat," the audience begins to accept the fine performance of Miss Lor and the equally fine performance of her co-star, Johnny Desmond and their supporting cast, particularly Thelma Lee, La Rue Watts, Ronnie Cunningham, Art Barnet, Frank Elrt and Ray Becker.

There are lots of sharp, funny lines, when the case is not singing and dancing. The musical is very well directed by Marvin Gordon. So -- who needs a "funny" girl?

'Battle of Bands' slated Saturday

Four bands will compete Saturday night at Union High School in the Battle of the Bands, sponsored by Youth-in-Action of Union. The competition and dance will begin at 8 p.m. and continue to midnight.

Competing will be The Third Street, Spontaneous Love Combustion, The Crystal Lullpop and The New Sound.

Tickets, at $1.50, may be purchased from any Youth-in-Action member, or by calling 688-4776. Tickets will also be available at the door Saturday night.

A psychedelic light show will be one of the highlights of the evening. The display has been donated by Rondo Music, Route 22, Union.

'Wind's 17th week

'Gone With the Wind' is currently in its 17th week at the Clairbridge Theater, Montclair. The David O. Selznick production, which won 10 Academy awards, is being shown in 70 mm. wide screen, stereophonic sound and Metro color, and stars Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Olivia De Havilland, Leslie Howard and Hattie McDaniel.

Hoffman, Bancroft movie in 12th week

'The Graduate' began its 12th week yesterday at the Millburn Cinema-in-Millburn. The picture, which won several Oscars, tells an adult story of an awkward young man who rebels against his elders' way of life.

Dustin Hoffman, Anne Bancroft and Katharine Ross have leading roles in the film. The picture, photographed in color, was directed by Mike Nichols.

'Carmen, Baby' is held on Art Theater screen

'Carmen, Baby,' the controversial adult picture updating the "Carmen" theme, began its second week yesterday at the Art Theater, Irvington Center. Filmed in Yugoslavia and Germany, the picture stars Uta Levka and Claude Rains and was directed by Radley Metzger.

JAG is the armed-services abbreviation for judge advocate-general.

Drew chaplain to speak at annual meeting of 'Y'

The Five Points YMCA, Union, will hold its third annual dinner meeting tonight at the Town and Campus Restaurant on Morris avenue. Featured speaker will be the Rev. James Boyd Jr., chaplain of Drew University. He will speak on "Turn On, Tune In, Drop Out." Rev. Mr. Boyd will speak from his experience as chaplain of Drew for the last three years, a post he held previously in 1953 on a part-time basis while on a teaching fellowship in the Liberal Arts School. Rev. Mr. Boyd's parish experience includes Livingston and Summit, where he played a major role in setting up the chaplaincy at Overlook Hospital. He also served as senior pastor of the Methodist Church in Schenectady, N.Y. He has lectured in many parts of the country and abroad.

Home garden talk slated at Trailside

Joseph Cazeneuve of Scotch Plains will present a lecture and demonstration entitled "Horticulture in the Home Garden" at 2 p.m. on Sunday, at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation.

Cazeneuve will lecture on various methods of beautifying the outside area of the home by using plants and flowers. The program will be illustrated with color slides. Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, and Miss Irma H. Heyer, educational assistant at Trailside, will present one-half hour nature talks for children at 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, May 2. The topic selected for the week is "Bird Nesting." The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature and Science Center, tour the live-animal area, view the thousands of indoor exhibits and participate in the scheduled programs.

Earnings limit up for social security

The social security amendments of 1967 raise from $1,500 to $1,680 the amount of total earnings a social security beneficiary may have in a year without any of his benefits being withheld, Ralph W. Jones, district manager in Elizabeth, announced this week.

He pointed out that this new provision applies to all monthly beneficiaries under age 72 but not to any person who is receiving benefits because he is disabled. Special rules with medical considerations must be applied when people who are receiving benefits because of their disability return to work. No benefits will be withheld from a beneficiary if his earnings are no more than $1,680 in 1968. If total earnings exceed $1,680, $1 is withheld from benefits for each $2 of earnings between $1,680 and $2,880; above $2,880, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings, Jones said.

However, no benefits will be lost for a month in which the beneficiary neither earns over $140 in wages nor performs substantial services as a self-employed person. As under the previous law, beginning with the month in which he reached age 72 no benefits are withheld regardless of how much a beneficiary may earn, Jones said.

Jones emphasized that, due to these new provisions, "it is increasingly important for people approaching retirement age to realize that they may be able to collect some social security benefits although they still continue to work." He urged those who wish additional information about social security payments while still working to visit the social security district office at 268 North Broad St. or telephone 351-3200.

Research programs urged for state's industrial growth

New Jersey's industrial growth will hinge largely upon how much money industry is willing to put into the societal research problems now confronting engineering, according to one Newark College of Engineering expert.

Speaking before a meeting of the North Jersey section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Dr. Richard G. Grisley, director of research at NCE, said it is the responsibility of all New Jersey industry to invest in research programs that affect everyone.

He cited air and water pollution, mass transportation and urban planning as immediate and pressing research areas that could result in tangible results through engineering, given the proper funding.

"The research programs being developed at Newark College of Engineering and at other schools in the state can be of real significance in overcoming many of the current difficulties that face us," Dr. Grisley said.

State investigating hearing problems in 2 to 6-year-olds

The State Department of Education has launched a state-wide survey of pre-school children aged 2-6 who have hearing impairments.

The survey seeks to determine the number of such children, where they are located, the degree of impairment, what services they are receiving and what plans should be made to meet their future educational needs.

The survey was ordered by the State Legislature in February with a view toward making special provision for the considerable number of New Jersey children afflicted with sensory disorders as a result of the epidemic of rubella disease (German measles) that occurred in the United States during the years 1962-64.

Miss Vincenz Cianci, a consultant in the Department's Office of Special Education, is directing the survey. A report of the findings, together with recommendations, will be made to State Education Commissioner Carl L. Marburger who will send it to Gov. Richard J. Hughes and the Legislature by July 1.

Miss Cianci said the survey will attempt to identify all pre-school children who have hearing impairments, with or without other handicaps, and to further identify cases in which the children were born to mothers who had contracted rubella.

In carrying out the survey, Miss Cianci's office is contacting all schools, agencies, institutions, professional people and other persons who may have information regarding such children. Radio stations serving New Jersey will be asked to cooperate by informing the public and parents in particular of the survey of handicapped children.

A "Survey Alert" day will be designated on which parents may telephone a special number to make sure their child's case is reported.

"Many industries now realize that an investment in research such as air pollution can reap many benefits far more valuable to the community than a similar investment in product development," Grisley said.

HE NOTED THAT NCE is uniquely prepared to work in such areas through its traditionally close relationships with industry, professional societies and community organizations.

"New Jersey industry need only look at California and Massachusetts," Grisley said, "to see how major investments in pure and applied research by industry has come back to these states a hundredfold."

With the proper financing, Grisley said, New Jersey could equal or surpass the great industrial-education research complexes that strive in other parts of the nation.

"It has been industrial investment, along with grants from the government and from private sources, that has enabled our colleges to acquire the talent and equipment to do research that in turn leads to new industry," Grisley said.

In addition to current problems, engineering schools must also have the funds to investigate new fields that will be choice industrial areas ten years hence.

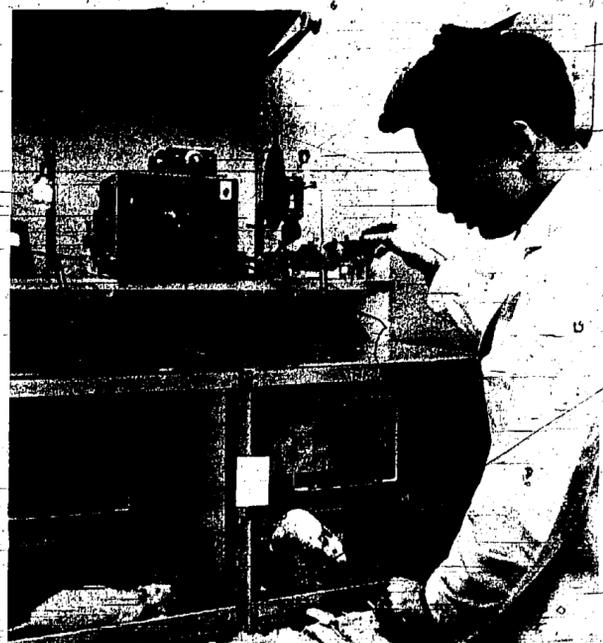

"At Newark College of Engineering we are now exploring our capabilities to work in biomedical engineering research, in ocean engineering and in several other new engineering fields that will be commonplace a generation from now," Grisley said. "It is industry's responsibility to protect their future product interests with basic academic research now."

Commonwealth Water names Snider to post

Jack H. King, vice-president of Commonwealth Water Company, this week announced the appointment of Richard L. Snider to the position of assistant manager.

Snider, a native of Pennsylvania, joined the American Water Works Company system in 1948 and has held various positions in the American system since then, the most recent being with the West Virginia Water Company.

Snider reports to J. H. Bartholomew, who resumes his duties as president of the company as of April 30.

STUDYING ANIMAL BEHAVIOR - Joseph Terkel, a former sergeant in the Israeli army, is a research assistant studying the maternal behavior in rats at the Rutgers Institute of Animal Behavior in Newark. He earned part of the money he needed to come to this country by catching frogs to be used in research at Hebrew University, where he simultaneously held two teaching posts.

Caught frogs to get here Israeli studying rats' behavior

It took Joseph Terkel two years to get from Israel to the United States. And that's not bad, considering that frogs carried him part of the way.

The frogs are just part of a background that includes service last June as a sergeant in the Israeli army, teaching at the Hebrew University in Israel and pumping blood between two rats.

Terkel is a young research assistant and pre-doctoral student at the Rutgers Institute of Animal Behavior in Newark. There, he and Dr. Jay Rosenblatt are studying the physiological basis of maternal responsiveness in rats, which explains the blood pumping.

But how Terkel managed to find his way to Newark is a more complicated tale. It always is when you have to depend on frogs.

"About five years ago," Dr. Rosenblatt said, "Joseph wrote me a letter saying he wanted to study animal behavior at Rutgers. He had read one of my papers and was interested in our work."

"But we couldn't find a way to get him over here since he was a pre-doctoral student. It was a problem."

IT WAS A PROBLEM which Terkel solved all by himself. "I worked two and a half jobs," he said, "to earn enough to come to the United States."

His half job, it turns out, was catching frogs at night, a peculiar sort of moonlighting. The frogs were used in research. His other two jobs were teaching posts at Hebrew University.

Joseph's arrival was a happy meeting of our needs and his skills," Dr. Rosenblatt said. The needs revolved around the study of maternal behavior in rats and the work is basically an analysis of what has been called instinct... but isn't.

The first discoveries in the experiments showed that even virgin females and male rats show a maternal responsiveness (taking a nursing position, building nests, rearing pups) if exposed to the rat pups for five and a half days.

Dr. Rosenblatt also found that there is a further development of the responsiveness during pregnancy, a period of 23 days, and that the female rat will show more response after less exposure to the pups. He said that this is due to hormones which make rats more maternally responsive.

This led to a determination to study the blood and transferral of blood between rats. And this is where Terkel came in.

AT FIRST, HE injected virgin rats with blood plasma from a mother rat. The injection caused maternal responses after 48 hours with the pups. But simply injecting the blood was not enough. Terkel wanted to transfer the blood between two rats of the same size, one virgin and the other not.

After much trial and error, he devised a pump which exchanges blood as it lets the animals roam freely in a large cage. The rats feel no pain or pressure even with the tube in the back of their necks because of a swivel and weight-balance arrangement. The device has the advantage of recording the actual conditions under which behavior develops.

This phase of the experiment on mother-young behavior patterns is just beginning. Terkel's development of the equipment was difficult simply because it was unique. With the right equipment now developed, however, Terkel and Dr. Rosenblatt can continue their experiments.

Family open house Sunday afternoon at Five Points 'Y'

The Five Points YMCA will hold its family open house program at the YMCA building at 218 Salem rd., Sunday from 2-4 p.m. Warren Rorden, chairman of the public relations committee, is being assisted by Mrs. Doris Morrison, Mrs. Audrey Kranski, Mrs. Mary Merrick, Mrs. Virginia Rorden, Lester Polkington and others.

Displays, demonstrations, fellowship and free refreshments will be offered to the families present. Howard Merrick, Branch Executive, said.

Displays being planned include an exhibit by the family camping group of tents, trailers, stoves, kitchen units, and a family camping information center with brochures of places to camp. There will also be displays of the Nursery School, Summer Fun Club, Aquatics, Camp Waywande and the 'Y' Indian Guides. Demonstrations will include trampoline under the direction of Neil Frigand, gymnastics under the instruction of Henry Kratz, baton twirling led by Miss Alice Kennedy. These will be done by members of the regular class.

"This open house program will be an opportunity for those who are not acquainted with the YMCA programs to get a glimpse of what goes on at the YMCA. Members, too, will see what other programs the YMCA offers and all will have a chance to meet the board of managers. This is the YMCA contribution to the youth week events in Union," Merrick said.

9 area podiatrists to attend conclave

Nine area podiatrists will attend the American Podiatry Association's Region 3 convention, which begins today and continues through Sunday, at the Shelbourne Hotel, Atlantic City. Donald Fischer and Leonard Harris, Roselle; Dr. Edna Tropp and Dr. Leon Tropp, Springfield.

In addition to the scientific program, the convention will include a reception, golf tournament, an open house party and dance and a cocktail party and dinner-dance.

Clergy challenge suburbs on 'crisis' in cities

Clergymen of three faiths called on white, suburban America to do what is "morally right" as they discussed "The Spiritual Crisis in the Urban Community" at Newark State College in Union Friday.

The workshop session was one of a series held at the college Friday and Saturday during a "Conference on Urban Affairs." The keynote address was given Friday night by Paul N. Ylvisaker, state commissioner of urban affairs, who urged a "massive commitment" to solve the problems facing the state and the nation.

At the workshop on "The Spiritual Crisis," the Rev. Thomas G. Fahy, vice president for instruction at Seton Hall University, described the problem of urban blight as beyond the powers of the cities themselves to solve.

Toolmaker training outlined to Union Chamber committee

Frederick J. Worley, executive secretary of the New Jersey Tool, Die and Precision Machining Association, addressed a meeting of the management-labor relations committee of the Union Township Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday at the Town & Campus Restaurant. He spoke on "On the Job Training."

Smokers clinic to open branch

A new branch of "QUIT," a smoker's clinic which provides help for people who wish to stop smoking, will be opened in Colonia. It was announced by Mrs. Antonia Marotta and Mrs. Lorraine Wurtzel, co-directors of the organization. The initial meeting will be held in cooperation with the Middlesex Chapter of the American Cancer Society on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Colonia Civic Club, Inman ave. and Conduit way.

He suggested that clergymen consider "an older approach" to their religious congregations and "use the word 'God' itself," adding: "We have a tradition to prove that before God all men are equal."

He also charged that there is a "lack of feeling" in the cities today and called on organized religion to play "a more definitive role in this crisis of feeling."

The Rev. William Fox of Newark, the only Negro on the panel, described the spiritual crisis as "essentially a problem of will on the part of an affluent society to do what it morally knows to be right."

Smoking Safety

Set up rigid family smoking rules for safety's sake, advises the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company. See that they are obeyed. Thoroughly family-and-guest-smoking-habits-account-for the largest number of residence fires each year. Rules should include no smoking in bed, and safe disposal of cigarettes and matches.

Other workshop sessions Friday discussed "The Politics of Urban Education," "Urban Immigrants: New and Old, a Comparative Study," and "The Policeman and the Community."

THE CONFERENCE CONTINUED Saturday with workshops on "The Air-We-Breathe and the Water We Drink," "New Careers for the Poor: The Role of the Urban School," "Strangers in the City: La Vida," "The War on Poverty: Success or Failure," "The Urban Crawl: The City and Transportation," "Competition or Integration: The Dilemma of the Urban School," "The Search for Identity: The Urban Negro," "The Welfare Dilemma," "The Shape of the City to Come," "The Role of the University in the Urban Environment," "Property Rights and Human Rights: The Debate on Open Housing" and "The Riot: Symptom or Sickness."

Three speakers on "The Riot" panel agreed that the prospects for Newark this summer look no better than last summer, when rioting tore the city. The speakers, who said nothing has been accomplished there in the past year, were Sanford Jaffe, director of the Governor's Commission on Civil Disorder; Kenneth Gibson, former Newark mayoral candidate; and Eric Mann, who was a member of the Students for Democratic Action in Newark.

'Personal' efforts on racial problems are urged by Wirtz

WASHINGTON—The Nation's racial problem will be solved "only as the people who are the problem — which is all of us — participate in its solution," Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz has declared.

Legislation, he said, "is not enough — although it is a lot.... But we know from the laws about education that a real breakthrough to full racial equality lies beyond the reach of the courts. We come back to citizens. What will we do? What will you do?"

Secretary Wirtz posed his questions while accepting the Sidney Hillman Meritorious Award presented by the Sidney Hillman Foundation.

He suggested that citizens help solve racial problems through: — the simple thing of common decency — just the shared greeting, the friendly word and smile, the thanks for help, the natural social encounter.

— Voluntary citizen movements to achieve desegregation in housing. — Coaching through Headstart, counselling high school children, or working among drop-outs.

He also urged that the recent Report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders be read "in schools, in colleges, in homes" to clear up racial stereotypes.

"Let us know the facts —" he said, "the trap of the ghetto when jobs move out and workers cannot follow — a 30 percent unemployment rate — rat-ridden tenements.... Then, knowing the facts, let us as individuals ask our conscience what we could have made of ourselves in such conditions and whether the worst nightmare we can think of is that a child of ours should have to suffer that fate."

Secretary Wirtz also spoke of the need for jobs, for rebuilding our inner cities, for supporting antipoverty programs, and for eliminating housing segregation.

He said, however, that even with these, "our minorities" could still have to move about in an unaccepting and wounding environment. There is demanded of the majority who to an overwhelming extent command the riches, the opportunity, and the power in their community.

THE BETTER TO HEAR — Larry Haber of Union, right, president of the New Jersey Hearing Aid Dealers Association and executive director of the Union County Hearing Aid Center in Union, watches as Gov. Richard Hughes presents a hearing aid to six-year-old Joseph Bingham of the Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf. The Governor made the presentation in conjunction with a proclamation designating May as "Better Hearing Month."

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I and twenty years old and puzzled as can be. My boyfriend is nineteen years old. He has a job in another town. I have a very good job in town. He asked me to marry him and agreed. After we marry, he wants us to move near his job, out of town, which means I will have to quit my job. Do you think I should quit my job or put off our wedding plans? Please give me some objection about our age also."

OUR REPLY: There is really no great objection we can give about your ages. A difference of one year is not so important where mature individuals are concerned. Nineteen years is perhaps young to be getting married, but a nineteen year old who has a responsible job and is self-supporting probably knows what he is getting himself into. Where the matter of giving up your job is concerned, let's answer it with a question. Would you rather have your job than marry? The husband is the primary breadwinner. It may be true that today some career wives earn more than their husbands, but in the successful marriage, the husband's contribution to the family welfare can never be placed in a secondary role. Women must often take time out to have children and take care of children.

Safety official lists bike rules of road

Parents have a definite responsibility in assuring that children who get new bicycles are taught to obey the rules of the road," George G. Traver, executive vice president of the New Jersey State Safety Council this week advised residents of New Jersey.

"With the steadily increasing use of bicycles in this state for transportation, recreation and pleasure, it is important that safe riding rules be taught to our youngsters," Traver declared.

"Parents who would never think of allowing their sons and daughters to drive the family car without adequate instruction in its safe operation and in traffic rules," he continued, "will often turn a youngster loose on a bike without giving him any instruction in its safe operation."

The safety executive said that parents can be of great help by making sure the bike is in good mechanical condition and that it properly fits the rider, so that the youngster has no difficulty handling it.

Parents should impress young riders with the need for keeping to the right-hand side of the road when pedaling alone and riding single file if in a group. The rider must obey traffic lights and signs, and walk the bike across intersections. The rider should be taught the proper signals for turns, and be sure there's no car close behind when moving to the middle of the street for a left turn.

"WHEN YOU GIVE a youngster permission to ride the bike," Traver said, "do so on condition that your child promises not to carry passengers. They lessen control of the bike and obstruct the rider's view. Provide your child's bike with a rack or basket for carrying parcels. Tell your child to avoid all hitching."

"It's a good idea to warn the youngster not to shoot out of driveways or stunt in traffic. Also warn against running into doors of parked cars that might open unexpectedly."

The executive vice president urged parents to see that the child's bike has a light in front and a red light or reflector on the rear for night riding.

"Bicycling is becoming an increasingly popular activity among Americans of all ages," Traver concluded, "and with nearly 55 million people riding bikes for fun, fitness and transportation, it is incumbent on all of us to make sure they know and follow the rules of the road."

TURNABLE TREATS (good listening) — "Then, Was Then and Now Is Now" by Peggy Lee. More vocal magic done in that Peggy Lee style. There's the wispered-intrigues of "Lovers, Weepers" and "The Shadow of Your Smile," the silky gull of "Free Spirits" and "Trapped" (in the Web of Love), the bright, upbeat camaraderie of "Everybody Has The Right To Be Wrong!" the torchy allurement of "I Go To Sleep" and the evergreens "Leave It To Me" (1949), "They Say" and "I'm Afraid The Marguerite Is Over" (both 1938), plus "Seventh Son" and the album title tune "Then Was Then and Now Is Now" (Capitol ST-2388).

Also on the Capitol label, "Hit Songs to Remember" by Ray Anthony, big trumpet and orchestra. The eleven selections for your "dream dancing" pleasure include "The Shadow of Your Smile," "Samba De Orfeu," "What The World Needs Now Is Love," "What Now, My Love," "Spanish Eyes," "Merli, Cherrie," "Michelle," "Call Me," "Yesterday," "The Ballad of The Green Berets" and "Goodbye, My Love." (STP-2530).

"When the Lights Go On Again" by Kay Starr. Here's the lighter vocalist who sounds better and better with each new release. A Starr-studded performance of eleven numbers which include: the album title tune "When the Lights Go On Again" (All Over The World), "I Never Knew I Could Love Anybody," "Some Sweet Tomorrow," "I Don't Want To Walk Without You," "Only When You're Lonely," "Sunny," "I Don't Remember You," "My Melancholy Baby," "You're Nobody Till Somebody Loves You," "I Can't Face The Day" and "You're Finally Getting To Me." Bluessy and beautiful. (ABC Records-5631).

"The Wonderful World of the Young" by The Young Americans. The 36 Young Americans (the youngest is 15, the oldest 20) sing out as only youth is capable of doing with these eleven selections: "The Wonderful World of the Young," "Dilemma" (solo-Kathy Austin), "Michelle," "The Other Man's Grass is Always Greener," "Laura Lee," "Oh, What a Lovely Day" (solo-Rick Clark), "Over the Rainbow," "The Girls of the Summer" (solo-Steve Henry), "Happiness," "Who Am I?" and "Cherish." (ABC Records-5626).

Regional schools will meet to discuss expansion plans

Meeting set for Dec. 14 to give data

Mountainside freshmen to spend year at Dayton

The Regional High School Board of Education will hold a public meeting on Thursday, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, to announce our distribution plan, students and our long-range expansion plan," Avery Ward of Kenilworth, board president, disclosed at the regular board meeting Tuesday night at Dayton.

"Basically," he added, "Mountainside freshmen students will spend their senior year at Dayton for one year and at Gov. Livingston for their last three years."

Ward declined to give any details of just how the physical plant of the regional schools will be expanded. He commented, "The school program will be studied by the architect and officials at the meeting to be announced on Dec. 14."

He said that the plan included an addition to the facilities at Gov. Livingston, he replied, "You can draw that inference if you like. I can't say any more." Ward did note that board members were unanimous in their support for the new expansion plan.

The board also will discuss the expansion of the regional schools at Gov. Livingston, Kenilworth, and Garwood. The board's basic problem for the past year-and-a-half, since the opening of Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Kenilworth, has been that enrollment has exceeded listed capacity at Gov. Livingston and at A. L. Johnson Regional in Clark. Little there have been any openings at Dayton for a long time.

A series of protests from Mountainside parents, however, influenced the board to drop one part of the proposal. This would have sent this year's Mountainside freshmen to Dayton, rather than Gov. Livingston. The group, some 150 youngsters, would have remained at Dayton for the full four years, if that part of the plan had been put into effect.

Two other changes proposed at that time are now in effect. This year's freshmen from Garwood are at Brearley, rather than at Johnson. Older students from Garwood have a choice of whether to attend Brearley or remain at Johnson. Garwood parents have been satisfied by the board that all Garwood students will attend at Brearley for the foreseeable future.

Freshmen from the Bannock Top section of Springfield now attend Dayton, although they would have studied at Gov. Livingston in past years. Older boys and girls from this area were given a choice of schools, whether to remain at Gov. Livingston or transfer to Dayton.

The plans were announced last spring. Citizens expressed some concern over the approval of any expansion plan by the Department of Education. Even though overcrowded, they said, Trenton might hesitate to endorse any plan while space remains in the schools. No information was being made available on any problem had been resolved.

Dayton moves to leave Watchung Conference

Rival schools have larger enrollments to compose squads

A request for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, to withdraw its athletic teams from participation in the Watchung Conference was presented by Dr. Warren M. Davis, regional superintendent of schools to the Regional Board of Education at its meeting Monday night at Dayton.

He noted that the request came from Robert J. Conroy, superintendent of education, with the support of Herbert Balmer, athletic director, Dr. Davis added, "The athletic department faces no difficulty in scheduling games as an independent unit as long as it is able to enter a conference of schools of similar size. I am confident the board will propose no objection to the request."

Dayton has been a member of the Watchung Conference for some five of the 11 years the conference has been in operation. Particularly since Kenilworth students were transferred from Dayton at the start of last year with the opening of Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Kenilworth, the size of school has been by far the smallest in the conference.

Dayton this year has approximately 230 students, boys and girls, in the entire class. Approximate figures for the number of students in each of the other member schools are: Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights, 400; A. L. Johnson Regional, Clark, 370; Cranford, 440; Hillside, 370; Rahway, 410; Scotch Plains, 430; and Westfield, 390.

TWO OTHER SCHOOLS have previously withdrawn from the conference because they felt that they lacked manpower to compete with the larger schools, particularly in football where as many as 20 players are needed for a successful team.

They are Roselle Park High School and Abraham Clark High School of Roselle, both now compete in the Garden State Conference, composed of schools of the approximate size of Dayton, ranging geographically from Cliffside Park in East Orange to several in Monmouth County.

Following approval by the regional board, Dr. Davis commented, the Dayton resignation must then be accepted by conference officials. There will be no visible effect next year, he added, since the school has scheduled commitments which must be met. Dr. Davis predicted that Dayton will need at least two or four years to work out all its commitments.

Another factor in the County athletic alignment, now under study by a group headed by Dr. William West, county superintendent of schools, has been a desire for a county large-sports conference.

New station records weather automatically

An automatic weather recording station which can operate unattended for at least three months has been produced by a company in Great Britain. The value of automatic weather stations has been stressed in a recent World Meteorological Organization report. Modern development in weather-forecasting requires information about climate from all over the world — sometimes from uninhabited areas — and there is a shortage of meteorologists to provide accurate data day by day.

The new weather station is virtually self-contained and can register rainfall, humidity, wind speed and direction, air, soil and water temperatures, barometric pressure, solar radiation and water level and flow. By adding various instruments to the basic design, it is possible to produce a family of stations each operating automatically and the recorded data can then be sent by telemetry to a control centre. Bulldogs face Hillside twice; drop 2 to Plains

By MYRON MEISEL

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School baseball team will play two games against Hillside High School this coming week. The Bulldogs will meet the Comets tomorrow afternoon at home and again at Hillside on Tuesday. Dayton encountered its first defeats of the season last week when it dropped a doubleheader to Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, 4-3 and 14-3.

Dayton led for most of the first game, 3-0, until a three-run homer by Raider outfielder Tony Coleman tied the score in the bottom of the sixth. Dayton scored all three of its runs in the third as Richie Campbell, Ralph Lossano and Fred Vollherst scored on singles by Steve Jupa, Vollherst, and Bob Janukowicz. Scotch Plains sealed the contest in the bottom of the seventh, with two away, when a hard single to right field scored the Raider runner from second. Jupa (3-1) pitched a superb ball game for Dayton yielding only four hits.

The second game proved a rout for the Bulldogs as Scotch Plains rolled up two runs in the first, four in the second, and an astounding eight in the fourth. Janukowicz and Alan Fridkle scored for Dayton in the second propelled by a hit by Gary Kurtz, and Vollherst scored in the sixth after Jon Schoch followed Vollherst's hit with a single of his own.

Head coach Ed Jasinski commented on the team, now 3-2. "We have to bounce back now. Jupa has supplied us with fine pitching, but the team has been hitting very poorly. Hillside is an extremely tough team. They have lost only one game, and that was by one run. They will be difficult to beat, but it is important for us to win in order to maintain our present strong position in the Watching Conference competition. The teams are very close to one another this year, and we could take the title if we can start winning again."

Swimming league to sponsor events in summer season

David Brown of 22 Redwood rd. represented the Springfield Recreation Department at the recent executive meeting of the New Jersey Recreation Swim League. The meeting, held at the Livingston Recreation Building, was attended by representatives of all of the municipalities which participate in the summer swim team program.

One of the items on the agenda was the admission of West Orange as the 10th member of the Recreation Swim League. The teams were realigned for the 1968 season: Cedar Grove, Florham Park, Livingston, Millburn, and New Providence will make up the northern division. Teams representing Bound Brook, Cranford, Maplewood, Springfield, and West Orange will compete in the southern division.

The schedule of dual meets will begin early in July. Springfield swimmers will meet each team in the southern division on a "home-and-away" basis. They will swim against the teams from the northern division only once during the season.

Boys and girls aged seven to 17 who are members of the Springfield Community Pool are eligible to join the team. All events will be held on an age group basis. Freestyle races will be for 10 and under, 11-12, 13-14, and 15-17 year old swimmers. Groupings for the special strokes will be 12 and under and 13-17. Both medley and freestyle relay teams compete in each meet.

Further information about the Springfield swim team will appear in the Springfield Leader and at the pool.

SPORTS CORNER

Dayton tennis team will meet Hillside at home Tuesday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School tennis team will play Hillside High School at home on Tuesday. The Bulldogs netters, under the direction of head coach Norman Pollack, now have a 2-0 record, in net action last week. Dayton defeated New Providence High School, 4-1.

Team captain Lenny Barstein, playing the first singles position encountered strong opposition from New Providence's lead man, Mike Blankman and lost, 4-6 and 3-6. In the second match, the Dayton squad won its matches in straight sets. Dennis Inley and Hank Dohm, playing second and third singles, respectively, beat their opposition, 6-2 and 6-2. The first doubles team, consisting of Mike Chotiner and Artie Starr, won 6-2 and 6-3, and Richie Falkin and Ray Danziger, the second doubles unit, defeated their opponents, 6-1 and 6-1.

Pollack was optimistic about the team's future. "We've done well so far and should continue to do well," he stated. "We do have tougher competition coming up, but we are a very strong team."

Dayton previously defeated Abraham Clark High School of Roselle, 4-1.

Senator Williams offers 'Summer Scholarships'

U. S. Senator Harrison A. Williams (D-NJ) announced this week that for the tenth consecutive year, he is offering three "Washington Summer Scholarships" to New Jersey high school seniors.

The competition is open to graduating seniors in New Jersey High Schools, and three winners will be chosen from the state—one each from North, Central, and South Jersey.

As winners of the scholarship, the three high school graduates will get a look "behind the scenes" in Washington, as guests of Senator Williams. They will spend ten days in the nation's capital, touring key government departments and talking to high-ranking Washington officials.

Sen. Williams noted that this year's contest winners "will be arriving at a time when Washington has really come alive with a vibrant political and social climate." He pointed out that an election year, coupled with the urgent business of both houses of Congress, makes 1968 an excellent year for the interested student of American government.

weigh in the judging of entries: academic achievement of the entrant; participation in extracurricular activities; and the quality of a 500-word essay on "The Student's Role in Government and Politics."

Sen. Williams said that a full schedule is being planned again this year for the scholarship winners. "I believe that the variety of experiences we make available to the scholarship winners gives them a thorough grounding in the complexities of modern government," he added.

Last year, the three winners toured the Supreme Court, U. S. Information Agency, the Goddard Space Flight Center, and a number of other Washington agencies. The three New Jersey graduates were greeted by senators, congressmen — and by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Sen. Williams singled out what he called the "refreshing interplay of ideas" during the scholarship program. He said: "All parties—the scholarship winners and all of us in my office—benefit from the program. I like to think of this annual scholarship as a unique give-and-take between those of us who work year-round on really perplexing issues, and three high school seniors who bring a new perspective into the discussions."

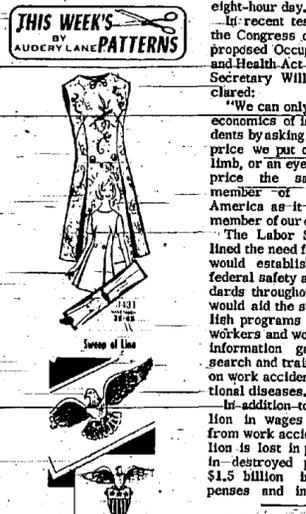

On-job accidents exact frightful toll in life, limb

WASHINGTON — Every working hour the United States economy loses $3.4 million from on-the-job accidents. The eight-hour work day costs $27.2 million — a whopping $6.8 billion every year.

Industrial accidents are even more costly to the American working man and woman — a life, a limb, an eye.

Each year 14,000 to 15,000 die in on-the-job accidents, over 2 million are disabled — many permanently, and 7 million plus are injured.

The American worker loses $750,000 in wages each working hour — $6 million each eight-hour day.

Fit at the top and flare at the bottom is the spring's fashion formula. It works like a charm in this lovely dress. No. 3431 comes in half sizes: 35, 37, 39, 41, 43, 45 inches bust measure. Size 37 without the sleeves takes 2-3/8 yards of 44-inch fabric.

LITERATURE IN EXILE

After visiting Germany, Switzerland, Denmark, the Netherlands and Norway, the travelling exhibition devoted to German literature in exile during the years 1933-1945 was shown recently at the State Museum, Luxembourg. The exhibition, which was organized by the Central Library of the German Federal Republic, will go next to Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Israel, Turkey and France (Paris and Marseilles).

Wirtz urges steps to aid employment

WASHINGTON — There exists a pressing need for an examination of our basic institutions which society has developed for moving youth into adulthood and into employment, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz has declared.

In testimony on the Partnership for Learning and Earning Act (S. 3099) before the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, Wirtz stated that "by October of 1966, those who had graduated from high school in June of that year, secured an unemployment rate of 14.2 percent, and those that dropped out of school that year, 17.4 percent."

"The irony of this tragic situation is that it occurred and is still occurring in a period of high employment and skill shortages," Wirtz continued.

It is this situation which Title I of the Act hopes to alleviate, Wirtz explained, by creating new ways to bridge the gap between public education and manpower agencies. Under the bill, he said, "new and exemplary programs can be tried out at the local level with Federal financing and with particular emphasis on full cooperation and participation by the schools, employment service agencies and employers."

"If the educational system is failing a significant portion of youth, those youth who do not go on to college, its failures must be openly recognized and fundamental changes made," Wirtz continued.

"If the employment service system is not reaching and serving all those youth who need its help the most, its shortcomings must be recognized and acted upon."

"If private industry and employers are establishing policies against the hiring of youth, they must be found to change those policies."

"If all those institutions are not doing enough to prepare noncollege-bound youth for the world in which they will spend most of their lives, the world of work, they must band together in every effort to do so."

Most current shortcomings, Wirtz pointed out, in one way or another involve a failure of institutions to pull together to serve the interests of youth.

Wirtz stated, for example, that while Government manpower and employment service agencies and business have begun to recognize the importance of their role in education, there is not yet the counseling needed to reach the young people while they are still in school.

"The Department of Labor and its related manpower agencies at the State and local levels," he stated, "particularly the 2,000 local employment service offices, must be more intimately involved on a day-to-day basis with the youngsters while in school."

All in all, Wirtz concluded, "Title I of S. 3099 will open doors for us to come to grips with the quality of the basic institutional arrangements that society has created for young people to help them prepare for their life's work."

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
The problem is my 20 year old sister who never lets me wear any of her clothes. Once I wore her cranberry dress to school, and when she found out, she blew her stack. She sometimes wears my clothes and then she says, "Well that's different." I never ruined any of them. I always hung them up again. We also have arguments about making-up, even hair spray. If I run out, she wouldn't dare let me have a little spray of her's. She's a real nut. How should we end this stupid problem?

L.A.G.

Dear L.A.G.:
Your sister has not learned how to share, only to borrow. End the problem by not borrowing what's her's and not lending what's your's.

Dear Amy:
My husband had been receiving letters from my boyfriend, due to the fact that I work in the morning and my husband works in the afternoon. He receives all the mail in the morning and some of this mail is from my boyfriend (love letters). Because I'm ashamed to tell my husband frankly we have begun to quarrel though I know that my husband really is not fooling around and he is jealous. To hide my mistake, I drove my husband away from home and I filed for a divorce. My husband is living with his mother, but my children, two girls, are not happy that their Daddy is not living with us anymore.

What shall I do to make my two girls happy and understanding that I love this other man?
Mrs. Confused

Dear Mrs. Confused:
If you think you can have your cake and eat it, too, without causing unhappiness to your family, you are sadly mistaken.

There is no way that you can make two little girls happy, when you have literally thrown out their father and insist on bringing in another man to take his place.

If your husband loves you, has been good to you and his children, you are making a horrible mistake to throw away bread and look for crumbs.

The decision is yours!

Dear Amy:
Enclosed is this little poem my grandchild wrote in all sincerity, and if her poem is worth reading, I'd like her to receive some recognition for her efforts, either in print or by mail.

Perhaps you may know to whom to direct it to on your staff. Hoping you will think it well worth reading and any consideration given it will be greatly appreciated by a regular reader of your column.

Mrs. M.C.

Your granddaughter's poem was well worth reading. She has demonstrated great thought.

talent and sensitivity for one so young. I submit it with pleasure for everyone to read. ...From the mouths of babes...

WONDERING

You have seen, God,
The sin of your people, haven't you?
Crime, vandalism —
Well I have seen, too...
You have heard, God,
The cries of your people, haven't you?
War, persecution —
Well I have heard, too...
You have felt, God,
The attitudes of your people, haven't you?
Prejudice, discrimination —
Well I have felt, too...
You have thought, God,
Of the condition of this world, haven't you?
Confusion, unhappiness —
Well I have thought, too... and wondered...

Cancer group host to Welk tomorrow

Elliott Pachman of Union, 1968 Gradsade chairman for the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division, announced that all arrangements have been completed for a dinner meeting tomorrow with the nation's top volunteer in the drive against cancer.

Pachman, principal of Elliott-Pachman and Company, certified public accountants of Union and New York City, said Lawrence Welk will be the guest of New Jersey's Crusaders for the American Cancer Society at a special dinner meeting tomorrow of the Society's New Jersey Division to be held at the Holiday Inn in North Brunswick.

According to Pachman, more than 500 volunteers and friends from all 21 counties will attend to meet the famous TV bandleader and two of his featured singers, Natalie Nevins and Joe Feeney.

Clinical sessions slated by nurses association

"Clinical Sessions on Nursing Practice," sponsored by the New Jersey State Nurses' Association will be held Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Berkeley Carter Hotel in Asbury Park.

Planned to provide the citizens of New Jersey with the best possible nursing practices, this is the first of a series of sessions. Speakers will be experts in areas of nursing of mothers and infants, nursing of children, medical-surgical nursing, in-service education, school nursing and teaching techniques.

UC counseling internship for Seton grad students

A counseling internship program for graduate students has been set up on a pilot basis during the current spring semester by Union College, Cranford, and the Department of Counseling and Special Services of the School of Education of Seton Hall University, South Orange.

The program is designed to give the graduate students actual counseling experience at a two-year college, Dr. Paul V. Buonaguro, chairman of the Department of Counseling and Special Services, said.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president of Union College, said the program will be expanded in the future if the pilot program proves to be successful and beneficial.

"We view this program as being mutually beneficial to the two institutions and to the participating graduate students," Dr. Iversen said. "It provides an opportunity for them to gain actual experience in counseling at the two-year college level, while it enhances the scope and depth of our counseling program here at Union College and brings new ideas and new concepts from the Graduate School at Seton Hall to our campus."

Dr. Iversen said programs like this are especially valuable at this time because of the great shortage of experienced people in the two-year college field.

"Since the two-year college movement in the United States is growing at a rate of more than one new institution a week, there is a crying need for experienced people to fill all kinds of administrative and teaching positions," Dr. Iversen said. "More programs like this must be developed here in New Jersey and across the nation if our two-year colleges are to provide high quality programs."

"This program is designed to give the graduate students a look at an experience in all phases of the student personnel area," Dr. Iversen said. "This knowledge and experience will be extremely valuable to them when they join a college counseling staff upon completing their studies at Seton Hall University."

Memorial General receives intern training accreditation

Memorial General Hospital has been accredited by the American Osteopathic Association to provide intern training, it was announced this week by Murray Rubin, hospital administrator. The accreditation makes Memorial General the only osteopathic institution in northern New Jersey to have been approved for this specialized program, he said.

A special selection committee will interview candidates for the 35 approved intern positions. The training program is scheduled to begin July 1, Rubin added.

According to the American Osteopathic Hospital Association, there are 283 osteopathic hospitals, less than half of which—or 124—are accredited. Of the 124 accredited hospitals only seven were approved in 1967 for intern or residency training.

The AOA accreditation committee evaluates hospitals and their professional staffs to determine that they are providing the proper type of medical care. In addition, the committee reviews non-medical departments, such as dietetics, before making a final decision. Memorial General, which was opened in April, 1962, added a $1.75 million wing in July, 1966 that double patient capacity. After it had received its annual accreditation review in June, 1967, the non-profit hospital applied for permission to begin conducting intern training starting this July.

RUBIN SAID THE ACCREDITATION for intern training was based on two factors: the ability to provide quality medical care as determined in the regular hospital-accreditation review and the capability of the medical staff to provide the level of teaching required for an intern program. "The opening of the Leeberg Pavilion two years ago added 43,500 square feet of floor space and increased our patient capacity from 90 to 120 beds, thus giving us the physical plant requirements to support effective training programs. This also enabled Memorial General to improve patient care and service to the community. Another advantage of the expansion was that it allowed us to augment our professional staff and to improve the efficiency of staff committees."

From an operating standpoint, the new wing made possible the renovation and expansion of entire departments in the original building, in some cases doubling and even tripling the sizes of such areas as the emergency room, the laboratory complex and the radiology department. The hospital also purchased a considerable amount of the latest and most sophisticated equipment for the expanded departments, Rubin added.

Dr. Herbert Goff of Westfield, Memorial General's medical director, and an intern committee chaired by Dr. Raymond Poggiali of Clark will supervise the intern training and coordinate the curriculum and schedules with all departments.

YM-YWHA camp planned in summer

CAMP Y-HO-CA, a seven-week camping project, will be sponsored this summer by the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lake, Union, for boys and girls five through 11 years old.

A variety of activities will be offered through the program which will run Mondays through Fridays from July 1 to Aug. 16. Scheduled are Jewish culture programs, creative outdoor skills, swimming instruction and an overnight camping trip. A camp nurse will be available throughout the seven-week period.

Mrs. Marjorie Goldberg will serve as camp director.

Registration of children may be made at the "Y" center. "Y" membership is required for participation in all summer programs.

The Volkswagen for people who refuse to drive Volkswagens.

If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because it's ugly, we can't help you.

If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because you have eight kids and it isn't big enough, you have our sympathy.

If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because it isn't fancy enough, that's for you to decide.

But if you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because you're used to an automatic transmission, listen carefully.

Now you can drive a Volkswagen all over town without shifting.

We call this new option the automatic stick shift.

And in true Volkswagen fashion, a bug with an automatic stick shift will deliver up to 25 miles on a gallon of gas; use very little oil, and nary a drop of water or antifreeze.

But just because we've made it easy to drive, doesn't mean we're about to make it any prettier, for any bigger, or any fancier. So we imagine some people will still refuse to drive Volkswagens.

You can't win them all.

Chief Ehnis lists dates for academy

The 22nd annual session of the Union County Police Training Academy will be conducted at Union College, Cranford, this year from May 20 to July 3, it was announced this week by Police Chief Carl H. Ehnis, director.

Chief Ehnis said classes will be held daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Police Training Academy, sponsored by the Union County Police Chiefs Association, provides basic training for new patrolmen from Union County's 21 municipalities, the Union County Sheriff's Office, and the Union County Park Police.

The academy, the first approved by the New Jersey Police Training Commission, offers 220 hours of instruction in such areas as ethics, police organization, headquarters routine, report writing, criminal law, civil government, gambling, investigative procedures, firearms, judicial system, evidence.

Also, motor vehicle laws, traffic control, accident investigation, police community relations, arrest, search and seizure, defensive tactics, first aid, juvenile control, interrogation procedures, and patrol practices.

Instructors for the Police Training Academy are provided by Union County Police Departments, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Union County Prosecutor's Office, State Division of Motor Vehicles, Union County Sheriff's Office, New Jersey State Attorney General's Office, and Union College.

Dog-napper plea made

Mrs. Victor Palazzi of 18 Cambridge ter, Springfield, this week appealed for the return of her dog, "Wit," who was stolen from the family's yard last Friday evening.

The dog is a female German shepherd, with tan, silver and black markings. The chub holding the dog was unfat, Mrs. Palazzi added. She said that there is a reward for information leading to the dog's recovery. Information may be given by calling the family at 376-8625.

Wall Street Notebook

By ARTHUR POLLACK

Peace in Vietnam would be the greatest imaginable blessing. In addition to the obvious benefits resulting from an end to any war, I believe there would be substantial economic benefits.

Pressure for a tax surcharge would be lessened and perhaps replaced by pressure for tax reduction. While the U.S. cannot discontinue its defense program, a cut in defense spending could reduce the Federal budget deficit, thus reducing Federal borrowing and the upward climb of interest rates could be reversed. War-time spending which is non-productive would be replaced by productive spending on education, housing, highways and the war on poverty.

Although tight money for the building industry (as a result of the rediscount rate boost) is not automatic — and particularly since savings & loan associations have been accumulating funds in anticipation of this move — the possibility of a reduction in available mortgage funds must be considered.

In no event would I expect a credit famine of 1966 proportions, since the heads of both the FNMA and the Federal Home Loan Bank have pledged their assistance in an emergency, even if they should have to contravene Washington's monetary policy.

WHETHER OR NOT the Fed's current strategy will hurt construction activity, is, therefore, uncertain. But this much I know: It can't possibly help. Accordingly, near-term weakness in this industry's securities is a distinct possibility...despite the fact that nobody really Invested in these issues for their 1968 potential.

Because an eventual building boom remains inevitable — although its timing is uncertain — declining market prices merely would present a better-than-ever opportunity to acquire the building issues.

Bank earnings this year should rise at least eight per cent — and if there is another increase in the prime rate, a gain could be somewhat greater. Not only are the banks still benefiting from last November's increase in the prime rate to six per cent, they also are in a strong and more liquid position than in 1966 to meet the expected and increasing demand for funds. Deposits of large city banks increased more than 10% on average last year, and much of this increase is still in the form of cash and short-term Government securities.

For a list of investments at this time, write to Arthur S. Pollack in care of this newspaper. Arthur S. Pollack is a stockbroker at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.
