Holy Cross lists special events for the holiday season

The Christmas schedule for Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 519 Mountain Ave., Springfield, was announced this week by the Rev. Joel R. Yoss, pastor of the congregation. The Rev. Yoss and Altar Guild will prepare the sanctuary with poinsettias, candle arrangements in the windows and a chancel decorated with special ornaments fashioned into the symbols of the Christian faith.

On Christmas Eve the candlelight services of carols will begin at 7 p.m. The children of Holy Cross Sunday School will sing traditional and contemporary Christmas carols. The Rev. Joel R. Yoss will present a sermon entitled "The Best Gift of All." Acolytes for the worship will be Tony Pries and John Freudenberger. Dr. Donald Wynne, superintendent of the Sunday School, is co-ordinator of the Christmas Eve service.

On Christmas Day there will be a festival service at 10 a.m. with the celebration of Holy Communion and a special Christmas service by the choir. The Christmas Day program, directed by Pastor Yoss, will be entitled "Good News in Our Age of Fear."

Also as part of the celebration of Christmas the Sunday school children will be brought gifts for children in the Bethlehem section of New York. This year, instead of exchanging themselves, the Ladies' Guild members gave a donation to the Bethlehem Children's Home in Staten Island.

And please Santa don't knock the tree down

"I've been a good boy for girls" "These are the things I want" and, of course, "I love you." Santa's young correspondents do, however, have a tendency to add individual touches to their letters.

For example, there's the unnamed letter (only Santa, who knows all, knows who sent it) from a youngster asking for "a minibus that is just like the young woman apparently felt it was necessary to add an assurance:

"It only goes 5 miles an hour I promise I really like it."

And there's the joint production of three little sisters who are worried about Santa's health. They asked him: "How is your cold?"

This same trio, after listing some of the gifts they want, added: "Please Santa don't knock the tree down because my grandmother will get angry."

Some of the letters might need explanation for anyone except Santa. For instance, there was the little girl who wrote:

"Dear Santa and Mrs. Santa, Happy Thanksgiving! Daddy said no baby for Christmas because I ripped the wallpaper." Less mysterious was this letter, printed in capital letters:

"I'm a Timex. I want a Swamy Pants. I want a vanity table. I want a Dawn Beauty Pageant. I want a Growing Hair Doll plus outfit. I want a Barbie who wears old."

Other children besides the six-year-old exhibited originality in spelling.

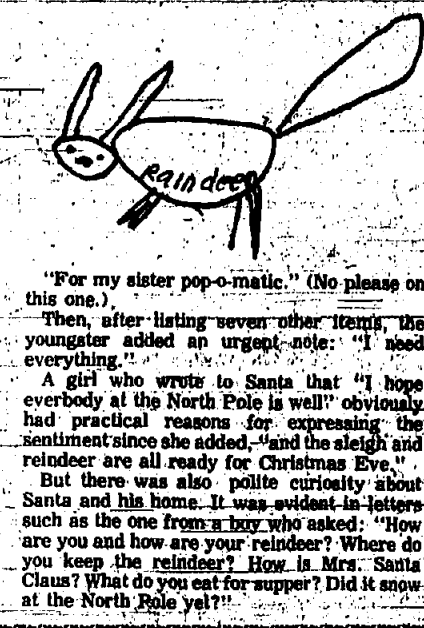

Among them was the boy who wrote "santula" "I want five frogs for crimals." He listed such items as "Bumblers still riding," "Rokem soccer robots," "All star baseball" and "sicalers set."

There were also some popular words in the letters to Santa. But some writers softened the phrase to "I would like" and one, sounding like a girl, said "I wish I had a waltz ballerina. I wish I had a Aurora car, I wish I had an action movie projector, I also wish I had a cotton candy."

In spite of the many "I want," "good man" and polite inquiries about Santa's health, his wishes and reindeer crowd to again, and again. One little boy drew up the traditional list punctuated almost every item with a "please," like this:

"King Ding Please! Please!
"Please! Please! Please!
"Please for my mother rack with drawers.
"Please for my father World War II coin."

"For my sister popo-matic. (No please on this one).
"Then, after listing seven other items, the youngster added an urgent plea: "I need everything."
"The boy who wrote to Santa that 'I hope everybody at the North Pole is well' obviously had practical reasons for expressing the sentiment since she added, 'and the reindeer and reindeer are all ready for Christmas Eve.'"
"But there was also polite curiosity about Santa and his home. It was evident in letters such as the one from a boy who asked: 'How are you and how are your reindeer? Where do you keep the reindeer? How is Mrs. Santa Claus? What do you eat for supper? Did it snow at the North Pole yet?'"

Outerbridge to get major renovation

NEW YORK — A $270,000 project of completion of improvements to the Outerbridge Crossing has been authorized by the commissioners of the Port Authority, according to an announcement by Chairman James C. Kelleog, III, following the monthly board meeting.

The work, which will begin in March, is scheduled for completion by December. The center span of the 2,100-foot-long bridge, which spans the 4,700-foot New Jersey waterway will be rehabilitated, completing a project carried on the New York side. The section of the bridge erected this year. Construction will be staged to minimize interference with traffic, with at least one lane available in each direction.

How to pick appropriate age-level toys

CHICAGO — In spite of federal regulations, proposed legislation, and industry self-regulation, "providing safe toys for their children depends primarily on the wisdom and judgment of parents, the National Safety Council says."

What can a parent do to see that his child's toys are safe? First, he can select toys that fit the child's age and ability. Gerald Cole, the National Safety Council's child safety committee chairman, says "You can't always depend on the manufacturer's age guidelines. If the advertising reads '7 to 12 years,' the device will not be sold to children under 7 years old but on the other hand, may be used by children under seven."

Channel earnings, sales show quarterly boosts

Channel Companies, Inc., a leading chain of home centers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, reports a 64 percent increase in sales for the third quarter ended Oct. 31. The company also reported a 48 percent increase in earnings for the same period. Total revenues for the three-month period were $20,728,000 compared with $13,962,000 for the same period last year. Earnings for the period were $600,400 or 78 cents per share versus $400,000 or 52 cents per share in 1970.

Robert Blatter, executive vice-president, said the results for the third quarter and for the nine months were the best in the company's history. He attributed the income gains to increased sales and to cost savings.

Blatter said the company's sales are up 48 percent for the third quarter and for the nine months over last year. He said the chain opened new stores in Fallston, Pa., and in Harrisburg, Pa., and replaced a 50,000-square-foot facility in Springfield with an 80,000-square-foot Home Center.

In addition, Channel opened a 15,000-square-foot Play Factory toy store, a store within a store inside the Springfield location. He also noted that all of the company's Home Centers were ahead of the period.

There's always one impossible one!

It happens every year. One person who baffles even your imagination for gift-buying. This Christmas, leave yourself the frustration. Give him (or her) a gift certificate. They'll say you just did what he (she) wanted; you got the point for recognizing his (her) individuality. It's easy to please when you know how. Isn't it?

Origin of Yule customs Some ancient, others recent

Ever wonder, as you decorate that yule pine or spruce, who invented the first Christmas tree? Or when Santa Claus was invented? Santa Claus, the jolly fellow in the red suit, is a creation of the first Christmas stocking. It was a stocking, not a tree, that was the first Christmas stocking. It was a stocking, not a tree, that was the first Christmas stocking. It was a stocking, not a tree, that was the first Christmas stocking.

Some Christmas customs are surprisingly recent; others date back beyond the earliest recorded history. But the Yule, we know, complete with gifts under the tree, friends calling to admire the decorations, and family reunions, has existed only for the past 200 years, according to noted theologian Dr. Oswald Hoffmann of radio's "The Lutheran Hour."

To our ancestors who celebrated "Yule Mass" (The Mass of Christ) several centuries ago, Christmas was a time of solemn rejoicing and deep religious devotion, with little of the modern gaiety. The New England Puritans actually forbade Yuletide "feasting" and "merriment."

New Englanders and other American settlers followed the lead of New York's Dutch settlers and accounted to the church of "Saint Nicholas" - better known as Saint Nick or Santa Claus. But the jolly giant had a fascinating career long before he reached our shores.

More than 1,500 years ago there was a St. Nicholas - a Turkish bishop whose countless works of charity made him a legend in the west. His feast day, Dec. 6, became the patron saint of children and of those who were poor, sick, and blind.

PEOPLE PICTURED HERE on a white horse, ascribed to him by old Turkish tradition. But his fame spread to Scandinavia, whose citizens felt more at home with a Saint Nick who rode a reindeer-drawn sleigh. They also gave him the red suit, a lance-shaped beard, and the jolly belly. He came from the famous poem, "The Night Before Christmas," whose author, Dr. Clement Moore, modeled Santa after an old Dutch gentleman he had once met.

About those Christmas stockings: One legend says that the original St. Nicholas taking pity on a man too poor to provide a dowry for his daughters, dropped gold pieces into a stocking.

THE FIRST PERSON TO DECORATE A Christmas tree may have been Martin Luther, the "morning star" of the Reformation. He is said to have been inspired by the sight of evergreen trees in his children's experience the same wonder of God. The custom grew and spread through the world, and today it is a universal custom.

Thursday, December 23, 1971

background: Primitive Britons called it "Yule" and ascribed to it the magic power to heal diseases, neutralize poisons, protect against witchcraft and bestow fertility on humans and animals. If a young couple sealed their betrothal with a kiss on the night of Yule, they would have good luck for the rest of their lives.

Holly, a Christmas decoration since the middle ages, was also thought to have protective powers; six or seven hundred years ago, young maidens fastened a sprig of holly to their beds at Christmas time to protect them from the "evil one" during the coming year.

Next time you hear "Deck the halls with boughs of holly" - a song which dates back to that remote time - remember the origin of Christmas carols. The word "carol" means to "dance in a ring," and the man who popularized the practice was St. Francis of Assisi. To bring the Christmas message vividly and directly to his villagers, most of whom could not read, the 13th century saint arranged for them in joyous celebration in "caroling."

When the villagers came to see St. Francis led them in joyous celebration in "caroling." One of the most recent of the popular Christmas customs is the wearing of a plain gold cross in the lapel. Adopted as the emblem of the Lutheran Hour, the world's largest radio mission, these crosses are given free to those who wish them.

And so far, more than 6 million gold crosses have been issued since the sponsoring Lutheran Hour began in 1926. The program is one of the internationally known programs more than 20 years ago.

What's the line on political patronage?

Seton Hall prof knows-- she wrote the book

When Dr. Susan Tolchin, adjunct professor of government at Seton Hall University in South Orange, has taught her classes about the grand old custom of political patronage, she speaks from a special knowledge of the subject.

As the distaff member of a husband-and-wife author team whose recent book is entitled "To the Victor," Tolchin has written the book for the Clubhouse at the White House. Dr. Tolchin held interviews more than 200 politicians and officials throughout the country to discuss the extent of patronage in the political system.

As a Democratic district leader in Montclair, she herself functions as a dispenser of patronage—for a grand total of two Election Day pots. In her roles of teacher, author and party official, Dr. Tolchin is interested in finding out how government works and how to make it work better.

BOTH THE TYPES and extent of patronage have steadily expanded along with the vast expansion of government budgets and regulatory powers, according to Dr. Tolchin and her co-author in their book. Patronage with great corruption but with the acceptance of patronage, the book broadens the term patronage—meaning the "allocation of discretionary favors in exchange for political support—to include rewards of all kinds.

"We tried to broaden patronage beyond jobs and contracts to policies as well," she notes. Patronage nowadays includes highway contracts, power, variations in judgeships and courteous jobs on the local level and arms and other public works, defense installations and government subsidies on the national level. The Tolchin book also analyzes the Vietnam war in terms of patronage.

"We've built ourselves a military establishment through the massive grab for defense installations and defense contracts," declared Dr. Tolchin. "We're sitting here that we don't know what to do with."

"THE REASON so many congressmen didn't come out against the war for such a long time was because they were under obligation to leaders of Congress who were for the war and if they came out in a strong way they would have been deprived of rewards which they need to stay in office," she said. "It's interesting that congressmen need the money and defense installations and if he challenges the majority leader or committee chairman regularly, he will be deprived and cut out from all patronage and political out."

"He'd be in a tight spot. That's what happened to Wayne Morse," said Dr. Tolchin.

"Defense and the defense industry in general is a massive government reward," Dr. Tolchin stated. The late Senator from Maine, which is coastal state, has only two, the difference, according to Dr. Tolchin, is a question of relative "clout."

"Specifically, the stores indicate that sales are up at least four percent over 1970 and that a current unemployment situation has had no visible effect on the market place.

"The quality of Christmas part-time help is much higher this year compared to 1970 with few difficulties in obtaining individuals to fill jobs where they're willing to settle for part-time Christmas employment."

As for merchandise procurement from suppliers, the survey shows stores indicate they are having no delivery problems. They report that the supplies of inventories are higher than last year—25 percent in anticipation of a better season. This is in contrast to low inventories and the depletion of many items throughout the state before the end of the season in 1970. Many items were impossible to get or simply not available last year.

When questioned about which lines were selling the best, stores surveyed reported little difference between hard or soft goods. Shoppers are buying uniforms, clothing, shoes, housewares, radios, T.V.'s, small appliances, and the like; no luxury items, i.e., jewelry, expensive jewelry and perfume.

In general, stores surveyed see the present sales upswing as a surge of spending and not a "off-price" reduced items.

The report shows that shoppers are leaning toward lower prices but stressing and insisting upon quality. An example is that there is a switch to higher-priced costume jewelry items rather than expensive jewelry. Luxury items are not back in style. Shoppers are leaning toward the practical and functional items.

"We're very interested in the clout of an individual in government," she said. "As a reform Democrat in a Republican district, she has a visible effect on the market place. My power can be measured by a thumb," she laughs. "Furthermore, her own political power is measured by the number of jobs paying $30 a day—so being for a certain district. I can't get anyone to fill the job."

Survey of department stores shows '71 Christmas sales up

New Jersey department stores' Christmas sales for 1971 show an overall increase through Dec. 18 as compared to 1969 and 1970, according to a survey by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, said this week in a report on the survey.

"The projections of Christmas sales in this special report are certainly encouraging," Dr. Tolchin said. "It looks like the best season for New Jersey in recent years. Needless to say, I am hopeful this kind of positive activity will help relieve the unemployment situation. From this and other indications I have received, it may very well be that we are moving on the upswing again."

In the report survey covering 90 percent of all major retail chains throughout the state, the Office of Business Economics of the department stores' Christmas sales are up as much as four percent over 1970. These major chains represent name stores that are throughout the Middle Atlantic Region and represent both discount outlets and department stores.

In general, conditions reported in the survey indicate that there are big shopping crowds and these crowds are using more cash than ever before. In the past, the major chains have been to charge items, but this has not come about automatically. Stores report using heavy promotions and advertising to draw in the merchandise that had the greatest impact has been "off-price" reduced items.

The report shows that shoppers are leaning toward lower prices but stressing and insisting upon quality. An example is that there is a switch to higher-priced costume jewelry items rather than expensive jewelry. Luxury items are not back in style. Shoppers are leaning toward the practical and functional items.

Sen. Case seeking pledge by Amtrak

Senator Clifford P. Case said this week rail carriers need long-term assurances that Amtrak will continue to accept commuter tickets and maintain computer files on its intercity trains between New Jersey, New York City and Philadelphia.

In a letter to Roger Lewis, chairman and president of Amtrak National Railroad Passenger Corp., Senator Case said commuters "have a right to know... and to know now" where they stand.

Senator Case also urged Amtrak to close a gap of up to three hours in train service from New York City to Philadelphia on week-day evenings.

Senator Case is ranking Republican on the Senate Transportation Appropriations Subcommittee, which has jurisdiction over federal funding of Amtrak.

SITTING DOWN ON JOB — Dr. Edward Wolfson, director of the division of dental auxiliary education of the New Jersey Dental School, demonstrates four-handed, sit-down dentistry, assisted by Mrs. Rita Joseph, supervisor of dental assistants.

No more a stand-up job

Sit-down dentistry taught

Dentistry has been, traditionally, a "stand-up" profession. This has made dentists susceptible to certain ailments that come from being on their feet all day: various pains, fallen arches, poor circulation, ischial spine, constant bending over patients induces back trouble.

The solution seems simple enough: let the poor dentist pull up a chair and sit down. But his training and his years of dental practice have developed work habits based on standing, and the transition to sitting can be understandably difficult.

To help future dentists avoid the physical demands and the discomfort of standing, the New Jersey Dental School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey now offers a course in sit-down dentistry. Equipment at the dental school and in private practices can be used from a seated position.

Ideally, once a dentist is seated comfortably at the patient's side, he should never have to get up for instruments or materials. A dentist who works alone can't really achieve this ideal but the presence of a highly skilled dental auxiliary can make it possible. The dental auxiliary sits, too, and has access to the tray of instruments and to other necessary equipment. She is trained to anticipate the dentist's needs, and is ready to provide the correct implement when he signals for it.

At the New Jersey Dental School, Dr. Edward Wolfson is the director of the division of dental auxiliary education and is the coordinator of the sit-down dentistry program. Dr. Wolfson came to the dental school three years ago, and last year placed out a 30-year-old private practice to take over the directorship of the new DAE program. Dr. Wolfson is now providing his substantial knowledge to dental auxiliaries at the dental school.

"A dentist assisted by one or two auxiliaries can increase his office's output as much as 130 percent," said Dr. Wolfson. "With three or more, his productivity could be up to 400 percent. This is a very real possibility."

"About 120 million Americans get no dental care at all," Dr. Wolfson explained. "If dentists can see more patients each day, that's a

American pioneers shopped at the general store where food, clothing, hardware, as well as other necessities were purchased. Today we seem to be moving toward a general store concept again.

Twenty-three cents of every dollar spent in the supermarket goes for such non-food items as household supplies, tobacco products, health and beauty aids, alcoholic beverages, soft drinks, pet products, housewares, clothing articles, reading materials and toys.

A FEMININE LOOK Orient Grand Tour

Only one occasion in one of the newspapers which read "The Orient" in the past few years was unfavorable to our members to report that they were coming down to "see" the Orient. The article in the "Orient" was a glowing account of the trip which took up to Taiwan was not the usual "Oriental" type of travel. The trip was a study tour of the National Newspaper Association (NNA) of Taiwan, which was the first of its kind to be held in Taiwan. A Feminine Look: Notes on Pakistan

Opinions from a 1970 Study Mission to Pakistan

For the last few years, it seems to have been the fashion for certain and the public to receive one weary pronouncement as a cure for the ills of the world.

They have been divisions down the middle of the East and West as in the case with the Chinese, the middle between a North and a South as with Vietnam; and there have been similar divisions in the West. The 1970 study mission to Pakistan was no exception in that it was a study mission to a country which was divided into two parts.

State tests millennial sample for highways quality control

Transportation Commissioner John C. Kohn announced today that the department is testing one-million-mile samples of materials to assure proper quality control. The Bureau of Quality Control reached the milestone last month in its continuing guarantee of the quality and performance of construction materials used to construct highways.

The Commissioner said: "One million miles of material has been tested against our own standards. This sample proved to be the millionth mile tested since the beginning of the department's quality control program."

Kohn added that testing of materials was begun in June 1968 on a sample of "asphalt concrete" for a road project in Long Branch. "In the five years since then, hundreds of materials have been tested, during the last fiscal year 41,100 samples were processed."

Council will aid manpower plans

A major step aimed at providing manpower services on a statewide basis today officially was taken by Trenton this week when the initial meeting of the newly formed State Manpower Planning Council was held. The council has been established under the National Manpower Coordinating Committee and assigned to the Office of Manpower of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, by Governor William T. Cahill. An outgrowth of the Cooperative Area Manpower Planning System (CAMP), membership on the council is made up of representatives of government, labor, business and client groups. The state council will be supported by auxiliary manpower planning boards set up for appropriate areas of the state. These auxiliary boards will be in a few locally based geographical sub-councils of the state organization. The state council, with the aid of the Department of Labor and Industry, will draft the state manpower plan for the governor. The plan will contain recommendations made by the manpower area planning councils.

It's season for giving all year-round

Good deeds not just a sometimes thing at UC

The Old World Christmas tradition of picking a "Kris Kringle" on whom to shower kindnesses and good deeds in the weeks prior to Christmas can be called a year-round tradition at Union College.

Individual students and student organizations appear to have their own Kris Kringle on whom they practice the spirit of giving and brotherly love in all seasons.

Union College students have found the Christ child this past year in a young hemiplegic, mentally and physically handicapped youngster, in millions of Pakistani refugees, in Spanish-speaking youngsters in a Plainfield elementary school, in fellow students who need help in General Palsy victims enrolled in the Union County General Palsy Center in Cranford, in Sickle Cell anemia sufferers and orphaned and institutionalized children.

In sharp contrast to today's image of college students, some 20 Union College students donated blood this fall for the son of a policeman. Five-year-old Tommy Kane, son of Cranford Patrolman and Mrs. Thomas Kane, suffers from hemiplegia and the students were responding to a campus-wide blood drive sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega fraternity.

"It was a rewarding experience," says Michael Curo of Clark, vice-president of APO. "Most of the kids said they'd be glad to do it again for a worthwhile cause."

"I FEEL THAT I'VE DONE SOMETHING, I feel useful," says Miss Amy Lutz of Fenwood, a freshman, as she explains her volunteer efforts in running the First Aid Squad room at the college. Miss Lutz has taken several first aid courses and has worked at Somerset Hospital for six years, four as a volunteer. Candy Striper and two as a nurse's aid.

Sponsoring the annual Christmas Party at APO fraternity satisfies the Kris Kringle instinct in the sisters of Sigma Alpha Xi society. At a time of year when most people are pressed for time and money to fill the Santa Claus role in

Saint Nick visits cousts

Santa, claims made his annual trip last week to visit the cousts at St. James Church, Springfield. But this year his visit was different; the cousts asked Santa to give their gifts to poor children.

Anthony Colariglio presented the following cousts: Don 2, with Doris De Marco, Eugene De Marco and John Rowley.

Don 3, with Marilyn Alex, Andrew Coker and Robert Grassman.

Don 4, with Carl Haws, Tony Colariglio, John Haws, Jimmy Beyer and Eddie Drummond.

Don 5, with Meredith Francis, Glen Horsthy, Ronald Majewski and Mike Rebel.

Gene Studiosio complemented the cousts on the final month of the candy sale last month. Frank Coyte, treasurer, gave the cousts their prize money.

The following cousts sold 100 boxes more: Lili, Dan Mauro, Mark Casale, Donna Metzner, Billy Ruocco, Michael McIntyre, Billy Corrigan, Anthony Calitano and Eugene DeMarco.

The top winners were George Jastoff, Douglas Richele and Richard Studiosio, all of whom sold more than 300 boxes.

The cousts will be going to an ice slide in January.

It's a matter of life and death.

Under $2,000. Again.

Three cheers for the repeal of the 7% excise tax. Now we can go back doing what we do best: Saving you money.

Pupil-faculty volleyball? They're game at Gaudineer

Student and faculty athletes of the Florence Gaudineer School engaged in their annual volleyball game last Thursday to mark the end of the volleyball season.

Girls students who were chosen to play in the first team were: Maria Johnson, Jackie Jackson, Toni Nelson, Karen Lolla, Sharyn Anker, Anna James, Jana Smith, and Patti Williams. But the faculty members were unknown. Because of the football helmets and uniforms which covered them from head to toe, the teachers were not easily identified.

Reliable sources indicated that they were: Mrs. Susan Kopki, Miss Judy Gaines, Mrs. Constante Laddar, Mrs. Barbara Joeger, Mrs. Jean Mark, Mrs. Ramona Reeves, Mrs. Lucille Weiss, Miss Andrea Wallace, Mrs. Barbara Brinshoff, and Miss Virginia Lewis joined in from the sidelines.

There were two games, one with the girls students against the women teachers and the other, the boys against the men teachers.

The gym was full of excitement. Students were rooting for teachers and their own teams. The boys game was first. It began with a volley for side of serve. The students won the serve. After the game warmed up, the teachers, leading 9 to 5, were more determined than ever to win. The score went up to 12 for the teachers. The final game point was made by Thomas Smart. The teachers, at least, went off with smiling faces, score 16 to 5.

In the second game, the students, though losing 13 to 4, rallied their forces and moved ahead to win.

It was great fun. Students realized that teachers can be human. The teachers learned who were the better athletes. And everyone is looking forward to next year.

Town approves its $600,000 anti-flood bond

Despite several requests to delay passage of $600,000 bond ordinance designed to control flooding in Springfield, the Township Committee unanimously approved the measure at its final meeting of December on Thursday night.

The ordinance provides for construction of a storm water drainage system including channelization of the east and west branches of a Bryant Brook. Township Engineer Robert Plante called the measure "the first phase of the program to control flooding in the town."

Objection to the ordinance was raised by Bill Doerflinger of 46 Tucker ave., who said the committee unanimously approved the measure at its final meeting of December on Thursday night.
