

Cancellation limit put on homeowner and fire policies

New Jersey Insurance Commissioner Richard C. McDonough has approved new rules (filed) submitted by two major insurance rating organizations that would limit a company's right to cancel either a homeowner's insurance policy or a fire insurance policy on an owner-occupied dwelling.

The commissioner said the new rule is significant to the insurance buying public because it would remove "some of the irritants" where policies are sometimes cancelled before their normal expiration date.

Occasionally, policies are cancelled by a company shortly after a loss occurs, or when the completion of the underwriting check-up shows that the risk has characteristics that make it undesirable, such as a home that is left unoccupied for extended periods.

Under the new rule a company will have to make its decision during the first 60 days whether it wants to provide coverage. After the initial 60 days, the company cannot cancel the policy except for stated reasons such as non-payment of premium, fraud or material misrepresentation, a substantial change in the risk characteristics or willful or negligent act or omission by the insured that increases the hazard substantially.

The rating organizations that requested the change are the Insurance Services Office and Transportation Rating Bureau. Both organizations combined represent companies writing about 75 percent of the homeowner's and dwelling fire insurance business in New Jersey.

The new rule went into effect Aug. 30 for the homeowner's insurance policy. The cancellation rule for dwelling policies will be effective within 30 days.

The homeowner policy is the more comprehensive of the two. It covers protection against loss from fire, windstorm and related perils, as well as burglary or theft and personal liability coverage. The dwelling policy provides coverage only against losses caused by fire and related hazards such as windstorm and lightning.

With respect to non-renewals as opposed to cancellations, if a company under the new rule decides not to renew a policy at the end of the policy term, it must give notice to the insured at least 30 days in advance.

ART TALK—Experimental artist Al Hansen, right, is bemused as he listens to former Boole John Lonn during a recent meeting. Hansen, who opened a neo-dada exhibit of his works in mid-August in Bochum, Germany, is a lecturer in art of the Newark College of Arts and Sciences of Rutgers University.

Art — any form of high performance Hansen explains 'happening experiments'

An experimental artist at the Rutgers Newark College of Arts and Sciences has come up with what, to the layman at least, appears to be a headlocking conception of art.

"Art," says art instructor Al Hansen, "is any form of high performance in any human undertaking." And, without quite saying so, Hansen illustrates his point by his own varied activities. Also, Hansen implies that proper application of such an approach to art can solve most of the problems of New York City.

A graduate of Pratt Institute and former conceptual artist for advertising agencies, Hansen since the mid-50's has evolved into a creator of "happenings," architectural communications and "energy events." In addition to being an experimental artist, Hansen is also a magazine columnist and author.

His art criticism and reviews have appeared in the magazine "Earth" and "The Village Voice" and his book, "A Primer of Happenings & Time-Space Art" is a historical text considered invaluable by students of new art forms.

Hansen recalled that his work with happenings was greatly influenced by composer John Cage's class in electronic music at the New School for Social Research. He and other painters, writers, sculptors and composers in the class discussed and evolved an art philosophy he said was based loosely on the principles of Zen Buddhism and existentialism.

The various interests of these artists were coordinated and developed into what was then a new art form—the happening.

What has developed from this, Hansen said, is a "mixed-media, environmental art" popularized by his contemporaries, such as Yoko Ono, Claes Oldenburg, George Brecht and Simon Morris.

"The genre is the outcome of these artists' concept of aesthetics, philosophy, education and communication, Hansen said.

"We were seeking a way to survive the 'grey 50's,'" Hansen explained. "In the period following World War Two, computers replaced humans as a form of energy. This was in turn followed by a celebration of the digestion of all the information that was happening, gathering and mixing in the 60's.

"A master of collage and assemblage and widely known for his Herby candy wrapper graphics, Hansen said in further explanation that the happening experimentation was "getting out to do things without any idea of what the results would be."

Hansen added that he was convinced that even though the happening is sometimes ridiculed as nepotistic and egotistic, it is actually a bonafide 20th Century art form.

TUNABLE TREAT (good listening) SUN DOWN LADY, by Lani Hall. The ten goodies include the selections: "Love Song," "Tiny Dancer," "How Can I Tell You," "Down In Time," "Sun Down," "Vincent," "Wherever I May Find Him" and "You." (AM RECORDS-SF-459)

Lani, who makes her solo recording debut on this LP, is Chicago born. Her first professional experience came after the customary schooling in that city when she was spotted by Brazil '66 (Sergio Mendes), singing in a Chicago nightclub, and enlisted as one of the lead singers for that very popular group.

Lani was 19 when she joined Brazil and they joined AAM. It was not until five years later that she was to leave Brazil '66, after having been heard on several Gold Record singles and albums, and touring all parts of the world including Europe, the Far East, Australia and South America to critical acclaim.

The reasons for leaving Brazil were manifold, but the most important one, for Lani, was individuality retention—quite for being more than just a group member. She was next heard as a guest soloist on Michel Colombier's 1970 cantata "Wags."

"Sun Down Lady" not only gives Miss Hall the musical individuality but the chance to pick and choose her own material, and also an illustrator for many years.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. during the week and from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. on Saturdays. The show will continue through Oct. 2.

Triano paintings at Seton gallery

Seton Hall University's 1972-73 Art Gallery season will open next Wednesday with a one-man show of the works of artist Anthony Triano in the Student Center on the South Orange campus.

Seton Hall's first artist in residence, Triano uses oils, acrylics, pen-and-ink and chalk producing a variety of works from small drawings to huge canvases.

A prolific worker, Triano has more than 5,000 works in public and private collections including the Newark Museum and the American Museum. He has had 15 one-man shows and has exhibited in museums and galleries from coast to coast. He has also worked as an illustrator for many years.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. during the week and from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. on Saturdays. The show will continue through Oct. 2.

Secretaries plan meeting

The Suburban Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) will hold its monthly dinner meeting Tuesday at the Franklin Arms, Bloomfield, N.J., at 6 p.m.

The topic for the evening will be auto mechanics for women. What every girl should know about proper car maintenance will be discussed by Raymond Rodriguez, instructor, Middlesex County Vocational and Technical School, New Brunswick.

During the business session, plans will be made by chapter members to attend the Northeast District Conference of the national association, to be held at Wentworth-by-the-Sea, Portsmouth, N.H., Oct. 29-31.

Anne-Marindell, vice-chairwoman of the New Jersey State Democratic Committee and co-chairwoman of New Jersey Citizens for McGovern-Sliver, has been named to a high campaign post by Sen. George McGovern. Mrs. Marindell was named deputy campaign director and will help Campaign Director Gary Hart recruit women into the campaign.

Get W-2 Forms, students are told

Students who quit their summer jobs at Seton Hall school should ask their employers for their W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement) Forms when they leave.

According to Raymond Spillman, Acting IRS District Director, Federal law requires employers to furnish W-2 forms to former employees within 30 days after their employment has ended. They are not allowed to wait until Jan. 31, when they file their W-2 forms to their regular employers.

Employers may secure 1972 W-2 forms at any IRS office.

Vegetables and young minds growing in new programs at Gaudineer School

A "small garden is growing alongside Florence Gaudineer School on S. Springfield Ave., an "18th Century" garden with corn and squash and even a row of cotton plants. In the same," said teacher George Benson, "For instance, in the study of the colonial period, we learn the values of the people, how these were related to their European background and how these values changed. And we learn by doing."

Thus the students learn about the clothes by actually constructing gardens, growing the food staples of the period, studying its songs, studying its art.

Benson explained there are lessons for each unit of study which the individual teacher breaks down to his specialty. Then the students are given a list to choose the areas in which they will fulfill the course. "It's an individually oriented program," he said, "but one in which we still try to maintain group cohesion."

IN ONE PERIOD, a student can be instructed by three different teachers, or go to the library and read, watch a film, study a print—all involved with the program. Reading and writing are a part of every class, also.

"We've also added a fourth 'R,'" said teacher Tom Brown. "Reasoning. We take the attitude in this program that there are no right or wrong answers. The student, using his individual, valid conclusion."

The seventh graders are the ones involved in the colonial study, while fifth graders are beginning to learn of primitive man. The eighth graders go into a study of contemporary social issues.

"Who am I? How old I reach the stage I'm at, and where am I going from here? Those are the questions these students will pose to themselves," Benson said.

"Our aim in emphasizing value studies is to see what developing factors could have influenced a generation which produced the tragedy in Munich. The young should take it away."

Kesselhaut, Marino will offer program to help curb crime

With crime statistics showing that reported cases of breaking and entering reached 111 in Springfield last year, the Democratic candidates for Township Committee, Arthur Kesselhaut and John Marino, announced this week that they will propose to Police Chief George Parrillo several innovations that they believe will help deter crime in Springfield.

They pledged to urge adoption of their programs if elected and called for Springfield residents to send them information concerning programs that have worked for other communities and "which might be effective in Springfield."

The specific proposals Kesselhaut and Marino will make include:

- Taking immediate steps to improve street lighting in the neighborhoods that have experienced a high rate of burglaries, followed, as soon as feasible, with improved street lighting township-wide.
- Designation of Springfield as a "Project Identification Zone" with an alternate lighting made to have Springfield citizens identify their bicycles, TV sets and small appliances with Social Security or driver's license numbers. Stickers will be provided at each designate participating household. Those who place on windows or doors, signs which would deter burglars that letu station from a particular house are marked and will be difficult to sell to a fence. Making a town 66 a

Registration set for adult school

The Union County Regional Adult School, making preparations for its 1972 program, will open doors to 300 courses this fall. "A large, enthusiastic enrollment of registrants is again anticipated," stated Harry E. Linkin, director of adult and continuing education.

Last year nearly 5,000 persons participated in the adult education program which is sponsored by the Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District.

A brochure composed of the listing, description and location of fall term courses has been mailed to each Regional District resident.

Interested persons may register by mail by using the registration form on the back of the brochure or by appearing at the nearest Regional District office on Tuesday or Wednesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Additional information about the Regional Office may be obtained by contacting the adult education office at 276-600, Ext. 84.

Town officials report flood relief progress

Progress, and sometimes a lack of it, in municipal efforts to flood control, was the major topic at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall.

Committee business took up less than a half-hour and comments from some of the 20 citizens in the audience lasted for another half-hour.

In other matters, the governing body approved immediate construction of a traffic light at Mountain and Hildebrand streets, passed an ordinance limiting the hours during which garbage cans can be left at curbside before and after collection and approved a resolution amending its previous support of the proposed Hilden Valley Park.

The flood control issue was raised by Albert Holler of 75 S. Maple Avenue, who commented that "Springfield has a lot of very good plans on paper, but I would like to see the dirt start flying." Holler is a member of the municipal flood control committee.

Committee member Nat Stokes declared, "What we need now is to have the Army Corps of Engineers appropriate the money which has been authorized for work in Springfield. They can get the bids out to do the work. Springfield had an engineer to start on the plans long before any of us now here was on the council."

"We have all the engineers we need. Our top priority now might be to hire a public relations man to work on Congress so we can get the money."

Board discusses parking lot perils

A one-hour discussion of traffic jams and potential hazards in the parking lot of the Thoma Sandmeier School was the feature of the 56-minute meeting of the Springfield Board of Education Monday night at the Florence Gaudineer School.

The board discussed the parking lot, which was redesigned this year in an effort to avoid traffic jams and reduce hazards.

The discussion of Sandmeier safety problems stemmed from parents' complaints that students being driven to school by parents in the 56-minute meeting of the Springfield Board of Education Monday night at the Florence Gaudineer School.

The board accepted, with regret, the retirement of William Wagner, superintendent of the buildings and grounds, who has been a school district staff member for more than 30 years. He will wind up his duties on Dec. 31.

James Adams, chairman of buildings and grounds, commended Wagner for his long service, and said that more experience will be required to determine accurately what the "normal" situation is.

Board members noted that the bus parking instructions had just been changed and that the buses will now stop to load or unload passengers in a new location in order to provide more room and better visibility for children who must cross the parking lot. The entire parking lot and traffic patterns at Sandmeier were redesigned this year in an effort to avoid traffic jams and reduce hazards.

Board members and Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, urged parents not just to park and wait in their cars for small children to find them in the parking lot. Baruchin pledged to offer whatever help he can provide, possibly with special arrangements for mothers in car pools who can have as many as eight youngsters to find in the parking lot.

He stressed that any arrangements are flexible, declaring, "We have not locked ourselves into any rigid set of rules. We can change as change is indicated."

In other business, the board also accepted regulations from two teachers, Kathleen O'Connor, faculty member at the James Caldwell School, is moving to Missouri, and learning disabilities teacher at Caldwell, is moving to California.

Charles Bunin, president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, announced this week that the 10th annual dinner-dance of the Chamber of Commerce would be a fundraising event in honor of Abel V. Del Vecchio, Chairman of this event is Marty Fein. The dinner-dance will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 11, at the Chanticleer, Millburn.

Fein stated: "I urge you to make your reservations as soon as possible since we are limited to 300 persons. You are compelled to accept reservations on a first come, first served basis." Fein added: "For reservations, please call the Chamber of Commerce at 376-3610, or address your requests to Post Office Box 26, Springfield, 07081."

Norman Banner, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, is committed to the establishment of a self-supporting day camp at the municipal pool.

The three candidates commented, "This is the type of positive project that should be made available to the residents of our community. Del Vecchio entered the postal service as a substitute clerk-carrier at the Newark Post Office on Aug. 1, 1958. He performed postal duties in many capacities in the various sections of the main post office as well as Roseville, Station and Midtown Station.

In 1969 he was assigned to the postal inspection service as domicile clerk and in 1969 he was appointed postmaster of Springfield. (Continued on page 22)

PARK NEEDS

As the Union County Park Commission presents its plans for a Hidden Valley Park to provide what is certainly much needed expansion of the county's green areas, we confess that we are still plagued by doubt...

Question: How is the Park Commission being doing for the people, rather than the map of Springfield? Where have the funds gone which were received from the state for all the 100 acres of parkland in Springfield for Rt. 78?

Question: Where are the facilities to meet the recreational needs of the people in the community? We might mention bicycling paths, jogging, strolling areas. We do have the athletic fields and some picnic areas at Meisel Field with the fields maintained very largely by the Regional High School District.

Question: How will the Hidden Valley facility benefit the people in the county's more urban areas who have the greatest need for green areas? If Springfield, for whatever reasons, does not merit recreational facilities from the Park Commission, what about the people of Elizabeth?

The Township Committee this summer, with no apparent disagreement and very little debate, voted its support of the Park Commission request for federal and state funds.

There was some comment from the date about the value which this land will hold for our children and grandchildren.

That's fine, but why should our children today have to pay the price in an unfilled recreation needs for future generations to have trees and grass?

We agree with the ecologists on the need to slow the sprawl of concrete and the towers of urban America. But we also feel strongly that people will have less desire to get away if we make it here and now more enjoyable.

Before the project becomes a reality, all too probably at the sacrifice of hopes for more immediate recreational facilities, we hope everyone concerned will take another look.

Man-made crystal developed at Bell to improve phones

A clear, man-made crystal has become the first practical alternative to quartz for use in communications equipment. The crystal was custom-designed by Bell Laboratories researchers at Murray Hill to improve telephone transmission equipment.

A few thousand communications devices are currently produced by Western Electric in the next year. By 1975, the use of lithium tantalate in other devices is expected to require a production level approaching the present lithium production for quartz crystals.

New food service takes over regional school lunch program

School openings in the Union County Regional High School District were "gladly and gamely" by the efforts of a new food service, according to a school spokesman.

The ARA Services Inc. is a national, renowned company which provides management for all aspects of food distribution and preparation.

More than 200 colleges and public schools throughout the United States use the ARA food services, which is also utilized by industrial cafeterias, hospital food programs, restaurants and large sporting events.

All facets of food within the Pentagon building in Washington are controlled and directed by ARA Services, which also provided and managed all the food programs for the 1968 Olympic games in Mexico City.

"The ARA Services will be responsible to the Board of Education for all information, reports required by the state and Federal governments."

The ARA director of food services for the Regional District will receive assistance from various departments of his company.

THE MENUS chosen by Rinehart for the Regional District will not only meet the requirements set forth by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the State of New Jersey but also will be tested and approved by dietitians in the different departments of the hospital, including medical-nutritional, maternity, pediatric, psychiatric and other major specialties.

A hospital spokesman stated, "The role of the licensed practical nurse has become one of growing importance in the hospital picture. Trained to work closely with patients, the practical nurse today holds a respected place on the nursing team and offers a meaningful career for both young and mature women of all ages."

The new Regional food director noted that students will have four lunch choices at all Regional High School cafeterias:

- A hot A lunch; - A hot sandwich A lunch; - A soup and sandwich A lunch; - A cold Plate A lunch.

Upon returning to the states, he rejoined ARA to become the assistant manager of food services at Harcum Junior College in Philadelphia. Prior to working in his present capacity in the Regional District, Rinehart was the ARA manager of food services for Union High School which has utilized ARA Services for 20 years.

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kentworth, Mountaintide and Springfield.

Rinaldo asks federal law to strengthen warranties

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo this week called for federal regulations requiring manufacturers to aid the consumer, rather than protect the manufacturer.

Rinaldo, the Republican candidate for Congress in the 12th District, said the Administration proposals for full disclosure of warranty terms do not go far enough. "The Administration-backed bill is intended to obtain a guarantee in simple terms that customers can understand," Senator Rinaldo said. "But this is not enough. The warranties should be worded to spell out the protection to which the buyer is entitled. As they are written now, they are oriented toward building a wall around the manufacturer."

"We must tear down the wall of protection for manufacturers and give the consumer ready access to redress when he has purchased a defective or unsafe product," Senator Rinaldo went on.

"He said the union administration was on the right track in attempting to require more understandable wording on warranties, but concluded, 'And I intend to do some of the things, Rinaldo added, 'being on the right

The Elizabeth River Coalition has been responsible for an extensive clean-up and anti-pollution drive along the river, which has helped to improve the health of the river. English is running for Congress in the 12th District, and Friedman is running for the same district in the November election.

Planner to head N.J. arts council

Alvin E. Gerahan, an urban planner and housing consultant, has been named chairman of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts. It was announced this week.

Gerahan, who was first appointed to the council in 1969 by Governor Richard Hughes, replaces former chairman Edward A. Ring. Gerahan was named to his second term as a council member by Governor William W. Cahill in 1971.

Gerahan is currently working on a project to develop a model for similar arrangements in other states. He is also working on a project to develop a model for similar arrangements in other states.

Higher education agency seen as model for others

The Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, which was set up last year, is being seen as a model for other counties in the state.

The agency's annual report, released this week by Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, executive director, reviewed the highlights of the agency's work during the past year. The report noted that the agency had been successful in coordinating the efforts of two existing educational institutions to provide the best possible educational opportunities for the county's residents.

The report also noted that the agency had been successful in coordinating the efforts of two existing educational institutions to provide the best possible educational opportunities for the county's residents.

Mrs. English for system of national health care

"American now spend more of their gross national product on health care than any other people on earth, yet we're faced with one of the most inadequate delivery systems in the world," Congressional candidate Mrs. Jerry P. English said this week.

In a major policy statement, the Union County Democrat announced her support of a comprehensive National Health Care Service to guarantee delivery of adequate medical care to all Americans because the medical profession has been unable to serve as a "watchdog" on soaring costs and deteriorating health care delivery.

"Somewhere in the American dream is the promise of good health care as a part of our everyday life," she said. "We must make sure that appropriate health care is the RIGHT of all citizens and not just the privilege of a select few."

Of the two proposals now before Congress, Mrs. English lauded the Kennedy-Griffiths bill as the best. "It would be funded by minimal payroll taxes and general revenues and would guarantee all Americans, regardless of age or income, comprehensive health care by 1973," the Summit attorney said. "There would be no co-payments, no co-insurance, no deductibles, no minimums and no waiting periods."

"Just as important, the plan would emphasize preventive and outpatient care to prevent illness before it disables the working man both physically and financially, and it would be especially helpful to the poor and the elderly because they would be assured of payment."

"EVERYWHERE I GO in Union County, everyone I talk with—senior citizen, parent, young adult, professional, and student—fears the familiar peril of potential bankruptcy," Mrs. English continued. "And, in fact, it is not only the elderly who are in financial straits, but also the young and the middle-aged."

She said that the plan would provide a "safety net" for all citizens, and that it would be a model for other states.

Time To Spare

By GRAY ANDREWS - Resident Advisor
Retirement is the time for decision. Many things "put off" for months and years come to the forefront and take on a new measure of importance.

Quite often, the choice of where to live among the most difficult decisions to make. For many couples, retirement comes not too long after children are out on their own. Retirement means less entertaining. A house that was adequate through the years is too much house for a retired couple — too much space, too much upkeep, too much to pay in property taxes.

BUYING WISELY

From Better Business Bureau
of Metropolitan New York, Inc.
Dear Larrie: Boy, was I lucky that I called the BBB. I contacted three firms for estimates to build an inground swimming pool. Two companies said they would send men over to inspect the site. The other company invited me to come into his office to settle the bid. I almost did this, because it seemed so convenient. But then I checked the BBB and found that it was one of those companies against whom many customers had complained over leaving customers with half-finished pools. Do let your readers know this.

Dear Larrie: We've contacted the company in question and, in the interest of good customer relations, it is cancelling the contract after charging you a cancellation fee. But let this be a warning to you. If you, or others you know, want to do this again, be sure you have all the facts before you enroll. "Buyer's Remorse" or a change of mind like this is not a valid reason for breaking a contract. Larrie O'Farrell, Better Business Bureau

Funeral Mass for Rev. John J. Bain at Oratory School

The Rev. John J. Bain, 69, headmaster emeritus of the Oratory School, Summit, died Sept. 11, at Holy Redeemer Hospital, Huntington Valley, Pennsylvania. Father Bain had been ill for one month.

During his seminary years Father Bain joined the faculty of the Oratory School as a teacher of English in the Lower School and an instructor in Latin in the Upper School. In 1955, Father Bain succeeded the Rev. F. Joseph Kelly as headmaster of the school. During his tenure as headmaster, Father Bain presided at the golden jubilee observance of Oratory School in 1967. He also initiated plans for the enlargement of the school and supervised the construction of the new school building. This new academic building and gymnasium which tripled the capacity of the school was formally dedicated in June 1969.

Thought for food

Trick the teenagers in your family into eating a hearty, healthful breakfast tomorrow morning. Sandwich ham slices or frankfurters between toasted frozen waffles or beefburgers or minette steaks between—split and toasted ham, heavy syrup and catsup on hand. They'll have a nutritious start for the day without even knowing it. To save space, cut meat from the bones and wrap tightly in plastic wrap or bags or aluminum foil. It is best not to grind or chop leftover meat until you are ready to use it again, unless it is to be frozen. Just before serving pan-fried pork chops or steaks of pork, lightly brown halibut bananas in the flavorful pork drippings. The banana, a simple touch, are divine with pork.

Simon play to be staged

Neil Simon's "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" is first on the fall schedule at the Meadowbrook Theater. The play, derived from the Broadway comedy of mid-1971, concerns the attempts of an upright citizen to join the ranks of the swingers—to abandon his rectitude and become a swinger.

Gaudineer

(Continued from page 1) look to see how we ended up this way. Our hope is that these young people can create a world in which this tragedy couldn't happen."

"An idealistic aim? Not so, claims Benson. "Someone has to start. If this school doesn't begin such evaluations, other schools won't."

"ALTHOUGH THE PROGRAM now is one of humanities, science is beginning to creep in," Benson said. "So much of what happened to society is a result of science; it changed our whole value system."

Learning by doing is also a part of other school curricula. The seventh and eighth grade Individualized Science Curriculum Study (ISCS) in laboratory content, with students moving at their own rate.

The math program emphasizes practical application of concepts in everyday life. "We are no longer using only the printed page," explained Helene Kustowicz, assistant principal. "We also utilize tapes, films, manipulative materials and even math games."

Part of that program is algebra study, begun this year. Starting in the sixth grade, the individualized instruction (IPI), the student moves at his own rate through algebra and finally algebra II. A child who completes such studies could take geometry or second year algebra as a freshman in high school.

Mini-courses are part of the new programs at the school. Sixth graders are exposed to basic studies in French, Spanish and German, studies to enable them to better choose which language they wish to concentrate on in other grades. Other such "exploratory" courses are being conducted in creative writing, folk dancing, choir, film making and appreciation, and sports and art studio.

And mini-courses in home arts and industrial arts now are being offered to all eighth grade students. These include cabinet making, chef and gourmet cooking, community entertaining, home mechanics, contemporary industrial arts and photography. A child who weaves and crafts, working in general shop, fashion workshop and design and construction in wood, metal and plastic.

Stiss continued. "A day camp at the pool is both desirable and necessary because it will provide a service to three important segments of our community. The parents who will more fully enjoy the facility at the pool knowing that their children are being well cared for, the high school and college students of Springfield who will be able to secure summer employment and receive the benefit of the supervised and organized activities. The proposed day camp offers two major advantages to the community to be overlooked."

Baehner emphasized that "one of the advantages of the proposed camp is that it will be self-supporting and in no way increase the municipal tax rate or raise the cost of pool membership. Those citizens who do not use its facilities will not have to share in the costs of operation."

After retirement from the postal service, Del Vecchio was employed by Motors Insurance Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors, at the Somerset Control Center, where he organized the mail room and supply room. Del Vecchio has been on the staff of the Springfield State Bank since September 1971. He enlisted as a private in the Army Air Corps in June 1942. After attending aviation cadet school in maintenance engineering, he was commissioned a second lieutenant. He served overseas in the Pacific Theater of Operations as commanding officer of a 17th Aircraft Maintenance Unit (Flying) at a repair unit which traveled from island to island performing aircraft repairs.

He was separated from the military service in 1945 in the grade of captain. During the Korean conflict he was recalled in 1950 and was separated in 1953. He is now a retired lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

Town meeting

(Continued from page 1) he had just received final plans for the proposed system of dikes along the Rahway River, and he presented the drawing for public inspection.

He added that the contract with the Union County Park Commission for the work "had to be completed by yesterday and we still hope to have it tomorrow. After that, we will go to the State Planning Board for approval. It is not in the best interests of the town to let it go to the State Planning Board without our approval."

Mayor Robert Weltschik noted that $200,000 has been voted for the Bryant Creek work and the plans have been completed. He added, "We can put the job right out for bids as soon as we get the easements, and should get started in the next few months."

MAYOR WELTSCHIK reported that state highway authorities had promised to study and possibly implement a proposal for signs along Rt. 22 directing trucks and other motorists to the town's industrial area. He noted that his suggestion had been originated by Mrs. Becky Seal.

The mayor also noted that a rent leveling ordinance had been drafted and was undergoing final study before introduction.

Next control also came under discussion in comments from the floor by Jack Resnik, head of the Springfield Tenants Association. He thanked the town for help in arranging meetings between tenants and the landlord of the Troy Village and Short Hill Village apartments.

Noting that tenants of the two apartment developments will meet tonight at 8 at the Institute rent control, Resnik said there was a present price control expires next April. Weltschik also added a social note: He has been invited to officiate at a marriage ceremony with the bride and groom on horseback—Oct. 7 at the Knights of Columbus hall.

Allen Zeller of S. Springfield avenue warned the governing body of hazards contained in two deteriorated sheds along S. Springfield avenue on property owned by Alexander's department store.

Zeller said the sheds contain three-quarters of a ton of highly poisonous insecticide and a half-ton of nitrogen fertilizer which could easily be converted into explosives—both left from previous farm tenants of the land.

Noting that many children pass through the area, Zeller urged prompt action to reduce the hazards. The commission pledged immediate steps to end the problem.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS

were the prime subject of a resolution which noted that the N. J. Department of Transportation has finally approved the following four projects proposed by the town's TOPICS traffic safety organization:

- Flashing signal at Hillside and Mountain roads.
- Flashing signal at Shunpike and Mount View roads.
- Modification of the traffic light at Mountain, Henshaw and S. Springfield avenues.

The resolution authorized "early implementation" of all four jobs order to "reduce accidents and improve traffic conditions at these intersections."

The garbage can ordinance, which is effective immediately, limits the hours during which cans can be placed at curbside for collection. Cans cannot be put out earlier than 8 p.m.

Trout is spawned early, will provide stock, reduce cost

Of interest to trout fishermen is an announcement recently from the Charles O. Hayward Fish Hatchery in Hackensacktown concerning an early spawning rainbow trout.

One trout spawned in July at the hatchery and was promptly separated from the rest for future spawning program. Her young will also be kept in anticipation of an earlier spawning potential. These young will hatch in September, and therefore have a head start on young hatched later in the year. Conceivably they will be large enough to be stocked by springtime, thus saving a year's cost in feeding and care, ultimately reducing the fisherman's per pound of fish.

Hatchery biologists normally strip eggs from females before spawning. During October and November, the complete fertilization process by mixing with the eggs milk (sperm) from male trout.

The eggs hatch 20 days later, provided they were raised in a clean and well-aerated water. Temperature didn't fluctuate too greatly or bacteria, fungus, disease or predators destroy them. The young are kept in a clean tank for three weeks by their yolk sac. Thus they are just beginning to feed themselves come the end of December. Until that time, they are fed large pellets, adequately fed and their health guarded so that by the following April they are large enough to be stocked. The time cost to the fisherman man-hours in feeding, clearing and caring for the young fish.

look to see how we ended up this way. Our hope is that these young people can create a world in which this tragedy could happen."

"An idealistic aim," not so, claims Benson. "Someone has to start. If this school doesn't begin such evaluations, other schools will copy."

"ALTHOUGH THE PROGRAM now is one of humanitarian science is beginning to creep in," Benson said. "So much of what happened to society is a result of science. It changed our whole value system."

Learning by doing is also a part of other school curricula. The events and eight grade-Individualized Science Curriculum Study (ISCS) is laboratory centered, with students moving at their own rate.

The math program emphasizes practical application of concepts in everyday life. "We are no longer using only the printed page," explained Helen Koskowiak, assistant principal. "We also utilize tapes, films, magnetic materials and even math games."

Part of that program is algebra study, begun this year. Starting in the sixth grade with Individualized Prescribed Instruction (IPI), the student moves at his own rate through pre-algebra and finally algebra courses are being conducted in creative writing, folk dancing, choir, film making and appreciation, and music.

Mini-courses are part of the new programs at the school. Sixth graders are exposed to basic science in French, Spanish and German, and are able to better choose which language they wish to concentrate on in other grades. Other such "experiential" courses are being conducted in art, drama, and music.

"Before, home economics and industrial arts were elective," Miss Koskowiak said. "Now they are built in to the course of study, and the girls get a chance to learn something of industrial arts: all the boys of home economics."

Miss Koskowiak also explained that all programs are continually evaluated by the students and their suggestions incorporated into all activities.

"Our programs are continually revised to meet the interests and needs of our students," she said.

camp. That election has come and gone and another summer has passed us by and the day is no more real than our opposition's empty promises."

Also continued, "A day camp at the pool is both desirable and necessary because it will provide a service to three important segments of our community: The parents who will more fully enjoy the facilities at the pool knowing that their children are being well cared for, the high school and college students of Springfield who will be able to secure summer employment as counselors and the children themselves who will receive the benefit of the supervised and organized activities. The proposed day camp offers too many advantages to the community to be overlooked."

Buehrer emphasized that "one of the advantages of the proposed camp is that it will be self-supporting and in no way increase the municipal tax rate or raise the cost of pool membership. Those citizens who do not use its facilities will not have to share in the costs of operation. The cost to those parents whose children use the facility should turn out to be nominal and will depend upon the number of children attending camp."

He also pointed out that the feelings of the three candidates by stating, "We fully realize that the voters of our community are tired of being bombarded with empty promises regarding the creation of a day camp. Fisticuffs disrupt first day of school

The first day of the school year is usually an eventful one for many students. At Springfield, however, it was a day of disruption. According to police, a fight between two youths broke out near the school on Mountain Avenue at 12:30 p.m., shortly after classes let out.

Police said students tried to separate the brawlers, ages 16 and 17, but the older boy finally had to be handcuffed by the police when other action failed to subdue him. Neither boy was injured.

The cause of the fight still is undetermined, police said.

Here's how

Q. Adhesive used on plastic tile was allowed to harden on the surface during the installation. I just bought the place, but I believe this job was done about five years ago. Is there any way that I can remove this unsightly adhesive from the tile?

A. Try removing the adhesive with a paste-type, quick-fuse tile stain remover. This is available at some hardware and tile dealers. Or try rubbing the surface with fine steel wool and naphtha, being very careful of the fire hazard. If not successful—and it may not be because of the length of time it has been allowed to harden—carry out an electric sander on the tile should remove the adhesive spots. But you need a deli hand to do the sanding job without damaging the tile.

Del Vecchio was the 24th postmaster of Springfield and served the longest period of any postmaster.

After retirement from the postal service, Del Vecchio was employed by Motors Insurance Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors, at the Somerset Control Center, where he organized the mail room and supply room.

Del Vecchio has been on the staff of the Springfield State Bank since September 1971. He enlisted as a private in the Army Air Corps in June 1942. After attending aviation cadet school in maintenance engineering, he was commissioned a second lieutenant.

He served overseas in the Pacific Theater of Operations as commanding officer of the 17th Aircraft Maintenance Unit (Flying), a repair unit which traveled from island to island performing aircraft repairs.

He was separated from the military service in 1945 in the grade of captain. During the Korean conflict he was recalled in 1950 and was separated in 1953. He is now a retired lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

DEL VECCHIO'S COMMUNITY service is varied as his military and civilian service. He was general chairman of the Heart Fund for two years of the American Cancer Society fund drive for two years and the American Red Cross fund drive for two years. He also served as fund chairman for the 17th anniversary observance of the Battle of Springfield.

He is an officer and one of the organizers of the Springfield United Fund. Del Vecchio was also active in securing, helping to organize the fund drive for two years. He also served as fund chairman for the 17th anniversary observance of the Battle of Springfield.

He has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce for 10 years and was the President of the Chamber for two years. He served for one year on the Senior Citizens Council of the City and has been on many other local civic committees.

Del Vecchio and his family attend St. James Roman Catholic Church. He is married to the former Frances V. They live at 50 Edgewood Avenue and have two children, a son, Val, who recently was separated from the Army as a first lieutenant and is now attending graduate school at the University of South Carolina, and a daughter, Diana, who is a junior at Montmouth College.

The Chamber of Commerce member, Bunin, stated, "The Springfield Chamber of Commerce is indeed honored and privileged to honor one of its members who has contributed so much to the community. Del Vecchio is one who quietly but diligently performs many civic tasks with little or no fanfare. The Chamber is delighted that we are the first to recognize Del Vecchio for his long and valued service to our community."

he had just received final plans for the proposed system of dikes along the Rahway River, and he presented the drawing for public inspection.

He added that the contract with the Union County Park Commission for the work "has been awarded for yesterday and we still hope to have it tomorrow. After that, we have to get state approval."

He added that a municipal consultant is completing some 70 appraisals needed to acquire easements for canalization and other improvements to the east and west branches of Bryant Creek. Once condemnation procedures start for the easements, he stressed, the town can then start work without waiting for the final prices to be set by the courts.

Mayor Robert Weltchek noted that $600,000 has been voted for the Bryant Creek work and the plans have been completed. He added, "We can put the job right out for bids as soon as we get the easements, and should get started in the next few months."

TRAFFIC LIGHTS were the prime subject of a resolution which noted that the N. J. Department of Transportation has finally approved the following four projects proposed by the town's Traffic Safety Committee:

Traffic light at Hillside and Mountain avenues.
Flashing signal at Sharpke and Stonelich roads.
Flashing signal at Sharpke and Mount View roads.
Modification of the traffic light at Mountain, Henshaw and S. Springfield avenues.

The resolution authorized "early implementation" of all four jobs in order to "reduce accidents and improve traffic conditions at these intersections."

The garbage can ordinance, which is effective immediately, limits the hours during which cans can be placed at curbside for collection. Cans cannot be put out earlier than 8 a.m.

Best control

Best control also came under discussion in comments from the floor by Jack Resnik, head of the Springfield Tennis Association. He thanked the town for help in arranging meetings between tenants and the landlord of the Troy Village and Short Hills Village apartments.

Noting that tenants of the two apartment developments will meet tonight at 8 at the American Legion Hall, he called on the town to institute rent control. Resnik said there was little hope of state or federal legislation after the present price controls expire next April.

Wolchek also added a social note. He has been invited to officiate at a marriage ceremony — with the bride and groom on horseback — Oct. 7 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Allen Zeller of S. Springfield avenue warned the governing body of hazards contained in two deteriorated sheds along S. Springfield avenue property owned by Alexander's department store.

Zeller said the sheds contain three-quarters of a ton of highly poisonous insecticide and a half-ton of nitrogen fertilizer which could easily be converted into explosives—both left from previous farm tenants of the land.

He urged prompt action to reduce the hazards. The commission pledged immediate steps to end the problem.

Mayor Robert Weltchek reported that state highway authorities had promised to study and possibly implement a proposal for sign along Rt. 22 directing trucks and other motorists to the town's industrial area. He noted that the suggestion had been originated by Mrs. Becky Seay.

The mayor also noted that a rental vehicle ordinance had been drafted and was undergoing final study before introduction.

SOCCER SCENE

By BILL WILD
It took four years to do it but the Elizabeth SC finally won their opening game. The Betty-Ann bowlers defeated Clarkstown, 4-0, in the season's first German American Football League game at Archer's Grove last Sunday. Four years ago they defeated Kingston, N.Y., and they have had the following opening games, 1-0, in the last few minutes since then. This year it was a different story. Elizabeth had all its new players in line-up and they all performed as expected.

Allen Zeller of S. Springfield avenue warned the governing body of hazards contained in two deteriorated sheds along S. Springfield avenue property owned by Alexander's department store.

'Please call,' Cancer unit head asks
Two women drove down friends. A cancer patient and her husband were in an American Cancer Society station wagon last week, volunteer. The patient was made dressings kept in an "ap" they were friends off to a pointment for treatment. Later that day, the volunteer cancer patient's family.
"Please call us," said George Randall, president of the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society. "That's the motto of the American Cancer Society service program. The dedicated people in the research laboratories, the physicians and nurses do their great jobs in the fight against cancer, and we must do ours."
Services to the cancer patient has taken on new meaning in recent years. It goes beyond the hospital or sickroom — to the everyday world of work and family.
Last year, for example, the American Cancer Society announced a "Reach to Recovery" program to benefit the mastectomy patient; the woman who has undergone surgical breast removal in cancer treatment.

Police discover body of girl, 16
The body of Jeannette De Palma, 16, of Clearview rd., Springfield, was found Tuesday by Springfield police in a secluded area of the town. Miss De Palma had been reported missing from her home on Aug. 7.
The remains were discovered as the result of a search begun midday Tuesday when a hand and arm of a young female were reported missing from a Springfield apartment complex.
Town police were aided in the search by members of the Union County prosecutor's office and bloodhounds from the Ocean County Sheriff's department.
Identification of the remains found not far from the apartments near Wilson avenue was made by means of dental examination. Doctors estimated she had been dead about six weeks. Police are continuing their investigation of the case. They declined to give further information.

LWV opens voter drive booth today
With only a week left to register voters, the League of Women Voters of Springfield will intensify its efforts to provide registration and voter material for all citizens.
Judith Marletich, voters service chairman, announced that today and tomorrow League representatives, in cooperation with the Humble Oil Company of New Jersey, will distribute nonpartisan material and "Register and Vote" balloons at the Expo service station on S. Springfield avenue. League volunteers will be on hand from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.
"Our goal," said Mrs. Marletich, "is to make sure that every eligible citizen in Springfield has at least been made aware of his responsibilities and his opportunity to register."
Registration hours at the Springfield Town Hall will be extended to 9 p.m. today and Monday through mid-Thursday.
In addition, a special registration day, open to any Union County resident, will be held on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Municipal Building in New Providence.

Ruocco, Banner to be named campaign managers tonight
Ed (Rusty) Sileo Jr., Bob Wasserman and Art Buehrer, Republican candidates for Township Committee and township clerk, tonight at the campaign rally at the National State Bank are scheduled to name Bill Ruocco and Norman Banner as campaign co-managers in their drive for township offices.
The three candidates said, "Bill Ruocco and Norman Banner, who led the Republican campaign in Springfield in 1971 with their winning effort, are the most logical choices to help us conduct our campaign for the township offices."
Sileo remarked, "The team effort that both Ruocco and Banner demonstrated that year convinced us that the voters of Springfield are looking for leaders who are willing to cooperate with each other to attain the goals of good government. Bob Wasserman, Art Buehrer and I are working as a team because we believe that by getting to know each other better now we can, when elected, devote all our efforts to the good of our community."
Wasserman remarked, "Who else but the men that the voters chose last year would make better campaign managers? They reached the people and the people responded with a stunning victory, and they have justified the support of the voters by continuing to respond to the needs of the people."
The election of Sileo, Wasserman, and Buehrer will enable Bill and Norman to gain the majority necessary to fulfill our and their campaign pledges which will give Springfield the type of responsive government we all stand for."
Buehrer added, "We have a team of candidates who are seeking office for better government in Springfield. Bill and Norman help us win in November. The acceptance of Ruocco and Banner by the citizens of Springfield proves to us that by electing our Republican candidates this year we will give Springfield the government it not only wants but deserves."
The candidates concluded, "Ruocco and Banner were instrumental in assisting our primary campaign which was successful because of the team effort. We respectfully ask the voters of Springfield to cast their ballots for this team."

Highway construction forces detour along Springfield ave.
All traffic will be detoured off Springfield avenue at the Union-Springfield line for some eight months starting early in October, the N.J. Department of Transportation announced this week.
The half-mile detour will bypass bridges carrying Springfield avenue over the Rt. 78 construction area. It will remain in use until the middle of 1973.
A DOT spokesman said the detour is planned to permit construction of an additional link on the superhighway, with alterations necessary on bridges built under a previous contract.
The detour will be along the north side of Springfield avenue, starting just west of the Club Diana and crossing the Highway 78 into Springfield.
The detour involves some 300 feet of Springfield avenue in Union, with the major portion in Springfield. Work on the road bed for the bypass was begun early last month.
"The blacktop detour pavement will be 24 feet wide, with eight-foot shoulders on each side. The detour will carry heavy traffic going only one way, toward Springfield, but will then be converted to carry one lane of traffic in each direction," the DOT spokesman said.
