Parkway credits special troopers for safety record

A special task force of state troopers who patrolled unmarked, unlicensed cars was credited this week with being an important factor in the Garden State Parkway's national traffic safety leadership in the past two years.

It is significant that since 1972, when the task force went into action, the Parkway had the lowest traffic fatality rate among the country's major toll roads.

Joseph C. Irwin of the New Jersey Highway Authority said.

The commissioner pointed out that the authority-operated Parkway had a rate of 1.7 deaths per 100 million miles of travel in 1972 and did even better in 1973 by attaining a remarkably low rate of 1.1.

"The national safety leadership in those two years was more meaningful than in prior years," Commissioner Irwin stated. "The unit was created for the most dangerous types of drivers—the drinkers, the speeders and other flagrant violators of motor vehicle laws. Its record and reputation speak to its effectiveness in accomplishing this job."

The task force, which came into being on June 1, 1972, made a tremendous contribution to the two outstanding, back-to-back safety records. ### Bridge roadway will be replaced

Replacement of a six-foot section of the George Washington Bridge's concrete, upper-level, cast-bound roadway by prefabricated steel sections is expected to start Monday and continue for the next two months, the Port Authority announced this week.

The work will be a test of construction materials and techniques to minimize interference with bridge traffic when the entire 43-year-old concrete deck is replaced next year.

The work will be done one lane at a time. New York-bound motorists are urged to use the lower level roadway during construction.

Three lanes of traffic will be maintained eastbound on the upper level around the construction site during the rush hours, and two lanes at all other times. Work will start in the lane closest to the median barrier and end when the southernbound lane is completed.

The new deck section will consist of a 34-inch thick steel plate, stiffened with 18-inch wide ribs or 12-inch wide ribs welded to the underside, and covered with a 3-inch asphaltic concrete wearing surface, or other test pavement. "As compared with the existing concrete deck, the steel deck has the advantages of relatively light weight, increased durability and superior strength. It also will require less maintenance and have a longer life than the concrete deck," a PA spokesman said.

The program is the first in the 1973-1974 series of five concerts sponsored jointly by the Music Department and the library.

Arts Center lists German heritage event for summer

For the first time, a German-American Festival will join the array of heritage events at the Garden State Arts Center this year.

Chairman George M. Withnauer Sr. of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Arts Center in Holmdel, has announced the initial German-American Festival will be presented Sunday, Sept. 8, under the sponsorship of representatives of New Jersey's German-American community.

The general chairman for the festival is Halley P. Burke of Irvington, chairman of the committee. Other members include Helmut Holmich of Irvington and Kurt Schroter of Jersey City, publicity co-chairmen: Horst Stabenow of Jersey City, state ticket chairman: Max Hofmann of Newark, member at large; and Linda Janis of Irvington, secretary.

The executive committee is planning a program which would include morning activities on the grounds of Telegraph Hill Park, in which the Arts Center is located, and afternoon entertainment on the Arts Center stage, featuring traditional German singing and dancing, plus gymnastic exhibitions. Many of the New Jersey organizations supporting the festival will be included in the event.

The German-American event is one of a series of heritage festivals the Highway Authority will present in the coming summer as it continues a type of programming it introduced in 1971, for a four-county program to expand Garden State Arts Center activities; to broaden its interests among New Jersey residents; to salute the contributions various ethnic groups have made to America's culture; and to aid the Arts Center Cultural Fund.

Proceeds of the festivals go to the Cultural Fund, which finances free entertainment at the Authority-operated amphitheater for students of New Jersey senior citizens, school children, summer youth, disabled war veterans, and the blind.

There were seven heritage festivals last year: Irish, Italian, Scottish, Black, Polish, Jewish and Baltic. Ten are in various stages of planning for the coming summer.

The committee working on arrangements for the German-American event, like the groups planning the other festivals, is in full charge, including selection of talent, type of program, advertising, promotion and ticket sales.

WASHINGTON—The consumer price index rose 1.3 percent in February to 141.5 in 1974, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Engineers help doctors at Beth Israel

New equipment needs special technical care

CHECKING THE CHECKERS — Dr. Philip Katz of Union, director of the biomedical engineering department at Beth Israel Medical Center, Newark, checks cardiac monitors of the facility. Dr. Katz and his staff of engineers bear much of the hospital's technological burden, created by the increasing use of sophisticated electronic equipment in medical care.

Researchers call statistics on drug success misleading

Are drug-use treatment programs good enough to justify further government and private support? A group of researchers at the New Jersey Medical School, component of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ), is asking for answers to this and other drug abuse questions. A preliminary finding, reported in a recent issue of the scientific journal, "Preventive Medicine," states: Success rates reported by drug treatment centers are sometimes misleading.

"One local addiction center boasted an 80 percent success rate," Donald Loxton, M.D., chairman of the school's department of preventive medicine and community health, said in summarizing the article. "Our own investigation showed only a five percent success rate. The difference was that like many other programs, their statistics did not include the number of dropouts in the first 90 days of the program."

Dr. Loxton and his associates are studying the effectiveness of a drug abuse clinic at Marlboro Medical Center, the medical school's primary teaching hospital, and six affiliated treatment programs in Newark. Their goal is to develop a standard approach to evaluation, so that treatment programs can be better matched with the needs of the patients.

"The Marlboro clinic serves as a central resource for registering, counseling, referrals and follow-up of drug addicts. The affiliate programs offer a treatment philosophy, however, with emphasis varying as rehabilitation, peer-group therapy, work orientation, psychiatric approach and methadone treatment, on both inpatient and out-patient bases."

The CMDNJ researchers have developed a computerized tracking system that keeps constant watch on the movement of addicts into and out of treatment programs, and alerts physicians of both human physiology and the over increasing battery of electronic instrumentation "put the biomedical engineer in an ideal position to provide viable technical solutions to ever more complex medical problems."

When a physician has a specific need for apparatus, we can recommend the best unit, from an engineering standpoint, that is currently available and that is for compliance with all specifications before clinical use, or we can design and build our own unit to fulfill his exact requirements. I heard a staff member (less stress, here the foremost considerations for any new piece of equipment).

Gospel singers plan choir festival

A group of Montclair State College students has taken old time gospel songs and given them the rocking rhythm of the 70's. And as a result, their "Contemporary Gospel Singers" choir has become one of the most popular singing groups in the northern New Jersey area.

The group was founded last fall by George Ryder of Montclair, its current president, under the auspices of the college's Black Student Union Cooperative. Since that time it has appeared in churches in East Orange, Newark, Elizabeth and Morristown.

On April 21 it will be closely involved with the intercollegiate Choir Festival being planned in connection with Black Week at Montclair State University.

Information about the ensemble may be obtained from the ASCO office, 890-1916.

Dear Pat and Marilyn: I've been engaged to Dan for a year and have been completely honest with him, until last weekend. It happened like this. I went to another city to visit a friend. We decided to go to a dance place which seemed harmless enough at the time. My hair "reaches" my shoulders. I will graduate in June and plan to teach. I can't see what my hair has to do with my career. I've even had it cut for over two years and hate to put with it.

Dear S.M.: If you can bring yourself to cut your flowing locks, you'd better decide to cut your appetite. Schools have relaxed dress codes and now allow longer hair and sideburns, but there's a limit. This may appear to be a shallow criteria to use as a basis to judge the ability of a person. # Swashbuckle film pokes fun at Fox's 'Three Musketeers'

Richard Lester, who proved his comic filmmaking genius in the best two films, "A Hard Day's Night" and "Help," has scored another high success in his direction of "The Three Musketeers," now playing at the Fox Theater, Rt. 22, Union.

Lester, who also directed "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Poussie" and "The Knack," has taken the Dumas classic and created another film version of the story of Aramis, Athos, Porthos and their new-found comrade, the young D'Artagnan.

Lester begins his remake of the story with D'Artagnan's departure from his home in France, played by Michael York, battles fiercely with his father in swiftness, and until the glitter and clatter of blades ends, the viewer doesn't know it's going to give a jarring illustration to his. D'Artagnan sets out to join the Musketeers, but he isn't permitted to join the elite regiment until he has proven himself in either battle or acts of bravery.

Confidence, the beautiful confidence to the queen who arranges for D'Artagnan to return the royal jewels and thus prevent a court scandal. Oliver Reed excels at swordsmanship, cunning and comedy as Athos, who takes the young D'Artagnan in arm and imbues him with the Musketeer tradition. Richard Chamberlain is suitably vain as Aramis and Frank Finlay creates a Porthos who can improve to his advantage in either combat or gaining a free dinner.

The band members pick only those original songs they feel are strong enough to be used in an album. Many of their own tunes reveal surprisingly lyrical content beneath all that thunder and lightning. Their best work is "The Ballad of Hollis Brown," which is an unforced sentiment and descriptive clarity of a chief and his wife, and an earlier piece, "1900 (Glen or Mascher)" (from "Exercises"), is an unobtrusive impressionistic view of a slice of history.

These four long-time friends from Seattle have combined into a powerful and imaginative rock group, and they continue to get better with each album.

The picture continues for a second week at the Jerry Lewis Cinema, Five Points, Union.

Also starring in the Technicolor film are Barbara Bush, Karl Russell, Gene Flynn, Kathleen, Cole, Jr., Kirby Jr., July Baker and Dick Van Dyke.

McClure directed his brother, Joseph McClure's story for "Fantastic Planet." The dramatic comedy of a father's sentiment and descriptive clarity of a chief and his wife, and an earlier piece, "1900 (Glen or Mascher)" (from "Exercises"), is an unobtrusive impressionistic view of a slice of history.

Students offered special Trailside programs

Visitors to the Trailside Nature and Science Center, operated by the Union County Park Commission in the Watchung Reservation, probably do not realize the programming for various school groups that take place when the facility is not open to the public.

"Trailside provides opportunities for field trips for school children, from kindergarten through high school, and also for some college groups. These special visits, prearranged, are offered from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, each week during the school year.

During 1973, 176 school groups and five college classes had special visits, with an additional 41 special programs arranged for the Trailside plantations, making a total of 222 groups. Participating were 7,830 students from elementary and high schools, 187 college students, and 1,749 pupils who attended the plantations programs for a total of 9,767. Included were 1,000 children who were displaced children.

In addition to the programs during the regular school year, 6,000 special visits to agency programs as part of day camp activity last summer. In addition, special study groups are provided programs on Saturdays between 9 a.m. and noon, under arrangements made as exceptions to the regular rule.

15 full scholarships available to high school seniors for UC

The board of trustees of Union College has established 15 two-year full scholarships for excellent high school seniors who reside in Union County, it was announced this week by Dr. Albert K. Meier Jr., acting president.

Dr. Meier said the recipients will be known as Trustee Scholars and will be so designated by the board of trustees. Funds for the grants were appropriated from income of the college's endowment funds.

"The Trustee Scholar Program will grant Union County high school seniors who have achieved outstanding academic records and who show exceptional promise," Dr. Meier said. "It is anticipated that sufficient funds will be available to provide two-year full-time scholarships each year under the program to recognize outstanding Union County high school seniors."

Applications for the Trustee Scholar Program have been sent to every public, parochial, and private high school in Union County. Copies are also available in the admissions office at Union College's Cranford campus and at the Elizabeth and Plainfield branch campuses.

Trustee Scholars will be free to enroll in any program offered by Union College leading to an associate degree, Dr. Meier said.

To be eligible for consideration as a Trustee Scholar, an applicant must be a resident of Union County and either be the top quarter of his graduating class and have verbal and mathematical SAT scores that total at least 1,100, or have "unusual or specialized talent in some documented intellectual or artistic area as recommended by appropriate high school administrator or instructor."

Dr. Meier said May 10 is the deadline for Union County high school seniors to submit applications for Trustee Scholar grants.

"Trustee Scholar grants" are designed to help students continue their education in the fields of science, education, urban studies, biological sciences, physical sciences, business, engineering, environmental engineering, and law enforcement. These courses parallel those of four-year colleges and universities and credits are transferable to those institutions. Union College graduates have transferred with advanced standing to more than 50 colleges and universities in all 50 states and overseas.

Additional information on the Trustee Scholar program can be obtained from the financial aid office at Union College.

Piano program by Dr. Richner at UC April 26

The works of Chopin, Dugart, Beethoven and Chopin will highlight the program on Friday, April 26, when Dr. Thomas Richner of Douglas College, New Brunswick, presents his eighth annual piano concert for The Friends of the College of Union College at 8:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Theater, Cranford.

Dr. Richner, who has been acclaimed throughout the world for his interpretation of the works of Mozart, will play "Variations on a Minuet by Mozart," by Dugart. Also included on the program will be "Bach-Busoni," a variety of lesser-known works, as well as engraver beetle, vines, a stream passing under a small footbridge, a variety of shrubs, nests of birds and animals, rock formations and other wonders of nature.

Reservations for all class groups must be made in advance by teachers of school principals through the Trailside Nature and Science Center, 223 North Avenue, Cranford, N.J. Mrs. Marilyn Eisenauer, the only staff member authorized to make a reservation for a group visit. Information about the center can be obtained by calling the main number between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays.

Visits to the plantations are separate from those made to the Trailside center itself. A special program for school groups at the plantations is an experience in astronomy. Class sizes there are limited by the facility's capacity.

At the present, until an auditorium in the new Trailside structure goes into use, a class of 40 to 60 is considered the largest that can be accommodated for any session, morning or afternoon. Twenty participants make up the maximum number for field life studies, as well as for studies in water testing or soil testing.

Nature trail tours, often made by visitors other than the school class groups, are studies in themselves. There, viewers may see flowers, life, water testing, soil testing, or forestry. Some of the slides were taken in the Watchung Reservation by staff members; a few have been obtained from outside sources. All of the presentations are interrelated with the facilities of the Reservation area.

After a 20-minute session in the auditorium, the class proceeds on an out-of-doors tour through nearby nature trails—except when other areas are more appropriate for the subject. Included are the museum portion of the Trailside Center.

Cancer's toll on industry called worse than slump

"More devastating than inflation or economic slump, cancer robs American industry of top executives and trained workers at the peak of their abilities," reports the American Cancer Society in its 1974 Facts and Figures, according to Dr. Warren Kaiser, chairman of the Union County health executive committee.

In a special section—"The Costs of Cancer"—the report points out that cancer far exceeds any other disease as the cause of lost working years among women; among the male population, it is third, after accidents and heart disease. If emphysema, another cigarette-smoking-related disease, is taken into account, the habit can be called the prime destroyer of workers between 45 and 60.

Dr. Kaiser pointed out that the annual report, which updates facts and statistical data on cancer deaths, causes, survival rates and preventive measures, is available at the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Other information contained in the '74 issue includes comprehensive estimates of new cases and deaths according to cancer site, sex of the patient and the state in which he or she resides. It is possible to tell at a glance that 3,800 women in the state of New Jersey will probably die of breast cancer in 1974. In 1973, 1,400 women will probably die of breast cancer in New Jersey this year.

"Facts and figures" also indicates that there will be about 655,000 new cancer cases diagnosed in the United States during 1974 and that about 355,000 will die of the disease. One out of every six deaths from all causes in the United States is from cancer.

"In New Jersey," said Dr. Kaiser, "there will be an estimated 20,000 new cancer cases and about 14,000 deaths. The biggest cancer killer in New Jersey will be cancer of the colon and rectum, with 2,300 deaths attributed to that site."

"April 1 marked the beginning of Cancer Control Month as designated by Congress. I strongly urge all residents of Union County to offer their support to the vital programs of research, education, and patient service by giving generously when an American Cancer Society volunteer comes to call," Dr. Kaiser concluded. "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime! Join the fight with a check and a check."

THE SEARCH FOR HEALTH

HUNTINGTON'S DISEASE

The jerky, muscle movements of many patients suffering from Huntington's disease, somewhat resembling the twitches of a violent dancer, for many years, doctors called this "mad-dance" "chorea." The jerky movements of the "chorea" work for "dance."

Huntington's disease (HD) is a hereditary disorder of the central nervous system characterized by both physical and mental symptoms which usually begin in patients around forty years of age. Rarely, signs occur in children or in persons as old as seventy years. A patient with HD may live up to fifteen years after the symptoms first appear.

An early HD symptom may be a dizzy nervousness. All patients with HD do not experience chorea movements. In those with uncontrollable chorea, however, spasms in the face, trunk, arms, and legs may lead to impairment of speech, writing, and swallowing. In children, physical symptoms may appear as muscle rigidity. Personality changes in HD patients include indifference, irritability, loss of memory, or carelessness in grooming. Patients may lose the ability to make wise judgments and may progress towards severe mental illness.

There is presently no cure for HD. However, it is often mistaken for other physical or mental ailments. It is therefore important that the family physician be truthful about their medical history. Although medication may alleviate some of the symptoms there is as yet no cure for Huntington's disease. Genetic research offers hope for ultimate control. The HD gene is the unit of heredity which carries traits from generation to generation. This means that if either parent has the HD gene, each child has a 50-50 chance of inheriting the disease. However, it is impossible to determine whether the parent is a carrier, until symptoms become evident. Usually around middle age. Basic research conducted and supported by the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke (NINDS) offers hope in the future development of a test for early detection of an HD gene carrier.

This Institute also works closely with the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, a national voluntary organization devoted to counseling patients and their families and to furthering research that will bring the conquest of this disease.
