2-opinion plan on surgery set by Blue Shield

Blue Shield of New Jersey, the medical insurer, will begin an experimental elective surgery second opinion program (ESSOP) by early next year. The State of New Jersey is the first group to adopt ESSOP as an additional benefit for its enrolled members. The program will be available to groups of 100 or more Blue Shield subscribers.

The aim of the program, which was established with the encouragement of New Jersey's Department of Insurance, is to confirm the need for elective surgery (non-emergency) and to give covered Blue Shield members more information before they decide on the surgery.

Blue Shield's president, Dr. Joseph J. Donnelly, explained that Blue Shield is testing the value of the program for two reasons. "We want the best possible care for our subscribers," he said, "and we want to determine whether some of the surgery being performed can be avoided, as some medical researchers believe, if it can, and the cost of medical and hospital care is reduced. It will mean savings for our subscribers."

If a doctor recommends an elective operation for a member covered by the program, that member may request a Blue Shield second opinion from another qualified doctor by calling Blue Shield's Second Opinion Referral Center.

The referral center will give the member the names of three qualified specialist physicians who are participating consultants in the program. The names will be chosen at random from a list, subject to the geographic convenience of the member, or the member may designate a particular specialist, provided that specialist participates in the program. To assure the member of the quality of the surgeons providing second opinions, in advance, not to treat the patient for the condition requiring referral.

If the consulting specialist disagrees with the need for surgery, the member may decide to proceed with the operation or follow an alternative method of treatment as recommended by the consultant. A third opinion may also be requested. If the member decides to have the surgery, Blue Shield of New Jersey will pay for all eligible services. In all cases, the final decision rests with the member.

CMDNJ to form osteopathic school, plans expansion of allopathic training

The College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) is formally organizing a school in osteopathic medicine while expanding its existing programs in allopathic medicine to the southern part of the state.

Graduates in osteopathy receive the doctor of osteopathy (D.O.) degree. Allopathic students lead to the doctor of medicine (M.D.) degree. Training and practice in osteopathic and allopathic medicine are similar in many ways. Both make use of medicines, surgery, psychotherapy and proper diet.

The new school, New Jersey's third medical school, will be known as CMDNJ-New Jersey School of Osteopathic Medicine. It is scheduled to accept its first class of 24 students for the September 1977 semester. The same number of students is expected to be admitted in succeeding years for an eventual total student body of 48.

The other two medical schools, also part of the state-supported college, are CMDNJ-New Jersey Medical School, Newark, and CMDNJ-Rutgers Medical School, Piscataway.

Both the osteopathic and the expanded allopathic units will maintain their administrative functions in the Camden area, according to Dr. Stanley S. Bergen Jr., president of CMDNJ's governing board. Construction is currently envisioned for the school, which facilities will be augmented for the first two years, pending the development of additional clinical teaching facilities.

St. Barnabas students will graduate Tuesday

The Saint Barnabas Medical Center of Practical Nursing, Livingston, will hold graduation ceremonies for its students on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the center's auditorium.

Frank Rendella, vice-president of the American Horticultural Society and winner of many awards, will discuss the International Home—Constitution of the University of Pennsylvania. Slaine is a business executive, his wife, Harriet, has served on statewide and national levels. ## EPA urges Rt. 78 tunnel through parkland

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has urged the New Jersey Department of Transportation to consider a tunnel as "the most beneficial alternative" for the construction of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation.

The tunnel, which could be constructed by the cut-and-cover technique, was recommended by the EPA as the best alternative to reduce noise impact.

The EPA's comments were included in its critique of the second environmental impact statement issued in May on the superhighway's proposed path between Berkeley Heights and Springfield, most of it through the Watchung Reservation. In a covering letter from Barbara M. Metzger, chief of the EPA's environmental impacts branch, the agency said "all feasible measures should be implemented" to relieve impacts which "in several cases are so severe as to threaten the viability of the present uses of the parks, a hospital, a school and residences."

Township adopts controls on quarry over protests of Houdaille workers

Local 825 fears loss of 60 jobs
 Welchek keeps open amendments in future

Approximately 50 employees of the Houdaille Quarry piloted the Springfield-Town Hall before the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night, but neither the demonstration nor the workers' protest was enough to deter action toward the adoption of an ordinance providing for the licensing and regulation of quarry operations in the community. The workers expressed fears the ordinance will result in a loss of jobs, or a complete shut-down of Houdaille.

The vote on the new law was 2-1, with New Jersey Representative, Major Robert Welchek and Joanne Huppert in favor. With William Huppert and Neil Stokes absent, the mayor was required to turn the ball over to Mike Huppert, who could second the motion to adopt an action which prompted a shouting match between him and Edward Zarnock, business representative of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 825.

Committee member supported the requests of Zarnock, Business vice-president Peter Judge and attorney Michael Hubbs to defer approval until representatives of the town and the quarry could review aspects of the ordinance.

Bubb noted the Springfield law "very much mirrors" a Warren Township quarry-restricting ordinance now being appealed in the courts and noted it did not appear to "reflect on the problems" the Houdaille situation. He cited a "tremendous financial burden" to be placed on the quarry.

Robert Kozub, a physical education teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional, who was terminated at the end of the 1975 school year because of budget constraints and a decrease in enrollment, was rehired. Kozub, an assistant football coach at Dayton last year, replaces William Riva, who was transferred to the Livingston from Dayton. Riva, a former member of the Gov. Livingston staff, also was appointed assistant football coach at the Berkeley Heights school. Nicholas Sorrentella was named head football coach of Gov. Livingston, succeeding Bob.

The board approved the Summit Board of Health's request for the use of Gov. Livingston and Dayton gymnastiums for the purpose of administering the swine flu vaccine. Residents of Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights and New Providence—about 35,000 persons—will receive the inoculations in mid-October.

The board deferred action on the awarding of bids for roofing work at Gov. Livingston, Dayton and David Brearley Regional high schools. According to a board spokesman, the board is considering alternate funding of the projects.

Also at last week's meeting, the board discussed job qualifications and duties for a director of facilities, engineering and transportation. Previously the functions were separated into two jobs—director of transportation and director of buildings and grounds. Both positions, however, were held by Warren Rubin before he resigned in December. Since then, the jobs have been carried out by a number of individuals.

A public hearing on Suburban Cablevision's request to provide cable television service in Springfield will be held Wednesday night. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Township Committee chambers of Town Hall.

2-opinion plan on surgery set by Blue Shield

Blue Shield of New Jersey, the medical insurance plan, will begin experimental elective surgery second opinion program (ESOP) by early next year. The State of New Jersey is the first group to adopt ESOP as an additional benefit for its enrolled members. The program will be available to groups of 100 or more Blue Shield subscribers.

The aim of the program, which was established with the encouragement of New Jersey's Department of Insurance, is to confirm the need for elective surgery (non-emergency) and to give covered Blue Shield members more information before they decide on the surgery.

Blue Shield's president, Dr. Joseph P. Donnelly, explained that Blue Shield is testing the value of the program for two reasons. "We want the best possible care for our subscribers," he said, "and we want to determine whether some of the surgery being performed can be avoided, as some medical researchers believe. If it can, and the cost of medical and hospital care is reduced, it will mean savings for our subscribers."

If a doctor recommends an elective operation for a member covered by the program, that member may request a Blue Shield-paid second opinion from another qualified doctor by calling Blue Shield's Second Opinion Referral Center.

The referral center will give the member the names of three qualified surgical specialists who are participating consultants in the program. The names will be chosen at random from a list subject to the geographic convenience of the member, or the member may designate a particular specialist, provided that specialist participates in the program. To assure the member an unbiased opinion, surgeons providing second opinions agree, in advance, not to treat the patient for the condition requiring referral.

If the consulting specialist disagrees with the need for surgery, the member may eventually proceed with the operation or follow an alternative method of treatment as recommended by the consultant. A third opinion may also be requested. If the member decides to have the surgery, Blue Shield of New Jersey will pay for all eligible services. In all cases, the final decision rests with the member.

CMDNJ to form osteopathic school, plans expansion of allopathic training

The College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) is formally organizing a school of osteopathic medicine while expanding its existing programs in allopathic medicine to the southern part of the state.

Graduates in osteopathy receive the doctor of osteopathy (D.O.) degree. Allopathic studies lead to the doctor of medicine (M.D.) degree. Training and practice in osteopathic and allopathic medicine are similar in many ways.

Both make use of medicines, surgery, psychotherapy and proper diet. The new school, New Jersey's third medical school, will be known as CMDNJ-New Jersey School of Osteopathic Medicine. It is scheduled to accept its first class of 24 students for the September 1977 semester. The same number of students is expected to be admitted in succeeding years for an eventual total student body of 96.

The other two medical schools, also part of the state-supported college, are CMDNJ-New Jersey Medical School, Newark, and CMDNJ-Rutgers Medical School, Piscataway.

Both the osteopathic and the expanded allopathic units will maintain their administrative functions in the Camden area, respectively Dr. Stanley S. Bergen, Jr., president of CMDNJ. However, no new capital construction is currently envisioned for them.

Dr. Bergen said that it is hoped that the other facilities for both groups will eventually include the Veterans Administration hospital proposed for Camden. That hospital has been approved by a site planing Cooper's but the start of construction is indefinite.

The concept document for the CMDNJ-New Jersey School of Osteopathic Medicine was approved by New Jersey's Board of Higher Education last October. The board is expected to consider approving the granting of the D.O. degree later this year. Also scheduled for the fall is a site visit by the accrediting body of the American Osteopathic Association.

Meanwhile, Dr. Fred C. Timning, on leave as assistant dean of the College of Osteopathic Medicine of Michigan State University—Lansing, is expected to arrive in Camden in the near future.

Sharp increase in gasoline prices in N.Y.-N.J. area

Retail gasoline prices in the New York metropolitan New Jersey area rose sharply in June for the second consecutive month. It was reported this week by Herbert Blustock, regional commissioner of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Regular gasoline was up 3.1 percent and premium rose 2.7 percent during the month. The substantial price increases in both May and June totaled 4.5 percent for regular and 3.5 percent for premium and were preceded by consecutive months of price declines.

Blustock pointed out. Between September 1975 and April 1976, retail gasoline prices were down seven percent for regular and 4.8 percent for premium.

Between May and June, the average retail price of regular gasoline in the New York-northeastern New Jersey area rose 1.8 cents to 59.4 cents a gallon; premium was up 1.6 cents to 63.1 cents a gallon. Nationally, prices also rose sharply in June, up 1.6 cents or 2.8 percent to 59.2 cents a gallon for regular, and 1.8 cent or 2.4 percent to 63.7 cents a gallon for premium.

Unleaded regular gasoline prices, which first became available in January 1976, rose 1.6 cents or 2.7 percent both in the area and nationally, reaching 62.5 and 61.6 cents a gallon respectively.

Blustock said that the price increases in the New York-northeastern New Jersey area were the result of a combination of factors, including a sharp rise in the price of oil, a decline in the price of gasoline, and a decline in the price of gasoline.

St. Barnabas students will graduate Tuesday

The Saint Barnabas Medical School of Practical Nursing, Livingston, will hold graduation ceremonies for its students on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school's auditorium.

Guest speaker will be Joseph F. Slavin, executive director of the Hospital and Health Planning Council of Metropolitan New Jersey.

The school, which was once a two-year, business-school institution but which is now a full four-year school, class sizes in the third and fourth years have, however, been limited to about half those of the first two years, pending additional accreditation.

Dr. Timning said that the school's curriculum is based on the concept that "the normal state of man is health," which he defined as "an equilibrium state" requiring "constant biological adjustment." If it is to be maintained, "the osteopathic physician," he said, "emphasizes the decisive role that imbalances in the musculoskeletal and circulatory systems play in these self-adjusting mechanisms. While employing osteopathic manipulative treatment, he also utilizes all other recognized modalities for diagnosis and treatment."

Dr. Timning said osteopathy's "holistic" approach would be reflected in the orientation of the new school toward general practitioners and family physicians.

"New Jersey," he said, "needs primary-care physicians. In research, continuing education programs for professionals in practice and in community-oriented settings, the new school will also follow established patterns of the college, he said.

EPA urges Rt. 78 tunnel through parkland

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has urged the New Jersey Department of Transportation to consider a tunnel as "the most beneficial alternative" for the construction of Rt. 78 through the Watchung Reservation.

The EPA's comments were included in its critique of the second environmental impact statement issued in May on the superhighway's proposed path between Berkeley Heights and Springfield, most of it through the Watchung Reservation. In covering letter from Barbara M. Metzger, chief of the EPA's environmental impacts branch, the agency said "all feasible measures should be implemented" to relieve impacts which "in several cases are so severe as to threaten the viability of the present uses of the parks, a hospital, a school and residences."

The tunnel, which could be constructed by the cut-and-cover technique, is recommended by the EPA as the best alternative to reduce noise impacts. The tunnel would be 1.8 miles long and would pass through the Watchung Reservation, which is a 1,000-acre parkland area.

The EPA also urged that the tunnel alternative be coupled with noise barrier designs for the Runnells Hospital and the Balfour and Diamond Hill road areas.

The critique said that Rt. 78 "has the potential to generate serious negative air quality impacts if constructed without supplementary improvements to competitive measures should be implemented" to relieve impacts which "in several cases are so severe as to threaten the viability of the present uses of the parks, a hospital, a school and residences."

Township adopts controls on quarry over protests of Houdaille workers

Approximately 35 employees of the Houdaille Quarry located in the Springfield Town Hall before the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night, but neither their demonstration nor requests for a union representative to defer action halted the adoption of an ordinance providing for the licensing and regulation of quarry operations in the community. The workers expressed fears the ordinance would result in a loss of jobs.

The vote on the new law was 2-1, with Norman Hanner opposed. Mayor Hubert Welchek and Joanne (Jajppi) in favor. With William Russo and Nat Stokes absent, the mayor was required to turn the chair over to Miles Jajppi so he could second the motion to adopt an action which prompted a shouting match between Hanner and Zarnke.

Zarnke (DECEASED) the method of approval as being an example of a "kamagrao" and Welchek was not allowed to call in the police if order were not restored in the meeting room. Township Attorney Edward Fanning noted the vote resulted only in a simple majority of three present at the session, not of the entire committee.

Committee member Hanner supported the requests of Zarnke, Houdaille vice-president Peter Judge and attorney Michael Hubb to defer approval until representatives of the town and the quarry could review aspects of the ordinance.

Hubb noted the Springfield law "very much mirrors" a Warren Township quarry regulating ordinance now being applied in the courts and noted it did not appear to "reflect the problems" the Houdaille situation. He cited a "tremendous financial burden" to be placed on the quarry.

Robert Kozub, a physical education teacher at Jonathan Dayton Regional, who was terminated at the end of the 1975-76 school year "because of budget constraints and a decrease in enrollment" was rehired. Kozub, an assistant football coach at Dayton last year, replaces William Riva, who was transferred to Gov. Livingston from Dayton. Riva, a former member of the Gov. Livingston staff, also was appointed assistant football coach at the Berkeley Heights school. Nicholas Scerifella was named head football coach at Gov. Livingston, succeeding Don.

The board approved the Summit Board of Health's request for the use of Gov. Livingston and Dayton gymnasiums for the purpose of administering the swim flu vaccine. Residents of Springfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights and New Providence—about 35,000 persons—will receive the inoculations in mid-October.

The board deferred action on the awarding of bids for roofing work at Gov. Livingston. Dayton and David Brearley Regional High Schools. According to a board spokesman, the board is considering alternate funding of the projects.

Also at last week's meeting, the board discussed job qualifications and duties for a director of facilities, engineering and transportation. Previously the functions were separated into two jobs—director of transportation and director of buildings and grounds. Both positions, however, were held by Warren Rubin before he retired last December. Since then, the job has been carried out by a number of individuals.

Public hearing on Suburban Cablevision's request to provide cable television service in Springfield will be held Wednesday night. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Township Committee chamber, Town Hall.

Bicyclist takes 4,000-mile excursion

Stuart Sherman of Springfield took a bike ride recently—a 4,000-mile voyage from Oregon to Virginia.

Sherman, 21, was among the hardy souls who inaugurated the cross-country Bikelentennial trail, a 10-state route through rural America. After trying to Oregon, he pedaled for 65 days from the Pacific coast town of Redwood to Yorktown, Va., passing through Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and Kentucky on route.

"I always wanted to take a trip of this nature," Sherman said. "I like the outdoors. I like athletics, and I'm into backpacking and cycling." He is entering his senior year at Duke University, where he is majoring in accounting, but this spring he decided to take a semester's holiday—and that gave him time to prepare for and realize his dream bike ride.

Sherman paid a $5 fee to officially join Bikelentennial and $75 which entitled him to a small library of guide books and trail maps, each covering an 800-900 mile section of the route.

He was on hand in Redwood, Ore., on May 16 for the ribbon-cutting of the trail, and began riding with a group of riders, including other "independents." They started spitting up, in Wyoming, he noted, as some riders dropped behind or took side trips, and others began trying to cover more miles per day. The Springfielder did the whole way with two companions—Brian Melnick, a 24-year-old factory worker from New Hampshire, and 54-year-old Robert Boswinkle, assistant director of NASA at Langley AFB in Virginia. Their average rides were from 60 to 80 miles per day.

Sherman was particularly impressed by the age range of the cyclists. "Before I got to Oregon, I didn't expect to see anyone over the age of 30," he commented. "But now I feel anyone could make the trip. Bob (Boswinkle) was 54. There were some riders, including one from Australia, in their 60s, and there was a nine-year-old girl riding with her father."

"The Rockies were a bit of a struggle, but not as bad as I thought they would be. The Appalachians were the worst for steepness." Sherman said. "The Rockies were a bit of a struggle, but not as bad as I thought they would be. The Appalachians were the worst for steepness."

Sherman, who carried a 35-pound kit, including sleeping bag and two-man tent, on his bike, camped out nearly every night. Only two days did he sleep in a hotel.

LETTERS

Letters to the editor must be received no later than 10:00 p.m. Monday of the week they are to appear...

AGAINST B-HOMBERG I am writing this letter to the editor of the Springfield Leader in order to publicly congratulate the Democratic members of the Township Committee for their stand in opposition to the funding for the very controversial B-homber.

It is indeed a time to rethink our national priorities, and to begin meeting our human needs in an area that is so badly needed as we are, as a nation, far more threatened by the human problems, from within than we are by foreign enemies from without.

I therefore also wholeheartedly support the stand against this expenditure taken by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, and the support from this resolution by some of our local clergy and others.

There has been enough grudge dealt upon the usefulness of this bomber by many very well informed persons of national standing to make it quite reasonable to expect that we should have an informed and intelligent opinion on the subject. COMRADE SUE KALEM Hershaw Ave.

BT, 78 ARGUMENT These comments are in reply to Marlene Hershaw, whose letter in favor of compelling Rt. 78 indicated an unfortunate ignorance of the facts.

Mrs. Hershaw bases her argument on two main points: First, Rt. 78 will have no more impact on Springfield than the existing Rt. 24; second, that the DOT could build exit and entrance ramps of Morris Avenue or Shunpike road should Rt. 78 not be built.

On the first point, Mrs. Hershaw should be aware that Rt. 24 is not yet completed to its proposed connection with Rt. 297 in Morriswood and therefore that the traffic tolls it is that a fraction of that which will eventually develop. She may also be unaware that, unlike the Garden State Parkway, the proposed Rt. 78 will be a toll-free road.

And finally, Mrs. Hershaw should be thankful that our township administration has had the foresight to recognize the destructive impact which Rt. 78 will have on Springfield and has taken measures to protect our town just as they would for Houding, Erie, or Hertz.

LIBRARY Tales for all ages

By ROSE F. SIMON The Springfield Public Library lists the following titles among the recently received books.

STORYTELLERS FOR ALL TIME "Hans Christian Andersen," by Elias Brudersdorff

Autobiographies, voluminous correspondence and diaries were the chief sources of information about this Danish nobleman's son, who died at age 78.

The author, head of the department of Scandinavian studies at Cambridge University, has written a splendid, factual account.

The November candidates

William A. Ruocco Harold J. Seymour Jr.

County government should not be looking for new words to conquer," according to William A. Ruocco, seeking his first three-year term in office as a Union County Freeholder.

"The Township Committee member and former mayor of Springfield said county government should not expand any of its responsibilities until it can find a way to operate within the framework of what the people of the county can afford."

He said: "Government, at all levels, has grown like Topsy. In New Jersey, government is far and away the biggest single employer. Every new employee, every new purchase and every new capital expenditure mean that the people have to be taxed a little more."

"There are steps the county can take without spending more and taxing more," said Ruocco. "First, we can look for ways to create jobs, for contractors to build-bonds people can afford to buy, and for retaining the tax base on the property that has been built down the throats of the taxpayers."

THE SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN recalled that two years ago, the people voted to change the form of government under which Union County operates. "To me," he said, "this represented a clear mandate to the Board of Chosen Freeholders to restructure the system in a way that would bring about efficiency and stop the wild spending spree that has led to the doubling of the county budget in a space of just six years."

"Of reducing costs, the freeholder board only recently announced that its reorganization will result in increasing costs. This is a clear case of government, having never witnessed such a blatant rejection of the public will."

Elaborating on that statement, Ruocco said it is the areas of responsibilities of county government that should be reduced, but actually the costs.

He said that although the areas of responsibility should not be cut, a careful study should have been made as part of reorganization to see if any of the services now offered by the county could be delivered more efficiently by another form of government."

EMPLOYED AS AN ENGINEER with the Allen Bradley Company, Ruocco earned a degree in electrical engineering from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn and also completed an extension course in municipal government at Rutgers University.

Ruocco was a resident of Union for five years before moving to Springfield, where he has lived for 15 years. He was reelected for a second term on the Springfield Township Committee in 1974 and was deputy mayor of the township in 1975.

He has been a county Republican committeeman for 15 years, having served as vice-chairman and executive member. He is a member of the Springfield Republican Club, and former member of the Union Republican organization. He is also accredited as an appraiser in real estate.

Other positions held by Ruocco in Springfield have included: police and fire commissioner, chairman of the administration department, chairman of the finance department, member of the planning board, welfare director, member of the recreation committee, trustee of the industrial college, and member of the American Italian Cultural Organization, the Union Boys Club and the Union Chapter of the Boy Scouts.

Ruocco held various posts with the American Italian Cultural Organization, the Union Boys Club and the Union Chapter of the Boy Scouts.

He was honored by Amico this year as citizen of the year and an outstanding mayor in 1972 by the first annual award of the American Italian Cultural Organization.

He is a member of the Springfield Knights of Columbus and attended the N.J. Conference of Mayors in 1973.

Members of St. James Church of Springfield, Ruocco and his wife, Jane, who has three daughters, are Mrs. Marie, 23; Lori Anne, 17; and Joanne, 14. The Ruocco make their home on Joanne way.

At this juncture, it looks like our best hope will have to agree that the only way to keep out cancer-causing chemicals out of our air, water and ground, too is to keep them from escaping from industries which manufacture, use or store them.

Worse yet, science is utterly incapable of establishing the danger or harmlessness of the myriad combinations of chemicals which can merge in our environment. There are just too many of them.

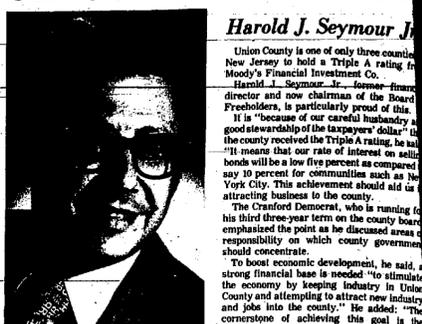

So, all chemicals will have to be kept in bounds. Those which are normally released into the environment, like pesticides, herbicides or even exhaust fumes, will, in truth, have to be scientifically studied, with never before, in such a special way especially for their various interactions.

Sen. Skelvin and his cohorts will not have an easy task. They will be bombarded every step of the way by vested interests who will stop at nothing to avoid any, even the slightest, evidence, just to forestall expensive safeguards against pollution.

In the end, we may have to learn to live with the politics of cancer as well as the disease itself. But in the meantime, I to you, reserve the right to pursue the impossible dream.

What's that makes it so easy for politicians or political appointees to call for further investigation, even to cloud the issue by proposing that the poison might drift into New Jersey from distant places. Some probably do, but it's silly to doubt that most originate right here.

HAROLD J. SEYMOUR JR.

Union County is one of only three counties in New Jersey to hold a Triple A rating in the Municipal Financial Investment Code.

Harold J. Seymour Jr., former finance director and now chairman of the Board of Freeholders, is particularly proud of this rating.

It is "because of our taxpayers' dollar," he says, "that we have been able to maintain good creditworthiness of the county's bonds."

As a member of the credit committee, Seymour quickly discovered that the Ford and Reagan forces were working to avoid a bitter ideological battle. We managed to avoid the hours of bickering over the seating of delegates that had triggered floor fights in past conventions and the party split.

Those watching the vote on Rule 10C may have wondered why the New Jersey delegation, I voted against the rule change. An informal count of the delegation by Sen. Clifford F. Case at a caucus of the delegation convinced him there were 62 votes in the New Jersey delegation against the rule. The person-by-person vote proved Senator Case's tally was right on the mark.

"morally plank" on foreign policy. It showed the delegates were not seriously divided over issues of substance.

For all practical purposes, the big showdown over Ford and Reagan strength came the night before the nominations. The fight over the adoption of Rule 10C, which would have forced President Ford to name his vice-presidential running mate in advance of his own nomination, proved Ford had the votes to win the nomination on the next night.

While the Democrats' convention in New York City has been described as "the ball of the color and excitement of the Grand Old Party, it was a rip-roaring spectacle of New York before the fall," the Republican show had made you glad to be there to enjoy it in person.

Strange as it may seem, the excitement on the convention floor was not shared by the delegates to the Kemper Arena. On the first day at the Breckenridge Inn, some of the delegates took a walk in the middle of a wheat field, about a half-hour's drive from the convention center.

Behind the scenes at the Republican National Convention

By REP. MATTHEW J. RINALDI Few political conventions in the last half century developed so much energy, suspense, speculation and speculation—and still came out almost exactly as predicted—as the Republican National Convention in the packed Kemper Arena in Kansas City.

The mood of the convention behind the television cameras was almost as important as what happened on the convention floor.

As a member of the credentials committee, I quickly discovered that the Ford and Reagan forces were working to avoid a bitter ideological battle. We managed to avoid the hours of bickering over the seating of delegates that had triggered floor fights in past conventions and the party split.

Maguire backs original Rt. 78

Assemblyman William J. Maguire this week has urged the Department of Transportation to complete Route 78 from Berkeley Heights to Springfield following the original alignment and to take advantage of available construction money by scheduling the work without further delay.

In a letter to Transportation Commissioner Alan Saperstein, the Republican assemblyman said the original alignment is "the least expensive balance in terms of cost, environmental impact and traffic flow problems."

"Obviously, you will not please everyone" regarding the alignment, Maguire said. "But, it is important, further delays and the resulting cost escalation risks please no one. I will support you in an original alignment decision just as I have actively done for four years as a Union County Freeholder and now as an assemblyman."

THERE ARE OTHER AREAS as well in which county government should concentrate, he said.

"Continuation and expansion of programs to improve the environment are vital," Seymour said. "It is particularly important that we maintain our green belt, elimination of pollution, solid waste disposal and flood control."

Health and human resources also should get further attention from county government, he said, adding: "While my attention would be focused on the problems of aging and youth, I would like to see the county take steps to include provisions for the average taxpayer and his family. It has been my experience that the needs of the average citizen are often overlooked, when it comes to the needs of the county government."

Seymour said that county government can be an area-wide service provider in which economies of scale can be achieved. "It is not the responsibility of the county government to provide services where governmental bankruptcy can become a reality. If fragmentation and duplication are not eliminated, the county's priority development should be an ongoing process of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and the county government."

THE NEW $2.633 billion New Jersey Appropriations Law for fiscal 1977 is the combined product of $21.7 million addition to the governor's recommended budget by the Joint Appropriations Committee and subsequent reductions of $1.2 million through item vetoes by the governor. The $20.5 million net revision indicates resumption in the trend of recent years in which the Legislature increased the budget while the governor's original recommendations, reports the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

The net Appropriations Law is $162.2 million, or 6 percent, greater than the fiscal level of fiscal 1976 appropriations. The fiscal 1977 appropriations Law of $2,919 billion was $125 million less than the governor's recommended budget for the year; it was $65 million more than the Legislature approved more spending than was proposed by the chief executive.

Upward revision of (1) fiscal 1976 surplus estimates and (2) revenues for fiscal 1977 based on the accelerated growth in tax collections attributable to the economy, gave legislators the opportunity to raise the state spending level requested by the governor.

The largest increase made by the Joint Appropriations Committee over the fiscal 1976 budget was $100 million for the Department of Education, totaling $28.6 million. An $8 million appropriation to reduce projected state college by the accelerated growth in tax collections, department-wide bond, other funding increases included $7.6 million for larger college enrollment grants for the College of Medicine, Dentistry, $2 million additional state aid to county colleges; $1.9 million additional school aid, primarily to contract for classroom space at Fairleigh Dickinson University; and $1.6 million increase in aid to independent colleges.

The Department of Institutions and Agencies realized $22.5 million in upward revisions. Nearly half of the total increase for medical assistance (Medicaid), $11 million; foster care and day care combined, $6.4 million; and staff expansion in mental health and for the Neuro Psychiatric Institute $2.3 million and $1.4 million respectively. On the other hand, the governor's state aid recommendation of $2.6 million for income maintenance was cut by $1 million.

Town appropriations for the Department of Education were $1.7 million for adult education, including nearly $7 million for adult education; $1.3 million for the Katzenbach School for the Deaf; $1.1 million for the library aid; and $1.3 million more for Project COED in Newark.

The total Law and Public Safety Act appropriation was increased nearly $10.7 million. $7.1 million to restore the motor vehicle inspection system eliminated by the governor's budget. Vehicle inspection services, which in 1976 were financed from available treasury funds, were extended by imposition of a $1.50 fee on motor vehicle inspection fees effective 60 days after enactment. Continuation of state alcoholic beverage enforcement was added by addition of $1.1 million and nearly $1.8 million was added for both State Police training and compensation to victims of violent crimes.

Continued operation of the Department of Community Affairs (DCA), which the governor originally proposed to phase out, was provided by a $2.4 million net appropriation. Income tax administration, points out the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

Representatives of Impact 78 will discuss their efforts to secure the original alignment of the road with the State Council on the Arts and the South Plainfield Adult Education Program.

Senator wants agency split if labor advocate appointed

The State Department of Labor and Industry should be divided into two separate agencies if Gov. Brendan Byrne appoints State Senator Joseph A. Hoffman, according to State Senator Peter J. McDonough (R-22).

McDonough said he would sponsor legislation to divide the department into two separate agencies if Hoffman's appointment is confirmed. "The governor's statement that Hon. Senator Hoffman is a totally competent legislator and a good person friend, he has a strong labor background uniquely qualified him for the post demonstrates the governor's 'bill spot' regarding the legitimate needs of our business community for competent representation in his cabinet. This representation certainly could not be provided by Senator Hoffman, despite his eminent qualifications as one of the most respected labor leaders in the east."

McDonough said Hoffman's voting record is 100 percent pro labor and that the legislation introduced by the Camden Democrat "would hardly instill confidence in the business leaders of our state."

"The senator would make an extremely competent Commissioner of Labor but we should certainly find an equally competent Commissioner of Business and Industry," the Republican lawmaker said. He noted that the legislature is presently considering a breakup of other state departments including the Department of Institutions and Agencies.

Halpin proposes '76 time capsule

A collection of Bicentennial memorabilia, for inclusion in a time capsule to be buried until 2076, has been suggested to Union County Manager George J. Albanese by County Clerk Walter G. Halpin. A possible burial site, with marker, would be the front lawn of the County Courthouse in Elizabeth.

Halpin proposed the capsule include copies of rules of the new county manager form of government, implemented in 1976, the county's administrative code, the county payroll, freeloader booklet, letters from various department heads and from mayors, copies of the presidential year primary and general election ballots, and special July 4 editions of local newspapers and national magazines.

If his suggestion on the time capsule cannot be acted upon, Halpin said he probably would put together a limited amount of memorabilia he has collected, "seal it in a suitable container" and ask each of his successors to pass it on to county officials in 2076.

All of the business and management courses may be applied toward Union College's administrative assistant certificate program.

Children's hospital receives $100,000 from foundation

The Kresge Foundation of Troy, Mich., has announced a $100,000 grant to the building program of Children's Specialized Hospital, Cranford, this fall through the Division of Special Services and Continuing Education.

The grant to the Mountaintop facility for the rehabilitation of handicapped children was announced by William H. Baldwin, president of the foundation.

The support of the Kresge Foundation is a milestone in our program and further confirms our confidence in the importance of this project," said Charles H. Frankenhach Jr., president of the Board of Managers of Children's Specialized Hospital.

During the past 53 years, the Kresge Foundation has made appropriations of more than $20 million to institutions in the fields of higher education, health services, the arts, social welfare, and the care of the young and the aging. Construction and major renovation of facilities are the Foundation's primary concern, and grants are made with the hope of encouraging further giving.

The Foundation, one of the largest in the United States in size of assets and appropriations, was created solely through the gifts of the late Sebastian S. Kresge, founder of the S.S. Kresge Co. However, the company and the foundation are not related in any way.

The construction at Children's will provide for expansion of existing programs, treatment and therapy for an increased number of teenagers and pre-adolescents and allow the hospital to treat a greater number of outpatients, Frankenhach said. In addition, the hospital's inpatient capacity will nearly double. Major work is now being done on the structure which has a target date for completion of August 1977.

The construction and renovation is proceeding rapidly complete with structural steel work finished and roof and floor decking in place. Masonry work is now beginning on the structure which has a target date for completion of August 1977.

U.S.-imported oil a threat to Israel?

Richard A. Buggelli, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 12th District, criticized the Republican Administration this week for its failure to deal effectively with the energy crisis and warned that increasing imports of Arab oil "may be viewed with alarm as a growing threat to the State of Israel."

Latest trade figures show that the United States' dependence on Arab crude oil doubled during the first half of 1976. Buggelli said, "We have too often blamed society for the violent and anarchic acts committed by our antisocial element and the prison system has been asked to rehabilitate rather than punish."

The former teacher and board of education member pointed out that many first or second offenders never see bars because of probation, plea bargaining and suspended sentences. "Meanwhile," Buggelli stated, "the victim, a lost valuable property, or has been perhaps physically injured or killed and there is no justice."

Penal reform plan detailed by Geyer

Paul M. Geyer, candidate for the 12th Congressional District, has urged a penal system reform based upon justice for the victim and not compassion for the criminal.

"We have too often blamed society for the violent and anarchic acts committed by our antisocial element and the prison system has been asked to rehabilitate rather than punish," said Geyer.

The former teacher and board of education member pointed out that many first or second offenders never see bars because of probation, plea bargaining and suspended sentences. ### 70 pct. increase in blood donations

Senior citizens will benefit from a 70 percent increase in blood collections, to over 2,000 pints, in the first part of this year by Red Cross-New Jersey Blood Services in Eastern Union County, according to Vera S. Maier, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Service.

"She said the Red Cross service is part of the United Way in Union County and target anyone in need of blood to contact it to be assisted."

To ease the traditional shortages of blood which occur each summer, the Eastern Union County Chapter is holding bloodmobiles every Friday at the Chapter House, 203 W. Jersey st., Elizabethtown, from 12:30 to 5 p.m. Any reader who has further information may call the Red Cross at 383-2500.

Hearing scheduled on grants to aid services for elderly

A public hearing on the 1977 area plan for social services for the elderly under Title III of the Older Americans Act will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 3, at the Union County Tax Board hearing room at 200 Commerce pl., Elizabethtown. An additional $120,000 is being made available for services to the elderly for the remainder of 1976 and it is anticipated that $10,000 will be made available for 1977, according to the New Jersey State Division on Aging.

Larry Lockhart, acting director of the Union County Department of Human Resources said this week that a proposed plan is being prepared by the Union County Division on Aging and that all public and private agencies and senior citizens groups interested in the provisions of the plan and in submitting grant proposals should attend the hearing. He said notices are being sent out to all municipalities and to various public and private agencies informing them of the funds and encouraging them to submit grant proposals.

"The revised Older Americans Act," he said, "encourages grants for the provision of some or all of the following services designed to assist older persons in leading independent lives and avoiding unnecessary institutionalization."

They are: Transportation services; home services, including homemaker services, home services, reader services, letter writing services and others designed to assist such persons to continue living independently in a home environment; legal and other counseling services and assistance programs, including tax counseling and assistance and financial counseling for older persons; residential repair and renovation programs designed to enable older persons to maintain their homes in conformity with minimum housing standards to adapt homes to meet the needs of elderly persons suffering from physical disabilities.

Your professional in business. Your in-laws in Oldmans County. A 9-minute drive to a local quaker and found him a sensible man and a warm American, as most of the middling classes are.

On August 28, 1976, at Birmingham, England, refugee Samuel Curwen met a local quaker and found him a sensible man and a warm American, as most of the middling classes are.

Later in the day he talked to a merchant who had visited America and "is her steady and ardent advocate."

37 students join CMDNJ to end studying abroad

Thirty-seven Americans who have been studying medicine abroad have been admitted to the Class of 1979 in the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ) to complete their degree requirements. All but one of the students are from New Jersey.

Behind them is the equivalent of the first two years of a U.S. medical school—the basic science years. Ahead is the two-year clinical portion of their medical education beginning in September.

The transfer students have been attending schools like the University of Rome and the University of Bologna, Italy; the University of Guadalajara, Mexico; and the University of Brussels, Belgium, for two to four years.

They are returning under a CMDNJ program designed to bring as many New Jersey medical students as possible back from abroad.

The 22 students who transferred here in 1971 were granted the Class of 1979 last June. Noting that an estimated 6,000 Americans are currently attending foreign medical schools, Stanley D. Bergen, M.D., president of CMDNJ, called the returning program "an important step toward alleviating the massive admission problem caused by limited space in American schools."

At CMDNJ, the space problem is most severe in the first two years, he said, but that has changed in the last two years "because of the cooperation of our affiliated hospitals, where the students will spend much of their time."

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: My problem is I've been going to the gym for four years. He's 18 and I'm 17 and we love each other very much. He was in trouble once but now he's in the Army. My parents don't like him at all because of his previous problems. Mom told me that if things got better I could go with him. Things have gotten better. He's really changed himself. I'm asking for your help. What should I do?

OUR REPLY: You must be sure that your feelings have not changed for the better. Once you are sure of this fact, make sure it is known to your mother. Your parents will be much wiser to accept the fact that he has changed. You and your Army friend—must take this into consideration. You have surely told him about your parents' objections to his "previous problems". Consumer units reach agreement on jurisdictions

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission announced this week it has reached an agreement with the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) concerning the jurisdiction of the two agencies over such food-related articles as pressure cookers, slow-cookers, refrigerators, freezers and home canning equipment.

The agreement was made necessary by jurisdictional uncertainty concerning which agency had jurisdiction to recall hazardous food products. The CPSC will have jurisdiction to deal with any such case—that poses unreasonable risk of serious illness or injury to consumers.

The basic feature of the agreement is that articles used by consumers for storage or preparation of foods are under the jurisdiction of the CPSC. An exception is when the food is a stationery or a food product that is migrating from the article itself into the food.

In this case the courts have held that the FDA has jurisdiction to eliminate the hazard. Commenting on the memorandum, CPSC Chairman N. John Higgins said, "I am pleased that this jurisdictional question has been resolved and that the American consumer has not been left unprotected. By clearing up possible future jurisdictional problems now, noted Higgins, we've made up for the delay in reaching this agreement."

The Commission's technical staff is undertaking an immediate review of problems associated with home canning kit equipment. An interim status report of their findings, it is available in two weeks.

Broadway music in MDA Telethon

Full-scale musical production numbers from four Broadway shows have been added to the line-up of the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. Scheduled to appear are the casts of "Bobo," "Broadway," "Chicago," "Guys and Dolls," and "My Fair Lady," who will perform musical highlights from the current hit shows.

This year's Telethon, which will be broadcast locally over Channel 50, is expected to attract a massive audience. In 1975, more than 82 million viewers watched the Labor Day show and pledged $18,000,000 to benefit the health agency's medical services and research programs. More than 100 percent of the record-breaking total was collected.

The 21-hour entertainment spectacular will originate live from the Space Center at Del Webb's Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas. Nationwide television stations will make up the telethon "Love Network" which will broadcast the marathon show non-stop from 9 p.m. (EDT), Sunday, Sept. 5, until 6:30 p.m. Labor Day.

Alcoholism in industry gets task force attention

A special task force to examine the problem of alcoholism in industry and to develop an informational program on this problem for the business community has been created by Joseph A. Hoffman, commissioner of the N.J. Department of Labor and Industry.

In New Jersey, the incidence of 27,000,000 there are approximately 600,000 alcoholics. In a work force of 3,400,000 there are an estimated 200,000 alcoholics, according to the N.J. Department of Health.

He added, "The cost of this disease to the industry of our state is almost incalculable. In terms of lost production time, substantial performance and time lost from accidents, the price we pay in New Jersey for alcoholism is the millions of dollars each year. These costs are paid by the individuals involved and their families."

Commissioner Hoffman said, "Right now we are concerned in this Department with our responsibility for the men and women of the work force of our state and the industrial community. According to the best information that we can develop, one out of every four alcoholics in a woman is estimated that close to five percent of our young people between the ages of 18 to 20 can be considered problem drinkers. According to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, the age group of 18 to 20 has the largest proportion of the total force and will be assisted by two members of the Commission's executive director of the task force and will be assisted by Edward Crawford and William Sanford.

Commissioner Hoffman said, "Disability Determination Service Team in a benefit softball game will be played by the New Jersey State League. The game will be held at the Garden State Hotel, Bloomfield, N.J., on Friday, August 27, at 7 p.m. All interested parties are invited to attend. ## Amusement News

THE OMEN—Gregory Pack plays the U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain and Lee Remick is his wife in 20th Century-Fox's suspense film which opened yesterday at the New Plaza Theater, Linden and the Five Points Cinema, Union.

Hoffman discusses approach to role

Dustin Hoffman, speaking of his approach to the role of Carl Bernstein in "All the President's Men," held over at the Elmore Theater, Elizabeth, says, "Going in I knew it wasn't going to be a detailed character study. It wasn't going to be like doing 'Lenny.' Hoffman plays the Washington Post reporter, whose brilliant journalistic detective work with his partner, Bob Woodward (played by Robert Redford), helped discover the truth about Watergate and assorted crimes in high government offices. The real reporters were delving into the scandal as deeply as they."

Hoffman says the film would have pulled focus away from the story we were trying to tell. But we did try to absorb and then transmit an impression of what these guys are like inwardly, what gave them the drive and guts to do what they did, what sustained them when the White House was calling them liars and when no other newspapers were delving into the scandal as deeply as they."

DISC 'N' DATA

PIER OF THE LIES—A new LP by Mark Radice (United Artists Records UA-14629-G). Selections on Mark's good-sounding debut LP with the Brass Construction include: "The Whole Wide World Ain't Nothin' But A Party," "Here I Go Fallin' In Love Again," "If You Can't Beat 'Em, Join 'Em," "Monkey See Monkey Do," "The Answer Is You" and "Exception To The Rule."

Mark, the son of a recording engineer from Nalley, wrote all the songs on the album (except for the title track, which he co-wrote with producer Jeff Lane), a skill he developed since he started hanging around his father's recording sessions for the Lovin' Spoonful, Tokens and Cowells since he was seven.

Along with his own material, Mark has penned songs for other artists as well. Mark wrote Dion's current single, "Hey My Love," when he was 16.

Around the same time, Mark started playing sessions with Donovan, Jimi Hendrix and the Lovin' Spoonful. A fan of all types of music, Mark has also written a 14-minute concert.

Mark Radice is young, good-looking and talented; if that's any indication of success to come, Mark is on the brink of a rewarding career.
