The rape victim: anger and guilt

Seminar deals with sexual crimes

FIRST OF TWO ARTICLES
 BY PATRICIA GARRISON
 A rape victim calls her local police department, willing to offer information about her ordeal. When the policeman arrives, she screams at him, blaming him for her predicament. The policeman becomes defensive at this unwarranted display of anger. He did not rape her, why are her frustrations directed toward him?
 The policeman's reaction is understandable, but, according to Harry

O'Reilly, the director of the Institute for the Study of Investigative Services at the Criminal Justice Center at John Jay College in New York City, it is wrong.

O'Reilly was one of several speakers at a recent seminar for law enforcers and hospital workers at the Exxon Corporation in Linden, sponsored by the Union County Sex Crimes Analysis Unit, the program with tapered increasing sensitivity toward the victims of sexual crimes. Ill-treatment of a rape victim could, he said, undermine an investigator's search for the rapist and might, according to the speakers, have an effect on the woman's psychological state for the rest of her life.

"Let her yell at you," said O'Reilly. "And understand that it's not you she's mad at. She's directing her anger at you because you're there, and you weren't there to help her, while she was being raped."

Misdirected anger at a policeman is one of the tools police departments can use to move in closer to a suspect, according to O'Reilly, and a systematized approach toward dealing with the victim can improve police success in catching a sex crimes suspect.

Ounce of prevention

Health tests for seniors

On the second Wednesday of every month, more than 100 men and women, most with graying hair, gather in a holiday mood at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center.

Clusters of people in the brightly dressed crowd are talking about their recent field trip to Berkeley Heights. Others are just anticipating today's activities. All look like members of a tour group, relaxed, informal, ready to board a jet to Hawaii, comments one observer.

But the men and women are chatting about miles covered not by jets, but by the blood in their own bodies. They are gathering to have two nurses measure the pressure that the blood reaches on its long journey. And many of the people are also intending to participate in diabetes screening.

The crowd's holiday mood reflects a new approach to senior citizen health care that has been developing for about three years in Springfield, an affluent, middle-class suburban community that has shunned traditional public clinics.

"It's not the sort of town in which you just sell people on things for their own good," says Dr. Henry Birse, health officer for the Summit Regional Board of Health that serves a four-community area including Springfield. "It's for their own good, they're quite capable of realizing it themselves—and they know how they want it run."

By the 1970s, organized senior citizens in Springfield were realizing they needed to do more about illness-prevention as a group. About 5,000 town residents, roughly a third of the population, had reached age 60 or older. Many were feeling the squeeze of inflation on fixed incomes, and they realized trips to the doctor. Others had always viewed "health care" as a euphemism for "disease cure"—something a person seeks only when feeling sick.

"MANY SENIORS needed the incentive of seeing their friends joining in the (illness-prevention) program," recalls Ellen Carmichael, now in her 80s, founder of the town's senior citizens' organization that today includes more than 500 activists. "The financial angle, in some cases, was also a thing causing hesitation. Also, just (making) the trip to the doctor's office, believe it or not, can be a worry."

Madeline Lancaster, a member of Group 1 of the senior organization and an activist on the Mayor's Committee on Aging, informally surveyed the town's older residents and discovered that few were even taking the precaution of getting flu shots, Mrs. Carmichael recalls.

"It all began when Madeline volunteered to be health chairman for the organization," Mrs. Carmichael explains about the development of Springfield's preventive medicine program for the aging.

Advocates, according to O'Reilly and John Jay College Criminal Justice director Dorothy H. Bracony, is underscored by a law enforcer's ability to successfully glean important information from his victim. And the job, they say, is difficult.

"The success of the unit's two-year existence has been proven," DeMaestri said. He noted that the prosecutors have lost "only one rape trial," and he said increased police and hospital worker sensitivity is a reflection on the unit's validity.

"I'm sure the unit has had a lot to do with increased police awareness of rape," said DeMaestri.

School board expects to reduce faculty by 4

Declining enrollment is expected to mean four more teaching positions in the Springfield school district next year, Dr. Frel Baruchin, superintendent, reported to the Board of Education on Monday.

Baruchin said he hopes normal attrition and redeployments will allow the district to offer jobs, at least part-time, to all current teachers who want to return next year. The redeployments will include some job-sharing, voluntary for tenured teachers, resulting in part-time positions for some pre-tenured teachers who would otherwise become unemployed. Baruchin said further attrition, through voluntary resignations and retirements, might also help save jobs for all who want to stay.

But at this point, he told the board, the district can offer firm commitments next year to only five pre-tenured teachers: Joan Scelfo, Marcia Bright, Helen Frank, Harriet Ginsburg and Michelle Gralnick. At least two of the five will be working part-time.

"There may be others in May or June," said Baruchin about recommended rehiring of pre-tenured teachers. He said any layoff would be "solely the result of enrollment decline and dissatisfaction with job performance this year."

The board approved all Baruchin's recommendations. But member John Westfield said he wants a review of summer school costs, plus cost of custodial services for recreation programs before the teachers-hiring picture is complete for 1978-79. Westfield said he believes $41,000 could be saved in summer school and recreation spending, "and teachers are more important."

The Springfield Educational Secretaries Association (SESA) calling for raises averaging about 6.8 percent annually. The board had already approved a contract calling for teachers to receive a similar percentage increase. The contract is retroactive to the start of the current fiscal year.

Under terms of the teachers' contract, salaries will range from $15,700 to $24,200 next year for fulltime teachers and those in related jobs: guidance counselor, librarian, psychologist, etc. (Continued on page 3)

Party designations go to Ruocco, McCourt

The political party organizations have endorsed candidates from two sparsely represented majorities, women and Republicans, for the sole seat on the Springfield Township Committee to be filled in November. The Democrats' choice is Viola McCourt, and the GOP's, William Ruocco.

Their endorsement by the party faithful during the past week virtually assures their formal nomination in the June 6 primary to face each other at the polls Nov. 7. They will seek a three-year term in the seat to be vacated by Joanne Rajoppi, former mayor who announced she would bow out of township politics after her election to the county Board of Freeholders five months ago.

Rajoppi is the only woman among the five current members of the Township Committee, who are all Democrats. Ruocco, a former two-term committeeman, points out he would be the only Republican.

"I think two-party representation in Springfield is a very legitimate issue," Ruocco said after his selection by a vigorous campaign at a local GOP meeting last Thursday night.

A Democratic screening committee chose McCourt on Monday night after reportedly passing over two male hopefuls.

Democratic backing for McCourt was announced moments before the 10 a.m. Tuesday deadline imposed on both major political parties for this week's edition of the Leader.

"There's no line for her (Mcourts)" to issue a statement or have her picture taken for this week's paper. "But I can tell you she's delighted and intends a vigorous campaign," said Gertrude Spiegel, local Democratic chairman, who made the announcement.

McCourt has served on the local Assistance (Welfare) Board. She is a past president of the Women's Club and has served in the First Aid Squad.

Stevenson tale in movie tonight at local library

A 34-minute, color-film version of one of Robert Louis Stevenson's most popular tales will be shown in the meeting room of the Springfield Public Library tonight at 7 p.m.

The film tells the story of a young David Balfour who is kidnapped by a dishonest uncle in an attempt to keep him from his rightful inheritance after his father's death.

"Action-packed and beautifully photographed, it is suitable for viewers of all ages from 8 to 90," a library spokesman said.

Saturday there will be a festival of famous cartoons at 11 a.m. and again at 2 p.m. in the library.

A buffet luncheon is planned after the dedication ceremonies. Glazi said further information is available from him at 964-7334.

Squad assists 97 in distress

The Springfield First Aid Squad responded to 97 calls for help in March, according to Joan Bowen, second lieutenant of the volunteer organization.

Fifty-nine cases involved emergencies arising from traffic, household or industrial accidents, Bowen reported last week. Thirty-one calls were for non-emergency ambulance transportation to and from hospitals and other health-care institutions. In five cases, potential patients refused treatment or changed their minds about going to the hospital after the squad had been called.

Bowen reported that patients needed oxygen 23 times last month, an increase from February. Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation was used once.

The squad traveled 863 miles to provide first-aid treatment in numerous Springfield homes and businesses and to transport local residents to or from seven different hospitals and two nursing homes. Bowen said squad members provided almost 290 man hours of service. The mobile intensive care unit from Overlook Hospital assisted the squad in 17 cases.

You know what to look for in a car. Now we'll show you what to look for in a dealer.

BRAIN. Pick the dealer who was smart enough to pick Volkswagen as the best car for New Jersey. He's the man who knows the difference between the cheapest price and the best value.

WATCH THE EYES. They should be unblinking, sharp, and wide open. Volkswagen dealers are the kind of guys who can look you right in the eye because they believe in the cars they sell. They've got the sharp eyes that spotted Volkswagen Rabbits, Dashers, and Sciroccos as the best cars for New Jersey. And they keep their eyes wide open so they won't miss any details that will make their service better.

CHECK THE EARS. Make sure the man you buy a car from listens real well. Volkswagen dealers do. We think it's important so we can give you just what you need in a car. And it's important after you get your car too! Because someone should be there to listen when you need a want something done.

THE MOUTH SHOULD BE MORE THAN JUST A GARAGE FOR THE SMILE. A smile doesn't make a great dealer make. A mouth should talk out of only one side. It should be filled with reassurance and helpful answers. That's the kind of mouth you get when you talk to a Jersey Pro.

We're the Jersey Pros. We're in a league all our own.

Jersey Pros

Every Volkswagen dealer really cares. He's got the most sophisticated, most experienced, and loyal service department in his area. He wouldn't do all that if he didn't care, would he? And he certainly wouldn't sell a car that gives you so many features as standard equipment if he didn't care about you.

You'll get features like front wheel drive, negative steering roll radius, fuel injection, and a dual diagonal braking system, to name just a few.

There are a lot of features and a lot of caring.

Water company asks for increase in rates

Commonwealth Water Company, which serves approximately 64,000 customers in Springfield and 23 other communities, this week announced that it is seeking authority to raise its rates by $43.80 a year—to the average residential customer.

Jack King, vice-president and manager, said that the utility is presenting its case for higher rates to the New Jersey Board of Public Utility Commissioners, which must approve any change in price schedules.

King added that the company's present rates are based on operating costs and investment in water service facilities as of year-end 1974. The company will present evidence to show how the rate of return on its investment in plant facilities has declined while costs have "dramatically increased" during the intervening period since its last rate case, he added.

The company is seeking an overall increase in operating revenues of $2,871,221, or 27 percent. A detailed cost of service study has been made to serve

Announcing The Opening Of New Jersey's Most Exclusive Salon For Men & Women

We cordially invite you to visit the fabulous new Subway at 241 Millburn Avenue in the Millburn Common.

Subway, long considered the most exclusive of discriminating salons for men and women, now adds a new dimension to hair and beauty fashion. Subway has created the only truly cosmopolitan beauty center in New Jersey.

At Subway/Millburn, we've added over fifty new services of which quite a few are exclusive only through Subway, and we've augmented our staff with only the finest "Super Professionals" to perform these expanded services. Plus we've designed a salon that's quite frankly "The Top."

The new salon was designed by the internationally acclaimed design firm of Frederick Brush Associates, New Canaan, Connecticut. Mr. Brush's credits include some of the world's most fashionable nightclubs and private residences. Subway is the designer's first attempt at salon design. Calling upon his remarkable talent for open space, Mr. Brush has certainly outdone himself. He has captured a feeling of spaciousness while retaining the intimate privacy so necessary in a salon of this dimension and scope.

By using fluctuating levels, free standing walls, multiple platforms and recessed running lights, he has achieved a futuristic effect that has a devastating effect on all that see it.

Subway New Jersey's most exclusive salon is now able to offer its clients on-site parking, over 2,000 square feet of additional service area, morning and afternoon refreshments and a bevy of other special services one would expect from a salon of Subway's reputation.

So, visit us soon and experience a totally new concept in beauty. Just call 467-0477 for your appointment.

Open burning banned near state woodlands

The N.J. Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), as a precautionary measure, has banned all open burning in or near woodlands in an effort to reduce the threat of fire during the spring forest fire season.

State Fireward James A. Cumming said open burning includes all fires other than those in prepared fireplaces, elevated charcoal grills, or stoves using liquid fuels in state and private campgrounds.

Cumming also reminded the public that New Jersey's Air Pollution Control Code prohibits any open burning of leaves, plant life, garbage, trade waste and structures.

Role of water in solar system to be discussed

Prof. Richard Goody from Harvard University's Center for Earth and Planetary Physics will speak at Kean College, Union, on Tuesday, from 1:00 to 3 p.m., in Bruce Hall, room 100.

His talk is entitled, "Oceans, glaciers and the atmospheric greenhouse." The topic is the role of water in the inner solar system. He will discuss the possibility of a unified approach to the physics of earth and the planets, a theory now emerging as a direct result of U.S. and Soviet space exploration.

Goody will endeavor to answer the question: "How does water come to all the planets in the inner solar system by processes similar to those now known to exist on Mars and Venus?" His lecture will discuss the possibility of a unified approach to the physics of earth and the planets, a theory now emerging as a direct result of U.S. and Soviet space exploration.

See, I told you he wouldn't run off without his dog!

Cub Scouts slate annual registration

Cub Scouts Packs 70, 72 and 172 of Springfield will hold their annual registration on Thursday at 7:15 p.m. next Thursday at the Walton School.

Boys 6 or older, or who will be in the third grade in the fall, are invited to attend the meeting with their parents. Representatives from the three packs will be on hand to answer questions and to assist in registration.

"Cub Scouting, although primarily for the boys, is a family-oriented program," explained the representative. "Throughout the year there are trips, picnics, athletic events and camping. The boys at the den meetings participate in games, skills and craft activities suitable for their age level. Boys meet in small groups after school four times a month at the homes of the den leaders; and all the boys and their parents meet once a month at a general pack meeting held on the second Tuesday of the month. Pack 72 is sponsored by St. James Catholic Church and the pack meetings are held on the third Wednesday of the month. Pack 172 is sponsored by the Lions Club and meets at the James Caldwell School on the fourth Friday of the month. Registration in all of the packs is not based on a sectarian policy. Further information on the Cub program in general or about the individual packs may be obtained by calling Mike Malami at 672-5200 or Truncate at 273-4522 or Rhona Jaffe at 467-1722.

Work on deck comes to a halt

Work on the deck parking facility at Overlook Hospital has come to a temporary halt because of technical construction problems, according to Robert E. Heinlein, Overlook's president and director.

"The construction problems are under review and must be resolved before work can be resumed," Heinlein commented, adding the problem involves matters totally beyond the control of Overlook Hospital.

"We are doing everything possible to expedite resolution of the problems and early resumption of construction with a minimum of delay," said Overlook's director.

He urged continued patience and cooperation from employees, volunteers, patients and visitors during the unexpected time setback, which comes after an exceptionally severe winter also delaying construction.

2 put on dean's list

Two Springfield residents—Kenneth W. Rau of Edgewood road and Scott F. Weisbrod of Madison terrace—have been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at Monclair State College. Both had perfect averages.

A USED CAR THAT'S WORTH YOUR MONEY.

FROM A DEALERSHIP THAT'S WORTHY OF YOUR TRUST.

You can trust our cars because every one listed here comes through, and passed, Douglas Motors' thorough 16-point inspection. Whatever needed fixed, we fixed. And if a car has something that can't be fixed, we won't sell it to you.

And you can trust our dealership because, over the years, Douglas Motors has built the kind of reputation for honesty, integrity and reliability that most other dealerships can only envy. And one reason why we continue to enjoy this reputation is that we're constantly striving to live up to it.

But the best part of buying a used car from Douglas is that you don't have to buy it on trust alone. Every Douglas Motors used car comes with a double guarantee: 3 months/3,000 miles (whichever comes first) on the entire car plus 1 year (unlimited mileage) on the engine and drive train. And Douglas Motors exclusive Service Value Checks, that save you hundreds of dollars on check-ups, lubrications and lesser care.

These are just a few of the reasons why we sell more used — and new — Volkswagens than any other dealer in New Jersey. We know that the way to keep our customers first is to keep putting our customers first.

Colorful meals

Keep color in mind when planning meals. Consider, for instance, contrasting colors in the foods being served. Color is also a key in selecting foods rich in vitamin A. The darker the green—or the deeper the yellow—the more vitamin A the vegetable contains.

Scarborough names purchasing manager

Edward Krinski, Jr., a builder who has taken advanced training in construction, has been named purchasing and contracts manager for Scarborough Inc., the home building arm of the Scarborough Corp. throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"We are fortunate to have a professional with more than 20 years experience to take over an increasingly critical section of our construction cycle," said John Hepp, president of Scarborough.

"With constantly increasing costs of materials, it is essential that we have some one who can make purchases of top-quality items at the best possible price. These costs, in turn, are reflected in moderate prices for our home buyers," Hepp continued.

"We are in our most ambitious year of construction, and Ed's efforts are already paying off."

Krinski, who works out of the Voorhees Township headquarters of Scarborough, has been in the home building field since the mid-1950s. He has taken courses at Brookdale College, Fairleigh Dickinson University, New York Institute and the University of North Carolina. He has also attended various service schools and builders' seminars.

The newly-appointed executive has carried his interest in home building in his leisure time. In his leisure time, he works with architectural design, woodworking and Early American research.

Krinski, 50, is a member of the National Home Builders Association, the Shore Builders Association and the Associated Building Contractors of Monmouth and Ocean County. He is also a member of the Division of Leisure Technology Corp., the golf course report is good news for many people.

"Golf is one of the favorite activities at Leisure Village West, as demonstrated by the more than 15,000 rounds were played at our existing course during a five-month period last year," Joseph stated. "As shown by the response to the new section of homes that will surround the second course, the sport continues to be a great attraction for the adult homebuyer."

The buyers were also impressed with the new section's proximity to all the other recreational facilities and programs that comprise the active lifestyle at Leisure Village West. These include the community greenhouse, putting green, swimming pool, shuffleboard and tennis courts, boating, fishing and other activities.

The more than 2000 residents in this community, off Rt. 70 west of Garden State Parkway Exit 28, take classes in everything from acting to sewing, and enjoy the fraternal and social clubs, films, parties, dance, entertainment and the closed-circuit TV studio.

Adult golfers and others can view the models which are open weekdays from 9 to 5, and weekends from 9 to 6. Take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 28, 80 six miles west on Rt. 70 to the community entrance on the left. The community entrance is continually guarded and there is a dusk-to-dawn roving patrol. Privacy is also provided by the thick natural woodland surrounding a good portion of the community, and when residents are away, their homes are checked daily by the security force.

Besides being freed from worry about themselves or their property, Leisure Village West households, which have at least one member 52 years of age or older, are freed from the head and backaches normally associated with home ownership. Snow removal, lawn care and exterior maintenance are handled through the homeowners' association.

Dream homes to be shown in Atlantic City

Family Circle, national women's magazine, had a dream of creating a beautiful, family-size home that people could afford. After a year of research, planning and cost pricing, they produced a three-bedroom dream home for less than $28,000. That home will be a feature attraction of the Garden State Home and Leisure Living Show next week in Atlantic City's Convention Hall.
The house was featured in seven pages of color photos in Family Circle, who credited the home with bringing the pride of home ownership back to the American family. "Family Circle Good Value Index" has 1,522 square feet of living space, two baths, living room, dining room, den, kitchen and laundry in the three bedrooms. This kind of affordable lifestyle is what the Home and Leisure Living Show is all about. The show begins on April 27 with an exciting array of new products and services. Attendance of over 50,000 is expected from throughout New Jersey, metropolitan Philadelphia and New York as well as Delaware and Maryland.

Another model to bow at Eagle Rock site

Sales are just past the halfway mark at the 76-house Eagle Rock community—off New Hampshire Avenue and Rt. 88 in Lakewood. A fourth model, a four-bedroom, two-bath bi-level, will now be exhibited in June to give potential purchasers a wider choice of housing designs. The house will sell in the high $40,000 price range.
Currently on display is an expandable Cape Cod, a ranch and a two-story price range $46,700 to $51,200. Bill Valant, Homeowner of Hovell, Inc., the developer, warns prices are expected to increase by mid-May.
Hovannan said that it was getting more difficult each day to hold the price, based on wholesale prices of some major building materials and commodities. As reported by the Department of Labor, this spring will see big jumps in the price of lumber, plywood, concrete and gypsum products, among others.
Hovannan said it will be impossible for him to hold the price line much longer, and he urged buyers to make early purchases to get the most for their dollars. He pointed out that buyers who purchased homes originally at "Eagle Rock from $41,000 have seen their dwellings appreciate by "second trip-passes" will be available for people who want to return to the show a second time during its four-day run.
The show is sponsored by the New Jersey Manufactured Housing Association of Trenton. It runs from next Thursday, April 27, through Sunday, April 30. Hours are noon to 10 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, noon to 7 p.m. on Sunday. Adult admission is $3, which includes all three seminars. Thursday is senior citizen day when admission is half price for anyone 60 or older.

Baris predicts rise in 1978 sales climate

The year 1977 was a year of sales success and milestones for Jordan Baris Inc., a New Jersey real estate brokerage company. Looking ahead, Jordan Baris, president of the firm headquartered in Irvington, forecasts that the consumer climate and the constant development of the firm's own expertise will combine for further success during 1978.
"For the early part of 1978, at least," Baris stated, "current general economic and local market conditions translate into an excellent time for real estate activity. Home sales, particularly, should increase because of the state government's decision to maintain the state income tax and perpetuate the variety of markets and categories of properties. "Diversification keeps this business exciting,"

Are you going to miss your one last golden opportunity?

On the entire Jersey Coast, this may be one of the last new oceanfront condominiums you'll ever have a chance to own.

And right now, it's the only one within ninety minutes of North Jersey and Manhattan. What makes this a last of its kind is a tough State environmental law that effectively bars new buildings from the beach. What makes it a golden opportunity is this:

Monmouth Beach is an unspoiled, turn-of-the-century seaside resort where many homes sell for six-figure prices, if you can find one. Yet we have plush oceanfront homes available from the $50's. (Admittedly, most of our homes will sell at $60-90,000.)

And we give you a lot more than the ocean at your feet: Like indoor and outdoor pools, a tennis court and putting green, a health spa, owners' lounge—even a boardwalk. Not to mention a spectacular view.

Is it all as good as it sounds? Consider this:
Two weeks ago, we opened our new models. Nearly 2,000 people came to look. Today we have less than 80 homes available.
Do you think you'll ever again see new luxury oceanfront homes like these, this close to Manhattan, at prices so low? We don't. So we suggest you come see them today. Because we think people are going to buy them like there's no tomorrow.

THE CHESAPEAKE I is one of four new single-family home models recently introduced at Panther Valley, in Allamuchy. Priced at $93,900, the Colonial home has four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths and attached two-car garage. It features a family room, breakfast area, optional sun deck and fireplace and a basement.

Golf course big part of Panther package

The Panther Valley Club offerings may be enjoyed by Panther Valley residents by architect Robert Trent Jones, is scheduled to open for the 1978 season April 22 in Allamuchy. The course, a facility of the Panther Valley Golf & Country Club, is one of many special features of this 160-acre community and holidays located near the Andover-Hackettstown exit of Rt. 80. Richard Hughes, the club golf pro, said the severe snows of the past winter may delay the opening, but the course will be ready for play sometime this month. The Panther Valley Golf & Country Club's tennis and swim club facilities are also being prepared for spring use. The Country Club offerings may be enjoyed by Panther Valley residents, Hughes said. Panther Valley social events add to the overall active and friendly atmosphere, and club members can lunch in rustic Temperance Hall and dine in the main clubhouse that was once a mansion. Privacy at Panther Valley is fostered by a system that includes 24-hour gate-house security. There's a most stylish shopping mall at the community entrance, and public schools and private academies are nearby. Panther Valley is located near mountain lakes and ski areas, and is 55 miles from the George Washington Bridge on express Rt. 80.

The front door also is fully insulated, and weatherstripped and has a lock and viewer; gutters and aluminum, there is city water and sewers, and electric, telephone and cable television lines are all underground. The units also have approved smoke detectors. Located in the Jersey shore area, the community is close to beaches, golf courses and green parks. The area also has houses of worship, shopping centers and schools nearby.

N.J. gets TV news program

The "New Jersey Nightly News" will premiere on Monday, May 1, as a joint production of New Jersey Public Television (NJPTV) and WNET-Thirteen, New York. WNET-Thirteen's northern New Jersey audience will view the newscast each evening at 8:30 p.m. and again at 7 a.m. the following morning. NJPTV's TV channels 10 in Montclair and 58 in New Brunswick will air the program at 7:30 p.m. and will feature a new "update" at 10 p.m. each evening.

"Our aim is not to duplicate the efforts of New York and Philadelphia commercial television news operations," says Herb Blotnick, executive producer of the New Jersey Nightly News. "This program will concern itself solely with New Jersey issues, events and personalities. We won't cross the Hudson or the Delaware unless it to cover an issue that affects New Jersey's residents."

Annual history fair slated by Jerseymen

The Jerseymen, student branch of the New Jersey Historical Society, will hold its 15th annual state history fair Tuesday through May 6 at society headquarters in Newark. Young history buffs from grades four through 12 will be presenting exhibits ranging from models, mobiles, dioramas and maps to sophisticated multi-media productions. Their work will be judged on Monday before the fair is open to the public, by a panel of distinguished educators and historians. Judges will rate the exhibits in terms of the depth of their research, their authenticity, originality and construction. Awards of superior, excellent, high merit and merit will be given to all exhibits. The most outstanding exhibits in the fair will receive special recognition. The fair will be open to the public daily from Tuesday to Saturday, May 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. The society is closed to the public on Sundays and Mondays.

According to Joan C. Hull, Jerseymen coordinator and assistant director of the historical society, the purpose of the fair is to provide students with an opportunity to show their interest in the world today and in the past by displaying their hand-made projects. "We expect anything from a miniature Indian village to a model of a contemporary downtown district," she said. "But the important thing is getting the students involved. When that happens, everyone's a winner in the history fair." The fair kicks off the Jerseymen Club's celebration of Jerseymen History Week, an annual event marking by a proclamation from the governor election of new state officers and weekend convention at a place of historic interest. This year the Jerseymen convention will be held from April 28 to 30 at The Golden Eagle Inn in Cape May.

Mental Health

USING SELF-HELP GROUPS You have a specific personal problem that's affecting your work and home life and have decided to seek outside help. Should you make an appointment with a professional counselor? Or should you enroll in a self-help group with other people who share your problem? A recent study funded by the National Institute of Mental Health foresees a day when you won't have to be faced with such a clear-cut decision. Dr. Leon Levy and his research team at Indiana University observed more than 20 local self-help groups to explore the possibilities of coordinating self-help and professional efforts in a comprehensive mental health delivery system. The Indiana team was careful to review a variety of self-help organizations: Alcoholics Anonymous, Parents Without Partners and a gay liberation society. In each study, researchers interviewed members at length and regularly attended group meetings. They discovered that every group was formed because its members shared a particular problem. The team did find that self-helpers, like psychiatrists, seek a frame of reference to understand a problem and try to look at the problem from many different angles to reach a solution. But self-help groups are unique for their warm and accepting environments. As Levy said, "The rarely use confrontation or attack methods, but rely chiefly on expressions of empathy and on positive reinforcement." Levy believes that self-helpers and professionals can and should learn much from each other. He was encouraged by the fact that the self-help groups in his study were willing to accept professional advice. In one instance, an organizational handbook was written for a group which requested specific help from the research team. And, even though a nationwide survey of 74 mental health agencies showed less openness on the part of professionals, the agencies were positive about the effectiveness of self-help groups. They weakly maintain, however, about how to integrate their own efforts and self-help activities. Levy called for efforts to bring this integration about.
