

Teens -- a new medical specialty

Adolescent problems more serious

Time was, pimples and awkwardness were the plague of adolescence. Those problems still exist, but nowadays they are overshadowed by more serious ailments—venereal disease, teenage pregnancy and physical ailments not formerly associated with growing up. In fact, the woes of adolescence have become so diverse and pressing that a relatively new medical specialty—adolescent medicine—is coming to the fore. At the New Jersey Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (CMDNJ), a Division of Adolescent Medicine has been thriving as a center for both patient care and teaching.

Gaudineer PTA set to sponsor field trip

The Florence Gaudineer School PTA apparently is ready to assume sponsorship of the eighth grade's annual field trip. "Oh, yes, we definitely want to go ahead with it," Anne Daniel, president of the PTA, commented this week. She said the PTA had been delaying an announcement in the past—only because of fears about the legal issue. "We would never want to do anything against the law."

But Seymour Margulies, attorney for the town school district's Board of Education, in effect told the Leader he has no legal barrier to PTA sponsorship of the trip.

"I don't argue cases in the newspaper," Margulies replied to press questioning, "but I believe I commented very capably at a public meeting when the board was adopting new policy (on field trips)."

The board adopted a new field trip policy at meetings last December and January. At the time, Margulies told board members he believed the policy conforms with all the guidelines set down in the December 1966 decision of the state commissioner of education in the case of Melvin Millett vs. the Board of Education of the Township of Colts Neck, Monmouth County. That decision was cited by lawyers for a Springfield member who won a restraining order temporarily blocking the eighth-grade "week in the woods" two years ago.

The Colts Neck decision prohibits school districts from requiring parents to pay—except to the extent the parent publicly pays, via taxes—for any activity planned during school hours as an integral part of the educational process.

But Margulies told the local board last December that nothing in the Colts Neck decision bars tag-along voluntary donations, unsolicited by the school district, from groups such as a PTA.

At that time he instructed board members and school district employees to keep "hands off" any involvement in fund raising, but said the board could not accept a PTA's donation for a specific purpose and promise not to use the funds for anything else.

While school officials have been keeping "hands off," Mrs. Daniel said PTA members have been worrying about a supplemental petition filed several months ago by the Springfield mother who originally challenged the legality of the field trips. The commission has yet to reach that case.

Mrs. Daniel said the PTA hoped for some formal assurance from Margulies it would not be violating the law by offering money for the field trip.

Margulies told the Leader he never comments to press or public about some matter that might be coming before the board. If the PTA raised funds for the trip, the board would have to vote on accepting the donation.

But the board's policy "is very specific," Margulies pointed out. He had summarized the policy at the board meeting in December. "If any organization raises money in conformance with (the) Colts Neck decision, and if the board then decides to accept the donation for a field trip, the trip will take place. The board would not agree to take the money and then not have the trip."

Mrs. Daniel said the PTA conducted a survey several months ago and learned that parents of about 145 of the 182 eighth graders "are willing to donate funds" for a trip to the woods. She stressed that the PTA, with help from eighth graders' parents, would raise money "for every child who wants to go."

Alfred Gras, a Maple street resident was loudly applauded by the audience when he said it is "crazy" for homeowners to suffer through flooded basements and yards while the Union County Park Commission worries about recreation use "of a worthless little piece of land." The commission controls land the town needs for the berg, got some congratulations himself. The committee formally approved Buehrer's tenure in office which he earned by winning elections in 1972 and 1974. Buehrer will not have to run again this year or in the future.

Dealing with happy delegations early in the evening, committee members faced decidedly unhappy residents of the flood area at the close of the meeting.

"Unofficial town adviser Ed Rall surprised anti-construction leaders with an announcement that he believed RI-7a will "inevitably go through" Watchung Reservation, and the town would just be throwing away "any money spent on future opposition never expected to be fighting with Ed Rall tonight, but he's wrong; nothing is inevitable and appointing a sixth term, a planning commissioner and former head of the environmental commission."

About 35 flood-area residents denounced that the committee do some "arm twisting" in Elizabeth to end delays on flood-control work. In the Marion avenue-Riverside drive-Joanne way areas.

The flood-control delegation was about a third of the large audience at the start of the meeting. Others in the crowd left after the Township Commission performed its most pleasant chores of the evening: applauding the seventh-grade all-stars in the recreation department basketball program and appointing a sixth sergeant in the police department.

Coach Fred Marech and his Junior Minutemen received—certificates honoring their 29th basketball season that included championships in the Springfield Invitational Tournament and the Summit Regional Tournament. Committee member Nathan Stokes and Recreation Director Joe Rapunano presented the awards.

Town moves to settle problems with quarry

The Springfield Township Committee introduced an ordinance Tuesday that, if adopted May 9, will become the final chapter in a two-year dispute between flood-prone quarry operators and municipal government.

While this long-term controversy seemed to be winding up, two older ones were flaring up at the committee meeting.

The flood-control delegation was about a third of the large audience at the start of the meeting. Others in the crowd left after the Township Commission performed its most pleasant chores of the evening: applauding the seventh-grade all-stars in the recreation department basketball program and appointing a sixth sergeant in the police department.

Employees get counseling aid from Overlook

Whether the problem is physical or emotional illness, financial stress, in-law or troubled teenagers, Overlook Hospital's employee assistance program is designed to help not only Overlook Hospital employees, but those of several other area firms in all covering some 7,500 employees.

New manager of the employee assistance program is Paul Bills, who comes to the hospital from posts in California as coordinator of the Alcoholism Clinic of the Kaiser Permanente Plan and therapeutic center with the County of Los Angeles Alcohol Clinic.

She is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles with her master's degree from California State University. Miss Bills is licensed as a marriage, family and child counselor in California.

"A few times to use a counselor only a few times to get support and fresh approaches to their problems," Miss Bills commented. Sometimes, the need for more extensive therapy is recognized.

About half the employees utilizing the program come in on their own, according to Miss Bills, with one quarter of the problems related to alcohol.

"Trying to work an eight-hour day and cope privately with serious problems such as financial pressures, legal difficulties, family problems or alcoholism leads to deterioration of performance in professional life," Miss Bills explained.

"The Employee Assistance Program offers a constructive, confidential, rehabilitative answer and is proving the vehicle through which problems can be overcome," she pointed out. "This program of qualified counseling and treatment is available to area industries interested in joining the consortium."

Energy tips available from real-estate firm

A guidebook, "How to conserve energy and dollars in retirement," is now available from Scott Co., Realtors of Elizabeth and Clark. "All of us have been awash in energy conservation and help guide retirees in making sound housing decisions," Scott asserted. Insulation and construction of the basic elements of the house are obvious considerations included in the text as well as the implications of weighing the cost effectiveness of energy conservation improvements.

Proper use of mechanical equipment is also reviewed. For example, the booklet points out that water heaters gulp more energy than air conditioners, health maintenance, television sets and freezers combined. Lowering hot water temperature settings from 150 degrees to 120 an approximate fuel bill saving of nine percent can be effected.

The whole strategy of retirement housing is addressed from the perspective of energy saving. Location choices by retirees are critically important, for example, because automobiles burn 14 percent of all energy consumed in the United States each year, more than home heating and air-conditioning combined.

The Federal Energy Administration says that if each car owner could eliminate one short ride per week the nation's gasoline bill and need for imported oil, could be cut by seven percent.

Offices are at 400 Westfield Ave., Elizabeth, and 1182 Elizabeth rd., Clark. They are open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Timber Glen opening 2nd and final section

One of the more successful residential communities in North Brunswick is now announcing the opening of its second and final section. The Timber Glen development has enjoyed brisk traffic since it opened with its original 64 homes.

"We have been absolutely delighted at the amount of sales chalked up in such a short amount of time," said Saul Flame, builder and developer. "No large corporation now in the field," he commented, "could have made this community click so well. Part of the answer is tight control and individual supervision."

Flame, who has built hundreds of homes in the Sayreville-Madison area, including Timber Glen of Madison, pointed out that he is personally on the job site overseeing all phases of operation. "So if, in the event a problem arises, it can be rectified immediately. The result is less waste, direct communication and, in the end, a better home for less money," he said.

Although the final section will feature the same models as were in the initial section, the area, according to Flame, will be even prettier "as it offers room to treat the land in a more flexible fashion," he said.

Timber Glen, located on Cozzens Lane, offers five models: an fully landscaped, wooded lots. It is accessible to a network of major highways, including the N.J. Turnpike. The models include a split-level, the Washington; three two-story colonials, the Hamilton, the Glendale and the Ashbrook, and a ranch, the Concord. Prices start at $78,000.

Construction features at Timber Glen include three and four bedrooms, family rooms, full basements, washer, ceramic tile walls and floors in all main family baths and two-car garages. Exterior features include brick-veneer fronts and wood double-hung windows throughout.

Underground electric and telephone wiring, concrete sidewalks and service walks, Belgian block curb, paved streets, and city water and city sewers are among the many community facilities provided.

THE GLENDALE—This two-story colonial is one of five different model homes being featured at Timber Glen in North Brunswick. Located on Cozzens Lane off Rt. 1, these homes start at $78,000 and include fully landscaped wooded lots.

New All State center opened

All State Homes, Florida's largest low cost on-your-lot home builder, has opened its third and most elaborate and complete permanent home living center and a 15,600-square-foot headquarters complex in Tampa. This brings to 16 the number of completed model home centers in Florida homes staffed by All State personnel from two locations in Tampa and a third in Orlando.

"We plan to open two more permanent model centers—one in Polk County and another in Ocala—before the end of the year," said Pete Rutkin, president of the firm which constructs more than 400 homes a year. He projects that 1978 will be the best year ever in All State Homes' history with the company completing more than 600 homes. More than 200 homes now are under construction.

All State Homes' philosophy over the past 22 years has been to provide economical housing that more people can afford. One reason why the company has built homes for over 10,000 customers up to 35 percent, said Rutkin, "because of All State Homes' massive buying-power for labor, materials, and appliances. Unlike other builders, we do not tie up our money in

Indian Forest offers quiet life in city area

Henry Rosenzweig, builder at Indian Forest in East Brunswick, has announced the opening of the third section of this 175 home site. There is more than 30 acres of open space at Indian Forest providing nature trails, recreation areas and a private lot in an area of crowded towns and cities. The arrangement of each carefully designed home, on minimum one-third acre lots, complements nature.

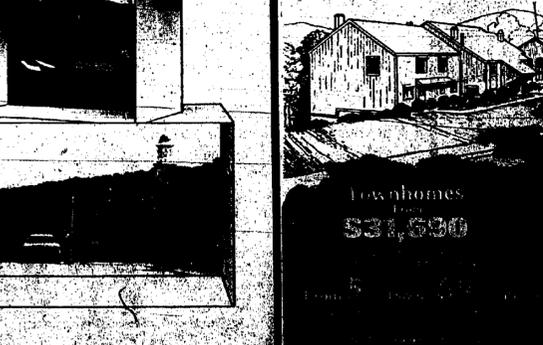

The picturesque woodland setting and resultant privacy are enhanced by a 1400 acre county park near the site. A barnyard with nature has been achieved under the direction of the Indian Forest staff, who will not remove a tree that has been personally inspected and carefully determined as impossible to save.

A choice of ten model homes, each with three alternate exterior elevations are available. Also featured are the Casa Grande—three bedroom, two bath, with a completely bricked front elevation, the Casa Grande—three bedroom, one bath, with a Spanish motif front elevation, and the L-Shaped Bahama, three bedroom, two bath.

For all northern home buyers a special financing program has been arranged by All State Homes in 1978. In most cases, your Florida homestead can be used as a downpayment for building your new dream home since prices will be going up within the next three months.

For further information write All State Homes, 11300 N. Central Ave., Tampa, Fla., 33612 or phone 813-955-2111.

THE STANHOPE INDEPENDENT HIGH

Heritage site soon to have new models

Four luxury homes have been sold at Heritage Estates in Hillsdale, including all three models, and new colonial two-story and atrium bi-levels, which will serve as model homes, are under construction and are expected to be ready for early showing.

Paul Waldinger and Winnie Marshall of Nansen of Paramus, developer of the 13-home community on Van Emburgh avenue and Werburgh court, can show prospective buyers the two-story model under construction while the bi-level is expected to be ready for viewing shortly.

"Nansen also plans to start construction shortly on a contemporary ranch on an acre lot priced at $137,500. This house will have a bridge over a brook portion of the property, which is suitable for a swimming pool or tennis court."

Joint sale arranged

Gebroe-Hammer Associates has arranged the package sale of three apartment complexes from an estate for more than $2 million, according to Joel Seiden, vice-president of the Livingston-based real estate sales organization.

The sale to MF Realty, a Gebroe-Hammer client, involved a high-rise in North Bergen and garden apartments in Hasbrouck Heights and Lodi. The three buildings totaled 132 units.

Seiden congratulated Robert Pischback and Alan Gebroe, Gebroe-Hammer's sales representatives, for arranging the complicated transaction with Garden State National Bank, trustee for the estate.

"The sale involved the purchase of a second mortgage prior to the actual acquisition of the real estate, plus additional cash and financing structured to give optimum tax benefits to all the parties," Seiden said.

Gebroe-Hammer has headquarters in the Gebroe-Hammer Building at Roosevelt Plaza, Livingston.

12 homes sold in a preview over weekend

Marc Heights East, the new single-family home community on Poole avenue near the Parkway Exit 117 in Hazlet, hadn't even opened yet, but more than 25 percent of the homes priced from $52,900 to $59,900 are already sold.

During the first weekend, the sales office was open for a preview showing 12 of the 43 homes in this new neighborhood were sold.

Ned Siegel of the Howard Siegel Companies said that the preview was held because the firm was "forced" to do so after a flood of inquiries that came when word of the development reached prospective homebuyers. The firm last year quickly sold out nearby Marc Heights.

At Marc Heights East, there are five ranch, bi-level and two-story colonial models, all with family rooms and attached garages. The community is situated near schools and is within walking distance of shopping and commuter buses to Manhattan.

Until the official opening of Marc Heights East, bi-level conversions are being accepted. Confirmation of all contracts will be made in the very near future.

Along with spaciousness and the builder's 566-unit attention to all details of the high quality of construction in these homes, the community is additionally attractive because of its location midway between urban New Jersey and New York work centers and the beaches and bays of the seashore, Siegel said. Also nearby are the Garden State Area Center and the Metropolitan train commuting point for express trips into New York City and south to Trenton, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C.

The Garden State Company is a member of the New Jersey Home Owners Warranty (HOW) Council. Therefore, all buyers receive 10 years of HOW insured warranty protection.

The Marc Heights East sales office is open daily except Thursdays.

To visit the community, take the Garden State Parkway to Exit 117 (Hazlet). Then take Rt. 30 approximately 1/2 mile past Poole avenue. Turn left via the jughandle to reach the models.

Gebroe is in Florida

LGH Management Co., a joint venture of Lyons Management Co. of Florida and Gebroe-Hammer Associates of Livingston, has taken the management of two luxury apartment complexes in Deerfield Beach and Coral Springs, Fla. It was announced by Mevin Gebroe, a partner in Gebroe-Hammer.

The Deerfield Beach segment parcel in the 1000th block of Lime Tree Village, a 104-unit garden apartment complex with two swimming pools and two tennis courts on SE 13th Street off Federal Highway, and Palm Terrace, comprising 95 townhomes and a clubhouse on Royal Palm Boulevard in Coral Springs.

LGH undertook this assignment at the request of First National State Bank of New Jersey, Gebroe stated.

Are you going to miss your one last golden opportunity?

On the entire Jersey Coast, this may be one of the last new oceanfront condominiums you'll ever have a chance to own.

And right now, it's the only one within ninety minutes of North Jersey and Manhattan.

What makes this a last of its kind is a tough State environmental law that effectively bars new buildings from the beach. What makes it a golden opportunity is this:

Monmouth Beach is an unspoiled, turn-of-the-century seaside resort where many homes sell for six-figure prices, if you can find one. Yet we have plush oceanfront homes available from the $50's. (Admittedly, most of our homes will sell at $60-90,000.)

And we give you a lot more than the ocean at your feet. Like indoor and outdoor pools, a tennis court and putting green, a health spa, owners' lounge—even a boardwalk. Not to mention a spectacular view.

If it all as good as it sounds? Consider this.
