

State rule gives access to vision prescriptions

The State Board of Optometrists reminded its licensees of a new state rule which requires that eyeglass prescriptions be released to consumers upon request and authorized them to release patients' contact lens prescriptions only to physicians or other optometrists.

The new rule concerning the availability of patient records took effect on July 21, according to Stanley J. Oleciak, president of the Board of Optometrists.

School days to start with a big splash

Parents, teachers to 'dip in' Ruddy is appointed assistant principal

By HELEN REYNOLDS

Top officials of Springfield's kindergarten-through-eighth grade (K-8) system admittedly will be all wet on the eve of the new school year—but have issued a blanket invitation for more than 2,000 parents and teachers to join them in the plunge.

Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of the school system, and Laura Rosenbaum, Board of Education president, this week announced that an informal meeting of the board, administrators, teachers and parents—all who want to come—will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 5, at the Springfield Municipal Swimming Pool and grounds. Activities will start with a bring-your-own picnic supper at 5 p.m.

Dr. Baruchin said the invitation is open to all families in the school system which includes Superintendent, Edward Walton, James Caldwell and Florence Gaudinier schools. With participants' supplying their own food, the district-wide party will be an unusual but inexpensive opportunity to talk over school-opening plans in a relaxed atmosphere. Dr. Baruchin explained. The idea grew out of a traditional "splash" held by PTA presidents and the board on a smaller scale.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL plans topped the agenda at the Board of Education's meeting Monday night in Raymond Chisholm School headquarters.

With two members on vacation, the other seven—Rosenbaum, Philip Feintuch, John Westerville, Jim Simpson, Eileen Dahmen, Nancy Heller and Gloria Starr—promoted Joseph Ruddy from guidance counselor to assistant principal at Gaudinier School. His salary will rise by $2,300 to $24,500 annually.

Baruchin had recommended the promotion in June. Ruddy, whose former guidance post was vacated by Helene Kozlowski as assistant principal. She earlier got the principalship at Walton, and former Walton Principal, Robert Black, was transferred to Caldwell. The reassignments were sparked by the retirement of Lillian Gustin, former Co. Caldwell principal.

In other action, the board: —Said it would raise the child care price this fall to 65 cents for the child below sixth grade and to 70 cents for the Gaudinier pupil. Pupils qualifying for reduced-price lunches will pay 20 cents apiece, instead of the previous 15 cents. Adult employees will pay $1.05 for each lunch from the school system.

Heard a presentation from Bob Bunnell, the school system's liability-insurance carrier, urging the board to reconsider its split decision the previous month of student-accident insurance. The board decided against distributing forms to parents who, in turn, could have mailed them to Groveshore, Campbell and Hall, for reduced-price accident coverage of students.

Parent-financed insurance coverage of students has no legal impact on school district liability or lack of accidents during school hours, Bunnell conceded. But, as a practical matter, private coverage may reduce liability claims against the school system, he said.

"It called it 'a distinct possibility' that claims against the system will rise if fewer students are insured by their parents. And such claims, even if inflated, can constitute a nuisance possibly leading, in time, to higher liability-insurance rates for the system, he said.

Board president Rosenbaum reiterated the majority position that school distribution of forms, in effect, constitutes meddling in free enterprise by promoting one particular insurance company.

The board took no action, but asked Bunnell for more information at a future meeting about the school system's accident-claims history.

Battle of Springfield: '80 re-enactment

The newly-organized nucleus of the Committee for the 200th Anniversary of the Battle of Springfield is thinking big—wowing the June 1980-festivities will be on a larger scale than any celebration in township history.

Jerry Cohen, active in the Springfield Community Players, is general chairman of the anniversary committee. Robert Briggs and Madeline Lancaster are his co-chairmen. Mayor William Cieri is serving ex-officio.

The preliminary plans call for: —A re-enactment of the Battle of Springfield by troops with weapons and clothing accurately copied from those of the British soldiers and the militiamen in the American Revolution.

—A parade, live drama and other events to be suggested by representatives of the town's civic, social, cultural, historical, religious, educational, athletic, military, business and professional organizations.

The Springfield battle was the last of consequence in New Jersey, historians generally agree. Fought in June 1780 the British advanced toward Washington's army at Morristown. Twice the militiamen blocked the way.

The first advance was halted near Coopersfield Farms (now Union), which the British King's Hessian troops then burned before pulling back to Elizabethtown.

British regulars reinforced the Hessian and Indian for the second advance two weeks later: the bloody fighting still known as the Battle of Springfield. Actually, local history buffs point out, the earlier advance also reached the area that was part of Springfield in the Revolution. Though they're popularly known as the Battle of Springfield, it was relatively huge geographically.

The militia inflicted British losses estimated at 400 to 500 in Springfield. The Rev. James Caldwell secured his place in legend by tearing out pages from Wata Lynn books when the Springfield defenders had run out of paper wadding for their guns. His battle cry—"Give 'em Watts!"—is still quoted.

Local residents regard the Battle of Springfield as an outstanding bond to the Revolutionary cause when it was desperately needed—six weeks after Charleston, S.C., had fallen to the British.

In any event, the Battle of Springfield was big and fierce. And the anniversary committee plans to commemorate it with "the biggest celebration the town has ever had," according to Lancaster.

"We will be meeting regularly on the fourth Wednesday of every month at 8 p.m. in the Sarah Bailey Civic Center," she says. "We'd like to have every organization in town send at least one representative. It's an enormous undertaking."

Local members of the anniversary committee, in addition to the chairman and the mayor, include Zal Vanel, Anthony Graziano, Frank Cardinal, Robert Gittmer, Matthew Furze, M. (Continued on page 5)

Parents ask township for a new playground

A citizens' delegation Tuesday pleaded with the Township Committee to provide "a safe, accessible play area" for children in the neighborhood stretching from the east side of Meisel avenue to Washington avenue.

Ben DiPalma of S. Maple avenue led the delegation of about 25 neighborhood residents, who brought petitions, signed by more than 200 who want the township to purchase and make a park of the Pool pre-teen event rescheduled Sunday

By MOIRA E. HALPIN

Once again many events planned for the Springfield Pool have had to be rescheduled for future Sundays because bad weather caused a decline in attendance at the pool.

The Miss Pre-Teen contest, open to all girls between the ages of 6 and 12 will be held Sunday, Sept. 10. The Father-Son and Adult-Child softball games also are scheduled. The Edison All-Stars are slated to play a Springfield basketball team. All members of the Springfield Pool may take part in these events.

The Mr. and Mrs. Green Thumb Contest has been rescheduled for Sunday, Sept. 3. All adults have been invited to enter their garden products in this contest. The Ms. Homemaker Contest, a test of culinary talents, and the adult balloon throw are also planned for this date.

The Springfield Public Library will be closed for inventory on Monday, Sept. 4, and the library will be open Saturday beginning Sept. 6.

During the inventory period the staff will be working to account for every book, record, art work, piece of audio visual and other special equipment and office supplies.

The last complete inventory was taken in 1976 and it was discovered that almost 1,000 books were missing. The board of trustees then decided to employ a security checker with authority

Board of Education seeking new member

Gloria Starr, elected to the Springfield Board of Education in 1976, this week urged in her resignation effective Oct. 1.

The other board members will appoint a successor to serve in the interim before the school election next February. The board will issue a call, probably next month, for qualified candidates for the "unsolicited" appointment, according to Laura Rosenbaum, president. The nine-member board governs Springfield's public schools from kindergarten through eighth grade.

Starr said she and her family plan to move to Watchung, and she no longer will meet local-residency requirements for serving on the board.

In the board's formal response Monday night, vice-president Philip Feintuch described Starr as a "dedicated and productive" member deserving "respect and appreciation" from the community. Starr served as one of the negotiators for employee contracts signed earlier this year, and she made job buildings and grounds committee—both major assignments.

Martin Gellman of the Florence Gaudinier School faculty said he spoke for the system's teachers in describing "how sorely we'll miss Mrs. Starr."

Informally, Rosenbaum announced that Starr would resign in September. The board's secretary, Seymour Margulies, jokingly told Starr it might then be illegal for her to move.

Starr said her family will maintain close ties with Springfield, where her husband, Norman, will continue to operate his plumbing-supply business. Local residents almost 10 years, the Starrs have a son, Ira, 18, and two daughters, Debbie, 15, and Suzie, 9. (Continued on page 5)

Hopes are high for flood funds

"It looks good for our projects," township Committeewoman Joanne Rajoppi told Springfield flood-control lobbyists Tuesday night.

Rajoppi, also a county freeloader, said the county board will be considering a resolution tonight calling for approval "in concept" of county cost-sharing on Springfield's top priority flood-control projects.

Rajoppi predicted the resolution will pass. She said freeloaders cannot actually appropriate the actual cost.

The Springfield First Aid Squad announced this week that letters will be mailed in early September to kick off its annual fund drive. The squad is non-profit and relies on donations.

The squad, which celebrates its 30th anniversary next June, provides free medical assistance 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. It is staffed by trained volunteers who work a minimum of 12 hours per week.

The squad also assists the community with other functions including periodic blood pressure screening programs and stand-by duty at various sporting and community affairs. It also conducts first aid courses.

The squad is asking for financial support to purchase new equipment and to keep supplies well stocked.

Library to shut down for week of inventory

To inspect material leaving the library in an attempt to reduce theft.

Patrons may return books through the book drop at the front of the walk, but a library spokesman has asked that the traffic in the kid, when it was a boy, we could play nine innings on the street and maybe have to stop once or twice for a car."

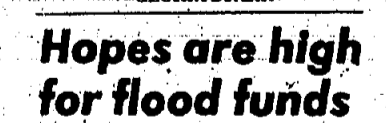

The PTA petition said increased traffic has been generated by new office buildings on Morris avenue, and the traffic "at times includes large trucks" using side streets "to avoid the traffic light on Maple and Morris." The parents said the French property is closed for an office building which if closed for 10; 12 vs. 3; 6 vs. 4; 8 vs. 1.

Growing Older

FOOD COSTS. Senior citizens are ever-conscious when it comes to cutting food costs. Food coupons offer another means by which you can save money at the supermarket.

More than $500 million worth of food coupons were redeemed by consumers last year. Estimates for 1978 indicate that savings technique will be used even more this year.

Nearly four out of five U.S. families use coupons and coupon use is growing rapidly. The number of manufacturers offering coupons has tripled since 1970, bringing the total to more than 1,000.

Coupons are used mainly with processed food items. About 85 percent of the total number of coupons issued appear in newspapers. Magazines account for another 13 percent. Coupons in Sunday newspaper supplements total about 17 percent. Coupons inserted into or part of a product's package contribute the most direct mail coupons reach 9 percent of the market.

Surveys indicate that direct-mail coupons have the highest redemption rate. Newspapers and magazines rank among the lowest in redemption rates.

Flower show to be presented Sept. 9 and 10

The annual fall flower show at the Trillium Nature and Science Center in the Watching Reservation will be held on Sept. 9 and 10 from 1 to 5 p.m. Directed by the Men's Garden Club of Westfield and sponsored by the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, the show is open to the public without admission charge.

Exhibitors are limited to amateurs who are residents of the County or members of garden clubs located in the county. Competitive entries may be made in more than 100 different classes, including annuals, perennials, herbaceous flowers, roses, berries or tuberosa flowers, shrubs and garden displays. Eleven classes will be open to juniors, age 7 to 16. These entries must be delivered before 10 a.m. Saturday, and also judging will be done between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. that day. Horticultural experts from other clubs in the area have been chosen as judges. First, second and third places and honorable mention will receive ribbons in each class. In addition, a trophy award to an outstanding entry in each of several groups may be given by the judges, who also may make a junior award for an outstanding entry in the junior section. The flower show committee will present a sweepstakes award to the exhibitor receiving the greatest number of blue ribbons.

A SMILE FOR SAFETY—Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldi (R-N.J.), right, and racing car driver Al Unser find plenty to smile about as they inspect a new automatic seat belt system. The mechanically actuated three-point passive belt system, one of several approved by the American Seat Belt Council, complies with safety standards mandated for automobiles by 1984. Drivers need not touch the belt and are immediately free from restraint when the door opens.

Drug use by elderly is subject of report

More and more offspring of senior citizens in Union County are expressing concern that their parents may be falling victim to drug abuse or narcotic addiction. A report on this widespread concern was made public this week by Joseph F. Grall, coordinating director of the Union County Department for the Prevention of Drug Abuse and Narcotic Addiction.

Grall said that following inquiries, he made a survey of several nursing homes and found that drugs are administered by nurses from prescriptions written by doctors on duty. He said this procedure eliminates any possible chance for a patient to abuse usage of the drug. "Drugs are normally abused by senior citizens who have access to medication lawfully prescribed by a doctor," said Grall. "The threat of abuse arises because often the patients cannot remember the recommended time to take the drug, or in some cases they go to one doctor without notifying a doctor they previously visited. They will then have a prescription filled at the other pharmacy. Therefore, it is almost impossible to determine the extent of drug abuse from these sources," said Grall.

"While we hope to have as many listeners as possible about the available services and the importance of cancer education, our main thrust will be to get leaders to hold their own Residential Crusade," Sturm added. Beginning at 8 a.m., both WJDM and WERA will start with live coverage and proceed throughout the day until 6 p.m. It is hoped that this "Check-out" cancer day will raise $500. "At this point we have raised $233,500 in our crusade, approximately 93.4 percent of our goal. In the remaining two weeks we hope to raise an average of $250,000 and this "Check-out" cancer day offers great assistance."

WERA is located at 1590 on the AM dial and WJDM at 1538. The phone number to call to make a pledge are 354-7273 and 232-0641 respectively.

Dessert party to aid retarded

The Union County Unit of the New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, Inc. will sponsor a dessert party on Sept. 8 at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 29, in the Immaculate Conception Church Hall, 425 Union Ave., Elizabeth. Proceeds from this event will be used to increase and enhance programs and services for the mentally retarded citizens of Union County. A $2 donation for the party will include coffee, tea and dessert. Mrs. Elizabeth Switzer of Clark is chairwoman. Donations for the card party may be mailed or delivered to 60 South Ave., Elizabeth, N.J. 07208. The said NJARC members also will pick up donations in person, and this service may be arranged by calling her at 352-8181 or the NJARC office at 322-2246.

ERA backers to stage walk

The Union County and Westfield area chapters of the National Organization for Women will co-sponsor a walk for the Equal Rights Amendment, beginning and ending at Kent College in Union. While there is no set fee-per-mile, individual or group sponsors have been asked to pledge what they can for any or all of the 10-mile walk by a participant. Chapter officials said proceeds will go toward NOW's ERA fund. The officials added that there is a need for walkers, sponsors and mile-checkers. More information can be obtained by calling Carole York at 352-1090.

UC offers course on labor relations

A course on Labor Relations for Managers will be offered by Union College's Division of Special Services. U.S. SAVINGS BONDS: Over 16 million Americans buy U.S. Savings Bonds annually. And Continuing Education in the fall semester, according to Dr. Frank Deo, dean of the division. The two-session course, which begins Monday, Sept. 18, will be available on Mondays from 8:10 to 8:10 p.m. at the Cranford Campus.

Food stamp eligibility standards summarized by county official

A summary of Union County's food stamp program and how eligibility is determined has been released by Michael C. Galuppo, director of the Union County Welfare Board. The program, according to Galuppo, is designed to help low income families buy more food of greater quality and variety to improve their diets. Regulations are handed down from the federal government through the New Jersey Division of Public Welfare to the Union County Welfare Board, which administers the program locally. The county board follows all federal regulations and uses nationwide standards for determining a household's eligibility for the program, as well as the total amount of the food stamp allotment for the household and the price they must pay for that allotment. Four main factors, said Galuppo, determine eligibility for the program. These are (1) number of persons in the household, (2) assets of all persons in the household, (3) income of all persons in the household and (4) deductible expenses of each household member, said Galuppo. In addition, for deductible expenses, the board must verify not only the amount of the expense but also that the expense has actually been paid (except for utilities, where proof of payment is not required).

The cost of the food stamps is based on the number of persons in the household and the household's net income. The net income is a key figure which is determined by subtracting deductible expenses, such as medical and shelter costs, from the household's gross income. The resulting net income figure is used together with the number of persons in the household to determine the cost of the food stamps. Galuppo pointed out that changes in either the gross income or deductible expenses of a household will cause a change in net income which may, in turn, cause a change in the cost of the food stamps. It is therefore possible, the director said, for the cost of the food stamps to vary from one certification period to another. Informational material and applications forms for the Food Stamp Programs are available at the Union County Welfare Board offices at 7 Bridge St., Elizabeth, telephone 851-1112, and at 317 E. Front St., Plainfield, telephone 764-9000. The Elizabeth office serves residents of Elizabeth, Hillside, Kenilworth, Linden, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield, Union, Vauxhall and Winfield. The Plainfield office serves Berkeley Heights, Clark, Cranford, Fanwood, Garwood, Mountaintide, New Providence, Plainfield, Railway, Scotch Plains, Summit and Westfield.

SAT classes planned at UC
Preparation for the SATs will be offered in the fall semester by Union College, Cranford, for high school juniors and seniors who plan to take Scholastic Aptitude Tests during the current school year, according to Dr. Frank Deo, dean of special services and continuing education. The course will be offered both at the college's Cranford Campus and at the Union County Welfare Board offices at 7 Bridge St., Elizabeth, telephone 851-1112, and at 317 E. Front St., Plainfield, telephone 764-9000. Two sections of the eight-session course will be offered at Union College: one on Mondays from 6:10 to 8:10 p.m. beginning Sept. 18, and another on Saturdays from 9 to 11 a.m., beginning Sept. 22. At New Providence High School, the course will be conducted on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m., beginning Sept. 19. Tuition is $35 for Union County residents, $40 for out of county residents.

Record year reported at Crestwood Village

Applauding the 24 residents who staff the Crestwood Village Exhibit Center, Mike Kokes, president of the Ocean County retirement community, announced that more than $25 million in sales were written during a record-breaking year of sales, totaling more than $25 million.

"In our 12th year of growth, we built more homes and completed more community improvements than during any comparable period in our history," stated the founder of the pioneer settlement for retirees in Walling, N.J.

"The credit goes to you, the first villagers whom visitors meet. You come in every day, you're not scheduled. You take calls from visitors at home, on your own time. You cheerfully work Saturdays, Sundays, holidays. We employ non-professional salespeople, and visitors quickly realize the difference. Your honesty and sincerity, your experiences as residents, the benefits to your lives, the facts and figures you can provide from personal knowledge—these are the reasons why so many thoughtful people, who should around, decide to buy in Crestwood."

Kokes tribute was delivered at a surprise breakfast he hosted for the resident host-houses staff in the Crestwood Exhibit Center, on Route 530, 10 miles west of Exit 80 of the Garden State Parkway.

Crestwood Communities comprise six villages, each neighborhood averaging about 1,000 homes, clustered around its own clubhouse. Founded in 1965, Crestwood now houses over 10,000 residents on 2,000 acres.

Two-home models, priced from $150,000 to $215,000, are on view at the Exhibit Center seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Baris sees reversal of exodus from city

The changing skyline of Newark, N.J., which recently was listed as a historic area by both the federal and state governments, is having a dramatic effect on the commercial property and housing market in Newark, Jersey City, and other nearby areas, according to David Baris, president of the Essex County real estate firm, Baris & Associates.

Baris, president of Jordan Baris Inc., the Irvington-based firm, has specialized in the sale of Essex County properties for 25 years, adding that the urban revitalization plans of Mayor Kenneth Gibson's administration has a very positive effect on the suburbs, as well.

"Many people still think of the city as it was following the riots of 1967," Baris said. "But much has changed in 11 years. Large office buildings such as Blue Cross, Western Electric and others have been built; the Gateway Center has been completed; including many which have been modernized to include air-conditioning and energy-saving insulation, and are still available in one year Newark at attractive prices, according to Baris.

"People are always on the move for one reason or another—to new jobs, retirement homes, for example," he said. "There's still an opportunity to obtain housing at good value. And by 'good value' I mean 'good investment' for the future, for I can't see prices going anywhere except up."

Baris, active in state realty organizations, is a past president of the Essex County and Ocean County and Jersey City and Newark, N.J., and is currently a director of the New Jersey Association of Realtors. Jordan Baris Inc. has headquarters at 390 Stuyvesant Ave., Irvington.

Gas station burglary charges referred to county grand jury

Robert Hecht of Wayne and Judith A. LaVelle of Caldwell waived their right to a preliminary hearing in Springfield Municipal Court on Monday and were held to answer charges that he attempted to burglarize a Morris avenue service station, with her as an accomplice.

Judge Herbert Blaustein, after sitting in for Springfield Municipal Judge Malcolm Bohrbord, sent the case to the county prosecutor for possible indictment proceedings before a grand jury.

Police said the attempted burglary occurred at Phil's Sunoco station on Aug. 13. Judge Blaustein sentenced a transient, Andrew S. Mehr, to three days in jail, which the man had already served while awaiting a court hearing for trespassing and soliciting handouts without a permit last Friday at the Springfield Municipal Swimming Pool.

Snake in the rockpile Warning from Red Cross

The proverbial snake isn't always in the grass. Aspirin should not be taken to relieve snakebite pain because it could adversely affect blood clotting. Non-aspirin pain relievers, however, can be given.

"The best first aid is prevention," said Phildie, who helps reduce the chances of being bitten, follow these steps:

Do not molest snakes. Avoid snake-infested areas or woods. If necessary to enter such areas, wear protective clothing (mid-calf boots, long trousers and mid-length gloves). Do not roam alone, and try to give advance warning of your presence by prodding ground with stick or by driving nails. Never try to surprise or corner a snake.

Video equipment gives parents clear view of child's progress

VISUAL RECORD-Nursing students view patients' progress on video cassette unit at the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside with Pat Watson, Inservice education director. The video system enables hospital staffers, nursing students and parents to review a child's progress.

Video tape equipment is playing an important role in helping parents get a better picture of their child's progress at Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside.

In the wake of Proposition 13 in California, we have heard over and over again how people are tired of the government interfering in their lives.

U.S. Senate

But at the same time, we are all becoming aware of the limits to what the government can accomplish. There is a new tone in Washington and it was heard long before Proposition 13 in California and the so-called taxpayer's revolt.

Phildie said that while the Red Cross contains much tried and true first aid advice for snakebite, there is some new information in it that every person who enjoys the outdoors should know. For example:

Cold therapy, such as cold compresses, ice and spray refrigerants, is no longer recommended to be used on snakebites.

Hotel executive Vincent Coyle dies at age 78

Funeral services were held last week for Vincent J. Coyle, 78, a retired hotel executive who resided in Springfield and in Del Rio Beach, Fla.

Mr. Coyle was president and managing director of the Essex House, Central Park South, New York City, for 25 years before he retired in 1970. He was previously vice president of Hamlyn Hotel, also in New York City.

Mr. Coyle received the Grande Médaille d'Argent from the City of Paris and was made an officer of the Ordre Merite d'Agriculture by the French government.

He was a past president of Les Amis d'Escoffier and a member of French Cuisine in America, the American Hotel Association, the Tavern Club, the Allstar Golf Club and the Little Club of Florida.

A resident of Springfield and Delray Beach for five years, he previously lived in Short Hills, where Rose Mass was rector Thursday in St. Columba Church.

Born in Philadelphia, he is survived by his wife, Dorothy; sons, Vincent J. and E. Christian Stangel; daughter, Mrs. Christina O'Connell; and grandchildren.

Maguire: long debate needed for repealers

Assemblyman William J. Maguire (R-22) said this week the failure of the legislature and the staff to detect multiple flaws and oversights in the new Uniform Criminal Code before it passed early this month "dooms the legislature to months and maybe years of debate" to correct the errors.

10 from town to be in show at Livingston

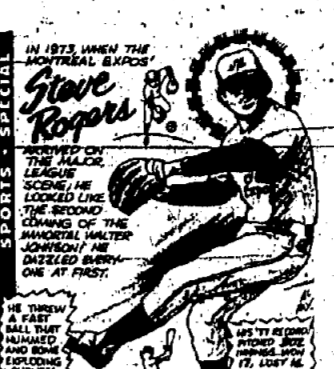

Ten persons from Springfield are part of a troupe of 27 who will perform at the annual performing talent show at the Shadybrook Swim Club, Livingston, on Saturday.

Steady Horowitz, general manager of the club, said the theme of the show will be "Fiddly" depicting songs and dances from previous generations to the present. The show was written by Evelyn Orbach of Springfield, who has been the show director for the past seven years and will be directing again.

Performing in the show are Mrs. Orbach's husband, Manfred, vocal soloist; Gary Bregman, chorus; Nicole Hirschberg, dancing and comedy; Perry Kamen, singing; Barbara Tellebaum, singing and dancing; and a group of children's chorus.

Ben Stravato, 10, of Springfield, is seen in action during a game for the Springfield Junior Minutemen baseball team.

Juniors capture division title, gain final four in state tourney

The Springfield Junior Minutemen baseball team clinched its division title in the Piscataway Invitational Tournament last Thursday night with a 11-5 victory over Westfield. The Juniors now enter the final round of the tournament, which encompasses the entire state with 22 teams represented. This is the best showing by a local team ever in the event.

Springfield opened the scoring when, with one out, Andy Rosenthal reached on an error, Tom Ard singled to left and Scott Newman reached on an error, driving in Rosenthal. Scott Negro followed with a two-run double.

Stravato sees FDU East's soccer capital

Ben Stravato's immediate goal this fall is to lead his Fairleigh Dickinson University soccer team to a winning record and to see the school named National Collegiate Athletic Association Playoff.

Stravato has been involved with soccer for 18 years. After being graduated from Newark Park High School in Manhattan, he went to New York City Community College and was named MVP of the team.
