Chancellor of Higher Education T. Edward Hollander this week announced the establishment of a Statewide Information Network for Education (SINE). Among the network's major components will be the Education Hotline; callers may get information about the availability of post-secondary education in New Jersey, opportunities for financial aid and program offerings by dialing toll free (800) 792-3355. The network, which will operate out of Thomas A. Edison College, also will provide information on academic and vocational counseling. The Department of Higher Education and Edison College, which will staff the hotline, hope the hotline will serve as the "critical first step" in helping New Jerseyans find the educational alternatives which best meet their needs. "Too often," Hollander said, "people fail to avail themselves of existing opportunities because no one took the time to steer them in the right direction. By devising this network, we hope to remedy this situation."

Four plays set next season by Festival group

With one month remaining in the 1978 season, the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival has announced four productions for the 1979 season. The Festival's ninth in Madison and 16th in New Jersey. The list of attractions includes two of William Shakespeare's classic, "King Lear" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Tom Stoppard's "Travesties" and Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest." These four productions will alternate nightly with two other major productions and 12 Monday Night Specials to be announced. Although the Festival's 1978 season has been one of the most successful in the company's history, with 1,000 more subscribers than in 1977 and many performances sold out well in advance, there is still considerable room for expansion. Paul Barry, artistic director, announced a bonus for area theater-goers who order their 1979 subscriptions early. "Although rising costs have forced us to approve price increases of as much as 25 percent over 1978, beginning Jan. 1, any 1979 subscription purchased by Dec. 31 will be sold at the 1978 prices." Order forms are available now at the theatre, or by calling Clifford Ojeda, "The Country Girl," George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" is being staged through Oct. 15 and Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" opens Oct. 17 for a three-week run ending November 5. Tickets for all Festival performances, held nightly except Monday, range from $2 to $7.50. Reservations may be made by calling the box office (577-4487) or writing to Shakespeare, Madison, 07940.

State energy centers proposed by Weiss

A proposal to establish a series of New Jersey energy communication centers each with a specialized responsibility, was made by Dr. Nathan Weiss, president of Kean College, at a statewide public hearing on an energy extension service, held last week on the Busch campus of Rutgers University, New Brunswick. Weiss recommended that the services of the Kean energy information line be utilized for the creation of an information clearinghouse for statewide energy services. He said, "This proposed clearinghouse could collect data on a wide range of energy projects, ranging from research in progress to community course offerings. The energy clearinghouse could be a one-stop energy information and service exchange for other state energy centers and for private citizens of New Jersey. These functions would be a logical extension of Kean's present energy information telephone." Weiss gave examples of how his proposal could incorporate existing facilities. He suggested that technical research and applied technology be based in one of New Jersey's technical institutes. Other "subject matter" energy centers could be developed to answer the questions of the small business community, the problems of the homeowner-residential consumer, or for the general purpose of energy education. According to Weiss, "the colleges, trade school and professional associations in our state could provide the most cost-effective delivery of information needed." Crucial to the proposal, Weiss said, was the establishment of a central energy information exchange center. He described the energy information

Historical Society: a timely milestone

Editor's note: The Springfield Historical Society will commemorate its 25th anniversary at an open-to-the-public dinner next Tuesday evening in the Mountside Inn. Tickets may be reserved by calling 67-5550. A former president of the society, Hazel Hardgrove, writes about the achievements of the society in its quarter-century.

By HAZEL HARDGROVE
Its headquarters building dates back almost a quarter of a millennium. But the Springfield Historical Society this month is preoccupied with an event that happened a mere quarter century ago: its own founding. For a "youngster" just 25, the society is a prodigy in "turning its back" on "persistent and ever increasing encouragement to foster the values of the heritage of our great country, particularly in the Springfield area."

Henry C. McMullen, president; Florence M. Gaudinier, vice-president; Howard W. Wiseman, secretary; Charles F. Heard, treasurer; and Donald B. Palmer, curator. During its 25 years, the society's presidents, most of whom served for more than one year, have been Charles F. Heard, Howard Casselman, Eugene F. Donnelly, Howard W. Wiseman, Augustus W. Smith, Sr.; Richard Warner, Eon M. Brown, Hazel Hardgrove, and George Benson and now Madeline E. Lancaster. In 1955, through a bequest in the will of C. Harry Casperman, the society acquired title to the Cannon Ball House. It also acquired a $12,000 debt on the house. (Continued on page 8)

Generator given town by N.J. Bell

New Jersey Bell Telephone Company has donated a 30,000-watt generator that will provide emergency power at Sarah Bailey Civic Center. If there is any blackout in the area, the Springfield Township Committee learned last week.

"We've been hoping to get such a donation for a long time," said Springfield Civil Defense (CD) Director John Cottage, reporting to the committee at a meeting Oct. 4 in Town Hall. "We're really delighted," he added.

Cottage pointed out that the CD communications center is in the Sarah Bailey building, and the generator will keep communications open in any power emergency. Cottage said the donation is worth about $15,000.

The generator is used, "but in extremely good condition," Township Engineer Walter Kozub reported. Kozub said the tower is still seeking donation of switchover equipment that would automatically activate the generator if regular power failed.

Cottage said Bell employee Al Keyworth of Springfield "was instrumental" in securing the gift. The committee also instructed the town engineer, Kozub, to obtain cost estimates on building a small storage shed outside the Bailey building for the generator, which is about seven feet long, 2 1/2 feet wide and four feet high.

Modification kit to Ford models made available

Dealers throughout Union County are now receiving fuel system modification kits to improve the safety of Ford Pinto and Mercury Bobcats, according to Ellen Bloom, director of the Union County Office of Consumer Affairs.

The kit for Pinto and Bobcat models of 1971 through 1976, with the exception of station wagons, were ordered to reduce the chance of the vehicle's gas tank exploding in a collision.

Mrs. Bloom, whose office is part of the Union County Department of Human Resources, said she recently received a statement from the Ford Motor Company clarifying questions about the modification to be made for Pinto and Bobcat owners.

The company stated that some owners may not have received a company letter telling them that the modification was made. Nevertheless, the dealers should not refuse to make the modification on request. The dealers have forms to submit to the company for reimbursement for the kit.

Mrs. Bloom said inquiries can be directed to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's toll-free number, 1-800-424-9393. Union County residents can also write to the Union County Office of Consumer Affairs, Box 724, Cranford, 07016, or call 276-1050 if they have any questions regarding the modification.

Union College to trace history... Union College is launching an oral history project designed to trace the historical and educational development of the college from its inception in 1833 to the college's present role in the Union County higher educational system.

The end product will be a collection of taped interviews conducted by Selcoe, with alumni, past and present faculty members and community people who have played a role in the college's history.

The interviews, including the participants' impressions, recollections and feelings about the college and its relationship to the county, will also be transcribed and both the recordings and typed versions will be housed in the "Mackay Library."

Alumni and local residents who have pertinent information or leads concerning the history project were urged to contact Prof. Selcoe in care of Union College at 1033 Springfield Ave., Cranford, 07016, or at 276-2600, Ext. 347.

Contact show to get Barbizon models' aid... Models from the Barbizon School of Modeling will help Contact, Union-Essex Counties crisis intervention help line, with a fashion show and clothing sale at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The show will be held in St. Luke's Church at the corner of Main and East 4th Ave. in Essex. There will be prizes and refreshments. Further information may be obtained by calling the Help Line at 527-8555.

UC prof is selected... Prof. Helene Rohlf-Moore, a member of Union College's modern languages department, has been appointed state advisor of Phi Theta Kappa, the national scholastic honor society for two-year colleges.

Haunted House ready to open

The March of Dimes Haunted House should be ready for its scheduled opening tomorrow (Friday) the 19th, according to Susan Ballint, assistant director of the Union County Chapter of the March of Dimes.

Designed for adults who have been out of school for several years, the program is intended to help them improve their reading and study skills, take notes, learn how to compare tests, utilize library resources and develop confidence about doing college level work, Dee said.

Dr. Donald Schmelkefop, a member of the economics, government and history department at Union College, will be the instructor.

With the help of many young volunteers from local schools, Ballint said, "we will be ready to open on schedule." The house, which will be located at 853 W. Chestnut St., Union will be open through Oct. 31 and should "scare people out of their wits," Ballint said.

Ten rooms will be included in the house, one of which was donated by Kenzie's Magic Palace in Union.

Warning given on gravestones... The Office of Consumer Affairs, Union County Department of Human Resources, has received several complaints involving the sale of gravestones that have not been delivered.

Ellen Bloom, Consumer Affairs director, said the solicitors apparently are operating from telephone booths or their homes and, at best, have only a temporary address.

"It appears they act on death notices in the newspapers, calling the bereaved after reading about the death of one of their loved ones. We have even had reports of some salesmen approaching mourners in a cemetery, pressuring bereaved persons at a time when their resistance is low."

She suggests that anyone having doubts or questions about who they are dealing with call the State Consumer Hot Line, 68-3005, before signing a contract or surrendering any money.

Mrs. Bloom also asks that anyone who has been victimized by a gravestone sale write the Union County Office of Consumer Affairs, 1033 Springfield Ave., Cranford, 07016, and that they enclose a copy of the sales agreement. Her office is gathering evidence to present to the state Attorney General for action.

LionsHead will offer a complete community

The preview opening of LionsHead, the new 1,000-home single family adult community in Briarcliff, is only weeks away but the atmosphere at the model site already is filled with anticipation. Even now there is a great deal to see, because most of the recreational facilities are completed.

The reason for this excitement is easy to understand. LionsHead is the first brand new major adult community to be built in central New Jersey in many years. Some homes are available for immediate delivery and almost 100 homes will be available for delivery by Feb. 1 in a strong-selling Great County market.

The four model homes, available in 12 exterior and 11 floorplan designs, are being finished, decorated and ready for inspection by prospective buyers. Most of the community roads have been cleared and 5,000 feet of roads have been paved. Easily the most impressive sight so far is the LionsHead recreation center. This huge clubhouse and community center houses a wide variety of activities, such as a game room with pool tables, card and Ping-Pong tables, rooms for ceramics and pottery, arts and crafts, even a fully equipped carpentry shop. There's also a completely furnished lounge, already completed are two all-weather tennis courts, and Olympic-style heated swimming pool and sundeck, lighted shuffleboard courts, horseshoe pits and community barbecue pits.

Two other facilities have been proposed, to be available exclusively to LionsHead residents in an effort to combine the most desirable features in one distinctive community. Opening day at LionsHead is scheduled for late October. Then the real judges—the buyers—can inspect LionsHead.

'Experts' helped plan Covered Bridge units

The newest apartment home model at Covered Bridge was designed with assistance from "experts"—hundreds of the residents of this popular and recently-sold-out adult community off Rt. 9 in Manalapan Township. It doesn't take extraordinary vision to recognize the value of this opportunity to buy the new model, which is called "The Heritage Hills." It's a home which is sold to adults who are experts about value.

The offer, explains Kovacs R. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc., means savings of up to $200, plus a guarantee that the home will be available at the quoted lower price until the end of 1979. The offer, however, is only good for purchases made by Dec. 31, 1978.

Now prospective Covered Bridge residents can see the 2020 for themselves. Fully-furnished models of the new model, which is called "The Heritage Hills," are on display at the community which firm has developed residential-recreational environments in which it already is 80 percent sold out.

Country club life in Florida

Location, atmosphere and reasonable prices are the primary attractions of Buenaventura Lakes, a planned community developed by Landstar Homes in central Florida. Located near Orlando and Disneyworld, the Florida Turnpike, an already developed area, Buenaventura Lakes is entering its third stage of construction. Prior to its official opening, the land was planned to accommodate single-family homes with a country club environment enhanced with stocked lakes, parks, beaches, hiking trails, and modern recreational facilities complete with a nine-hole executive golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool and club house.

The homes at Buenaventura Lakes are ramifications of Hovnanian's remarkable offer: Those who reserve a 200 by Dec. 31, 1978, from the current in-production price. Because of inflation and soaring cost of building materials, persons who purchase in early 1979 will pay an additional $10,000, while the final homes on the market, to be completed later in 1979, will cost an additional $15,000 more, Hovnanian stated.

By reserving a home now, the buyer is assured of having one in the popular resort-type community located within 30 minutes of New York—35 minutes via one of 88 express buses between the entrance of the Covered Bridge and the Midtown Manhattan bus terminal.

Persons not yet 52, the minimum age requirement, may reserve a home now, providing their 52nd birthday comes before they take possession by the end of 1979.

"These are significant factors, as more and more persons are buying retirement homes while still working," Hovnanian pointed out. "In fact, 80 percent of Covered Bridge's residents work—the majority in New York City and Northern New Jersey—and choose to live here because of our convenient location."

The most important considerations, of course, are the homes themselves and the environment in which they are located. The 200 is an extremely attractive home, carpeted throughout at 2 1/2 extra cost, equipped with the most modern appliances and constructed to insure energy-saving and

Leisure Tech forms division for expansion

Leisure Technology, national developer of adult and retirement housing communities, has announced the formation of the New Communities Division and the appointment of Ram S. Vepparian as division president and vice-president of Leisure Technology.

Originally founded in 1968, Leisure Technology is now one of the nation's largest housing producers specializing in the adult and retirement segments of the market. The company's communities are located in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Florida and California. The New Jersey adult communities currently being marketed are Leisure Towne in Vincentown, and Leisure Village West and Leisure Knoll both in Manchester Township.

"Vram's specific areas of responsibility will initially focus on existing land parcels in order to develop viable adult and retirement communities," said Michael J. Tenzer, president and chief executive officer of the company.

"Leisure Technology currently has eight such master-planned communities under development. Leisure Technology is a publicly owned company, with shares of stock traded on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol LVX.

Swingers set to cry 'fore' on new links

Workers developing the second nine-hole Leisure Village West golf course haven't much to say as yet, but the excitement of the adult community off Rt. 70 in Manchester kept prodding them to be done with it.

As a result, despite last winter's storms and the near-absence of spring weather, Leisure Village West will have 18-holes of golf ready within weeks. Many of the homes are not only a large group but an active one. Last year, reported Lynn Joseph, vice-president of the N.J. division of the national firm developing Leisure Village West, residents played 15,000 rounds on the existing nine-hole course.

"The new 9-hole Club met often throughout the winter to discuss golf and practice by hitting balls into a net they set up in the clubhouse auditorium," Joseph said. "As soon as the weather got warm enough, out they went on the course—rain or shine—and the women seem to be as eager as the men."

Homes along the fairways-of the golf course, priced from $53,990 to $62,490, are especially attractive to buyers because of the superb view, Joseph explained. "And," he added, "essentially many of them take up the game. Sooner or later neighbors talk them into trying it—and they get hooked."

Almost all of the 1,800 residents take part in such activities as boating, fishing, shuffleboard, horseshoe-pitching, cycling, jogging and swimming.

"They're an active group," Joseph said. "I buy a home at Leisure Village West. It's necessary that only one member of the household be at least 52 years old. Many of the homes are occupied by relatively young persons. Some of them still work, but they've decided to buy their retirement homes earlier in life. This way, some get tax advantages and their equity builds as the home prices—continually increase."

Joseph said that the homes seem to be as eager as the men.

On Nov. 2 concurrent workshops will be held addressing themselves to three levels of reading instruction: elementary, middle school and secondary reading. Rabbi, priest speak at institute program

Saton Hall University's Institute of Judaean-Christian Studies will mark the 25th anniversary of its founding with an academic convention at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 29, in the Student Center on the South Orange campus. The event will also mark the 30th anniversary of the independence of Israel.

In 1953 that Msgr. John M. Oesterreicher, with the aid of Archbishop Thomas A. Boland and the late president of Saton Hall, Msgr. John L. McNully, established the institute and became its first and only director.

In commenting on the anniversary, President Robert T. Conley said, "The institute was organized and designed to promote a better understanding of the Christian relationship through the demonstration of the unity of God's design as it leads from the law to the Gospel."

"That it has succeeded for so many years is a tribute to the dedication and determination of Msgr. Oesterreicher. He has attracted a distinguished roster of scholars who through their writings and utterances have maintained a continuous Jewish-Christian dialogue which is the basic mission of the institute."

Speaking at the academic convocation will be Rabbi William G. Braude, rabbi emeritus of Temple Beth El in Providence, R.I., and Father Gerald S. Sloan, professor of the New Testament at Temple University.

Rabbi Braude, who will speak on "A Rabbinical Guide to the Gospel," is a former visiting professor at Yale University and Hebrew University. He is a translator and interpreter of ancient rabbinic commentaries on Scripture, called midrashim.

Rabbi Sloan, who is a graduate of Saton Hall, will speak on "The Theological Significance of the Land of Israel." He is a former president of the Liturgical Conference and the Catholic Theology Society. He has served as chairman of Temple University's James Gogehagan Scholarship Fund.

Smokers told to quit the habit for just one day

All smokers in Union County are asked to join the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, Nov. 16.

Citing the statistics linking smoking and lung cancer, Rose Malozzi, county public education chairperson of the local unit, said: "Thirty million people have quit cigarettes, but it is the other millions who would like to quit that we hope to reach. This day represents a chance for people to take a serious step towards improving their health and giving up cigarettes for good."

"Our unit has literature about smoking and lung cancer, and a booklet containing tips on how to quit, Mrs. Malozzi added. "We encourage anyone who would like to quit to make a pledge not to smoke on November 16, because this day could trigger the needed boost to quit."

Additional information on how you can join the Great American Smokeout is available from the Union County Unit of the American Cancer Society, 354-7373 or 232-0641.

Parks have firewood for those who cut it to be shown

New Jerseyans with wood burning stoves or fireplaces can get a real bargain in firewood at 11 state parks and forests if they are willing to bring their own equipment and cut the wood themselves.

The State Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), through its Division of Parks and Forestry, usually allows individuals to collect or cut dead, firewood for personal use (cannot be sold) after first securing a permit from the park forest superintendent. A limited number of permits is available at any one specific time in each area.

There is no charge for the permit, but there is a fee of 50¢ per cord (a cord of wood measures 4 feet by 4 feet by 8 feet). The wood is for private use only and the volume per family is limited to two cords per calendar year. Wood cutting is permitted from mid-September through March in designated areas.

State parks and forests which have designated areas are:

- Allamuchy and Worthington (Warren County); Ringwood, Stokes and Wawayanda (Sussex); Bass River, Lebanon and Public Television (Burlington); Washington Crossing (Mercer); Voorhees and Hunterdon, and Belleplain (Cape May).

Further information can be obtained from the Division of Parks and Forestry in Trenton at (609) 292-2797.

Minutemen Bs fall to Chatham despite 3 Romano TD passes

The Springfield Minutemen lost, 30-21, at Chatham Township Sunday despite the best offensive performance by a B team in three years. Three touchdowns were scored on pitchout options from quarterback Brett Walsh to flanker Anthony Romano who threw three passes of 15, 22 and 27 yards to end John Baber. Romano also kicked two of three two-point conversions. The Minutemen defense, which has been the strong point the last few weeks, couldn't contain the inside rushing of a big Chatham club.

Social Security aide finds it's still bargain

Social Security is still a bargain for the average person in spite of recent legislation increasing future tax revenue, according to Robert E. Willwerth, Social Security District manager in Elizabeth. Willwerth said that, contrary to the impression given by recent news stories, most people can expect to get their money back from Social Security. "And those that suffer the worst risks that their social security contributions protect against—loss of income because of death at an early age or disability—will, of course, receive many times their tax contributions," he stated.
