Ruocco edges McCourt for town seat

It's lots of love, plenty of kisses for the Ruoccos and Republicans

By HELEN REYNOLDS
At 8:25 on election night, an avowed Bill Ruocco, certainly, he was winning his combative race for township committee, started kissing Republican women his wife, daughters, and the municipal party chairperson. Then he broke out the first bottle of champagne while his wife, Jane, announced to the happy crowd at

Margin of victory 100 votes Bradley leads Bell in race for Senate

Republican comeback winner William Ruocco squeaked past first-time candidate Viola McCourt, the Democratic contender, with a plurality of barely more than 100 votes out of almost 800 cast in the race for the township committee seat on the ballot Tuesday.

Ticket-splitting Springfield voters also joined in electing Democrat Bill Bradley to the U.S. Senate, landlaid Republican incumbent Matthew Rinaldi for Congress, choosing Republicans Rose Marie Sinnott and Edward Slomkowski, as well as Democrat Eugene Cannady for county freewheelers' seats, and electing Republican Walter Ulrich as surrogate. But Springfield voters favored losing Democrat Hugh Caldwell by a tiny 92-vote margin, against countywide winner Richard Hatfield, Republican, for register of deeds and mortgages.

In the vigorously fought township race, Republicans called Ruocco's victory a triumph for the two-party system—as well as a personal thrill for the candidate who had taken the comeback road after being unseated in 1977.

The township committee has been all-Democratic for the first time in 18 years since William Cieri and Stanley Kahan defeated Republican incumbents Ruocco and Norman Banner last

Democrats decry use of flyer, say it aimed at latent racial fears

By ABNER GOLD
Bitterness is the only term to describe the mood of Springfield Democrats Tuesday night as they absorbed the impact of Viola McCourt's 100-vote loss to Republican William Ruocco for the one seat open this year on the township committee.

Most of the 50 party workers in the McCourt living room on Northview terrace had no taste for the food and drink in ample supply. With a strength of feeling not evident locally for more than a decade, they thirsted for a chance to avenge what they termed unfair GOP tactics in the final weekend of the campaign.

Their comments were aimed at a flyer distributed by the Republicans over the weekend, too late for anyone to reply. It declared, "Did you know that Democrat Brendan Byrne has assigned 1,243 low-cost housing units to Springfield?"

Commenting that legislation to this effect is pending in Trenton, the GOP message added, "Did you know that our Democrat township committee has not raised any objections to their Democratic colleagues regarding this arbitrary quota?"

The Democrats Tuesday charged that the flyer was designed to appeal to

Board will consider closing of one school

The Springfield Board of Education, which governs the local public school system from kindergarten through eighth grade (K-8), will hold a public hearing Wednesday on the possibility of closing a school in the wake of declining enrollment and state-imposed budget restrictions.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Raymond Chisholm Building on S. Springfield avenue. Two days earlier—also at 8 p.m. at Chisholm—the board will receive updated reports from the five committees of the school system's Reorganization Study Group. The conference meeting Monday will be open to the public. School officials said, but the audience will be asked to reserve its comments until the hearing of Wednesday.

Dr. Fred Baruchin, school district superintendent, said the study group's committee on options was writing its updated report early this week for presentation next Monday. Dr. Thelma Sandmeier, principal of the Florence Gaudinier School, heads that committee. Baruchin heads the one to evaluate findings.

The school system's enrollment has since the 1976 study. In all, the K-8 population has dropped by about a third in the past decade, and the system previously closed a school. Chisholm, which now functions as board headquarters. Continuing as regular K-8 with current enrollment of 228; Caldwell, K-3, 289; Walton, K-8, 178; and Gaudinier, the school which serves all district children in sixth through eighth grades. Mrs. Caldwell is the oldest school in the system and Walton has the smallest enrollment, with the latter

Oehling bids farewell to Springfield parish

The Rev. Edward R. Oehling, assistant pastor of St. James Church in Springfield for more than 22 years, said farewell to the parish Sunday and will begin his new duties next weekend as pastor of Our Lady of Mercy Church in Park Ridge.

"Springfield will always occupy a large part of my heart," the clergyman told local residents in his farewell comments.

In addition to his religious functions, he has been active in community service. He received the top citizenship award given locally by the Lions Club (1976) and by the Lions Club (1978) and by Uncle (1978).

Born in Newark, he was graduated from St. Benedict's Preparatory School and St. Peter's University. He attended Immaculate Conception Seminary and was ordained in St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral, Newark, in 1954. The young priest served in Queen of Peace Church, North Arlington, before his assignment to Springfield in June 1966.

He has long been active in the Springfield Clergy Group, which promotes interfaith understanding and sponsors community union services each Thanksgiving. He also has been a long-time member of the township's Juvenile Conference Committee, which includes educators and police, as well as clergy, working with young people any time Monday through Friday in the home of Assistant Education Week, according to Anne Romano, principal.

"If you are coming to spend some time with us, please check in at the high school office," Miss Romano told community residents. "We will have classes which you might wish to visit. We'll be looking forward to seeing you."

He has recently been administering the archdiocesan "Renew" program, a three-year effort to guide "the spiritual growth of the people as a vibrant faith community," explained Newark. Francis X. Coyne, pastor of St. James. Father Oehling has moderated the parish's Holy Name Society and has worked with its Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD), ministers of the Eucharist and lector. He has been active in the parish's blood-donor group, one of the co-sponsors of the Springfield Community Blood Bank.

His new assignment, New Jersey, Father Oehling will succeed the Rev. Joseph Russell, who is retiring, as pastor of Our Lady of Mercy at Park Ridge. Father Russell will become pastor emeritus of the parish.

Dayton invites public to class

Parents and other community residents are invited to visit classes at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School through Friday in the home of Assistant Education Week, according to Anne Romano, principal.

"If you are coming to spend some time with us, please check in at the high school office," Miss Romano told community residents. "We will have classes which you might wish to visit. We'll be looking forward to seeing you."

Choral concert

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Vocal Music Department will present its fall concert of choral music on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. This concert is the first of three public concerts which will be given by the department and the concert will feature performances by members of the parish.

Taxation: Myths, realities

Income taxation in an inflationary economy

This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Taxation: Myths and Realities." In this article, Martin Feldstein, professor of economics at Harvard University and president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, discusses the tax inequities that result from inflation and suggests how they can be eliminated. This article was written for courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University of California, San Diego, and is published by this newspaper in collaboration with Union College.

By Martin Feldstein
Our income tax laws were written for an economy with little or no inflation. Yet from 1972 to 1977 consumer prices rose 16 percent, and it is likely they will probably rise at least 5 percent. Unless the tax laws are revised, the real value of the tax burden will increase and the future will continue to cause capricious and undesirable changes in effective tax rates. Now is the time to reexamine tax laws to offset the adverse effects of inflation.

Inflation severely distorts the effects of the tax system. Almost everybody's tax burden is raised automatically by inflation. But some increases are much greater than others, depending on the size and source of income and the number and nature of deductions and exemptions.

For example, cost-of-living increases in wages push many taxpayers into higher brackets. Those with a large amount of "dependent" income, however, are harder hit than others because the value of their standard exemptions declines with the value of the dollar.

For instance, most of-living increases in wages push many taxpayers into higher brackets. Those with a large amount of "dependent" income, however, are harder hit than others because the value of their standard exemptions declines with the value of the dollar.

When he began to treat her with respect, and without making any concessions, Ruth, who had long wished to improve her status, accepted the job of successfully managing a gas station operated by the crew leader. Against her will, he decided to sign over the business to her. She is now content.

More also is Hannah Morgan, whose life in Mississippi cities differed dramatically from that in Harlan County, Kentucky. Teresa Cardenas, who married a busboy after abjuring her profession, lives in an Alaskan Eskimo, who was modern and independent, yet frustrated; and Helen, maid in an affluent Manhattan Cambridge home, who appreciates while the pretentious society in which she works.

Just as human posture may be used to communicate, so does the posture of animals reveal emotions or attitudes to others. In fact, animals are so well understood by scientists, animal keepers, handlers and trainers, through whom she has learned of their communication techniques.

Her research was rewarded by visits to the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, the Oklahoma City Zoo, the Fordham Zoological Garden and by an interview with a famous animal man of the Ringling Brothers, who has written a book on the subject.

She learned that a certain dog was said to be adept at mathematics and spelling; that a lizard attracted the attention of a mathematician as long as his school marks were good. After high school he was offered his job in the circus, but he refused to leave for Philadelphia and Toronto, and eventually in 1963 he became manager of "The Reds."

His record is admirable. The Reds won the pennant in 1970 and 1971. In 1973 they took the Western Division Title; then, after a lapse, they won two division championships. In 1975 and 1976 Sparky attributes his success to good planning, research, patience and strict discipline. He writes warmly of Bob Hooper, Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan, Pete Rose and Tom Seaver (who returns the favor). He realizes that he cannot last, but promises to retire without bitterness.

FLYER QUESTIONED
I read with complete shock the flyer distributed by the Springfield Republican Campaign Committee this past weekend in support of William Ruocco for Township Committee.

The flyer asked whether Springfield living in the ghetto, then led us welcome our neighbors.

Whether the point of Ruocco's plam will come to fruition is not germane, the love of one's fellow man and sharing of privilege is a last-ditch stab at winning an election at the price of human dignity. It is a disgraceful and degrading act.

Further stated was whether it was known that the "Democrat" Township Committee has not raised any objections to this matter and is thereby doing nothing.

My analysis is that William Ruocco and his Republican backers are afraid of an influx of "three people"—black

Election

By a 31-vote margin and No. 7 by 50 votes. Ruocco took No. 2 by 22 and No. 13 by 58. Elsewhere, tradition reigned.

While Republicans were celebrating at their party headquarters on Morris avenue, Democratic municipal chairperson Ruth Schwartz was launching a last-minute flyer put out by Republicans as "the lowest" campaign tactics used in Springfield in years. She said the flyer on low-cost housing appealed to fear of low-income families.

"Both parties knew it would be a squeaker from the moment their own runners started to come in at separate campaign headquarters.

Not counting absentee ballots, unofficial pluralities for Ruocco were 71 votes in District 1, 22 in 2, 28 in 3, 98 in 4, 78 in 5, 47 in 6 and 58 in 7. Pluralities for McCourt were 51 in District 6, 30 in 7, 9 in 8, 12 in 9, 17 in 10 and 18, 112 in District 11.

The overall margin between Ruocco and McCourt was 102 votes, with the precise figure still being calculated in Elizabethtown after midnight.

McCourt carried the 6th by a scant 50 votes on Tuesday, compared to a Democratic margin of more than 200 votes a year ago.

"I am unhappy for the town. This is not the type of leadership Springfield is used to. The Democrats have brought honest leadership. The last days of the campaign, reached a new low in Springfield politics."

One-party regulars stated, "The housing scare hurt us particularly in the 6th District, where the many older residents of Troy Village and Summit Hill had been voting Democratic."

McCourt carried the 6th by a scant 50 votes on Tuesday, compared to a Democratic margin of more than 200 votes a year ago.

"I can only say how hard everyone has worked. I made many new friends through the campaign. I felt I would be elected to Springfield, and I thank the people who had such faith in me."

Mayor William Cieri commented, "It appeared to me that the Republicans overworked us. We did win the normally Democratic stronghold, but not by the margins we won by in the past. In McCourt, we had one of the hardest working candidates I have known."

A technician's summary of the local election was provided by Earl A. Greenop, former municipal leader. He said, "The same number of voters showed up to vote here and here year after year. It's up to us to get more. When we work harder, we win. When we don't, we lose."

After hearing from the school-choice opponents in 1978, the board tabled the issue, but said it would have to consider the possibility again before budget talks for the 1979-80 school year. State law requires the board to adopt a tentative budget for 1978-79 next month.

latent racial feelings and to fears that the town could be inundated by a flood of blacks from the inner city. They argued that several persons had received telephone calls on Election Day alleging that specific tracts in town had just been sold for "low-cost housing."

Ruth Schwartz, Democratic municipal chairperson, declared, "I am terribly disappointed. I don't mind losing. It's part of politics. But the tactics used by the Republican Party and Mr. Ruocco told an outright lie."

Most popular candidate of either party in Springfield was Republican Congressman Matthew J. Rinaldi, who got 3,868 votes here to the 1,646 for Democratic challenger Richard McCormack. Next most popular here was Democrat Bradley with 3,018 to the 2,547 for Republican Jeffrey Bell in the race to succeed Sen. Clifford Case, ousted by Bill in the primary.

Springfield voters favored all the statewide propositions on the ballot. The local margin, with the "yes" given first, was 2,656 to 1,618 on No. 1, to incorporate county courts into the state's superior court system; 2,652 to 2,129 on No. 2, to legalize jail with gambling; 2,839 to 1,901 on No. 3, to reinforce New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority bonds; 2,352 to 2,109 on No. 4, the Green Acres bond issue which Springfield hopes will lead to some park money; 2,857 to 1,814 on No. 5, the bond issue to improve mental health and prison facilities, and 2,805 to 1,869 on No. 6, a state flood-control bond issue.

The State We're In

By DAVID F. MOORE
N.J. Conservation Foundation

Everybody's heard about Tocks Island dam, but too few are aware of Merrill Creek dam and its 32-square-mile, 15-billion-gallon reservoir. Where are they? Nowhere, yet, but a group of electrical utility companies wants to build them on Scott's Mountain in Harmony Township, Warren County.

Why? Because Tocks Island dam and reservoir "now appear unlikely" candidates for construction, and because if the utilities are going to be able to count on fulltime operation of nuclear power plants they seek—plants which require "vast amounts of cooling" water—they have to do something about jacking up the open fury of the Delaware River during dry spells. Hence Merrill Creek dam and reservoir.

Although three miles from the Delaware River, Merrill Creek reservoir would be connected to it by a pipeline. During periods of high river flow, water would be pumped up to the hilltop reservoir. During dry periods, water would go back to the river to increase its flow.

That's one of the big reasons why so many people have been cooling for Tocks Island dam—to stabilize river flow so nuclear power plants can operate fulltime. The other reason is that one of them, Philadelphia Electric Company's Limerick Plant on the Schuylkill River, isn't even near the Delaware but there's a scheme to pipe Delaware River water to it.

Without replacement of the river, power plants might have to shut down to conserve water for drinking. Naturally, a lot of neighboring people are against Merrill Creek dam. But it has not ignited the widespread environmental issue. Opponents fear that the dam and reservoir, hundreds of feet over the heads of neighboring residents, has the makings for tragedy. Some argue that the reservoir could trigger a dormant earthquake fault back to life, with perils of a ruptured dam.

As it happens, that's a significant issue. With any reservoir, there are reasons. Seismologists now believe that the weight of a reservoir can activate a fault. Even more likely to cause an earthquake, say many, is the lubrication of a geological fault by water being forced down from overland.

There are the possible impacts caused by impure Delaware River water entering aquifers which provide water for many area residents. Also, permitted adoption of the capital budget four weeks after the operating budget or no later than May 1, municipally may discontinue preparing annual capital programs until the next fiscal year. But DEP will keep the records open for written statements and questions until Nov. 16. They should be sent to the Delaware River Basin Commission, Box 7860, West Trenton 08628.

These points should also be carefully addressed in an environmental impact statement. That's why the Delaware River Basin Commission is holding a public meeting to draw out citizen concerns about what goes into a reservoir. The meeting will be held at 7 in the Holiday Inn, Phillipsburg, on Wednesday, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m. The meeting will keep the records open for written statements and questions until Nov. 16. They should be sent to the Delaware

Higher prices for clothing have renewed interest in making clothes at home. If this is to be profitable, there must be more time made available to do the actual sewing, and the results of the finished garments must be satisfying.

Burn Unit developed into regional facility

New Jersey's only certified Burn Unit at Saint Barnabas Medical Center in Livingston has developed into a regional medical facility, the Regional Health Planning Council reported today.

For its first 1 1/2 years of operation, the Council reported, approximately 70 percent of the patients admitted to the Burn Unit were referrals from other hospitals throughout New Jersey.

During that period, the Burn Unit treated a total of 176 patients and maintained a 78 percent occupancy rate for its ten operational beds. These figures were as of Oct. 1.

John J. Daly, president of the Council, cited the Saint Barnabas facility as prime example that the regional approach to providing health care can work effectively.

Daly noted that the Burn Unit was opened by Saint Barnabas with the support and encouragement of the Council in April 1977.

Joseph F. Slavin, executive director, said the Council had requested Saint Barnabas to keep accurate data so that the regional impact of the Burn Unit could be measured.

"The acceptance of the Burn Unit as a regional center is demonstrated dramatically by the statistic that nearly three out of every four patients admitted were referred from other hospitals," Slavin declared.

The regional impact, Slavin reported, also is attested by the fact that 44 percent of the patients came from other parts of New Jersey outside the Council's region of Essex, Union, Morris, Warren and Sussex Counties. Seven patients came from out-of-state and one from another country.

"The result is better patient care and lower costs," Slavin stated. "The other hospitals no longer are required to maintain expensive equipment and staff to treat the severely burned patient. The patients requiring the most expensive care are being treated in a center best equipped to handle these cases."

The Council also reported these statistics for the Saint Barnabas Burn Unit:

- Patients have ranged in age from one month to 92 years old;
- Serious burn accidents generally occur in two places, the home and at work. Home settings accounted for 45 percent of the patients, while industrial accidents were responsible for 29 percent;
- Although the majority of patients are transferred from other hospitals, the average length of stay is 22 days, with some staying a few days while one patient was in the unit for 112 days;

Seminars for CPAs

Important aspects of partnership taxation, unaudited financial statements, making financial statements disclosures and helping clients improve their investment decisions will be the subjects of four workshops scheduled in November by the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants' Continuing Professional Education program.

William J. Murray, CPA, president of the society and a partner in the accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., noted that "the importance of these workshops lies in the constantly changing nature of laws and regulations, along with the general economy, which requires certified public accountants to maintain an awareness of different financial situations affecting the welfare of their clients."

The November workshops will include "Partnership Income Tax Workshop," Nov. 16 and 17, Coachman Inn, Cranford; "Financial Statements," Nov. 20 and Nov. 27, Coachman Inn, 25, Holiday Inn, Red Bank, Cranford.

Condominiums called inflation beating buys

The time-tested leisure residents coupled with the oriented lifestyle afforded decided edge they enjoy. Rossmoor and Clearbrook against rising inflation.

are but two of the reasons more and more adults, 45 years or over, are buying homes in this Monroe Township community off Exit 84 of the New Jersey Turnpike, a one hour drive to mid Manhattan and 15 minutes from historic Princeton. According to John G. Andriessen, vice-president and director of marketing and sales for the popular adult- condominium sister communities sponsored and developed by Guardian Development Corporation, condominium ownership makes for an ideal arrangement for private ownership of housing along with shared expenses and equal participation in all the amenities provided. Based on current real estate marketing conditions, Andriessen feels that there never was a better time to think of owning a condominium than today, with inflation taking an ever-increasing toll of all consumer goods. Material costs are rising, land costs are rising, interest rates are rising and labor costs keep going up. It is important to note, that real estate taxes or mortgage payment interest charges are deductible from Federal income tax returns, and while Rossmoor and Clearbrook home owners are taking their tax and interest deductions, they are building up equity positions as their homes increase in value with each passing year.

Because Rossmoor and Clearbrook are condominiums, residents have all the advantages of a free-living recreation facilities that rival those of a five country club, with none of the sleep country club fees, 24-hour security and all exterior maintenance taken care of. A growing segment of home buyers in these vital, well-managed communities enjoy the best of two worlds. They continue a working

Panels to study utopian towns of New Jersey

"Planned and Utopian Experiments: Four New Jersey Towns," the New Jersey Historical Commission's tenth annual New Jersey History Symposium, will be held on Saturday, Dec. 2, in the Assembly Chamber of the State House in Trenton. The symposium will explore the foundations and philosophies of four communities in the state.

In the morning session Prof. George Kirshman of Baruch College, City University of New York, will discuss "Why Did They Stay? Communal Life in the North American Phalanx," a nineteenth-century utopian colony that thrived in Monmouth County from 1843 to 1854. Brenda Parnes, a graduate student at Rutgers University, will speak on Ocean Grove, a Methodist resort community founded in 1869.

In the afternoon Daniel Schaffer, a graduate student at Rutgers University, will discuss "Lessons in Land Use: Radburn and the Regional Planning Association of America."

Prof. Henry N. Dreary, Director, Office of Teacher Preparation and Placement, Princeton University, and Chairman of the Historical Commission, will lead the symposium.

The symposium has been held since 1969 to bring the current work of research scholars in New Jersey history to the general public. Registration is $3, and luncheon is $4. Registration may be made by contacting Paul A. Shellhorn, research director of the commission, 113 W. State St., Trenton, 08625.

You're one of those families who won't settle for anything less than the best. And when it comes to the Commons at Mendham, we can't help but agree. We planned and designed, and built a beautiful collection of townhomes with you in mind. We selected one of the most picturesque and historic locations in the State of New Jersey, The Borough of Mendham. We've carefully selected the townhomes surrounded by woods and fields, a sparkling stream and a rustic pond. To insure your privacy, we left untouched large areas of natural terrain.

Then, we built each home with a kind of craftsmanship that's very hard to find these days. Each layout is extremely well-planned and the rooms spacious enough to meet the requirements of even the most demanding buyers. Then, for good measure, we've added a very pleasurable group of recreation opportunities within walking dis-

By MILT HAMMER

"Student Prince" (1924), "Desert Song" (1928) and "New Moon" Delighted Broadway and all America on stage and screen, with their unforgettable melodies. In 1945 he emerged from retirement to pen "Up in Central Park," which opened only six years before his death.

Carson Dragon has arranged a program of Romberg favorites in his brilliant and romantic style and in this album, originally released on the Capitol label and unavailable for several years, the Hollywood Bowl Pops Orchestra plays them with elegance and enthusiasm. The moods alternate between lyrical and high-spirited, a most enjoyable evening of nostalgia.

Selections include: "The Student Prince Serenade," "Drinking Song," "Deep in My Heart, Dear," "The Desert Song," "The Riff Song."
