Committee listens, defers rent decision

By LINDA CARLEW
Tenants, landlords and lawyers pack the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School auditorium Monday night to give the pros and cons on an amendment to the rent leveling ordinance during a final public hearing.

The proposed amendment would use a landlord's increased costs for fuel, utilities, taxes and operating expenses as a base for his annual rent increases. The maximum allowable increase is 9 percent of the current rent.

The amendment was introduced because the current 2 percent annual increase plus the tax pass-through is not high enough to maintain the buildings properly under the present rates of inflation, according to members of the Township Committee.

In addition, the owners of Hillside Gardens and Two Village apartments have lawsuits pending against the township in New Jersey Superior Court challenging the constitutionality of the rent leveling ordinance. Mayor Robert Wolchek said:

"The proposed amendment is a logical step after an ordinance adopted by Fort Lee in 1971 which calls for a percent cut in rent increases and already has been upheld by the New Jersey Supreme Court. The Springfield Township Committee used a 9 percent increase because it could be successful in defending its cut under today's rate of inflation, according to Township Attorney Edward J. Panning.

At Monday's public hearing, tenants and landlords, deflated and attacked the proposed ordinance and at the end of the hearing, the Township Committee voted to table the amendment until its next meeting May 13.

Wolchek said: "I think we have heard both sides and some adjustment in our ordinance is warranted. I'd like to see for the most part people who are in a longer-term position to put off for any length of time. Speakers registered for speaking prior to the meeting, although many chose not to speak as the three-hour meeting progressed because many points from both sides were being repeated, they said.

Tenants of some apartment buildings said they had been getting cuts in services despite increases in rents. They said many of the tenants are older people who live on fixed incomes and can't afford increases.

"Please gentlemen, look at us. Look at the rent leveling ordinance," said Dr. David Lyle, president of the Summit Hill Tenants Association.

"You see for the most part people who are in a longer-term position to put off for any length of time. Speakers registered for speaking prior to the meeting, although many chose not to speak as the three-hour meeting progressed because many points from both sides were being repeated, they said.

Tenants of some apartment buildings said they had been getting cuts in services despite increases in rents. They said many of the tenants are older people who live on fixed incomes and can't afford increases.

He also noted there was a narrowing of the market, he said, as more apartments are converted to condominiums because landlords can't afford to maintain apartment buildings.

Robert Throckmold, manager of Green Village for the past year, said the owners no longer can operate the apartments without "seriously considering converting to condominiums by January 1981."

Tenant Robert Fitz of the Summit Hill Apartments, noted the tenants of that building had received a cut in services and asked "where are the added expenses?"

Edward Stovall, chairman of the ordinance Committee of Springfield Homeowners by Appeal Round Table, said rent control shifts the burden of expenses from apartments to other real estate such as homes and commercial property. Therefore, homeowners subsidize the rates of tenants, he claimed.

Apartment owners and value of their property and the township losses tax money, he added.

Most speakers and the Township Committee agreed a compromise ordinance could be adopted but the committee voted to defer the decision until the next meeting.

"I hope we will have the courage to believe responsibly. I would like to see a lot of work to digest the ideas," said Edward Stovall.

"I want to defer action to the next of our meeting," he said.

ALL LIT UP—Lucy De Vries and Marvin H. Strauss, leaders in the year-long campaign to obtain illumination for the new tennis courts at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, are among the first players to take advantage of the facility.

Calabrese appeals verdict on legal fees

Springfield Police Lt. Samuel Calabrese has filed an appeal to a Superior Court decision stating that the township does not have to pay court costs he incurred in a trial concerning his after-hours work.

During last year's trial, Calabrese successfully defended himself against charges that he collected money from the township and part-time employers for after-hours work that he never did.

Under state law, if a police officer is tried and acquitted of charges, the municipality is responsible for the legal costs.

Calabrese applied to the township in August for reimbursement of the legal fees he incurred in clearing his name during the seven-week long trial, but was turned down.

In December, Calabrese filed suit against the township seeking $50,000 for the costs of a five-man legal defense team and their aides.

The judge ruled that the charges against Calabrese were not a result of his duties. Therefore, Calabrese must pay his own legal fees, he ruled.

Calabrese was cleared of the nine count indictment last April. Seven of those counts accused Calabrese of cheating employers by charging two or more for work done during the same hours. He also was charged with misconduct and obstruction of justice because the prosecution contended he tried to thwart an investigation of himself.

In addition to his full-time job as commander of detectives, Calabrese also held part-time evening jobs as a criminal justice adviser at Bloomfield College, law-enforcement adviser at Union College and security officer at Sales Fifth Avenue and Madison Kittichens Inc.

In all of the other apparent overlaps in his billing schedule, the employers got their money's worth of labor from a substitute or himself or the prosecutor's investigators erred in reconstructing timetables, Calabrese testified during three days on the witness stand.

Township Attorney Edward Panning will represent Springfield and James Spagnoli, of the Elizabeth firm Spagnoli and Thuring, will represent Calabrese in the trial.

Experts give details about drug problems for parent audience

Parents turned out 170-strong to learn about symptoms and prevention of drug abuse at a seminar sponsored by the Springfield P.T.A. last week.

Four drug abuse experts spoke to one of the largest audiences the P.T.A. has had in five years and answered questions given to them anonymously, according to Thelma Fernback, president of the P.T.A.

The seminar, held at Raymond Chisholm School Auditorium from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., was the result of a survey sent out last year by the P.T.A. to Walton and Sandmeier schools in which an overwhelming majority of those who returned the survey indicated that drugs and alcohol were the subjects they were most interested in learning about, Fernback said.

"Parental education is essential to the prevention and recognition of drug abuse," Fernback said, echoing the points of the panelists.

The volunteer panelists included Richard Bowe, senior treatment counselor at Overlook Hospital, Detective Edward Kisch of the Springfield Police Department, Detective Joseph Parisi of the Essex County Sheriff's Office, Moderator was Lucille Weiss, guidance counselor at Gaudineer School.

Parents should take the responsibility for both the prevention of drug abuse, and where it exists, the care of drug users, panelists said.

Drug and alcohol abuse sometimes takes place in the home, where a parent may condone the use of those materials during teenage parties, or a parent may leave children home alone, Kisch said after the seminar.

Drug abuse also occurs near and around the high school during lunch hours and before and after school, Kisch said.

Drugs are available to students at two stores located near the high school, he said. "They're going to class high or back from class high," he said.

Marijuana is not the only drug used by high-schoolers and younger students, Kisch said. "Qualities, LSD, black beauties and cocaine are very available at the level of high school," he said.

Users of hard drugs can be found as low as the seventh grade, however, he said. "LSD, which is more prevalent this year, especially has us worried," he added.

At the April 23 seminar, the panelists stressed the importance of the parent as a role model and as a source of affection, supervision and discipline for children, Fernback said.

They noted that parental influence is replaced by peer pressure in teenage years and that peer pressure is one of the most influencing factors in drug use, she said.

Children should be taught how to cope with problems and stress. Drugs and alcohol make problems seem nonexistent, they said.

Communication lines should remain open between parents and their children and if parents think their child is experimenting with drugs, the child should be confronted immediately, Fernback said.

Parents also were shown drug-related items such as pill packets, benzoin and brown blades which to the experienced eye would not appear to be associated with drugs, Fernback added.

Springfield police advise that parental knowledge of drugs and discipline of teenagers is important in preventing drug abuse.

Weekends and after schools, police find teenagers drinking and taking drugs in a local field and quarry, they said.

If parents kept track of their children's whereabouts, these outdoor drug and alcohol parties wouldn't take place, Springfield police and panelists at the seminar advised.

TORCHBEARER—Ten-year-old April Peterson, a fifth grader at James Caldwell School, will be carrying the torch in the annual Springfield Junior Olympics Sunday. She competed in the state Amateur Athletic Union meets last year with dashes and the running long jump.

Junior Olympians to compete Sunday

The annual Junior Olympics track and field meet will be held Sunday at 10 a.m. at Moseley Field, Springfield. All those eight years old and under will compete in the New Jersey Amateur Athletic Union district and state meets.

Competition is separated by sex and age. The meet is divided into three age groups: the Bantam division is for children aged nine and under; 10 and 11-year-olds compete in the Midget division and athletes aged 12 and 13 compete in the Junior division.

Bantam and Midget competitors may compete in the 50- and 100-yard dashes, the running long jump and the half-mile run. In addition to these four events, Midget competitors also may compete in the six-pound shot put and the high jump.

Junior division events are the 100- and 400-yard dashes, the running long and high jumps and the mile run. Boys may compete in the triple jump and the eight-pound shot put. Girls may put a six-pound shot, 1000, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to the winners.

Registration is free and all entrants are limited to three events. Registration forms are available at schools and at the field. The opening ceremonies.

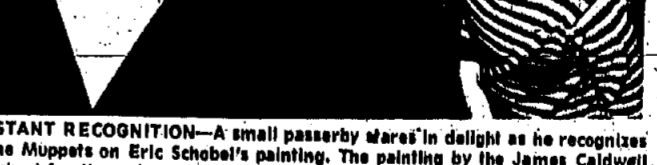

The Junior Olympics are sponsored by the Springfield Department of Recreation and Greg Clarke of Tucker Avenue, Springfield, will be meet director. He will be assisted by recreation director Joseph Kapurina and coaches and team members of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team.

Last year, over 150 youths competed and local records were set in five events. Meet dates are May 11 at 1 p.m.

Swedes have made many contributions

EDITH'S NOTE—International Heritage Day on June 22 will feature ethnic food, dancing and arts and crafts from some of the cultures that settled North America. The event is part of the Battle of Springfield weekend which includes a parade through Union, Springfield and Millburn June 21 and a 20th anniversary re-enactment of the Battle of Springfield on Mt. Pleasant, Springfield, June 22.

This is the second in a series about the history and culture of some of the ethnic groups that will be represented at the International Heritage Day Festival.

In 1856, twelve ships carrying emigrants set sail from Sweden and started the long, hazardous journey to the New World. By 1861, four small Swedish and Finnish colonies had settled on the east bank of the Delaware River in New Jersey.

The Swedish population in New Jersey was less than 500 until 1870, when larger groups of emigrants escaping hard times in Sweden began arriving on the East Coast. In 1903, nearly 1,000 Swedes had settled in New Jersey.

The early Swedish immigrants settled in the southern part of New Jersey, but by 1915, Union, Essex, Hudson, Middlesex, Morris, Monmouth and Bergen Counties had the highest number of people.

Library titles Topics from queens to cuisine among offerings

The Springfield Public Library has the following titles among the books recently received.

EUROPEAN
"Queen Juliana," by William Hoffman. The author takes us from the early years of The Netherlands in 1570 to the present century, when Queen Wilhelmina, the commanding mother of her only daughter and heir, Juliana, became the first woman of the House of Orange to rule her country. She was admired for her statecraft, diplomacy, energy, and experience. Juliana's educational and social training permitted her for the succession to the throne, but that did not occur until the queen abdicated in 1948.

Before that event, queen Juliana's unpopular marriage to the Bernhard former SS member, with whom she shared a common language, Dutch, and the fight of the royal family to England and Canada changed the course of Juliana's life. On her return to the country, she was subjected to a course of education in getting along with the royal family. After Wilhelmina's abdication, Juliana, at 28, assumed the throne, becoming queen regnant and regent over all Europe. Although her reign was a stormy one, it was a series of impressions as a business woman, a hard day laborer and a superb book salesman. Devoted to the arts, it was the theater which fascinated him. He always regarded it as an adventure to him. The "play" was absolutely everything.

Harris, an excellent witty raconteur, does not recount his experiences in any chronological order. However, we learn much about him, his friends, his family, his business and his life. There are sketches of John Ford, William Gish, Helen Hayes, Ernest Hemingway, George S. Kaufman, Charles MacArthur, Kate Maxson and George Jean Nathan. His noteworthy productions include "The Green Bellows," "The Horse," "Our Town" and "Uncle Vanya."

REFLECTIVE PROPOSITION
"Writing Parent-Food Books" by Helen Garner, Shell and Kay Hrovatich. For those who really care about cooking meat for three meals at one time; for those who just want to make cooking so simple that even the most difficult in a child's life. Not only are there changes in the physical, but also in the mental, emotional, and social conditions. This reference book is written from a medical perspective.

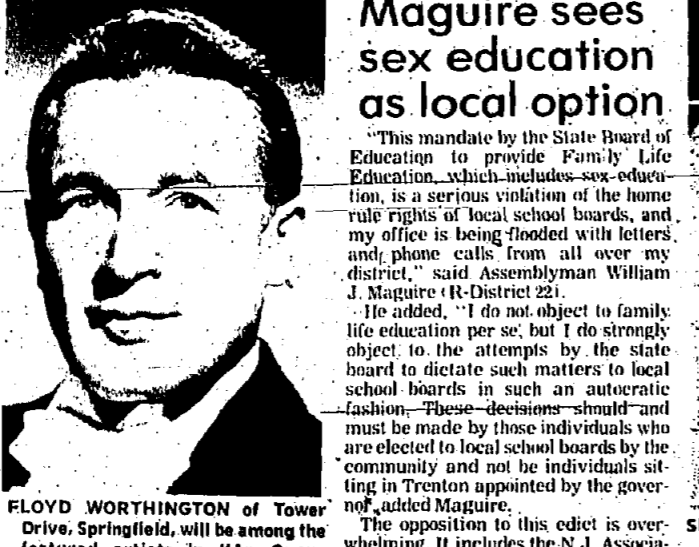

Examples of each method are given, followed by notes on recipes in each category. All sorts of hints for short cuts and time-savers should make cooking easier. Also stressed are nutritional needs for every day fruits and vegetables, grains, milk and other food groups; and simple menus for breakfasts, lunches and dinners.

Other helpful suggestions include a list of books to keep on hand, eating out, marketing by children. Not only is an efficient kitchen layout essential for saving energy, but the right kinds of cookware (high-quality in the pots, good heat conductors, well-balanced handles, easy-to-clean pans) definitely will increase speed and efficiency in the kitchen. Basic utensils are described. Important chapters on the prevention of food poisoning and on key nutrients with their important sources conclude the guides.

The psychological terms of anxiety (with some suggestions for treatment), aspects of depression, suicide, and psychosis. Guidance is also given for problems of smoking, drinking, and drug abuse. Though neither a psychiatric or medical diagnosis, delirium (a legal term) is given some consideration. The writers conclude with a brief review of psychotherapy, and a brief review of psychotherapy, and a brief review of psychotherapy.

STUDENTS OF DANCE—Three Springfield students of Kathy Reana of the Kathleen Louise School of Dance, 745 Mountain Ave., Springfield, participated in a benefit for Regional Dance Theatre, at Hillview School, New Providence, on Sunday. They include Lena Chapman, Blanca Bozza and Danielle Bozza, advanced students of jazz and tap.

FLOYD WORTHINGTON of Tower Drive, Springfield, will be among the featured artists in "An Opera Sampler" to be offered by St. Alban's Opera House on Sunday, May 2, at 8 p.m. at South Orange Junior High School, 78 North Ridgewood Rd. Worthington also will direct the performance. Tickets $7, $4 for students and senior citizens and available by calling Music Director Dia DeLuna at 743-7161.

Maguire sees sex education as local option
—The mandate by the State Board of Education to provide sex education, which includes sex education, is a serious violation of the local rights of local school boards, and my office is being flooded with letters and phone calls from all over my district, said Assemblyman William J. Maguire (R-District 21).

OPINIONS — OURS, YOURS

Cook's tour de force

Spring is not only the season for raking flowerbeds, spreading fertilizer, mowing lawns and putting up screens. It is also the time for those wonderful family picnics at which we can get together with all those friends, neighbors and cousins we have not seen since they tried to chug-a-lug four bottles of beer.

There is never any need to send invitations. The act of wheeling the charcoal grill out of the garage can be heard for 16.7 miles, and the response is instantaneous. But there are many tasks to be performed before reaching checkpoint charcoal.

A good first chore is getting out the long-handled fork and spatula. Estimated time: 10 minutes; 2 1/2 hours.

Then there is the food shopping. For a dozen people, the experienced picnic host buys enough eatables for 25.

The minimum variety is chopped meat (at $5.73 per pound), hot dogs, rolls for both, potato salad and cole slaw (making these with the help of a major cause of domestic discord), large cans of baked beans, potato chips, fruit suitable to the season, yesterday's fresh baked goods, paper tablecloth, wooden forks and spoons, salt and pepper.

Forget the telephone and mustard. Someone will be glad to run out for them while the dinner cooks.

Beverages should include milk, skim milk, chocolate milk, soda, diet soda and beer. Hosts whose property exceeds 100 feet in front footage may substitute wine for beer.

We assume that the host is well equipped with one large serving table, one small table for every three guests (or one long one for every six), swings, slides, climbing bars and two of every kind of toy to reduce bloodshed among the toddlers.

A birthday is a handy thing to have at a picnic. Just when the honoree gives up on the prospects of a proper commemoration, everyone should shout "Surprise!" and the breeze will blow out all the candles.

By this time, however, you will realize what you forgot. You forgot to check the weather reports.

Older Americans remember time when credit cards didn't exist

By CYRICK/FIELD

Were he alive and well and living in America today, William Shakespeare would probably love at least one of the anti-inflation actions announced last month by President Carter. It was the ban on cash transactions for purchases over $500, which would have forced him to "finance" his purchases by writing checks or using credit cards.

When the President talked about "restraints on credit," I recalled the long light which older consumers had waged against age discrimination in the United States was practically taking place.

While they may have lacked the universality of today's ubiquitous credit card, the credit cards of older Americans were not necessarily better. In fact, they were often a source of embarrassment and frustration.

My father, a successful businessman, had a credit card that he used to buy groceries. He was often asked to sign for items, and he would have to wait around the cashier while the cashier checked his signature. This was often embarrassing, especially in the case of his wife, who was a homemaker and did not work.

Other credit cards were even more restrictive. Some required a certain amount of funds to be deposited in a bank account before the card could be used. Others required the cardholder to pay for the card in full before it could be used.

For many older Americans, the lack of credit cards was a major inconvenience. They often had to carry large amounts of cash, which was a security risk. They also had to wait in long lines at the cashier, which was often frustrating.

It is ironic that, as older Americans become more active in the economy, they are often the last to benefit from the conveniences of modern credit cards.

Congressman Rinaldo

In 1980, the "Manchero Report" on regionalization and consolidation of New Jersey schools and school districts indicated there was evidence of an "enormous amount of duplication" in the state's school system.

Congressman Rinaldo, who represents the 12th Congressional District, has been instrumental in pushing for school reform. He has introduced several bills in Congress to address the issues of school finance and consolidation.

Rinaldo has also been active in advocating for the needs of older Americans. He has introduced legislation to provide for the needs of the elderly in the workplace and in the community.

Know Your Government

The U.S. Government is a complex organization with many different departments and agencies. It is important for citizens to know how their government works and how they can influence it.

One of the best ways to learn about the government is to read about it. There are many books and websites that provide information about the government and its operations.

Citizens can also get involved in the government process by contacting their representatives in Congress. This can be done by writing letters, making phone calls, or attending public hearings.

The State We're In

By David F. Moore, North Jersey Conservation Foundation

As I saunter up the northward road, I see many signs of environmental damage. The air is hazy, the water is murky, and the land is barren. This is the state we're in, and it is a cause for concern.

Environmental protection is a top priority for the North Jersey Conservation Foundation. We are working to clean up the state's environment and to protect its natural resources.

One of the ways we do this is by lobbying for stronger environmental laws. We also provide education and outreach to the public about environmental issues.

Double Recognition

Gary Singer, president of Singer Real Estate, Springfield, recently presented a gift from serving Springfield and surrounding communities to Helen Francis, director of the Springfield Public Library, to recognize the coincidence of Private Property Week and National Library Week.

Old-fashioned phone newest Bell model

New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. has introduced a new "old-fashioned" phone. The Country Junction telephone is an adaptation of an oak, wall-mounted Bell system phone introduced in 1913; it has not been manufactured since 1960.

The telephone is the latest addition to the "design line" collection and its introduction coincides with the fifth anniversary of the company's first offering of design line models for residence customers. There are 10 design line models available.

New Jersey Bell employees at three retail Phone Center Stores designed the new set, which is wall-mounted rotary dial. The oak is a half-turned solid oak receiver and anti-rust nickel bell. The oak wall box, the oak has been stained and sealed with low-gloss polyurethane, requiring simple wiping and no polishing.

More than 60 dealers are expected to participate. Home-made cakes and food will be available, admission and parking are free. Further information is available at 276-4466.

Mellon grant to consortium

The Mellon Foundation has granted $500,000 to a consortium of three community colleges to study the effects of a science and technology program. The grant will be used to develop a program of science and technology education for students in the area of science and technology. The consortium consists of the University of Delaware, Delaware State University, and Delaware Technical College.

Art from New Deal in Exhibit

Paintings, murals, graphics, and other work produced during the 1930s and early 1940s in government-subsidized programs employing America's most talented artists will be on display for "New Deal Art: New Jersey," an exhibition that will open Saturday in the main galleries of the N.J. State Museum. The period was one of general interest in the history of American art. Such artists as George Biddle, Roy Shahn and Louis Lozowick as well as others who later achieved comparable distinction were earning their livings as employees of the Works Progress Administration. The State Museum, a division of the N.J. Department of Education, is open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday (closed on Thursdays and from 1 to 3 p.m. weekends). Admission is free. #### Silver Springs site calls to Jerseyans

The folks at Silver Springs in Ocala, Fla., are making a pitch to New Jerseyans to put a little more of the Florida sunshine in their future. And what do they have to offer? According to the community activities and live theater in a social center to picture this scene: a recreation-oriented community nestled in an area known as the Central Florida Ridge—one of the highest, driest and most fertile regions in the Sunshine State, a land of gentle rolling hills, woodlands, clear spring-fed lakes and lush, subtropical foliage.

Need cited to raise mobile home zoning
If local governments turned housing associations...
Dyer pointed out, "The problem of providing affordable housing for New Jersey families who need homes during 1980 is one that can be solved with the proper understanding and cooperation of zoning and planning board officials."

Banker, counsel thyself!
George Foster has been my banker and financial adviser for years. Not that my little antique shop has that much "financial" to advise about.
But if I want to know about things like long-term and short-term certificates, tax-deferred retirement plans or Treasury Note participations, I ask George. He always has the answers.
"I'm not really sure what's best," he told me. "I know all the reasons for selling a big house when the family is grown and gone (I'd like to know about it)." "Like it?" I said. "It's right in the middle of antique hunters' heaven, I love it!"

All speakers closing any schools

By SAM FINNELL
Springfield residents turned out in strength at a public hearing last week to voice their concern over the possibility that a township school will be closed to accommodate a projected decline in enrollment.

While Board of Education members listened last Wednesday, residents asked the board to consider if asked the board questions about ramifications of a closed school, such as busing problems, changes in the tax rate, class-size increases or problems if population increases over the next few years.

Laura Brunsbaum, board president, said that because the board would receive state budget cap figures until the end of the month, a decision probably won't be made until sometime in January.

Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, in a speech that summed up the points raised in the hearing, told the audience that unless there is a "massive budget problem, it seems as though it would not be desirable to close a school for the next school year."

Some of the possible effects of closing a school, he said, include larger classes, itinerant teachers and the loss in some cases of "neighborhood" schools, which are not desirable.

Baruchin said that the closing of the Raymond Chalmers School a decade ago would send the fourth and fifth grades to the Thomas Sandmeier School. Both options would mean a savings of more than $163,084, but would increase traffic and safety problems. Also, empty space could be rented if the board insures the facility, maintains the building and the parking lot and provides heat and air conditioning. The property also could be sold.

Options 4 and 5 involve closing the Raymond Chalmers School, Option 4 would send the kindergarten through third grade to Walton, the fourth grade to Sandmeier and the fifth grade to Florence Gausler School. Both options would mean a savings of more than $196,000 and include the rent-or-lease of the school building, bus service, traffic and a relocation of about half of all elementary pupils.

The final option is to close down the Raymond Chalmers School building, which now houses the board offices and special classrooms. A projected savings of $74,000 would result and the property also could be sold or rented.

The resident who said he was new in town asked the board why no advantages for the children were listed. Dr. Thelma Sandmeier, chairperson of the reorganization committee, replied, "The omission is eloquent."

Robert Vaker, board secretary, provided the board with figures arrived at earlier that day on estimated tax savings caused by each option. On a house assessed at $100,000, the saving would range from $10 to $60 per year, Vaker's report stressed, however, that preliminary figures for 1980 show that rates have increased.

A University Heights resident expressed a concern that other residents schooled throughout the evening: How will students get to school if Caldwell is closed? Mrs. Rosenbaum said they thought there to be based. Under state law, however, students living less than two miles from school do not have to be bused. If those students weren't bused, they would walk along Mount Pleasant to school. "There's no way I would let my son walk along Mount Pleasant at 7:30 in the morning," the resident said. He also mentioned the energy waste and the inconvenience if the students were not bused, and the audience applauded.

Springfield already has enough white-bus service in the school district. The solution will be on the food and quality of the various white-bus routes. The school will close with a tasting party, during which the students will learn about many countries.

The board will hold the hearing on the high school parking lot from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Library offers holiday punch
Friends of the Springfield Public Library will celebrate the beginning of the Hanukkah and Christmas holiday seasons with a punch-bowl set up near the Circulation Desk Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Members of the group will serve food punch and a piece of cake to all comers.

Jayne Jenkins of Public Service Electric and Gas will present a slide illustrated lecture, "Holy Days," offering menus, recipes and decorating suggestions for Holiday parties in the Meeting Room at 7 p.m.

Next Wednesday, at 7 p.m., "Brian's Song" will be shown in the meeting room. James Chan stars as Brian Piccolo and Billy Dee Williams as Gale Sayers in a story of courage and brotherhood on and off the football field. It runs for 74 minutes.

Monday visit slated for food stamp data
A representative of the Union County Food Stamp Program will visit Springfield Monday from 9:30 a.m. to noon. The representative will be available at the Municipal Building.

Holiday deadlines
This newspaper has instituted 5 p.m. Wednesday deadlines for manuscript submission for the Dec. 27 and Jan. 3 issues because printing schedules will be disrupted by the Christmas and New Year holidays.

All organizational, social and other material meant for the Dec. 27 issue must be submitted by this coming Wednesday, Dec. 19. All material for Jan. 3, by Wednesday, Dec. 28.
