VETERAN SQUAD MEMBER — Daniel Kalem of Henshaw Avenue, 25-year veteran of the Springfield First Aid Squad, steps out of the squad's two-year-old ambulance. Equipped with modern emergency medical equipment, including a portable resuscitator and a built-in oxygen supply, the ambulance also has a telephone with direct communication with local hospitals.

Aid squad veteran reviews the needs

Daniel Kalem, a 25-year veteran of the Springfield First Aid Squad, says the rewards of being a volunteer far outweigh the risks and demands on his time. A first aid volunteer must be on call 12 hours per week and on weekend every six weeks for medical emergencies. Those emergencies happen during business calls, dinner parties and snowstorms and Kalem must cut short his call or dinner and attend to the emergency. Kalem, who runs his own insurance business in Springfield, says he cannot estimate the amount of business he may have lost because of the time-consuming volunteer work. "but it's small," he says. However, a volunteer must occasionally encounter more serious inconveniences than loss of business. A threat to a volunteer's own life and health occasionally occur and, when on call, a volunteer must be prepared to be wakened in the middle of the night and to work in all kinds of weather. Life threatening situations such as entering a house where gas has been set on or trying to extricate an accident victim from a "burning" car are sometimes demanded of a first aid squad volunteer, Kalem says. "If you feel you have been instrumental in measurably improving the physical situation of a patient," the risks and inconveniences become less important, he says. Inside Kalem's Linden Avenue office is a plectrum, an FM radio system which connects police dispatchers to first aid squad members. It is on in Kalem's office continuously and emits a loud buzzing noise when police dispatchers try to contact squad members. Dispatchers then state the nature and address of the emergency. On Thursdays from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Kalem is on call and that buzz means he and other volunteers on duty must drop their business or household, rush to the first aid station and hop into one of two ambulances. The number of calls per shift vary. "We can go with nothing or we can go with six calls a day. Some months there are 100 emergency and transportation calls," he says. On Kalem's first day on the Springfield First Aid Squad, October 1955, he was gone the whole day on calls. His business, then in his Henshaw Avenue home, was ignored. But Kalem continued to work as a volunteer. He became a member after first aid members came to his home collecting money for a fund drive. They explained to him that the emergency organization operated entirely on donations of resources, time and money. Kalem felt then he would try it. "That was 25 years ago and today Kalem, now president for the sixth year of the Springfield First Aid Squad, is as dedicated as ever. He was recruited in 1955 for the third year as president of the Overlook Hospital First Aid Council, an organization that serves as a liaison between the hospital and all first aid squads in Morris and Union counties. He also has been chairman of the Springfield First Aid Squad insurance committee, captain, first and second lieutenant and training officer of the 40-member squad. "The members are a special group of people because they must have a lot of dedication," Kalem says. Volunteers must complete rigorous medical training requirements which require the personal and college guidance aspects of counseling and tries to encourage students to make wise decisions and use their potential," he said. Twenty-five years ago, 31 percent of Jonathan Dayton students went to college. In 1980, about 82 percent of the students will be attending college, Lovewer estimated. He appreciates students who achieved an objective by attending college and come back to visit. Perhaps 1-playoff a small part to help Lovewer said. Conley said she needed a change in the traditional physical education program since 1955. "Students are more sophisticated. They have more input into the program," she said. Physical education programs once were segregated by sex and activities were selected by school administrators and teachers. Students now have varying degrees of choice of the sports they play during class gym class, she said. Conley finds working with students and other faculty members the best part of her job, she said. She likes to "help students mature," she said. Conley was born in Irvington and attended Irvington public schools. She received a bachelor of science degree from Trenton State College in health and physical education. She did graduate work at Seton Hall and Kenyon colleges. Her position at Jonathan Dayton was her first job after college. Lovewer received a bachelor of science degree with honors in education from Pennsylvania State College at Shippensburg. He also attended George Washington University and American University as an undergraduate and received a master's degree in guidance and psychology from Rutgers University. Lovewer served as a technical sergeant in the United States Army during World War II after he was graduated from high school. He held various jobs after he completed his col-

No drug convictions

Mr. Richard Kowalski, formerly of South Springfield Avenue and who died in New York City April 22, was arrested six times for violations of drug laws, but was convicted only of disorderly charges and received a conditional discharge for possession of marijuana, according to Springfield police records. The Springfield Leader incorrectly stated in its April 24 issue that Mr. Kowalski was convicted of six violations of drug laws. The Leader regrets the error.

Fire department salaries going up, captain chosen

The Township Committee Tuesday night introduced an ordinance raising the salaries of fire department personnel by 5 1/2 percent. The 18-year member of the department scored highest of three candidates in both the written and oral portions of the captain's examination with an average of 96 percent. Mayor Robert Weltschek said. Cardinal was a volunteer firefighter for seven years before becoming a paid member in 1972. The father of two received congratulations from the committee members after he was sworn in by the chief and deputy chief. Cardinal, a lifetime resident of Springfield whose father also was born and raised in the township, will replace Harry Astley of Keeler Street who is retiring June 1. Cardinal will receive an associate of arts degree in fire science from Union College in June. An amendment to the traffic control ordinance prohibiting parking in specific zones on Diamond Road and Silver Court also was introduced Tuesday night. Parking along the southern curb of Diamond Road between Silver Court and Padam Road and the eastern curb of Silver Court starting at its intersection with Diamond Road and proceeding 220 feet in a southerly direction will be prohibited under the ordinance. Approval of a club license to the American Legion Post 228 was approved by the Township Committee Tuesday night. After official business was completed, the committee members discussed on a proposed amendment to the leveling ordinance. A decision on that amendment was expected Tuesday night. "We're not married to the formula," said Weltschek. A proposal which is beneficial to "all parties and interests — landlords, tenants, homeowners and the township" — will be received with gratitude by members of the township committee, he said. A formula based on a landlord's operating expenses, tax and fuel increases would form the base for rent increases. The current ceiling of 2 1/2 percent would be raised to 3 1/2 percent under the proposed amendment. Said Committee member Gerald Cohen, "I would vote against the present amendment to the ordinance, but I (continued on page 3)

Citizens' committee reports progress with rent leveling

A nine-member panel appointed by Springfield Mayor Robert Weltschek to propose an amendment to the rent leveling ordinance, reported progress Tuesday night. The panel members last week include four representatives for landlords and tenants and one representative for township homeowners. Representing the landlords are Zigmund Wolf of Mountainview, Pine Tree and Floral Gardens, David Margolis of Troy Village, Bruce Theuerkauff of Gen. Green Village and John Bridgeman, Edwar Silas Jr., chairman of the ad hoc Committee on Rent Leveling. Representing the tenants are Dr. Pearl Loeff of Summit Hill apartments, Saul Taxon of Troy Village apartments, Leonard Zucker, attorney for a tenants' group, and Leo Harrison of Mountainview apartments. The panel members last week collected information on the annual rent increase on an apartment up to 8 1/2 percent based on a landlord's operating expenses and utility, fuel and tax increases. That amendment has been tabled for the present until the nine-member committee arrives at some amendment to the rent leveling ordinance which is amenable to both landlords and tenants," Weltschek said. The committee should make a recommendation in several weeks, he said. At Monday night's meeting, representatives for the landlords advocated a complete vacancy decontrol portion to an amendment, according to a committee source. The tenants recognized that a 2 1/2 percent rent increase would be a 2 1/2 percent rent increase. (Continued on page 3)

Regional school board honors 2 teachers for 25 years' service at Jonathan Dayton

In 25 years at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, guidance counselor Melba Lovewer and physical education teacher Melba Lovewer have seen a lot of changes. Both were honored by the Regional Board of Education last week for a quarter of a century of service. When they joined the high school staff in 1955, Jonathan Dayton school was the regional high school for six towns — Springfield, Mountaineer, Kenilworth, Clark, Berkeley Heights and Garwood. Both have served under five principals and are teaching and counseling former students' children. Both student and parent attitudes have changed since Lovewer and Conley joined the high school staff as brand-new teachers. "Parents are much more active" and more "positive" about their children's education, said Lovewer. He has closer contact with parents now than he did 25 years ago, he said. As a guidance counselor, he deals with the personal and college guidance aspects of counseling and tries to encourage students to make wise decisions and use their potential," he said. Twenty-five years ago, 31 percent of Jonathan Dayton students went to college. In 1980, about 82 percent of the students will be attending college, Lovewer estimated. He appreciates students who achieved an objective by attending college and come back to visit. Perhaps 1-playoff a small part to help Lovewer said. 'Bits of Hits' SRO at Gaudineer School

It was standing room only at the 10th anniversary eighth grade musical last week. "Bits of Hits" sparked and the parents sparkled watching their children perform, said Joseph Rudy, assistant principal and director of the musical. The annual musical which has become a Springfield tradition attracted not only parents, but residents and alumni from the Florence Gaudineer School. Rudy said. "Every class wants to be better than the previous class," he explained. Every class member participated and most students played two roles. Rudy auditions every student "who has the guts to come out," he said. They all do and Rudy said he likes seeing "a person who has never been on stage before bloom." Some have stayed right opening night, but they walk on like troopers," he said. "It's the only chance some have to appear on stage," he added. The musical, a "best of" show celebrating pieces from the previous nine shows including "A Show of Shows," "These Were the Days," "A Tribute to America," "Honey for Hollywood" and "A Southern Serenade." Weekend and night rehearsals began two weeks before the May 7 and 8 performances with $10,000 worth of costumes supplied by the Costume Carousal in Hillsdale, which Rudy co-owns. The costumes were already built, courtesy of the nine previous shows. Rudy attributed the musical's success to the talent of the students, but his own directing and theater experience also contributed to the smooth performances. Rudy directs about eight musicals per year for civic and charitable organizations. He directs the Union Twelve-players and operates the Rudy School of Dance in Hillsdale and Cranford. Rudy also co-owns the Costume Carousal at Hillsdale, which rents costumes to the eighth grade class every year. The costumes are extravagant and include such items as plumed hats, hand-beated dresses and life-like masks. The musical was begun in 1970 with a cast of 50 students and an audience of 250 parents, relatives and friends. Rudy said. During the bicentennial year in 1976, the show had a cast of about 250 and an audience of more than 2,000 in the combination auditorium and gymnasium in the Florence Gaudineer school, he said. In 1979, because of declining enrollment, a class of about 170 entertained the "packed" auditorium of thrilled parents and residents.

Shavrut vigil planned by Congregation Israel

A Shavrut vigil program will be held this year at Congregation Israel of Springfield on May 21.

The synagogue is at 333 Mountain Ave., Shampke Road. Members and friends of the congregation will gather for more than an hour of study, discussion, and socializing. Refreshments will be served.

According to Rabbi Israel E. Turner, the Shavrut vigil celebrates the anniversary of the presentation of the Torah to Jews at Mount Sinai. According to tradition, at midnight the heavens are symbolically split and deep spiritual and intellectual insights are revealed to those who are engaged in a study at that time.

Ideally, the vigil is supposed to last until dawn, but a shorter service is held. However, participants in the vigil should feel free to attend for whatever period they desire. Rabbi Turner said.

The project was initiated by the congregation's adult activities committee headed by Rabbi Alexander Jacobovic, chairman, and Rabbi Shmuel Shimon. Also serving are Abraham Borenstein and Rabbi Turner.

Aid squad

Physical strength is helpful in situations such as heart attacks where strength is needed to get the heart pumping again, he said.

However, once committed, volunteers are a dedicated group. The organization can claim several members on the squad for 15 years or more and one family with three active volunteers.

The Springfield First Aid Squad has four persons per crew on the night shift from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m., but sometimes only two persons on the day shift from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The squad is in desperate need of more volunteers, said Ellen Westerman, publicity director of the squad.

"Working mothers or those with children in school are ideal candidates for squad members," said Westerman. "It is a pleasure out of anything that the same people over and over again are answering the calls, she said.

"Although training is rigorous, a resident may become a squad member before training is completed. New to all squad members always are accompanied by a senior member and pro-

Committee

Many members have up to a year to complete training, she said.

To become a member of the Springfield First Aid Squad, an applicant must be a township resident, over 18 years old and ready, willing and able to give a minimum of 12 hours per week and one week end day every six weeks for duty-time. The 12 hour duty time may be broken up into six hour shifts, Westerman said.

In addition, applicants must hold a current driver's license, have a car, be available during duty-time and pass a physical. An applicant also must pass a physical by a squad physician.

During the first year of probation, a volunteer must complete the American Red Cross advanced first aid course and the cardiopulmonary resuscitation course or the equivalent of both, such as the emergency medical technician course.

In addition, squad members of probation must pass courses given by the first aid squad or at local hospitals on defibrillator, AED, and light rescue.

Training classes are held upon request and are required to keep current in all phases of first aid and to meet all new or changed training requirements.

SUNCOAST LUXURY—The elegant Lexington III is just one of the collection of Lake Village. This exciting new Florida community offers an affordable price of life along the sparkling Suncoast offers. Complete home and site packages are available from the $35,000 to the $175,000 range. Call Michael J. Pleas to announce this opening on his 20th anniversary as a Florida builder.

Jackson Township site for Marc Glen

A very special sense of urgency has been created with the recent grand opening of affordable Marc Glen single-family homes in one of the most highly prized neighborhoods in the Freehold-Howell area of northern Ocean County. Guaranteed 12 per cent mortgages, with down payments of as low as 10 per cent, await the qualified buyers of the five home models priced from $65,000.

Located off Brewers Lane in what is considered the most exclusive section of Jackson Township, near the convenience of a shopping center and commuting of Route 9, Marc Glen has been created by the Howard Siegel Companies to provide families with the finest homes possible for their money, and with financing rates below current mortgage rates.

Marc Glen reflects the consumer-minded approach that has made the Howard Siegel Companies one of New Jersey's most respected homebuilding firms. Over the past 25 years, the company has produced more than 3,000 private residences in Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris and Ocean counties.

"The needs of families have been fully considered in our planning," states Ned Siegel, who reports that completed homes can be available for delivery by the time the excellent local public and parochial schools open this fall. In addition, for play without having to cross any streets, Marc Glen residents and their children will share in private acres of passive woodland recreation.

Each Marc Glen home comes complete with attached garage, family/recreation room, formal dining room, and a combination of ultra new building materials and energy-saving features. These include Colores roof shingles, Woodsman Masonite siding, Acorn thermo-barrier windows, hot water heater, Tippan kitchen appliances, and the very latest Excel kitchen cabinetry and counter tops.

"The Marc Glen models are on display daily, except Thursdays, from 11 a.m. until dusk.

From Garden State Parkway Exit 123, take Route 9 south approximately nine miles past Freehold Raceway. Turn right onto Kent Road to the fork, and bear right onto Church Road. Continue about one mile. Turn right to the models. Cobaron exit, making a

Shadow Oaks units reduce costs of fuel

Shadow Oaks communities at Clinton and Cranbury are fighting energy costs and inflation, according to company spokesmen. Their goal is to keep energy costs and homeowner maintenance to the minimum.

Energy conservation is achieved by heavily-insulated walls, ceilings, floors, trim and doors. For example, Andersen twin-pane insulated windows are standard on most models. The company tracks actual customer heating experience, comparing it to industry averages, and finds the typical Shadow Oaks home uses 10 per cent less fuel than the industry average.

In addition, Shadow Oaks homes are not dependent on oil. Cranbury purchasers have gas-fired heat with air-conditioning standard at no extra cost. Clinton homeowners have their choice of low-coal electric heat (individual room thermostats) or an optional heat pump-air conditioning system.

The firm, normally builds in low-tax townships. Cranbury, Princeton suburb, has the lowest tax rate in the county. Clinton taxes are expected to be reduced this year and coming years as industry locates in the township.

Shadow Oaks continues to have competitive mortgages readily available to qualified purchasers. Besides low monthly tax and mortgage costs, the firm specializes in maintenance-free exteriors, including vinyl siding, aluminum or vinyl siding.

The Clinton community, which features the $68,990 Cambridge and the $115,000 Canterbury models, is located in the popular Hopson Hill section, which can be reached by taking I-76 to the Cobaron exit, making a SPECIAL TOUCHES—A variety of luxury features is provided in this home in the Wellington community in Palm Beach County, Fla.

Families often alike within Whittier Oaks

Jeff Dugash and Roger Gade both live in Whittier Oaks in Marlboro Township and are among the hundreds from that U.S. Home-developed community who commute daily by express bus to offices in New York City.

Their backgrounds are different, but they have more in common than taking the bus from near-by Route 9 to the Manhattan Terminal; more than having happened to select spacious two-floor Colonial-style models in the Gordon Corners section of Whittier Oaks, where homes are priced from the high $90,000's.

Dugash, who has lived in New Jersey all his life, is a salesman in the textile industry and has a master's degree in business administration from Rutgers. He and his wife, Bing, are Germain-born wife, Bing, a graduate of Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison, lived in Avenel until they moved to Whittier Oaks just over a year ago.

They began looking for a home when their son, Aaron, was born 17 months ago, and found the one they wanted at Gordons Corner after visiting a customer of Dugash, who also lives there.

"Beautiful homes, a wonderful school system, a rural setting within commuting distance from New York—just what we're looking for," says Dugash. "Besides, Bing and I like to play tennis and there are plenty of courts nearby, including illuminated ones that can be used at night."

Roger Gade and his wife, Debra, were born and raised, went to school and were married in the Bronx. They lived there until moving to Whittier Oaks this past winter with their son, Andrew, who is nearly 3.

A graduate of Bernard Baruch College with a bachelor's degree in business, he is an accountant with a firm in Manhattan. Mrs. Gade is a graduate of City College of New York, taught high school for five years before Andrew was born. Neither had heard of Whittier Oaks, but last fall they visited friends there "and fell in love with the place," says Gade, and, with more than 1,500 families in the area, they decided to migrate.

Wellington homes have luxury touch

Palm Beach County, Palm Beaches, the western Everglades County, the United States is no longer a frontier to restrict the flow of people. Predictions of leading economists say it will also be one of, if not the fastest growing counties in the nation.

Dade, Broward and Dade counties encompass all of the land on the East Coast of Florida's southern tip—the world-famous "Gold Coast" area planned community is an example of this new development. In the past two decades, the influx of population was first into Dade County, the metropolitan area, and then into Broward County, the next county north along the Gold Coast.

Energy considerations are a major factor in the development of these two counties. Broward and Dade counties are being built with more open space—unlike the glut of as-is, topped off by-roof lines composed of as many as 10 different angles, highlights the now temporary architecture being introduced by Limited Editions.

But probably the most important thing in the homes on the island being built by the Palm Beach County is a universal recognition now in Limited Editions of the development to offer quality life in—not just a house, but a lifestyle and ample amenities.

Besides all of the normal amenities, these homes are being built with custom-made, expensive materials. Wellington homes have some starting price tags in the $50,000's.

As every crown jewel area, so does the Island at Wellington. The island has the best of both worlds: a developed area with mature trees and a developing area with new homes.

All speakers closing any school

By SAM FINNELL

Springfield residents turned out to strong at a public hearing last week to voice their concerns over the possibility that a township school may be closed to accommodate a projected decline in enrollment.

While Board of Education members listened last Wednesday, residents asked the board to consider or asked the board questions about ramifications of a closed school, such as busing problems, changes in the tax rate, class-size charges and problems if population increases over the next few years.

Laura Rosenbaum, board president, said that because the board would receive state budget cap figures until the end of the month, a decision probably won't be made until some time in January.

Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, in a speech that summed up the points raised in the hearing, told the audience that unless there is a "massive budget problem, it seems as though it would not be desirable to close a school for the next school year."

Some of the possible effects of closing a school, he said, such as larger classes, itinerant teachers and the loss of some of the "neighborhood" schools, are not desirable.

Library offers holiday punch

Friends of the Springfield Public Library will celebrate the beginning of the Hanukkah and Christmas holiday seasons with a punch bowl set up near the Sandmeier and the fifth grade to Florence Gaudineer School. Both options would mean a savings of more than $100,000, but would increase traffic and safety problems. Also, empty space could be rented if the board insures the facility, maintains the building and the parking lot and provides heat and air conditioning. The property also could be sold.

Options 4 and 5 involve closing the James Caldwell School. Option 4 would send the kindergarten through third grade to Wallon, the fourth grade to Sandmeier and the fifth grade to Florence Gaudineer School. Both options would mean a savings of more than $100,000, but would increase traffic and safety problems. Brave People

The children in Jo Ann Shohar's first-grade class at Springfield's James Caldwell School have been participating in a social studies unit entitled, "Our Family Tree." During the study the children trace their family backgrounds to gain an appreciation of the contributions of many different nationalities for the development of the United States. The children pictured are learning Indian picture-writing. They have earned the feathers in their hair by doing good deeds for doing, because, deeds. The picture shows throughout the unit will be on the food and customs of the various ethnic groups. Linden defeats ailing Bulldogs in softball, 8-4

By DAVID GOLD

With almost half of its starters missing, the Dayton softball team lost to Linden last Saturday, 8-4, in the second round of the Union County Tournament. The Bulldogs are 8-4.

Linden is ranked among the top 10 in the state and third in the Watching Conference. Cathy Clark was the losing pitcher.

Dayton coach Hope Valenti, forced to play junior varsity players to replace several starters, commented that the regular starting lineup could have had a good chance of winning.

The previous Monday, the Bulldogs lost, 12-1, in New Providence. It was the fourth game in five days for Dayton and the strain was beginning to show.

Despite Dayton's two losses last week, their record is good enough to qualify for the State Tournament.

Some of the Bulldogs' key players are Cathy Clark, Theresa Young, Jodi Gossaway and Linda Lee, who was brought up from the junior varsity to help out.

Dayton's next game will be at home this afternoon against West Orange. Dayton has defeated West Orange before and Valenti is expecting another victory.

HIGH FLYER—Paul Commarato sets a Suburban Conference high jump record for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in conference meet Saturday at Madison. His record height was 4-7 1/2.

Boys finish second in conference track

The boys' track team of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School recently defeated Summit to boost its record to 8-1. The victory was called the result of a combined effort by all the athletes.

Saturday, the team took second place in the Suburban Conference Championship, finishing ahead of Madison. Millburn won the conference championship.

Paul Commarato performed exceptionally well in the morning events, winning conference championships in the long jump and the high jump. Commarato set a conference high jump record of 6-7. In the afternoon Commarato placed third in the high hurdles and fourth in the 200 meters.

Kevin Donaraisky's 40-foot shot put took fourth place and he finished fifth in the discus. Matt Smith, in his first year of javelin competition, placed fifth in the pole vault. Jeff Knowles was second, Robert Irene fourth and Robert Dooley fifth. Kathy Hammings was fourth in the high jump. Robert Casey was fourth in the long jump.

John Alexy won a conference championship in the intermediate hurdles and was second in the high hurdles.

Jeff Engelhardt was third in the 300 meters in his first year of competition. Ed Mac Donald, a junior, was fourth in the intermediate hurdles.

The mile relay team (Engelhardt, Circelli, Ken Kibous and Ed Francis) finished second. Other Dayton athletes who contributed were Jay Bruder, Bob Carroll, Scott Connolly, Glenn Eitz, Kevin James, Anthony Frachet, Steve Halpin, Adam Silverstein, Louis Salemy and Jim Roche.

This week the team is preparing for the Group II State Sectionals in Elizabethtown.

Dayton volleyballers to open tourney play

Dayton started off the match by winning the opening game but could not keep up the pace as Caldwell used team play and turned in a solid team effort. The new offense seemed to work better with the Bulldogs turning in some fine net play. Weak spiking and some crucial missed serves hurt.

Fenton was not pleased with the way his team performed Tuesday in a 15-12, 15-9 loss to Cranford. It was a very disappointing game as Dayton is equal to Cranford in talent.

Dayton opened the week against eighth-ranked New Providence in what Fenton called a poor match. The Bulldogs lost, 15-11.

Dayton is working hard on offense in preparation for the Union County Tournament. Among those from Dayton with a good chance of being selected to the all-star team are Mary Joe Scuderi and Susan Svtil.

Dayton girls edged in conference meet

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School girls' track team suffered an upset last Saturday at the Suburban Conference championship meet. Madison Borough High School, which Dayton had beaten in dual meet competition, captured the conference championship.

After the completion of the morning events (field events and jumping), Dayton had established a slight lead. Throughout the afternoon running events the team scores stayed excitingly close. At the completion of the long day, Madison won the meet by only 1 1/2 points.

Trish Taylor was the outstanding performer of the day. Taylor was named conference champion in four of the events she completed in, high jump, long jump, 100 meter and 200 meter sprints.

Maria Samingo placed second in both the javelin and the shot put. Samingo later threw the discus for a third place. Janis Levine doubled in the 1,500- and 3,000-meter runs. She placed sixth in both events, striking through a strong field of competitors. Linda Spina hurled a discus race to capture second place.

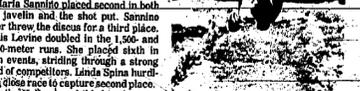

Kathy Kelly placed third in the 2,000-meter race and came back later in the program to rank fourth in the 800 meter.

Debbie Keller leaped to fourth in the long jump. Laura Clarke struggled past several veteran quarter-milesters to capture fifth in the 400-meter race. The mile relay team of Kelly, Kelly, Clarke and Marcia Irving finished in fourth place.

Madison coach Dave Crane supported the team with their best efforts, including Alice Berry, Judi Hostetler, Maureen Kelly, Dawn Lovinson, Penny Levitt, Karen Rickerbauer, Kathy Rickerbauer, Kathy Rodgers and Shirley Salery.

The team defeated Summit several days prior to the championship meet, by a score of 65 to 63. With only one dual meet left in the Suburban Conference, the team has a good chance to maintain an undefeated dual-meet record.

This coming week the team is concentrating on the New Jersey Group II Sectional Championships which will take place in less than two weeks.

LONG LEAPER—Trish Taylor of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School was named conference champion at Madison. Her gold-medal performance included this long jump of 14 feet and 1/2 inch.

Hobbled by injuries, Dayton nine loses 2

Hobbled by injuries, the Jonathan Dayton baseball team dropped two games last week. The team is 2-2.

The Bulldogs will try to improve their 6-8 record this afternoon in West Orange. The game will be a rematch of last Tuesday's 10-2 defeat. With players at new positions, Dayton committed three errors and gave up eight unearned runs.

Dayton's first run came on Dave Wasserman's double and Joe Kibous' single. Dayton scored the other run when Scott Henkle and Adam Bain singled. Bill Condon walked and a grand out by Wasserman scored Henkle. Kevin Karp was losing pitcher.

The Bulldogs started off the week looking like a very strong New Providence team, 11-2. Sophomore Dave Crane started for Dayton and was relieved by Kevin Karp and Adam Bain.

Dayton scored twice in the second inning. Crane tripled and scored on a ground out by Steve Barber. Sophomore Kirk Yagel doubled and scored on a single by Polcastro.

Crane and two hits and Don Melner a triple.

Despite the absence of some key players, Dayton coach Bob Lowe noted that the team spirit is high and the athletes are playing up to their potential.
