

Professor says U.S. is elitist dominated

With discussion about the elitist nature of the top staff of the cabinet officers, Joseph P. McCarthy, Jr., a Rutgers University professor, has published a major study in a new book, "Elites in American History." The book, published by Rutgers University Press, is a major contribution to the study of the history of the United States. McCarthy, who is a professor of history at Rutgers University, says that the history of the United States is dominated by a small group of elites. He says that these elites have controlled the government, the economy, and the culture of the United States since the beginning of the nation. McCarthy's study is based on a careful analysis of the history of the United States, from the time of the American Revolution to the present. He says that the elites have used their power to create a system of government that is designed to serve their interests. He says that the elites have also used their power to create a system of economy that is designed to serve their interests. McCarthy's study is a major contribution to the study of the history of the United States. It is a book that should be read by anyone who is interested in the history of the United States.

WHO'S BEEN RUNNING WASHINGTON SINCE WASHINGTON? The answer, in large part, is family and corporate wealth such as the House of Morgan and the present-day Trilateral Commission, according to Rutgers University political scientist and author Philip H. Burch Jr. in his three-volume study, "Elites in American History." Burch has analyzed the federal recruitment process for the nation's top appointive officials and found that the federal government has not been as pluralistic as many believe.

Burch also sheds new light on business interests and the Vietnam War. The economic establishment, in part through the formation of a prestigious national committee that included the heads of such important concerns as the Chase Manhattan Bank and the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., first backed President Lyndon Johnson's expansion of the Vietnam War. William F. Kienzle is first baby of 1981

SPRINGFIELD'S FIRST—William Frederick Kienzle, Springfield's first baby of 1981 and winner of the Leader's First Baby Contest, seems to be keeping his cool while his parents, Arlene and William, admire their first child. (Photo-Graphics)

Arriving five days into the new year, Springfield's first baby, William Frederick Kienzle, was born Jan. 5 at 6:58 a.m. in Arlene and William Henry Kienzle's 802 Mountain Ave. 4-pound, 15-ounce boy was delivered by Dr. Gardiner Bennett at Overlook Hospital, Summit.

"This is the first child for the Kienzles and the father says, 'Everyone is doing just fine.'"

As the first baby for 1981, little William will receive a variety of gifts from area merchants.

The father, a postal mail carrier from Springfield, says he was in the waiting room when his son was born and is "very gratified with the results."

"We are going to enjoy our son right now before deciding on having any more children," he said.

"It's going to get better and better as the years go by and it is a wonderful feeling to be a father," he said.

Although William's mother worked up until the last two weeks of her pregnancy, he was never expected to be Springfield's first baby.

"It was very unexpected since I gave birth to William premature," she said.

Last year Springfield failed to win Jan. 8 before the first baby was born.

Town appropriates funds for suit to block Route 78

By DAVID KREWSON

Concerned that state acquisition of the Houaille Quarry in Springfield would mean a loss of $5,000 in tax revenues, the Township Committee, at Tuesday night's meeting, voted to appropriate $1,000 out of the 1981 budget for legal fees for attorneys to file a lawsuit which could block the state from obtaining the land needed for the completion of 5.5 miles of Interstate 78.

The Houaille Quarry carries the fifth largest revenue for the township and we will fight to save it," Mayor William Cieri said.

Committee member William Ruocco, the lone Republican on the Committee, said he favors the lawsuit against the state for obtaining the land needed for the completion of 5.5 miles of Interstate 78.

The township objects to the Environmental Impact Statement as full of inaccuracies, outdated, and we propose a redrafting and revision of the EIS to conform to today's standards," Committee member Stanley Kucharski said.

The original EIS, written in 1966 when discussions began on the highway, include figures that are no longer valid today, Kucharski explained.

Other opponents included in the lawsuit in the fight to stop the state from building the $100 million highway interchange, the Parkland Preservation Committee, Sierra Club, an environmental group, Impact 78, a citizens group, and Berkeley Heights Township.

Represented at the meeting in favor of the completion of the highway was former mayor Vincent J. Bonadies, who was at the meeting to represent residents of Ballustrail Road who are being built.

"I don't think you are keeping faith with the 194 families who live on the top of the reservation and they want to see it completed," Bonadies said.

"The people elected us to exercise leadership and we perceive that a $3,000 expenditure for our attorneys is worth the expense and is in the best interest of the residents of Springfield," Kucharski said.

The highway would skirt the northern edge of the 2,000-acre Watchung Reservation. Approximately 70 acres of the park area would be needed for construction of the six-lane highway.

"I don't see the taking of valuable parkland is in the name of progress. This park can never be replaced," Kucharski explained.

Where the road goes through parkland, state officials say a road bed will be constructed in a cut below ground level, and in at least three sections cut and crossover sections will be built to provide natural crossovers across the highway.

In other committee business, two new bus shelters will be constructed on the north and south sides of Mountain and Hillside avenues, Springfield. Pending for the project comes from the state Division of Transportation.

The Committee also accepted the resignation of L. Ralph Mercurio of the Springfield Police Department, who is retiring after 25 years on the force.

School budget may rise 7.5%

A tentative $42 million school budget for the year 1981-82 was approved by a 7-to-2 vote by the Springfield Board of Education in a budget hearing meeting Monday night.

The budget represents a 7.5 percent increase over the 1980-81 school year and now must be submitted to the Union County superintendent of schools for approval.

The budget, as adopted Monday, means the local tax rate would rise approximately 7.5 percent, which applies only to those expenditures that affect local taxes.

Local taxpayers might have to pay approximately $45.00 more on a home assessed at $50,000 and $30.00 on a home assessed at $100,000.

The budget stays within the state-mandated cap figure of approximately 7.5 percent, which applies only to those expenditures that affect local taxes.

Voters will decide in April whether the budget stays as is or is changed.

"The increase in the budget reflects continued economic growth in the light of rampant inflation," Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, said.

Included in the budget is a total of $200,000 in capital expenditures for the replacement of windows and repair of the roof to the 80-year-old James Caldwell School.

The breakdown of capital expenditures also includes appropriations of $6,000 for new lighting to the Gaudinier School; $9,000 as the legal requirement for accommodations for handicapped equipment. "The new lighting for the Gaudinier School will affect 14 classrooms and the cafeteria and will result in an energy saving because we are switching from incandescent lighting to fluorescent lighting," Dr. Baruchin said.

Because the 1980-81 school budget exceeded the cap, the board approved the transfer of $25,000 from the general reserve fund to the 1981-82 budget.

"The board expressed its displeasure with the fact that utility cost increases over which we have no control are not excluded from the cap," Baruchin said.

Board president, Gregory Clarke, voted against the budget because of the state cap and asked members of the state cap and asked members of the state cap to file an appeal to the state for a state cap waiver, which would allow that the "members of the board are not satisfied." The board, in its conference meeting Jan. 7, rejected a request to file an appeal.

"The concept of a cap is acceptable because this is a time for all government agencies to economize. What is unfair is certain costs over which we have limited control and are not excluded from the cap," Baruchin said.

"In the past 10 years, we have dropped several dozen teaching positions, including teaching, administrative and clerical," Baruchin said.

"Three teaching positions are being dropped this year by attrition and it may reflect in a savings of $20,000," he said.

Josephs selected as new library head

Cynthia Josephs, the Springfield Public Library's new director, views her role as no small task. She calls herself the "keeper of the keys to human knowledge and information."

"As director, I plan to go out to the community and spread the word of all the unique services the library offers to the public," she said.

"Being a librarian is a service and a pleasant way of dealing with the public," she added.

Josephs succeeds Helen Francis, who retired after 17 years as library director.

A graduate of Rutgers University in New Brunswick, Josephs isn't new to the Springfield Public Library. She worked in the reference section as a student intern and in 1973 she was appointed head of the children's library, where she served until 1978.

After two years as head of the adult services at the Library of the Chatham, Josephs was appointed director of the library in Springfield.

"The Springfield Library went through tough times in 1980 and I hope we can improve services to the public and increase our budget which has been approved by the Township Committee."

"We are going to plead our case and hope that the township will act in a positive manner on our budget requests," she explained.

"The 1980 budget was cut 18 percent and we had to let staff go, eliminate services and reduce the amount of books we could buy," she added.

"We hope to do a little better this year in obtaining the needed funds to run the library," she said.

"The function of the library is to provide well-rounded services to the community and we can't do that unless we have the money to provide those services," she said.

"I am free to meet with any organization or group to discuss the various services the library offers." She is available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"I am here as a representative of 184 families, who think completion of the highway will benefit Springfield by reducing the congestion on Route 78, which now operates at or near capacity, and will only take about 3 percent of the park," Bonadies said.

"The completion of the highway will only shorten a trip from the Holland Tunnel to Pennsylvania by 13 miles and it would increase truck traffic and do no benefit to Springfield," Kucharski said.

In other committee business, two new bus shelters will be constructed on the north and south sides of Mountain and Hillside avenues, Springfield. Pending for the project comes from the state Division of Transportation.

The Committee also accepted the resignation of L. Ralph Mercurio of the Springfield Police Department, who is retiring after 25 years on the force.

Opposition to I-78 stands by objections

An increase in noise levels, air pollution, crime, declining real estate values and a belief that the completion of 5.5 miles of Rt 78 from Springfield to Berkeley Heights will destroy the beauty of the Watchung Reservation are some of the objections against building the highway, according to Maria Foran, spokeswoman for Impact 78, a citizens group which has opposed construction for six years.

The Federal Highway Administration has approved the final environmental impact statement and construction is scheduled to begin in December on the six-lane highway which would eventually connect Newark and Pennsylvania.

"We are now contemplating legal action to stop the state from building the highway," she added.

The construction time, estimated by the State Department of Transportation officials, is four to five years, and in the meantime, the Springfield area will be subjected to increased noise and traffic from trucks which would be working on the highway, she said.

"The trucks will be using local roads and are noisy and if the Houaille Quarry in Springfield is used as a construction fill site, who is to say that the site might be used for illegal dumping," she noted.

Adaptation by the state of the quarry is necessary to obtain property rights which now belongs to Union County. The county owns the Watchung Reservation.

Another objection to the building of the highway through Springfield is that the plan for the highway come essentially close to Scrabble. It is an historical house built in the 1700s.

"It would be a crime to see that house endangered by this highway," she said.

The state has argued that completion of the link will relieve traffic congestion on local roads, reduce fuel consumption and cut down on air pollution.

OPINIONS — OURS, YOURS

A dangerous time

As evidenced by the actions of some area residents in the wake of the snow storms we have had to date, a reminder that winter is a dangerous time of the year seems to be in order. Drive on any road in the area and see how many drivers have failed to clear snow and ice from their windshields. How can they see?

Pick of the LPs—Tom Robinson's Set of 2 (1 R.S. Records SP 7013). Meet the Artist—Tom Robinson formed the Tom Robinson Band in early 1977. By mid-summer that year, he had built up a solid and near-faithful following and played consistently in pubs and clubs around London. "Destined for superstardom" was the phrase one reviewer used to describe the TRB's appearance—at London's Lyceum Ballroom that year. Tom's bent toward explicit socio-political lyrics propelled him to the forefront of British music awareness, especially the volatile and controversial "Glad to Be Gay," which was voted Number One by London's Capital Radio listeners for several weeks running.

But by the time American awareness caught up with TRB, strains within the band and Tom's questioning of its and his direction led to TRB's dissolution. Based on a chance meeting in June 1979, Tom and Joe Bunt linked up and together they hit the club circuit to investigate the new explosion in modern music as perpetrated by Bananarams, Siel, Talking Heads and Gang of Four. Tom and Joe found themselves itching to be up on stage doing the same.

In building the band, the two realized their need for a drummer who was professional, accomplished, well versed in existing technique, and ready to move in new directions. They found all this and more in the person of Derek Quilton. Derek showed up for a demo session, and he was asked to join up on the spot.

Princeton, Penn lead Ivy

Six still unbeaten in town hoop action

Two weeks of basketball action have been completed in the town's three leagues, and six teams-two in each league-are still undefeated.

Pacing the Ivy League are Princeton and Penn, both 2-0, while Utah and Alabama are tops in the State League with 2-0 marks. And in the Small Fry League, the Raiders and the Bullets rolled to their second straight victories.

The second week of the Ivy League was a week in which only one game came down to the wire. The other three games were virtually decided at the half. As a result, Princeton and Pennsylvania remain unbeaten at 2-0 while Columbia, Harvard and Dartmouth are all tied at 1-1.

In the first game, Dartmouth, who opened up a 16-lead in the first, cruised by Yale, 47-36. Gregg Kahn scored a game high 19 points. Terrance Walker pulled down 11 rebounds while scoring 12, and Mike Fruchter contributed five points and five assists. Eric Kahn and Todd Galaviz added four and three points, respectively.

Yale, 0-2, was led by Barry Shiptovskiy and Anthony D'Alesio. Shiptovskiy contributed 12 points, while D'Alesio scored 10 points and had 11 rebounds. Chris Clemson hit for eight points. Tom Meixner and Gilon Rubanenko each added a foul shot, and Chuck Sata and Rich Francis each scored a basket.

Princeton took an early lead, never falling behind to defeat Columbia, 50-37. Pete Petino led all scorers by scoring 27 points. He also had 11 rebounds. Joel Greenberg hit for eight points, while Chris Petino added five points. Dirk Schobel, Anthony Boffa, and Nick Ruggieri rounded out the scoring with four, four and two points, respectively.

Columbia rallied in the fourth but their sport shot short. Joe Graziano tallied 14 points, mostly from the outside. Dan Kringer had 10 rebounds and 11 points. Anthony Graziano directed the offense and scored five points.

Harvard defeated Cornell, 39-37, in the closest game of the day. A shot at the buzzer of the third quarter by John Wieland brought Harvard within a point, 27-26. Allen Gross and Carlos Hernandez scored for Harvard. With an overtime game, Harvard kept it close from scoring again. For Harvard, Hernandez and Gross scored 19 and 10 points. Dan DiLama and Hal Zemel each scored two points. Jim Roberts, Jeff Ginnberg, and Jimmy Yee all played very well for the winners.

Cornell was led by Mike Graziano, who scored 23 points with 11 rebounds. John Laszari added nine points. Dan Simon and Tom Ellenberger each scored a basket.

Pennsylvania routed Brown, 47-30. Brown trailed 10-0 at the end of the first, but had four baskets in the second, 25-22. In the fourth quarter, Penn took control of the contest, outscoring Brown, 23-8, in that quarter. Penn's victory was led by Mitch Nemner with 20 points. Tom Meixner and Gilon Rubanenko each added a foul shot, and Chuck Sata and Rich Francis each scored a basket.

Varsity drops pair

Frosh matmen stun Panthers

By ROBERT A. BRUCKNER

It wasn't the varsity wrestling team that shook Dayton Regional last week. Instead, the freshman grabbed the spotlight, stopping powerful Roselle Park for the first time in Dayton history.

While the frosh were knocking down the Panther matmen, the varsity was also strong at the boards for the Bullets.

The varsity also had a tough time a few days later, dropping a close, 34-36 decision to Millburn.

But the big news was the freshman team's victory.

Frank Romano, the Bulldogs' freshman 100-pounder, got the locals on the scoreboard in the second match of the day, lying the mat at 6-4 with a quick pin.

Dayton, coached by Ed Tranchina, surged ahead when 115-pounder Vince

Casiano powered his opponent to the mat, giving the Bulldogs six more points. But in typical see-saw fashion, the Panthers came right back to tie the score.

That's when Brett Walsh, Tony Appella and Kevin Duffy took over. Walsh and Appella combined for 15 points with two pins and Duffy took a decision to give Dayton's freshman team the big victory.

Rick Iacono's varsity wasn't quite as fortunate. The Panthers captured the first six matches of the day, two by forfeit, to take a commanding lead in Springfield. But Mike Caricotto and Steve Salerni put plenty of points on the board with victories at 141 and 148, respectively.

Caricotto was very impressive in his 141 victory, dominating Parks' Tim Williams from the opening whistle. And Salerni stopped Mike Geoghan, 11-8.

Dayton went on a point drought again until the 188 class. Sophomore Mike Kuperstein was declared the winner via default, and heavyweight Anthony Castellani sent the home fans home with a smile, pinning his opponent in 2:50.

There was very little to smile about last Saturday when Millburn and Dayton arrived in Springfield, only to find a lack of heat in the gym.

So, both teams packed their bags and headed over to Millburn for what proved to be an exciting tussle.

On the mat, Dayton crushed Millburn, 28-16, but three forfeits, one of the Bulldogs' big problems throughout the 1-3 season, gave Millburn 10 easy points, and that proved to be part of the winning margin.

The Bulldogs forfeited away the 101 and 115 classes and Rob Sokol lost at 108 before 122-pounder Frank Col

SMOOTH-It's reverse layup time for Larry Walker, as Eric Saline (12) and Geoff Bradshaw (22) admire the play. The Bulldogs put everything together Monday evening, stopping Millburn, 67-65, on Walker's layup at the buzzer. (PhotoGraphics)

Wilson set a modern major league record for inside-the-park home runs as well as several switch hitting records. Called the up-coming master of hitting and base running, he

'Hot' Bulldogs roar

The Bulldogs are keeping everything very low-key, but they think they've gotten their hoop act together.

Following strong efforts in losses to Verona and Summit, Coach Ray Yancus' team went out and stunned Millburn, 67-65, on Larry Walker's layup at the buzzer.

"Everything seems to be falling into place," Yancus said. "I think we're starting to play much better now. We were in the Verona and Summit games until the end, and we played very well in beating Millburn."

Despite the good performance against Millburn, it did take some last

Minutemen: Six straight

The Springfield Minutemen basketball team stretched its winning streak to six with an explosive 87-62 victory over South Orange, despite a 50-point effort by South Orange's Jeff Kelly.

Springfield, 6-0, led all the way but was never ahead by more than seven in this six-game battle.

"This was a great game for us," said Minutemen coach Fred March. "It was a good team effort."

Leading the Minutemen were Mike Graziano with 22 points and Mitch Nemner and Carlos Hernandez with 15 points apiece.

Pete Petino and Dan Klomper followed with 14 rebounds and Petino grabbed 24 points the last time the two teams met, would either shoot, drive to the hoop or dash off down low to Reggie Scott, who scored 18 points.

Springfield did a good job off the boards, as Graziano pulled down 16 rebounds and Petino grabbed 10 more. Nemner recorded 13 assists.

Swimmers rise early to roar by Harrison

When the alarm clock rings around 4:30 a.m., Howard Cashmir usually drags himself out of bed rather hesitantly.

But once he travels over to the Boys and Girls Club in Union and sees his Dayton swim team ready to do their daily workout, the drowsiness usually disappears.

"Once the kids hit the water they usually wake up," Cashmir joked. "For me, a cup of coffee and the dedication of the kids really does it."

And it certainly has taken dedication for Dayton's swimmers to rise that early, practice from 6:15-7:30 every morning, and hustle back to Springfield.
