PREPARES FOR GUARD COMPETITION—Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Indoor Guard member Karen Huggins of Springfield prepares for the guard competition to be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at Dayton. The event will involve groups from New York and New Jersey. Tickets will be available at the door. Parents from the Bulldog Band are sponsoring the event.

Obstacles remain to principals' pact

Disagreement over salaries is one of the last obstacles holding up settlement of the 1981 contract for Springfield's four elementary school principals and one assistant principal, according to Robert Black, president of the Springfield Principals Association.

The association is the union representing the principals. "We hope to schedule a meeting next week with the members of the Springfield Board of Education to try to finalize a settlement," Black said. "I don't think we are so far apart we can't resolve our differences," Black said.

The principals and one assistant principal at Florence Gaudineer School have been working since September under a one-year contract that expired last June, according to Black.

How many years the contract will cover is another issue holding up a settlement, Black said.

"At this point, both sides have made proposals and we are hoping to resolve our differences in a amicable way," Black said.

"We are presently negotiating new contracts for the four principals and one assistant," Dr. Fred Baruchin, superintendent of schools, said.

According to Baruchin, salary is one of the issues holding up a settlement. "We are in the process of negotiating a contract with the board and are hopeful negotiations will end in the near future, and a more mutually satisfactory agreement will be reached," Black said.

Black said it was unlikely the principals would strike.

According to Black, the last time the association met with the board was in November.

"We are presently under contract with all school units except for the principals," Baruchin said.

Possible cuts in aid force delay in budget adoption

By DAVID KREWSON

With the possible loss of $988,443 in state minimum aid on their minds, members of the Union County Regional Board of Education decided at Tuesday's public hearing on the 1981-82 $18,899,847 school budget to postpone adoption until March 17.

The board is waiting until Wednesday when it will find out how other districts in the county are coping with the problem.

A meeting of the Union County School Boards Association is scheduled at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, to discuss what alternatives might be taken in the event the state legislature fails to restore $64 million in cuts from the Department of Education's portion of the state budget. In addition to the possible loss of the state aid, the district has lost $145,213 in vocational aid.

The board can include the state aid as part of its budget and hope the legislature will restore the cuts. The alternatives considered by the board include a possible cut in programs or a decrease in some teaching positions.

"The state legislature is now beset by the problem of either raising additional funds or reallocating available funds to permit school districts to receive minimum aid," Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools, said.

The budget represents an increase of 8.9 percent over the 1980-81 school year.

Because of an 8.8 percent increase in salaries for 281 teachers and staff in the four regional high schools, property taxpayers in the district will have to pay $1,506,970 more this year in local property taxes to raise the $14,808,371 needed to support the budget, according to Harold Burdge, board secretary.

The proposed school budget would raise the tax rate 15 points in Mountainside, 14½ in Kenilworth and 1 point in Springfield.

A home assessed at $50,000 would be taxed an additional $5 in Springfield, $72.50 in Kenilworth and $75 in Mountainside.

A resident at the meeting expressed concern over the difference in the tax rate between the three towns.

"Why should I be penalized for living in Mountainside while other towns are paying less," Max Zelman of Mountainside said.

"The board doesn't assess your home, the state does," Charles Vitale, board president, said.

Merachnik said enrollment in the district's four high schools will decline by 6.8 percent for the 1981-82 school year.

Next year he said, the enrollment will decline by 288 students.

"In accordance with the continued student decline, we have projected no new or additional staff and are planning a reduction of seven administrative staff positions," Merachnik said.

The board raised the energy portion of the budget by $112,000 to take into account increases in the cost of oil.

Vitale told the audience of approximately 100 persons that in spite of the problems, the budget is still a sound workable budget, and it has the support of the administrations of all four regional high schools.

Town officials study ways to open pool

Because of a possible amendment to Gov. Brendan T. Byrne's water rationing order, Springfield officials are proceeding with plans to open the municipal pool in June, according to Mayor William Cieri.

With the pool's closing for the summer a certainty last week because of the strict interpretation of Byrne's executive order 104, state drought officials are in the process of fine-tuning an additional set of guidelines governing municipal pools, according to Jim Staples, spokesman for the state drought coordinating committee.

"I think we are seeing a relaxation of the strict interpretation and meaning of the order," Cieri said.

Recommendations dealing with water for filling of municipal swimming pools are now being submitted to Paul Arbesman, deputy commissioner of the Department of Environmental Protection.

One of the guidelines considered, and a way around the order that would allow persons to have access to the pool, involves using all pool water as a source for firefighting, Staples said.

According to Cieri, some of the water for Springfield's 400,000-gallon pool could be bought.

"We would weigh the cost of purchasing the water against the loss of revenue from the pool's remaining closed all summer," Cieri said.

"I think there are ways of getting around the order and we have to look into these," Cieri said.

According to Staples, the executive order was meant to be amended. The township is proceeding with a $30,000 bond ordinance for capital improvements to the pool and the recreation area that surrounds it, according to Cieri.

Capital expenditures include, $2,200 to repair a leak in the pool; $10,000 to resurface and color code the basketball court; $20,000 to lay concrete at the snack bar area; $4,500 to build a new base for the bocce court; $3,000 for a ramp to accommodate the handicapped, and $600 to repair a fence.

Public hearing set on budget April 14

Springfield Township's 1981 budget will be introduced to the public Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

The state-mandated cap sets a five percent limit on budget increases, and in Springfield the allowed increase is $183,000 in 1981.

If the township stays within the cap, the projected 1981 budget would be approximately $4,900,000, according to George Amann, township auditor.

Voters in 1980 defeated a proposal that would have allowed the township to exceed the cap by $115,000, but would have raised the tax levy.

The 1980 budget totaled approximately $4.6 million, an increase of $300,000 over the 1979 budget.

Cieri said last week he didn't know whether Gov. Brendan T. Byrne would sign into law a bill that would allow municipalities to exclude fuel costs from the cap.

The public will get a chance to voice opinions on the budget at the April 14 committee meeting, according to Buehrer.

Buehrer said the public could prompt changes in the budget during the hearing, but it would be very difficult.

"We expect to adopt the budget on that night," Buehrer said.

In other business, Buehrer said the bid awarded last week to the Willford McDonnell Company of Clifton for the purchase of a riding grass cutting machine was the lowest bid accepted.

Township Committeeman Joseph Montanari told The Leader Feb. 24 there was a bid lower than McDonnell's, but it didn't have the equipment the committee wanted.

Based on the facts he had at the time, Montanari said this week, he thought the McDonnell bid was the lowest.

LEAVING THE TAX BOOKS BEHIND—Marie A. Smith, Springfield Township Tax Collector for 14 years and a familiar face to taxpayers, will retire March 30. Smith has been with the township for 21 years and said she is retiring to spend more time with her husband. (Photo by Roy Graves)

Town Hall veteran to retire March 30

By DAVID KREWSON

A familiar face to Springfield property taxpayers will be missing when Marie A. Smith, township tax collector, retires, March 30.

After 14 years as tax collector, seven years as tax clerk, court clerk and violations clerk, Smith has decided to call it quits to spend more time with her husband.

"I know the people in this town pretty well, and I think everyone calls me by my first name," Smith said.

Smith said she thought her first full-time job after her marriage and the birth of her two daughters would be only temporary. She never dreamed of staying so long.

Hired by the township in 1960 as township violations clerk, and tax clerk, Smith said she had to do about everything for the township.

"I had great training for the position, with Charles Huff, our tax collector for 26 years, teaching me the ropes," she added.

Rejecting a bid to run for tax collector in 1960, Smith remained as tax clerk until 1965, when she decided to seek election as tax collector.

"I ran against my boss and beat him in my first election," she said.

Winning re-election in 1969, Smith said she received more votes in Springfield than either member of the Springfield Township Committee, candidates for the governorship of New Jersey and candidates for the state Assembly.

In reflecting on the changes made in the tax collector's office during the 21 years she has worked there, Smith said, "We didn't have machines in 1960 to do our work for us, while today we have computers, receipt machines and calculators.

"We did everything by hand, and had no machines. We had to hand stamp all the tax bills," she said.

SPRINGFIELD PHARMACY - Free Del., 24-Hr. Film Processing, Hallmark Cards, Russell Shaver & Brian Conroy 302 Mountain Ave. 374-6500 ADV.

"Machines are a big improvement. You have to move along with the times," she added.

Once working 15-hour days, Smith said she is glad those days are over.

Commenting on the daily responsibilities of the two persons who work in the tax office, Smith said, "We share our work, and I am not an armchair clerk. I am a working tax collector."

"I always enjoyed my work. If I didn't, I wouldn't have stayed this long," she said.

"I think eventually the township will hire an additional person because of a heavier work load with the increased conversion of apartments to condominiums," she said.

Smith said she has held various extra responsibilities during her career.

"I was the custodian of school monies, which once was a requirement and paid only $600 more per year," she said.

"It was a lot of extra work that I really didn't have time for," she said.

Smith also was the township's deputy treasurer, which gave her the authority to sign township vouchers in the event of the treasurer's absence.

Smith is a member of the N. J. Tax Collector's Association and is secretary to Union County Board of Taxation.

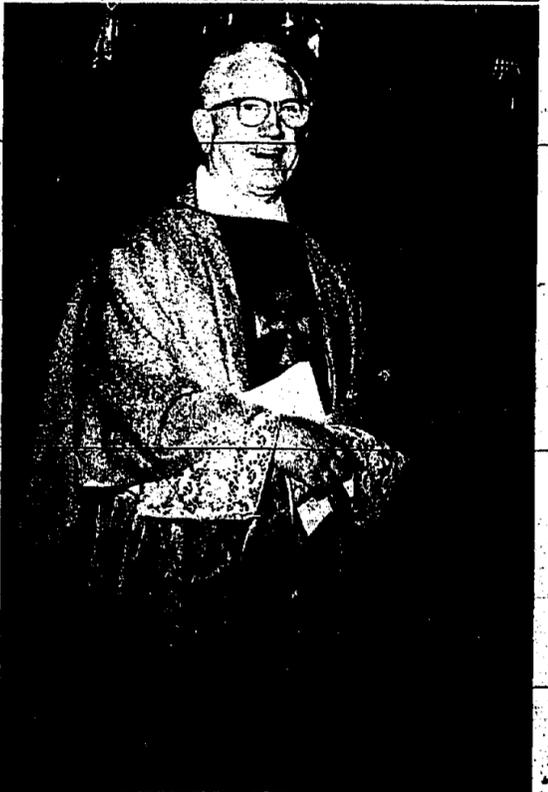

With her two daughters grown and living in Florida and Massachusetts, the 31-year resident hopes to spend more time with her husband and to remain in Springfield.

"Springfield is a good place to live and is in very desirable location, and with my husband still working, I wouldn't want to move anywhere else," she said.

Members needed

The Springfield First Aid Squad needs volunteer members to work during the day. Gloria Simpson, president, has announced.

Information is available from her at 376-0400 or Capt. Jaclyn Herzinger at 376-6560.

PASTOR'S LAST DAY—Monsignor Francis X. Coyte, pastor of St. James Church, Springfield, leaves the church as he retires officially Sunday after 17 years as pastor. Coyte was ordained in 1937 and has spent 43 years in service to the Springfield and at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Hoboken. Coyte will be honored at a dinner, March 21, at Thomas Restaurant, Newark. (Photo by Roy Graves)

Union police seek cause of fatal crash

At least four agencies were sifting evidence this week, following a tractor-trailer explosion which killed the driver, a resident of Springfield, and set off shock waves that damaged more than a dozen homes on Vauxhall Road near Route 78.

Union Police and Fire departments were probing the cause of the accident which took the life of William T. Rickey, 46, of Marlon Avenue, Springfield, on Monday night. A State Police sergeant was working with them, investigating the possibility that the vehicle went out of control while it was still on Route 78, before it came off the ramp onto Vauxhall Road, and Union Building Department officials were inspecting homes in the area for damage.

The tank truck, which earlier had been carrying 7,000 gallons of vinyl acetate inhibited, was empty when it exploded shortly after 8 p.m., according to Union Deputy Police Chief Michael Barry. He said Mr. Rickey had made his last drop in South Brunswick at 6:45 p.m.

Vinyl acetate inhibited is a clear, flammable liquid. Police said a spark from the crash may have ignited the fumes in the empty tank.

Barry said there are indications that the rig went out of control while it was still on the exit ramp from Route 78 to Vauxhall Road. It hit some signs and apparently bumped some curbs as it left the highway, he reported.

Funeral services for Mr. Rickey will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Madison

Memorial Home, Madison.

Mr. Rickey, a 15-year resident of Springfield, was born in Madison and lived there most of his life.

He was a tractor-trailer driver for the Heaton Chemical Company for 2½ years. Before that he worked as a driver for the Crown Oil Company, Chatham.

Surviving are his wife, Barbara; a daughter, Wendy A. Burd of Madison; two sons, Gary T. of Summit and Thomas A. of Springfield; his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Rickey of Morristown, and his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Campbell of Budd Lake, and a step-brother, Patrick A. Campbell of Rockaway.

Incumbents are unopposed

Springfield Board of Education members Elizabeth Simpson, Nancy Heller and Eileen Dahmen will run unopposed in school elections April 7.

The three incumbent members of the board were the only persons to turn in nominating petitions Feb. 26, the deadline for filing.

The three candidates will be seeking their second three-year terms on the board. Simpson, 24, was the youngest member in board history when she was sworn in in 1978. Heller, at 22, was the second-youngest board member in history when she took office.

Mall plans seminars as service to women

Women who have questions on their changing roles will find many of the answers during "Women's Week" at the Mall at Short Hills from Monday through Saturday, March 15.

Charles H. Breiboh, center manager for the mall, said "Women's Week" is one of the most ambitious programs that the mall has provided to date as a public service for shoppers and members surrounding the community.

The free seminars will be presented at the mall's Grand Court Center stage. Guest speakers will include authors, professional women and women in politics and entertainment.

Mayor Maureen Ogden of Millburn Short Hills will open the week long series of events for women on Monday at 10:30 a.m. when she talks about women in public life.

At 11 a.m., state Senator Wynona Lipman of New Jersey's 20th District will discuss "Women in Politics."

Sherry Henry, director of "Women in the '80's" for Ladies Home Journal and host of "The Sherry Henry Program" on radio station WOR, will present "Women in the '80's: an Overview" at 12 p.m.

At 1 p.m., Gerda Komnik, a member of The American Women's Economic Development Corporation, will offer advice on "Women Going Into Business." This program is the first of three evening programs designed specifically for the working women.

Monday's activities will conclude with a gala advance opening of the Junior League of Montclair-Newark's "Group plans discussion."

Wilfred Sheed's novel "The Hack" will be considered at the monthly book discussion at the Springfield Public Library, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

A satirical novel published in 1963, the book deals with a writer of inspirational Catholic stories and officers who suddenly loses his inspiration and faces doubt about his talent and his faith. Iris Goodman of Springfield, a member of the discussion group, will lead the meeting.

The meeting is open to the public and there is no charge for admission. Registration is not required.

"Paperback copies of the novel are available at the library reference desk." "Catholics and Missionaries," by Mary McCarthy, will be discussed at the April 7 meeting.

Human relations program set

Michelle Stierchio of Springfield has completed training to become a certified coordinator of a human relations program titled Adventures in Attitudes, which begins April 5.

Adventures in Attitudes is a 30-hour seminar that can be conducted with virtually any size group and for people from any walk of life. The delivery system utilizes small group discussion and focuses on such areas as listening and communication skills, attitude awareness, self-confidence, building goal setting, time management and leadership development.

The seminar is based on 20 years of research in business and education and the participation of thousands of people in 15 countries and seven languages. It is used by hundreds of school systems, universities, hospitals, social agencies and large corporations.

Michelle possesses bachelor of arts degrees in English and psychology. She also has completed graduate work in psychology at Columbia University, New York City. Her employment experience has been primarily in the areas of marketing and personnel, including individual and group counseling and employee relations.

Further information on the program is available from Stierchio at 379-1544 weekends and after 5 p.m. weekdays.

New program to aid Russian immigrants

A major effort is now under way to create a pilot program to help Russian immigrants settling in Irvington and nearby communities. The program is spearheaded by Dr. Alfred Kraessel of Seton Hall University and Springfield resident Daniel Peabody-Smith of the Peabody Foundation for the Humanities.

Kraessel, professor of macroeconomics and a frequent lecturer at Princeton University, first became involved in helping Russian immigrants while aiding Zina Neveleva, a young Soviet dissident, music critic and pianist, to relocate in Irvington, Smith, was first made aware of the initial problems facing immigrants, due to language barriers, by Irvingtonian Jack Levine.

The program will help Russian immigrants from their initial arrival in the United States until they are productively employed. Various phases of the program will include an orientation overview of the American cultural value system, familiarization with their new constitutional rights, the English language and general aptitude and employment placement services.

With the eventual goal of aligning a coalition of "self-help" minorities, the pilot program will be headquartered at 1305 Clinton Ave., Irvington. Neveleva will act as coordinator and Russian interpreter.

Neveleva's father, Yakov, a former associate of author Alexander Solzhenitsyn of "Gulag Archipelago" fame is hoping to rejoin his family here in the United States.

Russian trade shows and cultural exhibits with guest speakers will also be arranged through the program. Russian cable radio and television stations are in the planning stages.

Kraessel and Smith concur that the Russian immigrants have trouble being assimilated here because of their fear of rejection based on a general lack of information caused by "Cultural shock" and language barriers. The joint venture has also led to the establishment of the Peabody Institute for Economic Recovery.

Tony Martin of Irvington will serve as media consultant and public relations liaison. Community cooperation and participation is sought to make the program "a great success."

For further information, contact Neveleva Monday to Friday at 373-0333 from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Rev. James Roberts to be guest speaker

The report also says that the average family's savings were $1,000 in 1980, up from $800 in 1979.

Governor answers questions on water

By Governor Brendan Byrne
 Q. In my most recent water bill, a surcharge has been added. I called the water company and was told that the charge was made because of the drought. Is the water company correct?
 A. If you used more than 50 gallons per day per person in your household, your water company is correct. Water use in your community is restricted by executive orders which declared a drought in 1979. In New Jersey, there are 20 other communities in New Jersey to be subject to mandatory water rationing. By executive order, I have directed water companies, including yours, to levy surcharges for customers using excessive amounts.
 Q. If I see someone violating the outdoor ban on water use, what can I report?
 A. You may report violations to your local police. If you are not satisfied with the local police's response, you should call the State Police. You should call the State Police if you see someone who is watering their lawn or who is watering their car. The State Police will issue a citation for a violation of the outdoor ban on water use. Check water meters regularly to avoid surcharge for overuse

Now that the state has imposed water rationing on central New Jersey, learning how to read your water meter can pay off, says Elizabethon Water Co., which is trying to help its customers avoid costly surcharges which already have dismayed homeowners in the north part of the state.

The state's mandate is simple: Each household is allocated 50 gallons per day for each resident. Households with only one resident are allocated 65 gallons per day.

To avoid surcharges, he suggests first determine your daily allotment by multiplying the number of persons in your house by 50; multiply that number by seven for your weekly allotment and by 30 to determine your quarterly allotment. Now you are ready to start comparing your actual water consumption to your allotment.

Because water meters vary in design and operation, the accompanying chart explains how to read your meter. Note that most meters measure consumption in cubic feet. To convert the figure into gallons, just multiply the difference between successive meter readings by 7.5.

For example, a family of four would have an allotment of 200 gallons a day, 1,400 gallons a week. If their meter read 67,236 cubic feet seven days ago and 67,238 cubic feet now, their consumption of water would be 182 cubic feet or (after multiplying by 7.5) 1,365 gallons.

Bear in mind, Moore warned, that the state is requiring Elizabethon to monitor each customer's use of water. Customers will be charged at the rate of $5 per 100 cubic feet or portion thereof for the first 300 cubic feet (2,250 gallons) or portion thereof of excess usage; for the next 100 or more cubic feet (750 gallons) or portion thereof of excess usage, the charge for excess will be $10 per 100 cubic feet.

"You can readily see," Moore said, "how excess charges can mount up quickly. That's why it is so important for our customers to keep checking their water use."

In effect, the customers of Elizabethon Water Co. are being ordered by the state to minimize water use so as to make more of our supplies available to areas desperately in need of help. We're doing everything we can to comply and we urge our customers to do the same.

The surcharges mandated by the state will be held in escrow for use later by the governor's Water Emergency Task Force.

Prof. Robert A. Diab of the Seton Hall School will discuss the status of the County Bar Association's dinner meeting Wednesday at the Holiday Inn, Route 22 West, Springfield.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Grace N. Diab, executive secretary of the association, at 527-8768. Tickets are $17 for reservations made before Saturday, $19 after that; the bar will open at 7 p.m. with dinner at 7.

This project is funded pursuant to a grant under the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act (P.L. 95-602), as administered by the New Jersey Division of Mental Retardation under policies promulgated by the New Jersey Developmental Disabilities Council, he said.

The United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County will offer a weekend Respite Care Program to serve developmentally disabled infants, children and adults each weekend starting tomorrow.

The program will give parents an opportunity to take time off from the difficult task of meeting the needs of their exceptional children and will enhance independent living skills of handicapped children and adults.

The Respite Care Program will be open to developmentally disabled individuals of all ages. There will be a moderate fee charged for the weekend; a sliding scale will be used.

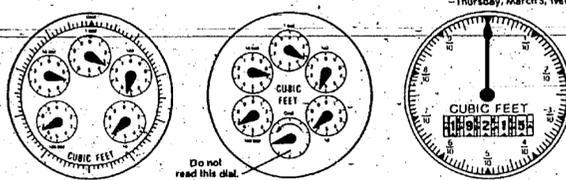

This program will be staffed by individuals with experience and training in fields relating to rehabilitation of the handicapped. All staff for this program have successfully completed a special training workshop that was developed by the United Cerebral Palsy League of Union County and the Institute for Human Services, a university-affiliated facility at Keon College, Union. The workshop took place during January.

featuring Keon College faculty as well as staff members and therapists from United Cerebral Palsy, United Cerebral Palsy is located at 373 Clermont Terrace, Union. Further information about the Respite Care Program is available from Bruce Ellinger, executive director, at 354-5800.

This five-dial meter reads 67,346 cubic feet. This six-dial meter reads 67,346 cubic feet. This straight-dial meter reads 19215.

Here is a simple chart for keeping a record of water use.

Reading Date	Current Reading	(less)	Previous Reading	(equal)	Cubic Feet Consumed	(x 7.5 =)	Gallons Consumed

READING YOUR WATER METER—Here is the way to read the three types of water meters: On five- or six-dial meters, read the dial marked 100 cubic feet first and proceed clockwise to the other dials; read the meter to the nearest 1/10 cubic feet. Almost all meters register water consumption in cubic feet—not gallons; to convert the cubic foot reading to gallons multiply by 7.5. For example, if your meter read 47,346 cubic feet a week ago and 47,524 cubic feet now, your consumption of water is 178 cubic feet times 7.5 or 1,335 gallons.

Medicare coverage includes home care

Although home health care has been covered by Medicare since the health insurance program began 15 years ago, it is often overlooked by those evaluating their health care options, according to John H. McCutcheon, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth.

Home health care was developed as an alternative to inpatient care in a hospital or skilled nursing facility. This coverage is for the person who does not need full-time inpatient care, but does have an illness or injury which keeps them from leaving home, McCutcheon said.

Those who need part-time skilled health services in their home can receive them from a home health agency, a public or private organization specializing in providing skilled nursing services and other health care services to patients in their own homes.

When eligibility conditions are met, home health care can be covered under both hospital insurance and medical insurance. Hospital insurance can pay for up to 100 visits in a benefit period; medical insurance can pay for up to 100 visits during a calendar year.

When home health care is covered, Medicare can pay for Part-time skilled nursing services, physical therapy and speech therapy. If one of these services is required, Medicare can also pay for part-time services of an occupational therapist, home health aide, or medical social worker as well as for medical appliances furnished by the agency.

More information about home health care under Medicare is available from the Social Security office at 342-2600, Ext. 206 or 238.

Insurance class set

A non-credit course to explain to consumers what their insurance policies cover will be offered by Union College's Division of Continuing Education starting tonight.

The course will meet for six Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m. at Cranford High School; question-and-answer periods will follow discussions of auto, homeowners, life and health insurance.

Although the emphasis will be on consumer problems, persons owning and managing businesses may participate.

Melvin R. Cohen, president of Gelland-Cohen Agency, Westfield, and a certified insurance counselor, will teach the course. Participants are asked to bring their insurance policies to provide a basis for discussion. Tuition is $10.

Information is available from Union College, 276-2600, Ext. 206 or 238.

UCVC offers workshop

A hands-on workshop of energy conservation techniques will be held Saturday, March 14 from 9 to noon at Baxel Hall, Union County Vocational Center, 1175 Barriton Road, Scotch Plains. The program is free to the public.

The workshop will demonstrate use of our resources and the numerous energy saving techniques that can be applied in the home and also in small businesses. These include operation of flame retention oil burners, electric spark ignition on gas equipment, the use of stack dampers, day-night set back thermostats and other devices. Frank Mal, heating, ventilating, air conditioning instructor, will conduct the workshop along with members of the HVAC Advisory Board.

According to Leslie Kiray, director of the vocational center, the program is sponsored by the Union County Environmental Health Advisory Board and is part of the Southern New Jersey continued public service effort. Two other workshops are scheduled for March 21 and April 4.

Interested citizens who desire further information may call the Environmental Health Advisory Board office, 300 North Ave., East, Westfield at 654-4489.

County establishing recycling hot line

Union County officials have announced that the county is expanding its efforts to promote recycling activities. In part, through establishing a recycling hot line. Thousands of tons of garbage are generated every day in Union County, and its disposal has created an increasing strain on local budgets as well as the landfills which currently bury the waste material. Jean Bahndorf, Environmental Resource Center Coordinator, noted that only a small fraction of this amount is currently recycled, largely through the efforts of volunteer groups.

Consumer Tips

By ADAMK LEVIN
Director, N.J. Division of Consumer Affairs

The effects of consumer fraud and related consumer problems are particularly severe when the victims are elderly. As the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) recently stated in a Fact Sheet for older Americans, "With a reduced income, the burden of fraud, deception, and failures of the marketplace to create and intolerable situation for the older consumer."

 EYE-CARE: In New Jersey you have the right to obtain a copy of your eyeglass prescription. This means you do not have to buy your eyeglasses from the practitioner who examines your eyes.

 PRESCRIPTION DRUGS: In New Jersey you have the right to have your prescriptions filled with less expensive generic drugs. In fact, your prescription must be filled with the less expensive generic drug unless your doctor specifically indicates that the pharmacist must dispense the brand name drug. Be sure to talk to your physician about generic drugs and whether this alternative would be appropriate in your case.

 BUSINESS INVESTMENTS: Elderly people who have saved for many years and who are looking for ways to supplement their incomes are particularly vulnerable to fraud and misrepresentation in franchise schemes and other business opportunities. The State Division of Consumer Affairs has investigated cases of this nature. The Federal Trade Commission has issued rules which spell out the disclosures which must be made by the promoters of such ventures.

 HOME IMPROVEMENT FRAUDS: The quick, high-pressure salesmen who use scare tactics about alleged dangerous conditions in a home is always looking for an elderly homebuyer. The Division of Consumer Affairs has a strict new home improvement regulation that can be of great value in curbing these abusive practices.

 FUNERALS: After the purchase of a home and car, the funeral of a spouse or loved one is estimated to be the third most costly purchase made by the average consumer. New Jersey has been a leader in regulating the funeral business to insure basic fairness to consumers. State rules require funeral directors to make specific disclosures of itemized funeral expenses and costs and to avoid practices in making funeral arrangements.

Senior citizens groups which want more information or speakers on consumer rights should contact the Division.

H&R BLOCK TAX TEST

Question No. 1

It is too late to claim a deduction or credit overlooked on a 1977 tax return.

True False

If you know about amending a tax return, you probably know the answer. If you don't, maybe you need H&R Block because H&R Block knows tax laws that you might not know. You can amend a tax return for overlooked deductions and credits up to three years after the filing deadline. So the answer to the question is FALSE.

WE'LL MAKE THE TAX LAWS WORK FOR YOU

ROSALIE MILLMAN
Mrs. Millman to be honored at temple ball

Rosalie Millman, who served as president of Temple Beth Ahim, Springfield, from 1976 to 1980, will be honored at the temple's 30th anniversary ball Sunday evening at the Short Hills Caterers.

Mrs. Millman, who was graduated from Bayonne High School and Rider College, where she received a bachelor's degree in commerce, moved to Springfield with her husband, Norton, 22 years ago. Their three children, Joel, Jon and Judy, were educated in the local school system.

The Millman family joined the temple in 1958, and Mrs. Millman served on nearly every standing and special committee. She participated in the activities of religious affairs, religious school, adult education, membership, building and grounds, ways and means, constitution and nominating committees and served as chairman for gifts and contributions for many years.

Mrs. Millman was elected to a three-year term as a temple trustee in 1967. She served as vice president from 1970 to 1972.

She also has served as a long-time member of B'nai B'rith Women, Hadassah and OET. She is a former member of the board of the Ruth Eckerd Goldberg Memorial for Cancer Research and continues to support the organization.

Seymour Sternbach and Madelyn Fuerstein, dinner dance chairmen, have announced that more than 350 people will attend the ball.

TERESA CIASULLI
Teresa Ciasulli to wed in fall

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ciasulli of Ravenswood, Mountaineer, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Teresa Josephine, to Frank Ricciuti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ricciuti of Scotch Plains.

The bride-elect, who was graduated from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, attends Kean College of New Jersey, Union.

Her fiancé, who was graduated from Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, attended Eastern Illinois University. He is self-employed at Arrow Lounge, Scotch Plains.

A September wedding is planned in the home of the bride's parents, the Ciasullis, with a reception at Snuffy's in Scotch Plains.

The Suburbanites of Short Hills, Millburn, Springfield, Maplewood and Summit have announced their spring and summer plans.

A luncheon will be held March 18 at the new Holiday Inn, Rt. 22 West, Springfield. Mrs. Peter Metropolis of Florham Park will lecture on "Gowns of the First Ladies." Tickets for the Broadway hit musical, "42nd Street," will be on sale. The group will have luncheon at the Spindletop Restaurant in New York City on May 20, and will attend a performance of the show.

Ann Clark, vice president, will conduct a tour to the United Nations and to the New York Stock Exchange on April 8. Mrs. Clark will be hostess at a tea on May 15 for new members and their spouses. Members for 25 years or more will be honored.

World Day is scheduled in Presbyterian Church

The Church Women of Springfield will join with church women from 150 countries to celebrate the World Day of Prayer at services tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield. The church will serve as host to the women of the Antioch Baptist Church, Emmanuel United Methodist Church, Holy Cross Lutheran Church and St. James Roman Catholic Church, all Springfield. The Rev. James Roberts, pastor of the United Methodist Church, Union, will be special speaker. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Evans, in announcing the arrangements for the annual service, reported that the theme this year will be "The Earth Is the Lord's," developed by the American Indian Women from the six Indian tribes: Cherokee, Chickasaw, Hopi, Seneca, Sioux and Winnebago. It is "designed to focus attention on the need for ecological awareness and action to restore health to our world."

The service will have four main parts: "The Sorrow of the Earth," "The Healing of Earth's Wounds," "The Offering of Gifts and Substance" and "The New Earth."

Individuals from the participating churches will lead in corporate prayer "utilizing the imaginative customs and procedures of these early Americans."

The service will be followed by an informal period of fellowship and refreshment. Organist will be Mrs. Elsie Brook of the Presbyterian Church.

She also has served as a long-time member of B'nai B'rith Women, Hadassah and OET. She is a former member of the board of the Ruth Eckerd Goldberg Memorial for Cancer Research and continues to support the organization.

Seymour Sternbach and Madelyn Fuerstein, dinner dance chairmen, have announced that more than 350 people will attend the ball.

Meetings are scheduled by Springfield women

Events for the month were planned recently at an executive board meeting of the Springfield Women's Club at the home of Mrs. Robert Hough. Mrs. Stanley Cornfield served as co-hostess and Mrs. Robert Rossoner presided.

The American home department will meet March 16 at 8 p.m. at Mrs. Cornfield's home, 27 North Derby Rd., Springfield, with Mrs. William Peacock as co-hostess. They will make St. Patrick's Day trays favors for Monte Schools under the direction of Mrs. Charles Miller.

The social services department will meet Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Arthur Moore, 30 Brook St., Springfield, with Mrs. Adam La Sola as co-hostess. Elise Dittel, chairman, has announced that the group will make plant hangers for Greystone Hospital.

Mrs. Peacock, chairman, has announced that her international affairs department will meet Thursday, March 19, at 8 p.m. at the home of Catherine Sless, 77 Linden Ave., Springfield, with Mrs. Elmer Sitt as co-hostess. The program will feature a group discussion on Irish culture.

Members are planning to submit entries to the Creative Arts and Music Festival of the seventh district of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs scheduled Tuesday, March 16, at the Woman's Club of Upper Montclair. Prizes will be awarded for art work, needlework and flower arranging. Music departments from clubs in the district will entertain. It was announced that members of the Springfield club have won awards in the past.

Mrs. Lee Andrews, creative arts chairman, will announce her meeting time at a later date.

Jean Schoenwalter to speak March 16
Jean Schoenwalter, painter, sculptor and printmaker, will be guest speaker at the Westfield Hadassah's pre-art show March 16 at noon in Temple Emanuel, 755 East Broad St., Westfield. Mrs. Schoenwalter, whose work has been shown internationally, taught life painting at the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts. She has won many awards, and she is listed in "Who's Who in American Art," "Who's Who of American Women" and the Institute of Contemporary Arts Library of London, England.

Hadassah sets 'Meir' evening

The Springfield Chapter of Hadassah will hold an evening of "Golda Meir" Wednesday at 7 p.m. at L'Affaire Restaurant, Mountaineer, to raise funds for heart and cancer research for Hadassah hospitals in Israel.

Alice Golembow of Westfield, actress and great-niece of Golda Meir, will present intimate glimpses of her recollections of her aunt while Mrs. Meir was prime minister of Israel. Miss Golembow lived with her for four years and explained that "I was married in Israel, and my wedding was a first for Israel; both government parties were represented, Golda and Menachem Begin."

Estelle Berger (379-9413) is in charge of reservations; Pearl Kaplan, tickets, and Dorothea Schwartz and Edith Callen, co-chairmen. Evelyn Spitholtz is president.

Satellites plan theater party

The Ma'ayan Gila Satellite group of Springfield Hadassah will hold a luncheon-theater party Wednesday, March 25, at the Club Bess, South Amboy. The benefit will raise funds for Hadassah's youth activities program.

The package will include transportation, luncheon and attending a performance of "Fiddlers' Green."

Proceeds will be used to support and strengthen the Young Judaea clubs in Springfield. Hadassah is the sole supporter of the Young Judaea movement in this country. The youth clubs meet on a regular basis in Congregation Israel, Springfield.

All friends of Hadassah and Young Judaea are invited to attend. Additional information and reservations can be obtained by calling Barbara Fried, program chairman, at 576-3350 or Gloria Brand, youth activities chairman, at 467-8170.

Past leaders are honored

The National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW), Greater Westfield Section, honored past presidents at a recent meeting.

Among them was Jan Elly of Mountaineer, who was president from 1961 to 1962. During her presidency, the "Once Upon A Time Players" was created. The theatrical group presented plays to children in hospitals, schools and at libraries for the next 14 years.

Alice Saltz of Mountaineer, another honoree, who was president from 1962 to 1963, led the group in sending 23 tricycles to under-privileged children in Israel for their Ship-A-Box service.

Arts Institute in summer set by state group

The New Jersey State Council on the Arts is accepting applications from high school students to participate in the Summer Arts Institute, a pilot project of the NJSCA, scheduled July 5 through 8 at the Douglass Campus of Rutgers University, New Brunswick. The institute will accept 120 to 130 "highly motivated students in grades 10 and 11 from six central New Jersey counties: Union, Hunterdon, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth and Somerset." Future plans include the expansion of the institute to include all counties in the state. Students accepted for the pilot program will be provided with an intensive experience in dramatic arts, dance, movement, creative writing, visual arts and music by master artists and teachers. Students will live in dormitories on campus for the five-week period and will participate in such sports as tennis and swimming, as well as summer camp activities and other events. The concept is patterned after the Center for Creative Youth program at Wesleyan University, Middletown.

Disc & Data

Pick Of the LPs—"Difficult to Cure" by Rainbow (Polydor Records). The LP maintains the thunder-and-lightning guitar work of Ritchie Blackmore, which has come to characterize the Rainbow sound. Producer-hissed Roger Glover's production work on the album is full of surprises with snatches of classical music set amid a rich and dense backdrop of Blackmore's ringing solos and Don Airey's keyboard excursions. Adding a new, melodic touch to the Rainbow material is singer Joe Lynn Turner. Previously lead vocalist for Pandemonium, now replacing Graham Bonnet. Rainbow was born in 1975 when Ritchie Blackmore, who had backed up the legendary Led Zep and Jerry Lee Lewis, among others, decided to leave the fanatically successful Deep Purple because he had "grown bored with the expanding state of rock 'n' roll." The resulting album by Ritchie Blackmore's new group, Rainbow, managed to fuse classical elements with the improvisatory strength of Ritchie's hell-bent guitar playing.

EVENING OF CHINESE DANCE—The Chiang Ching Dance Company of New York City will perform Thursday, March 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the Eugene G. ANDREW P. CALENAS of Union has been promoted to senior investment officer and assistant secretary of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., Newark. A cum laude graduate of Rutgers University, he joined the company as an assistant mortgage supervisor four years later and then was promoted to investment officer and assistant secretary.

BREEZE CORP. of Union has reported net earnings of $1,588,709 or $2.18 a share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1980, compared to $2,606,619 or $3.38 a share (adjusted for a five percent stock dividend) in 1979. The 1979 figures included non-recurring extraordinary credit and other credits amounting to $1.36 a share.

NEW JERSEY MORTGAGE CO. of Elizabeth has reached a mortgage servicing volume of $1.7 billion as a result of its acquisition of the bulk of the mortgage servicing of Underwood Mortgage and Title Co. Consolidating its position as the prime independent mortgage banking company in New Jersey, the firm is among the top 35 mortgage banking companies in the country.

Approximately 12,000 new accounts, amounting to $400 million, were added in 1980. A year earlier, the 1979 figures included non-recurring extraordinary credit and other credits amounting to $1.36 a share.

LAWRENCE B. MONIZ of Union has been appointed an account supervisor for Richard Weiner Inc., a New York public relations agency. Moniz, who supervises an account group which includes companies in the publishing and printing fields, has served as an officer and director of the Public Relations Club of New York, twice winning its distinguished service award.

Industry tries to cut use
Early returns of the energy questionnaire sent to more than 14,000 industrial and business companies show that the state's business community has recognized the seriousness of the problem and is acting to curtail substantially the use of potable water.

Most respondents have designated their employees to the urgent need to save water both at home and at work. "Much of the water used by industry is not actually consumed but is used for cooling and similar processing functions. Some companies, Scott said, indicated water use reductions as high as 45 percent and even 70 percent. Many reported that they recognized the need for water conservation long before the current emergency began to develop last fall.

"One company, for example, indicated that it embarked upon a conservation program in 1977 which cut its use of provided water by 47 percent and that company has set a target for a 65 percent reduction by this spring," Scott said.

Lanid has 30-year financing

Lanid Corp. has secured a 12 1/2 percent, 30-year financing for the buyers of Tower Hill, the company's luxury townhome complex in the Jersey north shore area of Rumson, Fair Haven, Little Silver, Red Bank.

"We know this will be a welcome news for many households, which wanted the security of 30-year financing," stated Robert McNally, Lanid Corp. director of residential construction. "There is no comparable low-rate, fixed-term financing available in this area."

It is generally conceded there is also no comparably striking and valuable townhome offering in the area. Tower Hill, where two and three-bedroom Mediterranean-style residences are priced from $24,500.

The financing offer, in light of present mortgage conditions and the uncertainty of the future, residents can choose either "The Navesink River to the north or The Shrewsbury to the south. Several excellent golf courses are near, and Monmouth Park horse racing is within a 40-minute drive.

Formerly open sprawled, expansive estate, Tower Hill now is a R-30 zoning, providing that, by the way, an included, will comprise no more than 132 of these building complex. Colatruccio advances to regionals

Matmen place 6th in district tourney

By ROBERT A. BRUCKNEH
Frank Colatruccio has won an all-expenses paid, two-day trip to Union High this weekend, courtesy of last week's second place finish in the District 11 wrestling tournament in Millburn.

Colatruccio, a senior 122-pounder who has been wrestling very well lately, will be Dayton's only representative in Union, since only champions and runners-up advance to the regional tournaments.

The Bulldogs didn't manage any championships this past weekend, and either, as he whipped Summit's Jeff Schipani, in to a technical foul.

"That meant Colatruccio, a third place finisher last year, would have to wrestle Roselle Park's Mike Jachim, who also breezed through his early matches. Colatruccio also recalled that the 175 Jachim had defeated him twice this season.

"Past history didn't mean anything once the match began, because Colatruccio gave Jachim quite a battle for the 122-pound championship. In the end, Jachim squeaked away with a 4-3 victory.

"I thought Frank had a good chance at the championship," beamed Rick Iacono, the Dayton coach. "I was very pleased with the way he wrestled all weekend."

Colatruccio was just as happy with the efforts of 170-pounder Nino Parlevicchio and 141-pounder Mike Caricato. Parlevicchio pinned his first round opponent, Hillsdale's Mike Jachim, at 3:17 of their preliminary match. He then lost to Roselle Park's Mike Terry, in the consolation match.

Caricato romped past Roselle Park's Tim Williams, 11-0, in a first round match. The Bulldogs will probably be out in force tomorrow evening at 7 p.m. to lend Colatruccio some vocal support.

The tourney, at Union High, will continue on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 and that evening at 6:30 for the finals and consolationals.

Bulldog frosh trimmed in b-ball season finale
"In a cliff-hanger finish to a disappointing season, Dayton's freshman basketball team served notice that it is a force to be reckoned with in the future.

Up against a strong 113-61 Governor Livingston team, the Dayton frosh were clearly underdogs, coming in with a 3-17 record. The Bulldogs lost the game, 64-61, on a basket in the final seconds, but they treated their fans to a top outing and a glimpse of things to come.

From the opening buzzer, the team played smart and aggressive ball as Gary Schlager and Mike McNany hit from the outside time and again. Schlager, who had been coming on strong in the last three games, shot the eyes out of the basket, hitting eight out of 11 shots for 16 points in the first half. He finished with a team high of 23.

In the second half, the score seemed back and forth with only one to three point difference. Again, Dayton's Eric Wolf, picked up his fourth foul and left the game. His absence was compensated by three quick baskets by Chris Federico and the third quarter ended with Dayton leading, 46-45.

The crowd, sensing an upset in the making, cheered the underdogs on and the Bulldogs took a 47-46 lead in the fourth quarter. Eric Wolf replaced D'Ascoti and held the team together as Schlager and McNany continued to split on outside shots. Wolf, who had five minutes to go, McNany hit two quick jumpers and Schlager a running 15-footer as Dayton boosted its lead to eight points.

But Gov. Livingston held together, worked the ball inside, and at 3:04 the score stood at 58-51, with Dayton still leading. Another foul-shot by Wolf, an aggressive block and rebound by Chris Neerburn, and Wolf's short jumper gave the Bulldogs a "comfortable" 58-51 lead.

The Berkeley Hills frosh were not to be counted out. A series of baskets led to a 57-50 Bulldog lead with 1:21 to go. Again, nip and tuck, trading fouls, the teams stood at 61-59 with only a minute to go. A long pass downcourt boosted the largest lead to eight points. Coach Steve Peterson summed it all up.

"Yes, it's a shame we had to lose this way," he said. "But when you look back on this season, this shows just how far this team has come."

In the scoring column for the Bulldogs, Schlager was high man with 22, followed by McNany with 22, Federico with nine, D'Ascoti and Wolf with four apiece, and Danny Loon with one point.

Rout Middlesex behind Walker

Dayton closes on winning note

There were many frustrating and disappointing moments for Dayton this past season, but all that is past history. All the Bulldogs will remember is the one game winning streak, that capped off 17 of 20 shots from the foul line—a sizzling 85 percent—to break open a close game.

For most of the first 16 minutes, it was anybody's basketball game. Middlesex took an early lead, 14-12, after one quarter, and held that until 1:04 remained in the first quarter. Larry Aris, 8-25, and pounding Middlesex, 7-3, 6-9, made the delight of the home folks.

The Bulldogs were particularly impressive against Middlesex, but it took some hot shooting from the foul line to nail down the victory. Dayton, outscored 23-11 in field goals, connected on 17 of 20 shots from the foul line—a sizzling 85 percent—to break open a close game.

That was nothing compared to the fourth quarter action. The Bulldogs watched a seven-point fourth quarter lead shrink to just one, 68-67, with 2:19 remaining.

Walker hit a shot inside and Meixner added a pair of free throws to give the Bulldogs some breathing room and a three-point lead, 72-69, before Coach Ray Yanchus directed his team to go in to a slowdown.

That strategy worked perfectly, as Berliner controlled the basketball and scored five straight points before Saline iced matters with a pair of free throws.

Walker closed his Dayton career with a brilliant performance, hitting on 10 of 13 shots en route to 22 points, while Meixner added 20. Berliner scored 17, Saline had 16, and Tyrone Hayes recorded four points.

Nettes roll to 10-7 with 26-21 victory
Florham Park and again, picking up 21 re-Caldwell took advantage of the opening of the Springfield Nettes' foul shooting woes. Teitelbaum scored 16 work, handling the local crowd's bounces, while Stacy Frigerio played a strong defensive game and scored seven points.

Springfield reeled off 14 straight points in the second quarter to turn back Pingry. Teitelbaum led the way with 11 points, followed by Cameron with five points and Meixner with four. The four combined for 24 rebounds.

Meixner and Pingry over Pingry Teitelbaum also provided the one-two punch against Summit this evening at 7 p.m. and Cedar Grove at 10 a.m. on Saturday. Both 39-28 decision. Meixner games are at Gaudineer controlled the boards once school.

Superswitcher getting better.

Superswitcher may come and go, but the Bell System's highest Electronic Switching System (ESS) has proven itself a superswitcher, continues to get better.

Since its debut in Chicago in early 1976, the superswitcher has gone to work in 55 locations across the country—handling 30 percent of all long distance phone calls.

The superswitcher, compact integrated circuit memory devices operating four times faster than earlier memory equipment, were put to work in the system.

A digital echo suppressor was added to improve the quality of transmission over long distances, especially satellite circuit distance phone calls.

The superswitcher, actually a stored-program controlled electronic switch, was the first to switch telephone calls through the Bell System network in digital form. Its physical size of its memory was again reduced by four times in the previous size, this time by the use of more powerful integrated circuit technology. Also, the use of more powerful integrated circuit technology also reduced the size of the earlier system and cut maintenance costs by 50 percent.

Improvements by Bell Laboratories engineers have cut the system's requirements, energy needs and operating costs for many equipment frames by an additional one-half to three-quarters. Also, its maintenance and dialing capabilities have been improved through software innovations. For instance, a sophisticated extended memory called EXPLX (ESS Program Language) enables program changes to be made to the system more efficiently and accurately.

The system is designed to operate reliably with only a few spares in downtime during its service life of 20 to 30 years. And hardware and software packages called generies are issued yearly to give the system new features as well as make it more economical.

The first generie added to the system in 1979, the Channel Interference Protection (CIP) which passes call-handling information to the system's high-speed lines instead of using the network's voice channels. General Telephone and the National Guardian Telephone two systems, and the nationwide introduction of this feature is speeding up the connection time for long distance calls.

ESS is now marketing new superswitcher overseas.

Arts Center plans '81 heritage festival

New Jersey Heritage Festival groups last year celebrated 250 years to the Garden State Cultural Center Fund, which provides free programs for citizens, disabled veterans and the blind, it was reported by William P. Smith, chairman of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which oversees the Garden State Arts Center.

Smith—pointing out that the Heritage Festival in 1979 had contributed $5,463.41—noted that the festivals salute the ethnic backgrounds of the individual groups and raise funds for the Garden State Cultural Center Fund, which has an annual budget in excess of $800,000.

About 40,000 persons attended the festivals and total income of $273,484.76 was reported against expenses of $200,508.33.

The 1981 festival dates were announced by Smith: Italian, Saturday, June 6 and Sunday, June 7; Ukrainian, Saturday, June 13; Polish, Sunday, June 14; Irish, Sunday, June 21; African American, Saturday, Sept. 19; Jewish, Sunday, Sept. 27.
