By Adam K. Levin, Director, N.J. Division of Consumer Affairs

The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs recently published a list of trade and professional associations which have set up consumer complaint-handling programs. The list spans the range from bill collectors to magazine publishers. While it is clear that the level of service and the degree of effectiveness varies among the various programs, these private trade groups do represent one more avenue of redress if you are seeking all possible solutions to a consumer problem.

The consumer complaint-handling programs of private trade associations can be helpful in resolving certain kinds of consumer complaints, but they are not substitutes for government consumer protection offices. The most important reason for this is the fact that private trade groups do not have law enforcement powers. A recalcitrant business with a history of many consumer complaints may simply choose to ignore the peer pressure of a trade group.

Consumers also should realize that trade associations are, of course, representatives of businesses and seek first to protect their members' interests. While some private consumer-complaint-handling programs are intentionally stacked against consumers, the viewpoints of consumers, however, may not always be received with the utmost sympathy.

With these caveats, here is the list of some trade and professional associations with consumer complaint programs:

- American Collectors Association, 440 W. 70th St., P.O. Box 38106, Minneapolis, MN 55458, (612) 928-6547. (Complaints concerning member firms-professional bill collectors.)
- American Hotel & Motel Association, 888 Seventh Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10019, (212) 252-4526. (Hotels and motels.)
- American Movers Conference, 1117 N. 19th St., Suite 806, Arlington, VA 22209, (800) 335-3094. (Household movers.)
- American Society of Travel Agents, Inc., 711 Fifth Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022, (212) 486-0700. (Informally mediates complaints concerning travel-related problems. Limited information about travel firms worldwide.)
- Direct Mail Marketing Association, 6 E. 43rd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10017, (212) 685-4977. (Mail Order Action Line informally mediates complaints about mail order firms.)
- Direct Selling Association, 1730 M St., N.W., Suite 610, Wash. D.C. 20036, (202) 293-5760. (Complaints about door-to-door sales and party plans in the home.)
- Electronic Industries Association, 2001 Eye St., N.W., 2nd floor, Wash., D.C. 20006, (202) 457-4900. (Complaints about televisions, radios, stereo equipment, video systems, home computers and other home electronic entertainment equipment.)
- Picture Marketing Association, 2000 Picture Place, Jackson, MI 49201, (517) 783-8100. (Informally mediates complaints about retail camera stores and photo-finishing companies.)
- Publishing Clearinghouse-282, Channel Drive, Port Washington, N.Y. 11050, (800) 652-9242. (Sponsors Magazine Action Line which informally mediates complaints about magazine subscriptions. If the dispute involves a non-member company, it will send the consumer a list of magazines from which to choose a substitute subscription.)
- National Home Study Council, 1601 14th St., N.W., Wash., DC 20007, (202) 234-5100. (Investigates complaints against correspondence schools that it has granted accreditation. The Council will accept only written complaints.)

THANKS EXPRESSED

We wish to express to the entire Township of Springfield our most sincere thanks for the sympathy and friendship extended to us upon the loss of our beloved daughter and sister, Lisa.

We would also like to share with all our friends a beautiful poem written in Lisa's memory by Henry Sobin who was her dancing school teacher and friend for many years.

Bright little butterfly
Bright little butterfly
dancing aloft
Seeming brave, yet ever so soft

Each pretty flower catches your eye
You pause a moment, then quickly go by
Please little butterfly, why won't you land
I'll hold and protect you safe in my hand

But all little butterflies
yearn to be free
Their lives are so brief, yet lovely to see
So fly little butterfly, fly
in the sky

Bright little butterflies
simply can't die

Changes, changes

By BOB BAXTER

I really hate it when things change. I always feel silly when someone has a party and the guests jump up yelling surprise.

I don't feel comfortable with things that change or anything made or coming out with improved models and new models of products, adding the worse bigger than the item you use already. How can a new improvement over the product that you were eating, wearing or driving for years be changed? After all, the reason you bought it was the advertisement you saw in the first place. They told you how good your taste was in buying something like a new car, clothing or a special food product or many of the snaps and detergent you bought through heavy advertisements.

Now they come around with a new label, we, the public, are supposed to say great, run out and stock up on whatever it is.

I see this happening a lot lately. For years a big national soap company put out a good powdered form to use for washing the family laundry or to make a party and the guests jump up yelling surprise.

Just when the product became a part of the family, the box sports a label announcing that your laundry or your dishes will look five times better with the "new improved" soap powder. I always thought that my dishes were clean enough before the new label on the box said they were not. It kind of makes one feel that the soap you used before was of poor quality, and that all the years you faithfully stuck to the good old unimproved version were really bad.

Just look at the auto market. Every September they come out with a new style that automatically makes the one you are still making payment on another year older, and therefore, not as good as the new model. Sure they want to sell you a new car. So for the balance of the year your car is two years older.

Almost all things undergo changes.

some come so slowly you hardly notice the change.

Speaking of change, have you seen the Susan B. Anthony Dollar? People are just not happy with the hexagon shape, they feel funny in your pocket. They have received a reception as cold as the one that greeted the reintroduction of the paper $2 bill. Everyone is positive that they used a $2 bill for a $1 bill.

What we should do is what some foreign countries have been doing for years, make each denomination a different color. This would work out fairly well, unless you are color blind.

Maybe we should just call a moratorium on changing anything. At least we can avoid a lot of confusion. If they would only ban the exact piece, and stop those silly sales of $19.99. The stores just hate to say an item costs 20 bucks.

As far as I'm concerned, the only thing that should change is a woman's birthday. How come they're stuck at 38 while we males just keep rolling along?

The State We're In Know Your Government

North Jersey Conservation Foundation

It's old news now that a new administration in Washington has taken extreme measures to stay the skyrocketing costs of government by brutal amputations of federal spending across a very wide spectrum. Not excluded from this scorching are the various federal outlays which we in the various states have come to anticipate as the foundations of numerous beneficial activities.

Here in the state we're in, as well as elsewhere, the big news seems to have resulted in far less public and official reaction than one would expect. Maybe the enormity of the federal cuts and their resulting impacts on millions of lives has failed to sink in, or perhaps it's too big a dose to swallow all at once.

Let's explore briefly what some of the cuts mean for New Jersey and its people. We may wind up raising some questions about where the savings are and whether, in truth, they won't cost a whole lot more than they save.

Remember how everybody was gladened not long ago to have Congress and the President approve Superfund, an emergency appropriation for critically needed cleanups to toxic chemical dumps and spills, which otherwise would continue to poison us and our descendants? Well otherwise appears to be with us, because Superfund is frozen as far as I can learn.

For New Jersey that item alone means that its anticipated $50-million share of Superfund won't get spent cleaning up toxic messes, which are polluting our water supplies. That much money would only have addressed a few of the biggest of some 300 toxic waste situations about which we've learned. Presumably there are a lot more out there waiting to be found, or still happening in the dark of night.

How do you measure saving $50 million against the untold costs to be borne by coming generations because of increased cancers, which these toxics will be left to cause? How much is suffering worth? How much is a grandchild worth?

Without leaving the area of water quality and supply, we find that federal grants towards region-wide potable water supply planning are dead, and

From the New Jersey Taxpayers Association

The governor's proposed fiscal 1982 New Jersey state budget recommends appropriations from the Property Tax Relief Fund totaling $1.263 billion, an increase of more than $100 million or nearly 17 percent over appropriations in the current fiscal year ending June 30. Because of the projected increase in personal income tax revenue, a large proportion of education aid funding has been shifted to the Property Tax Relief Fund from the General Fund.

Since its enactment in 1976, the personal income tax has not produced sufficient revenues to fully finance all the programs originally intended for it, particularly education aid. In the previous three budgets, various parts of the education aid formula have been modified. For next year the Governor proposed to eliminate "minimum aid" which would have cost $64 million compared with $57 million this year. In fiscal 1982, the entire education aid increase of $100 million had to be absorbed by the General Fund. In fiscal 1981, the General Fund school aid total $911 million, a decrease of $10 million, and $945 million in aid from the Property Tax Relief Fund, an increase of $24 million. The net increase in total school aid is over $137 million. General Fund school aid is reduced almost to its fiscal 1976 pre-income tax level.

The personal income tax is a more progressive tax than any of the General Fund tax sources. Although it has only two rate levels, 2 percent up to $20,000 and 2.5 percent over 20,000, it has averaged nearly 14 percent annual growth from 1977 through 1980. For fiscal 1981, the growth is estimated at 12 percent and for fiscal 1982, the income tax is expected to yield $1,220 million, an increase of more than 13 percent. In comparison, projected General Fund major tax revenues of $3.6 billion represent an increase of only 5 percent in fiscal 1982.

Municipal revenue sharing ($50 million) and reimbursement of senior citizens' and veterans' property tax deductions ($50 million) remain at approximately the same level of funding in fiscal 1982. On the other hand, the entire cost of senior citizen and disabled regular homestead rebates ($83 million) has been transferred to the Casino Revenue Fund, another rapidly growing revenue source. Thus regular homestead rebates paid from the Property Tax Relief Fund to $205 million in fiscal 1982. There is no appropriation proposed in the Governor's budget for replacement of repealed business taxes, funded partially in fiscal 1978.

In his annual message earlier this year, the governor recommended that the legislature begin the debate on whether income tax revenues should be increased through a more progressive rate structure in order to fund additional property tax relief. As local property taxes continue to accelerate due to inflation and cuts in state and federal aid, legislators may find it necessary to address this politically unpopular issue, suggests INTA.

"Thank You, Mr. Doherty."

WESTFIELD TOWN REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE WESTFIELD, NEW JERSEY 07091 March 2, 1981 P.O. BOX 811

ALL DELEGATES Dear Fellow Delegates: It is with a deep sense of responsibility that I write to you today. On March 1 each of us will be privileged to cast our secret ballot for our individual choice for the Republican nomination for Governor of New Jersey.

It is with this strong feeling of responsibility to you, and with an even deeper feeling of responsibility to my own conscience, political reason and instinct that I most wholeheartedly and most sincerely recommend to each of you the candidacy for Governor, Joseph Bo Sullivan. He is a man of exceptional personal and attractive qualities who is the Sullivan family extremely secure and important attributes for any campaign, and financially secure. Not only is the Sullivan family extremely secure, but so that we need not fear the lure of money from special interest groups clouding his good judgment. Bo Sullivan has a unique qualification that especially impresses me. I have been involved in politics for a long time and an acutely aware of the "horse trading" that is involved in most campaigns. It is most refreshing to find and support a candidate who fits the "ideal" and not the "norm" of all our people.

Finally, one asset I find evident in Bo Sullivan is his ability to reach out to people who normally don't get involved in politics except to simply vote. I have the personal experience of seeing one such person, very close to me, actually volunteer to work in a campaign for this man! I must admit that this is the strongest evidence I can find of a certain "charisma" that so well for the Republican Party can continue its type of leadership and become the truly "Majority Party" in our resurgency and become the truly "Majority Party" in our resurgency.

I therefore, most sincerely and enthusiastically and cordially support and urge you to support the candidacy of Joseph Bo Sullivan as our candidate for Governor.

Sincerely Yours, Robert C. Doherty Chairman

There are ways to fill the pool

By Gov. BRENDAN BYRNE

It is not my order. If you normally drain your pool for maintenance, you should do so before the start of the season. Don't do it until you can wash without covering your pool. If it is possible to find other ways to fill residential pools.

A. By employing some special water treatment equipment, you can extend the life of your pool for another year. For pools already partially filled, I suggest that owners do the following to bring the levels up to specs:

Q. What is the best way to fill a pool? A. Executive Order 104 provides that the water added by washing establishments is clean and safe. The water added by washing establishments is clean and safe. The water added by washing establishments is clean and safe.

Bulldogs take 9-13 coaster ride

It was an emotional roller coaster ride for Dayton's Bulldogs, who swooped from peaks to valleys in an unpredictable 1980-81 basketball season.

When they were good, the Bulldogs were very, very good. As West Orange found out twice, Breakley learned in the consolation game of the Regional High School Holiday Tournament, and Arts and Middlesex sensed after late season thrashings.

"It was really an up and down situation for us," said Ray Vanchus, the Bulldogs' veteran coach. "There were a couple of games we could have won, and had we won the three games we lost by a total of four points, we would have ended up 13-10 instead of 9-13."

The Bulldogs never got a chance to get warmed up, playing their most difficult opponent, Clark's Johnson Regional, in the season opener. The Crusaders, who went on to win the Union County Tournament and post a 25-3 record, pounded the Bulldogs, 44-59.

Sports this week

Colatruccio satisfied with tourney effort

Lossing a wrestling tournament one such as in the regional tournament can be very demoralizing. But Frank Colatruccio was quite content with his performance in the elite tourney.

On the 125-pounder, he was disappointed that he didn't get past the opening round of the Region 1 championships last weekend in Union. And he did want a shot at a regional title and a spot in the state championships.

"But there are no regrets. If I had a chance to do it all over again, I'd do it," said Colatruccio, who was a 12.5 loser to 22.5 in the preliminary round.

"Wrestling in the regionals was a whole lot of fun and it will bring back wonderful memories.

"Those memories might have been even more pleasant had Colatruccio managed to slip past Massachusetts.

"I thought if I put a lot of pressure on him I could win him over," Colatruccio said. "He really wasn't much better than me. It really was a surprise that I lost."

Coach Rick Iacono was also surprised with the outcome.

"Frank was surely capable of winning the bout," the coach said. "Of course I'm a little disappointed. Frank should have won it."

Colatruccio, a senior, didn't make any grave errors. He was simply outwrestled by Massachusetts, who went on to lose in the tourney's second round.

"Everyone gets out-wrestled sometime," Iacono said. "One week you're king and the next week you're lucky to be walking on earth."

Colatruccio enjoyed his stay at the top, though it wasn't easy getting there. In his freshman year, he posted a 5-3 record and took first in the then-Governor Livingston Tournament.

He polished up his routine in his sophomore season, putting together a solid 12-2 record.

In his junior year, Colatruccio managed a 13-1 record and a third place finish in the district tourney.

A second place finish in the district, a spot in the regionals and a 14-2 capped off his Dayton wrestling career.

"Frank is a doer, not a watcher," praised one of his teammates. "He put in a lot of hard work in his four years and it paid off."

The story book finale would have been a regional championship, but that was not to be. Colatruccio's disappointment went further than individual accomplishments.

"I can't stop thinking about Coach Iacono," he said. "I know how he really wanted a championship team or at least a champion. I wanted to give him a championship, like he had back in 1979. I know how proud he would have been."

"I couldn't have had a chance to get this far without Mr. Iacono's coaching and true support," he continued. "He really thought I could do it. Sometimes even more than I did."

Colatruccio isn't quite sure about his wrestling future. At this time, he hasn't decided whether to continue with the sport.

He will wrestle over the summer, though. The freestyle season is beginning, and after a few weeks vacation, Colatruccio will start working out again.

In search of that elusive championship.

Nettes prep for playoffs with 4-game win streak

The Springfield Nettes ran their winning streak to four, defeating Clark, Belleville and Cedar Grove last week.

Kathy Meiner had her finest game of the season in a 37-31 victory over Clark. Despite being double-teamed throughout the game, Meiner hit for a career-high 30 points and pulled down 12 rebounds, to lead the Nettes in both categories.

Dawn Pohlman, directing the offense, scored seven points and dished off six assists, while Ellen Friedman came off the bench and gave the Nettes a big lift, scoring two points and grabbing five rebounds.

Rockets stunned by Celtics Playoff time in town basketball

By ROBERT STEIN

Three town basketball league champions will be crowned this evening when the Small Fry, Ivy and State leagues stage their championship games.

The action will get underway at 6 p.m. with the Small Fry finale. State League action will begin at 7:30 followed by the Ivy League title showdown.

Just prior to the start of the playoffs, regular season championships were decided, as the Rockets were crowned the big winners in the Small Fry League. Cornell nipped Harvard for Ivy League honors, and Utah and Alabama battled for the State League title.

Also honored were the league's high scorers. Mike Graziano breezed to that championship in the Ivy League with 310 points, while Carlos Hernandez finished a distant second with 230 points. In the State League, Mike Gallaro scored a total of 47 points to edge Joe Scheinman, 46, to John Lynch (44), Adam Miller (43) and Scott Lynch (41) and Gregg Walsh (40).

And in the Small Fry League, Spencer Panter earned high honors with 96 points, followed by Scott Scheinman (81), Barry Teitelbaum (79), Michael Peri (74), David Lissy (71) and Scott Leonard (68).

THE OLD CLICHE, "on any given day any team can beat any other team," was apparently true in the first round playoff games in the Small Fry League. Just ask the Rockets.

The Rockets, season champs with a perfect 9-0 record, lost to the Celtics, the last place team, by one point. In other games, the Jets defeated the Raiders, the Billekens eliminated the Lakers, and the Bullets beat the Pistons.

CELTICS 20, ROCKETS 19: Nick Cataldo scored the winning basket to give his team an upset victory over the Rockets. Cataldo scored a game-high 12 points—five—the Celtics, while Mike Zucker (four points) and Matt Gallaro and Chris Lalave (two points each) helped the winners. Spencer Panter scored 11 points in a losing cause for the Rockets.

JETS 18, RAIDERS 14: Scott Leonard scored eight of his ten points in the second quarter to lead his team from a 4-0 deficit to a 10-4 halftime lead. This four-point lead proved to be the difference as the two teams each scored eight points in the last half. Jim Detollo scored four points and Pete Carpenter and Tom Mikovic each scored a basket to aid the Jet win, while David Blum scored eight points for the Raiders.

BILLEKENS 25, LAKERS 10: Superior defense by the Billekens in the first and last quarters proved to be the difference in the game. The Billekens shut out the Lakers in these two quarters, while scoring 19 points themselves to win the game easily. Mike Peri scored 13 points and Josh Wasserman added eight more points to lead the Billekens to victory. Ten points and Joe Blanda contributed timely eight points. Pete Petino scored 17 points for the losers.

BULLETS 14, PISTONS 9: The Small Fry, Ivy and State leagues used teamwork to win this game as three players scored in double figures. Also, Yale controlled the boards and the efforts of Anthony D'Allesio (10 points) and Kathy Meiner (Rich Francis scored 14 points and Tom Meiner scored 10 points to lead the Yale attack).

CORNELL 33, PRINCETON 37: Mike Graziano and John Lusardi combined for 20 points in the fourth quarter to lead Cornell to victory. The game was decided after three periods at 28 but Graziano and his teammates put their game into high-gear, outscoring Princeton, 25-9, in the last quarter. Graziano scored 23 points, Lusardi scored 14 points and Joe Blanda contributed timely eight points. Pete Petino scored 17 points for the losers.

BROWN 47, DARTMOUTH 45: Brown just got by Dartmouth in overtime in by far the best game of the day. The game was very close, with Dartmouth taking the early lead, 15-8, and Brown, which displayed a baffling trip defense, coming back to take a two-point lead after three quarters. In the fourth quarter, Brown took a commanding lead, 45-41, with only two minutes left, but Dartmouth scored seven straight points to send the game into overtime. In overtime, Dartmouth took a one-point lead, but Brown scored the next four points to win the game. Brown was led by Dave Cole (16 points) and Jeff Pollack (11 points). Eric Kahn scored 18 points for Dartmouth.

Telesco added six points for the Lakers.

BULLETS 14, PISTONS 9: The Small Fry, Ivy and State leagues stage their championship games.

ALABAMA 23, FLORIDA 6: Sparking defense by Alabama held Florida to only one point in the third quarter. Meanwhile, because of their defense, they broke open a close game and turned it into a rout. Matt Lynch combined for 13 points to provide the offensive punch for the winners, and Terry Roberts and Mike Gallaro played good defense. Jason Weisholtz led his team with 20 points.
