Quarry sale probe asked by township

By PHILIP HARTMAN. An investigation by the state attorney general's office of possible improprieties in the sale of the Houdaille Quarry was requested last week in a resolution from the township Planning Board.

The approximately $5 million paid by the state Department of Transportation for acquisition of the land was probably "far in excess of the market value of the property," because it is zoned for one-family homes on half-acre lots, according to a letter from Bruce Pitman, Planning Board attorney. That acquisition price was the reason the board questioned whether there may have been some impropriety or illegality by someone applying for the state or otherwise involved in the sale.

Before the sale the board had tabled a petition from the owners of the property, Houdaille Construction Materials Inc., to rezone the site from residential to planned unit development. The board had the authority only to recommend the land be rezoned and informed DOT that rezoning would not be recommended, pending word on the sale. "We tabled the matter until we had definite word they (DOT) were going to acquire the property," Pitman said. The DOT informed the board in December of 1980 that they were going to buy the land and that the property was in the process of being formally appraised to determine its value. After that "we never heard from them again," Pitman said. The resolution explains newspaper articles at the time of the sale indicated that DOT had appraised the land under the impression that the rezoning had been approved to planned unit development.

Mall variance approval for Route 22 site sought

By PHILIP HARTMAN. Eleven years after Alexander's attempt to build a $35 million shopping mall in Springfield, embroiled the township in controversy, that department store chain, along with Macy's, has asked the Planning Board to hear the rezoning case for construction of a two-level mall on the same 51-acre site south of Route 22.

Broderick explained the company plans to "rework the highway" at its own expense—the major change being an expressway on Route 22 so westbound cars could get off and make a jog onto the site. Other changes include the widening of some access roads in the area and in Westfield and rerouting the flow of traffic.

Broderick also addressed the problem of competition for area merchants. He said because of the nature of the stores in the mall there would be "little problem" for small shops. "It might hurt people who sell dresses, (small) retail stores and maybe food."

Members of the Walton-Sandmeier PTA met in closed session last Thursday with Superintendent of Schools Dr. Fred Baruchin and Board of Education Secretary Leonard Broderick to discuss the PTA's decision to close the James Caldwell School.

PTAs silent after parley on Caldwell

Broderick explained an entrance and exit from and onto South Springfield Avenue will be provided from the western portion of the site. South Springfield will be widened to two full lanes from the mall up to Hillside Avenue.

The proposed mall will include two major stores of 200,000 square feet, owned by Macy's and Alexander's, and some smaller shops that will total 325,000 square feet. According to Broderick, that will make the mall about half the size of the Short Hills Mall, which is considered a regional shopping center.

Members of the Thelma L. Sandmeier Scholarship Fund have a major fund-raising effort under way. The fund, which was founded one year ago, is named after Dr. Thelma L. Sandmeier, educator and three teachers from the Florence M. Gaudineer School.

Girls Scouts and their families will take place at the senior citizens housing on Independence Way. Refreshments will be served immediately after the program.

Measure introduced to amend Planning Board application fee

An ordinance to amend the Planning Board fee ordinance was introduced Tuesday at the Township Committee meeting.

Under the amendment, an application fee to the Planning Board will cost $50 and is non-refundable. That cost is to cover administrative expenses. The amendment also adjusts fees for submitting subdivision and site plan reviews.

Fruits, vegetables are nutritional goldmine

By CLARE BARRETT

Nutritionists applaud the emphasis vegetarians place on the importance of fresh fruits and vegetables in the diet. In fact, few all could benefit from eating more fresh produce.

According to R.A. Seelig, nutrition consultant to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, "Fruits and vegetables are not just low in fats and calories; they are also large sources of essential nutrients. You can derive the recommended daily allowances for a good number of those nutrients from a diet adequate in fruits and vegetables."

For example, citrus, potatoes, red and green cabbage and broccoli are all excellent sources of vitamin C.

With over 70 different types of fresh fruits and vegetables available at the market at any one time of year, it's easy to bring variety, acquire yourself with some of the fresh produce that you've seen many times but never tried.

Not all of you may be planning to enlist in the vegetarian way of life, but you still might consider adding some vegetarian main dishes to your cooking repertoire. Not only will they contribute budget-stretching, healthful variety to your menu, but they also are fun to make.

POTATO ZUCCHINI FRITTERS
1 1/2 cups shredded pared, potato (about 1 large potato)
1 1/2 cups shredded zucchini (about 2 medium, unpared zucchini), drained
1/2 cup chopped fresh onion
2 tbsps. flour
2 tbsps. wheat germ

VEGETABLE-STUFFED EGGPLANT
1 large eggplant
2 tbsps. salad oil, divided
Salt
1 clove garlic, cut in half
1/2 cup chopped, fresh onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
One-fourth cup fresh parsley
1 large tomato, seeded and chopped
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dried leaf thyme
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 tbsps. butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup wheat germ
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 cup plain yogurt

CHEESE SAUCE
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1/8 tsp. cayenne
1/2 tsp. salt
2 cups whole milk
2 cup shredded Gruyere cheese

Melt butter in saucepan over medium heat. Stir in flour until smooth. Add cayenne and salt. Add milk; cook and stir until sauce is thickened. Add cheese, stir until smooth and hot. Makes two cups.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cut eggplant in half lengthwise, scoop out pulp, leaving half the shell; finely chop the scooped-out portion, reserve. Brush insides of eggplant shells with one tablespoon oil; sprinkle lightly with salt. Place shells in baking dish, cover with foil; bake 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, in large skillet, over medium heat, saute garlic and onion in remaining oil, three minutes; remove garlic. Add chopped eggplant, apple, green pepper, parsley, tomato, and zucchini; cook five minutes. Spoon half the mixture into each eggplant shell.

Melt butter in small saucepan, stir in wheat germ and cheese; sprinkle mixture over eggplant. Bake 10 to 15 minutes, or until topping is browned. Serve with plain yogurt.

Makes four main dish servings.

N.J. Bell boosts economy

According to William McKinley, New Jersey Bell's local community relations manager, the company has increased the state's economy by three million dollars in the form of wages, goods, services, taxes and other payments. In Union County, Bell System paid more than one million dollars to local suppliers.

Bell also furnished jobs for 74,000 people in the form of 9,000 of those in Union County. Employees of these companies earned nearly two trillion dollars in wages in 1980, and "since the vast majority live in New Jersey, most of the money was spent here," McKinley added.

Your Library Wright-Morris' unstable youth

By ROSE P. RIMON

Following are the reviews of the recently received popular books for winter-reading at the Springfield Library.

PORTRAIT IN PROSE
"Will's Boy" by Wright Morris. A "half-orphan" (his mother died six days after the boy's birth in Central City, Neb., in 1910), Wright Morris spent most of his youth under the dubious guidance of Will, his half-cousin. A railroad man, a chicken farmer, an egg-candler, a woman fancier, Will was never able to hold down a job for long, or "settle down." As a result, Wright's early days were unstable, being moved from one residence to another, eating in restaurants, changing schools and sleep-mothers, trying to earn some money, being sent to a reformatory (briefly) for stealing, etc.

Wright learned much about life from these varied experiences. He even considered some positive ones at a Chicago YMCA where he joined the Bible Sunday Club, excelled at ping-pong and learned to play whist and pool. There he was encouraged to attend high school, but abandoned it temporarily to accompany his father (in a broken-down car) to California (in disappointment), then back to Chicago.

These memoirs are rich in prose-portraits (Morris is an eminent novelist) of his father and his women friends, relatives, schoolmates, employers and girls. Descriptions of procedures involved in preparing chickens and eggs for market; his travels by car, bus, and afoot, tractor-driving on his uncle's ranch, are exceedingly vivid.

IN DEFENSE OF JEFFERSON
"The Jefferson Scandal," by Virginia Babery.

Renowned as an innovator in government, education, science, law, architecture, agriculture, etc., it is defamatory to proceed to the life of Thomas Jefferson, the President of having had a hand-some, light-skinned slave as his mistress for about 40 years and of having fathered a child with her.

This book is a rebuttal of these charges, renewed and widely publicized in two recent publications about Jefferson—Edith Soltner's school play, "Dolley tells how it all began, how it continued to flourish—up to this time. He examines the contents of Fawn Brodie's "Thomas Jefferson: An Intimate History" (a Book-of-the-Month Club Selection), and Barbara Chase-Riboud's novel, "Sally Hemings." The author flaps the so-called evidence against Jefferson's suspected paternity; pointing rather to the stronger possibility that one of the President's nephews was responsible.

WORK AT ROBERT PRESS
"Thrown to the Woolfs," by John Lehmann.

Several years after Virginia and Leonard Woolf founded their small but distinguished Hogarth Press (1922), Lehmann, fresh out of Cambridge, and contributor of poetry to Hogarth, was hired as its manager for a two-year probationary period. The author describes the arduousness of the job, his pleasure in working closely with literary people he admired, his travels to promote book-selling, his introduction to...

Bismarck luminaries and his subsequent problems with the Woolfs—Leonard in particular.

During a break with the Woolfs, Lehmann attended a concentrated writing poetry, became sympathetic with politics of the Left. With laborer-writer published "New Writing," for long short stories, to which such writers as Orwell, V.S. Pritchett, Silone, Pasternak, Brecht, and Lorca contributed.

In 1938, John signed a partnership agreement with the Woolfs. There were several sharp differences in policy and temperament, leading to their separation in 1946. Hogarth Press had provided Virginia (until her suicide) with a publishing organization that allowed her to write what she liked, with no checks, censorship, and political interference. Leonard—charming, witty, politically knowledgeable—was also overbearing, obstinate and often acrimonious. Procedures involved in preparing work with them, and for having known them intimately, Virginia was the awesome Sylvia-Leonard was her partner in life.

SATIRIST SUPREME
"Ski," by A.J. Langguth.

A satirist (often cruel), a misogynist, a humorist, a humorist, a humorist, Hector Hugh Munro wrote wittily and brilliantly. He was noted for his parodies of "Alice in Wonderland" and his "Ragland" series, lampooning English literature and politics. He was said to have had an "instinct for the irreparable word."

Munro, born 1870 in Burma, where his father was stationed, was raised in the English village of Pilton by two eccentric aunts (his mother was killed by a runaway cow). He early developed a bent for art, politics and history, and later, while serving as a police officer in Rangoon, wrote his entertaining letters to his favorite Aunt Ethel, with whom he corresponded for the rest of his life.

Back home, his first major literary venture was a history of the rise of the Russian Empire. As a correspondent from trouble spots on the continent (early 20th century) he contributed to several prominent newspapers. He also wrote novels, plays, and short stories, some of them well received.

As a rumored homosexual and a humorist (regarded as the epitome of the literary line) his social contacts were somewhat limited. At the beginning of WWI, Munro enlisted (the refused a commission), determined to live "the right way," but was killed in the French trenches by a German bullet.

Benefit sale to fund purchase of books

SPRINGFIELD—Friends of the Library are sponsoring a bake sale on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the meeting room of the library. Home baked cakes, cookies and pies will be for sale from the oven. Money raised from the sale will be used to buy needed books for the library. Note paper featuring a drawing of the library will also be on sale at $2 a box.

Using funds they have raised from the annual book sale and membership drive, the Friends have already purchased a new globe, new editions of the McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia and Science and Technology, and two new reference sources: British Writers and Maps-on-Film for the library.

Two new services are now available to users of the Springfield Public Library. Patrons who have a film borrower's card and wish to borrow films from the Plainfield Library (our area reference library) may select them from the film catalog at our Reference Desk and have them delivered by the Plainfield van which visits our library on Tuesdays and Fridays. Previously patrons have had to travel to Plainfield to pick up and return films.

The Plainfield Library also has joined the Reciprocal Borrowing Group. This means that Plainfield's entire collection of more than 100,000 volumes is available to Springfield residents who hold a valid library card from the Springfield Public Library.

Proforma audit set, college group is told

A draft report of a proforma audit of Union College and Union County Technical Institute being prepared by Arthur Young & Co. will be submitted next week to the Union County Community College System Interim Commission. A meeting of the Commission was held by John Laenas, a member of Arthur Young, that a combined financial statement of UC and UCTI for 1980-81 was if it were available. The audit will be completed and a combined financial statement for the period July 1, 1981, to Sept. 30, 1981, is being prepared.

Laenas said the Special Study to date shows that the percentage of county aid to Union College and Union County Technical Institute is below the state average and below the 25 percent level which would be mandated in legislation which would be submitted to the state next spring. He said that the study shows that the state is not providing the same level of aid to other community colleges in New Jersey.

The major task remaining to be completed by the Special Study is the development of a forecast of the county and state requirements of a merged Union College-UCTI Technical Institute for the next three years. Laenas reported he said the phase of the study will be based on data provided by Union College and UCTI, including their major assumptions. No changes will be made in programs and costs for the first year; amendments at UCTI will be available. Laenas said it may be necessary to review the assumptions used in the forecast by the State Department of Higher Education.

Dr. Saul Orkin, president of Union College, said the forecast that programs and courses remain in place was based on a recommendation of the Interim Commission. During the first year of operation of the combined institution, the entire configuration of the community college would be decided, he explained.

"A needs assessment for Union County would require input from dozens and dozens of people, particularly faculty, and could not be done prior to July 1 or Sept. 1, 1982," Dr. Orkin said.

Gas Co. seeks $26 million hike

Elizabeth Gas Co. has filed with the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities a request for an approximate $26 million increase in its Levelized Purchased Gas Adjustment (LPGA) to go into effect on April 1, 1982.

In making the request, Raymond Fleming, Jr., executive vice president, said the increase, which is subject to approval by the utility board, is necessary to pay for increased costs of gas supplies projected to be in effect for the period of April 1, 1982 through March 31, 1983. The proposed increase, which will apply equally to all classes of customers, which will have no effect on this winter's heating bills, is being pointed out.

UC lists basic course on use of computers

Five sections of "Understanding Computers," a basic course for individuals interested in entering the computer field, will be offered at locations by Union College this spring.

Two sections of the non-credit introductory course will be given at the Oxford Campus, one section each at the college's Elizabeth Urban Educational Center, at Union County Technical Institute in Scotch Plains and at New Providence High School, according to Dr. Frank Dea, dean of the Division of Special Services.

A special course for those who do not have an adequate mathematical background for the computer field also will be available this spring. "Mathematical Background for Computer Programming" will be offered by the College of Union County Technical Institute. Both non-credit courses will run for 16 weeks.

In addition, two courses required for Union College's Computer Science Certificate Program will be conducted during the spring semester: "Introduction to Data Processing, Computer Programming - COBOL I, Fundamentals of Programming Logic, and UCTI and Job-Centered Language."

The course study also is being by individuals who are not employed in a computer facility where development can be required. "On-the-job" should consider signing up for a credit course in order to gain some practical experience in computer technology, Dr. Dea said.

To enroll in the Computer Science Certificate program, students must have a high school diploma or a high school equivalency (GED) certificate. To receive the certificate in computer science, students must complete five courses with a grade of C or better. Transfer credits from other institutions will be given for two courses completed within the last five years in which the student earned at least a grade of C.

The certificate program will prepare individuals for positions as systems programmer, applications analyst, and systems analyst. Dr. Dea said.

DID YOU KNOW IRA IS NOW FOR EVERY WAGE EARNER?

With IRA, everyone can save taxes now and retire rich.

Beginning January 1, everyone can have an Individual Retirement Account—even if you have a pension plan when you work. You can set aside as much as $2,000 a year ($4,000 for a working couple) in an IRA and pay no tax on the amount you contribute until you begin to withdraw the funds at retirement.

The interest your IRA earns is tax-deferred, too, so you pay no tax on the interest or the contribution until retirement, when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

IRAs at Colonial Savings are insured by the FSLIC—a very important difference from some other institutions offering IRAs.

A good deal for every working person... that's the Colonial spirit.

Tel-Consumer tapes for holidays

The New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs has added three consumer holiday taped messages to the statewide, toll-free Tel-Consumer system. The tapes are No. 281 (buying and cooking for a New Christmas tree), 282 (holiday home safety) and 283 (buying children's toys and gifts) according to Adam K. Levin, Director.

By calling 800-342-0888 consumers can hear these or any of the 143 other tapes in the system. If the toll-free number is busy, the caller can use 201-943-6460.

"We selected these three tapes for holiday tapes in cooperation with the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission. We are concerned that consumers make wise buying decisions and also that they have a safe holiday season," Levin said.

He suggested that a number of the other Tel-Consumer tapes would be particularly useful to hear before beginning holiday shopping: 111 (advertising claims in (how to select an appliance), 316 (advertising mail), 327 (lavatories), 328 (buying dogs and cats), 347 (product safety), 406 (warranty rights), 526 (door-to-door sales) and 527 (telephone sales).

Levin said consumers who are concerned about over-spending should review tape 168 (budget guidelines). Those who are using credit cards to pay for purchases should be familiar with the material on tape 171 (errors and questions about credit card bills) and 172 (how to stick credit cards).

The advice on the Tel-Consumer tapes, Levin said, "Hopefully, by following consumers will not have holiday shopping problems this year."

JCPL residential bill will get a new look

Residential customers of Jersey Central Power & Light Co. will see a change in the information that is shown on their electric bills. The utility has announced that the customer charge will be shown as a separate item starting with bills mailed this month.

James R. Leva, vice president for consumer affairs, said that the change is being made to make the customer's bill as meaningful and understandable as possible. He added, "The customer charge is not a new charge but one that has been in effect in its present form since July 1976. All customers who receive service under the residential or general service rate classifications pay a customer charge.

The monthly charge recovers a part of the utility's fixed costs in providing customers with electric service. Fixed costs include investment in distribution facilities and the costs of providing electric meters, service wires, reading the meter, and the rendering of a bill.

Leva pointed out that the customer charge provides a means by which all

SEPARATE HEALTH COVERAGE AT AGE 19

"I can't believe our baby is ready for his own Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage."

An important reminder for non-group New Jersey Blue Cross and Blue Shield subscribers: Your dependent children will no longer be covered under your family contract after January 31, 1982 if they reach age 19 in 1981. So make sure your 19-year-old applies for separate Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage before January 31, 1982; after this date, a health statement will be required.

If you're a group subscriber, the cutoff age may vary depending on your coverage... so check your contract. Monthly or physically handicapped children may remain on their parent's contract after the cutoff age if they're chiefly dependent on you financially. However, proof of incapacity must be submitted by January 31, 1982.

So if this is the year your child turns 19, make sure he or she applies for separate coverage in time (students should inquire about our Student Program). It's really a very simple matter. But don't let it slide or it could turn into a problem.

For details on separate coverage for dependent children, call your nearest Blue Cross and Blue Shield office. (201) 456-3033—Newark (201) 368-9661—Paramus (201) 766-7353—Basking Ridge (609) 452-8100—Princeton (609) 665-3500—Cherry Hill

CHAMPIONSHIP EFFORT—Only one point separated the Bulldogs and Hackettstown in the sectional final.

Desperation pass play falls short

By RON BRANDSDORFER
It was almost Bobby Thompson's famous home run and Franco Harris' memorable Immaculate Reception all rolled up into one. Almost. It was the Bulldogs' desperation attempt to pull off a miracle in the final seconds of the North Jersey Section II, Group II final at Hackettstown's jam-packed Morrison Field. The Bulldogs were trailing by just one point, 7-6, when Hackettstown turned the ball over on downs on the Dayton 19. As the Bulldog defensive unit raced off of the field and the offense came charging on with just 60 seconds on the clock, Bulldog coach Angelo Senese called the play. First, to set the stage: The Bulldogs were trailing by just one point, 7-6, when Hackettstown turned the ball over on downs on the Dayton 19. As the Bulldog defensive unit raced off of the field and the offense came charging on with just 60 seconds on the clock, Bulldog coach Angelo Senese called the play.

CHAMPIONSHIP EFFORT—Only one point separated the Bulldogs and Hackettstown in the sectional final.

Bulldogs edged in sectional final, 7-6

By RON BRANDSDORFER
The football game was over, the Bulldogs had lost a 7-6 heartbreaker and Hackettstown was the sectional Group II champion. "We were as many people as we could out there and I told Kyle just to run a fly pattern," explained Bulldog coach Angelo Senese afterwards. "We threw in the best receiver in Group II football in the state and he made a championship catch. And then almost broke it." Perhaps it was a fitting way for the Bulldogs' season to end. After all, the 8-3 Bulldogs had come fighting back from a 0-2 start and had won eight straight. That streak included big victories just to get into the playoffs, and an even bigger decision over Warren Hills to reach the final. "I thought the kids played a great game," Senese said. "I've never been prouder of a bunch of kids than I am right now. When you consider how far this program has come, to lose a state championship game by one point."

CHAMPIONSHIP EFFORT—Only one point separated the Bulldogs and Hackettstown in the sectional final.

Bulldogs close season like football champions

By RON BRANDSDORFER
For eight games, the Bulldogs had been generous in victory, taking the Bulldog success in stride. And on Saturday, after their 7-6 loss to Hackettstown in the sectional final, Coach Angelo Senese urged his Bulldogs to be like champions—double the effort and win the championship. "There's no way I'm going to talk about that," Senese insisted after his players had left the field, the state had begun its championship celebration. "That's the team of the year," he continued. "There's no doubt about it, and no one can take that away from them." It was easy to view the loss as just another football game, and on this Saturday, they were one play better than last. "When we got into the state championships," he continued, "we knew there would be no more blowouts. There were two even chucks, we lost the state championship by one point." When Dawgs, horns and all, will be back next season, the best season in Dayton football history has provided the Bulldogs with some much-needed respect in Union County and in the rest of the state. "We have nothing to be ashamed of," Senese concluded. "My kids feel badly," Senese said. "They had a great season and they took a state championship. And I took a state championship. And I took a state championship."

Tough hoop debut for Bulldogs

By RON BRANDSDORFER
Ray Yanchus has seen many basketball bids come and go in his 18 years of coaching. So he knows the importance of the Mountain Valley Conference. That's why he insists there are no tricks to winning basketball. "There are no tricks," he explained as his Bulldogs ran through workouts in preparation for tomorrow evening's home opener against the Berkeley Heights highlanders. "It's the heart and dedication is the key," he continued. "And execution—that's what you need to win." And that's what Yanchus has been talking about for years.

Bulldogs hoping to recapture winning wrestling spirit of '79

By ROBERT BRUCHNER
To coin a phrase from Mike Dell, Coach Rick Iacono's Dayton wrestling team expects to reach out and touch someone...to the mat. The Bulldog wrestlers are up against tough competition in the rugged Mountain Valley Conference, but Iacono anticipates this year's team to improve and recapture at least some of the spirit of '79, when his team captured the District II championship and sent four wrestlers to the state tournament at Princeton. Will Dayton be a top contender? At this time, Coach Iacono can't quite tell. But he does expect steady progress. "We expect to improve upon last year's record despite the fact that we are going into a strong wrestling conference," he said. "The team we feel stronger in that we will have more mat time. We hope to have four seniors starting."

Bulldogs close season like football champions

By RON BRANDSDORFER
For eight games, the Bulldogs had been generous in victory, taking the Bulldog success in stride. And on Saturday, after their 7-6 loss to Hackettstown in the sectional final, Coach Angelo Senese urged his Bulldogs to be like champions—double the effort and win the championship. "There's no way I'm going to talk about that," Senese insisted after his players had left the field, the state had begun its championship celebration. "That's the team of the year," he continued. "There's no doubt about it, and no one can take that away from them." It was easy to view the loss as just another football game, and on this Saturday, they were one play better than last. "When we got into the state championships," he continued, "we knew there would be no more blowouts. There were two even chucks, we lost the state championship by one point." When Dawgs, horns and all, will be back next season, the best season in Dayton football history has provided the Bulldogs with some much-needed respect in Union County and in the rest of the state. "We have nothing to be ashamed of," Senese concluded. "My kids feel badly," Senese said. "They had a great season and they took a state championship. And I took a state championship."

DINING GUIDE

A COMPLETE REFERENCE OF FINE RESTAURANTS

Essex Forum's food varied and delicious

By JIM LEAHY

A friend of mine once told me to stop looking back to things that were and concentrate on things that are and could be. Although this is most likely a good idea, it makes me sad to think that this person had no yesterday, or worse, none worth looking back to with pleasure. So, if you'll forgive me, I would like to share with you a memory that I hope will always remain with me the rest of my life.

It's a memory of the days when I was just a lad, growing up under the watchful eye of my father, who, at that time of my life, was in the restaurant business for more than 20 years. Although my Dad was never a rich man, my sister and I never had to worry about having food on the table or clothes on our backs. On occasion, he liked nothing better than to take us out to eat, and the closest thing to a restaurant in our neighborhood in those days was what was known as the Broadway Diner. A diner, in the days of my youth, was nothing more than a refurbished railroad car with little or no frills.

It seemed that everything in those days was a cry and if they didn't come out of a can, you wouldn't eat it. Vegetables at all. But for all that, it was still a treat and, if nothing else, filling. The reason I share this memory with you is because of the dramatic changes that have taken place over the years in the diner trade. No longer are they drab and uninviting; indeed, now they are luxurious and elegant and offer some of the finest food available.

Take the Essex Forum, 1473 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, for instance. It has been under the ownership of Bob Gallotari since 1968. I will put it up against many of the finest restaurants in the area for food and decor. Chef Lino De Simone serves some of the finest Petracine Alfredo and shrimp or Lobster Tail Diavolo that you ever tasted. His other specialties include such delights as Risotto Alla Zingara, chicken Francese, Chicken Murphy or, if you like, Veal Marsala or Veal Piccata. Sound delicious? You bet it is!

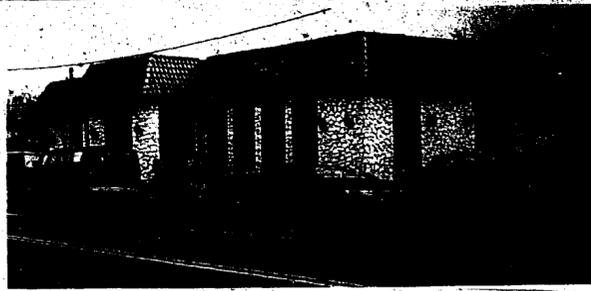

The above mentioned food at the Essex Forum is just a sampling of what to expect when you dine there. Their menu is so extensive, it would be impossible to write it all in this small column. The best way for me to prove my point is to suggest to you to try the Essex Forum as soon as possible. It's truly a delight and a great place to take the family for an inexpensive night on the town.

ONE FOR THE ROAD
ARE YOU READY to treat your family to one of the most luxurious "Old World" Pastries tastes this side of the Atlantic? Well, if you are, then you better place your orders for the holidays at Cafe Mozart Pastry Shoppe, 1908 Morris Ave., Union.

For those of you who didn't know it, Cafe Mozart, besides being one of the most charming German restaurants in the state, also is one of the finest pastry and gourmet shops in the entire area. Here's a sample of what you can get to take home or give for the holidays. Keep in mind that everything is made from the traditional black Forest recipes and baked in their own ovens under the ever watchful eyes of owners Henry and Renate Angenstein.

For the lovers of tartes (fancy cakes), there are such wonderful creations as Original Black Forest Cherry, Rigio Jasco (chocolate Mousse), Mocha Rum, Tosca Truffel, Pastry, Sachet Mozart, Linzer and much, much more. In the Old-Fashioned Pastry Department, Gourmets will find such delicacies as Napoleon Bienenstich, Bavarian Chocolate Cream Pies, Furst Puckler, Schwarzwalden and Raspberry Rum Slices just to mention a few.

Before closing, I must mention their wonderful Black Forest Stollen and Almond Fruit Cake, a must on any Christmas dinner table, and finally their celebrated Gugelhupf Yeast Breads, Danish rings filled with hazelnut or cheese or almonds or poppy seeds. My final tip is off to you, Henry and Renate, for bringing to our area your fine establishments that has a little something for everybody's taste.

BRIGHT EXTERIOR of Essex Forum enhances the charm of The Essex Forum Restaurant, 1473 Springfield Avenue. Maplewood. The popular restaurant is known for its fine food and reasonable prices.

me they had a "dynamite" crowd for Thanksgiving and are looking forward to the same response for the rest of the holiday season. Can't see how they can miss with the fine food that's being featured there on a daily basis. Great place for New Years, better call ahead first for a reservation to assure a table for your gang.

ARLENE'S TALLYHO INN, 943 Maple Ave., Union, is getting to be quite the place for the "in" crowd. No wonder with the wonderful dinner selection they have on their menu at present that can't be beat. Give them a call and you'll see what I mean! "Fantastic" is a word that doesn't do them justice! Can't REMEMBER when I had a better time than last weekend when I stopped by the Holiday Inn North, Newark Airport. The food was better than excellent and the duo of Kurt and Lori was marvelous. Great place for that special date if you really want to make an impression!

THE CALLEN FAMILY of the Liberty View Diner and Restaurant jumps into the holiday spirit of gift giving! Being a subsidiary of Callen Photo Mount Corp., which is the nation's largest packager of lithographs and art prints for Art Galleries and Department Stores, they are taking advantage of their company's resources. Prints are sold at Art Auctions and Art Stores from 10 to 100.

During the month of December, lithographs of magnificent scenes which are suitable for framing will be presented to every "dinner" for two patron. You may make your own selection from the Display Rack. This is their gift to you!

'Antique Dolls' at Trailside Sunday

The ageless fantasy world of toys comes alive Sunday when the Trailside Nature and Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountainide, presents "Antique Dolls." Yvonne Miller and Alicia Paardcamp of the Dolls Corner, Scotch Plains, will speak at the 2 p.m. program. The visitor's center, a member of this Union County Department of Parks and Recreation facility, will house the display which will continue into next month. Chairs, high chairs, carriages, stuffed animals and other accessories are also antiques. One exhibit will illustrate an "old fashioned Christmas."

State housing post given Gill

Edward K. Gill, Assemblyman-Elect in the 21st District, has been elected secretary of the New Jersey Housing Sponsors Association, was formed to review and improve relations with the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency. The association represents most of the non-profit organizations responsible for the building and management of nearly 80 moderate-income housing developments through the state. "We believe that working together we can provide an effective sponsor's voice in housing and community program which directly affect 29,000 housing units in New Jersey. For too long, HFA decisions have been made without the input of those closest to the needs of the people involved," Gill said.

Keeping fit can be challenge for those reaching 'later years'

Growing old doesn't have to mean becoming inactive. You can be full of energy and enthusiasm as long as you stay actively involved in some kind of regular exercise. So, the way to keep lively as you get older is to be lively. The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and the Administration on Aging have a booklet that you should advise on how to build a program to maintain youthful health and energy. For your copy of "The Fitness Challenge in the Later Years," send $2.25 to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 1453, Pueblo, Colo., 81009. Fortunately, even if you've let your slip by while your good intentions of keeping fit were sacrificed to other demands of life, you can still pick up at some level of physical performance and gradually work toward increasing your fitness. Most medical authorities believe—and most active people know—that exercise helps a person look, feel and work better. Various organs and systems of the body, particularly the digestive process, are stimulated through activity and it's a result work more effectively. Physically active individuals are less likely to experience a heart attack or other forms of cardiovascular disease than sedentary people. And there is evidence that an active person who does suffer a coronary attack will probably have a less severe form and will be more likely to survive the experience. Also, physical activity is as important as diet in maintaining proper weight. And being overweight is more than a matter of individual discomfort. It's related to several chronic diseases, shortened life expectancy, and various problems. Medical authorities now recommend that weight reduction be accomplished by a reasonable increase in daily physical activity, supplemented, if necessary, by proper dietary controls. Exercise can't prevent the stresses of life, but it can help you cope with them.
