Vets job training program cited by VA

The Veterans Administration is urging veterans and employers to take advantage of the "Emergency Veterans Job Training Act." VA Administrator Harry N. Walters said there is still time and money available for participants in the program.

The program, which is aimed at helping unemployed Vietnam Era and Korean Conflict veterans, is administered jointly by the VA and the Department of Labor. It funds 50 percent of the veteran's starting hourly wages up to $10,000, to provide a maximum of 15 months of training for certain veterans with service-connected disabilities, and up to nine months for other participants. It also will allow employers to enter into agreements with educational institutions to provide vocational instruction.

The program has been operational since November. So far more than 5,200 veterans have actually been placed in jobs. Approximately $23.5 million has been committed to train veterans out of the $130 million available.

The program seems to be gaining momentum and we are urging veterans and employers to take advantage of this program," Walters said.

To be eligible for participation in the program, a veteran must have been unemployed for at least 15 of the 20 weeks immediately preceding the date of his or her application. The VA provides the eligible veteran a certificate of eligibility to be presented to an employer offering a job training program that meets specified requirements. The application process for both veterans and employers, has been streamlined and given a high priority for processing. Veterans are generally notified of certification within seven working days after receipt of their applications. Employers within 10. Under present law, veterans' applications must be submitted by Nov. 29, 1984.

DOWN TO BASICS—A part of the summer programs for Union County Regional District No. 1 students was Basic Skills Improvement Program held at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, for incoming ninth graders. Career counseling and visitation, as well as problem solving using computers, were also part of the program, funded by a federal Chapter I grant.

Revaluation to begin

Property will be reassessed this fall

By VICKI VREELAND

The Township Committee introduced four ordinances and made an emergency appropriation to conduct a state-mandated township property assessment as it resumed business Tuesday night following a month's summer recess.

The committee appropriated $210,000 to conduct the revaluation of property in the township. Mayor Philip Feintuch said property tax assessments on commercial and residential structures will be re-evaluated by two separate firms, which will examine and assess all properties in the township. According to Jay Kloud, township attorney, the revaluation should begin in October or November.

Feintuch said local taxpayers have the right to file a tax appeal if they do not agree with the new assessment. In one such case stemming from a previous tax assessment, the committee refunded $108,194 to the Troy Village condominium complex in accordance with an order from the Union County Tax Court.

The committee approved, on second and final reading an ordinance to appropriate $13,000 for the purchase of a multi-channel logging recorder for the Police Department or November.

Feintuch said the department's present recorder is ineffective to tape the station's incoming and outgoing calls.

Among four such measures, the committee introduced an ordinance to appropriate $115,000 for street and sidewalk repairs and a separate $115,000 appropriation for road maintenance equipment.

The township plans to purchase two dump trucks with plows, radios, snow plows, a small pick-up truck, a leaf blower, a lawn mower, a chipper, and apparatus for the front-end loader.

New lights and parking meters will be installed in municipal parking lots if an ordinance appropriating $26,000 for the improvements is passed. The installation of flashing lights on Caldwell Place is also part of the package.

The governing body also introduced an ordinance to appropriate $90,000 for a pumping station at Joanne Way. Township Committee William Cleri said the committee found it would be more economical for the township to purchase its own pumping station, rather than pay for an electrical reserve from Jersey Central Power and Light Co.

Feintuch said the electric company charges for the reserved electricity whether it is used or not.

The four ordinances introduced will be up for a public hearing and final reading Aug. 28.

A $20,000 Community Development Block Grant awarded to the township to organize a nutrition program, is being held at bay for lack of a facility to house the program.

Feintuch said the committee's intention was to run the daily hot lunch program for low-income residents in the newly-acquired Raymond Chisholm School. However, remodeling plans for the school are only in the preliminary stages and the Union County Community Block Grant Revenue Sharing Committee expects to see a progress report of the program by Sept. 13, or the township could lose the grant, according to Harry Kolb Jr., assistant township engineer.

Kolb, who is the township's liaison to the Revenue Sharing Committee, warned at Monday night's work session that the township must use the grant for the program, and any portion of the grant that is not used will have to be returned to the grant committee.

If the program gets off the ground, the township can expect to receive

Boards gear up for pact talks

By VICKI VREELAND

Both the local and county boards of education are in the process of negotiating with teacher bargaining units as the summer draws to a close and the opening date for school approaches.

Contract negotiations between the Springfield Board of Education and the Springfield Education Association were declared at an "impasse" June 28. The contract for the "districts" approximately '80 teachers expired June 30.

According to board member Lee Eisen, a member of the negotiating committee, Robert Weakley of the Newark office of the Public Employee Relations Commission (PERC), was assigned as mediator July 28. However, no meetings have yet been held or have yet been scheduled, according to board officials.

"The board of education is not contemplating any contingency plans for the opening of school," said Board President George Gomes, "we are going on the assumption that school will open."

Last month, Annette Lacioppa, chief negotiator for the teachers, stated that the board's last offer was for 5 percent salary hikes for each year of a new three-year pact. She said that the teachers were seeking a two-year contract with increases similar to those negotiated for other teachers in the county — in the range of 8 1/2 percent each year. She added that the teachers would be willing to settle on a one-year contract and "go back to the bargaining table again next year."

State mediator Robert Glasen of PERC, has been meeting with the Union County Regional Federation of Teachers Local 3417 and the Union County Board of Education District 1.

Glasen imposed a news blackout on both sides last week. The contract for the 350 regional teachers expires Aug. 31.

Evelyn McGill, president of the teachers union, said that both sides were expected to meet yesterday with the mediator. "We hope both sides will push towards a settlement," McGill said.

McGill said that although the teachers have not taken a strike vote, "we are prepared to go in on Sept. 4 and ratify a contract, or take a no contract-no work vote at that time."

The teachers have given the negotiations executive committee the authority, "to take whatever steps are necessary to reach a settlement," McGill said.

At its meeting Aug. 7, the regional board of education adopted formal procedures to protect the "learning environment" of students in the event of a strike.

According to the resolution, schools will remain open regardless of a strike. The regional district is in the process of interviewing substitute teachers who would be hired at $100 a day.

District substitutes are normally paid $45 a day. Following 10 days of consecutive employment, the daily salary is increased to $75.

The superintendent was charged with transferring teaching personnel to and from the district high schools where they would be needed.

Members of the board also said they were prepared to obtain appropriate court sanctions in the event of a strike.

Superintendent Dr. Donald Merachuk said the community would be kept informed of negotiations progress through press releases.

Dog pack comes back

By VICKI VREELAND

Apparently, the same pack of dogs that was reported to have killed a resident's pet rabbits in December, appears to have killed a domestic cat on Aug. 8.

Ann Schiffbauer of Warner Avenue, said that at about midnight, three dogs chased her cat from the backyard into the street, where it was attacked and killed.

Schiffbauer, who was asleep at the time, said that a companion in the street was hit by the dog. She got outside, the dogs had been chased by neighbors, and she discovered her cat dead.

For the past 18 months, she said the dogs have appeared, after dark, on her street, Martin Avenue and Alvin Terrace, all dead ends.

Schiffbauer described the dogs as two large German shepherds and a smaller dog. "They are always together," she said.

Connie Buscia, a Sandmeier School parent, also reported spotting three large dogs in the vicinity of the school on South Springfield Avenue.

Buscia said, during the spring, she sighted the dogs when she both dropped off and picked her children up at school.

Police said there have not been any reports to indicate that the dogs are wild. The strays have been sighted most frequently in the area of the Baltusrol Golf Course, Shunpike Road, and the industrial section of Springfield, behind Route 22 West.

Police said the ASPCA has responded to calls about the dogs, but have not sighted them. Residents who spot the pack of dogs, should contact the police, they advised.

Doll clothes are 'harvested' by township woman

By VICKI VREELAND

Looking over the Coleco clothes again, Renee thought, "With what I know about design and fabric, I can do better."

She and her 6-year-old daughter, Diana, also weren't pleased with the lack of variety of costumes. "They were all the same type of frilly dresses. My daughter said to me, 'Mommy, can't my baby dress like I do?'"

Renee described Diana as an exclusive "jeans and overalls" wearer. "I believe the children see these dolls as an extension of themselves," Renee said.

Not surprisingly, then, the first outfit she made for Diana's doll was a denim blue-jean-and-vest set, Diana, who was thrilled with her doll's sporty outfit, brought it to school to show around.

The Cabbage Patch doll's attire was the talk of the class and word soon traveled home with the kids that, "Diana's mother made a Cabbage Patch outfit."

Other children had been improvising their own old baby clothes to dress their dolls. A contemporary-dressed Cabbage Patch kid was a novelty others soon wanted.

It wasn't long before news of the "Cabbage Patch Lady" spread through town and Renee was faced with a large demand.

Fortunately, she met up with another mother who sews and the two women decided to combine their talents. They purchased industrial sewing machines and opened a small factory, which Renee's partner manages. Renee handles the design and marketing aspects of the business.

"We make our own patterns," Renee said and "we take the business seriously. We shop at textile mills in New York and Pennsylvania for the finest fabrics at the best cost so we can pass the savings on to our customers."

Renee's home shop offers a variety of about 50 Cabbage Patch outfits. Renee's outfits are custom-made for the 18 to 14-inch dolls. Her designs feature sportswear for the active Cabbage Patch kid.

Some of the hottest selling doll outfits include jogging suits, a Michael Jackson windbreaker (soon a single white glove will be available) and jean sets.

Renee also designs to keep the dolls seasonably fashionable. For summer, she features bathing suits, and beach jackets. Her latest selection for the upcoming holiday season will be red velvetine hat and coat sets and snowsuits. "I wake up in the middle of the night with dreams of designs," she said.

Renee said she believes one of the positive effects that came out of the Cabbage Patch craze, "is seeing girls, ages 11 to 13, go back to playing with dolls and fulfilling their childhood years." She said many seventh- and eighth-grade girls from the Gaudineer Middle School are her best customers.

Renee's talent for making doll clothes came in handy for a real live baby. A few months ago, a

Suspect faces charge in bust of cocaine ring

By VICKI VREELAND

A Springfield man, suspected of being the leader of a cocaine ring that operated in five counties and New York, was one of 10 persons arrested Aug. 9 in a day-long sweep of arrests by the Union County Narcotics Strike Force.

During the raids, which occurred between 11 a.m. and 11 p.m., police confiscated more than $500,000 worth of cocaine, according to Sgt. Walter Beyteman of the Strike Force, which operates out of the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

Ronald Scheidemann, 35, an unemployed former telephone installer, of New Jersey Bell Telephone, was arrested at his apartment at 561 Morris Ave., where he allegedly ran the drug ring.

Scheidemann, and the others arrested, were under surveillance by the Strike Force for 18 months, according to police.

Capt. David Itzgal, strike force commander, said the investigation was prompted by tips and calls to the unit's hotline.

Beyteman, who led the investigation along with investigator Jose Martinez, said Miguel Rivera, 35, of Queens, N.Y., was also arrested at Scheidemann's apartment.

Police believe the distribution operation obtained cocaine from a New York-based dealer.

Along with the strike force, members of the State Police, the Essex, Morris, Middlesex and Ocean County prosecutor's offices, and New York police, conducted the raids.

A specially trained dog from the Union County Sheriff's Office canine corps was used to sniff out drugs. Investigators also used wiretaps throughout the case.

Eight other persons were arrested in the initial day's raids, including Scheidemann's brother James, 37, of Basking Ridge. Three others were also former New Jersey Bell Telephone employees.

Three more suspects, including a telephone technician, an AT&T service technician, and a clerical worker for Public Service Electric and Gas Co., turned themselves into authorities Monday and were charged with participating in the cocaine distribution ring. The total number of arrests in the case now stands at 13, but more are expected, according to Beyteman.

"We were anticipating finding more drugs," Beyteman said.

Scheidemann and Rivera were each held on $25,000 bail set by Union County Superior Court Judge Cubito Davila Jr. The others were held on either $5,000 or $2,500 bail.

County waste official chides state's stance on dump plan

By KRITH A. DRUMBORE
A letter sent to 15 counties by the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) outlining deficiencies in county solid waste management shows a "total lack of understanding" by the state on the disposal problems facing the counties, according to Joe Kazar, Union County Solid Waste coordinator.

Kazar stated that he received a letter Aug. 7 that suggested that Union County enter into a consent agreement with the state within 30 days to set up a schedule to discuss what the state considers to be deficiencies in the way that some counties in the state are dealing with disposal of solid waste.

The request came in a "vague form letter" sent to many of the 15 counties in the state which did not spell out specific deficiencies in any one county, Kazar said.

In addition to Union, counties that received letters were Atlantic, Camden, Gloucester, Hudson, Hunterdon, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Ocean, Passaic, Somerset, Sussex and Warren.

"The letter shows a certain amount of misunderstanding on the state's part," Kazar said. "The real problem here is not being dealt with."

"The problem, as Kazar sees it, is not just solid waste management but that the major landfill sites used for solid waste disposal are currently filled to capacity or are on the verge of being filled. Also, counties which maintain their own sites are taking steps to keep other counties from dumping there."

"There is no agreement between counties who own their own sites and those that don't," Kazar said. "This is where the state must step in and help. But so far, the DEP has been reluctant to take on that role."

Kazar said that Union County has been looking to build a landfill site of its own, but has yet to find an appropriate location.

Solid waste from Union and Springfield townships is currently taken to the Hackensack Meadows landfill site. Roselle, Roselle Park, Mountainside and Kenilworth use a Middlesex County site, the Industrial Land Reclaiming Landfill in Edison, which is due to close Sept. 15 under court order. The DEP has proposed that Union and Somerset counties use two other sites in Middlesex County — the Edison Municipal Landfill and the Edgborough Landfill in East Brunswick — but it has yet to receive court approval.

A resource recovery plant would alleviate much of the problem, Kazar said. In this process, solid waste is incinerated on a large scale and the ashes then taken to a landfill site.

There is a proposal to build a resource recovery plant in Rahway but land negotiations between the county and Merck and Co. have yet to be settled.

"The state doesn't seem to recollect that they have been working with us on that project," Kazar said.

Even if negotiations for the land are completed soon, the plant will not be in operation before 1988 or 1989, Kazar stated.

Woman 'sows' clothing crop premature baby weighing only 2 pounds, 6 ounces was born at Overlook Hospital, Summit. For weeks, the baby was kept wrapped in a folded sheet because infant-size clothes were just too big.

A nurse on the floor who knew of Renee's work, contacted her to see if she might have an outfit to fit the baby. Sure enough, one of Renee's Cabbage Patch outfits did the trick. "Many people can save their put-premise clothes on a doll, but not too many have put doll clothes on a preemie," Renee said.

Renee was recently invited to show her line of Cabbage Patch clothes at a fashion show at the Manor Park Swim Club, Westfield. Children were asked to volunteer their dolls to be dressed in Renee's designs.

Renee's doll clothes are sold in Tiny Toes, Greenbrook; Goffin's, a Morristown gift shop; Touch of Velvet, Chatham, and Romance Emporium, Clifton, to name a few.

"Although she admits to enjoying her prospering business, it is a mother first, and I am committed to making a well-made doll garment and at a reasonable price," she said. "Cabbage's Doll Patch" will be shutting down for a week to gear up for holiday orders. Further information about Cabbage Patch clothes is available from Renee Rosen at 497-6590 or 497-1455.

Buehler's retirement according to Feintuch, the committee will make a permanent appointment of township clerk at the Aug. 28 meeting.

Rensselaer cites Dayton student
SPRINGFIELD—David Freeman Cole of Short Hills Avenue has received the Rensselaer Medal from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., for outstanding achievements in the study of mathematics and science.

The institute selects one student from each of approximately 1,700 high schools. Cole, son of Richard and Alex Cole, is a student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. He will enter his senior year in the fall.

The brief, delivered by Dr. James E. George, president of Emergency Physician Associates, centered around the legal responsibilities of emergency medical treatment personnel and the proper way of documenting each case.

This is an editing account of the daily tasks of casting, directing, supervising costumes, make-up, props, etc. Miller had no knowledge of Chinese, but Ling served as interpreter and actor. The actors had been trained to overact, to use wigs freely. Such terms as "salesman, football and insurance" had to be carefully explained — humorous expressions, different from ours, had to be substituted.

Gradually, the playwright was able to clarify the problem of making the Loman family and its relationships comprehensible to the cast. They then were able to interpret each character correctly, making the production a huge success. Miller's diary of his seven-week experience is sympathetically narrated, delineating a small corner of yesterday's and today's China.

He mentions the visit of the pope who, instead of encouraging the playwright, present a peaceful means of securing justice. Also discussed are anti-Semitism, in Poland; the film industry; the media, the claim that Jaruzelski was serving as "a patriot" and the ubiquitous GDN signs are indications of a return of the rebellious Polish spirit.

"Salesman in Beijing," by Arthur Miller.

Until China's Revolution was over, only eight "Permissible Plays" (sterile, unimaginative) were allowed to be presented. Since then, theater people were to end their cultural isolation, and to reach out. Two of these — Coo Yu and Ling Ruchang — had visited the U.S. and were clearly acquainted with the Beijing People's Art Theater. They invited Arthur Miller ("The Crucible," "A View From the Bridge," "Inherit the Wind") to come to Beijing to direct his notable "Death of a Salesman."

"This play, which had been translated and produced in many foreign lands, but not in China, would be the greatest challenge — China's recent history, culture, difficult language and poverty, would be barriers to overcome. In May 1983, Miller, with his wife, photographer Inge Morath, the verge of a stalemate with the party (and the Soviet Union), neither side strong enough to overcome the other. Most of Solidarity's demands were unmet, there were conflicting opinions and internal debates, with no compromise or consensus, thereby weakening the movement. Even Lech Walesa's charismatic leadership was unable to unify the people sufficiently to oppose the constant tensions and frustrations of the Solidarity movement.

The author includes anecdotes which, though not necessarily historical, reflect the temper of the workers and the intellectuals, expressing their feelings, their despair, their hopes and their dark humor.

He mentions the visit of the pope who, instead of encouraging the playwright, present a peaceful means of securing justice. Also discussed are anti-Semitism, in Poland; the film industry; the media, the claim that Jaruzelski was serving as "a patriot" and the ubiquitous GDN signs are indications of a return of the rebellious Polish spirit.

THE PASSION OF POLAND
by Lawrence Weschler.

Several times since May 5, 1981, the author, a staff writer for the New Yorker, returned to Poland to report on the country's economic chaos due to gross management and petty local corruption.

Weschler's comments on the Catholic Church as an organic national institution, and the Communist Party as an imposed colonial one, the latter being the partial reason for the failure of the Polish system, "the church signifies patriotism, tradition, continuity, and stability," presided over by Pope Paul II "like a guardian angel."

Woman slashed during purse robbery

SPRINGFIELD—A Mountainside woman was injured Saturday night when a man stole her pocketbook outside the Chu Dynasty Restaurant on Route 22, about 8 p.m., according to Springfield police reports.

According to police, the man, described as in his 20's and dressed in dark clothing, asked the woman to borrow a screwdriver. As she attempted to go to her car, he slashed her hands with a knife and grabbed her pocketbook.

Police said the man fled in a light blue step-van, similar to a bread truck.

A three-car automobile accident at Springfield Avenue and Main Street, sent the three drivers to the hospital Aug. 9, police said.

Jonathan Young, 21, of Linden, was traveling on Springfield Avenue when the collision occurred with a car driven by William Britten, 50, of Florham Park, which was traveling south on Springfield Avenue.

Both drivers were taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit by the Springfield First Aid Squad where they were treated and released.

Also injured in a third vehicle was Dorene Kravitz, 53, of Bona Brook, who was also treated and released at Overlook Hospital.

Edward Patek, 50, of Westfield, was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol and operating an unsafe vehicle when he was arrested on South Springfield Avenue, Aug. 9 about 11:30 p.m.

An out-of-state man was arrested under a township loitering ordinance Sunday morning by Patrolman Judd Levenson on Mountain and Wabeno avenues. Roy Walker, 37, was charged with violating the ordinance when, according to police, he was observed behaving unusually.

According to reports, when Walker was approached, he picked up a large stick and threatened police.

A driver of a motor scooter was seriously injured Sunday afternoon when his vehicle collided with an automobile on Morris Avenue.

William McKeen, 20, of Pennsylvania, the driver of the car, told police that he was attempting to enter Morris Avenue from Profit Avenue when the accident occurred.

Leo Radler, 27, of Hoboken, was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, along with his passenger, Andrea Walsh, 25, of Queens, N.Y.

Radler underwent surgery Monday and was listed in satisfactory condition Tuesday.

An apartment in the Pineview Gardens complex on South Springfield Avenue, was burglarized sometime between Friday night and Saturday morning, police said. The owners returned home to find an undetermined amount of jewelry missing.

Police said entry to the apartment on Pineview Court was gained through a window.

Crime Watch tip

How to report a crime
SPRINGFIELD—The following is this month's crime prevention tip from the Springfield Police Department.

Many people do not report suspicious or criminal activity because they don't know what to report or how to report it. The following are tips to help make it easy to report suspicious activity to the police.

—First, identify yourself, by stating your name, address and phone number.

—Explain what you have observed, such as a strange automobile, strange persons, a light in an unoccupied residence, an assault, burglary or robbery.

—Describe where the incident occurred and be specific.

—Give descriptive information about suspicious vehicles or people, and also attempt to get the license plate number.

—Tell police the direction in which you saw the vehicle or person.

A bomb scare at Dodgeland, Route 22, Friday night, forced police to evacuate the section of the car lot where recreational vehicles are kept. A spokesman for Dodgeland said the bomb threat was called into the store about 7:30 p.m.

The Springfield Police and Fire Departments responded to the call, but did not locate a bomb. Police kept a portion of the store closed for the remainder of the evening.

Police also said four cars were reported stolen Friday between morning hours and 5 p.m.—two cars were also reported 7:30 p.m.

A white 1983 BMW was reported stolen from JMK Auto Sales, Route 22, Friday morning/About 11:30 a.m. The car was reported stolen from the store.

A 1978 white Pontiac was reported stolen from Saks Fifth Avenue, Summit Avenue, about 3:30 p.m.

An orange 1984 Mazda was reported stolen about 5 p.m. from the parking lot of the United Counties Bank, Route 22 and Hillside Avenue. Police said the Mazda was recovered in Newark the following afternoon.

Police also recovered a car stolen in Orange on the JMK Auto Sales lot Monday. Police believe that the car thieves deposited that car at the lot and took another.

Health issues agenda topic

SPRINGFIELD—Township resident Nancy Sullivan, health educator at the Visiting Nurse and Health Services (VNHS), recently attended a state-wide conference.

"An Update on Health Promotion in New Jersey,"

The conference, sponsored by the state health department, focused on the roles and relationships of the Center for Health Promotion and Education, the state health department and local health agencies.

The programs in Union County compare favorably with the health education programs that were presented," reported Sullivan.

"Although each town has its own individually targeted program, county-wide coordination and communication is working well."

VNHS is a voluntary, non-profit home health care agency serving 17 communities in the county, including Springfield, Mountainside and Kenilworth. Information about VNHS may be obtained by calling 352-5694.

The waste crisis

There's plenty of blame to go around. But recriminations will not solve the problem of disposing of the mountains of garbage that we generate every day.

Rebecca's forecast

AUG. 16-21

ARIES (3/21-4/20)—Look for favorable trends in work and health matters during this week. Avoid promoting conflicts with siblings or relatives and be wary of unfamiliar situations after hours. Later, travel or those at a distance may prove unsettling; do your fair share and doublecheck travel arrangements.

TAURUS (4/21-5/21)—The early part of this week intensifies matters related to health, work and personal affairs and also gives the opportunity to straighten out recent problems. Later, finances will see-saw but you may come out ahead of the game. Watch your temper. Children's interests need attention.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21)—This will be a very social week for many. Plan a short trip, an evening out or visits with friends or relatives. A business, or financial issue should be kept as private and confidential as possible. Later, domestic conflicts are likely, and new romance is exciting but unstable. Be careful!

CANCER (6/22-7/23)—You may find work and home responsibilities at loggerheads early in the week and keeping everyone happy is almost impossible; usual cooperation can't be counted on. Later in this period, an old health problem may flare up. Take care of local errands and pay attention to your intuition.

LEO (7/24-8/23)—You may find you're in the mood to spend during

The Drew Photography Gallery is the only college or university-based gallery in the metropolitan New York area with monthly shows by major photographers during the academic year.

Faulty bills cleared up

"No one who receives a government notice requesting payment of a penalty for underpayment of taxes should automatically pay the penalty charge without question," according to Joseph Petrucci, manager of H/R Block in Scotch Plains.

"Millions of taxpayers have received in error U.S. Government billing notices requesting payment of penalty charges for alleged underpayment of their 1983 income taxes," he said.

Petrucci said that the IRS has investigated the problem of taxpayers being sent erroneous bills for penalties they do not owe. The problem was traced to a data entry error at government tax return processing centers.

The H/R Block in Scotch Plains is at 1567 E. Second St. and is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The phone is 322-2322. The office in Irvington is at 1364 Springfield Ave. and is open Monday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The phone number is 372-3548.

By MIL HAMMER
Pick of The LPs, "Hell Hath No Fury," by Rock Goddess (A&M Records).
The popularity of heavy metal rock music is clearly neither a flash in the pan, nor an overnight sensation bound to give way to next week's fad. Yet for all its success, heavy metal is a world that has been almost dominated by male musicians. Until now, that is. Step aside, boys, and make way for Rock Goddess, an all-female, three-piece band from England debuting on A&M with "Hell Hath No Fury."

Rock Goddess certainly will not be confused with other groups. Not only are the members female, they're also young. Jody Turner, the lead singer, lead guitarist and songwriter, is 20. So is bassist Dee O'Malley, while drummer Julie Turner, Jody's sister, is just 16. But their youth hasn't prevented Rock Goddess from reaping the kind of critical praise that usually goes to seasoned veterans. Their music, said one writer, is "heavy metal in its truest form, undiluted, screaming vocals, sliding guitars and a merciless rhythm section. They sound like an entire armored battalion."

Rock Goddess first joined forces in 1977, when Jody Turner was 13 years old and Julie just nine. Their father, a London music shop and rehearsal studio owner, who also manages the group, taught them how to play. Along with Tracey Lamb, their first

Salute slated for Goodman

A 75th birthday salute for American clarinetist and band leader Benny Goodman will take place at Waterloo Village, Byram Township, Saturday at 8:30 p.m. as part of the 1984 Waterloo Festival.

The Bob Wilber Jazz Repertory Ensemble will pay homage to Goodman's Big Band of the 1950's and 60's.

The Goodman celebration program will include "Big Band Sextet" and "Trio" works comprised of 25 of Goodman's own

Disc 'n' Data

Along with the instrumental and songwriting improvements came a change in Jody's vocal style. "In the beginning," she explains, "I had a straight little voice. When I decided to really gruff it up, I had to push my voice to the limit. It took some getting used to, but now I sing that way naturally. I take care of my voice, though. I never drink spirits, and," she laughs, "I try not to talk much during the day, which everyone's really pleased about!"

Rock Goddess' first recording came in 1981, when they had a tract on "Making Waves," a British compilation album featuring all female bands. The following year they signed with A&M in England, and by year's end, they had released their first album, "Rock Goddess."

Response to the album and its first single, "Heavy Metal Rock 'n' Roll" was positive both on the charts and in the press.

Rock Goddess has toured extensively and successfully, including stints with Y&T, Iron Maiden and two with Def Leopard. Through it all, the girls have remained true to themselves.

"We want to look feminine," Jody observes, "but still maintain the aggression that this music demands. We're proud of being female, and we're finding that we get the same respect that boy bands get."

For "Hell Hath No Fury," Rock Goddess recruited producer Chris Tsangarides, who has worked with Y&T (the recent "Mean Streak" LP), Thin Lizzy and others. According to Jody, Tsangarides was just the man for the job. "The songs are better this time," she says.

"We've still got that heavy backing, but with good melodies and harmonies. On the first album, we went for a raw, live feel. But on the second, we wanted a more sophisticated production, and Chris got it for us."

GOOD LISTENING—Catch the Danny Stiles nostalgia record show on WJNR (1430 AM), Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Danny spins records, remembering those all-time great vocalists and Big Bands of the 1930s and 1940s.

FALL EDUCATION & CAREER GUIDE

School to start its 115th year

The Vail-Deane School begins its 115th school year in September. This will be Vail-Deane's third year in its Mountaintop campus. The small, coeducational day school has classes from kindergarten through 12th grade emphasizing a quality academic college preparatory program as well as unique exposures in computer, art, music, and physical education.

Vail-Deane has 190 students with one class of each grade. No class is larger than 18 students and many are slightly smaller. Students develop friendships across grade levels and older students may sometimes be given the opportunity to assist younger students. This is a family helping one another to grow, develop and learn together.

Headmaster Ralph Scozzafava explained the advantages of Vail-Deane's small size. "The value of smaller schools is once again important to educators, parents and students. The impersonality of larger settings cannot be handled well by the majority of our younger people. Students want to be assured that faculty truly understand them, care about them, and have the time to work with them when they have concerns or problems.

"Other institutions may have larger campuses, more facilities and courses, but Vail-Deane's strength is in the quality of its core curriculum and in its human relationships, the healthy interaction between students, faculty and parents," Scozzafava explained.

Additional information is available from Vail-Deane's director of admissions, Susanne DeWitt, 222-5502.

Business school stays in step

Roberts-Walsh Business School, Union, has expanded from a business school that taught one course in 1962, to teaching 25 business and technical courses today, ranging from secretarial to computer programming.

The school has a staff of 50, including a Placement Department that specializes in training for interviews and job-seeking. All graduates receive free placement service.

The latest programs to be adopted by the school, in keeping with the technological movement throughout the United States, are those of an IBM PC specialist and Wang Word Processing specialist. These programs encompass complete training on the IBM Personal Computer, the IBM PC Junior, and the Wang Word Processor.

Whether one is studying to become a secretary, or medical office assistant, or is interested in becoming involved in airline and travel, it is the future intention of the Roberts-Walsh Business School to give all students a hands-on familiarity with the IBM Personal Computer or the IBM PC Junior.

Additionally, many of the courses are offered in the evening school as well.

FALL EDUCATION & CAREER GUIDE

School enrollment expected to drop by 30,000

Public school enrollments are expected to decline by approximately 30,000 students this year, state Department of Education officials have announced. Projected total enrollments for elementary and secondary schools for the 1984-85 school year are estimated at 1,117,782. This figure stood at 1,147,841 during 1983-84. However, officials expect this trend to reverse over the next decade.

"The first signs of the upward trend should be seen by 1989-90, when enrollments in grades K-12 should stabilize at 1,023,264," said Fran Pinkowski of the Office of Information Services and Support. "By 1993-94, enrollments are expected to increase to 1,056,611."

Although overall school enrollments are declining, adult education programs are expected to grow during the 1984-85 school year. Pinkowski attributed this growth to a competitive job market and fluctuating economy. Forty-five percent of the students enrolled in the adult basic skills programs are between 16 and 21. "More young adults are recognizing the importance of a high school diploma," he said.

In addition, a greater percentage of students are more likely to pursue a post-secondary education. "In 1983, approximately 64 percent of the high school graduates in New Jersey entered colleges, universities or technical/vocational trade schools — the highest percentage in five years," Pinkowski said.

"Although the actual number of high school graduates decreased by 7.8 percent between 1979 and 1983, the percentage of those students continuing their education increased by 8 percent."

The Department of Education also released the following statistical information:

- The racial/ethnic composition of 1983 New Jersey high school graduates was 71.84 percent white; 12.23 percent black; 4.84 percent Hispanic; 65 or 0.1 percent American Indian/Alaskan native; and 1.049 or 1.2 percent Asian or Pacific Islander.

- The total number of public schools in the state decreased from 2,318 in 1982-83 to 2,288 in 1983-84.

- The total number of secondary schools remained stable at 412 from 1982-83 to 1983-84.

- The total number of elementary schools dropped from 1,830 in 1982-83 to 1,807 in 1983-84.

- The number of minority dropouts decreased from 7,811 in 1982-83 to 7,394 in 1983-84.

Kean reorganizes its schools

More than 11,000 undergraduate students and about 2,000 graduate students are expected to be on hand to open the 1984-85 academic year Sept. 6 at Kean College of New Jersey — Kean's 135th year of continuous operation.

The 1984-85 year opens on a reorganized Kean College. Formerly made up of two schools, the School of Education and the School of Arts and Sciences, the college has split arts and sciences into two schools and reorganized the education school.

Now there is a School of Natural Sciences, Nursing and Health Professions, and a School of Humanities, Social and Administrative Sciences. The School of Education has become the School of Education, Technology and Related Professions.

More than 350 full-time professors, supplemented by professionals and experts drawn from major local industries, teach classes of 20 to 30 students.

Kean College computer facilities include a Prime 2250 minicomputer "main frame" systems and micro-computer laboratories with IBM-PCs.

Kean initiated courses in computer science in 1964 beginning with 11 math majors. Now the college serves more than 1,100 full and part-time computer science majors. There are approximately 1,800 students taking computer courses. Although the college opened in 1855 as a teacher education school, fewer than a third of today's students specialize in education. Most are in applied disciplines like computers and management science, allied health and in the liberal arts program.

Y keeps children busy after school

"I can explain it in one word — confidence," said Bernard May whose son, Christopher, attends the Summit YWCA's Enriched Child Care After-school Program, ECCAP. May is confident that Chris' afternoons are spent constructively and enjoyably.

ECCAP is for children in grades one through six whose parents work after school-lets out. Children do their homework after a snack. This appeals to their parents who can then have a relaxed dinner and evening with their children without the worry of homework hanging over their heads. The resources of the YWCA are also available to the ECCAP participants. This includes instructional and recreational swimming at the YW's pool and participation in YW classes, as well as cooking in the kitchen, physical education and trips.

"As the population of single working-parents and double working-parent families in Summit increased, the YWCA recognized the need for quality child-care after school," said ECCAP Coordinator Lynn Abram. Abram graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson with a degree in recreation services, specializing in commercial and therapeutic recreation. She worked with ECCAP this year, and helped establish and coordinate the YWCA's Corporate Fitness Program for working women. She is also a Physical Education instructor at the YW.

Registration is now taking place at the Summit YWCA, 79 Maple St., Summit. The cost for the program is $2 per hour; fees may be paid on a weekly or four-week basis. The YWCA, a member-agency-of-the United Way of Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights, offers scholarship aid to ECCAP.

FALL EDUCATION & CAREER GUIDE

'New' is the key word for '84-85 year at UCC

When the academic doors open at Union County College this fall, the more than 9,000 students enrolled at the college's three campuses will find a greatly expanded program of cultural events, several new courses, and a new president of the college's helm.

Classes begin Sept. 4 at the Scotch Plains, Elizabeth and Cranford campuses and Sept. 10 for the nine courses to be offered at New Providence High School. The college anticipates an enrollment of about 2,200 full-time and part-time students in Scotch Plains, about 6,200 in Cranford, and about 600 at the Elizabeth Urban Educational Center. These projections indicate enrollment will remain the same as last fall's according to John R. Farrell Jr. of Edison, dean of administrative data services.

Farrell said the college expects to enroll 4,000 full-time and 5,000 part-time students. In addition to the 9,000 students in programs leading to an associate degree, certificate or diploma, Union expects to register more than 3,000 students in non-credit continuing education courses, workshops, and seminars. The Continuing Education Department will offer over 100 courses during the fall semester. During the 1984-85 academic year, UCC will serve more than 20,000 students in all credit and non-credit courses and programs, including summer sessions and intersessions.

The new college president, Dr. Derek N. Nunney, took office July 1 and will be inaugurated in outdoor ceremonies to be conducted at the Cranford campus Oct. 16, which is also the college's Founder's Day. Nunney comes to Union from Joliet Junior College, Joliet, Ill., where he served as president since 1978.

New courses for the fall semester are Introductory Robotics I, Applications Using Microcomputers, Conversational German I, and Introduction to Pascal, a computer language course. UCC provides programs leading to the associate-in-art degree in the areas of liberal arts, biology, business, physical science, engineering, and criminal justice. Also offered are programs in the human services, business technologies, health technologies, and engineering technologies.

leading to the associate in applied science degree.

The college also will offer a new program of cultural events. The program consists of five series, each emphasizing an aspect of the arts — Distinguished Artists Series, Foreign Film Festival, Orchestra Festival, Jazz Festival, and the Mostly Music Chamber Music Series. Sponsored by the Department of Continuing Education and Community Services, with a start-up grant from the Union College Foundation, the program will offer 17 artistic events throughout the academic year.

Students will also find they will have to pay more for tuition. The college increased its tuition for Union County residents to $750 a year for full-time students and from $29 to $31 a credit hour for part-time students and proportionate increases for other New Jersey and out-of-state students.
