New road may turn Route 22 into paradise

By KENNETH SCHANKLER

Editor's note: The following is the first in a series of articles to appear in upcoming issues on the impact of the completion of a five-mile link of Interstate 78 running from the Springfield-Summit area to Berkeley Heights.

Any motorist who has traveled Route 22 in the Union County area knows the road, the only major continuous east-west route between western New Jersey and New York that runs through Union County, can be a nightmare during rush hour, particularly in the MountainSide-Springfield area. Bumper-to-bumper traffic, accidents and mechanical breakdowns seem to be the rule rather than the exception.

But try to picture Route 22 as something entirely different. See it as an easily accessible road with free-flowing traffic or as a "shopper's paradise."

That could happen, at least temporarily, when the final Union County link of Interstate 78 is opened next summer. Completion of the unfinished five-mile stretch between the Springfield-Summit area and Berkeley Heights, according to the state Department of Transportation, is scheduled for late June 1986.

It will have the effect of siphoning off a lot of traffic from Route 22, Springfield Township Engineer Harold Reed said.

"What 78's going to mean is an easier commute for people who live further out," Reed said. "I think the big impact is going to be further out."

Reed pointed out that with the diversion of traffic from Route 22, the areas around I-78 could be opened up to massive industrial and residential development.

"On the other side," Reed said, "it (Route 22) could become a shopper's paradise."

Captain Robert Foster, Union Township traffic safety officer, said he was taking a "wait and see" attitude, though.

"My own personal opinion is that most of the traffic that runs (Route 22) is local traffic," Foster said.

Reed added that "maybe" there will be a reduction in truck traffic, since most of those vehicles travel long distances. Truck drivers will probably welcome completion of a long, wide highway with no traffic lights, he said.

There is no Union exit or entrance to Route 78. The only access near Union is in the Springfield Avenue area of Springfield. That will lessen the overall impact of the road in Union, Foster said.

Diverting tractor-trailers off of Route 22 and onto Route 78 might make Route 22 a safer road to travel, according to Armand Fiorletti of the Union County engineering department.

"There's got to be a decrease in truck traffic," Fiorletti said, "which is a safety hazard. The safety of Route 22 will be enhanced by Route 78."

There will also be an environmental benefit to traffic moving onto the limited-access Interstate, Fiorletti said.

Since truck drivers have to be constantly downshifting their gears for traffic lights and tie-ups, a greater amount of pollution results.

Without the truck traffic, air pollution and noise will be greatly reduced.

"It'll just be that the traffic will flow a lot quicker," Fiorletti said.

New Providence Road in MountainSide may benefit the most from the opening of the new road, since that is where most of the traffic that exits Route 78, where it currently ends in Berkeley Heights, enters Route 22.

Fiorletti, however, said he doesn't see a dramatic increase in residential development along either roadway.

"I don't think the area is conducive to residential development," Fiorletti said, explaining that most areas need for that type of construction are already developed.

"You see office buildings going up and I'm sure development will be enhanced a little more," Fiorletti said.

Reed said most of the new road's impact would probably be felt to the west of Union County.

"I think the big impact is going to be further out," Reed said. "The intersection of Route 78 and Route 287 (in Somerset County) may be the area of the future."

In citing the parallel Route 46 and Route 80 highways in the northern part of the state as an example, Reed said that congestion on both 78 and 287 could return as development stretches to western extremes of New Jersey.

"You may end up with 78 being as bottled up as 22 is now," Reed said.

Town resident held on ship

Family anxiously awaits word on hostage's fate

By ELIZABETH SEP

The hostage situation involving several area residents appeared to be over at press time yesterday. Reports indicated that the Italian woman, Teresa Herkalo, was released by the terrorists and returned to her home in Springfield.

Among the 600 passengers and crew members believed to be on the ship were:

— Achille Lauro, wife of Mildred Lauro of Springfield and Seymour and Viola Meakin of Union. They were part of a group of 11 friends who were traveling together.

— Mrs. Meakin's husband, Frank Meakin, and another Springfield couple, Minna and Max Schulte, were on a tour of the pyramids when the ship was seized. They were reported safe in Cairo during the crisis.

The terrorists who took over the boat were reported to be members of the "Palestine Liberation Front," believed to be a splinter group of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Reports indicated yesterday morning that the terrorists had returned to Egypt, agreeing to surrender to Egyptian authorities and free their hostages.

Approximately 11 of the Americans taking the cruise own condominiums in Long Branch and were traveling together. Some of the tourists included the Meakins and Mildred Hodes, had not taken the pyramid tour and remained on board when the ship was seized.

Mrs. Meakin is the sister of Springfield resident, Frank Meakin, whose wife was among those aboard the ship. Hodes owns an insurance firm in Orange.

On Tuesday, Mr. Hodes was quoted as saying that his primary concern was "getting my family out of there."

With reports of a possible end to the hostage crisis filtering in yesterday, Carol Hodes, daughter of the Springfield couple of Wednesday, a press manager at the Meadowlands race track in East Rutherford, was anxiously awaiting word of a resolution of the situation. She was quoted as having said she was "hanging in there."

When contacted Tuesday, Beverly Hodes of Springfield, sister-in-law of Frank, was "anxiously awaiting word" about the status of her relatives.

The group from the metropolitan area flew from New York to Genoa, Italy, on Oct. 3 to take the cruise.

Unconfirmed reports indicated that another Springfield couple may have been scheduled for the trip.

During the Springfield Township Committee meeting Tuesday, Township Commissioner Stanley Kalsh noted that among those reported onboard the hijacked ship were township residents.

"I am sure the everyone in town shares my shock about what has come to pass to one of our own," Kalsh said.

Freeholder hopefuls debate

By MARK HAVILAND

Union County Board of Freeholders members discussed their interpretations of the issues Sunday at Kean College, sponsored by the Union County Women's Political Caucus.

Board Chairman G. Richard Malgrán, a Republican, opened his remarks by referring to the board's recent 7-2 vote in favor of removing County Manager Louis J. Cahill.

"We've recently gone through a very difficult time as far as the county manager goes," Malgrán said, but defended the ouster as successful.

On another issue, Boright promised that the freeholders would move to improve the county's affirmative action programs.

James J. Fulmer, a Rahway city councilman, also criticized the present state of county government.

"Due to phony political posturing, taxpayers of Union County will pay for more this year," he said. He proposed expanding day care facilities and women's programs, suggesting that the county fund them. He provoked criticism when he suggested a day care center in the site of the present county jail, when that facility is located and the prisoners moved to the new jail.

Boright responded by reminding Fulmer that the jail was found inadequate for prisoners as it would not be satisfactory for children. Fulmer explained that he had meant the site could be used only after it was completely cleaned and renovated.

The independent candidate for the Assembly seat, Kean College student Fred Palensar, 25, explained that his platform was promoting American jobs, and a "Buy American" policy for the state.

An ordinance to create a handicapped parking space on Colonial Terrace was introduced at Tuesday's meeting of the Springfield Township Committee.

The ordinance, which will be up for a public hearing, and final adoption at the committee's Oct. 22 meeting, creates a handicapped parking space in the front of the home at 30 Colonial Terrace.

In other business, the committee approved two professional service resolutions. One resolution hired attorney Edward G. Rosenblatt, at the rate of $75 per hour, to handle township law appeal cases.

The other resolution hired the Newark law firm of Kraus & Hughes as legal counsel. The firm will prepare ordinances that authorize the issuance of notes and bonds, and will be paid at a rate based on a percentage of the bond amount in each ordinance.

The committee put the firm to work immediately by authorizing the counsel to prepare a bond ordinance for the purchase of a civil defense van for the township.

The Winthrop, N.Y., Volunteer Fire Department was the lone bidder for the purchase of the township Fire Department's 1988 LaFrance aerial ladder fire engine. The vehicle was sold to the upstate New York department for $11,500, a much higher amount than the $3,250 that was bid for the truck in June.

In accordance with the terms of an ordinance approved last month, the committee appointed Fire Capt. William Grus as the township fire official. The officer will oversee the notes and bonds, and will be paid at a rate based on a percentage of the bond amount in each ordinance.

No looking back for Glaser

By MIL THAMMER

Pick of the LPs, "Past the Point of No Return," by Jim Glaser (MCA/Noble Vision Records).

To say that the last three years have been kind to Jim would be a major understatement for in those 36 months since he teamed up with producer Don Tolle and Noble Vision Records the affable, soft-spoken Nebraska native has enjoyed the kind of success that other recording artists would be happy with as a career.

The statistics Jim Glaser has piled up since the release of his first Noble Vision single in October, 1982, are practically unparalleled in today's field of country music: six hit singles in a row off of one album; that LP, "The Man in the Mirror," remains on the country album charts after an almost unprecedented one-and-a-half years; the recipient of the Academy of Country Music's "Top New Male Vocalist" award in 1984; and the icing on the cake with a number one country single in "You're Gettin' To Me Again."

Some of the media's reaction to all of this was to label him as a "25-year overnight success" or to simply call it a comeback; but to Jim Glaser it was more of a re-birth than a return. Written off by many of country music's powers-that-be, Jim had something to prove. With producer Don Tolle as minister and the Noble Vision label as his pulpit, Glaser had made true believers out of the doubting Thomases and made the faithful call out a resounding "Amen!"

"Trying to follow-up such a smash may have intimidated lesser souls, but not Jim Glaser. Armed with a load of great new songs, he and producer Tolle assembled an impressive cast of players and began his own career as a singer. Several other, familiar songwriters are present, as well as some new ones, each of which get that special Glaser touch infused into their songs.

With concert and television appearances, great radio and press reaction, and a hot new album, Jim Glaser is poised on the brink of major stardom. The LP's title "Past the Point of No Return," is indeed prophetic, for there's no looking back on his part; just a straight shot to the top!

Fans of Jim Glaser will be pleased to know that the new album is chock-full of the sounds they've come to expect: crisp guitars, gorgeous harmonies, and all topped by that silky-smooth voice of Jim, himself. Republican Freeholder William H. Eldridge, a former Berkeley Heights mayor, stated that the hospital "has been continually deteriorating and that conditions at the jail were "staggering." The jail conditions are endangering county citizens, he said later, while claiming he favored a "first class" health facility to replace the 74-year-old hospital.

Incumbent Democrat Walter Boright, a Clark teacher, anticipated the new hospital will have 320,000 patient days of care, a one-third increase over the present facility. He criticized Eldridge for resigning a committee, while he was mayor, that studied the hospital situation.

On another issue, Boright promised that the freeholders would move to improve the county's affirmative action programs.

Opening eyes

People often try to hide their problems in hopes that if no one notices them, they will cease to exist. The difficulties of others are often overlooked with the idea that if you don't see them, they're not there. Some problems, though, just won't go away no matter how much they're kept under wraps. The horror of Huntington's Disease, a physically and mentally debilitating neurological affliction, is one such problem. As many as 20,000 people in this country suffer its effects, which include a deterioration of motor skills. Another 100,000 live in fear that the hereditary illness will strike them sometime during their lives.

The late folk singer Woody Guthrie was one of its most well-known victims. According to Gloria Sherman, a township resident who is head of the New Jersey chapter of the National Huntington's Disease Association, the biggest task facing the organization is bringing the disease into the public's awareness so that it can be dealt with openly. More than financial contributions, Sherman said, what is needed is public assistance in helping Huntington's Disease victims live their lives as normally as possible.

All that is needed is for people to give a few hours a week doing fund-raising, distributing information or even handling office tasks. The more people who volunteer to help, the more Huntington's Disease victims and sufferers of other such illnesses will feel a part of the world around them. To open our eyes to the difficulties of Huntington's Disease sufferers could go a long way toward eventually finding a cure. Then, people won't have to live wishing it and other similar afflictions would just go away.

Cleanup crisis

Cleaning up New Jersey's toxic waste dumps is a staggering task in itself, but now that awesome responsibility may become even more difficult due to another type of "dumping" crisis that has developed in the state's insurance industry. Cleanup firms and hazardous waste firms with liability policies for toxic waste cleanup have been getting "dumped" in frightening numbers by lawsuit-conscious insurance companies, which recently began cancelling or refusing to provide coverage for any work related to the removal of toxic wastes. The cancellations by insurance companies came in response to changes in the federal Superfund law, which exposes cleanup firms to potential liability. As the insurance companies have pointed out in their defense, providing the coverage has become too risky, since the law would enable someone suffering from medical problems attributed to exposure at a hazardous waste site to file suit against a cleanup firm 20 or even 30 years from now.

The implications of this situation are obvious. In a state that leads the nation in both the number and the degree of hazard posed by its toxic waste sites, the task of cleanup has been dealt a crippling blow. While work currently under way at 38 of the state's toxic waste sites will continue as a result of Gov. Thomas Kean's insurance emergency declaration last month, any additional cleanup could be set back for years, causing further damage. According to Kenneth Merin, director of the state office of policy and planning, besides the ongoing cleanup projects at the 38 dump sites, "future projects have ground to a halt." Merin has argued that the only solution is for New Jersey to self insure.

Although the economic responsibility of paying for damages related to toxic waste health problems could be devastating over the long term, until another solution can be found, the state has no choice but to take prompt action to institute self-insurance for all future toxic cleanup projects. Otherwise, the cleanup process — already plagued over the years by constant delays and mismanagement among both private companies and the state Department of Environmental Protection — will slacken to a dangerous pace. The preservation of our environment and the health of the state's residents and future generations cannot withstand any further delays.

Letters to the editor

'Vote for Shapiro is vote for nothing'
Well summer is over, but the hot air persists. Where from? From Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro. His TV commercials start out with the word "bull." Well that's just what he is handing everyone, a lot of bull. He should start in his own back yard when it comes to cleaning up. The old court house, the Hall of Records and the new courts building are riddled with roaches, mice and just plain filth. Why, he has had hundreds of county employees, and I was one of them, and no one was reprimanded. He is saving money, but where is it? He gives bonuses to all the people on the "executive floor." Why? I worked there for 23 years faithfully, and my reward was a 36-day layoff notice and, when I left on the last day, I didn't get a goodbye from my boss. For the last five years, I have seen truckloads of office furniture being delivered everyday and carting by the hundreds of yards and it's still sitting on the street. He gave himself a hefty raise in his salary, but the county employees have gotten nothing. If heaven forbid, he should become governor, he will ruin the state of New Jersey as he has Essex County. He even has the old court house up for sale, so he can collect rent on it. I could go on and on about the way he runs the county, but it would take forever to write. A vote for Shapiro is a vote for nothing. Vote for Kean and we will stay in the black and not in the red. Senior citizens, beware. He does contribute to all senior citizen centers, only because he needs their vote, not out of the goodness of his heart. Don't be fooled by his youth and cuteness, underneath lies a heart of ice. I know.

Candidates say forum not provided
Last week's Springfield Leader stands as an example of contradictory journalism. On the one hand, in its editorial, the Leader called for an issue-oriented campaign by the candidates for Township Committee. On the other hand, the Leader failed to provide a forum for discussion of those issues. We submitted a well-written, hard-hitting, issue-oriented article for publication in last week's Leader. That article explained information that the public has a right to know; however, because of layout and composing negligence, entire paragraphs of that article were arranged haphazardly. The result was incomprehensible. If the Leader wants an issue-oriented campaign, the Leader must provide the forum for discussing those issues. When the Leader fails to fulfill that obligation, it cheats both us and the public.

Washington report

Government declares war on narcotics
By REP. MATT HAINALDO
R-10th District
Drug abuse in the United States is at epidemic proportions and exceeds that of any other country in the industrialized world, according to a study by the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control. The report estimated that 20 million Americans use marijuana regularly, approximately 14 to 20 million are regular users of hallucinogens, and another 6 million abuse stimulants, sedatives, tranquilizers and other prescription drugs. Since 1970, the committee study reported that illegal drug sales have increased at an annual clip of about $10 billion. Gross sales for 1984 were put at $10 billion, with most of the traffic in heroin, cocaine and marijuana. How to effectively deal with drug abuse is a major problem facing the federal government. Concerned about the limited success of traditional programs to curb the sale and use of these narcotics, Congress is about to take final action on legislation increasing the involvement of the U.S. military in the war on narcotics. The Department of Defense authorization bill, which has already been approved by the Senate and is ready for a vote in the House, includes two provisions that strongly supported expanding the role of the military in dealing with the drug problem. One provision would give the military a full-time, if somewhat limited, presence on drug interdiction missions. It requires the secretary of Defense to use the Air Force Reserve to provide radar surveillance for civilian drug enforcement agencies. The measure further authorized funds for 500 additional Coast Guard personnel, and directs the Navy to provide at least one Coast Guard cutter with arrest authority on board every Navy ship operating in drug-infested waters. Enforcement agencies must call in the Coast Guard before interdiction operations. Smugglers and their boats in the law have been made more difficult to catch. Drug abuse is becoming an increasingly serious social force in the U.S. and this type of action is needed to bolster our law enforcement agencies which are often outnumbered, outgunned and out-fueled by the drug smuggler. As one of my colleagues noted in arguing for adoption of the amendment: "We are dealing with an enemy that writes off as necessary business expenses a multi-million dollar airplane. We are dealing with an enemy that sells nearly $1 billion of his drugs, based on the United States every year. And we are dealing with an enemy that pays a price of $100,000 just to fly one load of cocaine into this country." By enhancing the drug interdiction effort through expanded use of unarmored personnel, we are providing an improved plan of attack against the airplane and marine drug smugglers. This will give our civilian drug enforcement agencies a long overdue helping hand. In addition to the anti-narcotics provisions contained in the Defense Department authorization, Congress included $11 million in the previously approved supplemental an-

Dems express 'shock'

At the opening of their campaign headquarters, Democratic candidates for Borough Council, Tom Englilerra and Kerry Zielski, charged that their opponents have started "to sling mud" by making allegations with unfounded charges. In a joint statement the candidates said, "We are shocked at the comments of our opponents regarding political crimes and the huge raises given by the (mayoral) administration. We do challenge the appointees referred to as cronies, and how much was the huge raise they received?" the candidates continued. "Such comments, we feel, are totally out of order unless they have facts to substantiate the charges." Englilerra and Zielski added "We must now ask the residents. Do you want an incumbent and his runningmate, who make such outrageous charges without substance to be the leaders of the community? We ask our opponents, in fact they allege they are supporting the support they have gotten from those who are the opponents of the senior citizens project which they allege they are supporting." The candidates' coordinators, also announced that a good reception was received by Englilerra and Zielski at the Kenilworth Senior Citizens' Picnic, held Sunday, Sept. 29th, sponsored by the Livio Mancino and Friends Association.

Katz, Pieper say Dems 'danger' to town

Editor's note: Due to a composition error in last week's newspaper, the following is being reprinted in its entirety.

Joe Katz and Am Pieper, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, have issued the following statement.

"The Democrat-controlled Township Committee and our Democrat opponents are a danger to your health, safety and welfare. A recent letter to the editor of the Springfield Leader, blasted the Township Committee for allowing unsafe, unhealthy, and disgusting working conditions within the Police Department. We agree, but the writer didn't go far enough. The disgusting working conditions in the Municipal Building date back to 1970. During 10 years of Democrat domination and two years of Republican control, the Township Committee ignored sanitary sewer problems which poured human waste and raw sewage into the police locker and lunch rooms.

"Complaints about these conditions prompted a recent inspection of the Municipal Building by the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). The township was cited for some 30 safety and health violations and was ordered to correct the violations within 10 days. Upon inspection, however, OSHA determined that for all violations had been corrected. Such callous disregard for the health and safety of both township employees and the visiting public is unacceptable.

"Democrat inability to plan is dangerous in other ways as well. The Springfield First Aid Squad is in urgent need of volunteers; it is seriously understaffed, especially during the hours of a.m. and 6 p.m. During those hours, three days a week, either Millaro's squad or Mountainside's squad must cover for Springfield. Delays are unavoidable—those squads must travel to get here and usually require a police escort to guide them to the scene of an emergency. In almost all cases, however, it is not a first aid squad that arrives first at the scene of a life-threatening emergency; it is the police. Minutes—often seconds—can mean the difference between life and death. Yet the police are provided with no training in CPR or first aid after attending the police academy (see how many can show you a currently valid first aid or CPR certification). Thus, at any time, and certainly during the critical hours of 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., you may very well be in the care of a police officer who has been deprived of training in lifesaving techniques. This vital area has been overlooked for years, despite the threat it poses to your welfare.

"Accordingly, responsibility to plan for your safety threatens you and your family each day. Here's another example. The township recently purchased a new ladder-smoked truck for the Fire Department, but the truck does not fit in the fire house. Instead, it is kept in the last bay of the Town Garage, about 200 yards away. If that apparatus is needed for a fire, firefighters must run 200 yards to the garage, open the door, slowly roll out the truck and then depart. At best, precious minutes are lost. At worst, the truck might not be usable. If cars are parked in front of an adjacent garage door, the new truck might not be able to make the turn out of the garage. And where does that leave you? Response to a fire is delayed, or even worse, the truck could be captive to its own garage.

COORDINATOR CHOSEN—Ely Mullins has accepted the position of coordinator for Assemblyman Peter J. Genova, R-21, in Springfield. A member of the Springfield Municipal Committee, Mullins has been active in many local campaigns. I am enthusiastic about Peter Genova's candidacy. I met him when he was running in the special election last spring and have watched him become an outstanding spokesman for the 21st district.

In 1974, the two Republican minority members of the Township Committee proposed a $250,000 addition to the Municipal Building which would have expanded the fire house. Their proposal was voted down by the Democrats. How much will it cost today?

"Remember the urgent request by our police officers to have the New Jersey Police Training Commission study department procedures and recommend improvements? After months of Democrat reluctance, the study was finally conducted in 1980, during the 10 years of Democrat domination. The commission report was recently reported in Public Safety magazine. The greatest threat to the average citizen is not the fire in the home or the criminal, but the greatest threat to the average citizen is the inability to get emergency care at a time when minutes can mean lives.

"Our Democrat opponents claim that they deserve to be elected because 'Democrats get things done.' Last week, we showed you how the Democrats rushed the teen center into service without any thought for the safety of your children. What a way to get things done! Unlike our opponents, who are content to run on the record of the Democrat incumbents, who are not running on anyone else's record, we are running on our own merits and qualifications. We will not take credit and we will not accept blame for what has or has not been done by present or past Republican members of the Township Committee.

"Our fire and police service should be nothing less than the best we can possibly offer. We intend to see to that! We are committed to securing continuous, in-service training for municipal employees. We are committed to reducing police and fire response times by implementing the '911' universal calling system. We are committed to implementing the recommendations of the Police Training Commission, if currently relevant, or to invite a new study. We are committed to providing a safe, secure and healthful working environment for municipal employees. We are committed to providing you with safe, secure and healthful municipal facilities.

"We recognize the importance and benefit of proper planning and management. We recognize the importance and benefit of exercising sound business judgment. If the Township Committee had properly planned, if it had properly managed, and if it had exercised sound business judgment, the problems discussed above would not have occurred. Proper planning would have permitted us to determine where our community should have been going, and when it would have gotten there and how much it would have cost. But then, if you don't know where you're going, any road will get you there.

"The Township has been traveling 'any' road for the past 12 years. We are committed to planning for the right road," the candidates concluded.

Garcia Act brings clock to Kenilworth

Kenilworth borough employees will soon be punching a time clock at the beginning and end of each workday thanks to an important new piece of federal legislation which goes into effect Oct. 15.

The federal act, applicable to state and local government employees and retroactive to April 15, may also cost Kenilworth and municipalities like it an additional $4 million annually, according to preliminary estimates.

In commenting on the Garcia Act, which caused serious discussion at Monday night's council work session, Kenilworth Councilman Vincent P. Mancino stated that the act will necessitate stricter recordkeeping of employee workweek. Basically, what it is saying is that you can no longer carry compensatory time on the books.

According to Borough Clerk Marge Adler, full-time borough employees have a 40-hour work week.

Poli went on to explain that "There is pending federal legislation to exclude municipalities from it. But nobody is optimistic about the federal legislation being approved at this point."

In keeping with this point of view, Mayor Livio Mancino has directed the borough clerk to proceed with soliciting time clocks as soon as practical because compliance with the act will necessitate stricter recordkeeping of employee workweek.

Mancino states, "I am concerned that it will have a devastating effect on municipalities." He also says, "Jersey City estimates that its costs will be about $4 million." He further states that any expenses generated in response to the legislation will have to come from emergency appropriations. He also pointed out that all contracts will have to be renegotiated.

Poli predicted that the Supreme Court decision "could have a significant effect on next year's taxes." He concedes that Kenilworth may not be far behind Jersey City estimates of $4 million in additional expenses. He does say, however, that "the state of New Jersey may take these costs outside the cap next year, which might provide some relief, but still will have an impact on Kenilworth taxes.

Borough Assemblyman Michael

Bynack commented, "This is another job that will be added on to the administration."

Another topic which prompted strong debate was Poli's suggestion to change the borough's insurance agent. He called for a resolution to have Kenilworth's municipal insurance coverage assigned to another broker, M. J. Lieberman, a company that Poli believes will do a better job. The mayor maintained that such changes should be investigated before taking such action, however.

At the same meeting, it was agreed that Kenilworth will purchase a street sweeper, at a cost of $25,000, from the Zimmerman Company. A resolution to that effect was approved by the council at its regular meeting Tuesday.

County, Rahway move on recovery facility

Rahway City Administrator Joseph M. Hartnett and Union County Solid Waste Coordinator Joseph E. Kazar announced recently that county and city administrative staffs have completed a detailed agenda for a formal memorandum of understanding on Union County's proposal to locate a resource recovery plant on Route 1 in Rahway. In addition, the facility has received the endorsement of the Union County Economic-Development Corporation.

"This is a significant achievement," the officials said in a joint statement. "Because, for the first time, the county and city have a formal, written document setting forth all of the issues and conditions involved in the consideration of resource recovery siting."

The agenda lists more than 40 items for negotiation between the county and the city, with major emphasis on host community benefits and conditions that would be met if Rahway accepts the facility. Among the items to be discussed are:

- Substantial payments by the facility operator in lieu of taxes in the first year, with a formula for annual increases thereafter.
- Permanent community improvement either as a lump sum payment or for specific projects such as the reconstruction of Madden Field to provide new playing fields for baseball, men's and women's softball, and soccer — with lighting for night play which would be powered by the resource recovery plant itself; a contribution to the JPK Center, the facility's nearest neighbor; a contribution to Rahway Landmarks for renovation of the old Rahway Theater into a new Union County Arts Center; restructuring of Veteran's Field, and improvements to Green Field.

"A traffic control plan for the county and the city which would ensure no adverse impact on any residential areas.

"An environmental safety plan which would allow for city and county monitoring, as well as adherence to all state environmental regulations.

"Preservation of aesthetically-pleasing site conditions, including trees, shrubs, and modern architecture.

"Purchase of all water from the Rahway Water Division, which, Hartnett noted, would have a major impact on keeping water rates low in the community.

"Job opportunities with hiring preference given, wherever possible, to Rahway residents, and then to county and state residents.

Implementation of a resource recovery task force to guide the project and to insure that all city and county conditions are met.

"A prohibition against any expansion of the proposed facility beyond what would be required to serve the needs of Union County.

Of the remaining items, Hartnett singled out one suggestion by county officials for special praise.

"The county has suggested that, if feasible, all trucks will be color-coded according to the routes they 'can use,' he said. "This is a great idea to give the public an additional measure of confidence that truck traffic will not be a problem, because not only the police but any citizen will be able to easily see if a truck is on a street on which it does not belong."

Kazar indicated that, included with the formal agenda, is a draft traffic plan for review. "We believe this draft traffic proposal clearly demonstrates that a plan can be devised, which will not cause any problems for Rahway or any other community," he said.

Hartnett pointed out that before a memorandum of understanding is worked out, city officials will seek input from citizens and the mayor would hold a formal public hearing on it.

"We want to give every resident a chance to make suggestions about the conditions Rahway should set for resource recovery," said Hartnett.

"With all the cooperation the county has given in this effort, we expect that negotiations can be concluded in the next few weeks."

Rahway residents will decide on the recovery plant's future in a November referendum.

They have been urged by the Union County Economic-Development Corporation to approve the facility.

William G. Franklin, UEDC president, recently wrote a letter on behalf of the corporation "in express its strong support" for the resource recovery plant.

"Clearly, the problem of solid waste disposal has troubled the full community," wrote Franklin. "From 'service taken for granted' to 'situation too long overlooked' to its current status as a 'full-blown crisis.'"

"While Union County has an impressive list of features and benefits, it is obvious that failure to devise a method of disposing of the things we throw away can literally strangle our economy," said Franklin.

"However, we believe Union County is fortunate in several respects. The fact that we have a freeshedder board which has moved aggressively to resolve the solid waste crisis. In Rahway, we have a city which recognizes not only an ideal location as a resource recovery host community, but also the significant revenue-producing and cost-saving benefits that could accrue to it, and a sensible, safe, efficient technology exists with which to address the problem.

"In light of these considerations, we would like to urge the county and Rahway to continue working cooperatively toward a realistic solution to the problem of solid waste disposal," Franklin concluded.

Soviet artist's life

The following are reviews of books currently available at the Springfield Public Library.

SOVIET ARTISTS
By Galina Vishnevskaya.
A remarkable life unfolds against the repressive political and cultural background of the Soviet Union. It is that of Galina Vishnevskaya, born in 1926, who had a miserable, poverty-stricken childhood. Her father, a soldier, and at 18, married a musician, age 40. Finding her first voice teacher was a turning point in her career. With a recognized talent and new confidence, she determined, spirited Galina was accepted by the Bolshoi Youth Group, at 23. Soon after she was cast as Lorelei in "Fidelio."

Government officials vied with one another to have her sing at receptions (sign of success) which introduced her to the Soviet elite, among them Bulganin, chief of State, but Galina was imperious to his blandishments and to the requests by the KGB that she spy on other artists, even though they might improve her unpleasant living conditions. Her career, however, progressed, and suddenly she was permitted to perform in Prague.

There she met the gifted cellist Rostropovich, who courted her ardently and married her. They both achieved national and international fame. But their lives were marred by their support of government-persecuted artists such as Prokofiev, and Solentzinsky (sudden concert cancellations, denial of recognition by the press, relegation of performances to the backwoods, etc.). They were finally forced to appeal for a two-year leave of absence, with their two daughters. In 1974, this top-ranking prima donna and the superb cellist-conductor were stripped of their Soviet citizenship.

TRUE OR FALSE?

The Educational Testing Service (ETS), which first appeared in 1926, is one of the most powerful institutions in the United States. It publishes numerous nationally known tests, the most popular being the S.A.T., or Scholastic Aptitude Test, which sets standards for "maintaining the cult of mental measurement."

The author claims that the test-makers (ETS) are an unregulated, tax-free monopoly, and that they are not what they pretend to be.

Business and youth: partners for future

As the labor market demands an increasing number of skilled, knowledgeable high school graduates, educators have been forced to look beyond the classroom for training experiences that will ensure a successful future for children.

Many local businesses and industries are providing the experience students need to enter the job market, according to Dr. Gordon Ascher, assistant commissioner, Division of Vocational Education, New Jersey State Department of Education.

Businesses want young people who can adapt easily to the work place," he said. "If they are to succeed in the highly competitive job market, students need more than just the basic academic skills — reading, writing, computing and communication. They also need to know how to function on the job."

In recent years, New Jersey's vocational education programs have been rapidly expanding into the private sector and tapping the resources offered by local businesses and industries. Corporations contribute to student education in a variety of ways, including participating in cooperative education programs; serving on advisory committees, donating their company's professional expertise or equipment; and establishing scholarships, Ascher explained.

"Probably the most popular and effective partnership programs are those that integrate on-the-job experience with classroom training," Ascher said. "This is an ideal arrangement. Both the students and the employers benefit."

According to "Education for Tomorrow's Jobs," a study conducted in 1984 by the National Research Council, students who participate in work programs while they are still in school tend to fare better once they graduate and enter the work world full time.

"Last year, more than 14,000 cooperative education students in New Jersey earned approximately $40 million in such programs," Ascher stated. "Offices, retailing establishments, manufacturing, construction and service businesses all provide cooperative education experiences for New Jersey students."

In addition, hospitals, nursing homes, child care centers, farms, garden centers, hotels/motels and fast food restaurants offer students valuable experiences in related occupations," Ascher noted.

"As members of local advisory committees, company employees advise schools on what should be included in vocational courses, and the type of equipment on which students should be trained if they are to keep up with changes in the work place. They also provide advice concerning employment etiquette," he explained. "Their guidance assures that the programs offered to students provide adequate preparations for current and future jobs."

Scoliosis Month proclaimed

Gov. Thomas Kean has proclaimed October "Scoliosis Awareness Month" in New Jersey, as requested by the New Jersey Chiropactic Society (NJCS).

"Early detection is the best defense against scoliosis," noted Dr. David Tannenbaum. In keeping with the public service nature of Scoliosis Awareness Month, the Springfield Chiropactic Center will offer complimentary scoliosis screening examinations throughout October at its office.

"Scoliosis is an abnormal lateral curvature of the spine that can distort and cripple," stated Dr. Donald Monetti. "In 1983, school testing in New Jersey revealed 16,000 cases of suspected scoliosis."

Parents of civic organizations wishing to learn more about scoliosis and detection procedures may call toll free to the scoliosis hot line, 1-800-624-4975 to arrange for a free brochure or audio-visual presentation. Complimentary scoliosis screening examinations can be scheduled by calling the Springfield Chiropactic Center at 664-7676.

BUILDING PRIDE IN NEW JERSEY

As your Assemblymen, Chuck Hardwick and Peter Genova are part of Governor Kean's team that has helped build pride in New Jersey. Hardwick and Genova have worked hard on issues of importance to you and they get results.

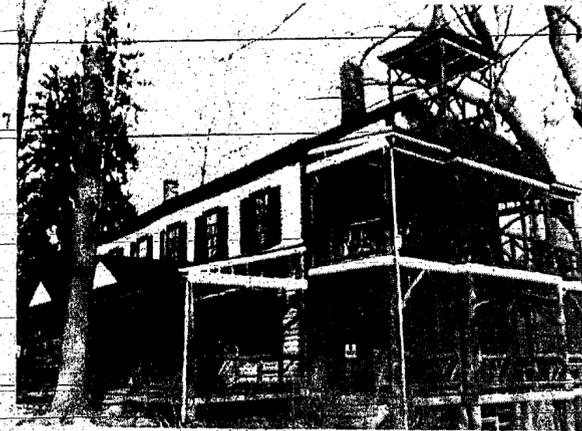

New Jersey has pride in our environment. Hardwick and Genova have pushed to make our state among the safest and cleanest in the nation, by cleaning up hazardous toxic waste sites and improving sewage treatment and solid waste disposal facilities. New Jersey has pride in our economy. Hardwick and Genova support Governor Kean's 10% Tax Cut, a result of a booming state economy that has cut unemployment and created a $500 million surplus in state government. Governor Tom Kean, Assembly Republican Leader Chuck Hardwick and Assemblyman Peter Genova are a team. A team that has tackled tough issues. A team that has made New Jersey a better place to live.

TOUR HIGHLIGHT—This church/general store of Felville, circa 1845, with Adirondack-style porch and tower added during the Glenside Park area is one of several buildings to be included in the tour of Felville as part of the Union County Preservation Conference Nov. 2.

Tour highlight of conference

A tour of Felville, a National Register listed, mid-19th century mill town, and a preview of the county's plans for its restoration and development will be the highlight of "Preservation and Your Town," a preservation awareness conference to be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Nov. 2 in the Watchung Reservation. The conference, planned by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs of the Department of Parks and Recreation, is aimed at informing the public of the benefits of historic preservation to both the individual and the community.

Topics to be discussed by noted experts in the field of historic preservation will include the county's architectural and historical resources; contemporary trends in preservation, organizing for successful preservation, using preservation techniques to improve property values and revitalize "dormant" neighborhoods, and the role of government in protecting historic resources and assisting the preservationist.

Addressing these and other topics will be F. Robert Perry, acting director of the Office of New Jersey Heritage of the Department of Environmental Protection; Sandy Brown, a New Jersey adviser to the National Trust for Historic Preservation; and Michael May of the Mid-Atlantic Regional Office of the National Trust. In addition, Ralph H. Jones, director of Corporate Relations of E.B. Squibb and Sons, will moderate a panel of preservationists who will discuss the topic, "Preservation Problems in Our Town."

The day's activities will begin at the Trailside Nature and Science Center, a building designed by the renowned architect Michael Graves. Following lunch at Nixster's Barn in Felville, Dan Bertner, Union County parks planner, will give an illustrated talk on the history and development of Felville, the paper mill established by David Felt in 1845. Herbert Oppenheimer, of Oppenheimer and Vogelstein, the New York firm currently preparing a master plan for Felville, will be on hand to discuss the possibilities for its restoration and development.

The conference will conclude with a tour of Felville, which will include the church/general store, the mill site, and the workers' cottages. Views of the mill site will be seen by participants from the Adirondack-style porches added to the cottages during the late Victorian period when Felville became a resort known as Glenside Park. Although not deserted, the village has been known as "The Deserted Village" in recent years.

Registration for the conference must be made in advance through the Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs at 300 North Ave. East, Westfield 07090. A $7 registration fee includes the conference, the tour, and lunch.

YOUR INSURANCE DOLLAR...

Question: Are the two incumbents serious when they are shown with the Governor as part of the team that has been building pride in New Jersey? aware of the insurance mess in this state which affects individuals as well as businesses?

Answer: YES! The Team has admitted knowing about the mess but what have they done? Nothing check the record.

I want to repeat the present No Fault Insurance System and return to the old Tort System. This action alone should reduce your Auto Insurance Premium 20 to 40%. Then, I will sponsor legislation to address the method of rating all the personal, as well as, the business liability, especially the Workmen Comp and General and Product Liability, with a limit on the amount of any claim.

If I should be honored to be elected your Assemblyman in the 21st District I will sponsor a bill addressing the Insurance Mess.

County warns consumers against unscrupulous contractors

The Union County Division of Consumer Affairs reports a sharp increase in the number of complaints received in the past few months about home improvement contractors. Many of these complaints allege poor workmanship, long delays between the start and satisfactory completion of a job, and difficulty in getting some contractors to return to correct problems under warranty.

The Division of Consumer Affairs, within the Department of Public Safety, issues a consumer advisory to all county residents who plan on having their homes renovated, repaired, modernized or painted, and want to avoid coming to the division with a complaint, possibly when it's too late.

"Home improvements are often expensive, and you may have to live with the results for a long time, so don't rush into anything. Shop around before committing yourself. The first rate of the best for consumers is know your contractor," said Ellen Bloom of Springfield, director of the division.

"Your best reference is a personal acquaintance who has had the work done by a contractor at a fair price. Be wary of door-to-door solicitations. If you don't know anyone who has used the services of a particular contractor, ask for a list of local customers, and go see the work yourself. Don't rely solely on phone recommendations or advertisements. A little legwork will be well worth the trouble," added Bloom.

"Call the Consumer Hot Line at 688-2266 to find out if any complaints have been lodged against a particular contractor. This valuable information source will tell you how many complaints have been brought against the company in the past two years and, equally important, how those complaints were resolved."

"Once you have gotten familiar with a contractor's work and decided to hire him, you should know that New Jersey law requires the contractor to provide you with a written contract for all improvement work that costs more than $25. This law, which was passed with the full support of the National Association of the Remodeling Industry, says that your contract must include the following information:

- The legal name and business address of the seller and, if applicable, of his authorized sales representative or agent. An answering service phone number or post office box address is not sufficient.
- A full and clear description of the work to be done and materials to be used, including all pertinent information about principal products, fixtures and building materials (such as manufacturer's name, model number, model year, etc.).
- The total price to be paid by the buyer, including finance charges, if the contract is for a large sum of money, you may want to have it looked over by an attorney before you sign.
- Make sure you get a fair price before committing yourself to expensive work. Get estimates from several contractors, and if you plan on taking out a loan, shop around for the best deal on financing. You can save yourself a lot of money and second-thoughts by making sure you've gotten the best deal possible before you sign a contract.
- Federal law gives you three days to cancel most transactions made in your home. This right of rescission must take the form of a written cancellation notice attached to the contract. To exercise this right, send the cancellation notice to the contractor by registered mail, return receipt requested, within three business days of the signing of the contract. Contractors may not begin work until this three-day cooling-off period has elapsed, unless emergency repairs must be made. You have no three day right of cancellation with emergency repairs.
- A contractor may not begin work on your home until all applicable state or local building and construction permits have been issued, as required by law. Your local building inspector provides additional protection for you.
- Be wary of contractors who ask for large advance deposits. And remember, it is illegal for a contractor to ask for payment in full until all of the work has been completed. Do not sign a completion slip until all of the contracted work, including clean-up, has been completed to your satisfaction.

New Jersey law also requires that you get a copy of any document you sign. Don't sign unless you understand and agree with what is stated. If the contract is for a large sum of money, you may want to have it looked over by an attorney before you sign.

"World Food Day" Wednesday will launch the beginning of an 11-day "Feed the People" program at Union County College.

Organized by "Friends of the Garden," a group of students, faculty and alumni working together to cultivate a garden, as well as a vision, "Feed the People" will include newspaper, food and clothing drives, bake sales, and information and collector tables all aimed at combating hunger. The money raised will be donated to local organizations providing food for the hungry, as well as toward continuing sponsorship of two needy children.

Anyone who wants to help is asked to bring non-perishable foods (rice, cereals, pasta) clothing or newspapers to the Princeton Avenue parking lot behind Union County College's Cranford campus Oct. 26 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

U.S. philatelists mark their month

For the fifth consecutive year, October has been designated National Stamp Collecting Month.

Joseph J. Benucci, postmaster-manager of the Newark Section Center, said the special observance for 1985 will focus on stamps as "Treasures Worth Rediscovering...and Sharing."

"Stamp collecting is the world's most popular hobby. It is enjoyed by an estimated 22 million Americans," said Benucci. "It is a family activity that bridges generations. We are encouraging older collectors to pull out their albums and share them with their children or grandchildren. We believe an adult who introduces a youngster to stamp collecting is giving a child an educational activity that will last a lifetime."

Throughout the month, local post offices will be sponsoring activities highlighting stamps and stamp collecting. A free booklet, entitled "Introduction To Stamp Collecting," is available from local post offices or by writing to Newark Post Office Philatelists, Federal Square, Newark 07102-9998.

UCC prepares plan for next five years

Several local residents are among 150 Union County College faculty and staff members and students who helped prepare the college's 1985-90 Master Plan, which has been adopted by the board of trustees.

The $18 million, five-year development plan includes new centers in eastern- and western Union County, construction of Student Union Buildings at the Cranford and Scotch Plains campuses, and an addition to the gymnasium at the Cranford campus.

The Master Plan also provides for the college to develop a liaison with the five new major high technology research centers being developed at Rutgers University, New Jersey Institute of Technology, and Stevens Institute of Technology through the State's Science and Technology Commission in the areas of biotechnology, industrial ceramics, computer-integrated manufacturing, food technology, fiber optics, and hazardous waste management.

Other new programs are proposed in ultrasonography, nuclear medicine, industrial health, paramedical graphic arts, banking, hotel-motel management, real estate, insurance, retail marketing, and mathematics-based computer science.

The faculty, staff and students of Union County College served on various steering committees, task forces, and special units over the past two years to prepare the five-year plan.

Mountainside residents who helped prepare the college's 1985-90 Master Plan included Betty Erghoff, director of Financial Aid at Muhlenberg Hospital; and Judith Meyer, associate professor in the English Department at Union County College.

Linden residents who helped prepare the plan include Barbara Govatin, an instructor in the Secretarial Science Department; Barbara Pawlowski, an instructor in the Paratransit Science Department;

Richard W. Lucas, director of Resource Development; and Michael Villano, assistant dean for student affairs at Union County College.

Roselle residents who helped prepare the plan include Violet Wilmore, a counselor at Union County College; and Helen M. Lichman, director of admissions at Elizabeth General Medical Center.

Springfield residents who helped prepare the plan include Cynthia Niv, dean of auxiliary academic services; and Sal Libes, a professor in the electronic engineering technology department at Union County College.

Union residents who helped prepare the plan include Robert Bassinski, a counselor on the Cranford campus; Alfred Hartman, a professor in the engineering/physics/engineering technology department; Carol O'Donnell, an admissions counselor; Mildred Kosliski; a secretary in the institutional research and development department; and Gloria Muscatello, an executive secretary for the vice president for student affairs at Union County College.

Plans in place for 'World Food Day'

"World Food Day" Wednesday will launch the beginning of an 11-day "Feed the People" program at Union County College.

Organized by "Friends of the Garden," a group of students, faculty and alumni working together to cultivate a garden, as well as a vision, "Feed the People" will include newspaper, food and clothing drives, bake sales, and information and collector tables all aimed at combating hunger. The money raised will be donated to local organizations providing food for the hungry, as well as toward continuing sponsorship of two needy children.

Anyone who wants to help is asked to bring non-perishable foods (rice, cereals, pasta) clothing or newspapers to the Princeton Avenue parking lot behind Union County College's Cranford campus Oct. 26 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Union residents who helped prepare the plan include Robert Bassinski, a counselor on the Cranford campus; Alfred Hartman, a professor in the engineering/physics/engineering technology department; Carol O'Donnell, an admissions counselor; Mildred Kosliski; a secretary in the institutional research and development department; and Gloria Muscatello, an executive secretary for the vice president for student affairs at Union County College.

Kean and Shapiro battle in their first debate

By MARK HAVILAND
The first gubernatorial debate between Republican Governor Thomas Kean and Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro in Whippany Oct. 3, suggested that both candidates were on equal footing, although it was marred by a pre-debate dispute over the use of props and use of film portions of the debate during the campaign.

Kean and Shapiro, the Democratic challenger, debated in Birchwood Manor before almost 600 people in a program that was sponsored by the state Chamber of Commerce. They responded to questions from a panel of three journalists.

Shapiro, 33, won the coin toss to initiate the debate, and opened his comments by promising a 15 percent across the board tax cut as soon as he is sworn into office. The South Orange resident also pledged that if he has not cleaned up half of the 97 toxic waste sites by the end of his first term in office, he would seek a second term.

The Democratic challenger called on the governor twice to take the campaign commercials in which Kean claims to have cleaned up many toxic waste sites, calling them "fraudulent and deceptive." Shapiro suggested setting up a "NASA-style" state agency to clean up the sites.

"We're not going to clean up a landfill by changing the name of the agency," Gov. Kean retorted.

Kean had opened his comments earlier with a listing of his accomplishments since taking office. He cited the repayment of a $600 million state debt, the creation of 350,000 new jobs in four years, upgraded educational standards and development of an attractive business environment for corporate development.

Responding to Shapiro's criticisms of his environmental record, Kean stated, "We have over-filled tax reductions in a decade. When you talk about tax rates, you're fooling people." Kean responded, claiming that Essex County had gone from a $12 million budget surplus to a situation where it had been criticized for "bad management." He then questioned Shapiro as to whether that management would be brought to the state level if he was elected governor.

The Democratic challenger sharply listed his accomplishments during his tenure as Essex County executive. He claimed to have centralized the county's social services and explained that he was able to bring down taxes by trimming back the county labor force. Shapiro said his administration had transformed county employees into "generalists," and added that county residents had been taken off welfare and given jobs.

Shapiro laid the blame for the state's insurance difficulties at the governor's feet. Recently, Kean declared an "insurance emergency," in which he used his executive powers to prevent the state's insurance carriers from either raising liability insurance premiums or cancelling policies.

"There is no reason the safest state in the nation should have the highest insurance rates," Shapiro stated.

In his closing remarks, Kean boasted that his administration had a record of accomplishments including creating jobs, fighting crime and "cleaning up" the environment. Now Jersey has the "cleanest" air, soil and water in the nation, the governor claimed. Kean suggested that the voters had a choice "between moving ahead or turning back," recalling a similar comment by President Ronald Reagan during the presidential campaign last year.

Kean ended his summation by suggesting that his mandate was to

Hardwick's bill on environment signed

innovative program to clean up the state's beaches, waterways, and preserving our landscape.

"This program will generate a total of $2.5 billion over the next 15 years to help construct or upgrade sewage treatment plants, many of which are either at or near capacity," said Hardwick, whose district includes nine Union County municipalities in the 21st district.

"This program will also help us build resource recovery plants — incinerators which burn garbage for energy — before we run out or ruin any more of our land for garbage dumps," he said.

The trust fund sets up a system of revolving loans and grants to cover building costs of wastewater treatment facilities, Hardwick explained. The proposal will now face the voters in the Nov. 5 general election as a bond issue, he said.

Hardwick said that another major provision of the trust fund is a similar loan and grant program for resource-recovery facilities. This, too, will go before voters as a bond issue, Hardwick said.

The program, Hardwick said, is a cornerstone in Kean's designation of 1985 as the "Year of Environment."

"The people of New Jersey should be reassured that significant progress is being made to clean up our state, and I'm proud to be a part of it," said Hardwick. "This is surely a key element in building pride in our state. This program will be remembered by generations to come, perhaps not in how it was done, but by cleaner beaches and rivers than we have now."

County ticket pledges unity

Union County Freeholder candidates G. Richard Malgron of Plainfield, William H. Eldridge of Berkeley Heights, and James J. Fulcomer of Rahway pledged that they will work together for progress in improving the county park system.

"More progress in maintenance and continuous improvement of our parks will be a top priority of our Republican Freeholder team," said Fulcomer, a three term councilman, said that he wants the playground facilities for children around the county improved, careful consultations with neighborhood and municipal recreation groups to develop recreational needs, and policies that will cope more effectively with the chronic problems of littering.

Genova backs lawsuit 'threshold' bill

Assemblyman Peter Genova, R-21, recently told a group of constituents that "New Jersey residents are paying the highest automobile rates in the country, despite the significant automobile insurance reform measures that have been signed by Gov. Kean over the past several years. Automobile insurance rates have become so bad that even those with excellent driving records are being forced to pay outrageous rates."

"One of the biggest reasons why automobiles insurance reform has not been properly addressed is due to the fact that the legal profession generally does not approve of changing the present system," Genova stated. "The only sure way to reduce rates is to take the incentive away from the lawyers who pile up large fees in auto related court cases. The reform that is needed is a reduction of unnecessary automobile claims."

Assembly Bill No. A-534, sponsored by Assemblyman Weidel, is the type of legislation I fully support," stated Genova. "This legislation would set up a verbal threshold for persons injured in automobile accidents, and this threshold provides that no lawsuit may be instituted for pain and suffering unless the injured party has incurred a 'serious injury.' By the enactment of Assembly Bill A-534, serious injury would mean an injury resulting in death, serious impairment of body functions, or permanent serious disfigurement," Genova said.

"Every citizen in our state is concerned with the extremely high automobile insurance rates, and the bi-partisan passage of A-534 in the Legislature is the key to reducing insurance rates. Our laws against, and fewer court cases result in much lower automobile insurance rates," Genova concluded.

Tough Talk—Andrew K. Ruotolo, left, is a former Assistant United States attorney. The Democratic candidate for Assembly in the 21st district has pledged to bring his understanding of the criminal justice system to the assembly floor as a state assemblyman. He wants to address the frustration the residents of Union County feel about that system.

Mancino raps 'frivolous' bills

Kentworth Mayer Livio Mancino, candidate for the Assembly in the 21st District, cited his opponents for some recent bills they are attempting to sponsor before elections.

"The candidate said, 'It's amazing to see what our two incumbents are offering the taxpayers of this district; one wants to change the name of the airport. Did he stop to think of the cost, the effect on the people of the city of Newark, and also, the identity of the airport itself? They both also sponsored a bill called the 'Wimpies Bill,'" Mancino said. "The bill, No. A-387, provides state aid to municipalities for signs and markers identifying Revolutionary War sites. Noble, but is this how they want to spend our tax dollars?"

"Why not leave this to the historical societies to maintain as has been the practice?" Mancino added. "Just proposing such frivolous bills costs all the taxpayers plenty, and as one who represents a lot of people, I ask the incumbents to stop wasting our tax dollars."

The candidate continued, "I have issued my first white paper on taxes, and I've already received wide support. The tax issue in New Jersey is paramount; we can't allow the state to continue to amass this huge surplus. Therefore, when elected, I will call for a balanced budget with a retention of no more than a 2 percent surplus, the balance being returned to the county and local municipalities for the sole purpose of reducing the local property tax."

Mancino concluded by asking, "Aren't my opponents ashamed this state has one of the highest property tax in our country?"

Ruotolo: Upgrade penalties

Andrew K. Ruotolo, Democratic Assembly candidate in the 21st district, has called for upgrading the penalties for the crime of burglary.

In support of his proposal, he said, "Despite the recent decline in the crime rate, one crime continues to rise, burglary. Under our present criminal code, burglary is a third-degree crime calling for a presumptive term of probation. In practical terms, that means a professional burglar does not go to jail on conviction. He is simply given the rate of incidence to the rate of conviction, most burglars get at least a dozen burglaries under their belt before they face jail. I think that's wrong."

"People have a right to feel safe in their homes. Those who make our laws have an obligation to make that

'Star Wars' alternatives on agenda

Alternatives to "Star Wars" and the peaceful use of outer space will be the focus Oct. 24 for three programs planned by the Peace Education Resource Center at Kean College of New Jersey, Union. The programs also are sponsored by the Townsend Lecture Series.

All scheduled for the O'Meara Auditorium, 3-100 in Hutchinson Hall, the first session will run from 10:30 a.m. to noon. During this session a lecture and a discussion will cover space technology and careers in space. It is aimed at science classes.

The second session, 5 to 7:30 p.m., will target teachers and future teachers. It will use the methods workshop on teaching about the peaceful development of space as opposed to the militarization of space.

The ideas of legislators who have proposed bills calling for the peaceful use of space and scientists who also endorse the concept will be aired during the panel session.

National and state representatives were asked to submit samples of legislation they proposed concerning uses of space. They also were invited to attend the session. Sessions were asked to endorse the idea of a national dialogue on the issues of space development and also were invited to attend. It is expected that most will sign views, sample bills and endorsements.

The featured speaker will be Dr. Carol Rosin, president of Institute for Security and Cooperation in Outer Space, 201 Massachusetts Ave., N.E., Suite 102-A, Washington, D.C. 20002.

Rosin has been described as the "original political architect of the drive to stop the Strategic Defense Initiative" and "anti-satellite weapons." She is co-author with Dr. Rosin is special envoy to the United Nations for International Association of Educators for World Peace. Her co-author of "Space Careers," Sheffield is vice president of Earth Satellite Corporation and past president of the American Astronautical Society.

Rosin was a teacher in the Virginia schools where she developed a program called "space ship earth" for sixth-grade pupils. She became corporate manager of community relations and spokeswoman for Dr. Werhner von Braun, vice president of Fairchild Industries and the "father of rocketry."

Rosin founded the Institute for Security and Cooperation in Outer Space (ISCOS) for the purpose of stopping the escalation of the superpower arms race and for creating an awareness about the actual joint space ventures between the superpowers and other world participants. It is expected to produce a space weaponry.

Computer corner

How to care for unit's external storage

Just as checking and changing the oil in your car can reduce visits to a mechanic, taking precautions with your computer system can decrease costly trips to a technician.

DISK DRIVES
A disk drive is a rectangular box containing electronic gear that takes computer instructions off or puts information on a flexible, magnetic, "photographic" called disks or diskettes. Just like a computer, a disk drive abhors food, drink and dust. So when your drives aren't in use, keeping them empty and closed will protect them from dust. Don't eat or drink near the computer system when you are using it.

DISKETTES
Diskettes are flat, flexible disks coated with a magnetic substance. These photocopied-like objects are used to store computer information and instructions. Since disks are bendable, they are housed in a stiff, cardboard holder.

When in use, the disk rotates like a phonograph record on a turntable, except the disk whirrs while inside its protective jackets. As you close the drive box's door, a head (like a rounded, flat record-player's needle) is lowered onto an open slot in the cardboard holder. This allows information to be taken from disk to computer and vice versa.

All of the computer's components, the disk is the most fragile. The following are things you can do to prevent disk damage.
—Many different types of disks are sold. Be sure your buy a brand compatible with your computer.
—Some disks are "protected" and cannot be copied. But if at all possible, always make a back-copy.
—Identify and label your back-ups immediately.
—Don't write on the disk cover. But if the label is already on your disk, use a soft, felt-tipped pen.

Use a "write-protect" tab to prevent information on your disk from being erased or changed accidentally. A write-protect tab folds over an open notch on the diskette. When the computer notices it, no information can be added to the diskette.
—Use the duplicate copy; store the master.
—When sliding the disk into the drive, close the door gently, to prevent possible bending or crimping of your disk.
—Don't turn the computer on or off while a disk is in the drive with the door closed. By doing so, you may destroy information on the disk.

When removing the disk, touch only the jacket, not the disk itself.
—Keep diskettes away from temperatures higher than 75 F and high humidity; as this will warp the disk and render them useless; magnetic fields such as monitors, televisions, phones, etc. as this may cause information to be erased; food, drink, dust, smoke and pencil erasures.
—Do not attempt to clean the diskette itself; this is done by the liner of the cardboard holder automatically.
—Return all diskettes to developer immediately after use.

COMPUTER ASSISTANCE—Jerry and Diane Ramos, principals of Ramos Real Estate Inc., inspect the firm's new data point computer. It will aid the 10 associates when they seek information on international relocation or home equity loans for their clients. The Union office, 647 Chestnut St., is a member of the Union County Multiple Listing Service and the Union County Chamber of Commerce.

Ensor named Pirates' assistant AD

"I'm pleased that Richard has accepted a position with us as Assistant Athletic Director for Marketing and Promotions," said Keating. "Richard has an extensive background in athletic administration and he will provide us with much needed expertise in sports marketing."

Doctor Study Says New 'Hi-Tech' Pills Give You "3 Times" Faster Weight Loss

No Dieting—Eat Normally Diet Pills Do All the Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—Good news for people who want to lose weight. In a recent highly successful clinical weight loss study, ALL people tested lost weight using an amazing new "hi-tech" diet pill program. The study was conducted by a panel of medical doctors in California on several groups of overweight people and the results proved conclusively that the new hi-tech pills test group lost weight almost "3 times faster" than the group tested using the famous grapefruit diet.

All Lost up to 1 lb. Per Day

Best of all, the pills allow you to "continue to eat all of your favorite foods without changing your normal eating or exercising habits and still lose weight easier and faster than ever before, starting immediately." Remarkably, ALL people in the new "hi-tech" pills clinical test group lost weight (an average of 1/2 lb. per day up to 1 lb. per day). It also helps eliminate bloating and puffiness.

"Pills Do All the Work"

According to the clinical study, "the pills alone do all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation, "diet menus," no intake, NO calorie counting, NO special exercise, and NO hunger pangs." You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

Powerful Appetite Suppressants

The new pills contain a powerful clinical proven appetite suppressant that an advisory panel of doctors has determined to be safe and effective for weight loss.

In addition, the pills also contain a remarkable calorie-free dietary fiber that expands in your stomach and tends to give you a partially satisfied feeling before you eat. Thus, the new combination of ingredients in the pills act 2 ways to aid in curbing your appetite, causing you to eat less, take in less calories, and lose weight without feeling deprived or hungry.

Pills Contain ALL Daily Vitamins

No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy because the pills are fortified with ALL 100% of the U.S. Government USRDA recommended daily vitamin requirements.

The amazing hi-tech diet pills are already sweeping the country, with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

In addition, to his past association with St. Peter's, Ensor has also served as assistant director for athletics at St. Louis University. His extensive writing credits include articles on sports law and administration.

Ensor's appointment comes at a time when Seton Hall has made a renewed commitment to its athletic programs and the Big East Conference. It was announced last July that the Pirates will play all of their Big East home men's basketball games at the Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford. Home non-conference games will be played at the South Mountain Arena in West Orange.

"I look forward with anticipation to the challenge of implementing a sports, marketing—and—promotion program at Seton Hall," said Ensor. "The Big East is the most successful athletic conference in the country. I think our move to the Meadowlands Arena, combined with the recruiting year that our coach P.J. Carlesimo and his staff have had, and the veterans that are returning, are all indications that the program is ready to move up in the Big East. All of these factors make a marketing program essential."

Union blanks Harding, 6-0

The seventh and eighth grade Union soccer team began this season on a high note with an impressive 6-0 win over Harding School in Kenilworth. Six players scored in the game including Glen Schiehuber, Nick Civitano, Theino Nunes, Mario Castro, Paulo Nunes, and Eric Studnicki. The team's defense was led by Jacob Silman, sweeper and Dave Shaw, goalie. Ryan Pearson and Danny Williams also played well on defense.

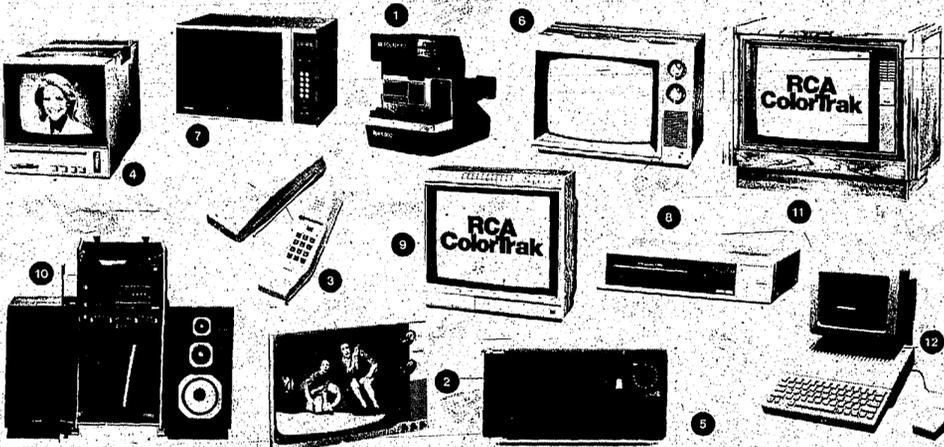

The team then traveled to Westfield only to be shutout 4-0 by a strong defense. Union was held in seven shots on goal.

The team rebounded from its loss with exciting 4-3 victory over Hillside Avenue School of Cranford. Schiehuber scored two goals with assists from Nick LaSpina and Nunes. Fullback, Studnicki scored on a fine pass from Nunes to take a 2-2 lead early in the second half. Cranford tied up the game later in the third quarter. It wasn't until 27:32 in the second half that Shaw, assisted by Nunes, put in the winning goal. Victorios Vouloumanis and Silman played well on defense.

Roselle Park rec clinic starts today

Actor likes 'honesty' of stage

By BEA SMITH

Gary Sandy, who has appeared in every major media in the entertainment field, and who prefers the "hard work of the stage," is still mostly recognized by the general public for his role in the television series, "W.K.R.P. in Cincinnati."

The handsome, vibrant, youthful-looking actor, who is entertaining audiences at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, in "Windy City," musical version of "The Front Page" by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur explains good-naturedly that "I do my best in whatever I do."

"I've done 60 plays in my life," he said, during a recent chat in the business offices of the Paper Mill Playhouse.

"I've had almost every exposure there is. I've done four or five feature films and seven movies for television with six and a half years of soaps, but it seems that my shucks-gosh role in 'W.K.R.P. in Cincinnati' with 90 shows in four years has given me too much exposure. I guess that's what they call 'overexposure.'" generation of actors for their professionalism and their sense of continuity...they're low key. They all seem to know where they're going. They don't have to tear the walls down."

The actor leans back in his desk chair, crosses his hands behind his head and stretches. "I've always been aware of my mortality," he says. "I wanted to know there was something I could do to make some semblance of a mark. I was fairly talented as a kid, and," he muses, "I discovered that I could go just as far as I wanted to be a lawyer, to play a lawyer rather than study to be one for 15 years."

He explains his attraction to and love for the theater are due to the honesty of the theater. "They can't cut over you and make you look good. On TV or film, it's somehow unfair. It all ends up in the editor's room anyway."

This is the first time Sandy has appeared at the Paper Mill Playhouse, and he's really pleased, he says. "Windy City" is great entertainment, and the folks at the Paper Mill treat me nice. I'd always heard so much about the Paper Mill, and I'd always wanted to work here. I like the hard work. It takes a lot of energy, but I shouldn't

"I've had almost every exposure there is: I've done four or five feature films and seven movies for television with six and a half years of soaps, but it seems that my shucks-gosh role in 'W.K.R.P. in Cincinnati' with 90 shows in four years has given me too much exposure. I guess that's what they call 'overexposure.' And what's so strange about it," says Sandy, "is that when people meet me, they automatically say, 'gosh, you look so much older in person.' Older," he laughs. "Of course, I look older. When you stop to think that it's almost four years since we finished the show, and we started it eight years ago...well..." he shrugs good-naturedly.

"It seems that whenever I turn on the TV late at night, I find myself staring at reruns of 'W.K.R.P.'"

Still, it was "soaps" that gave Sandy his real start in show business. "I was just out of acting school," he recalls, "and while I was doing soap operas I was going to class. The big difference is that they paid me. I liked doing something different every day. It made everything easier."

"I did one year of live TV in the show, 'As the World Turns.' That and 'Edge of Night' were the last of the live soaps on the air."

Sandy also appeared as a regular on "Another World," "The Secret Storm" and the short-lived late night adult comedy series for Norman Lear called "All That Glitters."

"The irony of it all," laughs Sandy, "is that I always played the heavy in those soaps. People disliked me immensely. I was not to be trusted! Because of that I very nearly didn't get the part in 'W.K.R.P.' One of the wives of the producers was a regular fan of the soaps, and she insisted that I was not to be trusted...that I wasn't a very nice guy."

Concerning the movies, Sandy says "each and every thing is a different field. The art of film for me can be rewarding." (Sandy co-starred with Henry Fonda in "The Last of the Cowboys," and last summer in Europe, he starred with Michael Montary and Shelley Hack in "Troll," which will be released in the United States after the first of the year.)

"Making movies can be difficult, especially when you shoot out of sequence. It's tough. As far as Fonda is concerned, I respected him as well as the older

Artists put 'life' into nature trail

A collaboration of local artists, Beverly Peterson and Cecily Silblitz, and more than 10 of their concerned friends received permission from the Union County Parks and Recreation Department to install 20 to 30 sculptures concerning the plight of Lake Surprise. The sculptures, executed in newspaper-mache, represent animals indigenous to the area and will be placed along a two-tenth mile length of the Green Nature Trail near the Trallice Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation until Nov. 6, 1985.

Peterson and Silblitz began their collaboration in late April after a special visit to Lake Surprise in the reserve close to nearly-completed superhighway I-78. Saddened by its obvious state of neglect, they began pondering the effect on inhabitants and visitors "other than humans." This led to the idea to rehabilitate the environment with wildlife which is missing.

The three dimensional animals are formed by shaping a skeleton from one-inch gauge chicken wire. The "skin" is newspaper-mache, protected by varnish. The sculptures range from four inches to more than eight feet and include a broad variety of animals: bears, raccoons, dogs, pigs, fish and a variety of birds, reptiles and insects including animals that may have inhabited the area prehistorically. Included are both abstract and symbolic representations. Since mid-May, two four-hour workshops were conducted each week where all the artists worked as a group.

The two artists originally intended to install their work at Lake Surprise in hopes of raising a greater social concern for the environment. Thomas Nolan, director of Union County Parks and Recreation and staff, however, suggested the artists look for a site that was more accessible to the public and secure from vandals. The protected Green Nature Trail provided an acceptable site.

Peterson and Silblitz were granted permission to install their work in the pristine environment of the trail near the Trallice Nature and Science Center, about a 20-minute walk from Lake Surprise. The sculptures will remain there for one month. At the entrance to the trail there is a dedication to the Lake in the form of a newspaper-mache tombstone.

Peterson and Silblitz are planning another large scale environmental awareness piece to be installed at a site in the Heckensack Meadows Developmental Center next spring.

Sandy prefers theater

(Continued from page 1) complain. With eight shows a week, it becomes a rough schedule. It's hard vocally, too, you know. There's an energy level that I have, and I only get it on the stage. I push myself, and when it's a musical comedy, I push even harder.

Sandy became familiar with the role of Hildy Johnson after seeing "The Front Page" in the 1930 movie version with Pat O'Brien and Rosalind Russell. "Then I saw another version of it, a film classic, called 'His Girl Friday' with Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell. In which the roles were reversed. Russell played my part, only she was called Hildy Johnson. And the part of the man she was going to marry and run off to Hollywood with was played to perfection by Ralph Bellamy."

Sandy's Broadway credits include the starring role of the Pirate King in "Pirates of Penzance," and "Saturday, Sunday, Monday." He toured as the lead in companies of "Barnum" and "Grease." In the earlier part of this summer, he starred in the musical version of "Luv," which also has appeared in "The Boyfriend," "The Fantasticks," "Sweet Bird of Youth" and "Romeo and Juliet."

"I toured with 'Pirates' for six or seven months. And I had a big tour of Barnum. Fifteen different cities. I worked extremely hard in both plays." Sandy seems to thrive on hard work on the stage. "If I make up my mind, I can do anything. I believe the most crowd-pleasing thing I've done so far was 'Barnum.' There, I had no fear of anything. In 'Barnum' I had to walk a tight wire 15 feet off the ground. It took a lot of concentration," he grins. "Oh, I fell a couple of times. But it's like trying to ride a bicycle. You get back on again.

"I found it mentally tough to do 'Billy Bishop Goes to War.' I had to memorize 100 pages of dialogue, and as a one-man show, I had to play 12 different people. I did it for about a month in Milford, N. H., at the American Play Festival. But it was a really great experience for me."

As far as "Windy City" is concerned, "we're still working on changes as we go along here at the Paper Mill," he says. "This show has to be based down some. The energy must be focused right. I'm not sure I'm getting enough playback."

There has been some talk about taking "Windy City" to Broadway. "I really would like to work on Broadway in this play. I would like to see it happen. However," Sandy says, "I do have a couple of other things pending. There's a time element here, and I might have to bow out. It depends."

Sandy, who is marvelously youthful, doesn't look a day over 29, yawns and smiles. "I'll be 40 years old on Christmas Day."

Christmas Day? Doesn't Gary Sandy lose out on gifts that way?

"Are you kidding?" he throws back his head and laughs. "It's my birthday, and I've always gotten a double amount of gifts. I really make out like a bandit!"

Networking slated

The Business and Professional Women of Berkeley Heights and Westfield are holding a "Night of Networking" on Tuesday at the Westwood, 438 North Ave., Garwood, in the Lora Room at 8:30 p.m. for cocktails, 7 p.m. for dinner and 9 p.m. for the program.

The goal for the evening is to open the channels of communication among various women's groups in Union County.

Books that are worth giving

By ALAN CARUBA

This week we will look at a number of extraordinary books covering a wide variety of subjects. A number of these will make excellent Christmas gifts.

I was quite impressed with "Woman of Tomorrow" written by Kathy Keeton, president of Omni magazine, with Yvonne Baslin ($16.95, St. Martin's Press). This is an optimistic and in-depth look at the future for the post-liberation woman, written against the background of what science and modern technology holds for women. We've all seen how women's lives have changed in recent years, but this book is quite remarkable for the way it identifies much that is yet to come.

I also found "Toxic Terror" by Dr. Elizabeth Whelan ($18.95, Jameson Books) a real breath of fresh air amidst all the hysteria about chemicals. In his foreword, Nobel Peace Prize-winning agronomist, Norman Borlaug, points out that those who rush to ban agricultural chemicals—often on the flimsiest evidence—are leading the world into a critical decline in foodstuffs and industrial production. In her book, Dr. Whelan documents case histories of radical environmentalist groups which have forced through the banning of chemicals of great value in the protection of health, property and the foods being grown and prepared for our use. In particular, however, she looks at the unscientific claims of carcinogenic impact being used. Administering abnormally large amounts of any chemical to rats and mice invariably causes tumors and death. The political scene is already warring with a variety of races. The best way to keep abreast of who the players are is "The Almanac of American Politics 1986" ($24.95, National Journal, softcover.) Here's the inside word on everyone in politics from the President to your governor, senators and representatives. It's a wonderfully fat compendium of invaluable information.

Another fine book is "The American People" by Bryant Robey ($22.50, Dutton) which examines what all the census statistics really mean. This book points to the important new demographic trends that affect all our lives. It will be particularly valuable for any business person trying to get a line on how the market for any product or service is likely to change.

The 1983 edition of the "Encyclopedia of Associations" has just been published by Gale Research Company.

"Paul Davis/Faces" ($24.95, Friendly Press) is a feast for the eyes. It features the work of an artist who has captured such famous folk as Jack Nicholson, Arnold Palmer and even Che Guevara. This is a "coffee table" book that says good things about those who have it on display. The work of sports photographer, Neil Leifer, is featured in "Sports Stars" ($38, Doubleday) with a fine text by Peter Bonventre and forward by ABC's Roone Arledge. Here again is a great coffee table gift book for any sports enthusiast. Filled with hundreds of full color pictures from everywhere in the world.

"Wildlife Through the Camera" ($24.95, Parkwest Publications, POB A-10/Cathedral SIN, NYC 10023) is another splendid photo book and would please anyone with a love of all kinds of animals. Its text is first-rate and its color photos are abundant. History buffs will love "Duel for the Sky" by Christopher Shores ($19.95, Doubleday) which illustrates and details 10 crucial air battles of World War II. A companion book, I'd also recommend is "Ridgeway's Paratroopers," an excellent history of the American Airborne in World War II by Clay Blair ($19.95, The Dial Press, Doubleday).

"Bar Mitzvah" ($50, Doubleday) is a quite extraordinary book that can be given to any young man or woman of the Jewish faith undergoing this important rite of passage. This large format, extensively illustrated book combines history and a unique opportunity to record personal data on pages designed to hold this information. This book, in many ways, is quite inspiring.

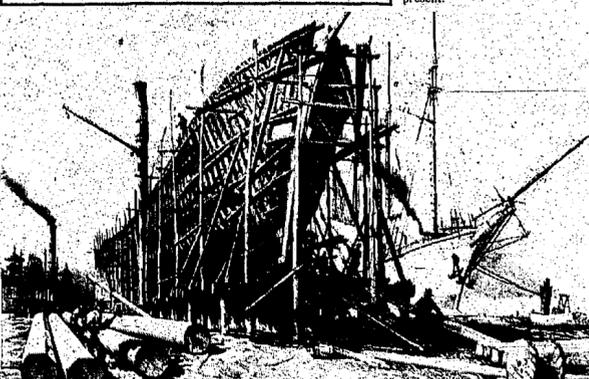

We'll end up with some softcover books on the lighter side and start with "The 'I Love Lucy' Book" ($11.95, Doubleday) by Bart Andrews, a thick compendium of everything you could want to know about this classic situation comedy. Then, too, even "Dallas" has its own large format softcover ($10.95, Doubleday) filled with photos and facts for fans of the Ewing family saga. And "Heavy Metal Thunder" ($12.95, Doubleday) gets its day in print for fans of this kind of music.

Red Cross fashion show set

The Clara Barton Auxiliary of the Eastern Union County Chapter American Red Cross will hold a fashion show/luncheon on Saturday, Oct. 26, at noon at the Town and Campus of Union. Men and women's fashions will be shown. Proceeds from the event will be donated to the Eastern Union County Chapter

American Red Cross to help carry out its mandated and volunteer programs throughout the 12 communities it serves.

Reservations may be made by contacting the Clara Barton Auxiliary, c/o American Red Cross, 265 W. Jersey St., Elizabeth, 679-0202.

AHILINOLEUMVILLE, a New York City commemorative lithograph by John A. Noble, is on display at the Swan Galleries in Plainfield until Nov. 2. The exhibit, "Hulls and Hulks in the Tide of Time," shows original stone lithographs by Noble and also will include a selection of his paintings and drawings. The marine lithographs, usually shown only in print or museum exhibits, chronicle the rise and decline of American wooden ships along the East Coast.

A PROFESSIONAL POTTER from Pennsylvania is one of the exhibitors at the New Jersey Craft Show on Oct. 9 and 20 at South Mountain Arena, Southfield Avenue, West Orange. The show is a craft fair for the month of October. Instead of November to celebrate crafts month in New Jersey. The show will present top quality jewelry, fiber, glass, pottery, and graphics. Wall hangings, soft sculpture, people, humorous lithographs or reproductions of antique furniture will be sold at the New Jersey Craft Experience in West Orange at the South Mountain Arena. The show opens on Saturday, Oct. 19, with hours on both days 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. There will be $500 worth of crafts awarded in special contests throughout the weekend. Entrance to the show is $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and free for children under 10.

Collectors observe month for stamps

For the fifth consecutive year, October has been designated National Stamp Collecting Month. Fulvio Stanziale, Elizabeth Postmaster, says the special observance for 1985 will focus on stamps as "Treasures Worth Rediscovering...and Sharing."

The Postal Service, the Council of Philatelic Organizations and numerous other community groups will participate in nationwide activities focusing on the social, cultural and educational benefits of stamp collecting.

"Stamp collecting is the world's most popular hobby. It is enjoyed by an estimated 22 million Americans," Stanziale said. It is a family activity that bridges generations. We are encouraging older collectors to pull out their albums and share them with their children or grandchildren. We believe an adult who introduces a youngster to stamp collecting is given the child an educational activity that will last a lifetime. Stanziale said that local post offices, stamp clubs and stamp dealers will be sponsoring activities highlighting stamps and stamp collecting throughout October.

THE NEW JERSEY STAMP DEALERS Association will hold a stamp bourse Sunday at American Legion Post # 1556 Main Ave., Clifton, just North of Route 28, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Featured will be a number of member dealers who will display and sell a wide variety of U.S. and worldwide stamps, covers and other philatelic material. These dealers, all of whom subscribe to the strict NJSDA Code of Ethics, will also be prepared to purchase material brought in for sale by the public. Admission is free and there is ample free parking. Further information can be obtained from Norm Scriverer, at (201) 762-5650.

Group aids cataract patients

"Educating people before eye surgery can improve results," says Dr. Jordan Burke, director of Ophthalmology and Eye Surgery at the Suburban Eye Institute in Berkeley Heights.

"Volunteers for Vision," a group of post-operative cataract patients educate and support prospective eye-surgery patients. "People have tremendous fears about surgery," says Paul Ryan, an ex-cataract sufferer. "Because of fear, people

At Dr. Burke's suggestion, Paul Ryan started "Volunteers for Vision" after Dr. Burke removed his cataracts. Remembering his own fears of surgery, Ryan, a retired school principal, contacted other post-operative patients to form the support group. "Volunteers for Vision" encourages people to make appointments with their eye doctors.

KEY TO SUCCESS SINCE 1921

Spider Woman: It's different

By STEPHEN KOLOZSVARY

She was a very strange woman.

This line begins the movie Louis describes to Valentin in their jail cell, and begins the film "Kiss of the Spider Woman" which is not to say the film is strange, but it's different.

Louis Molina (William Hurt) and Valentin Rebel (Raul Julia) are cellmates in an unnamed South American prison (the movie was shot in Brazil). Valentin is a political prisoner, fiercely dedicated to his cause and his politics, a macho realist with a sensitive side.

Louis is a homosexual, imprisoned for "corrupting the morals of a minor." He is a romantic, rehashing movies in minute detail to the sometimes interested Valentin. At times though, he regrets his uncommitted lifestyle, in which he feels trapped.

The film is literate, beautifully made, at times gripping and ultimately very depressing.

It succeeds on many levels. It explores the romantic love and escapism, commitment and reality. Louis escapes the reality of prison through the romantic fantasy world of "spies, freedom fighters and cabaret singers of the movies of the '40s. Valentin listens, but he can't release himself from fate, questioning the politics and motives of the characters.

Louis keeps telling him, "That's not the point... think of how romantic they all are."

The film keeps cutting back to the old movie that's being told. It's a wonderful, loving imitation of the old-time war-intrigue pictures. It gently spoofs the mannerisms of those films, yet doesn't parody them. The device asks the question: are movie fantasies a justifiable escape from life's realities or are they just a cop-out.

True movie addicts have asked themselves that question many times, and the end of "Kiss of the Spider Woman" answers it well, but with an unexpected twist.

The film provides many twists along the way, and they are delivered like rabbit punches, quickly and unexpectedly changing the thrust of the story.

Screening room

The film deals with Louis's homosexuality in a very straightforward way, not coyly or humorously but realistically. You feel sympathy for his search for love, and somehow sexual preference seems irrelevant, especially in jail.

Valentin is as straight as they come, but he too has sympathy for Louis. He defines a real man as one who never humiliates another person. Louis says he'd like to meet a real man, but "real men want real women."

Louis calls his genitalia "a mistake," and we learn that he is actually the spider woman to which the title refers. He parades around their cell in a kimono and has a makeup table, but he is far from a liping, mincing gay.

William Hurt gives a terrific, at times, startling, performance. He usually manages to overcome some physical limitations to give real life to the part. His face can be soft and sensitive, but at other times he can't lose the cynical, many attitudes of characters he has played in other movies. His body seems too big and masculine and his voice is too tough to be always convincing as the ultra-sensitive Louis.

With all this in mind, Hurt's performance is doubly amazing. He makes us live Louis's tortured, unsatisfied life, and makes us understand the relief he finds in the campy life of old movies.

Raul Julia is also physically wrong for his part, but acts well nonetheless. With his bulging eyes and oppressive world weariness he makes us know his unfulfilled search for love is essentially the same as Louis's. The problem is his ideals always get in the way of his desire for love.

The film is beautifully shot, especially the old-movie sequences. However, it's wordy and the jail cell parts are static and tend to drag the film down. The plot is very simple, but to reveal it would be to give away the most important revelations of the film.

"Kiss of the Spider Woman" isn't a film for everybody, but if you want a movie that will make you think, a movie that explores a deeper question than whether the hero will lose his virginity, this is it. Be warned though, you won't be leaving the theater tapping your toes and humming the theme song, it is a bit of a downer.

HELLENIC DANCERS OF NEW JERSEY will give a benefit performance Oct. 19 at 8 p.m. at Kean College of New Jersey, Union. Featured will be authentic dances and dress from Greece with music by the 2001 Orchestra. The troupe includes second, third and fourth generation Greek American youths, 12 to 25 years of age. Additional information can be obtained by calling Dino Gnakos at 964-8567.

Barber Shop?
Hair Stylist?
Beauty Parlor?

Ever think the day would come when you'd have to make a choice?
Well...
There's a certain type of man who goes to a barber... we have 5.
And there's a certain type of man who goes to a hair stylist... we have 5.
Then there's a certain type who feels that he has to go to a beauty parlor.
His wife's beauty parlor, no less.
Well... forget it.
Most likely, you're our type. The type who wants more than just a haircut from a barber. But doesn't see himself as the beauty parlor type.
If so, we offer a wide variety of styling services. From a regular haircut to a Roffler Skulptur-Kut, to the fashionably long Avanto look.
We also offer other services, such as coloring, waving, straightening, hairpieces, facials, manicuring and a bootblack service.
So wear fashionable hair... but be a man about it. Call for an appointment. Or come in any time.
