For kindergarten students

Entrance age rules to change

By KENNETH SCHANKLER
The entrance age of children starting kindergarten in the Springfield will be raised. All that remains to be decided is when the change will take effect.
A proposal changing the entrance requirements to limit admission to students who will be 5 years old prior to Sept. 1 of the school year will be voted on by the Springfield Board of Education Monday.
Currently, children who have reached the age of 5 before Dec. 1 of the year they enter school are admitted. The resolution to be taken up Monday would implement the change in September 1988.
Several board members and Thelma L. Sandmeter, School Principal William Fallon would like to see the change take effect sooner.
"I personally would like to see it before that time," Fallon told the board at its conference meeting Monday. "If you're going to do it, let's do it."

Fallon said that, through research and discussion, district officials had determined that children at least several months past the age of 5 would be better suited for school.
"We would like to see boys being at least 5 1/2 when they come into school," Fallon said.
The present entrance requirement allows students as young as 4 years, 9 months to enter kindergarten in Springfield.
Fallon said the higher age requirement would give children time to mature both mentally and physically.
"The odds are against them being successful," Fallon said, adding that children who are less than 5 years old would be in the same grade with older children throughout his or her school years.
"Our main concern is the maturation factor," Fallon said.
Board member Kenneth Falgenbaum wondered if the age differential would make a significant difference in a child's schooling.

In the same environment with the older students, the younger child will be in a situation where he is playing the follower rather than the leader," said Fallon.
Board member Pietro Petino said to implement the change next fall would be "a problem. It's too soon."
Petino, however, wanted to know if the board could put the new rule into effect in September 1987.
Board President Stuart Applebaum said that if the board decided to make the change for 1987, it could be done. However, the board president said "you would have to get a consensus of the board."
"I happen to agree with it," Petino said. "I think it's better for the kids. You're gambling by trying to put them ahead too soon."
Board member Elizabeth Brinen wanted to know if the effective date of the change could be pushed back to September 1989.

"We really do have an obligation to give some sort of notice to the parents," she said.
Brinen said as many as 90 percent of the children are placed in nursery school by their parents, with the intention of having them go right from nursery school to kindergarten.
If the new regulations went into effect too soon, she said, some children might have a gap between the end of their nursery schooling and the start of kindergarten.
Several board members, though, voiced the opinion that the change should be made for the sake of the children and not for that of the parents.
Petino, though, said the board shouldn't hesitate in implementing the new rule once it has made its decision to do so.
"If it's a good program," he said, "if that's what we should be doing as a board, then we should do it as soon as possible."

Manager search under way

By PHILIP GIMSON
As Union County officials began their search for a new county manager last week, the names of one past and one present municipal business administrator surfaced as potential candidates for the $92,000-a-year position.
While county officials claimed that they had not yet received applications for the position, sources have reported that Mountainside Borough Administrator Jim Roberts and former Union Township Business Administrator Lou Giacomoni intend to submit their names as candidates.
Freelholder Robert Gonor stated last week that the county sent out requests to a dozen management and executive search firms soliciting their help in obtaining a permanent replacement for former County Manager Louis Coletti. The Board of Freeholders terminated Coletti from his post on Oct. 1 for acting "irresponsibly and unprofessionally" in the conduct of his office.
Acting County Manager Robert C. Doherty indicated Monday he has no interest in seeking the permanent position and definitely plans to return to his previous post as county counsel, pending reappointment by the freeholders. "I'm basically the county counsel," Doherty said. "I would hope to be reappointed as such."

But county officials said that the process of finding a new county manager is likely to take at least 60 days, which would mean that Doherty is expected to continue serving in the post after the county government reorganizes on Jan. 1.
Roberts confirmed that he is actively seeking the position, while Giacomoni would not comment on widespread speculation that he is seeking the job.
"I'm not going out and sending out 20 resumes," Roberts stated, explaining that he felt the county manager's job would be a good career move. "It's a 100-to-one shot," he said. Roberts noted that both the Mountainside Borough Council and Mountainside Mayor Bruce A. Gelger are aware of his interest.
According to one Mountainside official who wished to remain unnamed, "He's (Roberts) a sharp. He's shrewd. He understands politics very well and he walks a very fine line." The Mountainside official speculated that Roberts may be seeking the job due to financial reasons; as borough administrator, he is currently earning $45,000 per year.

"I've heard that the former business administrator, Lou Giacomoni, might be interested in it," stated Earl Henwood, the Union Township Republican chairman. Henwood said that Giacomoni, who currently works for Memorial General Hospital, would be a good choice for the job, "especially compared to what we've had down there."
"It was Ted Mack Amateur Hour down there for a while," Henwood said, claiming that lack of experience contributed to the problems the county experienced with each of its two previous managers, Coletti and Arthur Gris, who resigned in June 1984 following allegations that he attempted to arrange a meeting with a reputed organized crime figure. "You can't have someone 31 years old running a $120 million corporation," Henwood said.
Giacomoni neither confirmed nor denied reports that he is seeking the post. "Here's what I understand," Giacomoni stated. "The county has gone out on executive search. It's up to the Board of Freeholders what they want to do. If they go out on an executive search, they're likely to have 400 candidates."

Though Giacomoni would not comment on what he would do if the county selected him for the post, he noted that he had been considered for the appointment on two previous occasions. "The first time, I was one of two finalists, but I didn't get it," Giacomoni said. "Right now, I've really put all thought of it out of my mind until after Jan. 1."
In a comment echoed by some county officials, Giacomoni said, "I've heard the freeholders say they're really going to actively pursue this and go outside the county this time."
"No one is being considered yet," Freelholder Michael Lapolla stated. But, when asked who he thought might be considered for the position, he said, "I would say it's going to be an outsider."
Gonor said that he considers the selection of the next county manager to be crucial to determining what direction Union County's government will take over the long term. "This is the last chance this form of government has. If this next person doesn't work out, the county manager form of government is doomed," Gonor stated.

Personalities blamed for county's woes

The following is the second in a series of articles examining the viability of the county manager's office as an effective system of government for Union County.
Interviews conducted with county political and business leaders illustrate an ambivalence about the status of the county manager's position. This ambivalence is expressed both from the standpoint of whether the office has lived up to what the voters envisioned in approving a change in the Union County charter in 1975, as well as in views of whether the manager, in his executive role, is an effective complement to the legislative branch, the Board of Freeholders.
By MARK HAVILAND & PHILIP GIMSON
"If anyone thinks they can take the politics out of government, that is absurd. That is a contradiction in terms," Freelholder Michael Lapolla claimed in a recent magazine interview.
While everyone interviewed appears to agree politics is inherent to the governmental process, many county leaders claimed that both the form of government, and the experience and skill of the personalities involved, could be critical in determining whether politics, or policy, will become the guiding mandate for Union County.

According to George Albanese, Union County's first manager, who served from 1976 to 1982, any real examination of the county's government has to move away from a consideration of personalities.
Yet, Acting County Robert Doherty, in assessing the specific source of problems that have plagued the office under his two predecessors, suggests a contrasting point of view. "I think it's an effective form of government as constituted, but I think a lot of the problems stem from the individual personalities that have been involved."
The problems usually cited with the form of government have mainly focused on the events of the past two years. On June 8, 1984, former County Manager Arthur Gris resigned following rumors that he planned a meeting with a reputed organized crime figure, a meeting which never occurred. His successor, Louis Coletti, was dismissed from his position by a 7-2 vote of the freeholders on Oct. 1, citing his alleged unprofessional conduct in fiscal and policy matters.

Superior Court Judge Edward Beglin subsequently upheld the board's action as legal, but Coletti has continued to maintain that his conduct while in office was satisfactory.
It was Beglin's decision which has led many to re-examine their views of the county manager's position. "Prior to Judge Beglin's decision, it was my opinion we had a strong county manager," Freelholder Brian Fahey stated. "Then I realized what has been touted in black and white as a strong county executive is not a strong executive."
Fahey explained that based on his interpretation of Beglin's ruling, the county manager is subservient to the judgment and decision-making authority of the freeholders. "While Fahey said that the manager 'has plenty of authority to make decisions' on a day-to-day basis, he noted, 'he is constantly subject to criticism and can be overruled on any decision he makes by the freeholders."

This situation is volatile, according to Fahey, because the manager is subject to constant scrutiny of his many decisions, and the freeholders are able to second-guess and even remove him without substantial cause, solely because he has not acted in accordance with the board's judgment.
Other freeholders feel that the control that the freeholders exert over the county manager is conducive to the smooth functioning of county government. "If the county manager is not accountable to the board, he is accountable to no one," Lapolla stated last week.
Lapolla explained that if each body of county government followed its responsibilities, conflicts would be diminished. But some conflict is to be expected because it is a natural part of the political process and the legal separation of powers, he said. Critics of the recent series of controversies between the board and the manager have pinned the brunt of the blame unfairly on the freeholders, Lapolla complained.

Course to cover toxics

Teachers and staff in the Springfield school system will be given a course in recognizing and dealing with hazardous materials that might appear in the school environment.
The course will be divided into three lectures. The first will include a discussion of employee rights and employer responsibilities.
The second part will cover the areas of information on toxic materials and evaluation of hazards. The third part will of the course will consider safety evaluations and precautions to be taken in dealing with hazardous materials.
Board of Education Secretary Leonard DiGiovanni said the program is required by the state for all teachers and staff, including janitorial employees.

DiGiovanni said the course will most likely emphasize the awareness and handling of cleaning fluids used by janitors and ink and similar substances used in school classes.
"We're talking about common sense kinds of things," DiGiovanni said, adding that the course will give district employees the opportunity to know what kinds of chemicals and other materials might be in the schools.
The course will include a tour of facilities with a discussion of hazards in the schools.

Missing kids program topic

The cable TV program, "30 Legal Minutes," will present a series of two programs dealing with the problem of missing children in the New York/New Jersey metropolitan area.
The program, which will be shown on cable TV-36, will inform parents and concerned individuals how they can reduce the occurrence of abduction of children. Richard Ruffino, executive director of the Commission on Missing Persons, will discuss how most children are abducted, what lures are used to gain the confidence of children, what public places are most dangerous and offer the greatest possibility for an abduction of a child and what a parent can do if his child is abducted. The names of various agencies and organizations to be contacted will be discussed as well as what steps should be taken immediately if a concerned parent suspects that a child is missing.
One of the most vital elements in a missing persons case is the necessity to report the incident immediately so that the police and other agencies can pick up the child's trail without delay. Previously, people thought that you had to wait 24 hours to report a missing person; however, recent research in this area has proven this to be a crucial mistake when there has been a possible abduction.

One of the programs will feature Jeffrey Brandler of the Union County Service Bureau, Department of Human Resources-Adolescent Crisis Counseling and Emergency Social Services, who will talk about the problems of teenage runaways. He will discuss how parents should cope with these problems and will alert them to the signs of teenagers who are experiencing problems which might ultimately result in a runaway situation.
The programs will be telecast on TV-36 today, Tuesday and Dec. 12, 16, 17, 19, 23, 24 and 26. Local listings may be consulted for time schedules or contact TV-36 at 277-4310.

Land sale, pay hikes get OK

By MARK HAYLAND
In separate special meetings Monday night, the Union County Board of Freeholders took action on two measures, selling part of the John E. Rumrill Hospital property in Berkeley Heights and voting themselves pay raises. Board members supportive of the measures claimed both were long overdue.

The freeholders voted 5-3 to accept a $13.6 million bid for the 63-acre upper tract of the hospital property from Connell Sugar and Rice Co., a Westfield-based firm, which is primarily an import and export operation.

Supporters of the sale claimed that the county would lose its certificate of need from the state Department of Health, and have to reapply for another one. Several freeholders are intent upon building a new health-care facility to replace the aging hospital, and were looking at profit gained from the property sale to help finance the planned construction. Any construction of new facilities is contingent, however, upon zoning approval from Berkeley Heights.

The board accepted a down payment of 10 percent of the asking price during an auction held Nov. 28, at which Connell Sugar and Rice was the sole bidder. The freeholders had originally rejected a similar bid from the Westfield firm by a 4-4 vote several weeks earlier.

"We were told by the state that renovation of the existing structure would not be allowed," Freeholder Michael Lapolla said in response to the objections of two Berkeley Heights residents opposed to the sale.

Freeholders Alan Augustine, Ed Slomkowski and Robert Gonor were opposed to the sale of the hospital property. Gonor suggested that other methods of financing should be used to pay for the construction and Augustine said that although he supported the construction of a new facility, he was opposed to the specified sale.

The salary hike proposal was introduced by the freeholders at their Nov. 18 meeting, passing by a 6-1 vote, with Augustine opposed and Lapolla abstaining. Monday night's vote was 5-4. Freeholders' salaries would jump from their current $13,500 annually to $18,000. Since the measure is retroactive to March 1 of this year, departing Freeholders Charlotte DeFilippo and Walter Boright also benefit from the increase, by a reported $4,000.

"The retroactivity is what it is... because the board had not acted quickly enough," Boright claimed in a published statement.

Under the same retroactive clause, Freeholders G. Richard Malgran and Slomkowski, who both supported the introduction and final vote on the matter, would have their salaries as board chairman and vice chairman, respectively, raised even higher.

The chairman will have his salary boosted by an estimated 25 percent, from $14,200 to $20,000 annually. The vice chairman's yearly pay would rise from $13,700 to $19,000 a year, about a 38 percent hike. This will also benefit the new chairman and vice-chairman when they are selected at the start of next year.

The Republicans campaigned on a platform of no large freeholder salary hikes in the recent election. Freeholder Paul O'Keefe also supported the hike. Opposed to the raise were Freeholders Augustine, Brian Fahy, Lapolla, and Gonor. Gonor joined several members of the public in vehemently speaking out against the pay hike.

Department heads will receive a salary increase ranging from 2 to 6 percent. The county manager and county counsel, full-time employees as opposed to the part-time freeholders, received smaller pay hikes as did the clerk of the board, Roselle Park resident Eileen Chrenka.

New wing completed

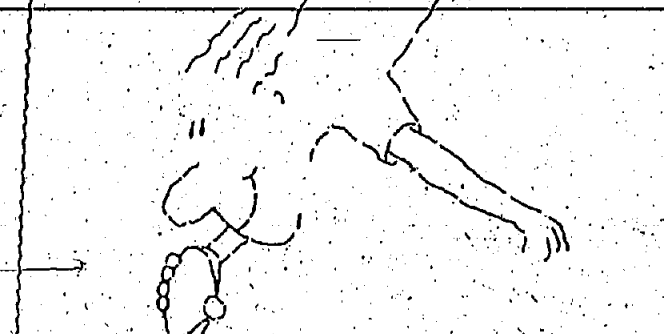

Overlook Hospital, Summit, has announced the completion of its new four-story, 156,000-square-foot West Wing addition.

The structure, along Morris Avenue, is part of a multi-year construction and renovation program begun in 1983. The ongoing project includes a second new structure, a triangular "infill" between two existing wings, also on Morris Avenue, along with the total remodeling of the hospital's existing facilities. The project is expected to be completed in 1987.

"The new West Wing facility will enable us to refine the already state-of-the-art health care facilities that Overlook provides," said Robert G. Cox, chairman of the hospital board of trustees. "And we will be doing so in a more modern, efficient and cost-effective, pleasing environment. The new wing houses a 12-room surgical suite with accompanying pre-operative and recovery rooms, 20-room mixed intensive care and surgical intensive care units and 10-room cardiac care unit with adjoining family waiting areas; clinical and anatomical laboratory, new materials management center, and engineering plant.

The core of the wing is the fourth floor "Critical Care Hub," where Overlook's services for the critically ill patient are centralized. It encompasses not only the new surgical suite and critical care units, but the Emergency Department and related support services in adjoining parts of the existing hospital building.

The new major surgical suite features larger operating rooms which are spacious enough to accommodate the larger and more numerous pieces of equipment and the more advanced surgical techniques.

Union-Montclair title game billed a 'classic'

By RON BISHOP
Sportswriters have a tendency to promote games like the Union-Montclair playoff rematch as "classic confrontations." Two strong, successful teams clash, with the winner often having champion's trappings draped upon them.

MATT DEGENNARO—Union senior quarterback.

Sportswriters like to isolate and specify, probing for the pivotal matchups that can affect a game's outcome. In the '60s, they may have watched Jim Brown maneuver through the Rams' "Fearome Foursome." Today, they may see the Cowboy tackle Randy White manhandling the Rams' intrepid running back Eric Dickerson, or the Raiders' crafty cornerback Lester Hayes frantically trying to neutralize Dolphin receiver Mark Duper.

On Saturday, writers and fans will watch as the players' Tony Stewart, the state's leading scorer, goes up against a formidable Montclair front wall in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 title game at Bloomfield's Rensselaer Field at 1 p.m.

Bears, Panthers in 'Brawl II'

By MIKE MARON
Up steps the ring announcer: "In this corner, with a 7-2 record and a win over Mountain Lakes in the first round of the playoffs, from south of the Boulevard...the Roselle Park Panthers...the crowd cheers."

It will be a knock-down, drag-out affair. The gate receipts generated by the game will be small in comparison to Rocky II, but it will not take a back seat to the hit film in terms of emotion or intensity.

Call Saturday's Roselle Park-Brearley High School matchup for the North Jersey, Section 2, Group championship — "Boulevard Brawl II."

Out to the past. The scene: the original "Rocky," film where the challenger and underdog, Rocky Balboa takes a severe beating from heavyweight champ Apollo Creed but inflicts some damage of his own.

Senior quarterback Dan Sims scored on a 10-yard run and sophomore defensive back Joe Capizzano came up with a key interception as Brearley held on to defeat the Dayton Bulldogs, 6-0, last Saturday in Springfield.

Dayton's offense finally came to life in the fourth quarter, as sophomore quarterback Tony Policare (6-15, 103 yards) marched the Bulldogs deep into Brearley territory.

Last year, Union beat the Mounties, 34-13, to give Farmer coach Lou Reltino his first unbeaten season and his fourth sectional title since taking over as coach in 1977. In that game, Stewart carried 18 times for 189 yards.

Recalled Davies, "last year, it was a good game for three quarters but we were overwhelmed in the fourth because of an injury to (all-American) Quintus McDonald."

On defense, Davies said, the Mounties are "an experienced group, big and rangy. We're tall across the board... Operating primarily from a 53 defensive set, said Jeff Mills (4-4, 220) and Aaron Bryant (6-3, 220), and nose tackle Charles Gibbs (6-3, 215) will be expected to win."

backed by "monster" Erwin Sampson (5-10, 170), whose third-quarter interception set up the Mounties' third touchdown against 8-2 Passaic last Saturday.

Safety Fred Matthews has pilfered seven passes, returning two for touchdowns. Throughout the season, the 6-3, 190-pound Matthews has also been senior quarterback Tim Riddick's favorite target, catching eight of Riddick's ten touchdown passes.

Senior quarterback Dan Sims leads the Brearley year attack. Sims leads the team in rushing with 690 yards, has scored 10 touchdowns and has thrown for five others. (nine touchdowns) and fullback Dennis Layden (four touchdowns) start in the backfield. Ken Sokol and Brett Hubbard start at center and Mike McCoy at center and Bocco Albano and Steve Kanierman at the guard spots.

gained when the 6-6, 190-pound senior is escorted by Yaruski and Fernandez, who make up the left side of the Farmer offensive line.

Opportunistic linebackers Dennis Litt and Nick Yaruski are buttressed by defensive back Stewart and senior safety Gary Mobley, whom Reltino has called "the best at his position in the state."

meanings his team got by the first round of the playoffs with a 17-0 thrashing of Scotch Plains to set up an IHS Tiger game.

Alarcon, Vencho Tolomoni, Alex Schiavone, Sterling Henry, Juan Paredes, Ray DeArnette, Greg Nkwodimma, Enzo Vian, Damian Zurita, M'Fahme Samuelis, Joe Wilchuk and Marco Jasinich.

Senior quarterback Dan Sims leads the team in rushing with 690 yards, has scored 10 touchdowns and has thrown for five others. (nine touchdowns) and fullback Dennis Layden (four touchdowns) start in the backfield.

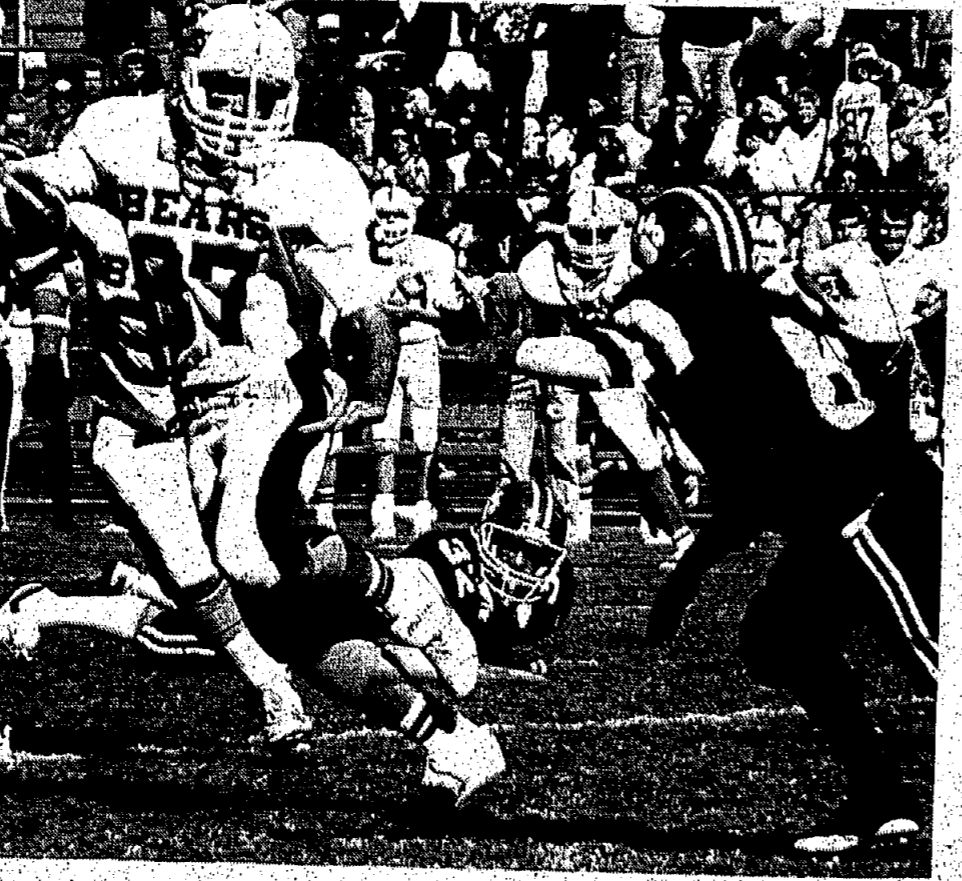

Rams down Caldwell in Super Bowl, 14-0

The Union Rams defeated Caldwell, 14-0 in the Super Bowl at Lyndhurst High School on Sunday to become the champions of the Suburban Twin-County Football League.

Corey Lewis took a pichtout, lateraled to Andre Caban and Caban ran the final 20 yards for the score. The extra-point attempt was good and the Rams led 6-0.

Senior quarterback Dan Sims leads the team in rushing with 690 yards, has scored 10 touchdowns and has thrown for five others. (nine touchdowns) and fullback Dennis Layden (four touchdowns) start in the backfield.

Senior quarterback Dan Sims leads the team in rushing with 690 yards, has scored 10 touchdowns and has thrown for five others. (nine touchdowns) and fullback Dennis Layden (four touchdowns) start in the backfield.

SCENE FROM BOULEVARD BRAWL II—Frank Karovic (87) of David Brearley tries to elude Roselle Park defender Mike Magliacane during the first meeting of the two clubs earlier in the year at Ward Field. Brearley won the game, 20-3. The teams will meet under similar circumstances Saturday for the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 championship.

West Morris is final hurdle for Linden

By MIKE MARON
The harsh reality of being a head football coach may have caught up to Linden's Bucky McDonald this week. The press has begun knocking on the door and ringing his telephone.

meaning his team got by the first round of the playoffs with a 17-0 thrashing of Scotch Plains to set up an IHS Tiger game.

Stewart did break a 60-yard touchdown run against them but 13 carries. And according to Linden stats, Union had just 10 total yards in the second half.

And he added, "up until the Union game, we've had minus-yards rushing against us."

Smith, John Blasingame (over 90 tackles) and Lamont Tate.

'85 football follow-ups

The Roselle High School football team played a 6-0 tie with arch-rival Roselle Park last Saturday in Roselle to finish the season with a 3-5 mark.

The Union Lancers outlasted the Bergen Kickers, 3-2, in a hard-fought soccer match in Leonia recently to remain on top in Division 3 of the Coconong Soccer League.

Bergen scored first with five minutes gone by in the second half but the Lancers evened the score on a goal by Timmy Dean. The Kickers then went ahead, but Marco Castro on an assist from Larry Costa, led the match again at 2-2.

The deciding goal came with just 4 1/2 minutes left in the game on a penalty kick by Jake Stiman.

Ram gridders finish perfect

The Roselle High School freshmen football team finished the year with a 7-0 record, giving them the unofficial Mountain Valley Conference, freshmen championship.

Their undefeated season included victories over Hillside and a powerful Roselle Park squad. The Rams also surprised Immaculata, 24-20. Going into that contest, Immaculata had been undefeated and unscored upon.

This year's Ram offense was sparked by Shawn Smith and fullback Janmarie Worlds. Smith led the team in scoring with eight touchdowns. Fullback Tim Gilliland and receiver Antoine Satterfield and Thomas Brown and tight end Bernard Dancy made important contributions. Guard Tony Miles lent experience to the Ram offensive line.

Roselle's defense, which notched three shutouts during the season, was led by linemen Chris Peterpaul, Steve Colon, Dexter Chambers and Shawn Holmes.

Mitchell leads Rangers to league title

Gordon Mitchell scored three touchdowns and kicked two extra points as the Union Rangers beat Lyndhurst, 29-0 on Sunday to capture the Suburban Twin-County League championship.

Mitchell started off by scoring his first touchdown in the first quarter on a 25-yard run behind a line of fine blocking by the Rangers. Later in the quarter Mitchell scored again, running right to score from 40 yards out.

In the second quarter, Mitchell ran right, got hit, rolled left and needed 45 yards for a touchdown. He also added the extra-point kick.

Joe Queli and Marco Caban led the defense with 10 tackles each. The Rangers piled up 285 yards rushing.

The Rangers sealed the victory when Gerald Tobia returned an interception for a touchdown and Caban scored the extra-point.

Ranger team members this season were: Michael Cialese, Danny Tyler, Gordon Mitchell, Gerald Tobia, Nick Mutascio, Tim Russo, Sharod Wright, Danny Yurecko, Jonathan Cohen, Joe Queli, Danny Roman, Cameron Chadwick, Robert Jarvis, Marco Caban, Edward Collins, Justin Cicchino, Mark Costa, Frank Pabio, Jayen McPhail, DeShawn Charles, Paul Yarusi, Rodney Tullis, Frank Bradley, Harold Fisher, Greg Amato, Chris Huss, Anthony Tango and Nick Alberto.

RUNNING HARD—Gerald Tobia of the Union Rangers scrambles for a 20-yard gain in the third quarter against the Lyndhurst Bears in the Suburban Twin-County League Super Bowl.

Paul Preuso of Cranford, right, works on train layout in preparation of the Union County Model Railroad Club's annual Christmas show which continues during the next two weekends at the group's Union headquarters. Each part of the layout, including trains, railroad stations and scenery, is an exact replica of an original. (Photos by John Boutfkaris)

Model train show is a holiday treat

By RAE HUTTON
No Christmas would be complete without a model train circling the tree and no holiday season should pass without a visit to Union County's Christmas Model Railroad Show.

For the third year in a row, the doors to the Union County Model Railroad Club in Union will be open so the public can take a look at one of the most extravagant — and expensive — sets of model trains in the country.

About two dozen volunteer club members operate the trains during continuous half hour programs, presented during the three weekends after Thanksgiving. Fifteen trains run over the 3,500 feet of track which all was hand laid by club members. The $30,000 HO layout, begun in 1974, is owned by the club, but the thousands of dollars worth of cars running over the tracks are, for the most part, the property of individual members. Visitors can also see displays of an N scale railroad and 100 car trains during the tour of the building.

This year's show began Friday and continues tomorrow and this weekend, and Dec. 13, 14 and 15 at the Jefferson Avenue, Union, building which has been the club's home since the early '70s.

According to Bill Franklin, of Watchung, a member, the Model Railroad Club began as a private venture in 1949, meeting at the home of a member in New Providence. When the member wanted to retire, the club worked out a deal with the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation to provide the property if club members would build the structure which would house the club operations.

Franklin recalled that once the 5,000-square-foot building was up — complete with a visitors' balcony for viewing members began work on the 40-by-50-foot HO layout which dominates the building. Show chairman Phil Monat, who lives in the Bronx, noted that members laid each piece of track by hand "with individual spikes," and put together each of the 28 towns and cities in the layout, each a replica of an original.

In fact, everything, according to Monat, and Franklin, is an exact replica of the real thing, including scenery, railroad stations and the timetables on which the trains operate.

Operations also follow the procedures of the prototype: each train is under the control of an "engineer," freight cars move from points of origin to destinations, passenger trains follow a schedule and operators obey a prototype-like rule book. During club operations, every car moved must have a purpose. But members noted that since visitors want to see running trains, the tracks can be connected to form two continuous loops each of about 270 feet.

Monat said the Christmas show in its current format — with lights and sound — began in 1983. Prior to that, recalls member Carl Paulsen of Summit, the club held an annual fall flea market and show which raised money for the club and maintenance of the building, another chore which is the responsibility of the club. Franklin and Paulsen said plans are under way for an expansion which will at least double the size of the present layout and some club members are hoping to eventually expand the HO layout to 44 by 180 feet over 10,000 feet of track — a size which could make it the largest model railroad in the world.

Members work on the layout on Saturday mornings and the group also meets for rap sessions on Tuesday evenings. From 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, the doors are open to the public for viewing.

"The club operates as a unit on the designs," explained Franklin, noting that there are five "departments" within the club — electrical, scenery, track operations and building maintenance.

"The operation is informal," he added. "The club is for enjoyment, not for organization." The club becomes involved in activities as the interest of members dictate. Senior memberships are always open to those 18 and over and junior memberships for those 15 through 17 are available on a restricted basis. Experience is not necessary and there are no requirements of activity or attendance.

Brenda Lee's new LP is 'right'

Pick Of The LP, "Feels So Right," by Brenda Lee (MCA Records). Exactly at what point in her musical career Brenda Lee stepped across the threshold that separates fame from legend, even those closest to her can only speculate...

Disc 'n' Data

By MILTHAMMER

generation, but her presence on the scene will be felt for a long, long time to come.

Brenda Lee, today, with a career that spans from cutting her baby teeth in the early era of rock 'n' roll, to being credited in recent years as being one of the major musical influences of '80's artists as diverse as Cyndi Lauper and Barbara Mandrell, is propelled by the same forces that initially brought her to stardom as a child: boundless enthusiasm and seemingly bottomless reserve wells of talent. If it's true, as they say, that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, one quick skim across the radio dial on any given day must make Brenda Lee feel awfully flattered indeed.

With her worldwide record sales scaling the 100 million mark, Brenda is one legend on the music horizon who constantly keeps re-awakening her audience to a new day in Brenda Lee music. For her, the best and most important performance is not last night's, last week's, last year's, or those in the last three decades of her music—the best is here—in the "today," with the promise that tomorrow will be even more exciting!

As witnessed by her current MCA album release, "Feels So Right," Brenda's talent was born in the '50's and an era when the musical technology and state-of-the-art approach to sound perfection could best enhance a voice whose simple vocal signature, "Brenda," literally says it all.

Brenda, in turn, is vitally aware of musical trends with a keen ear for what will best enhance her music, reach her established following, and win an even wider audience, not only for herself, but for the business she loves. "I'm everybody's biggest fan, because I truly respect and love the music industry and the people in it," Brenda has been quoted. More importantly, the good will she talks about has substance behind it, as witnessed by her tireless support of and involvement in the organizational levels of Nashville's music community, as well as her numerous chairmanships for charitable organizations on both the local and national level. As is characteristic of Brenda, she lends not only her name, but also her boundless energy to each cause close to her heart.

Books are best holiday gifts

Books are, without question, among the best gifts one can give for Hanukkah and Christmas because you can tailor them to the specific interests of the person receiving them. Here is my special selection of top books for the holidays:

Among the big, "coffee table" books, there's a superb tribute to William Roger Winterspoon, "Martin Luther King, Jr. To The Mountain" ($24.95, Doubleday). The book captures the spirit of the struggle for Civil Rights. For film buffs, there's "The International Film Poster" by Gregory J. Edwards ($24.95, Merrimack Publishers Circle), a feast for the eye, along with an excellent text which will increase your appreciation for these works of art. Many are already collector's items. The younger set will enjoy a lavishly illustrated text of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Story" ($14.95, Barron's) in full color. Do you have a child who loves to sing? Then get him or her "The Reader's Digest Children's Songbook" ($23.95) with more than 130 enduring favorites, grouped by children's ages and interests. And, for the child in all of us, two calendars to delight and amuse. One is a perennial favorite of mine, B. Kilban's "Cat Calendar" ($7.95, Penguin Books) with full-color, madcap cats, each month and the other is the "Chocolatier 1988 Calendar" ($8.95, plus $1 postage, from Chocolatier Magazine, 45 W. 34th St., New York 10001) which will give you reason to drool as you enjoy both its color photos and the wonderful recipes included. As addicted as I am to the printed word, I must confess I find the variety of spoken word cassettes fascinating and will devote a whole column to them as early gifts and depending on one's fictional preferences. The non-fiction shelves are filled with goodies too! If you haven't read "Breaking With Moscow" by Keady N. Shevchenko, $13.95, Knopf, the Russian UN diplomat who defected. One of the East Bloc best exports is Marina Navratilova, the great tennis player. I think you'll enjoy her autobiography, "Martina" ($16.95, Knopf) written with George Vecsey. It's quite candid and you will come away with a vivid look behind the scenes of professional tennis today.

Bookviews

By ALAN CARUBA

No doubt William F. Buckley, Jr. thinks Martina made a good move and you can find a lot of his thinking in "Right Reason" ($19.95, Doubleday), a collection of his articles, columns and speeches written over the past seven years. And if you hold Capitalism near and dear, you ought to pick up "Marshall Loeb's Money Guide" for 1988 ($12.95, Little-Brown), a fat compendium of good financial advice covering all aspects of taxes, stocks, bonds, IRAs. For better health in 1988, I must recommend the bestseller, "Fit For Life" by Harvey and Marilyn Diamond ($16.95, Warner Books) which effectively destroys the myths and nonsense about magic diets via a program of weight loss through healthy living. This is the first book in a long time that really seems to make sense. Finally, the growth of films on videocassettes certainly needs a good guide and I can certainly recommend Roger Ebert's "Movie Home Companion" 1989, Andrews, McNeil & Parker, softcover which looks at 400 films from from 1980-85 period now available. And, from Larson's totally wacky cartoons, "Valley of the Far Side" ($5.95, softcover), which is good for lots of laughs. For you last minute shoppers, we'll have still more suggestions in our next column.

The party—a three-day affair—will be held at the college's Cranford Campus on Jan. 3, 4 and 5 beginning at 4:30 p.m. each day.
As the Halley Watch countdown begins, shortly after sunset, those attending the party may go to the parking lot behind the Campus Center where several dozen telescopes will be set up by A.A.I.
