Caveat emptor

The holiday bills are coming in like Christmas cards these days, and most of them post an innocuous message near the bottom of the bill that reads something like this: Interest on the unpaid balance is calculated at xx percent.

The amount of interest varies according to the department store, bank credit card company or oil company that issues the card.

For example, one oil company charges 24 percent to New Jersey residents who owe a balance for more than 30 days. Pennsylvanians pay the same company 15 percent because that state has a ceiling on credit card interest that may be charged.

New Jersey used to have a cap on interest rates but the Legislature abandoned all interest rate ceilings in 1981.

Bank credit card users in New Jersey may pay as much as 19.8 percent for the privilege of not paying bills when due. Department stores reap a heap from consumers too. One large national chain of stores charges 21 percent interest on unpaid balances, while other department stores collect interest charges on unpaid balances of up to nearly 20 percent.

These high rates appear in spite of the fact that interest rates for cars and home mortgages are at their lowest levels in years, and the prime rate rests at 9.5 percent. The prime rate is the interest rate that commercial banks charge on loans to their borrowers with the best credit rating.

It is hard to understand why, at a time of strong economic growth and reasonable lending rates, the retail credit market continues to charge outrageous interest rates.

Two bills sitting in state Senate Committee would place a cap, or limit, on what a credit card issuer could charge. The Republican version of the bill limits interest rates to 8 percent above the prime rate; the Democrat's bill would place the interest ceiling at 6 percent above the prime rate. Both bills died in the last session of the Legislature, although one, the Republican bill, has been around since February 1984.

The public can prod the Legislature to reintroduce a bill in the next session that would place a cap on interest charges. Then the public can insist that the bill be passed.

Lions give much more than their share

By MARTY NOVICH
I am intrigued by history and to find myself a part of it is thrilling. But even more exciting than being part of modern history is to participate in an organization that predates my birth. The organization I refer to is the Lions Club of Springfield where we find 27 men who live and work in our town, and who keep alive an interest in the Lion tradition in Springfield that goes back 60 years. To find such gentlemen as Art Buehrer, Ray Forbes, Billy Koons around a meeting table with others is to remember that these three men served our town politically in its growing adolescent years. Now as Lions, they contribute their time and energy to work on behalf of charity and the underprivileged. The Christmas party at the

Library reports on 1985

Cynthia Josephs, director of the Springfield Public Library, recently reported on the highlights of 1985. The library received a certificate honoring its achievement in becoming the first New Jersey library to join the first regional library cooperative — the new state networking system. Josephs headed the Interim Planning Committee, which organized the cooperative. The library opened for longer hours starting in 1985: Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Tuesday, Friday, Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Josephs reported that total circulation is up over 1984, with big jumps in the circulation of video tapes, reference books and young adult paperbacks. The Service Center for the Blind and Handicapped was established in January. By the end of its first year, 21 patrons were using the service. The library has served as a clearing house and meeting place for Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE). The Friends of the Library raised more than $5,000 to purchase new adult fiction and reference books and to start a new collection of books on cassette tapes. Outreach services continued to be provided for Senior Citizens Housing, the community pool, St. James School, shut-ins, and senior citizens meeting at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center, Josephs reported. Library volunteers contributed more than 60 hours of service per week. All who contributed over 500 hours had their names engraved on a plaque which hangs in the lobby.

Seaman completes training

During Huss' eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 65 basic fields.

Former ambassador discusses summit

Women from all over the United States, Corella Scott King was one of their members, as was a co-delegation which included Jesse Jackson. Their purpose was to present a petition calling for a Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty as a continuation of the work done by peace-concerned women in 1983 when a partial or limited test ban above ground nuclear explosions was obtained. Marindell described events during her journey where she sat next to former Congresswoman Bella Abzug and actress Jane Alexander. They requested a meeting to present their petitions to President Reagan, but were steered to a low-ranking deputy who then lectured them about not presuming to tell the president how to proceed. On the other hand, they did meet with Secretary General Gorbachev for a full 45 minutes. Marindell said she was impressed with the Soviet leader's flexibility and intelligence. The groups presented four issues related to world peace: arms control and a testing moratorium on all nuclear explosions; five-nation peace initiative (Greece, Sweden, Argentina, Tanzania, Mexico) for mediation on the verification of the moratorium; human rights and the treatment of Jews; options for South Africa; the necessity of avoiding

Members take oath of office

New members were sworn in at the first Springfield Mayor's Committee on Aging meeting of 1986 Jan. 16. Township Clerk Helen Maguire attended to swear in 1986 members. The Members are Kitty Gardella, Postmistress Janet Hardison, Joseph Fitzsimmons, the Rev. George Schiesinger, Mary Ciampelli, John McMurray, Irma Weinstein, Alma Zeller, Madeline Lancaster, Harold Bishop and Arthur Buehrer. Absent were Ellen Carmichael and Arthur Dauter. Mayor Bill Cieri was present as was Theresa Herkalo, senior coordinator. A discussion was held on "Heritage Day," scheduled for July 4. Schiesinger is chairman. An organization meeting will be held Jan. 30, at 10 a.m., at the Methodist Church. Anyone interested in being on the committee for the Heritage Day are invited to attend this meeting.

Benefit scheduled

Pictures of Winter

There hasn't been much snow lately outdoors, but inside the Thelma L. Sandmeier School in Springfield and the Harding School in Kenilworth, there has been plenty of the white stuff. The snowball fight is by Jessica Zimling. The figures in Laurie Prudente's drawing are building a snowman, while, below left, Michael Wider depicts the art of catching snowflakes. All are students in Claire Hoopman's first-grade class at Sandmeier. The snowperson in the upper left-hand corner is by Michael Kuleher, the one in the lower right corner by David Rosen, third graders at Harding. The thoughts of winter below: Laurie Prudente's drawing are from Lee Beasley, of Alice Ortal's second-grade class at Deerfield School, Mountaintide.

Scott woke up and found snow outside. He wanted very much to go out and play in the snow. Scott got prepared to go outside. Scott and Jim went sledding on a very big hill. They had a very good time. They decided to play every day in the snow. Scott made some snowballs. He even made snow angels and snowmen. Scott saw a hole. There was probably an animal hiding inside of it. He went over to his friend's house. His friend's name was Jim. Jim came out to play. They both wanted to make snow sculptures. Jim wanted to make a dragon. Scott made a turtle.

Martin Luther King

On a memorable note, Springfield students in Wynana Anderson's second-grade class are remembering Martin Luther King, whose birthday was celebrated Monday. Below are some of their thoughts on the late civil rights leader. Fifth graders in Jean Krystow's class at Deerfield School, Mountaintide drew pictures in tribute to black heroes. Ryan Arthur memorializes Duke Ellington. The Hank Aaron tribute is by Ben Selmonley.

I wish people would never get sick or die. I wish people would live until they are 100 years old. And some day I hope the world will live in peace. And especially in South Africa. Kurt Moskowitz

When I grow up I wish I could be like Martin Luther King because he's very helpful and needed. And I want to be a history teacher like my mother. Lindsey Brooks

It is my dream that all people should enjoy life and have love, peace and good health. I hope that we can find a cure for all illnesses so that more people can live long and healthy lives. Carrie Kluehlein

When I grow up I want there to be no fighting in the world because I want peace in the world. I'm very unhappy when people get hurt and die. Alyssa Stadlin

Passing scores OK'd for HSPT

The New Jersey State Board of Education unanimously adopted a resolution Jan. 8 setting the passing scores for the High School Proficiency Test (HSPT). Ninth-grade students statewide will take the test in April and must pass it before graduating in 1989. Based on the state board action, students must score at least 75 on the reading portion of the test, 77 on the writing test and 63 on the math test in order to pass the HSPT in the spring.

The HSPT assesses basic academic skills all students need to function in contemporary society. The passing scores set represent a reasonable standard students can meet by 1989 in order to qualify for a New Jersey high school diploma, said Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman. The test has been administered for two years, but did not count toward graduation either time. Passing scores had not been set previous to the state board meeting.

Based on these passing scores, the Department of Education estimates that 74.4 percent of ninth-graders statewide will pass the reading portion of the HSPT in the spring, 76.7 percent will pass the writing test and 61 percent will pass the math test.

Of the approximately 86,500 students expected to take the test, it is estimated that about 42,000 of them will not pass one or more parts. Students must pass all three parts of the test before they can receive a diploma. Those who do not pass in ninth grade retake the test each year until they pass.

The HSPT replaces the less rigorous Minimum Basic Skills (MBS) test as the statewide high school graduation requirement. The HSPT requires students to apply basic academic skills in a more sophisticated way than does the MBS test. On the HSPT, students are asked to interpret reading material, write an essay and solve multiple-step math problems.

Local school districts must focus on teaching all students these essential academic skills, Cooperman said. "Those who have not mastered these skills by ninth grade will receive special academic assistance in order to pass the test by 12th grade."

FINANCE CONSERVATION MEASURES AT VERY LOW INTEREST RATES...

...AS LOW AS 0%

As part of our Conserve & Save Program working with the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities and the New Jersey Department of Energy, we're making no-interest and low-interest loans available through participating banks for conservation improvement measures.

Any Elizabethtown Gas residential heating customer who owns the home may request financing for conservation measures.

Customers with annual family incomes under $30,000 may qualify for financing for up to six years at no interest. Customers with annual family incomes over $30,000 may qualify for financing at 7.5 per cent interest for up to four years.

These loans range from $500 to $4000 and may be used for insulation, caulking, storm or thermal windows and doors, water heaters, furnace or water heater replacement, low-flow shower-heads, faucet aerators and others.

To be eligible, you must first have a Home Energy Savings Program energy audit to determine which conservation measures will be most effective in your home. The audit, valued at $70, costs you only $15.

For more details, send the coupon below or call Elizabethtown Gas Energy Conservation Center. Toll-free: 1-800-221-0364

Talented Tigers crush outmanned Irvington

By RON BISHOP

Before Saturday afternoon's game with Linden, Irvington coach Kurt Fenchel admitted that Linden "had the best talent in the (Watchung) Conference."

But Tiger coach Wilbur Alkins said that "the Conference is well-balanced."

Both Linden Tiger basketball teams have shown intermittent signs of effectiveness; they hint at being able to win consistently — flashes of brilliance, as sports writers are wont to say. They both are battling what can be the most damaging of sports' deficiencies — inconsistency.

For Alkins' Tigers, a recent rough stretch against winning Watchung Conference teams proves his theory about balance. Linden lost close games to Elizabeth, currently 7-2 in the conference, 52-49 and 51-49. In the conference, Linden lost to Elizabeth (7-3), 56-51, before bouncing back with impressive wins over Cranford (73-49) and conference leader Union Catholic (9-1), 77-56.

Which proves Fenchel's theory about Linden's talent?

But a 62-60 loss to Scotch Plains (7-3 in the conference) last Thursday left the Tigers with a 4-4 conference record going into Saturday's game.

And a much younger Irvington team hit at testing the Tigers before ultimately succumbing to Linden's obvious edge in talent.

Irvington lacked the muscle to battle effectively inside against Stacy Williams; Corey Floyd and Ethen Patterson, who each grabbed four rebounds. Instead, the Campers were forced to rely on outside shooting. They moved the ball around the perimeter but were unable to penetrate the lane consistently. Williams did a reasonable Paul Silas imitation, clogging the lane with help from Patterson and senior Kevin Settle.

Warren Warren's jumper gave Irvington a short-lived 64 first-

Middle weight classes giving Bears the edge

By MIKE MARON

Good baseball teams are usually strong up the middle and in the middle of the batting order. The Brearley High School wrestling squad this season is off to a 4-2 start, thanks to strength in the middle weight classes.

The Bears opened the season with four straight dual-meet wins before last week in a row to Mountain Valley Conference rival Middlesex (35-29) and 40-12 to Roselle Park Friday night. Middlesex was 6-1 coming into that meet while the talent of the Bears were 2-2.

In other action this week, Dayton raised its record to 4-1-1 with a 5-0 whipping of Johnson on Saturday and was looking to go 5-1-1 last night at Bound Brook. Roselle Park, in beating the Bears Friday, was 3-2.

Brearley has been led by the 1-2-3 punch of 134-pounder Mike Tripodi, 140-pounder Scott Munk and 147-pounder Paul Minitelli. Going into last night's match with Summit, the three had a combined individual record of 21-4-1. Brearley coach Ron Ferrara, in typical low-key fashion, is pleased with the work of all three but is cautious to make any predictions about the upcoming district or regional tournaments. He likes the hard work of Tripodi, Chris Bell in 122 to go 7-1.

"He's probably improved the most since last year," said Ferrara of the junior Tripodi. "He's physically stronger, in better shape and is working harder." In gaining Tripodi's spirit, Ferrara pointed to his match last Wednesday. Tripodi went against Vince Polazzi, of Middlesex after Polazzi had beaten him in the Woodbridge Tournament, 6-2. This time, in front of the home fans, Tripodi battled Polazzi to a 1-1 draw.

All 140 pounds, Munk, a senior, has jumped out to a 6-2 record. "He's more aggressive than last year," he's working for more pins and he's just concentrating a lot better," said his coach. Munk defeated Dean Otto of Middlesex in just 1:44 but got pinned in the third period by Daze Fischer Friday night.

Minitelli, another senior, had an 8-0 personal mark going into his match with Scotch Plains. He's working three pins and a technical fall. This Wednesday, Tripodi went against Vince Polazzi in the county, but Croce came out on top, 4-2, handing Minitelli his first loss of the year. "I think he's (Minitelli)

Audiences get in tune with orchestra

By RAE HUTTON
It was only six years ago that the musicians on the stage at a Garden State Chamber Orchestra concert outnumbered the people in the audience. This weekend, the orchestra, now in residence at Kean College, Union, will play to sell-out crowds in Morristown, Englewood and at the college.

"We've sold out for Saturday's concert at the Morris Museum, Morristown, and the others," says Issac Dostis, publicity manager for the orchestra, recalling that "during our first year, we were booked many more people in the audience who "understand the orchestra's value," Dostis said, adding that subscriptions have increased by 40 percent over last year.

Part of the reason for this new found interest can be attributed to artistic excellence.

Founder and Music Director Frederick Storfer personally auditions every candidate for each of the 17 seats in the orchestra. During the six years since the Garden State Chamber Orchestra was founded, Storfer has auditioned hundreds of musicians. Three years ago, he recalls, increase of private corporate patrons are adding up to help the orchestra grow."

Audiences and critics alike say the Garden State Chamber Orchestra has "power and style."

Says Dostis, "about 95 percent of the reviews have been good." Critics have described the orchestra's performances as "satisfying, fascinating, remarkable, well-planned, well-executed and well-received."

Each performance includes works from all musical eras. Old favorites — Bach, Mozart or Tchaikovsky — are played and often a previously unknown work by a well-known composer or a "neglected" piece from the past is premiered.

This weekend's programs will feature the American premiere of Giuseppe Jacchini's Cello Concerto No. 2 in G Minor.

"I think our audiences are sophisticated and hear the standard works very often," says Storfer. "It's fascinating to hear something for the first time."

The orchestra's audiences are in for a real treat this weekend because in addition to the cello concerto, J. S. Bach's controversial Orchestral Suite in G Minor is on the program. The piece is of questionable authenticity since it was found about 100 years after Bach's death.

The audiences will witness the American premiere of composer Frederick Kaufman's Concerto for Cello and String Orchestra (Kaddish), written in homage to the composer's parents who died recently. Kaufman, a Fulbright all over the state. At one performance, at the War Memorial in Trenton, we had to ask our bus driver to come in to the concert hall. With him and a local music critic, there were five people in the audience. That same year, at a concert at Symphony Hall in Newark, only 12 people showed up. There were still more people on stage than in the audience."

But as the orchestra performs its second series of concerts this season beginning tomorrow in Englewood, there will be there was a big change.

"I auditioned a whole new crew to get more musicians who were suited to my temperament, and younger ones who will grow along with us," Storfer said.

Artistic excellence is not all that has led to the group's success. The GSCO is "maturing" in many ways, according to Dostis and Storfer.

Development of its board of directors and management, strong support from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, and an

In addition, the "We the People, 200," committee that is coordinating all activities for the constitution's bicentennial celebration has chosen Kaufman to compose a symphony that will include the preamble to the Constitution in one of its movements.

Other pieces to be performed by the GSCO under the baton of Storfer this weekend are Grieg's Holberg Suite and Grainger's Handel on the Strand.

Storfer founded the orchestra six years ago as the Chamber Players, the Harlem Opera Society and the St. Matthew's Choral Society.

He has recorded under the Musical Heritage Society label with both the Garden State Chamber Orchestra and the English Chamber Orchestra.

Highlights of this season also include Mozart's Eine kleine Nachtmusik, described as a "sensuous rendezvous with love," Holberg's Suite, a "classic in romantic garb," the

The orchestra's schedule for the remainder of the year includes the third series of concerts the weekend of March 14 through 16, and the fourth and final series of the season from April 4 through 6. All are performed at the Englewood, Morristown and Kean College sites.

IRS improves tax assistance

As 3.5 million IRS federal tax packets are arriving in the mail boxes of New Jerseyans, Internal Revenue Service officials here announced steps that have been taken to improve the quality of taxpayer assistance available during the upcoming filing season.

"We're confident that we have corrected many of the Brookhaven Service Center (Hollisville, N.Y.) computer-related problems that indirectly put an unanticipated strain on our ability here in New Jersey to properly and expeditiously respond to an unusually high number of taxpayer inquiries," commented Cornelius J. Coleman, IRS district director in Newark.

He indicated that the huge IRS processing center on Long Island upgraded its computer capacity by 75 percent and re-wrote its software programs. Coleman said these changes should significantly reduce tax return processing time and enable the IRS to issue refunds within 10 weeks.

"We have hired additional representatives to answer taxpayer inquiries on our toll free (1-800-424-1040) line," remarked Coleman. "We have also almost doubled the number of lines on our Tele-Tax service, which allows taxpayers to listen to about 150 pre-recorded messages on various tax issues. In addition, a special toll-free number (1-800-424-FORM) has been established to order forms," he said.

Coleman said that the Tele-Tax upgrading and special forms number is expected to decrease the volume of calls coming into the toll-free assistance number, and thereby greatly improve taxpayer access to a "live" representative.

"The walk-in areas of our 14 field offices will all be fully staffed to answer individual taxpayer inquiries and to conduct tax return preparation classes," Coleman stated. "These offices will be open weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.," he added.

The IRS official said that community "outreach" sessions will again be conducted before interested organizations. These meetings are designed to assist

Divorce workshop set

Problems related to divorce and ways to handle them will be examined in a "Families and Divorce Workshop" sponsored by Family Service Association of Summit on Feb. 23 and March 1. The workshop is designed for divorcing or already divorced parents and their children ages 5 through 17.

The educational program of lectures, films, and discussion groups, will be led by the staff members of Family Service. Some workshop segments will be for the parents as a whole, and others will be divided, with children in one group and parents in another. Recent research indicates that children are affected more by what happens after the divorce than what occurred in the marriage.

taxpayers prepare returns. He also said that numerous sites will be established throughout the state, where taxpayers can have their returns prepared free of charge by IRS-trained volunteers. More information on these programs can be obtained on the toll-free number, Coleman added.

The special needs of children will be the focus of the workshop, and they will be encouraged to express their concerns about the divorce, both verbally and through art projects and activities.

In addition to practical issues such as visitation, custody, child support and changes in living arrangements, the parents will learn ways to help their children understand what has happened to their family and to deal with the grief and emotional trauma of the situation. The parents also will consider the development of interaction skills suitable to their status as singles. Further information about the workshop is available by contacting Mary Nighthagle, or Robert Farina at Family Service, 273-1414.

If you need a laugh 'Run for your Wife'

By BEA SMITH and MARCY LEVITCH

If you feel the need for a laugh or two, or perhaps two thousand, trot over to the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, for see "Run for Your Wife," one of the funniest British comedies of this year or any other. It opened last week and unfortunately it only will run through Feb. 9. With veteran actor David McCallum in the lead, the comedy by Ray Cooney comes directly from a successful run on the London stage.

British comedies have an identity of their own, with such perfect timing that can turn confusion into simplicity. And it takes a fine director, such as Chris Johnston, to make perfect sense of a jumble of situations.

John Smith has a schedule, perfectly worked out. It enables him to drive his taxi, live with his wife in Wimbledon, drive his taxi some more and live with his wife in Streatham. Everything is perfect until a mugging incident brings in the police and then... But that's the essence of the hysterically funny story that makes the play, "Run For Your Wife," truly a laugh a minute.

The versatile McCallum, known to TV audiences as Ilya Kuryakin in "Man From U.N.C.L.E.," is adorable as the innocent-appearing, "bright-eyed bigamist, bouncing around or racing from one wily situation to another with worried wives and policemen — not to mention the press — hot on his tail.

The set is a dual representation of his two flats, tastefully decorated in blues, greens and gold. As in most English farces, this play shines as doors open and close, characters run hither, and thither... and confusion reigns. While "tugboat" soars to a crescendo of hysteria, the action builds to an hilarious climax.

McCallum is supported by an excellent cast with Michael Connolly (reminiscent of Peter O'Toole), as his "opstairs neighbor," who becomes personally entrenched in the confusion; Jana Robbins, as McCallum's wife, Barbara, of Streatham, and Kay Wabye as wife, Mary, of Wimbledon; William Dunn, as Detective Sergeant Porterquigg, and Mitchell Greenberg as Detective Sergeant Troughton; Frank Kopye as another neighbor and Tom Farvay as a newspaper reporter.

What makes a man want to marry two women? Well, as McCallum logically explains it, he loves Mary, but after meeting Barbara, a lovely girl who proposes to him, how could he hurt her feelings and turn her down? Hence, the hectic schedules.

It is all highly recommended for those who love to laugh. And particularly, as far as Paper Mill audiences are concerned, it's the most fun when you can't control your laughter; you've run out of tissues to dry your streaming eyes, you gasp for breath and you ignore that job in your side that says, "enough already."

When was the last time you laughed quite like this?

ARTIST HONORED—The Union County Board of Freeholders recently presented a certificate of honor to Douglas G. Schiller, staff artist at the Trailside Nature and Science Center of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation. With Schiller, center, are former Freeholder Walter Boright, left, and William Higginson, administrator of the Cultural and Heritage Office of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

Freeholders cite Trailside artist

The Union County Board of Freeholders recently presented a certificate of honor to Douglas G. Schiller, staff artist at the Trailside Nature and Science Center of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.

Schiller had his work exhibited in the Freeholders' Meeting Room at the Union County Administration Building through the end of 1985.

His work included a number of oil paintings and a large pencil drawing, all done in a meticulous, realistic style that captures the unique characteristics of each object portrayed, according to William Higginson, administrator of the Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs of the Department of Parks and Recreation.

Schiller's work has been exhibited throughout the Northeast and as far away as Iowa.

The exhibit was one of a series organized by the Office of Cultural Heritage Affairs to promote Union County artists. The office works with art organizations throughout the county to arrange shows at the freeholders meeting room on a continuing basis, Higginson said.

Interested county artists should have their group or organization call 233-7006 for information.

YM-YWHA has a variety of classes

One session cooking classes, featuring three different cuisines, two kinds of stress reduction courses, a Sunday afternoon potpourri for children, Hebrew language courses, introduction to the prayerbook, and Hebrew calligraphy are some of the courses the YM-YWHA is offering this month. Registration for members and non-members is being held at the Leban Building on Green Lane and by mail using the form enclosed in the recently printed Y winter program book.

Sunday Funday is a new attraction the Y is providing for the weekend pleasure of boys and girls five through 11. Each child may take two different courses and enjoy a professionally supervised snack with friends between activities, all at a package rate.

"Abracadabra," "Junior Chefs," "Sports Club" and the child safety course, "Unscaredy Cats," are some of the Sunday Funday choices. New York's cultural attractions will be the destination of "Culture Loop," the YM-YWHA club where boys and girls choose theater and music attractions, travel round trip with Y friends and Y professional supervision on Sunday afternoons. Tammy Stecker, youth director, can be contacted for additional information at 289-8112.

"People leading pressured lives can benefit from two stress reduction courses" at the Y: "Stress Management Through Movement," held Tuesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., teaches one how to retrain the body to eliminate postural and emotional provoked tension. Using the Alexander technique, the course teaches physical ease. "Reducing Stress in Our Lives," taught Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m., emphasizes the realignment of relationships. Instructor Jeff Wells' eclectic approach allows students to benefit from group interaction, writing exercises and discussions to develop a position trend in their lives. Jody Leopold, adult program director, can be called at the Y, 289-8112, for further information on all adult activities.

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 44 of Sewaren, is offering courses in boating skills and seamanship.

The courses will be held at John F. Kennedy High School, Iselin, Feb. 5; Rahway High School, Rahway, Feb. 11, and Metuchen High School, Metuchen, March 11.

Sessions run from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. It was announced that interested persons can call the school of their choice for registration dates.

Art work in exhibit

The work of Patricia Davis-Ganek of Randolph, formerly of West Orange, is being exhibited in a one-woman show at the Summit Arts Center, 69 Elm St., now through Feb. 27.

An award-winning watercolorist, Davis-Ganek recently was accepted as a full active member into the New Jersey Watercolor Society and the National Society of Painters of Casein and Acrylics. Her recent accolade was the Winsor Newton award from the Catherine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club Show, New York.

More than 500 pieces of her works now appear in private and public collections, among them those of Dun and Bradstreet, IBM, Union Carbide, Mobil, Hartford Insurance Co., and PSE&G of New Jersey. Her work has been shown in national exhibitions, including the American Watercolor Society at the Salmagundi Club, New York, American Watercolor Society National Traveling Exhibition and the National Arts Club Open Watercolor Exhibition, New York.

Both phases of Davis-Ganek's opus are represented in the show held in the Members Gallery. Additional information can be obtained by calling 273-8121.

Colonial Chorus needs men

"Men of all ages who like to sing are invited to be guests of the Colonial Chorus at 8 p.m. Monday at the American Legion Hall, 1003 North Ave., West, in Westfield.

The Colonial Chorus is made up of members of the Westfield Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. (SPEBSQSA), America's largest men's singing fraternity with more than 40,000 members nationwide.

Always in the traditional, unaccompanied four-part harmony known as Barberian style, the singing repertoire includes "many old-familiar songs, plus ballads and novelty numbers."

The Colonial Chorus meets every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the American Legion Hall (three blocks west of Hahn's department store).

Further information about Tuesday's Guest Night, or on the Colonial Chorus, Doug Brown can be contacted at 278-5811.

All are invited "for an evening of singing fun." Refreshments will be served.

Kean alumni in art show

From the Drawing Studio, an exhibit of drawings by alumni, faculty and students of Kean College of New Jersey will open Wednesday and run to Feb. 26 in the James Howe Gallery in Vaughn-Eames Hall.

Zara Cohan, Elizabeth, gallery director, said W. Carl Burger of Calicut, a professor of fine arts, is guest curator for the show. Burger also will exhibit two drawings.

Cohan said a reception for the artists will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. on Feb. 2 in the gallery. Admission to the reception and the gallery is free. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to noon on Fridays.

Artists and their works by hometown include: Linden, Judy Yella, an alumna, with a mixed media; Robert Colish, a student with two graphite on illustration board.

Maintainable, Joan Amundson, a student with a mixed-media. Roselle, Joyce Henrich, an alumna, with a prismacolor bond.

Art exhibited by Lesli Grant

Washington, D. C., and was graduated from the Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art in New York City this month.

Her art works at the Arthur A. Houghton Gallery, Seventh Street at Third Avenue, New York City, from Tuesday to Feb. 1. The gallery hours are from noon to 7 p.m. A reception for the artist will be held on Tuesday at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend the opening of the show.

Grant, who was graduated from the Newark Academy in Livingston, attended the American University,

Film show tonight

Three award-winning nature films depicting the sparsely traveled Chihuahuan desert in northern Mexico-southern Texas will be shown at the Reeves-Reed Arboretum in Summit tonight at 8 o'clock.

The films, which received the N.Y. Film Critics Award, are "Land of Lost Borders," "Where Rainbows Wait—For Rain" and "Desert Semphore." Film narration by Burgess Meredith will describe the natural area.

Admission is $4 for members; $5 for non-members. The Arboretum is located at 105 Hobart Ave., near Rt. 24. More information can be obtained by calling 273-8787.

TWIN program set Streep 'out of Africa' in style

"Careers of the 80s," a forum for guidance-counselors and faculty members of area schools, will provide information regarding current and projected employment trends which should effectively help educators increase student awareness of employment opportunities for both the college-bound and non college-bound. Skills and educational requirements also will be outlined as well as identifying career areas in industry which are not readily apparent to the general public.

The luncheon program is scheduled for today at 11:30 a.m. at the Plainfield YWCA and is open to all educators interested in career exploration. Reservations and additional information can be obtained by contacting Janet Korcia, Career Options Unlimited coordinator, at 768-9838.

Once again Meryl Streep has been called upon to deliver one of her patented—frigid ladies—strong-willed, yet terribly romantic, and once again she comes through in fine style.

Streep's Karen Dinaasen provides a constantly interesting focal point to Sydney Pollack's new film "Out of Africa," making up for the film's tendency to meander, and lack action.

The movie is based on the stories of Isak Dinaasen, and is about Karen, a rich Swedish woman with a colorful past. She moves to Africa and marries the brother of her lover, and together they go about the business of setting up a coffee plantation.

They are not a perfect match, however, and the Baron leaves for extended safaris, returning only occasionally. When war breaks out, he's gone for good. Karen makes an arduous journey to bring him supplies; he's grateful, but ends up giving her gonorrhea, which in those days—1916 to 1920—was a 50-50 shot at insanity or death. She recovers in Europe and returns to Africa—where she begins to fall in love with British hunter-adventurer Denys Finch-Hatton, played by Robert Redford.

Karen and Denys's romance, set against the breathtakingly beautiful African bush country, is the main plot of the film. The problem is, their romance is boring.

Except during her journey, Karen mostly sits and waits for the men in her life to show up at the coffee farm, and the audience waits too, making the film stilted. First the Baron leaves, returns, leaves, returns, etc. Meanwhile Karen runs into Denys at parties, in restaurants and any other locale you might think of. When she's back on the farm and the Baron has taken an extended leave, Denys, now her lover, shows up and he leaves a half dozen times.

Redford is serviceable as Hatton. However, in this role, he really proves he is an actor who refuses to take a chance, and for that reason many of his contemporaries have long since outclassed him. He makes no effort to try an English accent, nor does he try to flesh out Hatton's interesting and offbeat character.

Streep's performance is excellent as usual, and David Walker's photography makes glorious use of color, bringing Africa to the big screen in a big way.

Composer to lecture

Dr. Loretta Jackson of Mountainside, composer, graduate of the Eastman School of Music, and adjunct professor of music at Kean College of New Jersey, Union, recently lectured on the "Music of Krzysztof Penderecki" at the Polish Cultural Center, 177 Broadway, Clark.

The center will sponsor a bus trip to Carnegie Hall, New York City, for the American premiere of Penderecki's "Mass" Saturday. The lecture helped participants and other music lovers to better appreciate Penderecki's creativity.

Dr. Jankowicki is reportedly qualified to delve into and explain the magical mysteries of Penderecki's works which first gained world-wide recognition in the 1960's. Her studies include composition at the Higher School of Music in Cracow, Poland. Penderecki is associated with the Cracow Philharmonic Orchestra which he will be conducting at the Carnegie premiere.

The lecture included listening to samples of Penderecki's works and discussing his background and development.

Carlin to appear at Kean College

Comedian George Carlin will appear at 7:30 and 10 p.m. Jan. 30 in the Wilkins Theater at Kean College of New Jersey. Carlin will present comedy as recently seen on his HBO special,

Rebecca's forecast

For week of Jan. 23 through Jan. 30
ARIES (3/21-4/20) You're feeling more social during this period, less serious more in tune with the playful side of life. Group gatherings may be of special interest or significance for some. Later, protect yourself and your valuables — odd goings on permeate the later part of this period.
TAURUS (4/21-5/21) You should anticipate some far-reaching changes in family, home or property matters do be initiated during this period. Personal and professional relationships may be a bit edgy. Are you getting all the facts? Later, you have to juggle home and career responsibilities each hour.
GEMINI (5/22-6/21) People, places and interests at a distance will assume great importance for many in the weeks ahead and once in a lifetime opportunities may in fact be linked to these. Later, new paths are cut, further education is possible, and a more fortunate health and career cycle is imminent.
CANCER (6/22-7/23) Certain people, places and situations are sure to be left behind in the months ahead. Important new starts are indicated in all major areas of your life. Later, finances never looked better, gains through others are indicated, and dealing with important documents are favored.
LEO (7/24-8/23) You may be feeling some rather intense pressure during this period.

Domestic matters bode over and heated disagreements are possible. People, places or situations from the past could re-surface and further complicate your life. You seem to have little control over another's actions at this time.
VIRGO (8/24-9/23) The turning point in a career, health or personal matter is sure to be taking this week. Matters related to several months ago may re-surface and unfortunately you may have to face some unexpected realities. Later, you close certain doors and feel the need for time alone.
LIBRA (9/24-10/23) The coming weeks will generate a lot of activity in romantic, creative and children's interests. A personal triumph is celebrated in private and unusual news could leave you in disbelief. Later, use care while traveling and protect yourself and your home from theft. Papers assume importance.
SCORPIO (10/24-11/23) Family meetings and gatherings are highlighted during this busy week. Another doesn't accept your word as easily as you would believe. Later, new starts are indicated on the home front such as a possible move, redecorating or change in living arrangements. Weigh financial decisions carefully.
SAGITTARIUS (11/24-12/23) Communications—travel and local goings-on become important to many during this period. You may be feeling more restless and impulsive as restrictions or personal limitations crowd you. Your energies are scattered and not really effective at this time. Try to put off major changes.
CAPRICORN (12/24-1/20) Many continue to be in a rather suspicious financial cycle. Unexpected benefits and opportunities swirl around you... and a mate or partner. Later, a new source of income could enter your life. Tax, legal or insurance matters are favored and important commitments are sure to be made.
AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) It may be best to follow another's instincts during this week. Avoid making long-term decisions and important developments emerge for a spouse or partner. Later, learn to be more flexible. Finances improve as the year progresses, and children's interests assume more importance for many.
PISCES (2/20-3/20) Important behind the scenes goings on are highlighted all during this period. Your personal life is slowly and quietly being re-organized and new career avenues open for some. Later, you spruce up your appearance, make additions to your wardrobe, and contemplate new lifestyles.

PARTYGOERS—A telescope used for viewing Halley's Comet at Union County College's Halley Twice party earlier this month at the Cranford campus. It is explained by Barry Malpas, right, of Warren, vice president and program chairman of Amateur Astronomer, Inc., to Joseph A. CHARLEY'S
RIB ROARING PARTY

How To Describe Our Aspen-Style Barbecue In Two Words Or Less

We could tell you about our thick, meaty ribs and tender, succulent chicken. Or our rich, tangy barbecue sauce. We could even tell you about the hickory-smoked flavor lightened with fresh-cut lemon and sweetened with fresh, golden honey. We could tell you all that, but we don't have to. Because to tell you just how terrific our Aspen-Style Barbecue is, all we really have to say are just two words:

AUTOLAND'S BIGGEST EVENT EVER!

WIN $10,000.

NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

Another AUTOLAND check for $10,000 could be yours. Simply stop by and enter your name... and you could win $10,000. All entries must be received by 4:00 PM FEBRUARY 1ST, 1986 when the winner will be drawn. Remember... there's no purchase necessary. Good Luck. One entry per family. Licensed drivers 18 and older please. And while you're here, pick up your free "Shave 'n' Liberty" poster from Chrysler & AUTOLAND while supplies last.

Our first $10,000 winner was Brian Kelly from Scotch Plains, NJ - Saturday the 18th, Brian's name was drawn from over 3,000 entrants. Congratulations Brian! To all who didn't win - There's a bright side - we're doing it again, and on February 1st at 6 pm we'll draw the second $10,000 winner from all the total entries... Good luck! Brian; by the way, saved almost $5,000.00 off list on the new Ford he bought early that Saturday. The list was $17,715 and Brian paid only $12,950! So Brian really won twice. Once again, congratulations!

NEW CAR BLOWOUT!

AT LEAST $750. LESS! ON OUR HUGE SELECTION OF 3000 CARS AND TRUCKS IN STOCK

Everyone says "they'll beat it"... but nobody dares to say by how much. Until now. Bring us any bonafide deal on FORD, TOYOTA, DODGE, CHRYSLER, PLYMOUTH and we won't just beat it by $4.00, but for this event we'll beat it by at least $750, or more! To protect ourselves from other dealers, we reserve the right to buy their deals.
