

Smokers' attitudes to non-smokers changing

When the New Jersey law mandating companies with 50 or more employees to establish smoking in the workplace policies goes into effect March 1, New Jersey will become the 10th state to have a law regarding smoking at work, according to the American Lung Association of New Jersey (ALANJ). The Christmas Seal People.

Dr. Lee B. Reichman, president of the ALANJ and director of pulmonary medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, Newark, said that a recent national survey released by the American Lung Association indicated that 87 percent of Americans — smokers and non-smokers — agree with the trend to restrict, or ban totally, smoking in the workplace.

Reichman also announced that the ALANJ has materials available to assist companies which have not initiated action to comply with the March 1 deadline to establish smoking in the workplace policies. For details about obtaining the materials, company officials are invited to contact the Lung Association at 687-8560.

The national survey also showed that fully 75 percent of Americans believe that smokers should not light up in the presence of non-smokers. This figure is up six percentage points from the 69 percent recorded in the Lung Association's original 1983 survey of attitudes toward smoking. And 84 percent of Americans now believe smoking is hazardous to health, as compared with 82 percent in 1983.

Despite tobacco industry claims that there is no need for smoking regulations at the workplace, the survey, which was conducted by the Gallup Organization for the Lung Association, found that 80 percent of current smokers, 92 percent of non-smokers, and 89 percent of former smokers feel companies should have policies designating smoking and non-smoking areas in the workplace or totally banning smoking at work.

"More and more companies around the U.S. are instituting smoking restrictions at the office in response to the needs and wishes of the employees," said James A. Swomley, managing director of the American Lung Association. "This survey documents what American business has been demonstrating that Americans now understand the health hazards of smoking go beyond the active smoker to the involuntary smoker."

Swomley said the Lung Association's survey reflects "a new assertiveness among American employees who can't be fooled by the cigarette industry's claim that smoking is merely an issue of courtesy and not a health issue. This attitude is not new to those in public health education. The survey shows that 62 percent of American current smokers agree that they should not smoke in the presence of non-smokers. This represents an increase of seven percentage points in just two years.

Swomley said the time has come to address the addictive nature of tobacco. The U.S. Public Health Service has called smoking "the most widespread example of drug dependence in this country," he noted. U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D., noted that 78 percent of the nation's 30 million smokers wish they could quit, but can't, because they're addicted.

The Lung Association survey carried out through personal interviews with a national sample of adults over age 18, asked 1,500 men and women their opinions about smoking. Other data from this survey showed:

- Among those who said companies should have separate areas for smoking and non-smoking, 76 percent are current smokers and 89 percent are former smokers.
- 62 percent of the respondents said smokers should refrain from smoking in a public place.
- 32 percent felt there should be a total ban on cigarette advertising.

Another 30 percent believed there should be curbs on some types of advertising.

The American Lung Association, dubbed in 1981 by the Tobacco Institute as its "No. 1 adversary," is the oldest nationwide voluntary health agency in the U.S. and was one of the first health organizations to assume major public education activities on behalf of non-smokers' rights and the health effects of involuntary smoking.

A.I.D.S. info available

The Department of Education has announced the availability of a brochure on A.I.D.S. (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) and the public schools.

Developed in cooperation with the New Jersey State Department of Health, "Facts About A.I.D.S. and the Public Schools" describes the disease, how it is transmitted and who is most at risk. It also explains the guidelines governing the attendance of students with A.I.D.S. in the public schools. In addition, the brochure answers some of the questions most commonly asked about the disease and the public schools.

According to Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman, copies of the brochure are being mailed to all the state's local chief school administrators in sufficient quantity for distribution to their school board presidents, building principals and presidents of parent-teacher organizations.

"This is one way we are providing the educational community with information about this tragic illness and how it relates to the public schools," Cooperman said.

"We are also developing curriculum materials that local school boards can consider for use in their districts, as well as conducting training sessions," Cooperman said. "We are doing our part to help the Department of Health educate the public about A.I.D.S. Education is and should be — the first line of defense against this terrible disease."

Those wishing a free copy of the brochure may contact the Department of Education's Office of Distribution Services at 1-609-984-0905. Information about A.I.D.S. curriculum materials and training sessions is available from the department's Division of General and Academic Education, 1-609-984-1890.

GARDINER RETIRES—Union County Freeholder Edward J. Slomkowski of Union, left, presents Walter Gardiner with a board resolution honoring Gardiner's 10 years as director of the Transportation Engineering Division of the Union County Department of Engineering and Planning. Slomkowski is the board liaison to the Transportation Advisory Council. Gardiner's responsibilities included traffic signal planning and creation of many of the county's bus shelters.

County worker cited

By MARK HAVILAND
The Union County Board of Freeholders recently passed a resolution honoring long-time county employee Walter Gardiner, upon his retirement as director of the Transportation Engineering Division of the Union County Department of Engineering and Planning.

Gardiner officially retired at the end of January, and has since taken a position at Garmen Associates as director of Traffic and Transportation. Garmen Associates is a traffic and transportation consulting firm based in Montville in Morris County.

During his 10-year tenure for the county, Gardiner's responsibilities included designing traffic signals, coordination of mass transit within the county, and miscellaneous traffic engineering duties for local municipalities, he said in a phone interview Monday.

UCC marking College Month

In celebration of the first National Community College Month in February, Dr. Dervin N. Nunney, president of Union County College, has invited all Union County area residents to visit the college's facilities in Cranford, Elizabeth, and Scotch Plains and to use the many community services available to them.

Nunney said a schedule of events and activities will be announced shortly, which will detail the National Community College Month celebration in Union County.

Union County College is among 1,200 community, technical and junior colleges in the nation, which enroll 40 percent of all the undergraduate college students in the United States, Nunney reported. He added that 80 percent of all Americans are within reasonable commuting distance of a two-year college.

Recycling deadline March 15

Municipal government officials should circulate March 15 on their calendars as a red-letter day for local recycling efforts. That is the deadline for applications under the Municipal Tonnage Grant Program, administered by the New Jersey Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, Office of Recycling.

Part of the New Jersey Recycling Act, the program, now in its fourth year, awards funds to municipalities for all eligible recycling activities taking place within their borders.

Municipalities may derive grant credit from residential, commercial and institutional sources. Eligible recycling activities might include an apartment complex that recovers metal and glass containers; a restaurant that recycles food waste; and auto service stations that salvage motor oil, or a high school band that collects newspapers, among others.

Documentation and receipts to verify tonnage claims are required. Local recyclers and community groups possessing such documentation are asked to contact their local municipal clerk.

Completed 1985 grant applications and supporting documentation must be postmarked and sent by March 15, to the New Jersey Department of Energy, Office of Recycling, 101 Commerce St., Newark 07102.

Tips on home energy offered

During these cold winter months, many homeowners are concerned with methods of lowering home energy costs. As part of its Conservation program, Elizabethtown Gas Company has compiled a list of energy saving tips.

There are many things a homeowner can do to save energy without making any outlay of cash, said Clarence Bauknight, manager of energy conservation for Elizabethtown Gas, and a few other steps require only a minimum of investment.

Measures to apply at no cost include: Do not overheat your home. Set your thermostat as low as comfortably possible. Each degree above 68 will increase your heating bill by 3 percent.

For a $1 contribution to Easter Seals, patrons will receive a button which entitles them to free coffee Feb. 28 at all participating restaurants and diners. Director warns of work-at-home schemes

By ELLEN BLOOM.
Editor's note: Ellen Bloom of Springfield is the director of the Union County Division of Consumer Affairs.
In newspapers and magazines around the country you may see ads like this:
"Would you like to earn hundreds of dollars a week at home, in your leisure time? Many people are supplementing their income in a very easy way. Let us tell you how."
An offer like this may sound very attractive, particularly if you are unable to leave your home to work. But, be cautious about work-at-home ads, especially ones that promise you large profits in a short period of time. The Union County Division of Consumer Affairs has received a fact sheet from the U.S. Federal Trade Commission (FTC) describing home employment schemes to be one of the "hottest" kinds of classified advertising fraud.
What many of these ads do not say is that you may have to work many hours without pay. There also may be hidden costs. Many work-at-home

Bill would create panel on gambling

A bill sponsored by Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick, R-21, that would establish a 17-member Governor's Advisory Committee on Gambling, has won passage in the Assembly Independent and Regional Authorities Committee.
The advisory committee would study the social impact of gambling upon the lives of New Jersey residents, the role of legalized gaming as a revenue-raising operation for the state and the best way to conduct legalized gaming in the state.
"It is time for a study commission to take a look at the direction of legalized gambling in New Jersey," said Hardwick. "As I stated in my State of the Assembly address, the State of the Assembly address, the new jobs created by the gambling industry must be balanced against social problems aggravated by gambling.
"Both the gambling industry and state government should be partners in solving these problems, such as compulsive gambling," said Hardwick.
Under the bill, members of the gambling advisory committee would include three persons appointed by the Senate president, no more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party; three persons appointed by the Assembly speaker, no more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party; three public members appointed by the governor, the commissioner of Health, or his designee; the state treasurer, or his designee; the commissioner of Education, or his designee; the chairman of the Atlantic City Casino Association, or his designee; the counsel to the governor, or his designee; the chairman of the Casino Control Commission, or his designee; the chairman of the New Jersey Racing Commission, or his designee; the chairman of the State Lottery Commission, or his designee; and the director of the Council on Compulsive Gambling of New Jersey.
Hardwick said the members would serve without compensation and report their findings and recommendations to the governor and the Legislature by Dec. 31.
The bill would appropriate $25,000 to support the committee.
The measure was released from committee by a vote of 8-6.

schemes require you to spend your own money to place ads in newspapers, make photocopies, or buy the envelopes, paper, stamps, and other supplies or equipment needed to do the job. The company also may demand that you pay a membership fee or make regular payments in order to get continued instructions or materials. Consumers deceived by these ads have lost thousands of dollars as well as wasted their time and energy. Senior citizens, on fixed income, should be particularly wary.
COMMON WORK-AT-HOME SCHEMES
Work-at-home ads may advertise these types of employment:
-Envelope stuffing. Work-at-home schemes come in many varieties, but the most common type is envelope stuffing. Promoters of these programs usually advertise that, for a "small" fee, they will tell you how to earn money stuffing envelopes at home. Only when it is too late do you find out the promoter really has no employment to offer. What you are likely to receive for your fee is a letter telling you to place that same ad in newspapers or magazines, or to send the ad in newspapers or magazines, or to send the ad to friends and relatives. The only way you will earn money is from the people who respond to your work-at-home ad.
-Assembly or craft work. Assembly or craft work is another common type of work-at-home scheme. These programs often require you to invest hundreds of dollars in equipment or supplies or many hours of time to produce goods for a company who has promised to buy them. For example, you might be required to buy from the company a sewing machine, a sign-making machine, or materials to make items such as aprons, baby shoes, or plastic signs. However, in fraudulent schemes, after you have purchased the supplies or equipment and performed the required tasks, the company does not pay you for your efforts. Many consumers, for example, have had companies refuse to pay for their work because it did not meet "quality standards." Thus you are left with relatively expensive equipment and supplies, and no income. In reality, those who produce goods in response to such ads must usually find their own customers.
PRECAUTIONS TO TAKE
-Take these precautions. If a work-at-home program is legitimate, its sponsor should readily tell you - in writing and for free - what is involved. Here are some questions you might ask a potential employer before listing any money:
-What tasks will I be required to perform? Ask the program sponsor to list every step of the job.
-Will I be paid on salary or commission?
-Who will pay me?

When will I get my first paycheck?
What is the total cost of the work-at-home program, including supplies, equipment, and membership fees? What will I get for my money?
What is the name and address of the business and who are the principals?
The answers to such questions may enable you to detect whether a work-at-home scheme is legitimate and to guard against the loss of your money and time. Don't be swayed by a local Post Office box.
Before sending any money, investigate the company's reputation by checking with the postal inspector in the area where the business is located. They can tell you if they have received any complaints about the work-at-home program that interests you.
Where to complain: If you have already spent your money and time in a work-at-home program that you now have reason to believe may not be legitimate, contact the company and ask for your money back. Let the company know that you plan to notify officials about your experience. If you cannot resolve the dispute with the company, here are some organizations that may be able to assist you:
-The attorney general's office in your state or in the state where the company is located. That office will be able to advise you if you are protected by any state law that may regulate work-at-home programs.
-Your local consumer protection office.
-Your local postmaster. The U.S. Postal Service investigates fraudulent mail practices.
-The advertising manager of the publication that ran the ad you answered. The advertising manager may be interested to learn about the problems you have had with the company.
The Federal Trade Commission. While the FTC cannot help resolve individual disputes, the agency can take action if there is evidence of a pattern of deceptive or unfair practices. Write to the Federal Trade Commission, Division of Marketing Practices, Washington, D.C. 20580.
Remember, if it sounds too good to be true... it is! Common sense should be your guide.
-Consumer advisories are only one aspect of Consumer Affairs. Through the continued support of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and the county manager, the Division of Consumer Affairs, within the Department of Public Safety, will attempt mediation within the jurisdiction of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act.
If you have been unable to successfully resolve a problem with a retail transaction, write to Union County Consumer Affairs, P.O. Box 186, Westfield 07091, including a brief letter and copies of receipts or contracts.

NEW NURSES—The 39 members of the graduating class of the Elizabeth General Medical Center School of Nursing are the first class to graduate under the school's new program of graduating two classes per year. The new procedure is the result of the 95-year-old school adopting a two-and-a-half year curriculum.

39 complete nursing school training

Home-makers, secretaries, and licensed-practical-nurses were among the 39 students graduating from Elizabeth General Medical Center School of Nursing during commencement exercises held recently at the Orange Avenue Middle School, Cranford.
For the first time in its 95-year history, the Nursing School will graduate two classes in one year. This is due to implementation of a new two-and-one-half year curriculum which allows students greater flexibility, brings clinical experience to students in the first year, and provides opportunity for students to achieve their career goals much faster.
The class of 1986 is the 95th graduating class and the first to benefit from the new program. The Elizabeth General School of Nursing is also part of the Cooperative Nursing Program conducted jointly with Union County College, which confers an Associate in Science Degree to the graduates.
Participating in the commencement exercises were George F. Billington, president of Elizabeth General Medical Center; Sefton Stallard, chairman of the Medical Center's board of trustees; and Mary E. Kelley, dean of the School of Nursing; and Derek N. Nunney, president of Union County College.
Mary Kaufman, president of the class, gave the senior class address, in which she called her class "non-traditional" because of their varied lifestyles, but also challenged the class "not to lose sight of your nursing goals, whatever they may be."
The commencement address was delivered by Lucille Tabbons, R.N., M.S.N., and Barbara Gatullo, R.N., M.S.N., two members of the Linden-residents of Denise Hart, Surgical Nursing Award; and Barbara Walters, Auxiliary Award.
Other award winners included, from Roselle Park, Katherine Riehl and June Palmieri; Crnicoli Memorial Nursing Award.
The School of Nursing holds enrollment in January and September. Information on the School of Nursing, its day or evening division, is available from the director of admissions at 668-6622.

School gives pupils an 'edge'

Roselle Park resident Janet Nichnadowicz has been named to the faculty of EDGE, Inc., for the term beginning March 1. Nichnadowicz, who teaches science at Columbia High School in Maplewood, will teach a six-week course entitled, Declaration of Independence, an ecology course, to students in grades 3 and 4. The course about man's dependence on all living things is one of 16 courses offered by EDGE, Expanded Dimensions in Gifted Education, a non-profit corporation established eight years ago in Union and now operating at Thomas Edison Junior High School on Rahway Avenue in Westfield. EDGE offers a limited number of scholarships for its non-traditional courses. Classes are limited to 10 pupils and offer a rare learning environment in teacher-designed courses.

Arts center gets equipment

Rahway Landmarks, Inc., which is in the process of reopening the old Railway Theatre, 1601 Irving St., as the Union County Arts Center, has worked out an informal agreement with the John Harms Theatre in Englewood to swap projection equipment for state equipment. EDGE offers a limited number of scholarships for its non-traditional courses. Classes are limited to 10 pupils and offer a rare learning environment in teacher-designed courses.

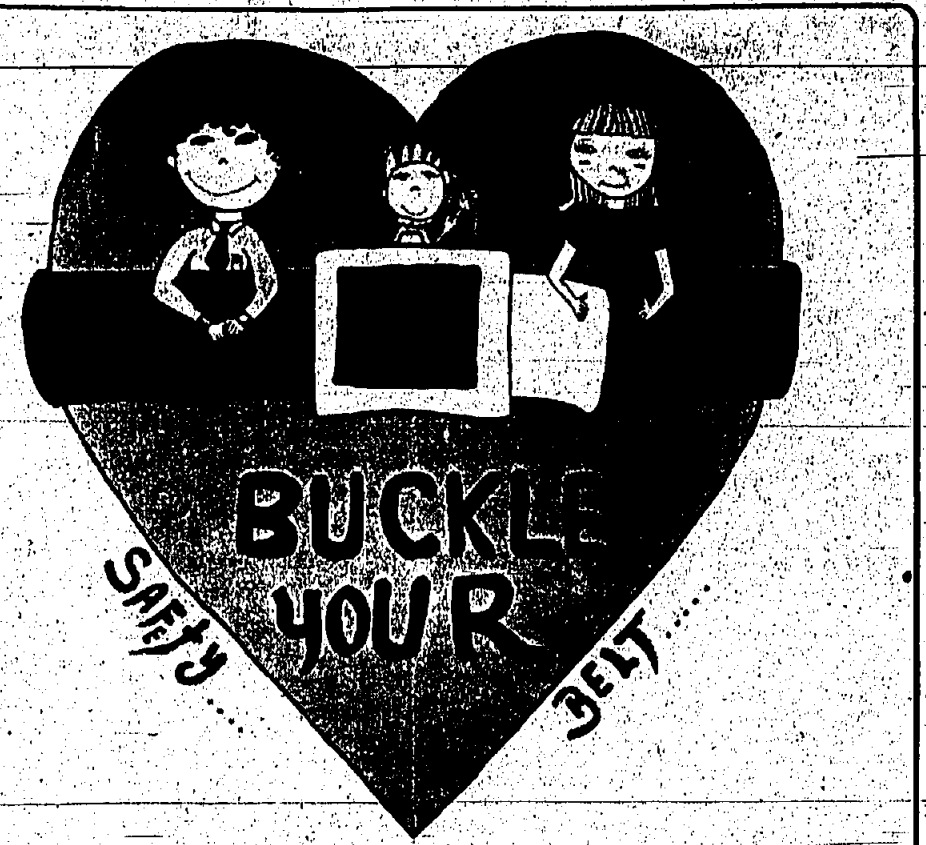

Hearing unit offers classes

Registration is now being accepted for courses in lipreading and in manual communication with the deaf, sponsored by the Plainfield Hearing Society Inc.

Lipreading is the skill of understanding speech by watching the speaker's mouth and facial expressions. Because skill in lipreading can be of great help to every hearing impaired person, whether or not a person wears a hearing aid, the Plainfield Hearing Society offers courses in lipreading. Daytime classes in lipreading will be on Thursdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., and manual communication from noon to 1 p.m., at the YMCA Building, 518 Watching Ave., Plainfield. These classes are free.

At the Plainfield Adult School, the society sponsors a class in sign language Tuesdays, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. for beginners and 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. for intermediates, beginning March 3, for 10 weeks. The fee is $22 per person or $42 for a family (maximum four). Additional information is available by calling 753-3222.

The Society office is open only from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Information on the society can be obtained by calling 753-8078 Voice or TV. The Plainfield Hearing Society is a non-profit organization that has been serving the deaf and hard of hearing people in Central New Jersey for over 50 years, including Union, Essex, Morris and Somerset counties.

HAVE A HEART and buckle up for safety urges the New Jersey Committee for Safety Belt Use, which urges drivers to 'pledge to prolong your love and lives by wearing your safety belts and encouraging your Valentine to buckle up.' Legislation that went into effect in New Jersey on March 1 requires all front seat occupants to wear safety-belts or pay a fine.

Budget efficiency seen to be strengthened

Municipal and county budget efficiency in New Jersey will be strengthened in 1986 because of new measures implemented by the state. Division of Local Government Services, according to the division's director, Barry Skokowski, director of the new accounting directives should significantly reduce the chances of budget overruns and will provide accountability and control over local government financial procedures. Further, it will increase the ability of municipal and county governments to earn higher bond ratings.

Local Elected Officials. That also assisted in educating local officials in ways and means of implementing the new directives, Skokowski said. This year the division will operate training sessions for local officials on Saturday mornings on a regional basis. This is being done to aid part-time officials who cannot afford training seminars during the week. "Once this system is in place, New Jersey's financial standards will be improved. We have been assured by the agencies which determine bond ratings that the new standards will improve the chances of obtaining higher bond ratings and will result in lower interest rates on municipal and county bonds.

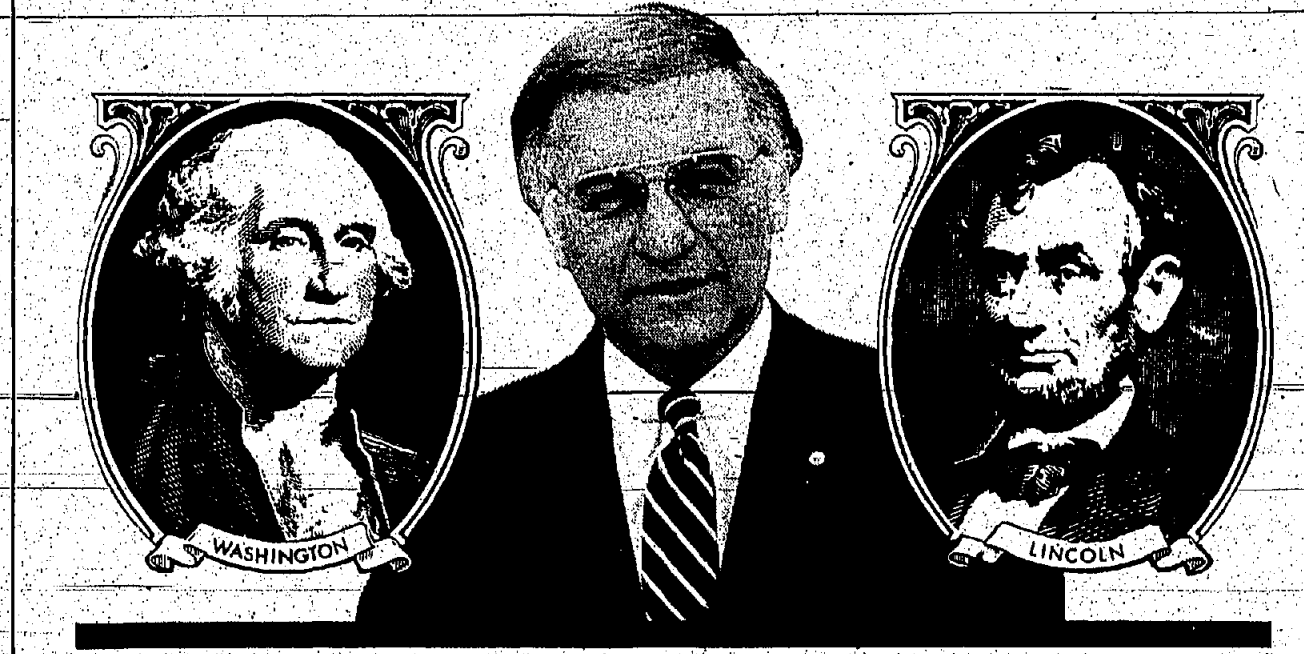

It was announced that volunteers are needed to sell tickets in all areas of Union County. Additional information can be obtained by calling 974-8229 or 233-9041.

ADA plans annual benefit event

THE WORLD'S FIRST EYEWEAR DEPARTMENT STORE.

WELCOME TO EYELAB, THE WORLD'S FIRST EYEWEAR DEPARTMENT STORE.

THE DREAM THAT BECAME REALITY.
The World's First Eyewear Department Store. Eyelab offers selection, quality, service, speed, and exceptional value—all in one beautiful and convenient shopping environment.

GRAND OPENING
Now the newest Eyelab has opened near you. And regardless of what great things you may hear or read about Eyelab, you'll hardly believe the experience.

ONLY EYELAB MAKES YOU THESE FOUR PROMISES:

1. SAVE 20 to 50%.

Eyelab offers designer eyeglasses for 20-50% below ordinary retail. If, within 30 days after you make a purchase, you find the exact same glasses selling anywhere for less, bring us proof. We'll gladly refund the difference.

2. YOUR GLASSES READY WHEN PROMISED.

At Eyelab, most glasses can be ready in less than 2 hours. If for any reason your glasses are not ready when we say they will be, we will give you a $5,00 gift certificate, absolutely free.

3. WE PROMISE 100% SATISFACTION.

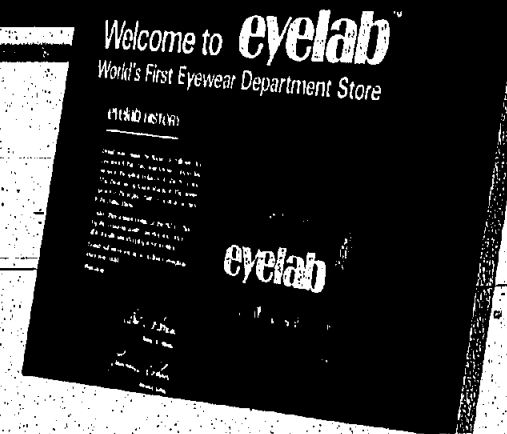

Eyelab wants you to be completely satisfied. With every purchase, we offer a 30-day unconditional guarantee. If for any reason you don't love your new glasses, bring them back. We will either adjust them or replace them absolutely free.

4. NO ONE HAS MORE DESIGNER FRAMES.

At Eyelab we stock up to 10,000 designer frames; ten times more frames than most eyewear stores. We promise you a greater selection of frames than you ever thought existed.

Choosing eyewear is an important decision. It affects both your precious eye sight and how attractive you look. That's why this message is at the entrance of every Eyelab:
"You will see more frames here than you might have thought existed. You will see your prescription filled here faster than you might have thought possible. You will pay less here than you might have ever expected. Eyelab is our dream come true. It will serve you as no ordinary eyeglass store ever could. Welcome!"

eyelab presents

For your shopping convenience, Eyelab is divided into a number of separate departments, the first one to greet you is Eyelab Presents.

EYELAB PRESENTS: THE VERY FINEST IN EYEWEAR FASHIONS.

At Eyelab Presents you'll see the finest the world has to offer. ALL AT EYELAB PRICES.

TO SEE IS TO KNOW.

80% of what we learn comes thru our eyes. And 50% of reading problems in school-aged children can be attributed to unrecognized vision problems. These two statistical facts were enough to encourage Eyelab to build a store within a store just for little eyes.

TO KNOW IS TO GROW.

The moment a child enters Kidslab, he knows Eyelab is on his side. There are fun frames and serious frames, great European craftsman frames and designer frames. And, to help them, Kidslab is staffed with child-oriented specialists who are skilled in dealing with children.

Kidslab has everything, and ALL AT EYELAB PRICES.

THEY MAY COME HOME WITH SCRATCHES, BUT THEY WON'T BE ON THEIR GLASSES. Every kid can have lenses made at Eyelab with a special hard finish—"Super-Shield"—an invisible protective shield. We call these "Can't Scratch Me" lenses and they're always in stock at Eyelab.

Kidslab has everything, and ALL AT EYELAB PRICES.

SPORTSLAB/GIFTLAB

Sportslab is unique. Here you will find all the frames for the games people play... from racquetball to riflery, from mountain climbing to scuba diving and every place in-between, including ski prescription or non-prescription goggles by Bollé.

And, in Giftlab, you'll find gifts that aid Man's greatest gift—eyesight—from magnifiers of every type to specialty lenses and accessories and binoculars. And, if you can't choose a gift we also offer Eyelab Gift Certificates. ALL AT EYELAB PRICES.

Ever since Man first discovered that lenses could aid his vision, he's been waiting for his glasses. Today, although some advertising claims imply otherwise, most prescriptions are filled in an optical laboratory, far removed from the eyewear store. In the majority of cases, the "short waiting period" for glasses will range from two days to two weeks.

At the heart of Eyclab is a modern, automated, computerized lens laboratory. Here your lenses pass through 18 precision stages, and 5 quality control checks. All under the one roof of Eyclab you can actually see your glasses being made, while you wait in most cases.

We encourage you to compare: There truly is nothing to equal Eyclab's precision, quality and experience, when it comes to making your lenses.
