At the library Sarnoff is topic of biography

BY ROSE P. SIMON A Ferraris, Electronic Innovator "The General," by Kenneth Bilby To those who know the history of communications in our nation, it is surprising that so little had been written about the person so intimately connected with the new technology which would, deeply affect our lives socially, economically and politically. David Sarnoff was that man. RCA, the vanguard company in industrial America, became a symbol of the superiority of the electronic industry in the world. Sarnoff was its chief executive for several decades. He played a leading role in making radio and television commercials realities.

The oldest son of poor, immigrant Russian-Jewish parents, David's early life on New York's Lower East Side was limited to hard work as a newsboy, climbing in a synagogue, and studying at the Jewish Educational Alliance. After the death of his father he became the breadwinner, soon qualifying as a junior telegraph operator in the employ of the internationally famous Marconi, whose friend he later became. From American representative he was promoted to junior wireless telegraph operator. It was then 18. His correspondence courses and studies at Pratt Institute completed; David was appointed manager of contracts (wireless) at Wanamakers in New York. Exempted from military service during World War I because of his indispensability, Sarnoff kept rising, becoming more ambitious, self-assured, forceful and eloquent. General manager at RCA, then corporate officer (in 1921), he assumed the role of policeman during a period of mobility and growth in the industry. He was determined to see that RCA remain in the lead, head of all competition. An innovator rather than an imitator, Sarnoff was able to foresee the long-range possibilities of electronic technology. He helped realize the potential of radio and television, creating the first national broadcasting network, and bringing culture and entertainment to the public. Bilby recalls Sarnoff's friendships in high places, a view of his marriage and family life, his brief but noteworthy service to his country during World War II. The author guides us through the early days of the television industry to the recent past with its struggles, competition, experiments, failures and success. He also recounts the innumerable honors conferred on Sarnoff, his illness, and his final days. He died in 1971.

Actors organizing Photon 'television league'

Scott DeFroitas, the 17-year-old actor who plays Andy Dixon on the popular daytime drama "As The World Turns," is putting together a "Photon Television League."

The first game, which is scheduled for Sunday, will be against actors from the rival soap "All My Children."

"Photon" is a high technology, life sized participatory game that combines electronic music, pulsing lights and swirling fog in its playing space. Players don helmets, chest packs, power packs, carry a blaster, and enter the 10,000 square foot playing field in an attempt to capture the other team's base. Players also score points when beams of light from their phasers strike target areas on their opponents. A computer keeps score of each team and the individual players.

The "As The World Turns" vs. "All My Children" game will take place at Photon on Route 22 and Michigan Avenue in Kenilworth, beginning at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

DeFroitas got the idea to put together the league after playing the game with some friends. "I knew a lot of the cast would enjoy this," he says. "When I told Rich Willis, the manager of Photon, about my plans, he mentioned that "All My Children" had already been down for a couple of games. They seemed like the perfect choice for a first game—especially since we are on rival networks, and our time slots overlap a half hour."

DeFroitas credits a lot of the enthusiasm among his team in his teammate, Emmy nominee Scott Bryce, who plays Craig Montgomery on the program. Other team members include Steve Bassett (Seth), Colleen McDermott (Emily) and Bill Shanks (Casper).

Long time viewers of "As The World Turns" will also be pleased to know that three-time Emmy nominee Barbara Rodell, who played Joyce Colman Hughes in the 1970s, will also be on hand for the fun.

In the "All My Children" camp, Steve Gaffrey (Andrew), Mark LaMura (Mark), Debra McArthur (Robin) and Carmen Thomas (Hillary) are among the cast members that are planning to attend. An actor from the drama "Loving" and another actor from "Ryan's Hope" may also join the team.

Political garbage

In a statement last week announcing that Union County and Rahway officials reached an agreement on the resource recovery plant, both sides referred to the settlement as an "historic accord." In some respects, it seemed like business as usual as once again, "political garbage" delayed and endangered an important county project because of a clash of personalities and partisan politics.

City officials in Democratic-controlled Rahway, where the resource recovery plant is slated to be built by 1990, objected to the County Utility Authority selection of Freeholder James Fulcomer of Rahway, a Republican, as chairman of the nine-member Authority.

The settlement hammers out the final terms of the host community agreement between Rahway and county officials and includes provisions that Fulcomer's term as chairman end in February, and that the other two Rahway representatives of the Authority be elected to officer posts and to the Vendor Negotiation Committee.

At a projected cost of $110.5 million, the resource recovery plant is the largest project the county has ever undertaken. Over the long haul, it will provide substantial financial benefits to Rahway and the county.

This recent lawsuit almost endangered the county's ability to meet the timetable necessary for the plant to be completed on time. Delays could increase the cost of the project.

Union County has reached the crisis stage in garbage disposal because of the lack of foresight of our elected officials to plan on increasing amounts of garbage having to be disposed in decreasing amounts of landfill space.

To the casual observer, the recent lawsuit resembles a high-stakes poker game where none of the players entirely trusts one another. Some of the players were unhappy with the way Fulcomer shuffled and dealt the cards, so they sued. Now the cards have been reshuffled by the courts, and we have an "historic accord."

But the lawsuit should never have happened in the first place, and both sides are only doing a disservice to the citizens of Union County by tarnishing the situation with litigation. Better communication and a little trust and integrity might prevent something similar from happening in the future, so that every issue does not have to be resolved in the courts. Personally clashes and partisan politics should be thrown out with the garbage.

SCOPE suggests apology for misunderstanding

We were greatly disappointed to read last week's editorial section of the Leader to discover that SCOPE's basic tenet of remaining politically neutral had been blatantly disregarded.

Marilyn Schneider and Selma Prager's apparent endorsement of the Democratic candidates for Township Committee was irresponsible. Their actions have effectively compromised SCOPE's ability to work along side all the political leaders of this community.

SCOPE began as a free route effort by concerned citizens in this township. It was aided throughout, by the efforts of political leaders and candidates from both sides of the aisle. In our earliest public forums, the leadership of this organization outwardly stated that the efforts of our group could only be served through non-partisan politics.

The claims by Candidates Mullan and Welsh, that they were instrumental in leading the efforts to form this organization are exaggerated. SCOPE had been formed and had already begun its work to organize the community when we met with these candidates. Mullan and Welsh provided as much aid and support to this group as did their counterparts Fink and Massler.

We can only hope that all of the elected officials of this township continue with their efforts to insure the high quality of life in this community. This can only be accomplished through sensible and compatible land usage.

SCOPE is an organization committed to endorsing only the political candidates. Those members who desire to express their support for any of the candidates should — and are encouraged — to do so, but their endorsements must be clearly separate and apart from any affiliation with this group. The expression of partisan endorsements and opinions can only serve to impede and impede our future efforts.

As members of SCOPE, we believe that an apology is due to the community for any misunderstanding that has occurred as a result of the unactioned actions by some of its members.

'Hoorary for Democratic arithmetic'

This is a graphic response to Jeffrey Katz' letter in which he claims to put the recent Springfield tax increase in "hoorary perspective."

He divides his new tax increase by 12 years and finds it only increased $90 a year. This means his 1986 taxes were raised by $1,080 above his 1985 taxes. He got a break. We were raised by $1,200.

But if his plan were used and he were revalued each year, he would still have paid an increase last year. That increase would be $90 less than his 1986 increase, or $90 more than he actually paid in 1985. In 1984, he would have paid $90 more; in 1983, $840 more, and so on back 12 years for a grand total of $7,200.

If he wants to divide that by 12, he can find he would have paid an average of $600 more each year for the past 12 years. As it is, he has all that money his pocket, and he hates the Democrats for it. I say, hoorary for Democratic arithmetic!

Candidates' statements 'just aren't so'

Republican candidates Howard Massler and Stanley Fink keep putting in point statements that simply aren't true. We don't know if they don't know they aren't true or don't care, but in their zeal to convince the voters, they keep saying things that just aren't so.

The latest episode occurred in the Oct. 16 Springfield Leader when, in linking themselves to the policies and promises of current Republican committee people Jeff Katz and JoAnn Pieper, they state that Katz and Pieper won election by "the largest plurality of voters in Springfield in over 20 years."

Well, the fact is, Pieper won by about 300 voters; Katz by 450. A trip to the library confirms this. It also tells us that in 1977 Cieri and Kaish won by about 300 and 1,200 respectively, clearly bigger numbers than 300 and 450. In 1983 Cieri and Kaish won again, this time by about 1,000 voters. In 1984, in the face of a Reagan landslide for the Republicans, Democrat Ed Fanning won by a bigger margin than piled up by Joanne Pieper riding the coattails of Governor Keen. So you see, Massler and Fink's statement is untrue.

This is not to belittle the election of Katz and Pieper. They won fair and square. It is to instead belittle the credibility of Fink and Massler. They don't seem to be playing the same way.

Their Oct. 16 article also fabricates Democratic "eristic management" citing the purchase of a fire truck that "did not fit." That truck was bought by a Republican majority Township Committee under then Mayor Felinich. Fink and Massler promise to rescind the overnight parking ban. That ordinance was passed 20 years ago by an all-Republican Township Committee.

They talk about a deteriorating Town Hall. That renovation would be well along by now, if Katz or Pieper would stop playing politics and vote for the bonding.

Earlier they claimed the Democrats had removed all Republicans from town boards and committees; and yet Sharon Katz, wife of Republican Committeeman Jeff Katz showed up at a town meeting the other night to plead the cause of the recreation committee, to which the Democrats appointed her in January.

The most charitable word to put on these published truths is "irresponsible." We wonder how responsibly Fink and Massler would serve, if elected, but prefer not to find out.

STANLEY KAIISH
BILL CIERI
Township Committeemen

'Hard-pressed' to show Dems accomplishments

I have read with much interest the press releases of the Democratic candidates for Township Committee, as well as the letter to the editor submitted by Committeeman Stanley Kaish.

During the past few weeks the Democratic candidates, and most recently, Mr. Kaish have stated that they believe the Republican candidates will compromise the best interests of the township as a whole in order to further their own self interests regarding zoning and taxation. They base this belief on the fact that Mr. Massler is an attorney and Mr. Fink is involved in real estate.

I believe that when someone accuses that compromising someone else's integrity and the integrity of his/her office is such a natural thing to do, it tells us a lot more about the accuser's character than the characters of their Republican opponents.

Having controlled the majority on the Township Committee for 13 of the past 15 years, one would assume that the Democrats would point out their past accomplishments and illustrate how these accomplishments have improved the quality of life for the residents of Springfield. Regrettably, it is rather obvious why Mr. Kaish and the Democratic candidates have ignored this course of action.

I believe that if voters sincerely ask themselves to recount any positive accomplishments of the past 13 years of Democratic control that have actually improved our township, they would be quite hard pressed to do so.

Republican candidates say 'no deals'

Sorry, Marilyn Schneider, but no deals.

We read your letter last week questioning why Jeff Katz and JoAnn Pieper did not come out against the amphetamine. Marilyn, you know that it was us who on Aug. 7 reported a commitment from the Freeholders that no amphetamine would come to Springfield without Township consent. This commitment, Marilyn, became law with unanimous bipartisan support.

You also know, Marilyn, that Paul O'Keefe, at our request, set up a Springfield/Summit citizens advisory group which will report back to the Freeholders on what use, if any, should be made of the quarry. Our Township Committee as of Sept. 29 had already sent names to Freeholder O'Keefe suggesting whom he appoint.

Frankly, Marilyn, we think the people of Springfield and not you should decide what's best for this township. We think, Marilyn, that we should get all our facts and do our planning rather than jump off the deep end as the Democrats love to do.

We're the Republicans, Marilyn, and we don't make deals to get into office with anyone, not even you. We're running to clean up this town and to put in open government and open participation by all our citizens. We're running, Marilyn, without political deals so that when we are elected we can do the best job for all the people. After all, Marilyn, this is what our campaign is all about.

So sorry, Marilyn, no deals. Say what you want about us, but we are not going to let you or anybody else ever talk for the people of Springfield. If the Township tells us no on the amphetamine, there will be no amphitheater in Springfield. This is their choice we won for them. If the Township wants another use, we will use our considerable influence with the Board of Freeholders to get that choice passed into law. Springfield is just too important to leave to a few chosen individuals.

JEFFREY KATZ, JO-ANN PIEPER
HOWARD A. MASSLER, STANLEY FINK
Springfield

Pledge bipartisan appointments by Republicans

Your letter from Fanning, Kaish and Cieri, Democratic Committee members, bailed upon us to "let it lie." This is what Massler and Fink have been doing this entire campaign and will continue to do until the voters recognize the choice they have coming Nov. 4.

The Democratic committee do us a disservice to themselves and the township by citing as bipartisan appointments people such as Richard Colaninno. They also do a disservice by giving only half the facts.

In instances, Republicans have been appointed only when and if the Democrats had no other people willing to fill the positions. Myself, Katz, Fink and Massler have publicly stated that we need people from all parties, including independents, to serve on our township boards and departments as neither party in and of itself has enough qualified people with sufficient time to serve the public interest.

The Fink-Massler platform which endorses the Katz-Pieper platform will make appointments available on a resume and qualifications only basis. Massler and Fink have gone to a record stadium. If we get a Republican majority on the Township Committee, we shall publish in the Springfield Leader in its second issue after Election Day, a listing of all municipal committees and board positions available beginning in 1987.

What we said last year, we mean this year: the error of political cronism and tax dollar dole-out must and shall come to an end. We shall start a new tradition of appointment based on qualifications only and not upon political affiliation or contribution.

Says recreation needs are top priority

The upcoming election for Township Committee members is of particular importance this year, especially in the area of community recreation opportunities for our children.

In the past, I have supported candidates who have pledged or promised to upgrade and enhance the town recreation programs. Many of us have been disappointed and frustrated by past results. Again the issue of an efficient recreation program is on the candidates' platform, however this year I feel political barriers can be knocked down to accomplish this goal.

My optimism stems from knowing Sy Mullan for a number of years through our involvement with children and their recreation. I have seen Sy donate enormous time and effort in helping various programs sustain themselves.

As a case in point, the newly-created Springfield Minutemen Football Organization was able to get a running start, mainly through the effort of Sy Mullan, who donated his time to soliciting donations. Sy had been asked to raise funds for the Democratic Committee however he felt it more important to put forth his efforts for the children and the football organization.

To see the results of the football organization one only has to go to Model Field on Sundays to watch the children play. They will see a game which is supported by a scoreboard, concession stand, announcers and of course parents, all of which had been lacking in the past. I am also happy to note that our teams combined have a record of 3-1, with one team being unscored upon.

My votes will go to Sy Mullan and Bill Welsh for Township Committee. Recreation for our children is one of their top priorities. Rather than voting on promises, I can vote knowing something will be done because I've already seen it happen, and it won't stop after election day.

Trial lawyers' notebook

Rights of teen-agers topic for court

By WILLIAM S. GREENBERG and JAMES F. SCHERIN
Greenberg and Scherin are partners in the law firm of Greenberg & Prior, Princeton and Trenton.

This is the first in a series of articles by officers and members of the New Jersey Affiliate of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. It is designed to inform you, the reading public, of the legal rights you have in various situations that may be committed against you. This article is devoted to a situation concerning the rights of citizens under the United States Constitution when they are accused, rightly or wrongly, of violating the law.

May-teen-agers arrested for violating a local ordinance by playing their radio too loud be kept in jail overnight and deprived of food and water and even a place to sleep? That is the issue recently decided by the United States Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Anela v. City of Wildwood.

In the summer of 1981, teenage girls rented premises in Wildwood as a summer vacation home. During the July 4 weekend, while some of them were dressed only in their nightgowns, the police came in and everyone present was arrested and given only a few minutes to dress before being taken to the station house in a paddy wagon.

Although New Jersey law required that for minor offenses such as this one, arrested persons be issued a summons after identification procedures were completed and then released, that did not happen. Rather the city enforced a bail schedule set by the local municipal judge, requiring that payment be made if the girls wished to avoid spending the night in jail before their court appearance in the morning.

The police refused to take travelers checks which one of the girls had, and in the absence of sufficient cash, all nine girls-summons were locked up. They were put three in a cell, and each cell had no bed, containing only a small bench, a sink and a filthy toilet. Although the girls were in the cells for only a few hours, no food was provided and when a request was made for water, they were told that there were no cups.

The Third Circuit found that the City of Wildwood could be held liable for the overnight incarceration of the plaintiffs. Rejected was the city's argument that it was not responsible because the bail schedule had been set by the municipal judge who is technically an employee of the state and not the city.

The rule requiring issuance of a summons and release was created by the New Jersey Supreme Court, clearly a higher state authority than a municipal judge, and the Third Circuit found that the city had a duty to be aware of its legal obligation.

The practice of incarcerating persons arrested for minor offenses, such as this when they could not post bail created the necessary municipal policy which must exist before a local government entity can be held liable in damages for violation of constitutional rights.

The court also ruled that the conditions of incarceration violated the rights of persons detained before the trial not to be punished. Providing neither a place to sleep nor food and water for girls charged with nothing more serious than loud radio playing was found to constitute "punishment and punishment in violation of the 14th Amendment."

When appearing before the municipal judge in the morning, the girls all pleaded guilty and paid fines so as to be done with the matter once and for all. While the trial judge had ruled that these guilty pleas barred the girls from arguing that there had been no legal cause for their arrest in the first place, the Third Circuit disagreed.

Guilty plea to minor offenses such as this should not be held conclusive as to whether police had violated Fourth Amendment rights against unreasonable searches and seizures. Only when there has been a full trial followed by adjudication on the evidence will findings in criminal proceedings be deemed binding in later civil lawsuits against police or other law-enforcement officials.

The lesson to be learned from the Anela case is that persons accused of violating the law do not forfeit their right to decent treatment. Here, especially, where the violation claimed was in no way criminal, and really amounted to nothing more than a nuisance, nine girls were subjected to loss of basic human necessities such as food and water and a bed to sleep on. Furthermore, the police arrested everybody in the house without making any attempt to find out whose radio it was that was playing, while many of the girls were not in the living room, where the radio was located, but in their bedrooms or bathroom.

Similar considerations have arisen in a number of cases where people stopped for nothing other than speeding tickets were ultimately subjected to going to the station house and removing all their clothes for a strip search for which there was absolutely no justification. Citizens would all do well to be apprised of their rights, and it is our hope that this column will help accomplish just that.

Butterfly migration hard to explain

By DAVID MOORE
Ever notice those bright orange and black butterflies which fly purposefully through your yards and sometimes cluster overnight in trees? They are monarch butterflies, and their flight is purposeful. They are migrating south for the winter. No other insect is known to do this.

The monarch butterfly migrates all the way to the southern tip of central Mexico, often from as far as New Jersey, New England or nearby Canada. This is one of the most amazing migration stories in nature, one in which the route has been partially realized by naturalists for a long time, but fully understood only a decade ago with the discovery of the long-sought wintering place of the monarch.

Researchers are still adding to the story. For example, it was at first thought that the same butterflies returned to New Jersey a year after their southward migration. It's now realized that it's the grandchildren — or even the great-great-great-grandchildren — who came back to the northeast.

Science is still a long way from explaining how the butterflies manage to arrive at the same small area of Mexico over millions of years. But they have, and during their migrations they even congregate on certain trees at specific seasons year after year. These way-points in themselves are popular tourist attractions, as is the Mexican destination.

One butterfly tree of which I am aware stands in Island Beach State Park near Barnegat Lighthouse, and is decorated by thousands of monarchs each autumn. When science finally solves the riddle of the monarch's migration, I suppose a little more magic will have gone out of our lives.

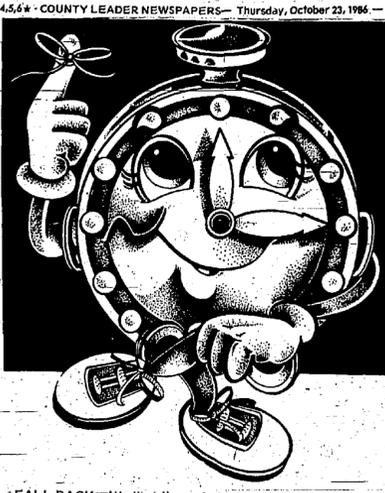

But the danger of lost magic is greater for another reason, and not in terms of monarch migrations. Can you imagine a world without our common songbirds, or minus many of the larger birds which annually make long round trips south and north? While we protect them up here, their habitats are being bulldozed and burned away in South America as many countries destroy forests to make way for new development.

The monarchs are lucky; Mexico has not sided their wintering place, for tourist and scientific reasons. Not so with the birds.

With all this loss of life-forms, and with our growing interest in genetic engineering, genetic diversity becomes more important, even as it's being threatened. That means we must protect natural areas worldwide, protect native plants and animals and learn more about the effects of our pesticides and other chemicals before it's too late.

You've read about possible links between the herbicide Agent Orange and cancer. Agent Orange contains 2,4-D, a common herbicide. Recent studies point toward a connection between 2,4-D and three cancers in humans, including Hodgkin's disease. To make sure, we have to test ourselves as experimental animals.

David F. Moore is executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a private, nonprofit, state-department-supported organization.

FALL BACK—It's that time of year again. Daylight Savings Time officially ends at 2 a.m. Saturday, providing everyone with an extra hour of sleep this weekend.

Your social security Office checks record

By JOHN H. MCCUTCHEON
Social Security District Manager
Elizabeth
A firm calling itself "Social Security Monitoring Service" is advertising throughout the country offering to perform a service for a fee that Social Security provides at no cost, says John H. McCutcheon, Social Security manager in Elizabeth.

The advertising takes the form of card-inserts in magazines, inserts in bills or bank statements, or television advertisements and other forms of direct mail advertising.

The firm says that for a fee of $3 a year, it will provide people with information from their Social Security earnings record. People can get an earnings statement free of charge if they ask at any Social Security office for a "Request for Statement of Earnings" (Form SSA-7004PC), fill it out and mail it. In a few weeks they can get a copy of their earnings recorded by Social Security. This firm can do no more.

The firm's advertising implies that Social Security keeps a record of the Social Security taxes paid. This is not so. The only record Social Security has is of earnings covered under Social Security that have been reported by employers and self-employed people.

Social Security encourages people to check their records every three years. This way, any errors that occur can be corrected early.

Anyone who would like to check his Social Security record or who has a question should contact the Elizabeth office, located at 342 Westminister Ave. The telephone number is 1-800-272-1111.

Election letters

In next week's edition — the final issue before Election Day, — only letters of endorsement will be published. This newspaper will not print letters which make charges against candidates in that issue since the candidates will not have an opportunity to respond before the election.

An Open Letter to the Residents of Springfield

Dear Neighbor:

Managing Springfield is like a running a business; it's not like running a picnic and it's a lot more than running a junior baseball league. Your candidates must have a solid background in business, management, finance, law, or relevant government experience. Neither of the Democratic opponents has this required background or government experience. We have both.

No Qualifications. Mullman is hardly the expert in recreation that he claims to be. When he applied for a job as recreation director in our Township, he listed his only recreation experience as being in Orange, New Jersey. He quit that job after only seven months and never held another job in recreation again. During the summer of 1969, he was a student intern with the Springfield Recreation Department under Joe Blanda as supervisor. Mullman in his application listed this 1969 internship job as "Supervisor." Mullman's statements about being an expert in recreation may have impressed the casual reader, but they didn't fool us. Seven months in recreation a decade ago and a student internship doesn't make him knowledgeable.

Chisholm School Giveaway: The Democrat candidates propose to give away the Chisholm school to the Boys Club of Union. Their proposal would bring children from neighboring communities into the facility. Except for a name change to the Springfield Boys Club they, not us, would run the club. Don't let them charge us utilities, insurance, maintenance and $75,000 to boot for our own facility to cater to out-of-town children.

Recreation Ideas: The Democrat candidates took credit for proposed recreation programs that are the work product of our Recreation Director, Mark Silance, and our Recreation Committee. If you read the minutes of past Recreation Committee meetings, you will see how remarkably similar their article was to past minutes. Our programs for improving the Pool Day Camp, our playgrounds, and future use of the Chisholm School for preschoolers through adults had been moving forward since last May until the Democrat majority scuttled them. The Democrats are now making these scuttled plans part of their campaign platform. Now we know why they delayed them — to steal an election.

Politics As Usual: The Democrat candidates have been telling people that they will be considered for appointments to municipal boards and committees if they vote for them. We're the Republicans and we believe that open government requires appointment by qualification only. We have already gone on record as guaranteeing to advertise all board and committee positions that will be available as of January 1, 1987. Any citizen who feels qualified for any position is asked to submit a statement of qualifications. Unless you have already been promised a political appointment, vote for the good of the Township — vote for FINK AND MASSLER.

Dirty Politics: Sy Mullman tells his jewelry store customers that Stan Fink, a respected tenant leader for many years, is a slumlord. This is nonsense and untrue. Shame on Mullman and shame on Welsch for not taking charge of his out-of-control running mate and his condonation by silence.

The Clear Choice: We're FINK AND MASSLER and we refuse to make deals or to engage in politics as usual to get elected. We're offering a better way and a better team. We've already stated what positive changes we will make; install dusk-to-dawn lighting in our parks, create complete job descriptions for all positions in municipal government, and start a real employee performance appraisal program. Crisis management and management by litigation will stop. We will use a business perspective to manage our Township. We expect to save so much money from reducing legal fees and lost tax dollars from mismanagement that we will have the money available to clean up the parks, to implement our Recreation Department's programs, to keep the streets clean, to beef up the Fire and Police Departments.

We stopped the garbage dump and the amphitheater from coming to Springfield. We know how to produce.

Vote FINK AND MASSLER. Vote for integrity, ability and leadership. PERFORMANCE NOT PROMISES.

Truth Bulletin: The Democrat candidates blame Katz and Pleper for the increase in taxes. How can they be blamed for what was voted on two years before they were elected. Don't be fooled.

Vote FINK AND MASSLER.

Campaign corner

Stan Fink and Howard Massler

Republican candidates Stan Fink and Howard Massler have reminded the voters that the qualifications of the candidates is one of the most important issues in this campaign. Massler said that "both Stan Fink and myself have both the credentials and the required business and management skills to manage Springfield effectively. In addition, Massler added, "Stan and I are the only candidates with experience in government."

Massler explained, "If you have a legal problem, do you see a lawyer or do you ask your son's softball coach for advice? If you have a financial problem, do you talk to your accountant or do you talk to your neighbor who is a nice guy?" Massler continued, "Running Springfield is managing a business. Township committee people must have the right professional experience and the credentials to do the job if it is going to be done right." Massler added, "Good intentions are never enough to clean the streets, implement innovative recreation programs, police the various Township departments and supervise the Police and Fire Departments. If Township Committee people do not have the right stuff, mismanagement results and your tax dollars are wasted."

Fink noted that "Massler is a nationally recognized attorney who has taught lawyers through the New York, New Jersey and Union County Bar Associations. In the past three years alone, Howard has published over 30 articles instructing other professionals how to accomplish difficult and complex tasks. Howard has also spent two years as counsel to a House of Representatives Banking Subcommittee chairman in Washington. He chairs the Union County Bar Tax Committee. He has also served as director and counsel for a branch of the National Handicapped Sports and Recreation Association which provides recreation programs for handicapped children. In addition, Howard has extensive business experience as president of a national corporation with sales throughout the United States, Canada and the Far East."

Campaign corner

Publicity releases included in Campaign corner are submitted by the candidates or their representatives. The information contained in them is not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. This is the last Campaign corner before the Nov. 4 election.

Massler noted that both he and Fink have and will continue to wage a positive, upbeat, intelligent and forced campaign. "We know that the voters are intelligent enough and care enough about our township to read with concern the positions we have taken and the positive steps that we have taken and will take if elected for the betterment of our town." Both candidates concluded by stressing that "only with our election can Jo-Ann Pleper and Jeffrey Katz implement the good work which they have started on behalf of our township. We need a Republican majority."

Sy Mullman and Bill Welsch

Sy Mullman and Bill Welsch, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee, have issued the following statement:

As the campaign for township committee comes down to its closing weeks, the issues have crystallized. There are really only three: taxes, the quarry and the independence of our Republican opponents, Fink and Massler.

On the matter of taxes, we have the proposal by incumbent Republican committee people Katz and Pleper to revalue our houses every three years instead of every 12 to 15 as is the current practice. This will clearly and unequivocally raise property taxes for every home owner in Springfield. Katz and Pleper are committed to this to the point of going to Trenton to testify on it to the state legislature.

We believe it is an incredibly bad idea and are in favor of extending the time between revaluations as much as possible. "The differences couldn't be clearer."

"On the matter of the quarry, our opponents have given a good part of their campaign opportunities to printing statements by Republican state legislators and Republican freeholders that tell us not to worry. They will take care of everything. Meanwhile, we have organized self-help efforts that mobilized Springfield citizens' groups."

Certainly we welcome the help of state and county officials. However, we recognize that different levels of government are subject to different pressures. Down the road, pressure may push the legislators to go the other way. We believe the people of Springfield must keep up their own constant effort to assure the outcome they want.

Also involved in the quarry issue is the question of the amphitheater. Last week two members of SCOPE wrote a letter to the editor asking where Fink and Massler stand on the matter of the amphitheater. We have been on record since day one as opposed because we believe it will create traffic jams, rowdiness, litter and no material gain to the people of Springfield. We do know that, to this day, that quarry property is being graded in such a manner as to accommodate an amphitheater.

Finally, the question of independence. This is important. Throughout their campaign, our opponents have argued that they want to be elected to achieve the unrealized agenda proposed by Katz and Pleper. That's troublesome. If our opponents are elected their party will have a monopoly on membership on the Township Committee. Normally, that's had enough, but less so if at least the four members represent four independent points of view. But here we read, week after week, that the views of Fink and Massler are identical with those of Katz and Pleper.

We believe Springfield needs bipartisan government and a Democratic majority for several reasons. One, it is in the American tradition to have a loyal and effective opposition. Two, many of the Republican programs that they promised to implement are just plain bad.

We urge the voters to elect us, Sy Mullman and Bill Welsch, on Nov. 4.

Freeholders honor Franks

Assemblyman Bob Franks was honored recently by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and the County's Rape Crisis Center for his work in securing funding for programs which aid the victims of sexual assault throughout New Jersey.

A resolution commending Franks and citing his service to the county was formalized by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and presented to Franks at a ceremony in the Union County Administration Building in Elizabethtown.

Franks, who has sponsored legislation for the past two years, allocating state money to support rape crisis centers, said, "My efforts to focus attention, concern and resources on the victims of this horrendous crime has been in response to the dedicated volunteers and staff of the Union County Rape Crisis Center, who have continuously provided desperately needed services to those devastated by this brutal crime."

Union County shared in the initial $150,000 provided by the state in 1984 to fund rape crisis programs and hopes to receive a portion of the $250,000 recently allocated for such services in this year's state budget.

Roselle Park outlasts Brearley, 10-7

By MARK VABLONSKY
When a football game between Brearley Regional and Roselle Park is referred to as "The Boulevard Brawl," it is not just a figure of speech. The game really is a brawl. And last Saturday's battle between the Bears and the Panthers was no exception.

Behind the strength of a persistent ground game and clutch defensive play, the undefeated Roselle Park Panthers registered a hard-fought, 10-7 victory over the team that destroyed them in last season's North Jersey Section 2, Group I championship game. It turned out to be a stunning first half running attack in particular that enabled the 4-0 Panthers to hold off a last-ditch Brearley effort in the game's waning seconds to recapture the Lions Trophy that had been lost in a 20-3 loss to the Bears during last year's regular season match-up between the two teams.

Especially stunning to the Ward Field faithful was an 11-play, 90-yard drive by Roselle Park after the opening kickoff, which saw the manhandling of a defense considered to be all but impervious to the run. What with North Plainfield and Bound Brook accumulating an anemic 26 and six yards rushing, respectively, in the two weeks prior to Saturday's clash. But there was hardly anything anemic about the running of Gene Mirabella, Paul Carpenter and Chris Tokarski, who combined for a whopping 179 yards in rushing.

Imagine that. Better yet, imagine the opening drive.

With a hearty home crowd just settling down with the opening kickoff, which was boomed into the Panther end zone for a touchback, the visitors did much to unsettle the Ward Field customers — and did even more to upset the mighty Bear defense. In just five plays, the scrappy trio of Mirabella, Carpenter and Tokarski was able to advance the pigskin all the way to the Brearley 24-yard line, at which point Mirabella added another 11 to the 23. Two plays later, it was Mirabella again to the Bear seven, for a first-and-goal. Three plays later, the 5-11, 205-pound senior swept the left side of the Brearley line for a 2-yard touchdown run and a 7-0 lead, thanks to the extra point by Mike Small?

Running like that against Brearley? The team that allows fewer runs than Legions?

"It's just our philosophy," explained Panther head coach John Wagner, who saw his team drive 83 yards in 16 plays the week before in a 34-2 crushing of Miraltes. "With the people we have, and the type of offense we have, we're just a ground-oriented team. What you saw out there was two similar teams."

Almost. After the ensuing kickoff in nearly the same exact manner, Brearley running backs Joe Capizzano and Mike Chalenski started running off chunks of yardage against a stubborn Panther defense with gains at one point of 16 and 19 yards, respectively. Within four plays, in fact, it was the Bears who had a first-and-10 situation at the 23-yard line of their Mountain Valley Conference arch-rivals. But when Roselle Park linebacker Len Zennario — who also added 18 yards of rushing on offense — took advantage of a fumbled pitchback attempt by Brearley quarterback Gary Faucher and fell on the loose ball at his own 48, the Bear thrust had ended.

Early in the second quarter, Roselle Park committed two turnovers, the latter of which occurred when quarterback Steve Sorbiano — who saw limited duty sporadically throughout the first half — had a pass intercepted by Mike Ramos at the Panther 44-yard line. Three plays later, Capizzano spurred forward to the 28, giving his team what appeared to be an ideal scoring opportunity. Aided by an illegal use-of-the-hands penalty, however, Roselle Park held firm and even added a 31-yard field goal by Small with 0:06 left to play in the first half.

It was a 10-0 deficit that accompanied the Bears into the locker room at halftime.

"I didn't think they would be as effective on the ground as they were," admitted a sullen Bob Taylor, whose team still managed to outgain Roselle Park in total yardage for the day. "Their backs did a real nice job. They played a very effective ground game, I thought."

"We still felt we could run our offense at them," the Brearley coach continued when asked why his team didn't throw more until its last, fruitless drive late in the contest. "In the past we've been able to do that on that club. We thought Gary did a nice job. They're a good, sound ballclub."

After enduring a scoreless third quarter, in which Roselle Park outfoxed their opponents with a fake punt that saw the Panthers keep the ball for an extra series of downs, Brearley finally sprang-to-life-by beginning a 59-yard scoring drive late in the third quarter that would see the Bears collect their only points of the day.

Aided in part by a 15-yard, illegal use-of-the-hand call on Roselle Park, the Bears reached the Panther seven-yard line just as time ran out in the third period. Then two plays into the final quarter, Chalenski took a one-yard plunge into the end zone that put the Bears back in the game. Although a two-point conversion attempt was muffed, Mike Vergara added the extra point and it was a 10-7 game with 11:35 left.

The rest of the period, however, turned into a nightmare for Brearley.

Just two plays into the ensuing drive, the Panthers faced a third-and-five situation at their own 23-yard line against an aroused Bear defense. So aroused, in fact, that a late hit out-of-bounds on an 11-yard pass play to Zennario resulted in a penalty, which brought the ball to midfield. Taylor remembered it well.

"That just brought them out of the hole," the coach said. "That hurt us. I think that was the big play of the game. But that first drive, that was the real back-breaker. No one had done that to us all year."

Still, there was time for Brearley to do it to Roselle Park. After a blocked field goal attempt had enabled the Bears to escape from a harrowing Panther possession that threatened to ice the game, Faucher tried one more time to march his troops to victory. It almost worked. Starting at their own 17 with 3:06 to play, Brearley appeared to have lost the ball three plays later, when an option pass by Chalenski was picked off by defensive back Dennis McCaffery and returned to within three yards of the goal line. But another illegal use-of-the-hands penalty nullified the miscue and gave the Bears new life at their 26.

After the Bears' offense sputtered six yards over receiver Pete Kiriakakis for six yards and one play later, the junior quarterback left Capizzano eye-to-middle for a first down at the Roselle Park 45 with just 35 left to play. And that was as far as the Bears would get. Four incomplete passes later, the Panthers took possession at their 47, from which just one play was required to run out the clock. It was all over.

"It's a real good win and we got a little banged up out there," said a tired but satisfied Wagner, who held onto the recaptured Lions Trophy as though it were the winning lottery ticket in a $20 million pot. "This is a big game, obviously. This is a big game in the Mountain Valley Conference and in the state sectionals, so we try to play it that way."

Still, there was the obvious question of whether or not the thrilling win represented revenge over last year's two solid defeats to Brearley, including the 35-6 romp in the Group I title game.

"We knew what happened to us last year, but our main concern going into the game was going as far as Mountain Valley Conference play and state tournament play is concerned," answered Wagner, who strongly indicated that the two Union County powers could well meet again in post-season play.

"That was more meaningful than revenge. And then after the game, you think of all the things the game really means."

"You're never as bad as you think you are and you're never as good as you think you are," said Taylor, whose 3-1 club will host unbeaten New Providence at home Saturday, while the Panthers will

'Dawgs' back to work against Spartans

By MARK YABLONSKY

After a week off, it will be business as usual for the Jonathan Dayton Regional football team when it travels to Somerville tomorrow evening to take on the Immaculata Spartans at 6 p.m.

Currently tied for first place in the Mountain Division of the Mountain Valley Conference with both Immaculata and Roselle, the '31 Bulldogs were out of action this past weekend because their scheduled foe, Governor Livingston, had previously cancelled its 1986 varsity season. Thus, Dayton received a 2-0 forfeit victory after losing the week before to Roselle with no time left on the clock.

Although a week off from actual game conditions is never high on a coach's list of ambitions, Bulldog skipper Tony Policare suggested that the layoff was not necessarily a setback to his team.

"We're able to heal up," said the fourth-year coach, who will have the club practice "under the lights" this week in order to prepare for tomorrow night's game. "A little bit of healing, a little bit of rest. We'll do fine."

Already in a position to enjoy a winning season, Dayton finds itself hurt somewhat by the G.L. forfeit, since the power-point system is a key determinant for any team with state playoff ambitions to be aware of. Calculated after eight games have been played, power points are awarded by giving a team two points multiplied by the group size of each opponent. It defaults. In addition, an extra point is awarded for each victory the beaten team has accrued up until the eight-game cutoff.

So, while Dayton's solid performance against Hillside three weeks ago will help in gathering crucial points, a win against a club that will obviously not have any victories can have a painful impact later on. Still, the Bulldogs must concentrate on one game at a time.

Summit beats Union runners

The Union girls' cross-country team saw their record drop to 3-5 as it lost to Summit 38-21, and dropped a close meet to Westfield, 30-26, at Tamaques Park Tuesday.

Traci Barnes was Union's top performer as she completed the 5000 meter race in 21:15 minutes, a new Union High School record on the Tamaques course. She was followed closely by teammate Alicia Hennessy who finished at 21:21.

Gina Callo and Annie Dillon finished third and fourth for Union and Manisha Desai established a new ninth-grade course record.

Gretchen Behrens and Katie Kinder completed the Union scoring with Katie lowering her 1985 time by one minute.

"Our three and five record is deceiving," said Head Coach Bill Sorrentino. "We've lost our last three meets by a total score of seven points."

Union will compete in the Watchung Conference championships Saturday in Kearny where they are taking an upbeat spirit into the tournament.

MAKING THE SHOT—Jenny Palastis of Union goes for the ball against Cathy Winter of Summit in girls' field hockey. The teams played to a 1-1 tie on Monday. Union will play Summit again in the County Tournament Semi-finals on Saturday before heading to compete in the State Tournament.

The entertaining side of the campaign

By David M. Maxfield
 Smithsonian News Service

"Senate Candidates Rush to Television to Define Their Images," a headline in one newspaper announced in July as the 1986 election campaigns began heating up. In their haste, the candidates more and more seem to be bypassing such memorable traditions as town-square rallies and handouts of buttons, banners and ribbons once prized by American voters.

As one political historian puts it, "In the privacy of our respective living rooms, there is no contagious enthusiasm compelling us to demonstrate our political loyalties to each other with insignia of various sorts."

And yet the shift from street parade to TV screen can be overstated, say the members of a research team at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C. The staff is examining the role campaign devices play in the political process. "This stuff has been relegated to the back seat," Larry Bird, a member of the team, acknowledges. But "if a candidate doesn't have some of these things, then, in the voter's mind, he or she is not a candidate, does not exist. Where's the campaign?" everyone asks.

The Smithsonian collection of campaign memorabilia — at best count, in the neighborhood of 60,000 objects — represents the "selling" of federal candidates from Washington to Reagan. The specimens range from rare, hand-painted banners, sets of china, torches, coins and "caricatures" to T-shirts and videotapes. There are samples of simple, mass-produced lapel button pins — "KEEP COOLIDGE"; there are the "unusual" items — hairbrushes and electric bow ties bearing the names of favorite sons, and there are one-of-a-kind specimens, among them the ostrich egg political shrine crafted in the '50s by one of Adlai Stevenson's ardent admirers.

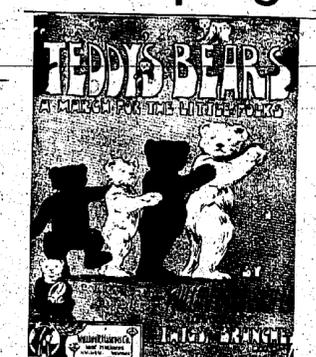

Historians and others have written extensively about campaigning, of course, but "the idea of analyzing political campaign objects as devices for the marketing of ideas and candidates has, so far as we know, never been tested systematically," project director Dr. Keith Melder explains. Adds Edith Mayo, another team member: "With objects, you see repeated slogans, repeated visual devices. More than with documents, you see what was reaching the public."

Building an image for a candidate was as important in George Washington's day as it is now. Just the methods of communication have changed. "Campaigns will take whatever forms are popular and adapt them for political ends," Bird says. "The question is the same in the 1980s as in the 1940s: 'What's effective?'"

CERAMIC OBJECTS were especially popular in 19th century campaigns. In 1848, Zachary Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready," appeared on delicate housewares.

SHEET MUSIC has long been part of campaigning and in 1904 the Roosevelt camp put 'Teddy Bears' into high stepping action to win votes.

a "hard-fought, expensive, unprecedented image contest."

With the nation in the most severe depression to date, the obvious issue was prosperity and how to regain it. The McKinley camp vehemently preached that leaving the gold standard would guarantee financial ruin, to which Bryan, electrifying the public, declared: "You shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

The intensity of rhetoric was matched by a voter's need for something to show his loyalty to McKinley or Bryan. "Eventually," notes Fred Voss, a historian at the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery, "the trove of mementos for 1896 contained one of the richest assortments of partisan sundries ever to come out of a presidential race."

Whatever the occasion, there was, or so it seemed, a McKinley or Bryan item: Bathers could wash with soap endorsed by either candidate. Republican children could play with McKinley dolls. Their Democratic playmates could blow "free silver" whistles. Ashtrays and cigar holders; walking sticks and watches were but a few products of human activity that didn't escape political partisanship.

It is not unknown for a candidate's image to be crafted — and successfully at that — out of a campaign mix-up. Such was the case in the 1840 contest between William Henry Harrison ("Tippecanoe and Tyler Too") and Martin Van Buren. Harrison, a Whig, came from aristocratic Ohio roots, but a Democratic newspaper suggested that the candidate could best serve his country by retiring to a cabin back home.

The Harrison camp ran with it. In no time, a one-room log cabin was emblazoned on everything from sheet music to rider barrels, giving Harrison an image of humble, down-home origin. Clearly, the campaign had struck the public's love of the "common touch" that threads through later presidencies of Lincoln, haberdasher Harry Truman, peanut farmer Jimmy Carter and, surprisingly perhaps, Ronald Reagan, a man often photographed on horseback or splitting wood at his mountaintop ranch.

Political historians consider the 1840 contest "the first media campaign," and for good reason. An outpouring of manufactured keepsakes made possible by the steam of the Industrial Revolution assured that each candidate would have a supply of snuff boxes, keychains and ceramics for his supporters. The campaign broke other ground. The distribution across the nation of the likeness of Harrison on ribbons and other devices marked one of the first times voters could Campaigns, of course, are never all sweetness and baby-kissing. Viffication has its own long tradition. As early as 1828, Andrew Jackson, the great populist, was hit with accusations of being a would-be emperor, a murderer, duelist and adulterer, among other things. His opponent, John Quincy Adams, was written off by many as an effete snob. In the media extravaganza of 1840, the Harrison forces, having made hay of their critics' sniping, made sure that Van Buren was down and out by "suggesting" that he was a corrupted luxury-lover who used French perfume and dined at the White House on goldplated tableware—all that during the depression of 1837.

Surviving political memorabilia often has special value in that the objects show graphically why a campaign went awry. Voss points to the 1856 campaign of John G. Fremont, who had won fame as an explorer of the American West. The new Republican Party's first candidate campaigned on the slogan "Free Men, Free Soul, and Fremont." Such "blatant trumpeting of the Republicans' hostility to slavery proved to extreme" for North and South alike, Voss says, and in the end Fremont was soundly defeated.

Other election-year objects provide researchers a vivid comparison of competing campaign styles. The 1952 Eisenhower-Slevenson contest came at the outset of the television age. The Republicans, Bird explains, best understood and utilized the vast communication changes taking place.

Bird shows a visitor a brochure from Ike's camp. It bears large black-and-white photographs and terse captions. If the resemblance to a TV spot is somehow missed, a line of type on the cover advises: "Reading time — 40 seconds." A second brochure, a Slevenson ad, looks dated for its time. "It borders," Bird says, "on the visual, but there is a lot of print compared to the '60s public ad."

Whether the campaign devices come in the form of buttons or the latest 20-second TV spots, the Smithsonian political historians agree that they surely add to the spirit and color that has long been part of American campaigns. Says Melder: "It seems to me that the serious study of politics has tended to overlook the entertainment side of it. The show-putting on a display to hold the crowd is as old as Greek civilization."

WILLIAM HARRISON'S forces were on a roll in 1840 with this ball that historians say helped usher in the first media campaign.

see how their candidate looked — no small matter then or now.

In the 1830s and '40s, many items such as plates, spoons and plectrums were produced with women in mind. Though they were not enfranchised, women had considerable indirect and informal influence in the political process in those days. "Women," Mayo explains, "were considered mothers of the Republic," and the objects were associated with the Victorian cult of the home — a refuge, a place of sanctity. But the paradox," Mayo points out, "was that these items were mass produced."

The celebration will feature a conference entitled "Literature and the Immigrant Experience" which will explore the role that literature has played in reflecting the dreams, successes and frustrations of the many immigrants who have come to America. This event, which will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 8:30 p.m., will include workshops, panels, photo and art exhibits, and films, as well as a reading by well-known author Rosa Guy.

Children and TV topic

By BETH GIORDANO and FRANK SULLIVAN

Q. In a recent column you said 20 hours a week in front of the TV was too much for kids. We agree, and so do a lot of other mothers.

We think it's important for your readers to know that in early October some children's TV characters — Sesame Street, Capt. Kangaroo and others — met with lawmakers in Washington DC to get a campaign going to make television more relevant to children. The week of Oct. 6 was proclaimed "National Children's Television Awareness Week" and the goal was to get children to stop watching violent and overly commercial shows.

N.J. Senator Frank Lautenberg and Representative Tim Wirth of Colorado introduced the Children's Television Education Act which would require broadcast and cable TV stations to carry a minimum of seven hours a week of educational or informative children's programming. I'm sure your interested readers could write to Sen. Lautenberg for more information or Dundee film sets record at the box office

By MARK HAVILAND

A New York photojournalist heads off to the wilds of Australia to meet a local legend who has survived a fierce battle with a crocodile, and who calls himself "Crocodile Dundee."

The film of the same name, currently playing in local theaters, is one of the best films of the year, and considerably "is the instantly likable Australian television and film personality, Paul Hogan, who plays the title character. You will leave the theater wanting to imitate his dry wit and Australian accent. The two funny scenes in the commercials for the film are similar to many more such moments of wit

Players to open season

The Westfield Community Players are ushering in their 53rd season with a production of Neil Simon's comedy "The Sunshine Boys."

Heading the cast as the two irascible former vaudeville partners are Charles Azim of Scotch Plains as Al Lewis, and Stan Nathanson of Westfield as Willie Clark. Al and Willie never got along during their 40 years as a comedy team, and things really explode when Willie's nephew, Ben, cajoles them into reuniting in their "Lewis & Clark" act, for a onetime appearance on a live TV special. Ben is played by Thomas Drummer of Manville.

Rounding out the cast are Tasha Auer of Upper Montclair, David Joseph of Linden, Jim Kane of Westfield, and Lee Shames, Springfield.

Maurice J. Moran Jr. of Rahway is directing the production, with the support of Nancy J. Connolly of Linden as assistant director.

Performances will be held tomorrow, Saturday and Oct. 31, and November 1, 7, and 8.

Tickets can be reserved by calling 232-1221. The box office will be open every weeknight from 7:45-9 p.m. at the Players' theatre located at 1060 North Avenue West, in Westfield.

Groups and clubs can also reserve blocks of seats by calling 232-8018.

In January, the comedy "Alone Together" will be presented, followed by the musical comedy "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" in March, and Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" in May.

Focus on film that stretch from the beginning to the end of this Australian-made film.

The journalist, played by New York stage actress Linda Kozlowski, finds that Dundee is much more human than his legends would suggest. Just as she adjusts to unusual Australian people and the country's wilderness, so Dundee must learn to adjust to the strange people and urban wilderness of New York City when she brings him back to his first trip to America and big cities.

This film is setting box office records in Australia, and is doing so again in this country. "Crocodile Dundee" has outpaced the so-called Hollywood blockbusters of the past year, and it deserves to do so, because it is a consistently better film.

Later, residence or living arrangements dominate your thoughts. Your own priorities are changing and perseverance and tact yield your results now.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) This is a good period to reorganize your affairs, devote time to think and plan and clear away unfinished business. Avoid committing to new ventures at this time; leisure activities are favored. Later in the week, you feel introspective, don't fight it as much activity unfolds in weeks ahead.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/23) This is a favorable period to see and be seen. Share your opinions and ideas and take the lead in all matters that are important to you. Your tactics are changing... others are evolving. Later in the week, challenges with elders or supervisors are highlighted and new opportunities as well.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) There's a lot going on behind the scenes these days! You may be feeling moody and out of touch and important relationships suffer under the strain. Later, old enemies creep up on you, self esteem wavers and your personal energy level may be low. You must get to the root of personal issues.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) Remain alert to all going on in employment matters, specifically involving co-workers. Romantic, creative and children's interests are highlighted and gains in any of these areas is evident. Later, you receive a helping hand and another views offer you valuable insight; take advantage.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) The disquieting period began several months ago reaches a climax during this week. Personal commitments and obligations are sorted out and one way or another decisions are reached. Later, you feel more energetic, less burdened and more inclined to push forward than to linger in the past.

PISCES (2/20-3/20) It's more important to respect your limitations now than to test your capabilities. Money matters continue to be a dominant theme for many and other resources could provoke conflicts. Later in the week, drifting off in your own little world may help to resolve pending issues and decisions.

Leaf compost improves soil

By STEPHEN BACHELDER
 County Agricultural agent
 Leaf compost is not normally considered a fertilizer because it is too low in nutrients. But this dark, crumbly material with an earthy odor is valuable for improving the physical, chemical and biological properties of the soil.

Most New Jersey soils need an increase of 1/2 to 1 percent in organic matter. Sandy soils, such as loamy sands, and soils with very high clay content are improved most. Organic matter influences the physical condition, water-holding capacity, and temperature of the soil, and especially affects the soil bacterial processes which help make mineral salts available to plants.

Among the specific benefits derived from adding leaf compost of New Jersey soils are:

-Drought damage to plants is reduced because of increased water-holding capacity of the soils.

-Soils are easier to cultivate.

-Very small amounts of the 16 essential elements needed for plant growth are supplied.

-Adverse effects of excessive alkalinity, acidity, or over-fertilization are reduced by the added buffering of the soil.

-The cation exchange capacity of soils is increased, enabling the soils to hold more plant nutrients for longer periods.

-The added organic matter provides a food source for desirable soil microorganisms.

-When incorporated into the soil or used in a mulch, 1/16- to 1/8 inch thick, compost helps matter to generate.

A good rate of organic matter to work into most New Jersey cultivated soils is 25 to 50 bushels of leaf compost per 1,000 square feet of area, which is equivalent to a 3/8 to 1/2 inch depth of leaf compost. It should be uniformly spread over the soil surface and mixed into the top six to eight inches of soil.

Two free leaflets are available, "Backyard Leaf Composting" and "Using Leaf Compost," by contacting the Union County Cooperative Extension Service, 300 North Ave., Westfield.

aluminum ions, thereby reducing their potential toxicity to plants. This also makes more phosphorus available for plants because free iron and aluminum can tie up the phosphates.

Garden spots

-Decomposition of the organic matter produces organic acids which combine with iron and aluminum ions, thereby reducing their potential toxicity to plants. This also makes more phosphorus available for plants because free iron and aluminum can tie up the phosphates.

Burnette discusses his music

By MILY HAMMER
Pick of the LPs, "Soldier of Love," by Billy Burnette (Curb MCA Records).
The first verse of "Little Bit of Me," the closing song of Billy Burnette's new album, "Soldier of Love," talks about the music of his childhood and how the people and emotions of our past are eternally present within us. In Burnette's case, music was virtually unavoidable. The son of Dorsey Burnette and nephew of Johnny, his past reverberates with some of the sweetest music of the American heartland. Billy's father and uncle carved a permanent niche for themselves in the history of pop music with a series of rockabilly records whose influence has been pervasive for two decades. Billy's music exhibits the same virtues — economy, clarity, emotional directness and polished craftsmanship — in an utterly modern setting.

BILLY BURNETTE
Billions of 'em. But once you learn a few licks and get the bug (see "Guitar Bug" from his previous MCA LP), you can't put it down. I haven't really stopped playing since." One of the earliest songs he learned, the Lennon-McCartney classic, "I've Just Seen A Face," opens side two of his new album. "I have always loved that song," he said with a wide grin, "and from what we can tell, amazingly enough,

"Looks Like It's Going to Rain Today" to the punch of "What A Perfect Way," "Soldier of Love" displays all of Burnette's multiple strengths. "Let's Take a Drive" is a classic celebration of the open road that would bring a smile to the face of his rockabilly forebears while "Blonde Ambition" is as entertaining as its title.
Burnette, who was nominated as "Best New Country Vocalist" last year's Country Music Awards, says "there's more southernness to this album than my last. It musta been all that catfish and all those frogs I ate as we cut it." Whatever the explanation, "Soldier of Love" has all the warmth of an Alabama breeze and the fun of a night on the town. It is an exciting new work from an important and growing artist.

Chorus needs more singers

The Colonial Chorus has invited men of all ages to "share the fun of singing in harmony" at its regular weekly meeting, Monday at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, 1003 North Ave., West Westfield.
The Chorus, whose members comprise the Westfield Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. (SPBSQSA), is a "self-trained disciplined singing group that performs for various civic and social events throughout the year." It is preparing for its annual fall show to be given Dec. 5 and 6 at Westfield High School.
Its repertoire includes well known songs, ballads and novelty numbers all sung in the typical unaccompanied four part harmony of barbershop style.
Further information can be obtained by calling Doug Brown at 278-5811.

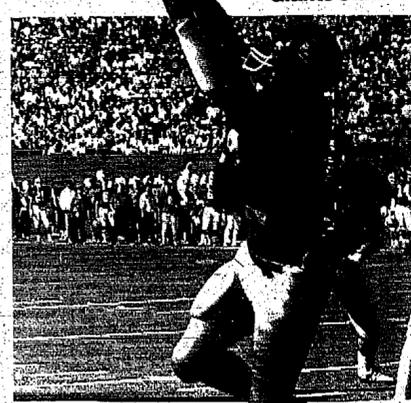

REHEARSING 'RAINMAKER'—The American Stage Company's revival of the American classic comedy-drama by N. Richard Nash, "The Rainmaker," will be presented by the Bergen Theater Troupe, in residence at Fairleigh Dickinson University, which continues to flourish under Paul Sorvino's leadership. Sorvino, left, is directing the play now through Nov. 16 in the Becton Theater at FDU in Teaneck. The play's stars are Karen Sederholm, shown with Sorvino and Gary Sandy.

Disc 'n data

Burnette has enjoyed considerable success as a songwriter with songs covered by Jerry Lee Lewis, the Everly Brothers, Christine McVie and Ray Charles. He's had particular success on the country charts but defines himself as "a rock and roll freak. My heroes have always been Elvis, my old man, Jerry Lee, Lennon and Stevie Wonder. I like songs, singers and good harmonies."
He sang his first song into a recording microphone at age seven, but it wasn't until his mid-teens that he began playing guitar. "I don't know why I waited so long to begin playing," he said. "There were always guitars all over the house,

It hasn't been covered before."
Most of "Soldier of Love" was written by Burnette and producer David Malloy with various other collaborators. Malloy has made a considerable mark in recent years for his work with Eddie Rabbitt, Dolly Parton, Kenny Rogers and Rosann Cash. It took the pair about a month to prepare the material before cutting with an ace session band: Paul Leim on drums, Michael Lawler on keyboards, Bill Jo Walker on guitars, Spady Bramann on bass and Burnette himself adding acoustic guitar. The result is an engaging, effervescent album with a wide musical and emotional range. From the delicate melancholy of

FOR SALE SIGN PRO & CON

The debate on For Sale signs in the front yard go on and on. The decision as to whether a yard sign will go up is yours. Yard signs are not appropriate or necessary for marketing all homes and in all locations. However, they do have some positive elements when it comes to marketing your home. For example:

1. When a prospect makes an inquiry in response to a sign, he or she has already approved the location.
2. The prospect calling in response to a yard sign has already seen part of the grounds and exterior of the house and is calling for more information.
3. A yard sign has advertising endurance. It stays up until the property is sold. A newspaper ad loses its impact in one day.
4. The Realtor's name and phone on the sign will direct all inquiries in that direction to you.

Listen to your Realtor's input when it comes time to decide on the use of a yard sign. It could make a positive contribution to your sales effort.

COUNTY LEADER NEWSPAPERS

Stable gas prices a surprise

Stable gasoline prices in recent months come as a happy surprise to many pundits who expect the worst. Supply and demand are credited with the accomplishment, gas consumption having been somewhat lower than anticipated while the fuel stockpile remains healthy.

More efficient vehicles have been a big factor in reducing the drain on our resources. Thanks to state-of-the-art technology, today's car typically gets about twice the mileage per gallon compared to its predecessors of a decade ago.

While high-tech systems have helped ease the demand at the gas pumps, they have, on the other hand, created a real challenge for the technicians in the service shops, says Car Care Council.

To meet technical requirements of the repair industry, mechanics by the tens of thousands are attending educational clinics to remain up-to-date on these state-of-the-art vehicles.

Further, they are signing up in record numbers for ASE certification tests, according to National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE).

"When your customer comes in for service," ASE President Ron Welner tells members of the service trade, "you better know your way around these computerized engines and the diagnostic equipment they require."

"And while these new cars may run further between fill-ups and service, we must emphasize: to owners that they'll have to pay more attention to maintenance services when they are needed. The truth is, it's a small price to pay for the use of safer, more fuel-efficient cars that produce far less air pollution.

"The car owner who delays periodic maintenance, finally being forced into crisis repairs, is the one who pays 'most dearly' for automotive service," he says.

To help understand your car and what should be checked, Car Care Council offers a pamphlet, "How to Find Your Way Under the Hood Around the Car." Send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to Car Check, 600 Renaissance Center, Detroit, MI 48243.

It's time to care for cooling system

If you've found it necessary to add coolant to your car's cooling system lately, consider yourself lucky. At least you're given fair warning of bigger trouble to come if you don't take care of things now.

Car Care Council emphasizes that cooling system failure often strikes without subtle warning signs.

A bad radiator hose, for example, may not begin leaking until...suddenly, it's too late. It ruptures and all the anti-freeze/coolant quickly is gone. Unless the engine is shut off at once, major damage is almost certain.

The best way to avoid cooling system trouble is to have the system flushed, checked over visually, pressure tested and all marginal belts and hoses replaced. Typical belt and hose life is three to four years.

The condition of anti-freeze is important and it should be replaced as part of seasonal cooling system service.

Finally, says Car Care Council, do not assume your cooling system is functioning—just—fine—because the engine warning light does not go on.

A loose or defective radiator pressure cap or one of the wrong type for your car can permit anti-freeze/coolant to boil over without triggering the light.

Coolant also might boil away if its level is low or if the incorrect mixture of water and anti-freeze (Ethylene Glycol) is used.

WINNER—Michael Clausilli of Maxon Pontiac-Honda in Union placed fifth in the Columbus Ford 500-Kelly American Challenge Division on Oct. 4 in his race car 'Maxon.' Clausilli ranks in 10th place in the National Point Standings. The final race of the division is Oct. 26.

Light trucks fill station wagon void

The most popular cars in America today are light trucks, filling the void left by the demise of the big suburban station wagon, and answering the commercial need for economical, utilitarian vehicles.

A goodly number of those light trucks are powered by diesel engines, an option favored by buyers looking for power, durability and 25 to 50 percent better mileage.

Some commercial fleet orders are coming in at better than 50 percent diesel, a testimonial to the diesel engine's competitive price and traditional low operating cost.

Diesel powered vehicles with 100,000 miles on the odometer are not uncommon, and some have gone 200,000 miles.

Diesel engines require less maintenance because there are no spark plugs, distributor points or condensers. It is important, however, to use good quality fuel and oil to protect the diesel engine's precision components from water or debris in the fuel.

Diesel fuel/water separators, available at most auto supply stores, help prevent a buildup of water in diesel fuel.

Water carries contaminants such as rust and dirt that can ruin vital engine parts. The most common cause of fuel problems is water, which is the only fuel property the vehicle owner can control.

Spliced into the fuel line before the fuel heater, the water separator removes water from the fuel line by gravity. The best water separators include a dashboard indicator that signals a buildup of water in the unit. A drain valve allows easy purging of collected water.

Winterizing your diesel-powered light truck can improve its cold weather performance and fuel economy, according to Standadyne Diesel Systems, the leading U.S. manufacturer of diesel fuel injection components.

Add-on fuel heaters, also available at most auto supply stores, can help prevent hard starting and rough diesel engine performance in cold weather.

Diesel fuel contains a waxy substance that can crystallize when temperatures fall below 30 degrees F (1 degree C). These crystals can block fuel lines, clog fuel filters and impair engine performance. In some cases, excessive fuel "waxing" can stop an engine completely.

Diesel fuel heaters help prevent fuel waxing. The most widely available models are electrically powered by the vehicle's battery and automatically begin to heat fuel when the ignition is on. The unit automatically shuts off when fuel is warmed sufficiently.

The in-line fuel heater is easily spliced into a fuel line, and requires one simple electrical connection.

Many diesel-powered light trucks have, as standard equipment, fuel heaters and water separators such as Standadyne's Model 80 "Fuel Sentry".

The Model 80 provides a complete fuel treatment system in one package that is effective in even the most severe driving conditions.

The Model 80 is the only product available that contains in one element a two-stage filter, a coalescing water separator, an electric "water-in-fuel" sensor and a thermally switched 100 watt fuel heater.

For trucks without factory installed diesel fuel heaters and water separators, add-on kits are very effective and easy to install.

Robots diagnose problems in cars

It takes more than a thermometer and a stethoscope to diagnose a problem in one of today's industrial robots, and more and more, engineers are using computers to help fix their under-the-weather machinery.

Robots engineer finds errors in robot's arm by answering a series of logic-based questions asked by a computer. The engineer responds to a question concerning the position the robot's arm is most likely to be in when operating errors occur. The computer can then find the most likely source of the problem.

Lung group offers brochure

In recognition of National Car Care Month, the American Lung Association of Central New Jersey is offering a free brochure entitled Car Care and Clean Air during October.

There will also be a car sticker and a simple test to determine if leaded gas has been used in a car that requires unleaded fuel. "These materials are a part of our efforts to improve the quality of the air we breathe," says Dr. Brian J. Collins, president of the Lung Association.

Statistics indicate that automobile usage has increased three-fold in the last 30 years.

"This increase has resulted in higher levels in the air," says Dr. Collins. "The brochure describes the health effects of the emissions and makes recommendations to car owners about maintaining their cars to minimize the pollution."

The pamphlet warns against tampering with emission control equipment and using leaded gas when a car calls for unleaded fuel.

To receive a copy of this informative brochure and sticker, write to the Lung Association at 295 Westfield Ave., Clark, 07066.

Car care is a long way from cranking

Remember when cars had to be primed to get them started in the morning? A little gas was squirted into priming cups, one per cylinder. Remember retarding the spark with a hand lever before starting?

If you can answer yes to the above, you probably remember too, the thousand-mile grease job and oil change. There was no such thing as an oil filter to replace, of course; just change the oil.

Keeping the engine "in tune" had to be a regular procedure if the engine was to start without excessive cranking. Remember cranking?

We've come a long way since that nostalgic era, says Car Care Council. Nevertheless, many components will retain their essential roles in most automobile engines for a long time to come. The spark plug, for example, continues as the most frequently replaced part in a tune-up.

The distributor cap and rotor today are replaced as frequently as they were 10 years ago. The air filter, in fact, has increased in replacement frequency.

And nearly half the cars on our nation's highways still have conventional distributor points and condensers, thereby requiring more frequent tune-up service. Advancements in technology, including electronic ignition, computerized engine controls and unleaded gasoline have resulted in longer maintenance intervals on some parts and systems.

People who do an unusual amount of stop-and-go driving, or whose trips average under 10 miles, may fall into the "severe service" category. This kind of driving, combined with extreme weather conditions and/or trailer towing, may call for more frequent servicing of the car. Check the owner's manual, suggests Car Care Council, pointing out that extended maintenance is not for everyone. Service techniques are changing, too. The traditional tune-up has evolved into a procedure described as an engine performance analysis.

What's the difference? Instead of routinely replacing things like the points, condenser and plugs, the technician must make a thorough diagnosis of what's causing hard starting, poor performance, reduced fuel economy or increased emissions. He can no longer replace some parts and make a few simple adjustments to get the engine running like new.

If you're experiencing engine problems, you may or may not need servicing of one of the sub-systems. The ignition system, the fuel system and the emission control systems must all work in close harmony with one another. That's where accurate diagnosis comes in.

What also will help is your ability to communicate with your mechanic so he can isolate and diagnose a specific problem. Give him as many details as possible.

For instance, if the engine hesitates, when does it happen? When the engine is cold? When it's warmed up? When accelerating? Tell him if you hear any noises. And try to describe the noises. Is there a pop, bang, rattle, ping or whirr?

Oil change easy at quick lube center

The oil change squeeze is coming to an end. Drivers no longer have to schedule ahead at Joe's garage and leave the car all day in order to get a routine 15-minute job done.

The fast-and-convenient "quick lube" centers, springing up almost everywhere, now provide the service on the run.

And here too soon! Over the past decade, oil change has been increasingly hard to get. The old standby, the full service gas station, is becoming more and more independent and less interested in a routine job with little profit.

It's not the mechanic's fault, however. Service stations are actually getting rarer. Many stations have closed down or turned into gas-only retail outlets, throwing the drivers onto the already overworked stations still in operation.

Look at the figures. From 1972, the beginning of the oil crisis, to last year, the number of cars in the U.S. increased from 105 million to 133 million. In the same period, however, the number of service stations to serve these cars decreased from 228,000 to 150,000. A quick calculation shows that the average number of cars served by each station more than doubled — from 451 in 1973 to over 1,000 last year. No wonder there's a time crunch.

Yet the oil must be changed — and frequently — if the family bus is to keep running in top condition.

Many drivers take the do-it-yourself option and change their own oil. For others, however, changing oil can be messy and time consuming, and best left to a professional. But where to find a professional?

Today's answer to that question is the quick lube center, the newest and fastest growing addition to the automobile after care business.

Quick lube stores have been around for over a decade in some Western communities, but they're brand new in many parts of the Midwest and the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts.

Typically, the quick lube offers convenient drive-through service, giving you an oil change, new oil filter and chassis lube in 10 minutes or less, while you wait.

No appointment is necessary and, because the shop specializes in lubrication, it does its work efficiently and well.

Oil and lube aren't the only services offered. Jiffy Lube, the largest of the quick lube chains, gives a full check of engine fluids — transmission, brake, steering, differential, even windshield washer — tops them off if they're low, all in the same 10-minute time period.

The attendants even wash the windows, vacuum the interior, and check tire pressure, at no extra price.

The result is that drivers who've tried quick lube service once are generally hooked.

Some major areas are still without any quick lube centers, and a great many have only a few to serve the average family's 1.5 cars. However, new centers are opening almost daily. If there isn't one near you now, be patient — there will be soon!

Jumpstarting a vehicle requires know-how

The automobile battery need not be a source of anxiety. Knowledge of simple and safe steps for jump-starting the battery is essential for motorists concerned about winter car care.

Several precautionary measures should be followed when jump-starting a battery. Position vehicles so that they do not touch each other. Check to see that both batteries are the same voltage.

Turn off both vehicles' engines. Set the parking brakes on each vehicle. Place automatic transmission in park, standard transmission in neutral.

Be sure vent caps are tight and level. Place a damp cloth over the vents on both batteries. With safety precautions taken care of, the stalled battery is ready for jump-starting.

1. Connect positive booster cable to positive post of dead battery. (The positive post is wired to the starter or solenoid.)
2. Connect other end of same cable to same marked post (positive) of booster battery.
3. Connect second booster cable (negative) to other post of booster battery.
4. Make final booster cable connection on engine block of stalled vehicle away from battery.
5. Start the booster vehicle and let it run for a few minutes.
6. Start the disabled vehicle, then remove cables in reverse order of connection.

Further safety precautions should be followed when working on or in the vicinity of the automobile.

- Whenever you work near a battery, protect your eyes with safety goggles.
- Never light a match or smoke when working under the hood of a car.
- Be careful that metallic objects such as tools do not fall on battery terminals. This could cause sparks, leading to a battery explosion.
- Never lean over the battery during the charging, testing or jump-starting.

Steps for jump-starting the automobile battery and tips for ensuring optimum service, safety concerns and precautions, understanding how the battery operates, battery service and useful terminology are included in "Take Charge — Know Your Battery," a safety guide produced by the Battery Council International (BCI).

Developed to assist average consumers with little automotive knowledge, the brochure covers important aspects of battery safety in a concise, easy-to-understand format.

To obtain a copy of the brochure, send a self-addressed, stamped, legal size envelope to: "Take Charge — Know Your Battery," Battery Council International, 111 East Wacker Drive, Chicago, IL 60601.

Night driving requires efficient lights

Auto headlights serve two vital safety functions for night driving. They allow motorists to see...and to be seen.

More than 60 percent of all automobile accidents occur at night, even though most travel takes place during the day.

According to The Injury Fact Book (co-authored by Susan T. Baker of the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health and Brian O'Neil of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety), nearly 40 percent occur between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m. Further, one third of all highway fatalities happen between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday.

These frightening statistics underscore the importance of your car's greatest nighttime safety feature — efficient and well-adjusted headlights.

A motorist can put more light on the road by using the latest headlight technology from General Electric — halogen headlamps. These lamps are twice as bright as conventional headlamps and deliver a distinctively whiter light, enabling the driver to see 25 percent farther down the road.

Halogen headlamps come in all the popular headlamp sizes and may be easily substituted for conventional headlamps. If you have a buried-out headlight, or if your headlights are more than three years old, consider replacing the entire set with halogen lamps; and then check to see if they are correctly aimed.

Improperly adjusted headlights, halogen or conventional, can be as much of a safety hazard as those that don't work at all. For example, headlights that are aimed just one-half degree too low will reduce seeing distance by 50 percent! Headlamps set a full degree too low cut the seeing distance by 75 percent. Headlights that are directed too high are also less effective and can "blind" oncoming drivers.

Headlight adjustment is an easy task that requires only 35-40 feet of flat (or constantly sloping) driveway in front of a garage door or wall.

—At dusk, shine your low beams onto a garage door or wall two or three feet away.

—Make horizontal marks on the top edges of the bright spot on the door. (Use a soft pencil or tape.)

—Move the car about 25 feet straight back from the garage door or wall. The top of the low beams should shine no higher than the marks on the door or wall.

—Make the necessary adjustments. On most cars, each headlight has two screws that move the beam up or down and left or right. These are visible without removing any hardware.

—If your car has two headlights, the high beams are automatically aimed when you adjust the low beams. If the car has four headlights, adjust the low beams first (the outer or upper of the sets). Then adjust the high beams so that the centers of those beams are at the top edge of the low beams.

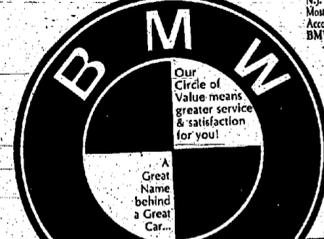

This "garage door" method, of aiming headlights is only a rough check and should not substitute for a headlight aiming by professionals with accurate equipment.
