NOT JUST A GAME—Sharon Bezak, president of the St. James Home School Association, displays a replica of what will soon be the game of Springfield.

Town awaits game

By MARK YABLONSKY

Imagine owning your neighborhood candy store. Or maybe your local dry cleaners. How does taking over the deed to your nearby Realtor sound? Well, in about six months, you can easily do all of the above, and for the modest sum of $10.

It's called "The Game of Springfield," and after a quick glance, you'll see it bears an uncanny resemblance to the game. And it seems like you know and love so well: Monopoly. In fact, "The Game of Springfield" really is the Parker Brothers classic, but instead of landing on Park Place or Marvin Gardens, you'll be landing on local businesses.

Local businesses have agreed to purchase space on the Springfield game board, which is patterned after the real McCoy, with some notable exceptions. In all, the game and/or logos of 40 different businesses will be found on the game board.

"It's basically a fund-raiser for us, but it's good advertisement for your Springfield people, the new people who move into town," explains Sharon Bezak, the president of the St. James Home School Association, which is the game's sponsor. "They open up this game and they have all the places in town. It's a family game. Monopoly is noted to be a family game. They're excited when they own the pet shop down the street."

"I thought the concept was a good one when they told me about it," said Mayor Edward Fanning, who says he plans to purchase the game himself once it becomes available. "I hope it's a good fund-raiser. I think it can be beneficial to the businesses in town."

In order to purchase space on the game board, a business need not necessarily be located in Springfield, although township businesses are being sought first, said Bezak. Any funds raised through game sales will be used toward the St. James educational fund, she added.

Such a concept of local monopoly is actually not new, since numerous other municipalities, including Maplewood, Lake Hopatcong and Allamuchy, have already manufactured their own respective games. Bezak, in fact, says she got the idea of bringing it to Springfield after hearing about it from Maplewood, which put out its version of the game last year.

She has already sent out letters to township merchants, explaining what the game is and how space on the board can be purchased.

The first 500 people to buy the game will find their family names placed in the center of the board at no extra cost.

Much like the original version itself, those landing on unowned businesses may buy them from the bank for the price listed on the board, at which time the respective property title cards will be handed over. When a player lands on a business owned by another player, he/she must pay the "Goods Purchased" price to the owner for the amount shown on the card. Anyone owning two or more businesses in the same color group will find their "Goods Purchased" price increasing. And in case you're wondering, there is nothing in the rules about constructing houses or hotels.

Each player begins play with $27,500—that's in fake money, of course—and is subject to fines, loans and taxes levied by the bank, which never goes broke, since it will issue extra cash on sheets of paper if the original money supply should happen to run out. And while there is no famous "Go to Jail, Go Directly to Jail" order, there happens to be a so-called "Charity Lock-Up," which is essentially the same thing as incarceration itself. Until you're free, you can't collect any "Goods Purchased" money.

One more thing: If you land on a Loise space, you may exercise the option of betting any amount of money that does not exceed your assets. Depending on how the dice roll, you can win either double or triple your bet. You can also lose your bet if you roll any of three unlucky numbers.

Bezak expects the game to be ready for sale sometime by September, at which time the package, which is being printed by Uniqueville Promotions of Hersey, Pa., will be delivered to those who have ordered it. After that, it's Monopoly as usual, the objective of which is to bankrupt your opponents—not the real businesses themselves. Players who find that the total value of what they own is actually less than what they owe, are considered bankrupt, and as such, must liquidate all remaining assets to creditors before "retiring from the game." It's that simple.

"I think it's going to be fun," said Bezak, who has two children attending St. James. "We have one game a night in our family. So this kind of excited me."

Richter whiffs 22 in 3-1 win

By MARK YABLONSKY

Pitcher Todd Richter of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School baseball team hurled his club to its first win of 1987 on Saturday at Roselle, striking out six batters in a 3-1 Bulldog victory, which took 10 innings to accomplish.

Richter, a senior from Mountainside, worked all 10 innings and allowed just one hit, while walking four. The hard-throwing right-hander also struck three hits and stole four bases, as the Bulldogs improved their record to 1-2.

The winning runs were scored in the top of the 10th inning, when first baseman Kevin Eversy, also of Mountainside, delivered a two-run single off Reds' losing pitcher John Carne, who fanned 15 batters of his own. Richter ignited the winning rally by leading off with a single and stealing second base before later scoring the go-ahead, and eventual winning run.

"He's doing it all for us," said Dayton skipper Rick Thomas of his ace hurler, who is also batting .500 this far. "I mean, what else can he do?"

Final renovation plan sought

By MARK YABLONSKY

With members of the township police department complaining bitterly about unpleasant sanitation conditions in the basement of the municipal building, final plans for the 66-year-old structure's renovation still haven't been drawn up, although work is continuing in that direction, according to township officials.

An ad hoc committee consisting of department heads in town hall has been working on the incorporating and modification of an earlier plan that has been on hold since a $1.2 million bond ordinance funding it failed to gain passage late last spring by one vote.

At the time, the plan involved adding wings to both sides of the municipal building, thereby, as Mayor Edward Fanning explained, rounding out the shape of the building from its current T-like design. Questions by Committeeman Jeffrey Katz, however, on whether or not the refurbishing would contradict the town's own zoning ordinance in regard to "side line requirements" and a sight line of vision, led him and Committeewoman Jo-Ann Pieper to vote against bond passage, causing the ordinance to fall one vote shy of approval.

Both governing body members also worried, as Katz put it, of "too many unknown variables" in regard to exact costs and details.

But with the added knowledge that the American Legion Hall building across from town hall on North Third Street is up for sale by the Legion command, the governing body has been considering the idea of shifting the renovation plans out into the street itself, by closing off part of North Third, and constructing the additions of the former right-of-way. Exactly which approach will be used is still unknown at this point.

"I don't even have a shower anymore," complained Pederson, who is the president of the Supervisory Officers Association, which consists of all sergeants and lieutenants in the department. "They always tell you, they get plans. Well, they've always got plans. They're still working on plans and nothing gets done."

During the heavy rains that fell in the early part of this month, the basement—which is directly accessible from police headquarters—again became flooded with raw sewage, since, as Katz explained, it will come in "from any outlet it can find." When that happens, police say, the basement is "totally off-limits" to anyone, and even after clean-up has taken place, "it's totally uninhabitable down there for at least the next 24 hours" because of the strong stench still present.

Reportedly, some officers have found human fecal matter in their lockers after such flooding has occurred.

"It looks like the runs," Pederson said. "They've been working on it since 1973, but to no avail. They knew when they put that valve in, that it wasn't working properly, but it stopped there. For the kind of money this town has, it's a shame that they can't maintain this headquarters area that we use 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

"What they have to live in downstairs is absolutely deplorable," agreed Katz, who suggested that perhaps a trailer with separate plumbing and air conditioning systems would alleviate police woes until the problem is corrected. "It happens to be unsanitary and grossly deplorable, and nobody should have to live in conditions like that."

The building itself, said new township engineer Leo J. Eckmann, is, to the best of his knowledge, located on what used to be lowlands adjacent to nearby Bryant Brook.

Fanning, who is also the police commissioner, outlined the fact that there are still difficulties facing township officials, both in choosing among different renovation plans, and subsequently, the cost itself. One possibility is to acquire the Legion Hall, have it demolished and used for additional parking.

"What we're trying to do is to come up with a long-range plan on how to address that problem," stated the mayor in regard to the acknowledged cramped conditions facing municipal employees in town hall. "I can't tell you the police department basement is in good shape. It's in terrible shape."

Both Fanning and Katz seem to agree that because 1987 is a "tough CAP year," renovation itself will have to come in stages, since necessary bonding cannot come all at once.

"I don't anticipate we're going to be able to do all that we want to do this year," admitted Fanning, who emphasized he wants to see "better the town," before leaving office at the end of the year. "We won't have the money needed in the capital budget to do the whole project. I'm hoping that we'll have enough money so that we can do parts of it, including plumbing, of course. That's a critical part of it. They shouldn't have to work in those conditions."

"So we're limited," added Katz, who said it is unlikely the problems that led to a lack of governing body action last year will arise again. "The chances are excellent that the plans would be agreed upon this year, but no construction would actually start until next year."

Katz, who acknowledges that 10 to 15 percent "cost overruns" are "very common" when it comes to major construction projects, mentioned that he would like to see the township engineer become "totally accountable and responsible" for renovation proceedings, ensuring that the project is kept "within scope and on time." An incentive for accomplishing that, the committeeman suggested, would be to award the engineer with a bonus of a few thousand dollars.

Cieri, Kurnos seeking seats

By MARK YABLONSKY

Former Mayor William Cieri and former Minuteman basketball coach Philip Kurnos have been selected as the Democratic and Republican candidates, respectively, for the upcoming fall election that will determine which of the two parties will have control of the Township Committee in 1988.

Both were the only ones to submit petitions prior to last Thursday's filing deadline.

Cieri, a former three-term committeeman who was rumored to be interested in running, will attempt a return to the governing body one year after opting, along with former Mayor Stanley Kaish, not to seek reelection. Kurnos will be making his first try for elective office, and is the GOP choice despite recent rumors that had either former committeeman and mayor Philip Feintuch, or Stanley Fink, who was defeated in last year's tight race, interested in running.

Both men will vie for the seat being vacated by Mayor Edward Fanning, who, in choosing not to seek reelection, will leave office at the end of the year. Fanning and Committeemen Sy Mullman and William M. Welsch represent the governing body's Democratic majority, while Jeffrey Katz and Jo-Ann Pieper make up the Republican minority.

The candidates will receive their official nominations during Primary Day June 2.

"I'm very pleased with Phil (Kurnos)," said Republican municipal chairman William Rucco, who explained that neither Feintuch or Fink ever seriously considered running.

"I like his ideas. He's always been very interested in the community. We're hoping we get him elected and we're almost certain we will."

WILLIAM CIERI

"I've had a love affair with this town for a lot of years," said Kurnos, a town resident since the late 1950s, who spent 21 years as a basketball coach. "I'm very concerned about the senior citizens. I've got the time and I'd like to do something to contribute."

Cieri, who was first elected to office in 1977, explained that his job responsibilities have been "reduced," since his firm has built a "substantial base" locally, unlike a year ago, when the former commit-

PHILIP KURNOS

The Democratic candidate is an account executive with the Mountainside-based D.C. Sales Co., which is a food brokerage firm. Kurnos is self-employed.

"So I will have the time that I wouldn't have had at the time. I chose not to seek re-election," said Cieri, who served as mayor in 1978, 1981, and last year as well. "I think I'm going to run on my record of service and experience. I think my nine years of experience as an elected official will benefit the town."

Vandals sought in shootings

Police in Mountainside and Springfield are searching for the vandals who shot out the windows of approximately 20 cars in the two communities late Friday and early Saturday morning.

According to Mountainside Detective Steve Semancik, the shootings, which involved a BB gun or an air rifle, took place after 11 p.m. on Friday, north of Route 22 between Central Avenue and Pembroke Road. He says police have questioned residents in the area, but there were no apparent witnesses.

"No one saw anything," he says. "It was a crime of mischief." Cars parked on the street at the end of driveways, Semancik says, were damaged. He says "no particular pattern" was evident in the shootings, which he says were apparently done on a random basis.

Semancik says a similar crime took place in the two towns and Kenilworth, Westfield and Scotch Plains about 15 years ago. He says that shooting spree involved "a few kids" and that those vandals were apprehended.

The detective says the department has a few individuals that police will be watching and that extra patrols have been dispatched in the vicinity.

Springfield Police Sgt. Robert Mason says that about 25 autos were damaged in the town along 10 different blocks. He says police are searching for suspects at this time.

Mason says that it was a "good possibility" the crime involved juveniles. He says, based on the damage to the cars, that the vandals did not attempt to steal any of the autos. However, one car owner did report some property stolen from his auto.

News briefs

Lee Eisen has been elected president of the Springfield Board of Education for the upcoming year, and Ned Sambur was chosen as vice-president during the board's reorganization meeting last Thursday night at the Florence M. Gaudineer School. Eisen officially was sworn in to another three-year term, along with former president Kenneth Falgenbaum and new board member David B. Stein.

The paintings of two Springfield finalists from the 13-WNET Students Art Festival will be shown over Channel 13 within the next few days. Tomorrow afternoon at 4:58 p.m., the work of Sandmeier School fourth-grader Jason Perez will be aired, while the painting of Caldwell School second-grader Daniel Avidian will be aired on Tuesday at the same time. Both paintings will be on display throughout the tri-state area during the next year.

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School "All Sports" Booster Club will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 8 in the building's ladies faculty room.

Wheelchair events to be held

The State of New Jersey will hold the Fourth Annual National Junior Wheelchair Championships from July 8 to 10.

The five-day games, to be held at Rider College, Lawrenceville, are expected to attract more than 300 of the nation's top junior wheelchair athletes, ages 5 to 18, who will compete in track and field, swimming, table tennis, wheelchair slalom and archery events.

"Participation, competition and achievement are cornerstones of our society," Andy Chasanoff, recreation director at Children's Specialized Hospital and 1987 meet director said. "We, along with numerous other wheelchair sports organizations around the country, are committed to providing opportunities for children with disabilities to enrich their lives and benefit from the motivating influences of recreation and sports. Through participation in sports, athletes are able to develop confidence and character."

"Wheelchair athletics gives many disabled children their only opportunity to be recognized for physical ability. And just as important, the recreational and competitive skills they acquire help them to forge a positive self image and gain confidence and self esteem that will be invaluable as they grow," he said.

Chasanoff, who coaches the Children's Specialized team, encouraged wheelchair athletes to work hard in training. "But we also want the experience to be fun. Wheelchair sports serves a social as well as athletic purpose. The youngsters travel and make friends."

In addition to athletic competition, social and recreational activities will be provided throughout the week. The highlight of these activities will be the Awards Banquet which will take place at the conclusion of the meet to honor all the athletes.

Parents and organizations who are interested in supporting the 1987 National Junior Wheelchair Championships may contact Andy Chasanoff, recreation director, Children's Specialized Hospital, 160 New Providence Road, Mountainside, 07093. The phone number is 223-3720.

Police blotter

Three Plainfield residents and two juveniles were arrested on charges of possessing large amounts of "crack" after being stopped by Springfield police late last Wednesday night for erratic vehicle operation on Route 22.

Police claim that 22-year-old Drake Barkdale, 27-year-old Curtis McKay and 24-year-old Joyce Frise, all of Plainfield, had just purchased 125 vials of "crack" and were in the process of transporting it back to Plainfield to sell them, when patrolman Peter Davis stopped their vehicle in the parking lot of a Route 22 all-night diner at approximately 11:30 p.m. on April 8 because the car was operating without lights.

After discovering the narcotics, Davis and detective Judd Levenson arrested all three suspects and charged them with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), and possession of CDS with intent to distribute. Also apprehended were the two juveniles.

All five suspects were later released, while the narcotics were sent to the Union County Lab in Westfield.

On April 8, Davis and patrolman William Wrialey arrested another juvenile and a 27-year-old Orange resident after they were seen in a car that was later determined to have been stolen out of Jersey City.

Police reported that Davis and Wrialey came upon a stopped car on Route 22 East when they observed a young juvenile, later found to be nine years of age, "adjusting the front seat as if he were about to drive," something the juvenile told the officers when they asked what he had been doing.

When questioned, Anthony Greene of Orange, police say, then "indicated" that he had been tired and reported that he had asked the youth to drive. Both were arrested, and Greene was charged with receiving stolen property, before being remanded to the Union County Jail on $10,000 bail. The juvenile was later released in the custody of his grandparents.

Foreign languages honored

Foods of various ethnic groups, poster contests, theme parties and academic competitions were all part of "Foreign Language Week," which was observed by the foreign language students at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield in March.

The Jonathan Dayton students had a chance to test their knowledge, show their artistic talent, and sample foods from many lands during the week of activities coordinated by the school's foreign language supervisor, Anita Tedesco.

On the academic side, a group of French language students at Dayton Regional competed in "Le Grand Concours," a national French contest held at Bergen Community College in Paramus. Several Latin language students participated in the "Certamen," academic competition at Northern Valley Regional High School in Old Tappan, placing third in the Northern New Jersey Classical League.

In the realm of art, students entered a poster contest to advertise the benefits of taking or learning a foreign language. The winner of the contest was Andrea Stein, while Bland Eng and Orin Roth placed second and third, respectively.

Five foreign languages — Spanish, Hebrew, Latin, French and Italian — are offered to the students of Jonathan Dayton.

FAMOUS PEOPLE—Students in the sixth-grade social studies class of Carolyn Gildersleeve at Springfield were asked to research an historical person and come to school dressed as that person. Pictured, from left, are Suzanne Spersert as Sarah Livingston Jay; Gina Capriglione as Dolly Madison; Gildersleeve as Martha Washington; and Steven Della Sala as James Madison.

"Why do I want a health plan that will spend money on me when I'm well!?"

Because it's the best way to save money on your health care. The reason is simple. The Rutgers Community Health Plan (RCHP) is a different kind of health plan: a group practice HMO. As a Health Maintenance Organization, we're committed to keeping you healthy. Even if it means giving you extra care when you're well. RCHP members may actually pay less and get better care. That's because RCHP covers more with none of the deductibles or copayments you pay with traditional insurance. Perhaps for the first time, your health plan will cover annual physicals, routine OB/GYN exams, well-baby visits, allergy shots, and other preventive measures. You'll also be invited to participate in dozens of our exclusive RCHP Wellness Works® programs, from Weight-Away to Smoking. And our plan includes much more than Wellness programs. Our plan cares for you, in sickness and in health. If you do get sick, or need emergency treatment, you'll be in the best of care. Every RCHP doctor is a member of the distinguished Central New Jersey Medical Group, P.A., one of New Jersey's largest and most highly-respected multi-specialty physician groups. It's all part of our total plan to care for you. Over ten years ago, RCHP created a plan to care for your health and your budget—with comprehensive coverage, reasonable premiums, and no claim forms, deductibles or emergency room fees. We also care for your personal convenience. Virtually all your care is provided under one roof at our modern, well-equipped health centers throughout Central and Northern New Jersey. See for yourself. Call 1-800-233-RCHP and discover just how much better our plan can care for you.

AIDS research pioneer to give talk

Dr. Robert G. Gallo, a discoverer of the AIDS virus and one of the pioneers in the ongoing search for a vaccine against the disease, will discuss the latest developments at the annual spring symposium of the Society of Research Associates of the Lautenberg Center for General and Tumor Immunology, The Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical School in Jerusalem, May 5 at the Crestmont Country Club in West Orange.

Hydrants serviced

Elizabethtown Water Company has begun its annual fire hydrant flushing program. Each spring the company flushes its hydrants to dislodge any accumulated sediment. In addition to dislodging sediment, this program prepares the system for the peak demands of the summer months.

All flushing will take place between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. so as to affect as few customers as possible.

As a hydrant is flushed, water sometimes becomes rusty and discolored from the force of new water rushing through the pipes, dislodging small particles of rust and sedimentation. For several hours following the flushing, tap water in nearby homes may remain discolored. This water is safe to drink, although it may not be aesthetically pleasing.

of the Lautenberg Center, the symposium has provided an opportunity for internationally known scientists and clinicians to inform the general population about the most recent medical advances in cancer and immunology.

Formally opened in 1968, the Lautenberg Center, which is part of Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical School, was endowed by Senator Frank Lautenberg in memory of his father. The center draws upon the unique demographics of Israel's population in order to study human cancer with facility, economy, accuracy and rapidly. More than 800 scientific publications and books have originated from the center since its inception. Several early diagnostic tests for malignancies, including breast and colon, are being developed at the center.

More than 200 New Jerseyans, who have pledged to support the Center with contributions of $5,000, $10,000 and $25,000, over a five-year period, are members of the society. New supporters interested in membership may call Helen Feinberg at 212-472-9000 for information.

From the beginning of his professional career, Gallo, 50, has been concerned with the role of retroviruses in human malignancy — a concept doubted by some scientists who believed these RNA viruses could cause leukemias only in specially bred laboratory animals in which the viruses were transmitted genetically.

To give eye exam

Eye screenings for glaucoma, a leading cause of blindness in this country, will be given April 22 in Union.

The screenings will be from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1-3 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center, Green Lane.

National Society to Prevent Blindness-New Jersey trains volunteers of the Frank B. Jewett Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America to conduct the screenings.

The painless tonometer screenings are for pressure within the eye which can lead to permanent, irreversible blindness. If glaucoma is discovered early, medical treatment can halt its progress.

National Society to Prevent Blindness is a non-profit, voluntary health agency with a national program of service, education and research.

Further information can be obtained by writing to: National Society to Prevent Blindness-New Jersey, Box 2070, New Brunswick, 08902.

Dr. Jensen's Easter meditation is titled "The Third Day."

Musical selections will be arranged by Peter Boak, organist and director of music at Central Presbyterian.

A continental breakfast will follow in Wisner House on the premises. In case of rain the service will also be held in Wisner House.

Plans open house

Cancer Care Inc., a private, non-profit, non-sectarian social service agency founded 44 years ago to help cancer patients and their families, recently opened an office in Millburn.

In an effort to assess the needs of the surrounding communities, and to make more people aware of their location and services, Cancer Care is sponsoring a community open house on April 21 from 2 to 5 p.m., at 24 Lackawanna Plaza, Millburn.

Land, volunteers, insurance on representatives' agenda

Legislation sponsored by Assemblymen DON FRANKS, R-Union, would make future land-use planning a cooperative effort among counties and municipalities.

Under the terms of the bill, known as "The County-Municipal Planning Partnership," future development and growth of the state would be addressed on a regional scale in a regional impact," Franks explained. "In an effort to preserve our environment, relieve traffic congestion and alleviate the pressures on our infrastructure, a spirit of volunteerism. This legislation would exempt volunteers, including baseball coaches, from liability while they are donating their time.

"Volunteerism has played a big part in the founding of our country. Too many would-be volunteers are reluctant to offer their services because of the fear they could be held liable if an accident occurs," Di Francesco said.

Legislative forum

cooperative effort between counties and their municipalities. Regional planning, on a cooperative basis, as defined in the County-Municipal Planning Partnership, offers several advantages over the current piecemeal method.

cooperative effort in planning would appear to be the best vehicle for addressing future growth and development," said Franks.

Passage rate drops

The New Jersey Education Association has expressed disappointment with last week's annual school budget election results. This year's budget passage percentage was 75.7 percent.

As little league organizations all around the state prepare for the upcoming baseball season, SENATOR DONALD DI FRANCESCO is urging Governor Thomas Kean to sign legislation to boost the UNION COUNTY had a 47.4 percent passage rate. Only Essex County has a lower percentage of passage.

SENATOR C. LOUIS BASSANO R-Union, has introduced legislation that would substantially reduce auto insurance rates by reducing a verbal threshold on pain and suffering suits and mandating a 40 percent reduction in bodily injury protection rates.

In unofficial returns, 1987-88 current-expense budgets were passed in 436 districts and failed in 140. That percentage is 75.5 percent lower than last year's 83.3 percent rate of passage.

"The opinions of our constituents are very important to all of us," said Bassano.

NIJA President Dennis Giordano said today that unless state aid is significantly increased for next year, more school budgets will be defeated.

"The dates of the town meetings will be announced in a joint newsletter the three Union County legislating units be circulating this month."

Giordano attributed the decline in the budget passage rate to the nearly $90 million shortfall in state funding for school districts.

Although budgets were passed at a lower rate this year, Mercer County had no budget defeats, and Sussex County suffered only one budget defeat.

Here's a county-by-county breakdown of results in current-expense budgets:

This bill will guarantee that motorists receive the break they deserve on their auto insurance bills without giving up essential coverage. The 40 percent reduction in the bodily injury liability, which is mandated in this bill, could save the average motorist up to $100 a year on insurance premiums. And since the mandated reduction is a conservative estimate, the savings may even be greater," said Bassano.

SENIOR SENATOR CHUCK HARWICK and ASSEMBLYMAN PETER GENOVA will hold a series of town meetings this spring in the 21st Legislative District.

Lens is OK'd

The FDA has announced its approval of a new type of special extended wear contact lens. The paraperm extended wear lens is a rigid gas permeable contact lens which is made of a combination of special materials which allows the lens to be worn for daily wear, overnight wear, or as an extended wear lens.

According to Dr. Kerry Gelb, who is an assistant clinical professor of optometry at the University Optometric Center in New York and in private practice in Springfield, clinical studies have shown that paraperm lens to have major benefits over soft contact lenses, especially soft extended wear lenses. Because this new lens allows increased oxygen to reach the cornea, it provides for a healthy eye. In addition visual acuity is sharper, the lenses are more durable, and less frequent replacement of the lenses, decrease the annual contact lens cost.

Gelb advises patients to consult with their eye care professional regarding this new development in contact lenses.

Diabetes education is topic

Cites need for leukemia volunteers

G. Jeff Mennen, president of the Leukemia Society of America's Northern New Jersey Chapter, 1653 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, telephone 781-9668, issues a plea for volunteer support.

According to Mennen, the Leukemia Society's year round program of volunteer supported events is predicated upon community involvement. Volunteers from all walks of life are needed to lead bowling, swimming, racquetball and other such events. He notes that school participation is also urgently needed and he hopes that club leaders, teachers and interested students would decide to participate. To become involved, contact the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation at 351-9600.

Offers safety tips

Seniors abuse alcohol

There are 20 million people in the United States over the age of 65. This group comprises 10 percent of the population. Between 2 and 10 percent of people 65 and over experience some type of alcohol-related problem. Approximately 25 percent of the 65-plus population is on some form of medication. By mere measure, older people consume more medication than any other age group, putting them at high risk drug and alcohol interaction.

Alcoholism peaks in the 35-50 age group. A second peak is found in the 60-65 age group with a gradual decline as one approaches the 70s and beyond. Five items can be cited as precipitating factors for this second peak of alcohol abuse. They are isolation, loneliness, bereavement, retirement, and infirmity.

Easter, Holy Week

A CARD AND GAMES party will be sponsored by Circle One of the Wesleyan Presbyterian Church Women's Association, Union, on April 29 at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. Cake, coffee and tea will be served. Tickets can be obtained by calling 964-1251. The public is invited to the benefit event.

ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH, 119 Main St., Millburn, is observing Holy Week and Easter with services on Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Easter morning. The Rev. Gordon H. Tremaine, rector, will officiate. A service of Holy Eucharist at 8 tonight will commemorate the Last Supper. Tomorrow, during the traditional hours of the crucifixion from noon to 3 p.m., there will be an open service of Passion observance "structured to allow churchgoers to come and go as they see fit." A series of biblical readings and meditations "on the meaning of the life and death of Jesus Christ," will be held for those who cannot attend the daytime service, the Good Friday.

assisted by Church School teachers and members of the Christian Education Committee.

TWO TRADITIONAL pre-Passover services were offered to the Jewish community by Congregation Israel of Springfield, 339 Mountain Ave., Springfield. They were Michras Chometz, transfer of Chometz, and Szym Berach, repeat of the First Born. "Chometz" refers to grain, cereal, and other such products not specially prepared for Passover. "Not only may they not be eaten on Passover, according to Jewish law, but they or utensils associated with their use may not remain in Jewish possession during the Passover period." This traditionally, a tile transfer of these items to non-Jews can be arranged at this period. The Rev. Ronald H. Rosenblatt, rector, of Congregation Israel of Springfield, who has "arranged this transfer" without charge. Arrangements can be made by a visit to the synagogue or by calling the synagogue at 487-9566.

Local evangelist vents anger

By BEA SMITH

An angry, yet soft-voiced evangelist vented his anger and frustration at "poor people being rescued" by the Jim Bakker, the Jerry Falwell, the Oral Roberts and others according to Christ's teaching.

During Holy Week, Evangelist Harry Persaud, who was born a Hindu 64 years ago in Georgetown British Guiana, now Guyana, and has been conducting meetings in the Church of Christ in Vauxhall since August 1981, hurled into this newspaper office to attempt to "expose" the so-called evangelists who deceive people for personal gain.

"It's all there in the Bible," he said. "In fact, Jesus and His Apostles predicted that false prophets would arise in the last days, now even pretend to perform miracles in order to deceive people for personal gain. Jesus further said that these false prophets would be clothed and Satan disguised as Angel of Light. They are imposters, with deluding influence taking souls captive in the last days and for power and riches."

Producing a Bible, Persaud explained, "I can stand behind this with Bible and chapter in my hand. Christ said, 'I will send a donkey; these men, they ride in Rolls Royces. They profane God's Holy Name.' They lead people to believe that they are something more than spectators!"

Persaud said, "The purpose for Christ's death on the cross is to provide eternal salvation for all mankind. It is spiritual in nature but not to build universities, hospitals, recreation and social clubs. The Bible teaches man must work to provide his daily needs. When God said to go work and eat, I didn't say anything about welfare.

"These men are soliciting money from people for purposes contrary to the teaching of God. They are merchandising His word. The mission of Jesus and His Church is not physical in nature, but for spiritual purposes — to save lost sinners, to provide salvation and eternal life through His death, burial and resurrection."

"The function of this church is to provide eternal salvation for all sinners through the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Because," he said, "with tears blazing in his eyes, 'today, God speaks to us through His inspired words. They are His divine authority. I will stand up for it — any place, any time to defend the gospel of Jesus Christ, whether it be a book, chapter and verse. No living person on earth can perform miracles as done by Christ and His Apostles in the New Testament.'"

"There is no need for such."

Religious events

day liturgy also will be offered at 8 in the evening.

Easter will be celebrated with a service of Holy Eucharist at 8 a.m. and a Festival Choral Eucharist at 10 a.m. Special music for Easter will be under the direction of Dr. John Eric Floren, organist and music director.

Churchgoers and passersby will be greeted on Easter morning by a special Easter banner on the Church steps proclaiming "Rejoice! He Is Risen!" Designed by Jacqueline Stapfer of Springfield, the banner was created as a Lenten project by the children of the Church School.

The Repeat of the First-born was held in the synagogue on Monday, following the morning minyan service. The Repeat "removed the fasting obligation from the first-born over the way to the playing of Egyptian first-born." Turner conducted the study of a Talmud tractate.

GOLDEN GIRLS—Jennifer Baldwin, left, and Chris Luke of Roselle Park, and Staci Welnerman of Springfield were all smiles during last week's Union County Basketball Coaches' Association All-Star Awards Dinner at the Town and Campus Restaurant in Union. The three players were among a total of 20 men and women basketball standouts countywide named to the county all-star squad.

Dayton netters keep rolling

By MARK YABLONSKY
They have won their first five matches, with three of them being 5-0 whitewashes. While not having quite the depth they did a year ago, they have displayed the ability to dominate over most of their opponents, just as they have done for the past two years. In short, you could say they are having "quite a racket," so to speak.
Yes, as you might have guessed by now, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School boys' tennis team is quietly demolishing its foes and going about the happy business of winning. In fact, only one of its first five matches has even been close: with the Bulldogs edging Oratory Prep. of Summit, 3-2, last week.

Brearley trackmen defeat Roselle

By MARK YABLONSKY
After suffering through an 0-9 season, it is fairly safe to say that there's nothing to go by yet. Well, even as it was losing to powerful Roselle Park last Thursday, the David Brearley Regional boys' track team took that first upward step in defeating Roselle at the same time, 67-59.
Led by their top runner, Chris Madeira, the Bears finally put an end to their long losing streak, and left coach Jim Hagan optimistic that a few more W's can be recorded before the 1987 season is over.

Legion tops Mavs

Picking up where its basketball brethren left off, the Springfield American Legion baseball team defeated the Mountainside Mavericks, 5-2, in the season opener for both clubs last week.
With a quick bang, Springfield struck for two first inning runs on back-to-back hits by Joe Perez and Ted Loya, and a single by Matt Gallaro. The Legion club doubled its offensive in the third, via Sean Welnerman's run-scoring double and a single by David Wickham. Welnerman later scored Springfield's final run in the seventh, after collecting his second double. Scott Meisner, Rich Roche and Chris Marvesca helped account for both Mavericks runs.

Dayton beaten by Lady Lions

The Jonathan Dayton Regional girls' varsity track team lost for the first time this season to a powerful Roselle Catholic team last Thursday by the score of 7-4.
The team's record now stands at 1-1 for the season. With the defeat, however, came some strong individual performances.
Ann Marie Liszy finished first in both the shot put and the javelin events, while coming in second in the discus. Senior Tara McGrath ran an impressive first place in the 800-meter race, taking first place in that event.

Little League festivities set

Kenilworth Little League opening day ceremonies will be held on Saturday, beginning with a parade starting at 1 p.m. from St. Theresa's School playground. The parade will follow a route up 23rd Street to the Boulevard then proceed on the Boulevard to 14th Street, before ending at the Little League Field.
Ceremonies will take place at the field after the parade. The rain date will be the following Saturday.

Artist has 'designs' for an idyllic life

By PAULA BISHOP

Within the past two years Susan Weinfeld-Preston has given birth to a son, assisted her husband Daniel in the labors of setting up a medical practice, made the transition from apartment living to a spacious home and launched a booming business featuring her own line of original batik designed infant wear.

With 22-month-old Jared on one arm, a UPS delivery man at the door and a batch of paints at the ready, the vibrant young artist glides smoothly from one role to another. Perhaps "sovereign" would be more appropriate since she manages to approach each task with a freshness and a high energy level that stays charged up.

Weinfeld-Preston presents a nearly idyllic portrait of a confident, individualistic woman of the '80s. An artist who has sharpened her entrepreneurial skills along with her sketching pencils, she's found a way to "have it all." Growing pains, whether personal or professional, are dealt with efficiently but with a breezy aplomb.

The 29-year-old Unionite describes her fascination with batik, a process she says she has been "stuck on since the 10th grade," with a fresh enthusiasm that is both appealing and infectious.

Marveling at her own good fortune, Susan says she is one of the lucky ones who knew years ago exactly what she wanted to do—which was to "spend the rest of my life sketching." But as she says with a mischievous grin, "of course, as you can well imagine everyone discouraged me and urged me to go into something a lot more practical and profitable."

Susan can well afford to feel a bit triumphant and "victorious" these days. Because of her stick-to-itiveness and conviction that a sophisticated market does exist for quality items created and executed by a professional artist, her line of batik infant wear is now available throughout the state in at least 10 different stores and boutiques.

Conscientious about giving credit where she feels it's due, Susan speaks fondly and in glowing terms about those instructors at Union High School who helped to solidify the foundation from which her productivity springs.

Emphasizing her gratitude for their encouragement and guidance, Susan says that two teachers in particular were instrumental in her decision to forge a career as an artist. A prospect her parents "weren't exactly thrilled about," "Art Instructor" Sy Shames, probably one of the finest teachers in the school system, and the late Nick Welner, a Spanish teacher and former head of the adult school, are two people about which I can never say enough.

"I demonstrated the batik process in Spanish in Nick Welner's class and he just really loved my work. He took a personal interest and gave me an enormous amount of advice."

After graduation Weinfeld-Preston enrolled in Montclair State College. It was then that Welner suggested that she teach batik in the Union Adult School, a contract she still holds. As she says, "this was in the mid-'70s when batik and tie-dye were like really hot."

A meticulous method requiring skill and creativity found primarily in parts of the Far East—Japan and India—batik originated in the Indonesian island of Java. It's a form of hand-printing textile, by coating the fabric with hot wax beginning with the palest shades.

After the outline of a design is sketched a process of repetitious layering is executed. The end result is a unique blend of colors that combines the exotic nuances of the orient that evokes the soft, muted tones of impressionism.

Batik is easily identifiable by a distinctive veining or webbing effect indicated by those areas where drying wax has cracked and peeled.

As with most best laid plans, Susan's agenda deviated slightly from her preconceived script when she married in her sophomore year and accompanied her husband Daniel to Guadalupe, Mexico, where he enrolled in medical school. The couple first met in Preston's Country Store in Union Center which is owned by Daniel's parents.

As it turned out good fortune, was on her side because "Mexico, was like a dream come true." Only two weeks into her stay, barely acclimated to the climate and speaking "horrible Spanish," Susan ran across a small out-of-the-way art gallery on her way to class where she taught English.

The gallery was exhibiting batiks, an event particularly unusual since the technique is "not at all indigenous to Mexico."

In relating the sequence of events, Weinfeld-Preston's expression lights up as she relates her original feelings of excitement once she realized the potential of what she had stumbled upon.

"This canny ability to recognize an opportunity and use it to the best advantage is characteristic of shrewd business acumen, an attribute that has contributed more than a little to her success. This and the foresight to establish and follow an agenda has given her an essential edge."

All of these traits she displayed when she seized her chance and made her talents known to the gallery proprietor. "I went back to see the owner, an interior decorator, told her about my work with batik and showed her some samples," she says.

As a result she wound up teaching a class in the technique on the flat roof atop the adobe-style building. Creating amid the vibrant tropical sun-washed colors of the Latin American terrain, "was almost too good to be true," for an artist who has a strong affinity for brilliant hues.

Weinfeld-Preston kept her contacts back here in the states by entering art shows and competitions in the area. "Nick Welner was the one who got me started. He persuaded me to enter the Festival on the Green here in town," she recalls.

A first-place award encouraged her to continue entering shows throughout the county and the state during her three-year stay in Mexico.

When she returned to Union Township, she finished the requirements for a degree in fine arts, majoring in surface design and textile design. Beginning with her very first apprenticeship, she was mindful of gaining work experience in the mits and bolts of production, merchandising and marketing.

"This was a real test of my production skills and a way to find out if I could handle the business aspect. It gave me a chance to judge my estimated profit margin and also to find out if I was ordering supplies in correct quantities, lots of things like that."

Along with an affirmation of her production skills the occasion left her feeling "exhilarated." She was introduced to "purchase orders, fabrics, style numbers and die intricacies of getting a Sun and Bird street number."

Her "staff" consists of supportive family members, her sister and aunt are both artists, and a network of friends that are her "strongest supporters and harshest critics."

Along with her pragmatism and innate talent, Weinfeld-Preston's conviction and determination to build a successful enterprise based on doing what she enjoys most may well be the underlying reason she's come so far.

As she puts it "I just knew I had something really special here. I knew because I felt it so strongly in my heart."

Actor's photos in UCC show

An exhibit of unique photographs by Dennis Hopper, photographic artist, movie actor and director, will be on display at Union County College's Tomasulo Gallery, beginning April 10.

The 27 black and white photos, which formed the basis of Hopper's recent book, "Out of the '60s," will be available for viewing at the Cranford Campus through May 2.

Born in Dodge City, Kan., in 1936, Hopper spent his childhood working up the myriad facets of the mid-west. At 16 he began taking pictures and stopped when he was 31. He has been an actor since the early 1950s when he appeared in such movies as "Rebel Without a Cause," "Giant," "Mad Dog Morgan," and "Apocalypse Now." His latest acting vehicles were "Blue Velvet" in 1985 and "Hosier" in 1986. Mr. Hopper directed the movie "Easy Rider" for Warner Brothers in 1969, "The Last Movie" in 1971 and "Out of the Blue" in 1980.

At the same time as Hopper acted in films and collected art, he was making most of the photographs that appear in his book. He also made paintings and assemblages combining found objects and large photo blowups, which were "extraordinary and ahead of their time."

Hopper's photographs are the photos of angels, not just Hell's and ordered from Scandinavian countries. All bear her distinctive batik designs in fanciful forms of butterflies, hearts, flowers, kites and whimsical abstract forms.

Her son Jared is the in-house model and garment tester. She stresses that as a mother herself, she has taken great care to assure that all clothing is created with non-toxic paints and completely washable. In fact, each piece is cleaned and laundered before sale.

Her most impressive accomplishment to date? Without missing a beat she sets her first large sale to an upscale department store as the breakthrough that let her know she was really on her way.

"This was a real test of my production skills and a way to find out if I could handle the business aspect. It gave me a chance to judge my estimated profit margin and also to find out if I was ordering supplies in correct quantities, lots of things like that."

Along with an affirmation of her production skills the occasion left her feeling "exhilarated." She was introduced to "purchase orders, fabrics, style numbers and die intricacies of getting a Sun and Bird street number."

ABCs OF BATIK—Inspecting samples of her infant wear line, Susan Weinfeld-Preston is making a career for herself as an originator of children's wear bearing distinctive batik designs. The process is a meticulous one that involves several steps from initial sketches to application of wax and color. Each piece is carefully pre-washed to remove any traces of the non-toxic paint used to decorate the all cotton washable wear. The artist first became interested in the process while a student at Union High School where teachers encouraged her to pursue the craft. Her designs often show the influence of Latin America where she spent three years pursuing an independent course of study.

King creates novel fairy tale

By BEA SMITH

After the ultimate "It" Stephen King's avid readers wondered how the author could top that book and where he really could go from there.

Well, King once more proves himself astonishingly versatile and has created a book so far removed from all of his other, that one has to re-read his name on the cover of "The Eyes of the Dragon" to actually believe that King is capable of writing such a book.

What makes this book different from all the rest of the Stephen King tomes, is that "The Eyes of the Dragon," published this year by Viking, Penguin Inc., New York City, with pencil- and ink illustrations by David Falladay, has a thousands-of-years-ago setting. It features the adventures of princes, kings, evil wizards and dragons. And it was written for and dedicated to, of all people, King's 13-year-old daughter, Naomi. King says Naomi had never read any of his 13 novels because she "had very little interest in my vampires, ghouls and slinky, crawling things."

But she read "The Napkins," the original title of "The Eyes of the Dragon," and approved wholeheartedly by telling her father that she didn't want it to end.

It must have been difficult for King to completely stay away from those "slinky, crawling things," and he manages somehow to insert some ghoulish moments in his fairy tale about a kingdom called Delain, an incompetent king called Roland, his two sons, Peter and Thomas, and Flagg, the King's plotting and evil magician.

King's plot is so good that he really goes from there. "It's about apples,"

A two-part series on the horticultural history of apples will begin April 22 with a 7:30 p.m. lecture at the Reeves-Reed Arboretum, and conclude at a later date with a tour of the guest speaker's orchard during apple blossom time. Advance registration is required.

In her lecture, "A Perfect Fruit: From Beginning to End," Elaine Martin, agronomist and orchard owner, will trace the history from early introduction of the apple to the New World, offer gardening tips and detail cooking and edible qualities for the numerous varieties.

To register, call 273-8787.

On the shelf

It seems that King has a Flagg in every one of his novels and Flagg grows more and more ferocious with each manuscript—perhaps even more destructive than the dragon itself in King's latest novel.

But the story seems to roll along smoothly, and the illustrations assist in the imaginations of young and adult readers. The book has a little of everything for everyone and would no doubt make a fascinating

Green thumb solutions

The following questions represent some of the most frequently asked about houseplant problems:

Question: When I purchased my houseplant several months ago it was full of foliage and the leaves were a beautiful mix of gold and green. Today, all the leaves are a dark, dull green color and very small. Also, the stems have grown tall and spindly. Many of the bottom leaves have fallen off. Why is my plant doing this to me?

Answer: Your plant is expressing all the symptoms of receiving inadequate light. Moving it to a brighter window—south is lightest followed by east and west—will prompt your plant to grow full and bushy once again. Likewise, only fertilize your plants from March 1 to Nov. 1. Winter feeding causes houseplants to grow tall and spindly.

Question: My Chinese Evergreen is showing the following symptoms—lower leaves are curling and wilting; some of the stems are rotting; and the soil in the pot never seems to dry out, what's wrong with my plant and what can I do to cure it?

Answer: It sounds like your plant is experiencing the most common houseplant ailment—overwatering. Your Chinese Evergreen's roots have rotted away. If the plant isn't too far gone, you can save it by only watering it when the soil surface feels dry (and I mean dry, not slightly damp) to the touch; make sure the bottom of the pot has a drainage hole; and don't allow the plant to stand in the drainage water for more than 30 minutes after watering.

Question: Many of my plant's leaves seem to be covered by a sticky, saplike material. Does this have anything to do with why a lot of its leaves are turning yellow and falling off?

Answer: The saplike material on your plant is honeydew. It is produced by the feeding of scale, mealybugs, aphids and other houseplant insects. In turn causes your plant to shed its leaves. For control of these insects, use an appropriately labeled insecticide—once you begin spraying, be sure to repeat it on a regular basis for four to six weeks. Persistence and early detection is essential in controlling houseplant insects.

Readers with questions on houseplant care should write to James Nicomedowicz, Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County, 300 North Ave., East, Westfield, 07080.

 The film took three Oscar awards: Best Actor in A Supporting Role, Michael Caine; Best Actress in A Supporting Role, Dianne Wiest, and Best Original Screenplay, Woody Allen.

humor and sophisticated themes Allen so effectively explores in "Hannah."
 The album opens with Harry James classic renditions of "You Made Me Love You" and "I've Heard That Song Before." Count Basie and His Orchestra contribute "Back to the Apple," while Roy Eldridge is represented by "If I Had You." Bobby Short offers a spirited version of Cole Porter's "I'm In Love Again." offers a collection of vintage and contemporary recordings every bit as delightful as Allen's film itself. It includes the affectionate duet by Rodgers and Hart's "Boylited, Bothered and Bewildered," sung by Lloyd Nolan and Maureen O'Sullivan in the film. All of the music, except for Bach's "Concerto for Harpsichord in F-Minor," performed by George Malcolm and Simon Preston, recalls the era of the big bands and reflects the worldly numbers, "You Are Too Beautiful" and "Isn't It Romantic," and Dick Hyman's "Piano Medley" (featuring "I Could Happen To You," "Polka Dots and Moonbeams," "Avalon," and "Just You, Just Me," round out the collection.

 The film is Allen's 15th directorial effort and stars Mia Farrow; her mother, O'Sullivan; Nolan; Michael Caine; Barbara Hershey; Carrie Fisher; Max Von Sydow; and Dianne Wiest.

Sees evolutionary change in design

"The house of the future will combine the best of what's traditional with the modern and innovative," writes Ravi A. Waldon in the March issue of Real Estate Today, the official publication of the National Association of Realtors. Waldon is a licensed architect and director of the Design, Interiors and Housing Programs for the American Institute of Architects, Washington, D.C.

Architects, builders and real estate professionals are watching changing demographics closely. Waldon projects that people in the post-World War II baby-boom generation, who will be 25-44 years old by 1990 and reaching their peak earning years, will dominate the market. For the baby-boom generation, the 20-24 age group, following on the heels of the boomers "affordability will be a constraining factor in the foreseeable future," he writes.

"The consumer group left behind will be the baby-busters and those looking for starter homes or minimal, affordable homes. Of necessity, this group will seek rental housing which will become increasingly scarce — older housing, and the starter homes coveted by move-up buyers," according to Waldon.

Home design changes will be "evolutionary, not revolutionary," he predicts. "Because housing is the single most expensive investment for most people, it takes a long time to design and build in changes that they will accept. Provided the economy is healthy, the overwhelming impact of the baby-boomers will result in more move-up homes. That is, more upscale single-family housing will be built, unlike the smaller houses of the '81-'82 recession."

Density in these future upscale developments will depend on market conditions. Waldon suggests that the zero-lot-line house "will allow single-family detached housing to be built profitably on very expensive land. With densities up to twice the traditional quarter-acre site, zero-lot-lines permit savings on infrastructure — utilities, roads and so on.

"Not all are moving up to the suburbs. About 20 percent of the baby-boomers, as well as many active and affluent empty-nesters, will choose to live near urban cultural areas.

Those future homes with "architectural drama" will have great appeal. "While the exterior of the home may be an owner's statement of cultural and social identity, the interior reflects his personal lifestyle," he says.

Rather than more rooms, homes of the future may have suites serving multiple purposes. "Suites will include quality material and built-in.

For architectural drama in upscale housing, clearly defined foyers will be in greater demand because they allow a grand entrance. "The use of volume in the foyer and the living spaces," Waldon explains, "will provide visual excitement and allow for more natural light, which not only adds appeal but also saves energy."

Ultimately, the single biggest change in housing will be the one hidden in the wall according to the author: "The smart house is a revolution in domestic electronics," he writes. Distributive intelligence and microchip technology allow all electrical needs in a house, including telephone and 220-volt power supply to be met with a single wiring system, which may well be made of optical fibers. Appliances with microchips will be able to engage the exact amount of energy needed by signaling a regional distributing point in the house.

"Our effort to live comfortably in the environment is a timeless issue; technology is now being harnessed in this task," Waldon explains. "However, it will be architecture that will set the stage by looking to the past when planning for the future."

Williamsburg's look classic

The style of decorating known as the Williamsburg look is an American classic. Never really out of fashion, it nonetheless has up and down. Today it's on the upswing again.

Furnishings, period accessories, and architectural detail such as the elaborate ceiling moldings, stock moldings available at any building supply store, all serve to evoke a gracious time from America's past. It's an elegant setting midway between formal and casual.

Other Williamsburg touches: a mahogany Chippendale table and chairs in the dining area; brass and glass wall sconces; recessed shelves, topped by carved-wood scallop shells, for displaying treasured and comports; and gilt-framed nature prints.

For a free brochure on the Williamsburg style, containing more information, photographs and floorplans, write to: Armstrong World Industries, Attn: Free

Weichert to be cited

James M. Weichert, president of Weichert Realtors will be honored at the "Business Statesman of the Year," at the 36th annual President's Day Luncheon of the Sales Executive Club of New Jersey. The award will be made April 27 at the luncheon at Mayfair Farms in West Orange.

"Real estate is not a 'tricks and stunts' business," says Weichert. "We are in a unique position to help people buy or sell their most important asset — their home. And this takes a lot of personal attention and a total commitment to service. All of our people share this belief, and that's what makes us successful. The secret to our success is no real secret at all."

Steam heat pointers

Steam does not make noise. Noise might develop in a faulty steam heating system but it may be easy to cure the problem.

An air valve on a radiator should permit only air to come out; if steam is hissing out, the valve may have to be replaced, says the Better Heating-Cooling Council.

If there is a knocking noise in the pipes, it is caused by water which shouldn't be there. When steam in a system condenses into water, it is supposed to find its way back to the boiler. If some part of the horizontal piping has dropped to form a low point, that condensate water will lie there, until the next time the steam comes up. When the steam hits that puddle it drives the water along to the nearest vertical piping, hitting it with force and causing a "water hammer."

Houseplants add life to home decor

By JAMES NICHANADOWICZ
Union County Extension Service

Green, on the plants in your home, can wipe away the blues. Houseplants can help brighten not only the interior of your home, but your outlook on life as well.

There are good locations for houseplants in every room that has a window. Be sure when placing the plant to put it no further than 3 feet from the window. What follows are lists of low maintenance plants and suggested sites for them. Listed next to each plant is the lowest level of light they will tolerate.

Hanging Plants for Windows — Inexpensive to buy, they can be used to hide unsightly views that lurk outside your home: items from the ceiling, they do not interfere with opening and closing of the window.

English Ivy — Low light. Never allow to dry out totally between waterings.

Dallas Fern — Low light. Tolerant of dry humidity, resembles Boston Fern.

Heart Leaf Philodendron — Low light. Very hardy.

Golden Pothos — Low light. Looks best, however, with medium to bright light.

Marble Queen Pothos — Low light. Same requirements as Golden but leaves are mottled white instead of yellow.

Spider Plant — Medium light.

Grape Ivy — Medium light.

Floor Plants:

A large parlor palm displays its delicate fronds against the background of the lightly colored corner walls creating an illusion of the tropics. These plants are meant to sit on the floor and occupy a large space. They range in size from 2 feet high to 8 feet. An empty corner with a window nearby is an ideal location.

Chinese Evergreen — Low light. Good varieties Emerald Beauty and Silver Queen. Keep out of cold drafts.

Parlor Palm — Low light. Watch for spider mites.

Dracaena — Low to medium light. Many types available, such as Janet Craig, Warnecki, Corn Plant (be sure it's firmly rooted), Red-Edged Dracaena.

Philodendrons — Low to medium light.

Peace Lily — Low to medium light. Very tolerant of low light conditions.

Schiffers — Medium light. The variety "Amate" does well.

Dwarf Schifflera — Medium light. Never allow to totally dry out.

Differbachia — Medium light. Keep out of cold drafts.

Cactus — Medium to high light. Be sure to provide good drainage.

Weeping Fig — Medium to high light. Never allow to totally dry out.

Windowill Gardens: A dwarf basil for tomato sauce, a flowering African violet for color and an aloe for the occasional burn. Windowills can be used to create your own miniature garden. To accommodate more plants, the shelf can be widened, or glass shelves can be placed higher up on the window.

Herbs — Basil, dill, thyme, chives and sage all do well.

Houseplants — Small varieties of all types. Seedlings — If the window is very sunny, seedlings of vegetables and flowers should prosper.

Buying Houseplants: Will This Plant Survive Once I Get It Home? Hopefully, some of the plants have stimulated your imagination; to the possibilities houseplants hold for beautifying your home. Before you run out and buy any, however, you need to take out houseplant insurance. To insure that your tropical dandy will survive, be sure that the light level available in the spot where you are going to put it matches the light level the plant needs to survive. To help you in making this fit, the following list describes the level of light available through most home windows:

East window — Plants that require a medium level of light do well here.

South window — If this window is unobstructed by buildings or trees, plants that require a high level of light will do well here.

West window — Plants that do well in medium light.

North window — Only put plants here that can tolerate low light conditions.

For more information on houseplant care, write to Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Union County, 300 North Ave. E., Westfield, 07090.

Cooling costs can be under control

Cooling costs can be expensive, especially in areas where electric rates are high, but you can beat the heat and still cut costs, reports the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers.

Just follow these two important steps when buying a new room air conditioner.

First, estimate cooling capacity. It's the most important factor in choosing a model that will cool and dehumidify your room adequately. To small a unit won't deliver enough cold air, but too large a unit won't dehumidify well and wastes energy.

Cooling capacity, measured in British thermal units per hour (BTU/hr), refers to the amount of heat and moisture removed from a room. One BTU is equivalent to the heat from a kitchen match as it burns to ash. Greater cooling capacities have larger BTU/hr ratings.

Room size, location and other important factors dictate a room's cooling needs, or "cooling load." Determine cooling load with the help of a "Cooling Load Estimate Form," available through dealers or by sending 35 cents with your request to AHAM, 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

Select a model with a cooling capacity that's 5 percent plus or minus your room's cooling load.

Next, consider energy efficiency ratings (EERs). Once you know the cooling capacity you need, check the EERs of similar-sized models to learn which will help hold down cooling costs.

EER, the big bold number on the yellow Energy Guide label, is a measure of room air conditioner operating efficiency. Models with higher EERs use less electricity and, so, cost less to operate, all else being equal.

High efficiency is particularly important to residents of hot climates where air conditioners are used frequently and cooling costs tend to run high. For example, Miami residents, who average 2,000 air conditioning hours annually, would have far more to gain by selecting a high EER model than Seattle residents, who average only 150 annually.

The "Hours of Operation" map, developed by AHAM, shows the average number of hours that air conditioners are used in various parts of the continental U.S.

You also may want to investigate the economic advantages of area cooling—that is, cooling just the rooms that are used instead of the entire home. At night, cooling is generally needed just in the sleeping area, and during the day, only in the living area. Even consumers with central air conditioners are investigating area cooling, because air conditioning the whole house can sometimes be an expensive waste of energy.

Resale market climbs

Sales of previously owned homes rebounded during February, boosting the market past a slide in January, according to economists for the National Association of Realtors.

Last month, the seasonally adjusted annual rate of existing-home sales was 3.69 million, 6.0 percent above January's pace of 3.48 million. The February increase signals the resumed stability of the residential market's sales pace following a 14.3 percent drop between December and January.

"The continued strength of home sales is reflected in the February numbers. The increases we saw were spread virtually across the whole country, and they reflect lower mortgage interest rates and the real demand for homeownership," says Dr. John A. Tuccillo, NAR's chief economist.

The change in the home resale pace from January to February reflects a more normal pattern by which to measure activity than the comparison between December and January, he notes. January's sharp resale rate drop came on the heels of a flurry-of-closings before the end of 1986, as buyers and sellers took advantage of more favorable tax treatment that applied to transactions before the tax law changes took effect this year.

February's resale pace was 11.8 percent higher than the pace of 3.39 million units recorded during the same month one year ago. The month's actual sales total of 241,000 was 11.6 percent above January's actual total of 216,000, and it surpassed the 218,000 actual sales of February 1986 by 10.6 percent.

The average effective rate, including loan discount points paid at closing, for loans on existing homes was 9.25 percent in February, declining from the 9.53 interest rate recorded in January. The NAR anticipates mortgage interest rates will gradually drop toward the middle of the year and stay at a low point for the rest of 1987, keeping the housing market healthy, Tuccillo says.

NAR President William M. Moore says low mortgage interest rates will continue to motivate both first-time buyers and people who are purchasing their second and third homes. "The fantastic financing we have now is keeping the market good for first-time buyers and those who are moving up," Moore says. "People entering the market are buying the homes of those who are going into bigger, more expensive houses. They open the market for people who want to get the most they can while they can afford it."

The 710,000-unit resale rate posted in the Northeast rose by 4.4 percent from February 1986 and by that same percentage from January.

ACHIEVES — Bob DeRusso of the Westfield office of Weichert Realtors has achieved the New Jersey Million Dollar Club. A lifetime resident of Union, he has spent his entire real estate career in the Union County area. DeRusso holds a degree in marketing and management from the University of Arizona and is a past officer in the Kentworth Knights of Columbus.

SCHOLAR — Lauren McGlynn, a full time sales associate on the Union staff of Weichert Realtors has once again been awarded the Eastern Union County Board of Realtors scholarship for the 1986-87 school year. She has been the scholarship recipient during the past three years.

Realtor relocates

Brown-Fowler Realtors has moved its corporate headquarters to 1311 Springfield Ave., New Providence. Gordon Brown, president announced recently. The corporate relocation division, advertising and public relations department as well as internal administration, bookkeeping and a training center are also located at the new headquarters.

"To meet the public's growing need for professional real estate service, it has become essential to our success to centralize the corporate headquarters," Brown noted.

Brown-Fowler Realtors has residential offices in Summit, New Providence, Basking Ridge and Morristown, also a commercial land division in New Providence.

Cisneros is honored

George Cisneros of Rorden Realty Inc., 44 Elm St., Westfield, was recently named Realtor Associate of the Year by the Westfield Board of Realtors.

The award recognized Cisneros for his "outstanding contribution to the community, the Realtor association and the real estate industry."

The Westfield Board of Realtors' selection committee judged associates on their service to the board, the community, the national and state associations and on their Realtor skills with clients and other Realtors.

Time to check heat

As flowers begin to push their way upward through the soil and buds burst into brilliance this spring, homeowners release a long sigh of relief. It is a sign of the end of winter, and with it a halt to the large fuel bills they have been experiencing.

At the same time, advises the Better Heating-Cooling Council, it gives them an opportunity to get their heating system in top working order for next year. If there is one thing we learned this winter it's that fuel saved is money saved, and an efficient heating system is even more economical than a lowered thermostat. Coupling the two — efficiency with lower settings — means maximized savings for you.

The most important step to take, says the council, is to have your chimney cleaned and the burner adjusted. It doesn't matter if you use gas or oil, if you have hydronic (warm water) heating or forced warm air. Whatever steps you might take after that fall into the area of maintenance.

If you have a forced warm air system, you'll have to adjust the fan belt, fill the humidifier, and change the filters. It also might be a good time to insulate the warm air ducts to cut down on the heat loss.

Wilson, Sales Mgr., Irene Stampoulos, and standing, Maureen Rajston, Carol Buckley, Joan Mullett, Lena Roimenz, Ruth Mascia, Dona O'Leary, Sheri Redeker, Pepe Apruzzi.

Daughter of realty founder now president of company

Anne Sylvester's Realty Corner, one of the oldest realtors in the area has enjoyed success at 649 Morris Avenue, Springfield, for more than 33 years. Its reputation for professional service was spearheaded by Anne Sylvester who died last year.

The 14-member staff of realtor associates now is headed by her youngest daughter, Freddie Dempsey, as Broker and President, assisted by Anne L. Wilson as Sales Manager. Mrs. Dempsey has served as office manager of the firm for the past six years. Another daughter, Sheri Redeker, also a broker is an active member of the sales organization.

Realty Corner is a long standing member of the Board of Realtors of the Oranges and Maplewood; the Board of Realtors of Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Chatham Borough and Chatham Township; the Westfield Board of Realtors and the Morris County Board of Realtors. To provide total communications with other agencies, the office is equipped with Telex, Fax and computer services.

Mrs. Wilson, 1985 president of the Board of Realtors of Oranges and Maplewood, attributes the large number of customer referrals to clients' recognition of the personal service rendered by the highly trained associates.

"Our staff is limited to highly skilled professionals with full-time involvement in residential real estate," she said. "We are not tempted to staff our firm with large numbers of part timers who lack the experience necessary to provide qualified service to our clients. We have five active brokers in the office, and four Million Dollar salespeople."

To accommodate its ever increasing sales activity, Mrs. Dempsey said an expansion of facilities is currently underway. She forecasts 1987 will be the firm's biggest year.

Seek advice before making changes

Location. Location. Location. If you've even been in the market for a house, chances are you've heard these words referred to as the three golden rules of real estate. But, according to the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants, many people don't realize that location is an equally important factor to be considered when planning major home improvements.

Because the value of your home is largely determined by the value of the homes around you, you're not likely to recover modeling costs that take your home well above the values of similar homes in your neighborhood. As a general rule, you should not expect to sell your house for more than 20 percent above the average in your area. So if you buy a $80,000 home in a $100,000 neighborhood, you probably shouldn't spend more than $50,000 in home remodeling costs.

Homeowners often overlook the way in which remodeling can actually help to cut their tax bills. While many people are aware of the tax advantages to buying and owning a home, fewer homeowners equate remodeling with tax savings. But with careful record keeping, your remodeling efforts can cut your tax bill considerably when you eventually sell your house.

Like any other investment, you must report to the Internal Revenue Service any profit you make when you sell your house. In order to determine your profit, you must first calculate your cost basis by adding the cost of all improvements you have made to the original purchase price. You may also add in the non-deductible closing costs from your original settlement sheet. Subtract this total from the sales price of your home, less any selling expenses, and you have your profit.

It's very important to keep good records and save receipts for all improvements. A good way to do this is to keep a notebook where you record all expenses, project by project. With the notebook, keep a large envelope marked "House" and stuff it with all the receipts, invoices and contracts that represent your projects. Don't trust your memory — most homeowners will remember the $4,000 they spent to put in a fireplace but not the $1,000 they spend on landscaping because it was done $100 at a time.

This record keeping has long-term implications as well, because when you sell your home, the profit you realize can be deferred by buying or building a more expensive home, or one of the same value, and moving in within two years from the date you sold your old one. Each time you sell a home you must file Form 2119 as part of your tax return. Be sure to file a copy of Form 2119 in your house envelope. Since one house sale affects the cost basis for the next house, you need to keep track of how much profit you're deferring.

It is important that you distinguish an improvement from a repair because it is only improvements that you may add to your cost basis. A good rule of thumb to follow is that an improvement adds to the value of the property, prolongs its life or adapts it to new use. Repairs just maintain the home in good condition.

Contrary to what many people think, an improvement need not be visible or essential. Generally, it's considered an improvement if you insulate your house, panel a den, add a basement room that was unfinished when you bought your house, you've made an improvement. But painting a room that was previously papered does not constitute an improvement for tax purposes, even though you may consider it a vast improvement over that dreadful floral print on the paper you covered.

To further complicate matters, if you make repairs as part of an extensive remodeling or restoration, the whole job may qualify as an improvement. As you can see, it's not always easy to distinguish between a repair and an improvement. If you're not sure, it's best to get expert advice to determine which of your expenses are considered maintenance and which are capital improvements.

Although there are many good reasons for remodeling your house, resale value should always be considered, particularly if you plan to move soon. Although the recovery rates of specific remodeling projects vary by a number of factors, including locale and the quality of the individual projects, some renovation projects stand to pay off dramatically better than others when the time comes to sell your house.

With the kitchen being the nerve center of most families, it is the kitchen remodeling almost always gives you an excellent return — anywhere from 50 percent to 100 percent is possible. A full bath added to a home with only one bath is another improvement you can bank on. If you don't have one, a fireplace, particularly a new energy-efficient

High-tech appliances in vogue

Trim, touch-control panels accentuate the simple elegance fashionable in high-end appliances. The style is an Americanized version of a trend that, some believe, originated in Europe. Design is clean and uncluttered, free of elaborate embellishments and overbearing graphics. Metallic trim is used sparingly and tends to be brushed instead of shiny. Edges are rounded instead of squared.

Besides convenience, touch-controls provide more precise time and temperature settings, additional cycle options and diagnosis of in-service performance, and their flat, smooth panels make cleanup a breeze.

type, can be one of the best investments you can make. The reason may be strictly emotional — particularly for the first-time buyer, who conjures up all sorts of homey scenes involving the family gathered around the hearth.

Improvements that have limited use and appeal, such as a swimming pool or tennis court, are likely to have a low recovery ratio, and in some cases, may actually decrease the desirability of your home. A conveniently located family room has become a must these days, but an addition that clashes with the style of your house or disrupts the traffic flow can detract from your house's worth. And don't forget that energy conservation measures can bring you returns even before selling by lowering your fuel costs.

If you're thinking about major home improvements, CPAs advise that you carefully consider the financial aspects of remodeling before calling the contractor. Money Management is a weekly column on personal finance, distributed by the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Lawns have provided lasting pride

The fact that gardening and lawn care are an important part of the American way of life is recognized this year by Presidential Proclamation establishing the week of April 14-20 as National Garden Week. This early spring date gives homeowners a good chance to evaluate their residential landscape and make their living space out-of-doors more enjoyable.

When were lawns started? Where are lawns found? Why do humans exert such effort to create and maintain these areas of short mown grasses?

Earliest man is thought to have come to being in the landscape of East Africa — an area of short grasses with scattered trees and bushes — the savanna. There is evidence that there were lawns in China 5,000 years ago and that the Mayans and Aztecs had lawns. The designs of Persian carpets indicate grasses were maintained during the period of about 500 B.C. Some of the designs show early gardens of intricate geometric designs with grass areas and walks between the flower beds.

During the Middle Ages, open fields around castles provided a long range view giving warning of attacks by enemy lords. In the 16th century, the game of bowls was played on grassed areas. Well-to-do people began putting short grass areas around their mansions and lawns became established symbols of prestige.

In the modern era, this tradition continued and immigrants to America created lawns around their homes and as community centers or commons. Sheep and other animals were used to keep the grass short. Settlers found that some Indians used cropped grass areas for games, like lacrosse. In 1841 the development of the lawn mower started a new era for lawns.

The National Gardening Association has just released results of their 1986 Survey conducted by the Gallup Organization. Gardening maintained its rank as the number one outdoor leisure activity in America, more popular than fishing, bicycling, jogging or golf. Seventy-eight percent of U.S. households, or at least 69 million people, are involved in one form or another of gardening activity. And, once again, more people participated in lawn care than in any other gardening activity. Fifty-eight percent of households, or some 51 million Americans, were involved in do-it-yourself lawn care last year. Retail sales of lawn care products increased 10 percent over 1985 and totaled close to $4 1/3 billion. This amounted to about 1/3 of the total spent for all gardening activities.

Dr. John H. Falk, director of the Smithsonian's Office for Educational Research, has studied lawns for 20 years in regards to the energy that goes in and through these mini-ecosystems — the plants, and the animals, including man. He notes that during the history of this country, the land has been changed from its natural landscape to delicious and coniferous forests and tall grass prairies to a landscape that now resembles an East African savanna. Herds of wild animals graze the natural savannas and keep them mowed. Here, homeowners use modern mowing machines.

Falk comments that "keeping areas of grass purposely short could just have been a fad, but I've never heard of a fad lasting 5,000 years." He has speculated that lawns may be an attempt to create "neo-savannas," areas that resemble the original habitats of our species and may be linked to our genetic survival mechanism.

The Lawn Institute, Pleasant Hill, Tenn., has been involved in public education about lawns for over 30 years. Letters with questions about new cultivars and maintenance practices are received from all over the country. Most are from home gardeners, but many others are from grounds managers and professional golf course and sports turf superintendents. The care of living plants, including turfgrasses, is found to be pleasurable and therapeutic.

Those who have lawn and sports turf questions may send them with a stamped, self-addressed number 10 envelope to: The Lawn Institute, P.O. Box 108, Pleasant Hill, Tenn. 38776 for an answer by return mail.

Offers lawn care know-how advice

One single grass plant has a tremendous root system. There may be as much as 375 miles of roots; 12,000,000 individual roots and 2,556 square feet of root surface. In watering your lawn, be sure to soak it long enough for moisture to penetrate this tremendous root system. A thorough soaking once a week is better for established lawns than frequent surface sprinklings.

Most lawns grown on soils of medium moisture holding capacity will need about one inch of water a week to maintain healthy growth during spring and summer months. Normal rainfall may provide part or all of this. Your sprinklers may be set to provide whatever the short fall in rain water. Apply water slowly to reduce the risk of runoff loss.

Every individual plant of Kentucky bluegrass produces 3 feet of leaf growth in an average season. This growth amounts to about five tons of clippings per acre each year. When these clippings are left to decay in place, they are worth the equivalent of three applications of lawn fertilizer.

The average lawn in the United States requires some 40 hours of mowing each year. Larger lawns are likely to require more than this and gardeners with smaller lawns, get away with less time at the mower. How often should a lawn be mowed? As far as
