When the school posters were distributed a few weeks ago, however, some merchants complained the ad did not meet their expectations.

Marc Conte, owner of Marc Formal Wear in Springfield, is one of the merchants satisfied with the services of TCB Publishing.

Conte said the 4-by-2-inch ad was too small and expensive. "I thought it would be something different," remarked Conte. "I thought it would be in the form of a booklet."

Instead of a booklet or an individual flyer advertising his clothing store, Conte received "a small square on sports calendar poster."

Furthermore, "the school received no benefit out of it," noted Conte. John DeLuca, owner of The Video Captain Inc. in Springfield, complained more about TCB Publishing's tactics than the quality of its ads.

Printer is accused of misleading residents

By DAVE WISE The business practices of TCB Publishing Inc., located in Little Ferry, have displeased some Springfield merchants and residents, causing them to accuse the nationwide company of misrepresentation. TCB Publishing, which prints sports calendars and schedules for thousands of high schools and colleges, recently solicited business from about 15 Springfield merchants. A company representative offered shopkeepers the opportunity to have an advertisement placed on a poster for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield at a cost of approximately $200.

Kurnos and Firsichbaum disagree over newsletter

By DAVE WISE Election Day may be three months away, but Republican Mayor Phillip Kurnos and Democratic challenger Steven Firsichbaum are starting to fire political salvos in the campaign for the contested Township Committee seat. Firsichbaum, a Woodbridge attorney and newcomer in the political arena, is seeking the one-term incumbent mayor's township seat. Although Firsichbaum has made few public statements to constituents, Kurnos' newsletter prompted the candidate to issue a press release.

Pool postpones dance party

The Springfield pool management has rescheduled their annual pool dance for Aug. 18. The dance, originally scheduled for July 28, was canceled due to a lack of advance ticket sales and inclement weather.

Tickets are available at the pool for $8 prior to Aug. 13, and following this date, the price will be $9 until Aug. 18. Tickets purchased at the door will cost $11.

A hot and cold buffet, as well as a local disc jockey, will be provided at this BYOB party.

Anyone interested in attending this party should contact the Community Pool at 912-2234.

Gardeners plan meet

The Springfield Garden Club will meet Aug. 15, between 7:30 and 9 p.m. in the Palmer Museum Room of the Springfield Public Library.

After a brief business meeting, there will be a discussion of house plants by Maurice Stenberg.

Pool gives activity list

August is activities month at the Springfield Pool. On Aug. 12, 19 and 26 the pool will be giving awards in the Little Miss Springfield, Mr. Peanut and Miss Pre-Teen contests. All contestants must be pool members.

On Aug. 11 and 19 there will be a co-ed volleyball and basketball tournament. Registration cost is $10 per team.

More information about these contests is available from the Community Pool at 912-2234.

Exec-moves up the ladder

Supermarkets General Corporation, located in Woodbridge, announced the promotion of Isadore Lemmenman, a Springfield resident, to executive vice president of merchandising for its Pathmark division.

Lemmenman was previously senior vice president of merchandising at Pathmark, the position he held with the company since 1986.

Lemmenman joined the Pathmark division in 1968, and served in various capacities with its grocery buying and merchandising area before advancing to vice president of grocery merchandising in 1974.

Lemmenman is actively involved in numerous charitable organizations, including the Baruch and the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. He is married and has two children.

Mayor asks for support of stickers

Mayor Philip Kurnos is encouraging residents to take advantage of the $5 parking stickers, available at the municipal building. Township residents can buy a sticker for their car and park at any municipal parking lot as long as they want at no cost for a whole year.

police blotter

Francis Pierre, 35, of East Orange was arrested Aug. 3 after his car was stopped on Route 22 in Springfield. Pierre was identified by Detective Judd Levenson as a suspect wanted for using false motor vehicle documents. The suspect is being held at the Elizabeth County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail.

Officer Mark Berman arrested

Louis Melendez, 46, of Irvington for driving with a revoked license on Aug. 4. Melendez was also charged with having no car insurance and registration, as well as failure to keep to the right.

Anthony Rundella, 19, of South Plainfield was arrested Aug. 2 at his place of employment, the Autoland dealership in Springfield. Making the arrest were officers Peter Davis and Walter Brooks.

Trailside programs still open

There are still openings for nature-related Summer Fun programs at Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountaintide.

First- and second-graders can learn all about marine life when they collect a netful of fish in "Something Fishy" and take home a fish of their own. "Lenape Lore" will help first and second graders discover what life may have been like for native New Jerseyans through sampling of food, legends and games.

A special advanced version of this program, for third through fifth graders, will include a trip to Waterloo Village.

"Animals and How They Change" teaches this age group about animal life cycles and metamorphosis. "Moon Madness," a brand-new program, takes third to fifth graders on a trip to the moon and back and gives them a chance to celebrate National Space Week while learning all about the moon, its craters and phases. Youngsters will make a moon flip-chart and a crater to take home.

Third to fifth graders who like to hike also will enjoy "Watching Trail-walkers." A Wednesday program during which participants can explore the reservation along hiking trails on foot. Trail snacks will be included.

"Drawing From Nature" will help third to fifth graders discover their hidden artistic talents by learning to observe, and then using a variety of art mediums to interpret what they see.

For dates, fees and registration information for these and other programs, one can call "Trailside" at 789-3670.

Area pet fair announced

There will be a pet fair in Summit on Sunday, Aug. 12, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., sponsored by the Telephone Pioneers of America. The fair will be held at Peppy Pup Country Club, 38 Morris Turnpike, Summit.

There will be dog and cat adoptions, tips on animal care, information on crate training, kennel care, spaying and neutering. Participating organizations include Companion Animal Placement, Plainfield Area Humane, People for Animals, Adopt-A-Pet, PAWS, PUP and Ocean County Shelter.

For more information, one can call 522-1630 or 658-3786.

Adult School to hold fall classes

Charles Serson, supervisor of adult and vocational education, for Union County Regional High School District 1, has announced that brochures for its Adult School fall 1990 semester will be mailed to every resident in the district and to selected neighboring communities during the middle of August.

Brochures will be available in the main offices of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights and Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark in early September.

The brochures, which will also be available at many area banks and public libraries at the beginning of next month, will detail the various courses which will be offered by the regional districts.

Mail registration for fall 1990 courses offered in the four regional high schools will continue until Friday, Sept. 14. In-person registration has been scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 18, between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. at each regional high school.

Adult School students may register for courses at the regional high school of their choice. The Union County Regional Adult School classes begin Oct. 1, 2 and 4, except the real estate preparation course, which begins Monday, Sept. 24, at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School.

Courses will be offered in many different areas of interest, including career development, vocational and technical, language, special interest, health and recreation, music around the home, arts and crafts and just for fun.

The brochure also describes how to arrange for "free" instruction in the Adult Learning Center, which offers programs such as Adult High School, High School Equivalency, Adult Basic Education and English As A Second Language.

Several new courses and tours highlight this semester's offerings, including tours of the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens; a whale watch trip to Provincetown, Mass.; excursions to Baltimore Aquarium and Solomoni Island in the Chesapeake Bay, Maryland and Christmas at Winterthur.

Other such courses as Acting For TV Commercials, Art Talents, Astrology, Bicycle Maintenance and Repair, Cartooning, Communication Between Men and Women, Computer Command Systems, Curling, Exercise Workout, Floral Design, Furniture Refinishing and Future Planning in College Athletics.

Tennis team to compete

The Springfield junior tennis team is scheduled to play in the New Jersey Town Tennis tournament on Aug. 14 in Plainfield. Players interested in trying out may contact the team coach, Susie Eng, at 467-8376.

The Springfield Recreation Department's women's tennis team completed a winning season in the Suburban Women's Tennis League recently.

The first doubles team of Liem and Morocco were the leading contributors, with a loss of only one match. The tandem of Weinberg and Dorsky followed closely behind.

Vets are given gifts

The Summit Area chapter of the American Red Cross recently sent a special package to American veterans at Lyons Veterans Hospital in Lyons, including 34 pairs of bedroom slippers and 20 toilet kits.

The package was prepared by the chapter's production department, which is headed by Marie Drigger, chairperson. Elinor Voit, social services representative for the Red Cross, delivered the package.

The Summit Red Cross has announced that it can always use more volunteers in both its production and social services departments. Those interested in donating their time may call the Summit Area chapter at 273-2076 and ask for Toni Strauch, executive director.

Mountainside swim champs recognized

The Mountainside Community Pool swim team wrapped up its 1990 summer season with the Division 12 Championships on Tuesday, July 31, and the League Championships on Thursday, Aug. 2. Mountainside ended its regular season with a 5-2 record, good for second place in Division 12 of the North Jersey Summer Swims League. The Mountainside team, headed by New Providence, was coached by Jeff Iozz and Stephen Fowler. Donna Restivo, Nicole Kress, Amy Hansen, Matthew Grot, Jenny Meyer, Thomas Hanscom, Megan Shanahan, Laura Leyzer, Sarah Leyzer, Heidi Paschall, Heather Proscio, Scott Stevenson and Stephen Fowler all won gold medals. The 13-18 co-ed medley relay of Restivo, Stevenson, Fowler and Laura Leyzer set a new Mountainside team record with a winning time of 2:11.49. Silver medals were captured by Mark Leyzer, Jacob Zawislak, Matthew Collins, Brian Shanahan, Todd Mastellone, Julianna Muir, Jonathan Hamill, Derrick Whitener, Carol Restivo and Lisa Orman. The 12 and under boys' medley relay of Mark Leyzer, Zawislak, Col-

The Kiwanis meet every Thursday at the Tower Restaurant in Millburn.

Lions Clubs to undertake worldwide vision project

The International Association of Lions Clubs, Inc., has announced the most ambitious program it has ever undertaken in the interest of humanity. The program, named SightFirst, is worldwide in its application and is aimed at the elimination of all blindness which is preventable or reversible — currently estimated at 80 percent of all cases. Initially, the association has earmarked funds amounting to $100 million in support of the first six years of this tremendous effort and will work through its nearly 40,000 individual clubs, as well as with the World Health Organization and the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness. Despite the efforts of Lions and others, the battle against preventable and reversible blindness has not been nearly adequate and experts estimate that the number of blind persons worldwide is likely to double in the next 25 years, from the present figure of more than 30 million unless positive action like SightFirst is undertaken successfully. Surgery for cataracts in highly-developed countries is both readily available and highly successful, yet 50 percent of the world's blind are blind from cataracts. Other major causes of blindness and disabling sight disorders are trachoma, vitamin A deficiency, river blindness, diabetic retinopathy, and glaucoma. These are all able to be prevented, treated or controlled. Additionally, researchers are developing new cures or are improving treatments in cases where cures are yet to be found. The real problem at which the SightFirst program takes careful aim is not so much medical as it is logistical. This is complicated by the fact that 90 percent of the world's blind live in developing countries which often lack the funds for such projects and have poor or inadequate roads, buildings, communications networks and transportation. Under the SightFirst program, solutions to problems of logistics, inadequate facilities or trained personnel, medicine and specialized equipment, will be sought and plans coordinated on a national basis. Where they don't already exist, national groups for the prevention of blindness will be formed by local Lions Clubs. To ensure wide cooperation and support, all projects will be endorsed by the national ministry of health or equivalent authority. Local Lions Clubs, including 73 which are located in Union, Essex, Morris, and Warren Counties, are being asked to solicit funds from corporations and businesses, as well as from individuals, by assisting in the distribution of pertinent blindness prevention literature or through the organization of speakers' bureaus. Lions Clubs are also being asked to accelerate the existing practice of collecting used and unneeded eyeglasses and expanding this to include used diagnostic or treatment equipment, no longer considered to be "state of the art" here, but which would be more than welcome in other countries of the globe. For additional information concerning the Lions SightFirst program, one may contact the local Lions Club, or write to Lions Clubs International, 300 22nd Street, Oak Brook, Ill. 60521.

Expert offers motivation tips

Dr. Raymond Huntington, president of the Huntington Learning Center, reported that parents can motivate children to improve their school work with a steady diet of appreciation. Dr. Huntington said that a child should be motivated with a serving from each of the four A's every day: attention, appreciation, acceptance and affection. "First, pay attention to your child. Spend time talking about past successes, allowing your child to relive the good feelings. Second, express appreciation for every effort your child makes, even if the result is not always successful," he explained. "Don't say, 'You could do better.' Instead, ask your child if he is satisfied with his efforts and use his answer as a springboard for a non-judgmental discussion." Huntington said it is important to let children know their parents accept them for who they are, without comparisons to siblings or neighbors. "Accept your child's feelings when he expresses them — even the difficult ones such as anger." "Finally, Huntington recommended giving lots of affection. 'There's no such thing as spoiling a child with too much love.' Programs are offered to improve study skills in reading, writing and math, as well as college SAT/ACT prep courses. Parents who have questions or who wish to discuss specific problems can contact the Huntington Learning Center in Livingston at 994-2900 or Morristown at 292-9500.

Adding a fifth A — assistance — to the four-A rule helps a child overcome the damaging effects of schoolwork frustration, according to Dr. Huntington. The Huntington Learning Center provides assistance through specially designed tutoring and enrichment programs. With centers nationwide, the Huntington Learning Center — The Father's Chain company — is a recognized leader in the field of diagnostic testing and evaluation to pinpoint a student's weak study areas. Programs are offered to improve study skills in reading, writing and math, as well as college SAT/ACT prep courses.

UCC puts 5 new members on Board of Governors

The election of five new members to the Board of Governors of the Union County College, including Dr. Saul Fenster, president of the New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, was announced today by William J. Binno, of Mountaintop, chair. Neil P. Boyle, of Clark, business manager of Local 675, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Edward Hobbie, of Westfield, a Cranford attorney and Westfield municipal judge; former Freeholder Michael Lapolla, director of the Southern New Jersey Office of Sen. Bill Bradley, Union, and Frances Sabatino of Exxon Chemical, Linden, president of the Union County Chamber of Commerce, also were elected to three-year terms, effective July 1, 1990. The Board of Governors shares the governance of Union County College with the Board of Trustees. Union County College currently enrolls about 9,000 students in 60 programs and options at campuses in Cranford, Elizabeth, Plainfield, and Scotch Plains, and overall serves about 25,000 students each year in its degree, continuing education and community services offerings. Fenster, of River Vale, is the sixth president of NJIT. He previously had served in various faculty and administrative capacities at Fairleigh Dickinson University, including six years as provost of the Rutherford campus. He has served in his current capacity since 1978. A mechanical engineer by profession, Fenster earned a bachelor's degree from City University of New York, a master's degree from Columbia University, and a doctorate from the University of Michigan. He has authored or co-authored two textbooks and numerous research papers and technical articles. His industrial experience includes a period as senior and research engineer with the Sperry Rand Corp., and as partner in an industrial consulting firm. Fenster has served on many state-

Midwest Leadership Council. A graduate of St. Patrick's High School, Elizabeth, Boyle attended St. Peter's College Labor Institute in Jersey City. Hobbie, a Westfield resident, has been affiliated since 1968 with the Cranford law firm, Chamberlin and Hobbie. His legal experience is in the general practice of law, including litigation in Municipal, Superior, County, and District Courts; wills and trusts; planning and zoning; corporate, real estate, and estate, among other municipal court matters. He currently serves as Westfield Municipal Court Judge and served during the 1989-90 year as secretary-treasurer of the Union County Municipal Court Judges Association. He also is a panelist on the Early Settlement Probate Program of Union County. Admitted to the New Jersey Bar and U.S. District Court for the New Jersey District in 1965, Hobbie also was admitted to the U.S. Supreme Court in 1968. His organizational affiliations include membership with the Union County, New Jersey State, and American Bar Associations; past-president of the Tri-County Dartmouth Club of New Jersey; the American Judges Association, and numerous other civic endeavors. Lapolla, a graduate of Cranford High School, Mr. Hobbie earned a bachelor's degree from Dartmouth College and a juris doctorate from Rutgers Law School. Lapolla of Elizabeth, previously served on the Board of Governors in his capacity as a Union County Freeholder, a position from which he stepped down in January to assume leadership of Sen. Bradley's New Jersey office. A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Rutgers University, where he earned a bachelor's degree, Lapolla received a law degree from the Washington College of the American University. Following his graduation from law school, he was appointed law secretary to Superior Court Judge William McCloud. As law secretary for the Pro Se Assistance Program of the Union County District Court, he mediated small claims matters and assisted litigants with the preparation of their cases. Prior to joining Sen. Bradley's staff, he practiced law for private firms in the area. Lapolla's civic affiliations include service as Union County Freeholder-Chairman. He also chaired the Union County Fiscal Affairs Committee and was a member of the Intergovernmental Cooperation and Legislative Affairs Committee. The Freeholder liaison to the Council on Aging, Lapolla also served as liaison to the Elderly and Handicapped Transportation Advisory Board, the Social Services Board, the Elizabeth River Flood Control Commission, the UCC Board of School Estimate, the Union County Hospice and Home Health Care Advisory Board, and the Union County Committee on the Status of Libraries, for which he was responsible for establishing. Sabatino, who lives in Toms River, has been employed for the past 16 years by Exxon Chemical Co., primarily as business manager of its Paramus Technology Dept. She previously worked many years for Exxon Research and Engineering Co. A graduate of Woodbridge High School, she also attended Middlesex County College, Edison. She served as chairperson of the Union County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, of which she has served on various committees, a member and vice chairperson of the Union County and former Elizabeth Private Industry Councils, and served on the former Career Expo Committee a joint venture between the Chamber of Commerce and the Union County Urban League. The objective of the latter committee was to provide career guidance to the non-college bound youth of the area.

College to offer telecourses

Seven telecourses offering college instruction for credit over local or available television networks will be available this fall at Union County College. These specialized courses combine one-hour lessons weekly with textbook and study guide instruction. Students are required to attend three on-campus seminars throughout the semester, and are offered two optional review classes, but the bulk of their work may be done at their own convenience. A benefit of telecourse instruction is that a student may view the tape containing the professor's lecture at home, and continually play it to achieve optimum understanding. Videos of the courses also may be viewed in the campus libraries. During the Fall Semester, which begins on Wednesday, September 5, available telecourses are: "Introduction to Contemporary Business," "Organization and Management," "Business Law I," "Business Law II," "Principles of Marketing," all on the Scotch Plains Campus. "The Mind," a psychology course, and "Focus on Society," a sociology course, will be offered on the Cranford Campus. Those interested in further information should call 709-7612 or 889-8387. For admissions instructions, call the College's Admissions Hotline at 709-7500.

Generation dinner

Lois Feld of West Orange and Wayne Zuckerman of Union have joined the committees for the second annual Generation to Generation dinner, to be sponsored by the Associates Division of the New York Holocaust Memorial Commission. The black-tie event will benefit the capital campaign for a living memorial to the Holocaust-Museum of Jewish Heritage.

The Generation to Generation dinner, which will honor all survivors of the Holocaust, is scheduled for the evening of Oct. 18, at the pier in New York City. The dinner will bring together survivors of the Holocaust with "new generations devoted to carrying on their spirit and determination." An attendance of more than 600 is anticipated.

The Associates Division is a group of young men and women committed to the building of the Museum of Jewish Heritage. The Division presently encompasses 2,000 members from throughout New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Further information on the Generation to Generation Dinner can be obtained from the Museum of Jewish Heritage, 342 Madison Avenue, Suite 217, New York, New York 10173, (212) 687-9141.

A 1990 memorial to the Holocaust-Museum of Jewish Heritage, which is scheduled to open in 1992, will be New York's principal public memorial to the Jews murdered during the Holocaust. The museum is being created under the auspices of the New York Holocaust Memorial Commission, and will be constructed in Battery Park City, New York City, on a shoreline opposite the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island.

The museum's completed facilities will encompass permanent and temporary exhibition galleries, a computerized interactive Learning Center, a Memorial Hall, an auditorium, an education wing, a sculpture terrace, museum shop, dining facility, and administrative offices and workshops. The museum is expected to attract more than 500,000 visitors annually.

School registration

Temple Israel of Union, 2372 Morris Ave., Union, is accepting registration for its Hebrew School for the primer, first and second grades, and the third through seventh grades, which was announced.

The curriculum emphasizes prayer, Hebrew language, Jewish history, and traditional holidays and customs. Field trips, plays and projects "enhance the learning process." The classes are taught by "certified and experienced teachers." Some of the members of the faculty are certified teachers and administrators in public schools. One educator was honored as Teacher of the Year of Yeshiva University. "Others have been acknowledged for service to Jewish Education by the Jewish Federation."

Graduates of the Hebrew School have been recognized by the Society of Distinguished American High School students and have been inducted in "Who's Who Achievement and Service Award Program."

It also was announced that primer class parents are not required to be temple members.

For further information, one can call Temple Israel of Union at 687-2120. He is Rabbi Goldfisch, principal, at 289-8834, or Leonard P. Weinfield, Hebrew School chairman, at 964-9647.

Lewis telethon in need of vols

The New Jersey broadcast of the 25th Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) "needs volunteers in the Central Jersey area," said Joe Arena, chapter president.

The 2 1/2-hour entertainment spectacular will be aired on WFOR-TV Channel 9, starting at 9 p.m. on Sept. 2 through 6:30 p.m., Sept. 3.

"Volunteers play a vital role in the telethon's success," said Arena. "This year, they'll manage a variety of behind-the-scenes jobs, such as answering pledge phones and sorting pledge envelopes. The fantastic people of New Jersey have always come through for us in the past, and I hope we can count on them again this year."

OPINION

Good Buy

A county employee recently wrote an angry letter that appeared in the Leader newspapers denouncing the Board of Freeholders and the county manager for allocating $16,500 of the taxpayers' money for awareness training in Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action for all county employees.

Just about everyone has one complaint or another to make concerning money. Nor having enough is, of course, the loudest, most frequent and most basic. We are also hearing a clamor of complaints about taxes, prices and governmental waste. Many, perhaps most, of these complaints are justified. The irate county employee's complaint, however, is not.

Union County government, since at least the civil rights legislation of the 1960s, has displayed a glaring disparity regarding the number of minority applicants that it has hired. In a county where roughly 35 percent of the population is non-white, only about 3 percent of non-whites have, until very recently, been employed by the county. The present county administration has increased that percentage by a point or two but, according to certain county officials, the problem is systemic and much still needs to be done.

These percentages, when coupled with off-the-record admissions of county officials, provide a pretty clear indication. We cannot believe that all of the minority people who were denied county employment were unqualified. We also do not believe that all of the people who were hired — merely because of their complexion or last name — were qualified.

Individuals should be hired according to one standard — ability. That standard ought to guide all business and governmental endeavors, including Union County government. Adherence to that standard is the best assurance an employer has that things will operate at their highest potential. That's just common sense.

The "awareness training" that the freeholders and county manager have initiated is a significant step towards bringing the county's hiring and promotion practices up to that "common sense" standard.

When a spoils system of factionalism, favoritism and nepotism exists in a government, it prevents the qualified individual from obtaining his or her merited position, simply because somebody's flunky already occupies that spot. Often the person doing the hiring is also someone owing a favor, or has his eyes clouded by stereotypes, or both. In offices all over the world, the myopia of the spoils system has had a wedding in hell with the myopia of old-time prejudice. Injust, derogatory stereotypes have become a convenient means of self-justification for those doing the hiring.

"He's black, therefore he's lazy and undependable." "She's Hispanic, so she's arrogant and a thief." "They're Oriental, they hate us."

Sound familiar? And if these or other biased views supplant judgment at the county level, then the residents will pay the price, in sub-par services and unnecessary costs, all wound with interminable red tape.

Does that also sound familiar?

The "awareness training" measure, spearheaded by Freeholder Chairman Gerald Green and Assemblyman and Freeholder Neil Cohen, takes aim at the spoils system and the stereotypes by familiarizing department heads, division heads and bureau chiefs, as well as the rank and file, with the meaning of Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action. If the program can cause individuals to recognize their own prejudices and see the minority applicant not as some stereotype, but as a human being with or without certain skills, then county government and we, the county residents, will be the better for it.

If the program can also let county bureaucrats know that their supervisors are monitoring hiring and promotional practices for fairness, then the inclination to favoritism will be curtailed, if not eliminated.

"This program will help us maximize the potential of individuals towards the best operation of the whole organization," said County Manager Ann Baran.

This is medicine that Union County government needs. The price of the prescription, finally, is not high. The county's population is approximately 502,500. The $16,500 program will cost about $.03 a head.

Our letter writer is angry about money improperly spent. Perhaps she should focus on other areas of the public and private sectors where waste and graft truly exist. Because the allocation of funds for a heightening of awareness in Union County government is money well spent.

In a diner's defense

As a disabled veteran of World War II, I am pleased that facilities for the handicapped are being made available. Your article of July 26, however, occupying almost one-half of your front page was cruel and unfair. The owner of that restaurant should not serve a patron with a dog unless the individual is legally blind. The Lido Diner is one of the few exceptional restaurants in this area, and its owner should not be castigated for an act that was legal and proper. I have been a customer of the Lido Diner for many years. The food is fresh, delicious, and moderately priced. A senior citizen pays $1 less per dinner.

The restaurant deserves praise and should not be penalized and lose business because of its correct action in a difficult situation.

Editor's note: The writer is misinformed. A 1983 New Jersey statute, commonly called the "handicapped law," includes handicapped people in need of service dogs with the blind and the deaf and their guide dogs.

Praise for Brennan

In presenting the American Liberties Medal to Justice William J. Brennan Jr. in 1985, the American Jewish Committee paid tribute to a "champion of justice for all," whose career truly deserves this inscription: "For exceptional advancement of the principles of human liberty." Justice Brennan has now decided to retire at the age of 84.

Since 1956, when Justice Brennan was appointed an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, he has compiled a truly extraordinary record, one distinguished by his devotion to the maintenance of American liberties through the judicial process. A Roman Catholic by religious conviction, Justice Brennan is a man of broad cultural and humanistic concerns. He has been deeply committed to preservation of the freedoms safeguarded by the Bill of Rights and to the broader concept of freedom of conscience implicit in that document. His thoroughly researched and tightly argued judicial opinions have reflected those commitments.

His opinions have ranged across the entire spectrum of rights and freedoms — due process, personal privacy, freedom of expression, church/state separation, sex discrimination, voting rights. In fact, since he wrote many of the key opinions in the legislative reapportionment cases of the 1960s, he may fairly be termed the father of the "one man, one vote" principle in American jurisprudence.

Justice Brennan has been particularly concerned with protecting religious minorities. He wrote the main dissenting opinion in the Pawtucket, R.I., croche case in which, speaking of the croche's impact on non-Christians, he said, "To be excluded on religious grounds by one's elected government is an insult and injury that, until today, could not be countenanced by the Establishment Clause."

He dissented also in the case of the Air Force captain who insisted on wearing his yarmulke while on duty, suggesting in his support that Goldwater, the problem would not likely have arisen if wearing head coverings indoors were a Christian religious obligation rather than a Jewish one. More recently, he dissented from the majority opinion in the Native American peyote use case in Oregon, which severely weakened the Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment.

Justice Brennan's departure from the Supreme Court bench is a profound loss to all Americans, but especially to those groups which his handling of the Constitution protected.

Link to Trenton

From your newest Assemblyman

By NEIL COHEN
In January of this year, I took an oath of office as a member of the 204th Legislature of the State of New Jersey, a member of the General Assembly from Union County. It was with great pride that I took that oath, with my parents looking on, as I began what I hope to be a very industrious and responsive tenure in the Legislature.

In the months ahead, I will be sharing my views, opinions and the latest news from Trenton with you through this column. I want to thank the Leader Newspapers for allowing me the opportunity to communicate with the residents and taxpayers of Union County in so efficient a manner.

Before I address these important issues, I have learned since becoming an Assemblyman that far too many people are unclear on how their state government works, its procedures and limitations.

Our state government, like our federal government, is divided into three branches, the Executive, the Legislative and the Judicial. The Executive branch includes the Governor and all the state departments, commissions and authorities. This branch functions as the daily operators of the government.

The Judicial Branch is headed by the Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court. This branch is responsible for the administration of our laws and includes the Supreme Court, the State Superior and County Courts, the Administrative Law Courts and even the local municipal courts.

The Legislative Branch, the one in which I serve, is charged with the creation and amendment of laws, as well as the rights and privilege of representing the residents of the state. The Legislature is divided into two separate and distinct bodies, the State Senate with 40 members, and the General Assembly with 80 members.

As one of the 80 members of the Assembly, I represent approximately 150,000 residents in Union County. My district, the 21st, is comprised of Cranford, Garwood, Hillside, Kenilworth, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield, Union and Westfield. Although as an Assemblyman I must address state-wide issues, my first priority is to the people I represent in the 21st District.

At the beginning of my term, I requested and received two very important appointments on Assembly committees. I serve as the vice-chairman of the Assembly's Energy and Environment Committee, and of the Assembly's Consumer Affairs Committee. Through these two roles, I have begun work on some of the most pressing issues facing the people of our state today. In the coming weeks, I will be explaining, discussing and answering questions surrounding these issues in this column.

In addition to these two committee assignments, I also serve as a member of the Assembly's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Policy Committee and on a special committee investigating the health care policy issues of the state. Finally, the Speaker of the Assembly appointed me as a member of the Commission to Study Sex Discrimination in the Statutes, of which I was recently elected vice-chairperson. These assignments, as well as crafting legislation to benefit my district and responding to questions, concerns, problems and suggestions from you, my constituents, makes the life of a legislator a busy and time consuming one. But the rewards, a new state law to help the elderly or to punish those who pollute our environment, an age-old local traffic problem finally solved, or clearing up bureaucratic mistakes like the one that kept an elderly widow from receiving her income tax refund, make it worthwhile.

In my next column, I will be discussing two very important pieces of legislation I have sponsored that will make life for our elderly here in Union County safer and more productive. In the meantime, if I can be of assistance to you or your family in matters dealing with your state government, my legislative office is located at 1435 Morris Avenue in Union. Our phone number is 964-4387. I look forward to hearing from you.

Cohen, a Democrat and resident of Union, is one of two Assemblymen from District 21. He is also a Union County Freeholder.

Think About It

Translating everyday politeness

By JOHN TARTAGLINO
By now, you've all gotten a handle on some of the double-talk our politicians use on us everyday. For instance, even Saudi Arabian goads order know that "revenue enhancement" means a tax increase. I've found a few others that we should keep in mind:

"We're carefully monitoring the situation on a day-to-day basis." Translation: "We have no idea what's going on, so we'll ignore the whole thing and hope it goes away."

"Go it? Let's try some others." Translation: "Premier X and I had a frank exchange of views, and came away with a fuller understanding of each other's position." Translation: "We probably won't go to war, but I really felt like smacking that ignorant fecked hack with a chair."

"We expect this issue to be settled in Congress on a bipartisan basis." Translation: "Our side's got the votes, and if they don't like it, they can stuff it."

Conversely, it is an important issue, and we're strongly committed as a matter of principle." Translation: "We couldn't win this vote on a 'split' but we'll keep throwing monkey wrenches till the cows come home."

Elections bring out the best in everyone. Let's explore some double-talk from past years:

"I feel it's vital that any candidate be exposed to all sides and views." Translation: "OK, so the guy donated half a mill to my campaign, bought me a house, and gave my wife a job. That doesn't necessarily mean I'm beholden to him."

The flip side reads: "This buying and selling of candidates and influence must be stopped for the survival of the Republic." Translation: "She's raising more money than I am, so many facts to explore." Translation: "No way, Charlie. I wouldn't touch that one with a 10-foot pole."

"I've made my position on that quite clear in the past." Translation: "This is a complex issue, with many facets to a national problem." Translation: "No way, Charlie. I wouldn't touch that one with a 10-foot pole."

"This issue can't be defined in simple dollars and cents terms." Translation: "Oh baby, is this going to cost an arm and a leg!"

"We're re-evaluating our current stand in light of recent developments." Translation: "I screwed up big-time on this one, and my staff doesn't sleep until they figure out a way to get me out of this."

If there's a Double Talk Hall of Fame, you know those are nestled in the main wing. There are tons of others we've come to know and love, like the old favorite we hear from the losing side in any election:

"We failed to get our message across to the voters." Translation: "I'm gonna have my campaign manager's head on a stick by Friday!"

And: "Sure, we made mistakes." Translation: "I'm gonna have my campaign manager's head on a stick by Friday!"

Great moments in politics are usually marked by two-sided conversations, both in code: "This is not a Republican problem or a Democratic one, this is a national problem." Translation: "We're not taking the heat on this by ourselves, folks."

"We stand ready to help in any way we can for the good of the American people." Translation: "Uh-uh. Nice try, but if you want our help digging you out of this mess, it's gonna cost."

Even the everyday language of governing is sprinkled with good examples:

"We need to make government work!" Translation: "What we want to do is kick all their people out of their rear ends and give the jobs to our people."

"We feel his qualifications for the job are beyond question." Translation: "Look, he's the committee chairman's brother-in-law, and I owe the guy."

"We have an ambitious agenda that we feel confident is very do-able." Translation: "If we get anything out of committee this session, we'll be stumped."

"Let's conclude with the hands-down granddaddy of double-talk: 'I welcome the investigation, and I'm confident that it will be completed.' Translation: 'Coops. I think the jig is up.'"

State We're In

We need a law to preserve our groundwater now

By DAVID F. MOORE

There oughta be a law! Correction: There had better be a law, and soon, to safeguard water supplies here in America's most densely populated state.

New discoveries by geologists plumbing the underground in Morris and neighboring counties reveal that "buried valley aquifers," heretofore thought to be one basic source of water, are really a succession of aquifers, hereby if at all connected.

This is important because much of Morris, Essex and parts of nearby Passaic, Somerset and Union counties draw water from well supplies instead of reservoirs. Evidence that the depth to the groundwater level in wells is increasing led to the current state-federal study which is to be completed in a year from now.

Because the buried valley aquifers are so vulnerable to pollution soaking down from the surface through their sands and gravels, there has got to be more care in permitting development above them — also because rooftops and pavement can cause rain to flow somewhere else instead of flowing to replenish the aquifers.

If we imagine a topographical map of northern New Jersey showing valleys and depressions which existed before the last glacial episode, about 14,000 years ago, and picture them filled with sand and gravel, we can understand what this is all about. They can and do hold quite a lot of underground water.

Geologists studying the glacially deposited sands and gravels in Morris County found a dramatic example this year: a 50-foot-wide underground valley connecting a buried valley aquifer with its water source, recharge area. Paving over many sections of that water-absorbing geological formation, called terminal moraine, can cut off the water supply for many towns in Morris, Essex and Union counties. The moraine is an extensive, but not continuous, landscape feature, since it includes Long Island and runs westward across New Jersey. It's where sand and gravel were pushed by the southernmost edge of glacial ice.

More investigation is needed to discover further groundwater supply secrets, so we can deal wisely with future water supply problems. One other note of caution sounded by the geologists: There's not as much water there as we thought. Wells are drying up so that they have to be drilled deeper to keep up with demand. There's not always more as drills go deeper; often it just causes other nearby wells to go dry instead.

It's another instance of how important the highlands of New Jersey are, for this physiographic province, stretching from the Walkkill River on the west to the Ramapo on the east, then south to the narrow neck on the Delaware on the Hunterdon-Warren county border, contains virtually all of New Jersey's water supply reservoirs. Spoil the highlands, and we're in water trouble for sure, in the entire northern half of the state!

A few years ago, the Department of Environmental Protection tried to regulate groundwater withdrawals in two places in the state where water companies are competing for ever-scarcer well-water supplies. Their effort was invalidated by the courts, which said existing law didn't provide sufficient authority.

It seems to me that if we're going to keep the economy of the state together and avoid water supply disasters, we'd better get our legislative act together and provide the proper law.

Water isn't a scarce resource statewide yet, more groundwater scarcity and it could be. That's why I say we need a law!

Moore is executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a non-profit, environmental organization.

Bassano calls for shore protection law

Following new emergency building rules placed on the shore area by the Department of Environmental Protection Commissioner Judith Yeselin, state Senator C. Louis Bassano, R-21, urged the New Jersey Senate to consider passing shore protection legislation when it returns this fall.

Yeselin recently issued emergency regulations that make it harder to build near the shore. The rules will require developers to obtain a permit from the DEP for housing units and commercial projects within 500 feet of the Atlantic Ocean's beaches and dunes.

"Monmouth County Senator John O. Bennett has introduced legislation that would create a comprehensive land-use plan for the shore and would call for stricter permitting requirements. With the emergency regulations set to expire in September, this bill (S2821) would provide a continued plan for shore protection," Senator Bassano said.

"The coastal area is a fragile ecosystem that does not react well to overdevelopment. Excessive building causes a severe disruption to the habitats of many shore-area creatures and the plants and insects they feed upon. We must do what we can to protect each vital link in the food chains of the natural inhabitants of the coastal region," Bassano stated.

The coastal area has been under the jurisdiction of the Coastal Area Facilities Review Act since 1973. Senator Bassano said that act has proven to be ineffective in controlling development and protecting the coastal environment.

CARA was based on the assumption that development would involve industrial processes and related infrastructure, not the residential and commercial development that has dominated the coastal area since 1973.

"CARA does not address many problems related to residential and commercial development. A serious problem of CARA is the loopholes in the requirement to obtain a permit

Scoreboard wins title; awaits start of playoff

By MARK YABLONSKY
Rain and overcast skies notwithstanding, the regular season schedule within the Essex County Baseball League is now history — or will be as of today, depending on the status of the weather at and before press time. Regardless, Scoreboard is the champion of the ECBL's Southern Division, and for the third straight year, too. Which means that Union, which held a 25-13 record Monday morning, will receive a first-round bye from the league playoffs, and will begin its postseason involvement this Tuesday, Aug. 14, at Smith Field — off of Route 46, east of the Bonton Reservoir — in Parsippany, the designated site of all league post-season play. More than likely, Scoreboard will oppose the winner of a Parsippany vs. Union Cougars/Cranford playoff, in a best-of-three format. "We're pretty healthy," said Scoreboard coach Rick Matarante. "We'll just see who we have to play. I think we have a good shot to win."

I really do. Out of the three years I've had this team, this is the best team. There's a lot of quality on this team." Officially, Union, which has gone 15-3 since a 3-1 loss to South Orange on July 11, clinched its third straight divisional title with a forfeit victory over South Orange this past Friday. Another forfeit to Parsippany the following day, incidentally, put South Orange out of the league for the remainder of the season. In between that forfeit win, Scoreboard outslugged the Union Cougars, 15-4, on July 30, pulled out on Wednesday, Aug. 1, and took third on a 5-3 lead when designated hitter Dean Kennedy delivered a two-run double with one out in the fifth inning off of Union starter Greg Randazza.

But Union fought back in the bottom of the fifth when Earl Smith and pinch-hitter Ray Stupienski singled in runs. Then in the bottom of the seventh, Union pulled it out against Steve Lombardi, the second of two Verona relievers. Smith, who went 3-for-3, walked and took third on a single by Ralph Russo, then came in following day, incidentally, to throw to home, following Stupienski's high chopper to second base. Mike Riley worked the final inning and a third, striking out two, while walking one and allowing no runs, to improve his record to 6-0.

Previously, Scoreboard had dominated the A's of Verona, winning by scores of 12-3, 10-2 and 14-3 last Wednesday the visitors actually took a 5-3 lead when designated hitter Dean Kennedy delivered a two-run double with one out in the fifth inning off of Union starter Greg Randazza.

Hensler is chosen as CLN's 1990 Legion Player of Year

Chad Hensler, as one American Legion baseball coach put it, is "not only a player, he's intense." True enough. And if you combine that intensity with a sheer, innate ability to hit baseballs with a fury that few have, it's not hard to see why the Cranford resident was such a dominant force in legion play within Union County this summer. Nor is it hard to see why Hensler, a 6-3, 210-pound pitcher/first baseman, is this year's choice for Player of the Year honors in accordance with County Leader Newspaper's second annual legion scholarship. Hensler, an All-CLN selection in the outfield this past spring for Roselle Catholic High, will now receive a $200 scholarship that will be used for tuition purposes at the school he will attend this fall, nearby Kean College. Half of the scholarship money is from CLN, and half is from Athletics and Academics Unlimited (A&A) of Springfield, a college placement service owned and operated by that town's American Legion baseball coach, Harry Weisman.

Hensler was selected as CLN Player of the Year last week by a three-member panel consisting of Roselle coach and county legion chairman Bob Catullo, Springfield assistant coach Tom Long, and CLN sports editor Mark Yablonsky. Hensler received a total of nine points to beat out runner-up Glen Mike of Springfield — a Mountaineer resident — who finished with six points in the balloting.

Union's Frank Napolitano, Roselle's Dave Kahney — who hits from the left — and Scott Birmingham of Roselle Park all received one point each.

Twice a CLN Player of the Week during the summer legion season, there wasn't much Hensler couldn't do for Roselle, which settled for a final league record of 16-3-1 and then lost, 6-3, in the semifinal round of the county playoffs to Elizabethtown on July 24.

Usually batting cleanup in the powerful Post #229 lineup, Hensler clubbed a total of 45 hits in 91 official appearances to bat .490 in league play, with five of the hits being game-winners — tops on the team. Along with two homers, two triples and five doubles, the power-swinging righty batter had a most impressive on-base percentage of .652. He also drew 19 walks and struck out just seven times, and even stole six bases in seven attempts.

And from the mound, Hensler went 4-0 with a 1.34 earned run average, striking out 31 batters in 26 innings of work. Defensively, he committed just two errors in 158 total chances, recording 137 putouts and 19 assists.

In all, Hensler appeared in 41 of Roselle's 43 games — including non-league play — and did not miss any of Roselle's 20 league games. Four games, of course, were either postponed or cancelled when two teams forfeited out of the league before the season ended.

"We used Chad as a spot pitcher, and he came up 4-0," said Catullo. "He was the number four hitter in our very potent lineup, and without him, we probably would have wound up somewhere in the middle of the pack."

"So he was very important to our offense, and important to us because of his pitching ability."

Collins, Milia star with 'Cats

Carrie Collins and Donna Milia, two names easily identifiable with the recent successes of the Union High softball team, have continued their fine play with the Clark Wildcats' 18-and-under girls' fastpitch team this summer. The Cats finished at 16-14-2, and placed fifth in the recently-held Mid-Atlantic Regional Tournament in Buffalo, N.Y.

Collins, a three-time All-County Leader selection at pitcher and the author of three no-hitters during the spring months for Union in 1990, has continued her brilliant pitching for the Wildcats. Completing her fourth season with the team, the Georgia Southern University-bound Collins recently hurled an overpowering 5-0 victory over the Verona Gem Chips by way of a two-hitter, and earlier, threw a perfect game in the state tournament, against the Jersey Devils.

"Carrie was spectacular, never better," said Clark head coach Jody D'Amato in regard to the win over Verona. "She shut down the Chips' strong bats almost completely."

Collins, who is planning on returning to the Wildcats as a pitching coach next summer, also helped herself offensively by going 2-for-3 with one run scored and two batted in. She finished with an earned run average of 1.13 with 45 strikeouts in 62 innings pitched; despite starting slowly as a result of the throat ailment that had caused her to miss the end of Union's season.

So well did Collins pitch, in fact, that the Long Island Express — which had beaten Union, 6-5, in the regionals — asked Collins to pitch for them in upcoming national play in Lodi, Cal.

"There's no better compliment that could have been paid to Carrie for how hard she worked," her coach added, "than to be asked to go to the nationals."

Milia, in the meantime, will stay at home. That's because at the age of 16, she has two years to go both at Union and for the Wildcats as well.

An All-CLN choice at designated hitter in 1990 for Union High, Milia's hitting abilities continue to speak for themselves.

One of her biggest feats this summer occurred when the 'Cats traveled to Long Island to participate in the Long Island Express (LIE) Tournament. There, Milia went 3-for-3 and ended up scoring the winning run in the fourth inning.

And her fielding at both second base and in the outfield remains consistent.

"Donna has worked hard this season and improved on her range defensively," D'Amato said. "She has a very good glove, and with two years of high school ball left to play, she will undoubtedly bring a great deal of attention to herself, and deservedly so."

"Donna is very strong and has an exceptional arm; I expect very good things to come her way over the next two seasons in high school and summer ball."

Milia ended the season with a .327 batting average, second highest on the team. She scored 12 runs and drove in five more, often batting in the leadoff spot.

Even more impressive is the fact that not one did she strike out this season — despite facing the tough pitching of the Mid-Atlantic Region.

Her youth notwithstanding, Milia wound up playing in 110 innings for the 'Cats, which is considered unusual for a younger player. She was one of only two 16-year-olds on the team.

BACK TO WORK — After having starred for the Union High softball team, both Carrie Collins, left, and Donna Milia have continued their fine play with the Clark Wildcats' 18-and-under girls' fastpitch softball team this summer.

WHO'S ON FIRST?

This week's question: Sure, it's still summer, but how about another World Series question? Can you name the all-time leader for most positions played during the Fall Classic? Sorry, no clues this week, either.

Last week's answer: The catcher holding the record for World Series games is former Yankee great Yogi Berra, who recorded a total of 421 in 12 Fall Classics, from 1947-62. Also, Berra is the all-time leader in World Series games played (75) and in total fielding chances (421). Offensively, he was a cannon, delivering 12 homers and a 274 batting average, all with the Bronx Bombers. Actually, Berra played in 13 Series, including one single at-bat against the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1963. The following year, Berra managed the Yankees to another pennant — their first one of the unforgettable Stengel-Ford-Marlie-Marie era (1949-64) — before joining the Mets as a player/coach in 1965.

— He became a Hall-of-Famer in 1972.

And our congratulations go to David Wohl of Springfield, who has won his first $5 gift certificate to a local sporting goods store. Please have your responses in our Union offices — at 1291 Stuyvesant Ave. — by no later than noon each Monday. And please send us only one answer per week.

Springfield ends swim season

Twenty-three Springfield team members who qualified for last week's North Jersey Summer Swim League championships in Livingston did well individually as the 1990 summer swim season came to an end.

In the eight-and-under, boys' 25-meter butterfly, Ryan Farrell posted a time of 23.52 for a fourth-place finish, while Mike Quick also placed fourth with a personal record time of 24.77 in the eight-and-under 25-meter boy's breaststroke. The eight-and-under freestyle relay team of Farrell, Beth Heine, Barbara Mant and Quick finished in 1:38.58 to place within the Top 6.

Leah Demberger swam the nine-and-10 girls' 25-meter backstroke in 22.00 and the nine-and-10 25-meter butterfly in 19.17, placing fifth in that event. Matt Reheis placed fourth in the boy's nine-and-10 25-meter breaststroke in a personal best time of 22.28 seconds.

Springfield's 11-and-12-year-old girls, a team strength all season, continued to perform strongly. Elizabeth Baroford finished third in the 50-meter freestyle, and second in the hotly-contested 50-meter butterfly in a personal high of 34.05 seconds, only 0.6 seconds behind the winner.

Shannon Farrell placed third in the 50-meter backstroke, posting a personal best time of 39.51 seconds. Christine Stacey took first place in the 50-meter breaststroke, and fifth in the 50-meter butterfly. Laura DiCosmo was sixth in the 50-meter freestyle, while Theresa Quick posted a personal best time of 44.54 to come in fourth in the 100-meter butterfly.

13 students win medals

A total of 13 students within the County Leader coverage area, including four from Roselle Park High School, were among those to receive McDonald's 1990 Athletic Merit Medals recently, in conjunction with the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports Council.

Winning awards in athletics were Jason Luthati and Michelle Hazlehurst of Roselle Park, along with Patrick O'Halloran of Linden and Matthew Kelleher of Roselle, both of whom attend Roselle Catholic High. Cited in physical education were Ginelle Julien of Hillside, another student at Roselle Catholic, and Eugene Belle and Christy Meola, both of Roselle Park.

Also James Mazzyk, the leading scorer this past winter for Hillside's first ever Group 2 statewide championship boy's basketball team, was joined by fellow Hillside students Anthony and Christine Spranza and Trina Glass on the awards list. Mazzyk and Glass were honored for athletics.

'Some of these students received our medals for excellence because their schools recognized the long hours of practice and dedication involved in being an outstanding athlete,' explained Neil J. Carroll, the council's executive director. 'Others were awarded medals for their accomplishments as exemplary physical education students. The Council prides all of the winners.'

It is the fourth year that the council has conducted an awards program, and the first time McDonald's has been involved.

Samantha's

By DEBBI AGINS 'Everybody likes to hear a good secret now and then, right? Well, I have a great one to share - it's Samantha's at 440 North Avenue East in Westfield. Samantha's, named after its delightful owner Julio Rubineti's new granddaughter, just opened four months ago and has already gathered a remarkable word-of-mouth following. And with good reason, too - everything about Samantha's is wonderful.
