A ceremony planned for old, sacred Torah

By DAVE WISE

Temple Beth Ahm of Springfield will memorialize a Torah on Nov. 4, more than 40 years after the sacred scroll was confiscated by the Nazis prior to World War II. The dedication will consist of candlelighting ceremonies and speeches by several dignitaries, including Senator Bill Bradley, Rabbi Emeritus Reuben Levine, and Executive Director United Synagogue of America Rabbi Kenneth Tarlow.

This "Holocaust Torah" is one of 1,564 sacred scrolls pillaged from synagogues of Bohemia and Moravia, villages in Czechoslovakia. While European and American powers attempted to appease the Nazis in the 1930s, Germany successfully looted many Czechoslovak synagogues of books, pictures, and religious ornaments.

According to Fred Markowitz, who is primarily responsible for coordinating the Torah dedication, the Nazis were planning to deposit these artifacts in a national museum following the mass extermination of Jews throughout the world. The Torahs and other religious objects were to be on display like dinosaur bones, small reminders that Jewish people once lived on the planet.

Following the disintegration of the Third Reich, many synagogue items were placed in the State Jewish Museum in Prague. But the scrolls were kept in the disused Michele Synagogue in Czechoslovakia for more than 20 years after the war.

In 1963, however, a London art dealer was able to receive permission from the Czechoslovak government to release the scrolls, which were placed in the trusteeship of London's Westminster Synagogue.

The London synagogue formed a committee to "restore and catalog the scrolls," said Markowitz, in what became a painstaking process. The scrolls were examined by experts, who recorded the origin, age, and condition of each. Some of the Torahs were labeled "usable" after minor restoration work, while the damaged ones were salvaged for memorial purposes only.

When this 10-month inspection task was completed, the Westminster Synagogue began the job of distributing the Czech Memorial Scrolls to synagogues throughout the world. Most of these 1,564 scrolls were delivered on a "permanent loan" basis to synagogues in the United States, which has the largest Jewish population.

Westminster gave priority to synagogues in need of a Torah for services, and practically all the restored scrolls were distributed, while the damaged Torahs were used by synagogues as a memorial to those who died in the Holocaust. Damaged sacred scrolls cannot be used in synagogue services.

The sacred scrolls are released to communities without cost, but Westminster Synagogue requests that each recipient make a donation to defray custodial expenses.

In the summer of 1989, Markowitz and his wife, Doris, made a trip to London, partly sponsored by anonymous contributors, to secure a Holocaust Torah for Temple Beth Ahm.

After bringing a sacred scroll back to the United States, Temple Beth Ahm started to raise funds to establish a permanent memorial for the Torah. The Springfield synagogue also commissioned Iria Golub, a Judaica artist, to construct a memorial display for the Torah in the entrance lobby of the temple.

Golub has created an exquisite case of wood and lucite to house the sacred scroll, said Markowitz, adding that the memorial will continuously express the theme: "We Shall Not Forget."

Part of the memorial consists of a wooden ark, constructed by Frank Klausz, who is known in business circles as a master craftsman. Markowitz says the Torah memorial is "overwhelming," particularly the way in which the blue Star of David shines in daylight atop the display.

Markowitz says, "People tell me our Torah is outstanding." Although the scroll cannot be used for temple services, experts categorized the Torah's inscriptions as "beautiful."

Temple Beth Ahm's Torah memorial services on Sunday will coincide with the anniversary of one of history's most tragic events — "Kristallnacht," or Night of Broken Glass. The Springfield synagogue will commemorate Nov. 9 and 8 in 1938, when Nazi storm troopers looted Jewish businesses, smashed hundreds of store windows, and burned many synagogues in Germany. This was the beginning of many Nazi pogroms, which culminated in the wholesale slaughter of 6 million European Jews.

The temple's congregation commemorates Kristallnacht in order to remind people to fight governmental persecution, in every form and fashion, anywhere in the world.

Markowitz said the synagogue's planned commemoration and dedication ceremony is aided by the help of Temple Rabbi Perry Rank, Cantor Richard Nadel, former Temple President Barry Segal, present Temple President Bob Steinhart, Marge and Dave Appel, and others.

There will be many local officials attending Sunday's dedication, including Springfield Mayor Phil Kurnos, Township Committee member Marc Marshall, State Senator Louis Bassano, and Jewish War Veteran Commander Murray Nathanson.

Dr. Stephen Berk, a noted historian and chairman of the Union College History Department, will be the keynote speaker at the ceremony. Berk's presentation, "The Lessons of the Holocaust," will complement a program that consists of candlelighting ceremonies, speeches, and music.

The candlelighting services will be conducted by the temple's religious school students and Holocaust survivors. The musical portion will feature Cantor Nadel and the synagogue's choir, under the direction of Michael Lirtzman, who has composed original music specifically for this ceremony.

Although admission to the dedication is by invitation only, Temple Beth Ahm may extend one if someone has a particular interest in attending the ceremony, said Markowitz. For further information, one may call the temple office at 376-0539.

Police search for robber of restaurant employees

By DAVE WISE

Springfield police arrested two individuals on various charges last week, but detectives continue to search for the suspect in the robbery of four restaurant employees.

Police are searching for a suspect who robbed employees of a fast food restaurant on Morris Avenue in Springfield last Thursday, while the workers were making a night bank deposit.

The four restaurant employees were making a night deposit at a bank on Millburn Avenue at 12 a.m. when they were approached, while sitting in their car, by a robber wearing a ski mask and carrying a long barreled revolver.

The suspect stole their deposit bag and fled on foot through a store parking lot, heading toward Morris Avenue, according to Chisholm. The bank deposit bag contained the restaurant's cash receipts for that evening, but Chisholm did not specify the amount of money the robber stole.

The suspect is described as a black male, approximately 5 feet 8 inches, with a thin build and dressed in dark clothing. Chisholm said Detective Judd Levenson are investigating the robbery, which is possibly related to a similar one at Taco Bell on Aug. 30.

In other news, police arrested a man at the Springfield Motor Vehicle Office Oct. 24 for attempting to obtain a driver's license with false documents.

Captain James Hietala and Levenson charged Mohammed Kishun, 36, of Irvington with fraud, and he was released pending an appearance at Springfield Municipal Court on Nov. 5.

Last Thursday, at 8:30 p.m., police stopped a man in Springfield for a motor vehicle violation and discovered the suspect to be driving with a revoked license, as well as a fugitive wanted by the Bedminster Police Department.

Officer George Geisinger arrested Keith Degrau, 36, of Bedminster and remanded the suspect to the Union County Jail in Elizabeth in lieu of $300 bail. Degrau was wanted by Bedminster Police for numerous fraud charges, according to Chisholm.

Regional faculty prepares for new school proficiency exam

The faculty of Union County Regional High School District No. 1 recently met to discuss the implementation of the newly revised High School Proficiency Test (HSPT), an exam currently administered to all ninth-grade students in New Jersey public schools. All students must pass this test prior to graduation from high school.

Dr. Edward Masonis, Acting Director of the Bureau of Cognitive Skills of the State Department of Education, gave a presentation at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield that explained which skills the test would measure.

The new HSPT will be given to 11th-grade students and will have more comprehensive questions than the present ninth-grade HSPT, which will be administered for the last time this April. Since the 11th-grade HSPT will not be fully implemented until 1994, a temporary test, called the Dup Notice HSPT, will be administered to 11th-graders in the regional school district this December. Students taking this exam are not, however, required to receive a passing grade. According to district media coordinator Tom Long, the interim test will serve as an "early warning test" to aid teachers in determining the academic needs of students.

An eighth-grade "early warning test" will also be given for the first time in March. The faculty of elementary schools within the district recently met at David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth to discuss aspects of this test as well.

"It's a step in the right direction," said Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools for the Regional District.

Polls to open

The polls will open in Springfield from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Election Day.

Springfielders may cast their ballots at the following polls:

Districts 1 and 4, the Presbyterian Parish House at the Springfield Presbyterian Church; Districts 2 and 3, at the Springfield Fire House; Districts 5 and 6, James Caldwell School; District 7 and 8, Florence M. Gaudineer School; Districts 9 and 10, Raymond Chisholm School; Districts 11 and 12, Thelma L. Sandmeier School; Districts 13 and 14, Edward Walton School.

A sanity hearing will be held for suspected killer

A Superior Court judge in Elizabeth is expected to decide whether Yale graduate Rolando Marcelo, who allegedly stabbed his mother and several others on Memorial Day 1989, was insane at the time.

Superior Court Judge Miriam Span will hear evidence from both the prosecution and defense to determine if Marcelo is not guilty by reason of insanity. Should Span rule Marcelo insane at the time of the stabbings, a second hearing will convene to determine whether the defendant remains mentally unstable and in need of further institutional care.

Twenty-five-year-old Marcelo, who remains in an isolated unit at the Union County Jail in Elizabeth, is charged with fatally stabbing his mother, Anita Marcelo, 51; his brother Raymond, 21; and a family friend, Mark Dennis, 35. He is also charged with the wounding of another neighbor, Richard Hartmann, 37, who was serving on the Springfield Township Planning Board at the time.

Following the killings, Marcelo fled in the family car, which was subsequently involved in a hit-and-run accident. He then abandoned the car and stole a 1982 Volkswagen from a Bridgewater resident and a high-speed chase ensued.

State police spotted Marcelo going west on Interstate 287 and the chase continued until the former honors student lost control of the car and struck a bridge divider in Somerset County. After the accident, state police eventually captured him in a wooded area.

According to Union County Assistant Prosecutor David Hancock, the state requested today's non-jury trial since Marcelo's legal counsel will pursue an insanity defense.

The Union County Prosecutor's Office is seeking a death penalty against Marcelo, based upon several aggravating factors. One such factor is that Marcelo allegedly committed murder for the purpose of avoiding apprehension.

Burned trucker dies a week after crash

A Pennsylvania truck driver, who was severely burned as a result of the fiery crash Oct. 17 along Route 78 in Springfield, died Oct. 22. The accident instantly killed the second driver, a Union Township woman.

Wayne Eviitts, 45, of Pottsville, died last week in the burn center at St. Barnabas Medical Center in Livingston.

Eviitts, who sustained severe burns and bodily trauma, was driving east on Route 78 two weeks ago when his tractor-trailer collided head-on with a car that entered his lane.

The other driver, Nilda Ocasio, 39, was killed in the accident. Her body was burned beyond recognition and was taken to the state Medical Examiner's Office in Newark to determine her identity. Ocasio, the mother of two boys, was commuting to her job in Summit.

Eviitts was thrown from his vehicle into a guard rail near the local and express lanes of Route 78 east. The truck driver was pulled away from the burning vehicle by Millburn police recruits and two unidentified civilians, according to police reports.

'College Night' attracts many families in district

Nestler, who coordinated the 1990 College Night, described the 90-minute program as being "an opportunity for the parents and students to find

THE WHOLE TOOTH
 The "Real" Thing

One of our patients, who (in his words) "has seen a lot of dentistry come and go" over his sixty-odd years, remarked the other day about the "wonderful improvement" in the appearance of crowns since he was a boy. He remembers his parents, and many of their friends, flashing smiles that looked more like a mineral display than a mouthful of teeth.
 We assured him this was an exaggeration, but he stuck by his image (he's a writer) and, in turn, assured me that his memory of all that gleaming metal turned him off therapeutic dentistry until he was well into his adult years.
 Well, we won't argue with his memory. But we have come a long way since his youth in how we mold a cap so a damaged tooth can effectively resume its duties in the mouth.
 Progress has come in stages. And today we'd like to tell you about a recent development in crowning: a cap that can truly stand in for the real thing.
 Remember, first, that your dentist has two goals when fitting you for a crown: it should look like the rest of your teeth and it should fit.
 The familiar way to attain this twin objective is by capping your tooth with a crown based on metal and surfaced with porcelain. It's an effective combination, and serves chewing needs well. But each original tooth has because the metal base prevented light from passing through it.
 This is now possible through the use of a ceramic material that not only transmits light as does tooth enamel but assures a more secure fit of the crown. So, since there's no metal to obstruct x-rays, your dentist can detect the development of problems underneath the crown.

Police endorse Kurnos

Springfield Policemen's Benevolent Association PBA President John Foster has announced the PBA's endorsement of Mayor Phil Kurnos for re-election to the Springfield Township Committee.

"Although it's unusual for us to get involved politically," Foster said, "it's important for us to speak out this year. Until 1988, nothing was done to address the years of neglect in the Police Department — neglect that was criticized in official studies made by both the state and the County Prosecutor's Office.

"While Springfield grew, the Police Department remained stagnant. We couldn't provide proper service to the people without expansion, reorganization, better equipment and more officers," Foster said.

"When Phil Kurnos took office in 1988, things changed. Seven police officers have been added, training programs have been improved, the drug enforcement unit was restarted,

Student plays role on stage

Springfield resident Joshua Brin recently played the role of Peter Rosmersholm in a production of "Rosmersholm" at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania.

"Rosmersholm," by Henrik Ibsen, is the story of a man and a woman in 19th-century Norway who are drawn together by hopes of a future liberated from the restrictions of their time.

"A freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences, Brin is the son of Ruth and Steven Brin of Newbrook Lane. He is a 1990 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, where he was active in the Theater Department.

Bucknell University is a highly selective liberal arts institution with professional programs in engineering, management and education.

Traditional 'apple bee' slated

The 18th anniversary of the Miller-Cory House Museum, 614 Mountain Ave., Westfield, will be celebrated on Sunday, Nov. 4, from 2 to 5 p.m. with an old-fashioned "Apple Bee." An Apple Bee was a time for neighboring farm families to share in the task of harvesting their apple crops while socializing.

Apple orchards provided one of the best and most healthful foods that 18th- and 19th-century farmers could grow with the least amount of effort. Joseph Cory's 1802 inventory mentions an elder house, cider barrels and a cider mill and press.

In addition to cider, apple spirits or "Jersey Lightning" was also available at this time. Apple butter was often made by cooking unpeeled apples in cider, then adding sugar and spices.

Volunteers Thomas Sherry of Fords and Richard Clemm of Scotch Plains will demonstrate cidermaking with a hand-worked cider press during the anniversary celebration, and Trudy Johnson will explain how to dry apples.

Visitors are invited to take a tour with costumed docents through the Miller-Cory museum, which opened to the public in 1972 and has been operated by volunteers ever since. Rosemarie Lewandowski and Kathleen Gardner of the museum's Cooking Committee will offer visitors a chance to see open-hearth cooking and learn about preparing a colonial meal. The gift shop is also stocked for the upcoming holiday season.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Miller-Cory Museum office at 232-1776.

Girl Scouts hold party

The Springfield Girl Scouts held their annual Halloween Party on Friday, Oct. 26, at the Parish House on Church Mall in Springfield. Admission was one can of food to be sent to the soup kitchen in Elizabeth.

A contest was held for guessing the weight of a large pumpkin. The winner got to take the pumpkin home. A candy jar-guess was won for the troop to share.

Springfield Cadette Troop 471 joined the Haunted Hoover Weekend at Camp Lou Henry Hoover for cider pressing and other activities.

Bergen gets Educator is chairperson club's nod

Bruce H. Bergen, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 7th congressional district, has received the endorsement of the Women's Political Caucus of N.J. (WPC-NJ).

In announcing all of the group's endorsements, WPC-NJ President Jeanne M. Fox of New Brunswick said, "Our endorsed candidates are individuals who will best represent the goals of WPC-NJ in elected office. They share our commitment for a legislative agenda for the Equal Rights Amendment, child care and reproductive freedom, as well as our organizational goals to have more women represented at all levels of government. WPC-NJ's endorsements reflect our dedication to electing progressive office holders who represent the interests and concerns of New Jersey women.

In response to the endorsement, Bergen said, "I am very pleased to have been endorsed by the Women's Political Caucus of New Jersey. I look forward to working with them to help further the issues and ideas which we share. I once again would express my support for the right of every woman to privacy and to choice, and my support for federal legislation to ensure this right to all women, regardless of their financial status."

Bergen added, "Though much progress has already been made, there must be a concerted effort to increase the number of women involved in politics and government, to enact legislation which is gender-neutral and to find remedies for past discrimination."

School funding amendment proposed

The state's new school funding formula would be modified to reflect regional cost of living differences under terms of legislation introduced recently in the Senate by Senator Donald P. DiFrancesco, R-22, whose district includes Mountainside. "But students should not be penalized for living in a certain area, and that's essentially what the Florio formula does. School districts that need to spend more money on non-academic services will have to cut educational programs in light of the reduction in state aid. The senator's legislation would establish three geographic tiers of counties, based upon the mean residential value in 1989. Foundation budgets in tier three counties would be reduced by 5 percent and foundation budgets in tier one counties would be increased by 5 percent. Tier two counties would be unaffected by the bill. After one county, such as Union County, would include any county in which the average residential property value exceeds the statewide average residential property value. The weights could be modified every two years in the same manner as other weights used in the school funding formula," DiFrancesco explained. The legislation also calls for the Commissioner of Education to study the criterion used for designating the tiers and to recommend legislative changes by 1995 if appropriate.

Mail tips provided

"For mail sent to military and international destinations, we would like you to mail well before the overseas holiday deadlines to give us extra time to arrange transportation," says Springfield Postmaster William Daniels.

Daniels adds that Operation Desert Shield has required an enormous effort on the part of U.S. air and surface carriers. Last-minute overseas mailing will add an even greater burden. Early mailing will be especially welcome this year.

"Mallers can get specific information on international mailing dates and other matters by calling us here at 376-1138," Daniels says.

"For mail within the U.S., there is no deadline," says Daniels, "but the volume of mail escalates dramatically during the week before Christmas, and earlier mailing would help us handle the increased workload more smoothly."

Last year the number of cards and letters peaked at 200 million on Dec. 18. The total more than doubled the 80 million letters sorted on a normal workday. From mid-November through December, a record 3.3 billion letters were processed. Daniels says early mailing is a smart mailing. It spreads the volume more evenly, contributing to more efficient delivery. Mailing early is also a hedge against possible delays caused by winter storms that could halt air or ground transportation.

"We are well prepared for the volume of mail we will receive locally, but it helps us get your mail delivered to you when it is more evenly distributed, over the holiday seasons," Daniels adds.

Zero tax hikes observed

Springfield Mayor Phil Kumos announced today that he has invited South Plainfield Mayor Dan Gallagher and the entire Borough Council to a "Zero Tax Increase" Celebration. "Springfield and South Plainfield are the only municipalities in New Jersey, as of this date, whose 1990 local budgets resulted in no property tax increase. But, according to Mayor Kumos, a zero tax increase isn't the only thing these two communities have in common. "For example," Kumos said, "South Plainfield's postal ZIP code is 07080 and Springfield's ZIP is 07081 — just one number apart. And our populations are nearly identical."

Kumos continued, "A few years ago, we hired South Plainfield's sanitation. Then they hired him back. And this year, the new management team we hired for our municipal pool is the same team that ran South Plainfield's pool. "Even our governing bodies have similar makeup," Kumos points out. "Springfield's Township Committee has three Republicans and two Democrats. South Plainfield's Borough Council has four Republicans and three Democrats. "Recently we found out that, so far, Springfield and South Plainfield are the only towns in the state whose municipal budgets resulted in no tax increase," Kumos said. "And that really is something to celebrate."

Kumos has invited officials from both towns to join in cutting a cake baked in the shape of a large zero. "If we both do this again next year," says Kumos, "South Plainfield can play host."

The DOT explains new State Highway Access Act

By CHRISTINE JOHNSON

Traffic congestion in New Jersey frustrates millions of motorists each day and threatens the quality of the air we breathe, the economic health of our businesses, and, in general, the lifestyle that we value so highly.

Recognizing the detrimental effect of allowing current traffic to continue without restraint, the New Jersey Legislature passed the State Highway Access Management Act, which was signed into law in February 1989. As required by the law, the New Jersey Department of Transportation has proposed regulations for an access code that will be one of the most comprehensive in the nation.

After public hearings last spring, we received comments from more than 130 different sources representing both large and small stakeholders on the access issue. The Department's review of these comments, suggestions and questions has revealed the following misconceptions in the public's understanding of the law and the proposed code.

Many people are concerned that the proposed regulations will apply to county and municipal roads. Actually, the access management code applies only to the state highway system which comprises about 5 percent of New Jersey's entire road network. A County or municipality may choose to use the code for state roads as a model to preserve mobility of the main arteries under their respective jurisdictions, but that is not required and remains a local decision.

There was also some concern that the proposed access code would put the Department in the business of land use regulation. Zoning and land use are local decisions and nothing in the law or the code changes that. The State Highway Access Management Act does offer a new opportunity for a municipality to meet with the Department to establish a mutually acceptable access management plan for every property within its borders that fronts a state highway segment. But only after adoption of that plan in the municipal master-plan, and the development ordinances relating to it, will the meshing of local zoning and state highway access become a requirement.

Whether to establish an access management plan remains a municipal decision. The Department's concern is only with traffic — where, how much and when it is generated and how best to mitigate its negative impact on state highways.

One of the basic principles of the State Highway Access Management Act is that the rights of the majority on the state highway system take precedence over the rights of the few whose property abuts a state road. Therefore, the proposed code encourages property owners to seek access from other than state highways if such an acceptable alternative exists.

For example, instead of allowing each individual business in a strip development to have its own driveway, the code encourages a fewer and shared driveways or service roads. When one driveway serves several businesses, through traffic is disrupted less frequently and flows more smoothly and the number of potential locations for auto accidents is minimized.

Comments also said that the proposed access code fosters suburban sprawl and hinders urban redevelopment.

Commentary also said that the proposed code encourages a fewer and shared driveways or service roads. When one driveway serves several businesses, through traffic is disrupted less frequently and flows more smoothly and the number of potential locations for auto accidents is minimized.

Department also said that the proposed code encourages a fewer and shared driveways or service roads. When one driveway serves several businesses, through traffic is disrupted less frequently and flows more smoothly and the number of potential locations for auto accidents is minimized.

ing on the alternative plan. If the Department still intends to deny access to the state highway, the department is required to fund construction of the alternative access. Unless there is a serious safety problem, it is unlikely that the Department will exercise its authority in this regard.

The economic impact of the access code is difficult to assess. Historically, land values have been dictated by diverse factors; access has always been, and will continue to be, only one of them. However, we already know the economic effects of congestion. Traffic congestion is being cited as the reason for the negative decisions some businesses have already made about moving into or staying in New Jersey.

Assembly moves against 'con' contractors

The Assembly Consumer Affairs Committee recently took the first step toward protecting the public from unscrupulous home improvement contractors.

Committee Chairman David C. Kronick (D-Hudson) said the panel began hearing testimony on legislation that would require that home improvement contractors register with the State Division of Consumer Affairs as well as a second measure that would establish a Home Improvement Security Fund to reimburse consumers who are victimized by fraudulent home improvement contractors.

"Most homeowners aren't experts when it comes to roofing, plumbing, electrical work, remodeling and other projects so they become easy targets for home repair rip-off artists," said Kronick.

"In New Jersey, regulations governing home contractors are few and far between," he added. "With these bills, we are taking the initiative to protect homeowners from shady contractors whose 'offices' consist of a telephone answering service and a post office box."

The first bill (A-3301) would require home improvement contractors to register with the state every two years. Contractors would have to register within nine months of the date the law takes effect.

Contractors who would pay a registration fee set by the Division of Consumer Affairs, would be required to provide personal and business information as well as evidence of adequate liability and workmen's compensation insurance.

The bill, sponsored by Kronick, also requires that all home improvement contracts in excess of $250 be in writing.

"By registering home improvement contractors, we will help consumers determine which contractors are legitimate and which ones are only looking to 'make a fast buck,'" Kronick said.

The second bill (A-4046), sponsored by Assemblymen Neil M.

Cohen and James E. McGreevey, would establish the Home Improvement Security Fund with the revenues generated from a separate $100 fee assessed to contractors when they register with the state.

Cohen (D-Union), the vice chairman of the Consumer Affairs Committee, explained that the fund would provide up to $10,000 to individuals with outstanding monetary claims against home improvement contractors. The director of the State Division of Consumer Affairs would have the authority to determine if a claim should be paid, he said.

"Many consumers lay out large sums of money for work which is never completed. Then when they try to remedy the situation, they discover their contractor has left town and cannot be contacted," Cohen said.

SCIATICA'S "SHOOTING PAINS"!

If you've been experiencing the "shooting pains" associated with sciatica, the sooner the cause is removed, the sooner the condition will disappear. Sciatica can affect the hip, thigh, back of the leg, and sometimes the ankle and foot. It is caused by an inflammation of the sciatic nerve, which is the main nerve supply to your legs.

It extends from the lower spine down the back of the thigh to the knee, where it divides. One nerve goes down the front, the other the back of the lower leg. Irritation of the sciatic nerve can be caused by a misalignment in your lower spinal column, resulting in nerve irritation and pressure. Your doctor or chiropractor will work to locate the misalignment through x-ray and other techniques.

OPINION

Change in Springfield

We endorse Steve Firsichbaum for township committee. Firsichbaum, a trial lawyer, is a former attorney for the Springfield Board of Health and the former township prosecutor. He knows Springfield and he knows government. He also does not believe that the municipal government should eat up the town's surplus and seek to live on loans that burden the future. He is allied with those Springfielders who have worked most vigorously to prevent the Houdaille Quarry site from being used for a rock concert amphitheater. These people put Springfield's welfare above personal ambitions. So does Firsichbaum. He deserves your vote.

Let GOP in

All three Republicans running for seats on the Board of Freeholders are capable and experienced in government. For the past year the Freeholder Board has functioned without two-party government. The Democrats, who have a 9-0 majority, have proven that the people of Union County need a watchdog and an alternative voice on the board. We believe that the people are best served by two-party government. We endorse Alan Augustine, Linda Lee Kelly and Louis Santagata for the Board of Freeholders.

Questions

The first Public Question on this year's ballot concerns the Affordable Housing Programs Assistance Bond Act. The state wants to issue $135 million worth of bonds for the purpose of improving housing and home ownership and bolstering the construction industry throughout New Jersey. We think this is a timely and needed action and urge voters to pull the "Yes" lever on Question One.

Funds received from the bond sale will be available, in the form of grants and loans, to middle-, moderate- and low-income families to assist them in purchasing their first homes. Making the purchases of houses easier should increase buyers, which means that people wanting to sell houses will also be assisted. Construction jobs will be saved and, probably, increased.

Also, where assistance from the bond issue causes new homes to be constructed, the property tax base will expand, meaning that property taxes ought to decrease in those areas.

We need to give young people and people of lower incomes the chance to be homeowners. We need to rejuvenate the real estate and construction markets.

The second and third questions facing voters next Tuesday concern horse racing and gambling. Question #2 asks if horse racing should be allowed at state tracks after noon on Sundays. A "Yes" vote would require any track opening and allowing betting on Sunday to close on another day of the week. Tracks should have this option of Sunday races. Gambling on Sundays at racetracks will increase the weekly attendance and, thus, bring the state additional revenues with no extra cost to the taxpayers.

Question #3 asks if televised races from both within and without the state be allowed to be shown, and wagered upon, in Atlantic City casinos. The state would also draw additional revenues if this measure is voted in, again at no extra cost to the taxpayer. Voting "Yes" to this question is also appropriate.

For Rinaldo

Republican Congressman Matthew Rinaldo has neither abused the power with which his constituents have entrusted him over the last 18 years, nor has he been the least lazy in serving them. He stays in touch, with a ready and able staff and both general and one-on-one correspondences detailing his efforts and opinions. This is the kind of experience his opponent cannot match, and the kind of experience his constituents continue to need.

Letters to the editor

Support housing

The Housing Bond Issue Referendum, which will be on the ballot Nov. 6, will provide $135 million to fund seven programs to address New Jersey's housing needs.

Nearly all New Jersey residents are affected in some way by New Jersey's housing shortage. Existing homeowners who want to sell their homes are finding it difficult to find buyers. Those who would be interested in purchasing these homes find it difficult to save enough to make the down payment, even if they can afford to make mortgage payments.

Those who would like to remain renters have a hard time locating a decent, affordable apartment. Households with physical, mental or developmental disabilities find it difficult to find housing suitable for their special needs.

Companies are reluctant to remain in or relocate to New Jersey because of the lack of affordable housing for their workforce.

Proceeds from the bond issue will begin to address all of these difficulties while also providing a boost to New Jersey's economy. The investment of $135 million in the housing sector will create thousands of new jobs in the construction and other related industries. Additional sales tax revenues will be generated by the purchase of building materials and home furnishings. The property tax base will be expanded in communities where new homes funded by the bond issues are constructed on vacant lots and vacant buildings are rehabilitated.

I would like to urge all voters to go to the polls Nov. 6 to vote yes for the housing bond issue.

Health Watch

Chewing tobacco's unhealthy too

By DR. MARVIN HERRING.
Baseball conjures up various images, including triple plays stolen bases and spitting. A ball player who spits because he has a pinch of tobacco lodged between his cheek and gum could be setting himself up for the biggest out of his life: oral cancer.

Oral cancer ranks as the seventh most common cancer in the United States, killing approximately 8,650 people last year. With numbers like that, it is clear that baseball players aren't the only ones at risk for oral cancer. Anyone who uses tobacco in any form is risking his or her life. This includes the smokeless form—snuff and chewing tobacco. Despite the risk, about 12 million Americans use smokeless tobacco, including about 3 million adolescents. A recent survey of 5,392 high school students revealed that 55 percent of them used smokeless tobacco before age 13. In some rural areas, children as young as five years old use snuff and chewing tobacco.

Young people are not the only ones who falsely believe smokeless tobacco is safe. Some adults quit smoking cigarettes only to take up smokeless tobacco, mistaking it for a safe alternative. In fact, a single pinch of snuff delivers two to three times more nicotine to the bloodstream than a cigarette.

The longer someone uses smokeless tobacco, the greater the cancer risk. However, precancerous symptoms can show up after using for only one year. Be alert to the signs of oral cancer. A white or red patch on the tongue, gums or inside the cheek could be a precancerous lesion. Don't ignore a sore that won't heal, a lump or thickening in the mouth or difficulty in swallowing, chewing or moving the tongue or jaw.

Left unchecked, oral cancer spreads rapidly, with the throat being the most likely destination. About 51 percent of oral cancer patients survive for five years. However, survival rates differ, depending on the specific area of the body affected.

With these odds, the best game plan is to avoid all tobacco products. Quitting isn't easy, but it's not impossible. Here are some tips to help you conquer a nasty and dangerous habit:

- Focus on a reason to quit and a target date. Accept that you'll make some errors along the way and don't get discouraged. If you have trouble quitting, get help from a physician. Substitute sugarless gum, sunflower seeds or other "chewy" snacks for tobacco. Exercise to relieve tensions that may occur during the withdrawal period. Establish incentives. Put aside the money you formerly used to buy smokeless tobacco. With each goal met, spend the money you saved to treat yourself to another favorite item.

Giving up smokeless tobacco may take time, but a win here could very well sweeten the odds of life over disease and death.

State We're In

There's an office we can contact

A lot of folks tend to be intimidated by the huge structure of state government, with its facade of apparently impenetrable bureaucracy.

How does one get through the foggy to work with government on behalf of the environment? How does one get the state to help us folks on the outside work for the environment?

That facade has a very important door which all should know: It's called the Office of Environmental Protection (OEP).

The office was set up to enhance the level of communication between the string of federal, state, county and town environmental agencies and the rest of us.

OES has several jobs, all related to getting information and money into the hands of municipal environmental commissions. It has, public notices, Environmental Commission Handbook, which was compiled jointly with the Association of New Jersey Environmental Commissions (ANJEC).

For example, the OES has funds for local environmental commissions: $2,500 grants to do worthwhile conservation projects that have to be matched from other nonstate sources. Some 48 towns are already involved in the program, and the next round of applications starts in November.

Lots of times towns want to work with private local land trusts, small groups of green-savers which can use information from the OES. Such groups will be eligible for Green Acres funding on a 50:50 matching basis in an effort to get more private money to help with providing parks and conservation land. The DEP even has its own trust, the New Jersey Natural Lands Trust, a unique public-private partnership.

A call to DEP, at 609-292-2885, can elicit information on the Green Acres Program of grants and loans for the acquisition of open space, or on the Open Lands Management Program, which offers grants to private landowners who allow public access to their property.

The DEP has just announced availability of $73,000 in such grant money from the Open Lands Management Program to help private landowners develop their properties for passive public uses such as hiking or nature study.

As much as $10,000 per project will pay for things like walls, fences, footbridges or boat ramps, as well as maintenance. A landowner must agree to guarantee public use for a specified time, and to maintain the property.

The landowner will not get a property tax increase for the involved area during the agreement period, on any improvements paid for by the grant. There will also be protection against liability.

ANJEC, working hand in hand with state government, also publishes helpful hints—in its last newsletter, which told all the ways land could be protected. Its phone number is 201-539-7547.

Moore is executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a non-profit, environmental organization based in Morrisstown.

Link To State Senate

We need to solve the state garbage problem soon

By C. LOUIS BASSANO
New Jersey generates about 14 million tons of waste per year, and is facing a serious solid waste disposal problem because of rapidly diminishing landfill space. If we don't solve this problem soon, the stench of trash could fill the air as garbage is left piling in the streets.

At the sponsor of a package of bills in early 1988, I outlined a list of solid waste management techniques, promoting waste reduction and recycling as preferred methods and incineration and landfilling as last resorts.

But Governor Florio chose to establish his own commission this year to study the waste problem. The task force concluded in its final report, issued Aug. 6, that we should pursue a 60 percent recycling rate.

This commission was dominated by environmentalists and its conclusions have been criticized as unfeasible and costly. Critics contend that the 60 percent recycling level can never be reached within the time frames of the report because there are no markets for many products that counties would be required to recycle.

Without markets, the counties would end up either landfilling the recyclables after using an expensive collection system to keep this trash separate, or paying hefty subsidies to make recycling these materials commercially feasible.

Both these options would be more expensive than simply landfilling the materials, and the commission failed to identify any funding source for these options. Presumably, the funding source would be property taxes.

Everyone would prefer to see waste reduction and recycling maximize waste reduction and recycle 100 percent of whatever solid waste is left. Currently, only about 5.5 of the 40 million tons of waste produced annually is recycled, leaving 8.5 million tons of waste behind. We all wish there would be no need for incineration or landfilling. Nobody wants to live near an incinerator. Unfortunately, it isn't possible, technically or practically, to avoid incineration and landfilling at this time.

The commission's report also was criticized for being too vague about regionalization. The report failed to identify who will decide where regional dumps and incinerators would go, and what criteria should be used to reach those decisions.

The report does call for development of additional disposal facilities, but it recommends development of facilities to dispose of the 40 percent of trash left after the recycling goal is met. There is no analysis of how the additional trash will be disposed of if the 60 percent goal isn't reached.

This leaves millions of tons of waste with no place to go. The commission's solution to this is vague, although it does advocate opening of old landfills, increasing the fees to fund the environmentally sound shut-down of the 300 landfills closed over the past 15 to 20 years.

The report states incinerators or other large solid waste disposal facilities should be developed upon demonstration of need after the attainment of the 60 percent recycling, a full investigation of regionalization, and a willingness to provide access capacity to other regions of the state.

New Jersey can't afford to wait this long while millions of tons of waste build up in our backyards.

The report also falls to state who should pay for the permit delays for incinerator facilities that haven't reached final approval yet. The report indicates only that this issue be addressed. Presumably, the funding source will be the county property tax.

Bassano, a Republican, represents the 21st District in the state Senate, which district includes Roselle Park, Kenilworth and Springfield.

Education in diabetes care offered

Better health, peace of mind, and a more active life is what individuals receive when they have the diabetes education they need. Teaching an individual to manage diabetes can present many challenges. The dietitians, as part of a professional health-care team, gladly face these challenges because they know the benefits of a diabetes education program.

During National Diabetes Education Week, Oct. 29—Nov. 3, 1990, Barbara Potashkin, Dietitian/Nutritionist, as a diabetes educator, will be letting other health-care professionals and the general public know about these benefits as well.

Diabetes Educators can help the person with diabetes lead a more independent and fulfilling life, by working to develop and individualized diabetes management plan that involves meal planning, exercise, scheduling and personalized counseling. Because diabetes can affect many areas of a person's life including their career, leisure time, nutritional status, and sexual activities—a successful program also involves family and friends.

As is true with all dedicated teachers, the diabetes educator's role goes beyond basic instruction as the likes of dealing with diabetes daily for the rest of our lives can be overwhelming. Further, this is not just for those newly diagnosed, as teaching diabetes management is a continuous process. Individuals need updates, and programs must be adopted according to their physician's care, as physical conditions change.

Potashkin, a member of the American Association of Diabetes Educators, is offering, at no charge, a diabetes education open house on Saturday morning, Nov. 3, from 9 a.m. until noon, at 346 South Ave., in the Fanwood Medical Building. Diabetes professionals will be on hand to answer questions and provide literature and information on diet, nutrition, and exercise.

Hardwick anxious to make capital punishment real

Assemblyman Chuck Hardwick is urging the chairwomen of the Assembly Judiciary Committee to begin hearings on legislation that would make New Jersey's capital punishment status "meaningful."

Hardwick, R-21, said the revisions he is seeking are designed to eliminate ambiguities and problems that have been used by the state Supreme Court to block executions in every death penalty case it has reviewed to date.

In separate letters to Assemblywoman Marlene Lynch-Ford, D-10, Hardwick asked for two measures to be posted for consideration by the committee.

One, A-2587, would limit the law's "proportionality review" provision, which requires the Supreme Court to compare sentences imposed in death penalty cases with sentences handed out in similar cases in the state.

"The second, ACR-76, proposes an amendment to the state constitution to make it clear that it is not cruel and unusual punishment to seek the death penalty for defendants who purposely or knowingly caused serious bodily injury resulting in the death of another.

The proposed amendment, which would have to be ratified by the voters, would apply whether the defendant committed the act personally or hired another to do it.

Both measures are also sponsored by Assemblyman Thomas J. Shusted, R-6.

Hardwick said the "proportionality review" revision has had the support of the state Attorney General's office. Unless the Proportionality review provision is more clearly defined and narrowed, Hardwick said the courts will be forced to weigh "innumerable variables" in death penalty cases. He said the result would be "an unacceptable level of speculation."

"Many prosecutors feel that the proportionality review will be the next loophole which the court will use to strike down death sentences," Hardwick said.

The assemblyman said his proposed amendment to the state constitution is intended to overturn the Supreme Court's 1988 decision in the State v. Gerald case.

The victim in the Gerald case was stopped so hard meaker prints were found of his face — and that was before his head was smashed with a television set. But in overturning the conviction of Walter M. Gerald, the justices ruled a defendant cannot be sentenced to death unless there is proof beyond a reasonable doubt that he or she intended to kill the victim.

"The court has rewritten the death penalty statute and subverted the will of the people of New Jersey as expressed by the Legislature," Hardwick said.

Hardwick said the passage of ACR-76 would be "the first step in restoring meaning to New Jersey's death penalty law."

Bill would help soldiers financially

Legislation which creates an interest-free period for the collection of property taxes and extends the period of redemption for those in active military service was recently approved by the Assembly Veterans and Military Affairs Committee.

The bill is sponsored by Assemblyman Thomas Deverin (D-Middlesex/Union) and Neil Cohen (D-Union).

"When in active military service, an individual does not have the opportunity to keep up with the daily affairs back home," Deverin said. "This is especially true today, since many of those in the service are now a half a world away protecting in Saudi Arabia."

The bill amends existing law to provide that no interest would begin to accrue on delinquent taxes and assessments, other than income taxes, until six months after termination of military service, after which time interest would accrue on the unpaid tax or assessment at an annual rate of six percent.

"We have to give those in the service the benefit of the doubt. Many times they have to pick up and leave on a moment's notice before personal business can be placed in order. All we are doing is giving them a chance to get their lives in order before any action is taken," said Cohen.

Under the measure (A-4000), an interest and penalty period of twelve months after termination of military service would be created and the stay of enforcement and redemption periods would be extended from six to twelve months.

"The measure now goes to the full Assembly for consideration."

CONGRESSMAN RINALDO WORKS HARD FOR ALL OF US

Congressman Rinaldo has always had one goal in Congress: to serve all the people of the 7th district. He has always represented us. Not the special interests. Not the insiders. All along, he's been working hard to tackle the problems we care about: curbing crime and drug use, protecting the environment and opposing any new or increased taxes.

- ### HE'S OPPOSED TO TAX INCREASES
- That's why Congressman Rinaldo:
- signed the Taxpayer Protection Pledge not to raise income tax rates or cut back on deductions
 - pushed for legislation to prevent any cut back in mortgage interest deductions
 - actively opposed any limits on the tax deduction for state and local income taxes
 - voted to repeal the Medicare catastrophic surcharge that would have hurt middle income retirees and other senior citizens
 - sponsored federal legislation to prevent New York State from taxing New Jersey residents
 - opposed increases in New Jersey taxes

- ### HE'S WORKING TO KEEP DRUGS OFF THE STREETS AND CRIMINALS BEHIND BARS
- That's why Congressman Rinaldo:
- introduced legislation to reinstate the death penalty for federal crimes
 - advocates legislation to require mandatory ten year prison sentences for any fire-arm related offense
 - supported appropriations totaling $8.8 billion to fight illegal drugs
 - and an additional authorization of $180 million for anti-drug education in our schools.

- ### HE'S WORKING TO CLEAN UP THE ENVIRONMENT
- As a leader on the Energy and Commerce Committee, Congressman Rinaldo:
- sponsored and worked to enact legislation to reauthorize and strengthen the Clean Air Act
 - has been endorsed by the Sierra Club
 - introduced legislation to combat the menace of acid rain
 - sponsored legislation to establish liability standards for oil spills, and to set up a fund to pay for clean-ups in excess of a company's liability.

- ### HE'S WORKING TO KEEP OUR SAVINGS SAFE
- To make sure our savings remain safe Congressman Rinaldo:
- voted for legislation tightening the capital requirements on thrift institutions
 - worked and fought for legislation to prevent savings & loan criminals from hiding behind the bankruptcy laws

- ### HE'S BEEN WORKING HARD FOR THIS DISTRICT
- Congressman Rinaldo has never been a rubber stamp for any party or special interest. He's always maintained his independence. He's never ducked an important issue. Or missed an important vote.
- On November 6th, you have an important vote. It's your chance to vote for political independence, and against the special interests and the Washington "insiders."
- It's your chance to send a message to Washington that this district supports strong action against thrift criminals, a cleaner environment, a real war against drugs and opposes any new or increased taxes.

Panthers hold off ALJ

By SUSAN KRAKOWIECKI

For the Roselle Park Panthers, it must have seemed like a case of déjà vu. For the second time in as many weeks, the Panther defense was on the football field in the fourth quarter trying to protect a lead and the opposition's offense was on the move. "It did bring back memories of last week's game against Marlville," said Panther head coach John Wegner. "But this time it was a little more exciting, a little more nerve-racking. Time was running out. If they had scored, there would have been time for us to come back."

"They" being the Crusaders of Arthur Johnson Regional in Clark, didn't score and the Panthers cheered as the clock ticked down their 12-6 win. "The victory improves Roselle Park's record to 5-1 and dropped the Crusaders to 2-4."

The Panthers struck first in the second half. Taking the opening kick-off, they drove 63 yards in seven plays. Jeff Imperiale had a big gain of 31 yards to keep the drive going. Joe Arena roared 34 yards for his touchdown. After Tom Baylock missed the extra-point kick, Roselle Park had a 6-0 lead.

The Crusaders came right back with a scoring drive of their own. Starting at their own 30-yard line, they drove 60 yards in six plays, including a 40-yard pass from quarterback Dan Redzinski to Matt Perrini that brought the ball to the Panther eight-yard line. On the next play, Redzinski kept the ball and scooted the eight yards for the touchdown. After Vinny Pisano failed to convert on the two-point attempt, the score was tied at 6-6.

With five and a half minutes left in the fourth quarter, the Panthers took the lead on Arena's second touchdown of the evening. The 14-yard score capped a drive that covered 67 yards in eight plays. Dave Patterson got things started with a big 30-yard run off left tackle.

Baylock attempted a two-point conversion pass to Arena, but the official ruled Arena was out of bounds when he caught the ball, so the Panther lead remained at 12-6.

The Crusaders embarked on a drive of their own, but could have used a few more seconds on the clock. They reached the Panther 12-yard line

Dayton duo gets hat trick

By MARK YABLONSKY

The following is this week's roundup of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School sports.

BOY'S SOCCER

Now at 7-5-1 overall, the Bulldogs were scheduled to begin state sectional play on Tuesday at Millburn. Without doubt, though, Dayton had quite a tuneup in preparation for its first postseason appearance in two years.

In beating Newark Central 6-2, last Thursday, the "Dawgs got hat tricks from both David Goodman and Miguel Rodriguez; and no less impressive was the fact that each player helped the other in three of those scores. Goodman's first two goals — at 14:31 of the second quarter, and 4:50 of the third — were assisted by Rodriguez, and Goodman returned the favor by setting up Rodriguez's first goal at 2:10 of the final period.

After Rodriguez scored unassisted at 4:50 of the fourth quarter, the senior forward notched his third tally of the day at the 19:40 mark, with Phil Kolubinskiy assisting.

Kolubinskiy, a senior halfback who had set up Goodman's final goal against Central, later accounted for the game-winner against Governor Livingston on Saturday in Berkeley Heights when he delivered an unassisted 25-yarder at 9:31 of the second quarter. That was the difference in Dayton's 1-0 win.

Craig Hansen was the winning goalie in both contests.

BOY'S CROSS COUNTRY

Although it took place three days later, the Mountain Valley Conference championship meet was held in Warrancio Park last Monday, Oct. 22, and the Bulldogs captured a total of 93 points to come away with a third-place showing, good enough for a medal.

Dayton came in behind first-place Governor Livingston and second-place Ridge, but ahead of fourth-place Arthur L. Johnson Regional of Clark.

The top three teams earned medals. The meet would have taken place the previous Friday, but tornado-like conditions the night before had caused damage throughout the Roselle area, including Warrancio.

Dayton's leading runner in the MVC meet was sophomore Josh Keeler, who placed 11th overall in a time of 18:56. Next in line was 13th-place finisher Brett Wilkins in 19:02, and junior Sean McGrath, who placed 15th in 19:16.

The rest of the Dayton representatives included sophomore Brian Costello (23rd), sophomore Ben Schmidt (28th), freshman Jeff Carizzo (34th) and sophomore Jeff Lippman (38th).

Eagan guides Brearley, 5-0

By MARK YABLONSKY

Three days after sustaining a second straight defeat by shutout, the Brearley Regional High field hockey team got three goals and an assist from Kim Eagan to rebound for a 3-0 win over Roselle Park last Friday in Roselle Park. The Lady Bears, who will face Whippany Park in post-season sectional play at home in Kenilworth — this — coming Monday, Nov. 5, are now 9-5.

Eagan, who now has 28 goals and three assists on the year, scored Brearley's last three goals against Park, all of which came in the second half, including the final one with just two seconds to play. It was the sixth game this fall in which the high-scoring senior has had three goals or more.

Brearley, which had been shutout by a 1-2 margin in last Tuesday's 1-0 defeat at Piscataway, only got seven shots on net against Park, but five, as it turned out, found their mark. Jessica Sperino opened the scoring for Brearley at 25:45 of the first half on an unassisted corner shot, and then Cindy Smith netted her fourth tally of the year only 2:13 later, when she took Eagan's pass in the circle and scored into the lower left corner from five yards away.

Tara Novello added the assist on Eagan's first goal, and Karen Dentz assisted on the second. Eagan's final tally was an unassisted, 18-yard shot from the top of the circle at the 29:58 mark, two seconds before the final whistle.

Brearley goalie Chris Rydzewski stopped three shots to claim her fifth shutout of the season.

Jan Babik's goal at 27:15 of the first half had been responsible for Brearley's loss in Piscataway.

In final preparation for Monday's playoff opener, Brearley, after having faced Governor Livingston Regional in Berkeley Heights on Tuesday, will play at home tomorrow against Ridge.

'Dawgs lose 7-0 game

By MARK YABLONSKY

Involved in its fourth low-scoring game of the season, the Jonathan Dayton Regional High football team dropped a 7-0 decision to Immaculata this past Saturday night in Somerville. The Bulldogs are 1-5 this fall.

The only score of the game came in the second quarter when the Spartans drove 55 yards in eight plays to paydirt, with the drive being keyed by four Rahim Trotman-to-Dave Perini passes for a collective total of about 30 yards. With just 31 seconds left in the first half, Trotman, the Spartans' quarterback, threw an eight-yard touchdown pass to Perini in the left corner of the end zone.

Kicker Kevin Coates added the extra point for the 7-0 final.

Dayton, which will oppose Central this Saturday in Newark, did reach the Immaculata 35-yard-line at the start of the fourth quarter, but was prevented from advancing any further by the Spartan defense. Immaculata enjoyed a 195-122 advantage in total yardage.

"We're getting better defensively every game," noted Bulldog skipper John LoDonne, "but we're not clicking offensively. The last two games we've only given up two touchdowns, but we've lost both games. And we're not playing any hamburger teams, either."

"We're still looking to improve offensively. We've got three games left, and we're looking to win some of them. And we think we can."

Also, Dayton placed ninth overall in the North Jersey Group 2, Section 2 meet back at Warrancio this past Saturday. With Keeler sidelined by illness, McGrath's time of 18:32 was Dayton's best finish and was 25th overall.

Wilkins followed with a 29th-place showing of 18:38.

The Bulldogs will compete in the county championship meet tomorrow at Warrancio, beginning at 4 p.m.

GIRL'S CROSS COUNTRY

The Lady Bulldogs placed fourth in the MVC championship meet, which also took place last Monday in Warrancio Park.

Dayton's leading runner turned out to be senior Joyce Quinzel, who placed 17th in 25:17, and then sophomore Lydia Lake, who came in 20th with a time of 26:18. Junior Karen Auer was 23rd in 26:23.

Other Dayton runners in the varsity, 3-1 mile run included Sarah Young (26th in 27:08), Sammy Lee (27th in 27:12), Mary Hyrwna (28th in 27:18) and Joanna Lobozzo (32nd in 28:19).

Suzanne Lipman led Dayton junior varsity runners with a time of 20:38 in the two-mile run, and Alyssa Demski was next in 21:34. Jessica Schneider ran a mark of 18:54 in the freshman event.

Bears crush McCorkle, 47-0

By MARK YABLONSKY

In one of their most dominant football performances in recent years, the Bears of Brearley Regional High got 80-yard-plus efforts from both Mike Battle and James King to power past visiting McCorkle, 47-0, this past Saturday at Roselle Park.

It was the final home game of the 1990 regular season for the 5-1 Bears, who will now face Bound Brook and Dayton Regional in away games in each of the next two Friday nights, before meeting Arthur L. Johnson in Thanksgiving Day in Clark — provided that Brearley is not involved with post-season play.

The one-sided win over McCorkle was also the fourth straight shutout for the Bears, who have not allowed a single point since losing, 13-7, to Now Providence on Sept. 28. Including the final two quarters of that game, the Bears have remained unscored upon for 18 straight periods.

Battle, who ran for 79 yards and three touchdowns in last week's 27-0 win over Middlesex, provided Brearley with its first points of the day on a 15-yard run early in the second period. Quarterback Don Dayton ran for the two-point conversion to make it an 8-0 game.

Dayton, who completed three of eight passes for 66 yards and two touchdowns, fired a 30-yard scoring pass to senior tight end Tim Kaufmann the next time Brearley had the ball.

Placekicker Mark Scuderi added the first of three PATs to give Brearley a 15-0 advantage.

Then, when McCorkle fumbled while trying to get rid of the ball from its six after the ensuing series of downs, senior center Joe Balwierzak grabbed the Skillman-based school's misplay in the end zone for another six points.

Dayton later threw a 15-yard scoring pass to Joe Corbo, which, along with Scuderi's placement kick, gave the Bears a 28-0 halftime lead. The score had been made possible when Dayton completed a big 21-yard pass to Kaufmann on a fourth-and-11 situation at the McCorkle 31 two plays before.

The Bears added extra cushioning to their win in the second half when Battle and King sandwiched TD runs of 10 and one yards around a 29-yard scoring run by junior halfback Ron Cagno.

In all, the Bears accumulated 325 yards of total offense while permitting McCorkle just 25. Battle, who is Brearley's leading rusher with 548 yards, ran for 85 yards in 14 carries; King, a sophomore running back, picked up 81 yards in just six carries.

WHO'S ON FIRST?

This week's question:

Only one player in major league history has ever won Most Valuable Player awards in both the American and National Leagues. Who is he? Last week's answer: Several franchises have had their share of Rookie of the Year winners, but only one has managed to hit double figures in that category — and that is the Dodgers, who in their years in Brooklyn and Los Angeles have seen a total of 11 players so honored. They are Jackie Robinson (1947), Don Newcombe (1949), Joe Black (1952), Junior Gilliam (1953), Frank Howard (1960), Jim Lefevre (1965), Tom Seaver (1969), Rick Sutcliffe (1975), Steve Howe (1980), Fernando Valenzuela (1981) and Steve Sax (1982).

Robinson, in fact, was the very first Rookie of the Year honoree in 1947 when only one winner in all of baseball was selected. Beginning with the 1949 season, one winner per league was chosen.

The team with the second highest total of Rookie of the Year winners is the New York Yankees (7), and next in line is the Cincinnati Reds (6).

And our congratulations go to Robbie Greenberg of Union, who has won his first 85 certificates to a local sporting goods store. Please have your responses in our Union office — at 1201 Stuyvesant Ave. — by no later than noon each Monday.

And please send us only one answer per week.

Bear booters win despite injuries

By MARK YABLONSKY
Despite a uniquely injury or two and the added pressure of defending last year's sectional and North Jersey Group 1 titles, the Brearley Regional High boys' soccer team has managed to have essentially the same kind of season as it did a year ago.

In fact, if you look closely enough, you may even conclude that this season is all the more remarkable for the Bears, since they, at one point, had to make do without their leading scorer, Matt O'Donnell, for three full weeks. But the Bears, despite a 1-0 loss to Arthur L. Johnson Regional on Saturday, owned a 12-4-1 record and just missed winning a second straight Mountain Valley Conference, Valley Division championship. Last year, the Bears were 12-2-3 after 17 games and had already won the conference title.

Also, the Bears have outscored their opponents by the collective margin of 63-10 to date. Last year, after 17 games, the Bears had outscored their foes by a 61-8 count.

"They're very similar in ways," explained Brearley veteran skipper Al Czaya of both squads. "For two years in a row now, we're predominantly a senior team. But this year, we've got some seniors playing who really haven't had as much varsity experience as before."

"But when we're healthy, we can play with anyone. We've been hit by injury a little bit and we've stumbled along the way, and that's understandable.

"Our best soccer is yet to come. I really feel that we're peaking at the right time."

O'Donnell, the speedy forward who scored 23 goals for Brearley last year and 22 the year before as a freshman, has certainly had something of a frustrating time with injuries. After turning his left ankle during a team practice on Sept. 27, the hard-working junior missed only one game before returning to the lineup for an Oct. 1 home game with Governor Livingston Regional — a game shown by TV-3 and won by the Bears, 4-0.

But that same day, O'Donnell turned his other ankle and this time, he had to sit out until last Sunday's 1-0 loss to Scotch Plains in the quarterfinal of the ongoing Union County Tournament. O'Donnell, now limited in action against the Raiders, had ended back into the starting lineup against New Providence last Thursday, Oct. 25, and he responded by scoring all three of Brearley's goals in a 3-1 win over the Pioneers.

It was the second straight win for the Bears over New Providence; the other decision had come by a 2-0 score in the UCT's first round on Oct. 15. Just six days prior to that, the Pioneers had prevailed, 1-0, in Kenilworth.

Amazingly, O'Donnell still has netted 15 goals and four assists, but more interesting has been the play of senior Vito Verno, a key member of last year's 15-3-3 Brearley squad that made it to the Group 1 title game before losing, 1-0, to Bernards in Ewing Township.

Verno, who normally plays at center-midfield, was switched to O'Donnell's left wing position and has responded with 15 goals and six assists. Verno scored twice in Brearley's 5-0 win at Roselle Park on Oct. 12, and added two goals more during the Bears' 7-0 verdict at Bound Brook six days later.

In the meantime, senior goalkeeper Luan Ahmetaj continues to excel in the nets for the Bears. The 6-4, 195-pounder has followed last season's record-breaking 16 shutouts by registering 10 whitewashes so far.

As of press time, Brearley was unsure of its exact seeding for post-season play, but was expecting to earn the top spot in North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2.

4 make nationals

A total of four local bodybuilders, all members of Gold's Gym in Kenilworth, are preparing for a trip to the U.S. National Bodybuilding championships on Nov. 10 in Pittsburgh, Pa.

In order to qualify for this national event, contestants must have won previous bodybuilding titles of some kind, and all must be members of the American Natural Bodybuilding Confederation (ANBC).

The four contestants are Laura Bass of Mountaintop, the 1990 National New Jersey women's bodybuilding champion; Ron Yacovetti of Union, the 1989 Junior Tri-State champion; Joe Anselmo of Carteret, the 1989 Metropolitan champion; and Rich Toczkozyk of Roselle, the 1989 Junior "supernatural" champion.

"They're all dedicated," said Gold's manager Jane Dudica. "And they're all in here at least three hours a day in their training."

Season over for ALJ netters

By MARK YABLONSKY
The season is over and the racquets have been put away, but the 1990 girls' tennis season hasn't been all unkind to the Lady Crusaders of Arthur L. Johnson Regional High.

With an 8-7 record heading into last Friday's season finale with Middlesex, the Lady Crusaders had assured themselves of at least a .500 record, something that coach Robert Nadasky feels is a plus.

"That's the first time they've been .500 in about six years," Nadasky said. "So it's a good season. And with everybody coming back next year, I'm sure we'll make an improvement."

One of ALJ's wins last week took place on Friday, Oct. 19, against Brearley in Clark. In winning, 3-2, Johnson got its wins from Jodi Jordan at first singles, and from both doubles squads.

Jordan, who is a junior, decided to Karen Savage, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, to get Johnson off on the right foot. Then, after losses at second and third singles, the Lady Crusaders tied it at 2-2 when the first doubles tandem of Jill Margulies and Michelle Wang topped Dawn Walck and Angela Licio, 6-2, 7-5.

The number two squad of Christie Rufojo and Karen Chin then defeated Barbara Saneiro and Dina Devito to win it for ALJ.

Johnson also took a 4-1 victory home with them against Governor Livingston on Oct. 22. Jordan beat Meredith Eggert, 6-1, 6-4, at first singles, and at the number two spot, Samantha Borovitz outguffed Missy

States begin

The magic number, as Linden boy's soccer coach Andrew Eng said, is 10. The Tigers, who were seeded 10th in Union County Tournament play, were also seeded 10th in North Jersey, Group 3, Section 2 competition, which was scheduled to begin for Linden yesterday with a trip to seventh-seeded Morristown (14-4-1).

In the meantime, Linden dropped to 9-9 with two losses this past week, 3-0 at Cranford last Wednesday, and then a 3-0 setback to Elizabeth in the UCT semifinals this past Saturday night.

At Elizabeth, Jean Valenzuela scored twice for the Minutemen, while Delfo Alvarez, Ed Hernandez and Oscar Herrera added single goals to eliminate Linden from further UCT play. The title game will be at 8 p.m. this Saturday between Union and Elizabeth in Elizabeth.

Author's firsts reflect in life and 10 books

By BEA SMITH
Doug McClelland, film historian, freelance lecturer, consultant, and author of 10 books on film, has had many "firsts" in his literary career.

Bulldog Player of the Week

Justin Petino, a 6-3, 225-pound senior tackle and tight end, is Dayton coach John LaDonno's choice as Bulldog Player of the Week. Petino made seven tackles, caused a fumble, and caught two passes for 22 yards in Dayton's 7-0 loss to Immaculate.

The Plainfield-born writer, who has resided in Irvington, Union and Newark, now lives in a house in Bradley Beach that serves as his research library and office. It is there he has created eight of his 10 books.

During a recent chat, McClelland mentions with delight that "Hollywood Talks Turkey" was fun to do. People like to talk about flop movies, especially movie buffs. And frequently, you hear people talking about them with relish. For example, "I saw the worst movie last night..."

"So, I decided to do a book on 'turkeys.' I wrote about what Hollywood had to say about the movies that failed at the box office. And some of these movies had great potential," he says. "You see, if I just did a book about lousy movies, I wouldn't make my point too well."

"I wanted to do a book about box office disasters, and when I did, it was very interesting to observe that many box office disasters are hailed as classics today, Orson Welles," laughs McClelland, "never had a successful movie, and yet, he was honored for his 'classical' work. Do you know that 'Citizen Kane' was a box office disaster, and all of his films down the line?"

"Also," says McClelland, "do you know that 'It's a Wonderful Life' was a dismal failure at the box office when it was first released? And this picture also is considered a classic. There are many others."

McClelland's interest in the movies and the entertainment world stems from two generations of family participation. "My grandmother, Daisy Whitlock, who lived with us, had been a piano teacher, and she played the piano for silent movies," he recalls.

"And she used to talk to me about it since I was a toddler. And my mother, Elina Parsons, was a cashier in several theaters in Newark, and later became treasurer of the Empire Baroque Theater in Newark in the 1940s and 1950s.

"And when I was a child," he smiles his handsome smile, "it was very exciting to go to the movies."

Two dramas in Union

Act One Theatre Productions of Lenox will present two one-act plays at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Burnet Junior High Senior Center on Morris Avenue, Union, under the sponsorship of the Union Township Interfaith Committee on Holocaust Awareness.

Both plays were written in 1938 and "reflect the mood and attitudes of the countries that serve as their background: Bertolt Brecht's tense Germany and Dorothy Parker's laid-back America." Together, it was reported, the dramas offer an insight to the world on the eve of the Holocaust.

The first play, a comedy in America, is "A Telephone Call" by Parker, an American humorist and short story writer, whose colloquial jargon has been adapted to the stage. The second by Brecht, the drama in Germany, is "The Jewish Wife," one of his anti-Nazi plays.

The professional actors are Rachel Chonowick, Karen Crossman and Isaac Dostis, who directed with Diana Surinac, who recently appeared in Union in "The Story of Solomon Fedelman."

The program is open to all. There is no admission charge. However, a free will offering will be received at the end of the evening. It will be applied towards the purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds to be awarded in the spring to students in the Holocaust Study Unit of Union High School, "whose literary and artistic interpretations of this momentous period in world history are judged best in each category by an Interfaith panel."

Further information can be obtained by calling the coordinator of the Union Township Interfaith Committee on Holocaust Awareness, the Rev. Nancy Forsberg, at 688-4333.

wood on Ronald Reagan: Friends and Enemies Discuss Our President. The book was published by Faber and Faber in 1983. It was a one-of-a-kind book that contained comments from many film capital denizens who knew the former president of the United States when he was a movie star.

"It was a very timely book," he declares. "It was a white hot period of the movies. And one of them was 'The Unkindest Cut.'"

"I was worried about how Nancy would feel because it had so much of his former wife, Jane Wyman, in it. But it was part of history," says McClelland, "and he was married to Jane."

McClelland does a marvelous job of reporting their views in little vignette-type paragraphs.

Stars such as Dana Andrews, Julie Andrews; Charles Boyer, Linda Darnell, Clint Eastwood, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Ava Gardner, Lillian Gish, Katharine Hepburn, Charlton Heston, Alfred Hitchcock, Dustin Hoffman, Al Pacino and Jack Lemmon all discuss, tongue in cheek, about why their megalomaniac movies, $5 million

Parks, who was a victim of the political blacklisting of the 1950s.

McClelland takes exceptional pride in another of his firsts — his ninth book, "Eleanor Parker: Woman of a Thousand Faces," which Scarcrow Press published in 1989. It is a biography and filmography of the neglected Hollywood star.

The author's unique breaks in an emotional moment when he mentions the name Eleanor Parker. "Eleanor Parker," he says, "is second only to Susan Hayward in my admiration. I always felt she had what it took to be the biggest star in the world and couldn't understand why it didn't happen for her. She won three Academy Award nominations, but superstitious always eluded her. No one would write about Eleanor Parker. They wrote about Hepburn, Davis, Monroe, Crawford."

"Well," he exclaims, "I wanted to correct this. I thought her films were wonderful. Her son, Paul Clemens, cooperated with me, and she gave the book her blessing through Paul. And after the book came out, she wrote me a beautiful letter thanking me for the

"I love it!"

And didn't that sound like the fiery beautiful alien she played in many of her movies?

McClelland's third book, also a "first of its kind," was "Down the Yellow Brick Road: The Making of 'The Wizard of Oz,'" published by Pyramid in 1976, and it chronicled the events behind the classic 1939 film. "Yellow Brick Road" was the first book about the "Wizard of Oz," the author says. "There must be about 10 now. Not only did I love the movie, but Judy Garland was always my favorite musical star, and I always wanted to do a book about her. And I got my 'Over the Rainbow' wish."

And speaking of "firsts," the author's fourth book was "The Golden Age of 'B' Movies,'" published in 1981 by Ottenheimer, which tells the story of that neglected of film species, the low-budget but high quality motion picture — the "B" — usually on the lower half of a double movie bill.

"The truth is," he chuckles, "that I always loved B movies. I recognized them as a training ground for a lot of talents. Many famous stars started in B movies...even Susan Hayward. Frequently, as I was growing up in the movies, I'd find the B movies more entertaining than the A movies. And I was watching. And I wanted to make people recognize this fact. And I did — with this book."

Delightful book on movie flops

By BEA SMITH
Why do some movies become box office sensations and others box office turkeys? And why do the turkeys become legendary failures even when the production costs millions of dollars?

If anyone can venture a guess, it would be Doug McClelland. McClelland, who has written a number of books about what Hollywood has to say about nearly everything, has written a book called "Hollywood Talks Turkey — The Screen's Greatest Flops." Faber and Faber of Boston, Mass., and London, England, published the book this past August, and it is a delight to read and peruse.

McClelland has interviewed numerous stars in person, by telephone and by mail, and has done extensive research on the opinions of the stars about their so-called flops. Some of them refuse to discuss the movies that did so poorly at the box office, others discuss and defend them, but most laugh while reminiscing about their "duds."

Such stars as Tallulah Bankhead, Eddie Bracken, Carol Burnett, James Cagney, Joseph Cotten, Bette Davis, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Eddie Fisher, Henry Fonda, Jane Fonda, Joan Fontaine, Clark Gable, Kathryn Grayson, Viveca Lindfors, Paul Newman, Otto Preminger, and Rosalind Russell discuss their first movies, all of which were flops. They sneer, laugh, scorn and put the blame on everything or everyone, but rarely on themselves.

And McClelland does a marvelous job of reporting their views in little vignette-type paragraphs.

and over, turned sour at the box office.

Superstars such as Ingrid Bergman, Jack Benny, Marlon Brando, Greta Garbo, Greer Garson, Bert Lahr, Groucho Marx, Shylia Lobson, James Mason, Edward G. Robinson, Lana Turner and James Mason all speak with despair of how the turkeys very nearly crushed their careers.

In another chapter, McClelland quotes the stars as they lament their participation in "biographical bombs."

Some of the top directors and producers are of the opinion that politics and movies do not mix under any circumstances.

When it comes to eggs and flops, Hollywood counts such as Claudette Colbert, Marlene Dietrich, Sidney Poitier, Burt Reynolds and Debbie Reynolds offer words of wisdom and doom.

Jane Allison, Betty Hutton, Ann-Margret, Humphrey Bogart, Jeanne Crain, Joan Crawford, Glenn Ford, Betty Grable, Cary Grant and Gene Kelly unveil their feelings about how some roles inspired their image.

The book, which also contains some wonderful stills of movies which the public has refused to acknowledge, has some wonderful moments. It is not only for movie buffs, McClelland says, it is for every movie-goer of every age who has ever said, "I don't care what they say about it, but stars in it or what the critics have said about it, that movie I saw last night was a real turkey. Let's talk about it!"

"Hollywood Talks Turkey" is McClelland's 10th book, and it is an absolute gem. It's for everyone's bookshelf. Because, after all, what red-blooded American, who has been reared on movies and hamburgers, would not be interested in gossip about Hollywood — particularly when it is Hollywood that is gossiping about itself?

McClelland, who has served as a consultant on more than 30 film-related books and has lectured at colleges, women's clubs, libraries, film symposia and film festivals, says, "I'm hoping to do a book about the 1940s in which the people would comment on the movies. You know," he admits, "the whole system began deteriorating after the 1940s. I think the films were better, the stars more exciting. It's going to be illustrated with lobby card posters. I think I'll call it 'Hollywood Lobby Talk.'"

McClelland says he doesn't "even happen for her. She won three Academy Award nominations, but superstitious always eluded her. No one would write about Eleanor Parker. They wrote about Hepburn, Davis, Monroe, Crawford."

"Well," he exclaims, "I wanted to correct this. I thought her films were wonderful. Her son, Paul Clemens, cooperated with me, and she gave the book her blessing through Paul. And after the book came out, she wrote me a beautiful letter thanking me for the

Untraditional album

By MILT HAMMER
Good Turnable Listening. Following "Yonder Star," by Skip Ewing on the MCA Records label.

disc 'n' data

Three Christmas albums... Skip Ewing also had no trouble writing the music... "The Christmas album itself was untraditional enough that it was new and inspiring," he said. "But just to be sure, we had a small tree with doves all over it. You plug it in and the doves light up. We put that in the studio and I bought a present for everyone. It was funny. A few of the musicians didn't think they were real present until I said, 'Let's open the presents now.'"

When the opportunity came to do an entire album of Christmas material, Ewing was prepared to meet the challenge of coming up with fresh original songs that cast new lights on Christmas themes and fresh new arrangements for familiar carols.

"I had performed a lot of Christmas music," he explained, "and I had a lot of ideas about new ways to perform songs that had already been done plus a lot of ideas for new Christmas songs. I knew I was going to cut this album several months in advance, so I worked really hard to get all the material ready."

Through three previous MCA albums, Ewing has gained a reputation not only as one of the strongest new voices in country music but as one of the most gifted songwriters in the business. It was his songwriting as much as his singing that helped him move up from the stages of Nashville's Opryland theme park and onto the country music charts. His self-penned hits have covered a variety of styles, from the urgent rhythm of "Burning a Hole in My Heart" to the sensitive intimacy of "I Don't Have Far to Fall," to the unconventional, unexpected story of "The Gospel According to Luke."

As co-producer with Randy

Afternoon Music, the chamber series at the Unitarian Church, Springfield and Waldorf avenues, Summit, will present the American Arts Ensemble at its next concert Sunday at 4 p.m. The double quartet of day arrangements will present an all-Mozart program "in anticipation of the upcoming bicentennial tribute to this great composer."

Family concert set

The New Jersey Youth Symphony's annual family concert will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the New Providence High School, Pioneer Drive. The director and conductor George Marinier Maull, who has conducted the orchestra since its inception in 1979, will direct the 92 student members and guest artists, Solid Brass, in a program designed to teach children of all ages about brass instruments featured will be music by Handel, Wagner and Anderson.

Among the local members are David Hollister of Mountainside and Joanna Loboz of Springfield. Solid Brass, the featured guest ensemble, has some of the New York area's finest musicians who have performed with the Metropolitan and New York City Operas, Lincoln Center and New York City Ballets as well as orchestral and chamber music ensembles throughout the metropolitan area.
