

Advice for homeowners facing approaching winter

The following is a winter checklist for homeowners, provided by the engineering firm of Tauscher-Croncher of Rockville Centre, N.Y.

In any home, the three most important areas with regard to optimizing energy efficiency are the heating plant and system, and conduction and infiltration losses. Conduction (or direct loss through walls and ceiling) is primarily controlled by insulation. Infiltration loss (drafts or air leakage) is controlled by caulking and weatherstripping.

Heating:
• The heating unit should be cleaned and serviced. This servicing should include all gauges; controls; a check for proper chimney draft; an efficiency test which would include carbon dioxide levels, smoke test and stack temperatures; valves, safety devices, etc.

• Proper ventilation needs to be supplied for the heating unit.
• On a steam system; thermostatic valves, equipped with slow vents, should be installed on each radiator. These valves balance the system and prevent overheated rooms. Installation is a do-it-yourself job.
• On hot air systems, install new filters and replace every 6-8 weeks. Clean the humidifier thoroughly to remove mold and clean weekly.
• Old boiler burners (installed prior to 1970) should be upgraded to flame-retention type burners with new ceramic tile liners in the combustion chamber.

• The hot water radiators in older hot water systems should be "aired" at the beginning of each heating season.
• A clock regulated "smart" thermostat will automatically lower the temperature at night and raise the temperature in the morning. These are excellent fuel savers and pay for themselves quickly. For maximum fuel savings, the difference between the temperature settings should not exceed 8 degrees.

• Metal or other reflecting materials behind radiators will increase the heat output of the units.
• Sunlight should be let into the house during the day. At night, the windows should be closed with shades and drapes.

• Unoccupied rooms should be closed and the heat turned off where possible.
• Heating grills or radiators should not be covered or blocked with curtains, drapes or furniture.
• The bottoms of baseboard heaters should have at least 1/4 inches of clearance between the heater and carpeting. Many times, the installation of plush carpeting will involve raising the baseboard heaters to provide proper circulation.

• With heat pumps, snow should be kept away from the intake air grills of the unit. Ideally, heat pump compressor units should be raised 18 inches above grade or roof level.
• In hot air furnaces over 15 years old, a smoke test is recommended to determine if there are cracks in the heat exchanger which would be a health hazard and combustion exhaust gases could enter the house through the ductwork.

• In a house 30 years old, cleaning of the ductwork and heating grills should be considered.
• Flue pipes should be checked for proper pitch upwards to the chimney, corrosion and tightness.
• Reopening of poorly heated areas of the house should be examined with a heating contractor.

Conduction (Insulation):
• Attic insulation should be increased to an "R-19" rating. This can be achieved by installing batts of insulation, without a vapor barrier, over the present material or blowing in loose insulation. No insulation should be allowed within 3 inches of any light fixtures.
• All heating pipes, hot water pipes, and ductwork, should be insulated. This is particularly important in garage and attics, and under house crawl areas.
• In the crawl areas below the house, insulation should be installed between the floor joists. The vapor barrier should face upwards towards the living area.
• The joint between the top of the foundation wall and the underside of the first floor ceiling should be covered with insulations to reduce infiltration of exterior air.

• On large, unheated basement areas, insulation of the basement ceiling should be considered.
• The domestic hot water storage tank should be insulated.
• Insulate the access door to the attic.

• Check caulking on all windows, door frames, chimneys and joints between different materials for dryness and re-caulk, as needed. Caulking material has a limited life span and proper caulking can have a noticeable effect on fuel costs.
• Insulation in the attic should be checked to insure it is not covering over roof eave vents. Insulation should not extend into the roof overhang.

VOL. 62 NO. 7—SPRINGFIELD, N.J., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1990—2*

TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Kurnos wins second term in a close race

By DAVE WISE

Springfield voters elected Mayor Philip Kurnos for a second term Tuesday, defeating his Democratic challenger, Steve Firsichbaum, with a 51.9 to 48.1 percent plurality. Shortly after 9 p.m. on Election Day, Kurnos received the news that he had won the election, while many of his supporters gathered at his Springfield home. The jubilant mayor expressed his pleasure at having a second term, but he also took the opportunity to criticize Firsichbaum's campaign strategy.

Kurnos said, "My challenger was a sheep led to slaughter," as he implied that Firsichbaum's campaign was orchestrated by those who had political agendas. He called his challenger inexperienced and said, "I have no animosity toward him."

Upon hearing of his electoral defeat, Firsichbaum went to the Springfield home to congratulate him. A school friend of Kurnos' said, "Phil won. I lost. I hope he treats the town well. I can only wish him the best of luck."

The Woodbridge attorney blamed his defeat largely on voter backlash generated by Governor Florio's tax package.

"If it were not for the Florio tax program, Steve Firsichbaum would have won," said the Democrat.

Firsichbaum also attributed his defeat to the "power of incumbency" and "name recognition," two characteristics lacking in his candidacy.

At Kurnos' home, the atmosphere was festive, with many supporters, including Township Committee members Jeffrey Katz and Marc Marshall, joking and speaking warmly of the mayor.

"Phil is not a politician, he's a man who cares very deeply about this town," remarked Marshall. "I've been in town a lot of years, and I said to Phil, the only thing I regret was not being good enough to play on one of his teams," said Marshall, alluding to Kurnos' longtime involvement with many youth athletic programs in town. The election results were almost evenly divided, with 2,583 votes cast for Kurnos and 2,398 ballots for Firsichbaum. Kurnos carried nine of the 14 districts in this local election, in which only 59.6 percent of eligible voters came to the polls.

In the U.S. Senate race, third-term Democratic Senator Bill Bradley defeated Republican challenger Christine Whitman in the statewide election. Locally, Bradley received 2,729 votes as opposed to Whitman's 2,123 ballots.

Republican Congressman Matthew Rinaldo, representing New Jersey's 7th Congressional District, will give another term by voters. Rinaldo soundly beat his Democratic challenger, Bruce Bargon, a Springfield resident, by capturing 73.3 percent of the vote.

In the freeholders' race, Republicans Alan Augustine, Linda Lee Kelly and Louis Santagata, defeated their Democratic opponents, Fred Eckel, Joe Suliga and Jeff Maccarelli. Eckel was a political newcomer while Suliga and Maccarelli were incumbents.

Memorial Day killer was not sane, judge decides

By DAVE WISE

Superior Court Judge Miriam Span ruled last Friday that Yato graduate Rolando Marcelo, who fatally stabbed his mother and brother and two others on Memorial Day 1989, is not guilty because he was "laboring under a defect of reason, a disease of the mind" and "could not appreciate the wrongfulness of his actions."

Span made her decision after hearing statements from expert witnesses, who were called to the stand Thursday on behalf of both the prosecution and defense. The non-jury trial was ordered because Marcelo waived his right to a jury trial, and thus agreed to have Span decide "his guilt or innocence."

Marcelo's attorney, Assistant Public Defender James Kerwick, pursued an insanity defense and provided medical experts, Dr. Alan Goldstein, psychologist at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York, and Dr. T.J. Chamberlain, a Modford psychiatrist and former director of the Trenton-Forensic-Psychiatric Hospital, to support his claim that Marcelo, who claimed to be the "second Messiah" in statements to police after the murders, was in a "severe psychotic state" at the time.

The state prosecuting attorney, Union County Assistant Prosecutor David Hancock, on the other hand, conflicted with statements by his own medical expert, Dr. Irwin Perr, a psychiatrist at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, in arguing that Marcelo may have "rationalized" his murderous actions. Perr agreed with the defense's expert witnesses, but Hancock attempted to show Span that Marcelo, based on his "high intelligence" and previous psychiatric treatment, was capable of convincing doctors that he was insane when he committed the slayings.

Hancock opened the trial by giving a one-hour reading of Marcelo's 57-page statement to police following the Memorial Day massacre. The 25-year-old Marcelo fatally stabbed his mother, Anita Marcelo, 51; his brother, Raymond, 21; two family friends, Nelson Paiva, 21, and Mark Dennis, 35; and wounded a neighbor, Richard Harman, 37, who was serving on the Springfield Township Planning Board at the time.

In his statements to police, Marcelo said he was the second Messiah, who had visions instructing him to kill his mother and brother, in order to resurrect them two days later. The former honors student claimed this action would strengthen him for his future battle with the "Antichrist."

His rambling police confession also disclosed Marcelo's belief that God harms individuals in the "short run" to help them in the "long run." Shortly after he killed his mother and brother, Marcelo collected his rock music compact disc tapes of Bon Jovi and 10,000 Maniacs, broke them up, and made "shrapnel" out of the tapes in his back yard.

The trial further revealed that Marcelo was adversely influenced by the movie "Field of Dreams," which he watched the night before the slayings. In the 1989 film, a man receives visions to construct a baseball field out of his farm, and later his family and a few friends, are the only ones who can see the spirits. "If you build it, he'll return," a voice mentions several times throughout the movie.

After Marcelo stabbed his mother with "her favorite knife" in the kitchen, and then his brother, who tried unsuccessfully to defend himself, the two graduates dragged their bodies into the basement to hide them. While Marcelo tried to conceal the murders, Paiva, a family friend, came to the house and began looking through the windows when he sensed something suspicious.

Paiva saw blood splattered on Marcelo's clothing and eyeglasses, and questioned the defendant, who subsequently chased Paiva outside the house and struck him before horrified neighbors.

A medical expert testified that Paiva was killed because Marcelo had seen him at the movie theater when he saw "Field of Dreams." Marcelo also believed, according to court testimony, that Paiva had to die since he possessed the capability to see the supposedly invisible corpses.

Other evidence, such as Marcelo's obsession with a woman named Hope, was presented to the judge, who was told by all three experts that Marcelo was suffering from either "acute schizo-affective disorder" or "bipolar disorder-depressive." Both these disorders describe a psychotic state in which a person cannot fully comprehend the wrongfulness of his actions.

At the trial, Hancock tried to show that some of Marcelo's actions illustrate his awareness of right and wrong during the massacre. The prosecutor said Marcelo's attempt to hide the bodies of his mother and brother, the slaying of Paiva, and the defendant's daring escape, demonstrated a calculating and rational mind at work.

Before Marcelo committed the murders, he quit his training as a New York City investment banker after being diagnosed with Epstein-Barr virus. The defendant's application to Harvard Business School was also denied a month prior to the killings.

Following the slayings, Marcelo fled in the family car, which was later involved in a hit-and-run accident. He was arrested on charges of driving a 1982 Volkswagen from a Bridgewater resident and a high-speed chase ensued.

State police spotted Marcelo going west on Interstate 287 and the chase continued until the defendant lost control of the car and struck a bridge divider in Somerset County. After the accident, state police eventually captured him in a wooded area.

Court testimony showed that Marcelo's IQ was tested while in police custody, and he scored 123 in verbal ability. Marcelo's mean IQ score is 128, which places him well above average in intelligence. The prosecution attempted to demonstrate that Marcelo could "rationalize his behavior," because of his experience with psychiatrists prior to the killings.

After the judge's decision, state given, Hancock said medical courtroom testimony is "not an exact science...it deals with individuals giving opinions."

BARCODING BOOKS while library is closed are Springfield Library Director Nancy Byouk, standing, and an unidentified volunteer.

Library installs bar codes on materials

By DAVE WISE

Barcoding is a common sight at supermarkets, and it is also becoming an indispensable automation tool for libraries throughout the country. The Springfield Public Library, which began the project in Somerset County, is currently installing bar codes on all of its 80,000 books.

Library Director Nancy Byouk is coordinating the "very difficult and tedious" project that started Oct. 29 and will end Nov. 10, the library's reopening date. Since the barcoding began, the library has been closed to allow staff members and volunteers to place an adhesive label on each book.

These bar codes — squares with black and white lines inside — are the same as those seen on food items. The bar codes provide cashiers with accurate pricing and enable supermarket managers to have correct inventory counts. "Library setting, barcoding also allows librarians to keep track of books and reduces the amount of administrative paperwork."

In order to run libraries efficiently nowadays, computer automation is necessary. The library director said a recent $12,000 state grant is funding "the first leg of converting our records to machine-readable forms." Byouk recently applied for this grant, which has been "the impetus that sparked the project."

The barcoding work has generated a lot of community interest, and many residents have volunteered to help in the effort. Byouk said signs requesting volunteers were placed in the library, and almost 40 people are now labeling books.

Once the process is completed, the library will have a more effective way of handling the 150,000 items it now circulates each year. According to Byouk, the library processes 350,000 paper transactions annually and serves 10,000 patrons a month.

The new computer automation will let Springfield librarians keep count of reserve and overdue books. Byouk remarked that Springfield, for a small town, is fortunate to have the benefits of a well-stocked, medium-sized library.

"People from all over come to use this library," remarked Byouk. "We have a very good reputation here. The reference and staff are outstanding. We have professional librarians. They have that 'helping' attitude."

To fully automate the library, said the director, more funding is needed. Byouk estimates the project will cost approximately $150,000, money which will ultimately come from the Township Committee. Additional funds are required to purchase the software and hardware needed for the automation system.

So far, the Township Committee and the library's board of trustees have given implicit support to the barcoding project, though not enough funds have yet been allocated. Byouk is hoping the Township Committee will soon appropriate the money to complete the automation process, which she believes has the approval of most residents.

High school students will share events

By SUZETTE STALKER

Faculty and students in Union County Regional High School District I will celebrate American Education Week, Nov. 12-16, by bringing older and younger generations together for discussion, activities and a chance to strengthen school and community ties through mutual understanding.

The Regional High School District includes Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, which enrolls Mountaintop students, David Bradley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

A seminar titled "Creative Parenting" will be held in the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. featuring guest speaker George Obermeier, a nationally known drug and alcohol abuse educator.

Obermeier, who has been conducting programs in the Regional District for the last two weeks, will focus on the subject of pro-active parenting, whereby parents take an active role in the lives of their teen-age youngsters.

The educator will discuss such topics as parents and children coping together, problem solving and helping to build an "adolescent's self-esteem." Obermeier has made hundreds of similar presentations to various community, school and professional organizations.

Multi-generational activities are also being planned at several other regional high schools. Dr. Linda Palumbo, principal of David Bradley Regional High School, has invited senior citizens from Kenilworth and Garwood to Brearley for a tea, a musical performance by the school chorus and a discussion with high school psychology students.

Senior citizens, from Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School are invited to a special, free performance of the Johnson fall play "Don't Drink the Water" by Woody Allen, on Thursday, Nov. 15, at 10 a.m. in the auditorium. The play will be presented for the general public on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 16 and 17. "The purpose of these programs is to bring the generations together," noted Regional District spokesman Thomas Long this week, "and to bring the older residents into the school so they can see what's going on."

"Many times the senior citizens haven't been involved in the schools for a long time, either because they lived in another area when their own children were growing up or because their children are no longer in the school."

Library gives medical talk

The Springfield Public Library will present a talk by Dr. Leonard Bielory Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m. on "Food Allergies."

Bielory, a Springfield resident with a private practice in Union, is the director of the Division of Allergy and Immunology at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ). He is co-author of "Understanding Allergy: Sensitivity and Immunity," A Comprehensive Guide with Janice Joneja.

Dr. Bielory will also answer all related questions. Those who would like to register for this program may call the library at 376-4930 or sign up in person, starting Nov. 12. The library is located at 66 Mountain Ave.

Residents are asked to give needed blood

The Summit Chapter of the American Red Cross is urging residents to donate blood.

"The holidays are upon us when blood supplies are traditionally low and everyone who is eligible is urged to donate at this drive," said Jo Ann Feldman, New Jersey Blood Services representative. "While there is a 95-percent chance that each of us will need blood at least once in our lifetime, only 3 to 5 percent of our population actually donates. As a result, we import 30 percent of our blood supply from Europe," she said.

Anyone in good health, between the ages of 17 and 75 can safely donate blood. Seventeen-year-olds must have parental consent and initials; individuals over 75 must have a doctor's written permission. The entire process takes no more than an hour, with the actual donating procedure taking 5 to 10 minutes. Donors should bring some form of ID and eat within three hours before donating. For more information, call the Red Cross at 273-2076.

During American Education Week, other area residents are also invited to visit the four regional high schools during Education Week to get a firsthand look at district curriculum and programs, according to Long. All visitors are asked to report to the main office upon entering the building.

"We really want them to know about the schools and to feel welcome because the public schools do belong to them," Long remarked. "The residents should know about the schools because the schools are one of the real important places in the community."

Tips for holiday mailings are offered

"If you mail your holiday gifts early enough, you can save money by sending them parcel post, because parcel post rates are the least expensive," says Springfield Postmaster William Daniels. "Sent by parcel post, your gifts will usually be delivered within a week. The clerk who weighs your package will collect the proper postage based on its weight and the distance it must travel."

If one waits too long to send one's gifts by parcel post, the local post office also offers "priority mail," which will provide delivery in two to three days, anywhere in the country for packages weighing up to 70 pounds.

Priority mail can be sent from any post office, station or branch, or through rural carriers — to any address in the U.S. Packages weighing up to two pounds can be delivered between major metropolitan areas in just two days and anywhere else in the country, in three days for a flat rate of $2.40.

For larger items, the price of sending a package weighing up to five pounds ranges $3.61 to a maximum of $6.37, depending on the destination. "When you're down to the wire, and time is critical, Express Mail is the service for you."

Trailside announces autumn events

Trailside Nature and Science Center, located at Coles Avenue and New Providence Road in Mountaintop, has announced that several programs concerning nature and the universe will be held there during the month of November.

"Stories Of The Sky," a planetary show, is being held on Sundays at 2 and 3:30 p.m. for adults and children age 6 and older. Admission is $1.50 per person and $1 for senior citizens. Visitors will hear about mythology of the constellations, including how Princess Andromeda was rescued from death, along with Orion the Hunter's eternal combat with Taurus the Bull.

"Woodland Mystery Tour" will be held on Sunday, Nov. 18, at 2 p.m. The success of this hike will depend on whether participants successfully locate and correctly follow clues to guide them on their way.

A jewelry class will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 28, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The fee is $16. THE WHOLE TOOTH Tooth Talk

Let's fantasize for a moment. If a toothless visitor from another planet asked you why you had those white objects in your mouth, what would you reply? Probably that you needed them to chew your food. And I suspect that's the answer most people would give.

Nothing wrong here. The answer is true, as far as it goes. But it doesn't go nearly far enough. So let's take a closer look at these good companions in your mouth — what they do and how nature has constructed them so they can carry out their multiple functions. Their primary purpose, of course, is chewing. But your teeth also have a lot to do with the way you speak. Your tongue, for example, works in partnership with them to pronounce certain letters of the alphabet. Notice how they work together in saying "this."

That's not all. Without a full complement of teeth the shape and form of your face would be noticeably different. And healthy, gleaming teeth go a long way to giving you an attractive appearance. What we have called "the smile of beauty."

Making all those functions possible is the construction of the tooth itself. The crown is the part the world sees. The rest, about two-thirds of the tooth, is hidden in the gums — the roots, which hold the tooth in the jawbone.

Enamel, the hardest substance in the body, covers the crown; it's the armor that prevents your teeth from being eroded by chewing. Going deeper, there's the dentin, within which is the soft tissue — the pulp — that contains nerves and blood and lymph vessels.

Tissue called cementum wraps the root, and periodontal ligament connects the root to the jawbone.

A remarkable piece of work indeed, your teeth, and we'll return another time to how they carry out their principal function of chewing your food.

CLOWNING AROUND—A group of children in costume enjoy a clown show during the second annual "Safe Halloween" party which was sponsored last week by Manor Care Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Mountainside. The facility organized a trick-or-treat and party for the youngsters in an effort to provide a Halloween celebration in a safe, secure environment.

Postal tips are issued

"For mail sent to military and international destinations, we would like you to mail well before the holidays to give extra time to arrange transportation," remarked Postmaster James Rosa Jr. of the Westfield Post Office.

Rosa noted that Operation Desert Shield has required an enormous effort on the part of United States air and surface carriers. Last minute, overseas mailing will add an even greater burden. Early mailing will be especially welcomed this year.

"For mail within the United States, there is no deadline," said Postmaster Rosa, "but the volume of mail escalates dramatically during the week before Christmas and earlier mailing will help postal workers handle the increased workload more smoothly.

Nationally, last year the number of cards and letters peaked at 200 million on Dec. 18. The total more than doubled the 80 million letters sorted on a normal weekday. From mid-November through December, a record 3.3 billion letters were cancelled.

Postmaster Rosa concluded that "early mailing is smart mailing. It spreads the volume more evenly and contributes to more efficient

College program on tap

"The College Admissions Process," an informational program featuring local high school guidance counselors and students, will be broadcast several times during the next two months on TV-36, Suburban Cablevision's community access channel.

High schools prepare for reductions in state funds

The 1990 Quality Education Act, which was passed by both houses of the state Legislature and signed into law by Governor James Florio earlier this year, calls for a massive redistribution of state aid to school systems which will greatly increase funding to urban and poorer-problem districts. This reduction in state aid, however, is expected to have a negative impact upon Union County Regional High School District 1, which includes the communities of Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Clark, Garwood and Berkeley Heights.

For the 1991-92 school year, the regional high school district will receive approximately $6.6 million in state aid, a figure which is greater than the amount of state funding being received this year.

Valerie Fund to sponsor blood drive for children

The Valerie Fund Children's Center for Cancer and Blood Disorders and the Overlook Hospital Blood Donor Room in Summit have announced that they will co-sponsor a blood drive on Friday, Nov. 30, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on Saturday, Dec. 1, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Valerie Fund Center, which opened at Overlook Hospital in 1977, treats children with cancer and blood disorders at a convenient location. Before the center opened, young patients and their families had to travel to New York or Philadelphia to obtain treatment.

Now, there are six Valerie Fund Centers at hospitals throughout New Jersey, providing community-based, state-of-the-art treatment for children while allowing the youngsters to be treated closer to home.

The Valerie Fund children often need transfusions of blood products during their treatment, according to Overlook Hospital officials, who note that blood shortages often become critical during the holiday season.

This season's drive is scheduled to help ensure an adequate supply of blood for the Valerie Center children, as well as the other patients at Overlook, during the usual holiday blood shortages.

One can call the Overlook Hospital Blood Donor room at 522-5500 to make an appointment to donate blood during the Valerie Center Blood Drive, or one can make an appointment at a more convenient time.

PEN PALS IN THE PERSIAN GULF — Students in Patrick Matone's eighth-grade English class at Harding School in Kenilworth have written letters to soldiers serving in the Persian Gulf. Several students received replies and have started a "pen-pal" relationship with their new friends. The soldiers wrote about the extreme heat in the Persian Gulf, their fear of war breaking out and conditions in Saudi Arabia. Among those students who have received replies are, in front row from left, Karen Mack, Billy Ravaoli and Andy Fletcher. Lisa Tortorello is in back.

"In addition to the two-for-one restaurant coupons, the books include discounts for fast food eateries, delis, movie theaters, cultural and sporting events, even bowling alleys. With all the discount opportunities, the book is a wonderful family gift," she said.

MICHAELANGELO ISN'T JUST A NINJA TURTLE — Third-grade students in Angela Worthington's class at Harding School in Kenilworth recently learned about the historic namesakes of the popular Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. During a study about the Renaissance artist Michaelangelo, the class walked the length of the Sistine Chapel, 145 feet, while looking up at the ceiling. Afterwards, the students discussed the pros and cons of painting on one's back 85 feet in the air. They also had a chance to try it by mounting papers on the undersides of desks and tables and proceeding to paint their murals. In order to gain a better understanding of the trials and genius of Michaelangelo. Here, Amy-Lynn Franksun, left, and Robert Sigley work on their pictures.

Surviving dependents should apply for benefits promptly, say officials

Surviving dependents of a deceased worker should apply for Social Security benefits as soon as possible following the worker's death, John H. McCutcheon, Social Security manager in Elizabeth, said recently.

Prompt application will allow benefits to start at the earliest time. In addition, John H. McCutcheon said, some benefits cannot be paid for more than a month before the month of application.

Social Security benefits can be paid to these survivors:

- Unmarried children under 18, or 18-19 if a full-time primary or secondary school student.
- Unmarried children 18 or over who were disabled before 22 and remain disabled.
- A widow or widower of any age (including a surviving divorced spouse) caring for a child of the worker under 16 or disabled who gets grandchildren under certain circumstances.
- There is a one-time lump-sum payment that can be made to an eligible widow or widower or, if none, to a child getting benefits.
- Before any benefits can be paid, the worker must have had credit for a certain amount of work covered by Social Security. In 1990, the amount ranged from 1-1/2 to 9-3/4 years depending on the worker's age at death. More information about survivor's benefits can be obtained by calling Social Security's toll-free telephone number 1-800-234-5554 (1-800-234-5772) 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays.
- Widow or widower 60 or older.
- Disabled widow or widower 50-60.
- Dependent parent 62 or older.
- Benefits can also be paid to a surviving divorced spouse at 60 (50 if disabled) if the marriage to the worker lasted 10 or more years. Benefits can also be paid to grandchildren or great-grandchildren under certain circumstances.

Resolution is approved that urges president to sign Civil Rights Act

A resolution urging President George Bush to sign the Civil Rights Act of 1990 was recently approved by the General Assembly.

The federal legislation has been approved by both the House of Representatives and the United States Senate. But Bush has expressed some reservations about signing it into law.

"These rulings have dramatically limited the scope and effectiveness of much of the landmark civil rights laws enacted by Congress in the past 25 years," he said. "If the president chooses not to sign this bill, he will be telling tens of millions of Americans that they are no longer entitled to the opportunities that have come to represent the American dream."

Assemblyman Willie B. Brown (D-Bergen), one of the sponsors of the resolution, said the Act "seeks to redress inequities posed by the interpretations in the U.S. Supreme Court's recent rulings on civil rights legislation.

Assemblyman Byron M. Beer (D-Bergen), another sponsor, noted that the resolution, said the Act "seeks to redress inequities posed by the interpretations in the U.S. Supreme Court's recent rulings on civil rights legislation.

The measure, AR-198, was approved by a vote of 61-0.

KNOW TO SAY NO — The students at Robert Gordon School participated recently in a drug education assembly program provided by the Roselle Park/Roselle Kiwanis Club. Each child was provided with a packet President Bush. The student volunteers shown took part in the assembly activities directed by Karen Whitner, the elementary drug and alcohol counselor.

Assemblyman and clergy affirm freedom of choice

Following his speech before the New Jersey Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, Assemblyman Neil M. Cohen, D-21, joined Catholic, Jewish, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Unitarian, Methodist and Lutheran clergy members in reaffirming the religious community's support of a woman's right to choose and recommitting the preservation of freedom of religion and freedom of speech.

Cohen affirmed this non-partisan group for "its commitment to the preservation of religious liberty, freedom of speech and reproductive freedom."

In his speech before the New Jersey Religious Coalition for Abortion

Rights Cohen said, "It is important that this broad-based religious coalition have the courage to speak favorably on this issue and provide the spiritual leadership necessary to offset the recent attacks against free speech, political and social leaders who choose to voice opinions on free speech."

Cohen briefed members of the coalition on two pieces of his legislation, A-3712, which would protect individuals who choose to undergo an abortion from being harassed or intimidated, and A-3950, which would amend the existing Violent Crimes Compensation Board law to allow victims of rape or incest to have the costs incurred with terminating their pregnancies paid.

Cohen lauded the Coalition's affirmation statement. "The support of choice statement sends a message to the whole community that there are leaders who are willing to stand up for the principles of free speech."

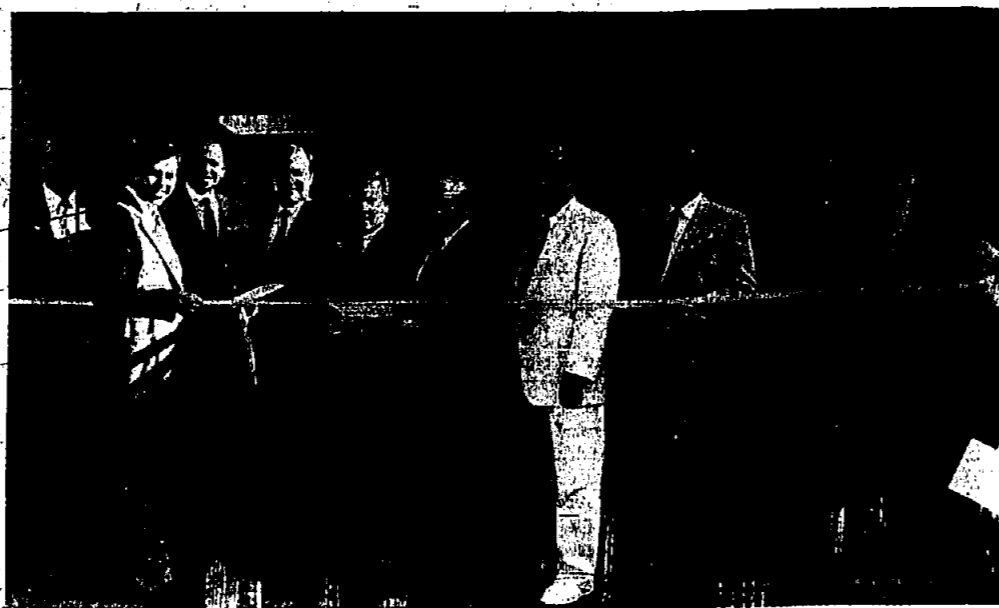

"The fact is that this legislation was rammed through the Senate and the Assembly in less than one month. The law that created the 'thorough and efficient' formula, on which the school districts v. Burke decision was based, took two years to solidify," Bassano said. "The new school funding law is the most far-reaching legislation to come along in more than a decade, and it should have been given much more consideration."

Senator Bassano said a commission made up of lawmakers and education experts to study the new law is needed because "the administration's study team was necessarily biased."

"Education officials and lawmakers were basically shut out of the process by the administration," Bassano said. "New Jerseyans who don't fully understand how this law will affect them need an objective evaluation, which I think can only be offered by a panel such as the one I am proposing."

"Even liberals are starting to concede that the redistribution-of-wealth theory is a proven failure," Bassano said. "While I agree with the Governor that we have to take steps to improve education in our state, I don't agree that it can be reached by traveling the same aimless path."

"The new school funding law offers more of the same — more spending, more bureaucracy, very few guarantees. What is more, it seeks to reverse the decline of education in urban districts by stripping suburban districts of their ability to compete."

Senator moves to keep users off roads

By FRANK LAUTENBERG
Recent congressional testimony revealed that 40 percent of all drivers involved in car accidents show traces of illegal drugs. It's clear the problem of driving under the influence of drugs is costing many lives on our highways.

Driving is a privilege, not a right. If a citizen uses drugs illegally, threatening to kill or injure others in the process, he or she should lose the right to drive.

Many of those lives can be saved if we keep drugged drivers off the road. My legislation encourages states to take away the driver's license of drug offenders for at least six months.

Under my bill, if a state doesn't enact a license suspension law, then the government would withhold 5 percent of the state's federal highway funds. Withholding highway funds from states is a strong sanction. We used it in the past on the 21-year-old drinking age law. All 50 states raised their drinking age to 21, and the result was reduced fatalities. Like drunk driving, drug abuse is a serious national problem that requires strong measures. Compelling states to enact a tough driver's license suspension law is one way to help cut down on drug abuse.

Lautenberg, a Democrat, is one of two U.S. Senators from New Jersey.

APPRECIATION — Union County Freeholder, Walter McLeod, right, of Rahway, presents a resolution to Al Linden of Westfield, director of the Division of Planning of the Department of Engineering and Planning, in recognition of his 25 years of loyal and distinguished service to the county.

Bassano wants state's school aid plan altered

Senator C. Louis Bassano, whose district will be hit hard by the Governor's controversial school aid scheme, is calling on the Legislature and school superintendents around the state to study more fully the potential effects of the plan.

The Senator said he would introduce legislation sometime after the November election that would create a study commission composed of legislators and school superintendents. The panel, according to Bassano, would "give more serious attention to the effect the Governor's school funding plan will have on some of the state's most successful school districts."

Senator Bassano pointed to an issue paper submitted by a group of key New Jersey superintendents that harshly criticized the "Quality Education Act of 1990." According to the superintendents — and Senator Bassano — the Governor's school funding law far exceeds the Supreme Court's mandate to spend more money, and it threatens to drag down the most innovative and effective school districts.

"The new school funding law offers more of the same — more spending, more bureaucracy, very few guarantees. What is more, it seeks to reverse the decline of education in urban districts by stripping suburban districts of their ability to compete."

Acting Prosecutor to be feted by PBA

Acting Union County Prosecutor Edmund J. Tucker will be honored by the Policemen's Benevolent Association on Nov. 13 in Elizabeth for his dedication and service to the law enforcement community. Tucker, who was First Assistant Prosecutor for 13 years and an Assistant Prosecutor prior to that in the late 1960's, will be awarded a Silver Life Card by PBA Local 250 President Frank T. Mitteronoda, a Union County Prosecutor's Office Investigator. A Silver Life Card is an Honor reserved for rank and file members who achieve 25 years or more of police service. However, in special circumstances, a worthy recipient who is not a police officer can be selected when his contributions to the law enforcement community are deemed extraordinary. The award ceremony will be the highlight of a special reception scheduled for 5 p.m. at Doc Donahue's Restaurant in Elizabeth. "Ed Tucker is a leader who sets high standards and inspires trust, confidence and respect," declared Mitteronoda. "The membership of Local 250 is proud to serve him, because he has devoted himself to the cause of law enforcement by working to advance principles and to enhance the police-prosecutor partnership." Tucker, an experienced trial lawyer who has been a member of the New Jersey Bar since 1965, served a First Assistant Prosecutor in Union County since 1977 and was designated Acting Prosecutor last March after the death of John Stammer.

Blood drive to be sponsored

The New Jersey Blood Services, (NBS) which supplies blood to 72 hospitals in northern New Jersey and Staten Island, will sponsor a blood drive at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Rahway on Monday, Nov. 19, when NBS hopes to collect at least 50 pints of blood.

Donors are welcome at the blood drive, located in the Parish Hall at 1428 Main Street, between 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The NBS reminds area residents that every time they donate a pint of blood they can help save lives. The need for blood is constant, and while its degree of necessity may vary from one day to the next, health officials maintain that they can never have enough.

Everyday tragedy can strike. A 7-year-old child can be diagnosed with leukemia, a 52-year-old mother of two could be badly burned in a fire or a 25-year-old police officer could be shot in the line of duty.

These unfortunate circumstances happen all too often and the difference between life and death may be a pint of blood donated through a blood drive, according to the NBS.

More unfortunate still is the fact that hospitals don't have an unlimited supply of this precious fluid. Blood is made available when healthy volunteer donors take the time to make this special donation.

A donation doesn't just help one person — but five. Each pint of blood can be separated into five different components and each component can be used to treat a specific medical condition.

Donating is easy. The actual process only takes about 10 minutes and donors receive a mini-physical beforehand. Afterwards donors are given refreshments to replenish fluids and nutrients lost during donating.

To give blood, one must be between 17 and 76, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in general good health. For more information, one can call New Jersey Blood Services (NBS) at 928-9101 or the Eastern Union County American Red Cross at 353-2500.

Students to aid-hungry

On Thursday, Nov. 15, the Vail-Dunns School in Mountaintop will participate in a national program called the Hunger Banquet in order to raise funds for Oxfam America, a world hunger-relief organization.

Students at the school will be collecting pledges from friends and neighbors to support their participation. In addition to donating the money saved by foregoing part of their lunch to Oxfam.

The school hopes to raise students' awareness and understanding of the global problem of hunger and to demonstrate to students that something actually can be done by them — not at some distant point in the future, but today.

State grants $1.5 million to county for road work

Governor Jim Florio today joined Transportation Commissioner Tom Downs in announcing the distribution of $26 million in FY 91 municipal aid grants from the Transportation Trust Fund. The grants will fund 243 municipal projects.

Governor Florio said, "This program demonstrates how investments can address transportation needs and provide a boost to the state and local economy. This program means jobs today and opportunity in the future."

The Governor said that more funds would become available for transportation projects in the future if the Transportation Trust Fund cap is lifted as proposed by the transportation Executive Council. "Lifting the cap would help us prime the economic pump even further," he added.

Downs added that this program is a critical one for local governments. "This is the only way some of these projects can be done. Most municipalities just don't have the funds to deliver these jobs. Every year the magnitude of the local need is highlighted by the hundreds of requests we receive and have to turn down," he said.

The awards were determined following a Municipal Engineer's Screening Committee review of 938 requests for almost $113 million worth of local improvements.

The list of the award amounts for Union County is:

- $165,000 for Dowd Avenue, Elizabeth;
- $125,000 for Lexington Avenue, Garwood;
- $60,700 for Wilder Street, Hillside;
- $80,000 for North 14th Street, Kenilworth;
- $90,000 for DeWitt Terrace, Linden;
- $100,000 for Central Avenue, New Providence;
- $135,000 for Randolph Road, Plainfield;
- $85,000 for W. Emerson Ave., Rahway;
- $105,000 for Second Avenue, Roselle;
- $100,000 for Jerome Street, Roselle Park;
- $57,000 for Short Hills Avenue, Springfield Twp.;
- $90,000 for Colonial Avenue, Union Twp.;
- $90,000 for Rahway Avenue, Westfield.

Our second mortgage will cost you less. Any way you look at it.

Unlike second mortgage companies, there are no attorney's fees and no closing costs.

You'll pay less up front, and because our rates are lower you'll pay less over the life of the loan. Your interest is almost always 100% tax deductible. Just ask your tax advisor for details. And with a United Jersey fixed-rate second mortgage your monthly payments are always the same for the life of the loan. Whatever term you choose—up to 15 years—you'll get the same low rate. For example, on a 15 year loan, for every $1,000 you borrow, you'll pay only $10.89 a month. Why pay a second mortgage company when you can get a second mortgage loan without all the hidden costs?

Once you apply, you'll receive an answer within one business day. Call between 8 AM and 8 PM Monday through Friday and on Saturday from 9 AM to 1 PM.

'Dawgs leashed by Central, 36-0

Running back Jeff Blyther scored three touchdowns, two of them on big-yardage plays, as Newark Central handily over Dayton Regional.

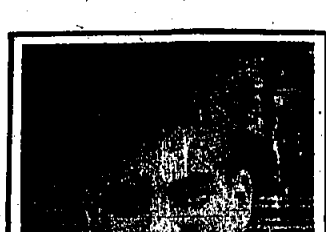

36-0, in a football game this past Saturday night at Schools Stadium in Newark.

Blyther, who had scored a key touchdown in last week's 20-6 win over Hillside, ran for scores of 90, 3 and 60 yards as Central improved its record to 3-5. Dayton, which has lost three in a row, is now 1-6.

The only score Central would need came at the culmination of a nine-play, 67-yard drive off the opening kickoff, when quarterback Lorenzo Hall ran 12 yards for a touchdown.

That was followed by kicker Willie Weston's extra point.

Dayton then advanced 58 yards to the Central 15-yard-line, but eventually came up short on a fourth-and-

CLAYTON TRIVETT

The hat trick

Two days after losing, 4-0, to Millburn in state tournament play, the Dayton Regional High boy's soccer team defeated Roselle, 5-0, on the strength of another hat trick by Miguel Rodriguez last Thursday in Roselle.

It was the second time in a week that Rodriguez had scored three goals in a game; the previous Thursday, Oct. 25, the senior forward had a hat trick in Dayton's 6-2 win over Newark Central.

And teammate David Goodman, who had three goals in that same win over Central, scored one of Dayton's other two goals against Roselle, while assisting on two of Rodriguez's tallies.

Junior forward Joe Roughson added Dayton's other goal at Roselle.

Wnek picked

Springfield resident Stan Wnek, who in June was among the first six inductees into the New Jersey Baseball Coaches Hall of Fame, was recently in the first class of inductees into the Irvington High School Hall of Fame.

FRONT RUNNER

Dayton Regional sophomore Josh Kessler has been Dayton's leading runner thus far in the cross country season, and is in fact active in both track and fencing—the two sports he earned statewide recognition in this past summer at the Garden State Games. When he's not running, Kessler trains weekly with the Millburn High Fencing Academy.

Lady Bears win Valley

Kim Egan scored six more goals this week for the Brearley Regional High field hockey team, which won all three of its games—including a 2-1 overtime decision over Ridge that gave the Lady Bears, Nov. 12-5, this year's Mountain Valley Conference, Valley Division title. Ridge had won the conference for the prior three seasons.

Egan, who scored both of Brearley's goals in a 2-0 win over Scotch Plains on Oct. 29, and the first three of her team's goals in a 5-0 victory over Governor Livingston the following day, tallied at 2:56 in overtime against Ridge to give Brearley the title. Teammate Jessica Agorito, who had two second-half goals against G.L., led a pass to Egan on the breakaway, and Egan, who now has 34 goals and four assists on the season, fired the ball into the lower right-hand corner to send everyone home.

Saporito, who now has five goals on the season, scored Brearley's other goal early in the second half.

Cindy Smith collected three assists on the week, the first two coming on two of Egan's tallies against G.L., and the other on Saporito's second goal later that day.

WHO'S ON FIRST?

Which major-league team owns the somewhat dubious distinction of holding the all-time record for fewest homers in one season?

Last week's answer: The only player ever to win Most Valuable Player Awards in both leagues is Hall-of-Famer Frank Robinson, who is currently the manager of the Baltimore Orioles. Robinson, whose big-league career began in 1956 with the Cincinnati Reds and ended with the Cleveland Indians in 1976 as player-manager, won his MVP in the National League with the 1961 pennant-winning Reds, hitting 37 home runs, driving in 124 runs and batting .323.

Then five years later, the slugging outfielder had an even better year with the Baltimore Orioles, belting 49 round-trippers, driving in 122 runs and batting .316—numbers that were all league-leaders, thus bringing him the prized Triple Crown Award in 1966. Robinson also slugged two homers in that year's World Series vs. the L.A. Dodgers—both against Don Drysdale—to help the Birds to a 4-0 sweep and their first World title in Baltimore. His home run won the fourth and final game, 1-0, for Dave McNally.

In fact, Robinson is also the only player of all time to hit 200 home runs or more in both leagues.

And Robinson, whose 586 homers stands fourth on the all-time list, won the 1956 National League Rookie of the Year Award by hitting 38 homers, knocking in 83 runs and batting .290 for the Redlegs—as they were called at the time.

And our congratulations go to Bea Grossberg of Union, who has won her first $5 certificate to a local sporting goods store. Please be aware that beginning with next week's issue, we will no longer award $5 gift certificates, but will instead print the names of all contestants who have submitted the right answer(s).

Please have your responses in our Union offices—1291 Stuyvesant Ave.—by no later than noon each Monday.

And please send us only one answer per week.

Investors trust Slaters' Merrill Lynch

Today, making financial investments takes careful planning. That's why it is helpful to have experienced, educated experts on your side to help you make important decisions.

Fortunately, the father and son broker team of Jack and Mitchell Slater of Merrill Lynch have the experience and expertise it takes to make those tough decisions.

Jack Slater, who has been a success in the financial world for more than 45 years, has been working for Merrill Lynch for about 15 years. His son, Mitchell, has been with his father for the past five years. Together, they operate a private Merrill Lynch branch out of their Roseland office.

"There are hundreds of Merrill Lynch brokerage firms throughout the United States," says Jack Slater, the former chief financial officer of a Fortune 500 company on the New York Stock Exchange, "but there are only a handful of family-run branches in the entire country. That's what makes our business unique."

According to Slater, small, family-run investment firms have an advantage over larger companies.

"We're more customer-service oriented than a lot of the bigger companies," says Slater, also the vice president of the Merrill Lynch Chairman's Club. "Because we are family-run means we can provide full-time coverage and perhaps a different point of view than other firms."

As full financial brokers, the Slaters offer a wide variety of business and corporate accounts, in addition to a large number of private investments. Together, the team manages more than $150 million in assets annually. Among them are numerous corporate pension and profit-sharing plans and scores of individual investment accounts. The firm also lends credit to businesses.

Torborg is A.L. Manager of Year

By MARK YABLONSKY

Being the modest person he is, you couldn't expect Chicago White Sox manager Jeff Torborg to do anything else but keep a cool, modest demeanor after being named the 1990 American League Manager of the Year rather overwhelmingly by the Baseball Writers Association of America last week.

Torborg, after leading through a tough 69-92 season in the Windy City in 1989, presided over a Chisox team that went 94-68 this past season, and, for a while, gave eventual league champion Oakland a run for its money before settling for a hearty second-place finish in the A.L. West. In fact, the youthful, hustling White Sox went 8-5 in head-to-head play with the A's this season and remained in the race until September.

Sure, Torborg has youthful stars such as Sammy Sosa, Robin Ventura and Ozzie Guillen, not to mention bullpen ace Bobby Thigpen, whose 57 saves this past summer eclipsed Dave Righetti's old mark of 46.

But when it came to pitching, it was Torborg, what might the results have been for a team that had to experience growing pains a year ago before giving their new manager a better season the second time around?

"I think Jeff Torborg has the perfect approach to the game for young players," commented Harry Weisman, a friend of the Mountaineer and the former coach of the Springfield American Legion baseball team who has coached all three of Torborg's sons. "And it's his patience and support of younger players that makes him so special. And he's the same Jeff Torborg when the team wins three in a row, or loses three in a row. He's a terrific human being."

Golub creates a permanence in synagogue

By BEA SMITH

"So, I started sketching, and I began playing around with some ideas. And I called my mentor, Rabbi Levine, for ideas. I felt I had to make a three-dimensional design. I made a scale model the way it would look. It was one quarter size and it was pre-

Ina Golub, who was born in Newark, was graduated from Wocquatic High School there. "I moved to Maplewood with my parents when I was in Montclair State College. My parents then lived in Maplewood for the rest of their lives."

She received a bachelor of arts degree in art education. "And I taught at Kawamech Junior High School in Union from 1960 to 1963. And that's where I met my husband. He was a music teacher there."

"After we were married, we lived on Vanhail Road in Union for a year. Then we both went to graduate school at Bloomington University in Indiana. Herbert worked in his doctorate and I completed my master's degree in fine arts with a major in fiber arts and a minor in metal. I used to work in metal, but I can't anymore. I don't have the kind of strength in my hands that you need for that kind of work."

After two years, she says, "my husband started looking for a music job, and we unexpectedly landed back in Union when he got a job at Kean College as a music professor. It was at that time that I decided to pursue a career as an artist."

"In the early years I taught courses at Kean and at Montclair, my alma mater. I started to get busier and busier with my craft, so I stopped teaching and pursued art full time. That was about 1965." And the following year, she and her husband moved to Mountainide.

How did she get interested in Jewish art?

"I belong to a Reform temple in Montclair, Temple Beth Or, after graduate school, I was doing mainly secular objects—you know, tapestry, rugs, pillows, wall hangings. But," she says thoughtfully, "I must have had some subconscious need to get to

Do you know that it takes an hour and a half to weave one inch?

"We installed the piece on Oct. 15. The wood is incorporated into an ancient technique called marquetry, which is an inlay technique using various color woods...beautiful colors to match the colors of the yarn in the tapestries. Therefore, there is a continuity between the wood and the fiber and the relationship between the form of the installation and the design of the architecture."

Golub explains that "as a result of this project, I have a deeper understanding of the whole experience. Because of the work that I do, when my husband and I travel, I always try to visit sites of Jewish culture. For example, in Prague, I had a chance to actually handle—and experience—first hand a lot of the objects that were confiscated by the Nazis during the war. They were called 'The Precious Legacy.'"

Golub, who was born in Newark, was graduated from Wocquatic High School there. "I moved to Maplewood with my parents when I was in Montclair State College. My parents then lived in Maplewood for the rest of their lives."

Her husband, Herbert, is a music professor at Kean College and she is a professional artist. She has been teaching art for many years and has a deep understanding of the craft. She has also been involved in Jewish education and has taught at several schools. She is currently working on a project for a synagogue in Union, New Jersey. The project is a Holocaust Memorial art work that will be displayed permanently in the synagogue. It is dedicated last Sunday during a Kristallnacht commemoration.

ment to the committee and to the board of directors early in January 1989. When they agreed, the work began on the actual project. It took me about seven or eight months to weave the tapestries.

"I had the wonderful assistance of Frank Klausz, a master craftsman and he fabricated the wooden ark and installation from my design."

The plan, she says, "was that it was going to be 8 feet by 12 feet, and that's a lot of sewing. The Holocaust Torah project tapestry is 3 feet wide by 8 feet long, and it is made of wool and cotton yarn. The tapestry is the most time-consuming of fiber techniques. Actually," she sighs, "tapestry is timeless. I felt I wanted a really permanent fiber material to envelop this Torah scroll and that's why I chose it."

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL—Ina Golub of Mountainide has designed a Holocaust Memorial art work to showcase a rescued Czechoslovakian Torah entrusted to Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield. It took the artist more than a year to complete and will be displayed permanently in the synagogue. It was dedicated last Sunday during a Kristallnacht commemoration.

my roots because I did not have any real connection with religion per se except for family observances at home. I had a need to do something along these lines."

"I was a member of several professional art organizations and one of them announced that there would be an exhibition of contemporary ritual art. I wanted to enter," says Golub, "but I was really stuck. I didn't have the background material in order to create something that I was familiar with, so I called a friend, who teaches at Kean College and who also teaches at a local Jewish summer school. He looked at a few sketches that I had done, and he asked me if I knew Rabbi Reuben Levine, then rabbi at Temple Beth Ahm. The friend made the contact, and Rabbi Levine became my mentor and teacher."

"At first," she laughs, "Rabbi Levine said to me, 'I don't usually bother with local artists.' And I replied, 'You know, rabbi, neither do I.' And that was the beginning of a beautiful friendship. I give him a great deal of credit for what he did for my Jewish education. And to this day, we are in touch regularly."

Golub remarks, "What I am is an artist. Although now I focus on Jewish themes because that's where my inspiration comes from. But I am first and foremost and always...an artist. And," she declares, "I enjoy what I do."

"I remember the first commission that I had 22 years ago through Rabbi Levine and that was at Temple Sharey-Tefila-Israel in South Orange. It was to renovate the ark in the sanctuary. It was a very major job for a novice," she muses, "but we did it last year. I redesigned my own ark-work—when the temple had refurbished its whole place. But from this first commission," Golub recalls, "I continued doing experimental and secular things."

About a year later, Golub says, "the second commission came along in a synagogue in Wayne. After that, little by little, I started getting calls from rabbis and congregations that needed coronation textiles like ark curtains, Torah mantles, prayer shawls and decorative wall pieces. The whole thing has just mushroomed. Then I became acquainted through Rabbi Levine with Myron Schoen, the director of Synagogue Management for the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in 1969 or 1970."

"He had a special interest in the arts. He started an architect slide file, and he made recommendations. It's a really wonderful service. The American Synagogue has been a major patron of the arts. He would include my work two or three others when he did something for a congregation. That connection became the bulk of my work there, and for the last 10 or 15 years, all over the country. My work is in synagogues all over the country," she says.

Restaurant review

Jade Lake Gourmet

By SHARON CATES

If you are looking for the perfect spot for a lunchtime escape or the ideal place for a romantic evening rendezvous, then look no further, the Jade Lake Gourmet is the place to go. Conveniently located at 243 W. St. Georges Ave. Linden, the restaurant boasts two spacious dining rooms. Patrons can either dine in the front room, or, for that special occasion, important business meeting, or to add an extra touch to an evening out, they can enjoy their meal in the glass-enclosed Garden Room.

The Garden Room offers privacy and intimacy. It can also provide a festive atmosphere for a special occasion or party.

Specializing in Hunan and Szechuan cuisine, Jade Lake offers a large variety of poultry, beef, seafood, vegetable, and noodle and rice selections. The entrees are modestly priced and range from $4.55 to $10.95.

In addition there are 20 mouth-watering house specialties to choose from. The house specials range from $8.55 to $24 with many of the entrees in the $12 range.

If it's lunch you want, there are 20 luncheon specials all priced at $4.95, which includes an entree, fried rice and soup. Lunch specials are served daily from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The Jade Lake offers something to satisfy everyone's palate, from the seafood-lover to the vegetarian. They have a specially prepared diet portion on their menu. Also, there are several "hot and spicy" entrees to choose from.

In a recent visit, my companion and I started our meal with a PuPu Platter for two. Priced at $9.95, the platter offers six hot appetizers and allows patrons to taste a sampling of the delicious, well-prepared cuisine. The platter includes lightly breaded fennel shrimp, tender mongolian beef, and traditional egg rolls.

For our entrees, we both selected one of the house specials.

My companion chose the Sizzling Seafood Special. Served on a sizzling platter were shrimp, scallops and crab meat garnished with Chinese vegetables. Placed on a bed of white rice, the meal was moderately priced at $11.95.

For $10.95, I selected the Hunan Market Special for my entree. The meal offered sliced chicken and shrimp with a variety of mixed Chinese vegetables. Both the chicken and shrimp were deliciously tender, the vegetables were crisp and fresh.

The meal was served with the chef's special sauce, which was light and tangy and enhanced the flavor of the food.

For dessert they serve ice cream, sesame banana, fruits and cookies. My companion and I shared a fruit platter.

Uniquely prepared, the fruits were designed to represent flowers and animals. The fruits were fresh and juicy and served as the perfect light ending for the meal.

Although they do not have a liquor license, the restaurant encourages patrons to bring their own bottle of liquor or wine.

Jade Lake is also available to cater parties. And, they deliver.

Ample free parking is available for all customers in the rear of the establishment.

Take-out orders are also popular at Jade Lake, for those who wish to savor their authentically prepared food, but do not have the time to dine in.

The Jade Lake Gourmet is open on weekdays from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on weekends from noon to 11 p.m.

REAL ESTATE

Design follows the times

Home designs have evolved in the past decade to meet the changing needs of the two-career American couple, according to Weichert. Realtors in Morris Plains.

Years ago, when women mostly filled homemaker roles, kitchens, laundry rooms and sewing areas were designed to suit their needs, according to James Murray, senior vice president of Weichert.

Men, the traditional breadwinners, were given a place to relax, such as a study or a workshop, in homes 20 years ago, he added.

Murray said that today, however, couples are spending more time at work and fewer hours at home. Both men and women want easy-care, time-saving appliances and features in a home.

Libraries and at-home offices are also being featured, offering both husband and wife a place to work, read, or conduct meetings.

Townhomes attract young buyers

River's Edge, a 28-unit townhome community in Union, is the story of a community whose time has come.

Milburn native Michael Romanelli, a successful builder and Union restaurant owner, bought the eight-acre parcel just off Vauxhall Road at the borders of Millburn, Maplewood and Springfield would be particularly attractive to first time buyers looking for affordable housing in a prime location.

Having just sold off Phase I of the 2 and 3-bedroom townhome community, priced from $134,900, he knows he was right on target with the assessment.

"I know this neighborhood of neat homes owned by caring, hard-working residents, with excellent schools and superb transportation to New York City would appeal to young professionals," the developer added.

Typical of those it appealed to are stockbrokers Abram and Terry Biele and lawyer Steve Rosenberg and his wife, Cecilia, a legal secretary in Manhattan, who recently moved into the community.

"River's Edge," Romanelli said, "gave these young buyers the opportunity to purchase a quality home with an affordable pricing in a location containing all the amenities of an affluent area."

The purchase is also desirable from the standpoint of a solid investment, according to Patrick Appello, a stockbroker who deals in municipal bonds for Halper & Co. (just down the street from the project site).

"I see a profit of from 10 to 15 percent in three to five years," Appello said recently. "This is a well-thought out, livable home with an attractive layout," he continued. "It has fine workmanship, low maintenance and is in an excellent commuting area."

"You're actually buying at the bottom of the market in an excellent area," he said of the value.

An expert in municipal bonds, he noted that while the neighborhood is revitalizing, it has always been a very stable area.

Deborah Williams, a broker for the D.W. France Realty Group, who will be handling the sales for the grand opening of Phase II of River's Edge in November, grew up in Springfield and knows the area well.

"I was astonished at the changes," she said recently. "I've lived at the Jersey Shore for the past 20 years," she continued, "where I see people buying waterfront cottages and tearing them down, then building gorgeous homes next to other old cottages...because the property is so valuable."

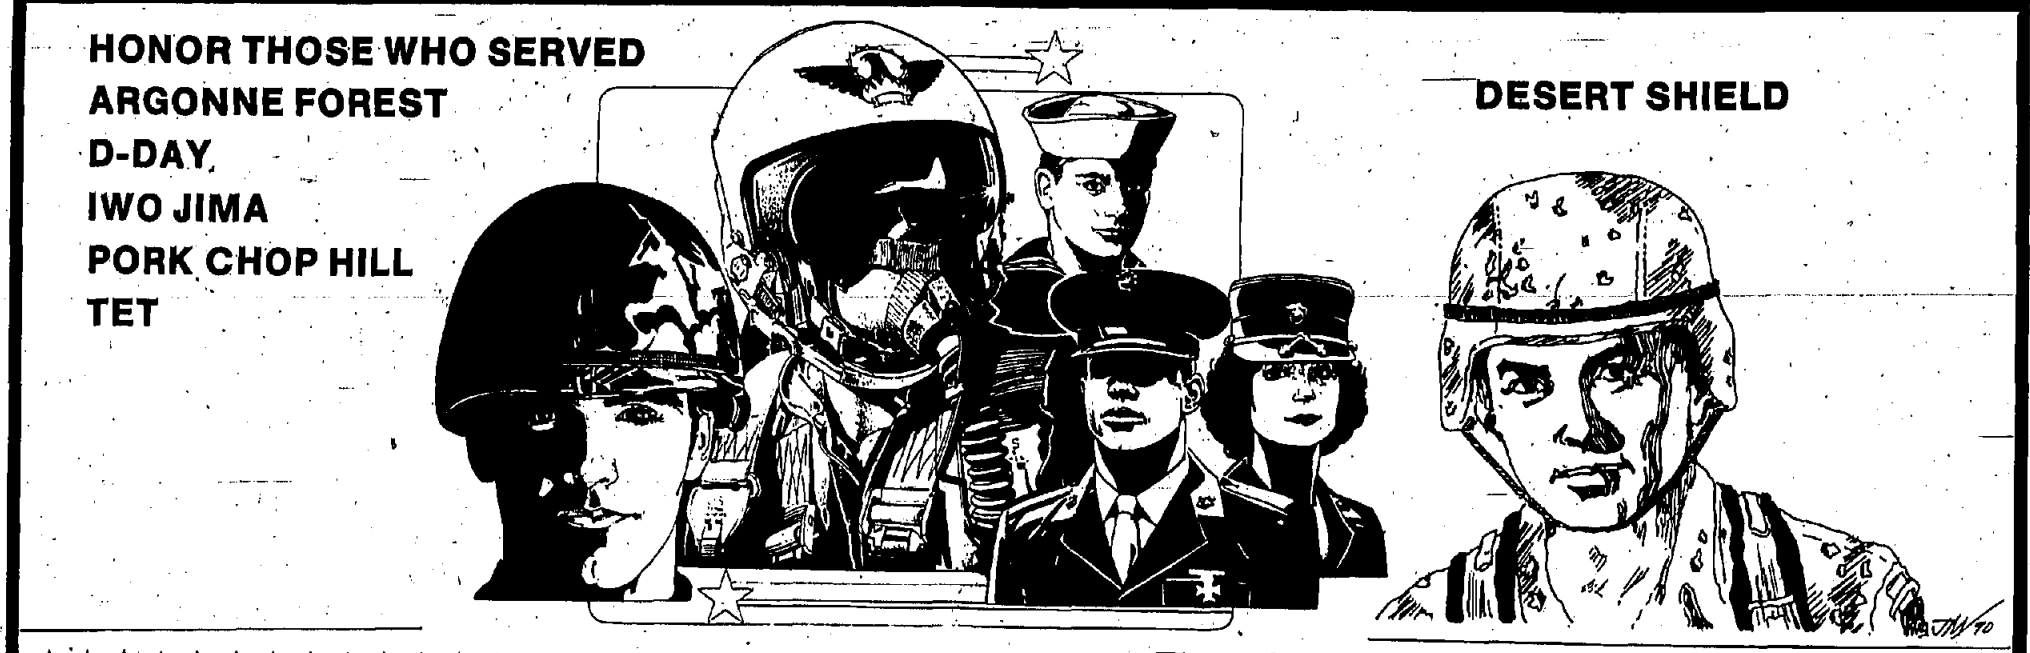

"That's what I see happening here," the broker continued. "The location is so prime, so centrally located...and with the revitalization of the area, first time buyers have a ground-floor opportunity to buy these superbly-constructed townhomes."

Romanelli agrees with both Appello and Ms. Williams. The member of a family of builders and owner of Tiffany Gardens, a popular Union restaurant, he has observed first hand the pride residents have in their town, their well-maintained homes, fine educational facilities and school athletic programs.
