Board has improved the district, incumbent says

By David Wise Staff Writer

Two Springfield Board of Education members. Ned Sambur and Myrna Wasserman, have bowed out of this year's election, leaving only one incumbent, Ruth Brinen, campaigning for another three-year term.

Serving on the board for six years, Brinen has seen a lot of positive changes in the school district, many of which she personally had a part in producing.

Brinen explained that her role on the board has been "to give our children the best education possible" in the most cost-effective way. As a board member, she has served on many committees, including the one that appointed Gary Friedland as superintendent of schools.

"We are doing a very good job," Brinen said in collective praise of the

"lighthouse," with regard to its educational programs and academic

Perhaps the most significant area of improvement in the school district has been in curriculum development, particularly in mathematics and geography. When two Rutgers University professors, Dr. Robert Davis and Dr. Carolyn Maher, conducted a a review of student performance and teaching methods in math last year, they discovered that most students scored above the national average on tests. The professors also learned that Springfield teachers are wellmotivated and trained.

Their study, however, suggested that the district move away from standardized tests and ask estudents more open-ended questions on examinations. The report stated further that more emphasis should be placed on "math manipulatives," exercises make Springfield school district a designed to give students a more thoughtful approach to the study of

Since the report was issued, the board has been working to revamp the district's math program, and although it is a "slow process," said Brinen, much progress is being made in this area. For example, at Monday night's Board of Education meeting, Friedland explained that expenses for the Florence M. Gaudineer School math program doubled last year's amount, following the district's purchase of updated textbooks which place greater stress on math manipulatives.

"The textbooks were 10 years old," Friedland said. "It was time to update

Buying newer books is a costly venture, as Friedland said, and the school district "cannot afford to update every year." This is one reason why. Brinen said, it will take a rela-See BOARD, Page 2

County could acquire land under new laws

Staff Writer

Union County is seeking to acquire from the state, either by lease or purchase agreement, the 93-acre parcel in Houdaille Quarry in Springfield.

Last week Assemblyman Neil Cohen, D-Union, introduced a new bill he is co-sponsoring with Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, R-Essex/ Union, that would authorize the state to lease the parcel to Union County for 99 years at an annual $1 fee. The bill passed through the state Assembly Transportation Committee last week, and running concurrently with this legislative move, the Department of Transportation signaled that it would lease the land to Union at the current $1 a year rate.

To gain final approval, however, Cohen's bill must pass both the state Assembly and Senate, get acceptance from the Federal Highway Administration, which provided 90 percent of the funds that bought the original 163-acres from Houdaille Quarry Co. in 1981. The bill then requires the signature of Governor Florio.

There is a likelihood, said Cohen, that most of these legal steps will be bypassed, if the state DOT automatiCounty, as it now appears willing to

Approval of the FHWA is still needed, nevertheless, but in view of comments made by local and federal officials, the state will encounter no legal problems in leasing the land to

Cohen remarked that the FHWA "has no objection to a 99-year lease," adding, "I hope DOT and the county will enter a lease agreement for 99

John Kessler, head of the New Jersey division of FHWA, who Cohen said is very cooperative in this matter, said the federal government is not entitled to compensation unless the state receives payment for the land. If the property is sold, explained Kessler then the FHWA is obligated to collect 90 percent of the proceeds. Cohen noted that his bill, in effect, circumvents Statute 27:12-1, which requires the state to regain its original investment if the 93-acre parcel is sold and not used for a bridge or road.

While Cohen's bill was being debated in the legislature, and the DOT and county considered negotiating privately this week, state Senator Louis Bassano introduced a separate

Committee that would allow the state Commissioner of Transportation to sell the land to Union County for a flat fee of $1. According to the bill's stipulations, the property would be conveyed to any municipality for the purposes of establishing open spaces, conservation sites and recreational

In actuality, Bassano's bill amends the language of 27:12-1, which only permits the state to donate land to be used for a bridge or road. The senator said his bill, co-sponsored by Senator Donald DiFrancesco, R-Essex/Union, "can be the final chapter" in the controversy over the quarry, and it "would avoid going through the rigamarole of the lease process."

Although the proposal for leasing the property is "doable without legislation," Bassano said his plan guarantees permanent title of the 93 acres, with virtually no cost to the county.

"I don't want the property to be in the hands of the county and something goes up there that we don't want, added Bassano, who wants the land preserved for open spaces under an ownership agreement.

Writing centers get high ratings in school report

By Suzette Stalker Staff Writer

The Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District 1 recently heard a report by Kenneth Mattfield, district supervisor of curriculum. regarding the success of the writing centers which were begun last Sentember in each of the four regional high schools.

Regional District English department supervisors had studied various writing center models during the 1989-90 school year before presenting their own proposal to the Regional Board of Education. The board subsequently approved the program for the 1990-91 academic

The district based its writing centers on the model currently used by wood. The facility there, located in the school's media center, offers a quiet enclave where teachers can meet with students individually or in small groups to discuss pupils! writing techniques.

Mattfield compared this model with the one observed at North Hunterdon High School in Hunterdon County - a highly sophisticated and computerized laboratory for reading, writing and cognitive exercises, but which Regional District educators felt left little opportunity for one-on-one interaction.

"We thought the model at Columbia High School had the philosophy and the procedure we liked for our schools" the curriculum supervisor remarked. "We saw the writing centers primarily as places where students could get help from skilled writing teachers rather than with computers." Each of the Regional District writing centers is a full-size classroom equipped with tables and chairs for teacher-student conferences, a single computer for word processing, and standard reference aids such as a dictionary, thesaurus and professional reading materials.

An additional advantage, according to Mattfield, is that the services of the writing centers can be brought to other classrooms. For example, a science teacher can request that a writing center staffer visit the teacher's class to advise and assist students with laboratory reports.

The writing centers also serve as a clearinghouse for information about scholarships, literary contests and other kinds of publication opportunities, according to Mattfield.

English teachers are assigned to the writing centers five periods each weekday, with a volunteer teacher operating the centers before school hours and another teacher available after school hours to

Mother has baby during rush to the hospital in ambulance

By Dennis Schaal Staff Writer

By 8:45 a.m. on this Sunday moming, Shelly and Martin Gornstein, a husband and wife tandem who are veterans of the Springfield Volunteer First Aid Squad, had already been on duty for almost 15 hours. They had responded to a "shortness of breath" call at 4 a.m. and were now trying to catch a little sleep.

The next call came in at 8:45 a.m. on their Plectron system: "Woman in labor." Shelly, a member of the squad for 12 years, explained this week that the source of the call was the Springfield residence of Judy and David Floyd. Judy grew up in Springfield and just moved back to town several weeks ago.

The Gornsteins picked up the ambulance and hurried to the Floyd home. It was to be a memorable event for all concerned. Within the hour, at 9:21 a.m. to be exact, as the ambulance was heading along Shunpike Road in Springfield toward the destination of Overlook Hospital in Summit, Judy Floyd gave birth to a baby

Judy observed this week that Zachary Benjamin Floyd, who was born that morning of Feb. 24, came into this world at a weight of 6 pounds, 15 ounces. She noted that Zachary, now the younger brother to 21/2 -year-old Jake, is doing just fine

In a further twist to the eventful plot, Zachary was "received" in the ambulance by Dr. Richard Luciano, Judy's cousin.

Shelly observed that she and her husband, Martin, squad vice president and a volunteer for 21 years, arrived at the Floyd household and found Judy's husband, David, waiting outside. Shelly said David told the squad members that his wife was "ready to go and the doctor's with her."

Shelly observed that Judy had called the doctor around 6 a.m. to let him know that she had started labor. The family contacted Luciano again when the labor became more intense.

"She went from almost nothing to being ready to give birth," Shelly offered.

Shelly explained that the volunteers carried a stretcher up to the mother's bedroom and that the Gornsteins and the doctor placed Judy on the stretcher and loaded it into the rig.

"We lugged the stretcher up to the bedroom level because no one ever lives on the first floor," Shelly commented wryly.

Along the way, Judy asked Luciano if she would make it to the hospital and the doctor reportedly replied: "I hope so."

Shelly got behind the steering wheel of the ambulance while Marty. Dr. Luciano and Judy rode in back. David trailed the ambulance in his childbirth and the ambulances contain a complete obstetrical kit. This kind of situation crops up from time to time. Shelley recalled that she helped deliver a baby on a Morris Avenue

"back porch" several years ago. But on Shunpike Road, meanwhile, Shelly noted that although Judy was about to give birth, the mother was 'not panicked" and was a "wellbehaved mommy."

The contingent pulled the ambulance to a stop on Shunpike and motioned to husband David to pull his car over. "David got into the rig," Shelly said, "and pretty soon we had a baby. There was a gorgeous little pink

It was a team action. Not to mention Judy's effort. Dr. Lucigno received the baby and cleaned him up while Marty severed the umbilical cord. Shelly wrapped the newborn in a blanket and listened to little Zachary Benjamin Floyd cry in her arms.

Judy was "asking all the right questions," Shelly said. "He is just a beautiful, beautiful baby boy, born so naturally."

The ambulance then proceeded to Overlook. Judy went directly to the labor and delivery section while the doctor took Zachary directly to the nursery. The rest is history.

Students stage original opera after school receives a grant

By David Wise Staff Writer

Students at Florence M. Gaudineer are writing, creating, and performing their own opera, using funds provided by the Metropolitan Opera Guild. Twenty-five students have been at work on the project since September after vocal music director Mark Maicski and instrumental specialist Susan Bergey, who applied for the opera grant, were trained by the Metropolitan Opera Guild during a 10-day workshop last summer.

Both Majeski and Bergey subjected themselves to grueling 10-hour-day sessions in order to adequately prepare for the kind of supervision needed for the project. The actual work - constructing the sets, creating the costumes, writing the story and music, and directing the opera characters - is performed by the students, who were selected for the program on the basis of their creative and artistic talent.

The teachers are guiding the children through this long, exhaustive process, consisting of all aspects of opera production, and their joint effort will culminate in a presentation held at Gaudineer at the end of the school

At Monday night's Board of Education meeting, Majeski and Bergey, as well as several students in the project, discussed the still-in-progress opera while displaying scale models of their sets to board members.

Three seventh-graders, Stephen Horwitz, Noelle Fabrizio and Allison Blinder, the project's public relations personnel, explained to the board the different assigments given to students working on the opera. These PR agents described the various roles assumed by students, such as production and stage managers, makeup artists, set and costume designers, and carpenters, in addition to outlining the duties of their own department.

"We are responsible for contacting and inviting important guests, and putting the program together," said Fabrizio. "During the performance we will act as the company's representatives."

"All the characters must be children." Maieski told board members. "Creatively, it's wonderful; it's a really good experience for them."

The music director said the project, undertaken in many New Jersey schools for the last 10 years, allows students to completely integrate all See STUDENTS, Page 2 haul of the curriculum is completed. In the subject of geography, for instance, "a good deal of work" is still needed, she said.

Financial constraints also limit what the board may accomplish each academic year. Brinen remarked that Springfield is already a highly taxed town where many senior citizens reside, and to prevent a greater tax levy, the board tries to implement conservative budgets, such as the present one. This year's "very tentative" $8.1 million budget reflects a modest 6.49 percent increase, Friedland told the audience at Monday's meeting.

Brinen is concerned about the possible impact of the Quality Education Act upon Springfield Public Schools. but because several bills are flowing in the legislature, "everything is so up in the air," she said. Friedland told board members this week that Assembly Speaker Joseph Doria, D-Hudson, is sponsoring a bill that will authorize the state to pay for all pension and Social Security costs for all districts in 1992 and 93, thereby delaying the impact of QEA. The ing caps - between 7.5 and 9.2 percent - for Springfield, and limits the amount of money the district may keep in surplus. Surplus money in excess of 5 percent of the school budget must be applied to the following year's budget.

Brinen served as the board president last year and has two sons attending public school in Springfield. One is a fifth-grader at Gaudineer, another a freshman at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, and a third son graduated from Dayton and is in his first year at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania.

The board was thoroughly pleased by the presentation of Majeski and

Centers get high ratings

"I think that the direction we're going in is a good and useful one for all the schools," Mattfield said. "We've been impressed by what has been going on during the first half of this year. We're using a computer and a daily log to keep track of who's coming to the writing centers, when they're coming in and why.'

The curriculum supervisor explained that Regional District students primarily utilize the services of the writing centers for homework or class assignments and for college essays, although a small group at each school also visit the centers to have samples of their creative writing critiqued.

Mattfield explained that Regional District writing centers "do not rely heavily on computer equipment. You have a teacher and a student who have time to discuss the tions, and it's also a good place for teachers to get together to make plans for upcoming assignments." During the last Regional Board of Education meeting Feb. 5, Mattfield, accompanied by Julia Latzer. English department supervisor at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, gave a report on the number of recorded student visits to the writing centers at the four high schools.

Mattfield's report showed 404 for Jonathan Dayton, 116 for David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, 447 for Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, and 446 for Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

The curriculum supervisor explained that the reason the Brearley count was so much lower than the other three schools was because the writing center there had only first semester and therefore Brearley students had less access to the Mattfield reported that the Brearley center was only operating three days a week because former English Department Supervisor Steffi Poss had left and her two teaching spots had not been filled. The writing center at Brearley is now under the supervision of Ron Fernandez, who also heads the social studies department at Brearley.

Since the beginning of the second semester in January, however, the writing center has been open five days a week, and Mattfield said Friday that he expects the number of student visits to the Brearley writing center will soon match those of the other three high schools.

"We know the writing centers are being used, and we think we made the right decision," Mattfield

Tried and True Dentistry

Exciting technological advances in dentistry, some of which we have discussed, frequently obscure the rescue work your dentist performs every day for patients suffering pain and distress, Such work should not be overlooked merely because it is acomplished without unusual incident. For example--

Let's suppose you've experienced warning signals that your teeth need professional attention. You rush to your dentist for help and there learn that decay has eroded a once healthy tooth. But not so badly that it can't be saved by having it filled.

This is one of those dental restorations, you think, a dentist can perform without a second thought?

Well, not quite. To be successfully executed, this socalled "commonplace" procedure calls for highly developed, and artful, skills. Your dentist has to proceed effectively through three stages:

O Completely remove the decay and prepare the tooth for the filling.

Out a pattern in the tooth that will securely hold. the filling in place as you grind away at your food month after month.

Install the filling in the tooth.

In fact, going through this procedure your dentist is filling the triple role of artist, engineer, and contractor -- carving, preparing, and constructing.

And all along you thought a filling required nothing more than a spinning drill and some kind of tough composition stuffed into the excavation!

'old friends' Hospital seeking

Administrators of Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside are seeking people who have ever been associated with the hospital to join the pediatric rehabilitation institution's celebration of its 100th armiversary throughout 1991.

"We're looking for our long-time friends - former patients and their families, staff and volunteers - to be a part of our centennial events," explained Richard B. Ahlfeld, hospital president. "Sometimes, over the years, we lose touch with them, and they with us. We want to re-establish our ties with the many people who share their history with our facility."

The long history of the hospital, which began as the Children's Country Home in 1891, is a reflection of the progress of healthcare in America. as the hospital was then known, treated children stricken with polio exclusively because of the pervasiveness of the epidemic.

In addition to the young patients, there were many volunteers who assisted with a revolutionary treatment developed by an Australian nurse, Sister Elizabeth Kenny. The volunteers, over 500 women and men altogether, became known as "Sister Kenny Packers."

The name Children's Country Home was changed to Children's Specialized Hospital in 1962 to accurately reflect the services offered there. Today, Children's Specialized is the state's only comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital, offering inpatient and outpatient care to children and adolescents.

"The hospital has a rich history and each person is special," Ahlfeld continued. "The doctors and nurses, the therapists and all the patients that devoted their energies over the years we want them all to be a part of our 100th anniversary celebration.

"We'd also like to hear from people whose ancestors were instrumental in keeping the facility operating in the carry days," Ahlfold added. "Family names like Ackerman, Coles, Bridges, Delamater, Engel and Westlake occur frequently in the early

Among the centennial events is a birthday party scheduled for June 8, from 11 a.m.-3 p.m., at the hospital

If one has been associated in some way with Children's Country Home/ Children's Specialized Hospital, or have information pertinent to its history, one can call the Foundation Office at 233-3720.

Election coverage guidelines are set

In fairness to all board of education candidates and to provide the best service to our readers, this newspaper has established ground rules and a schedule for coverage of local elections.

Under the guidelines, this newspaper is committed to specific elements of coverage. It will give background information on all known candidates, including stories on basic positions taken by each and it will write news stories on the issues raised during the campaign.

We will also list important political events such as candidates nights in news stories.

We will aim to stimulate discussion of the issues during election campaigns through independent research and initiative stories.

If appropriate, editorial endorsements will be considered. When this newspaper sees fit to endorse candidates, endorsements will be based on interviews that include at least two members of the editorial staff, usually an editor and a reporter covering the News releases and campaign position statements from candidates are welcome. They will be used at the editor's discretion and they will not necessarily be printed as such but may be used as material to develop news stories if the issues raised in them merit such treatment.

Story use, timing and treatment are entirely at the discretion of the managing editor.

We will strive to avoid the initial raising of controversial or sensational issues in the final edition

Letters to the editor will be monitored closely during the campaign in an effort to reserve space in those columns for issue-oriented discussion among readers. Letters from candidates, their representatives or backers are considered campaign statements and may be rejected, unless their specific purpose is to object to news coverage of the campaign. All letters will be subject to editing.

We aim to focus on what the voter needs to know and not on what candidates want to say.

Our guidelines reflect the reader service objectives of this paper in municipal and board of education elections. However, we will review our guidelines from time to time and revise them if necessary as to benefit our readers.

Following is the schedule we'll adhere to in the April 30 school board elections:

Letters to the editor: We will print letters up to and including the issue of April 18.

Candidate's Corner: Candidates running for office will be given the opportunity to speak to the readers on these pages as they present their backgrounds, platforms and goals. Their columns will appear on April 18.

Our endorsements: Endorsement editorials will appear on April 25.

Staff written round-up stories: A final look at the candidates, their platforms, goals, etc., will appear on Election results: Find out who won and why. ook for complete election result coverage on May 2. We wish all candidates the best of luck.

News for kids, too

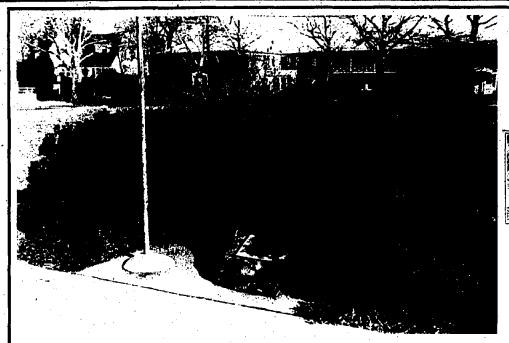

Political and geographic literacy is a key area of concern among teachers who are helping students prepare for their roles as citizens in the global and local villages of tomorrow. In a free nation, liberties are guaranteed by the availability of information. Much of the information that guarantees these liberties can be found in newspapers such as the Springfield Leader.

There can be no access to information, no matter how available it is, without a literate society. The goals of educators and of newspaper publishers, then, are the same: literacy and access to information.

Newspapers in Education Week shows that through the use of newspapers, students can become better informed and consequently better citizens; that newspapers demonstrate practical applications of skills and concepts covered in the school curriculum; that newspapers update information contained in textbooks; that newspapers can be fun and fun motivates learning; and that teachers are given the opportunity to explore some teaching approaches and resources that they may not have tried.

Children do not simply begin to read the newspaper. They need models such as parents and teachers who are excited about reading and who share with others what they have read.

Parents who are more than a face behind the newspaper and teachers who use the newspaper as a means of enhancing the broad scope of literacy show children just how important newspapers are.

The largest grab of local resources has been state government's appropriation since 1981 of the growth in gross receipts and franchise taxes. These are taxes paid by utilities in lieu of property taxes. In nine years, the state has taken unto itself more than $1 billion in these taxes which should have gone to municipalities under the 1938 law which created them. Many cities and towns today would be faring just fine taxwise if the state had simply left this source of money

New Jersey's penchant for mandating new programs, but leaving payment up to municipalities, has reached legendary proportions. Jack Trafford, executive director of the New Jersey League of Municipalities, calls the past 10 years in New Jersey "a period of constantly escalating assaults on municipalities by the state and federal governments." State government's attitude (arrogance?) was epitomized late in 1989 when municipalities received letters from the Department of Transportation that it would no longer reimburse local governments for paying New.Jersey's electric bills for street lighting on state-owned highways, a reimbursement which had been in effect since Mr. Edison sent out the first bill. In response, many mayors have said they'll refuse to pay. So far, the lights are still on, but it could get interesting, maybe even

Be Our Guest

By Joseph Hartnett

A "911" emergency telephone system for New Jersey? State government says it's a great idea and passed a law to do it. Who's going to pay? Municipalities. And wouldn't it be nice if all tax maps in New Jersey were the exact same size, with new decimal system numbering of property lots and blocks? The state has said this would be nice, and has required municipalities to pay the considerable cost of doing it, even though graciously allowing the expenditure to be spread over five years. The list of "state mandates/towns pay" goes on

The social engineering contemplated by Governor Florio's tax package does redirect resources from the state level, but overwhelmingly to the schools. This portends that the trend of shrinking resources for municipal governments will continue, not of a standardized, centralized system would be a benefit to the public, he argued. Many were slarmed at this direct frontal assault on "home rule": they might be more alarmed if they realized to what extent similar standardization and centralization are already in place.

Building regulations and the attendant permit process are now standardized from High Point to Cape May. You can take out your permit forms in one town and submit them in another, because they're the same. (You might have to cross out the one town's name and write in the other's.) Soon enough, we can easily have regional state building offices and eliminate the municipal role altogether.

The same applies to municipal courts. They are all being mandated to come "on-line" with the state's uniform computer system for processing violations of the law. There'll be no reason, for example, why you can't get the traffic ticket you received in Newark processed in Toms River.

Police departments have for many years now been linked to the State Crime Information System, a computer network which tracks and records law enforcement information, requiring uniformity and standardization to do so. And while we've already noted the required standardization of tax maps, we haven't even touched on long-standing areas of uniformity in New Jersey, such as the state-required format for municipal budgets.

The fact is, New Jersey may be species known as a "home rule" state, but its municipalities actually enjoy no such thing; they're clearly the children in the governmental household. A proposal like Senator Lynch's can, in reality, be easily implemented with today's technology. Indeed many towns are already only one step away, having installed computer assessing systems to state standards and

With their outside revenues drying up and many of their functions easily subject to state takeover as a result of technological and legal standardization, municipal governments as we know them today are an endangered species. Yet, people like municipal government: they can feel it, touch it, yell at it. They can interact with its leaders on the street comer or in the local coffee shop.

Whether the public will allow the demise of local government remains to be seen. But New Jersey's new tax package has motivated the citizenry in an unprecedented way to examine how, where and why their tax dollars are spent. It is this dynamic which is likely to determine the ultimate fate of municipal governments in the State of Now Jersey.

Joseph Hartnett is senior vice president of the Alman Management Group Inc., of Westfield. He was formerly the city administrator for Rahway, and chairman of the kind that are surprising some and making others very uncomfortable. When Ellis, an unknown Texan, was brought in to replace Saul Cooperman as New Jersey's education commissioner, there were certain assumptions made by Trenton political insiders about the appointment. First, as a total stranger to New Jersey and its peculiar brand of politics, Ellis began way behind - so far that he might never be expected to catch up.

Second, the timing of Ellis' appointment, coming after the enactment of Gov. Jim Florio's major education initiative, the Quality Education Act, put Ellis in a position of defending a controversial, confusing and hastily-passed proposal that he had nothing to do with.

Third, Florio and Cooperman didn't like each other. They had very different ideas about education policy. Tom Kean allowed the outspoken Cooperman to play a major role in shaping New Jersey's education plan. Conversely, Florio clearly wants education policy shaped and executed not from the commissioner's office, but from the governor's office. Ellis is not the only cabinet member to be frustrated by the fact that they appear to have very little influence over their respective departments. Florio's operation is a very tight, insular one. That's why Florio's education point man, especially for the QEA, has been Tom Corcoran, a savvy education expert who knows the ins and outs of our state and has the total trust of the governor.

If Ellis had any doubts about Florio's education policies, he kept them to himself. Ellis was considered the classic, loyal soldier in the tightlipped Florio cabinet. While he was well-liked by many local educators, he wasn't taken all that seriously by them. Some went so far as to call him

All that changed about a week ago. Mild-mannered team player John Ellis shocked the political and educational establishments by publicly taking issue with Florio's announcement that the education department's budget was being cut from $45 million to $37 million — a massive $8 million reduction.

Many of the jobs climinated were those of people who were supposed to monitor the OEA to insure that a massive infusion of new state money wouldn't be wasted by local school districts. Ellis made it publicly clear that if Florio's proposed cuts were left in place, he could not insure that the $1 billion in QEA aid would be spent properly. In fact, Ellis said that not only might his department not be able to monitor these funds "effectively," they might not be able to monitor at all. He said the cuts of the QEA monitoring staff would make enforcement 'extraordinarily difficult."

Ellis not only went to the press with his public disagreement with the governor, but he threatened to take an action which is clearly forbidden under this administration by stating, "I will go to the Legislature if I have to. I believe I will be able to document the need in order to do the job."

All of this in light of a Florio edict that bars cabinet members from directly lobbying the Legislature to restore budget cuts. In fact, Florio doesn't even allow his department heads to testify and represent their own agencies before the Legislature's joint appropriations committee. Treahonor of speaking for all of them.

Ellis' comments further embarrass the governor, who has responded to public concern and opposition about potential waste and mismanagement in the QEA by assuring that he would "add an A for accountability to the three Rs." Obviously, it will be difficult if not impossible for already skeptical taxpayers to feel comfortable with Florio's promise of accountability given Ellis' statements.

Add to this the fact that the OEA sponsor, Sen. Dan Dalton, and Senate President John Lynch said that they weren't sure what was in the OEA formula, and they now question the ability of local school districts to handle all this new money. In fact, while Florio now seems receptive to a Lynch-Dalton proposal to divert $400 million of the QEA money away from urban schools toward property tax relief, Ellis is dead set against it.

cal and fiscal ramifications of Ellis' surprising actions, it also points out what one long-time Trenton observer called the "unravelling" of the Florio administration. Unravelling somelimes comes from being wound too tightly. But unravelling also can happen when a group of bright, capable professionals are brought in to be titular heads of departments with no real power or authority to make decisions, to get credit or to take the blame.

In retrospect, maybe John Ellis' public defiance and declaration of independence shouldn't be so surprising. What's surprising is that it hasn't happened sooner and with more cabinet members. Then again, there's still a lot of time. Stay tuned.

Discovering ancestry living in the present at the door with a pad and pencil today, blocking my path like a "60 Minutes" veteran.

"Where did our family come from?" "Scoop" demanded.

"I've been asking that question for years, Johnny," I replied, as I took off my coat and dropped it on a chair.

He gave me the look that children reserve for the pitifully insane and parents.

"It's homework, Mrs. Pointzoff savs we hafta do a report on where our ancestors came from.

"Oh..." I responded. "I understand. OK.

I grabbed a beer from the fridge and made a mental note to hang up my coat when I got around to it. My son continued to watch me, pencil poised.

"Well?" he asked. "Hmmmm. Now, I can't speak for your mother's side, but my family came from Italy."

"Does that mean we're Italians?" he asked as he took copious notes. "No...we're Americans. It's just our ancestors that were Italians.

We're as American as pizza." "Why did they leave Italy?" he asked.

"That's just the way things were done back then. You were born, grew up, and left the country as soon as you could.'

There was some fast scribbling, and Johnny moved on with the interview. "Do we have relatives in Italy?"

Think About It

By John Tartaglino

a cat anywhere in the country without hitting two or three of our people. That was part of the problem. They all got married at 13; lived to 99 and seemed to have just one hobby." Johnny raised the eyebrow he inherited from his mother, thought for a moment, and obviously decided to let the matter drop.

"Were any of our ancestors famous?" he explored. "Were they pirates or anything?"

"Sorry, son, no pirates. There was some talk of a horse thief or two, but no one was ever able to come up with much proof, even after the hangings."

"Oh," he muttered. His disappointment was obvious.

"But I'm sure our people WOULD have been pirates if they could have," I comforted. "It's just that they lived in the Alps, and it would have been very hard to SAIL a pirate ship."

The pure logic of the statement seemed to make sense to him. He nodded gravely and he moved on to the next question.

"When did they become Americans?" he asked.

"That's hard to say. Your Grandpa always said he knew Poppa had him opening a jar of spaghetti sauce." He gave me "the look" again. Dan-and."

"Look, I wasn't there. All I know is what I've been told."

Johnny made a face that made him look for all the world like Sam Donaldson, shook his head, and press-

"Why did they come to America?" "That's a toughie," I admitted. "Well, why did our people come?" "For one thing, passage to New York was $8 cheaper than passage to

"That's not a good reason," he

"It is if you don't have the extra $8," I pointed out.

Even if he was getting fed up, I was starting to warm up to the subject. "C'mon, any more questions?" I

I got an uncertain look as he referred to his notes.

"Did they stop at the Statue of Liberty?" he asked.

Actually, family legend says that at least one of my ancestors made his first appearance on these shores at 3 o'clock in the morning after jumping off a tramp steamer. Still, it's quite possible he used the Statue as a landmark as he dog-paddled by. And even if he didn't, there's always the chance that he took the tour once he was settled in, so strictly speaking...
"I'm sure they did," I hedged.

I finally seemed to come up with an answer that my son liked. He grunted in satisfaction.

The next step was for me to rattle off as many of my esteemed ancestors' names as I could remember. My son was impressed by how many of them seemed to have been named after The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. I pointed out that we had claim to these names long before the green guys were around, which seemed to impress him even more.

We wrapped up the interview with the honest to goodness real pronunciation of our last name. In Italian, it's almost pretty. In English, it sounds like a throat condition.

He wandered off after that, into the living room and some quick cartoons. heard him muttering something about hoping that he took after his mother's side. I finished my beer and decided to hang up my coat before my wife yelled. When I lifted my coat, I found my son's underneath it.

As a family, at least we're consistent.

Social Security earnings must be reported in April

People who work while they are getting Social Security benefits need to report their earnings by April 15, if their earnings are above certain limits, George W. Dearness, Social Security manager in Elizabeth, said.

For 1990 earnings, the reports are required from beneficiaries (other than those receiving disability benefits) who were age 65-69 and earned more than $9,360, or under 65 and earned more than $6,840, and received some benefits in 1990. Earnings over those amounts count in determining the amount of Social Security benefits due.

People who were 70 or older during all 1990 do not have to file an earnings report no matter how much they earned, Dearness said."

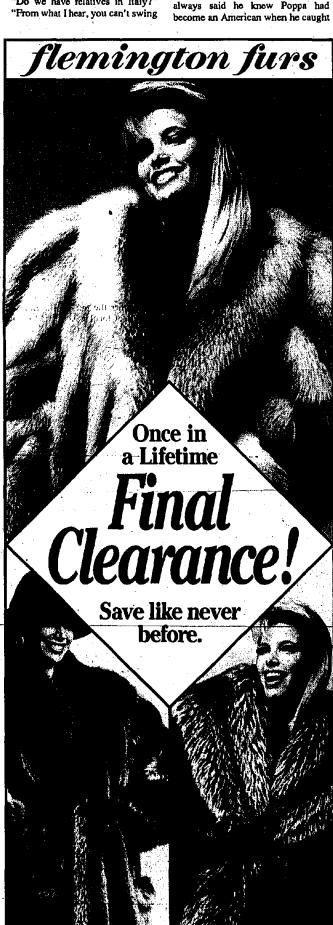

The annual report forms were mailed automatically to anyone who indicated they would be working and earning over the exempt amounts while they were getting benefits. Anyone who needs to file a report but didn't get one in the mail should call Social Security to ask for an Annual Report of Earnings form, Dearness said.

In their earnings reports, Social Security beneficiaries show the exact amount of the past year's earnings and provide an estimate of their earnings for the current year. For 1991, earnings over $9,720 for people 65-69, and earnings over $7,080 for people under 65, count in figuring the amount of Social Security benefits that can be paid.

For more information about working while receiving Social Security, contact the Elizabeth Social Security office at 24-52 Rahway Ave., Elizabeth, 07202. The telephone number is 1-800-234-5772.

Springfield designers awarded

Imbriaco, of Designs for Interiors in Springfield, were recently named as the recipients of the "Best Traditional Tree" award at the recent Festival of Trees, which benefited Tomorrows Children's Fund.

Their tree, "A Child's Christmas 1890," was a Victorian display of burgundy, teal and lace touches. It was selected from more than 100 trees donated and decorated by talented people from throughout New Jersey. Simon is a resident of Short Hills and Imbriaco is a resident of Hillside. Both are professional members of the New Jersey Chapter of The American Society of Interior Designers.

The Festival of Trees was a unique four-day event which featured more than 100 beautifully-decorated Christmas trees and almost a dozen room vignettes, ongoing entertainment, children's activities, gift shops, crafts and demonstrations.

The event, which took place at the Meadowlands Convention Center in Secaucus, raised monies for the construction of a new medical facility to be built adjacent to Hackensack Medical Center. Tomorrows Children's Fund will dedicate the facility to children with cancer and blood disorders.

A second annual Festival of Trees is in the planning stages for the 1991 holiday season. Individuals or businesses that are interested in becoming sponsors or decorators of Christmas trees should contact Camille Waldron at 337-9510.

Panthers lose to Newark Tech, 43-33

Sports Editor

In a game marked by tight defense and low scoring, the Roselle Park High boys' basketball team went down to a 43-33 defeat to Newark Tech Friday night in Roselle Park in the quarterfinal round of the North Jersey, Group 1, Section 2 playoffs.

Park, which entered as the section's top seed, got a determined 15-point effort by senior center Scott Bermingham. But Newark Tech, the section's fourth-seeded club, used a tenacious zone defense that forced Park outside for much of the night, causing the Panthers into forcing more lowerpercentage shots.

Still, Park, white being held in check offensively, did enjoy a few exciting moments, including when Scott Sexton netted a three-point basket from half court as time ran out in the opening half. And Bermingham sank a long three-pointer from the right side as time expired in the third

Park thus concludes its memorable 1990-91 season with a 22-4 record, tying the school basketball record for most wins in a season with Joe Flaherty's 1964-65 squad, which went 22-5.

"We had a great run, to win 18 in a row," remarked Park skipper Pat Lalley in reference to Park's 18-game winning streak at the start of the season. "The whole season was great. We had a good bunch of kids who work Boys' basketball

In addition to Newark Tech's swarming defense, the visiting team also had a noted height advantage. And to make matters worse, Park simply couldn't buy enough luck in the opening half from the floor. Despite taking shots from farther out, several Park shots seemed on target, only to clude the hoop at the last

Croce wins national title, 6-4

By Mark Yablonsky Sports Editor

Frank Croce of Roselle Park, one of the local area's outstanding wrestlers and a member of the Kean College wrestling team, is now a national champion.

Croce, a previous two-time collegiate All-American, won the NCAA Div. 3's 142-pound title with a 6-4 decision over Dave Weiland of Thiel College, Pa. this past weekend at the Div. 3 national championship bout at Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill.

That makes Croce an All-American grappler for the third straight year. Last season, Croce placed high enough in the nationals to be an All-American; and the year before that, the senior had been an All-American for Middlesex County College.

Croce also won this year's New

1, Section 2 girls' basketball quarterfinals last Wednesday night. The Lady Bears ended their 1990-91 season with a strong 14-4 record, the best ever under the direction of coach Marge Egan. Brearley also won the Mountain Valley Conference's Valley Division title with a 10-2

The game with the Lady Pioneers was close throughout the first half and was knotted at 17-all at halftime. Then, after taking the lead with five minutes remaining, the Lady Bears fell behind for good on a combination of bad passes and other turnovers.

Kim Eagan led Brearley with 24 points, while teammate Tricia Anglim

Five more returners to statewide competition were members of last year's All-County Leader team: Vic Verno of Brearley Regional, Dante Puorro of Dayton, Bob McCafferty of Roselle Park, Dan Lilley of Union and John Ranieri

Verno was the winner of the region's 160-pound class, thanks to a convincing 14-4 decision over Phil Iossa of Hanover Park in the final Saturday.

The rest of the local area's state representatives include newcomer Bob Tavlor Jr. of Brearley Regional, who placed third in the region's 171-pound class; as well as Ron Cagno of Brearley, Len Rothbard of Johnson Regional, Steve Marcantonio of Rahway and Union's heavyweight, Scott Platt.

Taylor, who is 21-4 on the season, is scheduled to face Lodi's Frank Carriere in a preliminary-round bout this coming Wednesday, March 13, according to one published report Monday.

Francesca, meanwhile, is scheduled to be the No. 2 seed in the 145-pound class and will oppose either Mark Woodside of Freehold Township or Joe

'90-91 All-County Girls' Basketball team

About our '91 choices

By Mark Yablonsky Sports Editors

For the fourth straight year, Worrall Community Newspapers is presenting its All-County Girls' Basketball Team, consisting of players from the towns within our coverage area: Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Roselle, Roselle Park, Hillside, Linden, Union, Clark and Rahway.

This year, our First Team will consist of 10 players. And since our coverage area has expanded within the last year, we are offering a 10-member Second Team, as well as numerous Honorable Mention selections:

Our choices are based on statistics, importance of a player to her team, personal observation, and also on comments and observations from each of the coaches with whom we spoke.

Also, our choices were not made by position, largely because some of our selections either play more than one position, or play under varying kinds

LORI LAVIN

For the third straight year, Union's Michelle Piech finds herself on our All-County team. And she richly

With 390 points this season, Piech. a senior who is considering nursing as a career, easily broke the 1,000-point plateau, making her the first female Union player over to do so. Her 19 rebounds in one particular game earlier in the season also gives her a new school record.

And she was a consistent rebounder in double figures, averaging roughly 15 caroms per game.

"Michelle's biggest asset this year was her rebounding," Union coach Joe DeStephan said. "She's helped us on our fast break, and she's been very valuable to us.

"I would have liked to se her score more as a senior, but because of her scoring in past years, a lot of teams were double-teaming her."

Of course, no basketball can truly be successful without a good point guard. And Lorl Lavin of Union is indeed a good point guard.

5.71 assists a game, Lavin was the catalyst for Union's attack. The hustling junior came through with 10 points and six assists in Union's 65-53 victory-over-Roxbury-in-state-tournament play on Feb. 28.

And while her points-per-game average remained in single digits, there are certain times when Lavin put up big numbers - such as her seasonhigh scoring effort of 18 points in a 56-25 win at Plainfield on Jan. 24.

"You need a field general out there, and she's been doing a great job for us," DeStephan explained. "A lot of times you don't always see the intangible things in the paper. So I think she's been very valuable to our team this year.'

This week's question: Ready for another hockey question? Well, try to recall the major trade that occurred between the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins in November 1975 - the one that saw the Rangers acquire Phil Esposito and Carol Vadnais from Boston. Can you recall which players the Bruins got in return? Again, no clues.

Last week's answer: Wayne Hicks of the Philadelphia Flyers had the honor of scoring the first goal in the new - and, of course, current -Madison Square Garden. That tally occurred at 12:12 of the first period in the game between the Flyers and Rangers on Feb. 18, 1968, the first NHL. contest played at the spacious, sparkling new MSG on 33rd Street and 8th exactly 16 blocks south of the old Garden site.

The Rangers, however, answered Hicks' tally with three goals in the second period, with Bob Nevin, Donnie Marshall and Orland Kurtenbach putting pucks past Flyer netminder Doug Favell. Outshooting the Philadelphians by a commanding 45-18 margin, the Broadway Blueshirts won easily, 3-1, in support of their spectacular goalie, Ed Giacomin.

This week, Henry Hascup of Lodi submitted a correct answer. Please have your responses in our Union offices — at 1291 Stuyvesant Ave. - by no later than noon each Monday.

Linden High School head coach Andy Eng calls Tameka Dixon "probably the best-kept secret in Union County." The 5'10" forward is only a sophomore, but she was the Lady Tigers' leading rebounder, averaging 14 boards a game. Throw in her scoring average of 11 points per game, her 55 percent shooting from the floor and her average of four blocked shots per game and you have a clue as to why the Lady Tigers own a 26-1 record this season.

"Tameka is like a female Charles Barkley," Eng said. "She's important to us not only for the points she scores, but also for the points she prevents the other team from scoring. You have to see her play to truly appreciate her.

"And she's only a sophomore. She has a very bright future."

JOANN HALL

There's no mistaking how important Tahisa Palin was to the Abraham Clark High School girls' basketball "When she played well, we won," Lady Rams' coach Bob Giannotti said. "We depended on her for points and for leadership."

Palin obliged on both counts. Her scoring average of 11 points per game led the Lady Rams. She also averaged four rebounds, two steals and two assists per game. And as co-captain, the senior guard was a leader on and off the court in Roselle's 9-10 season.

The Lady Rams got a scare in the Jan. 4 contest with Immaculata when Palin collapsed on the court. She underwent tests in the hospital, but recovered quickly. She missed only two games before rejoining the team for a Jan. 18 win over Newark Central. She played less than half the game, but still finished with 10 points.

TAMEKA DIXON

Senior Joann Hall has been a veritable scoring machine for the Lady Tigers. As of last week, she had amassed 1,040 points, the most in Linden girls' basketball history. "What's amazing is she's scored over 1,000 of those points in only three years," Eng said. "She only scored eight points her entire freshman scason.

Hall, a guard, has averaged 15 points and six rebounds per game this season for the 26-1 Lady Tigers.

"Joann works very hard and is always trying to make herself better," Eng said. "She's the type of kid who has made herself into a great basketball player. She is also probably the best three-point shooter in the area."

Hall is being recruited by Bloomfield College, Kean College and American International University.

TAHISA PALIN Young Farmers go 9-1

The Union ninth-grade wrestling team recently completed its season with a 9-1 record. The freshman wrestlers placed second in the St. Benedict's Tournament and also turned in top performances in the Brick Memorial, Randolph and North Bergen Tournaments

The freshman team beat Millburn, Kearny, Scotch Plains, Irvington, Columbia, Roselle Park, Westfield, Rahway and Cranford. The only defeat of the season came to a powerful Elizabeth team.

John Borowski led the team with 21 victories, and Nick Alberto led the team with 10 pins. Ron Bubnowski, Ed Collins and Mark Kennedy wrestled on the varsity level. Bubnowski and Collins have been making outstanding contributions to the success of the varsity team, while Kennedy was injured for most of the season.

"There were 21 first-year wrestlers among the 28 boys on the team," said coach Carmen Guarino. "Our first-year wrestlers had some outstanding performances, and were very competitive throughout the year. Overall, the team worked hard and was a very talented group of athletes.'

Simone Gilliam may be a freshman, but she doesn't play like one on the basketball court. Gilliam averaged 10 points and six assists per game for the Linden High School team from the point guard position. 'This is Simone's first year at the point guard spot," Eng said. "It was quite an adjustment for her at first, but she's mastered the position. Not only was she racking up the assists from there, but she also helped us a lot by putting points on the board.'

At 5'10", Gilliam adds some height to the Lady Tiger lineup. "For a kid as tall as Simone is to handle the ball and run the floor as well as she does is amazing," Eng added. "And as a freshman, she's only going to improve every year.'

Houghton settles in at Millburn theater

By Bea Smith Staff Writer

Katharine Houghton - a talented. versatile actress whose preference in the arts is whatever she is doing currently - is having a wonderful time at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Houghton portrays Miss Maudie in the theatre's production of "To Kill a Mockingbird," opposite George Grizzard, with whom she has had a fine professional working relationship. They worked together in two other vehicles, "A Touch of the Poet" on stage and the award-winning "Adam's Chronicles" on television.

During a recent telephone interview. Houghton praised the Paper Mill Playhouse.

"I really, truly think the Paper Mill is one of the best-run theaters in the country," she said. "It's a terrific operation and New Jersey is very lucky to have a theater like this. Angelo Del Rossi, the executive producer, knows his audience and what the audience wants and is considerate of his actors. It's great to have someone who is aware of both sides.

"And," she added, "Robert Johanson, the Paper Mill's artistic director, is a very fine director. They're a great team . . . an unusual phenomenon."

In addition, the soft-spoken Houghton said the theater has a "superb" technical staff.

'All of them," she indicated dramatically, "are excellent, and I hope that in the future the Paper Mill will be able to do more and more types of theater. I know it is well-known for its wonderful musicals and straight dramas, but I would think that the public would be receptive to more experimental theater. I'm sure it would be successful and challenging as time goes on."

Houghton, who has appeared on Broadway in revivals of "Our Town" and "The Front Page," as well as "A Very Rich Woman," was selected for the Theater World Award for her performance in "A Scent of Flowers" off-

Broadway in 1969. She also appeared in about 50 plays in regional theaters including "The Merchant of Venice," in which she played Portia; "The Taming of the Shrew," as Kate; "The Glass Menagerie," as Laura; and "Suddenly, Last Summer," as Catherine.

Even though she is most remembered in films for her work as the charming, witty daughter of Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy in 'Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?", Houghton was unable to follow up with too many movies.

The incomparable Hepburn, who is the actress' aunt, and the talented Houghton have "made a pact" with each other not to discuss one another during interviews.

Fair enough. But, why, we asked, after such a fine performance in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?", didn't Houghton follow up with more similar movie roles?

"It's a funny thing," she said. "In my generation, good parts for women have not been as plentiful as in prior times. My particular type of personality was not what was being sought in films. I'm not the sexy type, you

Working with Grizzard in "A Touch of the Poet" and as his daughter, Abby, in "Adam's Chronicles" has been very enlightening to Houghton. "I find George an extremely talented, intelligent, civilized human being. He's a great joy to work with, and a human being . . a lovely Houghton recently completed a movie role in the upcoming film "Billy Bathgate," which was directed by Robert Benton and which stars Dustin Hoffman. "It was a novel written by E.L. Doctorow, a very fine novel written about a young man growing up in the 1930s. The script was adapted by Tom Stoppard," she said. "It's another gangster film," she noted.

"I play an aristocratic woman who lives in Saratoga Springs, and all my scenes were photographed at the racetrack . . . which is gorgeous. You must visit Saratoga Springs some day. It's a beautiful place."

The film will be released sometime

Having worked in film, theatre and television, what entertainment media does Houghton prefer?

"I don't have a preference. I like See HOUGHTON, Page 6 provided us with an extensive dinner menu and recommended several house specialties, all of which were modestly priced and professionally prepared by the staff at Uncle Mike's.

For openers, my friend and I reveled in the many tantalizing appetizers available at Uncle Mike's, from the cold antipasto and the fried mushrooms with cheese, to the light and delicate eggplant rollatini.

My choice for an entree was the richly satisfying shrimp marinara over linguine, while my friend opted for the equally delicious shrimp and chicken scampi. Our meals were accompanied by a generous serving of the restaurant's crunchy and flavorful garlic bread - a must with any meal at Uncle Mike's.

In addition to their many appetizers and Italian specialties, Uncle Mike's also offers a mouth-watering array of pasta entrees, house specialties, traditional "all-time favorites" including cake, mini pastries, cookies and ice cream, plus coffee or tea.

The Serenos, lifelong Summit residents, have owned the restaurant for 14 years, and obviously take great pride in their establishment's reputation. In addition to Anthony and Michael, their parents and sister also work in various capacities at the family's restaurant.

The popularity of the restaurant was evidenced by the steady stream of customers that continued to join us at the restaurant even way past the regular dinner hour on a Monday evening.

The restaurant was formerly a Victorian inn built around 1850 and used as a stagecoach stop for 19th-century travelers going between Morristown and Newark. The building not only retains its original design, but oldfashioned cuisine and service are offered as well.

The head chef, Joe Kawan, is a graduate of the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, N.Y., and has been with Uncle Mike's about six years. Assistant chef Joseph Fenton has been with the restaurant for 101/2

Uncle Mike's, in addition to the regular menu, provides a lunch menu featuring many of the same items. The for special functions involving between 10 and 70 people, such as weddings, bar and bat mitzvahs or business luncheons.

USO continues season

The Union Symphony Orchestra is celebrating its 38th season. The second and third concerts of the season will be held on Priday and May 3 at Kawameeh Junior High School, David Terrace in Union, at 8 p.m.

The orchestra was founded in 1952 by Leo W. Rindler, the then-music: director for the Union Township schools. The orchestra presented three to four concerts annually, with hundreds of students and community musicians performing with the orchestra and as soloists. In addition, outstanding musicians from neighboring communities, as well as New York City and Connecticut, have performed as guest artists. The orchestra directors, from Rindler to Dr. Gerard Matte and presently Edward A. Kliszus Jr., have endeavored to present a combination of classical as well as contemporary selections.

The March 8 concert will feature violinist Anne Marie Pocklembo and oboist Mary Ellen Centanni featured in J.S. Bach's Concerto in C Minor for Oboe, Violin and Orchestra and Cimarosa's Concerto for Oboe and Guest conductor for this concert will be Thomas Lindsay, Lindsay, an accomplished violinist, as well as conductor has performed with the orchestra and as soloist. He has also been a member of the New Jersey Symphony for 21 years.

Kliszus is music director and conductor. Gerard Babo is associate conductor. Robert J. Pauli is president.

For ticket information, call 908-851-6583. Tickets may also be purchased at the door. Discounts are available for seniors and students.

Houghton settles in at PMP

The screenplay is based on her 27 years of correspondence with Vladimir Pavlov, a professor and inventor in the field of theoretical mechanics in the Soviet Union.

"I would love to see it produced as a three-part television series," she said. "Directly after this play at the Paner Mill," she said, "I will go back to working specifically on the screenplay.

"But," she mused, "I have a few irons in the fire that are of paramount importance to me because of the tonical aspects. Still, I would like to get on with my screenplay project. The rest of my scripts can wait because of their timeless quality."

Houghton also has written a fulllength play called "Good Grief" which is being given a staged reading in Washington D.C. at the Georgetown University Theater.

As an actress, is there anyone in particular with whom Houghton would like to appear?

"Oh." she said with a definitely familiar family-type chuckle, "lots of people. Too many to mention, actually. But I'm envious of other people's work. The world is very full of fine talent. I enjoy getting to know actors and directors and other interesting people. It's a very enjoyable thing to be an actress," Houghton exclaimed with a tender smile in her voice.

"When I first came to the Paper Mill, I knew only George Grizzard. Now I know many people in the cast. It's really wonderful to have the opportunity to meet different people and see the world through their eyes. It's almost as thrilling as performing.

"You know," she mused, "what goes on backstage can be just as interesting as what goes on onstage.'

Real Estate Facts

Measuring Value!

What does the old "bird-in-the-hand" philosophy have to do with selling your home? Plenty - if you are serious about selling and are a realist at heart.

One of the biggest advantages to owning real estate is the ability to sell at full value to an ever present supply of potential buyers. This means that, given a fair amount of time, a 'ready, willing and able" buyer can always be located to purchase your home.

The "full value" which that buyer will pay for your home is a subjective figure though, based on the individual's own value system when applied to your property. The "full value" price offered by a buyer may not match the "full value" figure expected by the seller.

Sellers who price their home at "fair market value" may find that qualified ouyers immediately offer full price. On the other hand, what should sellers do if an unqualified buyer offers full price? What if a qualified buyer offers less than full price?

Here is where the "bird-in-the-hand" concept pays off. Wise sellers will 囪 analyze each offer to purchase as though it were the only one they would ever receive, since there may never be "two in the bush". If the offer is made by an unqualified buyer, at an un-reasonably low price, with an unacceptable settlement date, rejection of the offer might be appropriate. On the other hand, a low offer received from an obviously qualified buyer with a settlement date that is a perfect match to the sellers' moving plans may deserve close scrutiny. Even though the offer may appear low, the buyer may not require the seller to particl pate in the payment of closing costs, discount points or other costs usually associated with a sale, resulting in "net proceeds" close to an acceptable

The net effect could be an acceptable transaction with the added benefit of a closing date that relieves anxiety about home, ask your agent to explain both the pros and cons of every offer re-ceived. The result can be both an early and acceptable sale.
