TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Parties remain silent as filing deadline wraps up

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

As today's 4 p.m. filing deadline approached for two open Springfield Township Committee seats, neither political party would tip its hand as to the identity of its preferred candidates — but already the faint outlines of the election campaign were beginning to emerge.

Although Republican and Democratic party officials found scant areas of agreement in interviews this week, they concurred that Democratic Gov. Jim Florio's controversial record would be a factor both in the June 4 primaries, if they are necessary, and in the Nov. 5 general election.

Springfield Mayor Marc Marshall, a Republican who occupies one of the two contested Township Committee seats, said April 8 that "there is still a tremendous outcry about the Quality of Education Act" and that the Trenton administration was "giving out hundreds of millions of dollars in property tax relief to buy the election."

Republican Committee Chair Bill Ruocco characterized the property tax rebate to municipalities as "spreading some peanut butter over the top" of the governor's tax increases.

And Bruce Bergen, the municipal chairman of the Springfield Regular Democratic Organization, argued that the Democrats would have a chance in November to become the majority on the Township Committee since "the Florio factor will be diminished." He noted that Democratic Committee candidate Steven Firsichbaum lost last year to Republican incumbent Philip Kurnos by under 200 votes and he attributed the slim margin of defeat to the "overwhelming backlash" against Florio.

The Republican Party's 3-2 edge, with its attendant power to select the mayor, set the legislative agenda and appoint members to boards and commissions, is at stake in the Nov. 5 elections.

The three-year committee terms for Marshall and fellow Republican Jeffrey Katz expire at the end of the year.

At that juncture Marshall, selected as mayor last January, will complete his first three-year term on the committee and Katz, who served as mayor in 1988 and 1989, will finish his sixth year on the governing body.

Township Clerk Helen Maguire noted April 8 that no candidacy petitions had been filed yet, but that the deadline for submitting filing papers was 4 p.m. today. Candidates had to submit petitions containing the names of 25 registered voters from the respective political party.

Marshall said he would "neither confirm or deny" his candidacy before the deadline and Katz expressed a similar position.

Republican Chairman Ruocco said Monday that the party was "still in discussions" on its choices for the party nod and that "we're still thrashing things out."

Democratic Chairman Bergen offered that the party had conducted a six-week screening process and had selected "two strong candidates."

Springfield school board adopts budget

By Suzette Stalker

The Springfield Board of Education on Monday adopted its $9.85 million budget for 1991-92 before an audience of 25 township residents, most of whom reacted favorably and expressed appreciation to board members for their efforts to control costs during a challenging budget year.

Springfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Gary Friedland confirmed that although this year's school budget represents a 6.6 percent hike over the 1990-91 figure, most of the increases came about through state-mandated expenses over which the board had no control.

Several members of the public expressed concern during the meeting over capital outlay projects including installation of a new roof at Thelma L.

Sandmeier School and removal of underground oil tanks.

"Although the capital outlay budget has remained approximately the same as last year," replied Gary Tiss, chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, "it is important for the community to be aware that roof replacements on the schools are necessary."

The committee chairman added that "mandated programs by the state of New Jersey require the district to remove the underground storage tanks and consider converting to natural gas-fired burners because of the long-term DEP regulations."

Board of Education Finance Chairman Ken Faigenbaum discussed the current expense budget, spotlighting rising employee health insurance costs, salary increases and tuition for special education students.

Friedland acknowledged on Tuesday that several programs had to be "reduced or eliminated" in order to contain budget costs. One casualty was the school's Hot Lunch Program for elementary and middle school students which in 1989 cost the district $48,731. Program figures for 1990-91 were not available.

The superintendent explained that unless the food service program becomes self-supporting, it will be discontinued beginning with the 1991-92 school year.

This year's budget also calls for paraprofessional staff members to have their hours reduced by one third, from 30 to 20. Paraprofessionals serve as teachers' aides in the district's special education classes.

Audience members at Monday's meeting took exception to this cut-back, which would curtail services to students. They recommended that the board find funds to keep paraprofessionals in school for the same amount of hours.

Finally, the board reduced the community service portion of its budget by one-third, which will reduce the amount of hours that the school buildings will be open for recreational activities. This measure will reduce the cost of paying overtime to custodial and maintenance people, Friedland said.

The superintendent noted, however, that Springfield residents will like — See SCHOOL, Page 2

Township's 1991 budget gets OK

By Dennis Schaal

The Springfield Township Committee introduced a $13,188,691.37 1991 budget Tuesday evening which would trigger approximately a 5.5-point decrease in the municipal portion of residents' tax bills.

This means that a resident whose home is assessed for $100,000 would be billed $50.50 less in municipal taxes.

Public hearings on the budget proposal will take place in the Municipal Building on May 14 and final committee action is expected at that time.

Mayor Marc Marshall, following the committee session, attributed the decrease to the roughly $573,700 in state supplemental municipal property tax relief, an expanded township tax base due to home improvements and new construction, and a budget surplus.

He said that without the property tax rebate, the budget would have been introduced with no tax increase.

"We've been working with management in the township to remove excessive waste," Marshall said April 9. "Management of government under the state cap laws has to be lean and mean."

The $13,188,691.37 1991 budget proposal compares to the approved 1990 budget appropriation of $12,063,013.05.

Although total general appropriations will rise in the 1991 budget, the actual monies that must be raised from local taxpayers is slated to fall from $7,784,607.76 in 1990 to $7,366,539.89 in 1991.

The balance of revenues to fund appropriations, namely $5,822,151.48, derives from the surplus, "miscellaneous revenues" and delinquent taxes.

The introduction of the budget proposal was a formality. It was adopted unanimously without discussion.

The budget proposal is slated to be published in local newspapers May 2. The final hearings on the measure will take place May 14.

In another development at the Municipal Building session, area students participated in a one-day Students in Government program. The students were paired with Township Committee members and the township clerk.

During the day, the students toured governmental departments and observed municipal activities. Prior to the committee meeting, they helped to prepare the agenda and later introduced and seconded assorted ordinances and resolutions.

The participating students included: Steve Keppler, Stacie Sherman, Allison Binder, Samantha Holmes, Nicole Nelson and Lori Weiss. The students were expected to go back to their respective social studies classes and share their governmental experiences with other classmates.

Committee member Marcia Forman teamed up with Nicole Nelson, and Forman said she was impressed. Said Forman: "Nicole's mind was zinging all the time."

Egg winners announced

The Springfield Recreation Department, in accordance with the Recreation Committee, has announced the winners of its Spring Egg Hunt. Fifty-three youngsters participated.

In the age 3 1/2 category, Marisa Bianco and Matthew Steitz placed first, Lisa Listowski second and Jonathan Franklin third. In the kindergarten group, Timothy Homlish came in third and Michael Rizzolo finished second.

Grade 1 winners were Justin Woodruff in first place, Christopher Steitz in second and Jessica Scelba in third. Winners in Grade 2 were Tara Listowski in first place, Jennifer Fiorelli in second and Lisa DeNicolo in third. Nick Puster was the winner in the third grade category.

Squad appeals for new members

By Suzette Stalker

The Springfield First Aid Squad will be sponsoring two open houses for the public on April 17 and 18 at its North Trivett Avenue headquarters in an effort to persuade township residents to become squad volunteers. Each evening's program will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Squad Captain Elizabeth Fritzen explained on Monday that the Springfield squad, like volunteer ambulance units in other communities, has been experiencing a severe manpower shortage in recent years. The shortage is particularly critical during the daytime hours.

"Just to give you a picture of how low our membership is now," the squad leader remarked, "we used to have 50 or 60 members 10 or 15 years ago, now we have only 25. That's 25 people who have to cover the town day and night, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The squad answers an average of between 1,000 to 1,100 First Aid calls annually."

Fritzen blamed the shortage on current economic trends which require two incomes to support a household, leaving many people unavailable to pull squad duty during daytime hours. In addition, she said that the spirit of volunteerism also appears to have diminished over the past decade.

In discussing the planned open houses, Fritzen stated that the squad is "basically hoping people will be interested in coming down and meeting our members, seeing our equipment and hopefully joining as a volunteer."

During the programs, squad members will be available to talk to members of the public about the various membership categories. They will also discuss the new Observer Program, whereby prospective volunteers ride along on actual emergency calls with one of Springfield's volunteer ambulance crews.

"We decided to institute this for people who are not quite sure if they want to invest the amount of time in training," Fritzen said. "They ride along with the crew, and even though they can't do anything because they're not trained, they're still getting some hands-on experience being there."

Fritzen added that although the Springfield squad does periodically have to treat and transport accident — See SQUAD, Page 2 whom he declined to identify before the deadline.

"Certainly any time the balance of power can swing, it's an important election," Bergen said. The Republicans have controlled the Township Committee since 1988. The Democrats can become a majority on the committee if they win one of the two seats.

If more than two candidates from either party met the filing deadline today, then primaries to contest the party nominations would take place June 4. Independents are also eligible to file candidacy petitions and to compete in November.

Democratic Chairman Bergen argued that the party has an enhanced opportunity to pick up a committee seat or two in November because "discontent with town government is evident even more than last year." He said it would be important to displace the Republican majority to change its "attitude of government."

When pressed for specifics, Bergen criticized "the wholesale cleaning out of Democratic appointments" from boards and commissions last January.

"Politics is politics, but we're talking about a small town here," the Democratic spokesman said. "If citizens have shown the interest, if they've given years of service, then you don't just dump them because they're from the wrong party."

Bergen stated that "the Florio factor will be diminished this year" because policies like the cut in auto insurance premiums April 1 and the property tax relief have "begun to bear fruit" and because "it's a year later."

Mayor Marshall countered that the "outrage" against Florio's tax policies "will carry all the way down to the local level" in November.

The mayor said he will counsel local residents to open bank accounts with monies saved from the Florio administration's municipal property tax aid and Homestead Rebate "since you'll be giving them back to Florio next year" in higher state taxes.

Although Marshall wouldn't reveal his intentions about the Township Committee race, he said Republican candidates could campaign on a record of "controlling municipal taxes." He noted that the Republican-controlled committee raised municipal taxes just two points in 1989, presented a budget with no increase last year, and was slated to offer a preliminary 1991 budget last Tuesday evening with "a decrease of 5.5 points."

And Republican Chairman Ruocco, himself a former township mayor, contended that his party has "a marvelous record to stand on." He credits Republican administrations with "refurbishing Town Hall" and running the municipality "on a business-like basis with the largest budget surplus in years."

Bergen observed that Springfield has traditionally been "a swing town" and that residents cast ballots based on issues and personalities rather than party affiliations.

ly experience a zero percent increase in the local school portion of their taxes due to property tax relief provided by the state to New Jersey municipalities as well as a $500 state rebate to homeowners who pay more than 5 percent of their income in taxes.

Friedland cited the example of a homeowner who has a $30,000 income and whose property has been assessed at $158,000. This person would be paying $4,000 in taxes, though 5 percent of his or her income would only come to $1,500. He or she would therefore be eligible for the $500 rebate.

victims, the majority of the calls involve elderly people who are having difficulty breathing or may have suffered a stroke.

The squad captain, who is employed during the day as Maplewood's township clerk, emphasized that her unit is "very flexible" when it comes to fitting squad duty hours into a volunteer's schedule. She added that volunteers may serve as little as six hours a week.

"Our First Aid squad has been in operation for about 45 years," Fritzen concluded. "We want to continue to provide the kind of service that we do, and not have some private unit come in and take over. We provide tender loving care because we're volunteers."

Environmental issues are topic of three-part series

This is the first installment of a three-part series dealing with current environmental issues affecting the Worrall Community Newspaper area. Next week recycling will be dealt with in this space.

On March 17, when the Ocean Sludge Dumping Elimination Act took effect, New Jersey had to stop dumping sludge at the 106-mile site in the Atlantic Ocean.

Since that time sewage in Union and Essex counties has been processed by treatment/dewatering plants and shipped to landfills in Pennsylvania, Texas and parts of the Midwest, according to officials at those facilities. For the past five years, the concept of co-disposal — incinerating sludge co-mingled with solid waste — rather than transporting sludge has been discussed by various factions and has been successfully implemented in Japan and parts of Europe.

Another alternative which has been considered is completely recycling sewage into fertilizer of a usable end product.

The Joint Meeting of Essex and Union Counties, which is chaired by Maplewood Mayor Robert Grasmere, is a major advocate of co-disposal. Joint Meeting, located in Elizabeth, is a partnership which serves 11 municipalities, including South Orange, Maplewood, West Orange, East Orange, Hillside, Union, Irvington, Summit, Roselle Park and parts of Newark. Dewatered sludge from those municipalities is shipped to landfills in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area. According to Grasmere, the Joint Meeting commissioned a study in 1985 from Millburn-based Elson T. Killam Associates, which recommended co-disposal as an alternative.

The Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, the largest de-watering facility in New Jersey, which processes more sludge than all of New York City, serves 35 municipalities including Jersey City, Paterson, Passaic, Nutley, Belleville, Glen Ridge, Bloomfield and Orange, according to Sheldon Lipke, superintendent of plant operations. Sludge is being shipped to landfills in Texas and parts of the Midwest.

The Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority, which serves 12 municipalities in Union County, including Springfield, Mountainside, Kenilworth, Clark, Rahway, and part of Roselle Park, is currently shipping sludge to landfills in Pennsylvania, according to engineer John Ludington of RVSA.

The newer Linden-Roselle Sewerage Authority serves Linden and Roselle, the remaining municipalities in the Worrall Community Newspaper region, and is currently just collecting sewage, which is then dewatered by a private treatment company, which also transports the product to landfills. Prior to the ocean-dumping ban, the sewage was dumped directly in the ocean.

Grasmere said that co-disposal will solve the problem of landfills filling up and will cost less.

"It may not happen in our lifetime or the next generation's lifetime, but it will happen," Grasmere said. "The amount of tonnage generated by sludge is negligible compared with the tonnage of solid waste which is burned. It would be lost in the system."

Joint Meeting runs sewage, which is piped into its plant by a gravity-fed system, through a series of steps which reduce the quantity of sludge as much as possible. One step in the process adds oxygen through aeration blades so that aerobic bacteria can reduce the sewage material. Another phase allows anaerobic bacteria to work on the sewage, producing methane which is then turned into electricity, according to Grasmere.

According to Lipke, the problem with incinerating the sludge lies in its makeup. He said that Joint Meeting produces a sludge which is 75-percent water after the dewatering process, and just 50-percent burnable. Lipke said that Passaic Valley's sludge is 66 percent water, but 70-percent burnable.

Still, Lipke does not think incineration of sludge is the best alternative. He added that regular garbage is 75-percent solid and 80 percent to 90 percent burnable.

"Think of an incinerator as a boiler and sludge is a poor fuel," Lipke said. "It would be wasting a lot of energy to evaporate all that water."

Lipke added that the high metal content in sludge would require a lower burning temperature. In other countries, where co-disposal works, a monitoring process is used to keep the emissions level environmentally safe.

But Bob Carson, vice chairman for the Concerned Citizens of Union County, said that the toxicity of burning sludge is environmentally harmful.

"Sewer systems are open to industrial waste," Carson said. "Heavy metals and other contaminants infiltrate the sewer systems. When this stuff is burned off and breathed in, the pollutants bypass the lungs' natural filters, and it actually increases the harmful effect upon the body."

Carson further stated that the advocates are the incinerator companies which want the extra business, and municipal officials who "believe it's the way to go because it appears to be an easy, straight-forward remedy."

A long-term solution? Another remedy is moving toward the composting of sludge, which would bring the recycling process full turn, according to John Haggerty, a spokesman for the Department of Environmental Protection.

Haggerty said the Florio administration's position on sludge disposal supports "moving toward the composting of sludge and its beneficial use, including the use of treated sludge as land fill, and fertilizer. The state policy is 'minimization of incineration.'"

Haggerty also said that Florio realizes there are short-term obstacles and temporary costs which need to be overcome, but the state is "diligently pursuing environmentally sound disposal options."

Ludington said that RVSA is going to convert the sludge currently in landfills into fertilizer. He added that a facility to convert sludge into fertilizer pellets is under construction.

Both Lipke and Grasmere said that completing the recycling of sludge hinges on the removal of metals from the sewers. Lipke said that not only industry puts metal into the system, but metal is contained in foods and other household items. Grasmere added that copper piping in homes contributes metal components to the sewers.

Reading is fun-damental

What if you couldn't or didn't read? Have you ever stopped to think about it?

Could you perform at work and in school? Could you be a successful consumer? Could you adequately provide for your family? Could you be independent? You are a reader, so you know the answers. Your life would be dramatically different. A person has to read to succeed in this society.

Yet, an astonishing 27 million American adults are functionally illiterate. And if they cannot read themselves, are they reading to their children?

Numerous research studies have proven that children who are read to from an early age and become readers are more successful in school than non-readers. So what happens to kids who grow up in low-literate families and are not read to? They need help.

Enter libraries and librarians — perhaps our nation's greatest resource. Librarians creatively and aggressively promote reading year-round to children and adults of all reading levels. And for 33 years, librarians across the country have united to stage an ambitious rally during National Library Week in April to focus the nation's attention on libraries and reading.

This year, during National Library Week, April 15-20, library supporters are campaigning with the slogans, "Kids who read succeed," and "Read. Succeed." These are strong and significant messages that we must heed because they are more than just slogans. They are facts.

As readers, we should all join librarians in communicating the "Kids who read succeed" message. The first place to start is at home. Remember, a child's first teacher is his or her parent. If you are a parent or grandparent, read aloud to your children. Set aside a special time each day to read together as a family. Make regular visits to the library and make your children aware of the marvelous collection of books and other resources available to them at libraries. Let them see you reading and enjoying books.

Second, be alert to identifying adults or teens who are "low-literate." They may be your customers or clients, your employees or the parents of your child's friend. Be sensitive and approach them in a non-threatening but helpful manner on the subject of reading. You can help low-literate parents understand the important role they play in their child's learning success. Tell them about the free learning resources in their community — especially library services. If you have contact with their children, share your interest in reading with them, stress the value of reading and invite them to come along the next time you go to the library.

Finally, consider volunteering your time to help someone else learn to read. Libraries and other agencies sponsor a variety of literacy programs that are based on volume assistance — from story times for children, to one-on-one tutoring for adults. Call your library to find out how to be a literacy volunteer.

We can succeed at being a nation of readers and bringing all our people and our country future success.

Volunteerism

The Springfield First Aid Squad, in an effort to recruit additional volunteers, will hold two open houses at its headquarters next week. The open houses are attempts to arouse in people the spirit of volunteerism which, sadly, seems to have diminished.

The Persian Gulf War elicited the spirit of volunteerism which the First Aid Squad is seeking. Throughout the conflict, people demonstrated unwavering support for fellow Americans who were fighting in the Middle East. What we need now, and could claim as our own victory, is for that spirit of volunteerism to continue at home.

Many people do not realize the importance of a well-manned, volunteer ambulance squad. They also do not realize that the lives of their loved ones could one day depend upon having those volunteers available. These factors should be more than enough incentive to enlist.

Springfield residents are encouraged to attend the First Aid Squad programs on Wednesday and April 18, but more importantly to donate several hours a week to this worthy cause. Few qualifications are required, and the most significant change in one's life is the gratification of knowing that the decision may save other lives.

Rebates will go further for the middle class

Everywhere I go in New Jersey, people say things to me like, "When I used to make $100 a week, I could save more than I do now."

A big reason for that change is property taxes. They've doubled for a lot of people in the past few years. They eat away at your savings and threaten your freedom to dream and plan for the future.

Property taxes, along with expenses like car insurance and college tuition, are part of something I call the "New Inflation." The "New Inflation" is eroding middle-class living standards. It's the reason more and more middle-class families are wondering if their children will continue the tradition of going further than their parents.

The property tax problem is even worse when you stop and think about how property taxes are the cause of so many of the most important problems facing our communities. From the size of our mortgage bill to the traffic we face going to work each day, and whether the New Jersey Shore remains a precious resource with clean, safe water. Even the high cost of garbage has to do with property taxes.

That's because no other major state relies as much on property taxes as New Jersey does. And this dependence has forced communities to search for more and more development — all so they'll have more property to tax. It's known as "The Rabbits Chase."

It's a game no one wins. Towns go after businesses, office buildings and

State Of The State

By Gov. Jim Florio

developments. A serene suburb turns into a mini-metropolis. Main Street becomes a parking lot. Green spaces disappear. Sewers overflow.

The result: Towns need even more money to solve the new problems brought on by development. So they must go after more development; and so on, and so on. It's a vicious cycle. One that must end.

We're breaking this cycle in four ways.

One, increasing school aid to relieve the burden on homeowners.

Two, having the state take over the costs of a lot of county and local social programs.

Three, placing caps on what local governments and schools can spend — just like we're doing with state government.

And four, changing the system of homestead rebates so that the people who need help the most get it.

We've added some new features to the rebate, to make it fit the times. Starting this year, we're giving more help to the middle-class people who need it most.

It makes no sense for a millionaire to get the exact same relief as a middle-class family. So we've changed the rebate to where the size of your check depends on how much you make, and what you pay in property taxes.

Instead of the old, flat rebate, they'll now range up to $500. Three quarters of a million people are getting the full $500.

As I mentioned, the rebate is not the only way we're getting that coming from Trenton, but you can make a difference. Let them know that you've heard that the town or school district is getting more money. Then tell them what you've been telling me — that you want them to use it to stabilize property taxes.

Why all the bother about property taxes? I think one simple story can provide an answer.

When I was campaigning for this office, a man walked up to Lucinda and me at a picnic in Elizabeth. He was crying.

Here was a man in his 60s, tears welling up in his eyes, as he told us there was a good chance he would lose his home. Not because of the mortgage; he'd paid that off.

It was because of property taxes. They were more than he could afford, and so he was going to have to move out of the home that he worked his whole lifetime to maintain. This man was going to lose his home, because we as a state could not — or would not — break loose from the grip of an unfair, outdated system. A system that might have made total sense when property meant wealth, but is totally unsuited and totally unfair as we prepared for the 21st century.

For too many years, the way we dealt with the over-reliance on property taxes was to go after more rates. You know what that's like? That's like studying every angle of our nation's drug problem and arriving at the conclusion that the real problem is there aren't enough drugs to go around.

Crazy. So we took a different approach. We listened to the middle-class people who have been squeezed too long. People will be able to judge the results for themselves. They'll judge this administration based on the performance. That's as it should be and I welcome it. I'm confident that middle-class people will be helped by what we've done.

Look at the dollars and make your decision. Is your rebate higher than under the old system? Did the county portion of your tax go down? Did increased state aid help your school board hold the line? And how does your bill this year compare to the trends of the past few years?

Keep in mind, if we had done none of this, your property tax bill wouldn't be the same as last year. It would be higher. The terrible trend of the past decade would simply continue. So you decide.

State of the State is a monthly column written and submitted by Gov. Jim Florio.

Clarifies insurance statements

To the Editor:

I have read with interest — and then with concern — many newspaper articles regarding the elimination of New Jersey's automobile insurance surcharge.

These articles don't make clear that the surcharge will not be eliminated from every auto insurance policy immediately. According to state law and Insurance Department regulations, the surcharge will no longer be charged on policies renewed or first written on or after April 1, 1991. This means that drivers must continue to pay the surcharge until their current policy expires; they will not feel an immediate effect from the change.

Please make it clear to your readers that the reduction will not take effect until their automobile insurance policy renews. Many New Jersey citizens are being confused and misled by the incomplete explanations concerning the elimination of this auto insurance surcharge.

Preserve our health care system

Be Our Guest

By Victor J. Fresolone

In the past two decades, Americans have grown increasingly aware of the need to conserve our natural resources. We've learned that our land, air, and water must be protected.

Another treasure worth preserving is our health care system. We still have the best health care in the world, but it, too, has limits. Health care is such a precious resource that we can no longer waste it but must conserve it.

Encouraged by insurance coverage that paid for all the care we wanted, we've freely used costly procedures and services when less expensive alternatives were available. But just as we're learning to use our natural resources wisely, so we must learn to make wise use of our health care resources.

It's in our best interests to do so. Those who pay our health care bills — for most of us, employers, government, and private insurers — are sending a clear signal: consumers will increasingly share the cost of the care they use. More than one-quarter of employers in one survey said they planned to ask workers to pay more toward their health care by 1991.

But much more than money is at stake. If we could wave a magic wand and eliminate all preventable illness and injury, we could save the lives of 1.3 million Americans who die prematurely every year, and gain millions of years of life, happiness, and productivity.

Here are some ways you can help keep our health care system strong by using it more carefully:

- Use the hospital emergency department only for true emergencies.

- Give your health care provider all the relevant information about your illness or injury to help avoid unnecessary tests and treatment.

- Be sure you understand instructions about your care, medication, and tests to maximize their effectiveness.

- Choose outpatient care or one-day surgery when your doctor says inpatient care isn't really necessary.

- Cut your own health risks. Tobacco use, alcohol abuse, injury, high blood pressure, overeating, and inadequate preventive care are linked to two out of three deaths and one in three hospital stays.

Our health care system is a precious national resource — one that's well worth conserving. Save the whales, save the trees, certainly. But let's make sure we can save the people, too.

County Dems, GOP nominate candidates

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

James Connelly Welsh, chairman of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, feels that the board's Democratic majority in the past few years has "brought county government out of the closet" and made progress in reducing garbage rates, streamlining government and controlling spending.

James Keefe, a Republican freeholder candidate, on the other hand, thinks that a $12 million county budget deficit is a "budgetary problem" of the first magnitude and that the Democrats, through patronage jobs, "have run the county as if it were their own private employment agency."

Although it's early, the battle lines have been drawn as Union County Republican and Democratic organizations announced choices April 6 for three Freeholder Board slots up for grabs in the Nov. 5 elections. The Republicans would need to take two of the three seats to break the opposition's control of the board, a grip the Democrats have held since 1988.

The Republican Committee of Union County selected its ticket last weekend in a nominating convention at Union County College in Cranford which was attended by some 400 delegates from the 21 municipalities.

In a proportional selection process, the delegates, on the third ballot, cast 252 votes for James Keefe of Roselle, 236 for Mario Paparozzi of Cranford and 183 for Frank Lehr of Summit.

In addition to these three choices, the Republican delegates also endorsed the candidacy of Union County Clerk Walter Halpin, the incumbent. The Fanwood resident will seek his sixth term as county clerk.

Those who made unsuccessful bids for the Republican freeholder nod included James Fulcomer of Rahway, Philip Kurnos of Springfield, Andrew MacDonald of Fanwood and Victor Trzesniowski of Westfield.

Keefe, in making his first bid for elective office, is a former assistant county attorney and former deputy surrogate; Lehr is a former freeholder chairman; and Paparozzi is a supervising parole officer with the New Jersey Department of Corrections.

The Democrats, after concluding a screening process in Elizabeth April 6, tapped incumbent Freeholder Chairman James Welsh of Hillside, incumbent Freeholder Walter Boright of Scotch Plains and newcomer Troy Smith of Plainfield, the chairman of the city Planning Board. The slot for Smith was opened when incumbent Freeholder Gerald Green decided to run for the 17th District Assembly seat rather than to seek re-election to another three-year term on the board.

The filing deadline for those seeking election to the Freeholder Board is 4 p.m. today. Petitions containing 100 signatures of registered Union County voters from the appropriate party had to be turned into the county clerk to qualify for the race. Independents, of course, could also file.

At press time, no petitions for the Freeholder Board had been filed yet, but candidates traditionally file on the final day. Registered Democrats or Republicans who sought to challenge the party slates would be able to compete in June 4 primaries.

Republican candidate Keefe explained April 9 that he was unsure how much bearing the policies of Democratic Gov. Jim Florio would have on the county contest.

"A lot of Republicans think this is going to be a Republican year," Keefe noted. "But I think you have to go out there and get to work. You're not just going to walk right in."

Keefe, the candidate who garnered the most votes at the Republican caucus, suggested it is "ridiculous" for the Democrats to pin the county's fiscal woes on former Republican Gov. Thomas Kean. He promised that a Republican majority on the board, if it's in the cards, would labor to keep spending down and control taxes.

Keefe faulted the methods the Democratic majority on the Freeholder Board has utilized to attempt to eliminate the county budgetary shortfall. He said, if elected, he would back layoffs of county employees only "as a last resort."

In addition, the Republican hopeful indicated he would use extreme caution and back further study concerning the issue of privatizing county facilities such as hospitals and parks.

"I'd be opposed to selling off or leasing parts of the park system," Keefe said. "Our great park system is the jewel of Union County."

Welsh, meanwhile, who's seeking his second three-year stint on the board, charged that his Republican opponents in the county race are asking voters not to make judgments on performance or qualifications, but rather to "throw out the Democrats because of Jim Florio."

The Hillside Democrat said that the Democratic majority on the board should be credited with introducing a 1991 county budget that calls for an increase of "zero to 1 percent." He said that his fellow Democrats on the board have "put every aspect of county government under a microscope" and have been able to bridge a budget gap through a program of early retirements and, to a lesser extent, layoffs.

Welsh noted that the Freeholder Board is taking steps to streamline county government. He cited as a prime example a recently introduced ordinance that would convert 11 county departments into just six.

The Freeholder chairman countered the argument that the Democrats are responsible for a rise in the county payroll. He noted, for instance, that additional correction officers had to be hired in recent years to keep pace with the increase in the prison population.

Said Welsh, "You've got to meet these kinds of obligations; otherwise, you have a lawsuit on your hands."

Health board conducts an anti-rabies clinic

The Roselle Park Board of Health will conduct anti-rabies clinics on May 1 and 2 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Roselle Park First Aid Squad building, 535 Laurel Ave.

The clinic will be for cats, all dogs vaccinated in 1988, dogs that were under one year of age when inoculated in 1990 and dogs not yet vaccinated against rabies. All animals must be on a leash and accompanied by an adult.

State law requires that dogs must be vaccinated before a license can be issued. Dog licenses may be purchased at the clinic after the animal has received the rabies inoculation. The license fee is $6.20 for dogs that have been spayed or neutered and $9.20 for dogs that have not been spayed or neutered.

Roselle Park Borough code Section 100.9 and 100.10, amended in May 1990, requires dog owners who walk their dogs upon any public or private property in the borough to provide for the removal and disposal of their animal's feces in a sanitary manner.

The Board of Health, in sponsoring this measure, is concerned with the protection of its citizens, particularly the children, from parasitic infections contracted through contact with dog feces, such as tapeworms, ringworms, hookworms and other intestinal parasites causing serious damage to the kidneys, liver, brain and eyes, resulting in problems ranging from diarrhea to blindness.

Violation of these sections of the code can lead to a fine of up to $100. Dog owners can contribute further to supporting a clean environment by voluntarily cleaning up after their pet in any part of town. With proper cooperation, care and control, a dog should remain "man's best friend."

Tax-deferred annuities reduce taxes and build assets.

You'll earn retirement income that's guaranteed. A Tax-Deferred Annuity* is a powerful way to build your assets for the future. It postpones taxes until you make withdrawals, so your money grows faster. In fact, in twenty years, it can yield almost twice as much money as a fully taxable investment opened at the same time. †

In addition, a Tax-Deferred Annuity can offer guaranteed monthly income that starts and ends when you choose... 10 years, 15 years or for life. And your principal and interest are fully guaranteed by one of the highest rated insurance companies in America.

Special Bonus Rate

You'll get a high rate on your opening balance... plus a 1% bonus for the first year. For example, as of April 1, the current annual market rate †† was 7.95% which makes your bonus rate 8.95% for the first year. After that, your opening balance will earn the current annual market rate. What's more, every time you add $50 or more to your annuity you'll receive a 1% bonus over the current annual market rate, guaranteed for one year.

Put the power of tax deferral to work for you! Purchase a Tax-Deferred Annuity at any United Jersey branch or call us toll free.

*Tax-Deferred Annuities available at United Jersey are offered through Lincoln National Life Insurance Company and First Penn-Pacific Life Insurance Company, Ft. Wayne, Indiana. Annuities are not deposit accounts of United Jersey and are not FDIC insured or guaranteed by the U.S. or its agencies. Not available in all states. Interest received is subject to ordinary income tax. Penalties may apply to early withdrawals. †For example, after 20 years, $20,000 invested at 8% interest (if you're in a 38% combined Federal/State tax bracket) will amount to $93,200 in a tax deferred investment compared to $52,662 in a taxable investment. ††Interest rate is reviewed each month and changed depending on current market conditions, but will never go below the guaranteed rate shown in your contract. Not available at United Jersey Bank/South, N.A.

A Challenge Fund

The First Presbyterian Congregation of Connecticut Farms, Union, will start a "Connecticut Farms Challenge Fund," a three-year combined campaign to raise $180,000. The fund "will challenge church members to higher levels of financial commitment beyond giving to the yearly budget."

The campaign will combine the Presbyterian Church's Bicentennial Fund, a major mission effort throughout the country, and a capital improvement fund for the local church. The goal is $60,000 for the Bicentennial Fund, and $120,000 for local church building needs.

"The reason for a special fund," it was announced, "is because the regular giving has not allowed for the many improvements needed in the church. Some are mandated by New Jersey law, such as smoke detectors and exit lighting; and some are due to old age, like a new roof and replacing an old oil burner." The church was founded in 1730.

The Bicentennial Fund is a worldwide mission fund that will support new church development, educate for Christian living, share with needy people, and advance global mission.

Each member will be asked to make a pledge payable over a three-year period. "This is over and above members' normal yearly giving to the church," Lou Magliaro, chairman, said. "I believe that as we become involved by participating in this drive, we will grow in our understanding of mission to the world. It requires a special kind of person to meet the challenge and go the distance. It takes courage to share our resources with others, but it's what we value within the congregation which enables us to give to causes beyond the congregation." He also said that this is not the first time the Connecticut Farms congregation has been asked to stretch in mission giving. "They have met the challenge successfully on other occasions. Twelve years ago a goal was exceeded when $60,000 was raised for missions; and six years ago, in CF Drive '85, $200,000 was raised during a three-year campaign for repairs to the steeple, new kitchen, new lavatories and many other needed improvements."

The Rev. Sidney Pinch, pastor of the church, said, "Our members have responded to previous campaigns with considerable generosity. We've had high expectations and the results were high. I believe God will give us the courage to face the challenge and to raise the needed money for the projects."

This Sunday is the kickoff for the "CF Challenge Fund," and pledges are expected by April 28, "Dedication Sunday." In addition to Magliaro, others serving on the fund committee are Ray Allison, Kathy Beach, Barbara Buster, Marilyn Decker, Charles Derr, Ruth Forrest, Joan Furson, Dave Garrabrants, Gladys Gasser, Bob and Laurie Glaser, Matt Glaser, Norm Heckel, Bernie Hanson, David Johnson, Ann Kyber, Shirley Morris, Dick Schmidt, Bette and Frank Weag and Joan and Don Wirth.

In addition, Milly Stanfield as guest speaker will discuss

Holocaust event

"Lives Remembered" will be the theme of the 1991 Yom Hashoah (Holocaust Remembrance) Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in Wilkins Theater, Kean College of New Jersey, Union.

"When deaths are counted in the millions," it was reported, "individual lives are often forgotten." The observance will "restore a personal sense of the Holocaust by centering on stories of ordinary people in extraordinary times."

The public is invited to attend the annual community-wide event. There will be three speakers, Hella Bailin of Union, Sonya Oshman of Hillside, and a child of survivors, Rency Shevins, who will convey, through memories of fathers, mothers and grandparents, a personal picture of the "vital, diverse community destroyed by the war."

The program also will feature a special memorial candlelighting ceremony honoring six survivors and their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Participants include Edith Farben and Enoch Trencher, both of Union; Gladys Halpern, Rae Kushner and Erika Sauerhoff, both of Hillside, and Moses and Ida Kessel and Sari Muller, both of Elizabeth.

The event will be co-sponsored by the Jewish Community Relations Council of the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey and the Holocaust Resource Center of Kean College. It was announced that the event is open to the community free of charge, and that there will be interpreters for the hearing impaired.

Bears maul 3 foes, start season at 3-0

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

Since warm spring weather can occasionally dislodge a Bear or two from hibernation, then maybe it's fitting that in Kenilworth, a whole lot of Bears seem to have dislodged themselves recently — only not from caves, but from the Brearley Regional gymnasium and onto the ballfields of Union County.

Yes, it's springtime once again, and we've had unseasonably warm temperatures. And over at Brearley, Ralph LaConte's baseball team is at it again, scoring runs in bunches.

The Bears are off to a 3-0 start — a start that includes a 16-2 battering of St. Patrick's, a 15-1 smashing of St. Mary's and a 14-1 pounding of Academic.

Is it that the Bears, who went 16-8-1 last spring, are so good? Can the opposition be that weak? Or is there some other reason for such huge margins of victory?

"We didn't play seven innings yet, so it's hard to gauge," answered LaConte on Monday. "But the kids hit the ball well, we're very aggressive, and the pitching has held up very well."

"If you get some good hitting and good pitching, you're going to be in the game. So that's what happened there."

In the opener last Tuesday against St. Patrick's, the Bears hit hard early and often. Senior third baseman Chris Parkhill went 2-for-3, scored two runs, drove in two and even stole three bases in as many attempts. Senior catcher Mike Archibald was 3-for-5 with an RBI and a run scored, and senior first baseman Luan Ahmetaj was 3-for-4, including a run-scoring double in the fifth when Brearley scored six times to help invoke the 10-run rule after St. Patrick's was held scoreless by Brearley reliever Tim Kaufmann.

The win went to Chris Carey, who allowed just two hits over four innings of work, while striking out seven and walking one. Kaufmann came on to finish up in the last of the fifth, and after hitting a batter, the sturdy senior whiffed the next three hitters to send everyone home early.

Against St. Mary's at Warinanco Park last Thursday, things were settled even earlier. After scoring a single run in the top of the first inning, Brearley poured across nine tallies in the second to put it away. Once again, a good time was had by all.

Kaufmann went 3-for-3 with two runs and two RBIs, Rodriguez was 3-for-3 with a double, four runs scored and two RBIs; and senior Don Dayon was 2-for-4, including a triple, two ribbys and two runs.

Peter Accomando belted a two-run double to center in the fourth inning, and he scored once in the second inning, courtesy of a run-scoring single by Carey, who was stationed at shortstop.

This time, Kaufmann was on the mound, and he claimed the win by allowing three hits and striking out one over four innings. Don Semmet came on to retire the side in order in the bottom of the fifth to complete the win.

Finally, Parkhill went 3-for-3 with two steals, a run scored and one batted in, while Kaufmann was 2-for-3 in Brearley's third straight laughter over Academic on Saturday at Ward Field. One of Kaufmann's hits was a solo homer leading off the fourth inning. Ahmetaj wound up with three RBIs, two of which came in when the senior blasted a two-run triple to left field in the very first inning.

The other two Brearley triples came from Dayon and Parkhill, and the victory went to senior Kevin Bell, who struck out eight and walked just two in a complete-game effort.

The Bears, after facing Manville at home this afternoon, will receive a visit from the Pioneers of New Providence on Monday, before going to visit Middlesex the following day. Then comes next Thursday's game with the Panthers of Roselle Park at Herm Shaw Field.

Dayton wins

Laura Leyrer and Sally Kisch combined for seven hits and nine RBIs between them in a 21-3 decision over Roselle in the softball season-opener last Thursday for the Springfield-based school.

Tourney set

Champion bodybuilder Rich Gaspari will be present at his own bodybuilding tournament on April 27 at Union High School.

The event, named in honor of the Spotswood resident, will begin at 5:30 p.m. with a free question-and-answer session conducted by Gaspari.

The competition will begin at 7 p.m. Further information is available from (908) 964-7400.

Roselle Park hurler Chris Hartzler is seen here in the motion of releasing a first-inning pitch to a Middlesex batter last Thursday in Roselle Park. Hartzler, who struck out four and gave up seven hits in four innings of work, was the losing hurler in a 9-1 defeat. Only four of the seven runs Hartzler permitted were earned.

Lady Panthers win two

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

Winning two out of three is never really bad, and especially not for the Roselle Park High softball team, which is now 2-1, following a convincing 16-3 win over Manville, a 9-6 defeat to Middlesex, and a 4-2 decision over Scotch Plains Friday.

"We've really been putting the bat on the ball well," said Lady Panther coach John Wagner. "We've only struck out three times in our games, so that's been a key for us offensively. It was good to be involved in a blowout, then hanging on to almost get back in the game, and then to be involved in a close one."

In the season-opener with Manville last Tuesday at Herm Shaw Field, senior catcher Mauri Geoghegan enjoyed a great start for the '91 season by clouting two doubles and a triple, and driving in five runs. Two of the RBIs came via a two-run triple to left in the third inning, after which Park was on top by a 12-2 score.

Winning pitcher Jessica Deluca, who is just a freshman, scattered four hits, while striking out three and walking four. Deluca also helped her own cause by swatting three singles and driving in two runs. And junior shortstop Jenna Gallicchio added two hits and as many RBIs.

Against Middlesex, things got out of hand early primarily because of errors. In all, four miscues were charged to Park, and were greatly responsible for a 9-0 deficit at one point. Yet, Wagner's Lady Panthers refused to go down easily.

Keyed by freshman Kristine Vordran's two-run double in the seventh inning, Park made it close. In that same inning, Geoghegan doubled home another run for Park.

Finally, against Scotch Plains Friday, Deluca, Kim Harms and Nina Lott all hit two singles in Park's 4-2 win. It got tense when Scotch Plains put two runners on base — via modest singles — to start the top of the seventh, but Deluca came through, first by inducing a popup to short, followed later by a strikeout and a 1-3 hopper back to the mound. In between, a wild pitch had enabled the visitors to put the tying runs in scoring position.

This afternoon, the youthful Park squad will take on Arthur L. Johnson of Clark in Roselle Park at 4 p.m., before journeying to Westfield for an 11 a.m. showdown with Meiko Saito on Saturday.

R.P. falls to Jays

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

Held to just four hits on what was unquestionably an off day, the Panthers of Roselle Park High went down to a 9-1 defeat to Middlesex in a Mountain Valley Conference baseball game last Thursday in Roselle Park.

Park, just two days removed from an 11-5 victory over Manville, was guilty of three errors and some bad breaks early on. Now at 1-0 on the season, the visiting Blue Jays put it away early by scoring three unearned runs in the first two innings to grab a 5-1 cushion.

Middlesex also collected 10 hits and committed just one error in support of winning pitcher Dave Hopeck, who struck out three and did not permit a single walk, although he did hit two batters with pitches.

The Blue Jays scored a pair of unearned runs in the first inning, then added another unearned marker in the second inning when the Jays scored three more times to grab a 5-1 advantage. That hurt Park's starter and loser, Chris Hartzler, who had good control in the first two innings, yet couldn't capitalize on it.

Shortstop Brian Parenti opened the game with a fly to left that was misplayed into a two-base error. After Parenti stole third, Hopeck struck out, but then first baseman Pat Fay was hit by a pitch to put runners at the corners with two out. Jeff Roy then belted a two-run double to left-center.

Park answered back with one run in the bottom of the first inning when

Baseball

Joe Arena's bases-loaded ground ball brought home Dan Serretti, who had reached on a force play. As it turned out, however, that was to be Park's first and only tally of the afternoon.

Middlesex scored three times in the second, with another dropped fly being the start of it. For after center-fielder Allen Cheney took third base on a three-base error to left, teammate Brian Feath drove him in with a bloop single to left. Eventually, Parenti drove in two runs with a double to left.

Hartzler, whose older brother Dave helped lead the 1987 Park squad to a Group 1 title, did not pitch badly at all, despite allowing seven hits over his four innings of work. The younger Hartzler brother struck out the first two batters of the game, and ended up whiffing four and walking just one.

Hopeck hurled a complete-game four-hitter, striking out five and walking none. Hopeck even retired 13 of the last 14 batters to face him, with Tom Baylock's leadoff single to left in the bottom of the seventh being Park's only batter over the final 3½ innings of play.

Brearley loses

By Kim Egan
Sports Correspondent

The Brearley Regional High softball team began its 1991 season with a 15-3 loss to Pingry last Friday. Brearley did not have all of its players in uniform, due to sickness and injuries.

Offensively, Karen Savage and Sharina Western both clouted doubles, while Lisa Kaufmann worked all seven innings for the Lady Bears, who will play at Manville today and then return home tomorrow to meet Linden.

Kean wins 6

First-year head coach Joe Lynch wasn't sure what to expect when he took over the Kean College baseball program at the beginning of this season.

But if the recently-completed spring trip to Florida is any indication, all the questions have been answered and the Cougars should do just fine.

Kean completed its Florida journey with a 6-1 record that includes an 11-1 victory over NJAC power William Paterson.

UNICO cites Puorro

By Mark Yablonsky
Sports Editor

For the past two years, Dante Puorro has been a highly-successful high school wrestler, piling up win after win, and more often than not, pin after pin.

But at 18 years old, there's more than just wrestling to this quiet-mannered senior, who also happens to rank 43rd academically in a class of 134 students at Dayton Regional High in Springfield.

Really, it's a combination of hard work and determination that defines Puorro. And those attributes are main reasons behind Puorro winning this year's Brian Piccolo Award by the Springfield/Mountainside chapter of UNICO, which is the nation's largest Italian-American organization.

Puorro, who is a lifelong resident of Springfield, will receive his award from UNICO on Sunday, April 28, in a brunch at the Mountainside Inn.

"He certainly is an outstanding recipient," said UNICO member William Cieri, who is also a former mayor of Springfield. "And the Springfield/Mountainside chapter of UNICO is certainly honored to choose him for the award."

Similar awards are made by other UNICO chapters across the country, although not necessarily at the same time of year.

Other than wrestling, Puorro has been a big fan of football, which is his second love. But several years ago, he had a decision to make, and he made it.

"I loved football when I was younger," explained Puorro, who is the older of two brothers in a family of four. "When I was in eighth grade, I won a state championship in wrestling and I was a little too small for football, so I decided to stick with wrestling."

The results since that time have included a two-year varsity record of 53-11 for Dayton Regional, one Union County championship, and back-to-back trips to Princeton to wrestle in the state tournament.

"Besides the fact that he had a very good career in wrestling," commented Dayton wrestling coach Rick Iacono, "it's the class manner that he exhibited in representing the school that stood out."

"He never pouted or behaved in a babish manner. He handled himself in a class manner, and he always seemed to be extremely competitive. He competed always to a real strong level."

After going 27-6 as a 103-pounder a year ago and helping Dayton to a 12-2 record and a berth in the North Jersey, Group 2, Section 2 tournament, Puorro fashioned a 26-5 record this past winter for a Dayton team that, hit hard by last year's graduation, still wrestled hard in attaining a 5-6-1 mark.

Unfortunately, Puorro could not repeat as a county champion, due to a concussion he sustained in the UCT's 112-pound title bout against Rick Ortega of Governor Livingston Regional. But Puorro did manage to avenge that defeat, with a 12-4 verdict over Ortega in Region 3 competition to help Puorro earn a return trip to Princeton.

Ortega and Puorro both are members of the Eclipse Wrestling Club of Berkeley Heights, an organization from which Puorro became a two-time participant in the National Wrestling Federation Tournament. As friends, the two know each other well, and it was that win over Ortega — along with a pin of Rahway's Scott Rayack in last year's team sectionals — that Puorro values most.

"I think wrestling's been a great sport to Dante because it allows someone smaller than other individuals to compete against someone on his own level," explained Dante's father, Ron. "Speaking in generalities, it's allowed him to reach his potential as an athlete."

What's next now for the Dayton senior is college. Having already been accepted to Rider College and the University of Delaware, Puorro is currently waiting to hear from Rutgers before rendering his final decision.

GOT IT! — Well, not quite, but almost. Roselle Park third baseman Joe Arena lunges full force for this line drive, but can't quite catch up with it during last Thursday's game with Middlesex in Roselle Park. The Panthers lost, 9-1.

WHO'S ON FIRST?

This week's question: Now it's back to baseball. Can you identify the player who has never once led his league in runs batted in, yet is the player with the most lifetime RBIs? (We mean, of course, among players who have not won an RBI crown).

Last week's answer: Who else but Wayne Gretzky could possibly hold the NHL scoring record for a single season of post-season play (in both goals and assists)? He holds just about every scoring record the league keeps, with the exception of those for defensemen.

Now, back to the answer. The Great One accumulated 47 points for the Edmonton Oilers in the 1985 Stanley Cup playoffs. Gretzky played in 18 games, scoring 17 goals and 30 assists.

This week, Henry Hascup of Lodi submitted a correct answer.

Gymnasts do well in statewide event

The New Jersey United States Gymnastic Federation State Boys Championship was held March 2-3 at Shield's Gym in Flemington. Competing in the event were 220 gymnasts from 17 schools throughout the state. Nine local gymnasts who compete for Surgen's Elite Gym qualified to compete in the Regional Championships.

Joey Korecki of Roselle won the state all-around championship in Class IV. He finished second on the floor exercise, third on the pommel horse and rings, fourth on the horizontal bar and fifth on the parallel bars.

Jason Bean, also of Roselle, finished fourth all-around in Class IV for seven-to-nine-year-olds. He finished second on the floor exercise and horizontal bar, third on the vault and sixth on the pommel horse.

In the competition for Class IV fro 10-12-year-olds, Matt Disano placed fifth on the parallel bars.

Chris Barton of Kenilworth finished third all-around in Class III for 13-15-year-olds. He won the state championship on the floor exercise, finished second on the rings and pommel horse and third on the vault and horizontal bar.

Ross Lemenello and Chuck Barto, both of Clark, qualified for the Regionals in Class III for 10-12-year-olds. Jason Botticello of Hillside and Tom Sevchuk of Union qualified in Class II.

Mike Maurer of Linden finished second all-around in Class I competition. Maurer won the state championship on the horizontal bar. He finished second on the floor exercise, vault and pommel horse, third on parallel bars and fourth on the rings.

Peter Tartaglia is ahead in his field

"As most New Jersey homeowners know," says Peter A. Tartaglia, general contractor and cabinet specialist, "the kitchen is the heart of the home. That's why refinishing existing cabinets, or totally replacing what is there, makes kitchens one of the most popular areas of the home for remodeling."

According to Tartaglia, most contractors in the state provide one or the other method of remodeling. But Tartaglia, with more than 20 years of experience in building supply and construction, has the know-how to design and build almost anyone's dream kitchen.

"We can either replace or update just about any kitchen from its current design," says Tartaglia. "Refacing is not a compromise. We take existing cabinets and make a brand new kitchen with them."

Tartaglia said using this system, known as the trademarked Kitchen Saver system, remodeling can cost about one third of what a new cabinet job costs.

"Using the Kitchen Saver system," explains Tartaglia, "allows us to offer unlimited designs and colors including European, raised panel and Formica finishes."

Tartaglia explained that prices for refinishing kitchen cabinets depends on the size of the kitchen and the style and volume of materials required for the job. Prices range from $1,500 to $4,000 depending on how extensive the job is.

In addition to being a remodeling specialist, Tartaglia is also a factory direct distributor and installer of the Kinzee line, a good quality, moderately priced cabinet and vanity manufacturer. He recently added Yorktown, a full-range cabinet line, and Boro Custom, a custom-made cabinet line, also factory direct. Tartaglia also maintains a custom shop and warehouse in Irvington where he builds tops, custom specialty cabinets, closet and storage systems.

For more information about kitchens, closets or other construction projects, Tartaglia can be reached at (908) 289-2225 or (201) 347-3623.

Rabbitt returns 'home'

Country music star Eddie Rabbitt returns "home" to New Jersey with a performance at the Union County Arts Center on Saturday at 8 p.m. East Orange native Rabbitt made his debut in country music performing in the Garden State at a hometown club in 1964.

Rabbitt's Union County Arts Center performance will include his Grammy-nominated hits such as "Drivin' Away My Life," "Step By Step" and the theme from the Clint Eastwood movie, "Every Which Way But Loose," which brought him to the top of the pop charts in 1979.

Rabbitt's success is not only as a performer, but also as a composer. In 1970, Elvis Presley recorded his song "Kentucky Rain." Presley went on to record three more Rabbitt compositions, bringing each of them to the top of the charts. Other artists such as the Ronnie Milsap, the Oak Ridge Boys, Tom Jones and Willie Nelson have also recorded Rabbitt's songs.

In 1974, Rabbitt signed with Elektra Records and three years later, he was named "Best New Artist of the Year" by Country Music magazine. His office walls are proof of his success with gold records and scores of awards, including an enviable collection of Cash Box magazine awards.

Tickets — $17.50 and $22.50 — are on sale and can be reserved by calling 908-499-8226. Tickets may also be purchased at the box office between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday; Saturday from 12 to 4 p.m. or two hours prior to showtime.

The Union County Arts Center is located at 1601 Irving St. in Rahway's restoration district. For a schedule of events at the arts center, call or visit the box office.

Documentary brings honor to Trunciale

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

Young, handsome Joseph P. Trunciale of Union, who looks as if he belongs in front of the camera and not alongside it, recently produced a documentary prison film which was nominated for a cable television award. Titled "Second Chances," it is one of five nominations earned by Suburban Cablevision. The film examines the Lifer's Group at East Jersey State Prison, formerly Rahway Prison, and its program to help kids stay out of trouble.

The documentary earned an Award for Cable Excellence nomination in the Single Program Documentary-Public Affairs category during the National Academy for Cable Programming's 13th annual competition. The ACE, which is considered the cable industry's highest honor, awards "quality and commitment to local programming."

The winners were announced March 26 from New Orleans, La., during the National Academy for Cable Programming's annual ceremonies.

Trunciale, 24, also serves as sports director for Suburban Cablevision, TV-3 Avenel and East Orange. He is producer for segments included in TV-3's program "INFO: New Jersey's Magazine," and takes great pride in what he does. He is particularly intrigued with the outcome of his documentary, "Second Chances."

"It's a look at the juvenile crime problem," he said, "and we focus on a group in our area. It all began when we contacted East Orange Police Lt. Ronald Chonko of the Juvenile Bureau, and he agreed to round up a group of juveniles in East Orange. And we followed them with a video camera through this program, now called 'Juvenile Awareness.'"

Trunciale explained that it was on the order of the shocking documentary film, "Scared Straight."

"We took the juveniles on their first visit into a prison to show them everything, including the different weapons that the inmates made inside the prison and how some of the weapons can be sold in stores. It's amazing."

Joseph Trunciale

The producer explained that the inmates also "gave lectures to the juveniles."

"We were in the prison for six days of video-taping inmates," Trunciale said. "We followed two groups of delinquents through the prison. The first group had about 12 and the other about five or six...actually, a total of 18 boys. They all came from broken homes, drug addiction. Some of the kids had pretty long records. For the most part they were pretty seasoned. Their ages ranged from 11 to 17, and they lived in surrounding areas and East Orange."

Trunciale said that his own group from Suburban Cablevision included co-producer Todd Goodman, cameraman John Safchinsky, and several college interns who worked on the program as well.

"The first hour we were there really gave us all a nervous feeling. I must say that, previously, I did meet some of the guys on my own," Trunciale said.

"Actually," he said, "I went with a group of kids and just observed. Our contact was Lt. Alan August, an East Jersey State Prison corrections officer and liaison to the Lifer's Group. We spoke to a number of prison inmates, including 10 or 11 lifers; from those who were serving life sentences for murder, to those with drug involvement, to hard core criminals. They told us what they did in prison and how they've rehabilitated themselves through the program."

Before Trunciale and his group first brought the juveniles into the prison, "the kids were going up there in a van, and they were laughing, cocky and having a good time. Once it started, they were nervous and frightened."

"First the group of juveniles comes into the main waiting room...a lobby, actually," Trunciale recalled. "Then the lieutenant takes them through the lobby door, explaining to them about some of the weapons that some people bring to the prison. And from there, they go into this frisking area. And the guards frisk them, and you can see the apprehension in their faces. From there, they open this door and they're in the East Jersey State Prison. They open the door, and that's where the lifers take over. They take the kids into a cell block, put them in a cell, curse at them, show them what life is like in prison."

"You can see the fear in their faces," Trunciale said. "They were scared. Those men are very intimidating. They are musclebound, and their crimes make them even more intimidating."

"From their visit in the cells, they take the kids into the auditorium and they tell them in prison language why they should straighten their lives out, and they talk about their personal experiences in prison."

The young man described the inmates as "a group of guys who are concerned with what is happening to the juveniles and why we're having such a problem. And they want to say something to the kids to straighten them out. There are approximately 50 people in these groups, a mixture of all different races."

"We weren't afraid after the first hour, even if they're bigger than us," Trunciale said, with a laugh. "When we were doing the show, we were with this group exclusively. And we were able to show how everything is done on a time basis; how boring it is for those guys, all that repetition, no freedom at all. And everything, but everything, is controlled."

For the documentary, he said, "We investigated juvenile crime a little more. We talked to a psychologist in the prison, Dr. Kay Herud, seeking solutions to the problems. She talked about another program that the lifers' group has. It's called 'Parental Awareness.' That's when they bring in the parents and talk to them about the problems."

Trunciale explained that "Second Chances" was a five-month project. "It started in the beginning of the summer. It really got going in August. We shot it in September and it was finalized at the end of October."

"The goal of the show," he said, "is to deter juveniles from leading lives of crime by giving them a graphic illustration of what life is like in prison. And the lifers' motto is 'If it helps one out of 10 kids, it's helping somebody.'"

Trunciale, who was born in Summit, lived in Springfield as a youngster. I moved to Union as a youngster. "I've lived here all of my life," he said. "I went to Connecticut Farms School, Central Six-Jefferson, and Burnet Junior High School and Union High School. I also went to Union County College in Cranford, then transferred to Glassboro State College, where I majored in communications and specialized in radio/TV/film."

Trunciale was graduated in 1989 with a bachelor of arts degree. "I looked for a job for a while," he said, "and a job came up at Suburban Cablevision. I had volunteered my services at Suburban while I was in college."

"I was involved in TV shows at the college and worked as a cameraman three nights a week at Cablevision. When I was a senior at college, I worked weekends covering football games."

Trunciale said that "six months after I was out of college, Cablevision See DOCUMENTARY, Page B5

WHERE TO DINE

A Guide to Find the Finest Dining In New Jersey

By Suzette Stalker

An elegant evening of fine Italian cuisine and hospitality is just about the only way to describe my recent visit to Ferraro's, 8 Elm St., Westfield. The restaurant, nestled among local shops and close to two movie theaters, is the perfect setting for a romantic dinner or a friendly gathering.

My companion and I were promptly seated at a cozy table in Ferraro's dining room, which was softly lighted and decorated in attractive pastels with framed pictures. Carnations in a small vase added an extra special touch. We were able to enjoy our conversation surrounded by the warm family atmosphere of the establishment.

Restaurant review

To begin our feast, my companion and I were served a generous portion of warm Italian bread accompanied by delicate swirls of butter. Our waiter was very attentive and courteous as he discussed the specials that evening, and also gave us ample time to look over our menus and make our selections.

Ferraro's extensive menu, offered as either dinner or a la carte, features a tantalizing array of hot and cold antipasti, soups, salads, entrees and desserts. For my appetizer, I selected stuffed mushrooms, while my companion chose the tender mozzarella in carrozza served with hot antipasto.

My companion and I, both seafood lovers, selected two of Ferraro's many delicious seafood entrees. My companion enjoyed Flounder Alla Ferraro, a house specialty stuffed with crab meat, scallops and shrimps, while I dined on the sumptuous Fisherman's Linguine, a tasty combination of lobster, shrimps, scallops and clams in a delicate marinara sauce.

The restaurant also provides a wide selection of pasta, nature veal, poultry and broiled entrees, as well as chef's specials for two. The latter includes New York Sirloin Steak Giambotta and Filet Mignon, Breast of Capon and Shrimps with Mushrooms in Marsala Sauce.

An example of one of Ferraro's pasta dishes is Capellini Putanesca — pasta served with sauteed garlic, black and green olives, capers and anchovies in a light marinara sauce.

From the veal list, the Rollatina, tender veal stuffed with egg-battered scaloppine, topped with prosciutto, eggplant, cheese and tomatoes in a special chef sauce, is another one of Ferraro's highlights.

All entrees, professionally prepared by Ferraro's chef, Paul Meola, are served with pasta or vegetable.

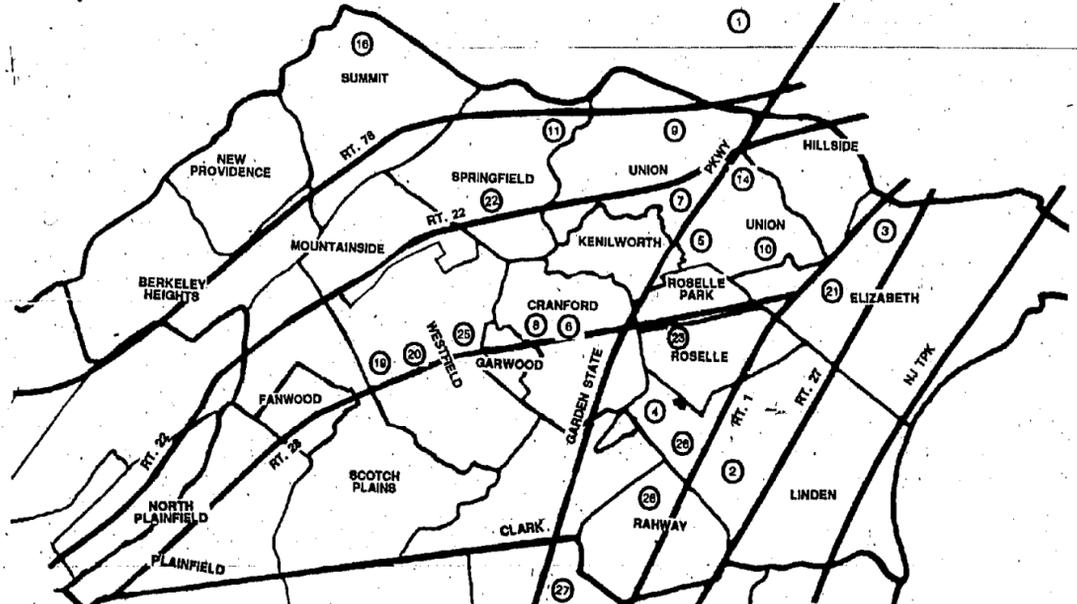

For dessert, my companion chose Ferraro's rich and creamy homemade cheese cake, accompanied by a glass of Mexican coffee. I selected the equally delicious chocolate mousse cake. Ferraro's also offers Italian assorted pastries, tortoni, spumoni and tartufo among its other desserts.

In addition to regular coffee, tea and Sanka, Ferraro's features red, blush and white wines, cocktails, soft drinks and a variety of coffees, including Espresso, Cappuccino, Irish, Jamaican and Mexican coffee. Ferraro's, which serves both lunch and dinner, provides accommodations for parties of up to 20 people. The establishment also operates an adjacent pizzeria, which can be reached by calling 232-1101.

FERRARO'S — Open seven days a week. Lunch served from noon to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Dinner served Monday through Thursday from 5 to 10 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 5 to 11 p.m.; open from 4 to 10 p.m. on Sunday. For reservations one can call 232-1105. Major credit cards accepted. Valet parking is available at dinner time.

Paper Mill breathes fresh life into 'Widow'

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

An evening of enchantment is being offered to audiences at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn in a new, magnificent English adaptation of Franz Lehár's "The Merry Widow." With a new book by Robert Johanson, who also serves as director of the marvelous Viennese operetta, and lyrics by Albert Evans, the production is based on an original book by Victor Léon and Leo Stein.

Nearly a century old, and of course, many adaptations later, "The Merry Widow" still manages to retain its charm, vivacity and elegance, and as presented at the Paper Mill, it is a sheer delight.

There is something very special about a show when cast, director, crew and audience seem to blend into a magical world of entertainment, and all are enhanced by its perfection.

The Paper Mill has cast its creme de la creme in starring roles, an exceptionally talented, musically romantic foursome including the ever handsome Richard White as Count Danilo Danilovitch, nephew of the King of Marsovia; Tony Award winner Judy Kaye in the title role of Hanna, the Widow Glawari; Hallie Neill as Valenciennes, the wife of the Marsovian ambassador to Paris; and Mark Janicello as Camille de Rosillon, a Parisian. Their resonant, operatic voices — alone and together, and with the equally talented supporting cast — reach fantastic heights and give the audience a true appreciation of the world of music.

"The Merry Widow" is set in Paris at the turn of the century, and is presented with all its finery in three acts, rather than two. The first is at the Marsovian Embassy, the second at the Widow Glawari's villa outside Paris, and the third at Maxim's, where the show-stopping "Can Can" number is performed.

The story, in comic fashion, concerns a wealthy widow who comes to the Marsovian Embassy in Paris and is courted by money-hungry suitors. Her own true love, Danilo, who waited too long to marry her, is frustratingly aggrieved by so many attentive suitors. And in the meantime, there is another romantic involvement between Valenciennes and Rosillon, who manage to keep their secret, at least for the most part, despite the constant presence of Valenciennes's husband, Baron Mirko Zeta, marvelously played by Merwin Goldsmith. Peter Bartlett as Nejegus, aid to Baron Zeta, effectively provides some comedic moments.

The music, delivered with elegance and smoothness — particularly "The Merry Widow Waltz" — lift the audience right out of its seat. The other numbers, as offered by the lead and supporting cast, are equally effective. Such numbers as "Overture for Marsovia," "A Respectable Wife," "Maxim's," "Villa," "Romance," "Summerhouse Quintet," "I'll Remember" and "Yours Is My Heart" are overpowering.

Michael Anania, the Paper Mill's award-winning scenic designer, should win a number of awards for his work in "The Merry Widow." He has created and provided some of his most fabulous, breathtaking sets.

Musical director Jim Coleman and choreographer Sharon Halley did particularly outstanding work. Much of the applause, in the long run, was for the exceptionally talented director, Johanson.

Certainly, it was wonderful to see the ever youthful, unbelievably handsome White on stage, melting the hearts of women, young and old, and perhaps causing their escorts to wish they had a touch of White's charm and talent.

And, yes, one did see a few members of the audience humming and waltzing up the aisle at the finale to the tune of "The Merry Widow Waltz."

 hired me as a producer-director. I went for it," he said. "And things have really worked out. Since 1989, I've been a full-time employee."
 As producer and sports director at Suburban Cablevision, TV-3 Avenel and East Orange, Truncale also serves as producer of independent television projects and is responsible for one three-to-five minute piece per program of the bimonthly "INFO" series. Also, as senior sports director, he is responsible for directing a minimum of three sports productions a week and at least one studio production a week.
 Back in May 1988, Truncale served as an assistant on a feature film, "Timeburst" in Hollywood.
 The young man's family is proud of him, he admitted modestly. His family includes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Truncale of Union; two brothers, Tom, who is in medical school in Missouri, and Tony, a carpenter in Tinton Falls; and two sisters, Joanne Mercadante, who works at Spectra Gas in Newark, and Jean Marie Truncale, a data processor in Millburn.

 "The people at HBO liked the show, 'Second Chances,' but they said I need a little more experience," Truncale said.
 "Actually," he noted, "I would like to do a documentary. That's my ultimate goal. My second goal is to work in the news. I would like to do something like '60 Minutes' or the ABC Evening News."
 "It's more exciting, especially when the work has more meaning," he said.

Township of Clark's Mayor Bernard Yaruvage, left, and Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors' Political Action Committeeman, George San Juliano, finalize plans for the township's participation in the GEUCBR Trade Show.

Area Realtors preparing for GEUCBR trade show

Fernando Rivera, president of Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors, and Helen Ryan, mayor of Roselle Park, go over last minute plans for the township's booth at GEUCBR's Trade Show.

Union County Realtors are making final plans for the Trade Show to be held this weekend, April 12 and 13, at the Holiday Inn Jetport, Elizabeth. The event is sponsored by the Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors.

There will be approximately 60 real-estate-related booths and various seminars for Realtors and the general public. Exhibitors will include mortgage bankers, home inspectors, home improvement companies, business machine companies, real estate lawyers, tax accountants and many more real estate and business professionals.

Tickets are priced at $15 per person including admission to the Public Forums/Seminars and to the exhibit area for two days. Special events are ticketed separately. Those who need additional information can call Bobbie Bogard at 245-3155. WJDM-AM will broadcast a live radio show throughout the Trade Show. "Let's Talk Real Estate" will feature special guest speakers from "Who's Who" in real estate, including Micki Greco Shillito, executive director of the New Jersey Real Estate Commission. Audience participation will be encouraged. WJDM is located at 1530 on the AM dial.

A Charity Dinner/Fashion Show to benefit Children's Specialized Hospital of Mountainside will take place on Saturday evening. Media representatives and board members will model ladies fashions from the Narragansett of Westfield, LaFeminique Boutique of Linden, and Furs by Severn of Linden. STARS DJs will provide music during the show and afterwards for dancing. Tickets to the benefit are priced at $50 per person, including admission to the pre-show cocktail party and buffet dinner.

Real estate association offers GRI instruction

The New Jersey Association of Realtors will be offering GRI Course I of the Realtor Institute Program on May 16 at the Holiday Inn, Route 37, Toms River. This program leads toward the professional designation GRI, Graduate Realtor Institute.

Offered by the state association under the auspices of the National Association of Realtors, Realtor Institute is a national program of real estate instruction. It is aimed at enabling the aspiring real estate professional to provide the best possible service and resources to the public. A graduate can claim an extra measure of skill and professionalism by obtaining this designation.

The Realtor Institute program consists of 90 hours of classroom instruction. The wide range of topics is designed to educate practitioners about local, state and national real estate practices that affect them, their clients and customers. The program is taught by leading real estate professionals, and topics range from business development skills to taxation.

The GRI designation sets individuals apart from other real estate agents. It indicates to the public that these individuals have obtained professional education. Attendees also make valuable business contacts while increasing their awareness of current real estate topics and issues.

Those who would like to obtain a registration form and more details may call NJAR at (908) 494-5616.

The New Jersey Association of Realtors is a non-profit organization serving over 40,000 real estate professionals in the state.

Travel Together!

What would you think if your best friend invited you to spend the day shopping together - then suggested taking separate cars to get there. Each time you leave a store, you must each get into your own car and drive to the next store, where you meet for another hour of shopping, then repeat the process at each stop.

Sound like fun to you? How could you possibly enjoy each other's company and catch up on the latest happenings if you can't even talk to each other while driving in separate cars?

Home buyers sometimes attempt such a shopping trip. They locate several homes they would like to see, then ask a sales associate to meet them at the first house. After touring the house, buyers and associate get into their two cars and drive to the second house.

The prospective buyers repeat this process several times, then call it a day, rarely finding the right home to purchase. What the buyers do not realize is that an important opportunity has been missed, the time to share their buying objectives with the sales associate.

Most home buyers have a preconceived idea of the home they would like to purchase. They prefer certain neighborhoods over others, know the size and style home best for them, and understand their financial abilities to make a purchase. By sharing this information with a sales associate before even beginning their home search, a great deal of time can be saved.

Once the associate understands the type of home desired, appointments can be set to see a variety of the best ones - traveling together in the same vehicle. Buyers can provide feedback after seeing each home, giving the associate information necessary to narrow the search to just the right home.

The more the associate knows about the buyer's preferences, the sooner the right home can be located. Buying a home can be a positive, gratifying experience with many rewards. To learn more about making a purchase, contact a real estate associate before beginning your search.

IF YOU'D LIKE TO PURCHASE A HOME, BUT FEEL "OUT-OF-TOUCH" WITH WHAT'S HAPPENING IN REAL ESTATE, GIVE ME A CALL AT 686-1340 AND I'LL BE HAPPY TO HELP YOU.

Spring is here, and it is filling the air with the sweet smell of wondrous dreams and creative ideas.

Now that cold weather has been put on the back burner, and winter coats happily cast away, area homeowners are turning their attention to home-improvements and decorating.

"And nothing makes a bigger difference in the 'feel' of a room than its flooring," says Alice Keppler, owner of LFO Carpet & Linoleum, Rt. 22, Springfield.

In fact, LFO offers the largest selection of top-quality flooring in New Jersey, from stain-resistant carpeting to beautiful hardwoods and durable vinyl products. The company is proud of its experienced sales staff, which will go out of its way to help homeowners select from LFO's vast inventory. And the inventory includes selections from makers such as Mannington, Armstrong, Bruce, Congoleum and others. The company also has in its stock of a variety of window treatments.

"Spring is always our busy season," says Mike Keppler of LFO, which is family owned and operated for more than 60 years. "Homeowners," he explains, "pile in with problems, such as 'What should I do?' 'What do you suggest?' 'How much will this cost?' We make sure they leave here with solutions." And those solutions are what makes LFO so popular and attractive to homeowners.

The LFO Carpet & Linoleum is reportedly one of a select few retailers to feature state-of-the-art flooring displays.

"Actually," says Mike Keppler, "LFO offers the customers the ability to see their flooring choice in a variety of decors, under different lighting conditions."

"This is very important," he indicates, "because this way, our customers can visualize what the flooring will look like in their homes."

The showrooms at LFO, in Springfield, Asbury Park and Newark, are vast, attractive, comfortable...and completely seasonable...particularly in the springtime when homeowners dreams turn to the sweet smell and feel of improvements in their homes.

Select from pallettes of warm hues for spring

By Leatrice Eiseman
Copley News Service

The human eye can discern tiny differences in color — several million of them, in fact. Perhaps in appreciation of this extraordinary capability, interior designers are constantly searching for new color choices to help us freshen our perspective on our surroundings.

Fortunately, the available selections in paints, fabrics and wall coverings continue to grow.

Which colors do interior designers favor this spring? Based upon the records of Pantone Inc., the top-selling colors fall into four distinct pallettes. And the big news is that while each of these pallettes contains wonderful diversity within, we're also seeing much more overlapping, as different pallette colors are used together.

The first pallette contains the inky deep colors, which were also strong in the fall. This kind of carryover from one season to another is unusual, and it's probably tied to our uncertain economy: People are inclined to stay with what they have rather than replace it.

Patriot blue, which is close to traditional navy, is No. 1. Next is blue nights, the deepest blue imaginable, just short of black. Deep cobalt, similar to patriot blue, has been the third blue best seller.

Black rounds out the inky deeps. Though it has moved from No. 1 on the designers' color hit parade to No. 24, black continues to rank very high in lists of the associations and emotions that various colors evoke.

The second spring pallette holds the kaleidoscope brights, which make wonderful accent colors. Here, too, blues are strong: There's a royal blue and two shades of turquoise — Capri blue and bluebird. There also are two warm bright reds: tomato red and Mars red.

One very important color is yellow: There are three yellows in the kaleidoscope, showing this spring's version of yellow-green. In sulfur, the chartreuse, limey greens we've been seeing in past seasons shift to a new predominance of yellow, with green appearing only as an undertone. The other two yellows are vivid: Spectra is a zingy orange yellow, and dandelion is — as its name implies — a happy spring hue.

The next pallette holds the ne-

Pallettes offer warm hues

trials — always dependable, perennially popular, especially in carpeting and upholstery fabrics. This year, all the neutrals have a very warm undertone.

The most popular are antique white, which is an off-white, straw, a deepened creamy color with an undertone of yellow and just a touch of brown, and sunshine yellow, a lovely soft mid-tone yellow.

These neutrals form a beautiful backdrop that works with anything. Throw some kaleidoscope brights on them — blues, reds, oranges. Punch them up with black. Place them against white or lavender for a beautiful, pure, clear look. The combinations are endless.

Our fourth spring palette embraces the earth colors. There are two brown tones — Aztec and otter — and a strong continuation of orange with jaffa — a warm, rich color. And there's an interesting dusty cedar. Combining cedar and dusty rose, it's just a dab pinker than earth and works well with any number of colors.

How do we use these four lovely palettes? Our decorating inclinations are to continue reviving our past — both personal and national.

Regionalism is a strong influence, whether it's where we grew up, where we live now or where we'd love to visit.

The Southwest is particularly popular, but in contrast to the Santa Fe trend of recent years, this is the more traditional Old West of Indian lore. Couches draped with fringed throws are one such touch. Another is a delightfully whimsical chair upholstered in suede. With a fringed skirt, it looks like it has been dressed in an Indian jacket.

The spring earth palette can be the starting point for decorating here. As the Navajo used reds very generously, it seems natural to dip into the kaleidoscope brights, blending them with a chamomile straw color.

Popular culture always influences us, and the success of the movie "Dances With Wolves" has raised our consciousness and receptivity to fringed sueded and leathers, Indian jewelry and beading, and similar touches.

Another strong regional influence stems from the Northeast. This is a traditional, more elegant look in which the inky deeps form the primary palette.

Fabrics in tapestry tones of teals and blues are lovely here, and they're even more exciting when mixed with accents from the other palettes, such as the yellow from the kaleidoscope brights. Floral prints are abundant, with an opulent look that's enhanced when gold threads are woven within.

Then there's the Southeast: Picture the gentle scene of magnolias and dogwoods gracing the South in summer. Soft cotton curtains frame this imagery, and front porch furniture of willow and wicker extend it. Sofas are covered with mattress ticking-type fabric, and everything's done in soft, wispy, flowerlike colors such as mellow yellow, lilac, peach, aqua, seashell pink, powder blue and light lime — set off by lots and lots of white.

White, it should be noted, is pure and bright. Even though it's often thought of as a neutral.

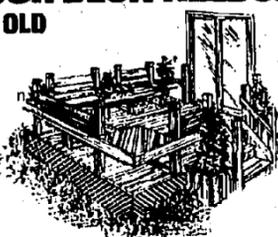

Finally, the regional influence of country is strong, and it's Country Anywhere, USA. Tablecloths and pillows feature patchwork quilts. Basketry is prominent. Wreaths no longer appear just for Christmas; now they're popping up everywhere to celebrate seasons around the calendar.

THE PROTECTION YOUR DECK NEEDS!
NEW OR OLD

The misconception that pressure-treated wood does not require any additional protection has caused many problems. Homeowners have built beautiful decks only to watch the wood crack, split and warp as it weathers.

What many home owners with decks are discovering - often too late - is that pressure treatment protects lumber from rot and insects but it needs help periodically to battle the elements effectively.

Turn the outdoors into living space with decks, pools

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Welcome indoors to the great outdoors, where the wall-to-wall carpet is a lush bed of grass and the main lighting fixtures are the sun and moon.

It's Mother Nature meets creature comforts as more homeowners discover well-defined, functional spaces needn't be surrounded by walls and windows.

As a result, they're pushing outward, making what's living livable with decks, patios and porches and furnishing them with everything from Jacuzzis and barbecues to cozy furniture groupings and swimming pools.

Whether it's a spot for dining and dancing or a place to read and recline, a patio can greatly increase a yard's entertainment quotient.

Great patios begin with great materials — anything from tile, brick, sandstone and slate to rounded river rocks, fieldstones, cobblestones and flagstones. What you choose depends largely on the ambiance you want to create and whether you want the patio to repeat the trims and treatments of your home.

Poured concrete is another option; its plain-Jane appearance can easily be gussied up with concrete stain in hues such as brown, green, blue, red and gray. But what will ultimately determine a patio's fate are the furnishings that define its reason for being.

When walled off with lattice-work screens or a pergola draped with wisteria and roses and equipped with a fountain or reflecting pool, for instance, the patio becomes a secluded spot for sunning and relaxing. The addition of blooming and evergreen plants furthers the feeling of sweet solitude.

Patios, meanwhile, that are located directly off living areas, such as a bedroom or dining room, and connected by sliding glass or French doors actually can increase a home's entertainment and aesthetic value by sharing furnishings and color schemes with the adjacent indoor areas.

Furniture manufacturers now offer all-weather lines of aluminum, wrought iron, wood, rattan and wicker that can be moved in or out as the homeowner dictates.

The flow from indoors to outdoors is as natural as Mother Nature herself.

Whether they're made of cedar, redwood or pressure-treated wood, decks offer an immediate return in increased home living space and enjoyment. They're outdoor rooms for relaxation and entertainment — places to get away from it all without going too far.

A deck addition also is a good investment. A 1989 cost vs. value survey by Qualified Remodeler magazine estimated an average recovery in U.S. home resale of 40 percent to 50 percent of the cost of a deck addition. The figures were even higher for warm-weather areas.

Many homeowners have discovered they can save money and gain skills by designing and building their own decks. If you decide to do it yourself, there are a variety of how-to and idea-inspiring books, brochures and videos available to help you.

Contractors, however, might be the best to tackle the job when the deck is more than just a square or rectangle constructed on flat ground. The trend toward multi-tiered deck "systems," for instance, with stairs leading from one area to the next, or those constructed on hillsides can be true architectural challenges.

When planning your deck, professionals say you should survey your site and decide what problems your deck should solve. Decks can be built over steeply sloping ground, around existing trees, along a side yard or even in front of a house as an entry.

As for purpose, decide if you need an outdoor dining area, a home for your container plants, a play area for the children or a place to sink the hot tub — then furnish accordingly.

Outdoor areas can become living areas

Built-in or freestanding benches, fireplaces, planters, furniture or even a bubbling spa can turn a deck into a custom-designed living space. If you're an aspiring chef, you might consider creating an outdoor kitchen complete with generous working surfaces, storage space and barbecue.

Atmosphere comes through outdoor lighting and soft music piped in via weather-resistant outdoor speakers. For extra privacy, you might want to add a screen or overhead shade trellis.

A deck that truly suits its site should complement the building's style. Traditional or contemporary elements can be incorporated into deck railings, stair details and trim to echo a home's design.

Soaking up to your neck in 100-degree water in a spa or hot tub can do good things for your physical and mental well-being. So can splashing in the icy waters of a crystal-clear pool after a sticky day in the sun.

Such are the reasons that thousands of homeowners are incorporating one or more of these little bodies of water into their outdoor living spaces. After all, who can think of a happier marriage than one between a deck and hot tub, or a pool and patio?

Spas — especially portable spas — are bubbling over with popularity right now. Portable spas are easy to love not only because they're easy to move, but because their freestanding nature can be camouflaged with decking, landscaping, screening or even a gazebo.

pool or wading pool.

The best spot for a pool is a sunny spot, say experts, since you'll probably be able to use it longer into the year. You'll also want to avoid leafy and evergreen trees, since leaves and needles will greatly complicate pool maintenance.

Skidproof outdoor tile, bricks embedded in sand and wood are just a few of the many ways you can surround your pool. Furnishings might include built-in benches around the perimeter, plush lounge chairs and perhaps a slide.

For a back-to-nature approach, add some boulders, gentle man-made waterfalls and planting pockets that break up the hard-edge geometry of a concrete pool and adjoining patio.

Design with the 'new eclecticism'

If there's a consistent theme in furnishings today, it's that there is no single dominant style.

Blending is in. Items reflect the individualized tastes of their owners; comfort is key.

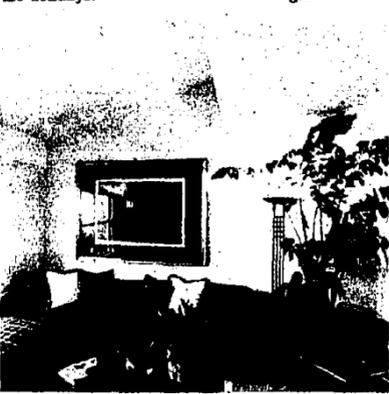

The word "eclectic" may occur to you, but beware — this is a tired term, and its connotation of anything-goes kitsch is not quite right for the '90s.

Call it the New Eclectic: Styles (which haven't disappeared, by the way) are combined with care, and, reflecting an appreciation for innovation, individual items themselves often exhibit several design elements.

Educate yourself about what is available, and as you do, discover your likes and dislikes.

Take an interior design course at a community college, get a book on the history of furniture, browse through antique stores, visit fabric and upholstery suppliers, go on home tours during the holidays.

Design your rooms to fit your tastes; an eclectic style is "in."

Take a hint before repairs

By Mike Dale
Copley News Service

Your home is no longer "charming." It's "lived-in" now.

And that means the house needs painting. The roof is looking ragged. The faucet is leaking. The driveway is caked with road sludge.

But where do you start?

The book, "A Consumer's Guide to Home Improvement, Renovation and Repair" (John Wiley & Sons), provides some rules to remember.

Rule No. 1 — Carefully assess your house and your needs. Weigh options and their costs. Write down clear plans. You can predict the cost of a remodeling project with 95 percent accuracy.

Rule No. 2 — If it isn't broken, don't fix it. Tearing out functional cabinets and fixtures, and moving walls around may be nice if you can afford it. But strategic replacements are cheaper than trying to modernize everything at once.

Rule No. 3 — Don't settle for vague estimates from contractors. Draw up your own list of the tasks you want done and the material you want used. Shop contractors as you would new car dealers. Check references as you would a surgeon.

Now for the basic tools you will need. Along with the standard equipment — hammers, pliers, screwdrivers, wrenches, fasteners and lubricants — also invest in a level, a heavy-duty staple gun, a crosscut saw, a stepladder and an electric drill (a 3/8-inch reversible model with variable speeds works wonders).

You can even make your own toolbox out of an old cabinet drawer, a plastic bucket or four coffee cans tied together, says Al Carrell in the book "Best Home Hints from the Super Handyman" (Taylor Publishing).

Home repair and maintenance is a year-round activity, says New York home improvement specialist John Warde. Scheduling activities, therefore, may give you peace of mind from the "What-do-I-tackle-first?" blues.

January is a good month to fix squeaky floors and stairs and trim wooden doors that rub against their frames. Also to wash walls and woodwork, shampoo carpets and rugs, and to scrub laundry and kitchen appliances.

February, a short month, should be filled with small tasks: patching cracked plaster and dented wallboards, lubricating hinges, door locks and appliance parts. Also good for straightening out closets and spiffing up the workshop.

March is the month to fix leaky sinks and bathroom fixtures, and to tackle electric repairs. It's also good to renew deteriorated caulk around the bathtub and clean debris from faucet aerators.

April is the month to head outdoors, unless you live in Florida or California. Inspect the outside of the house from chimney top to foundation.

YOUR OLD BOILER!

Old, inefficient hot water and steam boilers can be a problem. They waste expensive fuel. Cost a lot to maintain. Don't deliver the comfort they should.
If this sounds like your old boiler, let us look at it. We'll inspect it free and show you what a new Weil-McLain high-efficiency boiler could do for your fuel bills.
Most boilers (even ones that are relatively new) operate at around 60% efficiency, compared to 80%-plus efficiency for a new Weil-McLain boiler. With Weil-McLain, you get more heat for your energy dollar.
Fed up with your old boiler? Call us today. You'll be surprised how little it costs to get the best: a high-efficiency boiler from Weil-McLain, America's leading manufacturer of cast iron boilers for over a century.
