TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Second invite goes by

By David Brown

Democratic committee candidates Steve Firsichbaum and Myrna Wasserman declined a second invitation by the Republican candidates to "debate the issues."

Republican candidates Jeffrey Katz and Harry Pappas repeated their challenge to the Democratic candidates to bring the issues into the open and waited in vain at borough hall Saturday morning.

"I think it's a charade," Firsichbaum said. "When was the last time you saw a debate in June?" he asked rhetorically. "When was the last time you saw a debate without any guidelines?"

"We're not trying to duck anything. We are simply waiting until the time people will pay attention to a debate. When that time comes, we'll be there, and we'll be talking," he said.

"Last week they said 40 hours was not enough time to prepare," Katz said. "Well, now they've had 40 hours and a week," he said. "Their comments in the Springfield Leader relative to holding a debate in September or later indicates to me that these people do not have issues, and are not prepared to be candidates," he said. "They will not be prepared until someone tells them what those issues are."

"This so-called 'debate' is not to be taken seriously," Wasserman said. "It's just another typical gimmick. I wouldn't even call this a failed

First Presbyterian Church of Springfield is under historical restoration.

Wealth of history carries church into the future

By David Brown
Managing Editor

The First Presbyterian Church of Springfield is hoping to seal another 200 years of history within its weathered walls.

In April, the 200-year-old church, located in the center of Springfield, began restoring its outer walls in an effort to better protect it from the elements, according to its pastor, Jeffrey Curtis.

"The hand-split, original cedar shingles were so dried out and brittle, they no longer held their paint," said

Curtis, who has been with First Presbyterian since 1982 and has led the most recent restoration operation.

"We're hoping that by making the necessary improvements, the church will have another 200 healthy years," he said.

In addition to the siding, the church's many windows, doors and, if necessary, its structural aspects, will be examined and renovated.

"I think the residents of Springfield hold this place close to their hearts," Curtis said, examining the scaffolding which envelops the oldest section of the Christian complex like a wire mask. "It's important that we take special care to maintain the building not only for the sake of the congregation and the church itself, but for the people of Springfield as well," Curtis said.

Agreement nears on quarry tract

By David Brown

Springfield officials are concerned over the future of the Houdaille Quarry, particularly the township's claim to a portion of the quarry promised to it as part of the original agreement establishing the county's composting facility there.

The issue has once again risen as a hot topic of discussion since the recent announcement of an agreement, not yet finalized, between the county and the Department of Transportation concerning the stewardship of the 93-acre tract.

The DOT has, in essence, agreed to lease the 93-acre quarry to Union County for a fee of $1 per year for the next 99 years.

The agreement is consistent with, and pre-empted legislation, introduced recently by Assemblyman Neil Cohen (D-Union), which would have compelled such an arrangement. The bill has been shelved in light of the direct negotiation.

"We've always worked well with the county over issues concerning the quarry," Mayor Marc Marshall said. "Problems have always been worked out amicably, so I'm hoping very strongly the county will come through with its promise."

As one of a series of conditions in agreeing to be host community to the county's composting facility, the township was to receive a small portion of the quarry for its own use. Township officials are concerned about the status of that agreement.

"We have to make sure the deal the county works out with the state doesn't preclude the township's plans for a portion of the quarry," said Township Committee member Jeffrey Katz, who, as mayor of the host town, led the negotiations with the county in locating the facility in the quarry. Proposals have been introduced to relocate the township's public works and to expand recycling facilities at a location within the quarry. "We want them to be mindful of the fact that they have a responsibility and obligation to the people of Springfield," Katz said.

The legal nature of the county's promise to provide Springfield with three to five acres of the quarry is, apparently, still in question. According to township Attorney Jay Kloud, the county is not bound by law to turn over any of the quarry to Springfield. "Of course we have input as the host community," Kloud said, "but from a legal standpoint, the county is the body that makes the final decisions," he said.

County Attorney Jeremiah O'Dwyer thought judgment at this time would be premature. "A final agreement has not even been reached," he said. "The issue will require further discussion," said O'Dwyer, referring to the township's claim to a parcel of the quarry. "How can we give what we don't have?" he said.

Katz appealed to a common sense in judgment of the situation. "I'm not sure we can force them to comply," he said, "but to the extent that we have exercised forbearance in allowing the facility to be there, and that their operation has relied on the agreement to use our property, we consider the agreement legally binding, and would

Downtown's rehab plans move ahead

By David Brown

A committee appointed to examine the revitalization of Springfield's business district is close to issuing its final recommendations.

"We haven't seen a final report, but the study appears to be going very well," said Deborah Title, chairperson of the township's Downtown Redevelopment Committee.

The committee, consisting of merchants, residents, township board members and the members of the governing body, was formed last year in response to a general feeling that Springfield's business district is not, and has not been, drawing the business of which it is capable. The committee has attributed the shortcoming to a variety of areas, and is expected to release its recommendations for action at the end of August.

"Sections of the sidewalks are in disrepair, the store-fronts are inconsistent in design, some feel lighting and parking are insufficient," Title said, naming a few of the committee's focal points. "Improvement in areas like these would, in effect, give the downtown area a facelift and make it more conducive to shopping," she said.

The committee's recommendations are expected to be based, in large part, upon a recent survey conducted by a municipal planning consultant retained by the township. The survey was conducted among the local merchants located on Morris Avenue and its side streets, roughly between Maple Avenue and the I-78 overpass, over an 11-day period at the end of March.

"The survey was designed to gather background information on local merchants concerning business types, employees, parking, business trends and construction plans for the various businesses in the study area," P. David Zimmerman said in the introduction to his findings. The survey was given to the majority of merchants in the downtown area.

Among the items topping the list of merchant concerns were parking, lighting, sidewalk and landscape conditions, and the general maintenance and up-keep of the rented properties. Lowering the 30-mph speed limit along Morris Avenue and raising the business owner's awareness and concern of the district's condition were also mentioned.

"Virtually no transient or walk-in traffic" was realized by the businesses surveyed," said the 10-page study, which was formally presented last week.

Andy Ray, the owner of the Fin and Feather pet store on Morris Avenue, and a member of the redevelopment committee, said the town, in part, lacks the attractive quality necessary to form such a clientele. "There's no reason for shoppers to come to town," he said, calling the sight of strolling shoppers a rare one.

"It'll take more than a fixing up," said Anthony Ravintino, the owner of Marc's Luncheonette on Morris Avenue. "We have to really show (the shoppers) we have something here," he said, smacking a fist and palm together. "First, they should lower the speed limit, he said. "It's crazy out there. Then they should make the landlords make improvements to their buildings," said Ravintino, who has been at the Morris Avenue location for four years.

"To me it looks like the only real answer will be a major answer," said Stanley Gerondelis of Geronemus Brothers Dry Cleaning and Tailors, also on Morris Avenue. "They have to talk to the landlords," Gerondelis said, "but I don't think any landlord is going to invest in something they think of as temporary," he said. Gerondelis, however, felt any improvements would be a move in the right direction. "The first step they should take is to properly decorate this place during Christmas," he said. "They should care enough to do something as simple as that," he said.

According to Zimmerman, the redevelopment process is, in many cases, a slow one. "Once the program gets started it could take from four to a half-dozen years for the improvements to be completed," said Zimmerman, who has worked on similar projects in Essex and Bergen counties.

"Individual business owners and merchant tenants will have the flexibility to initiate improvements as their resources will allow," he said, "So the financing is typically phased over a number of years, and therefore some will move faster than others."

According to Title, the DRC is in the process of examining its options in financing the project. "The funds could come from a number of possible sources," Title said. "The Union County Economic Development Corporation, for example, has expressed interest in assisting us with this project." The Union County Economic Development Corporation is a private, non-profit company that provides technical and financial assistance to now and improving business. It recently implemented its facade program in Cranford in which merchants renovated their store-fronts with the assistance of student-volunteers from Union County College's architectural design department.

Zimmerman said the project would probably be financed by a combination of federal, state, county, local and private funds.

Mayor Marc Marshall was cautiously optimistic in his assessment of the project's potential. "It may not be tomorrow or next week, but it is coming," Marshall said of the redevelopment project. "This will not only be good for the businesses, it will be good for the residents of Springfield," he said. "It upsets me when I hear people say, 'Well, Springfield isn't like Millburn or Westfield.' There's no reason why it can't be. It will just take time."

Committee members Jeffrey Katz and Marcia Forman were optimistic about the project. "I'm looking forward to seeing the final recommendations to the committee," Forman said. "I'm definitely in favor of the idea," she said.

"One of the things we hoped (the program) would do is spark the interest of the landlord in the downtown area," Katz said. "We have let many of them slide in terms of the upkeep of their property," he said. "They have an opportunity through this program to increase the value of their property with a little brick and mortar, instead of throwing it away on fines that the borough could impose. We prefer to get their cooperation in the redevelopment program rather than force them to make the changes," Katz said. "On the whole, we're very pleased with the progress of the study," he said.

Maureen Tinen, director of UCEDC, attended last week's presentation. "I came away from the meeting with a very positive feeling," Tinen said. "The township is moving ahead with the project in a very positive fashion. They have obviously done their homework and are taking this very seriously."

Confessed killer to remain under psychiatric care

By David Brown
Managing Editor

A Supreme Court judge has ruled in favor of keeping confessed mass murderer Rolando Marcelo under psychiatric treatment for another year.

Dr. Mahmood-Ghahramani, a psychiatrist at the Forensic Psychiatric Hospital in Trenton, said Marcelo, who confessed to murdering his mother, brother and two Springfield neighbors two years ago, is "progressing but has not reached remission." He recommended Marcelo continue treatment at the state facility.

Claiming he was obeying orders from God, Marcelo, a Yale graduate, stabbed two members of his family to death in their Springfield home before turning on a neighbor, Mark Dennis. Dennis was also killed, while a fourth victim escaped with wounds from the 10-inch knife as neighbors looked on. Marcelo led state police on a high speed chase on Interstate 287 and Route 78, until he lost control of his stolen vehicle in Somerset County. Marcelo fled the vehicle on foot, but was captured after a short search of the area.

Marcelo was found not guilty by reason of insanity after claiming in his confession that visions told him to kill his family, and that "God has to hurt people he loves in the short run to help them in the long run."

"The majority of these patients achieve remission," Ghahramani said. Although declining to comment on the Marcelo case, Ghahramani said through the use of certain medicines, "these patients can bring the problem under control. However," he added, "that does not mean they are cured."

"Cases such as these are typically reviewed after two months and then every six months thereafter," said Edward Rogan, a spokesman for the State Psychiatric Hospital in Trenton. According to Rogan, presiding Supreme Court Judge Miriam N. Span will continue to hold jurisdiction over Marcelo and will make the final determination in the case.

"It's unusual for mass murderers to be released back into society," Rogan said. "In fact, some people who have been found not guilty by reason of insanity in such violent cases spend more time in a psychiatric facility than they would have in prison."

Marcelo's mental condition will not be evaluated until next June, his next scheduled hearing.

 debate," she said, "because it wasn't a debate to begin with."
 "I submit to you that if we weren't serious about debating, there are far nicer places I can think of being than sitting here two Saturday mornings in a row," Katz said. "I think they have let down the residents who are probably just as interested as we are in knowing what those issues are they have accused us of neglecting," he said.

"Talk is cheap," Pappas said. "And I don't think they have the right to speak on behalf of an entire electorate by pushing these issues aside when it is they who are required to produce the answers," he said. "I am sure there will be a point in time in this campaign when our opponents will challenge us to a debate. The question is whether or not we will make ourselves available then," Pappas said. "The smokescreen they accuse us of using is clearly hitting them in their own faces, and they're starting to gag on their own smoke."

"If they came to us with guidelines, we would discuss appropriate times and places," Firsichbaum said, stating however, even that wouldn't necessarily result in an immediate debate. "I haven't been contacted," he said. "I'm in the book, and I'm not going anywhere."

 so many. Recently named as a historical site by the New Jersey Register of Historic Places, the church was founded at its present location in 1761, which was, effectively, the center of Springfield.

The British Army, en route from Long Island to Morristown where General Washington and the main body of the Continental Army was located, encountered fierce resistance at Springfield. During what became known as the Battle of Springfield, the Rev. Parson Caldwell, then Quartermaster General of the New Jersey Regiment, hearing his troops call out for more "wadding" for their muskets, dashed into the church and commanded volumes of the English clergyman Isaac Watts' hymnal. Tearing out pages for wadding, which was used to hold gunpowder in place, Caldwell called out to the troops, "Put Watts into 'em boys, give 'em Watts!"

Today, great care is being taken in preserving the historical integrity of expect them to honor it," Katz said. The quarry was, in effect, donated by the Federal Highway Administration in 1982 on the condition the land was used for public purposes only.

Also at issue is a pending lawsuit against the township, the county and state, by Springfield resident Jerry Pecaro. In the suit, Pecaro charges the township of Springfield with neglecting its obligation to build its share of affordable housing as outlined in the Mount Laurel decision. He also claims he purchased "first refusal rights" when the quarry was to the DOT in 1981.

Both points have been dismissed as potentially having little effect on the final determination of the quarry's status. "His standing in this case is nebulous at best," Marshall said. "Previous litigation like this was thrown out. It doesn't appear to have any merit," he said. "I would say it is, at best, frivolous." Pecaro, who lost a similar suit against the Federal Highway Administration, could not be reached for comment.

"It appears to be a very favorable agreement," said Patrick White, director of the county's Public Works Department. "The county still has to work out certain aspects of the deal (with the DOT), and that will take time," he said. "But who knows what'll happen in 99 years."

As host community, Springfield uses the county composting facility in the quarry free of charge. The only additional organized use of the land is by the Union County Model Airplane

Man nabbed in kin shooting

A man wanted by Newark police in the shooting of his brother surrendered to police Monday night in Springfield, officials said.

At approximately 11:45 p.m., Officer Angelo Bonavitaola observed a vehicle approaching him on Morris Avenue near Millburn Avenue at high speed flashing his highbeams and honking his horn.

According to Detective Capt. James Hietala, the individual approached the officer's car at the next traffic light and, brandishing a handgun, yelled, "Help me, I just just killed my brother."

"Bonavitaola subdued him, placed him under arrest and brought him to the Springfield Police Department," Hietala said.

Gregory Lewis, 24, of Newark was taken from Springfield police headquarters to the Union County jail and was charged with aggravated assault and illegal possession of a handgun. He is being held on $10,000 bail. His brother is listed in stable condition at University Hospital in Newark.

A Linden woman was arrested for the alleged embezzlement of $5,000 from a furniture store on Route 22, police said.

Glenda Hichens was arrested June 16 by Springfield Detectives Steven Stockl and Judd Levinson after a week-long investigation into the disappearance from the retail store of cash receipts. Hichens was charged with theft by deception and released pending action by the Union County grand jury.

Students learn to be leaders

By David Brown
Staff Writer

The fifth-graders at Gaudineer School got a lesson in leadership from peers who have been studying the skill for several months and from elders who have been practicing the skill for years.

In an effort to pass on some of the tools and "secrets" of leadership to their fellow fifth-graders, participants in Gaudineer's Gifted and Talented program designed and staged the 1991 Discovery Leadership Convocation, the second seminar of its kind at the school.

"We thought we would try to pass some of what we've learned about leadership to the rest of the fifth grade," said Adam Steele, one of the program's coordinators and a participant in the Gifted and Talented Program. "We've been studying leadership qualities as part of our program," he said. "We're learning about the qualities and characteristics it takes to be a good leader."

As living examples of successful leaders, Springfield Mayor Marc Marshall and Superintendent of Schools Gary Freidland were invited to speak at the seminar on the role of leadership in the field of education, the political arena and on a day to day basis.

"Some people say leaders are born," Marshall said. "But I don't believe that. I was a product of these schools. It was here that I was taught to rely on myself, to believe in myself and to become a leader," he said.

Leadership conference coordinators Adam Steele, Eric Fishman and Stephen Downs with guest speakers Springfield Mayor Marc Marshall, left, Superintendent Gary Freidland, right, and Pamela Gray.

"Like reading or writing or mathematics, leadership is something you learn through hard work and practice," Marshall said.

"First," Marshall said, "it takes the ability to listen. Leaders spend a lot of time talking to groups and into microphones, but listening is very important." Together with a specific goal, a belief in oneself, and of course, a sense of humor, Marshall told the class they could accomplish virtually any goal.

Freidland addressed the topic from a slightly different angle. "I run a multi-million dollar business," he said. "I am also the chief spokesman on all educational matters for this school district. I supervise over 150 employees and manage over $40 million worth of properties and buildings," he said. "My role requires me to be a good salesman."

Freidland and Marshall apparently succeeded in selling their theories on leadership to the students, who, being divided into two groups, came up with both simple and creative solutions to

July 4 fete to honor war heroes

July Fourth celebrations this year will have additional significance as Mountainside and Westfield honor local service people who served in the Desert Storm conflict.

The mayors and councils of both communities are inviting the service people and their families to attend a special ceremony at 7:30 p.m. on July 4 (rain date July 5) at Deerfield School on Central Avenue in Mountainside. Families of military people still serving in the Middle East or who have been stationed elsewhere since Desert Storm also are expected to attend.

Nearly 70 service people have accepted the invitation. The two communities are working through various channels to ensure that all military personnel and their families are contacted. Honorees and families should call Judy Osty, Mountainside Borough Clerk, at 908-232-2400 to be sure their names are on the list of service people from this area.

Following the ceremony led by Mountainside Mayor Robert Vigilanti and Westfield Mayor Richard Bagger, there will be a fireworks display sponsored by the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Company.

very real problems posed by their leaders.

Through encouragement, communication and, at times, a little prodding, Marshall's group came up with a comprehensive outline to reduce the amount of trash produced in the school. Similarly, the second group grappled with the dilemma of increasing the variety of classes without increasing the length of the school day.

"This is what is possible through effective leadership and teamwork," Marshall told the group. "You have come up with some very practical solutions to the solid waste problem, and I challenge you to implement these ideas we have listed here," he said. "I challenge the entire fifth grade to take the lead in protecting your own future and that of the community."

GOP hopefuls express concern over quarry

Jeffrey Katz and Harry Pappas, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, expressed their "urgent concern" regarding the Legislature's decision to shelve pending legislation that would permit the transfer of the Houdaille Quarry to Union County.

The two candidates, while encouraged by the prospect of direct negotiations between the state and county, are greatly concerned that the county would use the negotiations to further delay its 1989 commitment to the people of Springfield.

Katz and Pappas cited the 14-point host benefit agreements that Union County signed with Springfield in return for locating the county's leaf-composting facility at the former quarry.

Katz, who was mayor in 1989, secured the county's written commitment to donate five acres of land to Springfield as part of the host benefit agreement. The five-acre parcel has been earmarked by the township as the relocation site for its Department of Public Works and expanded recycling center. To date, the freeholders have failed to honor that commitment.

In response to questions about the lawsuit filed against the state, county and township by Jerry Pecaro, a Northview Terrace resident, the Republican candidates were emphatic: "We oppose any attempt by Pecaro or any others to acquire and develop the land for any purpose. To this we are totally committed."

Pappas and Katz continued, "The quarry is the largest remaining parcel of open space in Union County. We must do everything we can to preserve it for recreation and conservation."

The Republican candidates again called upon the freeholders to take immediate action to implement the recommendations in the 1987 report of the ad hoc Task Force on the Houdaille Quarry. The report recommends that the quarry be preserved for a combination of conservation and recreation uses.

Pappas and Katz also commented that the Pecaro lawsuit is without merit and is not in the best interests of Springfield. They called upon the state, county and township to vigorously fight the action. In addition, they called on the freeholders to honor their commitment and take all necessary steps to convey the five acres of land to the township.

The Democratic candidates declined comment on the issue as of press time.

Dayton's graduation party nets federal funds

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School is among 38 schools statewide which has received federal funding for Project Graduation.

Last year the Division of Highway Traffic Safety awarded grants to 46 high schools, and for the 1988-89 school year, 38 schools received funding.

Project Graduation was started during the 1984-85 school year.

New Jersey's First Lady, Lucinda Florio, James A. Arena, director of the state Division of Highway Traffic

Safety and The Bernards Township State Community Organization Program, recently held a press conference to premier the videotape "Victims of a Foolish Game," at the State Museum Auditorium in Trenton.

Florio is the honorary chairwoman of the division's Project Graduation program for the 1990-91 school year. The program consists of all-night substance-free graduation celebrations for high school seniors.

"I'm happy to be a part of this important program," Florio said.

"Project Graduation helps keep our teens safe during prom and graduation time by helping them celebrate their achievements without drugs or alcohol."

The National Football League will also be a part of this year's program. Representatives will visit schools and help students with fund-raising efforts.

Robert (Kool) Bell, founder and member of the music group Kool and the Gang, added his endorsement to the program.

Bell acknowledges this program as an important vehicle to parent/teen awareness and says, "Project Graduation provides our youth with an alternative to substance and alcohol abuse. The positive message of this program will motivate them to enjoy their experiences and live to be able to reflect on the memories."

"Victims of a Foolish Game" was produced by the Bernards Township SCOP with the help of a $6,200 grant from the division. The tape opens with dramatic clips of a teen-ager's drunk-driving accident in which the driver is responsible for the death of her boyfriend. The film also includes music by a Somerville band, Krakerjak, and clips from four Project Graduation parties.

"We are committed to the safety of New Jersey's young drivers, and what better way to get the message across about the dangers of drunk driving, than a film produced by young people, for young people," said Arena.

The premier was attended by students and staff from more than 150 high schools across the state.

This year federal funds totaling $91,500 were awarded to 61 New Jersey high schools to promote the alcohol- and drug-free graduation celebrations. Each of the schools receive a grant of $1,500 to purchase promotional items, such as T-shirts, buttons and bumper stickers to publicize Project Graduation. The grants are designed to get schools and communities started in establishing a tradition of chemical-free celebrations.

"Project Graduation continues to represent one of the state's most effective programs in reducing fatal and serious injuries to our young people during graduation time," Arena said.

The Chairman's Council is comprised of the top 20 percent of Shearson's domestic sales force. Approximately 1,570 of the firm's 9,000 financial consultants were awarded the designation for 1990.

"The Chairman's Council gives the firm an opportunity to recognize that select group of financial consultants who have displayed outstanding performance in offering quality service and products to our clients throughout the year," said Joseph Plumert, president of Shearson Lehman Brothers' Private Client Group.

A 1981 graduate of Rutgers University, Rottenberg has been with Shearson since 1984. This is the second year he has served on the Chairman's Council. Rottenberg lives in Springfield with his wife, Ilene, and daughter, Haley.

UNILOCK

the Statement in Stone

• PAVERS • RETAINING WALLS

Unilock pavers replace blandness with beauty. They bring patterns, color and texture to driveways, walkways, patios and pool decks-- making exterior areas more enjoyable to use and creating an attractive setting for your home.

Unilock's pavers are made from special concrete compressed in a mold under extreme pressure and compacted with high frequency vibrators. They are strong enough to withstand the weight of the heaviest vehicle. A high freeze thaw resistance ensures that they will not crack. They resist the corrosive action of winter salts.

The 3-paver Classica system frees the imagination to make your driveway, walkway, pool deck or patio the centerpiece of a dramatic and distinctive landscape effect, using full and half circles, fans, sweeping curves and geometric and random patterns.

Hit hard

The township of Springfield was hit hard by the new ethics law which went into effect last month.

As a result of a provision in the law, two members of the township's Planning Board tendered their resignations. One of those members, Azeglio Pancani Jr., had been a member of the board for 37 years. The other, Richard Hartmann, served for three years.

The difference in the amount of time both members served is irrelevant. The significance is that the township has lost two servants who were willing to give of their time voluntarily for the betterment of their community. Many communities will find themselves in similar situations such as in Springfield, where they will be forced to confront a loss in volunteers in an effort to maintain a code of ethics among their local governing bodies.

The reason the two men stepped down was a section of the law which stipulates, "No local governing officer or employee or business organization in which he has an interest shall represent any person or party other than the local government in connection with any cause, proceeding or other matter pending before any agency in the local government which he serves." Pancani and Hartmann both have interests in the township.

The ethics law, while needed in many communities, will spark an exodus of volunteers from many boards and councils. The law should be rewritten so that when people such as Pancani and Hartmann step down because of a potential conflict of interest in a case, they have the ability to return to their seats when the case ends and a new one begins.

Seats belts in school buses may be reality

Trenton Talk

By Louis Bassano

Watching my eldest child board a school bus for the first time 19 years ago, it struck me that among the many new adventures that awaited him that day was the 10-minute ride from our house to his school. A bunch of 5-year-olds let loose in a playground is one thing, I thought; but letting that same group loose in a moving vehicle with only one adult to drive and supervise seemed a bit overwhelming to me as a parent.

As a freshman assemblyman, I vowed to do something about what I perceived to be a dangerous situation. Since the use of seat belts in automobiles was being advocated as a safety measure back then, as it still is, I decided to introduce legislation that would require them for children riding in school buses.

That was in 1972. Being new in Trenton, it never occurred to me that what I saw as a means of providing minimum protection for young children could be caught up in years of legislative debate, red tape and political bickering.

It also never occurred to me that it would take nearly two decades before this simple safety precaution would even be considered by the Legislature.

But my persistence has finally paid off, and I am happy to report that the legislation has been cleared by two Senate committees and, once posted by the Senate president, may soon be presented to the entire Senate for a vote. An identical measure is similarly working its way through the Assembly, and once both houses of the Legislature have approved it, the legislation will go to the governor's desk. After nearly 20 years, it appears that seat belts in school buses may finally become a reality.

Much of the credit for the progress of the seat belt law must go to the New Jersey Institute of Technology study that found that safety restraints in school buses protected children from injuries in accidents.

The state spent $35,000 on the study which favored the seat belt legislation. And when my colleagues on both the Senate Law, Public Safety and Defense, and Revenue, Finance and Appropriations committees voted to clear the bill, they displayed their confidence in that study.

As the report found, and as I've been advocating for years, seat belts on school buses will reduce injuries and prevent fatalities when accidents do occur. Use of restraints will also reinforce safety habits learned from buckling up when riding in automobiles and is bound to result in improved behavior on school buses.

The NJIT report was, undoubtedly, the most thorough study of school bus seat belts ever conducted because the approach was unbiased and scientific. The investigators studied all available crash and sled tests, accident investigations, school bus accident data, and operational experience. After ruling out alternatives, they evaluated seat belt effectiveness and injury reducing potential, concluding that seat belts on buses are effective and should be required equipment in the state of New Jersey.

Seat belts on school buses have been supported for years by PTA organizations, and Phyllis Scheps, safety chairman of the state PTA, has worked untiringly on behalf of this bill. In fact, she was instrumental in forming a 15-organization coalition supporting seat belts and other safety precautions on school buses.

M. s. Scheps also arranged for the display of one of New Jersey's "safest school buses" in front of the State House on May 13, the day the Senate finance committee finally cleared the legislation. The bus, one of 25 owned by the West Orange Board of Education, is equipped with seat belts, escape roof hatches and 28-inch high padded seats, all of which are provided for in my legislation. These stipulations are in addition to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration regulations that require that seats must not come loose from the floor and must be capable of bending a certain distance.

Just last fall, a West Orange bus was involved in a very serious accident in which the driver of the other vehicle was killed. While the entire front of the bus was demolished, injuries were kept to a minimum because of the safety equipment included on the school system's buses.

While I am happy that the debate over seat belts on school buses seems to be coming to an end, I hope that this will not be the only safety measure that gets the attention of the Legislature in the coming months. A swing arm in front of vehicles, designed to keep youngsters in the vision of bus drivers, is the next item that should be made standard on school buses.

It's been a long time since that day when my son first boarded the school bus — in fact, he's already graduated from college. If this legislation is enacted, at least I'll be able to take pride in the fact that he'll never have to worry about his children riding in unsafe school buses.

Louis Bassano is the state senator representing the newly aligned 21st Legislative District, which includes Springfield.

Summertime: cleaner season at the shore

As all the roads once led to Rome, this summer, all roads will lead to the Jersey Shore.

Summer at the Jersey Shore always conjures up memories of summers past. The diving horse at Atlantic City's Steel pier. The carousel at Asbury Park. Cape May's Victorian treasures. Saltwater taffy on the boardwalk in Seaside. When I was growing up in Brooklyn, my memories of the Jersey Shore are the summer days my family spent in Keansburg, when my father took us out of the city for a visit to the "country."

More recent memories, however, harbor reminders of beach closings, garbage slicks and fouled waters — events which threatened not only the economic vitality of our Shore communities, but the environmental well-being of our ocean and marine life.

This summer should be an exception.

It should be the biggest, cleanest summer at the shore because we're doing everything we can to make sure the Jersey Shore is safe, clean and attractive. We've cleaned up the past mistakes and have taken steps to avoid future ones. Our hard work paid off in a great summer at the Shore last year and, already, the upcoming summer promises to be another great season.

The realtors will tell you that summer rentals are up by 30 percent. That means people believe that the Jersey Shore is the best place to vacation.

The fishermen especially will tell you that the ocean is the bluest and cleanest it's been in a long while. They can see it as they troll the waters daily. They can see it in the catch they haul in.

And that's a testament not only to what the state has done, but to the efforts of towns and, most importantly, people, who were concerned about the condition and future about our ocean and were determined to do something about it.

And we did.
Last March, New Jersey ended

State Of The State

By Jim Florio

ocean dumping of sludge. For 77 years, we've abused our oceans, but we can't afford to use it as a septic tank any longer. But while New Jersey has stopped ocean sludge dumping, we still face a threat from New York, which has another year to continue dumping. The ocean knows no borders. We must continue to be vigilant to protect our beaches and water.

Last year, I signed a package of laws which impose stiff penalties of up to $10 million and toughen industry procedures to prevent oil spills along New Jersey's waterways. These deadly oil spills poison not only the fish and wildlife in their wake, but threaten the delicate ecological system along the entire coastline. We need to do all we can to stop these spills before they happen or take steps to ensure they never happen again.

I recently flew aboard a Department of Environmental Protection helicopter to mark the seasonal start-up of coastal monitoring. These daily flights will be an important defense against pollution. We'll also be testing the water daily, using the highest standards in the nation, to ensure that the water remains clean and safe to swim in. Operation Clean Shores is in full swing already to remove any potential floatable debris from the Shoreline. Last year, the program removed 9.6 million pounds of debris from 48 miles of shoreline, including Sandy Hook.

Storm-water runoff is one of the most serious contributors to potential ocean pollution. It's not enough simply to clean our water if we can't provide adequate protection from runoff that empties into the ocean from overburdened sewer systems every time it rains. We provided grants to 88 of 92 shore communities to help them map out their storm and sewer systems. Once we've got good maps, we can work to stop the sewer overflows that can pollute our waters. An ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure.

We've provided millions of dollars in bond money for new sewage treatment plants. Our cities' antiquated systems can no longer be counted on to do the job adequately.

We also put in place emergency regulations to stem inappropriate development along the coast. Everyone likes a view, but in some areas, a boon of housing and offices further strains community water and sewer system, and in some areas, can infringe on the environment. Although the state Supreme Court overruled the regulations, we are actively working with the Legislature to enact permanent rules on coastal development to close loopholes in the law and to help further protect the Shore. It's a top priority.

We passed the Clean Water Enforcement Act, which is the toughest in the nation. We're serious about protecting the Jersey shore, just as we're serious about safe, clean drinking water. Everywhere I go in New Jersey, people tell me that these things are very important to them. They want something done for their children's sake. We're listening and we're acting.

We mean business when it comes to our Jersey Shore, because a clean, safe shore means business, lots of business. Tourism is a $13-billion industry, which last year attracted more than 50 million people to our state. Tourism also means jobs and opportunities for our towns and communities.

Just as the Jersey Shore has provided millions of memories for generations, we need to make sure that our children can enjoy the beaches and the ocean as much as we did. If we don't step up to our obligation to provide for our children's future, who will? The ocean is a treasure that must be preserved and protected for each new generation and can no longer afford to be threatened by ignorance and greed.

Renewed confidence in the water, fish and the Jersey Shore means not only a place to spend a vacation or to live and work, but a place to build lasting memories of summertime.

Many to thank for successful walk

To the Editor:

This is a public thank you to the 730 of our neighbors who walked in the March of Dimes annual WalkAmerica at Kean College in Union, to the generous sponsors and to the dozens of dedicated volunteers who made sure that everything went smoothly at Kean College. Not only did everyone have fun, but they did a lot of good at the same time.

As a result of their efforts, $102,000 was raised at this location to benefit the March of Dimes campaign for healthier babies. There were 11 WalkAmerica sites in North Jersey on April 28. Nearly $900,000 was raised to support March of Dimes programs of medical research, community services, advocacy and health education designed to prevent birth defects and infant deaths.

Special thanks goes to the Allstate Insurance Co., Aircro/BOC, Garden State Business Machines, Tuscan Dairy, Union County Employees, Union County Police Department, Kean College, Union County Ham Radio Operators, Union Hospital Medic Squad, local township police departments, Union County College, S.A.G.E., Twin Mother's Club of North Plainfield and WJDM radio.

With such enthusiastic volunteers applying their efforts, the day will surely come when American babies will have as good a chance of surviving infancy as those born in 23 other industrialized nations.

As chairman of this WalkAmerica committee, I thank everyone who made it such a successful event and encourage others to call the March of Dimes to see how they can get in on the fun and the satisfaction, or call me at 908-289-5000.

Debate in June is premature

To the Editor:

There they go again! For the second week in a row, the Republicans unilaterally scheduled a so-called debate, to take place on Saturday morning. The first time they did it, the only person to appear other than the two perpetrators themselves was the Republican municipal chairman. But, Harry and Jeff did not feel foolish enough playing their game just once, so they tried it again. The result will be the same.

Neither the voters of Springfield nor Myrna Wasserman and Steve Firsichbaum will agree to take part in their attempted stageplay, which is all show and no substance. The fact is, that the Republicans, to this very day, have failed to contact anyone involved with the Democratic campaign to discuss a jointly arranged, mutually agreed upon, legitimate debate of the issues. When "the boys" are ready to stop playing and discuss plans for a real debate, they can feel free to contact me. Not through the newspaper, but directly, like adults.

Also, they should learn from experience, and from some of the letters to the Leader printed a number of weeks ago. The voters are just not interested, in June, to hear about an election which is almost one-half year away. As previously stated, Steve and Myrna will be happy to discuss a debate in the fall. When is the last time you saw presidential or gubernatorial candidates debate in June?

Union County Utilities Authority files suit against Rahway

By Sharon Cates
Staff Writer

After receiving notice that the city of Rahway is being sued by the Union County Utilities Authority for attempting to place a referendum on the proposed garbage incinerator on the ballot in November, the Rahway City Council has agreed to stand fast on its position and is allocating funds to fight the battle.

The situation began in May after Councilwoman Katherine Fulcomer sponsored a resolution calling for a non-binding referendum to be placed on the ballot. At that time, going against the advice of Assistant City Attorney Louis Rainone, the council approved Fulcomer's motion, 6-3.

Then, last Wednesday night, only hours after they learned of the UCUA lawsuit, Fulcomer sponsored another resolution that would allocate $15,000 for legal fees so that the city could fight the UCUA.

Several city residents and members of the Concerned Citizens of Union County were critical of the manner in which the resolution was added to the agenda after the public portion of the meeting was closed, which meant that residents were not able to voice their opinion on Fulcomer's motion.

Members of the Concerned Citizens group noted that to their surprise the resolution was passed 5-2-1-1. Fulcomer and council members Michael Esposito, Jim Jones, Sal Mione and William Wmuck voted in favor of the motion. Council members Nancy Saliga and F. Alex Shipley voted against the proposal. Council President Chester Holmes abstained, since he is a member of the UCUA advisory board. Councilman Dennis Hemenway was not present at the meeting.

If approved, this will be the second advisory referendum on the incinerator to be placed on the ballot in Rahway. The question will read, "Should the mayor and the City Council of the city of Rahway continue to support the siting of the Union County Resource Recovery Facility (waste to energy garbage-burning incinerator) in the city of Rahway?"

The first question on the incinerator was placed on the ballot and approved by the voters in 1985.

UCUA's position
The UCUA, however, contends that the city's actions are illegal and announced their intention to sue in a press release on June 11.

"The Union County Utilities

Authority filed suit in Superior Court today to ensure that no further obstacles are placed in the path of its resource recovery project..." the release read. "The suit is in response to a resolution adopted by the City Council of the city of Rahway on May 13 to place an advisory referendum on the general election ballot of Nov. 5 concerning the location of the facility in that municipality."

UCUA Chairman Angelo Bonanno noted that the authority opted to sue the city because the referendum is not permitted by state statute and because "if allowed to go further would be counterproductive to our efforts to resolve the long-standing and serious solid waste problems in Union County."

Other UCUA officials were also against placing the referendum on the ballot.

"The referendum would cause further debate on issues pertaining to the plant and its location which have been fully answered in the formal permitting process as well as informally in countless public meetings," UCUA Executive Director Joseph Kazar noted. "The site selection process was previously completed and certified by the state of New Jersey. The authority has spent millions of dollars to complete detailed scientific studies which have convinced the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection that the facility will operate as proposed, and will be safe for the environment and the residents."

The lawsuit
Rainone noted that the city has allocated $15,000 to fight the UCUA lawsuit. He also noted that Rahway is asking the Rutgers Environmental Law Clinic to assist the city, free of charge.

As of last Wednesday night the assistant city attorney has 10 days to file an answer with the county showing cause for permitting the referendum to be placed on the ballot. He then must file a brief with Superior Court Judge Edward Beglin by July 1. A hearing on the ballot will be held on July 10.

The Concerned Citizens
Most members of the Concerned Citizens are viewing the council's willingness to fight the UCUA as a victory, and noted they were pleased that Fulcomer's resolution was approved.

Bob Carson of Rahway, vice chairman of the Concerned Citizens, congratulated the council for passing the resolution and "standing behind their decision to have the referendum put on the ballot."

Mack Williams of the Rahway NAACP also congratulated the council and informed the council of the NAACP's position.

"We want to continue to encourage you to stand behind the people who you were elected to represent," Williams said.

The Concerned Citizens have actively been attempting to block the construction of the incinerator. While UCUA representatives insist that the incinerator will not affect the quality of life for Rahway residents, members of the Concerned Citizens have been contradicting that assertion.

They have printed a pamphlet explaining why they think the incinerator is "dirty, dangerous and expensive."

In the pamphlet the group addresses how incineration poisons the air and planet. It explains why incineration is not the best way to dispose of garbage. The Concerned Citizens have consistently stated that upscaled recycling efforts and composting are safe, economical alternatives to incineration.

Before the $156-million facility can be built on the proposed 22-acre, county-owned Route 1 site, the UCUA must receive final approval from the state Board of Public Utilities.

Under the terms of the agreement, Ogdin Martin Systems Inc. will design, construct and maintain a 1,440-ton-per-day incinerator. A total of 437 tons of municipal solid waste is anticipated to be brought to the incinerator annually.

Rahway will receive a one-time fee of $800,000 under the host municipality agreement. The city will also receive $1.6 million a year. That rate will increase by 10 percent annually.

Once the facility is operating, Ogdin Martin will receive approximately $30 for each ton of garbage brought to the facility. In addition, they will also receive approximately 10 percent of the energy sales, which are expected to reach $10 million a year.

Hebrew graduation

Temple Israel of Union recently held its annual Hebrew School graduation at a dessert reception. Cantor Hillel Sadowitz led the singing of the national anthems of the United States and Israel. The invocation was led by Rabbi Meyer Korbman, spiritual leader of Temple Israel. A welcome was offered by Leonard Weinfeld, Hebrew School board chairman.

A special award was presented to Rabbi Joseph Goldberg by Hadassah Goldfischer, principal, "on behalf of the entire administration of the temple for his devotion to Torah education." Goldberg taught the enrichment class and will retire this year.

Temple Israel also announced that Zeldie Schlakman, primer teacher, will be leaving the United States for a year of study in Israel. Goldfischer has announced that registration for Hebrew School is now in progress for Primer I for 4 and 5-year-old children; Primer II for 6-and-7-year old children and grades 3 through 7.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the temple office at 687-2120.

Daily Bible School

Joe Krason, Christian Education chairman and the Christian Education committee of Mountsinide Gospel Chapel's free daily Vacation Bible School has announced that plans are underway for this year's school to be held Monday through Friday, Aug. 5 through Aug. 9, from 9 a.m. to noon. The theme is "Jesus and You, At Camp Can Do."

This year, students will "learn to adventure with Jesus" as they study about real people from God's work who were able to accomplish great things...because of God's power working in them — based on Philipines 4:13." The daily activities will include Bible stories, special music, recreation, skills and refreshments, in addition, to "elaborate skits using puppets and live characters."

The staff consists of more than "60 dedicated and responsible Christian adults, professionals, collegians and high school students." There will be classes for all ages, beginning with 4-year-olds through those entering eighth grade. A special ladies class will be taught during the same hours as the children's program by Ruthann Dein of Springfield and Marge Voss of Union. There also will be a craft workshop for the women attending the class. A nursery for newborns to 4-year-olds is provided "only for those attending the ladies class."

Each year, the children and staff also voluntarily participate in a missions project. Last year, attendee and staff donated $1,626 and a local businessman matched the gift. Therefore, $3,252 was sent to Macco Hemmingway to be used toward "a much-needed copier machine and other supplies for his mission in Newark." This year's project has not yet been designated, it was announced.

A special junior high program is planned for those entering sixth through eighth grades. It will be conducted at night in the chapel. One all-day trip is planned for the junior highers. In the past, the group has visited Forest Lodge, Great Adventure and Action Park. A permission slip, which must be returned prior to Wednesday's day trip, will be sent to anyone who calls to register for this part of the program, it was announced.

"Because of the large enrollment expected based on past experience and in order to more accurately plan for materials, the staff requests that you pre-register as early as possible by calling the chapel at 232-3456 or the registrar, Sandra Wilson, at 654-5818."

The chapel is located at 1180 Spruce Drive.

Further information can be obtained by calling the chapel office at 232-3456.

Picciuto Realty helps its customers

Picciuto Realty Inc. is more than a real estate company. It provides services which deal with all aspects of moving from one home to another. According to Susan Picciuto, she will help buyers and sellers of homes not only with marketing and finding property but with the details involved in the actual transaction, such as referring lawyers for closings, providing insurance, working with utility companies and locating mortgages.

"I am there to help the customer any way possible," Picciuto said. "I treat them with respect and courtesy." Picciuto said that to accommodate her customers, her commission is always negotiable. She also provides free market evaluations with no obligation to be listed.

Picciuto, who has been in the area for five years, was a Realtor with a local agency until she opened her own business in May. Her clients have been so happy with her work that they have returned to her and referred many other customers. She is a member of four boards, which gives her access to multiple listings in Union, Essex and Morris counties.

"I have sold and listed many homes," Picciuto said. "I always try to make people happy." Picciuto is very accessible to her clients as well. She has an office at 2573 Morris Ave. in Union which is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and she may also be reached by telephone at (908) 688-3311. Up and down year so far for Springfield legion club

By J.R. Parachini
Sports Editor

It's been an up and down season to date for the Springfield American Legion baseball team, but on Saturday the team handed Union its only loss to date, counting games played through Monday.

Springfield topped Union 11-8 in a game that featured 21 hits. Union, which was 4-1 entering a doubleheader Tuesday, scored five runs in the top of the seventh to make the game interesting.

Right-hander Craig Hauelsen pitched six innings plus for the mound victory, his first of the season against no losses. Pete Kucharski finished up in the seventh inning.

Jason Gibson and Joe DiGrado each belted two hits for Springfield, which is now 3-3. Gibson went 2 for 4 with one run and one RBI and DiGrado went 2 for 4 with a single, triple and three RBI.

Union was paced by Dave Melia who was 2 for 3 with a solo home run in the third inning and a three-run triple in the seventh. He scored three runs and drove in four.

Steve Giordano went 4 for 4 for Union with one run and teammate Ken DeHart was 3 for 4 with two runs.

"We scored 11 runs and really spread it out among our players," Springfield coach Tom Long said. "We also ran the bases well."

Springfield was topped by Watching Hills 6-5 on Friday and split a doubleheader with Scotch Plains on Sunday. On Monday Springfield was bested by Elizabeth 5-3.

In Sunday's doubleheader at Springfield, Scotch Plains won the first game as the visiting team 9-3, while Springfield rebounded to win the second as the visitors 8-2.

Ed Barlow scattered nine hits in going the distance for the victory for Scotch Plains in the first contest.

Scotch Plains' bit hit was a first-inning grand slam by Al Scarpa.

Clayton Trivett took the loss for Springfield, pitching 3 1/2 innings. Springfield was led at the plate by Vinnie Cocilovo and Terence Young. Cocilovo was 3 for 3 with an RBI, walk, double and triple. Young was 2 for 4.

Cocilovo hurled a seven-hitter to lead Springfield past Scotch Plains in the second game. He struck out nine and did not walk a batter.

Trivett was 2 for 5 with four RBI on two run-scoring singles. He delivered his run-producing hits in the third and fourth innings. Gibson went 3 for 5 and scored one run and Young went 3 for 5 with one run and one RBI.

Springfield banged out 15 hits, 14 of which went for singles.

Springfield has two games this weekend with a home contest against Cubanitos on Saturday and a road game with Westfield on Sunday.

Four-Mile Run set for July 4

The 12th annual Cranford Jaycees Firecracker Four-Mile Run is set for July 4th in Cranford. The race will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will start and finish at Nomahegan Park on Springfield Avenue.

A one-mile "Fun Run" will precede the main race at 9 a.m.

Registration for both events begins at 7:30 a.m. at the Springfield Avenue entrance to Nomahegan Park, directly across from Union County College.

More than 900 runners participated in the 1990 edition of the Firecracker Four-Miler. Lomnyaki Lojboku of Newark finished first in the men's division with a time of 19:45. Margaret Koonz of New York City took the women's crown with a time of 23:14, fourteen seconds off the course record she set in 1988.

A trophy—the Frank Krause Cup—and $100 will be presented to both the first female and the first male finisher in the race. The prizes are named for Dr. Frank Krause of Cranford, sponsor of the first-place awards. All race preregistrants will receive a commemorative T-shirt; runners who register on the day of the race will receive T-shirts while the supply lasts. Watches donated by Casio, a corporate sponsor of the race, will go to the top three finishers in each age group, first place teams in the partners categories and winners in the heavyweight divisions. The Office Bar and Restaurant of Cranford will provide discount coupons for all race participants and post-race fruit refreshments for all finishers.

The Central Jersey Chiropractic Society, another race sponsor, will host a running clinic to coincide with Firecracker Four-Miler. The clinic will begin at 8 a.m. in Nomahegan Park and will conclude at noon. Area doctors of chiropractic will speak on the following topics: choosing proper running shoes, correct running techniques, proper stretching and warm-up procedures, and avoiding injury. The clinic is open to all, free of charge. For more information, call Dr. Edward Burdulia at 276-4971.

Other organizations sponsoring the race include: All-State Legal Supply, Elizabethtown Gas, First Fidelity, FrozeFruit, Gold Medal Fitness of Cranford, McDowell's Oil Heat, Meeker-Sharkey-MacBean, United Counties Trust Company and United Jersey Bank-Central.

Cranford Girls Scouts and Boy Scouts will assist at the race. The Girl Scouts will staff the water station at the half-way mark and the Boy Scouts will man the finish line water station.

The Firecracker Four-Miler is being coordinated by Jack Martin, Westfield High School track coach. The course is newly certified by The Athletics Congress. Timing will be kept by Mogendorf Timing Systems and the instant race results will be available from Compuscore. Following the race, all winners will receive a mailing verifying their individual performance.

Entries can be obtained locally from Gold Medal Fitness of Cranford or from the Cranford Community Center on Bloomingdale Avenue. For more information or for entries, call John Bashaw at 276-4818.

Golf team ties school mark for most victories in season

By J.R. Parachini
Sports Editor

With one senior and a handful of juniors, coach Ray Yanchus anticipated that his Jonathan Dayton High School Golf team would be good this year.

But would his team be able to better last year's 19-11 mark? Well, that depended on many things.

Now looking back on the 1991 campaign it's easy to see that Yanchus had the talent necessary to complete another top-notch season.

And that talent was led by senior Scott Byrd. Headed to Yanchus' alma mater — Wilkes (Pa.) University — his 41 average sparked the Bulldogs to a 20-10 record. Jonathan Dayton managed to win 20 matches on just one other occasion, that coming in 1983.

"We were expecting to do well because of our record last year," said Yanchus, who just completed his 21st year at the helm. "The kids performed consistently to win a lot of matches. We also have some carry over for next year with eight letter-winners returning."

Byrd, the team's No. 1 player, lettered all four years and earned second-team All-County and All-Conference honors this season.

"He was very steady for us this year," Yanchus said. "He didn't have much support his first couple of years, but the other guys came along and developed to the point where they could help him. He played his best golf this season."

Byrd was a silver medalist in the Mountain Valley Conference Tournament, one of only two golfers that broke 80. He shot a 79 for second place.

"His strength is in his long shot," Yanchus said. "He was taught how to play at an early age, so his local knowledge of greens is good. He has patience when needed."

Pre-camp program Monday

The YM-YWHA of Union County, located on the Green Lane in Union, is proud to offer its annual pre-camp vacation program on Monday and Tuesday.

The program fills the gap between school and camp, which is especially useful for working parents.

On Monday the children will be going bowling and getting prizes and on Tuesday they will participate in a seasonal field walk and nature presentation at the Trailside Nature Center in Mountainside. Their time at the "Y" will be spent swimming, doing arts and crafts, playing sports and games and even seeing a movie if time permits.

The program is open to children ages 6-10 years of age and runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The fee is $15 for members and $20 for non-members. For more information and to request a registration form contact Lynda Friedman at the "Y" at 289-8112.

Baseball added

Union County College will add a baseball camp to its list of activities in its "College for Kids" program this summer.

The week-long camp is designed to teach youngsters, ages 8-16, the fundamentals of baseball. The camp will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., July 15-19. For more information call 709-7601.

The Bulldogs' No. 2 golfer this year was junior Steve Kleinman. A two-time letter-winner, Kleinman was the low man in the Union County Tournament at Rutgers and state tournament at Echo Lake in Westfield. He shot an 84 on the course at Rutgers and a 90 at Echo Lake.

"He seemed to play better in tournaments," Yanchus said. "I think he bled down and concentrated more."

Other juniors included Brett Winter, Ryan Feeley, Bob Johnson, Chad Oberhauser and Mark Bowen. All were letter winners with Feeley and Oberhauser gaining their third and Winter and Johnson their second.

The team was rounded out by sophomore David Santos and freshman Paul Santos, David's brother, and Brian Anderson — all letter winners.

"Brett was our most consistent golfer over the first half of the season," Yanchus said. "He wasn't spectacular, but he consistently turned in scores between 40 and 44."

Jonathan Dayton finished third in the Mountain Valley Conference Tournament and fourth in the Mountain Division of the Mountain Valley Conference. The Bulldogs also finished fourth in the 11-team Union County Tournament field.

The Bulldogs having a successful season is in direct correlation to their relationship to the Baltusrol Golf Club, which allows them to practice and hold matches at its famous layout.

Byrd was the only one to shoot an even par on the Upper Course at Baltusrol this year. His 36 helped Jonathan Dayton top both Roselle and West Orange in a tri-match.

Angels capture title

The Mountainside Little League season ended last week with the Angels of the American League taking the league championship and the Astros claiming the playoff title. The Major League Champions were the Mets and the playoff champions were the Cubs.

In playoff game results, the Astros topped the Yankees 4-3. The Yankees lead 3-0 after three innings. Yankee batters Jason Guidiciopetro, Tice Gunther and Nick Mancinelli each singled and Derrick Whritenour had a single and double to drive in two of the runs. Shaun Kroon, Ryan Farhion and Mark Cantagallo all had hits for the Astros. Eric Cantagallo pushed the Astros ahead in the bottom of the third with a three-run home run to give them their first playoff game win.

In their second playoff game, the Astros topped the Indians 6-0. Mark Cantagallo, Brandon Cantagallo, Tim Britt, Shaun Kroon, Ryan Farhion and Andrew Dubno each singled for the Astros. Eric Cantagallo doubled twice and finished with three RBI. Mark Cantagallo recorded three strikeouts on the mound. Mike Debbie had six putouts at first base, including an unassisted double play. Philip Statile doubled and Evan Chiswick singled for the Indians.

The Cubs' Shaun Farhion struck out 17 Pirates and allowed only one hit, to Chris McPhearson, as the Cubs defeated the Pirates 19-0. Kevin McDonough had two singles and a triple for three RBI. Adam Benninger singled twice, Tom Tancred doubled in two runs, Shaun Farhion went 4 for 4 with three singles and a double, Pat Collins had two singles and a triple that drove in three runs, Joe Leone had a three-run double and Sal and Jimmy Russo each singled.

Track star honored for academic efforts

By J.R. Parachini
Sports Editor

Two things every high school upperclassman looks forward to are going to the prom and graduation. And for seniors that are recognized for their academic or athletic distinction, there are moments in between that can be just as satisfying.

Union's Kahsime Simmons experienced a few of those precious moments in one recent weekend.

The talented sprinter who finished third in the state this year in the 100-meter dash, was recognized for his classroom excellence by being the recipient of two academic scholarships, receiving one on Saturday, June 8 and another the following day. His prom was on that weekend's Friday evening.

As Kahsime was getting ready to go to his prom at the Birchwood Manor in Whippany, he already knew that he would have to make a speech the next day at the Marriott Hotel at Newark International Airport to receive one of three scholarships awarded by The National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, Inc.

And later that Friday his mom Florine was notified by phone that Kahsime was one of five seniors awarded the J.G. Bryant and Lillian Carter Memorial Scholarship. This honor would be bestowed upon him on the Sunday of that weekend at the First Baptist Church in Union.

So, Simmons went to his prom on a Friday night and received scholarships each of the following two days. Not a bad 48 hours.

Simmons became the first male to receive the Phi Delta Kappa scholarship, worth $2000 towards his college education.

That will be spent at Kutztown University, a small liberal arts college in Kutztown, Pa.

"I saw the scholarship posted on the school bulletin board and decided to give it a shot," said Simmons, who, as the youngest, will be the first of four children in his family to attend college. "I didn't realize that I was the first male to receive the scholarship until I got there."

Simmons was the second-place scholarship winner with the first and third-place award winners being girls from other New Jersey high schools. The three were honored at a luncheon at the Marriott.

The National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, Inc. is an organization of black educators whose purpose is to assist young black men and women who plan to enter college for training in the field of teaching or other related fields.

Dancer's life mirrors her role in 'A Chorus Line'

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

If anyone knows about life as a chorus dancer in a chorus line, it's Jan Leigh Herndon. The curvaceous, attractive performer, who made her Broadway debut as Sheila, the sardonic, sarcastic dancer in "A Chorus Line," recreates her role in the current Paper Mill Playhouse production in Millburn. She was with the musical since 1980 in road shows, national tours and on Broadway.

Herndon knows what it's like to be a hooper, to dance her heart out. . . she knows what the hoofers in "A Chorus Line" are all about, because she's one too. "A Chorus Line" is very much a show about the Broadway gypsy," she said. "And these days, there's a definite fear among the gypsies."

Gypsies?
"A gypsy," she explained, "is really someone who makes a living dancing or working on Broadway for a long time. . . and mainly makes his or her living at it. And that's what we all are. Also," Herndon said, "A Chorus Line" is really a show about survival."

Herndon joined "A Chorus Line" about five or six years after its inception. "I did several touring companies of the show before they brought me in off the road to replace someone. That was about a year and a half ago. I did the part of Sheila in New York for about three months. It was a short gig but it was a great time."

"I had a chance to work with the national tour in 1982, which was a bus and truck company. I played only cities and one-night stands in towns I never even heard of before."

"During the national tour, producer Michael Bennett tried to update the show, which had been running for about six or seven years. But after touring for about five or six months, he decided to change everything back to the original."

Herndon admitted that there is a lot of truth to this particular show. Before it was written, she said, "Broadway was at an all-time low. That was in the mid-1970s. A lot of dancers got together with him and asked, 'What are we going to do?' That was when Bennett had a talk session and brought people together to talk about their lives in the theater. He developed a concept through the workshops which were held to try stories out and see if they could materialize into a Broadway show."

"Bennett," she said, "was responsible for a whole new world of thought behind producing Broadway shows."

Herndon mused, "Michael was really a very interesting character. He was brilliant in conceiving ideas and putting them into action. He had a brilliant vision — a real eye for how to set the tone and mood of people. And he was a wonderful collaborator. He managed to get the best people to work together — all with a common cause."

"In addition," she said with awe, "he originated a commercial show with no stars! And the show has a much better appeal for people who are not in the theater industry."

Herndon sighed. "I've been with the show for a long time — from 1980 off and on for the last 11 years. I also spent some time where I played Cassie. Actually," she said, "just last summer I got to play Sheila after eight years. Robert Longbottom, who is assistant to the director in the Paper Mill production, was the director of the production in Long Island. That's when I got to play Sheila again. Sheila is actually a very vulnerable woman with a steel-plated personality. She hides her vulnerability through her sarcasm."

Herndon, who was born in North Carolina, came to New York in 1977. "I did a lot of dinner theater, much of it out of New York." She played Rita in "Educating Rita," Eva in "Evita," Fastrada in "Pippin," Lola in "Damn Yankees," Masha in "Hollywood/Ukraine," and Diane in "Lend Me a Tenor." She also has studied at the North Carolina School of the Arts and with Uta Hagen.

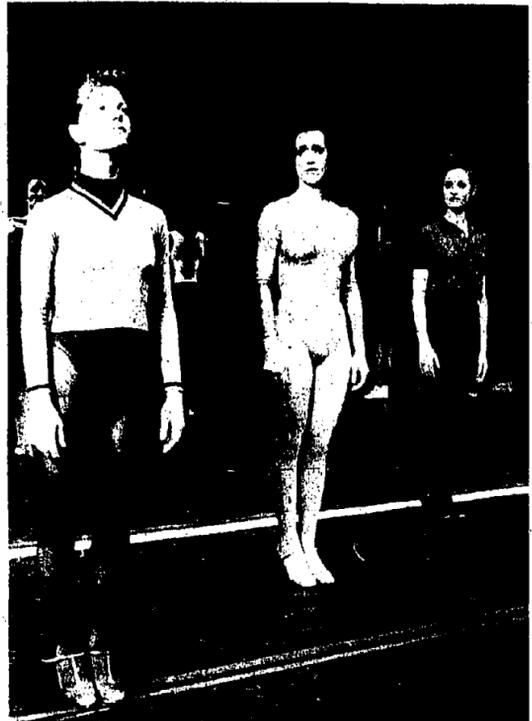

"Chorus Line" was my first big break," she said, "and my first connection with Broadway and a Broadway production. I must admit," she smiled, "that 'A Chorus Line' is my mother show. I would like to do more acting, but I will dance as long as I can. I'm actually living this role more closely because I've been a dancer for so long. I'd like to act more, and I'm singing a lot. But basically, it's the same career."

Outside of the role of Sheila, Herndon said she loved doing Lola in "Damn Yankees." "I love those spitfire roles, and I've done a number of them. I've played a lot of outspoken women with red hair."

"And in this show, I came to the role of Sheila with brown hair. It was Mr. Bennett's idea to change the color of my hair. 'You're playing the vixen,' he said, 'and you need to draw a little more attention. You can't do it with brown hair.'

"So, I became a red head," she chuckled. "And I have been ever since."

Mary Jo Mahaffey (Maggie), Jan Leigh Herndon (Sheila) and Mindy Cooper (Bebe) sing "At the Ballet" from "A Chorus Line" at the Paper Mill Playhouse.

Fashion students bring show to Cranford

More than 160 people packed the Coachman Inn in Cranford to watch the "International Festival, 1991," a fashion show presented by European Academy of Cosmetology students.

All of the fashions, created and presented by students of EAC, reflected 37 nations from around the world. Clothing, make-up, hair and nail artistry were all designed by European Academy students. Master of ceremonies, Santo Trapani, presided over the evening's presentations, as well as giving insight into each fashion category.

In addition to fashions, there were on display artifacts and curios from the countries represented. This allowed an even more in-depth insight into the fashions and cultures of the various countries.

Commenting on the festival, Antonio Trapani, director of education for EAC, said, "This fashion show is created, designed and produced entirely by European Academy students. Our curriculum is designed for the hands-on training of our students combined with classic classroom instruction. The fashion show enables our students to combine these two methods of teaching into one unit and actually apply what they have learned. Not only is it the best education, it's also fun for the students."

In attendance at the show were parents, teachers and friends of the students, as well as many salon owners. Also attending were Richard Griswold and Jay Malanga, secretary and chairman of the board of cosmetology, respectively.

For more information, contact the European Academy of Cosmetology at 1126 Morris Ave. in Union at 908-686-4422.

Bolge named arts center director

The trustees of the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts in Summit have appointed George S. Bolge as executive director.

Bolge served as executive director of the Museum of Art in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., between 1970 and 1988, when the trustees appointed him Director Emeritus in recognition of his administrative, educational and academic achievements. During his tenure at the Museum of Art, Bolge was instrumental in fostering the center with an operating budget of $100,000 and a staff of eight and developing it into a nationally accredited fine arts museum with a $1.8 million annual budget, a professional staff of more than 50, and a statewide, recognized multi-discipline education and fine arts exhibition program. Bolge led successful fundraising efforts for three complete building campaigns which culminated in the opening of a new facility in 1985 designed by the eminent architect Edward Larabee Barnes.

In addition, Bolge organized, designed and installed more than 200 major regional, national and international exhibitions including Pierre-Auguste Renoir (complete graphic oeuvre), Matta, Leon Kroll, Alice Neel, Conrad Marca-Relli, Emilio Sanchez, Andrew Wyeth and Norman Rockwell. Bolge has written and published more than 150 exhibition catalogs and contributed more than 100 scholarly essays to regional and national art publications. Under Bolge's leadership, the Museum of Art's Permanent Collection grew from less than 100 objects to more than 3,000 works valued in excess of $27 million; he expanded areas of the collection to include photography, Pre-Columbian and Historic American Indian Art, Oceanic Art, West African Tribal Art, Indonesian Art, International Structuralist Art and Cobra Art.

Since 1988, Bolge has been involved in fine arts management consulting in the areas of Modern, European and American Art; among his recent projects are a cultural arts and fiscal development plan for Mercer Community College in Trenton; a Fine Arts Program for the recently opened, new Broward Center for the Performing Arts, and an appointment as curatorial consultant to Broward

County for its art in public places connection.

Bolge also brings a formidable academic background to his position as executive director of New Jersey Center for Visual Arts. He holds B.A. and B.S. degrees from Rutgers University, where he was a Henry Rutgers Scholar in art history. He also earned an M.A. from the Institute of Fine Arts, New York University (in Greek and Roman archeology, with a minor in Primal Art) and was conferred an Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters from Nova University in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. In addition, Bolge was a Fellow of the National Trust for Historic Preservation at Colonial Williamsburg; he was also assistant curator in ancient art department of the Brooklyn Museum of Art.

Bolge is a member of the Appraisers Association of America, Inc., and has served as a consultant to the American Association of Museums in the Museum Assessment Program for Collections Management. Bolge's involvement in community service through the years includes membership in the following: Downtown Arts Committee, Community Redevelopment Agency for the city of Hollywood, Fla.; Art in Public Places Professional Advisory Committee, Metropolitan Dade County, Fla.; Broward Cultural Affairs Council; Art in Public Places Committee, Broward County, Fla., and the city of Ft. Lauderdale Community Appearance Board.

Commenting on the appointment, NJCVA President Evelyn Powers said, "We look forward to Bolge's arrival. His credentials and extensive background will be very valuable to the future growth of NJCVA. Ann Stein, chair of the NJCVA board's Secret Committee adds, "I'm confident that the center will benefit greatly from George's enthusiastic and innovative leadership."

Bolge said, "The most exciting aspect of my appointment as the executive director of New Jersey Center for Visual Arts is the opportunity to work with such a knowledgeable and motivated volunteer corps. These dedicated men and women constitute an invaluable resource to NJCVA. With their active participation and support, the professional staffs will be able to construct and to deliver meaningful programs to the community."

Glenn Miller Orchestra

Paper Mill welcomes orchestra

The Paper Mill Playhouse opens its Summer Festival 1991 season with the Glenn Miller Orchestra. The orchestra was formed in 1956 to carry on Miller's original swinging style. Today, the band, led by trombonist Larry O'Brien, is made up of 19 musicians and the "Moonlight Serenaders" singing trio. Their entire repertoire exceeds 1,700 compositions, including original Miller arrangements of "In the Mood," "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" and some modern selections in the big band style. The performance is on July 9 at 8 p.m.

The New Jersey Ballet, Paper Mill's resident ballet company, will appear on July 11 at 8 p.m. This year, the company finished a historic tour to Moscow, performing for more than 50,000 Russians at the Kremlin Palace. The Paper Mill performance will premiere Balanchine's "Concerto Barocco" and Gray's jazz ballet, "Three Derivations," to a score by Morton Gould. The company will also perform the popular Robert North work, "Entre Dos Aguas."

Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans will be at Paper Mill for its sixth consecutive year on July 15 and 16 at 8 p.m. Their musical form grew out of the sounds of the streets, the saloons and the music of the Mississippi riverboats. When not on tour, the band still plays at the old Preservation Hall in the French Quarter of New Orleans.

Tickets for each of the events are $24, orchestra, and $20, mezzanine. Mastercard and Visa are accepted and group rates are available. Call the box office at 376-4343.

Guide helps families deal with pet's death

Frisky Jones died at 9 p.m. on May 22, 1991, just three hours shy of his 24th birthday. The pet dog would have been almost 168 years old in human terms. Having truly lived a full and enriched life, the dog's death was hard on the family, and much harder on the younger children, as grief is natural, and because their parents could not answer all the important questions such as why Frisky had to die, whether he went to heaven and more.

"Death of A Pet" is an informative awareness guide for children and animal lovers, which has been created to answer the questions most commonly asked by children about pet death. The pet could be any kind, large or small, lost by death or disappearance, or through the need to remove the pet from the household for any reason.

Inquiries regarding the "Death of A Pet" guide should be sent to the USCCCN Survival Associates Network, P.O. Box 350, East Orange 07019. Inquiries are requested to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for complete details.

Stagework sets the stage for summer entertainment

For serious entertainment-seekers, the play's the thing. And Stageworks/Summit has put together a season of plays guaranteed to tickle funnybones and send shivers up spines. Sometimes at the same time.

The company will open with Richard Nelson's "Jungle Coup," a black comedy. The second production will be Orson Welles' stage adaptation of "Moby Dick," Melville's tale of adventure and revenge.

Both dramas have been directed by Robert Pridham. Past seasons have displayed Pridham's vision in productions of "Talk Radio," "Frankenstein," "Total Abandon," and the American premiere of Stephen King's "Ghost Stories."

"Jungle Coup" has not been seen since a Playwright's Horizons 1978 production which starred Michael Moriarty. The play explores a journalist's effect on the news — and its effect on him — as he reports on a military uprising taking place largely in his imagination. Nelson also penned "Some Americans Abroad," which has been playing to full houses in London's West End for more than a year. "Jungle Coup" opens June 28. Other performances are June 29, and July 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, and 13 all at 8 p.m.

"Moby Dick" opens July 18 and runs Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings through Aug. 10.

Stageworks/Summit is the area's only professional Equity company in operation during the summer. All performances are at 8 p.m. at the Arts Center Theater, Kent Place School, Summit. General admission is $15. Student and seniors, $12. Bargain subscriptions are $25.50 for adults, and $20.50 for students and seniors. Parking is free. Reserve seats by calling the box office at 908-273-9383.

Hakoshima is featured on local stages

The New Jersey Shakespeare Festival artistic director, Bonnie J. Monte, and Michael Stotts, general manager, presented Yass Hakoshima's "Imaginary Journey," on June 17 as one of its Monday Night Specials. "Imaginary Journey" was presented in association with Apollo Muses, which will feature Hakoshima in a workshop performance on Sunday at the Lu Shan Farm south of Chester.

Born and educated in Japan, Hakoshima combines the intensity of the Noh Theater of his homeland with the drama of classical mime and the athletic elements of American modern dance. His work is a fusion of East and West, a blending of music, art and literature. The New York Times, said "To watch Yass Hakoshima is to be captured and captivated. . . Unlike traditional mimes, he is less involved with reproducing exact movements than with drawing his audience. . . into a realm where dreams can be seen."

Hakoshima's career as a professional mime began in 1958, when he became a member of the first western pantomime group in Tokyo. Having taught mime at institutions throughout Europe and North America, Hakoshima has also choreographed plays by Jean Cocteau and Thornton Wilder, and completed several projects for film and television. In 1976, Hakoshima formed the Yass Hakoshi-ma Mime Theater, which has since received several grants from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Apollo Muses brings a wide spectrum of visual and performing arts to New Jersey audiences, either at major public facilities or at its home base, the Lu Shan Farm.

Now entering its eighth year, Apollo Muses aims to assist young emerging artists and foster a continuing dialogue among the arts by providing an intimate, supportive environment. Past programs have included chamber and vocal concerts, theater presentations, demonstrations by dance companies, visits to artists' studios and various lectures and exhibitions exploring different artistic disciplines.

Hakoshima's workshop presentation will take place at the Lu Shan Farm on Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets are $10 and available by calling 908-879-2428.

Presentation of Hakoshima's "Imaginary Journey" at NJSF was made possible in part by a grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation. The "Monday Night Specials" series is co-produced by Schering-Plough, Inc., with additional funding provided by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

WHERE TO DINE

A Guide to Find the Finest Dining In New Jersey

By Debble Jordan

An extraordinary experience in variety is the best way to describe my recent visit to Finnagel's restaurant, located at 254 N. Broad St. in Elizabeth. The unusual array of menu items is perfectly complemented by the diversity of Finnagel's extensive beer and wine selections.

My lunch companion and I began with a pair of Canadian beers from a list of more than 60 bottled and draft choices, many of which we had not seen before.

Although the restaurant specializes in steak and seafood, the menu includes many other specialties. Deciding what to order was difficult. Lunch items range from omelets to quiche, honey-dipped chicken and a wide assortment of sandwiches, all competitively priced.

We chose two unfamiliar appetizers, which were as tasty as they were unique. The Pizza Skins combined the classic taste of potato skins with a zesty twist of marinara sauce and mozzarella cheese; and I can't say enough about the Nacho Pockets, which had a taste all their own. Neatniks will appreciate how easy they are to handle and the spicy flavor is out of this world.

We received excellent and friendly service from Teicia Joffe, who was very knowledgeable about the menu items. Her timing was just right — our steaming entrees were served seconds after our appetizers were cleared.

My lunch companion ordered Prime Rib and savored every tender bite. Even the french fries were noticeably delicious with their crispy outside and hot middles. Being a seafood lover, I chose one of the day's specials, Sherried Red Snapper, prepared to perfection by Chef Tito Herera. It was absolutely delectable, and I strongly recommend it to anyone who enjoys the succulent flavor of fresh snapper.

My companion topped off his meal with a selection from the restaurant's wide dessert list. For people who don't have room for dessert — a more-than-likely possibility after diving into Finnagel's generous portions — a choice of after-dinner drinks and coffees is offered.

Finnagel's extensive dinner menu features many of the same items available on the lunch menu. The casual dining room atmosphere welcomes patrons into a relaxed setting in which to leisurely enjoy an exquisite meal. Couples might enjoy sitting in front of the fireplace in Finnagel's cocktail lounge. Those who prefer a more lively setting can listen to their favorite modern or classic rock music in the tavern, which is open until 3 a.m. Thursday through Saturday. A late-night menu is available, and the game room is well-furnished.

Bob Finne and Gary Nagel have owned the restaurant since 1981, and provide patrons with a number of offers too good to pass up. Monday through Wednesday, Mexican combinations are available for $7.95. Monday through Friday from 11:30 to 2:30, Philly Cheesesteaks are $3.95. Thursday and Friday's shrimp festival includes barbecue, cajun, scampi, kabobs or Alfredo variations for $7.95. All-you-can-eat Prime Rib is available every Sunday for $10.95, and Monday through Friday happy hours include 50 cents off drink prices and a complimentary buffet.

Finnagel's is open seven days a week. Lunch Monday through Saturday 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Dinner Monday through Friday 5 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Sunday dinner 1 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Located at 254 N. Broad St., Elizabeth, 289-5250.

AUTO MARKET

American values are reflected in today's Peugeot

From Wall Street to Main Street, America's values are changing. As the rat race succumbs to the human race, people are making time for family, friends, personal interests and community affairs.

Global concerns have taken precedence over self-fulfillment and conspicuous consumption with disregard for the environment is downright crass. Back-to-the-basics is back in vogue and high-quality products with an affordable price tag are on America's shopping list.

According to Daniel Petit, national marketing manager for Peugeot Motors of America, Inc., the European automaker builds cars that embody this changing attitude. "As the world's second-oldest automaker, Peugeot has thrived on substance over flash for more than 100 years," he said.

Today, the Peugeot 405 sedan and Sportswagon are intelligently engineered and reasonably priced to meet the high standards of value-conscious consumers. A long list of standard features, extensive warranties, and affordable leasing and finance programs make the Peugeot 405 an uncommon value among European imports.

"Caring consumers know that responsible ownership and a deep-rooted concern for the environment are essential to our future well-being," Petit said. To that end, the Peugeot 405 was designed to be fuel-efficient and clean-burning without sacrificing performance.

A state-of-the-art engine management system with oxygen sensor optimizes the air to fuel mixture and reduces harmful emissions. A specially designed combustion chamber and three-way catalytic converter ensure faster, more complete combustion.

At the automaker's main production facility in Sochaux, France, painstaking measures are taken to protect the environment from industrial pollution.

In the hermetically-sealed paint shop, computer-controlled, electrostatic paint nozzles that rotate at 40,000 RPM are used instead of air guns to apply paint. In addition to ensuring a flawless finish, this method prevents harmful paint particles from "flying" through the air and reduces the need for toxic paint thinners.

On the home front, Peugeot Motors of America, Inc. recently introduced a battery replacement program designed to help protect the environment. "Junk" batteries are disposed of at smelters, approved by the Environmental Protection Agency; hazardous materials are then extracted from the batteries and recycled.

In France, Peugeot S.A. is embarking on an experimental car recycling program designed to reduce solid waste, provide cost-effective reuse of automotive parts, and convert non-recyclable components into clean fuel which will power cement plants and minimize pollution.

Having spent the last 10 years in the fast lane, where a volatile stock market and deepening recession left an indelible mark, baby boomers are reevaluating their priorities. So, it comes as no surprise that the birth rate is up and family time is today's blue-chip commodity. Consequently, automotive safety is a household concern, said Petit.

The Peugeot 405 reflects this concern with "active" safety features that help drivers avoid an accident and "passive" safety features designed to protect occupants in the event of an accident.

The 405 has front-wheel-drive to maximize traction and dynamic stability under all road and weather conditions. Four-wheel disc brakes, vented in front and load-sensing in the rear, enhance stopping ability. An anti-lock braking system, which helps drivers maintain directional control during "panic" stops, is standard on the 405 Mi 16 and S series.

Four-wheel independent suspension with front and rear anti-sway bars also enhances directional stability and driver comfort. Power-assisted rack-and-pinion steering responds precisely and quickly to driver input while offering good road feel.

Specially engineered front and rear "crumple" zones absorb impact at a controlled rate while keeping the passenger compartment intact. Reinforced lateral supports in the doors help absorb the forces of a side impact.

In the cockpit, the well-padded steering wheel is designed to collapse progressively to absorb the energy of a severe impact. The heavily padded dashboard and three-point rear safety belts also help protect occupants.

Peugeot offers several station wagons for America's growing family. The 405 Sportswagon, available in DL and S versions, is the ideal car for families with two small children. "It offers flexible cargo space without sacrificing the safety, style and handling characteristics of the 405 sedan," Petit said.

The Peugeot 405 is intelligently engineered and reasonably priced to meet the high standards of value-conscious consumers.

For families with at least two children from six-years-old to teenage, the larger Peugeot 505 station wagon is the vehicle of choice. The five-passenger 505 DL has more cargo space than any other European station wagon.

Watch children during the summer months

Summer weather is here and school's almost out. While our thoughts are on making the most of warmer weather, now is also the time to take extra care to watch out for the "kids."

"When school's out, more children are out and about all day instead of just before or after school. Watching out for kids requires us to re-adjust our attention," said Paul Kielblock, safety manager for the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club in Florham Park. "In January when we commute home in the dark most of us can safely assume that most children are inside. But now that the sun is out in the early evening, so are kids.

"We have to be extra careful at all times, not just during our commute. A child's summer time plans usually involve all day fun. And, that means his attention is far from basic traffic safety rules."

AAA's Kielblock offers the following advice to help motorists "Watch Out for the Kids:"

- Be extra alert near parked cars. You never know when a child will dart into the street.
- Drive at or under the posted speed limit in residential areas (25 mph unless posted otherwise).

- Use extra caution near playgrounds, school yards and ball fields.
- Never speed through parking lots. Small children can't be seen around cars.
- Watch for children near recreation areas, parks and pools. Safety isn't a child's top priority when he's intent on cooling off in the pool or playing in the park.
- Be alert for children on bicycles. They can appear out of nowhere and dart in front of your car.
- Conduct a safety check before backing your car or truck out of a driveway or parking space. Walk completely around your vehicle to be sure there isn't a small child playing behind or near it.

To help promote the "School's Out — Watch Out for the Kids" safety message, the New Jersey Automobile Club Foundation for Safety is making posters available free of charge to post near your home or business. Posters can be picked up at the AAA offices located at 1 Hanover Road in Florham Park; 191 Mountain Ave. in Springfield; or 486 Route 10 West, Sterling Plaza Mall in Randolph.

Dealer earns accolades

Thomas Lincoln-Mercury has been awarded Ford Motor Company's highest honor for customer satisfaction, the Chairman's Award, which recognized the top 2 percent of its dealer body.

With 5,400 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers nationwide, Thomas Lincoln-Mercury ranked among the top 129 dealerships in the country.

"You have demonstrated outstanding dedication, enthusiasm and a tireless commitment to the total satisfaction of your customers," said Ford Chairman Harold A. "Red" Poling in comments at the award ceremony.

The Chairman's Award honors the dealer's scoring highest on customer satisfaction surveys. Customers rate dealers in all areas of sales, service, technical proficiency and convenience. Five dealers have received the award each year since 1985.

Thomas Lincoln-Mercury, located at 369 South Ave., East, in Westfield, has won the Chairman's Award for the third time.

DON'T BE CAUGHT SAYING —

"I should have bought a condo at English Village when"

- English Village prices were low.
- English Village provided low sponsor.
- I could have been receiving tax benefits as a homeowner.
- I had a chance to build equity and appreciation with each mortgage payment.
- I wouldn't still be paying off my landlords mortgage with my exorbitant rent.
- My after tax payment would have probably been less than my current rent.

DON'T WAIT ANY LONGER!
