Sports, dance set

Basketball and modern dance are two unique activities with lots in common, it was reported by Carolyn Dorfman. Take for example leaping, twirling, gliding, stretching and a lot of sophisticated teamwork. Basketball players and dancers will explore that common ground in "The Sport of Dance/The Art of Sports," during a special benefit performance at Seton Hall University, Nov. 3 at 7 p.m.

The dance-filled, sports-filled event will feature Seton Hall's head basketball coach, P.J. Carlesimo, coach of the 1991 Big East Champs, and Artistic Director Carolyn Dorfman of Carolyn Dorfman Dance Co. of Union as well as performances by dance company members and former varsity athletes, said Dorfman.

"This is an exciting project for me because it will allow us to promote a greater appreciation for the artistry of sports, while bringing new audiences to dance," she said.

"Athletes and dancers have a great deal in common," said Carlesimo. "Athletes must move with power and grace. They must be in top condition and have quick reflexes. These are the same characteristics necessary for dancers to possess," he said. "I am pleased to explore the similarities with those who love dance."

The program, which will benefit the dance company, will be held in Seton Hall's Theater-in-the-Round. It will include a special dance introduction of Carlesimo, a viewing and performance of the Dorfman Dance video "Video/Vantage," which will draw on similarities between sports and dance performances, and excerpts from "A Haydn Summer," a 1980 Dorfman dance inspired by team sports.

"This is a terrific opportunity for me, as an artist, to connect two of the passions in my life — sports and dance," Dorfman said. "I am also an ardent Seton Hall fan and have a great respect for Coach Carlesimo and his work at the University," he said.

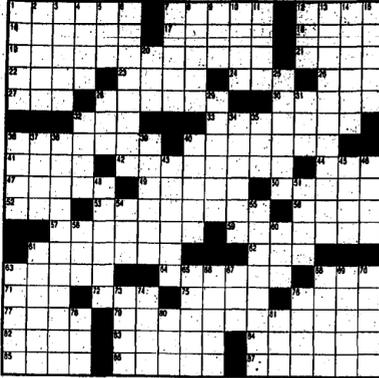

Proceeds from the event will support the Carolyn Dorfman Dance Company 10th anniversary performance season and educational touring program, including a proposed one-week summer dance residency at Seton Hall.

For more information, or to make reservations, one can contact Carolyn Dorfman Dance Co., Executive Director Gloria Perkins, 2780 Morris Ave., Union, (908) 687-8855.

The Carolyn Dorfman Dance Co. is a non-profit, charitable organization. The company is a recipient of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts (NJSCA) 1992 Distinguished Arts Organization Award. A 1989 Distinguished Artist award recipient, Dorfman again has been awarded the largest NJSCA choreography fellowship given in the field of dance in 1992.

Township's candidates debate Springfield taxes, management

 elected, for a full term, commenting on his diverse experience in county, state and national government. "I don't have a crystal ball," said Pappas. "I'll see what the voters of Springfield think," he said, adding everyone has the right to seek any public office at any time.

Responsiveness addressed
 Another member of the audience questioned accusations of irresponsiveness of the Township Committee to the needs of the people, citing numerous newspaper articles recounting the response of the administration to a variety of public needs.

"Based on the comments I've heard, (the Republicans) don't listen. They run a government by fear," said Wasserman. "They always refer to themselves as the team," she said, adding that campaigns are run along party lines, but the committee, once formed, should form a team of the full, five-member committee.

"Perhaps 90 percent of the issues are clean cut," Katz said in response, "and we have cooperation of the entire committee. But what most disappoints me is that the two individuals who were elected by a large plurality have yet to enact one piece of legislation that saves Springfield taxpayers one dollar," he said, citing his legislative record in past Democratic administrations despite his minority status.

In their closing statements, the candidates reiterated their positions, concentrating on taxes and tactics. "Governor Jim had nothing to do with our success," said Katz, commenting that the downward trend in municipal taxes began several years before Florio took office.

"You know, it's easy for our opponents to run a campaign that's not based on issues, but rather on cheap shots at the efforts of a hard working Republican majority that cares as much about this town as we do our own families," said Katz.

"The Republicans are running this show for the benefit of the Republicans," said Firsichbaum, calling for a "policy of inclusion" at the committee level. "If you'd like a change in administration and a responsive government, please consider our candidacy."

"Their campaign has been, and continues to be in the gutter," Pappas said in closing, "and we refuse to join them. They have not addressed any issue that we have raised, and future political mailings will prove this."

Dawn Clarke, the Voters Service chairwoman of the League of Women Voters, was pleased with the evening. "Valid questions were asked and we got some good answers that illuminated some of the issues," she said.

 Springfield Judge Leonard B. Zuckerman, who approved Gouss's appointment, was surprised at the nature of the controversy developing around the proposed legislation.

"I'm shocked that it would become a political issue," Zuckerman said. "If people know what it took to fill that position..." he added, alluding to the qualifications of Gouss.

According to Kurnos, his relationship with Gouss was known by every committee member at the time of the vote, and the township has benefited from the appointment.

"They all knew," Kurnos said, angered by the accusation of nepotism. "This is just another political move. They're just posturing again. When people think of nepotism, they think of a big paying, cushy position," Kurnos continued. "David was overqualified for this position. He was making much more at his previous position."

Assembly candidates debate issues at local league forum

 "I want to be a part of the majority that repeals the fatally flawed Quality Education Act," Ogden said, "and bring sanity to New Jersey's insurance programs." She said bills "underrated" by Florio which could be reconsidered if a GOP Legislature resumes control are the fresh water wetlands bill, and one targeting the Council on Alcohol and Drugs which, she noted, "is drying up" because the governor is "diverting that money to offset the budget deficit."

Lustbader, an Essex County freeholder serving his fourth term, said he would "be active to contain rampant spending." A fiscal conservative on the Board of Freeholders, Lustbader said he has gone after such issues as environmental matters, dumping of solid waste on a county-owned piece of property in Verona, and raising the ethical standards in Essex County.

Lustbader said he believes Florio's $2.8 billion tax package "is a terrible blow to the New Jersey economy already weakened by the national recession."

While he acknowledged that the state must balance a budget, he said that "you don't have to require of a taxpayer a burden which he cannot reasonably assume." If elected, Lustbader said he would "begin to create legislation that will start to put New Jersey on the move again."

Public invited to view new First Presbyterian
 The First Presbyterian Church of Springfield invites the community to inspect its newly refurbished sanctuary Sunday. The 200-year-old sanctuary at 210 Morris Ave. has been the focus of attention for the past six months. The women have removed the original cedar shingles and replaced them with new hand split shingles.

In addition, the restoration contractor, Arsenova of New York, "carried out extensive restoration in the exterior woodwork and the refinishing of the windows," said Pastor Jeffrey Curtis. "Mr. Arsenova, owner of the company, even went so far as to scour the area to find 200-year-old glass and then install them in the windows to replace the cracked panes. His workers have been real craftsmen taking pride in their work."

After 200 years of wear, the sanctuary's facility has brought many comments and expressions of appreciation from the townspeople.

"People are really impressed by the craftsmanship. I tell them to come and have a closer look and to join with us in praise and thanksgiving to God on the morning of Nov. 3," Curtis said. "The sanctuary will be open all morning and our worship will begin at 10:15 a.m. as we raise our thankful voices to God and recognize those who helped with the National Registry, the exterior work on the sanctuary and the flower garden beside the sanctuary." A time of food and fellowship will follow the worship.

Kimberly Polindexter and Jonathan Dayton Regional High School students at a craft demonstration.

Jonathan Dayton Regional High School hosted a program of craft demonstrations conducted by Peters Valley Craft Center, Oct. 8.

Art students from four Union County Regional District high schools observed and interacted with six different craftspeople working at their crafts, giving them the opportunity to observe the various processes, materials and tools involved.

The other three participating high schools were David Brearley in Kenilworth, Governor Livingston in Berkeley Heights and Arthur L. Johnson in Clark.

Craftsmen at Work, now in its fifth year, is an educational outreach program developed by Peters Valley Craft Center located in Layton. The program's objective is to bring contemporary and traditional crafts to area schools in an effort to introduce, educate and increase students' awareness of crafts.

The day of demonstrations provides information and an inside look at people who have chosen to make objects by hand, and in most cases, make their living from doing so. Often, the day is a catalyst for future art projects, and as a point of departure in other subjects.

The craftsmen are a combination of local professional and resident craftspeople from Peters Valley Craft Center. The participating Craftsmen at Work at Jonathan Dayton were:

Bakery by Patty Klimek; Blacksmithing by Jim Wickoff; Ceramics by Jim Janama; Jewelry by Frederick Marshall; Silkweaving/Painting on Silk by Ker Grabowski; Woodworking by Daniel Gosch.

Craftsmen at Work is sponsored by the host school and Peters Valley Craftsmen Inc., funded by grants from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation and New Jersey State Council on the Arts. Coordinated by Peters Valley Craft Center, programs are scheduled annually, in the fall and spring.

Originally intended for schools in Sussex County, where Peters Valley is located, the outreach program has expanded to schools in Warren, Morris, Somerset and Union counties. Begun in 1987, more than 20 programs have been held.

"The Halloween Lake"

By Phillip Stattle
I was in a cabin when the moon got as bright as the sun. I walked outside to see what was happening. In the sky overhead there was a sentence. "He drowned in the lake." I did not know who he was but I knew where the lake was. It got dark again so I got a flashlight and went to the lake. I saw a little fish in the water as if something moved underwater. It was hot so I jumped in.
I was pulled to the middle of the lake and there was a big fire in the middle of the lake. There were all these ghosts, spooky goblins, witches, devils and stuff like that. Believe it or not, I was floating on top of the fire but I wasn't hot. I was actually COLD.
I was scared so I tried to swim back

Brown feels rough like on the bark of an oak.
Brown smells like fresh baking bread.

"Red"

By Amelia Brown
Red feels like a hot summer day, lighting a fire, and touching the soft rose petal.
Red smells like smoke from a bright fire, a red flower patch and just

Then he met a bird who was eating apples. Then he bumped into a gorilla. And that was the end of him.

"The Silly Gorilla"

By Brian Sperber
This is a story about a silly gorilla. Once there was a zookeeper who dropped his keys. The gorilla picked them up. When he tried to get out of the cage, he bumped his head and had to go to the veterinarian.
First he went past the snake's home. The snake was busy listening to the rain. The snake was tired of having the rain fall on him. He said, "You dumb rain. Stop falling."
Then he passed the other gorilla who said, "I'm so bored. I'm tired of rain."
Then he passed a pumpkin with the chickenpox who yelled "Help!"
Then he passed the silly zookeeper again.
He came to a jaguar walking upside down on a tree. The tree tipped over.
Then he went past the golden leaf that usually brought good luck. But this time it was orange so it was bringing bad luck. The gorilla ran back home.

"Fall"

By Ryan Dubell
Fall is when the colored leaves float to the ground. The colored leaves are raked into a pile and you can jump in it. Some of the holidays are in fall like Halloween and Thanksgiving. Also you start school in Fall and when you start school you get new clothes.

Trifecta: Brearley, Park, Dayton triumph

Bears hand Pioneers 1st shutout loss since 1986

How does that old football cliché go? A high-scoring offense fills the seats but good defense wins you championships?
Well if there's any truth to that, then this year's Brearley Regional High School team may be on its way to greatness.
In a taking-it-one-step-at-a-time approach (which is what all high school coaches preach) the Bears are improving each week and so is their record. Last Saturday's decisive 21-0 Mountain Valley Conference-Valley Division win at New Providence is all the proof needed to see that this Brearley club is ready for any challenge that presents itself.
"We're making progress and our defense is playing awfully well," Brearley Regional head coach Bob Taylor said. "They got across the 50 just once."
BREARLEY REGIONAL 4-1, HAS WON FOUR straight. New Providence, 3-2, has lost two regular season games for the first time since 1987. Junior running back Steven Miceli scored touchdowns in the first and fourth quarter and senior running back Ron Cagno one in the second.
The victory was the Bears' first over New Providence since game one of the 1988 season. New Providence had not been shut out since the first game of the 1986 season. And who blanked the Pioneers five years ago? Yes, it was Brearley Regional as the game ended in a 0-0 tie.
"Mark Scuderi kicked off well for us and that allowed us to control field position," Taylor said. "Plus we had something like 64 snaps and that's always a plus. When you keep the ball out of their hands they can't hurt you."
TAYLOR CITED THE PLAY OF SCOTT DUBEAU, Mike Ring, Christopher Kirakatis and Jose Rodriguez on the line, Mike Wright and Bob Taylor at linebacker and Miceli and Cagno at defensive back in limiting New Providence to just five first downs and 70 yards offense (48 rushing and 22 passing). Nose guard Jim McMenamin helped preserve the shutout by sacking New Providence quarterback Norm Spagnola on the Bears' five yard line on the game's final play.
Brearley Regional quickly moved the ball once the game began but had their initial drive stall after marching 50 yards in 17 plays. New Providence took over on downs on its own 22.
But the Bears got the ball back later in the first quarter and put seven points on the board. Cagno capped a three-play, 24-yard drive with a one-yard run. BREARLEY REGIONAL MARCHED 69 YARDS in 12 plays to take a 14-0 lead in the second quarter. Miceli's first touchdown of the game, a one-yard run, helped give the Bears a two-touchdown lead at the half.
Two key plays that kept the drive going consisted of 19-yard gains. Brearley Regional senior quarterback Jonathan Chango scampered 19 yards on a keeper and later in the drive hit senior wide receiver Joe Corbo on a 19-yard screen pass.
The Bears had a touchdown called back in the third quarter because of a holding penalty. Scuderi's ensuing 35-yard field goal attempt just missed, keeping the score at 14-0.
Brearley Regional got to increase that lead in the fourth quarter when Miceli scored his second touchdown of the game on a one-yard run. His score capped a 19-play, 87-yard drive that began in the third quarter and used up 10:21 of the clock.
Cagno gained four yards each on two fourth and one occasions to keep the drive going. Prior to his first fourth-down conversion, Chango scrambled 12 yards and a third and 13. He took the ball in shotgun formation and ran past the New Providence defense on a draw play.
BEAR FACTS — Miceli led all rushers with 106 yards on 27 carries. Cagno rushed for 80 yards on 13. Chango completed five of 12 passes for 77 yards and no interceptions.
Senior wide receiver Dan Russoniello caught three of those passes for 37 yards and Corbo had the other two for 40.
Cagno has a county-leading 10 touchdowns and, with one two-point conversion, has scored 62 points this season.

Dayton Regional High School senior halfback Pat Conte, center, bulls his way through for yardage against Ridge last Saturday in football game at Melsel Field. Conte rushed for a team-high 93 yards on 10 carries and scored a 62-yard touchdown to lead the Bulldogs past Ridge 28-9.

4 Bulldog runners score TDs

Five games into the season and the Dayton Regional High School football team has already tripled its number of wins from a year ago.
Ridge came to Springfield confident and ready last Saturday with a 3-1 record. It left "Wishing" it had never made the trip in the first place.
That's because Dayton Regional's wishbone offense pushed Ridge up and down the field to the tune of a 28-9 victory. Pat Conte, Andy Huber, Peter Kuenzel and Clayton Trivett combined to rush for 246 of the Bulldogs' 250 yards on the ground and each scored a touchdown to boot.
The Mountain Valley Conference-Mountain Division victory lifted Dayton Regional's record to 3-2 overall and 3-1 in the division. The Bulldogs are second in the division behind Immaculata, which is 4-0. Immaculata topped Dayton 21-7 on opening day.
Last year Dayton Regional finished 1-8 and lost to Ridge 28-0 at home.
What a difference a year can make? The Bulldogs jumped out to a 14-0 first-quarter lead on a 37-yard touchdown run by Kuenzel and a two-yard plunge by quarterback Trivett.
Huber added a five-yard touchdown in the second quarter and Conte scored on a 62-yard run in the third.
Ed Esposito scored his 10th touchdown of the season for Ridge when he ran in from the two in the third quarter. His score pulled Ridge to within 21-7 before Conte broke free for his long run.
Dayton Regional punter Peter Kucharski opted to run out of the end zone with the ball in the fourth quarter, giving Ridge its final two points on a safety.
BULLDOG BANTER — Conte passed Dayton Regional with 93 yards on 10 carries. Huber had 57 on 13. Kuenzel 51 on five and Trivett 45 on 17.
Trivett completed two of four passes for 40 yards. Kucharski's 34-yard reception set up Trivett's touchdown. Kuenzel caught the other pass for six yards.
Senior Mark Nadzan was a perfect 4-for-4 on extra-point kick attempts. Defensively, the Bulldogs intercepted five passes. Junior defensive halfback James Baisel, Huber, Kuenzel, Trivett and Kucharski had one each.
Senior defensive end Devin Scholla and junior defensive tackle Jordan Pintado each recovered a fumble for Dayton Regional.
The Bulldogs' leading tacklers were senior linebacker Jason Mullman, senior defensive end Neal Lynch and Conte. Mullman (five assisted and three solos) and Conte (three assisted and five solos) each had eight tackles. Lynch had three assisted and two solo. Conte and Mullman each had one quarterback sack.
Dayton Regional plays Governor Livingston Regional Saturday in Berkeley Heights in a 2 p.m. start. This Saturday is S.A.T. day for high school juniors and seniors.

Roselle Park gives valiant effort in UCT title match

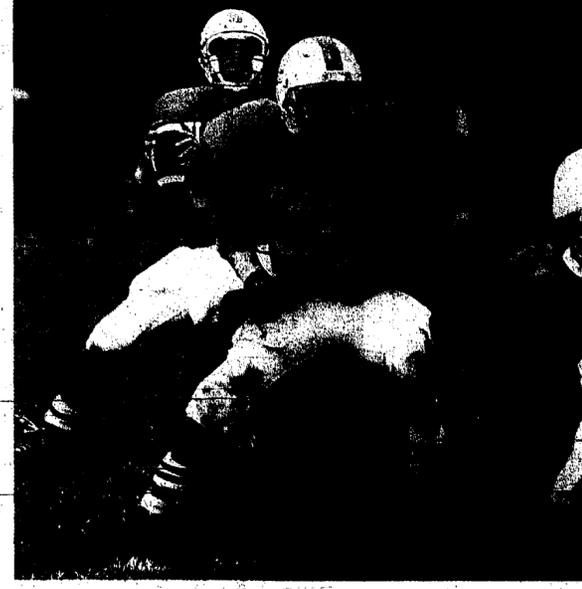

Field Hockey
Libbie Shauger scored the game's only goal off a scramble in front of the cage with three minutes gone in the second half.
Kent Place, seeded third, outshot Roselle Park 16-3. Panther junior goalkeeper Denise Loncker did a fine job in turning back the Lady Dragons' attack.
"She was tremendous, she played out of her mind," Longo said of Loncker's effort. "She made some fantastic saves."
Longo also cited the play of junior sweeper Stacio Wright, who did a good job of clearing the ball out of danger.
"They're a veteran team," Longo said. "They started nine seniors to our three. Plus, their players start playing at a very young age compared to ours who don't play until they get to high school."
"I thought we played real well and I expected a close game from the beginning. Even though we didn't win, the kids can look back and still be proud of what they accomplished."
OVERTIME — Roselle Park took an 8-5 record into Tuesday's home game against Summit. The Panthers were scheduled to play at Westfield yesterday and tomorrow are scheduled to play Governor Livingston at home.
Roselle Park also qualified for the state tournament in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 that will get underway next week.

Panthers come back to claim high-scoring affair

Last Friday night was "Let's see what happens now that we're behind time" for the Roselle Park High School football team. The Panthers had never trailed in their three previous contests — all convincing victories.
But last week's opponent, Manville, gave Roselle Park all it could handle. Manville held a five-point lead until the Panthers managed to score the winning touchdown with 2:06 remaining to pull out a 27-26 Mountain Valley Conference-Valley Division victory in Roselle Park.
"It was just a great football game," Roselle Park head coach John Wagner said. "It was a great game to be involved in. Our kids hung tough and never gave up."
DOWN 26-21, ROSELLE PARK, 4-1, GOT THE BALL in the end zone with six minutes remaining only to have the score called back because of a holding penalty, negating a touchdown pass thrown by senior quarterback Tom Baylock to senior split end Anthony Procopio.
Following that costly error, Roselle Park held Manville on downs and got the ball back on its own 40. Eight plays later sophomore fullback Nick Fowler bolted into the end zone from the three to give the Panthers the lead for good.
Manville got the ball back for one last chance but was stopped short of the 50 by Roselle Park.

"THIS WAS A QUALITY WIN AGAINST a quality team," Wagner said. "There were a lot of exciting moments with the lead changing back and forth."
Manville, 2-3, took a 7-0 lead when quarterback Jack Leonard scrambled for a 26-yard touchdown run. Roselle Park tied the contest in the first quarter when Baylock hit sophomore halfback Mark Carlson with a 34-yard touchdown pass.
The Panthers took a 13-7 lead when Fowler scored his first touchdown on a nine-yard run.
Manville struck for two touchdowns before the half ended to take a 20-13 lead at intermission. Leonard hit Andy Kutikowski on an 18-yard touchdown pass and Ke Dao scored on a two-yard run.
Roselle Park didn't waste any time in regaining the lead by taking the second half kickoff and marching 74 yards in nine plays for a score. Baylock hit Carlson again for six points with a 12-yard pass capping the drive. Baylock's two-point conversion run gave the Panthers a brief 21-20 advantage.
But back came Manville. Dao got into the end zone again, this time on an eight-yard run, to give Manville the lead back at 26-21. Fortunately for the Panthers, Manville missed the two-point conversion when its pass attempt fell incomplete.

PANTHER NOTES — Roselle Park was faced with a crucial fourth and one situation from its own 45 during its first second-half possession. Fowler was given the ball and he ran off tackle to get the first down and keep the eventual touchdown-drive going.
Fowler rushed for 188 yards on 25 carries. Carlson gained 67 on nine, caught eight passes for 112 yards and returned three kicks for 58 yards.
Baylock enjoyed a fine game behind center, completing 10 of 16 passes for 153 yards. He threw two touchdowns and one interception.
Roselle Park is averaging 23.6 points per game and giving up 11.6. The Panthers have outscored the opposition 118-58 and 112-38 over their four-game winning streak.
Here's how Roselle Park's season has gone heading into this weekend: 20-6 loss at Johnson Regional, 39-0 win at Bound Brook, 19-6 win at home vs. Mid-Issex, 27-6 win at home against Peddie and 27-26 win at home against Manville.
The Panthers are in third place in the Valley Division of the MVC with a 3-1 record. Johnson Regional leads at 4-0 and Brearley Regional is second at 3-0.

Dayton Regional High School senior halfback Andy Huber, with ball, drops back to throw option pass in front of blocker Pat Conte. Huber rushed for 57 yards on 13 carries and scored a touchdown against Ridge.

Roselle Park vs. N. Prov. set for TV

Suburban Cablevision's TV-3 will cover Roselle Park High School's football game Saturday, Nov. 9 at New Providence. Last year the Panthers lost a hard-fought 10-7 decision and will be looking to avenge that defeat.
The game will be played at 1 p.m. and aired on TV-3 at 8 p.m. the same day.
Here's the rest of this year's TV-3 football schedule:
Saturday: East Orange at Livingston, 8 p.m. and J.F.K. at Colonia, 10:30 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 9: Roselle Park at New Providence, 8 p.m. and Verona at Montclair Immaculate, 10:30 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 16: Scotch Plains at Irvington, 10 p.m.
Sunday, Nov. 17: Hackensack at Seton Hall Prep, 9:30 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 30: Sectional semifinals, 8 p.m.
Saturday, Dec. 7: Sectional finals, 8 p.m.
Most games are repeated the next day and viewers should check TV-3 listings for time and date.

Board of Realtors holds panel video conference

"A 'Yes, You Can Buy a Home in New Jersey' video conference on home ownership was held by the Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors recently at Kean College in Union.

The video conference, held in cooperation with Governor Jim Florio, the New Jersey Association of Realtors, and the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency, was broadcast from Newark to local sites in each of the state's 21 counties. The program consisted of a panel discussion on the benefits of home ownership, how to find financing for a home, special loan programs, and the tax advantages home ownership provides.

Attendees at the Kean College site were able to pose questions to the panel as well as explore the topic of home ownership with local Realtor and bank representatives on site. Local Realtor representatives for Union County included Myles Hergert of the Hergert Agency in Linden, Rudy Cammarota of the R.O. Cammarota Agency in Kenilworth, and John C. Campbell of John Campbell Realty in Plainfield. Bank representatives included Jay Carlton of Howard Savings and Jonathan Jackson of Sears Mortgage.

"Home ownership has always been, and continues to be, the American Dream," said Fernando A. Rivera of Ferrarini Realty in Roselle Park, president of the Board of Realtors, and host of the video conference.

"The goal of the video conference was to help more New Jerseyans learn how to make that dream a reality by providing them with a working knowledge of the home buying process and the many financing programs available in New Jersey."

The Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors is a member of the New Jersey Association of Realtors, a trade association representing more than 38,000 real estate agents in the state.

Members of the Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors prepare to greet participants at their recent video conference at Kean College.

Satisfaction, low overhead keys to success

Joseph Puerari, owner and proprietor of Puerari Electric Inc., operates one of the area's most successful electrical contracting businesses out of his home, located at 315 Boulevard in Kenilworth.

Keeping his overhead low and customer satisfaction high, he says, are the keys to his success.

An experienced and licensed electrician for the state of New Jersey, Puerari has had his own contracting business for over four years, and services Union, Essex and Middlesex counties.

Puerari Electric contracts for all types of commercial, residential and light industrial construction. Most of his clients are so satisfied with his services that they often recommend Puerari Electric to others.

Currently, Puerari Electric has three crews out each day working at various sites throughout the area, servicing any of his 75 regular clients, which include local shopkeepers, homeowners and licensed building contractors.

Puerari Electric offers competitive prices for a variety of electrical items, including smoke detectors, track lighting, recessed lighting, and is a fully guaranteed and insured contracting company.

All of Puerari's quality services are also just a phone call away 24 hours a day. For quality workmanship at a price you can afford, call Puerari Electric at 276-3687.

Joseph Puerari, owner and proprietor of Puerari Electric Inc., rolls up sleeves to prepare for a job.

- CLARK HIGHLIGHTS -

The following is distributed by the Clark Historical Society.

In 1974, the Clark Historical Society began the restoration of a circa 1690 farmhouse. The house, located at 593 Madison Hill Road, was occupied until 1973 when it was purchased by the township of Clark for the purpose of providing area residents with a museum. Shortly after the purchase, the property was leased to the Historical Society for restoration and operation. Extensive research by Charles H. Detwiller Jr., of Scotch Plains, and other architectural historians authenticates the house as one of historical significance.

Research indicates that the farmhouse was built by Dr. William Robinson, a physician and surgeon, who emigrated to East New Jersey from Burnside near Edinburgh, Scotland. He married a widow, Margaret Allen Carlyle, in Edinburgh on Aug. 15, 1682. A son, William, was born on May 17, 1683.

In the summer of 1684, he visited the Province of East New Jersey where he purchased 40 acres of land from John Tow. He returned to Scotland and on Feb. 24, 1685, a daughter, Elizabeth, was born.

Early in 1686, Dr. and Mrs. Robinson, William and Elizabeth, their children, and Ann, Dr. Robinson's daughter by a previous marriage, emigrated to East New Jersey.

On May 17, 1686, he purchased a tract of 700 acres on the west side of the previously purchased 40 acres. This land was on the north side of the Woodbridge line and on the west branch of the Rahway River which was then renamed "Robinson's Branch." Dr. Robinson appears to have been a large landowner both here and in Monmouth County where he obtained a survey for 550 acres in 1692.

A daughter, Mary, was born in the Province of East New Jersey.

Dr. Robinson was probably Rahway's first physician. In his will of Jan. 20, 1685/86, George Gordon of "Ambopy Perth," brother of a physician in Scotland, provided that "Dr. Robinson may dissect me." If Dr. Robinson did so, it was the first instance of dissection for anatomical study in New Jersey and one of the earliest such investigations in the colonies.

In early colonial days, large land holdings were often called plantations. An itemized inventory of Dr. Robinson's belongings at the time of his death in 1693, which is on file in the State Archives in Trenton, refers to the property as the "plantation." Therefore, it was decided to name the property the Dr. William Robinson Plantation. The building is registered as a historic site by the state and federal governments. Several outbuildings have been erected and a herb garden planted.

The house is one of the few examples of 17th-century architecture in the nation and contains many features of the Tudor period. The exterior of the building is notable for its steep roof, croneled chimney, small, diamond-paned, casement windows and overhang on the gable end. The first floor of the house originally consisted of a "Hall," "Medicine Room" and "Leanto." A preplacement lean-to, which was added in 1950, is now the Museum Shop. A winder stair led to the chamber which was one large room on the second floor. The unusually fine workmanship in the framing of the house is obviously the work of very skilled craftsmen. The fact that Dr. Robinson died in 1693 could explain why it was never enlarged.

As society members worked on the restoration, they discovered many unique features in the house. There are hand sown sills, beams and gunstock posts with chamfered edges with decoratively carved lamb's tongue and diamond endings to the chamfer. The beam and the gunstock posts supporting them are of oak. Bark remains on some of the numbered rafters on the second floor. All the joining was done with mortis and tenon and dovetail joints which were pegged, thus eliminating the use of nails and spikes in the construction of the framework. This is called post and beam construction, a method used until the mid-1800s.

Other architectural features include bird's mouth cuts on rafter ends, wide floor boards (up to 24 inches) and brick nogging. The fireplace at one end of the hall is a replica. It was built with bricks from the original fireplace which were found during the restoration. There is a cobblestone ramp leading down to the cellar door opening. This "barn" type entry was frequently used in early houses to stable the livestock. The fieldstone foundation is 18 inches thick.

The museum is open from 1 to 4 p.m. the first Sunday of the month, April through December.

Group tours can be arranged by appointment. For information call 388-8999.

- HILLSIDE HIGHLIGHTS -

The township of Hillside officially dates back to 1913 when it was incorporated by an act of the state Legislature.

Prior to the township's incorporation, its lands were part of the township of Elizabeth, now known as the city of Elizabeth, in 1808.

The township's history can be traced back to some of the earliest settlements in New Jersey. Part of what is now Hillside was inhabited around 1666, when various groups came to settle in the Newark and Elizabethtown area.

The northern area of the township was known as Lyons Farms. The Lyons family was among the original group of settlers who came to Newark from Connecticut. The southern part of the township was known as Woodruff Farms. John Woodruff was one of the individuals who settled in Elizabethtown in 1666.

In the early 1800s, part of Elizabethtown's lands were given to Newark in order to end a boundary dispute. Originally, Lyons Avenue was the boundary line between Newark and Elizabethtown. Following the border dispute, Grumman Avenue became the borderline.

During Hillside's first decade, municipal functions took place in official homes and public meetings were held in its schools. Around 1924, the township acquired a mansion on North Broad Street which was used to house municipal offices and police department headquarters.

The mansion remained the site of township operations until the early 1950s, when the present municipal building was built on the corner of Liberty and Hillside avenues.

At approximately the same time, the fire department, which was housed in the rear of the mansion, moved to its present headquarters on Hollywood Avenue.

Walter O. Krumbiegel School

stands atop a hill for which it is said that the township was named. Originally known as Hillside Avenue School, it was built on the site of the old Hillside School, the township's first school.

A home on the corner of Virginia Street and Woodruff Avenue was also a very early school. It was replaced in 1911 by Saybrook School, which is now the administration building for the board of education.

A.P. Morris School was originally built in 1917 as Hillside's central grammar school. The school was named for Abram P. Morris who was active in the township when it became a separate municipality.

In 1921, A.P. Morris became the township's high school, and, in 1940 or 1941, again became an elementary school when the "new" high school was built on Liberty Avenue.

Hurden-Looker School on Liberty Avenue was built in 1921 and was named after two Hillside soldiers who died in World War I.

Two newer schools, Calvin Coolidge and George Washington, were built in the early 1930s.

Several of Hillside's major thoroughfares are said to have begun as Indian trails.

One of the township's oldest streets, North Broad Street was originally known as the Upper Road, either to Newark or to Elizabethtown, depending upon the direction of travel. For many years, the Upper Road was the area's center of activity.

Another historic road is now known to residents as Salem Avenue and Conant Street. Those two roads were first known as the Road to Jewell's Mills, which later became known as Salem Dam.

Hillside Avenue is also a very old trail and located upon it is the hill for which it is said that Hillside is named. The information in this article was provided by Arnold McClos, president of the Hillside Historical Society.

- KENILWORTH HIGHLIGHTS -

The Borough of Kenilworth, established officially on June 18, 1907, is composed of 2.08 square miles in north central Union County, approximately seven miles west of Newark International Airport, the New Jersey Turnpike and U.S. Routes 1 and 9.

The borough's borders are formed by Cranford Township and Roselle Park Borough to the south, Springfield Township to the west, and Union Township to the north and east.

The borough prouly has many "blue-collar" residents and workers. Residences are primarily single-family residences, with an average resale value of $165,000 in 1990. Apartment houses are not permitted under current ordinances. In addition to working at businesses located in the borough, residents commute to work in adjacent and nearby communities.

Small retail business establishments are located primarily along the Boulevard and Galloping Hill Road, the principal thoroughfare running east to west. A small shopping plaza with 13 retail stores, which include an A & P supermarket, a Mandco and a Walter Baumann Jewelers stores, is located on Galloping Hill Road east of the Garden State Parkway.

Direct access to U.S. Route 22, approximately .75 of a mile, in Springfield and Union townships with its myriad of stores, is provided by North Michigan Avenue, a north-to-south thoroughfare.

The borough is governed by a mayor, who is elected to a term of four years, and by a six-member council, all of whom are elected on a staggered basis for terms of three years each. The terms commence on Jan. 1.

Within Kenilworth, there are more than 200 diversified commercial and manufacturing establishments, excluding retail stores, ranging from construction equipment to printing and pharmaceuticals.

- LINDEN HIGHLIGHTS -

The following information is attributed to the book "This is Linden," by the Linden League of Women Voters.

The area Linden now occupies was first explored by Europeans when men from Henrick Hudson's "Half Moon" visited in 1609. The land was claimed by the Dutch who retained possession until the conquest of New Amsterdam by the English in 1664. Prior to the purchase of the land by Europeans, it was used by the Indians as hunting grounds and was traversed by them on their way to the sound for fishing. There are indications that St. Georges Avenue, Tremley Point Road and Lower Road were originally Indian trails. The Linden area remained entirely rural for more than 150 years after the first settlers arrived and established farms on the rich, flat lands in the southern portion of Linden.

The coming of the railroad to Linden in 1835-36 brought about a change in the character of the community. Several New York businessmen found it more attractive to live in Linden and commute to their jobs in the city and they began settling in proximity to the railroad station. By 1880, they were requesting such amenities as sidewalks and street lights. The farmers in the outlying regions resented paying taxes for services they did not need and the ground was thereby laid for a separation of Linden into a borough and a township. The borough of Linden was incorporated on March 28, 1882 and consisted of one square mile in what is now the central business district. Linden assumed its present governmental form as the city of Linden on Jan. 1, 1925 when the consolidation of the township of Linden and the borough of Linden took effect.

A profound change started taking place at the turn of the century with the coming of industry to Linden. Situated as it was on the main line of a major railroad, with access to the sea, a large land area and close to New York, Linden was well-suited to industrial development. Starting with the Standard Oil refinery and followed by many large manufacturing firms, Linden rapidly became a major industrial center. Within 50 years, Linden was transformed from a small village with outlying farms to a thriving city. The last farm, fronting on East St. Georges Avenue, went out of existence in the mid-1960s. Peach Orchard Towers, the senior citizen complex, was built on part of that farm.

Linden has a land area of 11.4 square miles or approximately 7,300 acres. One-fourth of its boundary is on Staten Island Sound and nearly as much on the Rahway River. Linden is bounded on the north by Elizabeth and Roselle, and on the south by Rahway, Clark, Winfield and Cranford. In area, Linden ranks sixth among cities in New Jersey and second in Union County, Elizabeth having 2 square miles more. In aspect, Linden is mainly flat with an elevation ranging from sea level to a height of 90 feet at Wood Avenue and Ninth Avenue.

Over the last 80 years, Linden showed remarkable growth, both in construction and population. Changes also occurred in the character and ethnic backgrounds of its population. Scarcely 1,000 persons, nearly all American born, resided in Linden in 1900, but by 1910, the population of the township and borough had risen to 6,598. Ten years later, it stood at 8,368, and between 1920 and 1930 the population had more than doubled, standing at 21,196. The depression years saw a slowing down in growth with the 1940 census report showing a count of 24,115. Another sharp upward trend was listed in 1950 when the census report showed a figure with the population of Linden being recorded as 40,000 in round figures, but the 1970 census showed only 41,409. These figures demonstrated dramatically the slowing down process with a population increase of 30 percent during the 1950-1960 period dropping down to a 3.7 percent increase during the following decade. The 1980 census for the first time showed a decrease in the population of Linden, reporting a figure of 37,836, a decline of 8.7 percent.

- MOUNTAINSIDE HIGHLIGHTS -

The following was reproduced from the book "The History of Mountainside," by Jean Hesketh Hershey.

At the top of Summit Road was the home of Baltus Roll. This house has been remodeled several times. At least part of it was built by the Dutch Settler, Johannes Roll, who died in 1783, but it has become known as the home of Baltus Roll, grandson of Johannes Roll, due to his murder there in 1831.

I've heard the story many times from my grandmother, whose mother told her. I think I can give it to you word for word, as the story went at that time.

Baltus Roll's wife was alone with him at the time and she described what happened that night as follows. "We had retired early, and about midnight were awakened by a pounding on the door. Two men forced their way in; one of them large, the other small. They seized Roll, drew him from the bed, flung him about the room and dragged him to the door." Later the large man came to the stairs and told her to remain in her room, but when he went out she followed. She saw two men tying Baltus, and then they threw him in a puddle of icy water. He twice called to her, but "after that he didn't make any noise and I thought he was dead."

She wandered through the sleet and rain in the snow-covered woods until she was exhausted. Returning to the house, she saw Roll lying in a snow-band, bound hand and foot, and lifeless. She did not go in for fear the murderers were still there, but went to the house of a neighbor, Jesse Cahoon, and when he heard her story he summoned Brook Sayre (her husband's cousin) and Joseph Cain, who lived down the road. They thought Mrs. Roll had lost her mind but returned to the house with her. Inside was great confusion.

The news spread through the country. It was the crime of the century! All the papers gave full details. Suspicion at once settled upon Peter David and Lycidas Baldwin, ne'er-do-wells who had been seen frequently in the locality. David was known to be desperately in need of cash and to have sought an accomplice to go with him to a place where they could "get a thousand dollars." Roll was supposed to have kept a considerable sum of money hidden somewhere in his house.

When Baldwin heard that the police had arrested David, he fled to Morristown and committed suicide in a room at the tavern. David was tried at a special session of the court of Oyer and Terminer, in Newark, before Chief Justice Ewing. Although evidence pointed strongly to his guilt, his was acquitted because of the fact that some of the most damaging testimony was admittedly ruled out as illegal. During the trial, however, he admitted to forgery, and was afterwards arraigned before the court on four indictments, to three of which he pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to eight years on each count and died in prison. Today, the name of Baltus Roll is legend in the hills of his birth, and an historic roadway and internationally known golf course bear his name.

- ROSELLE HIGHLIGHTS -

The Borough of Roselle continues to plan for its centennial celebration which will commence in 1994. The community, which was founded in 1894, will celebrate in year-long festivities if all goes as planned. Organizers are hoping for full participation from the businesses and residents of the town.

Participation in the form of donations is expected, but that is not the only help that is needed.

"The key to the celebration's success is getting enough people together to make it work," said William Frolich, the planning committee's chairman. "We are trying to remember the town's history — why the town separated from Linden and by what means it did so," he said.

Frolich and his wife, Ruth, who have lived in the area for more than 60 years, decided that in order to make the committee work, they would incorporate the group. William is president and Ruth is vice-president of the group which meets on a regular basis to determine how money can be raised and which activities can be planned for the fête.

The couple stores one of the foremost collections of memorabilia about the history of Roselle. They are avid and active Roselle historians who collect and decipher anything about Roselle they can get their hands on. They have photographs of many landmarks and houses that are many years old outlining the history of the borough.

The borough has a history which began long before the town separated from Linden in 1894, Frolich said.

The area was settled by the Mulford and Clark families who along with others came from the area that is now Elizabeth. Those people had originally purchased the land from the Leni Lenapi Indians in about 1664. The area was attractive because of its fertile land that was excellent for farming.

The land improvement company which helped develop the region was headed by Col. John C. Rose. No one can prove that Roselle was named after him but according to Frolich it's a good bet.

The farmland owned by Abraham Clark, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was nearby. The borough later chose to name its high school after the "colonial" leader. A replica of his house now stands on Chestnut Street at West 9th Avenue.

Along the way the town has established many milestones that many townsmembers are proud of.

A group, headed by the Frolichs, buried a time capsule on Chestnut Street a few years back to store a bid of the history of Roselle and pass it on to another generation. The capsule, which does not designate any time for its opening, has tucked inside it toys, a newspaper, an audio tape, and various odds and ends which tell about life at the end of the 20th century in Roselle.

The borough was the area which was personally chosen by Thomas Alva Edison as the place to test his incandescent lightbulb in 1882. Roselle then became the first town in the nation to be lit by man-made light.

Also of importance, but not as well known, is the fact that in Roselle, Robert R. Williams discovered vitamin B-1.

The celebration is intended to bring all these events as well as others together to unite Roselle.

The committee, made up of 12 people, needs all the help they can get, Frolich said. "It's more than planning; it's helping to make things work."

- ROSELLE PARK HIGHLIGHTS -

Small though it may be when compared to other nearby towns, the borough of Roselle Park stands alive and somewhat vibrant as one of Union County's most well-known communities.

Originally a part of Elizabethtown, Roselle Park officially became a borough on March 22, 1901, with the first mayor and council elected less than a month later. Since that time, the borough has grown from 1,000 residents to nearly 13,000 residents today. Yet the town has managed to retain a good deal of its small-town appeal, despite being situated next door to Elizabeth, the county seat and the state's fourth largest city.

The borough of Roselle Park is divided into five election districts with one councilperson elected from each, and one councilperson to be elected at large. The mayor is elected to a four-year term and all council members are elected for three-year terms.

Historically, Roselle Park also carries much distinction. In 1912, Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, set up a manufacturing plant where wireless equipment for the navy was made. From there, Marconi made the first successful transatlantic wireless broadcast. And in the same building on Dec. 15, 1921, WDY, the second licensed radio station in the United States, made its debut.

Much earlier, another major event in the community occurred. In 1831, the rails were laid for Elizabethtown &

Somerville Railroad, which later became known as the Central Railroad of New Jersey. A stop near the busy intersection led to New Yorkers discovering the pluses of the area and setting up homes, especially south of the railroad.

That area, originally called Mulford, became known as Roselle shortly after the Civil War when resident John E. Rose's Roselle Land and Improvement Co. developed a large tract of land in the area.

The community north of the train line was called North Roselle, but had little in common with its southerly neighbor beyond social connections. But when Thomas Edison opened his first electric plant in Roselle, it did have an effect on North Roselle.

Stone's grocery store on Westfield Avenue in North Roselle became the first store in the United States to be lighted electrically in about 1882, with wires run from the Roselle Illuminating Station.

But the two communities continued to follow separate courses, leading to Roselle Park's official incorporation in March 1901.

Now home to some 12,805 people, Roselle Park has also gained its rightfully-earned designation as one of New Jersey's most competitive sports towns. In particular, the Roselle Park High wrestling program is a perennial state power, year in and year out.

Part of the information in this article was provided by Audrey J. Morgan of the Roselle Park Historical Society.

- RAHWAY HIGHLIGHTS -

The following is distributed by the Rahway Historical Society.

The historic Merchants and Drovers Tavern circa 1735 has been a major landmark in the city of Rahway for many years. It is a "beacon" by which many citizens are successfully guided into the city because it is highly visible and unique. It is a constant reminder of the colonial heritage as well as a truly handsome structure.

The Merchants and Drovers Tavern is an outstanding example of a typical 18th century tavern. As most towns in that time had no office buildings, banks or meeting halls, the Tavern was likely to serve all these functions. Besides the food and drink that were offered, the Tavern was the town's hub of activity, a center for all sorts of entertainment, and a place to discuss the news of the day. The Tavern was thus a most important place for both local residents and visitors.

Located on old King's Highway, the Merchants and Drovers served as an inn for weary travelers on their jorney between New York and Philadelphia. It was the first stop for most coach lines using the King's Highway after leaving Elizabethtown.

Built on the property of Joseph Fra-zee, an Elizabeth Associate, the original structure, circa 1720 was actually a one room home with a loft, similar in design to the Terrill Tavern. Architectural research shows that the building was expanded during three building campaigns over the next 120 years.

By 1770, the owners must have realized the need for and potential of an inn, so they added a two story addition to the south side of their one story home. The addition included the tavern room and second floor sleeping rooms.

Business was still brisk by 1822 for in that year the building was "squared off" to form a full two-story rectangular shaped structure. A front parlor was added to the north side and the sleeping area was increased on the second floor.

The largest addition was made in 1840 when the third and fourth floors were added. With this addition the inn could offer 10 more sleeping rooms.

Today as one visits the Merchants and Drovers Tavern many features are still observable that indicate the building's age and therefore its importance as a link to the past.

The back parlor, the oldest section, features the oldest existing fireplace in the building. The original oak floor boards are also intact.

The front parlor/sitting room (circa 1822) features an original brick fireplace, period cupboards with indented shelving and handsome eight over 12 windows overlooking St. Georges Ave. It is in this room that the female guests would congregate, as they were not allowed in the Tavern room.

It was typical for inns of the 18th century to have two front entrances. In the case of the Merchants and Drovers, the center front entrance led the visitor to a parlor area. The south front entrance was used by men only and was access to the Tavern area.

The Tavern room in the Merchants and Drovers was the first major restoration project undertaken by the Rahway Historical Society. Completed in time for the country's bicentennial, the room recreates the appearance of a Tap room of the 17-1800s. As the room was gutted, many marks of early construction were uncovered giving clues as to the room's original design. It is due to this careful research work that the fireplace and corner bar were fashioned and placed so the room today looks as it did 200 years ago.

The kitchen area in the rear of the building was a separate structure (circa 1750) but was attached to the main building in the mid-1800s. It was common in the 18th-19th centuries to keep the cooking area away from the main structure because of the possibility of the kitchen catching fire. If the smaller cooking area was lost, it was less costly to replace than if the entire inn were to catch fire.

The kitchen area in the Merchants and Drovers features a large brick cooking fireplace with a deep opening. Two ovens are built to the left of the fireplace. The floorboards are 7 1/2 by 11 1/2, unfinished, with several fastened by hand wrought nails. The door to the right of the fireplace opens to a narrow staircase that leads to three small 2nd floor rooms. These tiny rooms probably served as quarters for the workers.

The second floor of the main building contains two bedrooms and a large common room that runs the length of the front of the building. This room served a variety of purposes including a meeting area, a large dining area, a room for social functions and possibly even dormitory type sleeping quarters.

The Merchants and Drovers served the area as a hotel and tavern until 1932 and was owned by descendants of the same family (Craig, Squire, Searles) between the years 1822-1932. Depending on when one was living, they might have called this building The Merchants and Drovers, Von Teryl Tavern, The Farmers and Mechanics, Swindlinger's Hotel, Lambert's Hotel, The Rahway Hotel.

In 1988, the Tavern underwent a major restoration effort from donations derived from the "Keep It Standing Straight" campaign. This campaign, more commonly known as K.I.S.S., enabled the building to once again be opened to the public after several years when this was not possible due to deficiencies existing in the building.

Terrill Tavern, a small four-room structure was less noted than its neighbor, The Merchants and Drovers, but it was popular with the soldiers of both armies during the British invasion of 1775-77. The proprietor, Abraham Terrill, was a staunch patriot, but when the British came to town he was forced to disguise his feelings to protect his business.

The most famous visitor to stop at the Terrill Tavern was George Washington, who arrived there unexpectedly on one of his many trips through the area. As the story goes, the General found Mrs. Terrill with sleeves rolled up, doing the family wash. When she recognized the distinguished guest, she made apologies for her appearance and invited him to an abundant meal of ham and eggs. He ate his meal with great relish, expressed his hearty appreciation, and hastily continued on his journey to Trenton.

- SPRINGFIELD HIGHLIGHTS -

The following was reproduced from "This is Springfield," a survey by the League of Women Voters.

Because of its strategic location between New York and Philadelphia, New Jersey was crossed by both armies during the Revolutionary War. The American army kept a small body of troops billeted in Springfield but could not always pay for its upkeep, thus adding to the hardships of the local inhabitants.

The enemy entered the town a number of times to take away farm animals, grain or other needs, keeping the people in a continual state of alarm. It became necessary for the local populace to set up a chain of signals, the nearest to Springfield located on Beacon Hill, in what is now Summit. When necessary, a cannon called the "Old Snow" was fired to alert the militia on both sides of the mountain and to warn the people to flee to a place of safety.

Sporadic fighting occurred in or near Springfield from December 1776, through June 1780. From original manuscript sources it is determined that Washington had his General Headquarters in Springfield from June 7 to June 22, 1780. All of his communications during that time were dated from here.

As the fighting increased, the morale of the colonists seemed to weaken, and by early June 1780, the British thought the time was ripe to capture General Washington's supplies at Morristown. General Knyphausen, with a large force of British and Hessian troops, landed at Fallabottom, Point-on-June 6. All along their route the British found the inhabitants prepared to defend their rights and property with unexpected zeal. The British retaliated to their harassment by plundering and burning buildings and crops.

The British were temporarily checked by a large number of militia who took up a position of defense at the crossing the Rahway River. In the face of their stubborn resistance, General Knyphausen thought it best to retreat to the Point, where he and his men remained until June 23.

Meanwhile, the British General Clinton feigned an attack on West Point in order to divide and weaken the American Army. When word of the attack reached General Washington, he immediately left the Springfield area and advanced to West Point's defense. General Greene was left in the vicinity of Springfield with the Jersey Militia and two brigades of the Continental Line. Washington had not gone far when he was notified that the British were advancing toward Springfield. He immediately detached a brigade to assist General Greene and placed himself in a position to render help if necessary.

On June 23, 1780, the British advanced with infantry, cavalry and several field pieces, greatly outnumbering the Continental troops and forcing them to retreat. The British then entered Springfield, but the opposition grew so intense that they were able to progress only as far as the "Second Brigade" over Van Winkle's Brook on Morris Avenue, just west of present day Mountain Avenue. They then resorted to burning and looting. Only four houses, where they had placed their wounded, remained standing. When finally forced to retreat, they were pursued by some of the regular troops and militia almost to their fortifications at Elizabethtown Point.

This battle marked the last invasion of the British into New Jersey and removed the danger of final defeat of the Continental forces.

- UNION HIGHLIGHTS -

There have been only seven mayors — or chairmen of the township committee — in modern history in Union.

Dominating the scene for many years was the late F. Edward Bierstumpf, who served in the chief executive's office from 1939 until his death in April 1973. The unchallenged leader of the Republican party, he was re-elected regularly at the township committee's Jan. 1 organizational meetings when the governing body chooses the mayor for the upcoming year.

On his death, Committeeman Samuel Rabkin became mayor for the remainder of the year. Anthony Russo won the office in 1974, becoming the first democratic mayor in half a century; he is mayor again this year. One of the enduring mysteries of the creation of the township is how it got its name.

There are many communities in the nation named Union. But most of these names were adopted on the eve of the Civil War, as a declaration of loyalty to the federal government.

Union Township in Union County was created long before that.

According to Robert Fridlington, president of the Union County Historical Society, and an assistant professor at Kean College, the township was established in the wake of "the biggest political brouhaha in history" — a fight over the location of a new courthouse to replace the one in Newark which was virtually falling down.

One faction wanted the courthouse in Elizabethtown; one wanted it in Newark; and a third wanted it in the outlying areas.

To settle the three-way fight, an election was called. At that time, Fridlington noted, New Jersey was the only state to allow women and blacks to vote.

The courthouse election turned out to be one of the dirtiest in history.

As one example, Fridlington said, some men voted early, went home to put on their wives' dresses and returned to the polls to vote again.

There were repercussions, of course. For one thing, because of the widespread fraud, the state threw out the results of the election; for another, women and blacks lost the vote, and did not get it back for years to come.

Eventually, Newark got the courthouse — and everyone else got mad.

Six southern communities, which were particularly upset about the courthouse decision, formed a "union" of townships in protest, Fridlington said.

A year later, when Connecticut Farms broke off from Elizabethtown, it adopted the name of "Union." Perhaps that, like the Unions established just before the Civil War, was also a declaration of loyalty, the historian theorized.

“Did you know there's a new health plan in your town that lets you choose your own doctor, covers preventive care is very affordable, and is available for small businesses with one person to 150 ???”

“I heard... It's USLIFE CARE!!!”

Everybody's talking about USLIFE CARE! It's the first managed care plan in your town that benefits both the employee and employer.

Your physician is probably on our list of participating physicians, and if you choose a nonparticipating doctor you will still be covered.

You're covered for most preventive care when a USLIFE CARE doctor is the provider. Unlike many HMOs you can use a specialist without a referral.

Because of our relationship with USLIFE CARE participating physicians, you pay less in monthly premiums.

The town's newest health care program is brought to you by one of America's oldest and most secure insurance companies.
