Kurnos expected to become mayor in 1992 government reorganization

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

Barring any last-minute hitch, the Republican majority on the Springfield Township Committee is expected to tap Deputy Mayor Philip Kurnos as the town's next mayor when the governing body conducts its reorganization meeting Jan. 1.

Kurnos, a Norwood Drive resident and four-year member of the committee, will succeed fellow Republican Mayor Marc Marshall, who opted not to seek re-election this year. Committee member Jeffrey Katz is expected to receive the nod as deputy mayor.

Kurnos, who served as township mayor in 1990, has been busy in the weeks since the November election reading himself to make the transition to his new responsibilities.

The title of mayor is considered an honorary role on the five-member committee, but Kurnos said Monday that after serving as mayor two years ago he considers it more than a symbolic post.

"At first I thought it was symbolic," Kurnos said. "But it's really a direction that you can give. You can really put your mark on things."

As part of the transition, Kurnos last week attended with Marshall a meeting of an informal grouping of the mayors of six neighboring communities. The mayors have been gathering periodically to discuss regionalizing services and sharing equipment.

Kurnos also revealed that he has set up a Dec. 16 meeting with the town's auditor, administrator, treasurer and tax assessor to discuss "how I would like to proceed in 1992."

The next township mayor said he will stress the need to control taxes, which he said is taking an especially harsh toll on the town's senior citizens due to falling interest rates on their investments. Kurnos said he will be Springfield's representative to the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 ad hoc committee on long-range planning. He said it will be "incumbent upon us" to find ways to trim county and school taxes.

Philip Kurnos

Kurnos noted that he will meet with police officials before Jan. 1 to discuss ways to decrease auto accidents in the township. He observed that the town is disarmed by several major arteries and that police might explore enhanced surveillance or issuing more tickets in an effort to reduce traffic accidents.

"If you go through Kenilworth everyone crawls along the Boulevard," Kurnos said by way of example. He said Kenilworth cops made a regular practice of nabbing speeders on the thoroughfare.

The next mayor said he has started to actively look for candidates to fill a variety of open slots on town boards and commissions. He said there are currently more openings than the norm due to the requirements of the state Local Government Ethics Law.

As Springfield's central spokesman, Kurnos said he will be contacting state legislators to "seek cap relief" at the local level. He argued that "it doesn't work" to require items like medical insurance, where costs may jump at a 20 percent clip, to fall within "a 4.5 to 5 percent municipal cap."

Kurnos also contended that it is unwise to place recycling costs under the cap mandate since municipalities would be hampered in "broadening the scope" of these efforts.

"After the last elections, the onus is on the Republican Party to provide relief," Kurnos added.

Two-hour stand-off ends in surrender

After holding law enforcement units at bay for more than two hours by threatening to ignite a couple of Molotov cocktails, a Springfield man surrendered to authorities Sunday.

According to officials, Cirro Tarantino of Robin Court broke into the unoccupied home, which he was restricted by court order from entering, and fashioned the two home-made explosives. Authorities would not speculate on his motives.

Springfield police and the Union County Hostage Negotiating Team were able to convince Tarantino over the telephone to surrender.

The negotiation team, which responded to the scene along with Union County police and Springfield police and firefighters, was headed by Capt. James Heitala, and officers from the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

Police would not say if at any point during the negotiations Tarantino actually threatened to ignite the explosives.

The order that barred Tarantino from the residence was imposed by Springfield Judge Leonard Zucker last week in a decision involving a domestic dispute, about which authorities declined comment.

Tarantino, who was expected to be transferred from a holding facility in Springfield to the county jail in Elizabeth, was charged with second degree burglary, third-degree possession of a destructive device, and a fourth degree violation of a restraining order.

He is being held without bail pending a court appearance.

Township planning to expand recycling

By David Brown
Managing Editor

Tin cans, plastic milk containers and soda bottles — items many residents love for their content, but disdain for the bulk they contribute in the garbage can and the resulting costs of disposal.

Like the Union County Utilities Authority's other members, Springfield is preparing, at least mentally, if not administratively, to assimilate these additional items into the growing flow of recyclables.

"The clock is ticking," said Committee member Philip Kurnos, noting the township is hoping to sign a contract by the end of the year or the beginning of 1992. "We have tentacles out right now."

Although Springfield is currently under contract with the UCUA to recycle newspaper, glass and aluminum, Kurnos said the township will be seeking competitive bids in the processing of the additional items.

According to UCUA officials, the additional items are expected to be added to the list of mandated recyclables next year in an effort to move closer to the 60 percent recycling goal established by the state.

"We're not exactly sure when the plan will be implemented," said Joan Burhendorf, UCUA recycling coordinator, "but it will be sometime in 1992."

Burhendorf said the county is still in the process of securing sorting and processing sites for the materials, which will include ferrous metals, such as steel and tin cans, corrugated material and several plastics.

The ferrous metal products include tin cans and tin cans; the corrugated material is generally cardboard containers; and the plastics will include "cloudy" milk and water containers, clear soda containers and colored detergent bottles, according to Burhendorf.

They plan has not been implemented because the county is examining alternative sites for gathering and processing the materials, she said. The UCUA is now contracted with a private concern in Plainfield for this purpose.

For many municipalities, contracting the work to the multi-member utilities authority remains the most cost efficient.

According to Burhendorf, the three items were proposed for addition to the recycling stream because of their heavy use by consumers, and the resulting demand by private sector processors. "They were the next logical items."

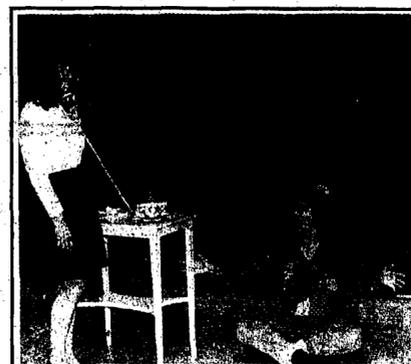

While qualifying his remarks by saying he finds "no fault with the county" recycling system, Kurnos said delays and rising costs make looking into the private market a prudent option.

"Our first concern is our own citizenry," he said, noting that ideally the costs should be removed from beneath the spending caps imposed by the state.

According to Cynthia Weaver, the township's recycling coordinator, residents will be notified if and when the items are added.

Weaver noted that while the public recycling depot is used to collect glass, aluminum and newspaper, the facility's capability will probably not be expanded for additional items.

While current figures of Springfield's recycling rate were not available, Weaver said the recycling effort in the township was "growing every year."

Dayton theater production marks Trinity's 45th, last

By David Brown
Managing Editor

A former actor at the Quarter Theatre in Atlantic City, Trinity said he remains an avid fan of drama. "I try to get to the Paper Mill when I can," he said, noting his last attempt at the theater was scheduled because of play rehearsal.

Among others, Trinity directed "Tea House of the August Moon" and "Flowers for Algernon" while at Jonathan Dayton.

And, in addition to many others, Trinity earned the respect of student actors James Forker and Ingar Jackson.

"He's real good," said Forker, who's now deep into rehearsal for this year's production. "He's patient and he has a great sense of humor. You have to," said Forker, who has been in two plays, and hopes to continue through his remaining years.

Said Jackson, a senior and veteran stage actor: "Mr. Trinity is very easy to work with. He's very personable. I'll miss seeing him every day."

Mr. Trinity can be seen a final time in his element, beginning at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow in the auditorium at Jonathan Dayton.

Trinity has directed over 40 school plays and guided many a young player through his lines or her stage movement. This year's production, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," however, will be Trinity's finale, at least off-Broadway.

"You start doing the shows a second time," said Trinity, a self-described "young-64-year-old," who sells real estate in addition to his academic responsibilities.

"The size of the audience changes, but the kids stay the same," he said, characterizing them as energetic, appreciative and friendly. "It got easier every year."

Trinity, who has been teaching for about 35 years, majored in drama at Catholic University in Washington, D.C. After directing "camp shows" for the armed forces during the '30s, Trinity returned to Catholic for his master's.

District survey results to be released 'cautiously'

By Dennis Schaal
Staff Writer

The Regional Board of Education received the results of the districtwide Egleton Poll on cost containment issues last week, but has opted not to release the results to the public until it conducts individual meetings in the six "sending" communities next month.

The Union County Regional High School District No. 1 board, which sets policy for its four high schools serving students in Garwood, Kenilworth, Berkeley Heights, Clark, Springfield and Mountaineer, outlined its plans last week for discussing the Egleton Poll's survey of district residents and provided further details about the composition and tasks of its currently forming ad hoc committee on long-range planning.

At the district's board meeting at Jonathan Dayton in Springfield Dec. 3, board President Burton Zitomer responded to a question from a Kenilworth resident about whether it might be more productive to publicize the polling results prior to the series of community meetings. Zitomer commented that the results are technical in nature and might be misconstrued by residents.

Zitomer expanded on his reasoning in an interview later in the week. He said the decision to delay release of the survey findings was "my decision" with the "concurrence" of Superintendent of Schools Donald Merachnik.

Zitomer argued that the voluminous results are "sensitive" in nature and might be misinterpreted not only by the public, but even "myself." He said it would be much more beneficial to have a member of the Rutgers University-affiliated Egleton staff present to interpret the results.

For example, Zitomer noted, if residents in a given municipality responded 55 percent to 45 percent in favor of implementing major savings by consolidating administrative duties, then "is that considered a mandate?"

"I think people will find some surprises in the survey results," said Zitomer, who said this was his personal, rather than the board's, perspective. "I've just glanced at it. It's sort of surprising about the mandates and non-mandates from respective towns."

The discussion of long-range planning comes as the district, which saw its budget proposals defeated by taxpayers the past two years, faces increasing pressure in 1992 to implement cost-saving measures, including the potential closing of a school.

In a related development, the non-profit Public Affairs Research Institute of New Jersey Inc. recently released a study that found that Union County Regional High School District No. 1 in 1990-1991 spent $365 per pupil on administrative salaries — the second highest of 21 school districts in Union County. The only district that spends more, according to the report, is Winfield, which spends $764 per pupil for administrative salaries on its 120 students. Elizabeth came in the lowest with $119.

The board has set up a series of meetings to go over the Egleton results with the public. Each community will have a public hearing.

School looks inevitable for planning, zoning boards

By David Brown
Managing Editor

All appointments to the Springfield Planning or Zoning boards on or after Jan. 1, 1992, will be required to receive formal instruction in those areas, according to an ordinance introduced Tuesday night by the Township Committee.

Among those 11 categories are: the purposes of planning and zoning; New Jersey's Municipal Land Use Law; ethical constraints, and recognizing potential conflicts of interest; and environmental issues and considerations in planning and zoning.

While not retroactive, the ordinance encourages incumbent members of the two boards to seek the same instruction.

Newly appointed members will be required to complete such course instruction within three months of their appointment.

Originally six months, the compliance period was shortened, according to Katz, in light of the fact that all the course work would be done in-house.

The ordinance provides for "at least eight hours of instruction (which) shall be presented locally by qualified instructors."

Members can view any session they miss as each will be videotaped for that purpose.

In addition to incumbent members of each board, also exempted under the proposed course requirements are

"Class I and Class III" members of the Planning Board.

Designating the mayor and his chosen appointment to the Planning Board, the Class I and III members are required by law to sit on the board.

"I believe this ordinance will make a difference in the way people approach this job," Forman said, adding that the proposal, while specific, was sufficiently flexible.

The proposed ordinance was a topic of heated partisan debate when it was originally introduced. While Republican critics noted the timing of the introduction — mid-campaign season — Democrats said the concept was long overdue, and should be developed on a bipartisan basis.

The Bestowers are back — and intend to stay

By David Brown
Managing Editor
"The return of the Bestowers," Semantically, it has a nice ring to it. Literally, the charitable ring of the revived volunteer group is resounding through nearby homes of the needy. Out of commission for more than a decade, the Mountaineer Bestowers have appeared on the scene once again to ease the way for the community's less fortunate during the holiday season.
"We're really reviving an existing organization," said the club's vice president, Angelo Rapp, explaining that the group's leadership, effectively an offshoot of the local Lions Club, met over the last several months in preparation for comeback fund-raiser.

Characterized as a success, the food and fund drive held at L'Affaire in Mountaineer last weekend attracted 100 people, approximately $1,250 in donations and door prizes, and a "truckload of food."
"We received everything from peanut butter and jelly to canned goods," said Bestowers President Harry Lorge.
Lorge, who attributed the club's origin in part to the borough's Mountaineer 2000 Committee encouragement of local social organizations, said an effort would be made to distribute the food and funds locally.
"We've located several local families that need assistance," he said, noting the balance will be sent to a charitable group in Westfield.

Some of the food collected at the Bestowers' comeback food drive.

According to the club's officers, this meeting, the first since 1979, is expected to spark enough interest to revive the Bestowers for many years. "A primary goal is to keep it going," Rapp said.

Describing the annual event as non-sectarian and non-political, Lorge called it an "opportunity for Mountaineer residents who are blessed to give."

Two are nabbed at DPW garage

Responding to a report of a possible break-in at the Department of Public Works garage in Springfield Nov. 25, police encountered two individuals in the act of burglarizing the facility.

According to Police Chief William Chisholm, Officer Michael Ferrigno and Detective Steven Stockel responded to the report, subsequently engaged in a foot chase, and apprehended Timothy and Anthony Marino, 19 and 21 years of age respectively.

Both of Union, the brothers allegedly broke into the garage and were in the process of detaching glow accessories from township dump trucks. The two were arrested and charged with burglary, theft, possession of burglary tools and of stolen property, allegedly from similar criminal action in Hillside. Both were released pending action by the grand jury.

On the same day, two individuals were apprehended as they made off with more than $200 in children's clothing.

According to Chisholm, Detective Judd Levenson observed two females leaving Newberry's store in the General Green Shopping Plaza with what appeared to be clothes on hangers beneath their coats.

Survey results released cautiously

The board of education in each of the six communities, and one council representative from each municipality.

Due to the state's open public meetings regulations, the ad hoc committee meetings will be open to the public for observation. However, the public will not be allowed to participate in the proceedings of the working committee.

At the board's Jonathan Dayton meeting last week, a Kenilworth resident said that Kenilworth and Garwood parents who attended an October meeting with board representatives at David Brearley "had been under the impression" that the ad hoc committee would also include citizen representatives from the communities.

Zitomer indicated last week that it would be difficult to decide which citizens to pick and "besides the 21-member committee is already a little bigger than what I wanted as a working committee."

Dayton Chorale to stage annual Messiah Concert in Mountaineer

By Catherine Morton
Correspondent
The Christmas portion of Handel's Messiah will be performed by the Jonathan Dayton Regional Chorale on Dec. 20, at 8:15 p.m. at the Community Presbyterian Church on Deer Path in Mountaineer. The Chorale will be performing their annual Alumni-Messiah Concert, a tradition that spans almost two decades, with assistance from a professional orchestra and the past Chorale Alumni. Also, soloists, chosen from the chorus, will be spotlighted. The concert is free of charge, donations will be accepted.

The Messiah was written by German-English composer George Frideric Handel and first performed in Dublin, Ireland, on April 13, 1742. It represents the final flowering of the baroque in music. The first part tells of the prophecy of God's intention to redeem mankind and then the carrying out of his intention. The second part recounts the accomplishment of redemption, mankind's rejection of God's intention and the defeat of men in their attempt to oppose God's power. The final part is a hymn of thanksgiving for the final overthrow of death.

The Chorale is the finest of all the choirs at Jonathan Dayton High School, and has studied various challenging pieces of music and has won many awards. The Chorale is made up of talented singers from the Junior and Senior classes, both male and female and is led by Brenda Kay, vocal music director at Jonathan Dayton.

The Chorale has a varied concert schedule including the yearly performance of the Alumni-Messiah Concert and various state and national competitions. The Chorale is also invited to go "caroling" at the Short Hills Mall each year and will be appearing this year on Dec. 16 at 7:30.

The annual Alumni-Messiah concert has been very successful in the past. The excellent performances elicit great audience participation and response.

For further information one can call Kay at Jonathan Dayton, (201) 376-6300.

Catherine Morton studies journalism at Jonathan Dayton High School in Springfield.

Freeholders OK solid waste management plan

By Chas Repak Staff Writer

After four years of assembling permits and documentation, the incinerator planned for Rahway is ready for final approval, although the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders appears to be the only group excited about the prospect.

In a special meeting held Dec. 5, the board voted unanimously to adopt Chairman James Wehli's resolution amending the county's solid waste management plan to formalize the mutual use agreement between Union and Bergen counties.

Approval came one day after the Bergen freeholder board voted unanimously to adopt a resolution approving the memorandum of understanding entered into by the Union County Utilities Authority and its Bergen counterpart Oct. 24. The Union freeholders had approved the memorandum at their Nov. 14 meeting.

Concerned Citizens of Union County's Nancy Sheridan denounced the measure at the special meeting. "Congratulations if you got them to agree to it," she said. "The memo essentially makes Bergen an offer it can't refuse. Unfortunately, that comes at the expense of our county's taxpayers. It leaves us open to financial and environmental liabilities well into the next century."

"It shows a total disregard for the citizens' concerns by holding us at eternal liability."

Article 2.0 of the memorandum reads: "UCUA agrees that it shall, at its sole cost and expense, defend, indemnify, protect and hold harmless the BCUA from and against any and all liabilities ... suits or actions, judgments, claims, losses, costs, damages ... and expenses arising out of any personal injury ... or property damage ..."

Authority Chairman Angelo Bonanno scoffs at the charge. "Bergen is a customer of the UCUA, not a co-operator. They don't have to pay off the bonds, they don't have any say in the design ... why should they have to bear the responsibility? It's the same as Union residents not bearing responsibility for public services, like electricity or gas."

Bergen Freeholder Chairman Charles O'Dowd said Friday that he didn't think his board felt pressure from Union County, but he admitted, "The state has not been helpful. They push only incineration. I would agree with citizens who voice concerns over the incinerator that there might be a better way."

He added, "We have two options in Bergen: shipping waste out of state, or incineration. As far as we're concerned, it's a lot cheaper to ship it. We have contracts to ship by rail that are much cheaper than paying for incineration." The memorandum stipulates that BCUA will provide a minimum of 150,000 tons per year at a rate of $73 per ton.

"The problem with shipping out of the state," said O'Dowd, "is that the state is continually threatening to end that option. I've received at least one warning letter from the state."

Even the county's reluctant agreement to supply the 1,440-ton-per-day Rahway incinerator won't solve all of Bergen's problems. "The 150,000 tons per year is only about a quarter of our total waste stream. So incineration is just one of a mix of options for us," a mix he said which includes additional composting and landfills, "which I am absolutely convinced can be made environmentally safer than an incinerator."

The resolution approved by the Bergen freeholders takes into account the search for other means of waste disposal. It reads, "The Bergen County Board of Chosen Freeholders recognizes the efforts of its citizens in increasing the recycling of solid waste and that until it can reach a major proportion of solid waste produced in Bergen County, other facilities will be necessary ..."

O'Dowd said the Nov. 4 vote does not represent Bergen's final approval. "We'll still have to pass an ordinance amending our solid waste management plan." He explained that counties with county executives must pass the amendment as an ordinance rather than as a resolution "because a resolution takes the veto power away from the executive."

Bergen County Executive William Schuler did not return calls to his office last week.

Judge sentences woman in child sex abuse case

By Mark Paris Staff Writer

A 24-year-old Irvington woman was sentenced to a maximum of 15 years in prison Friday by a Union County Superior Court judge after being convicted in July of sexually assaulting a 5-year-old Cranford girl. According to the office of Superior Court Judge Miriam Span, following a four-day trial which ended July 11, a jury found Patricia Darby guilty of aggravated sexual assault in the first degree and endangering the welfare of a child in the third degree.

Span sentenced Darby to serve her sentence at the state's Correctional Institute for Women in Clinton. According to Union County Assistant Prosecutor Regina Caulfield, Darby had been hired by the family to babysit their children in September 1990, and was living in their home part time. She lived with the family until she was arrested Jan. 29.

Caulfield said that the child, who was 5 years old at the time of the incident, told her mother she had been touched by the babysitter/hanny. Caulfield said that after the child told her mother of the incident, the mother called the Cranford police on Jan. 26, who then called the state Division of Youth and Family Services and the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

Darby was arrested three days later. During the trial, the assistant prosecutor said that the child testified about one incident that occurred at the house sometime between September and December 1990. She said that the child could not remember the exact date.

"To be fair, Patricia Darby has always maintained her innocence," Caulfield said.

Darby has been incarcerated in the Union County Jail since the date of her arrest and will be transferred to the Correctional Institute for Women at a later date, she said.

"She will be eligible for parole, but I don't know when," Caulfield said. "I think that she will have to serve approximately five years of her sentence before she is eligible for parole."

Residents reminded to trim trees wisely

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was submitted by the New Jersey Fire Prevention Bureau. Be sure to read these tips to have a safe holiday tree. The Leader supports their efforts and wishes the same.

- Choose a fresh tree. You will enjoy it more if it is fresh. If you buy from a local tree farm, if possible. You can test the freshness of a tree by bouncing the trunk on the ground two or three times. Only a very few needles should fall. The branches should bend easily and not break.
- Cut two inches from the tree's base to help it absorb water. Be sure to use a stand that holds plenty of water. Refill the water every day. It is very important that you don't let the stand go dry. Once the water dries up, the tree will wilt and it cannot draw more water.
- If you buy your tree early, leave it outside or in the garage in a bucket of water until a week or two before Christmas.
- Place your tree well away from any wood stove, fireplace, heater or base radiator. Constant radiant heat will dry out a tree quickly and make it very flammable. Also try to put the tree close to an outlet so you will not need to use extension cords. If you have more than one string of lights, use only heavy-duty extension cords.
- Make sure your tree is not blocking an exit. It should not be placed in front of a door, or in a hallway.

With the lights impinged, check all lights and cords for broken spots or frayed wires. Lay the lights on a fire-proof surface, and leave them switched out for 15 minutes. Check for signs of overheating, such as smoking or melting. Don't take a chance. Throw away any strings of lights that show signs of wear or overheating. Even the smallest spark from a frayed light cord can ignite a dry tree.

'Never Say Die' Bears win section title

Brearley scores twice in last 5 minutes for crown

By J.R. Perachini Sports Editor. Last Saturday Mountain Lakes fans waited for the first lady to start singing. The only problem was that she had laryngitis and couldn't.

Brearley Regional trailed by 13 points late in the fourth quarter, but did the Bears give up? No, they wouldn't.

Mountain Lakes was at home with a cozy 10-0 record and roughly five minutes away from going 11-0 and winning the NJSIAA North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 crown. But, they didn't.

That's because the Bears rallied for two extra-point-ending touchdowns in the final 4:48 to stun the second-seeded Herd 14-13. It marked an unbelievable ending to a season that had many twists and turns.

"It just goes to show you how hard it is to win a state championship," said Brearley Regional head coach Bob Taylor, whose team finished 8-2-1 this season.

The Bears finished third in the Valley Division of the Mountain Lakes Conference behind two teams that lost in the semifinal round, champion Johnson Regional of Clark and Roselle Park. The Bears entered the game as the fourth seed, having knocked off the top seed, Johnson Regional, on the road in the semifinals.

Brearley Regional rushed eight times for 26 yards during the winning drive before Joe Corbo, a senior wide receiver, made a big grab in the right field corner of the end zone.

The Bears rolled on a balanced attack, rushing for 114 yards on 42 carries. Senior quarterback Jonathan Corbo connected on 13 of 19 passes for 136 yards and one touchdown.

Corbo reeled in eight of those passes for 70 yards and one touchdown. It was the fourth successful championship for the Bears and their first since 1986. Taylor, at the helm since

Here come the Brearley Regional Bears with senior quarterback Jonathan Chango handing off to senior halfback Ron Cagno. Down 13-0 late in the fourth quarter, the Bears received a touchdown run from Steve Miceli, a scoring pass from Chango to Joe Corbo and a clearing block from center Mike Rosato. Rosato's blocks and those of offensive lineman Gordon Galloway, Brian Moran and Dan Bennett opened large holes for James Mitchell. The junior fullback rushed for a team-high 101 yards on 18 carries.

BREAR FACTS - In all, Mountain Lakes rushed for 169 yards on 30 carries. Taylor said that the muddy field conditions affected his team a bit more.

"We weren't able to get into our tempo," Taylor said. "It was a very uncomfortable feeling." The kids maintained their confidence, Taylor said. "You have to be around at the end and if you allow yourself a chance to win, then you can win it."

As Taylor opened up the offense a bit more than usual, Chango responded to the challenge like a true champion. "He was on roller skates at times, but had great composure," Taylor said. "He had to tighten it up and join in and he did."

Brearley Regional's second touchdown drive covered 49 yards in nine plays. "The kids maintained their confidence," Taylor said. "You have to be around at the end and if you allow yourself a chance to win, then you can win it."

Two successful extra-point kicks from Mark Scuderi to pull out a 14-13 win on the road against an undefeated Mountain Lakes team for the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 crown. It was Brearley Regional's fourth sectional championship and first since 1986.

N.J. SECTION 2 GROUP 1 CHAMPS

Who could have predicted this finish for Brearley Regional in 1991? The Bears were hungry after not qualifying for the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 playoffs last year with a 7-1 record at the cutoff date. And there was plenty of talent returning from a team that finished 8-1 overall and posted five straight wins. The Bears lost to Hackensack Regional in a playoff game, but they were back in the playoffs. This year Brearley Regional was up against it right from the start. This season's "Never Say Die" theme was quickly put to the test.

Four victories later and a tough loss at fellow-playoff counterpart Roselle Park. Two victories later and a tie at home to Mountain Valley Conference-Valley Division champion Johnson Regional of Clark. Two good victories later and the team's fourth sectional championship.

If the team could not have a name for this season's highlight film, it's "Never Say Die." The 1991-Brearley Bears. "Never Say Die."

Head coach Bob Taylor's record reads 118-51-6 since he took over in 1974. In the 18 years he has seen seven teams to the playoffs, six of them reaching the sectional final.

However, Taylor doesn't get the job done without the help of assistants (coach AJ Adams, David Curtis, Mike Lendine, Mike Mancuso, Carl Pappas and Steven Welsch).

Plenty of talent on All-Area Soccer Team

Shaw, Cohen, Fennes, Muir, Glasser, Moore, Gonzalez, O'Donnell, Wray, Calicchios named

There was no shortage of talent this year among area high school boys' soccer teams. Brearley Regional won the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 1 crown; Roselle Catholic reached the North Jersey-Parochial-B final and Union handed eventual Group 4 champion Westfield its only loss.

FIRST-TEAM

came into his own this season," according to Kroppa. "He was able to control the midfield in every game and he thoroughly took over the team."

In addition to his outstanding defensive play, Calicchio also scored eight goals and tallied 11 assists. "We had more balance in scoring this season and it helped Pete's game," Kroppa said. "He was a big part of our defensive scheme, but he was also able to get involved in our offense."

Calicchio was a first-team selection to both the All-Mountain Valley Conference and All-County coaches teams.

TODD MOORE — A sophomore midfielder, Moore was a first-team coach's All-County selection and still has two years to go. He netted a team-high 12 goals and dished out eight assists.

JEFF GLASSER — Johnson Regional suffered a severe blow early in the season when all-everything player Danny Houso suffered a season-ending knee injury. But the loss was not nearly as damaging as it could have been thanks to the likes of player like Glasser who picked up the slack in Houso's absence.

"Jeff started the season on defense, but when Danny went down, he moved to midfield," head coach Phil Frese said. "He was one of my co-captains, but he really stepped in as team leader when we lost Danny. He did everything we asked of him and more."

Even out of position, Glasser scored six goals and added eight assists. He proved to be a true clutch player, and one that excelled under pressure. "Jeff didn't score many goals, but they were all big ones," Frese said. "Every goal he scored was important."

Glasser, a senior, was named to the first-teams of both the Mountain Valley Conference and the coaches All-County squads.

RUBEN GONZALEZ — To balance their aggressiveness on offense and defense, the Lions depended on the calm, cool and collected play of Gonzalez, a junior midfielder. "Our trademark all season was our aggressive play," Kroppa said. "We needed Ruben's cool and calm attitude to balance that out."

Gonzalez, a three-year starter for the Lions, played in the initial midfield spot. He scored nine goals and added 10 assists. An excellent all-around player, he was especially talented at direct kicks.

He was also valuable in the Lions' transition game. "Ruben could hold onto the ball longer than anyone else on the team," Kroppa said. "He has such confidence in his dribbling and such accuracy that it was a pleasure to watch him handle the ball." Gonzalez was named to the Mountain Valley Conference first-team.

MATT O'DONNELL — The best player in Union County and headed to someone's Division 1 program, O'Donnell was praised by just about everyone he played against.

He scored 22 goals from his striker position and finished with a school-record 83 as a four-year varsity starter.

O'Donnell was voted the No. 1 player in the county by the coaches in addition to being a first-team coaches

All-County pick. He played in the NISIAA's All-Star Game at Trenton State last Saturday. O'Donnell was first-team All-Mountain Valley Conference.

RUSTY CALICCHIO — Pete's cousin, the senior forward was the leading scorer for the Lions this season, tallying 17 goals and adding four assists. "Rusty was our big play guy, the guy we knew could score for us at any time," Kroppa said. "He was a threat against every team we played, even when he was double-teamed."

Calicchio was a first-team selection to both the All-Mountain Valley Conference and All-County coaches teams.

Calicchio personified the Lions' aggressive attitude with his offensive play. "Rusty took on any and all defenders," Kroppa said. "He wasn't afraid to go after the ball or to give chase for the goal."

One of the things that made Calicchio so dangerous with and without the ball is his quickness. An agile dribbler, he was able to dart around defenders and get into the clear to set up a shot.

Rusty joins his cousin as a first-team All-Mountain Valley Conference selection.

ED WRAY — Another player who came through with flying colors for the Crusaders was Wray, a senior forward in his second season of varsity play. Wray picked up the scoring slack in Houso's absence, leading the Crusaders with 11 goals and four assists.

"Ed was an outstanding forward for us this season," Frese said. "I think he's one of the most dangerous guys around the net in the county. He always seems to find a way to put it in the net. He scored at times when I didn't think anyone could score."

Wray joins Glasser on the All-Mountain Valley Conference first-team. "Ed is a very untalented player and a true talent," Frese said. "We

Non-credit continuing education classes also will be offered, plus career certificate programs in administrative assistant, computer accounting clerk, computer software specialist, ESL word processing, management/business, travel and tourism, and word processing/secretarial development.

Building recognition

The Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs will present "The Visible Arts: Building Recognition for Arts Organizations," two hands-on arts promotion workshops, Jan. 1 and 23 at Union County College's Cranford campus.

The two-day program will help arts and historical groups learn the best way to approach the media, the do's and don'ts of publicity, how to conduct a successful fund-raising campaign, and how to write a winning grant proposal.

"These workshops will give arts and historical organizations the tools to gain public awareness," said Freeholder Walter Bright, liaison to the county's Cultural and Heritage Program Advisory Board.

The Jan. 11 workshop, which will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., features a media panel and sessions on publicity and fund-raising. The grants writing workshop will be presented Jan. 23, from 3:30 to 6 p.m.

The media panel includes Carlotta Galva Swanson, award-winning contributing writer for the New Jersey Weekly section of The New York Times; Michael J. Hollrigel, editor-in-chief of Primetime, the weekly guide to cultural events in Union County; and Daniel Garcia, corporate vice president of La Voz, a Spanish language newspaper.

A $15 registration fee will cover costs of food and materials for both sessions.

$32-M budget adopted

The Board of Trustees of Union County College has adopted a 1992-93 budget totaling $32,172,331, an increase of 5.4 percent in operating expenses.

The budget anticipates an increase in tuition of $5 per credit hour to the state maximum of $55 and a decrease in state aid. The budget calls for a county appropriation of $3,770,480, an increase of $644,480 or 7.7 percent.

Thomas H. Brown, president, said that the 1992-93 budget provides for the full opening of the new Elizabeth campus in downtown Elizabeth and the opening of the Plainfield Center in downtown Plainfield with full staffing, and for salary increases negotiated with the five collective bargaining units.

"This is strictly a status quo budget," Brown said. "Except for the opening of the new Elizabeth and Plainfield operations and the closing of the Scotch Plains campus, we are in a status quo mode. There are no new programs, services or activities."

Brown said a slight decline in enrollment is anticipated because of the closing of the Scotch Plains campus. He added, however, that this could be overcome by offering joint allied health programs with the University of Medicine and Dentistry and by the continuing increase in the number of adults returning to college for retraining and to retain their current jobs.

"With the economy continuing to decline, more and more adults see our college as a path to a job, a new job or a better job, and we are continuing to take every step possible to serve them," Brown said. "With the decline in support from the state, it will be extremely difficult and perhaps not possible to continue to accept all applicants."

Brown said he is hopeful the state and the county can find ways to provide additional funding—the college, so all programs and services can be at least maintained at the current levels.

Maplewood Nursery cuts trees, costs

"Tis almost the season to be jolly and Wayne Maudsley, owner and proprietor of Maplewood Nursery in Springfield, has plans to do something about it.

On Sunday, Christmas trees of all shapes and sizes will be arriving. On hand will be those of the Douglas and Fraser Fir, Blue Spruce, and Balsam varieties from which customers may pick and choose their favorite.

Although trees are plentiful around this time of year, there is one thing special about the trees at Maplewood Nursery and that is they are all equipped with what Maudsley calls the "Stand Straight System." In explaining this system, the owner said that holes are drilled in the bottom of each tree so that they are able to stand uprights.

"This saves a lot of effort," said Maudsley. Anything from a small table top tree to a ten-footer may be purchased at the nursery. Another consideration for holiday shoppers will be cost and Maudsley has a solution.

Maplewood Nursery, located at 160 Springfield Ave., will also be making hand-made wreaths and blankets.

So before you pick up a saw or axe, it may be a good idea to stop at the Maplewood Nursery and pick up a few hints from Wayne Maudsley, or call the nursery at 376-7698.

Troupe gives 'Black Orpheus' a modern twist

By James C. Shell
Staff Writer

Tragedy, from the works of the ancient Greeks to this day, succeeds on the merits of the storytelling rather than on the plot itself.

In most instances, we know the story and its outcome. We in the audience know the character flaw or predestined turn of events that will bring about the unhappy outcome that the players on stage cannot avoid.

Great tragedy, successful tragedy makes a connection with our lives, our culture, our understanding of the human condition, and makes us care about the characters and their story although we know the inevitable ending of their tale. Such is the case with the new staging of "Black Orpheus: A Mythical Musical Story" by the Crossroads Theater, an African-American theater troupe, in its new home in New Brunswick.

Whether we are familiar with the Greek myth or with the 1959 film "Black Orpheus," we know going into the play that the love of Orpheus and Eurydice is destined to end unhappily.

We know that their young love will be doused by Eurydice's death, and we know that despite Orpheus' heroic descent into the Underworld to bring her back, he will make the one tragic mistake that will cause him lose everything, despite warnings that told him precisely what to do to secure his love.

The challenge for the players is to present the story in such a way that we care for the characters, that we identify with them and their lot in life, and, yes, that we still root for them to win out in the end although we know they are destined to lose.

"Black Orpheus" at the Crossroads accomplishes that in an engagingly winning style, with a contemporary tale of love set amid the festive atmosphere of Trinidad at Carnival time, a time of year when myth and reality are deliberately mixed by the natives of the West Indies in a celebration of life.

The mixing of myth and reality in this new production of "Black Orpheus," conceived and directed by Ricardo Khan, artistic director at the Crossroads, presents to us a full range of human experiences, good and evil, light and dark, loss and redemption, valor and folly, commitment and betrayal. It takes us on an emotional journey that entertains us while we watch the lovers battle for salvation against the odds.

Written by OyamO, this world premier production is set in the ruins of a sugar plantation in present-day Trinidad. It traces the tale of love between Orpheus, an electrician with a gift of song, and Eurydice, a beautiful young woman who inspires Orpheus to follow his dreams.

The conflict between dreams and daily life, and between myth and reality, is central to the story of "Black Orpheus."

From the start, we know something is lacking for Orpheus in the workday world.

A guitar-playing singer, whose musical gifts even inspire frivolity among the fish at sea, this sensitive late 20th Century Orpheus, a vegetarian, is idealist who speaks out against corrupt politicians who have "pauperized" the country.

But, his boss thinks he's a dreamer who would rather sing than make a living, and his fiancée, the very practical Mariella, wrangles with him for his paycheck, which he'd rather spend on a new guitar and costumes for Carnival than put away for their future.

In many ways, Mariella seems to be the perfect woman for Orpheus. She is there to remind him of his responsibilities and keep his dreaming feet firmly planted on the ground.

But although he loves her, Orpheus is an artist, a poet, whose needs are more abstract. Unlike Mariella, he is not disappointed when a blind psychic reads only "deep love" when predicting his future rather than a definite number of children or a house.

When the beautiful Eurydice comes from Tobago to visit her Uncle Appollo, pursued by a haunting vision of her own death, she serves as the ethereal shadow of Mariella's worldly practicality. Inspired to dance, and to love, by Orpheus' music, she in turn inspires him to dream and to hold fast to his dreams before the demands of daily life cause him to lose them.

As played by Jesse Moore, Orpheus is an honest, sympathetic man who must struggle between these two poles of thought, to dream or to face reality, and he is hesitant to choose.

He is charmed by the tale of Orpheus and Eurydice when two schoolboys tell him that the two are destined to love each other, but he doesn't learn the story's fateful outcome.

Even after he knows he is in love, he hides the truth from Mariella during the Carnival celebration, but the fantasy of Carnival is interrupted by the reality of the demon stalking his new love.

It is only after battling death for Eurydice, and losing, that he is sure that he is willing to risk it all, his life, his soul, for her.

In addition to the poignant emotional battles of the characters, "Black Orpheus" offers a mix of entertaining Calypso music, festive Carnival costumes, and diverse, energetic dancing, with a dash of humor as well.

When the plot demands the story take us into Hades, it is a modern day underworld where the Greek god Pluto likes Michael Jackson, his captive wife Persophone proclaims herself his "red-hot lover," ferryman Charon tells jokes while crossing the river Styx, and the sea god Poseidon is upset about the destruction of the wetlands in New Jersey.

As set in the new 130-seat Crossroads Theater, the story is played out in close proximity — in front of, in and around the audience.

The new theater, which has taken Crossroads "uptown" in the words of artis-

Silent Night
Franz Gruber

Silent night! Holy night!
It is calm; all is bright,
Round you Virgin Mother and Child!
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Jingle Bells
J. Pierpont

Dashing through the snow,
In a one horse open sleigh,
O'er the fields we go,
Laughing all the way,
Bells on bobtail ring,
Making spirits bright,
What fun it is to ride
and sing a sleighing song tonight,
Jingle bells, jingle bells,
Jingle all the way!
Oh what fun it is to ride
in a one horse open sleigh!
Jingle bells, jingle bells,
Jingle all the way!
Oh what fun it is to ride
in a one horse open sleigh!

My Dreydl

I have a little dreydl,
I made it out of clay;
And when it's dry and ready
Then dreydl I shall play.

It has a lovely body,
With leg so short and thin;
And when it is all trowed,
It drops and then I win.

O Little Town of Bethlehem
Lewis H. Redner

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie;
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by,
Yet in the dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars together
Proclaim the holy birth,
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth,
And 'twas on this day
That the wondrous gift was given!
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His Son;
No ear may hear His coming,
But in the world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him,
The dear Christ enters in.

The First Nowell
Traditional English

The first Nowell the angels did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep,
On a cold winter's night that was so deep,
Nowell, Nowell, Nowell,
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star shining
In the east, beyond their farm,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night,
Nowell, Nowell, Nowell,
Born is the King of Israel.

We Wish You A Merry Christmas
Old English

We wish you a merry Christmas,
We wish you a merry Christmas,
We wish you a happy New Year,
And a happy New Year.

We all know that Santa's coming,
We all know that Santa's coming,
We all know that Santa's coming,
And soon will be here.

Rock of Ages

Rock of Ages, let our songs
Praise Thy saving power;
Thou amidst the raging foes,
Was our Saviour's tower,
Purging those assailed us,
But Thine arm availed us,
And Thy word
Broke their sword
When our own strength failed us.

Children of the Martyr-race
Whose freedom is fettered,
Wake the echoes of the songs
Where ye may be scattered
Yours the message cheering
That the time is nearing
Which will see
All men free,
Tyrants disappearing.

DINING REVIEW

TIFFANY'S

A warm, friendly place to enjoy good food, good fun, good prices.

By Lillian Abbracciamento

Correspondent

Tiffany's, located at 1637 Vauxhall Road in Union, is New Jersey's answer to the "Cheers" bar in Boston: a very friendly place where "everybody knows your name." And besides the cheerful vibes, the diner will find good food at very reasonable prices.

The entrance, a sports bar area complete with a wide-screen TV and a cast of local patrons, puts the visitor at ease and sets the mood for casual fun. A few steps further inside the restaurant, the dining rooms bustle with families of all ages. Grandparents treat their grandkids to a square meal and another young group of six toasts the night's looming festivities with the Strawberry Freeze libation. The common denominator? One and all have come to the right place for good food and fun at affordable prices.

Tiffany's look is a very attractive pub-style decor which, of course, includes Tiffany lamps

UCC will open the doors on new Elizabeth campus

Union County College will open its new, eight-story, 100,000-sq.-ft. Elizabeth Campus at 12 West Jersey St., Elizabeth, with the opening of the spring semester on Jan. 21, 1992, it was announced by Thomas H. Brown, president.

Brown reported renovations of the former headquarters building of the Elizabeth Gas Company are scheduled for completion in November.

The tentative date for the college to move from its current location at 10 Butler St., Elizabeth, to the new facility is Dec. 13, according to John R.

Farrell, Jr., vice president for administrative services, who is coordinating the move into the new building.

The new Elizabeth Campus will serve about 4,000 full-time and part-time students when it is in full operation. It provides 28 classrooms, a 218-seat theater, a 69-seat lecture hall, library, academic learning center, 12 computer science laboratories, a biology/chemistry laboratory, a biology laboratory, an allied health laboratory, an accounting laboratory and two office systems technology laboratories, faculty offices, administrative offices, faculty lounge, six student lounges, conference and seminar rooms, food services, and a bookstore.

Brown reported the Elizabeth Campus will provide associate degree programs in liberal arts, business, accounting/data processing, business management, computer-integrated manufacturing engineering technology, computer science/data processing, electromechanical technology, electronics engineering technology, mechanical engineering technology, and office systems technology, and a diploma program in practical nurse.

Union County College's major activities at its current Elizabeth location will be moved to the new campus. They are the Institute for Intensive English, a program of English for speakers of other languages, which has an enrollment of about 300 students and the Employment Skills Center, a program of basic skills and job training for the unemployed and underemployed, which has about 200 students.

Union County College has operated a campus in Elizabeth since 1970, first in the Bayway Community Center at the intersection of Bayway and South Broad Street and later, at 10

Butler St. in the former headquarters facilities of Thomas and Betts.

The college is the public community college of and for Union County with an enrollment of 10,400 full-time and part-time students at its main campus in Cranford and branch campuses in Elizabeth, Plainfield and Scotch Plains. It serves about 25,000 students in all categories each year.

'Magnificat' focal point of celebration

The Pergolesi "Magnificat" will be the highlight of "A Christmas Celebration," a holiday concert to be presented with soloists and orchestra by the NJ Schola Cantorum at the First United Methodist Church, 631 E. Front St., Plainfield, on Sunday at 3 p.m.

Accompanied by piano, organ and strings, the 40-voice chorus will also perform concert arrangements of more than a dozen carols, including both familiar favorites and rarely heard English, French and Alsatian carols. Composers and arrangements include Norman Dello Joio, Gustav Holst, Max Reger and John Rutter. Concluding the program will be an arrangement of "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," by Robert Paoli, a New Jersey composer and musician.

Serendipity Singers slated

Probably best known for "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing," one of the few instances where a commercial jingle became a chart-buster, the Serendipity Singers offer a varied menu of songs in their live appearances across the country. On Saturday at 8 p.m., Rahway's newly-restored Union County Arts Center will host the group in a holiday concert.

Loosely defined, serendipity means the accidental discovery of treasure. But very little about the success of the Serendipity Singers during the past two decades can be described as accidental. The accent has consistently been on talent, showmanship and audience rapport.

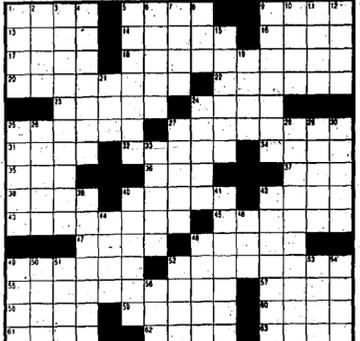

Since the turbulent '60s, the group, now consisting of all new, young talent, has been active on several fronts, such as Christmas specials on TV, world tours, movie scores and concert albums. They've appeared on TV specials with Robert Goulet, Rita Coolidge, Helen Reddy and other stars, and hosted their own weekly TV show, airing nationally from 1985 to 1988.

Besides the signature tune, "Don't Let the Rain Come Down," songs heard at Serendipity concerts usually run the gamut from patriotic ballads to country-western pieces like "Mamas, Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To Be Cowboys." At the group's holiday engagement in Rahway, the focus will be on traditional and contemporary holiday music.

Tickets are $12.50, $15 and $17.50, but children under 12, accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free of charge and will have an opportunity to have their pictures taken with Santa Claus. The number to call for ticket reservations is 908-499-8226.

The performance is made possible in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Department of State, through a grant administered by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

LAST MINUTE GIFT GUIDE

UNION COUNTY EDITION

Worrall Community Newspapers December 12th, 1991

ONLY 13 SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS.

Special ways to say "thank you" after the holiday season

People spend a good amount of time and money selecting gifts for their loved ones, taking special care to suit the needs of the individual. The same amount of care should be given when thanking those who have been so gracious. Any form of thanks is always appreciated, but making someone feel as though they have made a smart and meaningful purchase, is a gift in itself.

• Instead of hastily choosing a package of thank you cards, pick a card for each individual, having your thank you come truly from the heart.

• Have pictures taken of each of you unwrapping your gifts. In the thank you card, enclose a photograph of the person's gift being opened, worn or displayed.

• Those who have access to equipment for videotaping the festivities may opt for an elaborate thank you. A mini-film of gift-unwrapping time, plus on-camera reactions will absolutely thrill the gift-giver.

• How about a personal thank you for those who live in your vicinity? Taking the time to thank someone in person and expressing how much you are enjoying the gift will make that person feel that his or her gift to you really meant something special.

• If time allows, a get-together for everyone to whom you want to say thank you is a unique and fun way of showing your gratitude.

• Children play an important role in thanking people also. When a child creates his or her own very special thank you, it not only pleases the gift-giver, but it directly shows the child how important (and fun) it can be to thank someone.

• A drawing of the gift, and perhaps one of the child opening it.

• A cassette tape of your child, talking about the gift that he or she was given. (These suggestions are ideal for the child whose writing skills are not strong.)

• A homemade thank you card created by the youngster.

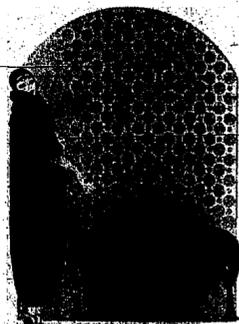

To be appreciated is something everyone needs; fulfill that need this holiday with a personal spark added to your thank yous.
