REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By Mark Devaney

St. James boasts first graduating D.A.R.E. class

Officer Ed McNany has a unique way of putting his life on the line for the youth of Springfield. According to Ann Boyle, an eighth-grade teacher at St. James School on South Springfield Avenue, at the beginning of the year, McNany put his keeper number on the bulletin board and told her students, "If you ever need me, I'm a phone call away."

For three years now, "Officer Ed," as the kids call him, has been running the D.A.R.E. program at St. James. It was obvious from meeting McNany that his involvement with the St. James students has been a rewarding experience. It was also obvious that all New Jersey communities need D.A.R.E. programs in their school systems.

But aside from the necessary education of youngsters regarding drugs and alcohol, the D.A.R.E. program re-establishes a relationship that has sadly been strained between the police officer and the people. D.A.R.E. stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education.

There's a lot of mistrust and confusion on the streets today. Often, the men in blue are not quite who we thought men in blue to be. In fact, sometimes they are women in blue. But the unfortunate change in our perception of law enforcement officers has been ideological.

Today, unlike yesterday, children feel intimidated or even threatened by the presence of a cop on the beat. Especially in urban areas, the policeman on the street is not the same figure we once spoke freely about real incidents in which D.A.R.E. guided them to make the right choices.

One girl told the class about being offered marijuana by a stranger who had stopped his car on her street. She recognized a Blunt cigar and promptly said, "No." Another boy related a story about some older boys who tried to persuade him to drink beer and smoke cigarettes.

Clearly, these teen-agers at St. James are not undergoing "eight-grade problems," said McNany. "Booze and drugs are available at parties. Kids have had the opportunity to make choices." His consistent interaction with these students, every Wednesday afternoon for 17 weeks, has paid off.

The boys and girls in Boyle's class demonstrated a maturity that belied their actual ages. I had the feeling that they were well-prepared for all the difficult choices that the future held in store for them.

Half of the eighth-graders are headed for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School next fall and all of them have pledged to join the Alternatives Club offered there. The club is a group that provides alternative avenues for employment rather than the dead end street of drug use.

The other half of Boyle's class comes from other towns in Union County. It is my job to look for the people in town from the bad guy's product, to prevent the transportation of drugs through town," he said.

One safe way to attain that end is the proper education of children. In essence, McNany is fighting drugs at all levels and is putting some-

McNany. Because of its central location between New York, Newark and Plainfield and its access to major thoroughfares, Springfield serves as a prime hub for drug traffic.

When asked about why he has committed himself to narcotics investigation, McNany spoke of "the cat and mouse game" he is continually involved in with criminals. "The bad guys are willing to do anything to protect their drug, including violence. It is my job to protect the people in town from the bad guy's product, to prevent the transportation of drugs through town," he said.

Rent leveling: To have or have not?

By Mark Devaney

Two weeks ago at the Springfield Township Committee meeting to discuss the budget, Paul Berliner, past chairman and secretary of the rent leveling board questioned the usefulness of that board.

The rent leveling board represents $7,500 per year out of the $15 million budget and is the entity that enforces the rent control ordinance in Springfield, which governs tenant and landlord contracts.

Berliner was there, along with the late Ed Glassman, when the rent leveling board was founded 22 years ago "as an impetus against rent increases," said Berliner. Actually, the rent leveling board was first created by tenants at Mountain View Gardens who were disappointed with their landlord who was not responsive to their grievances," Berliner said.

In 1972, that initial group of disgruntled tenants contacted the Woodbridge rent leveling board for ideas on how to organize themselves. Essentially, the board's primary purpose was "to adjudicate disputes between tenants and landlords over rent increases," said Berliner.

In an effort to examine the 1994 budget, Berliner, as well as other Springfield residents, sought clarification from the board's advisory committee. His purpose was in regard to reducing expenditures in the budget," stated Berliner. He estimated that "in the past number of years, the rent leveling board has not been too active because there haven't been too many disputes."

The Township Committee studied the usefulness of the rent leveling board and found it to be unnecessary. Berliner recommended that they "eliminate the whole board or eliminate those who are getting paid and leave the board in tact."

As a result of such input from the community, Mayor Marcia Forman announced the formation of a Local Budget Advisory Committee that will scrutinize the Springfield municipal budget in order to reduce costs to taxpayers.

Current chairman of the rent leveling board Ken Faigenbaum stated, "I have absolutely no objection to the possibility of consolidating the rent leveling board into another board, provided that the function of the board is not diminished."

However, Faigenbaum cautioned against the consolidation of the rent leveling board "unless there's a true savings and the cost of the rent leveling board doesn't get allocated to other boards and so long as both tenants and landlords' rights don't get thrown out the window."

Harelick responded to the prospect of dissolving the rent leveling board because it has been alleged that the board rarely meets. "The purpose of the rent leveling board is to protect landlords and tenants' rights with regard to rent control and the value of that cannot be measured by the number of times the board meets."

The attorney compared the rent leveling board's activity to that of the judicial system. "There are times when judges' dockets may not be as crowded as at other times. But the judges remain sitting awaiting matters to come before them."

Car dealers agree to $295,000 settlement

Autoland of Springfield, two related dealerships, their ad agency and four salesmen have agreed to settle fraud charges by paying $295,000 in penalties and costs, including a $115,000 fund to be used for future Consumer Affairs auto investigations, Attorney General Deborah A. Porco and James F. Mulvihill, assistant Attorney General in Charge, announced on May 17.

"Consumer Affairs remains dedicated to ensuring that consumers get a fair deal when making such a major purchase as buying a car," said Attorney General Porco.

"This agreement sends a strong message not only to auto dealers but to their advertising entities and salespersons that they will be held responsible for any violations of New Jersey's consumer fraud laws," said Assistant Attorney General Mulvihill.

Autoland, Crystal Auto Mall of Greentown, Ocean Chevrolet of Toms River, DePalco Advertising, and employees Patrick Dunn, Robert Cooper, Guy Midgely, and Frank Sacco were charged last February with a total of 36 violations of the state's Consumer Fraud Act, including falsifying a contract, bait-and-switch, and false advertising.

Under the terms of the agreement, Autoland, owner Donald Toropov and Ocean Chevrolet will voluntarily pay the state a total of $225,000: $75,000 in penalties, including $40,000 from Ocean Chevrolet, $35,000 in costs, and $115,000 to be placed in a consumer protection fund to allow Consumer Affairs to police the motor vehicle industry in New Jersey to assure that entities that advertise and do business in this state comply with its consumer protection laws.

The agreement dismisses the complaint against Audrea Karsian, an officer and director of all three dealerships.

In addition, the agreement provides that the defendants resolve all outstanding consumer complaints within 60 days and submit to Consumer Affairs information on how the complaints were resolved. The District currently has 32 open complaints against Autoland, 10 against Crystal, and three against Ocean Chevrolet.

Crystal Auto Mall, on Route 22 in Greentown, has agreed to pay Consumer Affairs $27,000 in costs and penalties.

De Palco Advertising, located within Autoland on Route 22, will also pay $27,000 in penalties and costs.

The individuals named in the suit have agreed to pay the state a total of $16,500. Guy Midgely, Crystal's assistant sales manager, Robert Cooper, Crystal's general manager, and Frank Sacco, a former Crystal salesman, will pay $3,000 each. Patrick Dunn, the Toyota sales manager at Crystal, will pay $7,500. The salespersons were accused of participating in the alleged falsification of a contract to cover up a bait-and-switch scheme.

All defendants have agreed to refrain from any further violations of the state's Consumer Fraud Act. Any subsequent violations will be subject to enhanced penalties of up to $15,000 per violation.

College education accredited

Kean College of New Jersey's School of Education has received national accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education for its professional education programs.

The accreditation represents the culmination of three years of preparation and deliberation on the part of Kean College and the NCATE Unit Accreditation Board.

In its first review, Kean's School of Education received NCATE accreditation at the basic and advanced levels. NCATE accredits approximately 300 institutions, of which 70 percent achieve accreditation on the first review. The honor is bestowed upon institutions which voluntarily submit themselves to independent external review.

According to Ana Maria Schulzmann, dean of the college's School of Education, the accreditation is "official recognition that Kean College is at the forefront of institutions which prepare teachers and other school personnel. We are extremely pleased with the accreditation results and with the report submitted by the Board of Examiners' team."

In the report, Kean was cited for its "sustained commitment to service and partnership" through "an extensive number of innovative and recognized initiatives which have documented impact" and significantly advanced the profession. The college was also praised for its "very high commitment to diversity," through numerous collaborative, cooperative and innovative efforts within the college and with the community. Kean received high marks for its efforts in enhancing recruitment, retention and support of minority students.

Since NCATE revised its accreditation standards in 1987, colleges seeking NCATE accreditation must undergo rigorous examination.

Environmental report is released amid Concerned Citizens protests

By Sean P. Carr, Staff Writer
 The Union County Utilities Authority released its environmental report last week amid cries for the resignation of its executive director.
 The report assesses the environmental state of the region prior to the Union County Resource Recovery Facility's coming on-line in February. UCUA Executive Director Jeffrey Callahan and representatives from IBM Engineering Inc., which conducted the study, presented the report to the Board of Chosen Freeholders last Thursday.
 The study, which ran from November 1992 through February 1994, was designed to record a baseline of the region so any environmental effects of the incinerator can be measured. The UCUA agreed to conduct the assessment as part of the permitting process for the siting of the facility.
 "The report verifies the presence of contaminants in the area that stem from existing urban and industrial activity," Callahan said.
 Samples of soil, sediment, surface and rain water, food crops and fish were included in the study. The samplings of fish and rain water were not required by the state Department of Environmental Protection and Energy. Samples were taken from monitoring

The Springfield Public Library has added Mutual Fund Funds to its collection. This resource gives mutual-fund investors the tools to:

- Track current investments with the most timely and complete data.
• Compare a fund's performance against other funds.
• Zero-in on the funds that meet their investment needs.
• Monitor mutual fund performance during the summer months. League matches will begin after July 4. Team members will be eligible to compete in the state tournament at Plainfield in August.
The LISTA rewarded last year's individualized team with complimentary report includes a written evaluation that offers a candid look at management style, market trends, and the potential risks and rewards of investing in each fund. And to make sure that the information is current, updated reports arrive every two weeks.

All-Area Softball Team a gifted group DeLuca selected for fourth time, McDonald honored for a third

By J.R. Parachini and Peter Rosenthal

Who was the best pitcher in Union County this year? Easy. It was Union freshman right-hander Laura Labonia. Who was the best player in Union County this year? Most would agree that it was Union junior centerfielder Kelly Kulick.

And when it comes to making Worrall Community Newspapers' All-Area Softball Team, nobody does it better than Roselle Park's Jessica DeLuca and Roselle Catholic's Kelly McDonald.

DeLuca, a first-team selection all four years, will play softball next year for Villanova University. McDonald, a first-team pick the past three seasons, will also play softball next year in Pennsylvania — in Easton, to be exact, at Lafayette College.

The following high school softball teams covered by Worrall Community Newspapers include: Union, Roselle Park, Dayton Regional, Hillsdale, Elizabeth, St. Mary's of Elizabeth, Johnson Regional, Rahway, Lincoln, Roselle and Roselle Catholic.

Worrall Community Newspapers include the Union Leader, Roselle Park Leader, Kentworth Leader, Springfield Leader, Mountainside Echo, Hillsdale Leader, Elizabeth Gazette, Clark Eagle, Roselle Spectator, Linden Leader and Rahway Progress.

Union captured its seventh Union County Tournament championship and won the title for a record fourth straight time by defeating Cranford 6-7. The Furrows also won the Watchung Conference again and reached the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 semifinals, falling at Livingston 3-2.

Union also had a tough non-conference schedule with games against Livingston, Whippany Park, J.P. Stevens, Roselle Park and Piscataway.

Here's a look at how area teams fared this year:

Laura Labonia P — Union

Jessica DeLuca P — Roselle Park

Kelly McDonald P — Roselle Catholic

Nicole Martino C — Union

Marcia Meyerowitz C — Elizabeth

Allison Piacca 1B — Roselle Park

Michelle White 2B — Union

Christine Salicetti 3B — Dayton Regional

Kelli Nock SS — Roselle Catholic

Tara Bogota SS — Roselle Park

Kelly Kulick OF — Union

Erica Kirschner OF — Union

Sio Marcowski OF — Johnson Regional

Jen Martel DH — Rahway

Lori Bono LF — Linden

Here is Worrall Community Newspapers' 1994 All-Area Softball Team

FIRST-TEAM

LAURA LABONIA, Union: The freshman right-hander, a previous standout on the Union Softball League, couldn't have pitched better for her first year on the varsity. She went 21-3 and all three losses were non-decisions, the last two coming in extra innings.

Labonia pitched in 23 games, appearing in one in relief. In 155 innings she struck out 140, allowed 42 runs, 25 hits and 12 walks. She gave up only two earned runs for a pitchy earned-run average of 0.77. Only once during the season did she allow more than one walk in a game and that was the season finale against Livingston when she walked three, all coming in the first inning.

Labonia tossed two no-hitters, the first at Union Catholic and the second at home vs. Summit. Labonia's gem against Union Catholic was a five-inning perfect game where she struck out five against a team that was at home with a 10-3 lead.

JESSICA DELUCA, Roselle Park: One of the best, if not the best, hitters in Union County the past four years, DeLuca batted over .500 for the third straight season, getting 40 hits in 78 at-bats for a .513 batting average. She hit .440 as a freshman, .573 as a sophomore and a school-record .606 as a junior. Her lifetimes batting average is .533. DeLuca scored 35 runs in 23 games, batted five doubles, two triples and two home runs and did not strike out the entire season.

The senior right-hander also had another excellent season on the mound. She went 14-8 and had an ERA of 1.35. She allowed 120 hits and 23 walks in 159 innings and struck out 110. DeLuca was 14-7 as a sophomore and 13-4 last year, both seasons finishing a 1.00 ERA.

KELLY McDONALD, Roselle Catholic: Two years ago, when McDonald was a first-team selection for Union, she was called the area's best hurler. Now after her second and final season at Roselle Catholic, the senior right-hander has only one blemish. Her ERA was 1.11 and she pitched 115. She struck out 97 batters that season and this year fanned 146.

In leading the Lions to a 13-7 record, she also produced offensively, bating .421 with three home runs, six doubles, three triples and 19 RBI.

CHRISTINE MARTINO, Union: The junior centerfielder, a two-year starter, batted .422 going 41-for-97 in 30 games. She scored 2 runs-high 41 runs, batted three doubles, five triples and one home run (a grand slam) and had 35 RBI. Martino walked 17 times, struck out only four times and had four sacrifices.

Martino batted third in the order and was as steady as any came behind the plate. She did a first job of handling Labonia and helping the team excel on the mound and throw out most of the runners attempting to steal against her.

MARCIA MEYEROWITZ, Elizabeth: This senior catcher had a great career for the Minutemen and will broom both her athletic and academic honors next year at the University of Pennsylvania. In 81 at-bats she connected for 35 hits — including two home runs, 10 doubles and two triples — and drove in 25 runs to lead the team. Meyerowitz also scored 22 runs and stole 15 bases. For the second straight year she went .400, this season batting .452.

ALLISON PIACCA, Roselle Park: The outstanding senior first baseman will take her talents to Lawrenceville, where she will play for Division I Rider College. The four-year letter-winner and three-year starter batted .362, going 29-for-80.

Piacca had three doubles and 23 RBI and played in all of her team's 23 games. She was a designated hitter as a freshman and starting first baseman the past three seasons.

Wedding Guide

Cultured pearls are still No. 1 bridal choice

One of the most memorable events in a woman's life is her wedding day. It's not only the wedding day that creates fond memories to last a lifetime, but also the excitement that goes into planning.

And while many decisions are to be made and priorities to be set, no choice, no matter how small, is considered insignificant to the eager bride-to-be. That's why many women spend almost as much time selecting jewelry to wear with their bridal gowns as choosing the gown itself.

Experts agree that cultured pearls are still the No. 1 fine jewelry choice among brides. Cultured pearls are the product of the cultured pearl industry of Japan.

Walk down the aisle in personal style

Last year, women spent more than $1.8 billion on bridal gowns. With the ever-rising cost of planning a wedding, many brides find it extremely difficult to stay within their budgets, especially when it comes to purchasing a wedding gown. One way to take control of the situation without having to make any creative sacrifices is to hire a dressmaker.

Unlike buying at retail, a dressmaker is able to see the bride's dream dress using materials that stay within the bride's budget. A dressmaker also has the necessary sewing skills and experience needed to create the bride's fantasy dress, allowing her to concentrate on other aspects of the wedding.

envision exactly what you want? Remember, you'll be spending a lot of time together on this project. Ask if the dressmaker will suggest patterns and fabric. Will she shop with you for the materials? A good dressmaker will do all of the above, although he may require an additional fee for the shopping service.

June 19-25
ARIES - March 21/April 20
You'll be faced with an important decision this week. Follow your instincts and you'll make the right choice. You're the only one who knows what's best for you. A family gathering will open your eyes to a few problems. Young children will be the focus this weekend.
TAURUS - April 21/May 21
Be patient when playing the role of teacher. A little kindness will go a long way. Your love for rich foods may start showing up on your waistline. Maybe it's time to get serious about weight control. Use face time at the week's end to tackle household projects and chores.
GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Communication with a Scorpio of the opposite sex will almost be impossible. If you are married to one of these complicated creatures, you'll have to be extra patient this week. Avoid unnecessary arguments. Spend time with air signs this week (Libra, Gemini and Aquarius).
CANCER - June 22/July 22
A chaotic work week may cause you to overlook important details. Take the time to double- and triple-check all documents. Your leadership skills will be in demand on Thursday. Resist the urge to go to work early on Friday. A friend's problem will have an effect on you, too.
LEO - July 23/August 23
A creative project will steal away most of your free time this week. The time to double- and triple-check all documents. Your leadership skills will be in demand on Thursday. Resist the urge to go to work early on Friday. A friend's problem will have an effect on you, too.
VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
A rare show of softness will make you look more human to a sensitive loved one. Perhaps this side of you is not so bad, after all. A household project may be the source of significant stress this weekend. Make sure you have all the pieces before attempting to put them together.
LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
A chance meeting with an old flame will take you by surprise. Even if there are a few sparks left, you'll realize how much happier you are now. You'll have a lot of free time this week, so try to take advantage of it. Take care of all those tasks you keep putting off. Finances will be an issue this weekend.
SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
You may find yourself saddled with other people's responsibilities this week. This may even force you to cancel a social engagement. As a friendship grows with an unlikely person, you'll realize something new about yourself. Look within for the answer to an important question.
SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
You may be asked to attend an important meeting where your opinion will be influential. If you're a typical Sagittarian, you like to speak your mind, and now you can become a captive audience. An incoming family function will be the topic of discussion throughout the week.
CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
The ability to articulate your ideas will be an important part of this week's events. If successful, many doors could open for you. Be confident in your self and others will be in tune. A love relationship may be under some strain. You could be accused of selfishness.
AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
You'll feel on top of the world throughout the week. And, if you have the good fortune to be in love, your feelings will be reciprocated. You'll be able to connect the world a creative hobby will capture your attention for the weekend. Arts and crafts are especially enjoyable.
PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
A creative project will steal away most of your free time this week. The time to double- and triple-check all documents. Your leadership skills will be in demand on Thursday. Resist the urge to go to work early on Friday. A friend's problem will have an effect on you, too.
YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
After an introspective period, you'll have a better idea of what you want and how to go about getting it. With this strong focus, you'll feel happier and less frustrated. Instead of saying "I should have," you'll be saying "I did it!" Friends and family will be impressed with the "Zee" you've discovered with the "Zee" you've discovered. You'll encounter many admirers throughout the year, but that really special someone will pop up when you least expect it and in an unlikely place. If married, you'll find meaning to the relationship. Don't let this be an important month. You could go through a significant change at this time.

Miniature art is shown
In excess of 600 paintings will adorn the gallery walls with the works of over 100 renowned miniature artists from all over the world. This event is a rare opportunity to view so many miniature paintings in one place. Since there are only few Miniature Art Societies in the United States, none located in New Jersey, this exhibition is truly a special event.
With their trademark characteristic being an extreme attention to detail, today's miniature artists follow the "one-sixth rule," meaning objects are depicted at a maximum of one-sixth their actual size. According to miniature art collectors, "these miniatures are those paintings which do not exceed 25 square inches and whose detail holds up even under a magnifying glass. Miniatures are done in a variety of media, including oils, watercolors, graphics and scrimshaw. The quality of the miniature continues to be more important than the charm of being small."
For more information one can call (201) 379-3636, Ext: 2272.

Honors String Quartet gives concert in church
A Ladies Honors String Quartet concert was held recently at the Linden Presbyterian Church, Orchard Terrace and Princeton Road.
The Cassin String Quartet has been playing with students representing Linden High School, McManus Middle School and South Middle School in a series of chamber music workshops during the school year. This program was developed by the Westfield Symphony Orchestra.

Outdoor concert is scheduled
"Music Under the Stars," sponsored by the Union Recreation Department and the U.S. Recording Company, will be in its 11th year. The concert will be held at the Municipal Auditorium, Caldwell and Morris avenues, Union.
The concert was the culminating event for the year. A reception followed to meet the artists. It was announced that donations are being accepted for the Linden Orchestra Scholarship Fund.

Magazines on display

A 1934 Vanity Fair, a 1911 Harper's, a 1916 Good House-keeping are among some 20 vintage magazines on display in the Springfield Public Library throughout the month of June.

A sampling of the collection of Union lawyer Albert J. Simpson, the magazines represent decades of reading on the best of magazine publishing.

Although he had been collecting for many years, one of his first large acquisitions was his 1976 acquisition of 100 issues of Vanity Fair from the estate of the famous collector Woody Gelman. Though Simpson maintains that he has a varied collection, nothing holds a place in his heart like the old Vanity Fair. From 1914 through its final issue in 1936 "it was all by itself, one of the best, if not the best magazine published in the U.S.," said Simpson. In 1982, he held a show in his studio entitled "The World According to Vanity Fair" displaying more than 150 framed photographs, covers and other illustrations.

Simpson recalls when the great lights of literature and the best talents of illustration graced the pages of American magazines. Writers such as Dorothy Parker, Clifton Dickens and Mark Twain, and illustrators such as Maxfield Parrish, Norman Rockwell and A.B. Frost filled the many outstanding periodicals of the day.

Simpson finds some of today's magazines to be too garish, too sex-oriented and featuring too much of the "beautiful people," Simpson laments that today "anything goes. I guess I'm just an old timer."

Simpson credits long-time friend and assistant Nicholas Floreanico with doing most of the heavy work as he displays samples of his collection in libraries and other venues throughout the area.

The Springfield Library is located at 66 Mountain Ave., Springfield and is open Monday, Tuesday and Thursday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Wednesday and Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibit may be viewed during regular library hours.

Residents object to grass policy

Several residents voiced their objections to the new grass-clipping policy during a meeting Monday of the Environmental Planning Commission.

As of June 15, the policy has been "out it and leave it," but acceptance of that new method is by no means unanimous. In fact, a good number of residents are opposed to not only the changed policy, but with the way in which they were informed about "cut it and leave it."

One thing the commission did agree on was that the public was not informed about the new policy in the best way possible. "There should have been a slower education policy," said Davis Ann Markowitz.

Doris Ann and Fred Markowitz voiced their objections to the new plan and explained how and why their neighbors are unhappy with the Township Committee.

The couple was primarily concerned with conveying their displeasure with the manner in which "cut it and leave it" was put into practice and what they believed to be a lack of

Heatwave shortens classes

As a sweltering heatwave hit the area last week, with temperatures running in the upper 90s and several locals hospitalized for heat exhaustion, officials at the Union County Regional High School District decided to take emergency precautions by dismissing school early.

The early dismissals, which took place last Wednesday and Thursday, affected the three regional high schools in the county: Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, Arthur L. Johnson in Clark and Governor Livingston in Berkeley Heights. The schools were let out at 1 p.m., ahead of their normal 2:48 dismissal.

"In an emergency situation, it's school policy that the superintendent has the right to delay school, dismiss it early, or call it off altogether," said Regional District Superintendent of Schools Donald Mercurio. "Just as I would for a snowstorm or a hurricane, it's my duty to determine what should happen during a heatwave."

Due to the harsh winter the area suffered earlier in the year, and the 11 cancelled snow days that accompanied it, this school year had to run five hours longer than previous years.

Township offers fun for young and old

By Dennis McCarthy
Managing Editor

School soon will be out, but there is no shortage of activities for youngsters in the township; in fact the Springfield Recreation Department has loaded the summer calendar with things to do for both young and old alike.

"It's going to be a busy summer," said Recreation Director George Rague. Starting Saturday, the municipal pool will be open with full-time hours. Boys and girls from 5 to 17 years of age are eligible to participate on the swim team. "Everybody who fits out for the team makes it," said Rague, who added that there is still time to sign up for the team.

The Swan Team participates in the New Jersey Summer Swim League, competing against teams from Mount Airy, Westfield, Summit and New Providence.

Also starting on Monday is the Summer Playground Program at the Chubbino Community Center. Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., youngsters can participate in various activities.

4th-graders challenge mayor

By Mark Dewany

At the Caldwell School on Thursday Mayor Marcia Forman announced that the Township Committee was considering passing an ordinance that would close all playgrounds in Springfield by 2 p.m. each day.

Not if the fourth-graders taught by Marcia Forman and Dave Roman can help it!

Actually, Forman had proposed a hypothetical situation to the students in order to help them understand how local government works.

After Forman presented the bogus resolution, the fourth-graders took part in a lively give-and-take discussion about the positives and negatives of closing the town parks. The students demonstrated their capabilities of taking both sides of the issue and were able to suggest alternatives to the mayor.

Dennis McCarthy, principal of Caldwell, stated that "our children, have strong convictions that are frequently nurtured at home and in the schools." Today, in this community, "children are more inclined to be responsibility oriented," McCarthy added.

"The fourth-grade social studies curriculum at Caldwell" centers on all aspects of local, county and state government," McCarthy said. "The program has been expanding student awareness about Springfield and its neighborhood last month when the Caldwell pupils marched in the bicentennial parade and presented a plaque to the Township Committee which now hangs in the halls of the municipal building."

McCarthy believes that "it's important for people like Mayor Forman and administrators of schools everywhere to be aware that children are more cognizant of the world around them and of their rights and responsibilities."
