Committee candidates participate in forum

By Kevin Miller

Local candidates for the Township Committee held a public forum on Tuesday night at the Springfield Public Library. The forum was held to allow voters to hear from the candidates and ask questions. The candidates included Mayor Robert Vigilanti, Councilman Frank Cozzano, and Councilman James D'Adda. The forum was moderated by Mayor Vigilanti. The candidates discussed their views on various issues, including education, public safety, and economic development. The forum was well-attended and provided an opportunity for voters to hear directly from the candidates.

Proposed bill targets false political words

By Harvey Poynter

A bill currently under consideration by the General Assembly would make it a criminal offense to make a "knowingly false statement" during a political campaign. The bill was introduced by Assemblyman James M. Florio. The bill would apply to candidates for local, state, and federal offices. The bill would make it a crime to make a false statement with the intent to deceive voters. The bill would also make it a crime to make a false statement that is likely to influence the outcome of an election. The bill would carry a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a fine of $1,000.

Squad welcomes new members

By Harvey Poynter

The Springfield Fire Squad welcomed new members on Tuesday night. The squad held a meeting at the Springfield Fire Station to discuss the squad's activities and to welcome the new members. The squad has a long history of service to the community and is proud to have new members join the team. The new members will be participating in training and will be working on the squad's regular routes. The squad is looking forward to working with the new members and to continuing its tradition of excellence.

Truck Center issues remain unresolved

By Harvey Poynter

The Springfield Truck Center issues remain unresolved. The Township Committee and the Truck Center have been unable to reach an agreement on the proposed changes to the truck center. The Township Committee has proposed changes to the truck center that the Truck Center does not support. The Truck Center is concerned that the proposed changes will result in the loss of jobs and the closure of the truck center. The Township Committee is determined to move forward with the proposed changes, but the Truck Center is not willing to accept the changes. The issue remains unresolved and the Township Committee is looking for a way to resolve the dispute.

Freeholder candidates debate county issues

By Melissa Warner

Freeholder candidates debated county issues on Tuesday night. The candidates discussed their views on various issues, including education, public safety, and economic development. The candidates included Linda Stender, Linda-Lee Kelly, and Linda DiGirolami. The candidates discussed their views on the county's budget, the county's infrastructure, and the county's social services. The candidates also discussed their views on the county's role in the community and on the county's relationship with the state. The debate was well-attended and provided an opportunity for voters to hear directly from the candidates.

policemen. "We know that we will not make everybody happy, but we are just trying to do our part and do what we have to do. We run a straight up business and we just want to continue,"
said Bill Briggs.
According to the truck center, they have taken some small steps to try and help with some of the parking problems, and they are waiting for their calls to go before the Board of Adjustment. "We have with some recommendations from the mayor, put up cones and such to try and stop some of the parking on the street, parking which was being done not by the truck center or its employees but rather by people who were patronizing the truck center. So we have tried to do our part, and there is only so much that we can do until we correct the zoning problem before the board," said Briggs.
Residents on Keeler and Siller streets said the problem is taking too long to correct and that it seems as if the could go on for quite some time.
They had a meeting on Oct. 7 at the truck center and we shouldn't have to put up with it," said Dotto.

All of the projects proposed have been planned over five years, said DiGiovanni.
She added that during her four years on the board, the freholders saved costs by eliminating the county manager position, combining the register and county clerk's offices, and reorganizing offices to better serve the public.
UCUA Incinerator:
According to Stender, if the railway incinerator fails, the county may be responsible for its debt. She said she urged the UCUA to make its rates competitive, but she said she would not comply.

Clarification

In the editorial of last week's edition of the Springfield Leader, Township Committee candidate Sy Mullins' education background was questioned. Mullins claimed he'd earned a bachelor's degree in municipal management in recreation from Kent State University.
According to KSI, he held a BS in education. Mullins' said municipal management was a concentration of the recreation major.
He produced transcripts which show he completed courses in the field.
His degree, according to the transcripts, is a BS in education, as was reported by this newspaper, with a major in recreation. No mention is made of municipal management.

Cafe to open within walls of town library

This Sunday will mark several firsts for the Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library. The Museum will mark the opening of the Music Box Cafe, the official celebration of the return of the newly reconstructed, multi-story Reginald music box and the gift of the Union County Department of Cultural & Heritage Affairs grant series entitled "Music, Music, Music."
The Springfield Library is the first library in Union County to establish a cafe within the library walls. The "Music Box Cafe" will be open each Saturday 11:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. and Sunday 1:00 - 3:00 p.m.
The newly reconstructed Reginald music box provides the name and background for the soon-to-be opened cafe. The oak piece of furniture, crafted by Swiss artisans, plays music by rotating the 22 inch vertical discs, called "tune sheets." Many of the selections that it makes are classics ever so popular in the "City of Natives." The type of music box on display in the Palmer Museum was used in public places such as taverns and pool halls and is operated by a coin slot. With the invention of the phonograph by Thomas Edison, competition to the music box industry soon put these companies out of business. The Reginald Corporation turned to the manufacture of vacuum cleaners.
In celebration of the opening of the Music Box Cafe and the return of the reconstructed music box, the Palmer Museum will sponsor "An Afternoon of Bluesgrass Music" on Sunday at 2 p.m. Banjoist Tony Trischka and guitarist and singer Danny Weiss will perform. Trischka and Weiss have played together in various groups and settings for almost 25 years.
This new program has been made possible in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Department of State, through a grant administered by the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.
The Donald B. Palmer Museum is located in the Springfield Free Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave., Springfield.

FMBA endorses Holmes for Committee

Firefighter James Anagnos, president of Springfield Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association Locals 57 and 37A, announced today that the members voted unanimously to endorse John Holmes, the Republican candidate for Springfield Township Committee.

"Traditionally Republican administrations have had a much better record in providing public safety services to the public," Anagnos said. "From our newest pieces of apparatus to our refurbished engines were planned for and financed during a prior Republican administration. Our members voted unanimously to endorse John Holmes, the Republican candidate for Springfield Township Committee.

"Our number one concern is the safety of those who live and work in Springfield," Anagnos continued. "The current Democratic administration refuses to even listen to recommendations that would improve the services we provide. They do, however, like to waste money."

"For example, a former Republican administration had the foresight to establish a new 'firefighter EMT' classification so that the fire department could be dispatched to medical emergencies when the 'square jaw' immediately available. The Democrats have refused to establish the protocol necessary to make all this work."

John Holmes is the former mayor of the town and a special justice lawyer. Under Republican administration

Lauterhans named adviser of the year

Working with teens "after hours" doesn't always go unnoticed. Cliff Lauterhans, the student assistance program coordinator for the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, was recognized for his dedication and work with students by being named the Teen Institute of the Garden State adviser of the year. TIGS is a year-round wellness and leadership training program for New Jersey teens which empowers them and others to become high on life itself, without the need to resort to the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs.

Lauterhans received the award at the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence's 30th Annual Dinner held at The Manor in West Orange.

The initiator of the Dayton Regional High School Alternatives Club, he has been involved with this program since 1988. The club takes its name from the TIGS goal of helping teens

Dayton develops student company

The business management classes of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School are working hard at making their student company a flourishing success. Headed by Mrs. Madrak, who is a new teacher in the Regional District this year, and President of the company Sabrina Pacifico, the students task is to produce a good service in order to make a profit.

The third period class, which goes by the name Dawg House Productions, decided on the production of wind pants and jackets, which could be purchased separately or together. If you choose to purchase them together, the cost will be $60. The pants alone are $30, and the jacket alone is $33. This is a $5 discount for the set.

Three different teams of students, each headed by a vice-president are the production team, headed by Martha Senor, the finance team, headed by Johnny Pearson, the human resource group, headed by Ian Telfer, and the marketing group, with Heather Blush in charge. To help the class become more knowledgeable of what it really takes to run a business, Roger Wood, a consultant from Omnipoint Communications, meets with the class once a week. The students expect to begin selling the wind pants and jackets tomorrow, so they can introduce them in Dayton's own school store, which will be opening on that same day. They will also be able to be purchased at football games and before or after school.

Vote for Holmes

This year's Township Committee election is about more than one vacant seat. The election will decide whether the Democrats retain control of the committee, and appoint one of their own as the next mayor, or whether the Republicans can regain a majority of the committee.

Democratic candidate Sy Mullinan and Republican candidate JoAnn Holmes are vying for the lone open committee seat. Mullinan and Holmes insist they are independent thinkers who do not and will not toe any party line if elected. They cite their past terms in office as proof of their non-partisanship. While such sentiment is admirable, it is unknown whether either will prove to be the independent voters they claim to be.

With that opinion comes a word of explanation regarding the Union County Utilities Authority. Despite the rhetoric of the Democratic Party's candidates, Union County is not responsible for the UCUA's $285 million bond debt.

Both candidates have qualities that would make them fine additions to the committee, must notably independent leaning and concrete ideas for the betterment of the township. We believe that a Republican-controlled committee can better serve Springfield at this time, and we urge voters to vote for Holmes in order to make the change.

Holmes would like to control taxes internally by requiring every department "line" to submit "expenditure" budgets in which they would build budgets from the ground up, as well as justify all line items in the budget. Such a plan can only be called common sense governance.

She supports hiring part-time workers to maintain township parks, a move that would reduce any expenditure on benefits.

Holmes supports measures that would attract more business into Springfield, which would ultimately increase tax revenue and help lower property taxes.

She also wants to formulate a new master plan for affordable housing in the township.

We are somewhat hopeful that the candidate who is elected will make a genuine attempt to reduce the partisan gridlock which too often plagues the township's operation. Holmes is the candidate who gives Springfield the best opportunity to end partisan gridlock.

There is another factor involved in this election. The Democrats presently hold a one-seat majority, and this election will decide which party controls the committee. With the notable exception of the advancement of the Chisholm School renovation project, no real progress has been made under Democratic rule. In addition, the passage of the resolution which allowed Planning Board Chairman Richard Colandrea to remain on the board, despite the fact that he had failed to meet eligibility requirements, is an example of government at its worst.

We urge residents to vote for Holmes on Tuesday.

Just say yes

This year, the public questions are "no brainers," although they do include some math. We support passage of Public Question No. 1 and No. 2.

The two are related. Question No. 1 is a crucial bond act that would raise $300 million to dredge ports — including the ports in Elizabeth and Newark, which will increase shipping and revitalize Union County. Question No. 2 would amend the state Constitution, allowing for spending 4 percent of corporate taxes on the Site Remediation Program to fund hazardous waste cleanup.

The $300 million would be shared among ports around the state, and it is estimated that 200,000 jobs will be saved or created, generating more than $20 billion for the regional economy.

Plus, with the bond act in place, New Jersey will be eligible to receive $1 billion in federal funds for port projects and drinking water safeguarding.

Specifically regarding drinking water, the bond act would provide $70 million to fund the state Department of Environmental Protection's efforts to rid contaminated sites of hazardous waste. Also, it would pay for the construction of water supply facilities.

In short, Public Question No. 1 will begin the resurrection of New Jersey's maritime industry. As a result, research and development in environmental technology will be spurred, hundreds of thousands of jobs in a variety of manufacturing, transportation and tourism jobs will be saved and others created, and the clean-up of our environment will be fast-tracked.

New Jersey residents will live better with a yes vote on Public Questions 1 and 2.

No endorsements at federal level

Worrall Community Newspapers has chosen not to endorse candidates at the federal level this year.

As local newspapers, we focus our coverage on municipal, county and state government and feel we can offer an informed endorsement at those levels for the readers we serve. Offering an endorsement for President, U.S. Senate and members of the House of Representatives would merely be offering an opinion, not an informed opinion.

OPINION Kelly, DiGiovanni and Vigilanti

Our endorsement of the entire Republican ticket for county freeholders comes without hesitation.

Municipality Mayor Robert Vigilanti and incumbent Linda Kelly and Kelly's DiGiovanni offer Union County a plan for smart government by curtailing the growth of government, limiting the tax burden on homeowners, and repaying the government's debt.

There are issues that require special handling — the UCUA's bond debt, the construction of a juvenile justice facility and the overhaul of the county jail's management, to name a few — and we do not doubt these candidates' abilities to manage them.

With that opinion comes a word of explanation regarding the Union County Utilities Authority. Despite the rhetoric of the Democratic Party's candidates, Union County is not responsible for the UCUA's $285 million bond debt.

While the county did agree to take responsibility for $35 million in previous years, the bond states that the $250 million...

Both candidates have qualities that would make them fine additions to the committee, must notably independent leaning and concrete ideas for the betterment of the township. We believe that a Republican-controlled committee can better serve Springfield at this time, and we urge voters to vote for Holmes in order to make the change.

Holmes would like to control taxes internally by requiring every department "line" to submit "expenditure" budgets in which they would build budgets from the ground up, as well as justify all line items in the budget. Such a plan can only be called common sense governance.

She supports hiring part-time workers to maintain township parks, a move that would reduce any expenditure on benefits.

Holmes supports measures that would attract more business into Springfield, which would ultimately increase tax revenue and help lower property taxes.

She also wants to formulate a new master plan for affordable housing in the township.

We are somewhat hopeful that the candidate who is elected will make a genuine attempt to reduce the partisan gridlock which too often plagues the township's operation. Holmes is the candidate who gives Springfield the best opportunity to end partisan gridlock.

There is another factor involved in this election. The Democrats presently hold a one-seat majority, and this election will decide which party controls the committee. With the notable exception of the advancement of the Chisholm School renovation project, no real progress has been made under Democratic rule. In addition, the passage of the resolution which allowed Planning Board Chairman Richard Colandrea to remain on the board, despite the fact that he had failed to meet eligibility requirements, is an example of government at its worst.

We urge residents to vote for Holmes on Tuesday.

Group to hold World Community Day

The public is invited to attend the World Community Day service, which will be held by the Summit Church Women United at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at Christ Church on the corner of Springfield and New England avenues in Summit.

World Community Day is held annually on the first Friday of November and is celebrated by Church Women United all over the world. World Community Day is dedicated to issues of justice, peace and human rights, and this year's service deals with violence against women, a national issue that affects us here and in other parts of the world. It may make for dramatic campaigning, but it reveals nothing of their plans for governing.

We advise the voters of Union County to preserve the Republican majority on the Board of Chosen Freeholders. It is the same group that has reduced, by millions of dollars, county debt while maintaining a stable tax rate in 1996. We know that with your help, they'll do it again in '97!

Oratory Prep to host luncheon

On Saturday, Nov. 9, Oratory Prep School will be hosting its annual fall luncheon and fashion show at the Short Hills Hilton, Short Hills. This year's theme is "Herating in the Hood." The school's Oratory Prep team will be sponsoring the fashion show.

The luncheon is Oratory Prep's annual fund-raiser for the school year and is highlighted by a social fund-raising event. Some of the items donated by merchants as far as an Orange Carpet donated by Broadway's Carpet of Summit, valued at more than $800, and a Short Hills Hilton Spa/Trailer/Dinner package worth more than $450.

Oratory Prep, now in its 98th year, is an independent college preparatory school for boys, grades 7 through 12. Our school prides itself in educating these young men in the pursuit of truth through knowledge, understanding and faith. Students are drawn from communities throughout New Jersey.

For further information about the luncheon, contact Joanne Callifello at (908) 464-3056 or Katherine Stohler at (201) 530-7081, or contact school directly at (908) 273-1048.

Group requests book donations

On Saturday, national "Make A Difference Day," area residents are asked to drop off any children's or reference books at 506 West Elizabeth Ave. in Linden as part of a project to help a Staten Island school have a library.

For years, New Jersey Concern has been collecting children's books to be given to children who otherwise would not have any.

"It was appalling to see the mayor of New York in a television commercial asking people to donate a book for school children," said Beatrice Bernick, executive director of New Jersey Concern. "It is a far cry from the kind of teacher in a Staten Island school told me how she is spending her own money to establish a library. We're not asking for money, just books, and if possible a book case to hold them in."

New Jersey Concern is a not-for-profit organization that provides educational materials to children in need. The books are given to a Staten Island school that has no library.

For more information, contact Beatrice Bernick at (908) 464-3056 or Katherine Stohler at (201) 530-7081, or contact school directly at (908) 273-1048.

Tips offered for a safe and happy Halloween

The following is a list of tips for a safe Halloween:

- Try to pick-up trash while it's all light outside.
- Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, see and be seen.
- If you must go out at night, select costumes that light up.
- Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen easily.
- Use reflective tape on your costume so motorists can see you.
- Walk a definite line; never let a car pull you to the side.
- Wear makeup instead of a mask.
- If a face mask, keep it from seeing well. Take off your mask before you cross the street.
- Have a parent or an older brother or sister to accompany you.
- If someone offers you candy, you pick-up trash with friends. Never travel alone.
- Treat your trick-or-treat route as a game.
- Stay off the street.
- Cross only at corners. Never cross the street between parked cars or in the middle of the block.
- If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic.
- What will you get home to eat, check, and eat your treats.
- For additional information regarding Halloween safety, contact the local police department.

Mata reports for duty

Navy Ensign Ronald Mata, son of Director Mata of Springfield, recently reported for duty at Naval Hospital, Jacksonville, Fla.

Mata's new assignment is an example of how Navy and Marine Corps men and women are assigned to duty, regardless of their commands around the world. Whether serving in the Persian Gulf near Iraq or in the Atlantic Sea near Bosnia, people like Mata are making a difference as they work to improve their knowledge and skills as part of the most highly technical service in history.

He joined the Navy in November 1989. Mata is a 1996 graduate of the University of Central Florida, Orlando, Fla., with a BSN degree.

Election preview

Newark Academy sophomore Jodi Lulanti of Springfield casts her vote at the school election booth. The school club, Junior States of America, a national organization run by high school students to encourage political participation, organized a simulation election site and encouraged academy students to vote for Clinton, Dole or Perot, President Clinton won this high school election, with Bob Dole and Ross Perot splitting the remaining vote equally. USA President Denise Casello noted, however, that the combined vote for Dole and Perot exceeded total votes cast for President Clinton.

Pablo and friends

Students in the school's art class at the Sanjour School in Springfield celebrate President Day with a display of Pablo Picasso's work. The students, under the guidance of their art teacher, made several contributions to the world of art. Students utilized computer references and trade books to gather facts about Picasso's life and work, and then organized the facts into lines and stanzas. They created original sculptures following a study of Picasso's major artistic periods, and critiqued peer efforts using art terms learned in class.

Don't be afraid to laugh at Kean's 'Dracula'

By Jacqui McCarthy Associate Editor

The infamous bloodsucker Count Dracula seems to be careful not to bite his own tongue — since it's stuck in his chest. Dracula's most recent incarnation is a new version of this horror classic, playing for one more weekend at Kean College. Director Ernest Wigdorn has "reworked" this Halloween favorite, setting it in New Orleans in the 1920s, complete with music, accents and costumes of the period.

This version keeps the serious and sensual message of the original story with the campy, topical image of vampires who come to our doors begging for candy one day out of the year. Professor Wigdorn takes a few liberties with Bram Stoker's original shocker. The play opens in the library of Dr. Seward's sanatorium in New Orleans. Seward is greatly concerned about the health of his daughter Lucy, who, like many Southern belles of the time, is experiencing "nervousness." When her spells cannot be written off to "the vapors," and her best friend Miss Giddens dies of similar symptoms, Seward asks Dr. Abraham Van Helsing for help. The mirror baffled until neighboring plantation owner Count Dracula pays a friendly call.

David J. Gentry and Joshua Miller, as Seward and Lucy's fiance Jonathan Harker, respectively, are charmingly passionate as southern gentlemen fighting to save Lucy. Twenty-year-old Christopher Nilson, as Dracula, is the stiff yet comical Van Helsing, and plays off the appropriate scenes with great aplomb, providing a comedic counterpart to the lugubrious Southern drawl.

The best part of the show, of course, is the great vampire himself, incarnating himself into Lucy's world with a wistful sense of Southern hospitality and a stereotypical Transylvanian accent. Gilbert Ron has mastered the Count's diabolical laugh so well that one expects to hear pipe organ tones follow, and his prowess in swooping into the room and brandishing his cape is unmatched.

Special notes should be paid to Alex "Bolestin" as R.M. Renfield. "The Master's" first victim and assistant, he steals several scenes with his portrayal of Renfield as a cross between Brad Pitt in "Twelve Monkeys" and one of The Three Stooges. Renfield's recurring phrase, "The blood is the life!" has never seemed funnier.

Excellent use is made of a smoke machine, dramatic lighting, and the ground set all like they were made by college students. Drac's former "well-to-do" is a real treat for the audience. You'll have to see the play to find out how — and their appearances are very well-timed. Also, watch for Lucy's seduction in Act II, scene 1, and his twisted victim rip the moonlight fantasia in her bedroom, and the search for the Count in Act III, scene II. It is a weekend well worth the sunrise.

Wigdorn commented on why he thinks these productions are important for his students. "Young people get a lot of cultural stimulation from said, citing MTV as one competitor for the attention of today's youth. "There is about listening. I think it's just been."

"We've got a great cast," he added. "They work well together, and that's not easy to do."

Performances will run Wednesday through Sunday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets are $6 student, $2 faculty and seniors, and $12 general public.

For further information and tickets call the Kean College Ticket Office at (908) 327-2337.

Art center offers classes for beginners, advanced

By Jacqui McCarthy Associate Editor

The following workshops are available this weekend at the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts.

• Color Mixing: The ABCs of Expertise

One of NJCVA's most popular classes Color is the essence of visual warmth and depth of artistic expression. It is every beginning or reconditioned artist needs to get off to the best start and what every beginning or reconditioned artist needs to perfect their craft.

This workshop will offer complete and methodical instruction in color mixing theory and practice. The course is presented for working artists in many media. It will teach a familiarity with the color wheel, hue, value, chroma, and the variable that contribute to color interaction. Learn how to mix neutral and subtle shades and the harmonious combining of color in composition. Water-based, non-toxic paints will be used.

Materials fee of $60 includes a complete set of paints for each student. Workshop fee is $12. Classes will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

• Exposition While-You-Wait: The State of the Art of Screen Printing

Achieve that elusive mix of convenience and quality in the printmaking medium. Let one of the region's leading fine printmakers show you how a philosopher and linguistic screen printer can be used in transferring your drawings, photographs and collages into all-screen prints or original giclée prints. The ability to produce a series of art in volume and glass can be a real boon to the artistic professional. In this hands-on course you will learn the art of screen printing. Mother-daughter art exhibition in Elizabeth

By Jacqui McCarthy Associate Editor

The Kathy Komish and Florence Komish-Kukich art exhibit at the Elizabeth Public Library is a benefit for the American Heart Association, has been extended through the end of November.

This is the first joint art exhibit by the Union mother-daughter art alliance in New Jersey, and the first event of its kind for the Union County Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Kathy Komish, a local university professor who considers herself to be a self-taught artist exhibiting large, brightly-colored fantasy oil paintings with cheerful themes, and smaller paintings featuring European backgrounds, beautiful women, and animals.

Komish has shown her artwork at Temple Beth Abraham in Livingston, the South Orange Art Show, the Washington Square Art Exhibit, the Springfield Public Library, New Artistic Presentations at Madison Square Garden, and Seon Hall University in South Orange.

This work has been featured at several local galleries, such as the Les Malin Gallery in Union, Calio Imports in Westfield, Gallery des Artistes in Madison, Gallery Art Nalf and Marino Galleries, Inc. both of Millburn. Her paintings are in a collection at the Westchester County Club in New York and in several private collections. Komish was the official parade artist for Union's Salute to the American Flag Parade.

Florence Komish-Kukich, the mother of Kathy Komish, is exhibiting drawings and photographs inspired by her travels in Europe and North America. Komish-Kukich, who is exhibiting publicly for the first time in many years, has studied art at the Madison and High School in Madisak, Fairfield Dickinson University in Madison and a private art colony in New England. She has been the principal artistic inventory manager for her self-taught daughter.

Both mother and daughter artists emphasize the importance of recognizing the work of the American Heart Association, and are grateful to the Elizabeth Public Library for their cooperation in this exhibit.

The exhibit runs through the end of November at the Elizabeth Public Library, 11 South Broad St., Elizabeth. For more information, call the library at (908) 364-6000.

Theater contributes to a worthy cause

Combining a tradition begun during its 1994 production of Oliver!, Paper Mill Playhouse will hold its Third Annual Food Drive to benefit the Community Foodbank of New Jersey through Dec. 15. The drive coincides with the second production of the 1996-97 season, Lerner and Loewe's Camelot.

According to Susan Spedler, Paper Mill's Director of Education and coordinator of the food drive, "Paper Mill's involvement started during Oliver!, following up on the show's themes of hunger and homelessness." The commitment to the drive did not end with that show, however. Since that time, the food drive has become a part of the Paper Mill season during the run of the second production. In the first two years of this endeavor, Paper Mill patrons and staff have donated more than $6,000 and more than 3,000 pounds of food to the Food Bank.

The Community Foodbank of New Jersey is the state's largest provider of donated food, with one million pounds of food distributed to 1,500 charities across the state each month last year. Located in Hillside, the Community Food Bank is a private, not-for-profit organization.

For more information on the Foodbank, call (908) 355-FOOD.

Union resident shows off 'Pretty Women' at gallery

By Jacque McCarthy
Associate Editor
Visitors to the Les Malin Art Gallery at Union Public Library will be treated to an unusual and inspired exhibit through Nov. 7. The title of the display, "Pretty Women," does not do justice to the spontaneous beauty and creativity that flows from the hand of one artist and poet Bertha Wolff.

Wolff, a Union resident, feels she inherited her talent from her father, both a writer and a painter. A model person, Wolff says she has never formally studied art, but remembers sketching in childhood, "almost involuntarily."

Devoted to being a wife and mother, Wolff experienced a great change in her life when her husband was stricken with Parkinson's Disease. "I got worse with his Parkinson's, and I said 'I've got to do something with my time.'"

And do something she did, in a big way. At home one day, feeling inspired, Wolff painted a beautiful mural she calls Artemis, in oil on a wall inside her second home in Barnegat, NJ. The artist said that she did not know the woman she had created resembled the ancient Greek goddess until her son saw a similar image on a television show.

"And I said, 'No.' And he said, 'Yes, Mom, you did Artemis.' Wolff began generating work at a great speed. Her most recent, on the front of her house in Barnegat, depicts Saints Andrew, Peter and Simon. She said that she completed the work in a week's time, working three hours per day.

The twenty-eight works displayed in the Les Malin Art Gallery are only a small representation of her short but prolific artistic life, as she has painted nearly forty other works, all in the past few months. A smaller version of "Artemis" is lit in the highlight of the exhibit, surrounded by several loaves in different coats and sizes—all done in different media. "Cubism" is a colorful painting, bright orange, yellow, and green with strands of French confetti cascading the face of a lovely Asian woman. "K," which Wolff identifies as a woman from Russia during the 16th of the czar, is a serious study in charcoal offset by a splash of red

Public Library began as the "Wheelchair Gallery," a part of the original library built to be handicapped accessible. The gallery is open during library hours, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Wolff seeks to improve upon her artistic talent by adding skills and anatomy to existing and future works. Wolff commented by the placement in her exhibit which have a prehistoric look, saying, "I'm going into impressionist now."

Wolff is also an accomplished poet. Last year she wrote a poem about how she feels about the Barnegat Library. The library filled the poem so much they put it in a display. Wolff later received 5 of her poems there, and has been published in the Library of Congress collection. She is currently working on a book to be titled, "The Dog, The Horse, The Man."

But her first love seems to be art. "You see, I love my work, that's what makes it so wonderful. It's not a chore," she said.

Wolff will exhibit next year in both the Tom River and Barnegat libraries, with the Barnegat display scheduled to coincide with Women's Month in March. Her murals can be seen on the front of her North Main Street, Barnegat home.

'Excellent' poets sought for contest

Sparrowsgrass Poetry Forum is offering a Grand Prize of $1,000 in its new "Awards of Poetic Excellence" poetry contest. Thirty-five other cash awards are also being offered. The contest is free to enter. Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, any style. Contest closes November 30, 1996, but poets are encouraged to mail their work as soon as possible. Poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in the Summer 1997 edition of Poets' Voices of America, a hardcover anthology to be published in June 1997. Anthology purchase may be required to ensure publication, but is not required to enter or win the contest. Prize winners will be notified by January 31, 1997. A winner's list is provided with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"Poetry is more popular than ever," says Jerome P. Welch, Publisher. Our contest offers a public forum for new poets that allows them to share their work. We welcome poets of all styles and themes. Many of our contest winners are now poets with new ideas."

Poems should be sent to Sparrowsgrass Poetry Forum, Dept. O, 609 Main Street, P. O. Box 193, Silerville, WI 26175.

Symphony opens season

The Summit Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert of the season on Sunday, Nov. 17 at 3 p.m. at the Summit Middle School on Morris Avenue, with music by Brahms and Beethoven. The featured soloists will be Choe-Yun and Allison Eldridge performing Brahms' "Concerto in A Minor for violin and cello." Under the direction of James Bedewitz, the Orchestra will also perform Beethoven's "Prometheus Overture" and "Symphony Number Four."

Admission to the concert is free. For further information, contact Carol Bartholomew at (201) 763-3640.

A FREE SERVICE OF WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS

Council acts to help the homeless

A group of Union County residents, under the direction of Joel Siller of Stirling, performed Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," on September 6, 7 & 8 in Plainfield as a benefit for the Interfaith Council for the Homeless of Union County. The superb production, enjoyed by young and old, revealed how the lives of people in a small town are woven together. This community-wide effort brought together members of Plainfield's United Presbyterian Church, some volunteers, a cast of local actors, and several area businesses for a good cause.

Among the contributors to the event were Berkeley Paint and Co., Candy's, The Home Depot, and the Interfaith Council for the Homeless of Union County with a gift of $1,882. The Interfaith Council, now celebrating its 10th anniversary, is a nonprofit organization that assists the homeless and those at risk of becoming homeless by offering a variety of services including emergency shelter, transitional and affordable permanent housing, education and other supportive services to promote personal development, independence and self-sufficiency for its clients. To receive a brochure about the Interfaith Council, become a volunteer or to make a donation, call (908) 753-0901 for more information.

Grace Winfrey Middle School Jazz Band from Roselle participating in a drum clinic led by Randy Crafon at the 1998 Union County Teen Arts Festival held at Union County College in Cranford. Union County National Bank is hosting the 1998 Union County Teen Arts Touring Exhibit through Nov. 29.

Local production will ring a 'bell' with film fans

Carnival Productions, Rahway's resident theater company, is currently in rehearsal for "Bell, Book and Candle." John van Druten's romantic comedy about a 20th century New York City which falls in love with a mortal. Film fans will remember the movie version starring Kim Novak, James Stewart and Jack Lemmon.

Starting in the Rahway production are Wendy Channing of Rahway, and Rick Brown of Jersey City as the bowdlerizing Gilliland and the skeptical publisher Shep Henderson. Rounding out the cast are Rahway resident Mark Sabo as Gillian's mischievous work brother, Nicky; Mary Wilson of Roselle as the ditzy "Aunt Anne"; and Lee Winters as the drunken author and world-beat-witch-cant expert Sidney Redlich. Bill Van San of Rahway directs the show, and Tracey Katinelli of Whippany serves as stage manager/assistant director.

"Bell, Book and Candle" will be presented Friday - Sunday and Tuesday - Saturday, Nov. 8 - 10 and Nov. 14 - 16. All curtain are at 8:30 p.m., with the exception of Sunday, Nov. 10, which begins at 2:30 p.m. All performances will be held at the El Bodegon Restaurant and Dinner Theater, 169 W. Main St., Rahway. Tickets are $10 for general admission and $8 for students and senior citizens. Luncheon and dinner theater packages are available for $20 and $25, respectively.

Chamber music society begins new season

The Arbor Chamber Music Society will begin its sixth season on Saturday, at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church, 2000 Morris Ave. in Summit. The program is Schubert String Quartet in G minor, Opus 157. Tickets are $17.54 for seniors and $17 for adults in the front row and $15 for students in the back row. Call (908) 332-1116.

Todd Palmer will be making his first appearance with the Arbor Chamber Music Society. Mr. Palmer is the recipient of the Young Concert Artists International Award, the Aaron and Irene Diamond Solita Prize and the Leonard Bernstein Fellowship at the Berkshire Music Festival in Tanglewood. He has appeared to critical acclaim at the Kennedy Center, the 22nd Street "Y" in Carderose Museum in Boston and in major cities throughout the U.S. He performs regularly with the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center and with music artists as Kathleen Battle, Dawn Upshaw and Robert Potts.

The Kronos String Quartet returns to the Arbor Chamber Music Society by popular demand. The Kronos won the 1995 Naxos Award and has quickly become the leading quartet of its generation. On Saturday the quartet will present a N.J. premiere of a new work by the composer for them by Chou Wen-Chung.

The company also features several options for group rates and fund raising opportunities. For information and reservations, call (908) 388-0671.

"Bell, Book and Candle" is produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service.

Theatre calendar available

The New Jersey Theatre Group, the alliance of New Jersey's professional, not-for-profit theatres, offers a free calendar highlighting the upcoming fall and winter professional theatre season. With descriptions of more than fifty productions and box office phone numbers for the state's nine professional theatres, the calendar also offers a low-cost, multi-theatre ticket package known as the Theatre Sampler Series. For a free copy of the 1996-97 Professional Theatre Season Calendar, call (201) 593-0189.

The Theatre Sampler Series allows theatre goers to select three plays—one at each of three different theatres—for a package price of $35. That's up to fifty percent off the single ticket prices," said Laura Aden, executive director of the Theatre Group.

The high quality of the vent kept the dish from being too tough or heavy, and just the right amount of cheese or can be combined with sausage and pepper, mozzarella or eggplant. The latest addition to the menu is a delicious pork vodka sauce that goes especially well with rigatoni. I ordered the vent pasta, which was prepared with meat that was tender as could be.
