W.C.T.U. MAKES CHARITY PLANS

Mrs. William Reed and Mrs. Liggett In Charge

The regular monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Tuesday afternoon in the lecture room of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Edwin D. Pannell, president, conducted the session. Due to the inclement weather, only thirteen members were present.

Mrs. A. B. Gration, of Short Hills, and chairman of the committee on "peace" arbitration and Americanization, was in charge of the program on "International Peace Relations and Christian Americanization."

Mrs. Duguid read an article, "America First," by Bishop G. Ashton Oldham.

Plans were made for Christmas relief work for the poor and needy in Springfield. All members are working to aid those in distress. Mrs. William L. Reed and Mrs. George A. Liggett are in charge of the details.

A reception for the delegates of Union County who attended the State W. C. T. U. convention in Atlantic City in October was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. E. Schmidt, of Beechwood place, Elizabeth. Mrs. Pannell, who represented the local union at the convention, and twenty-one other delegates gave their reports. Mrs. Edith Currie, of Cranford, president of the county union, and delegate of Union County at the National W. C. T. U. convention held in Indianapolis last September, was in charge of the reception and she also gave a report of the activities there.

The next meeting of the local union will be held Tuesday afternoon, January 7, in the lecture room of the Methodist Church. Plans will be made for the cake sale to be held in January, and also for an evening social gathering, in the form of an evening meeting to be held also in January.

ANOTHER DRUNKEN DRIVER PUNISHED

Gordon T. Button, 1102 Fecman avenue, East Orange, was fined $200 and costs, and his license suspended for two years by Recorder Everett T. Spinning in police court Monday night, on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Button was arrested November 5, at 2:55 a.m., on State Highway 29, by Patrolman Wilbur C. Selander, who was patrolling on the highway when he was attracted to a car stopping under a light. He questioned the driver, and learned that he was the defendant person. He took him to headquarters, where he was pronounced unfit to drive by Dr. Henry P. Dangler.

Button pleaded not guilty to the charge, protesting that he had only taken several sips of beer before going to bed.

SLIMMIEST THIEF, TOO

A 400-pounder was captured in the last of a series of burglaries December 4, in which a number of houses in the city were broken into and robbed by a gang of four.

WESTFIELDER CUT IN BUS ACCIDENT

As a result of an accident at Flemmer and Morris avenues early Tuesday morning, in which a double-decker bus enroute from New York to Plainfield, struck a signal light, Edward Griffith, colored, of the Children's Outdoor Home, West, was slightly injured and bruised. Griffith was waiting for a bus on Morris avenue when the bus owned by the Somerset Bus Company, of Irvington, and operated by Walter S. Hoagland, of River Road, Bound Brook, skidded on the icy pavement in making the turn into Flemmer avenue from Morris avenue, and its rear struck the traffic signal light, showering Griffith with glass. He was treated at the office of Dr. Watson B. Morris.

LADIES' SOCIETY HEARS XMAS TALK

Missionary Officer Speaks At Presbyterian Meeting

Mrs. James Duguid, Jr., secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, spoke on "What We Get Out of Christmas," before thirty members and guests at the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the First Presbyterian Church held in the chapel Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Franklin M. Marshall, president of the society, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Willis Spinning gave a reading of a little incident concerning Christmas baskets.

Mrs. Duguid, whose son, James M. Duguid, lives in Molter avenue, this township, has spoken here on several other occasions. She has traveled all over the country doing missionary work and has many friends in Springfield. In her speech, she told of the missionary work accomplished in the Orient, of the experiences of the people there on being converted to Christianity and then asked those present if they knew the real purpose of Christmas, if they spent the holiday in the way they should.

Mrs. Duguid told of an episode of a Japanese child, who spent the Christmas holiday at the home of his little white friend, and then, in departing, asked the hostess, "I had a very nice time, saw many pretty things, but where is your God?" Then, the speaker went on to say whether a visitor in the home of one of the audience would have to ask, "Where is your God?" All told, the speech was well received.

Mrs. Duguid, a member of the Methodist Church, who was present as the guest of Mr. George A. Taggart, when called on to say a few words, told of the luncheon of the Ladies' Aid Society and Sunday school girls salts held on the defendant person. He took him to headquarters, where he was pronounced unfit to drive by Dr. Henry P. Dangler.

Button pleaded not guilty to the charge, protesting that he had only taken several sips of beer before going to bed.

Who's Who In Springfield

GEORGE W. SISCO
Chief of Springfield Volunteer Fire Dept.

An experienced "mike-tater" is George W. Sisco, chief of the Springfield Volunteer Fire Department for six years. The chief has been a volunteer for the past ten years, and before succeeding George Parsell as head of the department was assistant-chief for four years.

It is a far cry from the days of the bucket-brigade to the present efficient fire-fighting equipment. Six years ago, the local fire department could boast of only one Reo truck. Today the fire fighters have a Mack truck with a 750-gallon capacity and a hook and ladder Mack truck with a 900-gallon capacity. The latter was purchased two years ago. The old Reo truck is still available for use.

Chief Sisco has lived here for 20 years, coming from Newark, although he was born and educated in Summit. He recalls the time when he worked in Springfield 32 years ago, when a lad of 14, for William Painter, who was a mason. Painter's descendants still reside here.

While he was in office not a single house in his fire district was completely destroyed by fire, according to Mr. Sisco. The worst blaze he had to contend with was that of the William Elemer house in Short Hills avenue four years ago. The department succeeded in saving most of the home, and it is back in use today.

The chief is a keen sportsman and is fond of hunting, trapping, fishing and other outdoor activities.

LICHENSTEIN BUYS CHARLES BUILDING

Burnell Bros. Makes Sale For Approximately $60,000

Burnell Bros. announced early this week that the Charles Building, located on Morris Avenue, opposite the First National Bank, was sold to Morris Lichtenstein at a sum of about $60,000.

The 10-story, English-type, stepped building containing three stories above ground, was erected by Mr. Lichtenstein, a dealer in the furniture business. The building was owned by Alvin Charles, of Morris Avenue.

According to a report given by the First National Bank this week, $40,000 was paid out to members of the Christmas Club of 1929. This shows an increase over 1928, when $41,385 was paid out to check holders. In 1927, the total paid was $30,800. In the club this year there were 930 members, considered a very good number in comparison to other towns in the state of New Jersey.

This new series of publications in the 1930 Christmas Club will begin January 1st.

BANDITS HOLD UP SPRINGFIELD MAN

Held up at the point of a gun by two bandits, who posed as gasoline purchasers, Albert Scott, 21, of Mountain Avenue, was robbed of $60 on Saturday night at his gas filling station, 230 Stayvesant Avenue, Newark.

The bandits told Scott they were not hold-up men, but were in dire need of cash. They followed him into his station to pay him for gasoline, and when Scott opened the cash register they pointed a gun at him and made away with their loot.

A search for the pair was made by Sergeant Boyle and Patrolman

Schnell of the Seventh Precinct in Newark, after Scott had sent in an alarm.

MEISEL APPOINTED PURCHASING AGENT

Local Man Selected to Fill Union County Position

Peter H. Meisel, director of the Union County Board of Freeholders for the past seven years, and a local representative on that body for 25 years, was appointed to fill the newly created position of purchasing agent for the county Monday afternoon, when the Republican members of the board met in a caucus.

Mr. Meisel was selected an alternate member of the board January 1, and assumed his new duties April 1. Under state law it is required by law that each county must choose before a new election a director of the Board of Freeholders, and the compensation paid him by that body for the service is $10,000 a year.

It will be succeeded by William J. McNamee of Newark, who is managing director and vice-president of the Commonwealth Water Company, which recently took over control of the Short Hills Water Company, supplying nearly all of Springfield with water.

The resignation of Meisel will leave a vacancy in the board. The township committee must appoint his successor the first of next year. Several other names in the township are in the running for the position.

An additional attraction, the Jersey City Police Quartet, consisting of James McElroy, Ted Weinhold, Jack Ross, and Edward Sewell sang several songs, entitled "Lonely Nights," "Come Out of the Kitchen, Mary," and, "I Wanna Go Back to Oregon." The four received a great deal of applause.

William Drew, the leading man, who wrote the play and played the part of Jack Lord, the owner of a night-club, gave a creditable performance. He served as master of ceremonies. Miss Helen Marzak, the leading lady, who played the part of Betty Vaughn, a chorus girl and Jack's sweetheart, were well received. Oscar and Elmer played by Thomas Bryne and Frank Cardinal were very funny and acted their parts as comedians.

The scene of the revue was a night-club, gaily decorated with brilliant colors. Balloons and confetti were prominent. The plot of the story is as follows: Jack Lord, a recent graduate of Yale, is presented with a check of $75,000 by his wealthy father as a graduation gift in order to set him up in business. Jack, however, is interested in music and has no desire to enter into any particular branch of the business field.

Robinson was arrested November 11 on Seven Bridge road by Patrolman Manning Day after his car had collided with two others, driven by Lewis S. Gibbs, 222 Kings road, Madison, and John R. Janney, Jr., 22 Scherer Avenue, Newark, and injured the Madison driver.

Robinson's automobile collided with the automobile driven by Janney, broke its left running board and then kept on wrecking the front end of the vehicle operated by Gibbs, sent the latter off his seat, and finally stopped when it had turned over on its left side. Gibbs suffered a sprained wrist and knee abrasions. He was treated by Dr. Watson B. Morris.

Robinson was arrested on a complaint signed by Janney, and declared unfit to drive an automobile. Dr. Henry P. Dangler, physician to the city, ruled that he was fit to drive.

"YOUNG NOWHERE'S"
STRAND THEATRE

One of the most interesting scenes in "Young Nowhere's," the newest, starring production for Richard Barthelmess, which is now playing at the Roth Strand, Summit, on Friday and Saturday, presented unusual problems in handling mobs and traffic.

The scenes were filmed at night at Ocean Park, California, and thirty policemen and fifteen special officers were required to hold back the beach crowds and stay the flow of traffic. An entire section of the beachfront, extending down to the ocean was roped off and guarded, but the crowds were so eager to watch Barthelmess at work that the ropes were trampled over and several hours elapsed before the filming was under control.

At the Strand, Marion Davies in the new "All Talking" three-com-

college comedy picture, with

"When Dreams Come True," is next Saturday's matinee special. It is an adaptation of Victor Rousseau's "Sunburst Valley." Helene Costello and Rex Lease are the featured players. It is a thrilling tale of romance and adventure, beneath "Dixie" skies, with one of the most exciting horse races ever screened.

When Marion Davies began work on "Marianne," her first talking film feature, she was presented with a new portable dressing room.

The dressing room, mounted upon a rubber-tired chassis, is of modernistic design and boasts all the comforts of home, including radio, hot and cold running water, electric lights and heat.

Robert Z. Leonard directed Miss Davies' new picture which will be at the Roth-Strand, Summit, next Week, Friday and Saturday with Lawrence Gray, Cliff Edwards, Benny Rubin and others of note in the supporting cast.

THE STORY OF THE BLIND MULE

Once upon a time, the story-book tells us there was a blind mule. But literally he was not blind. He did not see the advantages of his own pasture and continually trotted to new fields in search of fodder not realizing that the grass was greener and fresher in his own home field.

The same analogy may be applied to Springfield residents who shop out-of-town, forgetting the many bargains and wide varieties of articles offered by merchants right here in town. These shoppers will spend precious time traveling to and from other business centers, undergo the inconveniences of traffic and parking difficulties and return home with merchandise which in many cases are equal to, if not surpassed, both in quality and price by the stock carried by local merchants.

In the past few years Springfield's business center has shown a steady expansion. With but a few exceptions there is little excuse for the old plea that one simply can't get what one wants in town. All one needs to do is to simply look around and take advantage of what local merchants have to offer.

And in the long run we are helping ourselves indirectly by patronizing local stores. For as the community continues to grow our assets and ratables will grow in proportion. More improvements will be effected and the cost distributed over a larger number of taxpayers, thus making reducing the per capita expense in proportion.

The holiday season is approaching. Again we must consider purchasing suitable gifts for our friends as well as necessities and luxuries for ourselves. Springfield merchants have prepared a wide variety of stock on their shelves and offer courteous service in clean surroundings.

Don't be like the blind mule. Save the wear and tear of scurrying to out-of-town centers for your holiday shopping and buy what you want in your own home town. Help Springfield grow and prosper by boosting home trade.

Rambling Around SPRINGFIELD

The winning team of the directors of the Battle Hill Building and Loan Association, who secured the greatest number of shares in the drive held several months ago were given a good time in New York City on Wednesday at the expense of the losers—all well and good. Then we learn that the holiday-seekers also attended a theatre performance in the gay metropolis. Not looking for trouble, but just a bit curious. We wonder what was the name of the show-place visited.

Some one—or more than one—is trying to make Springfield a dumping ground for stolen automobiles. Last week two machines were left here; one stolen from Newark and one from Hillside. The latter was owned by a Hillside policeman and was taken from outside a hall, where its owner was attending a Patrolman's Benevolent Association ball in that town. No discrimination shown—even an officer of the law might be the victim.

After an intensive search, in which the greatest of care was shown, as a result of a careful investigation, the following truths were revealed:

That a certain individual on Morris avenue, a business man, has a peculiar habit of cramping himself at the seat of his automobile, because he is so tall.

That a certain patrolman on duty on Morris avenue can chew more tobacco than any one his size.

That a certain left-handed meat slicer, near the same place is said to be excelled only by R. G., the famous French handler of the guillotine.

That a local confectioner had better get himself a new pipe. The one he uses now is bulging from the amount of tape used to keep it together.

Springfield should be advertised and an airplane marker set up on a tall building here as a guide to airmail planes and all other vehicles of the air. Mrs. Smith, the postmistress, is one of the strongest supporters of the plan. If a merchant or a property owner in Springfield should express a desire to have a marker painted on his roof, he will be awarded a certificate of appreciation from the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, signed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

A group of visitors from Newark, en route to the St. James Caldwell School, were on their way to see "Let's Make Whoopie," under the auspices of the St. James Dramatic Society. This is the conversation which ensued, when they reached Morris Avenue and Main Street and stopped to ask the policeman on duty the direction of a certain place.

"Pardon me, officer, but could you tell us how to get to Springfield Center?" queried one of the fair maidens of the tall chevalier of the law.

"Don't move," was the ready answer.

That's all.

While Springfield boasts of recreation in the form of bowling for the men and card parties and sewing clubs for the ladies, the giddy individual can find no place in town in the evening where he might enjoy himself. He is forced to either go to Millburn, Union or Summit.

What is suggested is that Springfield have some kind of active social club for all.

All those interested in such an organization, step right up and write direct, month-to-month.

Guggenheim Foundation Seeks Painting Of Springfield's Name on Top of Roof

Mrs. Nellie Smith, postmistress, who has been attempting for several years to arouse enough interest here in Springfield to have an airplane marker painted on the roof of a tall building to act as a guide for airplane pilots and at the same time advertise Springfield, has just received a message from Harry J. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

The letter reads as follows:

Mrs. Belle H. Smith

Dear Madam: The support which you have given the project of identifying your community for the purposes of aerial navigation is appreciated and it is hoped that you can now advise that roof markers be placed. The Fund will terminate its activities January 1, 1930, and therefore this is the last appeal made to you. If your city is properly identified, will you please notify the Fund immediately in order that proper record be made and a certificate of appreciation signed by Colonel Lindbergh sent to you for presentation to the proper group?

Those communities which have co-operated with the Fund, but which have failed to place roof-markers before December 13, 1929, are eligible to receive certificates which will be held by the United States Department of Commerce when the work has been completed. The Dept. of Commerce is also being sent to a list of communities which have co-operated with the Fund and so are eligible to receive certificates. Among these communities is Springfield.

If your community is not identified now, but roof markers are to be placed next spring or summer, please advise the Department of Commerce, stating you have co-operated with the Fund and the certificate will be sent to you. I hope the work will go forward as soon as possible, and that you will notify the Department of Commerce when it is completed.

HARRY J. GUGGENHEIM
(Editor's Note.—Mrs. Smith will furnish any additional information as to the project. She can explain all details as to how the sign must be painted, etc.)

Lovely Woman Must Beware of Losing Health and Charm for Fashion's Sake

Modern woman has broken the shackles that bound her to devitalizing costumes of the past. She should use the microscope of common sense in considering what to wear next.

ARE LONG SKIRTS coming back? This is the latest and most sensational question of the fashion world.

Sensible womankind is pausing to consider.

For long skirts have already come back to a certain extent. They are vastly modified long skirts. Not at all like the long, dust-raising street sweepers of by-gone years. But—what next?

Sensible women declare they will never again permit dictates of fashion to force them to wear any costume that will deprive them of liberty of motion.

That is largely the reason why the semi-long skirt fad of the moment has stopped at evening dresses.

Long skirts are still completely out of order for business wear and for sports.

It is to be ardently hoped that there will be no change in this regard.

NUMEROUS lessons taught by experience indicate how injudicious it would be for feminine America to give up one iota of the liberty of dressing for health and comfort.

Back in the "good old days" before the World War, all sorts of atrocities were practiced on the feminine form in the name of style.

Tight corsets constricted soft bodies into grotesque shapes.

Effort was made to lace more and more tightly. Nature was outraged. Delicate organs necessary to proper functioning of life's vital processes were tortured and twisted and distorted.

The result was that life was completely ruined for thousands of young women. Untold agonies were the result of the silly frenzies of the current mode. Many martyrs went into early graves upon whose tombstones might truthfully have been carved the words:—

"A VICTIM OF FASHION."

THEN it was that heavy woolen stockings, heavy woolen underwear (fleece-lined and prickly), flannel skirts, petticoats and woolen dresses made existence a sweaty and unhealthy process in winter time.

Then it was that pneumonia and other diseases of lungs and throat took their full toll of young lives. And it is to be noted that since women have dressed more sensibly the once-dreaded scourge of tuberculosis has been lessened to a miraculous extent.

Tuberculosis and kindred ailments can be largely eliminated if the lesson taught by the lightened wearing apparel of women is taken to heart.

The human constitution can stand assaults of every disease if it is properly treated and is not coddled too much.

In the news a few days ago was told the story of an Eskimo woman who was a member of a party that rescued an American airplane expedition that had come to grief in the Far North.

This woman slipped into the water between two ice floes. She plodded along in her wet clothing till camp was made. Then she stripped herself in temperature below zero to change her clothing. She showed no discomfort over her experience.

That same day the same woman had stripped her baby so that she might fasten him to her back for comfort in traveling. And the baby, undressed in below-zero weather, suffered no ill effects.

Yet Eskimos brought into super-steam-heated American homes and softened by the wrong kind of dressing and the wrong kind of eating for our temperate climate fall easy victims to pneumonia, tuberculosis and other serious diseases.

These are matters that deserve the attention of womankind as it faces the prospect of radical changes in fashion.

Changes may be desirable to create novelty and to lend fresh charm of American womanhood and American girlhood.

But no change will be popular with American men that limits the freedom of activity for womankind; that interferes with dynamic vitality and a robust enjoyment of everything that life affords.

For that reason woman will do well to look at all proposed changes in style through the microscope of common sense. Beauty and popularity are greatly to be desired. But not at the expense of health.

STONE BREAKS WINDSHIELD

Edgar Morrison, of 39 South Maple Avenue, reported to headquarters that he was driving along Morris Avenue Sunday noon when a stone, the size of a man's fist, bounded out from under a Public Service bus going to Elizabeth, hit the hood of his car and drove through the right side of the windshield and shattered it with a glaze.

The driver of the bus, apparently unaware of the accident, kept on driving.

CHURCH AFFAIRS AND SERVICES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Rev. William L. Reed, pastor, Sunday School service, 9:45 a.m.; Morning service, 11 a.m.; Mission study class, 5 p.m.; Epworth League Service, 6 p.m.; Epworth League meeting, 7 p.m.; Evening worship, 11:15 p.m.

An address, "Safety Matches," was delivered by the pastor at the evening service Sunday. In his speech, Mr. Reed said, "the American people are suffering from Americanitis, which is another way of saying we are neither here nor there. We are never in the same place for a set period of time. Many people create this by being absent from church services. The members of this class are like the safety match. The value of the match depends upon contact with the box. If there is no contact, there will be no flame, no matter how good the match might be. Just as the match needs contact with the box, so does the average man need contact with his church."

A food sale, under the auspices of the Sunday school will be held tomorrow afternoon in the vacant store, next to the post office. Home-made cakes, biscuits, salads, pies, breads and preserved fruits will be on sale. Mrs. Clarence B. Meeker, Mrs. William Reger and Miss Alice Bell form the committee in charge. They will be assisted by several older members of the Sunday school.

Credit is due William Drew, Helen Marzak, Mrs. Catherine Blake, Miss Minnie Bellingerath, Frank Cardinal and His Band, the Jersey City Police Quartet, Thomas Byrne, and last but not least, Father Duffy, for the excellent performance given, as well as the members of the cast, and the members of the reception, refreshment and program committees.
