MANY AT SERVICES OF SCHOOL HEAD

Lewis L. Smith, Sr., Is Buried In Episcopal Cemetery

A large gathering, including members of the Board of Education and faculty of the local public schools, pupils, and many residents was present at funeral services held Monday afternoon in Young's Funeral Parlors, Millburn, for Lewis Leander Smith, Sr., president of the Board of Education, who succumbed Friday noon to a long illness at the St. Elizabeth's Hospital, in Elizabeth, where he had been taken the day before. The Rev. Hugh W. Dickinson, rector of the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, of Millburn, of which Mr. Smith was a member officiated. Interment was in the Episcopal Cemetery. Special lodge services were held Sunday evening in the funeral parlors by members of Success Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Millburn, and Continental Lodge, F. and A. M. of both of which he was a member.

At his bedside when he died were his sons, Lewis J., Jr., Howard, Donald, George, and his daughter, Ruth. He is also survived by a brother, Larry Smith, of Tacoma, Wash., former chief of police of that city, and a sister, Mrs. Irene Suther, of Pittsburgh. His wife died five years ago.

Mr. Smith had been suffering for four years from diabetes, and had returned Tuesday of last week from a trip to Washington, D. C., where he had testified in a Supreme Court case involving the American Medical Association and a man pretending to be a registered physician, charged with selling certain pills, which were said to have been of little or no value. He went to work the next day in the Lackawanna Railroad, where he had been employed for many years as an auditor, and was stricken that evening. Upon physician's orders, he was removed to the Elizabeth hospital, where he passed away the following noon.

Born in Orange in 1874, Mr. Smith had been a resident in this township for 13 years, having come here from Millington. He was a member of the Board of Education for eleven years, and president of that body for six years, succeeding George Parsell, Sr., who retired. He was instrumental in having erected the Raymond Christman School and the addition to the James Caldwell School. He was active in planning the erection of a high school on the plot which the township bought several years ago for the purpose.

Who's Who In Springfield

DR. WATSON B. MORRIS

President of the First National Bank, and active in county medical circles. He is a man of international knowledge, having travelled several years in Europe.

As president of the First National Bank for five years, and established in Springfield as a practicing physician for the past twenty-one years, Dr. Watson B. Morris has won the respect and confidence of every resident in this vicinity.

While living in South Orange in 1908, he opened an office and sanitarium in the building in which he is now located at 191 Morris avenue. Coming here several years later to take up his residence in Springfield, Dr. Morris saw a small village, with a population of only 1,600 inhabitants. What is now well-paved roads, were only cow-paths. Reminiscing over that period, Dr. Morris recalls when the only adequate transportation facility accessible was the time-worn trolley cars of the Morris County Traction Company, which ran from what was known as "the Cut," in East Summit, above Millburn avenue, where the roads to Summit and Chatham from Springfield separated into different directions. The trolley went along Morris avenue, in Springfield; Main street, in Millburn and thence on Millburn avenue to Maplewood. And many times, he himself operated the cars when the operators "chose not to run," that they might partake of a cup of coffee. And we might add that the schedules at that time weren't nearly as good as they are now. And the time is still fresh in his mind when he drove a horse and buggy on Seven Bridge Road, then a narrow path, with water several feet deep, as a result of spring rains.

But, getting back to his life, Dr. Morris was born in Union, N. J., in 1879, of parents of moderate means. He received the early part of his education in the Union High School and Union Academy. At the age of 19, he entered the Bellevue Hospital of New York University and graduated from that institution in 1902. Thereafter, he was admitted to practice in New York and engaged in the study of New York law. He was admitted to the bar in New York in 1904. He then spent the year 1905 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1906. He then spent the year 1907 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1908. He then spent the year 1909 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1910. He then spent the year 1911 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1912. He then spent the year 1913 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1914. He then spent the year 1915 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1916. He then spent the year 1917 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1918. He then spent the year 1919 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1920. He then spent the year 1921 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1922. He then spent the year 1923 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1924. He then spent the year 1925 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1926. He then spent the year 1927 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1928. He then spent the year 1929 in Europe, and returned to New York in 1930.

WILLIAM N. HEARD NAMED PRESIDENT

Succeeds Late L. L. Smith, Sr., As Head of Board

William N. Heard, vice-president of the Board of Education, was elected president of that body at the regular meeting Tuesday evening in the James Caldwell School to succeed Lewis L. Smith, Sr., who died Friday. Mr. Smith had been a member of the board for eleven years and president for six years. Alvin H. Boss was elected vice-president to succeed Mr. Heard, and August H. Schmidt was appointed a member to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Smith's death.

The board also voted to buy an audiometer, to test the hearing of school children. Dr. Henry D. Dengler, school physician, recommended that it be purchased and after a demonstration of the machine had been made, an order was taken to have one here within the next three weeks.

Other members of the Board of Education, besides Mr. Heard, Mr. Schmidt and Mr. Boss are Walter White, Alexander R. Briggs, John Potts, George Arnold Wright, Donald A. Leach and John H. Schuster; William Hoppangh, who is tax collector and township treasurer, is district clerk of the board and Fred J. Hodgson is supervising principal.

A member of the Board, for six years and vice-president for four years, Mr. Heard has been very active in educational work here. He was a member of the board when the addition was made to the James Caldwell School. His father, Benjamin F. Heard, Sr., now in his eightieth year, was a member of the Board of Education for twenty-two years and president for seven years, and was a strong supporter of the plan to erect the original portion of the James Caldwell School.

The new president of the Board of Education has resided in Springfield more than thirty-five years, coming here when a boy from Jersey City. He is one of the original directors of the First National Bank of Springfield, and treasurer of the First Presbyterian Church for the past twelve years. He is also president of Paulding & Heard, Inc., a granite specialists of Newark, having been associated in this line for four years.

FLAHERTY CO. OFFICE THREATENED BY FIRE

Seven men and plans were saved from being destroyed early this Friday morning by the efforts of local firemen, when fire of undetermined origin broke out in a store building owned by the Flaherty Company, 1000 Mountain Avenue, along the tracks of the Railway Valley Railroad. The burning building was located in the rear of the city, and promptly by the firemen prevented the flames from spreading to the office building. The valuable plans were kept safe by the firemen, which was fortunate, as the weather which was blowing about the city, would have blown the flames into the city. The firemen worked for an hour, but the flames were not extinguished. The firemen were called by the city, and they were able to save the building. NOMINATION POSTPONED

Second nomination of officers for Washington Camp, 209, P. O. S. A., was postponed at the bi-monthly meeting of the camp Tuesday evening in the Municipal Building, due to the lack of members present and the inclement weather. At the next meeting, January 7, nominations will be made.

Institution To Occupy Offices Of Bunnell Bros. About Feb. 1 After Alterations

Due to the vast increase in business transacted the past few years, the First National Bank of Springfield will expand and move into larger quarters, in the offices now occupied by Bunnell Bros. in the Brookside building. It was announced this week by officials of the bank, the change will be made about February 1. Bunnell Bros. will transfer their offices to the same building, in the rooms formerly occupied by the Brookside Inn, on the Flermer avenue side of the building.

With cramped conditions forcing the change, the quarters of the bank will be equipped with entirely new furniture, and extra modern facilities. An directors' room will be added, a large lounge, new vaults for safe-deposit keeping, a ladies' waiting room, and large tellers' cages will be provided.

Plans for the construction work are being made now and all alterations and additions will be finished by February 1. Members of the committee handling details for the building are Morris Lichtenstein, chairman; Nicholas C. Schmidt, Freeman Bunnell, Louis J. Wiman, and Dr. Watson B. Morris, president of the bank.

Organized October 5, 1923, with a capital of $50,000, many persons predicted a pessimistic future for the newly-formed bank. "It could not be successful, Springfield isn't large enough to support a bank," was the opinion of many. But with untiring efforts, the project was put through, and in two months the deposits had reached a total of $100,000.

The bank occupied the premises where the Springfield Light Company had been located, and their quarters till this day. All up-to-date banking conveniences and safety vaults of modern types, characteristic of the best banks in the country, were installed.

Walter S. Jacobus, associated for many years with the Fidelity Union Trust Company of Newark, was selected as cashier. Dr. Watson B. Morris was elected president and Nicholas C. Schmidt vice-president. The directors of the bank at present are: Dr. Watson B. Morris, a physician in Springfield for the past twenty-one years; Nicholas C. Schmidt, vice-president of the Union County Coal and Lumber Company; Robert B. Ferguson, connected with the Lackawanna Railroad for many years; Gabriel Larsen, township committee man for four years and superintendent of the L. W. Erbman Fountain Pen Company, of Newark; Tyrin E. Meiel, prominent builder and contractor; Morris Lichtenstein, who conducts one of the largest establishments in Springfield, the Springfield Pharmacy; Robert S. Bunnell, president of Bunnell Bros. Inc., and director of the Battle Hill Building Loan Association; Carl H. Flermer, president, secretary and manager of the F. & B. Nurseries, Inc.; H. Freeman Bunnell, cashier of the People's National Bank and Trust Company, of Newark.

LABORER IS BURIED IN TRENCH CAVE-IN

Newark Worker Is Injured In Accident Saturday

Marcus Franzo, 35, a laborer, of 13 Garside street, Newark, suffered leg and internal injuries last Saturday morning when the sewer trench in which he was working in front of the Old Hotel, in Morris avenue, caved in and buried him in fourteen feet of dirt.

He was rushed to Overlook Hospital, in Summit, where X-ray pictures showed no fractures, but several bruises on the leg. It had been his first day on the job, and he had been digging to put up braces to support the sides of the trench when the side of the excavation towards the hotel collapsed. A call was sent to fire headquarters for an inhalator. Meanwhile, a crowd was beginning to assemble and hindered fellow-workers from getting to the victim. Patrolman Albert A. Sorge, who was on duty at the time, kept the on-lookers from getting too close to the cave-in, since the other side of the trench was also beginning to give way. When the rescuers started to dig Franzo out, all that could be seen of him was his gloves, which he had placed up to his head for protection. After great efforts, his head was reached, then part of his body and a rope tied about his waist. Due to the depth of the trench, fourteen feet, it took about a half-hour to get him out. Dr. Henry P. Dengler had been summoned and he took him away to the hospital.

At the hospital, it was said that his condition was improved.

ENTHUSIASM

A student of oratory came to Demosthenes with the tale of an injustice he had suffered. He expressed himself tonelessly. Demosthenes said: "I do not believe you." The man then angrily and with passion retold his grievance. "Now," said Demosthenes, "you say it in a manner that makes me believe you."

The story may be one of the numerous allegories of the ancients, but true or allegorical it has a point. To carry conviction, there must be force as well as sincerity.

We have developed ideas of speech different from the time worn classics. We are not concerned with rigid forms, and do not trouble about niceties of introduction and peroration. We plunge into a subject, and the disposition is to quit when through with it. Ours is a prosaic age, with surplage shorn.

But, however, matter-of-fact, we become, sincerity and force remain necessities. They may take different modes of expression. But no undertaking reaches culmination unless there is sincerity and power behind it, and these qualities have their greatest potency when they evolve into enthusiasm.

People are not convinced unless the person behind a topic is himself convinced. He needs to convey conviction by something that carries a sense of genuineness and power to the listener.

The human mind has a tendency to stay dormant until it is stimulated. Everyone who has a project to carry through, of business, construction, or policies, faces the inertia of minds unacquainted with the subject, must rouse them to a point of interest, and frequently has to overcome distrust and opposition. The factors of confidence and assurance are indispensable, and there is requisite also the driving force that transmits them to others.

There is no marked success without enthusiasm. The conspicuously successful person, in whatever line, who forges to the front, is not merely capable, not merely understanding, but is assured to the point of devotedness. He possesses that extra precious drop of conviction which generates enthusiasm in himself, and permeates these around him.

Enthusiasm need not be the boisterous, intrusive or offensive type. There are persons who are quiet, unobtrusive, but fired with their subject, and possessing an inner enthusiasm that breaks through and makes itself apparent and compelling.

Glance through the life of the soldiers, writers, leaders, men of business who left an impress. In all of them, regardless of other faculties present or missing, there is noticeable an intensity of purpose that grades as enthusiasm. Lackadaisicalness may keep one aloof, or enable him to drift with the tide. The conquest of circumstance and event, the rise of a person from the shroud of environment, calls for the dominating quality of enthusiasm.

He returned in 1907 and opened an office in South Orange, with Dr. George H. Cobb. He spent four years there and then moved to Springfield, in the building where he is now residing. It had been occupied several years previous by a Dr. Harris, well-known to old residents here, and who had died about 1906. From 1911 till 1914, when the Great war broke out, Dr. Morris maintained his own private sanitarium. The lack of a supply of nurses forced him to abandon his hospital.

At this time he was elected a member of the medical staff at Overlook Hospital, Summit, and is still an attending surgeon there. When the First National Bank was organized in 1925, Dr. Morris was elected its president and still occupies that position. With all his duties, Dr. Morris still finds time to mingle in county medical activities, being a member of the Board of Managers of Bonnie Burn Sanatorium in Scotch Plains, a member and once president of the Summit Medical Society; a member of the Union County Medical Society and chairman of the program committee of that body; and a member of Continental Lodge, F. and A. M., of Millburn.

Elected president of the Lions' Club when that organization was formed in 1926, it was during his administration that Springfield was listed separately in the telephone directory when previously it was joined with Millburn.

Dr. Morris was appointed several months ago by President Charles H. Huff of the Springfield Business Men's Association as chairman of a committee to offer a practical solution to the traffic problem at the center of the township. Others on that committee were Carl H. Flemer, Robert S. Bunnell, Fred A. Brown (chairman of the township road committee), Dr. William G. Huff, and Peter H. Meisel, who was at that time director of the Board of Freeholders. The report of the committee was read to the township committee and then sent to the State Highway Commission in Trenton.

In remarking of the progress Springfield has gone through since he came here, Dr. Morris says, "Surely the increase in population, the improved electrical system in the outer portions of the township, the new buildings erected in the past fifteen years, and the excellent methods of transportation to the cities, will help to favorably aid Springfield in a far greater and more extensive development."

ington; and Archibald M. Henshaw, owner of the Henshaw Floral Company.

Mr. Schmidt is vice-president of the Battle Hill Building and Loan Association and Mr. Bunnell is treasurer. Messrs. Lichtenstein, Larsen, Flemer, Meisel and Dr. Morris are also members of the association.

Louis J. Wiman, who is cashier at the bank, succeeded Mr. Jacobus April 16, of this year, coming from Madison, where he was assistant cashier at the First National Bank of Madison for four years. A graduate of Columbia University and a veteran of the World War, serving as second lieutenant in the artillery, Mr. Wiman is of genial personality and makes every visitor to the bank a friend and well-wisher of the institution.

The capital of the bank was doubled last year and raised to $100,000 and the undivided profits and surplus are in excess of $50,000. Patronage is drawn from Newark, Elizabeth, Maplewood, Millburn, Summit, Union, Cranford, Westfield, Short Hills, Mountainside and Irvington.

Rambling Around in Springfield

Announcement is made in other columns of this newspaper that the First National Bank will expand into new quarters soon in the offices now occupied by Bunnell Bros., Inc. in the Brookside building, and that the latter will move into another portion of the building, where the Brookside Inn was located. The reason given for the change is that an increase in business necessitated the need of more space and as a result the new premises will be four times that covered by the present portion. This must be taken as evidence of the rapid progress Springfield is undergoing since the bank itself reflects the possibilities of the township.

And it is vital that one should look into the history of the bank, which, within sixty days of its birth, could point to deposits of over $100,000. The bank numbers among its directors business and professional men of the highest calibre. Doctor, banker, florist, druggist, township committeeman, real estate director, builder, auditor. We, and certainly all who are interested in Springfield's advancement consider this change an important step in the township's steady development and wish to congratulate the officers and directors of the First National Bank of Springfield!

The unusual has arrived. A prominent business man of Morris avenue, near Mountain avenue, a Scotchman by birth, actually made a mistake in making out his tax bill and overpaid three dollars. The amount was refunded to him and the matter frightened out. If you don't believe it, the author will send all proof upon request. (Maybe.)

Speaking about pipes, J. Reirano, the merchant of Morris avenue, is the possessor of a hand-carved, ninety-year-old, Italian Briar pipe, believed to have been owned at one time by an Italian marquis. When he visited Italy several years ago, his brother-in-law, who was in the antique business, gave it to him. Reirano is said to have refused $100 for the pipe. It is carved with more than twenty five images, and is a work of art.

Through the valiant efforts of firemen last week, plans and maps of the E. J. Flaherty Construction Company, who are at work on the sanitary sewers, were saved from being destroyed. Plans from a blacksmith's shop in the rear of the main office, where the valuables were kept, were spreading to the buildings nearby, but the firemen sprayed water through two lines of hose with the temperature hovering near zero, and the fire was extinguished. Last week, the firemen were kept busy answering three calls in three days, one an automobile the day before the Flaherty fire and the other the day after the Flaherty fire when a worker on the sewers was buried as a result of a cave-in on Morris avenue.

Before we forget, it won't be long now that we'll be making our (new) New Year's resolutions, and solemnly promise that they will be really enforced for this year, if never before.

Will miracles never cease? A headline in a newspaper, this week read, "Man Without Hands Arrested as Forger." And we also read that a certain pugilist in Irvington, by name, the Teraga Kid, announced his eighty-sixth retirement from the ring, because of a pretty damsel of Springfield. It becomes our gentle duty to investigate the matter and learn who after all is at the root of the trouble? Who knows, she might be reading this, after all.

MORE STOLEN CARS RECOVERED HERE

A new era in stealing automobiles has just been unearthed. As was the custom in the old days, one stole a car, and when the gas supply had diminished, one trotted back home to look for more fuel. But the early part of this week—to be exact, Sunday, at 4:15 a. m.—Patrolman Wilbur C. Schlander found a car on Alvin Terrace, bearing Passaic County license plates. It was identified as being the property of Francis Duffy, 151 Jasper street, Paterson.

To turn about, or to reverse things, an automobile, owned by J. C. Decker, of 310 Summit avenue, Summit, was stolen from the Balfour Golf Club early Sunday night, and left in Paterson with a rear light broken, and the gas tank empty. Enough gasoline for a hundred miles had been put in the tank, and it is possible that the thieves rode for some distance and left the auto near where they resided. Just a mere act of courtesy—give here and take there.

Together with a stolen automobile, owned by Fred Baum, of 360 South Orange avenue, Newark, which was found by Patrolman Schlander in Mountain avenue, near the Balfour Golf Club Saturday night, this marked the fourth and fifth stolen cars recovered here since Thanksgiving Eve when a Hillside policeman's automobile was stolen from the Hillside Policemen's Benevolent Association hall, and left in Turkey Lane.

HOLIDAY PROGRAM TO BE HELD BY LIONS

A special Christmas program has been planned for the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions' Club, to be held this noon in the Villagiant Inn. The entertainment committee, consisting of the Rev. William I. Reed, chairman; Louis J. Wiman, Richard S. Bunnell, and Joe G. Lightly, have arranged an interesting affair, and all members are urged to attend.

The Rev. P. W. Druckenmiller, pastor of the Connecticut Farms Presbyterian Church, of Union, spoke at the meeting Friday afternoon on "Moulding Community Thought." In his speech, Mr. Druckenmiller stressed the need for community organization, and said that if a local resident showed no interest in his own welfare, certainly no one else would.

President Charles H. Huff conducted the meeting. Fifteen members and two visitors, Westfield Lions Elliot and Hennessey, were present.

CO. SHARP SHOOTERS WIN XMAS TURKEYS

Wilbur C. Sander, William J. Thompson and Chick M. C. Ringold placed first, second and third in the pistol target shoot held Saturday morning in the Old Quarry, for members of the police department only. Each of the three highest scores won a Christmas turkey for his efforts. They finished with scores of 292, 232 and 222 out of a high possible score of 500.
The affair, which was in the form of a handicap, allowed each man to shoot fifty times at the rate of five shots in twenty seconds. There was a war scratch mark on Ringold from 30 yards, and other members were allowed handicap in the order in which they were placed in the shoot held about Thanksgiving, when Thompson placed first and Albert A. Sander second, each winning a turkey. Incidentally, this marked the first time Thompson did not place first in a shoot.
