The Board of Education Tuesday night joined a movement to ban the showing of gangster pictures at motion pictures in nearby theatres by passing a resolution approving the action of the Union Township Board of Education in protesting to Warner Bros., Inc., against showing gangster pictures in the theatre there.

The action was taken after the Union Township board in a letter to the local school authorities, asked the Springfield group to take some definite attitude on the anti-gangster film subject.

Three Major Violations Told by Commissioner

By Harold G. Hoffman

State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles "Three specific driving violations of automobiles were responsible last year for 88 per cent. of the accidents due to improper driving, while the actions of pedestrians crossing thoroughfares were contributing factors in more than 57 per cent. of the mishaps involving themselves. A total of 32,500 persons were killed and more than 960,000 hurt in automobile accidents last year.

The three specific violations by drivers, according to an analysis of state reports extended through mathematical calculation by the Travelers Insurance Company to cover the entire country, were exceeding the speed limit, driving on the wrong side of the road, and failing to grant the right-of-way. The actions of pedestrians at intersections and on streets conditions in busy districts.

Exceeding the speed limit, or driving too fast for existing conditions was responsible for 21 per cent. of all automobile accidents due to improper driving. Sixteen per cent. of the mishaps was due to driving on the wrong side of the road, while failure to grant right-of-way caused 31 per cent. of the accidents.

The same three violations figured in nearly three-fifths of the automobile deaths caused by improper driving. Exceeding the speed limit was responsible for 31 per cent. of the fatalities; driving on the wrong side of the road, 12 per cent.; and failure to grant the right-of-way, 15 per cent. The same violations caused around 69 per cent. of the total number of persons injured as a result of the actions of drivers. Exceeding the speed limit was responsible for 21 per cent. of the injured; driving on the wrong side of the street, 16 per cent.; and failure to grant the right-of-way, 32 per cent.

Of approximately 15,000 pedestrians killed in automobile accidents during the year, 77 per cent. included persons more than fifteen years old, with 55 per cent. between the ages of fifteen and fifty-four. Fifty-seven per cent. of the 320,000 accidents to which pedestrians contributed happened at intersections or while people were attempting to cross streets in the middle of the block, and more than half of the pedestrian fatalities occurred at intersections and in the middle of streets. Around 5 per cent. of the pedestrians

TELETYPE AIDS IN ARREST HERE

Alarm Responsible in Catching Morristown Youths

Two Morristown youths were arrested yesterday morning at 2 o'clock by Patrolmen Selander and Phillips in Seven Bridges road with an alleged stolen car, the alarm of which had been transmitted over the statewide teletype system at 7:07 P. M. the night previous.

The driver of the car gave his name as Pietro Cattano, seventeen, of 44 Ridgedale avenue, and his companion said his name was Guido Vetusch, twenty-two, of 35 Hillary avenue, both of Morristown.

Patrolman Selander was doing patrol duty in Morris avenue at the center when he spied the automobile, and recognized the license number of the car, reported over the teletype to be stolen.

He picked up Patrolman Phillips, and apprehended the youths after a mile chase in Seven Bridges road, near the Union line. It was necessary, police report, to flash a service revolver, since the Morristown youths resisted arrest.

Morristown police say the pair admitted taking the car, a Chevrolet coupe, from the rear of a furniture store in Washington avenue, Morristown, Wednesday afternoon. Both Cattano and Vetusch were turned over to authorities of that city.

Parkway Soon Assured As Commission Thanks W.I. McMane For Land

At its meeting held August fourteenth, The Union County Park Commission passed appropriate resolutions expressing its own and the County's thanks and appreciation to the Short Hills Water Company, of which Freeholder Director William I. McMane is Vice-President, for the gift of a small tract of land included in the proposed Railway River Parkway in Springfield. Transfer of this valuable property will permit the improvement of a section of this parkway drive between Meisel and Battle Hill Avenues, thereby relieving traffic congestion in this section of Springfield.

Attendance figures for the seven months to August first, totaling 2,770,978, show an increase of thirty percent over the corresponding figures for 1930. Practically all recreational activities shared in this gain. The five nationally staged, in the evenings at the Warinanco Park stadium by German, Italian, Jewish, Spanish and Ukrainian groups have proved most popular with a total attendance exceeding 30,000.

Due to a decrease in registrations at the Galloping Hill Golf Course with accompanying falling off in receipts and the fact that twenty-seven holes are now available, out-of-county residents will be permitted to play at the established rates until further notice, except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

New supervised children's playgrounds at Roselle Park and Hillside and the recently completed tennis courts at Cedar Brook Park. Plans field, have been well patronized. These courts are constructed of bituminous material and in contrast to clay or turf courts are not affected by weather conditions and require practically no maintenance.

In response to a popular demand, two handball courts are now being built at Warinanco Park. Green Brook Park lights will soon be in readiness.

The portion of the Railway River Parkway drive extending from the swimming pool area in Railway up to Jackson's Pond at Valley Road, Clark Township, has been opened to traffic. This drive affords another approach to the popular bathing place through a beautiful stretch of woodland.

Another drive through the woods and one affording excellent views of Union County, Staten Island and New York will shortly be opened to traffic leading from State Highway 29 in Mountainside to the Watchung Reservation. The grade on this new road averages less than seven percent, thereby affording an easy approach to this mountain in contrast to the well-known "Pot Luck Hill" climb.

COUNTY PARK TO CLOSE AUGUST 29

Activities to End at Flermer Avenue Playground

The playground in Flermer avenue, operated under the direction of the Union County Park Commission, will conclude its third season in Springfield Saturday of next week, August 29. Director J. Ely Van Hart announced this week.

However, Mr. Van Hart pointed out, contests in the Soft Ball League will be continued until the second week in September. The director will be on hand to direct the games, and supervise a three game play off, should it be necessary.

An excellent record was made this week by delegates of the local playground in the county contests Wednesday afternoon in Warinanco Park, to determine the champions of the county in various classes of sport.

Frank Kasperson won first place among the boys in penkicks, Ralph Parise finished second in a checker tournament, and Fred Pieper came in third in horseshoes. Frank Kasperson failed to place in quoits.

The three local entries won their respective trials in the semi-finals at Union last Friday, in which representatives of Springfield, Union, Roselle Park and Hillside competed. They were the only boys entered from Springfield.

A peanut hunt was held at the local playground, and a marble tournament was held Tuesday. The following places were awarded in marbles: boys—first, Louis Murphy; second, Vincent Pinkava and third, Arthur Bjorstead. The girls finished as follows: first, Jane Cooper and second, Edith Dray.

Oscar Duttweiler and Wilma Horster won first places Wednesday when "Hobby Day" was the subject of a special contest. Their respective hobbies which were displayed, included a stamp collection for the leader in the boys' class, and a scrap-book of pictures of motion stars and drawings, for the winner of the girls' group.

Harry Anderson, playing a saxophone, was first in a music contest held yesterday afternoon. "Fun Night" was the attraction last night. In addition to a Playground Soft Ball League game.

The program for the last week, starting Monday, is as follows: special events on Monday and Tuesday; grand finals on Wednesday, at which time entertainment will be planned and medals for taking part in the season's work awarded; and the last two days, Thursday and Friday, turned over to clearing up all last-minute details.

He's All Ready With an Ark for Second Flood

WILLIAM GREENWOOD, a resident of Olympia, Wash., of advanced years, says his home city and Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles are so wicked and corrupt that God has decided to wipe them off the face of the earth. This, William believes, will be accomplished through a second flood that will inundate the whole Pacific coast of the United States. But William has imitated Noah and has built for himself and perhaps a few chosen friends an elaborate ark in which he hopes to ride the waters when that flood comes. The vessel, here shown with its builder, is 65 feet long, 15 feet wide and 18 feet high.

HOW COULD MARY FIND A WAY OUT

By FANNIE HURST

THE conditions that brought about the engagement of Mary Estes to Benjamin Parke were of the normal unexciting ones of a certain degree of propinquity, similarity of social standing and a general desirability smiled upon by families of both parties concerned.

In the thriving Middle West city where Mary Estes had been born and reared, Benjamin Parke was regarded as one of the most promising young businessmen of the community. When Mary Estes was still attending high school and taking the commercial course which was ultimately to prepare her for her work as secretary to the richest banker of the town, the Estes people were a highly respectable and conservative family in reduced finances, probably a shade or two higher in the social strata than the Parke family, although Benjamin's father was a dentist of solid standing and good practice.

The two young people of these respective and respectable families, in spite of the disparity of ten years in their ages, were thrown socially together by way of church, entertainment and bridge party. Their ultimate engagement was as normal as sunrise. A little flurry of anticipatory gossip had, of course, preceded it; its announcement was a matter of local notoriety to a group of friends and relatives who moved interestedly around the nucleus of the happy pair. It was fun to be engaged. It was great fun to be the center of interest, the center of pleasant attention and consideration of the group of people that made up Mary's world.

The slightly envious attention of her friends who were not yet engaged, the stately acceptance of her as one of themselves by the girls who were engaged, the tolerant interest in her by those of her friends who were newly married, and the affectionate, bustling attention from the older women—mothers, sisters and widows alike.

All of Mary's world paid her the charming tribute that is the lot of happy young love. And she found this tribute most flattering, most attractive.

Two months after the announcement of the engagement, Mary Estes resigned her pleasant and lucrative position as secretary to the richest man in the town and began preparations for a June wedding. Benjamin Parke, by then sole proprietor of a small but flourishing furniture store on High street, was known to be in the market for an attractive building lot on Kay street, one of the town's prettiest boulevard districts. The friends of Mary began to plan linen showers and small festivities that had to do with the approaching marriage. Benjamin Parke took out a life insurance policy and announced that he was building an ell to his furniture store.

It was an alliance that promised well. Mary and Benjamin would be a good, substantial addition to the citizenry of the community; were the kind to foster stability, decency and right living.

There was nothing in particular about the engagement of this young pair to differentiate it from alliances that were constantly being made, and yet it is possible that Mary and Ben represented what in the eyes of the community might be regarded as the ideal marriage.

The ideal marriage that would lead to years of happiness, of struggle, of accomplishments, of mistakes, of course. But on the whole the usual happy and successful life in which hardships and pleasures are mingled.

That was what made the condition so harrowing, so terrible, so secretly frightening to Mary Estes when certain menacing facts began to take on a reality she had been struggling against ever since the first few weeks following her engagement.

Everything was right, everything was as it should be. A better, sturdier, more considerate boy than Benjamin Parke could not be imagined. Her parents were happy, his parents were happy, and, with a luncheon on Kay street, an old dream of her was about to come true. As Mary confided to her best friend, Alice McMahon, a pretty girl with chin-blue eyes, it was a story-book engagement in its total desirability from every angle.

All except one—and that one awoke Mary did not begin to admit, even to herself, until weeks after the announcement of her engagement. Mary was not in love with Benjamin Parke. Strange, how clear the matter ultimately became to her. Not until after a long period of self-hypnosis, did Mary come to realize that, from the very beginning, she had thrown herself consciously into a state of mind about Ben. She had talked herself into a condition of seeming to be in love with him. The wish father to the thought, she had deliberately tried to force herself into a state of mind.

The engagement to Ben had been the result. It had seemed to her, during those months while the facts of her self-hypnosis still lasted, that she had accomplished right and righteousness. And then gradually, and a little hesitantly, it began to dawn upon her during those festive weeks of linen showers, bridge parties, evenings with Ben over blue prints of their new luncheon, that everything she was tasting was dead sea fruit.

In the dead of night, Mary would wake up with a sense of oppression in her breast, with a dread of tomorrow, with terror of what she was doing.

Mary did not love Ben. She liked him, she respected him. She even admired him. The thought of him as her husband filled her with dread. Sometimes it seemed to Mary that to be free once more, to be free to come and go at her secretarial work, to be the girl once more unimpeded and unimpeded by the dread of marriage, was the one state of being that had ever happened. She regarded those of her girl friends who were still outside the pale of matrimony and still unimpeded by ties of engagement with an envy that was as illogical as it was unlike her.

Mary had only one desire in life now—to be free. To be unengaged. To see her life stretch before her once more allied with the old ideal of some day meeting the ultimate life companion.

To be unengaged was out of the question. Ben took her so for granted. Her parents were in their seventh heaven of approval. His parents made no effort to conceal their pride. The community smiled. Mary was committed. Terror, rebellion, agony, panic rose within her, only to be hidden by the calm, demure exterior she showed to the world.

The day of her wedding approached and it seemed to Mary that with it there descended upon her a dread of living that must ultimately annihilate her. She knew that she must not go through with this dishonest thing of marrying Benjamin Parke.

And yet, what way out? What way out? The question, bent about in Mary's tortured brain like a great, imprisoned moth. What way out?

She turned the question over and over in her hot, tired brain. What could she do? How could she find a way out? What did other girls in the same predicament do? For surely other girls had made her mistake; though they could marry a man, and then, suddenly, or gradually, realized that lack of love would make marriage intolerable.

But there was nothing to do. She couldn't do the only thing possible; tell Benjamin that she didn't love him. It would seem such a simple thing, yet it was fraught with all sorts of impossible complications. It would mean bringing hurt unhappiness to her parents and his parents. She herself would feel that she had failed—to her family, to his family—to Benjamin and to her own word. There seemed, to Mary, something dishonorable in breaking her engagement.

So, what way out was there for her? The way out came in the form of a brief note delivered to her one morning two weeks before her wedding day. It read:

Dear Mary: Since there is no way of telling you, without hurting you—the event—thing which I am about to say, I shall say it in the shortest way possible. Alice McMahon and I were married at ten o'clock this morning.

(Signed) Ben.

Bringing the Medical Profession Up to Date

That the amount now paid by the average family for doctors' bills will be substantially decreased when the medical profession drops its old-fashioned ideas about advertising, and learns to adopt modern merchandising methods, is the theory advanced by Ernest Elmer Collins, nationally known magazine writer and advertising man, writing in Medical Economics, a business magazine for doctors.

In his article "Doctors Advertise? Why not?" Mr. Collins says, "if a program of advertising could be instituted, shared in, and supported by every doctor in the country, not only would the incomes of doctors go up, but the cost of medical attention would go down. There are hundreds of thousands who should have a doctor's care who are not getting it; thousands who could have escaped elaborate treatment or operation if taken in time. Doctors should be paid less money but by more people. The entire United States should be under the care of competent medical men. The immense store of medical knowledge now available should be utilized by more people. The way to keep well is not through ignorance and luck, but by wise advice and knowledge.

"If people understood what it meant to keep well all good doctors would be busy all the time. There is enough knowledge today of medicine and surgery to greatly improve the national health, but much of it is unavailable to large numbers of people, through ignorance, prejudice and financial limitations."

"Policeman" Fired Uncle Sam is one silent but effective policeman who has enforced his ban on picking wildflowers and shrubs in the national parks, but so efficient has this "policeman" become that he has found it necessary to eliminate him at the camp site in Sequoia National park. The "policeman" is poison oak, which is unfamiliar to the average easterner visiting the park. So many have the cases of complaint been that the poison oak has been entirely eliminated and weed killer used to prevent its return.

Wealthy Convicts Buy Their Way From Prison to Easier Life of Camps

New York—An investigation into a system of bribery whereby well-to-do convicts sentenced to federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth, especially for liquor law violations and stock frauds, have been able to get themselves transferred to less onerous confinement in army detention camps, such as those at Fort Wadsworth here, and Camp Meade, Md., has been under way by the Department of Justice for several weeks.

The first intimation of the existence of such a system was obtained by federal authorities here some months ago with the discovery of a letter in the pocket of Paul Rubkin, a convicted watch smuggler, in the Manhattan federal building. Rubkin, with Solomon Rubman, secretary of the company, and Joseph Y. Pearman, was sentenced to the Atlanta penitentiary in July, 1930.

The trio had pleaded guilty to charges of smuggling watch movements valued at $875,000 into this port from Switzerland and defrauding the government out of $300,000 in duties. Rubkin and Pearman got two years each and Rubman was sentenced for 18 months.

Some time later, however, when the federal authorities wanted Rubkin to confront a new suspect and they sent to Atlanta for him, it was found that he was at Fort Wadsworth. He was brought to the courthouse here. Afterwards when he was taken back to Fort Wadsworth and searched it was discovered that some one had given him a letter while in New York.

The letter was from a convict at Atlanta. It disclosed that the writer had obtained the necessary funds and wanted to follow Rubkin's example in obtaining a transfer to Fort Wadsworth. Rubkin admitted that he had bought a transfer for himself for $1,000 and that his two associates had also bought transfers, the prices being $1,000 and $700 each.

Department of Justice agents, under John Edgar Hoover, chief investigator at Washington, began an investigation. They learned that other transfers had been made under similar conditions. However, it was not always easy to ascertain whether the transfers had been paid for. Because of the overcrowded condition of the

WHISTLING AND EMOTION

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I have never been able to whistle, much effort as I have expended in attempting to acquire the art. I recall with great vividness my envy of a young companion of seven or eight years who had already acquired the art and whose accomplishment I tried in vain to emulate. Nature evidently never intended that I should express my emotions through the medium of whistling.

My brother was a great whistler. He had a tremendous range and could reach the highest and the shrillest notes. He was not one who whistled loud "to keep his courage up." Whistling was his way of quieting the irritations of life. He seldom whistled, as he went about his work to express joy or interest or light-heartedness. If I came upon him sitting immovably with furrowed brow, whistling shrilly and persistently, then I knew that something had gone wrong, that he had been thwarted in some purpose, deprived unexpectedly of some pleasure, irritated by some trifling occurrence. It was no time to ask for favors or to attempt pleasant conversation if we found him whistling. It was better to wait until the storm blew over.

In general, whistling expresses a contented, satisfied state of mind and sometimes a thoughtful one. When at midnight or later I am awakened by the sound of whistling as some of the youthful undergraduates are going home to their books or their beds, I know that the evening has been passed pleasantly, if not profitably.

Paris.—The Abbe Moreux, eminent French meteorologist and scientist, has aroused intense scientific interest by reviving discussion of the theory that the American continent once was joined to the Old World but, after the deluge, floated away to its present position.

America Was Once Joined to Europe

This theory was advanced during the early part of this century by the German meteorologist Wegener, who died recently. According to the theory that the interior of the earth is fluid, then the solidified continents may be giant expanses of floating earth, attached to the interior of the earth by a supply, gradually diminishing link.

The Abbe Moreux points out that the German scientist held that the two continents, when they were close together, fitted into one another almost perfectly, as though they were parts of a jigsaw puzzle. Examination of a world map shows that this jigsaw puzzle idea is not so far-fetched as it would seem at first.

When the deluge came, Abbe Moreux says, the narrow gap between the continents widened, America drifted away, leaving the wide expanse of the Atlantic to separate the newly created world from the old.

The French scientist declares the theory is not new. It was first advanced by Pierre Placet in 1666, and again by Snider in 1880. Abbe Moreux, while unwilling to pass on the theory, points to the curiosity of the islands of the Atlantic, such as the Azores and Madeira. Have they remained stationary, or are they floating more slowly toward the new world?

It is indicated that the French academy of sciences may discuss the theory in its entirety, while organization of a mission to study the composition of the Azores and other Atlantic islands is being urged.

During the hot weather many children are lost in the parks of the big cities and at the bathing beaches. At the Oak street beach in Chicago, this became such a problem that the park board erected a wire-fenced enclosure, where the lost little ones are kept until called for by their parents.

This debonair street costume was created in sharkskin cloth. The smartness of this sleek tulleur is accentuated by the jaunty hat of brown and white.

Rough Silks Are Best for Sports Costumes

Raw and rough silks, Parisian dressmakers have found, are best for sports wear; patterned and plain tweeds, jerseys, flannels, chambrays and tricots are the stand-bys in woolsens and may be used for sports frocks and for town and country when sports are not the order of the moment.

Striped materials and checks, regardless of the texture, have called out all their troops and invaded fashion's territory. They have had precious little resistance, too, for the inclined-to-be-stout woman welcomes the former with open arms, because she knows that it slenderizes her figure; and the close-to-being-skinny woman "checks" up on her wardrobe with great fervor, knowing that the little squares in all their possible sizes will help to fill in the gaps and swell the potential curves.

For Little Girls

Small daughters especially if they have blond hair will look adorable in plain little coats of apple green tweed with stretched brimmed hats of the same material—or of felt.

Aerial Photography — A New Scientific Marvel

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IN MAY of last year the announcement was made that the United States army had added another brilliant achievement to the record which makes valid the boast that "the army does other things besides fight." A new record in long distance aerial photography had been set by the air corps of the army when Capt. A. W. Stevens, photographic expert, succeeded in taking a picture covering a distance of 270 miles in a single exposure. In 1920 Captain Stevens had set a long distance photographic record when his camera registered objects 237 miles away from the camera eye but his 1930 flight in a plane piloted by Lieut. John D. Corkille over Crater lake in Oregon added more than 30 miles to that record.

Upon his return from this flight, Captain Stevens declared: "While I am very well satisfied with the results obtained on this particular mission, I am inclined to believe that it will only be a matter of time before we will develop a camera that will record even greater distances. Before we can use it, however, we must have a photographic plane that will take us considerably higher than 20,000 feet because from that altitude even an object as tall as Mount Rainier will sink below the horizon at 300 miles.

"Shooting at Mount Rainier from a distance greater than that between New York city and Washington is much like shooting at the moon, with the difference that you can see the moon. The principal task is to aim the camera in the general direction you believe your objective to be, snap the trigger and hope for luck." What "luck" the army captain had on this expedition was revealed by the remarkable photograph which is shown above.

Another achievement in this new scientific marvel of aerial photography, which was not so much a matter of luck, was demonstrated during the army air maneuvers over New York city during May of this year, the results of which are shown in the photographs numbered three and four above. As explained in the captions, these pictures were taken by exploding a bomb containing enough magnesium powder to make a 3,000,000,000 candlepower flash and snapping the shutter at the height of illumination.

It would seem to be an easy matter to drop a flashlight bomb and at the moment of the explosion to take the photograph. Since, however, there is a definite relationship between the altitude of the airplane and the height at which the bomb explodes, it is not so simple. Night photographs can be taken only at comparatively low altitudes. Measurements of the airplanes taken over New York showed the airplanes to have been flying at only 1,500 feet, although night photographs could be taken effectively up to around 3,000 feet. The lens cannot be left open until the bomb explodes because light from the ground would blur the photos or film.

The only thing the air camera man has to do at night is to release the bomb; the rest of the details are taken care of automatically. The bomb, containing twenty-five pounds of magnesium powder, is checked in its fall by a small parachute and a time fuse sets the interval from the release to the explosion. As the bomb bursts the camera's shutter is automatically tripped by an ingenious mechanical device.

Before the World War the science of aerial photography, except for a few cases, most of which were unsuccessful, was virtually unknown. It took on added importance early in the war and developed rapidly as the airplane became such an important factor in waging successful battles. But it has been since the war that its most rapid development has taken place and that development in this country has

1. Two hundred and seventy miles of wide open spaces! A photograph of Mount Rainier taken from over Crater lake, a distance of 270 miles, by Capt. Albert W. Stevens from an army air corps plane piloted by Lieut. John D. Corkille. To get the "shot," the two army air men flew at 20,000 feet for nearly five hours in a temperature of 20 degrees below zero and came down only when their supply of liquid oxygen was exhausted. Some of the mountains shown in the picture are: 1. Mount Rainier, 270 miles; 2. Mount Hood, 200 miles; 3. Mount Jefferson, 175 miles; 4. Three Sisters, 125 miles; 5. Diamond Peak, 50 miles; Crescent Lake, 45 miles.

2. Captain Stevens and Lieutenant Corkille of the United States army air corps with the large aerial camera used in taking high altitude photographs. This camera uses a 30-inch focal length lens of special construction.

3. This night photograph of lower Manhattan, New York city, was taken by Captain Stevens from an airplane piloted by Lieutenant Corkille at an altitude of about 1,500 feet. A bomb containing sufficient flashlight powder for a three billion candlepower flash was dropped from the plane and the picture taken with a specially constructed camera equipped with an automatic device for exposing the film at the height of illumination.

4. A night photograph of the Statue of Liberty and Fort Wood on Bedloe's Island in New York harbor taken in the same manner as described in No. 3.

All photographs, courtesy United States Army Air corps.

Perhaps the most interesting development lies in the use of long-range or high-altitude cameras, the same technique being used also for lower altitude work through fog. In high altitude work the camera must have a long focal length (the distance from the nodal point—where the light rays cross—between the two lenses—to the surface of the plate or film). With a short focal length it would be possible for the camera to "take the whole world," but the detail would be too small. A camera with a long focal length, on the other hand, while it will not take more than about thirty-three square miles from an altitude of approximately 30,000 feet, gives such clearness of detail that the negatives may be readily enlarged to ten diameters.

If the camera is tilted an oblique photograph is taken—that is, a photograph which is progressively distorted as the objects taken are distant from the lens. Tremendous distances have been covered in this way and objects have been taken which were not visible to the naked eye, because aloft there is almost always, even on a clear day, a certain amount of ground haze. Several refinements are necessary, however, before these photographs may be taken. The camera must be fitted with a special film sensitive only to infra-red rays below the visible spectrum—that is, the long wave lengths which go through fog easily. This condition is met by taking ordinary gelatine film and immersing it in a solution of kryptocyanine.

The next requisite is a special type of filter, so dense as to have the opaqueness of rubber. All lenses have to a greater or less extent the property of a prism; that is, they break up the white light into spectra. It is necessary under given conditions to use a filter to eliminate the active colors (such as violet, blue and green) and restore the light to white. By increasing the opaqueness of the filter more of the visible spectrum is eliminated, and it is possible to eliminate it altogether. This is what has been done in the case of the long-range camera.

Through its filter only the infra-red rays are admitted, and as ground haze or smoke is no obstacle to them, objects are recorded on the film which are invisible to the naked eye. In this way Captain Stevens was able to photograph Mount Rainier from the record distance of 270 miles; the peak jutting up above the horizon, though it was miles beyond it.

In the taking of photographs for map-making a special technique has had to be developed, equally applicable to military and commercial purposes. It is not enough to sight the camera and trip it; all sorts of things have to be determined before the photograph can be taken. Because only the center of each photograph can be considered anything like optically perfect, a large number of overlapping exposures have to be made.

Dotted Net Is Charming and Chic

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT with the program of party frocks for the last several summers being mostly a matter of one printed chiffon frock after another, the idea of printed or embroidered cotton net suggests a most intriguing diversion.

The beauty about these very charming new quality-kind cotton nets which are now so smartly in fashion for evening wear is that they can be safely and successfully washed—no danger of colors "running" as heretofore. Then, too, these nets drape ever so charmingly, at the same time having enough body in them to stay crisp and fresh looking on the warmest evening.

Very newest printed nets carry the message that dots have appeared on fashion's horizon for midsummer evenings. For the slender woman the dress pictured is ideal. It is a very "young" frock for slim and sweet youth, and later providing you're the type.

A particularly summery and actually washable durene cotton net fashions this lovely gown. Of course, you will be interested in the deep capulet collar which reminds us that shoulders are generally covered this summer if only with a wisp of a scarf, or a tiny drape which looks as if it might have started to be a steeve and decided to "just pretend." We most forget to tell you that the dots which pattern this particular dress are in "English Officer" red, from which striking color the hand-made silk apples, which form the corsage take their cue. A slightly stiffened peplum is featured, its hemline following the contour of the skirt hemline with considerable artistry.

Quite as effective, although not so unusual and new as the big coin dots are the charming nets which are patterned with colorful florals. These come in every key from flaming reds to demure Dolly Varden flowerets.

You may have quite a time deciding whether to buy a printed or an embroidered net for your next evening or garden-party frock. Choose either and you will play safe. The inspiring thought in this connection is that through perfected processes these fine quality-dured nets no matter how delicate their tones and tints may be or how bold, they may be relied on as being fast color. This means they are not only appealing from an aesthetic point of view, but they are also thoroughly practical.

HATS OF ALL SIZES APPROVED BY PARIS

There is nothing monotonous about hat fashions this summer. Sizes range from more skull caps to capes; with brims a foot wide. There is as much variety in shapes as in sizes and more materials involved than there is room to list. Soft, fabriclike straws, crocheted or mesh straws are being used for new versions of the beret, and to make crowns for some of the brimmed hats. The familiar panama, baki, milan, leghorn and other well-knowns are making all manner of brimmed hats. Stitching is used to give body to cotton and linen hats and to decorate brimmed sports hats of jersey and felt.

Among the smart hats Agnes French created and Suzanne Talbot's derby-brimmed hats are of particular interest. Agnes has taken the various headgears and hair dresses of the Moroccans, the Algerians, the Cambodians and translated them in a collection of peaked and wrapped and draped turbans and berets that are enormously smart. Furthermore, she has taken over the brilliant and exotic colorings that distinguish the original models.

Mesh Stockings Regarded Comfortable for Sports

Do you like lisle for sports stockings? Many women do, because it looks less dressed up and formal. Do you like mesh for sports stockings? Its open work seems a bit most comfortable to bare legs. Lisle and mesh combine, therefore, to make comfortable, good looking stockings to go with sports costumes. And lisle mesh socks are a joy for tennis.

Socks continue to be worn for active sports, but usually over stockings. Bare legs may be worn for comfort, but only in private and informal places.

With the white clothes and the bright colors you will be wearing this summer you will find that a light clear beige is most becoming. This is the shade that tones best with your outdoor-darkened skin.

Women at Palm Beach adopted this shade almost universally in the day time. In the evening they wore pale tones—nude and peach.

There is talk of white and off-white hose for wear in the evening.

Stunning Dinner Gown

This is a Lanvin replica of a dinner gown in black. The braided peplum is unique, as are the long satin gauntlets with jeweled bracelets.

Three Colors for Scarf; Worn With White Sports

There are all sorts of attractive scarfs, many of them made of red, white and blue. There are lots of clothes accessories in those colors, anyway. They are worn with white sports clothes.

There are, for instance, scarfs made in triangles of the three colors, edgily chinked together. There are scarfs of the three colors in wide stripes, others with the center portion of the scarf white, the ends striped red and blue. These scarfs, striped and triangles, are made of the finest wool crocheted in a loose, lacy stitch.

Other scarfs are made of the three colors striped lengthwise, in soft silk crepe. Still others are made of two colors on one side, lined with the third color.

What "Dog" Days Mean

"DOG" days are with us again—dog gone 'em!

Heat of that sticky type that could draw beads of perspiration out of a stone. Heat so enervating that it acts like salt on one's raw nerves. Heat that is the arch enemy of woman's dignity and of man's freshly laundered linen. Heat that is a blessing to the soft drink establishments and a curse to factories and stores.

According to popular tradition, this period of sweltering, humid weather will be with us for the remainder of the month. Nothing to look forward to in that. Ten more days of tensing, trickling, tormenting, troublesome heat. Oh, well, it could be worse. Lucky we don't live near Devil's Island or along the African Gold Coast or in California's Imperial Valley. In those places the mercury flirts with the 110 mark for months on end. Anybody who can stand that for so long must have a rubber body and complete freedom from nerves.

To the Editor of the SUN:

May I take this opportunity to thank you for your thought-provoking editorial on the work of the Sewer Assessment Board. Such information makes for enlightened cooperation.

As your readers scan with you the equipment of the men who are responsible for the intelligent interpretation and the reasonable application of the assessment law, they naturally wonder if this is the same brand of common sense used in planning and constructing the sewer. Then they are moved to ask which of these men are the undertaking representatives of the owners of large tracts of land; taxpayers along whose miles of open spaces from Mountainside to Millburn and from the Rahway to the Ridge, the sewer winds its uncertain way.

There is not the simple problem of the holder of a fifty foot lot. Since the major part of the sewer is laid along these undeveloped farmlands, most of the perplexing problems of assessment arise in these areas. It is possible our sewer ills are due to an insufficient amount of good old-fashioned horse sense in the Government Body.

Again, your assurance that the way Construction Inspector was adopted.

THE SPOTLIGHT—THIS WEEK

falls upon both Patrolmen Phillips and Selander for two arrests made on Wednesday and yesterday. Two Irvington youths were riding in Morris avenue Wednesday morning at the early hour of 2:30 o'clock when the guardian of the law must have flashed an unpleasant look. Both youths became panicky and the driver of the machine attempted to switch seats with his companion. "Who ever heard of such a thing?" was the thought that went through the mind of the policeman. An investigation led to the arrest of the driver on a charge of driving after his license had been revoked a year ago for misstatement of facts. In securing the license, the violator was fined $10 and costs by the Recorder and his friend released. The second deed, worthy of commendation, was that of the arrest of two Morris-town youths by Patrolman Selander with the aid of Patrolman Phillips. They were charged with stealing an automobile from their home city. An alarm over the statewide teletype system at 7 o'clock Wednesday night was remembered by Selander at 2 o'clock the next morning when the alleged stolen car speeded by the officer at Morris avenue and Center street. After a chase of a mile the machine was overhauled and the occupants taken to headquarters and Morristown police took the prisoners back to that city. Unusual interest is being shown in the series between the Tuscan Stars and the Gibson B. C. which is billed for the championship of Springfield. The Tuscan are directed by Dick Poldors and his brother, John, is manager of the rival team. The first game started Tuesday of this week, with the Tuscan on top, 5 to 1. The second contest will be held next Tuesday at Flemer Oval at 8:30 o'clock.

The photograph shows what a small cove was necessary for the installation.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK—By WALTER TRUMBULL

Practically anyone can go to bed, but not everyone can go to sleep. For this there are various remedies. All depends upon the form of wakefulness from which a person suffers. I know a man who is kept awake by any light. He happened to get a room in a hotel where a street light shone through the window. Knowing that his wife sometimes slept with a stocking over her eyes, he tried the scheme with a sock. Apparently, he didn't know the trick of adjusting it, as it constantly slipped down over his nose and mouth, threatening to smother him. Finally, he remade the bed so that he lay with his head away from the window. This was a pretty good idea, except for the fact that he had a stiff neck in the morning from twisting about to see whether the light was still there.

Another man I know can't stand noises; at least, city noises are a source of irritation to him. When he lies down to sleep he finds himself counting trucks and automobiles which roll by. Somebody told him about some wax things which you put in your ears and he thought the problem was solved. The next time he came in from the country he prepared for a peaceful night in town by getting some of the wax plugs and inserting them. The rest of the night he lay awake, straining his ears to discover whether he could hear through the wax.

How It Started
By JEAN NEWTON

Why Is It "Hoodlum" and "Hooligan"?

We all know a "hoodlum" to be a ruffian. The word is frequently applied to street wretches who make a nuisance of themselves generally, but it is in the sense of ruffian that it is usually understood.

We have it after a gangster named Muldoon, who, in 1808, made life miserable for many of the citizens of San Francisco.

Public indignation finally led to Muldoon's arrest and arraignment under the name of "Noodlum," which, because of the bad handwriting of the court clerks, was misread as "Hoodlum," in which form it stayed in our language in the general sense.

In this connection, it might be stated that our word "Hooligan" for a ruffian is similarly derived from the name of a notorious gangster of London in the year 1808.

The Fishing Game

As many as wish to can play this game. All you need are sharp eyes, quickness and a place to be comfortable. As well as a small basket, some pieces of paper, pencils and a lot of fun. There, have you everything?

The words that are given herewith are to be copied on tiny squares of paper, all mixed up together and put into the box or basket. Now choose partners! And one captain!

Don't look! Just put your hands (in turn, of course) into the basket and draw one piece of paper with a word written on it, then another, until all are drawn.

The captain says, READY, SET, GO! And every child playing the game makes a list of all the words he sees IN the words he fished from the basket.

The captain says, STOP! And the partners whose lists are the longest win the game.

Here are some suggested words. Of course, you can use others. Remember, the words you see may not be properly arranged in the words you draw. You may have to hunt for them.

Then you must close your eyes and vision a great, green meadow, divided by a hedge. Now it is necessary to fill the meadow with sheep and start them jumping over the hedge. As they go over, you count them, one by one. After you have counted a million, it may be well, for the sake of variety, to switch to goats.

Oldest Office Holder
on Job for 60 Years

Richmond, Va.—Sergeant Patrick Dolan of the Richmond police force claims to be Virginia's oldest officeholder. He is eighty-one and is entering his sixty-first consecutive year of public service in Richmond.

He was arrested at Danville during the race riot there in the early '90s. Once, almost single-handed, he turned back a mob seeking to attack the jail to secure a negro prisoner.

Forgets Rented Horse; Tied to Tree 3 Days

Pittsburgh—When Frank Sopolski hired a saddle horse and had not returned it two days later George Fassinder, owner of the South Hills riding schools, figured something was wrong. A 12-hour search located Sopolski at his home.

Then, Fassinder told Humane society officials, Sopolski thought of the horse for the first time since he had gone swimming in a South park pool. He wasn't quite certain where he had left the horse, Fassinder said, but they finally found it in a clump of weeds a quarter of a mile from the pool.

The horse, its owner said, had been tied to a tree so closely that it had not been able to reach food or water during the 72 hours it was there.

At a hearing before Ald. Patrick Cawley, Sopolski was fined $10 for cruelty to animals and posted $1,000 bond for a hearing on the criminal charge of failing to return a rented horse.

DESSERTS AND THINGS

A dessert does not need to be either elaborate in its preparation or expensive in cost to be appealing. Many of the simplest of desserts are the most popular.

Duchess Cream.—This delightful dessert serves fifteen, so it may be cut into half for the ordinary family. Cook six table-spoonfuls of tapioca in boiling water until clear, cool, add a little salt, one cupful of sugar, the juice from a can of pineapple, the juice of two oranges and two lemons. Cook until thick, cool, then add the pineapple, one cupful of finely broken nuts, and a pint of whipping cream beaten stiff.

Two-Two Dessert.—Take the pulp of two lemons, the finely mashed pulp of two bananas and two cupfuls of sugar. Add a quart of this cream, a pinch of salt and freeze.

Dainty Dessert.—Cut with scissors dipped into cold water, one pound of marshmallows, add one cupful of cut pecan nuts, or almonds if preferred; add enough whipping cream to make a mixture to stand up well. Serve in sherbet glasses with a spoonful or two of orange and pineapple juice poured over each. Top with a maraschino cherry.

IT was Betty's sixth birthday—the first she had spent away from home. And Betty wanted a birthday cake. "No," said mother, "you're in a big hotel now. They don't have birthday cakes." But the headwaiter heard Betty's complaint. He asked just one question. Then he went into the big $300,000 kitchen and high-priced chefs began to do things—and the first thing you knew, Betty had her cake—yes, with every candle on it!

Don't you agree with us, that sometimes the smaller happenings in one's stay at a hotel look even bigger than your cozy room... your piping hot dinner. We think we're right. So we're striving to make United Hotel service mean extra service to you. And we'll admit we like it... because we find you like it, too!

In Trenton, N. J., the center of hospitality is The Stacy-Trent Hotel. Overlooking the Delaware River... across the street from Stacy Park and the old Colonial Barracks... one block from the State Capitol Building... The Stacy-Trent has the most historical and convenient location. Three different dining places... handy garage... golf privileges at the local club... are but a few of the features of Stacy-Trent hospitality.

Great Airport Over London Is Suggested

Some bold persons have proposed that an immense airport be built in London over the Kings Cross station and vicinity, supported on pillars in the form of warehouses and office buildings. Here is a model of the airport that is being exhibited.

Beautiful Spy Dying in Madhouse

"Blond Lady of Antwerp" Prisoner in Asylum.

Berlin.—Formerly one of the cleverest and most beautiful spies the world has ever seen, a haggard, wild-eyed woman, whose name is given as Bertha Heinrich, lies in the great asylum for the insane at Wittenau, near here, awaiting her rapidly approaching end.

An entry in the books of the institution indicates that she was a hopeless drug addict, when, more than two years ago, she was first admitted. But behind that simple entry lies the story of one of the most amazing personalities of the war years.

Known as the "Blond Lady of Antwerp," she was one of Germany's most successful spies, and betrayed countless allied secret service men.

Her victims, however, were by no means confined to that field, for one of her duties was the appointment of hundreds of German agents, and these, without being in the least aware of the fact, were in turn spied on by members of a special corps which she had organized.

It has been reported that in this way she was responsible for the shooting of a number of spies in the pay of Germany who were suspected of playing their part in the war.

At the height of her power she was a tall, slim, graceful creature, possessing an irresistible allure. In a pale oval face of delicate mold were set two big blue eyes, luminous and appealing. Few there were who could say, "No" to her, and yet, behind all fascination there worked a brain masterly in its perception and intuition.

Little more than a girl when she first entered Germany's spy service, she soon revealed such brilliant qualities that it was not long before she was left with a free hand. She made Antwerp her headquarters, and it was there that she brought off some of her greatest coups.

Used as a bait for captives. When a Russian or French secret service agent was taken by the Germans, he was, in nine cases out of ten, left to the mercies of the "Blond Lady." Her "interrogation" followed none of the orthodox lines; all the witchery and fascination nature had

Oil Turns $500 Into Million for Girls

"Worthless" Land Left by Father Brings Fortune.

San Francisco.—Old Dame Fortune has her sentimental moments.

She bestowed a $500,000 dowry on a bride of less than two months. It has developed here—and just to keep things even, poured another half million into the lap of a married sister.

The two lucky women are Mrs. Louise W. Dessauer, who became the wife of a local stock broker recently, and Mrs. Cora Nathan Michaels, both of this city.

Ten years ago upon the death of their father, Louis D. Nathan, a promoter, they inherited an estate considered virtually worthless. It was a quarter interest in 160 acres of blank land in a corner of Kings county, appraised at $500.

The same legacy is now valued at $1,000,000.

The estimate was made in the court of Superior Judge Thomas P. Graham when W. D. Kelley, trust officer for the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust company, presented an accounting of the Nathan estate.

The property is located in the Kettleman Hills oil district, a development barely dreamed of in Nathan's day.

given her were employed to the full. And in almost every instance where the stern cross-examination of a military court would have been resisted, the skill of this modern Delilah was successful, for men stammered out to her their secrets against the promptings of their training and their judgment.

Her daring, too, was as great as her personal fascination. Time and again she penetrated to points behind the French line.

It was after the war that Nemesis overtook this "woman with the smile of a Gioconda and a heart of the hardest rock," as she has been called. Haunted by the ghosts of dead men betrayed by her hand and brain—she sought temporary forgetfulness in drugs. But the phantoms remained, and before long the "Blond Lady" now a hopeless drug addict, had lost everything, beauty, charm, reason itself—everything in fact except the insatiable craving for cocaine.

Can Read 5 Miles Away by Novel Searchlight

London.—There is news of the invention of an entirely novel searchlight which throws a beam of light so intense that a newspaper can be read by it at night at a distance of five miles.

The searchlight is the invention of W. H. Pennow, and one of its most astonishing features is that it is able to keep the lamp's rays in a narrow pencil of light.

The beam of ordinary searchlights diverge so much that even when lamps of enormous candle power are used their ranges are comparatively short. The Pennow beam is focused much more sharply; at a mile it produces a spot of light only twelve feet in diameter. The searchlight has been designed chiefly to help aviators in night flying, but it has many other uses.

Nail Swallowed by Man 28 Years Ago Removed

Elmer, N. J.—Severe pains in his chest recently startled Edward Snyder, Pennsylvania railroad track foreman, living here. Mr. Snyder recalled that twenty-eight ago, when making tomato crates, he had swallowed a nail and so told his doctor.

The nail, now quite rusty, was located by surgeons and removed in a delicate operation at the Episcopal hospital, Philadelphia. They said it must have penetrated the intestinal wall at some point and gradually worked its way upward through Snyder's body until it lodged between his lungs and ribs.

Snyder is recuperating at his home here.

NATIVE CUNNING OF FOXES AND WOLVES

Classed by Hunters as Wiser Than Other Denizens of the Woods.

Which is superior in wit and cunning, the fox, famous since Biblical times, or the wolf, who was known well in the days of ancient Rome and, no doubt, even earlier in history?

While not pretending to settle the long-mooted question, John A. Hope, in an article published in the American Forests and Forest Life, tells of his personal experiences with both animals, leaving the reader to decide for himself.

Mr. Hope has known the fox since boyhood and the timber wolf for some forty years in the forests and mountains of Canada. Both, he says, are gifted with a more acutely intelligent cunning in self-preservation than any other species of wild life, with the exception of the brown Astatic rat.

Each animal, however, depends for safety upon widely divergent phases of woods strategy. Mr. Hope points out, and the individual must judge for himself in which phase of woodcraft the most cunning is displayed under all conditions, toward first prize.

"A wolf invariably fights shy of steel traps, dead falls, poisoned bait and other instruments set for his capture, and generally successfully," Mr. Hope states, "even though no human trail be present. Nor will he, as a rule, cross or run along a snowshoe trail made by a human, even when this trail cuts between him and a previous kill he is anxious to dine off in the dark hours. Knowing that this trick is foreign to his territory, the native cunning comes into play. He is seldom seen in the daytime and a sixth sense seems to warn him always of unseen danger."

"I have seen scores of foxes by daylight," Mr. Hope continues, "and have even nicked off many with a rifle, without their seeing me or even knowing whence death came. The fox I have caught within twenty hours in steel traps set with bare hands and covered with dry grass, moss, or earth, in temperate weather—no bait used. The same conditions apply to poisoned bait. And a fox will not hesitate to run along tracks by snowshoes or prints made by hikers."

"On the other hand," it is pointed out, a wolf depends upon speed and endurance to evade capture, and if in danger of capture at the end of a run, will turn and fight with savage courage. Few dogs, in a quarter-mile fight, come off victorious. The fox, instead of depending upon speed and endurance, relies upon its wit.

"From the moment a dog picks up its scent," Mr. Hope writes, "the fox utilizes every bit of cover on its run for life, to twist and turn, out-flank and break back, head for a lake or river, paddling miles up and down streams, if necessary, to throw hounds off its scent—and do it successfully nine times out of ten. It will dodge into budgee carths and burrows, caves and hollow trees and even jump into the limbs of thickly branched trees, springing from one branch to another. Overhauled, it, too, will fight hard for its life, but being smaller than any domestic dog as fast as itself, it is invariably killed."

Electric Eye Aids Blind

"Electric eyes now are being used to 'see' for blind persons in guiding them about their homes by giving them a sense of direction as they move about. The electric eye, or photoelectric cell, is made up like a flashlight with a small buzzer connected to its battery, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. Convenient electric lights are then placed about passages and hallways, particularly at turns.

The blind person turns the electric eye about much as a person having his sight would direct a flashlight. When the device points to a light source, contact is made and the buzzer sounds. As long as the buzzer is sounding the blind user knows he is on the right path.

CAR OWNERS bought more Firestone Tires

during May, June and July than in any like period in History

THERE are reasons for this—Firestone is building the Greatest Tire Values in history, with the result that Firestone Factories are operating 24 hours a day, 6 days a week, to meet public preference.

This is the year everybody is scrutinizing his purchases. This is particularly true in tire buying because of the many confusing and misleading statements made about tires.

To give car owners the facts, Firestone published comparisons showing quality, construction and prices. Then the public went to Firestone Service Stores and Service Dealers—made their own comparisons with cross sections cut from Firestone Tires—and from special brand mail order tires and others.

When they saw the facts, they bought more Firestone Tires during May, June and July than in any like period in Firestone history.

Let the Firestone Service Dealer show you these Firestone Extra Values and have your car equipped for Safe, Trouble-Free Motoring. Drive in today.

MOHAWKS DEFEAT RANGERS, ORIOLES

Springfield Team Wins by 10-2, 12-0 Scores; Pros-son Hits Homer

The Springfield Mohawks added two victories to their season's total by defeating the Rangers and Orioles, both Union teams, during the past week. The Ranger game was taken by the score of 10-2, and the Oriole contest was a shut-out victory, 12-0.

Until the third inning of the Ranger contest it was a fairly even battle. The score stood at 2 all after Drossen hit a home run with no one on base to tie the score. At this point the Mohawks lightened up and laced the ball all over the lot, piling up eight runs and holding their opponents scoreless for the remainder of the game.

No opposition was offered in the Oriole game and the Mohawks copped easily, 12-0, Kasperoen allowing the Union team only six hits.

DEMOCRATS WILL INVESTIGATE FACTORY

The Springfield Boosters Committee, recently organized by the local Democratic club with the idea of attracting desirable manufacturing and industrial plants to locate in town in an effort to reduce the tax rate and provide steady employment for Springfield residents, is investigating a report that a nationally-known concern desires to locate here.

The committee at a recent meeting of the club, discussed the possibilities and through its chairman, Edward A. Conley, active local real estate man, agreed that the concern in question will be accorded all the cooperation within the power of the committee.

It is reported this particular plant will employ 1,000 or more persons. Ernest L. Reeves, club secretary, at his own suggestion, was instructed to write to the Township Committee, requesting that a lane for pedestrians across Seven Bridges road at the Melrose and Morris avenue intersection, be moved further down at a point 100 feet from the Shell gasoline station. The lane now covers the widest portion of the road, it was discussed, and pedestrians find it necessary to look for traffic from four directions. It was felt that a change in the crossing would make it easier to travel across, since pedestrians would then be alert to traffic only on Seven Bridges road.

It was stated a large number of members of the club will attend the rally of A. Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for Governor, to be held tomorrow, August 22, in Asbury Park. The second annual miniature golf tournament of the club was held last Friday night at the Warner course, Morris avenue and Alvin terrace. Ernest L. Reeves was chairman of the committee in charge of details. Tickets will be distributed soon for the Charity Dance, to be held in the Municipal Building, September 16. Proceeds will be given Springfield's needy and unemployed.

On motion made and seconded this was referred to the Public Grounds and Buildings Committee. There being no further business and upon motion duly seconded the Director declared Board adjourned until Thursday, August 20th, 1931, at 2.30 p. m.

CHAS. M. AFFLECK,

Gets Nowhere
He who learns the rules of wisdom without conforming to them in his life is like a man who labored in his fields, but did not sow.—Saadi.

Good Counsel Wins
A man may think, if he will, that two eyes see no more than one; or that a canister seeth always more than a looker-on; but when all is done, the help of good counsel is that which seeth business straight.—Jacan.

Good Printing is a Good Salesman

Remember when you send out a circular, broad-side or pamphlet that it stands for YOU. You can't make excuses for it. If it's in bad taste, if its face is dirty, so to speak, because it's poorly printed, your advertisement will be a detriment rather than a help. Good printing is a good salesman—see that it is good by having it done here and you'll get results every time.
