Rambling Around Town

SIMILAR TO THE STOCK EXCHANGE, we're in a quandry about the sports arena project at Route 29 and South Springfield avenue. . . if we were optimistic, the situation would resolve itself into the happy thought that the promoters are marking time. . . the Governing Body one week waits to hear from James P. Donnelly and the next week vice versa. . . in Newark, the City Commission encouraged the Exchange officials but in Springfield it seems most evident the authorities have to be sold on the idea that such a sports project, only if it is properly conducted, will add considerable business to the township coffers. . . If a pessimistic angle arises, then the arena looks at this time like a dead issue. . . now one in a position to know says anything on-couraging about it. . . from all appearances, it's just a myth if we talk to certain township officials. . . prospects of how tempting an improvement of this kind would have been or may be, let us still hope, to bring business in town, needs no further explaining. . . should 10,000 to 15,000 fans crowd local highways to attend sporting events and buy gasoline from local business men, drink at local refreshment establishments, know more about Springfield than they ever know before, maybe that could be called detrimental. . . the Rambling Reporter thinks otherwise. . . we had under the impression last week that the authorities were waiting to give permission. . . each week's delay adds fuel to the coal raking in the mind of pessimist who said, "Springfield will never allow such a thing. . . it might help the township grow too fast."

From one source, we hear Donnelly's backers on the arena has changed from one group to another and that they are responsible for holding up the whole proposition. . . that's only what we've heard so it's passed along. . .

The old Slickley Hotel in Morris avenue looks somewhat cleaner in appearance these days, and the Rambling Reporter was elated in conference with several leading citizens about town yesterday discussing almost confirmed reports. (???) that the Produce Exchange, would move into the building from New York but it's only a rumor. . . after some deliberation it seems more like a dream. . . a high township official remarked to us this week that the recent flood causing complaint from Rahway River sufferers, was responsible for more damage than the usual stormy spell. . . in Rahway, he said, authorities combatted the worse they'd seen in years and other places had complaints from sections rarely experiencing similar trouble. . . that should be some consolation to residents in the vicinity of the affected area in town. . . a well known figure in local society is nursing grievances as a result of pulling a "Prince of Wales" stunt recently while riding a horse. . . perhaps the individual will stick to the good old automobile after the unfortunate incident. . .

LEGION POST TO NOMINATE OCT. 5

Continental Post, American Legion, met Thursday night in headquarters, 240 Morris avenue, and observed "Ladies' Night" exercises. The next business meeting of the Post will be held Thursday October 5. Nomination of officers will be made at that time.

IT'S A GIRL

SPORTS ARENA HERE STILL "WARM" DESPITE DELAY

Towns Invited to Discuss Rahway River Flood Relief

Town Committee Seeks Joint Parley With Freeholders and Park Officials

Steps are being taken toward correcting flood conditions in the vicinity of the Rahway River, where residents protested last week of the overflow from steady rain spells. The Township Committee has written letters to municipalities in Union County bordering the river, asking the authorities to attend a joint meeting to discuss relieving abnormal flood damage. Copies of the letter were also sent to the Union County Board of Freeholders, Freeholder Charles H. Huff of Springfield, Union County Park Commission, Senator Hamilton E. Keen and Representative Donald H. McClenn. They will be invited to consider a unified movement toward easing the overflow, which has for years been a source of concern to residents living nearby by the river. Reports that the old Chemical works site in Mabel avenue, owned by the Union County Park Commission, would be used to house U. S. Forestration barracks, have been confirmed by park officials. Likewise, they declare the men stationed in the Springfield quarters would be able to work on dredging and cleaning out obstructions to the river's flow. Considerable work was performed last Spring by county unemployed in straightening out the river's winding turns and a proposed plan would have to include continuing this type of work, it is felt.

Clambake Held By Methodists

Church Holds Annual Affair Last Friday Night

The Methodist Episcopal Church held its annual clambake on the church grounds last Friday, from 6 to 8 P. M. The committee in charge of arrangements included the following: Walter White, Ralph H. Tilley, Austin W. Gridley, William E. Baker, Lawrence Schlander, Mrs. Clarence B. Meeker, Mrs. Charles H. Huff and Mrs. William Krenke. The Ladies' Aid Society held a bazaar in connection with the clambake consisting of food table with all home-made pies, cakes, salads, etc. There was also a table of aprons, towels, and other useful articles. The committee in charge of arrangements for the bazaar included Mrs. Hattie Doerries, Mrs. Phoebe Quick, Mrs. Fred A. Brown and Mrs. Arthur F. Kendall.

30 DAYS IN JAIL ON DRIVING CHARGE

William Day, 52, of Mt. Freedom, who was found guilty of drunken driving by Recorder Stephen September 18 after pleading "auto intoxication" as a defense, started a 30-day sentence at the county jail yesterday in default of a $200 penalty. Day gave himself up at police headquarters after being granted several days to pay the fine. In addition to the fine, he was also deprived of his driver's license for two years.

Women Start NRA Canvass of Township

Fifty Volunteer Workers to Visit Each Dwelling for Consumers' Pledges

Women in all parts of the township, working under the supervision of a local NRA Committee, will officially open the Springfield drive next Monday to have the township attain 100 per cent mark in signing consumer's pledges. Two ladies on each street will canvass their respective sections. The canvass marks the first of its kind taken here since the start of the NRA movement. In a statement from John Courtney, chairman of the township NRA committee, he asks that "courtesy be shown the fifty woman canvassers who are voluntarily serving their community and nation." Mr. Courtney has chosen a full executive committee consisting of eight members as follows: first district, John E. Gunn and Arthur Smith; second district, Arthur H. Lennox and John J. King; third district, Milton G. Lott and Walter White; fourth district, Edward M. Cook and Wilbur D. Schuster. Mr. Lennox is secretary of the committee. election districts and each pair of executive board members have charge of the various divisions, working under the central authority of the chairman. Residents are asked to sign these consumer's pledges, whether or not cards of this nature have been already submitted to the local post office department. In return, they will be given consumers' blue eagles to be posted on windows of their homes, automobiles, etc. The fullest co-operation is asked from township residents by the committee. Practically all township business men and merchants have signed President's blanket agreement in the recovery program. The local committee will strive to interest those who have not done so, to sign, thus enabling the community to boast of 100-per cent support in the campaign. A committee meeting will be held tomorrow night at the home of the chairman, 19 Marlon avenue, at 8 P. M.

Plan Basketball League in Town

Efforts are being made to encourage a six-team Basketball League in the township to the Playground Softball and Bowling Leagues. Managers interested may select their own players and it is requested that the rosters of each be limited to eight, including the manager.

Lewis L. Smith is leading the movement and at present is supervising arrangements. Rosters may be mailed to Theodore Ganska, Box 401, Town, who is working with Smith toward the formation of such a league. Managers of teams in the Softball League are asked to give as much co-operation as possible. Should there be a marked lack of interest, the project will be abandoned.

Cowboys and Cowgirls To Thrill Madison-Sq. Garden Audiences

Bronk riding will feature the World Series Rodeo, October 11 to 29. Insets show two Madison Square Garden stars.

ONE hundred and fifty cowboys and cowgirls will compete in the eighth annual World Series Rodeo, to be held at Madison Square Garden, October 11 to 29 inclusive.

Bronk riding, steer wrestling, calf roping and other cowboy sports will be featured. Among the bronk riders will be Turk and Alice Greenough, brother and sister, from Montana. Turk won the bronk riding at Cheyenne, Wyo., this year. Alice is one of the best bronk riders among the cowgirls who take part in rodeo competitions.

The rodeo at the Garden will be for the benefit of the Free Milk for Babies Fund, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, founder and chairman. Colonel W. T. Johnston, of San Antonio, Tex., will furnish the broncos and the wild steers used in the steer wrestling and steer riding contests. Thousands of dollars in cash prizes will be distributed among the winners of the Garden rodeo events, and world championships will be awarded.

Board Favors Home Rule on Liquor, Beer

Committee Adopts Resolution For Legislature to Keep Control in Towns

The Township Committee Monday night adopted a resolution favoring municipal control of liquor, including beer, when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed. The resolution was offered by Committeeman Alfred G. Trundle and conforms, with one adopted by Hackensack. Copies will be sent to legislators in the district. The action was taken upon a suggestion from Hackensack authorities who are seeking opinions throughout the State from municipalities on the subject of licensing control. The board voted to pay immediately to the local Red Cross branch its remaining installment of $250 of the current appropriation which originally amounted to $500. A letter from Eita R. Geiger, secretary, stated the barnch was "in a desperate condition financially" and would be forced to start its annual roll call early this year, probably November 1. It has been the policy to pay the Red Cross portions of their appropriations as requested, instead of one in lump sum.

The Parent-Teacher Association was granted permission to use the auditorium of the Municipal Building one Friday each month for dances. The affairs will be for high school students who go to school in Roselle Park and the object is to establish a closer relation among the pupils.

Application to the State Highway Commission was approved for State aid on paving Baltusrol road. The class of application will depend on a pending petition by property owners in the street who have not yet agreed to pay their share of the cost of the improvement.

Lewis F. Macartney, overseer of the poor, was granted permission to use the auditorium of the Municipal Building for a Christmas party for needy children December 23. The success of a similar affair last year has led to its continuance.

A letter from the New Jersey branch of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation said that body had received requests from local residents which indicated they did not know where to apply for loans. The letter gave the corporation's district office as 9-11 Franklin street, Newark, where residents may apply for loans daily from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M., and on Saturdays from 9 to 12 o'clock. The letter will be posted in the local post office.

FURTHER PLANS FOR CARD PARTY SOON

Plans for a card party October 9 in the Gutzwill Building, 230 Morris avenue, were furthered at a meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Springfield last Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Frank G. Dellea at Dellea Hill avenue. Tickets for the affair are being sold by members at thirty-five cents. There will be refreshments.

DEMOCRATS MEET TONIGHT

The Springfield Democratic Club will meet tonight in new headquarters, Morris avenue, opposite the post office. Emmanuel C. Holms, president will conduct the meeting.

A committee arranging a get-together of the ladies of the club for Thursday, October 4, will report on plans. The committee looks forward to an attendance of 20 ladies at cards. All Democrats in the township are invited.

Committee in Readiness to Introduce Ordinance On Word from Donnelly

"Quick, Watson --- The Needle" Garbage Spoils and 'Body' Is Found

Police thought they had a murder case on their hands for a time early Tuesday, after an unidentified motorist reported about 1 A. M., that he saw a man in a small car, apparently a coupe with a canvas top, stop on Route 29 near South-Springfield avenue and throw out a bundle, which had all the appearance of being the body of a woman, with long hair. The informant said he paused and noticed the driver of the coupe return a moment later, pick up the bundle and drive on. Police investigation revealed that the bundle consisted of garbage. It was found near the place where it was first reported.

First Meeting Held by P. T. A.

Over 200 at Opening Meeting of Parent-Teachers

Over 200 members attended the first Fall meeting of the Springfield Parent-Teacher Association Monday night in the James Caldwell School Auditorium. Mrs. Herbert R. Day, president, conducted the meeting for the first time.

Supervising Principal Fred J. Hodgson gave a short address of welcome. Miss Hunt, music supervisor, led the gathering in a song and William Rosset was heard in a trumpet solo, accompanied by the piano by Mrs. Grant Thomas.

Reports of the standing committees were heard and it was announced the treasury had a balance of $82.00. Miss Charlton's first and second grade class won the attendance banner, having the largest number of parents present, twenty-six.

The association decided to sponsor a dance for the entertainment of Senior High School pupils in the Municipal Building the third Friday of each month. The first in the series will be held October 20 at 8 P. M. Music will be played by Don Gibson and his College Club Orchestra of Springfield. The affairs will not be held for profit but as a means of social for the younger element. Mrs. John E. Gunn was named general chairman of arrangements and her assistants will be announced later.

Mrs. Day will represent Springfield at the State P. T. A. Convention in Atlantic City on November 1, 2 and 3. Following the business meeting, a reception was held in honor of the faculty at which time new teachers were introduced to the audience. Refreshments were served.

A membership drive is being planned. There will be an award to the class having the largest number of parents enrolled in the membership campaign, which will be held between October 1 and October 15. The winning group will probably be announced at the October 30 meeting, which will be an afternoon session.

PLAN ARMISTICE EVE DANCE

Arrangements are being made by Continental Post, American Legion, to hold an Armistice Eve dance, the night of November 10 in Singora Grove. It will be the Legion's first dance and plans includes an attractive stage show. There will be door prizes, one for men and one for women. The committee of arrangements consists of Albert A. Sargo, chairman; William H. Young, Clifford D. Walker, Edgar Jacobs and Richard C. Hornor.

Promoter Awaiting Approval From Stadium Backers Holds Up Project

Later developments in the pending application of James P. Donnelly of Newark for a sports arena permit indicate that although the applicant did not attend the Township Committee session Monday night, the matter is still "warm" and some action may be seen shortly. Committeeman Alfred G. Trundle, law and finance chairman, reported he is awaiting word from Donnelly on tentative license fees submitted to the applicant.

The board decided last week to prepare an ordinance necessary to issue a permit and enforce its regulations. The bill has not been drawn pending agreement by Donnelly to the fees submitted, or figures which he himself may indicate as satisfactory. Until he does so, the committee is marking time.

Rev. Peter B. Kiatkowski of Jersey City owns the plot of the proposed arena at the south corner of South Springfield avenue and Route 29. It is understood the project's promoters will purchase the land if the petition is granted. They hold an option pending municipal permission for a license. It is reported.

Donnelly's original backers proposed to build a stadium suitable for horse racing and other sports with a half-mile track. Later reports indicated a new group was dickering with him and had in mind a plan to erect a mile track. Donnelly has refused to name the arena backers, around whom remains considerable mystery, and this is said to be a factor in the committee's delay.

The theory has been advanced that Donnelly is slowly advancing with the new backers so they are acquainted with the Township Committee's restrictions. Meanwhile, public opinion from various sections of the township feel the board's deliberation may tend to upset the project locating in Springfield and moving elsewhere.

This is offset by the excellent opportunity offered to the arena backers to settle on so important a highway as Route 29 and its central location to principal North Jersey municipalities within the metropolitan area. For this reason, there is reason to believe the arena backers will not hastily abandon their plan. Should a permit be granted, Donnelly has himself remarked the only work to be done on the property this year would be to clear the trees and fill in with top soil.

TAXPAYERS WILL HOLD DIRECTORS MEETING

Directors of the Springfield Taxpayers Association will meet tonight at 10 Plomer avenue and discuss plans for the ensuing year's work. The association will hold its regular meeting October 12, despite the Columbus Day holiday, in the Municipal Building at 8 o'clock.

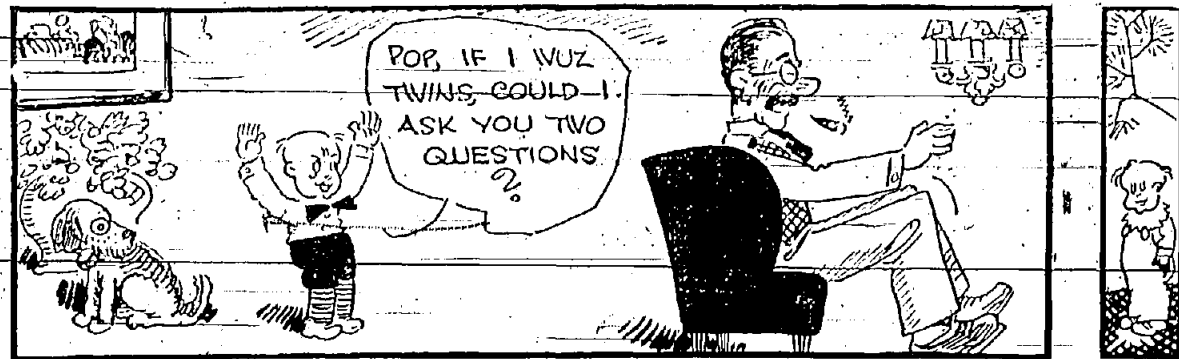

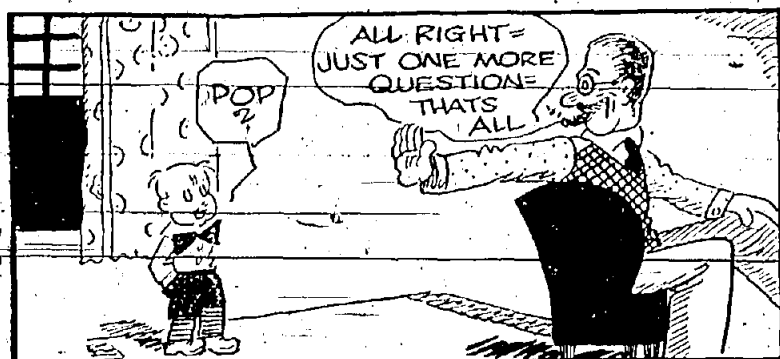

ST. JAMES CHURCH PLANS SHOW

The first Fall entertainment of the season for St. James Catholic Church will open with the presentation of "Peg of My Heart", a musical revue in St. Michael's Hall, Union. Don Gibson's College Club Orchestra will provide music for dancing.

The first rehearsal will be held Friday, tomorrow, at the Larchmont Estates office, Morris avenue. Those desiring to take part are invited to attend.

Leadville, Colo., is an example of the changes wrought by the varying composition of its ores. Starting out as a gold camp, it became a silver camp, and subsequently, with depth, deteriorated into a lead and copper producing district.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

BOYS ARE GOOD SALESMEN

"DON'T send a boy to do a man's job" may be good advice at times, but numbers of farmers have found that boys can do as good, if not a better job of selling produce direct to the consumer.

With the right kind of training in salesmanship boys become very good merchants. Some of them, when they learn "their vegetables," are on a par even with the best farmer merchants, being more willing to do everything to please and accommodate customers.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for October 1 SAUL IN TARSUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:39; 22:3, 27, 28; 26:4-7, Phil. 3:3-6. GOLDEN TEXT—Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. II Timothy 2:15.

1. Saul's Birth (Acts 21:39). He was born at Tarsus, the capital of Cilicia. Tarsus was a gateway between the east and west, therefore a great commercial center.

2. In the home (Phil. 3:5). His parents were pious people and doubtless carefully tutored him according to Jewish standards. He was brought up as a strict Pharisee.

3. In college at Jerusalem (Acts 22:3). About the age of thirteen, as was the custom, he became a child of the law. It was doubtless at this age that he went to Jerusalem and entered upon his course of study under Gamaliel, one of the most eminent teachers of Israel.

4. Patriotism. He proudly affirmed "I am a Jew." He was brought up to love his nation. He was a nationalist of the true type.

5. Zeal for God. The word "zealous" literally means "to boil." He was conscientious. His supreme aim was to have a conscience void of offense.

6. In the providence of God, the apostle to the Gentiles was a free-born Roman citizen. He was loyal to his country, while at the same time strictly religious.

7. His manner of life (vv. 4-12). He had been in accord with the most rigid sect of the Jews. Therefore, he possessed the common Jewish hope of a coming Deliverer.

8. His supernatural conversion (vv. 13-15). It was through the personal appearance of Jesus-Christ to him on the way to Damascus.

9. His consecration (vv. 16-18). Upon receipt of his commission he instantly obeyed.

10. His appointment to Agrippa (vv. 20-22). He was anxious to have Agrippa act on the knowledge that he had.

11. Saul's Ground of Confidence (Phil. 3:7-9). He had everything a true Jew gloried in.

12. Circumcised the eighth day (v. 10). 13. Of the stock of Israel (v. 11). 14. Of the tribe of Benjamin (v. 12). Benjamin had always remained loyal to the national customs.

15. A Hebrew of the Hebrews (v. 5). He was of Hebrew parentage, not a proselyte.

16. Touching the law, a Pharisee (v. 5). The Pharisees were a sect among the Jews most zealous for the rights and ceremonies of Judaism.

17. Concerning zeal, persecuting the church (v. 6). He proved his zeal by the positive effort to stamp out that which was threatening Judaism.

18. Touching the righteousness which is in the law, blameless (v. 6).

19. Pass Through Fire. Christians are like vases, they must pass through the fire or they are shattered. And often they are shattered, not only by the fire, but by the heat of the world.

20. Joy Out of Sorrow. There are joys which can come to us only through sorrow. There are revelations of divine truth which we can get only when our lights have gone out.

Safe Drivers' Code

THESE are one badly needed code not having to await an official signature. It affects every person in the country, and its adoption should be unanimous. It is "The Safe Drivers' Code."

Accident statistics reported to June 30, 1933, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, showed that 12,920 persons had been killed by automobiles this year. The indications, judging from official reports in July and August, are that final results may show a decided increase in deaths and accidents for 1933. This is doubly significant, because there are nearly 16 per cent fewer automobiles registered in the United States this year than in 1931.

To motorists, therefore, and to pedestrians and all users of our streets and highways, the following code is directed:

1. Regulate your speed to fit traffic conditions; keep your car under control at all times.
 2. Slow down for intersections, and obey traffic signals.
 3. Use better judgment in passing; wait until there is at least 500 feet of clear distance ahead.
 4. Pedestrians: Cross at crosswalks; walk on the left side facing traffic; obey traffic signals.
 5. Remember that automobile accidents constitute an economic waste totaling billions through property damage, high insurance costs, increased taxes, etc.
- Every motorist should feel that it is his duty and privilege to play his part in this code.

Advertisers Cooked Their Own Goose

A MAN who has charge of national advertising and is a close analyst of conditions, recently told us something that we pass on for the benefit of those who advertise, and those who don't:
"Reduction of advertising budgets contributed largely to the continuance of the depression," he states.
"Advertising is psychology. Curtailment of space was quickly noticed by the buying public and froze up consumer outlets by creating its own fear-psychology.
"In other words, when John D. Buys saw that J. T. Merchant was reducing advertising through, he lost confidence because Mr. Merchant was plainly showing that HE had lost confidence.
Advertising is the only ax that will smash through and break up frozen buying power.
"A few shrewd sellers realized this. Instead of reducing their advertising appropriations, they increased them. This comparatively small class weathered the depression nicely.
"I regret that Washington seems to have overlooked the highly important role that advertising should play in the present recovery drive.
"The true spirit of the NRA is not only to increase employment, but to justify the retention of new employees on the payroll by increased sales.
"The only way to stop up these sales is through newspaper advertising—not conservative, reactionary, play-up-against-your-vest advertising, but by contracting for increased income.
"We have had too much of this cautious timid advertising. The time has come for all sellers, right down to the smallest merchant, to bust things wide open.
"The sooner those men realize that you can't make money without spending money, the sooner this tremendously important NRA scheme will triumph.
"I have no quarrel with radio; but the local merchant puts his appropriation into other advertising

What the SUN Advocates

- Believing that the following improvements are vital necessities to nourish Springfield's betterment and substantial progress, the SUN advocates:
1. A high school.
 2. Removal of dilapidated buildings which are "sorespots."
 3. Sidewalks wherever needed.
 4. Encouraging clean factories, to increase the rateable.
 5. An active Board of Trade to stimulate "Buying in Springfield."
 6. Postal-carrier delivery.
 7. Reduced bus fare within town limits and to Millburn R. E. station.
 8. Full time position for the township clerk's office.
 9. Set of Building Zones, before township is developed.
 10. A county park.

can never get anything like the response that comes from newspaper advertising.
"Merchants must spend with confidence. And when you spend money on newspaper linage, you know you're going to get that money back—and more, too.
"The NRA movement itself would be a failure without the national advertising given it by the newspapers. There should be a lesson in this for any merchant."

DENTAL HEALTH

By Harry H. Horman, D. D. S.

Pyorrhea
Pyorrhea is a faulty term that has passed into general professional use, although it is misleading as implying that pus is always present in this condition. While infection by pathogenic germs is a common accompaniment of this process, the earlier stages may be characterized by redness and inflammation of gums with some recession. Ultimately separation of the membrane surrounding the tooth occurs, pus pockets may form, and finally re-absorption of the bone surrounding the tooth becomes loosened. Lowered resistance in the tissues surrounding the tooth, incident to some chronic diseases such as diabetes, may invite infection by various bacteria in the mouth, and this gives rise to pyorrhea. Local injury to the gums and ill-fitting dental appliances are other causes.
Boothlets on proper diet for teeth can be procured by writing to this paper and all questions on dental health; or by writing to Dr. H. H. Horman, 345 Millburn avenue, Millburn, N. J.

Red Cross Offers Material For Residents to Sew

TO the Editor of the SUN:
Will you please give the following notice a place in the columns of this week's issue:
If there are any families in Springfield who are in real need of clothing which they cannot afford to buy and who are able and willing to sew for themselves, they can obtain material from the local Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The National organization of the Red Cross have been very generous to Springfield in the past and the material we now have on hand is only a small part of that given us during the past year to provide clothing for the needy families of our town.
Apply to the chairman of the Garment committee, Mrs. L. F. MacCartney, 33 Sovereign avenue, or your appeals may be made to her through Mrs. M. Gulleck, the Red Cross nurse, or Miss Florence Gaudineer, the school nurse.

ETTA R. GEIGER
Secretary
Springfield Red Cross.

U. S. Leads in Water Purification
America not only leads the world in per-capita consumption of water but in devising methods whereby the purity of the water supply is protected until it reaches the lips of the user. Engineers have built gigantic purifying and filtering plants and the numbers have successfully coped with the problem of supplying water to the 102-story skyscraper.

Arnold's Lameness
Benedit Arnold was lame. Soreness thig wounds received at Quebec and at Saratoga beset him having a shortened left leg. He referred to himself as having "become a cripple in the service of my country."

SPRINGFIELD
Population—1922 4,000 (est.) 1929, 4,715. Assessed valuations—1929, $5,498,310. Tax rate, 1929—Township, $3.22; state and county, $1.06. Incorporated 1897, settled early in 1700's. Springfield is essentially a township of homes. It is 65 minutes from New York City on the electrified D. L. & W. Railroad and has excellent bus connections to Newark, Elizabeth, Summit and Plainfield. The railroad stations at Millburn and Short Hills are less than a mile from Springfield. The Rahway Valley Railroad, giving service for factories, commercial and industrial purposes. State Highway Route 25 makes it convenient to reach New York in thirty minutes by car when completed. Numerous state and county highways pass through the township. It has good streets; water; gas; electricity and a newly opened sanitary sewer system. Of interest in Revolutionary history with its historic Presbyterian Church where Roy James Caldwell, called "Give 'em boys, boys," in the midst of the Battle of Springfield fought June 28, 1776. Several colonial landmarks are to be found in Springfield, one of the oldest communities in Union County.

Barnum's Famous Slogan
P. T. Barnum, the circus man, was born in Bethel, Conn., in 1810 and died in 1891. Yet so indelibly did this extraordinary showman impress himself upon the public that the phrase he coined and made famous still lives and is associated with the entertainment at which he excelled. "The Greatest Show on Earth" is Barnum's contribution to the lexicon of youths from nine to ninety.
The Ermine Wessel
The ermine wessel is found in the north of both the eastern and western continents.
The Horned Grebe
The horned grebe has no tail. Its legs are set far back upon its body and when it stands up it has the upright position of a penguin. The toes are flattened and separate, but broadly fringed at their edges. There are little hinges on each side of the toes which are a sort of apology for the webs between the toes of the other water fowls. The bill is straight and conical and the eyes red like rubies.
Humanity's Chief Aim
Humanity's chief practical aim must always be to attain economic stability and self-sufficiency.

A&P again buys the GRAND CHAMPION

WE have just bought this Grand Champion Baby Aberdeen-Angus Steer at the World's Record Price. We did this for two reasons: First—to support the worthy 4-H Club movement. Second—to encourage the production of the better grade of meats such as sold in our markets.

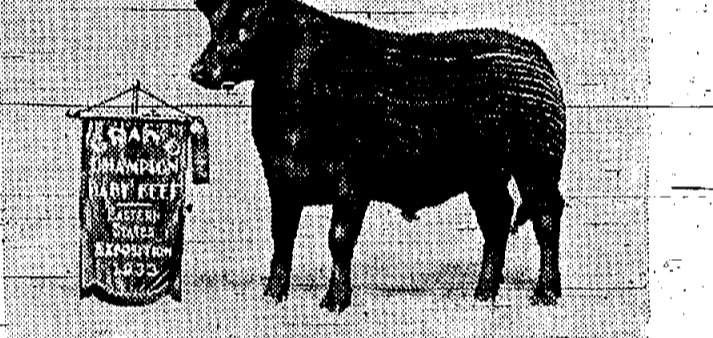

We have always believed that we can sell more meat by selling quality only . . . and that once you know how good our meats are, you will buy them always.

School Notes

THE FRIGHTENED BIRDS

One day last week we were working in our room. Some birds were outside the window. There of the birds flew in. The class was in an uproar. Every one shouted. The teacher opened the top window and off the bird flew away.

ARROW HEADS

Next week we will have a display of real Indian arrowheads. We may also have some tools that were used by the Indians, years ago. All of these interesting things were gathered from the meadows and swamp lands of South Jersey. Some were buried in mud. Others were found in dry seasons when the water left the meadows.

RA-NOTES

On the first day of school we were sitting in class and Miss Harvey asked some pupils to take a large dog out of her room. Someone went into take it and when he came back the dog followed him into the 3-A classroom. Finally, we succeeded in

BASKETBALL

This year Mr. Nels said we will play basketball early. All the boys are going out for basketball and have a better chance to make the team. This year everyone will try his hardest to make the team because Mr. Nels said he would pick the best players in any grade from the sixth to ninth.

GRADE 3 ACTIVITY

We studied about the Monarch butterfly. Derwent Cartwell brought three butterflies to class for us to see.

GRADE 9C CHALLENGES

Our name is "Loyalty Hall." Our motto is "Well-Try." And now our motto is "Well-Try." The 9A class has always been designated as the highest between 9A and 9C but we are going to beat the 9A so had in all activity that they will never get ahead of us. If we follow our motto, "Well-Try," we will be certain to overtake them.

OUR GYM PERIOD

This year 6B takes physical training in the gymnasium instead of our classroom. Mr. Nels is our teacher. At

4TH GRADE SPEAKS

Last week we made colored posters for the P. T. A. notices. We read in geography about keloks and koofohs. Keloks are rarts made of poles and inflated goat skins. Koofohs are bowl-shaped boats made of asphalt and willow reeds. They are used on the Tigra River. Every morning pupils bring news stories to be read and pasted in our scrap book.

WON P. T. A. BANNER

Our class won the P. T. A. banner this month and were very glad. Our teacher had a caterpillar which made a cocoon. One day we saw the cocoon open. A lovely black and orange butterfly came out. We put it on a flower. When its wings were strong, away it flew.

7B ELECTS

7B has elected class officers as follows: President, Matthew Edwards; vice-president, Betty Palzer; secretary, John Mulligan. The president appointed Louise Trivett as the class news reporter.

SYNOPSIS

A pretty young woman finds herself in a taxi cab in New York with a strange man who addresses her as "Rocky" and speaks of "an awful shock." He leaves her for a moment, and she drives on, for she fears him. She stops at the Biltmore, wondering who she is. Her memory is gone. From the evidence of her clothing and wedding ring—she concludes she is married to a wealthy man. The nameless girl meets a young woman who speaks of her desire to go to Reno for a divorce. If she can get the money. The woman vanishes with the nameless girl's $100. An elderly woman, Mrs. Oscar Du Val, cordially greets the nameless girl, addressing her as "Doris," wife of Mrs. Du Val's son, Rocky. Rocky is absent, and Doris, bewildered, is taken to the home of Mrs. Du Val and her scolding husband, Oscar. Doris falls in love with Rocky's photograph, but cannot remember having married him. Discovering a trademark in her clothing, she visits a store, and is astounded when a saleswoman insists she is the same woman. She returns to the Du Val's, more mystified than ever. Rocky returns, to discover the deception. He demands to know who she is and why his wife went her to his home. She cannot tell him. He accuses her of some form of gold digger. They agree to take the case to his parents, to proceed, for the time being, they are husband and wife.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

She took up his picture and studied it. Rocky was even handsomer than his picture. His looks were not at fault—it was the everlasting mockery in his eyes that she could not bear. She paced up and down now, beating her feet into the floor of her room. "But can I blame him?" she muttered. "Look what he must think I am."

Someone knocked on the door. Doris sat down on the edge of her chair. "Come in."

Mrs. Du Val entered and raised her pudgy hands in protest. "What, you are not in bed? Ah Doris, Doris, I came to say good-night."

"I was just getting ready for bed!" She dived into the bathroom. Mrs. Du Val would not be satisfied until she was under the covers. Well, she could get undressed and get in bed, and when the fussy little woman was gone she could get up and put on her clothes again.

She came out and began faking off her clothes as quickly as possible. In a few minutes she was in bed. Mrs. Du Val was kissing her good-night. "I leave one little light for Rocky," she said tenderly. She closed the door.

Doris bounced out of bed. She switched on several lights, feverishly put on her stockings. She considered the room wildly. It looked too intimate. She began to make up the bed, tucking the covers in neatly at the sides.

She gave a long sigh, straightened. She would put on a little cotton sport dress, low heeled shoes. At least Rocky would see she wasn't trying to look seductive. She crossed to the closet to get them, and heard Rocky at the door.

She stepped into the closet. He came in quietly. She listened. Her heart was once more playing its familiar rat-tat-tat. At last he spoke. "Aren't you being the least bit fashionable?"

She made no answer. "For God's sake come out of that closet. I won't bite you. You seem to have caught your clothes in the door." She was struggling to put on a long lace negligee, but it resisted her. That was it, then. It was caught in the door.

She opened it cautiously. The lace gave a small protesting murmur. "You've ripped it, baby." She came out, trying to look dignified. "Please don't call me baby."

"What's that, I call you that?"

"The fact that you couldn't answer his question irritated her. To have no name had been a tragedy. Now it was merely an annoyance. Being a false wife was so much worse.

She fixed her eyes on him gravely. She was surprised to see a slow flush come into his tanned cheeks. He dropped his eyes. In spite of herself Doris was mollified. She smiled a little.

"That's a nasty little smile," said Rocky. "Have you been practicing it?" All her fury came back. "You're awful."

"I am it all. Do you have to be the prima donna every minute?"

"It is a prima donna!"

"I don't know what else you call it to keep up this part of injured innocence. You'd think from your attitude that I was trying to palm myself off as your husband or your family."

Doris sat herself down violently. "You—you! You twist everything! Didn't I say I was willing to tell your parents? Weren't you the one who wanted to keep this up? Another thing, I won't have you in my room. If you don't get out immediately I'll open the door and scream."

She watched him light a cigarette. "Will you have one?"

"No."

"No thanks," is the conventional term, I believe.

"This situation isn't entirely conventional. If you think you're going to spend the night here, you're mistaken."

"Oh yes?"

"I meant it when I said I'd scream."

"You haven't screamed yet, Honey."

"And don't call me—"

"Honey? All right, but what do you want to be called? Sugarfoot?"

"Look here, I can't sit here and chat with you all evening."

"Fraid you'll have to put up with me for a little while."

"I won't."

She rose and began pacing back and forth excitedly. The heavy train of her nightgown swished after her like an angry little snake.

"Look here, I can see all your charms quite well when you're sitting quietly. You don't have to display them like that."

"I'd like to smash something over your head!"

Rocky got out of his chair and faced her. He put his hands on her shoulders. "You're a cute all right, aren't you?"

"Stop it!"

"The yellow and lavender draperies of her gown were being crushed in his fingers. "I'm only a susceptible male, after all, you know."

An electric current swept her, leaving her helpless and more angry than ever. "Let go of me!"

"Nice perfume you use!"

"I don't use perfume."

"What is that lovely smell?"

"I don't know. Get away from me. Toilet powder, I imagine. This is too awful." What a fool she was being!

She was confused, avoiding his eyes. He dropped his hands. "Oh well, I thought you might kiss your husband good-night."

She looked at him hopefully. "Good-night?"

"Yes, I think the family have gone to bed by now, and I can sneak into another room."

An absurd flush of gratitude swept over her. She snatched her lavender kimono lying on the foot of the bed. She got into it, hardly taking her eyes from Rocky's face.

Beautiful? His hand touched the coverlet. Doris could hardly speak for a minute. Then she raised herself suddenly. The comforter fell from the lace bodice of her gown. "You're behaving like a boy of six." She snatched her lavender kimono lying over the foot of the bed. She got into it, hardly taking her eyes from Rocky's face.

"The maid left the room as she faced him. "If you're embarrassed," he began grinning.

"I'm not embarrassed." She surveyed him calmly. His grin became lifeless, awkward. He reddened. "Isn't this all rather unnecessary?" she asked him.

He spoke slowly, the awkwardness disappearing. "I was just thinking it would have been better if I guess if Doris hadn't sent me one as pretty as you. I had all sorts of thoughts looking at you a minute ago."

She smiled gently. Her hand rested where the robe lapped over at her throat. The other hand held the soft folds together on one hip. She half wanted to add "But you know Doris didn't send me to you." But there was something vaguely pathetic about him now. Poor fellow! He didn't know why she was here any more than she did herself.

"You know I could almost believe whatever you might happen to tell me about yourself right now." His lips moved slowly into a cynical expression. "You women!"

Doris escaped into the bathroom, locked the door.

When she came out, she found the breakfast table heavy with coffee, oatmeal, grapefruit, pancakes, bacon and sausages. In the center a bowl of early roses lent a bridal touch. Rocky was standing at the window, watching. Doris stood still, severely in her expression. "It hasn't occurred to you, I suppose, that I might like to be left alone for a minute." Her face was pinched back quaintly but beginning. Her face was carelessly dusted with powder and, judging from the way she held the robe closely about her, she had very little on.

Doris meditated. The situation between Rocky and his wife seemed very odd. Why was it that he did not want to expose his false position to his family at once? Why was he not more worried about the whereabouts of the real Doris?

She opened her eyes. Rocky stood at the foot of the bed. How long had he been there? She went hot all over. "Well?"

"My sweet, beautiful wife!"

She pulled the comforter up to her chin. She tried to glare boldly back at him but the color flew to her cheeks. "I don't think that's very funny."

"Funny? Gosh, it's no joke, I've just been with Mother and listened for one solid hour to the epic entitled: Lucky Rocky's Beautiful Wife. My sweet, beautiful wife." He sighed, smiled with patient disillusionment. "The old pose of wounded virtue, eh? I suppose you're not accustomed to having gentlemen euliers in your household?"

"No, I'm not."

"But a husband is different?"

Doris was a bit startled by his confident manner. She watched him

CHAPTER V

Doris had a heavy sense of guilt. Now that she had found that she did not belong there, where should she go? She thought confusedly of Rocky.

Rocky as he was, Rocky as she had imagined him, of Mrs. Du Val and her kindness of the past few weeks, of Mrs. Du Val when she learned the truth. At last she slept.

When she woke, the sun was shining. The birds were singing. The paper flowers on the walls were gay and friendly. Rocky's picture was still arranged so that she could see it from her bed. "He's too wonderful," she thought. "Handsome than the picture, and more desirable—but—he despises me."

Doris had a heavy sense of guilt. Now that she had found that she did not belong there, where should she go? She thought confusedly of Rocky.

Rocky as he was, Rocky as she had imagined him, of Mrs. Du Val and her kindness of the past few weeks, of Mrs. Du Val when she learned the truth. At last she slept.

When she woke, the sun was shining. The birds were singing. The paper flowers on the walls were gay and friendly. Rocky's picture was still arranged so that she could see it from her bed. "He's too wonderful," she thought. "Handsome than the picture, and more desirable—but—he despises me."

Doris meditated. The situation between Rocky and his wife seemed very odd. Why was it that he did not want to expose his false position to his family at once? Why was he not more worried about the whereabouts of the real Doris?

She opened her eyes. Rocky stood at the foot of the bed. How long had he been there? She went hot all over. "Well?"

"My sweet, beautiful wife!"

She pulled the comforter up to her chin. She tried to glare boldly back at him but the color flew to her cheeks. "I don't think that's very funny."

"Funny? Gosh, it's no joke, I've just been with Mother and listened for one solid hour to the epic entitled: Lucky Rocky's Beautiful Wife. My sweet, beautiful wife." He sighed, smiled with patient disillusionment. "The old pose of wounded virtue, eh? I suppose you're not accustomed to having gentlemen euliers in your household?"

"No, I'm not."

"But a husband is different?"

Doris was a bit startled by his confident manner. She watched him to pop to flick a bit of ashes that had dropped to the carpet. Her feet under the quilts drew sharply away.

Doris had a heavy sense of guilt. Now that she had found that she did not belong there, where should she go? She thought confusedly of Rocky.

Rocky, still bending, looked up at this movement. "So timid." He shook his head. "Doris pulled a subtle one on me this time. For a minute I thought you actually were afraid of me."

Doris eyed him disgustedly as he sauntered across the room. "Afraid of you? Certainly not—but if you were to get out, I might get up," she said.

"Why, we're going to have a cozy little breakfast here together." He picked up a pretty slipper and began slapping it in his palms.

"I wouldn't want to be separated from my wife at breakfast. Besides Mother's having it sent up for us. It seems that you're in too delicate a condition—"

Doris scowled but she felt her cheeks growing red. "I'm feeling quite well."

"Yes, Mother's been telling me that at such a time—" he discarded the slipper—"what a fluent liar you turned out to be."

Doris felt hot all over. "I didn't make up that story. You did."

"No, Doris did. Fooled me. At least I think so now."

"You mean the real Doris told you she was going to have a baby?"

He nodded.

"And she's somewhere now having it? And you don't even care enough about her to look it up. You ought to be with her this minute instead of sitting here talking to me."

He smiled lazily. "But I'm so crazy about you."

Doris bit her lip angrily.

He rose. "Here's breakfast. I'll help you, Estelle." He took the table from the maid and placed it at Doris' head.

"I'd like to get up and get my bath before breakfast," said Doris.

He answered with mock tenderness, one eye on Estelle. "Shall I help you."

"Well, honey has always disagreed with me."

A New York lawyer tells of a conversation that occurred in his presence between a bank president and his son who was about to leave for the West to engage in business on his own account.

Banker Father—Son, on this, the threshold of your business life, I desire to impress one thought upon your mind. Honesty, ever and always, is the policy that is best.

Son—Yes, father.

Banker Father—And, by the way, I would advise you to read up a little on corporation law. It will amaze you to discover how many things you can do in a business way and still be honest.—Herald (Times Star).

WAS HIS FACE RED?
The reporter had just submitted his manuscript to the editor. Leaving the editorial room, he began to reflect upon what he had written, and decided to go back and change something in it.

"I have a few changes to make in that copy I submitted," he said.

The editor reached into the waste-paper basket and fished out the great work.

"All right, but make it snappy; the waste-paper baskets will be emptied in five minutes."—Kansas City Star.

"This watch, though so tiny, keeps perfect time," the clerk remarked.

"That doesn't make any difference," replied the man. "I'm buying it for my wife and correct time means nothing in her life. A wrist watch is just a bracelet to her."

Two of my children are boys, and I have tremendous washes. Those youngsters just will sit on the bed with their shoes on, they leave grime on face towels, they play in dirt all day. I could never get the clothes clean. They looked so grey I was ashamed to hang them out. Then I tried Fels-Naptha Soap and what a surprise! My clothes were whiter and sweeter each time they came from the tub.

You bet it's easier to wash clothes so much naptha you can smell it! clean with Fels-Naptha Soap. Together, they give you extra help—they loosen the grimeiest the job—good golden soap and dirt—without hard rubbing.

Recalls 'an Era of Biblical Wars

Modern Assyrian Uprising That May Have Grave Consequences.

Once more, as in the days when Hezekiah ruled in Jerusalem, the Assyrians crop up in the news. When, under Sennacherib, king of Nineveh, "the Assyrians came down like a wolf on the fold," the Hebrew bribes of gold and silver, jewels and dancing girls were not enough to halt the invader. But a plague broke out among Sennacherib's cohorts, all "gleaning in purple and gold," and he returned to Nineveh, whose ruined walls can be seen across the River Tigris from modern Mosul. Dispatches report an uprising of Assyrians in Iraq.

"Today the 'Assyrians' of Iraq are a Christian minority living a precarious existence along the frontiers of Turkey, Syria, and Iraq. They are isolated, like their neighbors, the Kurds, Turks, and Iraqis among whom they live," says Dr. Maynard Owen Williams in a communication to the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"In Baghdad they are called 'Christians' and play the part of riveter in the 'Tigris-Sitt' capital of this new kingdom of Iraq, whose business is in the hands of the Jews, and air transport is borne on the backs of Kurdish porters."

"During the World War, the Assyrians, holed about by age-old enemies, helped the allies, only to have the Turkish tide sweep back to inevitable reprisals. Now, England, whose protégé Iraq has been, views fresh uprisings north of the Mosul oil fields with alarm and King Feisal had been urged not to leave by plane for Switzerland."

"Deep in the heart of Central Asia the Chinese-Mongol expedition found caves at Tunzakh in which Buddhist ruler-stamp art had been superimposed upon Uighur inscriptions in an alphabet derived from the Syriac, still used by the 'Assyrians' and the parent script for the Mongols and Manchus of later years."

"Now Syria's Church of the East extended its influence to Merv and Sinking is still a mystery, but Christianity and Mohammedanism swept eastward across Asia almost simultaneously, and the Nestorian tablet discovered in Shan, Shensi, shows that by 787 A. D. Nestorian Christianity, officially recognized by imperial decree in 635, had spread far and wide through China. One can well imagine the surprise of Jesuit missionaries when they found that a form of Christianity had preceded them into China by more than a thousand years."

"In the region where Kurdistan breaks away toward the Tigris valley, military operations are very difficult, and Kurdish tribes were upped to recently by speeches in their own tongue broadcast from loud speakers in low-flying planes. A joint force of British and Iraq forces saved an army column trapped near British during a campaign against the Kurdish sheik. Ajihad of Barzan. The whole region is one conducive to guerrilla warfare and irregular engagements. "When, in the hand of Schahrazade, an Arab king boards the modern flying carpet to escape the terrible heat, jet airplanes are used to bombard Kurdish tribesmen, indomitable fighters since the days of Xenophon, with radio threats and pleas, it is quite evident that the 'unchanging East' is changing. But the lot of the Christian minorities along the upper reaches of the Tigris remains a problem.

"The Assyrian name has persisted, although changed in meaning until it now applies to a small group of Nestorian Christians, related perhaps to that semi-fabulous 'Proster John' so famous in the chronicles of medieval travelers. The modern Assyrians are so little known that visitors to Asia are unable to learn in what way this small group, now threatened by massacre, has continued its life and identity among so many enemies."

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for every body. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. A. A.

AT MILLBURN

"Blitzkrieg" with Norma Pauler, Henrietta Crossman and Marlin Nixon heads the attractions at the Millburn Theatre tomorrow and Saturday. The associate feature will be "Tarzan the Fearless" with Hunter Crabbe.

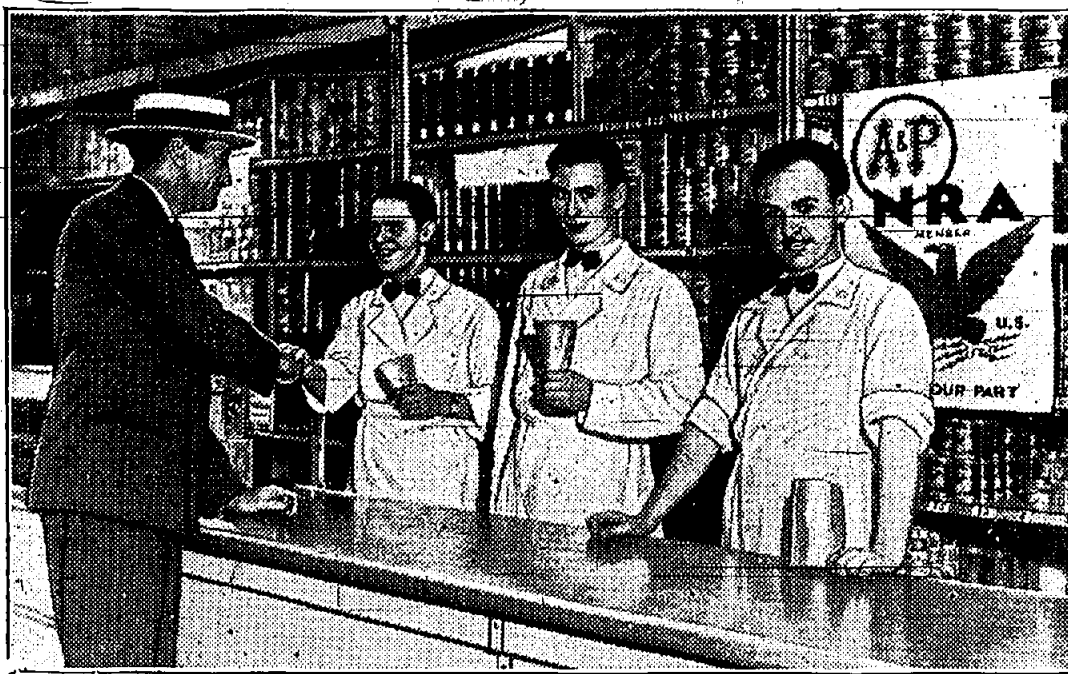

Leslie Howard has the leading role in "Captured" to be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Also on the bill will be "Big Executive" with Ricardo Cortez, Elizabeth Young and Richard Bonner. The drama relates the intimate secrets of a young financier wizard and is a graphic interpretation of the lives led by multi-millionaires and their struggle and wealth and fame on the street supposed to be paved with gold Wall street.

High Altitude Aids Arteries. Observations made by a skilled doctor are leading to the relief of some of the ills of the arteries that hamper circulation of the blood in the arms or legs. High altitudes relieve clogged artery cases.

Use for Porcupine Quills. Miniature furniture for a doll's house, made from porcupine quills, beads and pins, by a Singapore cripple, has been presented by the Queen of England, to the Victoria and Albert museum in London.

Happy Days ARE Here Again

HERE are some of the clerks in the stores of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company who benefited directly by A & P's lineup behind the President in signing the National Recovery Administration code affecting salaries and working hours. They are being congratulated by Federal Agent James Finn Hodgson of the Bureau of Foreign & Domestic Commerce. Including clerks in the 15,358 A & P stores there are a total of 90,000 employees of the organization, many thousands of whose wages and working hours were affected when A & P voluntarily signed General Johnson's code. In addition many new clerks and office workers have been employed. Figuring the average family in the country to consist of three persons, the total affected by these A & P salary raises numbers in the tens of thousands, or far more than the inhabitants of an average city. The A & P is one of the first large organizations to thus get behind President Roosevelt to bring back "happy days." All A & P stores display the Blue Eagle which is accorded to all stores of the NRA code.

The "Know Your Town" contest held at the troop meeting Friday night was a great success. The Scouts responded heartily to this new form of entertainment. Those who received the highest marks were: William Krenke, Robert Hoernig, Raymond Kimball, and Herbert Logan, 95 per cent each. The Scouts went all over town to find the answers to the questions given them at the beginning of the meeting. More meetings like this will increase interest in local Scouting. Ten Scouts from Springfield were present at Court of Honor in the Community Church in Union Sunday night of these, Patrol Leaders Robert Koller and Raymond Schmidt, Scouts Raymond Kimball, Jack Lane, Robert Hoernig, and yours truly received awards.

We wish at this time to express sincere sympathy and best wishes to Scout Francis Kryehor who is recuperating from an appendicitis operation in Overlook Hospital. We'll be seeing ya, Franzy. An Officers Meeting was held Tuesday night at Scoutmaster Hoagland's home. Dramatic action is to be taken on those fellows who haven't passed the required number of tests. Better get to work, lads:—THE NEWS SCOUT.

AT THE STRAND

One of Franz Schubert's most beautiful songs is sung by Marlene Dietrich in her new Paramount picture, "The Song of Songs," which is to play at the Roth Strand Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The song, "Hedgeroses," was chosen by Rouben Mamoulian, the director of the picture, because its charm and simplicity harmonize so effectively with the mood of Miss Dietrich's characterization of an innocent German country girl. "The Song of Songs," adapted from Hermann Sudermann's literary classic presents Miss Dietrich as a young girl who suffers in her search for an ideal love. She is supported by a cast headed by Brian Aherne, Lionel Atwill, Alison Skipworth, Hardie Albright and Helen Preeman.
