Defeat Of Municipal Finance Legislation Now Appears Likely

Minority Leader John J. Rafferty Believes Bill Will Be Defeated—Many Protests Received.

In the opinion of Minority Leader John J. Rafferty, of Middlesex County, the bill of Senator Harbour, of Passaic, which has the endorsement of the New Jersey Legislature and the Chamber of Commerce and Limit Municipal Current Operating Expenses to 75 per cent of such expenses for 1934 and a reduction of five per cent for the next five years, will not be passed.

"The bill hasn't a chance, I am positive that it will be defeated," Mr. Rafferty, who is definitely aligned against the bill, declared Saturday evening. "Protests against the measure have reached Mr. Rafferty's office in such quantity that he has more than a little difficulty in handling them. One mail alone brought 200 letters.

"I am opposed to the measure," Mr. Rafferty explained, "because it is unfair. It would mean the closing of some of our schools and would cripple others. It would ultimately cause the abolition of our fire and police departments. It would terminate many of our essential public services."

"In continuing Mr. Rafferty declared, "I do not believe the bill will pass the House, but in the event it does, it surely will not pass the House."

"The municipalities are reducing governmental costs," Mr. Rafferty said. "New Brunswick has brought about a 20 per cent reduction in governmental costs. There has been a 35 per cent drop in Camden. Jersey City has cut expenses 40 per cent and nearly every municipality has been cutting governmental costs."

"It is my contention that there must be a pinching down by bankers on interest charges. The bankers must accept reduced interest rates on loans. The tenant hope for lower taxes and at the same time expect to receive six per cent on their money. They must accept a share of the cut."

A change in the tax base to relieve the present burden upon real estate, is advocated by Mr. Rafferty. He favors new revenues for the support of schools, maintenance of prosecutor's office and county judges and other services that cannot be raised at State.

"In conclusion, Mr. Rafferty said, "I believe there should be a suspension of highway construction and the funds diverted for governmental expenses. This would help to relieve the burden of taxation on real estate."

No Further Action In Honixfeld Case

The Township Committee Monday night took no action upon a further request of Joseph Honixfeld, of Seven Bridge road and Maple avenue, for a change in a township ordinance providing a yearly fee of $50 against a front yard at that place. He declared the fee was excessive and pointed out that, although the ordinance provided licensing a second-hand lumber yard, his business was now operated for first-class lumber.

The township committee, however, at a meeting of March 5 seeking a change in the ordinance, and after a striking talk by Honixfeld, the board went into executive session and decided to take no further action, basing its claim on the fact that the ordinance was adopted by a majority vote of the Committee. Mr. Honixfeld, in charge, reported to the board last week that until such time as Honixfeld pays back license fees and a fine amounting $1,100 in all, nothing could be done.

Board Maintains Policy of "Hands Off" at This Time

Mosquito Body In Burn Up Rubbish, Move To Curtail Says Fire Chief

Three Employees Dismissed Due to Reduced Funds

The Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission at a special meeting Friday afternoon voted to disperse for the balance of the year, at least, with the services of its secretary, an assistant superintendent and an engineering inspector. This action was taken because the commission finds the $25,000 appropriation for this year insufficient to carry out its plan with respect to the number of laborers it desired to employ during the summer.

Those affected by the economy move are Louis J. Richards, secretary, whose salary is $1,200 annually; Raymond Dorer, of Roselle, assistant superintendent, at $1,800; and Albert Steiner, of Hillside, engineering inspector, at $1,200. Their duties will fall to Superintendent Ralph J. VanLewerker.

Dr. Henry P. Deimler, of Springfield, president of the commission, declared the commission regrets it was necessary to take this action. A resolution was adopted expressing appreciation of the work of those dropped and particularly with regard to Mr. Richards, who is the health officer of the City of Elizabeth.

"If the 1935 appropriation warrants the net may be restored to service, it was said.

Mr. Richards was one of the prime movers for the creation of the mosquito extermination commission in 1912 and has been directly connected with the commission since its inception. He has also been active in the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination Commission.

Winter Accumulation Causes Hazard, Parkway States

"With Easter Sunday less than a few weeks away, the season for housecleaning is here, and Springfield residents are urged by Fire Chief Charles Parkway to burn all the rubbish which accumulated during the winter months before it burns itself and possibly homes with it."

"The annual cleanup period is the ideal time in which to make a safety inspection of homes, and to make them safe not only from fire, but other accidents as well, Chief Parkway declared. He suggests that particular attention should be given to fire hazards as old rags, newspapers, magazines and other inflammable material should be removed as quickly as possible."

According to the Chief, statistics show that many fires in homes are caused by rubbish which is permitted to remain undisturbed. The recommendations that all citizens in the township should make a thorough inspection of their homes in order to eliminate the possibility of fire starting from refuse hidden away in corners and many times is forgotten until it is too late.

To Show Miniature Of Old Tabernacle

A demonstration of a miniature copy of the Tabernacle during Bible times will be shown Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church by Mrs. Allen C. Elliott, of Elizabeth, superintendent of the Home Department of Union County.

Mrs. Elliott gave her demonstration here earlier in the month, and it proved so very interesting that she is repeating it so that a large audience may enjoy it.

A contest will be held in conjunction with the demonstration, sponsored by the Christian Endeavor Society. A prize of $1 will be given for the best essay written on the description of the Tabernacle.

The contest will be held at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, April 15. The contestants must be under 20 years of age. Only those affiliated with the Presbyterian Church will be eligible. All essays will be called in a week from Sunday and the winner will be announced at the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Christian Endeavor meeting.

All township folk interested are cordially invited to be present Sunday evening.

The Woodmen Rod and Gun Club will hold a card party and dance tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Long and Short Club, 1047 Clinton avenue, Irvington. There will be a prize for each table, and the prize for the forty-five cents may be obtained from Arthur J. Marshall, of 74 Washington avenue.

RELIEF GARDENS TO BE CONDUCTED FOR JERSEY IDLE

Relief gardens financed by the Federal and State Emergency Relief Administration this year will be exclusive individual property. There will be no community gardens as such, but individuals of a group may cultivate individual sections of a single large plot. The produce of that section will belong solely to the individual who is to be assigned the plot.

The relief project is to be coordinated with the extension program of the State I.R.A.s as a Works Department project, and it will be regulated systematically from State headquarters, where a State relief supervisor will be in overall charge. Each county will also have its own supervisor under jurisdiction of the State supervisor. Municipal officers will designate an employee for local inspection work.

The Federal Government has agreed to allot money for subsistence gardens for the unemployed either those receiving relief or those eligible to have it. The grant is subject to the provision that the State I.R.A. shall administer the plan according to Washington regulations. Preliminary to development of the plan an advisory committee has been named by the State Agricultural College, with Dean Jacob G. Lipman as chairman. The committee will prepare specifications for buying plants and seeds and will recommend the character of fertilizer to be used.

All seeds, plants and fertilizers will be purchased through State headquarters. State auditors have been directed to issue no bill for such materials as a relief cost budget locally. Tools will have to be provided by individuals or through local governments or private agencies. Direct relief will not be given because a client is raising his own vegetables.

Mistrial Motion In District Case

Two Springfield Parties In Summit Court Incident

Because a juror knew one of the litigants in a case involving two Springfield parties, his presence on the jury panel was being selected, motion for a mistrial, unusual in district court procedure, was made before Judge John L. Hughes by the plaintiff's attorney in Summit last Thursday.

Alfred and Rose Bellingrath, of Springfield Heights, were suing Robert S. Dunell, 4 Fluener avenue, seeking $500 damages on an allegation that Mrs. Bellingrath had fallen from a stairway in the National Bank Building of Springfield and severely injured herself. The mishap occurred last year as she was going to keep an appointment with Dr. G. Hanrahan, dentist, who has offices in the building.

Bunell was asked to be the owner of the structure and allegedly responsible for maintenance of proper lighting and safeguards in the hallway and on the stairs. Mrs. Bellingrath claimed his failure to do this was directly responsible for her tumble down the street.

SCHAEFER, KNEAF, JURY

Both sides of the case were presented and the jury recessed to consider the case, finally coming out with a verdict of no cause for action in favor of the defendant. Bunell then filed a motion for a mistrial, in which he requested a new juryman, Anthony Schaefer, was a personal friend of Bunell's. Judge Hughes questioned Schaefer at length, the latter claiming not to know Bunell, the defendant's question, "Do you know either of the litigants in this case?" at the beginning of the suit.

Counsel's motion for a mistrial was then formally presented. Judge Hughes asked each juror his opinion on the matter. Bunell said, "I think it would be better to have a new juryman."

Jay Smith was foreman of the jury, which also included Edward Young, Michael M. Amalio, Michael Young, Frederick Stiller, St. Adolpho Corradi, Joseph Formicola, William Sherlock, William Drummond, James J. Gerly and John Seran Hann.

Schaefer parked his truck in front of the other and walked behind Brennan's truck. Brennan was lying underneath the vehicle. Suddenly the brake on the assisting truck slipped and rolled back into the other, pushing the broken-down truck over Brennan's body and Schaefer's foot. Patrolman Joyner rushed both men to Overlook Hospital.

Schools Imperiled by Senate

Bill 214, Board Is Informed; To Hold Hearing Tomorrow

Public Hearing Set For Tomorrow On Budget Control Bill

Considerable Opposition Voiced On Measure To Limit Municipal Expenditures—Hearing Set For 11 O'clock.

Action on the Harbour budget limitation bill, which if passed would force 25 per cent cuts in municipal and school district budgets from 1930 totals, was delayed in the State Senate at its session this week pending a public hearing to start Friday morning at 11 o'clock before the joint municipalities conference at Trenton.

Governor Moore and all members of the Legislature have received numerous objections to the proposed measure by Senator Harbour, of Passaic, on the ground that the provision requiring 25 per cent reduction of current expenses from 1930 totals would be detrimental to the state's education facilities.

A proposal which gained considerable support would vest powers of supervision over local school budgets in Dr. Charles H. Elliott, State Commissioner of Public Instruction. That power under the bill as introduced would be delegated to State Auditor Walter J. Darby, who would become commissioner of local budgets. Senator Harbour said Monday he would suggest an amendment to the municipalities committee to limit Darby's supervision to local government expenditures.

Legislative leaders have been anxious to dispose of this measure, which is part of the municipal economy program, in order to permit consideration of proposals for raising new revenue by imposition of sales and possibly income taxes, in order to relieve the present burden of taxation upon real estate.

The Walker bond and budget bills, which are also part of the economy program, were passed without much opposition in the Senate Monday night. These bills, three in number, revise the county and municipal bond and budget acts and fix a seven per cent limit for school debt in districts whose bonded debt limits are not prescribed by the act of 1933.

Changes Ordered In Plumbing Code

Board of Health Approves Revising Ordinance

The Board of Health Monday night authorized Plumbing Inspector Arthur L. Marshall to make several changes in the township plumbing code ordinance to take care of new conditions. The revised plumbing code will specify the type of plumbing fixtures to be placed in various buildings and will be introduced next month.

Marshall, in recommending the changes, said he found himself unable to enforce installation of certain fixtures since the code did not specify them. The present plumbing code was adopted in 1922. Copies of the code will be printed and distributed at a small charge to meet costs in preparation.

The board authorized Marshall to work in conjunction with Committee member Wilbur M. Selander, REGISTRAR'S REPORT

Robert D. Treat, registrar, reported ten reportable diseases during February, as follows: Scarlet fever, three; chicken pox, four; and whooping cough, three. There were three births, one marriage, and one death during the month.

Upon the recommendation of Committee member Selander, who complained of too many stray dogs roaming about streets in the township, he has ordered a letter sent to Fred Mithsengue, poundkeeper, to pick up all stray dogs not carrying license tags. The annual township drive to distribute dog licenses will commence May 1.

The secretary reported that a complaint about delay in posting a conclusion sign at a case at 25 Bryant avenue was not the Dr. his office or the health officer. Dr. Henry P. Deimler, an out-of-town physician from Newark, who was late in reporting the disease to the Board of Health.

The secretary reported all milk license dealers in 1933 had renewed their licenses, and that, as far as he could check revealed, all milk dealers distributing within the township limits were licensed.

"Bolero" at Strand—Sunday For 3-Days

As the scenes of Paramount's "Bolero" unfold on the screen of the Roth Strand Theatre this Sunday Monday and Tuesday, the audience will see a new and more glamorous George Raft come to life as the hero of this absorbing story of an internationally famous dancer, who won fame at the price of his life and happiness.

Raft, who for a time has been typed as a player of "menace" roles, comes to his true characterization in this role. He and Carole Lombard, who plays his partner, show extraordinary skill in the dancing sequences, which feature the music of Ravel's famous "Bolero." But this is not amazing, because he was one of the nation's foremost dancers before he came to the screen.

"Bolero," which in some instances has been called "The story of a struggling young coal worker who rises to international fame as a dancer." He is talented but ruthless, and he sweeps all obstacles from his path. He discards his lovely partners, as they lose their usefulness.

After returning a shattered wreck from the World War, he dies in an attempt to revive his fame, dying with the only partner he had actually loved.

Sally Rand, Chicago's famous fan-dancer, is importantly cast in the picture, as one of Raft's dancing partners and proves her acting ability by her excellent work in this picture.

"Bolero," which was directed by Wesley Ruggles, numbers several important players in the supporting cast, including Frances Drake, William Frawley and others.

FEATURE ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

MORE TO "HIT SHOWS" THAN MEETS THE EYE

By DOG SCHNURMACHER

NEW YORK CITY. With the theatrical season well past the midway point, and with more hits on the boards than there have been in several years, Broadway producers and dramatists are beginning to speculate as to what has brought about the change which has made hit shows bloom in such abundance that were once rare. The answer is simple: money is the primary reason given—more interest by the public in the theatre, more money being made by the theatre than in the past. Many of the legitimate stage, notably, Miriam Hopkins, Roland Young, Hal Skelly, Helen Hayes, Katherine Hepburn, Walter Huston and many others.

Food Market Advice

THE roast beef of Old England has a tradition behind it, but it was never any better than the roast beef sold in our American markets—lender, juicy beef from corn fed steers cooked to just the doneness that you like. Or, if you prefer a boiled or baked ham on Sunday or any other dinner feast.

For everyday fare, roast veal or veal outfit makes a pleasant variation from the pork and lamb which we use in turn with beef and poultry. And speaking of beef, there is no better flavored cut than chuck. Though not as tender as porterhouse, when braised, chuck steak is most delicious. Another popular meat, economical and suited to the family is the smoked pork butt. It may be sliced and pan fried or boiled whole and baked like ham.

The fish markets are better supplied as if in preparation for Lent. Almost any taste can be satisfied at moderate cost. Oysters and various filleted fish are plentiful. Halibut and salmon steaks are also available.

Green vegetables seem to go especially well with fish and a large selection may be found in most markets. Spinach is delicious served with lemon juice and butter. The cabbage family, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and cabbage itself also respond to this treatment as well as to "braising" or serving with cheese sauce. Green beans and peas are also good choices. Beets and carrots are good with a thickened sweet-sour sauce. The outer stalks of celery which are unusually cheap just now combine well with onions when they are sliced together. New potatoes are arriving but there are still plenty of old white potatoes and sweet potatoes.

Although we depend on apples, oranges and grapefruit as daily staples, the chances that strawberries and rhubarb bring are very welcome. California navel oranges too are a change from the Florida type. All of these fruits are reasonable or low in price.

Bananas of better quality are arriving but not in sufficient quantity to affect the price. Small quantities of pineapples, cucumbers, egg plants and lima beans are arriving from the West Indies.

Here is an appealing menu prepared from the foods that our experts consider especially suitable for this week.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

KISSING other women is not cruelty on the part of a husband. So says Supreme Court Judge Peter Schmeck of New York.

A woman sued her husband for separation, claiming "cruel and inhuman treatment in his constantly demonstrating affection for other women, such as kissing a young woman they met in a hotel lobby."

But that, in the opinion of the judge, was not cruelty at all. It wasn't even inconsiderate.

"Marriage is not a monastic retirement," said he, "and a married man is not a social leper when the bonds are united."

In fact, "marriage is builded on too firm a foundation to be shaken by whim, disappointment or selfishness."

The "whim" and "selfishness" to which the judge refers, was of course on the part of the wife whom he called hysterical and super-sensitive, "as evidenced by her peculiar idea of a wife's monopoly of her husband's kisses."

"We will be impelled to wonder if the judge would call 'hysterical' a man who objected to his wife's bestowing them freely on other men, so generous with her kisses that he included an attractive specimen he and she happened to meet in a hotel lobby!"

Of course when a woman marries she does not take the veil—nor is she a "social leper." Why shouldn't she kiss other men? Certainly only the evil minded would object. It is a "peculiar idea," indeed, for a man to claim monopoly of his wife's kisses.

Why not? Sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, Judge!

irrespective of what has contributed to the boom of the theatre this year, the veteran producer has his own particular formula for a hit play, good plays, good names, good staging and direction is his accepted recipe. Some producers, however, insist on more than just these production essentials.

Karl Carroll, whose "Murder in the Vanities" has been a hit show for the past six months, is a prominent example of this. Carroll, whose selection of the most beautiful girls in the world, whose "Vanities" and other productions have been Broadway talk for years, insists on realism and is a stickler for detail.

As an example of this, there is one scene in the current "Murder in the Vanities" in which Miss Pauline Moore has her arm bandaged. Following the best first aid procedure, the bandage, if you please, is no ordinary piece of lint, but actually a Red Cross bandage, the best obtainable, held in place by waterproof drybak adhesive tape, the newest contribution to artifice of the Red Cross Products Division of the Johnson and Johnson Company. It is a little detail, it is true, but the psychological effect on Miss Moore is such that, after the bandage has been carefully applied, Miss Moore actually "feels" that her arm is hurt and this feeling adds realism to her performance. It's of many details such as these that hit are made and Karl Carroll, astute producer that he is, knows it!

FOOD FOR THE SICK

SO MUCH depends upon the food that is served the convalescent, as to the quick return to health. Ofttimes the food is the one thing on which the life of the patient hinges.

When no invalid tray is at hand, use a large tray and support it on each side by books. This will remove the weight from the patient and the dread of upsetting the tray.

The prettiest china and the daintiest of all-linens should be used to brighten the tray. To those who are ill, the coming of an attractive tray with something tasty and good to tempt the appetite is one of the most interesting times of the day.

Have the food surprise, and if the patient is a child, many clever little devices may be used to excite the appetite. Where the mother is nurse, housekeeper and cook, it is not surprising that she may find little time for fancy tray accessories.

When the appetite must be tempted, have the conversation upon some pleasant happening, see that the eating is going on with as little talk as possible about the food.

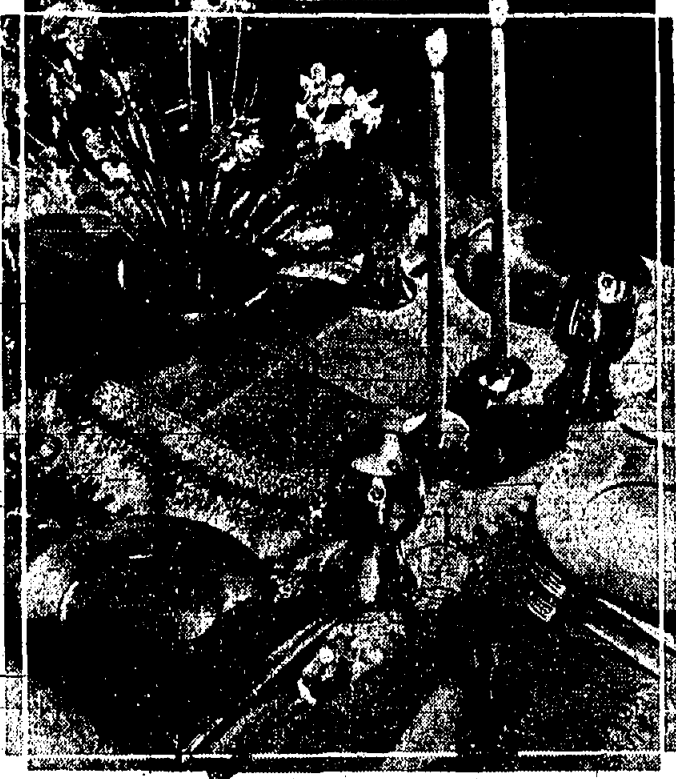

Gruels are one of the important foods given an invalid. All cereals are prepared in the same way, using two or three tablespoons to a quart of water. Cook for several hours in a double boiler; strain before serving. Long, slow cooking is important in the cooking of cereals for those who are ill.

- Chicken Broth
A good broth may be prepared from the neck, wing tips and feet of the chicken. Soak the feet in boiling water and remove the skin and nails; place in cold water and simmer until the meat falls from the bones. Celery may be added while cooking; simmer for two hours; strain, season and serve hot or cold.
- Lemon Jelly
Soak a tablespoonful of gelatin in three tablespoonfuls of cold water; add three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water and four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice with five tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stir until dissolved. Pour into a wet mold and set away to harden. This makes two servings.

New Collars For Spring

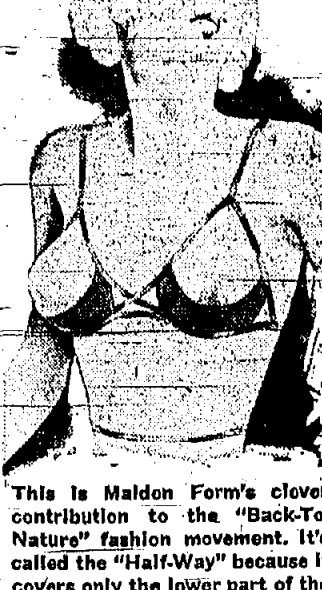

Ruth Etting, radio's most popular songstress, favors unusual necklines for her spring wardrobe. Here Miss Etting is seen presiding at one of her Sunday night onion soup parties for stars of the stage, screen and air. With the new canned soup, opened at the last minute, the singer finds it possible to play hostess and cook at the same time. This dark blue tailored dress, designed for informal entertaining, is distinguished by the double jabots at the side replacing the customary round or square collar.

New Hats Demand Eye Makeup

Off-Face Hats New Vogue—The new hats perch so far back on the head as to give the face an "undressed" appearance. Beauty experts decree "dressing" of the eyes judiciously with a little maybelline mascara, eyebrow pencil and eye shadow if you are to appear at your best in the new style.

A "BACK-TO-NATURE" BRASSIERE

This is Maldon Form's clever contribution to the "Back-To-Nature" fashion movement. It's called the "Half-Way" because it covers only the lower part of the bust, leaving the upper half open and unconfined. It is so made that it supports and uplifts perfectly, giving exquisitely natural lines.

Net Curtains Follow The Vogue For White

White is so important in decoration these days that many lovely new fabrics are appearing in this smart shade. "Moonbeam" in flax net is the sheer glass curtain in pure white used with heavy white over draperies in this modern room.

Your Teeth and Your Health

By DR. J. M. WISAN
Chairman, Council on Mouth Hygiene, New Jersey State Dental Society

C. W. S. and Children's Dentistry

THE writer attended the meeting when Dr. Julius Levy, Director of New Jersey Child Hygiene Bureau, Dr. G. T. Palmer, formerly of the American Child Health Association and Dr. A. G. Ireland, Director of Physical and Health Education, discussed the possibility of a statewide dental health program in connection with the Federal Civil Works Administration. Some of the leading New Jersey educators were present on this occasion, and all of them were in accord with the idea.

How the C.W.S. Plan Works

The plan to provide dental treatment for indigent children met with instant approval among most school administrators and within two weeks Dr. Ireland, who is directing the work, was able to organize fifteen of the twenty-one counties of the State. The writer, with the assistance of local dental societies was able to obtain the services of supervisors to carry on the work in the various counties.

Approximately one hundred and fifty dentists were appointed. They began their work by examining the teeth of pupils so that those needing dental treatment could be ascertained. Later, children whose parents were unable to pay for dental services were treated.

The National Administration deserves much credit for creating such a beneficial project. When newspapers announced that the New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction would care for poor children's teeth through the Civil Works Administration, New Jersey educators were enthusiastic. Colonel Bigley, State Director of the C.W.A., stated that their project was the most popular C.W.S. project.

Throughout the depression it was apparent to all public health workers that, with the decline in the average family income and a corresponding decrease of community health service budgets, a great number of children were being deprived of dental treatment.

Ten years ago such neglect of teeth would have not caused much concern. But with the present knowledge of the dangers of neglecting children's mouths, school physicians, and school officials, in fact all persons interested in the health of children, were worried over the difficulty of caring for the dental needs of the boys and girls.

Preventing Dental Troubles

An explanation of school health education programs will convince anyone of the attitude of competent educators on the subject of dental health. School children are taught principles of proper food selection; to obtain their quart of milk each day, to eat fruits and vegetables; to eat coarse foods that require chewing; to keep mouths clean and to visit the dentist so as to prevent dental diseases. May their efforts continue!

World's Hardest Worker Makes 80,000 Trips For Pound of Honey

Result of Bee's Industry Is One of Earth's Finest Foods, Now Rapidly Regaining Ancient Popularity

By FRED W. JACKSON
Director, Division of Consumer Information
Department of Agriculture, Trenton, N. J.

A pound of honey means much more than the average consumer realizes in terms of effort and accomplishment. According to a bookkeeping specialist, a pound of any other food product represents the diligent work of so many individuals. One pound is the result of at least 80,000 round trips of the part of individual bees from the hive to the flowers. In fact, each teaspoon of honey is said to represent the entire life work of hundreds of bees. These facts may be only of passing interest to consumers to whom food value, flavor and cost of honey mean much more.

Milk and Honey

Bees are always cited as examples of efficiency and industry. As they gather the nectar secreted by the flowers, they are at the same time fertilizing with pollen the embryo seeds. The fruit of these labors—the store of honey, has always been of great interest to man, being prized as a food. Milk and honey are mentioned in the Bible as symbols of prosperity and health in the Promised Land. These foods today are still symbols of good health.

In recent times sugar has largely supplanted honey in our diets, but there remains that old time appeal of fragrance and delicate flavor which gives character to all dishes and to those products of the kitchen which include honey.

Honey differs in color and flavor according to the flower sources of the nectar gathered by the worker bees. Preferences as to flavor and color vary among consumers, just as preferences may vary as to choice of red or green apples. Having secured a satisfactory type of honey, we recommend that future orders be directed to the same source. The darker honeys are said to excel in mineral content.

A Safe Sweet

Contrasted to ordinary cane sugar, the natural honey sugars are much more wholesome and palatable. These sugars, mostly dextrose and levulose, are called simple because they may be absorbed directly with little digestion. Harmful over-indulgence in sweets is less likely with honey because of its concentration and hence many mothers encourage their children to cultivate a taste for honey.

The role of honey in cooking is known to every housewife. Its distinctive flavor prevails when used in cakes and cookies and honey always enhances the quality by maintaining the moisture content and preventing staleness, according to Miss M. C. Daermann, foods specialist at the College of Agriculture at New Brunswick from whom a valuable circular "Honey—Its Use in Cooking" can be secured upon request.

For Spring Sports

Here is a spring costume—long shorts for the golf course. The contrast between the brown and beige checked moiré in the trouser skirt and the monotone brown of the sports jacket and sweater is very effective.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALBERT G. WELLS AND
Dentist, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Perfect Attendance Records

I can't seem to leave this subject. Last week I wrote with a touch of realism. Behind it there is a very real feeling that we are guilty of doing the child a grave injustice. We worship at the shrine of Perfect Attendance, parents siding and abetting. Schools compete against one another in stirring contests, and their adherents eagerly seek out the monthly standing report in the newspaper. We even apportion chool-aid money on a basis of pupil attendance.

Throughout it all the child, whom we vow to protect, is helpless. Aches, pains, coughs notwithstanding, he must go to school. And to make it attractive, we set traps with pretty bait which may be a gold star, an early dismissal, a prize picture in the paper, or one of many others. Then we wonder how epidemics start. "Where did Johnny catch the measles?" "Right at school!" is the answer altogether too frequently. We are placing health too far down on the list of essentials. It should be "Health First, Then Knowledge."

Next week Dr. Ireland will discuss hearing.

Morning Ensemble

Newark Bears Going Through Paces Under Florida Sun In Spring Training Campaign

Working at Clearwater Camp Under Careful Watch of Manager Bob Shawkey

(Special to the Sun) CLEARWATER, March 21—Down here under the Florida sun, ambitious baseball players who hope to wear a Newark Bear uniform this season, are going through their paces. They are demonstrating their ability while the new boss of the Braves, Bob Shawkey, snaps the whip.

Nothing in the line of ability escapes his eyes, for he is recognized as one of the shrewdest judges of baseball talent in the game. He possesses an uncanny knack for spotting future stars and knows how to develop them. Shawkey is not a stranger in the International League for he has been in the circuit on three former occasions. In 1928, he was with the Montreal Club and three years later took over the reins of the Jersey City Club, when George Toporcer resigned as manager.

He made his debut in the loop in 1911 with the Baltimore Club, as a pitcher. At the end of the season he was sold to the Philadelphia Athletics but was turned back the next year for more seasoning. When Bob rejoined the Athletics he was ready to begin his climb to baseball stardom. He stayed with the Athletics until 1915, when he was traded to the New York Yankees. When the United States entered the World War he signed up with the Navy, hence his nickname, "Bob the Gai."

In 1929, Shawkey joined the Yankees as coach and when Manager Miller Huggins died, Bob was selected to succeed his late boss. He did a good job, too, for he brought the Yankees home in third place in 1930. While active in baseball, he was with six winning teams and recognized as one of the greatest pitchers in the game.

The leader of the Bears is quiet, affable but firm in his dealings. He has made baseball a profession and knows how to develop players. Scores of players now in the big leagues, made good on the advice given them by the new manager of the Bears.

Proposes Drive on Feathered "Gangsters"

The Watson boys of Long Beach, Calif., start the Spring building boom in birdhouses. Their dog, Lord Nelson, plays straw boss while Brother Garry takes time off for a bite—a big bite.

WIP government waging an intensive drive against kid-nappers, hijackers and other lawless elements, it is high time we as individuals took steps to combat the feathered racketeers endangering the existence of our wild birds," believes Mrs. Olive Comings, Lake Konka, N. Y., bird enthusiast.

"The best way to protect and attract wild birds," Mrs. Comings suggests, "is to provide them with nesting sites which cannot be invaded by sparrows and other jay-gophers who make a practice of 'muscling in' on the homes of their rightful owners. Unless isolated by human friends, scientists agree that our wrens, chickadees, and small songsters are likely to be crowded entirely out of the more desirable communities by the encroaching 'gangsters'."

A new type of birdhouse recommended by Mrs. Comings can be made in a few minutes by any boy or girl with only a jackknife and an empty log cabin shaped syrup tin. There are 15 of these rustic bird cabins about Mrs. Comings' Lake Konka estate, and every year they are all occupied by cheerful families of wrens and song birds. Here are her directions for making the protective birdhouses, which have been found so successful.

"After cleaning an empty tin with hot water, make a hole an inch in diameter, with a jackknife, just above the center of one of the end panels—this entrance will be large enough to admit wrens and smaller birds, but will keep out nosy sparrows. Cut downward, and when the hole is almost complete, bend out the flap of metal to form a perch. Smooth the sharp corners with a file or a pair of pliers or with a hammer.

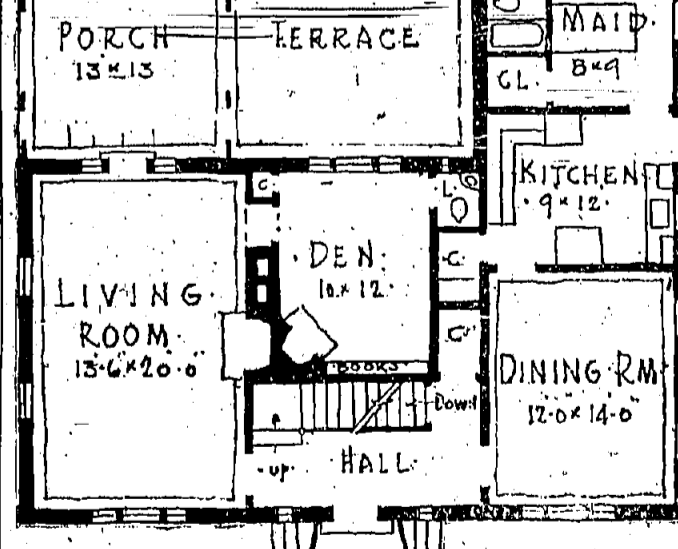

"After punching a few nail-holes in sides and bottom for ventilation, plug up the chimney and fasten the cabin with a wooden bracket, or a piece of wire or stout cord to a tree or building. All birdhouses should be placed in the shade to protect nestlings from summer sun."

"In a few minutes, and at no expense," declares Mrs. Comings, "anyone can have a practical cabin for small birds, which will protect these valuable neighbors from being crowded out by sparrows, other feathered hooligans, or cats. Not only will you obtain free insect insurance by giving birds this protection, but you will attract to your yard a family of delightful neighbors, who will provide interest and amusement this summer, and many summers to come. Remember, the only birdhouse catches the early bird!"

AN OLD BUILDING MATERIAL IN NEW DESIGNS AND COLORS NOW AVAILABLE

House of coursed concrete ashlar masonry units, in varying sizes and shades, to be built in New Rochelle by Wyckoff Builders, Inc. First floor plan below.

AN IMPORTANT development in the cement industry has been made with respect to the smaller houses—the artistic perfection of the concrete block. Concrete block has always been a reliable building material, and there is no doubt about its integrity of structure.

Thirty years ago, when cement commenced to be used generally throughout the building industry, there were made many concrete blocks, usually with a rock-face surface. Every block was cast in the same mould and had the same "rock face." This old block made a monotonous wall and was chiefly used for the simplest kind of structure. You still see these old rock face walls. While they are as ugly as they ever were, they show no deterioration. With the persistancy of Job, they have held fast.

Since that time, much has been learned about concrete blocks, much about making them stronger, heavier and less impervious to water; but more particularly we have learned the art of making them beautiful. Concrete block now can be made to resemble stone, as hard as any stone, and can be given a greater variety of surface and color than stone.

The ways of doing this are interesting. The surface of the block as it comes from the machine may be brushed, or better yet, sprayed, to give the face of the block a better texture. Various aggregates, as the concrete substance is called, may be used to give the block different shades of color; that is, light sands and gravels are used to take away the dull color of cement. Cement stains may also be used for this purpose. The soft yellow sands of New Jersey make admirably colored concrete and such blocks are much softer in tone and very much "breder" in substance than the sandstones which have been used in recent years solely for their soft color effects.

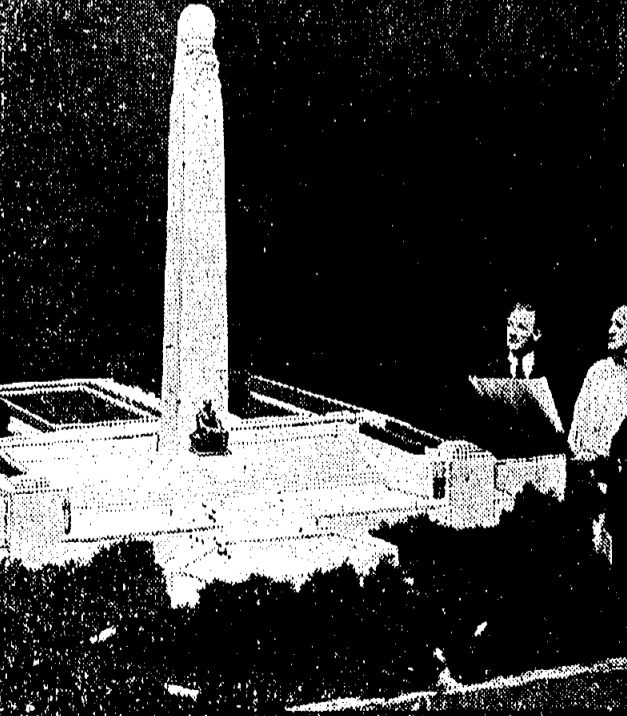

Another important addition to the architectural interest of the concrete block is to vary the heights of the courses. In the commercial block wall, every block (see 1) is the standard size, 8 inches high and 16 inches long. It is only necessary to vary a few of these courses to gain all the variety necessary to satisfy the critical eye. Four or five courses, say 4 inches and 6 inches in height, distributed throughout the first story wall will eliminate the machine-like appearance of the wall made of identical units. An occasional half block, that is to say a block that is only 8 inches long, also breaks up this monotony.

The illustration shows what advantages to the small house and for the big house, "ob" may accrue by use of the modern, permanent and artistic concrete block. This house will be built in New Rochelle, N. Y., on Forest Avenue, by the Wyckoff Builders, Inc. It has many features of the large home with the actual cost of a small one. The roof is of the and the exterior walls are made of concrete block and cast stone.

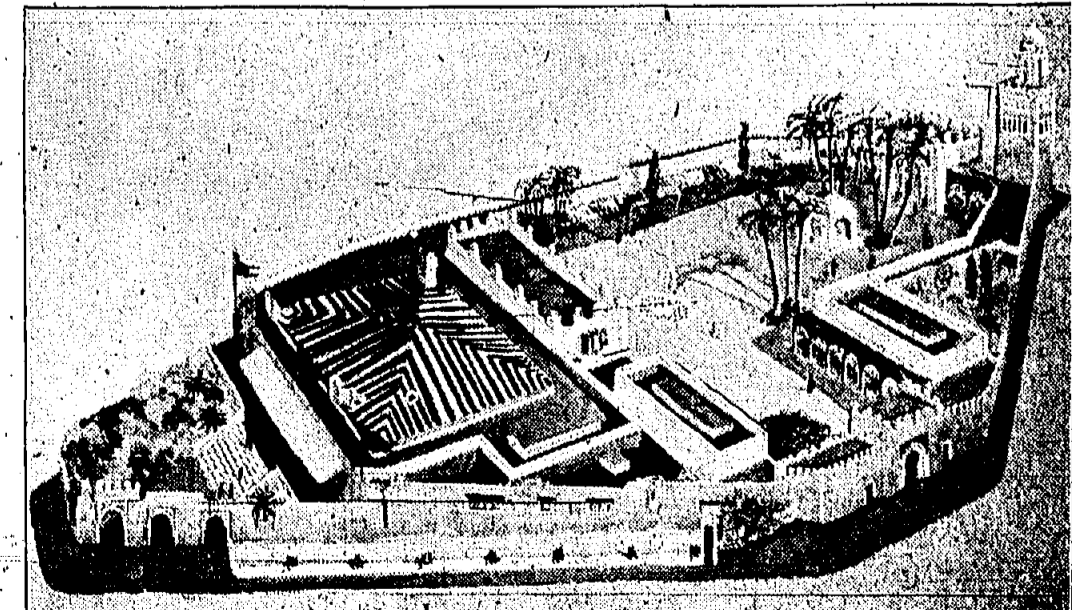

This house has all the advantages of a modern home within a compact, economical unit. In the basement there is a two-car garage, a laundry, a heater room and a large play room with fireplace. The first floor plan shows an uncovered flag terrace for "garden living" and a covered porch overlooking the garden. Immediate access to the garden is had from the living room, and an attractive view of it is obtained from the obelisk den. Both den and living room have fireplaces. The service portion, with the maid's room and bath, is compact and adequately removed from the family rooms. The second floor gives the Master a large bed room, bath and dressing room suite. The other two sizable bedrooms have a bath in common.

Model of Memorial to "The Wizard"

A MEMORIAL to Thomas A. Edison is to be erected at Eagle Rock, N. J., to commemorate for all time the achievements of the great scientist and inventor. The monument, as designed by John H. Poterkin and Hugh A. Kelly, architects, and Charles Keel, sculptor, who are shown here inspecting the model, is the result of two years intensive study resulting in an impressive execution in keeping with the greatness of the man. It is proposed to be immortalized. The memorial, the shaft of which will stand 350 feet high, will cost some $2,000,000. Work is expected to start on it this year.

LITTLE AMERICA AVIATION and EXPLORATION CLUB

With Byrd at the South Pole

by C.A. Abel, Jr. President U.S.N.A.

Exploring Little America

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA. You know, not only our fuel and oil containers are painted this peculiar reddish-orange color, but almost everything else we have, including our buildings, our tents, our trail flags and everything else. There is a scientific reason for this. In this South Polar region, the visibility is most deceiving. A small pile of snow looks like a mountain and depressions and mounds are not seen until you stumble over them. With the entire panorama or a monotonous white scene, however, a brilliant color is visible a long way off. The finest signal experts in the country were consulted by the company which supplied the gasoline and oil for this and Admiral Byrd's previous expedition. Through a long series of tests, they found that a slightly red orange is the most visible color at a distance. In order to break this color into sharp relief special stencils were prepared which read "Byrd Antarctic Expedition."

When we first arrived here a few weeks ago we found the telephone system and the electric lights still working through the energy still remaining in the storage batteries, even after a four-year rest. This was used up quickly, however, and since then we have expended 500 gallons of gasoline and kerosene in our pressure lanterns, torches and other lighting paraphernalia because our electric generator plant is not yet operating. I'll never forget my first visit to the mess shack and bunk house. On the table was a half-finished meal with a fork sticking in it. The cook said it was still good to eat. Maybe so, but I hope he doesn't try to give it to me. From the old food cache he dragged out some whale's meat, bacon and seal meat and cooked up a stew which George Noville and some of the other fellows swore on their word of honor was delicious. I was sorry I could not agree with them. Over almost every bunk was a 1923 calendar with all the days crossed out. I was with Finn Ronne when he found the bunk of his father, Martin Ronne, who came here with Amundsen in 1911 and was with Byrd in 1928, when he was 68 years old. He died in 1933. Over the bunk the old Norwegian had printed in pencil the name of his son, Finn Ronne, who is now occupying it.

Have you joined the club yet and received your membership card and working map of the South Polar region? If not, send a self-addressed stamped envelope (plainly addressed) to C. A. Abel, Jr., President, Little America Aviation and Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, 48th St., and Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y., and join one of the fastest growing organizations in the world at no cost whatever.

We found some of the tunnels had caved in. We are gradually excavating these, repainting them and salvaging the material we find in them. It took us four days to locate the old gasoline and oil tunnel which, lined with drums of gasoline and cans of oil, leads to the main supply of these materials. We found it finally with all its supplies and pumps in good condition and 22 big orange colored drums of gasoline, lubricating oil and kerosene.

C.C.C. Worker Finds Small Fortune

Asserting that the organized underworld has more arms than the U. S. Army and Navy, Attorney-General Cummings (center) appears before the Senate Judiciary Committee in Washington to urge the approval of measures giving Federal authorities greater power in fighting crime. Left, Senator Henry W. Ashurst, chairman; right, Assistant Attorney-General Joseph B. Keenan.

PLYMOUTH'S HERE TRY THE 1934 Ride

DON'T ask us how it was done! But one of the biggest, safest, most luxurious automobiles you'll see this year, is in the lowest priced group!

It's on our showroom floor right now. It has a lot of things you'd not expect in a low price car. Especially its performance—we call it The 1934 Plymouth ride.

We want everybody in town to arrange to take this ride. To learn what individual front wheel springing, plus Patented Floating Power Engine Mountings means to comfort and riding smoothness!

And this Plymouth has plenty more to talk about... 77 horsepower, hydraulic brakes, safety-steel body, rigid X-frame and valve seat inserts.

Come in—arrange for a ride. It's an experience you will be glad to know about.
