Rambling Around Town

Speculation over the most likely candidate in the Republican field to top the Springfield ticket at the primary election changes slightly now that Motor Vehicle Commissioner Hoffman has entered the race. Former Judge Carey would have been ahead of the others, but with the entrance of the last-minute candidate, a different aspect comes into the question. Union County leaders are strong for Hoffman, but Union County is still strong for Carey, whether the county organization under Hoffman or to speak women, particularly, are favorable to Carey but veterans will pull strings for Hoffman, both men are not without active supporters in town among the other candidates, Richards and Weller. We doubt whether the Atlantic County man with many votes in Springfield but the excellent record of the Essex Senator is as well-known to this section of the county as in his own home county. It is a toss-up in town, however, between Carey and Hoffman and the odds lean just a trifle ahead for the Jersey City man. Many thanks to the friends in need, Fred Kosches of the Springfield Heights Garage, who saved the day Tuesday for Rambling Reporter when he pulled our "Lizzie" out of mud off Route 29 which is MUD, the "south" neighborhood, incidentally, has the finest mud in these parts. Just soft enough to keep you there and hard enough to tempt motorists, who think it firm but who afterwards learn and learn plenty. An item in the news this week announces that a tea room will open next month at the old Benjamin F. Heard, Sr. dwelling in Morris avenue, the only house left standing in town after the British troops set fire to our fair community, according to history. It's been said a side of the building plainly reveals where a cannon ball struck it. The house is a landmark and it will be a means to probing its usefulness with the new enterprise. It would be a fine asset if the township, officially owned the building. Wonder how many candidates will be out to the Civic League Tuesday night at an open session? We think the percentage will surprise you.

"HANDS OFF," SAYS SHERIFF IN REBUKE TO TOWN COMMITTEE

Board Requested That Sales Affecting Springfield Be Printed In Sun

WOULD NOT EXPLAIN REASONS FOR ACTION

"The Governing Body of the Township of Springfield officially has no interest in Sheriff's sales coming from this office," Sheriff C. Wesley Collins stated in a letter to the Township Committee Monday night. The committee had requested that notices of foreclosure sales be advertised in the only local newspaper, the Springfield SUN. Since last January, Springfield sales notices have been published in out-of-town newspapers not circulating in the township. It was charged by Milton Keshin, editor of the SUN, that notices were withdrawn from the paper by Under Sheriff Lee S. Rhye, a local resident who disagreed with an editorial published on the proposed Regional High School. The editorial did not mention any names. Sheriff Collins' answer Monday night follows: April 13, 1934. My Dear Mr. Treat: While I do not want to press my request as stated in my letter of March 17, I still ask you to refer to that letter. The Governing Body of the Township of Springfield officially has no interest in Sheriff's sales coming from this office, and if any individual wishes to discuss where these sales are placed, or why, the proper place for such a discussion is with the Sheriff. I should be glad to go over this matter with Mr. Schuster, should he call here, without any obligation on my part to make any change in my present procedure. I consider this matter has been handled in an unusual manner, and as far as I am concerned, consider the matter entirely closed. C. WESLEY COLLINS, Sheriff.

KUVIN TO OPEN LAW OFFICE HERE

Attorney To Be Located At 222 Morris Avenue at Corner of Main Street

HERBERT A. KUVIN

Herbert A. Kuvin announced this week that he will open law offices May 1 at 222 Morris avenue, corner of Main street. Kuvin is affiliated with the law offices of Kuvin & Grand in Newark and intends to operate a Springfield office as well. He is acting chairman of the Springfield Civic League. Kuvin resides at 78 South Maple avenue and has lived in Springfield six years. He owns his own home at that address. Until moving to Springfield, he spent the greater part of his life in Newark. He is 36 years old and was born in Orange, where he lived six months and moved to Newark. Kuvin graduated from Rutgers University in 1921 with a B.S. in mechanical engineering. From 1922 to 1924 he was employed by a major oil company in the capacity of chief of field party in oil fields in the Rocky Mountain district, and in 1924, he returned to the Worthington Pump Works at Harrison as chief engineer. At this time, he seriously entered the study of law, having previously studied accounting at Pace Institute, New York City. He graduated from New Jersey law School in 1927, but was admitted to the bar a year previous, taking advantage of the privilege, extended ex-service men for a shorter training period in clerkship and law study. He was admitted as a counselor-at-law in 1930 and in 1931 he was admitted to practice in the U. S. Supreme Court. Kuvin was a member of the speaker's staff on the N. R. A. State Committee, but has since relinquished service due to the pressure of business.

Candidates Asked By Civic League To Speak Tuesday

Republicans and Democrats Invited to Talk For 5-Minute Periods

Seven Township Committee candidates, including both Republican and Democratic aspirants, will be invited to speak Tuesday at 8 P. M. at the Springfield Civic League at American Legion headquarters, 240 Morris avenue. Each candidate will be allowed five minutes. The league will decide May 8 whether it will accept the dates to address. Arthur H. Smith, one of the Democratic candidates, is a member of the league. Action was deferred on a proposal to circulate petitions for a referendum on an application to erect an auto racetrack and sports stadium in Route 29. League members decided to await further action from the Township Committee, which had denied a permit, but which, it is understood, has received a verbal application, yet pending. Election of ten trustees was also deferred. A total of 23 candidates were admitted, bringing the membership to about 150. William Robinson, president of the South Springfield Political League, a Negro organization, attended and promised support of that body in all Civic League matters, in exchange for the league's support. Robinson said there are 90 members in the group. Plans were furthered for the first annual card party and dance of the league May 12 at United Singers Park. Fred Muehsing is chairman of arrangements. Music will be played by Harry Welter and his Villa-do-Mont Orchestra.

At any rate, change the clock and remember "We told you so."

Local Driver Held For Manslaughter

George Bechtle Struck and Killed Boy, Police Say

George N. Bechtle, of 51 Mountain avenue, was released on a charge of automobile manslaughter this week, following an accident in Millburn Saturday night, when a car he was driving struck and killed a nine-year-old boy. The child was James Pomranck, of 227 Main street, Millburn. Bechtle was charged over to the prosecutor's office by Millburn police. The boy is reported to have run in front of the car near a butcher shop at the Main street address. The boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Overlook Hospital, Summit. Bechtle told police he was passing another automobile and did not see the boy. He was driving south in Main street. Police Sergeant Lyon preferred the charge and Bechtle pleaded not guilty before Recorder Slayton.

Johnny Farrell New Pro at Baltusrol

Nationally-Known Golfer Is Engaged at Local Club

Johnny Farrell, professional at the Quaker Bridge Golf Club at Manasquan, N. J., ever since the war, has been signed as pro at the Baltusrol Golf Club here, it was announced last week. Farrell has ranked as one of the country's foremost professionals for many years. He reached his peak in 1928 when he won the U. S. open championship, defeating Bobby Jones in a play-off at Olympia Fields, Chicago. He won the metropolitan open title in 1927 and was runner-up on three other occasions. Farrell was pro at Baltusrol, one of the most exclusive clubs in New Jersey, and was signed because of membership sentiment favoring a playing pro. Kosky, better known as a teacher, came here from Cyprien Montclair in 1929. Farrell was chosen by a committee composed of W. Allen Cannon, Jay R. Monroe and Harry H. Thomas from a list of more than 200 pros, whose applications were considered. Baltusrol was seeking a teacher with a reputation as a player. Kosky, who has succeeded by Farrell, was paid tribute as a faithful employe by Maj. A. Avery Jones. Greeting will be extended by the Rev. Raymond E. Neff, new pastor of the church. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Charlotte Frazer Schneider, of New York, noted lecturer and religious educational worker. Strayer at 40 cents will be served at 10 o'clock, and members of the Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. will act as waitresses. Mrs. C. H. Meeker is supper hostess. Promoters and Committee In Secret Conference After Meeting Monday Night

STILL IN HANDS OF SMALL COMMITTEE

Speculation over the future status of a new application for a permit to construct an auto race track and sports stadium on the old Miller farm, Route 29 and South Springfield avenue, has reached the stage where opinion in places understood the applicant intended to drop the Springfield project and go elsewhere—but it has been learned that another request will be made to the township fathers to consider a new application. The committee last week released a permit for the track on the site to Edward Otto, Jr., of Irvington, due to season's expiration, explained Otto, thanked the board Monday night for the manner in which it handled his application, is not making public its reasons for refusing the permit. He also thanked the Springfield Civic League, which has been taking an active part in supporting the project, and had intended to the Governing Body regulations for enforcement of a track, should a license be granted. After the meeting, Otto and James P. Donnelly, owner of the old Miller farm property, went into executive session with the committee for about an hour. Committee Chairman Charles S. Cannon announced after the conference that Donnelly had made a verbal application. He said Donnelly agreed to furnish backers of the track who would provide suitable for the committee. The track, promoters, if it is said, wish to settle terms of daily fees, restrictions, etc. before submitting a new application in writing. No definite action has been taken yet, although the committee said, although the project, submitted by the board. He said the law committee will continue its investigation and make recommendations when required.

Grant Liquor Permit

A liquor permit was granted to George A. Schuster, who operates the old Springfield Hotel in Morris avenue. The place was formerly owned by James C. Siskley. Parsell took out a new permit to sell liquor, and although a township ordinance restricts licenses to only those places in existence, the permit is allowed to replace Siskley's. Parsell told the board several weeks ago, when applying for a permit, that he had obtained an option on the building and intended at some future date, to remove the present structure and erect a new building. A request from the Civic League that the minutes and committee reports of the Township Committee meetings be printed in a newspaper circulating in the township, was referred to the chairman, Alfred E. Trundle, chairman of the finance committee.

World's Bleakest "Dungeon" Cages Byrd

While the rest of the world sips cool drinks, basks before electric fans, and luxuriates in swimming pools this summer, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, submerged in the cold and dark of the long Antarctic night, will be making meteorological studies which may disprove Mark Twain's crack that "no one ever does anything about the weather." For months he will be isolated in complete solitude 123 miles south of Little America.

"SEVEN months in solitary" is the sentence imposed upon Admiral Richard E. Byrd by his recent decision to undertake a series of scientific observations from a one-room hut 123 miles south of Little America.

Totally alone, buried in the long Antarctic night of howling gales and sub-zero temperatures, Byrd is recording weather conditions, carrying on studies which may cause drastic revision of present meteorological theories.

Modern Igloo
During his stay in the South Polar "hell's half acre," Byrd's home, will be a shack sunk to the eaves in the ice, to temper wind and cold. Built of specially insulated wood, it is 13 feet long, 9 wide, 7 feet from floor to ceiling. Besides a folding bunk and chair, its furnishings include tables, books, phonograph and a radio. Oil pressure lamps provide light; a gasoline-driven generator supplies current for a radio transmitter.

Scientific instruments, located on the surface, are reached through tunnels. Other tunnels lead to caches in the solid ice where food and fuel are stored as a safeguard against fire, every explorer's ever-present fear.

Little Lelsure
Like Robinson Crusoe, Byrd's daily routine leaves little time for idleness. In addition to cooking and keeping his quarters "ship shape," he must keep his instruments and generator free from snow and frost. (Incidentally, who would like to try starting a two-cycle gasoline engine at 60° below zero.) Despite winds, cold, and utter darkness, observations must be taken and recorded regularly. On ordinary days, this schedule should leave the Admiral time for reading, writing, and a little reflection. But in the Antarctic few days are ordinary.

The one link between this man's hand post and the world is radio. The party at Little America keeps Byrd in touch with developments there, while his transmitter reports his experiences to the men at the permanent base. John Dyer, chief radio engineer at Little America, is arranging to have some of these messages from Admiral Byrd transmitted to this country during the expedition's regular Saturday night radio contact with civilization, which is broadcast over the Columbia network, 10 p. m. eastern daylight time.

While the Admiral is hibernating, the party at Little America is in charge of Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, second in command. Dr. Poulter, the expedition's senior scientist, heads the science department of Iowa Wesleyan College, Mount Pleasant, Iowa.

400 "Settlers" From West Go East; Provide Minor Boom In Jersey City

Jersey City, N. J. — There's a minor boom on in Jersey City. Reversing the advice of Horace Greeley, some 400 new "settlers" are arriving from the West to make their homes here and in nearby towns.

In one of the most important business migrations of recent years, the headquarters of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company are being shifted from Chicago to this city, and a series of caravans are bringing the new arrivals.

For the Colgate element of the giant soap concern it is a homecoming. Colgate headquarters, until 1928 — when the merger was completed — were in Jersey City, under the big clock which is famous round the world. S. Bayard Colgate, president of the company, is himself moving back to his ancestral home, Seven Oaks, in Orange. He is of the fourth generation in direct descent from the founder of the firm.

It was in 1806 that William Colgate "set himself up in business" in a little shop in Dutch Street, New York City. At that time it was a village in those days, and the men and women whose names are now history daily passed the store. In 1847 the plant outgrew its quarters and was moved to the New Jersey waterfront, and it continued to

MORE TAXES!—Three and a half billion $ bills make a trail of gasoline taxes rising from $1,000,000 in 1918 to $700,000,000 in 1933. Originally to a gallon, you now pay taxes as high as 1c, or more than the price of the fuel itself!

The picture was made on a recent visit of the prince to the island of Madeira where he was the guest of the Madeira Wine Association, of which T. L. W. Mullins (on the right) managing director.

Spring Training for Girl Scouts Includes First Aid Instruction

By ADELE VANCE

WITH the arrival of Spring holidays, school girls and boys who have been confined to indoor games all winter, turn their thoughts to outdoor activities and begin training for tennis and baseball teams, hikes, week-end camping, roller skating and other forms of exercise. Of course, this means that mothers who relaxed during the winter season of checkers, parchees and other games played on the living room rug, again put their hands to their heads to begin their yearly worrying about skinned knees, sprained ankles and other injuries common to outdoor games.

The Girl Scouts, however, are earnestly and diligently applying themselves to a course which will prevent mother's hair from turning gray. They are learning First Aid treatment so that the call for the first hike of the Spring season will find them wearing one of the First Aid Badges and prepared to take care of any emergency which may arise. In 1933 as many as 13, 146 First Aid Badges were earned.

Omitting the negative, nagging quality of parents' "don'ts" and "can'ts," Girl Scouts are taught by personal experience the technique of outdoor adventure. They realize for themselves the need for precaution against the minor injuries that are bound to occur on overnight hikes—burns, cuts, blisters, etc. The Girl Scouts motto, "Be Prepared," assures mothers at home that there is no need for worry about their children who are out seeking adventure in the woods. A Girl Scout would feel deeply disgraced to her own lack of skill or foresight made her a burden to the rest of the party or unable to take care of her own injuries in an emergency.

One of the important steps in learning to "Be Prepared" is the understanding of the use of every article in the Johnson & Johnson Red Cross Products First Aid Kit which is part of every Girl Scout's equipment. Even with the utmost care accidents are likely to happen—either at home or in camp. It is almost to be expected that somebody will cut her hand, get a splinter in her finger or a blister on her hand during a hike. The importance of using sterilized dressings and compresses is stressed in Girl Scout First Aid instruction. For this reason the antiseptic gauze pads and cotton contained in the Official Johnson & Johnson Red Cross Products First Aid Kits are thoroughly sterilized. For sunburns or scratches, a convenient dressing known as a "Bandaid," composed of an antiseptic gauze pad attached to a strip of adhesive plaster, is an indispensable first aid protective bandage and is never omitted from the official kit. The knowledge of proper use and application of bandages is one of the prerequisites for receiving the coveted First Aid Badge. The four uses for bandages which the Scouts must learn are: To hold dressings in place. To keep splints in place. To control bleeding by pressure and to make a support such as a sling. Equipped with an Official Red Cross Products First Aid Kit and the knowledge of its use, Girl Scouts by their proficiency in applying correct treatment to small injuries will remain calm in an emergency, find out what is the matter, treat the injury—sprained ankle, cut or scrape—as the case may be—and make the patient comfortable. A Girl Scout who has proved herself worthy of receiving the First Aid Badge is a guarantee to parents that the children she accompanies on a hike will return home safe and sound.

Paul Revere's house, Mount Vernon, the village smithy, Benjamin Franklin's printing shop, and other buildings famed in history books will be reproduced for visitors to the new World's Fair which opens in Chicago May 26. At left is shown the Old Colonial village under construction. At right is Old North Church as it will appear when finished. This is the church where the lanterns were hung for Paul Revere. Another who started from the church to help Revere spread the alarm was William Dawes, ancestor of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the fair.

Post Office Blue Eagle?

A LENGTHY Post Office Department has heard of President Roosevelt's national recovery program. Such is the inference apparently to be drawn from the decision of James A. Farley, Postmaster-General, to rescind his order of March 2 which granted four days' payless furlough to postal clerks and to put back to work many of the 20,000 postal substitutes who have been virtually without work. Another fairly clear inference is that the department has heard from some of the critics of its latest economy campaign, these ranging from members of Congress to labor leaders, newspaper editors, relief workers and even local post office executives.

For weeks the curtailment of the postal service even to a point of public inconvenience has stood in curious anomaly to President Roosevelt's statement of March 5 to an NRA conference that "it is the immediate task of industry to reemploy more people at purchasing wages and to do it now." During this time thousands of substitute postal employees who, according to the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, have averaged less than $5 a week for several years, have been reduced to two or three hours' work. It is, of course, hardly known upon the public relief rolls by letters of the Postmaster-General and the Federal Relief Administration.

Whether politics as well as budget requirements may have entered into the lax order or its rescission is difficult to determine. The Postmaster-General says postal revenues have improved substantially during the last two months, but the department issues no figures by which the public may judge whether this improvement is enough to explain the action. The earlier order was said to be "imperative in order to keep the expenditures within budget limitations." But it is not clear how this applies to the abrogation of seniority rules under which the clerks' union asserts some political postmasters have switched veteran workers back to night shifts and given coveted daytime assignments to personal favorites.

That the largest single employer of labor in the country should adopt what President Roosevelt pronounced to be good business practices in determining its volume of employment is good news. That it should prove its adherence to good business practices of choosing for efficiency rather than partisanship in its selection of personnel is at least equally desirable.

sticks, stones, and tin cans of the thoughtless children; the hunger and homelessness of abandonment, and the angry or fear-inspired abuse of adults.

It is every teacher in every school were to take but fifteen minutes during any week for serious discussion of the problems, the work of humane societies seeking disarmament between men and beasts would be considerably lessened. Abandoned and mistreated pets would gradually cease to be a problem. Neighbors would not find animals fleeing at the sight of men if camera hunters became the style instead of gunners and trappers.

Work for the protection of well-being of the "lesser ideas" of God cannot be regarded as a minor activity but rather as an endeavor worthy of highest effort. In keeping with our modern conception of a kind and understanding deity, men should be at one with Him in the administration of His gift, kindly dominion, that the full prophesy of the eleventh chapter of Isaiah may come to pass:

They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord...

Weeks Named Counsel in Trunk Sewer Body

Springfield Man Appointed to Succeed Dobbins

After cutting compensation of the position from $5,000 a year to $4,000, the Railway Valley Joint Meeting in session last Thursday night unanimously elected Charles Weeks, Springfield Township attorney, as its counsel to succeed the late Francis V. Dobbins, of Railway.

Discussion of the choice was carried on in an executive session, against which Commissioner Robert S. MacCormack of Westfield, registered vigorous objection. MacCormack introduced the resolution slashing the attorney's pay and after it was carried unanimously, Councilman Otto C. Paulson, of Roselle Park, moved for executive session for consideration of a counsel.

MacCormack said the discussion should be open and declared that the appointment of the attorney had been made a political football throughout the county. He claimed that he had been approached by political leaders in the interests of lawyers seeking the job and added that Westfield "would not stand for the naming of an attorney whom we know no." He summed up the needed qualifications of the legal adviser as "requiring integrity, without any doubt and a broad knowledge of the background of the joint meeting."

Mayor Charles S. Cannon, of Springfield, sided with MacCormack. He pointed out that the joint meeting has been severely criticized in the past for its closed discussions of important matters. Paulson's motion to go into executive session carried five to four. Westfield and Springfield were joined by Cranford and Woodbridge in opposition.

At the conclusion of the executive session, MacCormack nominated Weeks for the position and the election was unanimous.

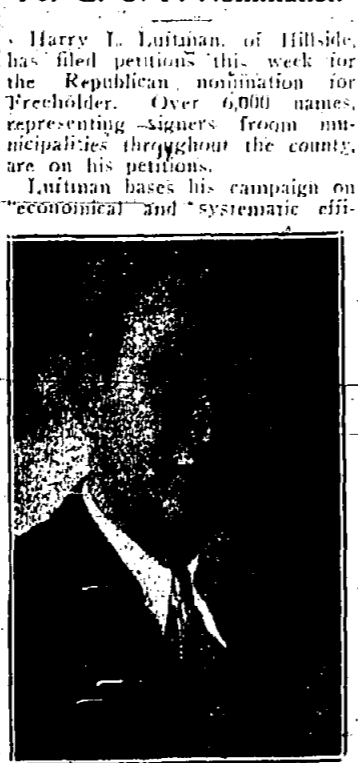

The name of former Assemblyman Clarence A. Ward, of Railway, as a candidate for the position of counsel figured prominently, according to reports.

A resolution of sorrow on the death of Mr. Dobbins was adopted, ordered spread upon the minutes and a copy sent to the families. The resolution eulogized Mr. Dobbins as "a capable adviser, loyal friend, devoted and unselfish in his service, whose death was a severe loss to the Railway Valley Joint Meeting, and whose devotion to the welfare of the county was the predominant feature of his life during the last few years." Members also stood in silence for a moment as a tribute to the deceased counsel's memory.

Notice was received of a hearing before the Board of Engineers of the War Department on plans for improvement of the Railway River, beyond the scope originally planned. The hearing will be held May 3 in Linden City Hall. Mayor Roger C. Aldrich was authorized to represent the joint meeting and urge the improvement, which carries the deepening of the river beyond the site of the joint meeting disposal plant.

Harry Luftman in Freeholder Race

Hillside Man in Campaign For G. O. P. Nomination

Harry L. Luftman, of Hillside, has filed petitions this week for the Republican nomination for Freeholder. Over 6,000 names, representing signers from municipalities throughout the county, are on his petitions.

Luftman bases his campaign on "economical and systematic efficiency in county government." He played an important part in the repeal of Elizabeth's 1932-33 and was a principal factor in the campaign which elected a Republican, present Mayor William, over former Mayor Kenah, Democrat, who had been in office for many years.

Luftman served as executive secretary to Register Edward Bauer, who was chairman of the Republican county committee. The candidate is well known throughout the county and has resided in Hillside for several years. He was born in Henry County, Va., educated at National University, Washington, D. C., and at a military academy. This latter training proved valuable during the World War, when he enlisted as a private, being honorably discharged two years later with the rank of lieutenant.

Luftman has had wide business experience, including directing sales for a large specialty sales corporation, also as organizer and efficiency man for a large drug-youself auto concern, operating a chain of branches from New York to Florida. He is 39 years old, married, and affiliated with the Regular Republican Club of Hillside; Young Men's Republican Club of Union County; Neil McLeod Association; Alexander Hamilton League of New Jersey; honorary member of the F. M. B. A. of Hillside; member of the 29th Blue and Gray Division; Union County Magistrates Association; the South Side Republican Club of Hillside; Hurdens Lodge, B. P. O. Elks; American Legion of Hillside; and the Brevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Bears To Play Doubleheader Sunday

NEWARK, N. J., April 25.—The Bears of the Newark Bears will have an opportunity of seeing the Montreal Royals for the first time this season Sunday afternoon at the Ruppert Stadium. The Canadians will play their first game Sunday, before returning to their own stadium, the Yards, on Monday. The Royals will be here for three days and are scheduled to play four games.

Terminating the series against the charges of Manager Oscar Roettger, the Bears will hit the trail for the North and be away early next week. Before returning to their own stadium, the hurlings of Manager Bob Shawkey will visit Buffalo, Toronto, Montreal, Rochester and Syracuse.

The bargain attraction Sunday is the first scheduled at the Stadium this season and incidentally the last Sunday home game until June 3. With the Bears moving along at top speed, Newark Club officials look for a record attendance. A storm Sunday should ideal weather conditions prevail.

With the Royals is Frank O'Rourke, of Elizabeth. He has been playing third base while Billy Kheel was on the hospital list. Kheel was originally engaged as coach. He is a major league veteran, starting many years with the St. Louis Browns. His many Union county friends have reserved seats for Sunday's battle, as they are planning to give him a rousing welcome.

There are many news-faces with the Royals this year, and it is said the Canadians possess the batting punch to keep them up in the race. With Montreal's Ditcher LaRue, Milwaukee's former Dartmouth College twirler, who led Ruffe, former Bear, now with the Yankees, says a real star in the Royals infield is coming over from Montreal, Charles English, late of the Cubs, at second; Ben Shanley, former Pacific Coast star, at short; and O'Rourke, or Kheel, at third.

Hub Walker, former Detroit Tiger; Jimmy Rippe, always a thumper for team hurlers, and the "Big Boy" Lehtinen form a hard-hitting outfield. The latter, every department of the Royals is well-balanced, but Roettger is still looking for some new hurlers and they may arrive in time to work against the Browns. Incidentally, the Canadians have a feud on with the Bears, for they believe that they were more successful against Newark last year, they would have qualified for the playoffs and capped the championship. This year they are looking for revenge at the expense of the charges of Manager Shawkey.

WON MARBLE CONTEST
Charles Murphy, who represented Springfield last year in the county marble tournament, again won the local elimination contest last week, and will compete in the county championship May 5 in Warrington Park. Elizabeth, Dorset George, runner-up and will also be eligible to take part. The tournaments are being held under the auspices of the Union County Park Commission.

While showing friends how to execute an intricate new dance step, John P. Bore, of New Haven, Conn., fell and broke his leg.

Alleging her husband beat her because she lost a penny, Mrs. George Butala, of Pueblo, Colo., entered suit for divorce.

SHEFFIELD FARMS OPPOSES INCREASE IN PRICE OF MILK

L. A. Van Bommel, president of Sheffield Farms Company, Inc., today made the following statement regarding the milk price increase ordered by the Division of Milk Control of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets:

"At the recent hearing held by the Division of Milk Control of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets opportunity was afforded the producers, consumers and distributors to discuss milk prices. While the producers and a number of distributors were in favor of an increase, Sheffield Farms opposed any increase at this time when the production of milk is approaching its peak."

"In our capacity of the metropolitan area's largest milk distributor, we feel an obligation to both the producers and the consuming public and our opposition to an increase at this time was based on the fact that we did not favor increased prices to the public, whose buying power is still limited, in a period when it becomes imperative for the farmer that his seasonally larger volume be consumed as fluid milk."

"Sheffield Farms Company's aim is to supply pure milk to its customers at as low a price as is consistent with the proper return to the farmers engaged in production and distribution."

"We, of course, will have to comply with the order of the Division of Milk Control, which has the force of law as to the prices which the producer must receive and for which the distributor must sell."

The origin of the barber—a white pole with red stripes—dates back to the time when barbers were also surgeons. Not until the reign of Henry VIII were laws passed prohibiting barbers from engaging in surgery. The barber-surgeon used a red striped pole which represented a bandage wrapped around the patient.

LITTLE AMERICA ANTARCTICA
With Byrd at the South Pole

by C.A. Ables, Jr. President
U.S.N.R.

Housekeeping in the Dark!

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA, April 17 (via Mackay Radio)—Now we are getting some real Antarctic weather. And, oh boy! I never knew what winter was before. You should see one of these whistling blizzards. Everything will be calm and peaceful but grey, because we are getting practically no sunshine now. The temperature will be around 60 below zero. Suddenly, in a few minutes, we'll be engulfed in a howling blizzard with big 1/4 in. of snow swirling through the air before a singing 80-mile-an-hour wind and the thermometer will go way up to zero or 5 or 10 above, only to drop again when the storm is over.

Alphonse Carbons—Our Cook

The visibility during these terrifying storms is practically nil and it is impossible to travel even between the buildings in Little America without support and guidance. At present we have a life line strung up between all the buildings and the mess hall. You should see this crowd going to meals during a storm. The men come crawling up like furry ants out of the snow that covers their quarters and pull themselves along the life lines to the mess hall. We bet anybody caught outside the camp in one of these storms! But that doesn't happen. From now, for many months to come, we shall be confined to our buildings. You can't fog with south polar weather when it's winter time down here.

I must tell you something that fascinated me the first time I saw it. All the dogs will be frisking or lying on top of the snow. Suddenly one of these blizzarding storms comes up. Immediately the dogs start digging down into the snow, which covers them completely. In three minutes there isn't a dog in sight. And after the storm they come popping up again and go on frisking or sleeping. Some sight! The wind down here is something I never dreamed of. It is impossible to remain out in it for any length of time without freezing the exposed or insufficiently protected parts of the body. Already we have had several cases of frozen noses, ears, fingers and toes. Annoying, itchy and painful, but no serious cases yet.

During these blizzards all our buildings become snowed in and our tunnels are the only answer. These are being completed rapidly. We are digging a lot of new ones.

and we will use some of those constructed in 1928. Little America, a few weeks from now, will become an underground village with several miles of connecting tunnels.

George Noville and I are going to have a two-day celebration of birthdays. Mine is on the 23rd and his is on the 24th. I'll be 23 and am going to try to broadcast a radio greeting to my twin brother, Sanford, at home. The Admiral's birthday is October 26th. By the way, I don't believe I told you just where the Admiral is spending the winter in his lonely hut. Mark it on your club map. It is at 80.13 south 163.30 west. He is all comfortable and well. We talk with him frequently by radio.

I have gained sixteen pounds since leaving New York and all the men here have gained about 2 1/2 percent. We'll gain more, too, when our furious work of preparing for the winter is finished. Cooped up indoors we'll get very little exercise and already seal meat is on the diet twice a week. I have changed my mind about its taste and now find it palatable and tender. It is very fattening and contains all the necessary vitamins and calories to enable one to cope with the rigors of the extremely low temperatures. It is a very healthy life we're leading but not entirely free of discomforts. Yesterday I worked so hard I perspired and when I stopped working the moisture made my clothes freeze to my body. I had to go to the kitchen to thaw out.

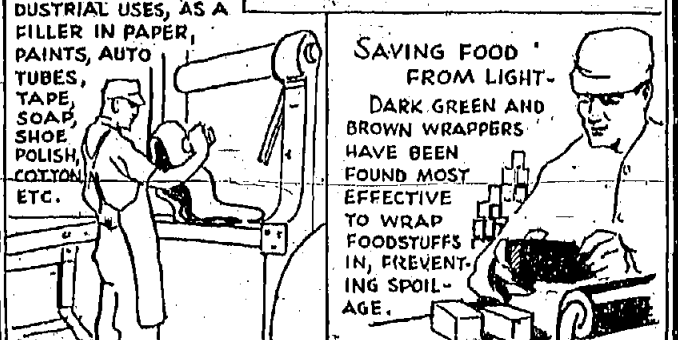

I have just learned by radio that 104 school and college teachers have enrolled their entire classes in our club, and have received personal radio messages from Admiral Byrd welcoming them and their pupils. All these young people have been sent the beautiful 20 1/2 x 27 1/2 inch working map of the Antarctic and their membership cards—all free. Eventually they will also receive lapel buttons with the club name on them. The teachers must send the home addresses of pupils so our New York staff can make out cards for them.

Membership in this unusual club is absolutely free. It was organized at Admiral Byrd's request and its only purpose is to foster a greater interest in American aviation and exploration. To join and receive our big map and membership card, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope (clearly written) to Arthur Ables, Jr., president, Little America Aviation and Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, 48th Street and Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y.

"Scandals" at Strand Sunday and Monday Music and comedy divided the actors and the staff of Robert Kane's Fox Film unit on the Strand during the first showings of George White's Scandals.

Rudy Vallee's famous voice is the first line offense. He plays the male starring role and, needless to say, the role calls for equally low songs. Alice Faye made her name as a star blues singer on Vallee's radio hour and continued her fame in the new Broadway musical "Scandals." This led to Hollywood, and she has won the leading feminine role in the picture.

"Scandals" is the sensation to play at the Roth-Strand Sunday and Monday.
