Theodore Miller Is Drawn Fourth

MOUNTAINSIDE—The "kidding" of Theodore F. Miller to his son Theodore Harry Miller, 28, of Eyergreen Court and Springfield road that he would be one of the first to be drafted, turned into reality since the younger Miller held serial number 2441. That number was the fourth order drawn in Washington. The younger Miller invested a large sum of money four months ago to establish himself in an archery, tackle and ski equipment shop at the above address. He says that if he is called, he will close with him at the shop.

"The call," Miller says, "is good for those able to go without leaving too many obligations behind." He lived in Cranford before he moved into the borough and studied at New York University.

HOMES OPENED FOR FLORAL DISPLAYS

MOUNTAINSIDE—The Mountaintide Club featured today an open house chrysanthemum show. Homes that were opened for this occasion were those of Mrs. William L. McBristol, Jr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lewis of Kimball circle, Mrs. M. A. Payton of Greenwood road and Mrs. A. H. Meyers of Woodland avenue.

Invitation arrangements were made by Mrs. Kenneth V.-C. Wallace of Newark, vice-president of the Garden Clubs of New Jersey; Mrs. J. R. Mitchell of Fanwood; Mrs. Charles Burnett, Jr., of Westfield; Mrs. L. N. Wilson, president of the South Orange Garden Club; and Mrs. Earl Rhine of South Orange. Mrs. Elliott Ranney, local club member, made a special arrangement in a Japanese shrine container.

Tea was served at the home of Mrs. Lewis, where a trio from the Julliard School of Music, headed by Miss Patricia Powell, entertained. Mrs. Raymond Powell was the general chairman and proceeds will be donated to the Red Cross.

Favors Roosevelt

To the Editor of the SUN: Before the presidential campaign you will recall that I thought it a good idea if you ran a column of facts in regard to both the Democratic and Republican candidates.

Since the campaign has started I have listened to the speeches of both candidates and their allies, but if Candidate Willkie had remained silent, he would have a better chance of getting my vote than by his extreme disregard of the truth. I feel that the statements he has made are a gross insult to the average intelligence of the people of this great nation. I have even felt that there would be a last stopping such gross misstatements of facts from being perpetrated on the unthinking minds of those who so easily arouse to applause and acclamation.

Mind you, I had an open mind to begin with, but now I wish with all my heart that I could vote many times for the present incumbent, and I pray that a man as level headed and sane as President Roosevelt will be put in office for at least four years more.

Legion's Land Deal Approved

Will Start Digging for New Home on Ground Near Town Hall

The Township Committee Wednesday approved the sale of a township lot 100x150 feet at North Trivett avenue and Center street for $1. The site will be used for the building of a hall for Continental Post 228, American Legion. The digging of the grounds started yesterday.

The new building will be made available for meeting places of other organizations since Quince Hall will be altered for other purposes. Volunteers from the post will offer their services in the construction. As a result, the original cost which was estimated at $9,500 will be considerably reduced. Contractors have promised to co-operate with the Legion's officials to give the best of material at a reasonable price. Committeeman Wright drew the original plans for the building.

The structure will be a one-story building 50 feet wide and 65 feet long. It will be of cement block, with a covering of white cement. The front will have white shingles. The appearance of the building will be that of a colonial type.

Within the building will be a modern kitchen, fully equipped, a hall capable of seating 250 persons and a small meeting room. The building is expected to be completed during the early part of next year. The building after 30 years will be turned back to the township.

Drew Professor Addresses PTA

Professor James McClintock of the psychology department of Drew University was the guest speaker Monday night at a meeting of the Springfield P.T.A. at Raymond Chisholm School. He spoke on "Discipline in Democracy," stating that children were not receiving proper training in their homes. Outside forces, together with the church and school, have taken the place of the home in many cases, causing many rules to be used in guiding children, discipline being a very important one.

Miss Norma Crawford played several piano solos. The chairman of the membership committee, Mrs. Harry F. Hart, stated that the association had 326 members. Mrs. Richard Horner, finance chairman, told of a plan to raise funds. Mrs. William Bausmith presided.

REGIONAL PARENTS HAD FIRST MEETING

Regional High School P.T.A. held their first fall meeting last Thursday at the High School. The theme of the meeting was "Following in Our Children's Footsteps" when the parents followed their child's schedule by attending classes for ten-minute periods. The teachers held classes in the same manner as do during the day.

Mrs. Katherine Munsteron presided over the business meeting. A motion picture benefit will be sponsored by the Student Aid group to raise money for their fund which will be used to assist needy students under 10 years of age who are ineligible for National Youth Administration.

After the classes, refreshments were served in the cafeteria with Mrs. Clifford Sippel, Mrs. Frances Dunleavy and Mrs. John Tanus as hostesses. Mrs. Clara DePreitas was chairman of the candy committee.

A meeting of the Student Aid committee was held Wednesday and plans for a movie to raise funds were discussed. The film "The Maid of Salem" starring Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray will be shown on November 12 in the auditorium. There will be three performances, at 3:15, 7:15 and 9 P. M. Albert A. Sarge is chairman of the group.

Earl Garrison's freshman Honorarium 200 won the P.T.A.'s membership award in obtaining most parent members into the organization. Michael Gatti's senior Honorarium 4, received honorable mention for second highest members.

W. C. T. U. DISCUSS AID AT FORT DIX

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Brown of 28 Washington avenue, and discussed how they can best help the young men who will leave soon for Fort Dix in providing suitable entertainment and recreation. Mrs. Edwin D. Pannell, president, has announced that the Council Churches of Trenton and the Mercer County W. C. T. U. will co-operate in assisting the young soldiers at the fort.

Plans were drawn for a new membership drive which will start soon. The next meeting will be held November 20 when the group will hear a guest speaker.

PARTY TONIGHT IN D. OF A. COUNCIL

The Daughters of America will hold a Halloween party tonight after their regular meeting at Quince Hall. This will be the last time that they will meet there since the hall will be altered. They will next meet at Town Hall.

The organization will receive their deputy, Mrs. Lillian McQueen of Huppula. A Barn Dance will be held at Singers Grove on November 16. The chairman of the dance committee is Mrs. Ariene Huggins.

By making two touchdowns in Sunday's game against Madison Colonel Jim Dwyer of the Springfield Stars raised his total to 21 points to become the highest scorer in the North Jersey Football League. Captain and co-coach Bill Brown of the Stars and Bill Gordesky of the Campdown Pros are tied for second place. In fourth place is Carl Vanclo of Springfield.

Record Vote Predicted On Election Day

Look For 2,100 Voters At Polls To Decide On National Campaign

Over 2,100 of Springfield's registered voters, which would establish a record, is estimated will go to the polls Tuesday to take sides in the general election in years.

Local contests are out, since Committeeman Lewis F. Macartney and Alfred C. Trundle, Republicans, are unopposed for Township Committee. Richard Martinka, sole Democratic candidate, withdrew several weeks ago, due to pressure of business; it was reported, although the announcement of his leaving the race was not known until this week.

Republicans, which usually carry Springfield by substantial margin, predict that Wendell L. Willkie's race against President Roosevelt will find the G. O. P. standard bearer ahead by a vote of about 1,300 to 800. Against Alfred Landon, Roosevelt finished on the short end of a 3-2 count, as a total of about 1,800 votes were cast in 1936.

Even Democrats are predicting that the Republican margin will be at least greater this year, since more Presidential voters will come to the polls this year, than four years ago, due to the sensational campaign talks and interest in foreign affairs.

Headquarters Opened

Springfield Republicans opened campaign headquarters early this week at a vacant store at 326 Morris avenue, opposite Salter street. On Election Day, it will be open house to all. Refreshments will be served to election board officials and workers after the polls have closed.

Returns will be received at headquarters. Ladies of the County Committee will provide sandwiches for refreshments.

Mayor Wilbur M. Selander is chairman of the headquarters and follows, other members being as follows:

Committeemen Trundle, Macartney, Fred A. Brown and Arnold Wright, Freeholder Lee S. Rigby, Gregg L. Frost, Mrs. Edith M. Hankins, Mrs. Robert D. Treat, Mrs. Floral H. Lennox, Arthur L. Marshall, George Smith, Mrs. Anna J. Oelling, A. B. Anderson, C. Wesley Compton, Mrs. Peter H. Meisel, Mrs. Helen R. Smith, Mrs. Ida Baumann, Reuben H. Marsh, Richard T. Bunnell, Donnell Van Dyke, John Courtney, Charles S. Quince, Frank C. Geiger, Mrs. Ellen E. Carmichael and Mrs. Lura B. Anderson.

Democrats at Rally

In the absence of any concerted local drive, local Democrats concentrated their efforts on bringing out the vote for the National, State and county tickets. A delegation of 50 Democrats, under leadership of Frank Cardinal, local chairman, attended a rally in Summit Wednesday night in honor of the Edison-Cromwell-Downs ticket at Lincoln School.

About 150 Democrats from town attended a luncheon earlier in the day at the Elizabeth Elks Club where Charles Edison and James Cromwell were the principal speakers.

Regional Meets Union Tomorrow

Union High School's football team will visit Regional High tomorrow at the local gridiron in their first trip to Springfield, and with hopes of repeating last year's steam-rolling 26-0 victory which cracked a four-game winning streak for the Orange and Blue.

The Maroon and White has been having a bumpy season, copping three games in five starts, losing only to Carteret and Bound Brook. The latter took the favor of Regional by 7-0 in the season's opener and if the comparative 14-7 defeat they in turn suffered at the hands of Orange indicates anything, Coach Bill Brown's boys will have their work cut out tomorrow.

Undaunted by the impressive record of the home team Saturday at Ashland Stadium, East Orange, the Regional squad gave undefeated Clifton Scott a scrappy battle before bowing, 13-8. Scott threatened in the opening seconds after they intercepted a pass, and got into scoring position on Regional's 10, but the Brownmen held out until minutes later did Scott tally on a 17-yard forward pass into the end zone.

But Regional came back to the spotlight score when a 12-yard pass from Babe Pughman to Art DeBattista climaxed a 65-yard drive. Throughout, Regional outstrated the home team, making nine first downs to eight, but fumbled in crucial spots, twice during good scoring opportunities.

The second Scott score was brought about on a 34-yard run by George Armstrong, who skirted around left tackle. The second half was scoreless. Led by Bob Price and Pughman, Regional advanced the pigskin in the third period to the home team's 8, but fumbled to lose possession. In the final canto, Baldy Baldwin recovered for the locals on Scott's 46, and Regional started again to threaten, reaching the Scott 21, but another fumble proved costly.

OLD NEWSPAPERS TO BE GATHERED

Boy Scout Troop 70 will collect old newspapers and magazines on November 9 which will be sold to second hand dealers. Three-quarters of the funds received will be credited to the individual boys for uniforms or equipment and one-quarter will be turned over to the troop's general fund. Nicholas C. Schmidt of the Union County Coal and Lumber Company will donate use of a truck for the transportation of the papers and magazines.

The troop has been granted the use of the Summit Y. M. C. A. swimming pool on alternate Tuesdays, starting on Tuesday evening.

William Stockle

Funeral services for William Stockle, 76, of 28 Taylor street, Millburn, were held Tuesday at 2:30 P. M. at Young's Funeral Home, 148 Main street, Millburn. He died Saturday night at his home. The Rev. Dr. George A. Liggett of the Presbyterian Church conducted services. Interment was in the local Presbyterian cemetery.

Mrs. Stockle leaves his wife, Mrs. Eliza Jane Stockle; two sons, Fire Captain William A. Stockle and Douglas A. Stockle of Millburn; three brothers, Charles H. of Staten Island, Edward of Long Island and Frank P. Stockle of Millburn, and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Stockle was well known in Millburn, coming from an old family. He was a trustee of the Presbyterian Church, and a charter member of Success Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. of Millburn. He was a master painter and decorator. As a cornetist, he was active in musical centers in Essex and Union counties.

THREE PASSENGERS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Three passengers in a station wagon were injured Sunday when it collided with a car at South Springfield avenue near Diven street. Swanson of the same address, lacerations of the arm. The station wagon was driven by William Slesel and the car by Mrs. Frances Cooper of 16 Brookside road, Maplewood.

Captain and co-coach Bill Brown of the Stars and Bill Gordesky of the Campdown Pros are tied for second place. In fourth place is Carl Vanclo of Springfield.

To Hear Chinese Speaker Sunday

"What Christ Means to China" will be the topic of the Rev. Dr. Samuel L. Lee, president of Pekin Theological Seminary of China at the Methodist Church Sunday at 7:45 P. M. Dr. Lee came to the United States as a delegate to the Methodist General Conference held in Atlantic City last May. He is residing at present at Drew University, Madison, to observe latest methods of instruction in religious sciences.

Dr. Lee received his Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Divinity degrees from Lin Yung University in China and his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Drew University. He will return to China early in 1941.

Both as an educator and religious leader, Dr. Lee holds a place of prominence in China's national life. In view of the present Sino-Japanese war, his presentation of Christian problems in embattled China should materially aid the modern student of history to appreciate China's struggles. His address on Sunday evening will give many opportunities for a closer understanding of the Oriental situation.

Orchestral selections will be presented by H. R. Helms and E. J. Reardon of Cranford. The song service will be led by the Rev. Dr. Carl C. E. Meilberg, pastor.

Mail Deliveries May Be Extended

Carrier service will be extended to fifteen streets when 85 per cent of the stops are equipped with mail boxes, Postmaster Otto F. Helms announced Tuesday. The following streets which will be served are: Upper Morris avenue, Millburn avenue, Morris turnpike, Crescent road, Baltusur way, South Springfield avenue, Milltown road, Meisel avenue, Shunpike road, Mountain avenue, Colahan's, Homshaw avenue, Colfax road, Spring Brook road, Crest place and Park lane.

Postmaster Helms urges residents in these areas to equip themselves with boxes as soon as possible. Carrier service will start immediately after the postal authorities are convinced that specified number of boxes have been established.

BOARD CONSIDERS SIDEWALK ISSUE

The Board of Education is taking under consideration an urgent request to the Township Committee for concrete sidewalks on South Springfield avenue, as a result of a recent accident to a six-year-old child who was struck by an automobile near Diven street. Last year, similar walks were provided on the westerly side of the thoroughfare from the Raymond Chisholm School south to a point short of Hillside avenue, over which objections were raised due to conditions which occurred when rain made walking on sidewalks an obstacle.

Contract for grading and sidewalks on a parking lot at the Raymond Chisholm School was authorized to the Ern Construction Company. In addition, a sidewalk will be laid to the entrance of the building.

LIBRARY TO MARK CHILDREN'S WEEK

The Springfield Free Public Library will observe Book Week for Children from November 10-16. Mrs. Benjamin Woodruff, librarian, and her assistant, Miss Phoebe Briggs, have arranged new children books in an attractive manner for the benefit of the youngsters. Mrs. Woodruff is expecting an increase in children's circulation. The slogan for the week will be "Good Books—Good Friends."

Madison Man Held Here On Murder Count

Salvatore Salerno, 27, of 77 North street, Madison, charged with first degree murder, was removed this morning by local police to the Union County Jail pending Grand Jury action. Salerno admitted to Springfield police and county detectives last night that he had slain Joseph Campano, 48, of Washington avenue, Berkeley Heights, earlier in the day at a lonely spot in Bryant avenue, because the man had threatened his sister.

Salerno was arrested by local police at 6:45 P. M. at the Madison headquarters, where he had told the authorities of the incident. He was said to have told a brother of the killing and the latter, in turn, summoned an uncle, Police Sergeant Giordano of Madison, who together with Chief Farrell, took Salerno into custody and notified the Springfield police.

Campano's body was found in his car in Bryant avenue, about 200 feet south of Baltusur way, opposite the office of Andrew Wilson, Inc. His eight-month-old baby was pierced by a bullet.

In a statement to police, Salerno said yesterday morning he had been told by a sister, Mrs. Anthony Sello of Summit, that she had received "nasty letters" from Campano. The brother assured her he would take care of matters and drove to Springfield to wait for Campano at a spot where he usually passes, at Baltusur way, and Morris avenue.

As Campano approached, Salerno, who had parked his car in a gas station nearby, told him he wanted to talk to him. The Berkeley Heights man suggested they get into his car and the pair drove on Baltusur way, turning into Bryant avenue and stopped.

Salerno, meanwhile, told police he was arguing with Campano and when the machine halted, both were involved in a fist fight. The Madison man said his adversary reached for his pocket, as if to draw a gun, and he, Salerno, drew his own 26-caliber automatic and fired two shots. He returned on foot to his own car at Baltusur way and Morris avenue and buried the gun in his yard, he said.

The body was removed to Brewster's Morgue, Summit. Chief of County Detectives Roy A. Martin of Elizabeth grilled Salerno at local headquarters with Chief Runyon after the man had taken them to the scene and re-enacted the crime.

Campano, a gas station attendant, lived in Berkeley Heights for more than 20 years.

National Lottery for Peacetime Draft Holds Spotlight of Defense Program; Germany Changes Tactics in Air War; Tension in Far East Affairs Grows

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Releasaid by Western Newspaper Union.)

Interest in the current draft program has led the government to place on display in the Washington office of the Selective Service board this first World War draft register. The register shows that the draft lottery began 9:16 a. m., Friday, July 26, 1917, and ended 16 hours and 46 minutes later, with the drawing of the 10,500th capsule. The same method is being used to determine the order in which men shall be called for the 1940 peacetime conscription program.

DEFENSE: Numbers Called

To War Secretary Henry L. Stimson went the honor of selecting the first number in the national selective service lottery. President Roosevelt was to pick the first capsule out of the goldfish bowl that was used in the 1917 draft lottery, but graciously yielded to Stimson. The late Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under President Wilson, selected the first number in 1917.

Contracts

The industrial program of national defense entered its second phase. First was drafting and awarding of contracts. Billions of dollars worth of goods, from battleships to paper clips, were contracted for. The job now is one of procurement, actual manufacture on the speed-up scale demanded by the Defense Commission. In order to achieve the two-ocean navy and equip an army that will number close to 1,500,000 within a few months.

Chief bottleneck is machine tools, the machinery and gear necessary in the process of turning automobiles into tanks, factories, and the mass production of warplanes and munitions. William S. Knudsen, head of the production division of the commission, said tool makers are swamped with orders, sold out a year in advance. President Roosevelt issued an order permitting seizure of tool machines being made for foreign countries, wherever the material is necessary in American defense.

Outside tools, however, the vast industrial capacity of the United States seemed to be taking both defense and expanding civilian orders in its stride toward record production figures. The climb in manufacturing indices since last spring still has left a margin of surplus in manpower, raw materials and money. But despite the rise of various business statistics to new peaks since 1929, Wall Street security markets remained inert.

WAR AT NIGHT: Tactics Change

England was emerging from almost three months of continual bombing with greater confidence in its ability to withstand whatever the Luftwaffe has in store. As the stormy weather wore on and German planes were not halted by fog and freezing weather, British air leaders increased the fury of their own raids over France, Germany and Italy. Prime Minister Winston Churchill made bold to predict that by spring, 1941, with the help of American production, England will seize supremacy of the air.

The German air attack on London was reduced in one respect. Daylight raids were fewer and less violent. In the beginning Air Marshal Goering sent large formations in daylight raids. During this period the British scored heavily. Then the tactics shifted to single planes at varying heights. The German losses were reduced, but still remained high.

Now raids are confined largely to night. Bombers drop their packages from the stratosphere and scoot for home. The result is that the Now her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James V. Mooney, have announced her engagement to Lieut. John K. McGlynn, who is in a hospital, having shot down 22 Nazi fliers.

Joy of Childhood?

U. S. army guns, tanks and toy soldiers in miniature are the favorite of the current season's new crop of toys as far as Nick Tassalo, 6, is concerned. Nick is shown at the preview of the toy manufacturers' display in New York. A large percentage of the new toys for the coming Christmas season reflect the national defense preparations.

POWER: On the St. Lawrence

An agreement between the United States and Canada looking toward development of a hydroelectric system along the St. Lawrence river has been advocated by four Presidents but never achieved. The war need for greater power has brought about a start.

With the consent of the United States, Canada will take more water from the Niagara river to generate power for its defense industries. So as to maintain the level of the Great Lakes, waterways now flowing into the Albany river and Hudson bay will be diverted southward to the lakes.

The announcement immediately awoke echoes of the two-decade fight for a Great Lakes-to-the-Sea waterway. Existing navigation along Montreal is limited to 14 feet. Locks, are sought to provide a 32-foot draft.

Farmers of the West favor the plan. It would permit ocean liners to dock at Great Lakes ports and load wheat. Advocates of public power look upon the proposal as providing cheap electricity.

Opposition comes chiefly from ports in the Gulf of Mexico and along the Atlantic, as well as trans-shippers of grain. On the Canadian side the same is true.

President Roosevelt has allotted $1,000,000 of special defense funds for a survey.

SABOTAGE: Mr. Dies Agrees

A wave of fires and explosions in U. S. defense industries "like the recent Hercules powder blast in New Jersey," is predicted by Representative Dies (D., Texas), chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities. He called attention to the fact that a former member of the German American Bund told his committee several weeks before the New Jersey disaster that it could be expected.

Dies said there are more than 250,000 alien agents in the United States and more than 5,000 in defense industrial plants in the Detroit area alone.

Meanwhile members of the same committee declared they have proof that Friedrich Draeger, German spy, was linked up when he was in New York, has for six years been the actual head of the National Socialist party in the United States. They said the German diplomat has been "under observation for a long time" and is head of a vast ring of espionage, sabotage and propaganda.

In Manila, Capt. Ruffo Romero, a native Filipino, graduate of West Point and officer of the Fourteenth Engineers at Fort McKinley, was formally arrested and charged with plotting to sell confidential military papers to an unnamed foreign power. He was taken into custody in the basement of his home while allegedly photographing documents showing defense fortifications at the entrance to Manila bay. Two civilian accomplices were arrested. His American-born wife was sought.

Meanwhile a Japanese, who feigned insanity, was seized on the U. S. aircraft carrier Langley, at Olango. He was found when still in wet bathing costume and apparently had swum from shore to the ship.

MISCELLANEOUS

President Roosevelt borrowed a dollar from Postmaster General Walker to buy $3 worth of the new defense stamps. The stamps were exhibited at the White House on the first day of sale, but when the President went to make a purchase for his collection he had only $3 in his pocket.

An attendance record was established in the national parks during the 1940 travel year. Visitors numbered 16,741,855, a million more than last year.

Uncle Sam Peers Into Nature For Benefit of One and All

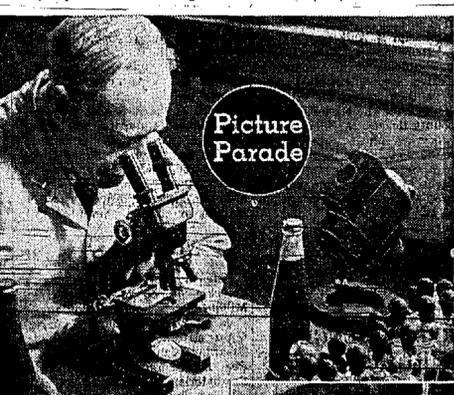

The government is constantly making experiments that lead towards the discovery of new uses for everything that comes from the soil, as well as towards the correction of many natural evils which seriously affect the national well being. This experimentation, in the long run, pays big dividends. Here are a few pictures showing how Uncle Sam goes about this important work.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington, D. C. GERMAN MORALE SUFFERING U. S. observers acquainted with the morale of the German people are getting bullish about Britain, in view of the heavy R.A.F. bombings of Germany. These officials point out that German conquests on land, even if they should be extended beyond the Balkans into Egypt or even to India, do not relieve the problem of the 80,000,000 Germans who must continue to take punishment from British bombing. It has been proved already that the military genius of the Germans is in land movements. They have no strength at sea, and they have failed to gain complete mastery in the air, though at times they have come close to it. This leaves the British with an air force growing daily stronger by arrival of Canadian and American planes, to bomb the great German cities in an attempt to break civilian morale. German conquests abroad do not relieve the distress of people in such heavily populated centers as Berlin, Dresden, Leipzig, Hamburg, and Munich. So long as these people must spend cold winter nights in the cellars, with no rest, there can be no real victory for Germany.

ROOSEVELT BORROWS

The other day Postmaster General Frank Walker called at the White House with William Knudsen and other defense commissioners to sell the President the first 190 new "National Defense" stamps, which come in one, two and three-cent denominations. This is a strictly cash on the line proposition. Mr. President," said Walker. "Have you got six dollars?" Roosevelt reached for his billfold. It contained one five-dollar bill, no more. "Hmmm—short a dollar," he mused. Borrowing, as Shakespeare said, may "dull the edge of husbandry," but on the other hand not everyone gets the chance to lend the President of the United States a buck. Everyone in the room grabbed for his wallet simultaneously. But Walker was the first to produce the dollar. Grinning, Roosevelt promised to repay Walker on "my next payday."

NEW ARMY TANKS

The United States army is now building a tank which will be the equal of any which the Nazis sent against France with their famous panzer divisions. These new war monsters each will carry one 75-mm. gun. This is the famous field artillery piece which the French army used during the World war, and which the American Expeditionary Force later adopted. It has now become the standard field artillery for more than half the armies of the world. However, not until the German divisions rolled into Flanders, did modern armies conceive of mounting guns as heavy as this in tanks. But from now on, even the medium tanks built for the U. S. army will carry one French 75, plus a 37-mm. gun, plus four machine guns. This tank will weigh between 25 and 30 tons. Note—It is impossible to estimate the cost of the mobile fortress carrying a 75-mm. gun, and the war department is not even troubling to ask for estimates. At least three of the companies will proceed with production on a "cost plus fixed fee" basis, and when the tanks begin to come off the assembly lines (which will not be before next May) Uncle Sam will pay the bill.

JEFF DAVIS VS. LINCOLN

Of all his predecessors, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson has chosen the portraits of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, and Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the martyred President, to adorn the wall facing his desk. Both Lincoln and Davis served as secretary of war. Mr. Stimson sits at a great flat curved red mahogany desk, which has been in the war department ask for estimates. At least three of the companies will proceed with production on a "cost plus fixed fee" basis, and when the tanks begin to come off the assembly lines (which will not be before next May) Uncle Sam will pay the bill.

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by efficient Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra. One day, talking with Higgins in the lobby, David is alarmed by a piercing scream. David finds the scream came from the Ferriter apartment, not far from the Pagets. The Ferriters include Lyon and Everett, and their sister, Rose. Everett, a generalist, is helping Agatha Paget write a book about her blue-blooded ancestor, a black-bearded man—dead. No weapon can be found. The police arrive. Higgins, who actively dislikes David, informs him that he is freed. David is left to the Paget apartment. There he finds elderly, prim-appearing Agatha Paget sipping a cocktail. She offers him a drink and writes her family history which will unearth a few family skeletons. He accepts the offer. Meanwhile, police suspect the murder of the man, Jerry Cochran of the Press-offers David a job helping solve the murder. He declines. Later David meets Grosvenor Paget, Allegra's brother.

CHAPTER V—Continued. "But how did he get out again?" I then asked.

"That," Cochrane said and grinned at me, "is something to be disclosed to our readers in a later installment. And, by the way, our friend Blackboard had been placed. The Medical Examiner says he had been shot in the chest. Not recently. In a war perhaps—World or rum. It may mean much, or nothing, like the rest of this case. The Ferriters are at the Babylon, eh?"

I nodded and was galled once more by the feeling that somehow I was betraying Miss Agatha. Then I looked at the clock and knew I was late. As we left, Cochrane asked: "Still living in the basement?" I gave him my address.

"You can find me there any evening," I told him, "but not till late tonight. I've a lot still to go over when I get back to the Morello."

The maid, Annie, let me in. Remorse for my neglect hurried me down the hall. I came into the room so quickly that I caught Allegra and her brother off guard.

They became in an instant two beautiful, well-bred youngsters, yet in the split second of surprise I thought I saw fear on the boy's face and I was certain the girl's eyes held tears. She had turned toward the window. Grosvenor spoke pleasantly enough but I was sure suspicion echoed in his voice:

"We thought you had gone for the day, Mr. Mallory."

"I don't wonder," I said. "I was delayed. If you're busy I can wait."

"No," he said nervously. "Oh, no, not at all."

Allegra turned from the window and smiled. It wasn't a great success. Neither was the carelessness she pumped into her voice.

"Grove and I were having another of our squabbles, Mr. Mallory. You'll get used to them."

She went to the door, trying so hard to appear as one that she was pitiful. She said from the threshold:

"Well, it's just as unsettled as when we began, Grove. And this I knew was sheer play-acting that hid something."

The boy lingered after she had left, wandering about the room, peering at titles on the bookshelves. I sat down, switched on the desk light and bent to my work. Twice I thought he was going to speak. At last he said, with a wide yawn:

"I'll pass up supper tonight and go to bed now."

"Pleasant dreams," I told him. He smiled uncertainly and left. It was nine o'clock when I finished. I stacked the papers neatly on the desk, swung about in the swivel chair and glanced upward at the narrow strip of sky above the upper row of lighted windows in the area wall. There were stars.

I started to rise, checked myself and sat, staring. "Those dark patches across the way were like the Ferriter apartment and behind one of them I had seen a light turned on. It showed the corner of a bureau, the foot of a bed and a man's moving figure. One of Shannon's cops, I thought, still searching the flat for what plainly was not there."

CHAPTER VI

Deep in the Ferriter apartment, the bell shrilled. It was so loud in the silence that I jerked my finger from the button.

I heard the far-off torrent of traffic and the muffled squawk of a radio, filtering in from the area. I heard a steady thumping in my own ears and wind muttering in the elevator shaft but no sound, no hint of movement beyond the Ferriters' door.

I pressed the button again and held it down just to show the bell that its noise didn't scare me. It stopped when at last I dropped my finger as abruptly as the voice of the telephone had been checked the day before—I was sweating and inside me the wise, or timid, voice had begun again:

"It's none of your business, Dave; it's none of your business."

I was mired too deep now, to climb out and walk away priggishly while Allegra and Miss Agatha and that fool boy teetered on the brink of a slough. I couldn't make Grosvenor a murderer—at least not this murderer. He hadn't the brains. He hadn't had even the common sense to pull down the shade before turning on the light. Yet the flat's silence damned him. It proved that he, unknown to the police, unknown to Higgins, had a key.

I saw his face clearly for a second.

The wheedling voice inside me died away. Shannon was no fool. Shannon might have set a trap into which a young idiot had stumbled. I knew now what I must do. I crossed the hall and rang the Pagets' bell.

Grosvenor himself opened the door and the lie I had prepared for Annie served for him.

"Sorry," I said. "I forgot something," and stepped forward. He was in a dressing gown but his hair was sleek and his eyes were quick. I walked to the room where I had worked and turned on the lights. He stood in the hall, watching me and he looked in his broadened, tasseled robe like a poster for men's socks.

I could see he was relieved it was only I. He was easy to read.

"Could you come here a minute, Mr. Paget?" I called and I closed the door when he had entered. That frightened him. He turned while but he had enough backbone to keep his face stiff. He sat down and pulled his robe about him. I leaned against the desk. He cleared his throat, looked up at me and asked:

"Well?"

"The way he spoke made me feel clumsy. It was hard to begin and I found myself saying aloud: 'It's none of your business, but—' There I stuck. His eyelids flickered. I felt my muscles jerk as he held his hand into the pocket of his robe. He took a cigarette from a silver case and then, remembering his manners, offered one to me. I held a match for him and then lit myself.

"I'd like you to believe that I'm not hounding him. I'm not asking for your confidence, but I'll be glad to help you in any way I can."

"Kind of you," said he and his upstage stiffness licked me. I picked my words less carefully.

"I've proved that already, whether you like it or not. If I weren't in your corner, I'd be phoning Captain Shannon now. You can drop the air of paternalistic benevolence, if you don't mind. All I really want to give is advice. The next time you prove about the Ferriters' apartment, pull down the shades before you light up."

"That lit him. He turned, green and creased his lips to keep them from trembling. He did not heed the ash that shook from his cigarette onto his knees.

"It," I told him, "you want to leave it there, that's your affair. After all, it's none of my business." He had got hold of himself. He took a long drag on his cigarette and ground out the butt in an ash tray.

Kathleen Norris Says: Being Disagreeable Is a Luxury

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

It is feared by being held too tightly in a rut; by feeling that Mary and the girls merely want all the money he can make, for pleasures and purchases that mean nothing to him, and that the kindest thing he could do for them would be to die and leave them the big insurance.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

TO MAKE himself disagreeable is a luxury that costs a husband very little.

When life goes dull for him; or his business is worrisome; when he has nothing to remember of his fishing trip but sunburn and an unpaid poker debt; when one child has a cold and the mouth of the other is disfigured by dental bands, then it is Dad's royal prerogative to be disagreeable, and he has to be a man of real strength of character and real sweetness of temper to be anything else.

Nobody can stop him if he wants to be disagreeable. When a man drinks or gambles to excess; beats his children; is unfaithful to his wife, there is something she can do about it. But when he merely criticizes, sulks, snaps and growls, she is helpless, unless she wants to turn shriveled, and at the same time turn the house into a hell for all concerned.

Dad's Mood Affects All. Most women don't do that, if only for the sake of their own dignity and for the children. They overlook, they smile, they explain and placate and endure until the bad mood passes.

"That is in a bad mood tonight," they say in an undertone. The children glance at him apprehensively. A dismal quiet rules the dinner-table. No young voice dries pipe up about the movie; the approaching finals at school; the need of new shoes. Mother makes a few tentative starts.

"Nice that Doctor Smith won the club golf match," she says. And after a moment, "Harriet telephoned today, just to ask about all of us. They've decided not to move."

Silence. Silence. The head of the house looks unutterably weary, looks faintly annoyed.

"My husband is everything that is good and fine in character," writes a Boston wife, "but he is so glum he could count on my fingers the times I have seen Larry really cheerful. He has four young daughters, and have had hard times financially. But times are better now, and we are paying off bills and planning—or, I am, at least, for a move to a nicer house and a little expansion generally. Larry takes no interest in this, he glooms away silently at meals, is very apathetic over any talk of change, and goes silently through life as if he were half-dead."

"The effect of this on me and the girls is of course perfectly terrible. We can't start up a conversation while that death-head of boredom and disapproval is looking on. As a result we make our own plans and keep quiet when Papa is around. Larry resents this, too, for when I ask for money he hasn't heard our plans, doesn't know what it is for and generally growls about it."

No Criticism Allowed. "All this seems very sad, to me. We could be so happy! The girls deeply admire and really love their father—I have never allowed myself or them the slightest criticism of him. I have always reminded them that he works hard to keep us all comfortable and happy, that he attends himself to carry a heavy life insurance, that for us and that he does truly love us, deep down in his heart. But I find it hard going, sometimes. Now Patsy and Sheila are 16, twins, and Brenda and Margaret, getting into their teens, too, and these are days for simple but stylish and pretty. If inexpensive frocks and good times. I've begged him to relax, to be cheerful, to stop worrying. I've prayed about it. Can you make any suggestion to just one more Mary?"

The only suggestion I can make is that there is a reason for this man's moods, and that when it is found and diagnosed, his bodily sickness, Mary will find that she is halfway to the cure.

It may indeed be physical. It sounds very much like stomach ulcers or colitis or any one of the similar ailments that so often attack men whose habits are sedentary and who eat heartily. If Larry can be persuaded to walk two miles a day, eat a light dinner, and substitute for rich desserts the invaluable orange apple, saucer of prunes or compost of raw fruits, he may find life taking on a much rosier color.

Trouble Probably Mental. "But much more probably Larry's trouble is mental. He is carrying too heavy a burden. He is carrying too many different things. The boys will be helping out in a few years," would be his natural thought.

The boys DON'T usually help out, and are much less reliable as money-earners than girls are, doesn't often occur to the father of daughters. But that's an aside.

That boys DON'T usually help out, might come through a move indeed, but a move to simpler and less expensive rather than finer quarters. It might come through a determined lessening of expenses, rather than an increase in them. It might come if the twins started taking less of college and sorority days and more of jobs. It might come if Mary and the girls all talked honestly to Papa, dismissed the maid, gave up the apartment for which they pay $35 rent and planned for a country farm near the city, at $35. It might come if they gave Papa a chance to do a little gardening, to split wood and chop down trees and putter with a windmill's machinery.

Helping Dad Out of Gloom. There is escape for all of us from difficult conditions, if we will but open our minds and hearts to find it. A wife and four daughters, when the man of the house is the only bread-winner, shouldn't have a maid. Larry's family has one, and often, for part-time, another. Girls in such a family should be busy putting up fruit to sell, or taking after-school jobs in frock shops or tea rooms. A mother like Mary should be talking of resources, not of constant needs. If she found some weather-beaten old place outside the city, painted it with the girls' assistance, opened a luncheon, took a couple of small children to board, started a bank account of her own, from which to supply her daughters the luxuries they want, she might find the way of the house a changed person.

Worry over family finances will make the best natured man disagreeable. If the family would cooperate to help save or earn money, this moodiness usually disappears.

Deletion of newsreel attack on Kelly-Nash machine a Chicago boomerang. All but one of leading Tennessee newspapers supported Willkie, despite TVA.

WASHINGTON.—Censorship is something wonderful in Chicago. The lads know all the ropes. They not only use censorship of movies and newsreels to suppress what they do not want, but they can give their famous old Boston board of elders cards—and spades,—because they know how to use censorship to advertise something they want boosted.

Everybody remembers what a grand deal the old Boston censors of a few years back gave certain salacious books, for one thing, and the articles of Henry L. Mencken was then writing in his magazine, for another.

Mencken worked the thing as a racket. He would call the attention of the censors by some sort of publicity, to the audacity of something he had written in his magazine. Then the censors would bar the sale of that issue in Boston. Whereupon in every hamlet in the United States folks would read about this article that had caused the suppression of the magazine in the "Hub."

Of course, everybody who read this was curious to know just what it was that had been suppressed, and some of them would actually buy the magazine to find out.

CENSORS BOOSTED SALES. But the publicity did not stop there. Mencken would then appear in some youngsters in Boston to sell the magazine on the streets in defiance of the censors' ruling. They would be arrested, and there would be another story. When you consider that the magazine Henry was then publishing was one of comparatively small circulation, it is not unlikely that several times he tripled its circulation merely by getting the censors to blacklist that particular edition.

There is no evidence that any of the publishers of salacious books used the same method, though it is certain that they profited by it whether intentionally or not.

The point of all this is that the Chicago censors a few weeks back suppressed for Chicago showing a movie in which close political friends of the organization here are interested. After a nine-day workout, in Chicago every man, woman and child joined in the clamor, the movie was released—with more publicity than any movie had received in this area since "Gone With the Wind."

More recently the Chicago police censors deleted from a newsreel attacks on the Kelly-Nash machine here by Dwight Green, Republican candidate for senator, and by Wendell Willkie. This time they misfired a little. The resulting publicity caused an immediate restoration of the cuts!

WILLKIE SUPPORTED. It is rather interesting that the New Deal attacks on Wendell Willkie did not go to the merits of government versus private ownership of the electric industry, but confined themselves almost exclusively to the fact that Willkie companies fought the TVA, and in particular that they used questionable means and methods in fighting a public ownership referendum in the city of Chattanooga, Tenn.

It is also interesting that most of the people who ought to know about the details of these various fights did not seem to take these criticisms of Willkie very seriously.

In the state of Tennessee the eight outstanding newspapers, according to a recent survey by Time magazine, are: Memphis Commercial Appeal, Memphis Press-Scimitar, Chattanooga Times, Chattanooga Free Press, Knoxville News-Sentinel, Knoxville Journal, Nashville Banner, Nashville Tennessean.

Of these eight newspapers, all but one, the Nashville Tennessean, advocated the election of Willkie. It is interesting to note, also, that the Tennessean, the only one of the eight which is for Roosevelt, was in trouble recently, was aided by federal funds, and is now being run by Silliman Evans.

PROMINENT DEMOCRAT. Evans is a fairly young newspaper man who came to Washington from the Southwest shortly before the New Deal came into power. He was given a place as fourth assistant postmaster general under James A. Farley. Later, when the federal government began to have something to say about the operations of the Maryland Casualty Co., he was put in virtual charge of that Baltimore concern. Still later he became head of the Tennessean.

The whole point of this is that all the outstanding newspapers in Tennessee, which by any stretch of the imagination could be said to be uncontrolled by the federal government, were for Willkie, although this is the state in which most of Willkie's spectacular opposition to the TVA and government operation centered.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Kidney Trouble. Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the risk of exposure and infection—lowers heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter some of the waste products from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pain, swelling—feet, ankles, hands, wrists, all warn of it. Other signs of kidney or bladder trouble are some-thing, nervous, easily or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by medical users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

RICHARD EDEN by Inglis Fletcher has for its background the rich fertile land along the coast of North Carolina where pirates roamed from 1765 to 1782.

More than a hundred characters move through the pages. Many of them are historical men and women who had an actual part in the struggle for freedom. General Nathaniel Greene, John Paul Jones and Lord Cornwallis are among them.

Six years of writing are behind the story. Hundreds of records were consulted as well as rare books, old documents and personal letters. Fletcher even went through a complete file of the London Morning Post for the period. Out of all this material, he has written an enjoyable story.

THE HILL IS MINE by Maurice Walsh. The New York Herald Tribune says of Walsh: "Whoever has a taste for high romance, history brought alive, chivalrous deeds and great love will go far to find an equal among the works of men now writing."

The main character, Stephen Wayne, wanted to see Scotland and to do his seeing on his own two feet. This is a story of a Scottish glen and its people. Though wars are fought in the outside world and dictators rise and fall, the old customs still make their way gently over the moor and up the streams, stalking deer and catching salmon while the young ones find their loves.

HAGUE ANALYZED IN LATEST VOLUME

A former New Jersey assemblyman with ten years of teaching at Princeton and now a professor at Dartmouth, Dayton D. McKean, has written an expose of the political power of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City under the title of "The Boss," published by Houghton Mifflin Company.

The author does not look at Jersey City with fear, but rather tells how well Mayor Hague has everything under his control. "I Am the Law," Hague defends his police department whenever people are arrested on "trumped-up charges." At his pleasure, telephone wires are tapped and mail tampered. Since he is supreme in Jersey City, no one questions him. His opposition comes from out of the boundary lines of Hudson County.

McKean writes that "seven-Tammany Hall, the prototype of all machine politics, never dominated New York as Hague and his political associates have dominated Jersey City and Hudson County."

I DON'T CARE IF YOU INVITE OSCAR OF THE WALDORF!

That was my come-back when Charlie tried to impress on me how particular his Boss would be about dinner. Well, what a pin does to a panny balloon is nothing to what my teasing did to Charlie.

"PLEASE, MY PET-PLEASE!"

be pleaded: "You don't know what this means to me. This dinner must be just right! The steak must be as tender as the mashed potatoes. The Boss is a—what do you call it—connoisseur." "Relax," I said, "I've got the answer."

"YOU KNOW WHAT I MEAN."

I told the butcher, "I want the steak that's always tender, always at the peak of flavor. I've got to wow my guests tonight, so make sure you give me Tenderay beef!"

BOY! DID HE EAT IT UP!

When the Boss left he wore a smile that hooked on both ears, like eye-glasses. He was flattered to pieces, because he considers well-prepared food a compliment. Did my Tenderay steak make a hit!

HERE'S WHY SHE SAID TENDERAY

Tenderay is a scientifically controlled method which aids and speeds up nature's own slow way of tenderizing fine, wholesome, fresh beef to make it extra tender—chuck, brisket, sirloin, etc.

In the Tenderay process no chemicals are added to the meat; there is no pre-cooking, no freezing and no mechanical treatment.

Tenderay is a patented process, developed by the research laboratories of Washington, in cooperation with food scientists of the famous Mellon Institute.

THE COVERED DISH CHURCH SUPPER

(See Recipes Below)

As I sit here thinking about church supper, my mind wanders back several years to the supper I attended in my old home town. There was always a feeling of congeniality, of hospitality and fellowship. The annual church supper was something that couldn't be, and wouldn't be, missed.

Many times it was a covered dish supper. There was usually a great variety of food. The menu was divided up into the main dish, the salad, the bread and butter, and the dessert. Each lady of the church was made responsible for one item of the menu; and she, no doubt, prepared her own favorite recipe.

Can you pass a table containing a tempting assortment of foods without wanting at least a taste of everything? Can you decline such an offer or not you want the coconut cream pie which is heaped with fluffy whipped cream, or the rich-looking chocolate cake with the thick fudge icing, when you know that you are entitled to only one dessert? Of course not! Instead of having such a wide selection of food for a covered dish supper, why not plan a well-balanced menu so that everyone gets exactly the same?

Hot Water Cheese Pastry.

(Makes 30 tarts)

- 1 1/2 cups shortening
 - 3/4 cup boiling water
 - 4 cups general purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 2 cups American cheese (grated)
- Place shortening in warm bowl, pour boiling water over it and cream thoroughly with a fork. Place flour, salt, and baking powder in flour sieve and sift gradually into the creamed mixture. Add cheese. Mix thoroughly. Make up into dough balls, then chill in refrigerator. When ready to bake remove from refrigerator, divide dough and roll out. Cut into rounds and bake.

Tuna Cracker Pie.

(Serves 4 to 5)

- 1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
 - 2 tablespoons green pepper (chopped)
 - 1/2 cup butter
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1 can condensed chicken soup
 - 6 tablespoons milk
 - 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
 - 1 can (7-ounce) tuna fish
- Crackers for bottom and top of pie. Cook the onion and green pepper in butter until soft, then add brown onion and mix well. Add the chicken soup and cook until thickened. Stir in the milk. Add this to the cream of mushroom soup. Put the tuna fish in a strainer and pour a cup of hot water over it to take off the excess oil. Then add flaked tuna fish, heat to blend flavors. Cover the bottom of small casserole with crackers (round) and put tuna mixture into the casserole.

Chocolate Fudge Cake.

(Serves 25)

- 1 cup shortening
 - 3 cups light brown sugar
 - 3 eggs (slightly-beaten)
 - 2 1/2 cups baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons soda
 - 3/4 cup sour milk
 - 1/2 cup cocoa
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Cream shortening and add sugar gradually, blending well after each addition. Add slightly-beaten eggs and mix well. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, and soda. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk, blond cocoa and boiling water. Add to the cake batter with the vanilla, and mix just until the batter is smooth. Pour into 3

8-inch square pans, which have been greased and lined with wax paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 30 minutes.

Macaroni and Cheese.

(Serves 10-100)

- 8 pounds macaroni
 - 4 pounds cheese (grated)
 - 2 1/2 gallons white sauce (medium)
 - 2 1/2 cups butter
 - 3 quarts soft bread crumbs
1. Cook the macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and rinse in cold water.
2. Grate the cheese, and add to white sauce with the prepared mustard.
3. Combine the macaroni and the cheese sauce. Place in greased baking pans.
4. Melt the butter and mix lightly with the crumbs. Sprinkle over the macaroni and cheese.
5. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for about 30 minutes.

Clam Chowder.

(Serves 50)

- 1 1/4 quarts carrot (chopped)
 - 1 1/4 cups onion (chopped)
 - 3 quarts potato (chopped)
 - 7 1/2 cups celery (chopped fine)
 - 5 quarts clams
 - 5 quarts water and clam liquor
 - Salt and pepper to taste
 - 5 quarts milk
 - 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 1 cup parsley
 - 2 tablespoons paprika
1. Chop the vegetables in small pieces and place in large kettle.
2. Chop the clams and add together with the clam liquor, water, salt, and pepper. Cover and cook about 1/2 hour, or until vegetables are tender.
3. Scald milk.
4. Make a smooth paste of the flour and water. Add half of this flour paste to the clam mixture and half to the scalded milk.
5. Cook each, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens.
6. Combine and add butter, parsley, and paprika. Serve very hot.

Chocolate Nut Drop Cookies.

(Makes 4 dozen)

 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup cocoa
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 1 cup nut meats (broken)
- Cream butter and add sugar slowly while beating constantly. Beat egg and add. Mix and sift all dry ingredients and add alternately with the cream. Blend thoroughly. Then add vanilla and nut meats. Drop by spoonfuls on well-greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 12 minutes.

Baked Sweet Potatoes.

(Serves about 25)

- 20 medium sized sweet potatoes
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 3 cups cream or rich milk
 - 2 1/2 cups brown sugar
 - 3/4 pound marshmallows
- Peel potatoes and boil in salted water until tender but not soft. Slice potatoes in half and place in a glass baking dish. Add cream and sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake approximately 10 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees) or until sugar has melted and caramelized with the cream. Then arrange marshmallows on top. Return baking dish to oven and brown marshmallows.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union)

THE question of who owns Dorothy Lamour's hair has become a burning issue. It isn't the hair that Dorothy had left when her famous long locks were removed, but the tresses that fell to the floor when she won the victory to have her hair bobbed.

She bobbed it for Paramount's "Moon Over Burma," you'll recall. Instantly the studio's publicity department requested the make-up department to save the shorn locks; they knew that thousands of requests for a lock of Dorothy's hair would pour in.

The requests poured, all right. But when the head of the publicity department sent for the hair, the make-up department replied that it was in the possession of Dorothy's mother, Mrs. O. L. Castleberry.

Mrs. Castleberry had protested bitterly against the shearing, and to express her Dorothy had taken her long and lovely locks.

Now the question is—does the studio own those locks, or are they the rightful property of Mrs. Castleberry, who refuses to give them up.

Humphrey Bogart just goes from bad to worse, so far as his work is concerned. Years ago he made a hit in his first important role in the stage play, "Cradle Snatchers," in which he played the very juvenile secret of Mary Boland. Jeannette MacDonald's husband, then known as Raymond Guion, was another very youthful and capable member of the cast.

But the movies have turned Bogart into one of our most sinister villains. In his new picture, "High Sierra," he's more villainous than ever. One of his milder acts is to crack the heads of two "goons" who cause trouble in his "mob."

Two years ago the Song Hit guild of New York set out to prove that the guild's records were hit songs. The guild's records prove what a grand idea that was.

In less than 18 months 15 unknown authors and composers received accredited publication, advance royalties and contracts equal to those given established professionals. The list of their songs includes the popular "Can't Get Indiana Off My Mind," "I'm on the Verge of a Heart Break," and "What Every Young Girl Should Know," featured a while ago on the Hit Parade.

The Song Hit guild is now conducting its third nationwide search for talent. If you're interested, send your manuscript to the Song Hit guild, 3610 Broadway, New York City, at once. An advisory board headed by Paul Whiteman, Guy Lombardo, Billy Rose and Kay Kyser passes on all songs, and writers requiring such help are invited to collaborate with hit songwriters like Hoagy Carmichael, Jimmy McHugh and others of equal note.

Radio artists are reviving an old parlor game as a means of whiling away off-time in the studios. But they play it with radio programs instead of the titles of books or songs. Turning to the radio page of a newspaper, they run the titles of radio programs together to make a story in sentences like this—"Blonde, Meet Mr. Neck, Light of the World!"

Marjorie Anderson is calling her new home on the outskirts of Philadelphia "The house that shadows built." Married, mother of a two-year-old daughter, and wife of a successful construction engineer, she commutes to New York for her work on Mutual Broadcasting System's Shadow program, and has earned enough to pay the rent for a year, landscape the grounds, and furnish the house.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bill Stern is lining up Robert Taylor, Mickey Rooney and Claudette Colbert for guest appearances on his "Sports Illustrated" radio show. His program opens to the coast for December. . . . Bing Crosby's son Gary will follow in his dad's film footsteps, it's reported. . . . Penny Singleton, who broke into films as a dancer, dances for the first time in four years in "Blonde Goes Latin." . . . Fred Allen is willing to give $50 for a penny, if it's the right penny. He left on 1932 penny, valued at $20, on his desk, and was miserly—reading penny to see the million, and if it up so the $20 penny is now in circulation.

New Silk Jersey Gives Illusion Of Slim, Sculptured Silhouette

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

YOU will take the straight and narrow path for fall, but in effect only. You will do it by means of illusion caused by the artifices of slimming silk jerseys, of draping, subtle going and intricate cut that achieves the effect of simple, slender straightness without losing one feminine curve, one iota of grace or walking comfort.

Right at the head of the silk parade of fall fashions comes daytime dresses, evening gowns, blouses, headgear, cunning little evening shawls and innumerable other accessory items made of silk jersey. For draping and achieving sculptured "lines," there is nothing in the entire fabric realm comparable to supply, lovely silk jersey.

Gray silk jersey, in enveloped throughout the entire style parade, starting with blouses that will take you from luncheon right through to cocktails and important little dinners. For the most part these have long fitted sleeves, although the below-elbow length is also favored. The attractive blouse to the left in the illustration is typical. It is made with a high neck and curved seams running toward the armholes in front, in order to secure the cool drape in pretty precision. The sleeves are long and modish. The draped Persian silk turban gives just the right dash of color to glorify this exceeding chic blouse.

Switching to the dark silk jersey afternoon dresses. Because of the slim fall of the material, skirts are cut slightly fuller and there is much shirred and draped detail in bodices that will flatter every type of figure. See to the right in the group a black silk jersey daytime dress. Here the new long elegant sculpturing interprets current styling of its best. The American designer Kievette created this dress

Shows Pompadour Spotted Furs Have Become the Vogue

If you keep seeing "spots" before your eyes, don't be alarmed. It is simply fashion making a demonstration of what's what in fur coats and fur trimmings.

The tremendous vogue for leopard and ocelot and other of the spotted type pelts is developing almost to an epidemic of spots. When in doubt as to the fur to enhance your new cloth coat, use the spotted kind and you will be fashion correct.

The way spotted furs will crowd the grandstand this year is something to marvel at. There will be entire coats of leopard or ocelot. There will be muffs and neckpiece sets with matching hats of the spotted fur. There will be more than that, for huge pockets of spotted fur are adorning clothe coats.

There's no end in sight of the procession of novelty accessory items that will enliven the fall and winter style picture. You will be seeing spotted fur gloves with bella mania, and hats that do just that—play up to the fashionable pompadour coiffures. The one at the top is a youthful version with a big brim that lifts off the face and swoops low to the nape of the neck. The foundation of the hat is black felt with gold, maroon and navy stitching over its entire surface. A trio of quills in gold, red and blue puncture the uplifted front brim. The black velvet dinner hat below was especially designed for the new pompadour hairdress which shows off the forehead so becomingly. It promises to become increasingly popular.

New Wool Fabric Dress Has Hand-Knitted Section

Knitted sleeves in a wool fabric dress is big news. Attractive jersey dresses in the very new neutral colors take on sleeves and knitted sections. Details such as large pockets, belts and cuffs and collar accents are done in yarn accurately color-matched.

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

IN THE wake of football's mid-season mark we find again one major flaw in the mental attitudes of too many supporters. It is this. When some team gets beaten the crowd swings from that outfit to others unbeaten and untied.

This is all out of focus. In the first place, most teams have certain objectives for which they must later on be ready. In the second place, schedules play a big part in any season's final roundup—a terrific part.

Pennant-winning teams—in the National and American baseball leagues are only supposed to have a .669 average—about two out of three. Few coaches have the reserve strength on hand to get keyed up for every game. It can't be done unless the reserve material is exceptional or the schedule is full of weak opponents.

Why should a team that plays eight or nine hard games be judged against a team that plays four hard games and four or five soft ones?

Take Your Choice

I recall a good many years ago when Major Daley was coaching Army. His two main assignments were Yale in October and Navy in late November.

"I can win either game," he said to the Army staff. "I can beat Yale in October or Navy in November. But I can't win both. Which is your main objective?"

We'll take last fall. Ohio State won one of the hardest conference championships football knows—the Big Ten. Yet Ohio State lost two major games—to Cornell and Michigan.

Southern California won the Pacific conference title and the Rose Bowl windup. Yet Southern California was tied by Oregon and outplayed by Washington; both of whom were beaten and outplayed by U. C. L. A.

Shining Examples

The two best teams in football last fall were Cornell and Texas A. & M. They were neither led nor beaten. Nor was Tennessee until it hit the Rose Bowl. But in all frankness: not one of these had to play a Notre Dame or an Iowa schedule—nor a Minnesota schedule.

For another example, suppose most teams had to meet Vanderbilt's current schedule—Princeton, Kentucky, Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee among others.

Let some of these mop-up winners try out that last-named menu on their peccoles.

I'll give you another—U. C. L. A. Here it goes—S. M. U., Santa Clara, Texas A. & M., California, Oregon State, Stanford, Oregon, Washington State, Washington and Southern California. Only nine or ten tough ones in a row, including six of the nation's best.

The Big Difference

Two or three setup games can make all the difference in the world, such as many high ranking teams have. They give the coach a chance to rest up any injured men and get them ready for the next hard test, while another coach, facing one tough opponent after another, has no such break.

For this reason there is no such animal as a national champion. It is a complete impossibility with so many teams playing so many different schedules.

The closest claim I recall to any so-called national championship was Knute Rockne's "Big Ten" team—Duke, Michigan, Southwest and Far West. The only close calls came against Southern Methodist and Army, the latter on the worst football day and the worst football field I ever saw—rain, sleet, snow, fog and ice.

Bob Zuppke of Illinois, philosopher, artist and coach, comes closer to calling the turn on football than anyone I've ever known.

1. "There are times you can lose 'em all, and still look good in every game you lose. There are times you can win and not look good at all."

2. "There is only one thing in football that is more important than winning. That is to love the field with your opponent's respect, win or lose."

The Game's the Thing

After all, if you have left either a winning or a losing field without your opponent's respect for the main things that make up sport—we'll say team—then the game is hardly worth while. It's tough to be a good loser, but a good loser looks better in defeat than an aggrandizing, ungrateful, manlike victor does in his moment of triumph.

Once again I believe too many football followers expect too much from too many teams.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

Washington, D. C.

WRITER'S FEUD I think there is a new voice among political commentators in our country. It has not been silent in other fields. Clare Boothe has made herself felt, importantly in drama, literature and as a publicist. Only in her indignation about the war hysteria of recent political outbursts has she taken to the hustings. She hasn't just taken to them. She has them. Her book, "Europe in Spring," is the most revealing

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson on the fall of France. It wasn't political. It was poignant, but the terrible experiences from which it was derived didn't suggest to the poised Miss Boothe that she drag her own country unnecessarily into that bloody shambles. When she got back to this country, to find that another foremost American woman writer of great heart and mind, Miss Dorothy Thompson, had completely blown up emotionally, Miss Boothe began analyzing psychology.

She showed from her correspondence in France that Miss Thompson had actually wangled permission from a French artillery battery to fire three shells at the Germans.

Miss Boothe was indignant. By all the laws of war, Miss Thompson was a non-combatant, an American, a sniper in uniform—perfectly protected against reprisal. If any one was killed, it was murder, no less—a such a deed as the intellectual Dorothy would never dream of in her normal mind.

That aroused Miss Boothe to make one of the most effective speeches yet delivered on our war hysteria. With no personal feeling whatever, she used this incident as an example of the mass madness into which we are being whipped.

ELLIOTT'S RESIGNATION

As this column said, in criticizing Elliott Roosevelt's appointment, it is inconceivable to me that Elliott gave a thought to its destructive implications. Elliott resigned in order to register for the draft, giving as his reason the injurious effect of his appointment on the selective service program. In my opinion, that was a courageous and proper thing to do.

But it is much madder and, in this case, more patriotic. I believe that the resignation was in good faith and that it relieves Elliott from any criticism except his original misinformed judgment.

Not so much can be said of General Echols' "refusal to accept" the resignation.

As a matter of law, Echols has no means to do what than I have. A resignation goes to the appointing authority, who alone can accept or reject it. That authority is the President, here represented by the war department, not Echols.

The success of the draft depends absolutely on popular confidence in its administration. In this respect it differs from any other department of the war effort.

Experience has proved over and over again that you can't get away with a resignation in an Anglo-Saxon country without an almost religious popular and patriotic faith and zeal.

I believe more blame is due to regular air corps officers in not properly advising Elliott in the first instance than to Elliott himself. That blame still continues in General Echols' rejection of the resignation "on my own responsibility." He has no responsibility. This rejection is pure bunk. It will fool nobody. If the regular officers had a purpose either to serve or please the President in the original appointment or in this false move, they are doing the reverse of both.

Washington Highlights:

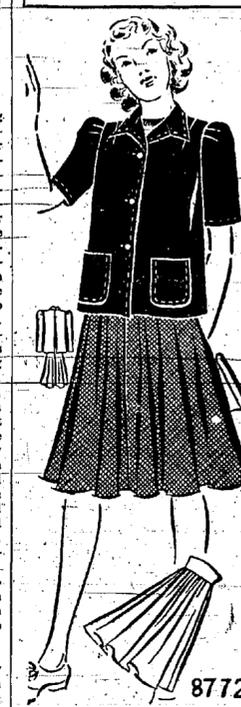

"Price chiseling" on materials for the defense program is under a broad investigation at the present time, according to word from Chairman Burton K. Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) of a senate interstate commerce subcommittee. The committee is co-operating with the national defense commission and the department of justice. The investigators would scrutinize the entire price field carefully and also check into the reasons for industrial bottlenecks that might eventually hamper the defense program.

Senator Wheeler says that there "has" going to be any witch hunt though, and nobody who is co-operating need be afraid of it."

Renewed efforts to bolster America's defenses in the Far East were revealed by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox recently. He stated that the army has ordered substantial reinforcements, including two airplane pursuit squadrons, to the Philippine islands.

Meanwhile, preparations have been made to start work on the United States military base at New Zealand. The base will be located somewhere on the southern coast, but its actual position will remain a military secret.

'Shorty' Suit That's Tops With Junior

YOUNG as a giggle, gay as a football tea when the home team wins, this shorty coat and full skirt form a very important chapter in the school life of every junior who knows her fashions—and her public. And every junior who knows how to thread a needle can have two or three versions, inexpensively and easily, by making this new design (No. 8772) for herself.

And she couldn't choose a smarter style! The casual coat has an inverted pleat in the back, and is trimmed with saddle-stitching. The collar turns back in becoming, pointed revers. Gathered onto a wide belt, the skirt is delightfully full. Corduroy, flannel, wool crepe and thin tweed are smart for this.

Pattern No. 8772 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 1 1/2 yards of 54-inch material without nap for short-sleeved jacket; 1 3/4 yards for long-sleeved; 2 3/4 yards for bias skirt; 3 1/4 yards for straight. Send order to:

QUESTION: What can I do to stop my fireplace from smoking?
ANSWER: There are many reasons why a fireplace smokes. One is that the area of the flue is too small for the fireplace opening. The opening of a fireplace should be about 10 to 12 times the area of the flue; that is, for an 8 by 12-inch flue the size of the opening should be 960 square inches or thereabouts.

Other reasons are:
More than one fire connected to the flue; each fire should have its own flue, and the walls of the flue should be air-tight.
Chimney too low; the top of the chimney should not be less than four feet above a flat roof, or two feet above the highest point of a gable roof—higher yet if there are nearby tall trees or buildings. The flue should be the same size to the very top.
Flue clogged; the condition of a fireplace flue can often be examined from the fireplace by the use of a mirror, with or without a flashlight.
Wrong construction of throat and wind shelf.
Throat damper closed.
Opening of the fireplace too high for the width, which can be corrected by setting a sheet of metal across the top of the opening, or laying firebricks on the fireplace floor. The proper height for the width can be found by experimenting with boards held across the top of the opening.

Scaling Paint.
QUESTION: What should be done to my house to make the paint stay on?
ANSWER: The house, when new, was given two coats of white paint. Three years later it was given two more coats. A year later the paint checked, curled and fell off. The paint scaled off down to the wood. The cleboards on the north side are affected worst.

ANSWER: Remove the old paint down to the wood. Thin out the paint according to manufacturer's directions for each coat. Aluminum paint makes an excellent priming coat. The surface must be thoroughly dry before painting. Several days' drying time must be allowed between coats. Paint is applied in thin coats well brushed out. A thick application of paint will not dry out quickly and is apt to cause trouble later on.

Removal of Floor Wax.
QUESTION: I have tried a commercial solvent for the removal of accumulated wax on a linoleum floor, but it has not produced satisfactory results. I have also tried using a steel scraper, but with little success. Is there anything you can suggest that would do the job more efficiently?
ANSWER: A mild soap, warm water and steel wool rubbed gently on the surface of the linoleum will usually remove most forms of wax. In stubborn cases turpentine instead of soap and water may be used, but the turpentine must be wiped off as soon as the wax is taken off. Are you sure it is wax and not varnish that you are trying to remove?

Size of Hot Water Tank.
QUESTION: I am having an automatic gas water heater installed in a two-family house, three persons in each family. I do my own laundering. Would a 40-gallon tank be large enough? Is it advisable to have a copper tank? Are all automatic gas heaters made of copper?
ANSWER: Much depends on the customs and habits of the occupants of the house. A 32-gallon storage tank would be more satisfactory than a 40-gallon. Copper tanks are long lasting and eliminate rust in water. Gas water heaters are made with copper or galvanized steel tanks.

Painting Metal Window Frames.
QUESTION: I intend removing all the old paint from the metal window frames on my house. Please advise me if you know of a good primer paint which will prevent peeling.
ANSWER: Remove all of the paint that is loose by rubbing with sandpaper or steel wool, smoothing the surface as much as possible. Then wipe with benzine (inflammable) or turpentine. For a priming coat apply top quality aluminum paint. When thoroughly dry and hard, finish with a good quality outside paint.

Stains on Siding.
QUESTION: Brown stains are showing on my siding, which I am told are due to sap. They show through the paint. Before repainting this spring, can I do anything to prevent them?
ANSWER: You can seal in those dark stains on your siding with top quality aluminum paint. Begin by sandpapering the stains, and then wipe them with benzine, being careful of fire. Aluminum paint makes an excellent sealer as well as a good priming coat.

Powderpost Beetles.
QUESTION: I have several pieces of old furniture that are infested with powderpost beetles. What can I do to exterminate these insects?
ANSWER: They can be destroyed by the liberal application of kerosene. This should be brushed and sprayed on the parts that are attacked, and should be forced into all holes and crevices with a fine-spout oil-can or medicine dropper.

Daisy Hot Dish Mat An Appropriate Gift

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT WAS the flower handle of the tea-pot lid that suggested this daisy mat—I had been thinking of making a hot dish out of firmly braided strips of cotton cloth. I wanted it to be thick and sewn firmly like a rag rug, so that it would stand frequent scrubbing. The design had to be novel and gay so that it would be appropriate for a Christmas gift or would attract attention if used to sell at a church bazaar. All the directions you need to make one are right here in the sketch.

Cotton flannel or heavy cotton knitted material are good to use for the braided strips. Cut the strips two inches wide if the goods is heavy or wider if light weight. Braid tightly and then use No. 8 white cotton thread to sew, as shown. A set of these mats are pretty on the table; and mats for oval dishes may be made by sewing two daisies together.

NOTE: These are directions for a hot dish mat made of cable cord in SEWING, Book 4. Books 2 and 3 also contain directions for many gifts and novelties. These booklets are a service to our readers and each contains 32 pages of illustrated directions for things to make for the home. Stars' Chances Fade For Title

The Springfield Stars hold a technical lead in the North Jersey Football League, based on points earned for victories, but their chances of overtaking the Irvington Campdowns for the championship remain remote at present.

Springfield has 8 points, two more than Campdown, based on having participated in five games to three for the runner up. Since no other obstacle stands in the way for Campdown, it would be a great upset if Tri-Borough, Woodstock or Nutley Iron Dukes trip up the erstwhile favorites in remaining plays.

The addition of Johnny Long, former Newark Bears' backfield ace, gives the Irvington squad an edge in backfield strength for their remaining contests.

The Stars took their fourth league win at home Sunday against Madison, 18-0, scoring in the first three periods. After a 45-yard pass from Bill Brown to Jack McGuire, the locals scored from the 7 yard line as Carl Vancio rammed through right tackle.

A series of razzle dazzle, a new offensive for the Stars, brought the ball in the next period to the Madison 5, from which point Jim Dwyer drove through for the first of two touchdowns. His other score resulted from a freak play. Bill Hawkes of Madison fumbled on his own 48, and Bill Brown recovered for a ten-yard gain. Finding himself surrounded by tacklers, Bill lateraled to Dwyer in the clear as the converted lineman dashed 40 yards to pay dirt.

Idle Sunday

No game is scheduled for Sunday on the Stars' schedule but on November 10, arrangements have been completed for a visit to Hartford, Conn. A benefit contest with a soldiers' eleven, plans of which have not yet been announced, is being sought for later in November.

LEGAL NOTICE

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1940.

ASSEMBLY CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 8
 Concurrent Resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution of the State of New Jersey.

BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey (the Senate concurring):
 1. The following amendments to the Constitution of the State of New Jersey are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be approved by a majority of the members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature next year to be chosen and published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next, in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, such newspapers to be designated by the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Assembly and the Secretary of State; payment for such publication to be made by the Treasurer on warrant of the Comptroller.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT
 1. Amend paragraph one of section three, Article IV, of the Constitution of the State of New Jersey, to read as follows:
 "The General Assembly shall be composed of members biennially elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the General Assembly shall be made by the Legislature at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration of census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; provided, that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member, and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty."

PROPOSED AMENDMENT
 1. Strike out paragraph seven of section one, Article VII, to read as follows:
 "The members of the Senate shall be elected by the people of their respective counties, at the time elections for members of the Senate or General Assembly are held in the State of New Jersey. They shall hold their offices for five years."
PROPOSED AMENDMENT
 1. Amend paragraph five of section two, Article VII, to read as follows:
 "The members of the Senate shall be elected by the people of their respective counties, at the time elections for members of the Senate or General Assembly are held in the State of New Jersey, and they shall hold their offices for five years. Sheriffs shall annually renew their bonds."

the four of Article IV and insert in lieu thereof a new paragraph which shall read as follows:
 "The members of the Senate shall receive annually the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) during the time for which they shall have been elected, and while they shall hold their said offices. Members of the General Assembly shall receive annually the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) during the time for which they shall have been elected, and while they shall hold their said offices. Sheriffs shall annually renew their bonds."
