Patten Honored Guest At Dinner

More than 100 persons honored Merle Patten of Garwood, retiring member of the Regional Board of Education, at a testimonial dinner Tuesday night at the Flagship, Union.

Guest speakers expressed their disappointment over Patten's defeat as a member of the board in last month's election. He was succeeded by Henry G. Merry. However, there is a probability that he will continue as custodian of school funds.

Patten was a member of the school board and was instrumental in organizing the High School five years ago. His term as custodian of school funds does not expire until June.

The main speaker of the evening, County Clerk Henry Nulton, stressed the importance of keeping Patten active in school affairs and said that "those citizens of Garwood who are interested in better education" should make it their duty to continue Patten's school activities. "The Regional school," Nulton said, "cost $600,000 and today you have a plant there that is worth $1,500,000 under anybody's appraisal. Patten played a tremendously important part in that enhancement of its value. I cannot understand how people, 40 cents of whose every tax dollar goes for schools, can totally disregard those spending it."

Dr. Arthur L. Johnson, county superintendent of schools, said that few people in the Regional school districts realized how "shaky" the district's finances had been. "Nor have they any idea how far Patten's financial ability went toward solving the problems. He was largely responsible for placing Regional High School on a sound financial basis."

Others who expressed their appreciation for Patten's work on the board were John Mulholland, president of the board; Supervising Principal Warren Halsey, W. Richmond Tracy, engineer and secretary of the Union County Park Commission and John Dushanok of Garwood, a member of the board.

Patten was presented with a desk pen set and Mrs. Patten received a corsage. He is purchasing agent for the Union County Park Commission.

FROST IS CHAIRMAN

Gregg L. Frost of Springfield has been named chairman of a committee to arrange the annual dinner and reception of the Union County Committee of the American Legion, which will be held on May 3 at the Elks in Elizabethtown. Frost is former county commander and former State vice-commander. The dinner will be in honor of William F. Hoffman of Elizabethtown and Mrs. Elizabeth Evans of Union, who served as county commander and county auxiliary president, respectively last year.

Budget Accepted At Mountainside

MOUNTAINSIDE—The 1941 budget was adopted last Thursday night at a public hearing in Borough Hall, as the Council accepted two out of seven recommendations proposed by the Taxpayers' Association and the recommendation of the Commissioners of Local Government.

One of the proposals accepted was that the tax collector's salary not exceed $750 a year. The Council eliminated a plan to pay the collector $200 for tax searches. Under the new payment, the collector will receive one-half of all fees collected. Last year's figures were around $80. The other proposal was to increase the janitor's pay from $30 to $40 a month. Tax Commissioner Walter Darby's suggestion was to raise $250 for the Regional High School tax.

The various changes left the Council to raise about $15,758 for local purposes, exclusive of schools. The amount to be raised by taxation will be around $68,000 which includes the local school, State and county taxes. The tax rate is expected to be lower than $4 as compared to $4.20 for last year. The lowering of the tax rate is due to the higher tax collections during 1940. This year's amount is $14,122 as compared to $13,017 for last year. The net collection increased from 72.94 percent in 1939 to 78.25 percent for 1940.

Mayor Thompson explained that the capital improvement account would allow $300 to be used as a down payment on the New Providence road project; $1,500 for the installation of the new heating system in Borough Hall; and $700 for work to create better facilities for the police department.

Anticipating $350 for the Rescue Squad, Captain Richard G. Keller said that the money would be used to purchase necessary equipment. He said that it was satisfactory with the Rescue Squad to have a Councilman sit in on meetings and advise on expenses.

Other recommendations by the Taxpayers' Association included: No increase in salary for the officer of record, no increase in salary for the tax assessor, no increase in appropriations for the office of Borough Clerk, no remodeling of Borough Hall at this time.

Commending the council on the budget the association said it was in favor of the proposed adjustment and raises in police salary. They also said they favored the installation of a new oil heating system in Borough Hall.

Mayor Alan Thompson, speaking on the proposed changes in salary appropriations, declared a "percentage of increase" attitude could not be taken as the salaries in most cases were small. He requested no discussion of salaries be brought up in view of "personal feelings" and said the Council was well enough acquainted with employees to realize advisability of increases.

LICENSE BUREAU RUSHED THIS WEEK

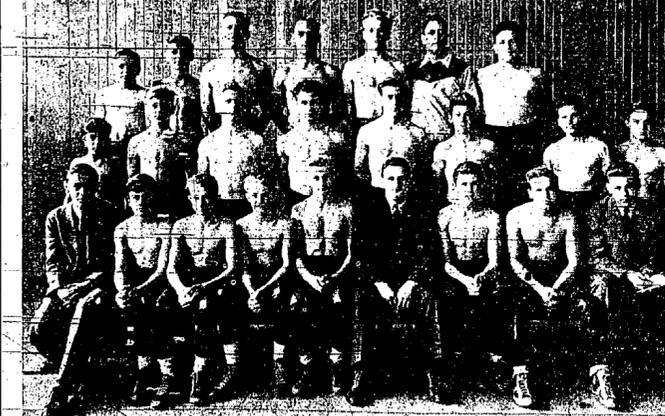

More than 1,000 registration and drivers' licenses have been issued this week, reported Richard Bunnell, motor vehicle agent, of 4 Fremor avenue. Issuing of licenses started on Saturday and in the first two days, more licenses were sold than in the month of February of last year when drivers were allowed to purchase their plates on February 1 but had to wait until March 15 to place them on their cars.

Under the new system which is being tried for the first time this year, drivers can purchase their licenses anytime after March 1 and place their plates on their cars immediately. According to law, 1941 plates must be on the cars by April 1.

Bunnell stated that last year an extra clerk was not needed in his office until weeks after registration got under way but this year the additional clerk was hired on the first day. However, he said the rush will even itself in a short time but that there "will always be last minute rushes."

The new time in distribution of licenses is the result of a bill introduced by Senator Robert C. Hendrickson of Gloucester passed under suspension of rules and signed by the former Governor A. Harry Moore.

Undeclared High School Wrestling Team

The blonde 95-pound, Regional High School freshman in a blue jumper and gray sweatshirt is lying on the gymnasium mat bicycling his legs in the air. After pedaling for five minutes, he asks a 150-pound senior to lean against his legs to offer resistance. The smaller boy wants to stretch his leg muscles so that in wrestling an opponent, he will have the necessary power for victory.

Sweat begins to flow from the lighter boy's forehead. "The taller boys says: 'Maybe you better have a middleweight help you in your exercise.'"

"No," he replied. "How am I going to make my leg muscles strong if I work with a middleweight?"

The heavyweight grins and applies pressure to the freshman's legs whose face turns red. Slowly, he pushes the heavyweight to and fro. "I told you I could do it. Push harder, come on, harder."

"Sure you can, keep plugging."

Thus, the spirit of a freshman becomes encouraged because of the efforts of one man, the wrestling coach, Joseph C. Battaglia, who is also history and civics teacher at the High School.

"That youngster wouldn't have a chance in another sport," Coach Battaglia points out in the cafeteria of Regional where the boys clear away the tables and chairs and roll mats on the floor-to-practice. "He's only 95 pounds. Can you imagine him charging across a football field? I can't. Yet in wrestling, he is trained, and has an opportunity to meet a boy his size and weight."

Coach Battaglia guides the wrestlers at the school after his classes. If the gymnasium is not available, he can use the hallway or cafeteria. Wrestling requires no special room.

Greaves; assistant superintendent, Dewey Knell; secretary, Jack Brody; treasurer, Mrs. Marjorie Moser; librarian, Miss Helen Westberg; edna rail superintendent, Mrs. Edna Dahlenhour.

Local Wrestlers Won Top Number of Meets

Although Regional's wrestlers in tomorrow's State championship in the local High School number only two qualified entrants, the Bulldogs have the distinction of having won more dual meets this season in their undefeated schedule than any other State school. The Battaglia wrestlers took eight meets as compared to the championship Newton streak of seven wins, without a loss, since the latter had one less scheduled match than the locals.

"Place a mat on the floor—and you have the equivalent of any good ring."

In 1937 when Regional opened, Coach Battaglia inquired whether the school would sanction the sport. After his first call for material, he was sure the boys wanted this type of recreation. Since he had no money to buy uniforms for the boys, they provided their own athletic shirts, lights and sneakers. That first year, the grapplers won five out of nine matches.

"Wrestling," he said, "is a different sport. You would think that football, baseball and basketball players would go for it. That is where (Continued on Page 5)

Statement From Operators

The Amusement Board of Trade of N. J., which controls the majority of organized pin ball machines in the vicinity, sent the following copy of a letter to the SUN this week, addressed to Police Chairman Lewis P. Macartney, which is reproduced herewith:

"We note in the daily press that you sponsored a motion before the Springfield Township Committee on February 27 to have electric ball or bagatelle machines in your community because of the recent pronouncement against such machines by the Union County Grand Jury. Further, we note that as a consequence of your motion, an ordinance banning such machines is to be drawn.

"We regret that the hysteria which sometimes follows such Grand Jury statements apparently has infected Springfield and you have seen fit to class the operation of bagatelle machines as a form of gambling. If you will refer to the Grand Jury's statement, you will note that while it specifically points to other activities, nowhere in it is bagatelle mentioned. This, inferentially, would lead us to the belief that the Grand Jury is in accord with opinions of the Supreme Court of New Jersey and the courts of many other states that bagatelle machines are amusement devices only.

"For you or the Springfield Township Committee, therefore, to promiscuously outlaw such machines is to go beyond the bounds of legal procedure. As a result thereof, a similar banning of bagatelle in North Plainfield, the Court of Chancery has granted a temporary injunction against the action of the local authorities.

"We wish to take exception to the designation of bagatelle by your Township Police Chief Runyon as 'nothing else but a racket,' and his statement that 'pressure' is brought on storekeepers by rival distributors and that there is an attempt to 'monopolize territories.'

"We are an association of 56 independent operators, or those who furnish machines to stores, and our sole purpose in having bagatelle to stabilize the industry and eliminate abuses. Our code of fair trade practices expressly forbids inducement by members to take retail outlets from other members and there are severe fines and penalties for those who do so. Of course, there are several operators outside our association who are not governed by this code. We have a standing invitation to them to join for the good of the business. We wish to emphasize that all operators are to be treated equally and that there are no attempts at monopoly of any kind. Members of our association serve but 5 of the 25 machines in Springfield. If there are abuses indulged in by outside operators, why should our members be penalized? If a tavern owner violates closing hours, do you close all taverns?

"As to the possibility that wagers may be made on the outcome of a game of bagatelle, we wish to observe that wagers may be made on any game. As a result thereof, a similar banning of bagatelle in North Plainfield, the Court of Chancery has granted a temporary injunction against the action of the local authorities.

May Have To Alter Idea Of Ban, But Will Act Without Delay

Despite protests sent to individual board members on the proposed legislation to curb pinball and other forms of bagatelle in Springfield, the Township Committee is determined to proceed on its plans to enact such laws and introduce an ordinance Wednesday night.

Mayor Selander, Police Chairman Macartney and other board members received letters this week from the Board of Amusement Trade of New Jersey, organization of pin ball operators, requesting that they curtail the proposed ban, for reasons outlined in the copy of the letter to Macartney published elsewhere in this issue.

"We are not going to be frightened into holding up this issue," a member of the Township Committee privately told the SUN. "Several matters pertaining to the reference of Court of Chancery Action in North Plainfield are being checked, but our proposed ordinance will be able to stand up in any court," he continued, requesting that his name be withheld at this time.

Support for the plan of prohibiting pin ball machines was evidenced by the little interest shown by residents who have not evidenced any concern over whether or not the games are banned. Principal opposition has been expressed by several storekeepers whose machines have been yielding a revenue and were expected originally to be concerned.

LEROY STRIN, Executive Secretary, AMUSEMENT BOARD OF TRADE OF NEW JERSEY, INC.

The Lamp in the Valley

By ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

Carol Coburn, Alaska born teacher, is annoyed by Eric (the Red) Erickson, an agitator. She is rescued by a young engineer, Sidney Lander. He is working for the Trumbull company which is contesting her father's claim. He is engaged to Trumbull's daughter. But a new romance sparks is kindled. Carol and Kate O'Connell, nurse, set out to find an Indian baby reported abandoned by its parents. Sockeye Shaddup, an old sourdough pal of Carol's.

INSTALLMENT IV

"Because you happen to be Klondike Coburn's daughter. And I don't relish the thought of working against you. It's your father's claim they're trying to swallow up on a clouded title."

"But I'm not sure that claim was ever established."

And it was equally obvious that his right either to champion my cause or control my destiny had never been established. But, for all that, an absolute little robin of happiness stood up on the tip of my heart and started to sing.

"We can't go into that now," Lander said as old Schlupp came in with an armful of stovewood. And Katie, a moment later, was announcing that you couldn't kill some children with a club. All this little purpose needed, she called out to us, was food.

"Then she ain't a goin' to kick the bucket?" questioned Sock-eye.

"Of course she isn't," said Katie.

"But if I could lay hands on her food rations, I'd have him drawn and quartered."

The old fire-eater's face brightened up with a new eagerness.

"I'll do it for you, lady," he said with a large and rounded oath. "Sam Bryson was a-tellin' me that no-account Injin's hidin' out in a hill camp up above the Happy Day Mine. And I'd sure relish roundin' him up and ventilatin' his good-for-nothin' carcass."

"No," Katie said, "that's a luxury we can't afford. But he's going to be made an example of by due process of law. And if either of you men will take Miss Coburn and the baby back to Toklutna in the truck I'll get help and push on to the Happy Day and see that this baby killer is put where he belongs."

Sidney Lander, who had been looking down at the blanket-wrapped package, lifted his head and caught my eye.

"I'll take Miss Coburn through to Toklutna," he quietly announced. And I could feel my pulse skip a beat, casual as I tried to appear about it all.

It was Sock-eye who crossed to the door and looked out.

"There's sure a smell o' snow in the air," he warned. "We'd best fix up that truck more comfortable and slick a shovel in between the blankets and grub bags."

CHAPTER IV

Before we were an hour out on the road snow began to fall.

By the time we were up in the hills, we had drifts to buck. When it was necessary for Lander to stop and get busy with his shovel, I'd give my Indian baby its needed attention and nest it down in its cocoon of blanket-wool again, with only its pinched little yellow face showing like a seal's at the bottom of a blow-hole. Then we'd fight our way on for another hundred yards or two.

So we ploughed on, feeling out our way in the uncertain light. Twice, when we slipped perilously close to the ravine that yawned at our ear wheels, I thought the end had come. And twice, where the trail wound so vaguely about the upper slopes, we had to cut our way through drifts, with the help of the shovel. We did very little talking. But I could breathe more easily when we were over the hump and dropping down into the next valley.

Yet even there the drifts and darkness were too much for us. We got off the road and bumped head-on into a spruce stump. The old truck, with indignation boiling from its radiator cap, refused to go farther. I could see Lander's grim smile as I sat there staring out at the falling snow. There wasn't a shack or settler, I felt sure, within ten miles of us.

"What'll we do?" I asked with a gulp.

"I suppose we'll have to sleep out here," he casually announced.

"I suppose so," I agreed. But I wasn't as placid-minded about it as I pretended. Lander, in fact, stared into my face for a moment or two before swinging down from his driver's seat. Then he lighted the primus stove and hung a lantern from one of the bows of our little covered-wagon truck-tent. And then, after shutting out the snow and wind by closing the end flaps of the tarpaulin, he announced that he was going to have a look ahead along the trail.

He stayed away longer than I expected. By the time he got back, in fact, I'd melted snow and had our coffee boiling on the primus stove. The snow-covered cave soon rather homelike. And my cave-mate watched me with a ruminative eye as I warmed milk and fed the quietly complaining Indian baby. When our primus was back in its blanket-muffled basket and we sat eating, with the primus stove between us, it seemed oddly paleolithic to be squatting there on a bundle of hay, dining on bacon and beans and sourdough bread.

Lander helped me pack things away when the meal was over.

"You're facing this like an old-timer," he said.

"I used to go out on the trail with my father," I reminded him.

"That's what I want to talk to you about," he said. "Can you remember his camp on the Chukitana?"

"I was never there," I had to admit.

"Then it won't be easy to explain what I want to," he went on. "Your father had a real mine there. And he must have known it."

"Of course he did," I said, recalling ghostly scraps of talk from my childhood.

"Well, so does the Trumbull outfit," proclaimed my companion. "The Chukitana Development Company always wanted a clean sweep of that valley bottom. They even sent me up there as field engineer to find out how the land lay and corral any territory needed to round out their development work."

"Your father's claim which cut their field in two and kept them from having full control."

"He always said he'd never sell out," I explained.

"Of course he did," cried Lander. "He may have been a lone-fire prospector, but he knew he held a key position there. And when they

"What does that mean?" I exclaimed.

He leaned a little closer under the swaying lantern.

"It means I'm happier being with you than with anyone who walks this good green earth."

I was able to laugh a little. "It isn't green," I reminded him. "And you might also remember why you so nearly missed the boat at Seattle?"

I could see his jaw muscles harden as he sat staring at me in the dim light from the lantern.

"I guess I'm running a little ahead of schedule," he said as he rose to his feet. I watched him, with a small tingle of disappointment, as he backed out of the tent opening.

"You're not going away?" I cried out above the whining of the wind.

"I'll be down up in the driver's seat," he casually remarked. And in a few minutes I could feel the tremor of the truck as he climbed aboard, up in front. I could hear him, a moment later, as he nestled himself under his double blankets.

He wouldn't, I knew, be very comfortable there. I even wondered, as I stretched out on the hay next to my trust-sweated little package, if wind and cold wouldn't drive him back under cover, where he had a perfect right to be.

One of the delights of shanting is the lovely pastel monotone—that are favorites for dresses and suits, selected to a nicety for both sports and daytime wear. It was late in the afternoon when we got through to Toklutna.

Miss Teetzel promptly ordered the Indian baby to the infirmary and sent for Doctor Ruddock. Lander, hearing the lady's glacial eye, quietly asked me if I'd be good enough to give him my father's naturalization papers.

I had no way of knowing what Miss Teetzel said to Lander during my absence. But I didn't like the heat-lighting fire that glowed in those deep-set eyes of his as he took the proffered document from me. He studied it for a moment, the lines of his mouth still grim.

"I'll take this, if you don't mind," he said as he tucked it away. "It'll help to clear things up."

I wasn't unconscious, all the while, of Miss Teetzel's narrowed eye fixed on my face.

"There's one point I should like to see cleared up," she announced, her lips pressed into a forbidding straight line. "Where did you spend the night?"

"Why in the truck, of course," I answered. "There was no place to go."

"And this man?" she questioned, with a second stony glance at the altogether unimpressed Lander.

"Naturally, he slept in the truck too," I quietly acknowledged.

The lemon-squeezer jaw took on a new line of grimace.

"I've an idea, Miss Coburn," said the lady of unpolished purity so feely confronting me. "That your days in this school are quite definitely numbered."

It was Lander who spoke first.

"What does that mean?" he said.

"It means, sir," was the feely enunciated reply, "that there are certain things this institution will not stand for. And you and your perilously modern traveling companion have just been guilty of one of them."

Silk Prints for Spring Feature Polka Dots, Fruit Motifs, Color

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE springtime fancy turns eagerly to "what's new" in silk prints. This season the story is more fascinating than ever with tales of daring new colors and designs that are writing romance and drama in every chapter.

There's a mad rush for red, a play-up of fruit motifs in realistic colorings on white background, a new array of shantung silks, either monotonous or printed; a repeat on polka dots with special emphasis on twin prints; and a predominance of patriotic colors. You'll see a record-breaking number of prints that key-beige and brown to tangerine, bitersweet and kindred colors, a strong accent on bizarre South American colors, especially purples and reds and Peruvian pink, a hand-paint technique used for flowery party-dress prints—and here we pause for identification of some of the newest print fashions as shown in the illustration herewith.

A sure way of being fashion-right in selecting the new print frock for spring is to think in terms of silk shanting, which is exactly what the designer did in creating the neat and attractive dress to the right in the picture. Styled the South American way with its bolero silhouette and general detail, this printed plaid silk shanting dress is the very embodiment of style at a new high.

One of the delights of shanting is the lovely pastel monotone—that are favorites for dresses and suits, selected to a nicety for both sports and daytime wear. The dress to the left in the group is made of a pastel blue shanting with gay dotted shanting for the turban and bag. If you look close, you will see the edge of a matching polka dot parasol. The dress under a monotone wool coat

Smart Simplicity

Statistics show that there is an increase in yardage sales owing to the fact that a growing number of women are taking up home sewing. This, they say, may be largely attributed to the fact that almost every community nowadays has a sewing center where one can learn at little or no expense the short-cuts and tricks of the trade. The dress pictured can be made up easily and at minimum cost. The material need not be expensive. Why not learn to make your own clothes? Some of the rayon mixtures in pastel colors would be practical for a beginner to start with, and the new gabardines are lovely and wearable. The pattern for this dress calls for soft gathered detail and in a type that can be easily made at home.

makes a perfect greeting for spring. You'll be carrying the smart parasol ever so proudly when summer comes.

Navy prints with navy wool top-coats or long dramatic capes are "top" in fashion. Stylish accessories are a hat-and bag of plaid silk in colors as mad and merry as you please. You can either make, (patterns are easily available) or buy ready-made, these enlivening twosomes.

Two designers are sounding the patriotic note by introducing wide bands of red and white crepe silk in the lining. You can do the same thing with the vivid South American colors—introduce them in linings, or in the yoke of the dress.

Look about in the silk displays and you will be impressed with the number of prints that couple pink with black or with navy. These pretty lilylike prints invite gracious styling, such as has been given to the gown centered in the group pictured. This dainty frock is made on slim lines with novel pocket pockets made of self-print. There is increasing interest shown in pockets throughout current costume design. They contribute great charm to simple print daytime dresses. The pink hat-worn-with-the-frock pictured complements the dress. It has a crocheted bumper edge—crochet touches are ever so chic—and what is most apropos is that this hat sports a knitting needle trim. Wear pink or black suede gloves with this outfit for proper accent.

Cape, Suit Ensembles

In Spring Collections Considerable emphasis is being placed on cape costumes in the advance-spring showings. The cape formula is being worked out in ways most fascinating. For example, a charming costume turned out by a noted designer plays up bright and neutral colors in the latest approved manner. The suit of soft gray-wool consists of an all-round box-pleated skirt with a dressmaker-styled jacket that is hip-length and has two huge patch pockets. Now comes the stunning cape that tops this neat suit. It's full length, made of red herringbone weave, lined with lime green silk.

A good rule to follow might be "a cape with every costume" so popular is the cape idea growing. One of the newest outcomes of the cape vogue is that many of the early spring print silk frocks are worn with long cloth capes lined with the identical silk of the dress.

Modern Handbags Gain Slick Smooth Efficiency

What handbags have lost in the absence of French models, (which formerly inspired 90 per cent of our handbag styles) they are gaining in improved construction, better materials, and interesting tricks which make them newly efficient. One trick is a slot which feeds a nickle outside the bag. Another is a key clip on a light for inside the handbag—so that keys may be located instantly. Another is the gully-guard, which anchors one's gloves to one's handbag. Handbag interiors are gaining a great deal of attention. More and better planned pockets are the rule. And one important new detail, in interiors is a special pocket zipper. When you slide your hand into a pocket protected by this fastener, there are no rough teeth to get past—the zipper is kind to nail polish. It slides like a stream and adds ornamentation, as well as safety to American-made handbag interiors.

Wrestling Team

It is strange. They don't go for it. I've only had one boy who participated in another sport.

They Hug Each Other! Wrestling is a new field for high school students who don't care too much for other amusements. You can't think of another sport where boys develop closer friendship. This is the only activity where boys can fight friendly by hugging each other. And they love it!

To the coach, professional wrestling is a joke. These men put on a show to make people laugh. Wrestling is a science and "rassling" is a farce, he claims. Body wrappings are for clowns while scientific falls are for boys who want to learn how to be strong in a recreational and joyful way.

Every afternoon during the season a group of boys can be seen rolling over mats, practicing various holds. The boys assist one another and tell what they learn. That partly accounts for the record of the Regional 1941 squad, which won eight-out of eight matches.

"The boys cooperate," Battaglia said. "To many people, wrestling seems a brutal game. That is because they have never witnessed amateur matches. The newsreels show man-killers throwing each other out of the ring. But not in high school wrestling. Battaglia applies the old Greek and Roman method of wrestling."

Safety Rules Provided In a match which is seven minutes in duration, the boys cannot use any hold that is dangerous. No full Nelson and no toe hold, for example. The referee can break a hold if he thinks it is hurting a wrestler even though it may be within the rules. High school boys respect their foes and the coach was all smiles when he told how rivals met after matches, shook hands and invited each other to their homes.

"I can never forget," he said, "how one of my boys practiced with his soul and lost an important bout. He was so heartbroken that he sat in the center of the mat and cried."

The husky coach received his start in wrestling in Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., where he became the 128-pound State champion. Two of his former boys, Leslie Galloway of Garwood and Melvin Gaughan of Kenilworth were so inspired by Battaglia's story about Maryville that after graduating from Regional they matriculated at that college.

Two other boys, William Carlson of Garwood became the wrestling captain of Newark College of Engineering and Richard Sachel is on the freshman team of Rutgers University and to date has lost only one match.

Battaglia lives at 323 East 3rd avenue, Roselle, and has completed a number of points toward his Ph.D. degree at Duke University, University of New Hampshire and Rutgers. He has a M. A. degree from the University of Tennessee and a B. A. degree from Upsala College.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Mom:

The cake and things you sent arrived okay only I did not get none of them. The trouble with the army is that you can't keep a separate mailing address. Well, everything is going along good and life in the army ain't so bad once you make up your mind it can't be any too good.

We have movies here but no screens, so you would not like army life, mom. We have hostesses here, too. I thought a hostess was somebody you found in airplanes, but in the camps a hostess is a lady who has charge of the entertainment side of life and I think we may even get rumba lessons in this war. There are quite a few hostesses here, but do not worry about me, Mom, as they are all pretty old, some even as old as 38 and 40. I don't know who is picking them, but it ain't Billy Rose.

A first I thought the Camp Five Girls were being drafted, too, but I found out the government wants the soldiers to have as much amusement as they can get in the next war, including double features, swing music and Mickey Mouse. They even have cafeteria lunch-rooms for visitors so if an outsider gets poisoned they can't blame it on the regular army cook.

More rifles are arriving and I guess maybe by the time war comes almost every soldier will have a gun.

Do not keep sending me heavy underwear as you have my tent full of it already.

Love,

Oscar.

I am getting so I do not mind being here at all and my morale would be good except I didn't keep getting newspapers and reading the news from Washington. I have got around to the point where I am used to taking orders and to facing a war if there is no way out, but what is all this stuff about going to the aid of China, Greece and all nations everywhere?

In one breath I am told I will not be sent out of the United States and in the next I hear all countries in trouble anywhere can depend on help from me, and if all this is so, I feel asking myself why I didn't join the navy to see the world, which I may have to see the world, which I may have to see anyhow.

What is all this lease-land stuff, and do I go with the lease? Also could you send me some newspaper article explaining what is being lendd. I hope no tanks are being lendd as we are still using ice-wagons here. If we must lend something let us lend first sergeants as there are too many of 'em around this camp.

The food here could be better. I haven't had a good juicy steak yet. Are they lending them to somebody, too?

Well, do not worry, as I am getting used to everything and am very happy today because I leaped Otto Bixby, who was my boss at the store, has been drafted, too, and will be here, too, any day now.

Love,

Oscar.

Dear Mom:

Bixby, my old boss (who was such a stinker), just arrived and is in my company. I am going to work hard now to be a sergeant, or at least a corporal.

I will write more later.

Love,

Oscar.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

IF RALPH MURPHY, Paramount director, needed to make a little extra money he could write a book entitled "Ten Lessons on How to Catch a Man" and the shekels would roll in.

Here's what he has to say about it. (He's a graduate of Syracuse university, has been a stage and motion picture actor, producer and director for years, so he's qualified to talk.)

"I have three girls in 'Las Vegas Nights.' Each would use a different technique. Each technique would require eight reels to fold. So I let Constance Moore get her man with the direct-approach technique. I give Virginia Dale a man before the picture starts, and I leave Lillian Cornell out on a limb with nary a male in sight.

"The allure technique is used by a woman conscious of the fact that she has an enormous amount of feminine appeal for men—a screen example would be Hedy Lamarr. Flattery is used by women ranging from the baby-talk girls to the moaning type. There's the girl who gives the impression that she's helpless; men want to stand between her and the world—Bonnie Baker's an example.

"There's the girl who uses the direct approach; spots the man, she wants and makes no bones about it; she's a good sport, a playmate, and picks a man with the same characteristics. Barbara Stanwyck's a screen example. And the coquette, whose eyes say 'if you chase me I'll run—but not too far.' Like Virginia Dale on the screen.

"Then there's the one who is not brilliant and not dull, not beautiful and not homely; every girl asks 'What's she got?' The answer is 'She's got the man that a lot of other girls wanted.'"

Some other girl may have Errol Flynn for a husband now; Olivia de Havilland's married him five times—on the screen—and when she finished "Santa Fe Trail" she fled to the equally ardent arms of James Cagney, in "Strawberry Blonde."

She was a little dubious about it; after all, Cagney's had a bad movie reputation where women were concerned since he squashed that grapefruit in a lady's face. (But Olivia is safe in this one—he's cast as a belligerent dentist who gets into plenty of fights, but all with men.)

Twenty-four of the show girls in "Ziegfeld Girl" voted for their favorite movie actress the other day. Vivian Leigh got eight votes, and Bette Davis and Greta Garbo each got five. But Judy Garland, Lana Turner and Hedy Lamarr couldn't be voted for. They're in the picture.

Billy the Kid has finally joined the side of law and order. It happened recently near Tucson, Ariz., where Robert Taylor was made a deputy sheriff of Pima county. Taylor plays the fast-shooting desperado of the 1870s in Metro's picture, "Billy the Kid," which was on location in the Southwest at the time Taylor took on his duties.

They were shooting scenes on the Double U ranch in Pima county when Sheriff Ed Echols paid the troupe a visit and pinned a shiny new badge on the star's shirt.

Burgess Meredith rarely wears a hat, but he's exceptionally well provided with places to hang one. At present he has four homes. (1) His 200-year-old farmhouse in Rockland county, N. Y. (2) Jimmy Stewart's bachelor establishment in Brentwood, where he has stayed on his previous Hollywood sojourns. (3) The house in West Los Angeles which belongs to Wayne Morris, which he and Franchot Tone rent; it's known as Annex No. 1 to Stewart's abode. (4) A small beach house which he rented at Santa Monica, called Annex No. 2—he took it with the idea of week-ending there, but so far has been so busy that he's hardly seen it. But he has hopes, now that he's completing his work in "United Artists' "That Uncertain Feeling."

ODDS AND ENDS—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hart in Honolulu, listened to radio's "Hilltop House" last year, and liked the story and its star, Ness Johnson, so much that they used their home for the serial. Recently Miss Johnson learned that all her Hawaiian Islands' mail is being delivered to the "Harts." For the betterment of Latin-American relations, Clark Johnson and Wally Buttersworth are making a ten-thousand-mile junket to Mexico City, Puerto Rico and Havana, for three "Vox Pop" broadcasts. "The Uniform" ends Clark's Golden Anniversary vacation and brings Randall Russell back to the Metro lot.

If water is spilled on the leaf of a book, put leaf between two bloters and iron first on one side, then on the other. Leaf will not crinkle.

Shrubby should be pruned in the late winter rather than the spring. Old stems should be pruned out as near the bottom as possible rather than new shoots snipped off.

Put a teaspoonful of honey into each cored apple before baking.

If you have the occasion to cut marshmallows, dip your kitchen scissors in powdered sugar before each whack and there will be no sticking.

To keep a floor in good condition requires more than watchfulness. Besides a regular monthly waxing for the whole room, those areas which are walked over the most should be waxed more often.

Fruites should be stewed in the water in which they have been soaked.

Ends Court Career At College

Ray Schmidt (above) closed his college basketball career Monday night at Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., when the physical education combine upset the nationally-mighty Rhode Island State team, 59-50.

Ray Schmidt, Springfield's outstanding collegiate athlete whose progress on the baseball diamond is well known to local fans, led the Springfield College basketball team to victory Monday night in his last game against the mighty Rhode Island State five.

Several weeks ago, Rhode Island took an 80-47 victory over Springfield College and appeared headed for a win in the return event.

Schmidt scored the final point, a free throw, and while he netted only one field goal, he was described in the Springfield Union as the outstanding performer.

"Playing the last game of his career, Schmidt was a truly great defensive player. He was swarming all over the backcourt, intercepting those highly-publicized court-length passes, retrieving rebounds with amazing regularity and knocking down shots with a minimum of effort.

The 59-50 licking administered Rhode Island was the most decisive of the three defeats this season for the basket-a-minute quintet. They lost to Temple, 42-38, in an overtime and went down before Connecticut-University, 63-62.
