The postponed "Career Night" program of Regional High School, originally scheduled for March 11, will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the High School. Inclement weather last month forced a cancellation of the affair.

Halsey who in turn will introduce Floyd B. Shannon. The latter is public relations manager of the Western Electric Company, Kearny, who will speak on "What Industry Expects Of The Schools."

Howard Pierce Davis To Be P.T.A. Speaker

HOWARD PIERCE DAVIS

Howard Pierce Davis, veteran editor, correspondent and news analyst, will be the speaker at the annual "Guest Night" meeting of the Springfield P.T.A. on Monday at 8:15 P. M. in the James Caldwell School.

For the past decade Mr. Davis has spent a sizable portion of each year in Europe. This last summer he traveled through Latin America, studying the effects of alien immigration. He first attended the Havana Conference where he broadcast reports for the Columbia network and acted as moderator on "The People's Platform," the weekly CBS forum which is broadcast throughout the nation. Later Mr. Davis journeyed to Mexico where he studied conditions immediately following the elections. Back in 1931 he interviewed Hitler in the Little Brown House in Munich and was told by Der Fuehrer that in eighteen months he (Hitler) would be called to take over the government in Berlin. Hardly a year had elapsed when such an event came to pass and Mr. Davis received a Christmas card from Hitler reminding him of his statement.

Through the intervening years Mr. Davis has watched the militarization of the Reich, looked upon the other nations of Europe as they went about their futile efforts at appeasement, and seen with horror the apparently unstoppable march of the Nazi legions. He was in Warsaw when that city fell and in Paris as the French went about their collective task of preparing for imminent invasion.

Mr. Davis has appeared on such prominent lecture courses as the New York Town Hall series, talked before the foremost club and university audiences in the United States and has put in time as foreign editor of the Boston Transcript while in this country.

The entertainment program will be in charge of Miss Ruth Corcoran who will lead the community singing. Hostesses for the evening will be the mothers of Miss Alice Meade's and Miss May Hunt's classes of the James Caldwell School and the mothers of the pupils of Miss Grace Prochaska and Miss Virginia Kaine classes in the Raymond Chisholm School.

Local Mail Carrier Delivery Closes First Year Next Week

The first anniversary of mail carrier delivery service in Springfield will be celebrated Thursday of next week and since the service was first inaugurated May 1, 1940, an additional 100 homes, stores and offices have been added to the original total of 700 stops first started on the plan.

Due to the extra work, an extra carrier was added to the staff November 1, and at present three men make two trips daily to deliver the mail as compared to about a year ago when only Route 1 was served twice daily.

The task of establishing carrier service was a long and tedious accomplishment. As long as 13 years ago, citizens made the initial step toward the goal—but it was not until the Fall of 1939 that a survey was made by an official from the Postal Department. He studied the local situation, formed certain qualifications and advised Postmaster Otto F. Heinz that when 85 per cent of the Springfield homes had mail boxes, delivery service would begin soon after.

Heinz conducted an active campaign in asking the residents to co-operate and by January, 1940, was able to report that over 90 per cent of the township homes were properly equipped for delivery service. Then it was officially announced from Washington that the mail carriers would begin to work May 1.

The township is divided into three districts, with Route 1 consisting of the area on Morris avenue from Mountain avenue to Washington and all adjacent streets, thus including part of the business area. Route 2A services the territory from Mountain and Morris avenue south to Rose avenue and all adjacent streets, lying between Mountain avenue, Brook and Salter streets.

Route 2B provides for all streets north of Morris and Mountain avenues, extending to the Summit boundary line. Route 3 covers part of the business section in Morris avenue, Center street, Pieter avenue, all streets south of Regional High School to the limits of South Springfield and Meisel avenues, as well as Shumple road to a point slightly south on Mountain avenue, from the Shumple road intersection.

Before carriers, general delivery affected as many as 700 persons locally while today it totals about 240 in that division. At present there are 150 boxes rented for residents who personally call for their mail daily, as compared to 450 before carriers.

The post office staff, under supervision of Postmaster Heinz, consists of three carriers, Benjamin Lee, Thomas Abel and Francis Ann Demman. Edward Rackowski and William Corby, Miss Demmar is the veteran clerk in the post office in years of service, having been engaged in that capacity for over 20 years.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Nazi Drive Cuts Deep Into Greece As Yugoslavia's Army Is Smashed; London Blasted With 'Worst' Raids In Reprisal for Attacks on Berlin

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union.)

William Knudsen, Defense Commission chief, who has announced that auto manufacturers will curtail production 20% to speed defense work is shown as he inspected a shipyard at Quincy, Mass. He told workmen that: "Time is the thing."

BALKAN: Catastrophe

Before the Nazi-Balkan campaign had been under way two weeks it was apparent that another major catastrophe for Hitler's enemies was in the making, but how extensive or how catastrophic none was prepared to say.

After eleven days of fighting, Berlin reported that Yugoslavia's army of some 1,200,000 men had capitulated and laid down their fighting equipment which had proved relatively ineffective against the highly mechanized Nazi legions.

London announced bad news too with the report that it had been subjected to the worst air blitz "of all time." German sources say this terrific raid came as a reprisal for British raids on "cultural and non-military" objectives in Berlin.

In the very beginning of the Balkan campaign, the Nazi-Italian forces took the offensive in Northern Africa, and the two battles proceeded almost in unison, the British being driven practically out of Libya by the time that the British sources were ready to admit that Yugoslavia had been defeated.

Reaction of the British people was bitter, not that they were unwilling to receive news of a defeat that had been more or less expected, but because the ministry of information and the intelligence department were accused of having fallen down on the job.

This also was the reaction in Washington, where it was freely said by those in the military know that the British permitted Roosevelt to promise aid to Yugoslavia and Greece when it should have been known that aid to the former was to be only a gesture, and that the Serbs and Slovenes could not hope to stand up to the attack more than a week or two.

Washington sources of high military information frankly said that the British intelligence had fallen down, as it had in the Battle of France, and that the best information in our national capital had been to the effect that the infiltration of Nazi mechanized forces into North Africa had been of the smallest.

These sources said they had been told that this shipping of tanks and men to North Africa had had only one purpose—that of putting pressure on the French colonies, and forcing them to stand firm with the Vichy government.

Whether this was deliberate self-delusion, or an attempt to delude the American and British people was not known, but certainly it was bad information, whether deliberate or not.

For in about two weeks, the British had lost everything they had gained in Libya, and found themselves seriously on the defensive as far as the vital Mediterranean port of Alexandria and the equally vital Suez canal were concerned.

WASHINGTON: Danish Minister Henrik De Kauffman made the Greenland agreement with this government, and then was freed, but he is still recognized by the U. S. The same happened to French Vice Consul Paul Bibilly, who, claiming he was the sole "real" representative of France in the U. S., offered this country the use of bases in North Africa.

CHUNGKING: China, despite the recent Japanese-Russian accord, has been advised that Russian aid to China in its fight against Japan will be continued.

GREECE: On Her Heels

The Greek armies, which had checkmated the unaided Italian forces presented against them in the Albanian campaign, found themselves facing a horse of another color when the Nazi horde moved in from Bulgaria and south from Yugoslavia.

Greek sources in the United States, many of them intensely patriotic and hoping against hope for a Greek victory, had been saying during the Albanian battle, that if the Nazis ever got in, Greece could not hope to hold out a month.

How true these predictions were in their essence began to be seen as the Nazi campaign against northern Greece proceeded. Salonika fell, trapping much of the Greek army in Eastern Macedonia and Thrace. Then the Germans broke through into the Struma river valley, through the Monastir gap and made contact with the Italians in northern Albania.

It was not long before the plan of the Greece-British forces to defend a line running in an inverted V shape from Adriatic to Aegean seas had to be revised, and the whole hinge of the V, in the Lake Ochrida-Phlorina sector had to be abandoned, and the armies retreat until the line was more nearly straight.

Along this line a frightfully intense battle started, and few were sanguine enough to believe that the line would hold and further retreat and withdrawal not be necessary, particularly as the line, as first drawn, lay over heavy mountain ranges with peaks up to 6,000 feet.

And the Nazis had broken through these, and the fighting in its secondary phase was on terrain more to the liking of the mechanized units.

LABOR: And Defense The strike situation showed some further amelioration, with the announcement by Bethlehem Steel that about 90,000 of its workers would get a 10-cent-an-hour increase in wages.

This, for the moment, relieved the public of the anxiety lest a strike hit this steel producer, holder of more defense contracts than any other concern in the country, and one of the nation's largest builders of merchant ships.

The coal strike, however, continued to cause trouble, with four more killed near Harlan, Ky., and a mine which was continuing to operate despite the general shut down.

Negotiations for the ending of this strike were in their final phase, with every evidence that the agreement would go through and that soft coal strikes would be over for another two years, if not longer.

Those watching the labor situation felt that the soft-coal agreement would pave the way for better general industrial conditions and that promised strike threats against U. S. Steel and General Motors might not materialize.

The settling of the Ford strike was held up as a shining example of handling what looked like a certain issue.

Yet there were still moves afoot in congress which would not exactly outlaw strikes, but which would provide for a 30-day "cooling off period" before the actual calling of a walkout, and also calling for official recognition of the Dykstra-led national mediation board.

SHOTS: And Spies The shooting to death of Editor John F. Arena of an Italian language newspaper in Chicago was labeled as a Fascist secret police slaying after it was learned that a few hours before he was shot he had furnished information to the Dies committee.

A Chicago newspaper man who had talked with Arena a few hours before he was murdered beside his automobile, quoted the editor as saying that he had received threats against his life.

'Barracutey'

It's fishing time again. And Evelyn Dinsmoor, Long Beach, Calif., winner of many fishing contests is shown above proudly displaying her prize-winning catch of barracuda. Deep sea anglers report that early runs of fish are better than they have been for years due to warmer air currents.

THE GERMAN: Plan

Long range views of the eventual German plan in the Balkans as given to the house of commons by Churchill, and as figured out by observers in neutral points like Ankara and Bern, centered on one general line, with certain individual ramifications.

Once Greece had been defeated, said these sources, and the kingdom subjugated much after the pattern of Norway, France and the Low Countries, then the Nazi forces, flushed with victory, would turn their full attention to the Battle of the Mediterranean.

In this observers saw the North African campaign and the Balkan campaign as a huge pincer movement, aimed at the Suez canal and points between.

The recent overturn in the government of Iraq, frankly said to have been engineered in Berlin, provided a back-log of soil turned back of Turkey and Syria.

The Nazis would then, it was said, turn their attention to Turkey and Syria, aiming at the oil in Iran and Iraq, and the wheat-fields of southern Russia.

These would be mere by-products permitting a fuller supply source for the eventual campaign against Suez. In the meantime it was the plan, these observers said, for the Italo-German drive against Egypt to continue, and to meet the southward-pushing Nazis at that point.

STIMSON: And Knox

The growing seriousness of the crisis as far as the United States was concerned brought grave statements in congressional committees from Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Stimson, warning of the gravity of the situation, told congress that men now in uniform would have to be trained not only for service in the United States, but also in all parts of Central and South America, it need be, and "also in other parts of the world."

There were many who believed that the secretary was not talking about the Philippines and Greenland, but was pointing to the eventual likelihood of another A. E. F.

On the same day Knox, addressing another committee, said that the day was past when we could consider ourselves unmenaced, and declared that "America was being encircled by unfriendly countries."

The American people, meanwhile, had to guess at the amount of leniency aid that was actually getting over the ocean. No facts of figures were being given out, and yet on the surface, judging by reports from various ports along the Atlantic seaboard, British-bound merchandise was showing a tendency to pile up, and the action regarding Danish and other seized vessels was still being talked about in Washington.

LOWER: Draft Age?

The selective service act, popularly known as the draft, may be amended by this congress to include boys of 18, and also lower the top limit from 35 to some lesser age.

President Roosevelt told newspaper men that changing age limits was under study now in draft circles in congress, and that the matter may be taken up formally early in June.

Army sources also revealed that the war department has modified its ban against men with criminal records. From now on the induction authorities will consider each of the cases on its merits, and will be permitted to pass for possible military service those whom it considers desirable to train.

Trainees also have been given five more days in which to report for induction after receiving an order to do so, and this 10-day period can be extended to 60 days or more by order of the local board, where a hardship might otherwise result.

The Lamp in the Valley

BY ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

Sidney Lander rescued Carol Coburn from the annoyances of Eric (the Red) Erickson. She is returning to her native Alaska to teach. Her father, a sourdough, died with an unproven mine claim. Lander, an engineer for the

Trumbull Co., which is fighting the Coburn claim, breaks with Trumbull. But he remains engaged to Trumbull's daughter, Barbara. Carol tells Barbara she is not after Lander. Salaria Bryson, an outdoors girl, is also in love

INSTALLMENT XI

"But his voice, when he spoke, was both suave and controlled. "Don't run away with the idea this Chakitana claim is my only trouble," he said. "I've got mine interests that take me from the Circle right down to Mexico. And I like to clear things up as I go along. "Once again I recognized the rumble of big business. But the thought of my father's lone grave somewhere, out along the tangled trails of the Chakitana confirmed me in my own blind course of opposition.

"We turn in here," I explained, indicating the cozy path that led to my shack front. "Do you mean you're satisfied with this sort of thing?" he demanded, his contemptuous gaze on my littered doorway, left so unlovely by the spring thaw.

"I'd like it better if I had a school," I said.

John Trumbull sat watching me as I climbed down from the car seat. "What would you say if I put a few thousand into a school for you," he said with what impressed me as a purely achieved matter-of-factness, "as good a school as they've got anywhere in this Territory?"

It was my turn to remain silent as I looked up into those glaucous eyes of his. And I remembered my old school maxim about fearing the Greeks when they come bearing gifts.

"Does my claim impress you as worth that much?" I found the courage to demand.

His color deepened, apparently with the embarrassment of a contestant who has underestimated the power of his opponent.

"What it's worth won't be decided by either you or me," he said in an unexpectedly sharpened voice. "But I was hoping we could get together on it in some friendly way."

"I happen to be Klondike Coburn's daughter," I reminded him. "That brought a stealer look into his averted eyes. "I was trying to forget that," he retorted, almost in a huff. "But hate and stupidity, you'll find, won't get you far."

"I'll get along," I said, forcing a smile of assurance. And as I stood confronting him I began to nurse a new and sharper feeling for Sidney Lander. He too had refused to be crushed by that human car of Justice.

John Trumbull started his engine and threw in his clutch. "You may not last here as long as you imagine," he asserted as he swung about my dooryard and headed for the road.

CHAPTER XIII

Saturday, of course, meant a day off for the valley chalk-wrangler. But a day off didn't mean idleness. I had my mending and darning to do, my sourdough sponge to work into loaves, and my house to put in order after six days of neglect. I'd baked my bread, and finished my washing and ironing, and with the fortitude of the true frontiersman was just filling my big woodbox with neatly spilt spruce bores when a truck rumbled up to my door.

It was a rather official-looking truck of battleship-gray, similar to those I'd seen of late about the Administration Camp at Palmer. And it startled me a little when Lander swung down from the driver's seat. "He looked tired and a trifle solemn."

"I suppose you know what that means?" he said as I continued to stare at the truck. He laughed, rather curtly, when I told him I was entirely in the dark. "It means I'm field manager for the Matanuska Valley Project."

From my silence he seemed to reap some final impression of disappointment. "I suppose you think I've failed you?" he said, more solemn than ever.

"In what?" I asked, resenting his power to interfere with my heart's action. "In marking time this way about your Chakitana claim," he observed as he followed me into the shack. "I can live without that mine," I found myself saying.

"But nobody likes to be robbed," Lander observed as he thrust some papers into my hand. One of those papers, I noticed, was my father's dog-eared certificate of citizenship. And as I glanced down at the faded portrait appended to it I realized I was looking at the face of a fighter. It made me stiffen my shoulders.

"We can't, of course, pick our ground for this particular fight," Lander was saying. "We have to know our enemy's line of attack. And in this case he seems to be playing safe and turning to court procedure and trying to make everything look legal."

"Then what can we do?" I asked. "I have Canby working for us at Juneau," Lander explained, "but both dependable and resourceful. But you can't, of course, hurry those Record Office chair-warmers. And we'll have to depend on Canby."

"Trumbull's going to lose out, remember, on his first round," Lander was explaining. "That report shows your father's naturalization papers can be confirmed. I'll leave the issue hanging on the question of clear or clouded title."

"He then turned to the task in Matanuska. "Things are going to be different around here," he confidently affirmed. "They've got to, or there'll be hell to pay. And it'll be a man's size job, making this muddle ready for these two hundred families."

"Isn't it a trifle late for that?" I asked as I filled my two crockery cups with hot tea.

Lander admitted that it was. But that, he contended, was just why we had to pitch in and help.

"You'll get a school, of course," he went on as he abstractedly stirred his tea. "And we'll have to have a hospital of some sort. And a Red Cross nurse. And a marshal to keep order in those transient camps. And someone to speed up the building-gangs and stop all this bungling about supplies and the eternal back-passing that's mainly responsible for the mess they're in."

"I want to help," I said. Something in my voice brought an approving smile from the man across the bald pine table.

"In two weeks," he said, "we'll have a radio station here, to link us up with the outside world. That'll take us out of the wilderness, out on a jump. And before winter we'll have electric lights and telephones and gold storage and a cannery and snug homes for every one of those two hundred families."

"You'll get a school, of course,"

I thought of the undug wells and the unfinished roads and the earls of cement that had been left to harden along the railway siding.

"You know, of course, that your friend Erickson is in the transient camp here?" Lander asked.

"I disclaimed any friendship between Eric the Red and myself. "That's just the point," proceeded my visitor. "He's as yellow as they make them. And two days ago he had a talk with John Trumbull up at the Happy Day."

"What's that to me?" I asked, with what was only a pretense of indifference.

"Trumbull," he explained, "is pretty ruthless. There are mighty few road rules left when he starts steamrolling toward his own selfish ends."

"I've been talking with Colonel Hart," he added. "And he agrees with me we've got to have a medical man here. There's a chance he'll bring Doctor Rudbeck over from Toklat. And I've put in a word for your friend Katie O'Connell. There's no reason she couldn't swing in as a Red Cross nurse."

A wave of joy went through me, Katie, I realized, would be an answer to prayer.

Just then Salaria appeared at my door, brown and wind-blown. In the crook of her arm she carried a rifle and over one shoulder swung a full game bag. Her dusky eyes rested rather hungrily on the silent Lander.

"You got my way, old-timer?" she inquired, indicating the truck in the dooryard.

Lander's gaze met mine for a moment. I could see the heat-lightning smile that hovered about his lips.

"Right to your door, S'lary," Lander answered her, with a hand-wave toward his truck.

It was while the Artoimis with the rifle was still frowning over some faint tinge of mockery in his voice that Lander turned back to me. "How about coming to Wasilla tonight?" he asked. "They have a roadhouse dance there, every Saturday night, for our relief-roll rollers. And I want to get a line on the bad actors in that bunch."

"I'll be seeing you," I acquiesced in the offhand note of the frontier.

"Fine," said Lander as he waited for Salaria to climb into the truck. It was many a year, since I'd seen an Alaska jamboree of that kind, and it left me wondering if life hadn't rather spoiled me for such affairs. For along with the dancing was much brawling and love-making and the imbibing of a local brand of hooch-known as moose-milk. The orchestra was merely a tiny old piano helped out by a fiddle and accordion. Even as we pushed our way into that crowded roadhouse with its open bar I wondered if the natives weren't doing the best to revive the old Klondike days. Men in flannel shirts and high-tops gyrated about with gum-chewing white women in slacks or held well-rouged and sloe-eyed half-breed girls in calico close to their Mackinaw bosoms.

Lander danced with a smooth self-possession that left us almost-conscious in that swarm of jiggling bodies and flying heels. And I felt oddly small and passive in that strong arm of his. The sense of his nearness, I suppose, should have made me happy.

But I couldn't drum up any enthusiasm for that falsetto and loose-jointed hilarity born of bad music and worse whisky.

I tried to tell my partner that there was something pathetic in such childlike efforts to escape the isolation of wilderness life. But Lander only laughed.

"This is easy," he said. "There'll be a broken head or two before the night's over." There'd even been a stabbing, the work before.

But I had no craving to see fist-fights and knifeplay.

"I want to go home," I said at the end of our dance. For along the line that crowded the bar I'd caught sight of Eric the Red, surrounded by a circle of transients. He was too busy drinking and talking to give any thought to dancing. But his sardonic smile as we passed within six paces of him confirmed my distaste for the place.

"All right," said Lander. Yet I knew by the way his gaze lingered on the flushed and bleary-eyed faces all about him that he would have preferred to stay.

The air outside was sweet with a smoky haze that blew down from the Talkatnas.

"I guess this is better," he said as he tucked a blanket about my knees and climbed in beside me. He was silent for a while, tooting the truck along the spectral ribbon of the road.

"I'm afraid I took you away from your work," I ventured.

Lander laughed as that none-too-even road kept our swaying bodies in rough-but-friendly contact.

"That's about the best I can ask of life," he said. "To be next to you like this."

My answering laugh, I suppose, was largely defensive.

"While we both remember to keep to the center of the road," I suggested.

"It'll be a better road before we're through with it," the resonant low voice beside me announced. He was speaking in riddles, of course. Yet I knew well enough what he meant.

"If where will it lead to?" I asked.

"I don't know, yet," he answered after a moment's silence. "But I don't want it to lead me from you."

"Hasn't it already done that?" I questioned.

It may have sounded a bit effort. He turned and made an effort to study my face in the none-too-certain light.

"I thought we meant something to each other," he said with a quick and boylike candor that was more disarming than all the earlier riddles. "I rather thought you liked me."

"I do," I said in an effort to match casualness with casualness. But that, plainly, didn't solve his problem. He drove on in silence until he came to the narrower trail that led in to my shack.

"I suppose there's somebody else?" he finally ventured, coming to a stop in the cabin clearing.

"There's nobody else," I was honest enough to acknowledge.

"That's all I wanted to know," he said with a new resoluteness in his voice.

I was more afraid of myself, I think, than I was of him. I didn't like the way my heart was pounding as he got down from his seat and crossed to my side of the truck.

"With me there is nobody else," I compelled myself to say.

I knew, by the way he stiffened, that my shot had hit his mark. "You're right," he quietly acknowledged. Then he laughed his curt laugh. "I guess I'm running a little ahead of the game."

Children's Wardrobe Problems Made Simple by Home Sewing

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

JACK'S beanstalk of fairy tale days has nothing on little girls when it comes to growing rapidly. They seem to change from day to day, once they pass the doll-like stage of babyhood. It's a problem every mother has to face, but it is surprising how simple a problem it becomes if you can sew. The many needed changes don't upset the most rigid budget if wardrobes are planned carefully.

In the first place cotton fabrics are not only practical and inexpensive but smart as well. This spring, sand-boxes and dancing school alike will see cotton frocks on all of Fortune's favorite likes. There are innumerable enchanting fabrics that cost so little you can make a six-year-old daughter a complete wardrobe of spring frocks for five or six dollars.

It's smart this season, too, to make children's clothes from the same basic pattern, varying materials and trimmings. This is a blessing for a busy mother. You'll find most children's patterns are so simple this season that you can complete a whole frock in a couple of hours' time.

The princess silhouette, as graceful and becoming to almost every child as its name implies, is particularly favored right now. For playtime, make it of sturdy denim or striped seersucker. Pencil and striped seersucker. Pencil and striped seersucker. Pencil and striped seersucker.

When party time calls something more dainty, novelty or gandy or dotted swiss would be a good choice, and as for dimity, it is more of a favorite than ever. An Alice-in-Wonderland dimity frock is the pride and the joy of the little girl seated in the picture. In size four, this little dress costs but a few cents over a dollar to make, including gandy frills, tiny pearl buttons, pattern and thread. The same pattern in gingham makes a cunning play frock.

A most commendable thing about the frilled gandy panel that adds such a dainty touch to this gown is that it is made detachable so that the frills may be laundered separately. One of the delights of princess frocks is that they also are easy to launder. No gathers, no pleats! Be sure you use ballfast thread when you are sewing, so that it won't run or fade. Also, if you want to leave an extra two inches in the hem to take care of rapidly growing legs, ballfast thread will leave no mark when the hems are changed.

The pinafore with its apron-and-bib, so charming for little girls, has been revived, and a very sensible fashion it is. A change-about of gumpies and skirts is a flexible wardrobe note to be remembered when active playtime makes many changes necessary. You can often use last year's outgrown dresses to make the apron and pinafore bib. Use the extra fabric of the sleeves for little ruffles over the shoulders or for a big pocket on the skirt to hold a favorite toy.

A good time to teach youngsters to sew is when you are making their clothes. With a little supervision, leftover pieces of material can be fashioned into doll clothes just like mother's. You can start them too young, and doll clothes are by far the happiest medium of approach.

Twin Hankies

Striking accessory notes are a fashion "must" this season. Your quest for novelty and chic should lead you to the handkerchief counter where you will be rewarded with a real "find" in the way of plaid hankies. The "trick" is to wear these plaids in pairs, as here shown. You may choose these hankies in little pin checks or big bold plaids with background colors that match or blend with the latest colors. These hankies never fail to add that dash of spice to the always smart, simple suit.

Lucre Redingotes

A pretty fashion to be worn in late spring and throughout summer is the long redingote made of sturdy lace in colors, and in black or white. It is perfectly stunning when worn as a summer wrap.

Dolman Sleeves

A coat destined to be a highlight in fashion is the new shirtwaist type with dolman sleeves. Its utter simplicity of cut and styling is its charm.

Pleats, Longer Jackets

Mark Newest Spring Suits

Precision in tailoring marks spring suits for 1941. Fashion has determined that a lady will wear pleats in the suit skirt—knife, box or twin box pleats in back or front, but plain at the side. The fashionable length for jackets is 24 inches or wrist length. Other details to keep in mind if buying or making a suit are single link closing, neatly squared shoulders padded with the arm, and hip flap pockets.

Take your pick of the so-called "open shirt" revers, or the elongated type that creates the impression of a longer waist. The fancy feminine suit has a shorter jacket with a definitely nipped-in waist and easy fullness in the skirt. Knife pleating, grouped plaids, new soft voices, double flap pockets and chunky gold buttons are characteristic.

Chenille Dots in Veils

Latest Addition to Hats

Ask at the veiling counter to see the new confetti-vels—Chenille dots that look like huge snowflakes are closely scattered all over the fragile backgrounds. Cover your hat with this veil in billowy masses and you will achieve a true "spring" look.

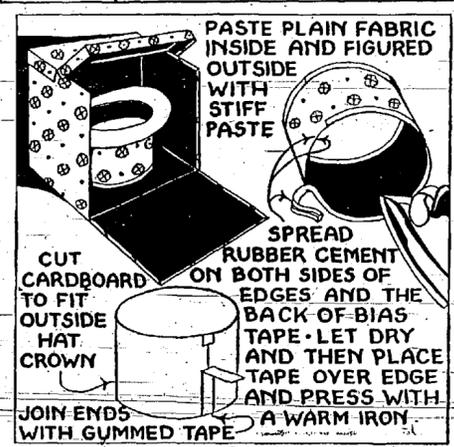

All veils have a most fetching way about them this season. Their sole mission is to flutter and to lend allure. Little flower hats have as their main keynote whimsical colorful veils. Wide brims are also flatly veiled this season.

Enthusiastic Spirit

Enthusiasm is that secret and harmonious spirit which hovers over the production of genius, throwing the reader of a book, or the spectator of a statue, into the very ideal presence when these works have really originated. A great work always leaves us in a state of rusing.—Isaac D'Israeli.

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

FEMININE headgear usually holds its shape best if it rests right side up on a stand that fits inside the crown, but this is not true of a man's hat. Its dashing lines may be preserved by placing it upside down in a holder. All of which is worth remembering when you are fixing up "his" closet—even when you are generously preparing to share a small corner of your own.

The man's hat box, shown here, is covered on the outside with maroon and blue cotton print and lined with blue chambray. The lid and the front of the box are hinged with adhesive tape before the covering is pasted on with stiff paste. The stand is made of cardboard, as shown in the sketch, and is covered to match the box. The maroon bias tape edging of the stand is cemented in place in a way that you may find useful in making many other things. The secret is in spreading the cement evenly on both surfaces, letting it dry, and then vaporizing the two together with the heat of the pressing iron.

NOTE: Why not put away winter things all nicely mended? It will be grand to get them out in perfect order next fall. Mrs. Spears' Book 2 shows you how to do the most professional kinds of mending, as well as every day household mending. There is a simple, quickly made slipper bag for five garments in SEWING Book 6. ## TIPS to Gardeners

TRIM FLOWER GARDEN

THERE is much value in keeping the flower garden trimmed. Wise gardeners pick bouquets of favorite annuals like Marigold, Zinnia, Petunia, Sweet Peas and Snapdragon with systematic regularity, for the picking promotes continued blooming.

Periodic trimming is not best for such small, low-growing edging flowers as Alyssum. A complete cutting, however, will benefit this type of plant. This treatment may be applied to Ageratum, Linaria, Lobelia, and Nemesis as well as Alyssum.

Pinks, Cynoglossum, and Dwarf Bedding Rust-Resistant Snapdragon are grown both for cutting and for garden beauty, but they too will profit by a thoroughgoing "haircut" such as that prescribed for the smaller, edging favorites.

It is advisable to pick the flowers of certain popular perennials when they are in their prime, to prevent their running to seed, and to promote the production of a second crop of blossoms in a single season. Delphinium, Sweet William, Coreopsis, Perennial Dianthus, and Pyrethrum should be handled in this manner.

NEW JERSEY'S DEFENSE ROLE

Reports that New Jersey still holds the lead in national defense contracts give added weight to the importance of keeping this state free from the experimental tax "bottlenecks" which oppress virtually all other states in the union.

According to latest figures released, New Jersey was awarded a total of $1,370,940,859 in the period ending March 15—the highest amount in the country.

New Jersey's preparedness for defense production is the outcome of continued industrial progress—due in no small measure to New Jersey's firm rejection of all attempts to impose new and "experimental" taxes in this state.

Taxes such as the personal income tax, corporate income tax, sales tax, domestic corporation franchise tax, industrial tax on gross receipts, etc., do not exist in New Jersey, although they are levied in a large number of other states throughout the United States.

One state after another has experimented with new taxes of this sort, usually misled by promises of "tax relief to the home owners" with so-called "replacement" taxes. Surveys of states which have made these experiments show conclusively that the new taxes have always become additional taxes, increasing the total tax burden without giving the promised relief to home-owners. Actually the home owner is taxed more heavily, since he not only continues to pay a high property tax, but also must pay his share of the additional taxes.

All effects of piling new taxes upon old go even further. New levies become "bottlenecks" to industrial expansion, cut down the purchasing power of consumers, and encourage lavish spending by the government.

New Jersey's favorable position—its freedom from such "bottlenecks"—is no accident. The taxpayers have refused to be carried away by tempting promises of "shifting the tax burden" to others. Instead they have centered their efforts upon cutting out wasteful public spending, reducing the debt burden, insisting upon better management of public affairs, and tightening the controls over government finances.

Many valuable gains have been made on this front by taxpayers associations and other civic groups working for better government. Local budget-making and expenditure control functions have been strengthened—the credit standing of municipalities has been greatly improved—state and local debt burdens have been reduced—many municipalities have started tax rates on the downward trend while maintaining essential services.

These improvements have done much to make New Jersey a better state in which to make a home and to earn a living. New industries continue to flock here—private employment is gaining rapidly—new home construction is moving forward markedly—farm income is second highest in the nation. New Jersey is in the front rank in many ways and has every reason to stay there.

Annexation Plan Runs Into Snag

MOUNTAINSIDE—The proposal to withdraw the Skytop Township from the jurisdiction of Scotch Plains "hit a snag Tuesday night when the Scotch Plains Township Committee put itself on record by resolution as opposed to the plan. Previously, property owners petitioned the Township Committee to sanction their annexation to Mountainside, particularly the section between Cataract Hollow road and the Mountainside line adjacent to Park Commission property. In the resolution, it pointed out that the officials met with the Scotch Plains school authorities to consider the question of transporting Skytop pupils, the principal objection raised by property-owners, and a policy has been arranged to provide such transportation from Route 29 and Glenside avenue, to satisfy the parents in the section.

SPEEDERS FINED
MOUNTAINSIDE—Charged with speeding, three motorists were fined $15 each in Police Court last Thursday by Recorder Albert J. Benjamin. They are: Angelo Abyssica of Astoria, Long Island; Lewis Moses of Chicago, and Thomas Kiechinski of Bayonne.

Hazard of Springfield avenue, Cranford. Mrs. Nellie Wendorf of Roselle, Mrs. Hazard and Mrs. Dorothy Tice of Westfield were also in the production. The group heard a discussion on psychology of color and its application in the dress of the individual by Mrs. Tice. The play led in perfectly with Mrs. Tice's talk on color schemes.

DISCUSSIONS

A STUDY OF RECORDS

By NORMAN W. MARKS

Here is good news for the music lover.

The National Symphony Orchestra with Dr. Hans Klinger conducting, more than established itself in the hearts of all good music lovers when they recorded "Fescolabdi Toccata" on Victor 17632. Now this outstanding musical organization has come along with another recording that will warm the hearts of those who truly love Brahms. Dr. Klinger has just recorded Brahms' Symphony No. 3 in F Major for Victor, Album 762, 4 records, 8 sides, priced at $4.50.

Brahms' Third has always been a favorite but, unfortunately, there has not been a good recording of this, since Bruno Walter and the Vienna Philharmonic version, recorded some time back.

Dr. Klinger conducts his orchestra brilliantly and with heart. There is something new and vigorous about the National Symphony that adds to the charm of this great symphony. The third movement, to us, is the heart of this music, something you will want to play many times over.

The acoustics of the recording hall are ideal, the technique of recording excellent. This album of Brahms is a sure "must." The release date has been set for May 1.

For Swing Fans

Swing fans, please note. T. Dorsey's "Let's Get Away From It All" gives you that lift that only T. D. can. This waxing will cure all your ills, and make the listener forget all previous Dorsey "bests." This disc is featured by Dorsey's entire vocal clan including Frank Sinatra, Connie Haines and the Pied Pipers, plus a terrific Elman ride on the trumpet. Vaughn Monroe does a real job on "Music Makers" with a very fine bit of vocalizing from Marilyn Davis.

DEEDS OF THE WEEK—Charlie Barnet's very poor ensemble work on "Blue Juice"—Woody Herman's "Let's Get Away From It All" should have been called "Let's STAY Away From It All."

(Mr. Marks will answer any inquiry from readers pertaining to the "Notes of Records"—a self-addressed stamped envelope to the writer, care of the SUN, will bring a prompt reply.)

EVERY UPSURGE in New Jersey's effort for national defense brings new demands for telephone service—and multiplying problems for hundreds of telephone engineers who are working night and day to keep the system ready for every need. Defense naturally is "No. 1" on their program.

Hundreds of telephone construction projects are now under way throughout the State. Hundreds more are in the manufacturing, blueprint or study stage—new buildings, new switchboards and additions, new facilities for expanding industrial plants, new cable lines. Each brings problems not only of installation but of production under rising pressure.

All have a basic part in the effort of New Jersey and of the Nation to meet promptly the requirements of national defense.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Which Door Is Yours?

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Ann went to him. "Why, George, shame on you! You'll move right into the city, I'll have my baby for nothing, in a word, we'll cut expenses and we'll pay that all off in five years."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

TWO men, both in the early thirties, were going home in the subway last night. It was a bleak dreary night, streets were dark and slippery with slush and the underground train was filled with weary homegoers, who occupied seats or hung on straps with the tired expressions of men and women whose day had been dull and hard.

One man was Tom Smith, who rents four rooms in the Bronx for $32 a month. A parlor and kitchen on the street; two bedrooms on air-shafts. Bathroom, some heat; hot water included. The Smiths have one little girl, Eileen, who is 8.

Jean Smith is pretty, nervous, dissatisfied. She is tired of cooking for Tom, eating for him and Eileen, and doing without, trying to do down meals; theaters. She lives by a jealous and minute comparison of her affairs with those of her friends; she has no code and no standards of her own. It's some woman-friend and most of them are some years older than she, and all of them in better circumstances—if some friend has a new house, a new hair-do, a new dining table or car, Jean is wretched.

When Tom gets home she is often lying down reading. Or perhaps the house is cluttered from a bridge party, a snooty, the six thick with cigarette smoke, the women finishing the last rubber. A daintily wrapped prize goes to somebody, the guests depart with many kisses and thanks, and Jean wearily begins to straighten up the room. Tom has cold mutton, beefs, sandwiches and eclairs for supper, a good enough meal if Jean had any appetite or any interest in it. To his kindly inquiries she responds vaguely; she isn't disagreeable, but she simply doesn't care what Tom eats or feels or says or wants any more. Half the time her answer to his remarks is "What?"

If things are uncomfortable for Tom he accepts them in silence. Any criticism rouses Jean to an angry summary of the situation. She has given Tom Smith the best years of her life! She has drugged along in this rotten little place, when Ethel has moved into those new flats and Glad and Billy are buying a house. This can go on for a long time. Tom and subdued little Eileen have learned not to invite it. So Tom reconciles himself to a damp disorderly bathroom, sits cheerfully reading the paper in the cold dusty parlor when meals are late, frots down to the dollhouse for forgotten butter, or coffee, takes Jean to movies night after night. Tom doesn't complain, but one day he revealed more than he knew of the situation to his friend George Brown, who had any appetite or any interest in it. To his kindly inquiries she responds vaguely; she isn't disagreeable, but she simply doesn't care what Tom eats or feels or says or wants any more. Half the time her answer to his remarks is "What?"

George Brown, the other home-going man, lives in the same crowded block with the Smiths. He and Ann pay the same rent for the same space. But there the similarity between the two families ceases. Ann

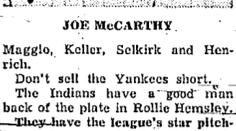

WHO will be the two pennant winners of 1941? Who will meet in the next world series? It is quite a jump from the pink and white dogwood blooms of early spring to the red and gold tints of late September, especially when the prophet must also gamble on the break of the army draft.

Just at this spot, after a month's dugout contact with teams that should be somewhere close, my guess is that either the New York Yankees or the Cleveland Indians will meet Bill McKechnie's Cincinnati Reds next fall in the scramble for world series cash.

Joe McCarthy's Yankees are the safe bet. In Dickey and Rosar they have all the catching any team needs, with Dickey much improved over his 1940 form.

From Rufing, Chandler, Gomez, Russo, Bonham, Donald, Murphy and younger entries, McCarthy should get high-grade pitching all along the route. He has at least 12 stout prospects on his roster.

He has one of the best infields in baseball, and the best outfield in Di-

Maggio, Keller, Selkirk and Hendrick. Don't sell the Yankees short. The Indians have a good man back of the plate in Rollie Hemsley. They have the league's star pitching staff, headed by Bob Feller, Al Milnar, Al Smith, Mel Harder.

They have one of the game's best infields with Mack and Boudreau at second and short, and a variety of "taste treats" you can achieve.

One of the flavors so many like in canned beans is curry. While the beans are heating slowly, a teaspoon of curry powder is sifted over the top and mixed gently through the beans. When thoroughly heated, a piece of butter is added and when that is absorbed, the beans are ready to serve.

An entirely different flavor is developed by adding a tablespoon of vinegar and several tablespoons of brown sugar to two cups of beans while heating thoroughly. Likewise, the piece of butter is added just before serving.

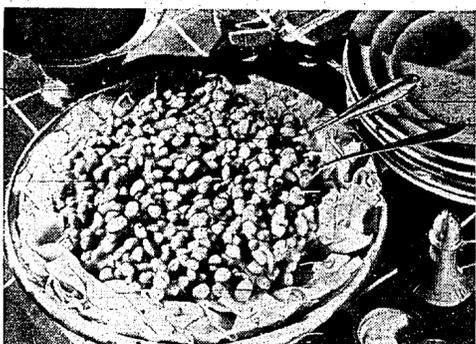

An adaptation of this latter "taste treat" is featured in this week's church supper menu suggestions. Here it is:

When planning meals for large numbers DO try to determine as nearly as possible the number of people to be served, as it is more economical to have no leftovers. This is, of course, if only one meal is to be served.

DO have a well-balanced menu. Too much variety will result in your guests hesitating their plates with a conglomeration of food. They'll want to taste everything!

DO choose foods that won't spoil if they must stand for 15 minutes or even longer.

DO have committees who are responsible for collecting the linen, china and silverware, setting the table, preparing the different parts of the menu and waiting on the table.

CHURCH SUPPER THOUGHTS

Cast a weather eye at the next social event on your list. 'Tis a church supper, you say? Mmmm... one of those delightful affairs that simply wouldn't be missed!

I know... one of my fondest memories is the home town church supper, always famous for its food, especially Parker House rolls and baked beans.

Perhaps you are one who thinks of beans as a plain or ordinary dish and, for that reason, hesitate to serve them at a dress-up affair. If you are, I think I can help you change your mind, for properly prepared baked beans are a delight which deserve a place in the top flight of fine cooking.

If you are rushed for time and can't bake your own beans, there are always the canned varieties at your grocer's. Their most-instant-minute possibilities shouldn't be overlooked. And then, too, they're a "feast for the least."

To be really different, you may want to experiment with seasonings until you develop an individual flavor in the canned product. It's amazing the variety of "taste treats" you can achieve.

When feeding a crowd, the marketing problem may present difficulties. You will need six dozen rolls (depending on the size) to serve 50. As to beverages, put these amounts on your list: three pounds of coffee, 1/2 pound of tea or three gallons of milk—each of these amounts will serve 50.

Supper over, what next? Entertainment, of course! Half the success of a party lies in the "after-dinner" program.

And why not a radio party? Arrange to stage to represent a broadcasting studio... with microphones, clocks and other radio paraphernalia.

The tables where guests are seated should represent the radio stations of the American Network... a table for each state of the Union. Each one should be marked by its call letters.

Guests are seated at the table representing their birthplace. (This will work wonders in mixing up your crowd.)

Railroads can handle freight of coastwise ships required to aid Britain. New shippers hold solution of problem of replacing freighters sunk by Nazis.

WASHINGTON.—Any day now all the ships in the coast to coast service via the Panama canal will be taken off that run and put into transatlantic business, whether under the British flag or some other. There are 113 vessels in this trade now, and the Pacific coast is all in a dither as to whether they can be spared. There are a lot of curious angles to the picture.

One of the funniest would seem to be that war makes even stranger bed fellows than politics. Back in 1914, the question of Panama canal tolls had the country by the ears.

The Democratic platform on which Woodrow Wilson had been elected in 1912 pledged continuance of free passage through the canal for ships in the coastwise trade—that is ships plying between Seattle, or San Francisco, or Los Angeles, on the Pacific coast, and New York or some other Atlantic coast port in this country.

Under our law, foreign flag ships are not allowed to take part in our "coastwise" trade.

President Wilson decided, however, that under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty this business of exempting coastwise shipping from tolls was unethical, so there was a spectacular fight.

SHIPS BADLY NEEDED. Now the fight—if it is over whether we are going to turn all our coastwise ships over to Britain. Those ships are needed to carry the supplies we want to give Britain across the Atlantic, and, as Col. William J. Donovan says, there is no use making the guns and shells and planes if we can't deliver them.

Next comes the question, what will happen to the freight that these 113 ships have been carrying? That's easy, too. M. J. Gormley, executive assistant of the Association of American Railroads, says the increase in the railroad business resulting would be so slight "we would hardly notice it."

The last available figures, if you are skeptical, are of the year 1937, but that happens to have been the best year since Coolidge. In that period coastbound traffic via the Panama canal amounted to 4,699,541 short tons, or 177,486 carloads, while westbound traffic amounted to 3,039,164 short tons, or 109,355 carloads.

The heavier eastbound traffic would amount, Mr. Gormley points out, to one train daily of 70 cars on each one of the seven transcontinental railroad lines, which, he insists, would not complicate the schedules of any one of them.

Cargo Ships Needed To Defeat Germany. The only risk about final victory over Germany in this war is whether enough ships can be provided to supply Britain in spite of the terrific sinkings of merchant vessels by Nazi submarines, planes, mines and torpedoes.

For some unexplainable reason this country has been very slow in realizing this danger, and in getting started on ship construction. British agents are urging that we revive Hog Island, which toward the end of the last war, was turning out more than 20 ships a month.

LABOR SHORTAGE UNLIKELY. The chief objection made to new shipyards, such as Hog Island, is that they would drain workers away from existing yards. There is, of course, this danger. But there is also a lot of bunk to it.

Guests are seated at the table representing their birthplace. (This will work wonders in mixing up your crowd.)

Star Dust

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
BECAUSE Carole Lombard and Clark Gable interested themselves in his career, tall, handsome Reed Hadley, who hails from Texas via New York theater and radio acting stovovers, appears to be safely launched in Hollywood.

He first attracted Miss Lombard's attention a few weeks ago, when he appeared with her on a national broadcast in New York. Gable met him at that time also. Both were impressed with young Hadley's appearance and talent. Gable suggested to Director Clarence Brown that Hadley be tested for the role of a young British officer in "The Uniform," at Metro, in which Gable and Rosalind Russell are co-starring.

An important requirement was that the actor chosen for the role be able to wear a uniform worn by Gable. The young actor fitted the uniform, and the part was his—no test was required. Just an interview with Brown. At the same time casting officials grabbed him for "Man From the City," with Robert Sterling, Paul Kelly and Marsha Hunt.

Ray Milland is moving right ahead, and fast. After turning in a fine performance in "I Wanted Wings," he was chosen by Cecil B. De Mille for one of the two male starring roles in "Reap the Wild Wind." It's a tale of the Florida keys a hundred years ago, and Milland is a fighting young lawyer from Charleston, who smashes a desperate crew of ship wreckers and wins the girl, John Wayne has the other stellar male role—that of a sea captain who also wins the girl. And all in Technicolor.

Getting a screen test isn't too easy, and Richard Wallace, director of Harold Lloyd's first production for RKO, "A Guy and a Girl," explained why the other day. He computes the cost of a test at from $1,500 to $3,000. The candidate is brought to Hollywood, make-up artists go to work, hairdressers and wardrobe department heads are called in. An experienced actor is selected to appear opposite the candidate—and there are the salaries of the director, cameraman, electricians, sound men, etc. Then the candidate may be no good!

George Raft, who has one of the largest and most expensive wardrobes owned by Hollywood actors, is breaking in some $22,500 suits for his role as a power lineman in Warner Bros. "Manpower." That's the picture in which Humphrey Bogart was slated to share honors with Raft and Marlene Dietrich, but Raft, who wisely realizes his limitations, refused to appear with him. Ida Lupino didn't want the talented Mr. Bogart in "The Gentle People" with her either. Warners offered an alternate, but part in "Bad Men of Missouri" but he would have none of it, and was suspended.

John Loveton, producer of "The Court of Missing Heirs," insists that actors in mob scenes say more, pertinent words. He had his lesson long ago—he was part of a mob scene on a radio drama broadcast, and when an unexpected silence fell on the air his voice boomed out, shouting "Gabbler! Gabbler! Gabbler!" He never acted since, but as a director he cracks down on any actor who doesn't contribute something sensible to those background murmurs and mutterings.

Paramount believes that a new Jean Harlow, or Clara Bow, has been discovered in the person of "sultry, blonde" Veronica Lake, (to quote a press agent) who is featured in "I Wanted Wings." "Not since Greta Garbo leaped to overnight fame in her first picture, "The Torrent," have New York movie critics lavished such acclaim upon a newcomer," to quote another press release. Maybe so, but the low cut of Miss Lake's necklines made such an impression on a good many people that they had a great deal to say about her acting.

ODDS AND ENDS—Universal has taken an option on the screen services of Baby Sandy's brother—who is one week old... The March of Time's latest, "The P. B. L.—1941," shows how the Federal Bureau of Investigation is concentrating on the prevention of espionage and sabotage in industry... Mutual's "The People's Playhouse," heard Tuesdays and Thursdays, presents dramatic sketches based on ideas submitted by the public... RKO is screening "Parachute Battalion," with Robert Preston, Nancy Kelly and Harry Carey... You'll see Tommy Harmon, All-American half-back, in "Harmon of Michigan."

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Ma—
Well you will laugh at this ma but the army has learned me how to make a bed. If I get out of this war safe and back in plain close no matter how bad the employment situation is I can get a job as a chambermaid. Making beds is one thing I never thought I would be an expert at but it is one of the first things you get instructed at in a draft camp. I never paid no attention all my life to bed making. I just got out in the morning and from all I knew it was all done automatically but I am now a first class bed maker and some nice girl could use me as a housekeeper.

I no this will surprise you more than anything the mom when I tell you I am a Grade A dishwasher. They call this kitchen police detail but I do not know where the police part comes in as I never seen no cop doing dishes but they tell me in the army that they call my dirty work police work. Well anyhow I put in a hole day washing dishes and if you ever ask me to help with the pots and pans hereafter and I refuse I will apologize becuz it will be a pickinck compared to what washing dishes is up here. You don't wash a plate at a time. You wash 'em in bunches and you have to be a combenashun Japanese jugler, kitchen canary and all around mopper-upper. I have got so good at it that if I had a race with an electric dish washing machine it would take a photo to pick the winner.

The breakage is not heavy which is a big disappointment as I would like to bust more than I do but the crockery they use in the army is more like cement lawn furniture. You can drop a coffee cup on the floor and it will bounce rite back and hit you on the jaw. I dropped a saucer yesterday and it made a hole in the floor big enough for two men to go, threw. I never new there was so many dishes in the army and believe me I never seen no physical training that hardens muscles like just lifting army chin. I know a private who dislocated his ribs lifting a saucer. The sergeant says the dishes are just for eating but he can't fool me. If war comes they will be used for throwing.

My hand and arms up to the rist is all pink and puffy from being in the hot water—so many hours at a stretch and when I can't sleep now I don't count sheep I just count dirty dishes. I had a terrible dream last night. I dreamed I had to do all the pans and broilers all over a second time. You know how the pans and broilers are all stuck up after a big Thanksgiving dinner at home, ma, well there is twice as much go on 'em up here and I think the skipper puts a coat of hard varnish over it to make it all the harder.

I do not like it much as it does not seem to have much glimmer and in all the stories I read about war heroes I never noticed a dish washer being mentioned. The sergeant says Napoleon started as a dish washer washing French pastery dishes with is why they call him Napoleon but he is kidding I guess.

All the boys is talking about the rumor that this training will last longer than a year, maybe for two years but I wud not mind it so much pervided I could go home winters as the life the last winter was so tuff even those films would be of soar. I see Washington says the report is strictly balony but most of us has our fingers crost becuz the tense lend bill is passed and anybody knows that nobody who bows anything over gives it back under a couple of years.

Anyway ma do not worry as I am still okay—except for soar feet, a bad hangnail and a little touch of newmoinn but I am so busy washin' dishes that it tites my mind off my sufferin'.

Your loving son,
Oscar.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger B. Whitman

(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Types of Heat.
QUESTION: Can you advise me as to the heating of a house that I plan to build? Is steam heat more efficient than gas or oil-fired air-conditioned heat? Can you tell me about how much more expensive gas is to operate than fuel oil? Is the maintenance cost about the same on each? Which system would you advise?
ANSWER: The efficiency of a heating system is not gauged by the type of heat, but by the quality and design of the equipment that is installed. Steam or air conditioned heat will keep the house warm, if the heating plant is suitably large. The air filtering and humidifying features in air conditioning systems are favored by many home owners. These features are desirable, providing, of course, the system is installed by a reliable firm having a thorough knowledge of this type of heating. Comparative costs depend entirely upon local gas rates and fuel-oil costs. Your local gas company and oil burner man can help you on this better than I can. The maintenance cost may be slightly higher on oil fired units.

Cracked Plaster.
QUESTION: The walls of my house are of unfinished plaster, and were recently decorated with casein paint. There is one particularly bad crack in the wall. How can it be repaired?
ANSWER: The crack is probably from settlement, and may grow worse should settlement continue. If so, you will be wasting time and material to do any patching until settlement is over. If you feel sure that the crack has reached its limit, you can repair it with patching plaster, to be had at a hardware store. Widen the narrow part of the crack with a knife to admit the patch, and for the entire length of the crack, make it wider at the lath than it is on the surface, so that in hardening, the patch will lock itself into place. Directions for using patching plaster are on the label of the box.

Cleaning Wood Floors.
QUESTION: What can I apply to hardwood floors to remove marks, such as scratches and spots, as well as several layers of wax? The floors are almost new, and I do not want to have them scraped.
ANSWER: To remove scratches from shellacked floors, wipe with turpentine. Or, small scratches can be treated with a little denatured alcohol, put in with a soft camel's hair brush, and deep scratches with a little thin shellac. Varished floors should be treated with varnish. You can clean the floors by wiping with liquid floor wax, and plenty of clean cloths. Polish by applying good paste floor wax in thin coats, rubbing well. Floors that are badly scratched should be scraped, preferably with an electric sanding machine.

Papering Rough Walls.
QUESTION: The walls throughout my house are textured plaster. Can this be smoothed to make a good surface for wallpaper?
ANSWER: Go over the walls with sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood to take down the highest points of the texturing. Then, using the same kind of plastic paint, that was originally used for the walls, fill the remaining roughness, using a brush or trowel. Final smoothing of the wall can be done with a trowel, or with a rubber squeegee, such as is used for washing plate glass windows.

Cleaning Silver.
QUESTION: Salted nuts were left in two silver dishes, and have made black spots that no amount of polishing will remove. How can I clean them?
ANSWER: When silver has been spotted in that way, the only sure method of cleaning is to have the job done by a silversmith. Salt should not be allowed to remain in contact with silver.

Squeaky Spring.
QUESTION: A bedspring has become loose, and every twist of the bed's occupant causes the spring to squeak. Can this be remedied?
ANSWER: Using a small camel's hair brush, try the effect of putting a little oil at every point where two or more pieces of metal come together. If this does not cure the trouble, the best answer is to get a new spring.

Putty.
QUESTION: I have been making my own putty with white lead, whiting, and linseed oil. My hardware man says that I should use only whiting and linseed oil; no lead. Which mixture is better?
ANSWER: Ordinary putty contains no lead. The addition of about one-fifth as much white lead gives the putty greater hardness and permanence.

FEMALE PAIN

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the underpinnings in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an old toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Salter Outlines Zoning Problem

To the Editor of the SUN:
Your issue of April 18 referred to my application to the Township Zoning Committee to bring about a change in the zoning of a certain parcel of my land fronting on Baltusrol Way now zoned for industry.

I protested against this in 1934. I protested again in 1933. In May, 1940, I protested for the third time at a Township Meeting, at that time being advised by Chairman Selander and Council Weeks to sell for residential purposes if we so wished since residential zoning is higher than industrial zoning.

However, it seems necessary that the zoning map itself be definitely changed before the industrial zoning can be wiped out.

Consequently on April 16, 1941, we placed before the Township Committee an application for the change of the Zoning Map for the following reasons:

1. We have sold for residences 25 per cent of the area zoned for industrial purposes and have pledged ourselves to sell all the balance for residences only, and we propose, of course, to stand unflinchingly by our word. Our full Warranty Deeds contain restrictive covenants as well.
2. So that no reproaches may justifiably be made that we are selling for residences but still working under the scope of the zoning map as it now stands, which makes it appear that we at any time advantageous to us, could or would, or might sell for industry, thereby betraying a trust to those who purchased from us in good faith, we hereby publicly declare that we absolutely will not sell one square foot of this land for industry, no matter what the inducement nor what price may be offered, but that it will be sold for strictly residential purposes only.
3. So that all future prospective buyers may be fully assured that the threat of industry in that particular area is once and for all removed, it is definitely our idea to ask all those concerned to cooperate with us, as we are doing everything in our power to play fairly and honorably with our buyers past, present and future.
4. With the change in the Zoning Map as outlined above, all our Baltusrol Way property will then be zoned for residential purposes. I originally developed all of my original sixty or more acres not over Springfield-for-residences and have every right to expect it should be so zoned and so sold.

forty years ago, the land on both sides of the road being owned by us and developed for private homes.

The railroad was built by Louis Keller in violation as to location of a contract made between the president of the railroad, Mr. Cole, Louis Keller and myself. I later brought suit for this, and won the case. Therefore, the presence of the railroad is no reason for penalizing my land by zoning it for industry. The land is far too beautiful for industrial purposes.

In view of these facts, it is most assuredly in order that the Zoning Map be immediately changed so that all controversial questions arising be once and for all time eliminated.

Dover Winners At Local Track

The trackmen of Regional High School lost their opening meet to Dover on Wednesday afternoon at the home field by a score of 56-52. Lack of strength in the 880-yard proved costly to the Brownmen, having lost a clean sweep in that distance. Hummer, Kemney and Downs of Dover finished in that order in the half-mile. Bob Price, Regional's ace dasher, won three events, the two dashes and quarter mile. On Wednesday, Regional will face Weequahic at the home field.

The summaries:

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Matthews, Dover; second, Miller, Regional; third, Moffat, Regional. Time, 2:31.

100-yard dash—Won by Price, Regional; second, Olejnyk, Dover; third, Smart, Regional. Time, 1:02.

Mile run—Won by Troast, Dover; second, Smith, Dover; third, Gordon Regional. Time, 4:54.2.

880-yard run—Won by Hummer, Dover; second, Kemney, Dover; third, Downs, Dover. Time, 2:09.8.

440-yard run—Won by Price, Regional; second, Olejnyk, Dover; third, Olejnyk, Dover. Time, 3:35.

Twin Bill For Bears Sunday

ALLAN GETTEL

The Newark Bears will play their first doubleheader of the season Sunday afternoon when the Buffalo Bisons will invade Ruppert Stadium for a three-day stand which will complete the Junior world championship home stay. Following Tuesday afternoon's game, the Bears will head north and will be away until May 19 except for a one-day jump home from "blue-law" Toronto to visit the Maple-Leats a week from Sunday.

Buffalo's looming invasion of the Newark park reminds Manager Johnny Neum and his Bears that the going will be tougher in the International League this year than it was last. The Bisons, who were a second division outfit in 1940, have been strengthened by the addition of eleven players from the Detroit Tigers without losing any of last year's dependables.

Phone Employees' Pay Is Increased

As a result of negotiations initiated by the Executive Committee of the Employees' Association, Plant Department, composed of R. R. Noyes, Newark, president; M. D. Murphy, Camden, secretary; treasurer; J. K. Elckoff, Hackensack; J. J. Curran, Jersey City, and R. C. MacNeal, Orange with Frank F. Adicks, general plant manager, the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company has agreed to raise wages for the non-supervisory men and women in that department. The increase in wages thus negotiated, ranging from $1 to $3 per week, will be effective April 27, and will apply immediately to about 80 per cent of these forces. On an annual basis it will amount to just under a half million dollars.

Agreement with the Employees' Association in the other departments has also resulted in an increase in wages effective the same date, to men and women employees in non-supervisory occupations, amounting to slightly more than a half million dollars annually. The total wage increase thus made effective amounts to approximately a million dollars a year for about 10,000 people.
