Monsignor Rank To Father Coyle

REV. DANIEL A. COYLE

The Rev. Daniel A. Coyle, rector of St. James' Catholic Church of Springfield, has been conferred the title of the Very Reverend Monsignor by the Most Rev. Thomas Joseph Walsh, Archbishop of Newark. Announcement, as well as the naming of six other clergymen on whom similar private chamberlains have been bestowed, was made Friday by the Archbishop with the sanction of Pope Pius XII.

Father Coyle is also archdiocesan assistant superintendent of schools, in which capacity he has served for over 20 years.

The local priest is a native of Newark. He attended St. Benedict's Preparatory School and was graduated from Seton Hall College in 1915. Following his graduation from the seminary, he was assigned to the parish at St. John's Church, Jersey City. He was later appointed to his present position in the archdiocesan schools system. Two years ago, he was appointed to St. James' Church.

Parishioners of the local Catholic Church were enthusiastic this week of the high honor conferred upon their spiritual tender, the highest rank ever afforded to a priest in St. James' Church since its inception in 1925.

It has not been decided when investment of the title will be made, but it is believed that appropriate ceremonies will take place in the near future.

Exercises Mark Tree Planting

The school body of the Raymond Chisholm-Selger participated Tuesday of last week in special exercises at the planting of a Bartlett chestnut tree in front of the school. The program opened with the singing of "America The Beautiful" which was followed by a talk on "Trees" by Principal Fred J. Hodgson.

Helen Gerdes recited the poem "Planting the Tree," and Mrs. Lucy Forsythe's fourth grade class sang "Music In The Air," which was followed by the singing of Joyce Kilmer's poem, "Trees" by the students of the eighth grade class.

The Bartlett chestnut tree was planted by Benjamin F. Newsinger, instructor, and the program closed with the singing of "God Bless America."

The specimen of the Bartlett chestnut was presented by the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories of Stamford, Conn., through the Orange office and is a hybrid of the Chinese and an unknown variety and is a blight resister. The tree researchers are hoping that the climate in this area is suitable for such a tree and the tree will be watched carefully for results. If the results prove satisfactory, the tree will produce nuts as sweet as the American chestnut.

COLLECTIONS HIGH ON HOSPITAL DAY

Nearly $100 was collected from the senior coin boxes distributed Saturday throughout the township for the benefit of National Hospital Day. Funds will be used in the form of scholarships and other benefits for student nurses who seek assistance.

Mrs. Robert Miller of Summit was general chairman in this section and Mrs. Roland W. Nye had charge of the Springfield area.

Those who assisted Mrs. Nye were Mrs. Myrtle Roland, R. N., Miss Violet Day, R. N., Miss Helen Schaffernoth, Mrs. Edgar Jacobs, Mrs. Erwin Doerries, Mrs. George Zoeller, Mrs. George Dines, Mrs. John Fries, Mrs. Herald Jones, Mrs. Leslie Jeter, Mrs. William Cosgrove, Mrs. Gabriel Lull, Mrs. Alex Ferguson, Mrs. Richard Horner, Mrs. Herbert Day and Mrs. Fred Maharty.

ABOUT 150 SERVED AT JOINT DINNER

The Mother-Daughter dinner, sponsored by the Aethra Bible Class and the Women's Service Club of the Methodist Church, served about 150 on Friday evening at the church. The men served as waiters to their wives and daughters. Mrs. Edward J. McCarthy was the toastmaster.

The toast in honor of the mothers was given by Joyce Nanninger and the toast to the daughters was presented by Mrs. Mary Anorman.

Al Robbins, humorist and magician, entertained the audience with his funny jokes and arts of magic.

MAYOR ON JURY
Mayor Wilbur M. Selander was inducted on the May Grand Jury Tuesday at the Courthouse by Justice Clarence E. Case. The foreman, John S. Byland of 235 Springfield avenue, Summit, is an officer of the Summit Trust Co.

Church To Hold Memorial Rites

Memorial Day services will be held Sunday evening, May 25, in the Methodist Church and all organizations in the township have been invited to participate in this solemn occasion.

Groups which attend the service will be requested to list the names of such members of their organization who have died during last year. The church will provide a flower for each deceased member and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Carl C. E. Mellberg, requests that an equal number of delegates to present such flowers to the altar while the names of departed members are read. In this brief and simple way, cherished memories may be kept alive and a more worthy community observance exemplified.

FFA Will Install Wednesday Night

Professor H. O. Sampson of Rutgers University, State advisor of the Future Farmers of America, and State Supervisor of Vocational Agriculture, will be guest speaker at public installation and induction of officers of Pioneer Chapter, Future Farmer of America, Wednesday evening in the gymnasium of Regional High School.

Thirteen members will be advanced from the rank of "Greenhand" to the degree of "Future Farmer." They are: President, Merritt Huntington; former presidents, George Johnson and Malcolm Baldwin; regular members, Wilbur Wolfech, Douglas Blunt, David Hall, Howard McDowell, John Metz, George Roloff, Phillip Stattle, Nofrey Fornaro, Robert Gordon and Lewis Huntington.

The newly elected officers who will be inducted include: President, Merritt Huntington; vice-president, William Sowers; secretary, John Metz; treasurer, Kenneth Roll; reporter, Karl Kroehling; watch dog, Robert Hongland, and conductor, John Leslie.

The ceremonies are open to friends, parents, and members of the organization.

PROMOTED AT CAMP
Norbert Ganska of Springfield, who has been stationed at the San Antonio Military Police Department, San Antonio, Texas, was advanced to the rank of first class private, effective May 1.

Ordinance Will Change Zoning

An ordinance to change the zoning code and withdraw property on the west side of Baltusrol way from an industrial district and place it in Zone A residential, was introduced by the Township Committee Wednesday night.

The legislation was provided, upon pleas by J. C. Salter, local developer, who argued that potential home owners were reluctant to buy land in that section for residential purposes while the Zoning code restricts its use to industry.

Thirteen property owners, among them Miss Cora Hartstrom of Hartshorn Estate, Short Hills, joined in the request of Mr. Salter to convert the zoning district. Hearing on the ordinance will be held May 28.

The committee, concerned over recent WPA layoffs, passed an ordinance authorizing sidewalk and curb improvements on Henshaw avenue, along Mountain avenue to Henshaw avenue and on Morris avenue at the corner of Marcy avenue. It had been reported that unfinished projects might be left undone, but after assurances that if transportation were furnished to out-of-town WPA defense projects, the local gang could remain intact and work on the Springfield projects yet remaining on the program.

Contract Authorized
Officials in the Fire Department were authorized to sign a contract for the purchase of a new 750-gallon engine. The apparatus, costing $9,011 less a trade-in allowance of $1,300, will replace a chemical hose truck.

A resolution was passed allowing the Public Service to add three buses to its Hopalong route which will pass through the township of Morris turnpike for less than a mile.

Fire Chief Charles Plinkava reported 45 brush fires, two house fires, one garage and one mountain fire during April. The fire chief presented a letter requesting the addition of seven hydrants on Baltusrol avenue, Warner and Perry place, Meisel and Owliss avenues, Lewis and Tower drives, Keeler street and Morris avenue and two on Bryant avenue. Houses developed recently require the additional hydrants.

Herbert Day, a representative of the American Legion, requested financial assistance for the coming Memorial Day parade which will be held in conjunction with Millburn. He was granted $85 to defray expenses.

Police Chairman Maczartney reported that bids on a new police car will be received at the next meeting.

"South America" Is Prom's Theme

"South America" will be the theme of the Junior Promenade of Regional High School on May 29. Although the class has rejected professional-radio-entertainment, the Juniors will have the finest amateur entertainers in the county. Don Gibson and his College Club Orchestra, featuring three vocalists, will provide the dance music.

The color-scheme will range from brown and black to yellow and red and the side-walls will be decorated in aluminum, costumes and dances, both old and new will be featured.

During the program, freshmen will serve as waiters and pass out cookies, ice cream and lemon-orange ade.

Because of John Hindle's departure, James Campbell with Miss Frances Ziesel of the faculty will be in charge of the prom's activities. Members of the decoration committee, follow: Art work, Louise Cousers; Van Potts, Evelyn Weber and Richard Tompkins; gym work, chairman, Tom Street, Tony Lammi, Howard Krueger, Bob Swisher, Ruth Melsick, Anna Biekman, John Kroehling, Kon Roll, Bob McCarthy, Pat Sacco and June Allen.

Refreshments, Ingeborg Bahiko, Florence Smolley, Eileen Colwell, Lorraine Pfeiffer, Janet Leslie, Marion Hattersley, Frances Romney, Joanne Veefkind and Eileen Egan; hot check, Bill Belliveau, Channing Brown and Fred Spitzoff; chair-up, John Kroehling, Van Potts, Tony Lammi, John Allen, Tom Street and Bob Swisher, and printing, chairman, Joe Kelly, Edward Poetsche, Bill Lanck, John Bohndel and John Petrozollo.

SENT TO FLORIDA
PORT DIX—Harry M. Stewart, recently inducted into the Army, was transferred yesterday to Camp Blanding, Fla., where he has been assigned to the 35th Field Artillery for training.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

Regional P.T.A. Will Hear Dr. A. L. Johnson

Dr. Arthur L. Johnson, county superintendent of schools, will be the principal speaker at the Regional P.T.A. on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the High School. Following the business session, election of officers will take place.

The musical program will be provided by Regional's Glee Clubs who will sing under the direction of William Cook, music instructor. A social hour will be held in the cafeteria.

Council Approves N.Y. Bus Permit

MOUNTAINSIDE—A resolution requesting the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant a permit to the Somerset Bus Company to operate a bus service directly into New York was passed on Tuesday by the Mayor and Council. Councilman Lester Cramer sponsored the resolution.

The bus company reported that it will give one hour service from Plainfield to New York via Westfield, the Roselles and Hillside. The company added that a bus will leave the borough and will meet the New York bus at Hillside. This new system of transportation was brought about by a survey which revealed that 7,000 persons in the Plainfield area were in need of such service.

An ordinance was passed which will regulate the moving of personal property. Persons who move must obtain a permit from the Chief of Police and the application must be made three days before moving. It must contain the name and address of the truckman, name of person or firm moving, and the place from which the property is to be moved and the address of the place to which it is to be transported. Within this three-day period, the tax collector will investigate to see whether the person who is moving has paid his taxes in full. A $200 fine or 90 days in jail is the penalty for those who do not live up to this new ordinance.

Another ordinance to vacate portions of Union avenue, First street and Watchung avenue, was passed. An ordinance regulating the opening and construction of streets was held over until the June meeting.

August O. Rader and son, William Rader, developers in the Birch Hill section, complained that the bond required by the borough was too big.

Building Inspector Herman Honcker reported that 18 permits were issued in the amount of $58,095 for April. Plumbing Inspector Henry Pfeiffer reported collections of $41 and Recorder Albert J. Benninger reported collections amounting to $646 in fines.

Epworth Cabinet To Be Installed

Members of the Suburban Group of Epworth Leagues, representing the Methodist Churches of Irvington, Hillton, Vauxhall, Union, Maplewood, Summit, New Providence and Springfield, will hold installation services on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the local Methodist Church.

Dr. Charles Russell Prewitt, pastor of the Morrow Memorial Church of Maplewood will address the group and present the charge to the new officers. George Swaggy, past president, will also speak.

Upon the installation of the group cabinet, they will install the officers of the local senior Epworth League and they will install the officers of the local intermediate Epworth League.

NEW COUNTY MAPS FREE TO READERS

A limited supply of new 1941 county maps are available to readers at the SUN office, having been provided through the co-operation of the Board of Freeholders and office of the county engineer.

All municipalities are shown in contrasting colors. It is requested that only adults ask for the maps.

CARD PARTY OF D. OF A. TONIGHT

A card party will be sponsored tonight by members of Pride of Battle Hill Council, Daughters of America, in the American Legion Building. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served with Mrs. Helen Pleson and Mrs. Mildred Eckerman in charge of arrangements.

The group will hold a second nomination of officers, prior to the social affair.

Retiring President

DR. WATSON B. MORRIS

Dr. Watson B. Morris of Springfield, retiring president of the Medical Society of New Jersey, will speak this evening at the annual banquet of the New Jersey Hospital Association in Atlantic City.

Dr. Morris, accompanied by Mrs. Morris, will be in attendance at the annual convention of the Medical Society in Atlantic City which will be held for several days of the coming week.

On the second day of the convention, the local physician will be guest of honor at a banquet held in honor of the retiring president.

April Building Totals $78,780

Total operations of buildings, installation of oil and gas burners, and erecting one garage amounted to $78,780 for April, reported Building Inspector Marsh to the Township Committee on Wednesday night. This new addition brings the total operations for the year to $284,457. Eighty-three permits were issued for building purposes thus far in 1941.

Detailed permits during April follow:

Dwellings—Horace Seitz, 2350 Colfax road, $4,000; Lincoln Wood, Brynart avenue, $5,000; W. L. Morrison, two in Salter street, $4,000 each; Walter Becker, Bryant avenue, $5,000; Harrison Construction Company, two in Lewis drive and five in Tower drive, in $15,000 each; Springfield Park, one in Park lane, one in Springfield road, at $5,000 each; and two in Colfax road, at $4,000 each.

Gas burner installations—E. Peemoller, Hillside avenue, $400; Springfield Park, four in Springfield road, one in Park lane, two in Colfax road, at $375 each; W. L. Morrison, 11 Warren avenue, $375.

Oil burner installations—Stephen Windshlag, Dundar road, $225. One car garage—Erwin Frazier, 83 South Maple avenue, $125.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT ROSARY PARTY

Almost 200 members and guests attended a luncheon and card party of the Rosary-Altar Society of St. James' Church Wednesday afternoon in the American Legion Building.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Murray Koornz and Mrs. Wilbur W. Parsell of Springfield. In a drawing held, the lucky ticket was held by Mrs. V. Whelan of Mountainide.

Mrs. Margaret Cobb headed a committee in charge of arrangements for the luncheon and card party.

PLAYHOUSE SEASON OPENS ON JUNE 23

Frank Carrington announces that the Paper Mill Playhouse at Millburn will open its Summer season on June 23, with C. Aubrey Smith, beloved stage and screen star, in Galsworthy's great play "Old English." The Paper Mill Playhouse will open its Summer season featuring guest stars and try-outs of several new plays.

IN LOUISIANA
PORT DIX—Fred B. Peterson of Springfield left Port Dix on Monday by special train for Camp Claiborne, Louisiana, where he will be assigned to the 5th Signal Battalion.

Woman Killed In Automobile Crash

Springfield's first motor vehicle fatality of 1941 occurred on Sunday afternoon at 3:33 o'clock when Mrs. Louise Stahl, 48, of 98 Underwood street, Newark, was injured fatally when the car in which she was riding was struck by another automobile at the intersection of Meisel avenue and Milltown road.

Mrs. Stahl was taken to Overlook Hospital in the township ambulance by Sergeant Albert A. Sarge and was pronounced dead on arrival. She was removed to Brewster's Morgue, Summit, where an autopsy was performed.

Mrs. Stahl was riding with her husband, Fred A. Stahl, 48, when they collided with a vehicle driven by Carroll Franklin, 39, of 14 Cross street, Vauxhall. According to police, Stahl's car was going south in Meisel avenue and was half way across the intersection when struck in the middle by Franklin, who was traveling east in Milltown road.

Hazel Davidson, 31, and Charles Niese, both of 830 South 18th street, Newark, suffered minor injuries. They were passengers in the Stahl car. Niese suffered forehead lacerations while the woman received back injuries and face lacerations.

Charged with reckless operation of an automobile, Franklin was taken to the county jail in default of bail to await Grand Jury action.

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Stahl from Hebecker & Barth Home for Funerals, 971 Clinton avenue, Irvington. Burial took place yesterday in Hollywood Cemetery, Newark.

She was born in Newark and lived all her life there except for a few years in Irvington. Besides her husband, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Meyer of Irvington; four sisters, Mrs. Caroline Stander and Mrs. Tillie Wane of Irvington, Mrs. Anna Rausch of Newark and Mrs. Bertha De Vaul of Oakhurst; and two brothers, Joseph Lehman of Vauxhall, Frank and Charles Lehman of Irvington, and George Lehman of Belmar.

Dancing Recital Set For Tonight

MOUNTAINSIDE—About 50 pupils of the Mountainide School will take part tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium in the seventh annual recital, in the form of tap dancing exhibition. They will also give selections in ballet dancing.

Miss Kay Monahan, instructor, has been training the pupils for this affair since September. The accompanist who will assist Miss Monahan will be Mrs. Alice Laurie of Elizabeth.

Miss Monahan has received able assistance from Mrs. Theodore V. Mundy, Mrs. Paul K. Davis, Mrs. Fred Roeder, Mrs. Richard Oberdahn, Mrs. J. P. C. Peter and Mrs. Wallace Winkler.

To meet the cost, the local Fire Department has generously given financial donations. Tickets for the recital are thirty-five cents.

Park Booklet On Facilities Free

A "Handbook of Recreational Facilities and Activities in the Union County Park System" has been printed and copies are available to readers at the SUN office.

The booklet contains a listing of facilities which provide an opportunity for participation in 60 different types of recreational activities.

In the listing of sports for which there is a charge, such as golf, boating, bathing, trampolining and tennis on clay courts, complete information about the particular fees charged is given. There is also a brief resume of rules and regulations governing the use of Union County parks.

KELLER, VAN RIPER TROTH ANNOUNCED

The engagement of Miss Grace Lorraine Keller, daughter of Police Commissioner and Mrs. Peter J. Keller of Kathryn street, Clark Township, to William Charles Van Ripper of 1 Remer avenue, was announced Sunday at a birthday party for Miss Keller at the home of her parents. Mr. Van Ripper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Van Ripper. Miss Keller and Mr. Van Ripper were graduated from Regional High School and Miss Keller is employed as manager of Best Cleaners, Inc. of Cranford.

Springfield Scout Campaign Exceeds Goal, Tops County

25-Year-Award To Local Agent

ROBERT S. BUNNELL

Robert S. Bunnell, well-known local real estate and insurance agent, of the firm of Bunnell Bros., Inc., 4 Plover avenue, has been presented with an engraved gold wrist watch by the Niagara Fire Insurance Company in token of more than 25 years' representation with the concern.

The watch was presented by Charles C. Lyon, manager of the Newark Niagara office and accompanied by a letter from President Bernard M. Culver, which said: "It is with great pleasure that I and my association welcome you into the 'Old Guard'—that association of local agents and company employees who have been connected with—the companies of the America Fire Group for over twenty-five years.

"Our company has grown and prospered greatly during the period of your association with us, and we wish to acknowledge your contribution to this success.

"We thank you for your loyalty and sincerely trust that your splendid representation of this company will continue for many years to come."

Robert French Society Plans Picnic Tomorrow

The Rev. Dr. George A. Liggett, pastor of the Presbyterian Church and State chaplain of the S. A. R., will be among the several speakers at the Robert French Society, C. A. R., annual State Spring picnic tomorrow at the Presbyterian Church.

Other speakers at the all-day session will include the new president general of the D. A. R., Mrs. William T. Pouch of New York, former National president of the C. A. R., and Miss Helen Wright of Jersey City, State president of C. A. R.

Colonel Elias Dayton Chapter of Short Hills will be co-hostess and will decorate the S. A. R. marker in the Revolutionary cemetery, opposite the church.

The church will be decorated for this special affair by Beacon Fire Chapter, D. A. R., of Summit. The decoration chairman is Mrs. James S. Cawley of Summit, State registrar of C. A. R.

The Union County Park Commission will assist the 250 who are expected to attend, with an afternoon program at Echo Lake Park, which will complete the ceremonies.

SENIORS SELECTED GRADUATION THEME

"Education For Common Defense" has been selected by the senior class of Regional High School as the subject for the commencement program to be held next month.

This thought will be extended in choric reading, divided into three parts, Heritage Of The Class, The Challenge Of '41, and The Class Of '41 Takes Stock. The part will be interpreted by dialogue, pantomime and music. The symbolism of the program will draw upon ancient and modern Greece and upon the discovery and progress of America. The numbers in the year 1941 may be changed around to form different dates in history and the relationship between these dates will be shown.

Students working on this program are under the direction of Robert Poppendick and James Campbell, in coordination with all the other departments in the school.

SERVICES SUNDAY

The Sunday afternoon service at the Branch Mills Gospel Chapel, South Springfield avenue, near the East entrance of Echo Lake Park, will be held at 3 o'clock. The service will be in charge of the Young Peoples' fellowship of the Cranford Gospel Tabernacle. The program will consist of instrumental numbers, vocal selections and a gospel message. The public is welcomed.

Committee Will Receive Report Of Having Gone Over Top

The general committee of the 1941 Municipal Boy Scout Campaign will meet tonight to hear a report that Springfield will exceed its $800 goal, the first and only municipality in Union County to have thus far attained that distinction.

Mayor Wilbur M. Selander, general honorary chairman, will preside, assisted by Ebert B. Johnson, vice-chairman.

It is believed that the total local collections will rise slightly above the goal after final returns are completed tonight.

The list of contributions acknowledged this week follows:

John Schaffernoth, J. F. Anderson, F. & F. Nurseries, Springfield Wine & Liquor Store, Phillips' Confectionery, Morris Auto Motor Car Co., E. E. Clayton, Dr. D. H. Perella, Fuel Sales Corp., Arthur H. Lennox, Dr. William G. Huff, Bunnell Bros. Inc., Pinkava's Garage, H. V. Olickenger, Fred Kosches, Dr. Watson B. Morris, Springfield Garage, Prince & Ganska, J. WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Valuable Oil Supplies of Middle East Result in Shift of War Scene to Iraq, But 'Battle of Atlantic' Still Remains As Most Important Phase of Conflict

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

When the British put forth an effort to hold the Iraq oil wells by force they faced cavalrymen like these. These Iraqi troops make an impressive sight in parade but Iraq asked Germany for heavy mechanized forces to aid in keeping the British from complete control of the highly valued oil fields.

(See Below: WAR—Changed Scene)

WAR: Changed Scene

Although nothing in the European war was a certainty except its uncertainty, it seemed reasonably likely that the attempted Axis pincer move against Suez via north Africa and the Middle East would change the vital scene of the war to that locality.

That Suez eventually would fall to the German-Italian forces was deemed a likelihood, though the failure of this campaign would conversely mean a distinct turn of the tide in British favor.

Even before the outset of the campaign, when the British had concluded the first move into Iraq, the British ministry of information attempted to prepare the public for an adverse outcome by letting it be known that even the fall of Suez would not be fatal to the British cause.

Indeed, the propaganda articles pointed to Alexandria as a much more vital spot in the Mediterranean than Suez, but how this helped when Alexandria was as much of an Axis objective as Suez was a little difficult to see.

Perhaps it was that the British thought they could hold out at Alexandria after Suez had fallen, thus naming the objectives in chronological order.

All this was considerably in the future, however, for the British attempted to "jump the gun" as they had at Salonika and Piraeus, by landing an expeditionary force in Iraq. There was one vital difference, however, that in Iraq they were meeting an unfriendly regime, whereas in Greece the landing was welcomed, as the Greeks already were at war with the Axis.

Within a few days after the landing from the Persian gulf the British found themselves virtually at war with Arabia, though the Iraq army was only 20,000 regularly armed and untrained men. But the government which had got its power through a Nazi-inspired coup d'etat, ordered all citizens to grab whatever arms they had and to wage a holy war against invading England.

Objective

Vital objective of the British was to prevent damage or seizure on the part of the Arabs of the vital Mosul oil fields, and the British drive was aimed particularly at Kirkuk, the start of the pipeline from the Mosul fields which supplied airplanes and fuel for the Mediterranean forces.

However, though the Arabs were conceded little chance to stand up to the British attackers, they were on the ground, and even as they started shelling British troops and the Habbaniyah air field, and even as they started appeals to Germany for help, thus laying the groundwork for the landing of a German expeditionary force, Arabs seized the Kirkuk end of the pipeline, and were reported to be flooding the oil fields. It could not be estimated how much damage was being done, but though the pipeline seizure was pleasing to the Germans, a serious sabotage of the oil fields would prove embarrassing to Germany, though much more to the British.

For the Germans stood even more in need of oil than the British. The latter could get oil from other sources, notably from the United States, but one of Germany's secondary objectives in the Near East was this same group of oil wells. Of course, if the German drive southward should succeed, the Haifa end of the pipeline would fall as well as the Kirkuk end, not to mention the oil field itself.

Formula

None doubted that Germany would hold to this so far winding formula of warfare and leave the Arabs largely to their fate until the planned advance had been thoroughly worked out. This was the method employed in northern Africa, where the Germans let the Italians take their beating until they were driven back to Tripoli.

Then the forces of the Reich crossed the Mediterranean, largely in Italian ships, landed on the north African coast, and promptly and with high speed drove the British back on their heels, taking everything that the Italians had lost in a matter of weeks, where it had taken the British months.

This was the western end of the pincers which was aimed at Alexandria, Egypt and Suez, with the move of the eastern end, which started with the Greek campaign and the general Balkan infiltration, expected to start as soon as the proper diplomatic and military preparation was finished.

Many believed the Germans would have to hurry this time, for some observers reported the Russians to be drawing troops from the eastern part of the country, and beginning to concentrate them in central Russia.

This might mean two things, either a protective movement, or an effort to beat the Germans to the Near-Eastern punch and to go into the Eurasian territory themselves, perhaps through Persia. There was an outside possibility that Russia, however, might content herself with a Persian grab, and aim toward British India.

Soviet Upset

The Soviet was considerably upset, it was true, by the German entry into England, was more upset by the infiltration into Bulgaria; and still more bothered by the reports from Turkey that the Turks were planning to follow the lead of all Balkan countries, except Jugoslavia and Greece, and permit the Germans to have their will unchecked.

Should the Russians actually jump actively over to the British side of the war, which was deemed extremely unlikely until the British had imparted a serious defeat to the Axis, then the whole complexion of things would be changed and Italy and Germany would find themselves with a real problem on their hands.

Closest observers of the war believed that even with all of this the British had a chance to win if they could definitely win the battle of the Atlantic; could definitely resume the unchallenged mastery of the seas; could receive from the United States "all-out" aid including active entry into the war; and could repel an invasion of the British Isles themselves.

Those in touch with the Washington scene believed this country much closer to being actually in the war, with some actually predicting that our entry was no further off than 60 days.

HIGHLIGHTS... in Defense News

The state department granted unlimited licenses to the British Iron & Steel corporation and the British purchasing commission under which customs collectors are authorized to accept shipments of specified products, without the presentation of license forms, going to British New Guinea, British North Borneo, Federated Malay States, Unfederated Malay States, Hongkong, Oceania, Papua, and Sarawak.

OPM Director of Priorities Statistics put into effect blanket priority ratings—enabling manufacturers of airplane frames, engines, and propellers to obtain needed materials "to speed production of military airplanes for the United States and Great Britain." Mr. Stettinius also announced immediate application to 18 vital defense metals of a system of inventory controls designed to prevent excess stocks in industry.

Tax Testimony

Here is Edward A. O'Neal, American Farm Bureau federation president, as he testified before the House Ways and Means committee on the subject of national defense taxes. He told the committee that the public should be made aware that their taxes are for national defense. He contended that plans to increase taxes on tobacco, gasoline and other products, would tend to reduce the money that could be spent for farm products.

CONVOY: Pre-War Issue

The question of conveying materials to Britain by American warships, and the sending of such materials in American flag ships to the British Middle-East command was rapidly becoming the pre-eminent issue before the public.

The isolationists, naturally, were condemning conveying as an act of war, and as a breach of President Roosevelt's campaign promise to confine military and naval service to "this hemisphere."

At first observers believed the question was scheduled to die in the foreign affairs committee debate in the senate, especially after the defeat of the Tobey resolution in committee by a 13-10 vote. The closeness of this vote, however, gave administration opponents new courage, apparently, for almost immediately there was a quantity of stormy material on the front pages all surrounding the question of convoys.

Some senators and some cabinet officers openly favored conveying; the President opposed the Red sea as far as Suez to American vessels carrying aid to democracies; and American warships were unofficially reported to be in waters immediately adjacent to Singapore.

Biggest sensation had been sprung earlier by Senators Tobey and Nye when they claimed to have "inside information" that complete conveying already had begun. All forces admitted that the President had the power, as commander-in-chief of the navy, to order conveying, in fact to order navy ships to carry out any of his commands.

The question as put to the President: "The President did not answer but the categorical denial by Secretary Hull and Admiral Stark satisfied most people, including all friends of the administration, that the "actual conveying" rumor was only that and nothing more, especially when neither Nye nor Tobey could quote chapter or verse as to their information source.

However, all these statements sprang back into prominence when of all places Vichy walked into the controversy by stating that 26 American ships "loaded to the gunnels" with munitions assigned to the British Middle East command and conveyed by American warships, had arrived at Suez.

The navy instantly issued at least a partial denial. But the navy denied confined itself to the statement that "no United States ships are engaged in convey duty."

U. S. ENTRY: Into Conflict?

Just as all developments brought one vital question more nearly to the fore, the question of whether or not America actually was to enter the war on the side of the British, the issue, oddly enough, was being brought more and more to a head by the America First Committee.

This group now was finding Charles A. Lindbergh its natural leader following his dramatic resignation from his reserve colonelcy in the air force, and especially after his subsequent utterances, particularly his St. Louis address, which was given verbatim coverage in most newspapers that were opposed to the Roosevelt-forgoing policy, and in all large newspapers whether opposed to Roosevelt or not.

Whether it was intentional or not, the anti-interventionists were rapidly forcing the issue to where most observers believed "a showdown was not far distant.

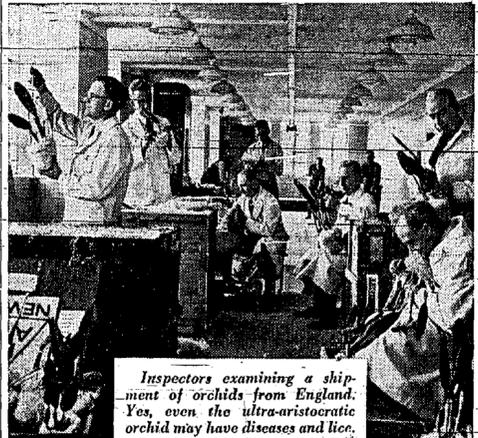

While in this country we do not have the "responsible ministry" system of England such as brought Churchill to ask a "vote of confidence," the lack of which would automatically put him out of office, it was obvious that the Roosevelt foreign policy would continue to be carried to its final objective of all aid to England unless congress forced a major policy change.

Spotting Saboteurs

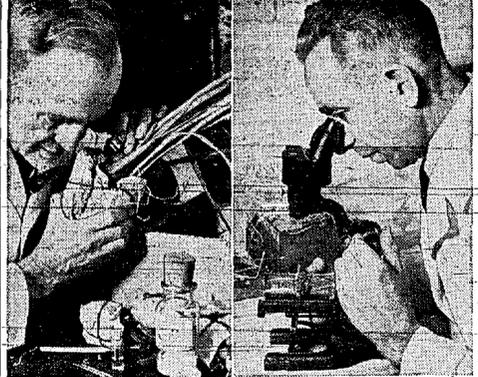

Plant parasites and diseases which come to America from foreign lands cost Uncle Sam about 3 billions per year. But the U. S. is busy trying to stop these saboteurs. A chain of plant quarantine stations has been established around our borders where incoming plants must pass rigid inspections. These photos take you to one of these "agricultural Ellis Islands" at Hoboken, N. J.

MEDITERRANEAN KEY

Key to the fateful battle of the Mediterranean which is about to burst in full fury is not the Suez canal, but Britain's great naval base at Alexandria, 125 miles west of the canal entrance.

The loss of Alexandria would deprive the British of their key "bridgehead" in northern Africa and ensure Axis domination of the eastern Mediterranean.

Actually, the Suez canal itself has been of little value to the British for months. It went out of use as the so-called "life-line of the empire" when the Axis air attack that severely damaged the air carrier-Ilustrious proved it was suicidal to attempt to convey shipping through the long and narrow waterway.

Since then the Mediterranean has been a "no man's land" for all the belligerents. While 2,000 miles in length, its narrow width at certain places has made it extremely hazardous for both sides, and the British have been routing their shipping around the Cape of Good Hope for some time.

Loss of the Mediterranean would, of course, be a serious blow to the British; but it would by no means end the war or mean victory for the Axis. With her fleet intact, Britain would still be able to carry the fight to Hitler and Mussolini.

MACHINE TOOLS

Chief reason behind the big curtailment in auto production was the release of urgently needed machine tools for defense. The machine tool bottleneck could be broken overnight if all the machine tools owned by the motor industry were turned to the making of planes, tanks and other armament.

Defense experts estimate that there are around 1,500,000 machine tools in the U. S., of which more than half are in plants making motor vehicles or parts for them, and in the allied metal fabricating industry. The list includes grinders, milling machines, lathes, boring machines, presses, gear cutters, drillers, and shapers, all vital in the production of defense equipment.

New output of machine tools is now speeding at the rate of 14,000 a month. This is a spectacular achievement and a great tribute to the industry. But it is only a drop in the bucket compared to the 750,000 machine tools already possessed by the auto and metal fabricating industries, which army men say would increase defense production to full flow immediately if pooled and devoted entirely to this purpose.

HIDDEN COLLEAGUE

A stocky, gray-haired man, flanked by a group of sightseers, approached a Capitol policeman and asked directions to the office of Sen. Hiram Johnson of California.

Tucked away in an obscure corner of the north side of the Capitol where tourists never tread, Johnson's office is one of the hardest to find in the great structure. "I'll do my best to explain how to get there," said the policeman. "Are you a tourist?" "No," grinned the inquirer, "I'm the other senator from California, Senator Downey."

FERRY SCHOOL

Everybody is wondering how the swarms of fighting planes which U. S. factories will produce for the British in the next 12 months will be delivered overseas. The answer, for the big ships, is that they will be flown across—and in such great numbers that the British are setting up a special pilot training school for that purpose, in the United States.

The school will give an intensive refresher and training course to volunteer pilots to qualify them for "ferrying" the big bombers across the Atlantic.

The volunteers may be British, Canadian, or American. However, it is expected that the largest numbers will be Americans. The British can use 250 of them.

GOOD NEIGHBOR PILOTS

Another "Good Neighbor" gesture will soon be made to our immediate neighbor to the south, Mexico. The state department will offer pilot-training courses to a number of Mexican youths in the United States.

Initiator of the idea was Vice President Henry Wallace. When he visited Mexico last year, one of the problems discussed was the shortage of aviators in the Mexican army. Wallace was told that Mexico wanted to undertake a pilot-training program similar to that in the United States, but lacked planes and instructors.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Leading economists rate the industrial and financial surveys completed by the O'Mahoney monopoly committee as the most valuable source material on the economy of the country ever compiled.

Department of agriculture is recommending a new plant to hold soil in the gullies—but they wish the Japanese would tell how to produce the seed. Known as Kudzu, it is one of the plant secrets of Japan. It serves not only as a soil binder but also as a food, surpassing alfalfa.

Opal Once 'Lucky'

The opal is the only gem that has had its "luck" changed by a work of fiction. It was worn as a good-luck charm until Sir Walter Scott, in his "Anne of Geierstein," introduced it as an unlucky stone, inviting misfortune and unhappiness to the owner. Since that time the gem has been branded as unlucky, and superstitious people have refused to wear it.

The Lamp in the Valley

By ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

THE STORY SO FAR

Sidney Lander, mining engineer, is engaged to Barbara Trumbull, but apparently has fallen in love with Carol Coburn, Matanuska school teacher. Salaria Bryson, one of her pupils, a big outdoor girl, is also in love with him.

Carol's father died in Alaska with an unproven claim which Trumbull is contesting. Lander quits his employ, becomes field manager for the Matanuska Valley project. Sock-Eye Schlupp, an old sourdough, and others, are skeptical of the project's success. Eric (the Red) Erickson has been stirring discord among the workers. At last, too, a school is put up. Salaria discusses Sidney with Carol. Salaria has no idea Carol is interested in him.

INSTALLMENT XIV

She said it without enthusiasm. And I, in turn, had my suspicions. She was hunching, not unlike myself, for something beyond the knowledge that comes out of books.

comers were both harder to manage and more exciting in their demands. They arrived well fed and well clothed, their lunchboxes stuffed with Commissary food. They were eyed with envy by the native-born children, who probably saw an orange only at Christmas. But these words of Uncle Sam came carrying two or three oranges, day by day. Sometimes they had grapefruit and chocolate bars and stove cakes. The supply proved unlimited, they liked to have a pitched battle with those comestibles.

"Love is never wasted," I said, reaching for solid ground in that copybook maxim.

"After a final overcheck barrage of oranges I had to make it a rule that no Project child was to bring more than one orange into the classroom. It gave me an unpleasant feeling just under the fifth rib to see poor little Olle Eckstrom rummaging through that waste, for a half-eaten orange or two, to come to his sister Frieda, who couldn't come to school until her mother was able to get to Anchorage to buy her a pair of shoes. I began to realize that you can hurt people by too much help.

"Then why," she demanded, "does a silk-weaver in and washed-out shearer who ain't got the guts to stick to his side tie up a real man like Sid Lander? Why should she harpoon him for life and then back-trail the States and reckon he's safe among us walrus-eaters?"

"I suppose it's because he's a man of honor," I finally affirmed.

I gravely considered that double-barreled question.

"I suppose it's because he's a man of honor," I finally affirmed.

"Honor wouldn't cut much ice," she said over her shoulder. "If I was the blubber-cater he was pickin' out, if he wanted a woman around his wickup as much as he wants this cock-eyed colony on the map," she abandonedly proclaimed, "he'd damned soon see my shoe-socks under his butt ralls!"

"I kept telling myself, after that talk with Salaria, that there was something dignifying in the job of teaching, in molding the minds of the young, in bringing light into the dark places of the world. I was the lamp in the valley."

But the lamp, plainly, stood in need of some new oil. And full as my days were, I'd a feeling that something important in life was forever slipping around the corner before I could quite catch up with it. Yet all I could do, I argued with myself, was to lighten my belt and carry on. I'd no intention of turning into a grumbler. These two hundred families, I maintained, would eventually do for Alaska what the covered wagons did for the Coast States, seventy long years ago. Or even what the Pilgrim Fathers did for New England.

"I was singing as I went to the road with my water pail one morning."

Yet construction lagged because wrong material had been sent in and the workers wouldn't work. Some of the misfits and trouble-makers had already been sent back to the States, to spread the news of the colony's collapse. Some of the others imposed on the Commissary and wolfed more than their share of the supplies. Some growled in secret and some drew up a daily round-robin of complaints. Others went to Russia and got drunk. And the least literate of the women-folk deplored the rawness of the country that had betrayed them.

"Why avoid me, Moon of my Delight?"

In a city of tents, where privacy was unknown, I saw things and heard things that at first touched me with horror: love-making with all the candor of the kennel, family fights echoing through thin walls of canvas, the moans of child-birth mixed with the strains of a mouth-organ, a loose woman with a canine cluster of idlers about her, stripped men bathing openly in wash-tubs, mothers in sunny corners combing lice from their children's hair, girls jeered at as they slipped into an unscrupled outhouse, stained sheets and flimsy underweear flapping on clotheslines, farm-stock sneezing to the blologic ure under one's very nose, profanity and praying side by side, grossness and greediness, empty cans and offal, crying babies and thumping banjos.

"I made no response to that. Instead, I turned and called to Olle, who quickened his pace as he caught sight of me. My little Swedish friend was no Gollath, but even his diminutive figure meant an acceptable ally along that lonely road."

Ericson, watching that figure in his bibbed overalls, essayed an ironic gesture of farewell and moved on down the road.

"I made no response to that. Instead, I turned and called to Olle, who quickened his pace as he caught sight of me. My little Swedish friend was no Gollath, but even his diminutive figure meant an acceptable ally along that lonely road."

CHAPTER XVIII

Lander listened, with a quiet, cold eye, as I told him what I could of Olle's story. Instead of venturing my comment on the situation he asked me if John Trumbull had been in touch with me during the last few days. When I informed him to the contrary he led me over to his truck, saying he'd be glad to drop me at my school door.

"But you can't tell how this will turn out," I argued, "and it's going to be dangerous I want to be around."

"That's just when I don't want you around," he said. "You've had trouble enough in this valley."

"But it may mean danger for you," I persisted.

On glasses locked, for a moment, and I could see a warmer light well up in his eyes. His brief laugh was both cool and self-confident.

But when we stopped at Palmer and he had a quiet look over the towering supply piles along the siding there his face took on a new seriousness.

"For hidden under a layer of empty hemp bales, between two piles of pine flooring, he found a five-gallon can of gasoline. The contents of this can he quietly emptied into his truck tank. Then, after a moment's thought, he filled the can with water. Making sure his movements were unobserved, he restored the cap to the can and re-stored the can to its hiding place under the hemp bales.

My pupils didn't get the attention they should have that day. There was many a flicker, before the afternoon wore away, in the lamp of learning.

I was still in my classroom, after the big yellow bus had carried away the last of the children, when Sock-Eye appeared in the doorway.

"I got a hand at geography," he said as his beaklike eyes blinked up at my wall map. "But I've got me a homemade chart here I'm needin' a mess o' help on."

He produced a soiled and rumpled sheet of paper diversified with many pencil-markings and placed it on the desk top in front of me.

Assortment of Frills, Jabots to Highlight Summer Fashions

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FRILLS, frills, frills! The call for frills and jabots and cascades of sheer loveliness as costume adornment resounds throughout all fashion circles this season.

Therefore, if you like to do dainty handwork, meet opportunity at your door. Make your own frills, for, as every woman knows, nothing can add the exquisite touch as well as a bit of fine needlework, whether it be in hand-rolled hems, doff hemstitching or wide hand-run laces.

It is almost unbelievable what a wonderful assortment of frills can be made from a yard or so of crisp, snowy organdy, exquisitely sheer handkerchief linen or other dainty fabrics.

Take a look at the collection of frilly items here illustrated. By devoting spare moments to the fascinating pastime of handrolling hems, handmaking wafers and so on, you can very easily fashion a wardrobe of fashionable frills. Being meticulously hand-made, they will launder perfectly.

The spotlight of fashion is on sheer lingerie yokes, either in collar form or sewed into the dress as an actual yoke top. It does not take long to hand-make a yoke. Like the one pictured in the circle in the upper left corner, you can edge it with a ruffle of self-organdy or lace. You really should have at least one big yoke collar in your collection.

A dramatic collar and cuff set, such as the girl scented is wearing, is almost indispensable when it comes to accenting a smart or black dress. Note the new "top-out" plunging neckline of the collar. The collar is lined with self-organdy. Cut duplicates, seam the wide rill in between, then turn and press and you will have no fraying edges. You can either hemstitch the rill or finish with a tiny rolled hem. Make the rill very full so that it will fall in sprightly ripples, as pictured. The same working directions apply to the cuffs. You can launder these collar and cuffs as often as you wish, and they will come out like new.

Simple indeed but very effective is the organdy frill worn demurely about a round smocking neckline, as sketched. Emphasize the frilly effect with ruffling on the sleeves, as illustrated in the picture.

Bolero jackets take on a new look this season when they are collared with a frilled ruff, made of gleaming white organdy that goes rippling down each side of the front opening as the sketch here portrays.

With scraps of the organdy left over, make yourself a scalloped collar with a wide frilled ruffle as suggested in the sketch.

Perhaps the most intriguing news of all is the frilled lingerie cascade that travels from the neckline to the hemline of the now-so-fashionable slim princess frock. The sketch in the group pictures the idea. To get the best results, cut the ruffling on circular lines, and, if you finish the edge with a hand-rolled hem you will be delighted with the sheer loveliness of this cascade that falls from a sailor collar of the organdy on down to the very hemline of the dress.

FIRST-AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger B. Whitman

(By Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Building a Cottage. QUESTION: I am planning to build a small cottage, doing all the work myself. Starting now, I plan that in two months I can finish the externals, and complete the interior at leisure. Does this seem too short? My idea is a one-room cottage, with a garage, altogether about 17 by 25 feet. Can you suggest a list of books containing instructions for the different trades that will carry me through to the end of the project?

ANSWER: If you have had no experience in building, you are tackling a job that is bigger than I think you realize. I greatly doubt if two months would be enough for the exterior. For information on concrete, write to the Portland Cement Association, 347 Madison Avenue, New York City. The National Lumber Manufacturers Association, Washington, D. C., has a very good pamphlet on the details of house framing. The large mail order houses issue instructions on plumbing and wiring. You should visit every house under construction that you can find, to see how the different materials are being put together. Before you start, you should be sure that the local building authorities approve of your plan and will let you go ahead.

New Shingles Over Old. QUESTION: Should old wood shingles be removed before putting new ones on top? Are shingles that come in strips as satisfactory as single shingles?

ANSWER: New shingles should go on top of the old, not only to save the cost of tearing off and clearing up the mess, but for the advantage of a roof with double thickness. Strip shingles are satisfactory, and should cost less in labor to apply.

Buying Furniture. QUESTION: Where can I get information on what an inexperienced buyer of furniture should look for when he's out to get a bedroom set?

ANSWER: Much of the information you need is contained in a government bulletin entitled "Furniture Selection," Report No. 18, of the National Committee on Wood Utilization. Write to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, enclosing 10 cents in coin.

House Painting. QUESTION: Which is the better time, spring or fall, to have a house painted?

ANSWER: A house should be painted during a dry spell, and at a time when the thermometer is at 50 degrees or higher; however, there should be no painting during really hot weather. In spring, fresh paint is likely to be marred by flying insects, which are not so likely to be on hand in the fall.

Cracked Marble Floor. QUESTION: How can I fill in or repair marble floors of halls four feet wide? In one case one side has dropped a little. We cannot put in a new floor.

ANSWER: The marble floor should be taken up and replaced. A new bed of cement can be put down that will bring the flooring to its proper level and will take up the crack. To a good floor man the job should be simple.

Defective Oil Burners. QUESTION: Each of the burners in my range burner works perfectly by itself, but when both are on, one of them flouts. What can I do about it?

ANSWER: As there may be any one of several causes, your surest course is to report the case to the store where you bought the burner, or to the manufacturer. During the trouble may need an examination by a service man.

Replastering. QUESTION: We are doing some remodeling, and need to replaster several spaces about four by eight feet. What is mixed with the lime for a finishing coat, and in what proportion?

ANSWER: You can get ready mixed plaster from a dealer in mason materials, and will find it more satisfactory than a mixture to be made at home.

Oily Rags. AFTER using oily rags, it should be borne in mind that they may become a cause of spontaneous combustion. Oily rags should not be thrown into a corner or shut up in a closet; for they may develop enough heat to flame. After using, they should either be hung up in the open air where they can dry without developing heat, or else destroyed by burning.

Grease-Spattered Wall. QUESTION: After removing grease splattered wallpaper, how should a kitchen wall be treated so that grease will not appear on new paper?

ANSWER: Wash the wall with a solution of washing soda in water, about half a pound to the gallon. Follow by rinsing with clear water, and allow to dry before papering.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ROBERT TAYLOR has very rarely visited his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, on a motion picture set, but he broke the rule when she was working in "The Great Man's Lady" (originally titled "Pioneer Woman") and watched her working with Brian Donlevy.

A few days before, Donlevy had been shooting Taylor for the final scenes in "Billy the Kid." Now that "Billy the Kid" is finished a quinary has arisen. In the Metro script, Billy was left-handed, so Taylor practiced for several months drawing his gun from the holster with his left hand. Then came word from William S. Hart and Col. Archibald, both familiar with the desperado's character, that he used his right hand. Looks as if the argument never would be settled.

Anne Shirley, who appeared in her first picture when she was three, has a word of advice for mothers who want their children to become movie actors. She's been working with a series of youngsters in "West Point Widow"—five of them, in all, because the babies behaved so badly that substitutes had to be used. Miss Shirley thinks it's a great mistake to have a child learn to do imitations and tap dancing and all that sort of thing; an attractive, intelligent child with acting ability needs to do just one thing, says she—obey the director.

Walter Abel had visitors on his set a while ago who rattled him completely. He was doing a scene with Paulette Goddard for Paramount's "Hold Back the Dawn," in a Mexican border town set. The Abel sons, aged 11 and 9, respectively, had been studying about Mexico in school, and wanted to see the set. It interested them more than their first sight of their father at work. Abel finally had to ask Director Mitchell Leisen to shoot the scene again, on a closed set this time; his sons made him nervous.

Joel McCrea took a short-temper when he finished his work in the Stanwyck picture; went to New Mexico to see some men about some cows. He has enlarged his Ventura county ranch from 1,000 to 1,500 acres, and all that extra grazing space has to have customers.

Constance Moore, feminine lead in "I Wanted Wings," now is determined to earn wings of her own. All that flying in the picture made her yearn to do it too—and she ought to be able to manage it easily, for her husband, Johnny Macchillo, is a licensed pilot. Her close friends, Margaret Sullivan and Olivia de Havilland, are urging her on; they both fly, and love it. Constance threatens to take to the air any day now.

Columbia has finally signed all the players who will be seen in the new series of pictures based on the "Tillie Taylor" comic strip. Kay Harris, one of Hollywood's Cinderella girls, gets the lead; others in the cast are Daphne Pollard, William Tracy, George Watts, Jack Arnold and Danny Burdick.

The release by RKO of Walt Disney's "The Reluctant Dragon" marks Disney's entrance into a brand new field; the picture combines both "live-action" photography and animated pictures. The locale is the Disney studio, and Robert Benchley is the star.

Maureen O'Sullivan paused in New York with her baby son, on the way from a visit with her husband—he's stationed in Bermuda—back to Hollywood. Metro will co-star her in a new Tarzan picture with Johnny Weissmuller—the first Tarzan in three years.

The Court of Missing Heirs has located 71 heirs in 69 weeks of broadcasting—and the value of the estates returned to the rightful heirs amounts

Voters Reminded Of Registration

Voters should check whether or not they are permanently registered and have received notification cards. Township Clerk Robert D. Treat pointed out this week.

There has been a negligence on the part of many local voters who fail to realize that since January 1, Springfield has been under permanent registration. Thus, if they failed to be registered at last year's general election when permanent listings were taken, they may find themselves unable to cast their ballots this year.

Voters must be registered 30 days prior to any election. Township Clerk Treat will be available at his office on the second floor of the Municipal Building any Monday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock to register voters. Those who wish to register at the office of the Board of Elections, basement in the Courthouse, Elizabeth, may also do so.

With a BENDIX Laundromatic Home Laundry

ANY FEW SPARE MINUTES IS Washday!

CLEAN, SWEET, FRESH, Fluffy CLOTHES

At the Flip of Your Finger!

Shorten "washday" into the few minutes it takes to put in dry, solid clothes and set a dial. Eliminate the dreary toil of bending over set-tubs, lifting heavy, soggy clothes, sloshing your hands in soap water. Stop doing the work a Bendix can do at the command of a finger. For a Bendix Laundromatic Home Laundry is no ordinary washing machine. It's automatic — washing, rinsing, damp-drying your clothes without attention once you've set the control dial!

THIS DIAL DOES ALL THE WORK!

WASHES—Automatically lifts and drops clothes through suds, scrubbing them gently by a "tumble" action.

RINSES THREE SEPARATE TIMES—Clothes are automatically rinsed 3 times in clean, fresh water—flushing out all dirt.

DAMP-DRIES—Clothes are whirled damp-dry automatically—ready for hanging on the line.

CLEANS AND STOPS ITSELF—The dial automatically flushes out the Bendix—and shuts it off.

IMAGINE DOING A WEEK'S WASH WITH ONE FINGER!

Your work is over when you set the dial. You can be sure of clean, sanitary clothes—washed at home, where they belong! You're free to relax—to tend to the children—to enjoy yourself. And when washday is done, you're not "done in." You're fresh and radiant—eager to join your husband or the children for an evening of fun!

DISCUSSIONS A STUDY OF RECORDS By NORMAN W. MARKS

In answer to the many requests received inquiring about the music heard in the moving picture, "The Great Lie," we list it as Tschelkowsky's "Concerto in E Flat Minor." Fortunately there is a very fine recording of this concerto played by Arthur Rubinstein and the London Symphony Orchestra, conducted by John Barbirolli...

For some time, now we have wanted to center your attention on what we believe to be one of the most unusual symphonies ever written. Rachmaninoff's "Symphony No. 2 in E Minor" was written during the composer's residence in Dresden in 1905-07. For his efforts he was awarded the Glinka Prize of 1,000 rubles in December, 1908. The music was highly acclaimed and then, forgotten...

This caused Rachmaninoff great heartache and grief for he felt that his music was not loved and appreciated. Many years passed before this symphony was again played but at this time great shouts of greatness were heard. It was like a re-birth of something grand and beautiful.

Although the composer indicated no definite program for the "E Minor" Symphony, its prevailing darkness, its threatening chords, the oppressive groans that swell to greatness and then subside to a thrilling sweetness, spell the thought of relentless hands of fate and premonition of death. Even when the music rises to heights of ecstasy, foreboding moods penetrate with dull yearnings and cast a shadow across its exuberant brightness. Recorded for Victor, Album M 239, by Eugene Ormandy and the Minneapolis Symphony, six records, 12 sides, $6.50. Dr. Ormandy has captured the entire mood of the music and has most ably conducted. The recording is clear-cut and pure. There is nothing left to be desired in this great performance.

Aside to "R. A." The records that you seek are "Let's Get Away From It All" and "Love Lies" both by Tommy Dorsey on Victor No. 27377 and 26678.

(Mr. Marks will answer any inquiry from readers pertaining to the field of records. A self-addressed stamped envelope to the writer, care of the SUN, will bring a prompt reply.)

COMMENCEMENT TIME

You can't believe it, can you? Suse is graduating from high school!

In between putting the final stitches on her grand dress and entertaining visiting friends and relatives, are you going to try to find time to give her a party?

Please do. To her, it's a very important time, and she'll undoubtedly remember the gang's "last real get-together" for the rest of her life.

Why not a buffet supper? What with your ragging Suse elsewhere, you might play up the patriotic theme in decorations, refreshments and entertainment.

Use a white tablecloth, dotted with red and blue stars, and matching napkins—they're inexpensive and colorful. To top this off, use a trio of star-shaped red, white and blue candles for a centerpiece.

It won't be necessary for you to do much, except, of course, prepare the food. Games and chatter will fill up the evening. But remember that you have as guests youngsters with appetites. They like second helpings.

Serve an appetizer, one hot dish, plenty of salad-and-hot-rolls; more cake or ice cream than you think you will possibly need, and flatter their sense of sophistication by offering second cups of coffee.

A fortune telling cake is always fun when the crowd is young and merry. You can write fortunes on slips of paper, roll them and wrap them in bits of waxed paper, and put them in the cake after it is baked. Another idea is to put in a little trinket for each guest—an engagement ring and a wedding ring, to forecast the first engagement and the first marriage; a key for happiness; a beam for industry; a key soldier and so forth. You can buy these favors at the ten-cent store.

*Good Fortune Cake.

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or other shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks, well beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Double the recipe to make three 10-inch layers. Spread chocolate maple frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

LYNN SAYS:

Games may or may not be the type of entertainment your crowd will enjoy. Just in case—here are a few suggestions:

As soon as guests arrive, they receive a card with the name of a food printed on it. Each player must then find someone with that card with the name that combines with the name on his own card. Suggested names are liver and bacon; apple pie and cheese; sauerkraut and wieners; ham and eggs; bread and butter; doughnuts and coffee; steak and onions; hot dogs and mustard. This game may be used in choosing supper partners.

Sardine—Some guest is chosen to be "It." It is given five minutes to hide in a spot large enough to hold several people. At the end of five minutes everyone else goes in search of "It." When one guest finds "It" he hides in the same spot and before long the hiding place is packed. The first person unable to squeeze in is "It."

Portlight

OF GRANLAND RICE

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.—They were discussing Joe Gordon's future as a first baseman. I was sitting in the stands with Joe Tinker at the time—Tinker of the old Cubs—"Tinker to Evers to Chance" fame. "Gordon can't miss," Joe said. "He's a natural ball player. He is fast on his feet, and quick with his hands, almost an acrobat. He'll make plays at first which will be hair-raising. A natural ball player can play almost anywhere, except maybe pitch or catch."

So we drifted into a discussion, seeking Granland Rice to name the greatest all-around ball player baseball had ever known—the man who could handle more jobs.

The list was longer than you might think. The Squire of Orlando pondered this problem.

"First of all," Joe said, "there was Babe Ruth. He started as a pitcher, and still holds the best five-year winning average in baseball—a great left-hander. Then he became a star outfielder—and I mean one of the best—and he was a good first baseman. He was the greatest home run hitter of all time, and that's a tough record to beat."

Great Shortstop?

"What about Honus Wagner?" I asked.

"I was thinking about old Hans," Tinker said. "He was known as a great shortstop—probably the greatest. But did you know he had starred in every position on the club except in the box? He played every outfield position, including catcher. He led his league in hitting for seven or eight years. And he used to steal from 50 to 60 bases a season. There was a ball player, better than Babe Ruth? He'd hate to say. But old Hans was close."

"Now, you pick one," Tinker said, "who belongs with these."

"What about George Sisler?" I suggested. "Sisler started out at Michigan as a star left-handed pitcher. He might have been one of the best in baseball. But they needed his hitting. After that he was a crack outfielder, just as Ruth was. Then they moved him to first base, where he is one of the few to challenge Hal Chase. Sisler hit as high as .420, which Ruth nor Wagner never did. As I recall it, the Michigan star averaged over .400 at bat for four consecutive years. And he was one of the best base runners the game ever knew. I mean, 40 to 50 steals a year."

"We can't throw him out," Tinker said. "Pitcher—outfielder—infielder—great hitter—crack base runner—that moves him up with the other two."

The Discussion Goes On

"By Cobb; one of baseball's immortals, played his string through as an outfielder. Walter Johnson was solely a pitcher. So was Matty Grover, Alexander, Cy Young and Lefty Grove. Nap Lajoie was a great infielder. Tris Speaker and Joe Jackson were among the best outfielders—as is Joe DiMaggio to day.

Oh, of course, was something apart on a list—the greatest runner get that ever lived. But the argument was about the all-around ones—those who had the chance to prove they could star at many positions.

I also nominated John Montgomery Ward of Providence and the old New York Giants.

"That was before my day," Tinker said.

"Ward," I said, "was a star-outfielder, a brilliant infielder, and a better pitcher than Ross Gribble, whom he discovered. Ward pitched at least two no-hit games, one of them perfect. And he was one of the best base runners that ever lived. He was also a manager and scout at the time."

"Maybe so," Tinker said, "but let's keep more modern. Let's not go back any further than 1900."

We accepted the mild rebuke in the spirit one should show to younger years.

We finally settled on the Big Three for all-around ability—Ruth, Wagner and Sisler.

All were great hitters—among the greatest. Two of them—Ruth and Sisler—never star pitchers, although Sisler never had the chance Babe had to prove his ability along this line. Wagner and Sisler were two of the best base runners in baseball. Ruth, with his 230 to 250-pound body operating on slender ankles, was out of the running here.

Wagner was never a pitcher, but he proved that he could handle the odd remaining jobs, as well as lead his league at bat year after year and run bases like a scared coyote.

There are many others—Bobby Wallace, an old-timer; Jimmy Fox of the Red Sox; Bucky Walters of the Reds; Freddy Lindstrom of the Giants; and many more.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Arnold, battling with O. P. M., declares sulphuric acid pool violates anti-trust laws... Congress considers advisability of lowering income tax exemptions.

WASHINGTON.—Thurman Arnold, the assistant attorney general with such zeal for trust busting, is battling with OPM and the war department again on a question involving national defense, and personal feeling is running very high.

This is not the first time Arnold has injected himself into a situation involving the army, navy, and navy plans since William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman were put at the head of O. P. M., but it may easily be the straw that breaks the camel's back.

Thurman Arnold for various of reasons concerned with the defense set-up are getting ready for a showdown with the President as to whether he will call Arnold off or not.

The present row is over sulphuric acid, vital to the manufacture of explosives, but also to steel and fertilizers. The army, navy, and manufacturers had worked out a pooling arrangement which was highly satisfactory to all concerned until Arnold heard about it.

He insisted that this arrangement was in conflict with the anti-trust laws, and threatened to prosecute the companies concerned if they attempted to operate under it.

He was told by OPM, the army and the navy that this pooling agreement would hurt nobody, that it was vital to the defense program and would speed up production tremendously.

Arnold could not see why it was necessary, in order to get production of sufficient sulphuric acid quickly, that there should be any pooling agreement. He wanted open competition in its manufacture.

He insisted that he had gone very carefully into the pooling agreement as proposed, and that he calculated this pooling agreement would cost the farmers of the United States $8,000,000 a year.

This is vigorously denied by the army, navy and OPM experts, but some officials are saying that even if it were true it is a very trivial matter.

They insist that $8,000,000 is nothing on a $300,000,000 national defense program, which will be slowed down if this pooling agreement is a violation of the anti-trust law continues.

Consider Lowering Income Tax Exemptions

There is a strong disposition on Capitol Hill not to lower the income tax exemptions, despite the pressing need for every dollar that can be raised. There are two motives for resisting the change. One is economy. It will cost as much to handle the same income group returns—meaning from those persons who at present do not have to make any—as the resulting revenue will produce.

The other reason is purely political. There is no desire on the part of congressmen to build up resentments.

Moreover, the treasury scale of tax increases is accomplishing the same "always-shrinking-whole" as the people-advocate reduction of exemptions—without doing it. The point is that from the treasury standpoint the only desirable point about reducing exemptions in the income tax schedules is not to get more people to pay taxes, but to make those already paying taxes pay more.

A reduction of $500 in the exemption obligations will only make more people fill out income tax blanks, but it adds $500 to the taxable income of every person now paying taxes.

The treasury has so coldly stepped up the percentages, and at such comparatively low figures, that this objective is no longer important. Besides, the treasury has always been more realistic than congress about the very high brackets. The treasury experts have always known, from experience, that as soon as the government begins taking more than three-quarters of an income—in the top brackets of course—the income tax payer in question loses a great deal of incentive so far as making any more money is concerned.

If the income tax exemptions are lowered, and this is the present prospect, there is not going to be any greater realization on the part of the small income tax group—that big government spending DOES take a toll from them. They are going to keep right on thinking that it does not make much difference to them personally what taxes are levied, because the rich are going to pay them—but they overlook the "hidden" taxes on such items as cigarettes and playing cards.

Kathleen Norris Says: Where Some Mothers Fail

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

I was distressed by the way Anna and Helen behaved. They laughed like nervous children, spoke together and were silent as if complete strangers to each other, and when I finally asked him to stay for dinner both girls said at once that they had engagements.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

IT TAKES a wise mother to decide what is necessary to her children's education and what is not necessary.

Thousands of mothers waste money, time and worry on non-essentials, meanwhile overlooking entirely a few simple things that might make the difference between failure and success in their children's later lives.

One of the neglected things is surely the grace of hospitality. Girls and boys grow to womanhood and manhood never knowing it. Brides write me of their shame when the beloved new husbands show themselves awkward and embarrassed in company. Or they write me of their own agonies of shyness when they are obliged to make the slightest social effort.

Johinnie is doing wonderfully at the office, being promoted, having to entertain the boss and the boss's wife. And Mollie is frantic with nerves at the prospect. She simply cannot do it. Mrs. Watson has a wonderful apartment in a big hotel, and anything that Mollie can do will be so disgustingly sloppy and crowded. If she gets Martha in, Martha makes so many mistakes with serving that it's worse than nothing. Johinnie will have to take them all downtown to dinner.

Mollie's Social Handicap. Johinnie does this reluctantly. Anyone can have dinner at the hotel; the Watsons have lived in hotels for years. It costs him more than ten dollars, and it isn't a great success anyway. Mollie is stiff and uncomfortable, looking unfamiliar because of the unusual amount of rouge on her cheeks and the new hat, and old Watson says rather wistfully that he would have liked to have seen Mollie's place and Johinnie's baby.

Mollie hates herself for her shyness and stupidity, but she just can't help it. She can't help Johinnie. He is handsome and smart and admired, she knows she's holding him back, not keeping step with him, but it isn't her fault! She can keep his house clean and raise his babies and make him the pudding he likes, but when it comes to sitting between strange men at a dinner party—well, it just gives Mollie chills to think about it!

Mollie's children are lovely, and she lives for them and their father. Johinnie isn't promoted as fast as the other men—he isn't the man they pick for the management of the California office. No, there's a lot of diplomacy to that job; Johinnie would have to make friends, entertain, join a club. And Johinnie admires himself that Mollie wouldn't stand for it.

But he gets along, and she sees that the children have dancing and music lessons, schooling, athletics, homework conscientiously; they may go to movies Saturday nights.

No Home Amusements. She never asks their friends to the house. She never works up pencil games, makes cookies and grape-julep punch, curbs the chatterbox of a daughter, encourages the tongue-tied one. The children must find their amusement outside their own home. Mollie never learned to play bridge; Johinnie loves it, but she says she has no head for cards. Betty and Stanley consequently don't play cards either, they depend on movies and night clubs. Their one thought of dinner is how soon they can escape.

Walter Winchell

Memos of a Girl Friday: Dear W. W.: Quentin Reynolds has arrived safely via convoy. He made it that way to do an article for Collier's on convoys... FDR and John L. Lewis haven't exactly buried the hatchet, but the things they say of each other privately aren't as nasty as they were.

Mrs. T. Roosevelt Jr. resigned from that "Women United for Peace" outfit. She was a speaker along with Senators Reynolds and Bennett Clark and Carter Braxton. She said in her talk that America had no room for intolerance. The comment met stony silence—so she resigned. Hurray for her.

You wanted me to remind you to say something about the Sam gangsters who pin themselves onto Americans who are popular. Willie sure was brave when he threw away the votes of many by publicly announcing that he didn't want Frontiers, Buckle on all on his side. Dare the Dept. of Commerce to deny this... That our oil exports to Japan are still averaging about 400,000 barrels weekly and have been as high as 600,000 per week!

The spending by the visiting British tars has saved many a joint ready to fold up... Elliot Janeway has a honey of a piece in the new Life called "Hitler vs. Roosevelt!" Sondago just phoned. Said that FDR's jaw is "longer than ever" and that his knuckles are a little whiter when he clenches his fist—and that his policy henceforth will be "action or dismissal!"—Your Girl Friday.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander

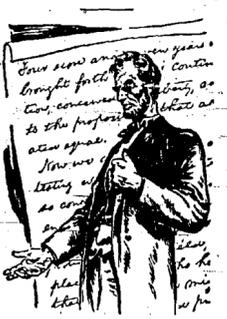

The Story Tellers: Edmond Taylor's "Fortune" piece is a must for Americans who don't think Hitler is a menace here... Pie runs a warning that homey gals are the safest, and gives examples of beauties who got into trouble with their looks. A few pages later it shows what a grand time Hope Carroll, the blue book's glamour mascot, has because "she's got everything!" Make up your mind!—Morley Cassidy shows, in Coronet, how a legacy caused a crime wave and a gold rush in Philly. He reports a $68 person claimed a $17,000,000 legacy. Already it has inspired such crimes as forgery, perjury, wife desertion and two murders... John Cuddey is easy on King Leopold of the Belgians for surrendering under fire. The former U. S. Ambassador, writing in World Digest, recalls that the French were blundering all over the front, and Leopold had a choice of giving up or facing revolt of his troops... Ann Sheridan wanders in Liberty that the word "gomp" was patented by a wheeze-in here... Any chance to buy back that unfortunate sentence?... Reader's Digest observes: "The reason a lot of people do not recognize an opportunity when they meet it is that it usually goes around wearing overalls and looking like hard work."

The Front Pages: The Times of Tuesday and a half-column of good sense in an editorial picture of a possible Hitler victory. The Nazis needn't even make war on us to ruin our liberty, said the editorial. Ghesty after a win over Britain, Germany's threat would make us live in an armed camp—where liberty can't live. The Trib rebuked EDEW editorially for his "intensely personal" remarks about Lindbergh. Why not personal? Lindbergh takes bows for the malcontents' heads, so why not the rapscallions? Roosevelt takes them for the New Deal—and the H-Trib knows that well. The last campaign was so personal it didn't even stop with the President. It took in his wife, his children, and if you remember the campaign buttons, even his grandchildren... Who is France for? Three-Vichy papers were suspended for giving prominence to the speeches of Cordell Hull and Sec. Knox. Another paper, published by Jacques Doriot, the agitator assaulted Roosevelt. His sheet wasn't molested.

Typewriter Ribbons: C. V. R. Thompson: Washington is the only place where sound travels faster than light... Clyde Fitch: A fat with rooms like a string of buttons... Jack Warwick: Love of country: Eighty-five per cent sweat and 15 per cent Star-Spangled Banner... Daniel Webster: God grants liberty only to those who love it and are always ready to guard and defend it.

This from H. L. Menckner: We must be willing to pay a price for freedom, for no price that is ever asked for it is half the cost of doing without it... Steele: Elitism is the invention of wise men to keep tools at a distance... H. W. Shaw: Error will slip through—a crack—while truth will stick in a doorway... Ray Thompson: A free country should mean one in which those who don't like the way things are run are free to live elsewhere... Anon: Sincere kicks-in-the-pants are better than phony pats-on-the-back.

The Gettysburg Address Available for Framing

"The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here... Those were modest words Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg—and they proved wrong. For Americans do remember, still live for the ideal he expressed that day.

The Gettysburg address, in Lincoln's handwriting, is one of our new set, "Three Great American Documents." Others are the Bill of Rights and the original Star-Spangled Banner by Francis Scott Key's handwriting. All are handsomely printed, full size, in sepia on cream antique paper. Includes a 4-page leaflet giving the histories of the documents. For the set, send your order to:

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

SMALL windows and bookshelves at the sides of a fireplace often create a monotonous series of rectangles. Watch out for them for they play an important part in decorating plans. You see them here in the small sketch—six of them—window; over-mantel space; window; bookshelves; mantel; bookshelves around and around they go. The only architectural change shown in the large sketch was a mantel facing built of three boards and simple mouldings. This broke up one rectangle. Irregular lines for swag drapes over the windows softened the angles of two more. A large picture or mirror over the mantel just added still another rectangle, so—small prints were hung with ribbons. The arrangement of vines, books and bibelots on the shelves took care of the rest.

Little Herbert Was There To Give the Game Away!

On arriving home father found a foreign coin resembling a quarter in his small change, so he went out to do a little shopping, taking Herbert, aged five, along. He went to the grocer's, and the grocer, looking at the coin, said with an air of surprise, "Why, this is not United States money!" So the man went to the druggist's, and there tendered the coin. The druggist informed him that the coin was of foreign extraction. "Good heavens, so it is!" exclaimed the father. "I wonder where I got that?" "Don't you know, dad?" spoke up Herbert. "That's the one the grocer wouldn't take!"

NOTE: Directions for cutting and making the swag drapes shown in today's sketch may be found on page 17 of Book 7, in the series of service booklets offered with these articles. Also book 7 is now ready for mailing. It contains more than 30 of these home-making ideas with step-by-step directions for each, as well as a description of the series.
